California Heat Wave Death Toll Now 73

104 Degrees Is Forecast; Crop Damage In Millions

LOS ANGELES.—UP—The death toll in California's killer heat wave soared to 73 and damage to crops and poultry ran still higher into the millions of dollars Wednesday.

A high temperature of 104 degrees was forecast for the Los Angeles area in this eighth day of the heat wave and no relief was in sight from the scorching siege which the weather bureau has blamed mostly on a lack of normal sea breezes.

A high of 104 Wednesday would make this California's longest hot spell of above 100 degree temperatures. Tuesday, the seventh day of over 100, equaled the longest spell of sizzling temperatures set in 1929. The current heat wave reached an all-time state high of 110 degrees last Thursday.

Smog Alert Expected
The county air pollution control district said there probably would be another smog alert Wednesday. If so, it would be the sixth in the last 13 days. The first alert level is when there is a reading of 50 parts of ozone for each million parts of air.

Los Angeles county experienced its longest smog "first alert" on record Tuesday — an eye-stinging siege that lasted three hours and four minutes. The previous record was set last Aug. 26.

The temperature rose to 102 degrees at 2:15 p. m. Tuesday, accompanied by relatively high humidity and a thick layer of smog brought on by a weather inversion. The smog was so dense that the alert was called before noon.

In Tuesday's heat, nearby Burbank reported a high of 111 while Blythe, a desert community at the Arizona border, recorded the highest temperature in the nation — 114.

Normal Death Rate Doubles
At least 73 deaths were attributed to the heat while the step-up in natural deaths was more than double the normal number at this time of the year. Normal for this seven-day period would be 113 deaths.

Herbert said a slight weather break Tuesday — a "down" of 277 deaths had been reported.

The county coroner said the number of deaths blamed on the heat might rise to at least 81 since there were eight "probables" still being checked out. The coroner said it might be three weeks before the full number of such heat deaths would be known.

Agricultural experts estimated that crop, livestock and dairy losses may reach as high as $10 million for the heat wave.

Raging Fires Threaten Big Redwoods

SAN FRANCISCO.—UP—Raging forest fires threatened Wednesday to destroy giant redwoods in central California that have survived for 5,000 years.

More than 12,000 weary firefighters staged an all-out battle to save the majestic redwoods which stand in the General Grant grove.

At least a dozen major fires roared into new sections of California's arid timber and grasslands, leaving more than 126,000 acre-ft of timber in their paths of destruction.

In northern California, residents of the city of Yreka kept an all-night vigil as one 20,000-acre blaze ate to within five miles of the lumbering community of 5,000 persons.

And in Southern California, a 15,000-acre fire in Santa Barbara county stopped turning on U.S. Highway 101 by turning eight miles of the highway into a "flaming corridor of hell."

California state fire dispatcher Fred Herbert said 12 major fires of more than 500 acres each still were burning fiercely out of control, aided by a six-day heat wave that spawned critical fire conditions.

Herbert said a slight weather break Tuesday — a "down" of 277 deaths had been reported. The county coroner said the number of deaths blamed on the heat might rise to at least 81 since there were eight "probables" still being checked out. The coroner said it might be three weeks before the full number of such heat deaths would be known.

Air Force Guaras Crash Wreckage

ALEXANDRIA, La.—UP—The Air Force kept a guard Wednesday at the swampy scene of the B-24 in which four airmen died and two were critically injured.

Investigators were to examine the wreckage scattered through thick underbrush to seek the cause of apparent mechanical failure which brought the plane down Tuesday shortly after takeoff.

The big plane developed engine trouble on leaving the runway of England Air Force Base and plunged into the swamp about nine miles away after the pilot apparently tried to ditch it into the Red River.

Texas Gal Wows Pageant Crowd

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—UP—Miss Texas, June Fritchard, stole the show in the annual Miss America parade Tuesday night on a borrowed horse.

The 23-year-old beauty from Seymour, Tex. brought down the house, which was considerable, adding up to 250,000, when she rode a Palomino down the famed Boardwalk. The white tail, she said later with a blush, was on lend-lease from a farm near Camden, N. J.

June is a specialist at straddling a pony. The 5 foot, 6 inch cutie claims she was born aboard a bronc, and maybe she was. Anyway, she grew up to be a right fine looking blonde with a bust of 37 inches, 37 hips... that's just about right with a 23 inch middle to match.

Wows Assembly
At any rate, June grew up to become known as Miss Texas in the Miss America pageant, which gets under way Wednesday. She wowed the assembled customers with a hipp-eye yah and a howdy to all.

You can hardly ignore the young lady from the Lone Star State. Don't be surprised if she is right up there.

Wednesday the kids will compete in three categories: swim suit, evening gown and talent. In evening gown will be Misses Canada, Chicago, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Mississippi, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina and Texas.

Line Up in Talent
In talent we will have Misses Alabama, California, Colorado, Georgia, Maine, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

In the swim suit there will be Misses Arkansas, Arizona, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Tennessee and Utah.

There is only one winner. The 10 finalists will be announced Saturday night. From them five will be selected. And there you will find the kid who will pick up a $5,000 scholarship, a hatful of glory and a lot of other things.

Red China
May Release
All Americans

By DONALD J. GONZALES
WASHINGTON.—UP—Red China, without saying when, has disclosed it may free all Americans still held in jail or under house arrest.

The question of when the prisoners will be freed is said to be the main point holding up American-Red Chinese talks at Geneva on the prisoner problem.

Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, chief U.S. negotiator, is trying to get the Reds to say precisely when the Americans will get out of Red China. There is official fear that otherwise the Chinese Reds might announce to the world that they are freeing all Americans and then leave some languishing in China for many months or even years.

At Tuesday's session of the Geneva talks, the Reds outlined plans to issue departure permits to 12 Americans, nine, including a 10-year-old girl, will get their permits soon. Two more will get them when applications are received. The 12th American, Charles Sidney Miner of Takoma Park, Md., will be able to leave when his business affairs are tied up.

The best official information shows that 28 Americans still are in Red China. Twenty-five, mostly priests, are in jail. Three missionaries are under house arrest, apparently at Foochow. Officials said there may be one additional American of Chinese descent who wants to leave Red China. She is Mei Sem Lal, who went from the United States to Canton, China, in 1949. Her case is not being pressed at this time, it was indicated.

Canadian Will Build Swim Pool

CANADIAN—Canadian will build a $40,000 municipal swimming pool which may be ready for the swimming season next year.

Mayor Malouf Abraham said construction work should begin on the pool in the spring. Some work on earth moving will be done this fall, he indicated.

The swimming pool expenditure was approved recently by Canadian voters in a $25,000 bond election which carried 194 to 151.

The city plans to pay $15,000 cash along with the bond money for the pool, Mayor Abraham said.

Rains, High Tides Flood Coast Areas

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex.—UP—More than 12 inches of rain in 24 hours and tides more than five feet above normal flooded 20 to 30 square miles in and around Corpus Christi Wednesday and a ship reported she was sinking in the Gulf of Mexico.

A faint signal from a ship identifying itself as the Saint-Ray Louisiana said: "I'm sinking, I'm near Brownsville." Efforts to contact the ship failed.

The Coast Guard searched all night for the vessel and sent out a search plane at daybreak. The Corpus Christi flood was the result of a backlash of tropical storm Gladys, which knocked itself out in the wilds of Mexico. Rain from the storm flooded out some 60,000 persons in Mexico City and threatened floods in other Mexican cities, notably Tampico.

Red Cross Aids 175
The Red Cross took care of 175 flood sufferers in Corpus Christi Tuesday night.

Police Capt. C. C. Hagan said water stood two, three and four feet deep in some streets in the flooded area. Public works director Drane Jones estimated damage to streets and storm sewers alone at $100,000. The public works department and the city health department issued a joint warning to parents to keep their children out of the gutters because sanitary sewage might be backing up into the storm sewers.

Evacuated women and children were bedded down in the Croasley elementary school. Every classroom and the school cafeteria were filled.

Corpus Christi is a sprawling port city of 108,000 on the Gulf Coast of Texas.

Heavy Rainfall
Rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a. m. at Wednesday was measured at 7.45 inches at the Corpus Christi weather bureau and 12.23 inches at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

Tides reached 5.4 feet above normal at 4:53 a. m. The only casualty reported was a four-year-old boy who cut his foot on broken glass.

Assistant Police Chief Jimmy Avant said it appeared the worst was past but he said the police department was keeping a constant check on conditions. It was still drizzling.

Solon Held By Red Soldier At Gunpoint

VAN-NUYS, Calif.—UP—Rep. Joe Holt (R-Calif.) was detained near Moscow for nearly an hour by a Russian soldier who held a cocked pistol against his head, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The congressman's family here said Holt, who has returned to New York following a visit to Russia with other congressmen, reported the incident to them in a telephone call from the East Tuesday.

Holt told his family that U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen had requested, when a Red Army soldier rushed him and pressed a pistol against his head despite the fact that Holt's companion, speaking Russian, identified him as a visiting American congressman.

Cyprus Talk Is Failure

LONDON.—UP—The three-power conference on Cyprus ended in failure Wednesday with Britain, Greece and Turkey unable to get together on their conflicting views on the future of that strategic Mediterranean island.

The meetings which opened here last Monday at British initiative were formally "suspended" Wednesday, but official conference sources said that no date has been fixed for their resumption.

Turkish Foreign Minister Fatih Rüstü Zorlu told newsmen immediately after Wednesday's session that the talks have been "ended."

He announced he was returning to Istanbul Thursday with his delegation.

Marine May Be First To Go For $64,000 Question

By WILLIAM EWALD
NEW YORK.—UP—Capt. Richard Sherrill McCutchen, a marine who commutes between the halls of Montezuma and Maruma, threw out a hint Wednesday that he might be the first contestant to go for broke on TV's "The $64,000 Question."

McCutchen, who twice flunked his Boy Scout cooking test, moved up to the $32,000 level on the CBS-TV giveaway show Tuesday night by answering a five-part query dealing with food and cooking. The lanky, crew-cut career officer will get a chance next week to double his stake or quit.

It was learned by this reporter that McCutchen stated on his application to the show that he "wanted the first $64,000 to be won by a marine." He added on the form: "Does that sound excessively Chauvinistic?"

Questioned after the show, McCutchen smiled confidently and said: "It wouldn't be fair to the producers of the show for me to tell you whether I'll go on. But let me put it this way—I know and I'm not saying."

THE COMPANY HE KEEPS

NEWPORT, Tenn.—UP—Police were looking for jailer Dave McGaha Wednesday.

They said he took $50, a sheriff's pistol, and Leona Wardrup, 27, of Asheville, N. C., a prisoner being held as a material witness in a robbery trial, and disappeared.

Coffee Price To Be Hiked 4 Cents Pound

NEW YORK.—UP—Consumer prices for coffee will be upped one to four cents a pound Wednesday in some chain stores.

Increase announced Tuesday by Safeway Stores, Inc., and H. C. Bohack Co. Inc., followed a three-cent boost last week in wholesale prices by four of the nation's leading coffee roasters.

Roasters blamed their action on higher prices for green coffee, which in turn followed higher costs in the Brazilian and Colombian markets.

Safeway's private brands will be affected, with "Airway" brand up a cent and "Nob Hill" up four cents a pound.

Bohack boosted its "Manor Brand" one cent and its "Boeris" and "Royal" brands four cents and two cents on its vacuum-packed "Supreme" brand.

Roasters sugar-coated the increase announcement by pointing out that wholesale coffee prices now are about 30 cents a pound, or 25 cents less than the top levels reached last year.

Advancing coffee prices in Brazil have been coupled with an increased world demand, plus the decision to postpone any change in the value of Brazilian currency.

Roasters here have been buying coffee on a hand-to-mouth basis, keeping stocks low on the expectation that the currency changes would lower the price of green coffee in terms of dollars.

The Brazilian finance ministry has said any change in exchange regulations will be a gradual process.

Negroes Enroll At San Marcos

SAN MARCOS, Tex.—UP—This Central Texas city's Negro high school was empty of students Wednesday. All 36 enrolled Tuesday in the formerly all-white high school.

The Negro students, under a school board decision, had the option of continuing studies at the Negro school or enrolling at the white high school. The unanimously elected to switch schools.

Yancy Yarbrough, principal of the San Marcos high school, said the 36 Negro students were "well behaved and a nice group of kids. I don't think we'll have any difficulty."

Joe Hutchinson, superintendent, said three teachers at the now defunct Negro high school will be assigned to elementary Negro schools, in which integration will not be attempted this term.

Jones added that it is the responsibility of the businesses concerned to renew their permits on the appropriate date.

The Coast Guard reported two fishing vessels, the Gail-D and the Arrow, were aground in the Port Aransas channel near Corpus Christi. The crew were reported safe. The Mary Ellen, which earlier sent a report she was sinking in six fathoms—26 feet—of water, was located safely anchored between Corpus Christi and Port Isabel, Tex. The Don II reached shelter in Aransas Pass and the Sistrac made it to port after being reported missing in the Galveston-Freeport, Tex. area. The Coast Guard said two Corpus Christi men, Bob Sladek and E. Hall, were stranded on an island 70 miles south of Brownsville by impassable beach conditions. Thirty-three men who huddled aboard a drilling barge off Port Aransas in winds up to 70 miles an hour were believed to have been rescued by a cutter.

Other Exchange Clubs soon followed and in the last four decades, Exchange Clubs have been formed in all principal cities and towns of the United States. The local club was sponsored by the Exchange Club of Borger.

Blast Rocks Houston House

HOUSTON—UP—A terrific explosion set off a roaring fire that swept through a modernistic apartment house early Wednesday, seriously injuring two young oilfield engineers.

The blast, believed caused by accumulated gas from an accidentally opened gas jet, was at the San-Lee apartments shortly before 4 a. m. One of the victims stumbled from the blazing wreckage of his apartment unaided but the other, hurled through a gaping hole in wall and floor separated, was dragged unconscious from an apartment below his own.

Escape by Balcony
Several other residents of the building, trapped in night clothing when flames enveloped a winding stairway, had to be lowered from a second floor balcony.

The injured men were Harold H. Davenport, 27, and James Runge, 25, both engineers for the Eastman Oil Well Survey Co. They shared the same apartment where the explosion occurred. Doctors at St. Joseph's hospital said Runge's condition was critical with burns over most of his body.

Davenport escaped with second and third degree burns on his lower body and feet. Doctors said he will require skin-grafting on his burned feet.

Dragged from Apartment
Runge was dragged from the apartment by John F. Wisniewski, who lives near the apartment house. He was aroused by screams and first thought a woman was being attacked by a prowler.

The force of the explosion broke windows in several nearby buildings, but most of the damage was confined to the apartment where the two men lived, and the apartment below it.

There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Globemaster Crash Kills 1, Hurts 4

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.—UP—An Air Force C-124 Globemaster—one of the largest military transporters—was dashed to earth in flames by a gust of wind while taking off here Tuesday killing one and injuring four of the 69 persons aboard.

The huge, four-engined aircraft, attached to the strategic air command and based at Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, was hit by the blast of wind and cartwheeled into the runway at Kirtland Air Force Base here just as it became airborne, witnesses said.

Within seconds it was enveloped in flames, but passengers and crew members, aided by rescue crews on the outside battered out windows and knocked holes in the fuselage to escape.

An Air Force spokesman said it was "only a miracle" there were no more casualties.

The man killed was identified as Airman 2-C Arvin W. Harris of the 19th Bomber Squadron, March Air Force Base, Calif. His body was recovered from the burned-out wreckage.

Of the four injured, one man, Airman 1-C Fred W. Stehens, 22, New Philadelphia, Ohio, a passenger, was in serious condition at nearby Sandia Base Hospital. The other three injured were identified as 1st Lt. Robert Jones, Biggs AFB; and Airman 1-C Allen O. Strayer and Airman 2-C Ermon Taylor, both of March AFB.

The plane was en route to March AFB on a classified mission, the Air Force said, and had made a stop here as part of the mission. The $2 million aircraft had 12 crew members and 56 passengers, mostly Air Force personnel, aboard.

The Air Force said the plane's wheels had just left the runway when it was struck by the 45-mile-an-hour gust that smashed it into the ground, scattering wreckage for 500 yards.

The remainder of the Globemaster's crew and passengers continued their trip to March AFB Wednesday.

Two teams of investigators, one from the Strategic Air Command and the other from the aircraft firm that manufactures the Globemasters, arrived here to investigate the cause of the crash.

Welfare Index Coordinates Welfare Work

A meeting of the Welfare Index was conducted yesterday in the City Commission Room of City Hall to coordinate welfare work in the county and to eliminate overlapping of participating organizations.

The Welfare Index is made up of 36 organizations which meet on the first Tuesday of every third month in order to better render service to needy families.

B. R. Nuckols, chairman, presided over the third meeting of the group, which set the time for the next meeting on Dec. 6 at 4 p. m. in the City Commission Room. Joe Tooley is vice-chairman, Nina Sponeamore is co-ordinator, and Fern Dawson is secretary.

Nuckols asked the organizations to report to County Welfare Office periodically in order to use the office as a "clearing house" for welfare work. He suggested that representatives bring a list of families in need for the report. Mrs. Sponeamore pointed out that 23 families, mostly widows with children, are presently in need of service.

Organizations represented at the meeting were: Altruism Club, American Legion Auxiliary, B&PW club, Churches, Council of Women's Clubs, County Welfare, Elks, Fire Department, Girl Scouts, Rebekahs, Kiwanis, Lions Clubs of Pampa and Skellytown, Masonic Lodge No. 966, Ministerial Alliance, Optimist Club, Parish Council, Red Cross, Salvation Army, School Nurse, Shrine Club, T-B Association, and Texas Employment Commission.

Close the doors! They're coming in the windows and sleeping in the cracks and oozing through the ventilators.

That's what the two upperclassmen are thinking about the millions of sophomorees that have invaded PHS. This year's class is the largest one on the record and the old building is bulging at the seams.

While it's bulging at the seams, it's also bristling with activity. Howdy Week in full swing and everyone is getting acquainted with people they didn't already know, that's the purpose of Howdy Week. A contest to see who can grow the longest beard is in progress and a committee of teachers will be choosing the most typical cowboy and cowgirl Friday when everyone wears their western duds.

The awards will be made at the Howdy Party that will be held in the cafeteria Friday night.

So "git out yer boots and levis and polish up that ol' six gun and say Howdy to yer neighbors." Be shore yer pony is hitched outside the cafeteria long 'bout sundown come Friday.

Howdy Week is a Student Council project. Anita Wedgeworth is in charge of special business; Rhona Finkelstein; the party, David Gantz, the assembly, and Carol Henry, the advertising.

Other Student Council activities are the selecting of homeroom officers who will serve as SC delegates, placing flowers on all teachers desks last Friday, and a coffee for teachers on enrollment day.

Cotton Pickers To Be Plentiful

AUSTIN —UP—West Texas cotton farmers were assured Tuesday by state and federal authorities that sufficient labor will be available to harvest the crop.

Domestic labor is not sufficient, Mexican nationals will be imported to complete the job, cotton growers were told.

Joining in the joint statement were W. H. Farmer, administrator of the Texas Employment Commission, and Ed McDonald, regional director of the U. S. Bureau of Employment Security, Department of Labor.

"The TEC is recruiting cotton pickers in every local office area, and is working with other, state employment agencies, to get Texas workers back to West Texas for the cotton harvest," Farmer said.

Thursday a panel discussion will be given by SC at Baker School's P-TA meeting. The panel members will be Sheila Chisholm, Nancy Moore, Ted Swindle, Lee Ledrick and David Gantz. They will discuss "Home, the Basis of a Democratic Nation."

Go, Harvesters. That's what the real crazy windshield stickers say. The stickers, distributed by Richard Drug, have a new design this year. Instead of the old Green and Gold football, they have a tough looking Harvester, maybe patterned after Gene Emerson or Ed Strickland, on them.

Students may get them from homeroom teachers.

Here's an invitation to all PHS girls, especially sophomorees, to be present at this year's first Tri-Hi-Y meeting tomorrow night.

Carolyn Miller, who is president, said the meeting will be a get-acquainted affair. A film will be shown and there will be refreshments.

Everyone who is interested in being a member be sure to be there.

You should have heard the sudden silence that fell over jabbering students yesterday morning when Mr. Edmondson spoke over the public address system for the first time.

Voices coming out of the wall seem kind of spooky, but, gleeps, how keen!

Like we promised last week, here are the new Las Crecas Club officers. Dixie Robinson, president; Sally Bruce, vice-president; Jerry Hodges, secretary; Bobbie Bullard, treasurer; Carol Miller, reporter; Shirley Hankhouse, chaplain; Sue Scherer and Ann Williams, parliamentary; and Jeanne Bullard, historian.

LCC plans a semi-formal initiation Sunday afternoon.

Something real gay has cropped in Pampa. Only last month a skating club was organized. The club meets every Tuesday night in the Pampa Skating Rink, anyone who would like to be a member can come.

At last night's meeting plans for a dance were made by members, with Jackie Hoyer as president.

This sounds like a real exciting club and it's off to a good start with 62 members already.

In closing I'd like to say, from all Pampa teens, welcome to the new students and the nine new High School teachers. We hope you will like Pampa.

Remember—a smile is like an echo. It always comes back to you.

SGT. BILL DARR... army recruiter

Pampa now has a regular army recruiter. M-Sgt. Bill Darr, who recently returned from duty in Japan and Korea, will be in the basement of the postoffice on Monday and Tuesday of each week.

The army now offers, on a three year enlistment, a choice of the branch of service and of overseas theater. Darr said that overseas duty is not mandatory.

Darr is originally from Mena, Ark. and is stationed in Amarillo but will be in Pampa the first of each week to take volunteers for the regular Army. He has been in the army for 15 years.

DANIEL BOONE

In 1760, on the Yadkin River in North Carolina, lived a young man who was destined to become America's greatest frontiersman. His name was Daniel Boone.

Pennsylvania-born Dan'l was a mighty hunter, even at 26. He hunted westward beyond the Smokies, in a country where Indians had fought "dark and bloody" wars.

Boone's tales of the rich wilderness country, called by the Indians "Kentucky," vastly intrigued Judge Richard Henderson. "A fortune's there for us, lad," he exclaimed.

Joan Crawford To Stick To Movie Making After All

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD —UP—Joan Crawford returned to Hollywood harness this week for the first time since her marriage, and revealed she's decided to stick to being a movie queen after all.

When Hollywood's one genuine movie star eloped with soft drink king Al Steel last spring, she sighed that being an actress didn't seem "as important as it used to."

Now the honeymoon is over, and the veteran actress is back at Columbia Studio for her last picture under her contract there, "The Way We Are." But it won't be her swan song from films, she admitted.

"I couldn't give up films completely," said Joan. "I just couldn't sit. And I can't go on his business trips with him."

"This business is all I've known," she said with a gesture to the bustle of her movie set. "Al fell in love with me as I was, for what I had accomplished. If I ceased to accomplish anything," she shrugged.

Miss Crawford sat in her dressing room, and was every inch a star. She tried on two suits and told the wardrobe woman how they should be altered. She glued two caps to her lower teeth for a close-up. She made up her lips several times and okayed several publicity photographs. She huddled with a hairdresser over her coiffure, and rushed outside to pose for a photograph with a dog who was sitting in a puddle of water to keep cool.

Next year she will become one of Hollywood's few actress-producers. She'll make six films for United Artists and star in three of them.

Meantime she and Steel have what appears to be a traveling marriage. He couldn't attend one of their wedding parties here recently, starting rumors the marriage was faltering. Currently Steel is in South American on business.

"If he were here I wouldn't have much time to see him," she explained. "After work I see the rushed, talk to my kids, eat dinner, get off my make-up, take a bath and it's time for bed."

"After this picture I'm going to New York to get our new apartment ready. Then we're going to Florida while he makes speeches, and then here to be with my children on Thanksgiving. Next year we'll buy property to build a home here (instead of the East as originally reported).

Military Cuts Planned

WASHINGTON —UP— Official sources said Tuesday the administration will try to trim $1.7 billion from scheduled military spending for the current fiscal year in an effort to balance the federal budget.

Nearly one-half of the proposed cut—$750 million—would come out of Air Force funds, officials said. For the Army, the proposed cut would mean speeding up a reduction in strength, already ordered.

The new defense cut, which apparently was proposed from the White House level, already has run into opposition within the Defense Department.

Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles, accompanied by several of his assistant secretaries, made a secret visit over the weekend to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson at his Michigan vacation hide-away to protest the cuts.

Wilson was understood to have assured the Air Force leaders that he would not agree to any cut that would interfere with the Air Force's program to build up to 137 wings by mid-1957.

The administration proposal, as reported by Pentagon officials, is to cut military spending in the present fiscal year ending next July 1, to $24 billion.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Matthew 28:1-9

Man eternally searches for God. The problem of God is the oldest with which the mind of man deals. The most wistful cry in all the Old Testament is: "Oh that I knew where I might find him!" (Job 22:3). From the earliest ages to the modern day men have searched for him with infinite care in the hope that they might find him, but so many of the usual investigations have failed.

Still the search goes on, for God is a new and fascinating problem for each generation. Just because the past cannot bequeath its spiritual certainties—these have to be won by each generation for itself—we begin the quest anew every day. It is true that the past can offer much valuable advice, but the spiritual discoveries of yesterday always have to be tested by the new facts of today.

The search for God is our basic quest. Upon our success in making sure of him depends our hope of solving the social, moral, and political problems with which we are beset, for we will never be able to think clearly upon any of them until we have thought clearly upon the subject of God. One of our modern economists has said that the disintegration of Europe started when the religious convictions of the people began to dissipate half a century ago, and that without a spiritual recovery there can be no economic recovery. Inasmuch as society is composed of individuals, the search for God as a means of saving society becomes an extremely personal problem. No religious faith can save the world until it can first save the individual.

Thou art the God of all the earth, and thou art the God of all nations and all men, but thou art also thy Father. The destiny of the race is thy major concern, but my own destiny is very dear unto thee; therefore I will not feel alone in this universe. Amen.

Consider the long list of personal problems which you have had to work out for yourself, those in which your parents could not be of very much help. Notice how you have had to develop your own faith, even though you had the benefit of your father's experiences.

Future Of Invention

J. L. B. Blizard, writing in Technology Review, has brought to public gaze a rather unknown trend which has been developing of late. It is in the field of invention and patenting.

Back in 1900 there was a total of approximately 40,000 engineers in the United States. At present colleges and universities graduate approximately this same number every year. Research expenditures have multiplied astronomically. Our entire way of life is now far more closely geared to science than it was 55 years ago.

Yet statistics from the United States Patent Office indicate that the patent rate is not rising in keeping with a curve that should be developing. It has not even remained constant! It is dropping in a steady curve and has been since the advent of the New Deal in the early 30's.

Following World War II, scientific minds generally concurred that scientists in the United States, who had provided so much in the field of technology, should place more emphasis on basic research. It was felt that without further progress in scientific discovery, technology would soon reach a dead end. Despite this general concurrence, the trend since the war has been in the opposite direction. Nine-tenths of all the research money spent in the U. S. in 1947 (excluding atomic energy) went for applied science.

In this connection it is interesting to note the distribution of Nobel prizes in the scientific categories. For despite the high level of "education" in the United States, and despite the vast size of our population compared to that of Germany, England and other countries, the United States has rarely risen above third place in awards for work done in basic science, particularly since the 30's.

In seeking to find out why a larger number of scientific discoveries come from Germany and England than here, psychologist Anne Roe conducted a study of a group of American scientific "traits" they held in common with their European cousins. She found that some of the reasons for less productive original effort in America could be traced to the differences in our educational system.

"American high schools, geared to mass education meet fewer hours per week, assign less homework, and provide about two years' less material than European secondary schools. As if that were not enough, there is great pressure here to eliminate all homework, on the grounds that it interferes with the student's extracurricular activities."

She went on to summarize the effect: "The result was that many a brilliant mind developed habits of laziness, carelessness, and superficiality. . . . Seldom was any student 'set on fire' intellectually, eager to explore on his own, ready to conquer difficulties and go through whatever drudgery might be necessary to achieve his purpose. The individual and society are both losers."

It is clearly apparent that the freedom and individuality which carved us into a civilization from the raw materials of a wilderness are being destroyed by our governmentally-dominated school system.

To quote the review: "Subtle changes have come about in the United States. As one manifestation, traditional rugged individualism is being shelved in favor of a new virtue, 'integration within the group.' It is now stressed that the individual's interactions with the group are of greater importance than his intrinsic talents or abilities. Indoctrination on this score has been going on for some time under the banner of progressive education."

America has been great in the past because of the large number of rugged individualists who flocked to these shores. Greatness is always an individual matter. There is no greatness in group or mob activity. The truth is that we are turning out fewer basic discoveries and inventions now than we were in 1900, and the curve is apparently to continue downward.

How long are we going to continue to support our government schools which, instead of training young minds to their full potential development, confine young people in an artificial atmosphere of unreality during the school years and ultimately prevent these future leaders from actually acquiring an education?

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

A young man of 29 has recently written a most pathetic letter. He says he has been in a wheel chair for approximately two years with a disease diagnosed as Friedreich's ataxia.

"You do not realize," he says, "just how important a partial cure would be. I am willing to take any chance even if it seems bad."

I would give a lot to be able to encourage this correspondent about his prospects for recovery but I do not even know of experiments in treatment at the present time which would offer any reasonable chance of improvement.

Friedreich's ataxia is one of those diseases which runs in families and is transmitted from generation to generation.

ITS ORIGINAL CAUSE seems to be a real defect in the germ plasma in the family involved.

The disease itself involves the spinal cord in particular and the defect which causes it may be carried by either parent. To make matters worse the defect is sometimes hidden so that the parents may not show active signs of the disease even though it is present in the family.

Friedreich's ataxia usually starts in childhood, but sometimes the appearance of symptoms is delayed until after the age of 30. In such cases, the victim may know nothing about it until after he or she has married and has children who may also suffer from the disease.

AT THE BEGINNING, the signs of this condition start gradually. An awkwardness in walking and a tendency to stumble and fall easily are characteristic.

As the disease progresses, the gait becomes more irregular and clumsy. Staggering or reeling from side to side is common.

In advanced cases irregular movements not subject to the control of the will are frequently seen. The head and neck are likely to make nodding movements or spasms. Spinal curvature is common and jerky movements of the eyes are also frequent.

The inherited nature of the disease gives the clue to its conquest: if those who are afflicted or have it in the family do not have children, the disease will die out. It never occurs except through defective germ plasma.

There are other nervous conditions which are known to be on an inherited basis. Most of them (including Friedreich's ataxia) are fortunately rather rare and for this reason do not carry names which are familiar except to physicians.

Arguments Against The Status Of Forces Treaty

In the last issue I quoted Senator Jenner's arguments opposing the Status of Forces Treaty as presented in Facts Forum. Here are Senator Sparkman's arguments trying to defend the treaty that permits our soldiers to be tried in foreign courts:

"Does the Status of Forces Treaty violate the rights of Americans? First, let's make clear exactly what the Status of Forces Treaty is all about. Specifically, the Treaty prescribes the civil and criminal status of members of the Armed Forces of North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries while they're stationed in a member country. Prior to its enactment there was strong resentment towards American soldiers who committed crimes against citizens of the country in which they were stationed but over which such country had no jurisdiction. By and large the great majority of American soldiers stationed in other lands are law-abiding. As a rule, however, in any situation that involves large numbers of people, there are always a few who commit acts of lawlessness against citizens. These abuses can do and in some cases have done harm to the mutual self-defense and goodwill worked out between us and other nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"It was to solve such problems that member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization worked out the Status of Forces Treaty. This Treaty was drawn up by the State Department during President Truman's Administration, working closely with General Eisenhower when he was supreme commander of NATO. The Treaty was ratified under the Eisenhower Administration in 1953. The provision of the Status of Forces Treaty that has brought about the most critical comments from some of our people is the provision which grants a NATO nation jurisdiction over soldiers of a member nation who commit crimes while on duty. Under the Treaty, if an American soldier commits a crime against the citizen of the country in which he is serving, and that crime is committed while a soldier is on duty, he can be arrested and tried under the laws of the nation in which he commits the crime. If the American soldier commits a crime while on duty, Armed Forces authorities and the government of the foreign country have equal jurisdiction, depending upon who arrests him first and the circumstances of each individual case.

"Let me emphasize that in the Status of Forces Treaty we do not grant any nation any privilege or any right that is not in turn granted to us. We acquire the same jurisdiction over any of our troops that may be stationed there as they have over our troops stationed there. One can see from this brief background that the Status of Forces Treaty simply typifies the fact that in cooperating with other countries for the mutual defense of all, it is necessary for such countries to take into consideration one another's points of view. We can no more expect other nations to submit to whatever demands we may make or whatever preferences we may have, than we can be expected to submit to their demands and preferences. Programs of international cooperation have to be worked out in an atmosphere of equality and fairness. While there are some exceptions, it is generally true that those who have objected most violently to the Status of Forces Treaty are members of the isolationist group and in most respects the leading spokesmen for this wing of the Republican party. Careful safeguards were set up in the administration of this Treaty. Appropriate United States officials are required to follow each arrest of an American soldier, and the State Department is required to report to Congress on the operation of this Treaty. Actually it has worked out that in many respects the Treaty has improved the status of our troops abroad. Also, recent testimony by the State Department before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which I am a member, shows that America's European defense partners have leaned over backwards to be fair to United States servicemen who have broken local laws.

"Mr. Robert Murphy, deputy undersecretary of State, testified that in a total of six thousand cases in which American soldiers have run afoul of local laws, no basis has been found for a single complaint on the part of our government. The State Department stated that of the six thousand cases only eighty-five individuals have gone to jail, and that only twenty-two are still there serving a sentence. Moreover, the State Department pointed out that in not one of these cases is it believed that an innocent man has gone to jail.

"Facts simply do not show any real reason for concern over the Status of Forces Treaty. As a matter of fact it has worked well and there is every reason to believe it will continue to work well. So far our servicemen stationed abroad have gotten only good out of it. If the contrary should ever become true, it would be a simple matter for us to rescind the Treaty and to take other measures to insure fair treatment for our men."

The arguments of Senator Jenner and Senator Sparkman causes the writer, after having read them both, to see the dilemma we face when we have our soldiers fighting on foreign lands. We, of course, would object to soldiers from an

Blast At Power Policy Alarms GOP High Command

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A vitriolic attack on Interior Secretary Douglas McKay and the Eisenhower Administration's general conservation program has rung political alarm bells in the halls of the White House and Republican National Headquarters.

Although it echoes Democratic and public power advocates' indictment of Ike's policies in this field, highlighting the issues which the opposition will develop next year, this latest blast comes from a source that Sherman Adams, White House Chief of Staff, and Leonard W. Hall dare not laugh off or ignore.

It consists of an editorial in the Denver Post which is printed under Ike's vacationing gaze. Publisher of the Post is Palmer Hoyt, a distinguished and independent editor, generally regarded as a Republican, and an enthusiastic supporter of Eisenhower in 1952.

In a scathing article, Editor Hoyt summarizes the very charges on which the Democrats hope to carry the West in the 1956 Presidential election. Hoyt and fellow critics denounce the Administration, and especially Secretary McKay, for neglecting the power-and-reclamation interests of that region. They even intimate that Eastern figures, especially public utility and banking groups, are chiefly responsible for this alleged neglect.

Charging that McKay has not helped the Eisenhower Administration or the Republican Party in this field, Hoyt demands the resignation of the Secretary of the Interior. When McKay should have been using his influence on behalf of several Western water storage projects during the recent session of Congress, Hoyt notes that "he was making a sentimental journey to the Meuse-Arnonne, and the hill where he picked up German shrapnel in 1918."

Hoyt then repeats the criticism other land fighting in the United States and not be under our courts. Naturally, other nations want foreign soldiers on their soil to be subject to their courts. The thing that makes the problem unsolvable is that other nations have an entirely different concept of liberty and government than what America has. If they following the ideologies as set forth in the Declaration of Independence. It would seem that about the only solution for justice is to keep our soldiers on our own soil. If we are obliged to go onto other soil it, of course, should be only in defense of aggression and in that case our courts, it would seem, should protect our concept of liberty and not be subject to the concept of liberty of an aggressive nation.

EAGLE ROCK — You just can't afford to overlook anything in politics. Last week Ike remarked, kiddingly, that he might be too old for a second term. And the very next day, Dick Nixon was out at Disneyland, riding around in a cup and saucer on the "Mad Hatter's Tea Party" with a lollipop in his hand.

JONATHAN YANK

MOPSY

WHAT DO YOU MEAN, FIGHT HIM? HE WON THE DECISION A LONG TIME AGO.

McKay showed his concern immediately. Within a few weeks after the appearance of the Hoyt denunciation, he defended his record in an address before the Isaac Walton League at Portland, Ore. His speech was distributed widely by the Republican State Central Committee, showing that he was talking politics, as well as conservation.

Suppressed Information Not Work Of A Real Newsmen

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ROME — Since that afternoon in Geneva when a desperate wretch from Poland cried out against the Communist "press delegation" from his home country, I have been haunted by a strange realization that "the press" is not newspapers or magazines or even radio and television. What is the press then?

The guards were going to throw this tearful Polish patriot out of the Press-House altogether. But, to their honor, Joe Newman, of the New York Herald Tribune, and a reporter for the London Morning Post, whose name I seem to have mislaid, formed bodily interference and bundled him into the office of the Morning Post on the balcony. This was asylum like the inviolate premises of a Foreign Embassy when a troublesome individual holes up and makes snoots at the Gendarmes through a window.

Now the Russian delegates were smiling publicly and our wester world was infatuated with joy. Why wasn't this excited Pole awarded the Nobel Prize? He was the only individual among 1,600 men and women of all nations with the courage to raise his voice in fieri outcry against this mockery, the Communist Polish "press" because I happened to have a job with a corporation which distributes comic strips, puzzles, columns about Broadway and Hollywood and other columns on political and moral subjects.

That poor fellow in Geneva was a problem of journalism by contrast with one contemptible individual from New York who actually went among the Communist Poles, drinking toasts to the day when Soviet Russia finally extinguished freedom in Poland and set up the Red regime. The so-called government in exile was excluded absolutely. The Catholic majority were allowed to maintain their religious practices only because the nuisance of putting down the church would have been an unprofitable distraction at the time. Communist refugees went in from Germany to take their revenge upon a tricked, betrayed and conquered people who had never permitted Communists to associate with them in social or professional life and had despised them as vermin. The Poles were down and us together.

Morale Of Professional Athletes Lowest Of All

By HENRY McLEMORE

This is addressed to all aspirants to a Ph. D. degree who are in need of subjects for their theses. May I suggest that they make a study of professional athletes and the problem of morale?

As every sports page reader knows, the man who plays for money has just about the lowest morale of any living creature, the amoeba not excepted. To keep him doing his job well he must be alternately goaded, pampered, threatened, cajoled, kicked in the rear, patted on the back, praised, and praised to high heaven.

If he is left alone, the average professional athlete goes into a moral tangle. If he isn't suiking he's pouting. If he isn't pouting he's holding a grudge. If he isn't suffering from a persecution complex, in short, he acts like a baby too generously supplied with muscles.

The chief requisite of a coach or manager is not that he be a master of the game, but that he be a psychologist who can keep his charges from shirking their work, keep their fires of ambition well stoked, and, in a word, inspire them to such a point that they will do the job they were hired to do.

Why professional athletes are this way has never been explained. Why should a baseball player, for example, be singled out for praise because he always runs to first base as fast as he can in the hope of beating out a hit? What is he being paid for? Hasn't he got enough sense to know that the faster he runs the more hits he'll make, and that his batting average is the ladder he climbs to bigger pay?

In the Pacific Coast League, so help me, the players' reluctance to give all they have has officially recognized. A prize awarded by the League each year to the player who shows the least morale.

Professional football players mand even more morale than baseball players, if that's possible. A pro football coach to do about everything but his players, in bed and put covers up over them. One is always reading of a player, in explaining a victory, "We played together as a team for the first time today, or won this one because every really put out — did his moral tangle. If he isn't suiking he's pouting. If he isn't pouting he's holding a grudge. If he isn't suffering from a persecution complex, in short, he acts like a baby too generously supplied with muscles.

When they were in college pro players would risk a limb for nothing more than a block letter, and think of it. But when they start for rent, the little woe junior, their morale slips and a great effort has to be made to keep them from becoming firm neurotics. This really puzzles me. Sure, playing a game, but they're not just as much bankers, lawyers, sons, and newspapermen. Just how do they figure have the right to be praised?

This would make a good don't you think?

Jane Talk By JANE KADINGO Pampa News Women's Editor

IF ANOTHER GIRL IS STEALING YOUR MAN, don't sit back and take it! That's the advice the Seventeen Magazine offers teen-agers up against "the other girl" problem. In a special feature designed to help girls cope with "female poachers," the magazine says "don't blame the boy because he usually has no idea of all that anything is happening to him. Anyone who makes a fuss over him can turn his head. It is up to you to turn his head back your way — without making a fuss."

POINTING OUT that "it's the girl you have to fight, not the boy," the magazine advises measuring and typing your opponent, then planning the battle accordingly. The three most frequent types of dangerous rivals are classified this way:

THE ALL-ALL-GIRL TYPE. Formerly called "The Clinging Vine," the all-all-girl type is a super female, apt to be very very feminine with a wide-eyed approach and a talent for looking a little helpless. She takes advantage of every opportunity to look neglected or frightened and hang onto somebody else's attractive-looking beau. These techniques are suggested for re-claiming a boy:

If you never pretended to be the timorous type, don't start pretending now. Instead — be an awful lot of fun; Make a point of planning things he likes, things that the two of you do well together and things that she can't do at all. Build situations that she doesn't fit into. Stick with the crowd. (It's almost certain the crowd will stick with you. The All-All-Girl is usually a gossip, gushy, boring insincere type who is not the most popular kid in the bunch.) See to it that the crowd plans ahead and your rival's beau will probably fall into line. If he wanders away from the crowd, it's often even better. The All-All-Girl is never much fun for very long, and the more he sees of her the sooner he'll return to you.

FEMME FATALE. The most terrifying competition a girl can have, the Femme Fatale is the belle of the neighborhood. "She's as hot as she is handsome, designed by nature for the purpose of taking boys away from girls. Besides being born gorgeous, she is also the best-dressed, best-groomed female in the crowd. And everybody likes her, especially boys."

Actually, she is not nearly the threat she seems to be. Since she likes stealing boys, she seldom has time to settle on any one of them, including yours. The best way to meet this kind of competition is "grin and bear it."

Keep in touch with your beau, so as not to let your subscription expire. Keep busy and always look your best. The Femme Fatale case, if you handle it right, is no worse than a case of twenty-four-hour virus," teen-agers are told.

HOMESTEADER. This is the dangerous unscrupulous type. She is described thus: She cultivates your friendship, works her way into your crowd and ingratiates herself wherever she goes. All the time she's going in a straight line to your steady. Making herself a friend of both you and him, she soon gets to the point where he sees more of her than he does of you. This is the time when you've got to be suddenly more attractive than you've ever been before. Don't brood or complain. Suggest to your boyfriend that you've been seeing too much of each other and go out with other boys. Make yourself more available to make yourself more attractive. Give him more opportunity to date the Homesteader and there's a chance he'll find he doesn't like her so much after all.

First Methodist Wesleyan Service Guild Reveals Its Goals At First Fall Meeting

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church held its first fall meeting Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Ben Ogden, 1608. Christine, with Mrs. W. B. Fountain as co-hostess. A covered-dish supper was served on the Ogden patio. The business session was led by Mr. Bonnie Hutchinson, president. Reports were given by committee chairmen. The program under the direction of Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, included the outlining of the duties of the officers. The Guild theme, "The Kingdom of God May Be Realized," and its purpose, "To promote spiritual growth and Christian fellowship to take an active part in developing a Christian community," were reviewed. The devotional, "Goals for Wesleyan Service Guilds," was presented by Mrs. Hutchinson. The goals explained by Mrs. Hutchinson included, "we will seek to grow as Christians; we will seek to bring others into the Christian fellowship of the church and of the Wesleyan Service Guild; we will seek with Christians everywhere the sustaining fellowship and power of a world church; we will use all available resources to work for 'the things which belong unto peace'; we will proclaim the World Mission of the Church to be God's plan for the redemption of the world; and we will accept the price of Christian discipleship."

RUTH MILLETT Winners Revealed In Sewing Contest

"Now what have I said wrong?" bewildered husbands often ask themselves after their wives take offense for what seems to the husband like no reason at all. But any woman knows there is marital dynamite in all of these perfectly "harmless" remarks. "Is that what you are going to wear?" — asked of a wife who is dressed for a party and a moment before was perfectly pleased with the dress she had on. "I wish you'd teach my wife how to do that!" — spoken to another woman in front of the wife. It doesn't matter whether the husband is praising another woman's cooking or her ability to paint a room or make slip covers, no wife wants her husband thinking another woman could teach her anything. "What are you being so fancy for?" — asked of the wife who has knocked herself out to set an impressive table for a guest she wants to think she hasn't gone to any special trouble. Saying to drop in guests who happen by on the day the lady of the house has planned to serve leftovers for supper: "Don't go. Why not stay and have supper with us?"

THE 20TH ANNUAL TOP O' TEXAS Golf Tournament is now history and bouquets are in order to the tournament officials for an outstanding affair.

A medal score tourney for the Championship Flight had never been tried here and the tourney officials elected to experiment with this type of tournament this year.

And from all indications, the experiment paid off in big dividends.

Both the players and galleryites seemed to prefer the medal tourney over the match play tournaments.

Golf fans were scattered all over the course Monday following their favorites. There must have been at least 500 golf fans on hand for the final rounds Monday afternoon.

The players certainly rewarded the golf enthusiasts with some fine golf.

Six sub-par rounds were fired in the final rounds Monday afternoon while two more equalled par.

Overall, there were 17 sub-par rounds shot in the tournament and eight even par 71s.

Borger's Don Kaplan, the new champion, was the steadiest golfer in the tourney as he had three sub-par rounds plus a one-over par 72. Two others had three sub-par

Texas City Wins Playoff Opener

By UNITED PRESS
Texas City's Neil Roberts struck out 15 men in a fine, eight-inning pitching performance Tuesday night to give the Texans a 3 to 1 victory over the Waco Pirates in the first playoff game in the Big State League. The other scheduled game, matching fourth-place Harlingen at Corpus Christi, was rained out.

Waco's defending champions will be out to make up for the initial setback Tuesday night, sending Jack Brown to the mound against Elmer Tolb of the Texans.

Harlingen is again scheduled to play at Corpus Christi Wednesday night, and the Capitals will be out to upset the pennant winning Clippers.

But the Texans came back with two unearned runs in the seventh frame on a pair of Pirate errors, singles by Jim Basso and Junior Griffith and a walk by Jackson with the bases loaded. Basso homered in the next inning to provide an insurance run.

Moore's Manager To Request A 'Loud Bell' For Big Fight

NORTH ADAMS, Mass.—UP—A man is down, butting, striking with elbows and forearms and shoulders, and wrestling at close quarters.

Archie, the 38-year-old challenger, did not share Johnston's alarm about Marciano's tactics; but he said, "Anything Charley does to help us win is okay with me."

The challenger grinned in the dressing room at Glover's Bowl here and remarked: "I have no objection to a rough fight. I can be just as rough as he can — may be more. I know more tricks. And I can promise you that if he starts hitting me, I'll hit him with fire, but good."

Trainer Cheerful Norman has cut Moore's sparring sessions to two rounds daily because he reached his "peak" on Monday. "Now we just want to keep him at that sharp edge," Norman explained. "He has a day off Thursday, and maybe we'll let him box three rounds on Friday. But no more than two on the other days."

Before Wednesday's two rounds, Archie had boxed a total of 88, the most before—any of his 14 fights.

In addition to his home run feats, the husky, dark-haired Kiner made an important contribution to baseball as the National League player representative.

Kiner is married to former tennis star Nancy Chaffee, who recently returned to tennis competition after a three-year absence from the courts. They have two children.

"I guess I'll just go back to the sidelines and let my wife be the athlete of the family," he said.

Stengel Toss from Game
NEW YORK —UP—Casey Stengel's "good conduct medal" was a little bent Monday. The New York Yankees' manager was ejected from a game Sunday for the first time this season. Umpire John Flaherty thumped him out when he protested ball and strike decisions in the first inning of the Yankees-Senators game.

German Sets Sprint Record
COLOGNE, Germany —UP—Heinz Fuetterer of Germany set a new European record of 20.6 seconds for the 200-meter sprint Sunday in an international invitation track and field meet. Fuetterer held the old mark of 20.8 seconds set last year while Mel Patton of the U.S. holds the world mark of 20.2 set in 1949.

Kiner Says He'll Retire End Of Season

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK —UP—Ralph Kiner of the Cleveland Indians, the leading home run hitter of the post-war era, said Wednesday he is retiring from baseball at the end of this season because of "physical reasons."

The 32-year-old outfielder, who during 10 active seasons in the majors, said he was "tempted to quit" several times during the middle of the current campaign because of a back condition.

"The only thing that kept me from quitting during the season was the possibility that I might be able to help the Indians win the pennant," he said.

Made up Mind
"But I've definitely made up my mind that this is my last season," he added. "I'm no longer in physical condition to play regularly and there's no sense in prolonging the agony."

Kiner said he had no idea what he is going to do, but he emphasized that he was not interested in any possible managerial offers.

"I may go into business somewhere in Southern California," he said.

Kiner, a powerful right-handed hitter who took great pride in his accomplishments, ranks sixth among baseball's all-time home run hitters. His total of 367 homers is topped only by Babe Ruth, 714; Jimmy Fox, 534; Mel Ott, 511; Lou Gehrig, 493; and Ted Williams, 385.

Reduced to part-time status with the Indians this year, Kiner, who is receiving an estimated $50,000 salary, has hit 16 home runs so far and is batting .242 with 51 runs batted in.

Those figures are a far cry from the ones he posted while playing with the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1946 until he was traded to the Chicago Cubs on June 4, 1953.

During that stretch he won the National League home run title, or tied for it seven straight years. As a sophomore in the National League, he hit 51 home runs in 1947 and then threatened Babe Ruth's all-time mark in 1949 when he hit 54.

Earnings Total $317,000
Kiner received an estimated $75,000 salary in 1953 and the only National League player ever to top him in that department was Stan Musial of the Cardinals, whose peak earnings were between $80,000 and $85,000. In all, Kiner's estimated baseball earnings total $317,000.

In addition to his home run feats, the husky, dark-haired Kiner made an important contribution to baseball as the National League player representative.

Kiner is married to former tennis star Nancy Chaffee, who recently returned to tennis competition after a three-year absence from the courts. They have two children.

"I guess I'll just go back to the sidelines and let my wife be the athlete of the family," he said.

Stengel Toss from Game
NEW YORK —UP—Casey Stengel's "good conduct medal" was a little bent Monday. The New York Yankees' manager was ejected from a game Sunday for the first time this season. Umpire John Flaherty thumped him out when he protested ball and strike decisions in the first inning of the Yankees-Senators game.

German Sets Sprint Record
COLOGNE, Germany —UP—Heinz Fuetterer of Germany set a new European record of 20.6 seconds for the 200-meter sprint Sunday in an international invitation track and field meet. Fuetterer held the old mark of 20.8 seconds set last year while Mel Patton of the U.S. holds the world mark of 20.2 set in 1949.

ALWAYS HITTING—Archie Moore gets in softball games between workouts at North Adams, Mass. The 38-year-old challenger takes a swing at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight championship at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 20.

Oilers Open Playoffs At Albuquerque

Red Dial To Face Shandor In Opener

A pair of 20-game winners will face each other tonight at Albuquerque when the Pampa Oilers and Albuquerque Dukes open a seven-game West Texas-New Mexico League Shaughnessy Playoff series.

Red Dial, who posted a 20-14 season for the Oilers this season, will face the Dukes' ace, Ted Shandor, who compiled a 23-12 record this past year.

The Oilers and Dukes will play at Tingley Field in Albuquerque tonight and Thursday night. Then the series will switch back to Pampa Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

If the series still isn't decided by the fifth game, the series will wind up in Albuquerque.

Dial has enjoyed good success with the Dukes this season. He has beaten them five times and lost only one. The only defeat was a 2-0 affair in Albuquerque, July 16.

Manager Grover Seitz has nominated Tom Pollet to start for the Oilers in the second game of the series Thursday. Pollet won 21 and lost six over the regular season route.

Jack Venable, 16-11, over the season, will be the starting Oiler moundman when the series switches to Oiler Park Friday night.

In 19 games between the Oilers and Dukes this season, the New Mexico nine edged out the Pampans, winning 10 from the Oilers while losing nine.

The 20th game slated between the two teams was rained out. The rain-out may have cost the Dukes a share of first place in the final WT-NM League standings since the Dukes finished one-half game out of first place.

Box seats for the playoff series in Pampa continued at a brisk pace today. Mrs. L. N. Atchison of the Chamber of Commerce Office, who is handling the advance box seat sales, said that only 30 boxes remained unsold for the playoffs.

Fans desiring to reserve a box for the series games to be played in Pampa may do so by calling Mrs. Atchison at the CC office, phone 4-3241, or drop by the office in the City Hall.

Most of the remaining box seats are down the first and third base lines, Mrs. Atchison reports.

The boxes are selling for $6 which will be good for all playoff games in Pampa, be it one or two series. Each box contains four chairs.

If there are any boxes left by the opening of the series here, they will be placed on sale at the box office at $2 per box or 50 cents a chair per game.

Oiler business manager Deck Woltd also reports that the general admission tickets may be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce Office.

"By putting these general admission tickets on sale in advance will relieve a lot of congestion at the box office at the game," Woltd said of the advanced ticket sale.

Fans who hold box seats are reminded that they also are required to have a regular admission ticket to gain entrance to the park.

The regular admission prices will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. These prices will prevail at all playoff games.

Tonight's playoff opener at Albuquerque will be broadcast by KPDN and time will be 9:15.

Wynn Tries For 200th Win Tonight

By UNITED PRESS
Early Wynn tries for the 200th victory of his major league career Wednesday night when the Cleveland Indians begin their final dash to the American League wire against their favorite "patsies."

The Indians, clinching to a half-game advantage over the New York Yankees and within easy range of both the third-place Chicago White Sox and fourth-place Boston Red Sox, will be seeking their 18th triumph in 21 games with the eighth-place Baltimore Orioles. Wynn himself has beaten the Orioles three times this year, shutting them out twice and allowing only two runs in the third game.

The 35-year-old right-hander started campaign with 184 victories and has compiled a 15-9 record although sidelined for the first three weeks with pneumonia. Teammate Bob Feller is the only active player with 200 victories — 266 compared to 158 losses.

Starts Eastern Swing
The game starts a nine-game eastern swing for the Indians, who have won six of their last eight games. In all they have 17 games to play — fewer than the other three contenders. The Yankees and White Sox have 18 each and the Red Sox have 19.

All clubs were idle Tuesday. Next to the Indians, the Red Sox have been the hottest of the contenders this month with five victories in seven games. Although three games behind the Indians, they have the advantage of playing 16 of their 19 games at home where they've played .677-bat for the campaign. In addition, they have seven big games left with the Yankees.

Frank Sullivan will be on the mound for the Red Sox against the Detroit Tigers Wednesday and the big right-hander will be going for his 17th win. The Red Sox hold a 12-8 edge over the Tigers for the campaign.

Some Wide Margins
Whitely Ford, also gunning for his 17th triumph, was Manager Casey Stengel's choice to start on the mound against the Kansas City Athletics while Jack Harshman will start for the White Sox against the Washington Senators.

Roswell's Dick Hutler slammed a sixth-inning home run good for three tallies and all the margin George Payte needed to beat Artesia. Manager Stubby Greer also got a home run for the Rockets, and Dan Howard hit a circuit clout for Artesia.

Chomp Gets Warning
GROSSINGER, N.Y. —UP—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano was warned by trainer Charles Goldman Tuesday that loss of his temper in his Sept. 20 title defense against Archie Moore might be followed by loss of the title.

"All Moore wants is for you to lose your temper, Rocky," said Goldman. "Look what he did to Bobo Olson when he got him to fall for a sucker punch. It would happen to you, too."

Redlegs Recall 10 Players
CINCINNATI —UP—The Cincinnati Redlegs have recalled 10 minor league players, but only three will report before the end of this season. Catcher Ed Bailey and third baseman Ray Jablonski of San Diego will report at the end of the Pacific Coast League season and pitcher Jim Pearce of Omaha will report at the end of the American Association playoffs.

Reporting for spring training next year will be pitchers Tom Ackert and Jerry Lane of Nashville, pitcher Fred Baczewski of St. Paul, pitcher Maurice Fisher of San Francisco, pitcher Corky Valentine of Havana, pitcher Jim Willis of Omaha, and pitcher Cliff Ross of Mexico Red.

MORE HORSES—Terry Brennan, center, gets better acquainted with four All-American high school football stars who will play for Notre Dame. They are, left to right, Bronko Nagurski, Jr., International Falls, Minn.; Angelo Mosca, Waltham, Mass.; Frank Geremia, Sacramento; and Jim Just, Milwaukee. Coach Brennan saw them in the All-American prep game in Memphis. Young Nagurski is the son of the one-time Minnesota and Chicago Bear great.

SWC Squads Get Down To Work

By JERE COX
United Press Sports Writer
More long scrimmages were on tap Wednesday as Southwest Conference teams went into the sixth day of preparations for the 1955 football season.

All seven squads tasted hard contact work Tuesday.

Texas Christian Coach Abe Martin sent his Frog squad through an hour and a half scrimmage with emphasis on the aerial attack.

Quarterback Charles Curtis was impressive with his passing while fullback Vernon Halbeck and halfbacks James Swink and Ray Taylor got off some nice runs.

Bill Alexander, No. 2 left guard, suffered a shoulder separation and was expected to be sidelined at least a week.

Aggies Look Good
The Texas Aggies, who play the opening interconference game against UCLA at Los Angeles Sept. 16, pleased Coach Bear Bryant as they ran through their first scrimmage. Halfbacks Loyd Taylor and Don Watson and center Lloyd Hale turned in top performances.

Defense took the spotlight at Waco where four Baylor units scrimmaged for more than an hour. Bobby Peters, sophomore halfback from Van, was outstanding on defense and also looked good, along with Reuben Sage and Joey Allen, in the running department.

Peters was subbing for co-captain Weldon Holley who was slowed by a charley horse.

The Arkansas Razorbacks worked on passing, pass defense and fundamentals as Coach Jack Mitchell scheduled scrimmage sessions throughout the week.

"The boys are getting in pretty good physical shape and we are very pleased," Mitchell said. "The spirit and enthusiasm couldn't be any stronger."

Southern Methodist's veteran White team defeated the Blue eleven 33 to 2 in a semi-game condition scrimmage. John Marshall scored two touchdowns for the Whites and Don McIlhenny, Blake Tucker and Hal O'Brien each added one.

The Blues' only score came when Jerry Adams blocked an attempted punt by John Roach and knocked the ball out of the end zone for a safety.

University of Texas Coach Ed Price tried to make the most of his personnel by assigning five unheralded candidates to double duty.

Dickey Lowery spent time at both guard positions, Bill Germany at both ends, Johnny Elam at fullback and guard, Jimmy Welch at halfback and fullback and Bob Tucker at tackle and guard.

Four quarterbacks saw service as Rice concentrated on its air attack. Pinky Nesbitt, King Hill, Frank Ryan and Phil Harris divided time at quarterback and each completed a high percentage of passes. Bob Woodbright, subbing for the injured Marshall Crawford, was outstanding on the receiving end.

Judge Dies At Age 68

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. —UP— Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in First Presbyterian Church for District Judge John Davenport, who died Monday night at the age of 68.
Davenport suffered a cerebral hemorrhage at his home on Aug. 27 and had been hospitalized since that time. Death resulted from a blood clot on the brain, hospital attendants said.
Davenport was appointed 89th District Judge in September, 1954, by Gov. Allan Shivers to fill the unexpired term of Judge Alan B. Haley. Davenport's term would have expired Jan. 1, 1957.
A native of Gladewater, he entered the University of Texas law school in 1907. He was an attorney at Granbury, in Hood county, prior to moving to Wichita Falls in 1913.
He is survived by his widow and four sons, Harry Lee Frank Davenport of Houston; John Robert Frank Davenport of Oklahoma City; Thurman G. Frank Davenport of Los Alamos, N. M.; and Fay Davenport, who is in the Navy.

Milk Cows Are Fewer

WASHINGTON —UP— The number of milk cows declined during the last fiscal year after two years of steady increase, the Agriculture Department reported Tuesday.
The 1.4 per cent reduction cut the number of milk cows to 22,067,000 on June 30, the department said.
It also reported a 450 million pound decline in milk output from January through July and a 30 per cent cut in price support purchases since April 1.
The department said lower prices for dairy products and serious droughts throughout many parts of the country contributed to the decrease in milk cow population. The lower returns and the higher production costs brought about by the droughts caused many farmers to sell off stock.
The department said there are factors tending to halt the decline this year. These include lower prices for feed, relatively more favorable milk prices, improved price relationships between dairy and other livestock products, and improved supplies of pasture feed and roughage.

New school of thought about trucks

This smart Blue Chip GMC runabout is as handy at exploding traditions as it is for delivering the youngsters to their classrooms.
It denies that a truck must be just a hard-fisted work vehicle—and proves the point with its obvious fitness for family use and playtime fun.
Mighty V8 power gives it spirited agility as well as brawn; Hydra-Matic Drive* gives it easy flexibility as well as remarkable economy. And the sweeping visibility through that panoramic windshield makes it safer, too.
Best of all, perhaps, is that this Blue Chip GMC quickly writes off its slightly higher cost with its greater efficiency and rugged stamina that insure longer life. And it commands a higher trade-in with its outstanding modernity.
There you have it. A Blue Chip GMC will bring distinction to your business, and serve your family too. Come in and see us about one.
*Hydra-Matic standard on many models; optional at extra cost on some others.

AWOL 27 Years, Man Gives Up

NEW YORK —UP—A 59-year-old man who Sunday reported to the Army that he had been AWOL since 1928 was cleared Tuesday and sent home.

A first Army spokesman said that under regulations of 1928 William Lydon has been in the clear for 24 of his 27 conscience-ridden years. The statute of limitations for his prosecution on peacetime desertion charges ran out in 1951.

"We don't know if he really deserted or just dreamed it up," an Army spokesman said. "But in any case, there's nothing we can do about it."

Officers had formally record Lydon's confession.

"If there is an open file on him," the spokesman said, "they'll just throw the affidavit in and close the file."

Lydon had spent the night "under detention" in a Governors Island barracks while officials puzzled over what to do about him. They decided Tuesday morning, took his affidavit and sent him home to his wife and two daughters who were just as surprised as the Army to learn of his "desertion."

Bottled Note Just A Joke

HOUSTON —UP— Eight-year-old Roy Cecil Hudgins fished the bobbing wine bottle from the San Jacinto River, and then his eyes opened wide. There was a note inside.

Hudgins Sr., carefully pulled the weathered fragment of paper from the bottle, and read the pencil-scratched message, dated Oct. 10, 1943.

"Fourteenth day in lifeboat. Too weak to write much. Ate my buddy yesterday. Nothing left to eat 'cept two rats and a canary. Rats very skinny. Will feed canary to rats and eat them."

"No land in sight," the note continued. "No nothing but salt water. Except to shake hands with Davey Jones soon."

The note was signed with a shaky "C. C. Wilson" and gave a telephone number—VA 7291. And a "P.S." was added. It said "please call me and let me know if I made it. Too weak to write more."

Police traced the telephone number to Curtis C. Wilson, who already has no small claim to fame as a letter writer. Wilson was recently suspended from his mail clerk job for writing a caustic letter about Gov. Allan Shivers and the last gubernatorial election.

Mrs. Wilson said her husband was out of town. She said he put the letter in the river as a "joke" about two years ago.

New Volcano Brewing In Mexico

MEGICAL, Mex. —UP— A fissure in a cotton field spewed sulphur, hot rocks and boiling mud Monday, raising conjecture that a new volcano is being born in Mexico.

Mexicali police said 14 fissures split the earth suddenly starting Saturday and one began rumbling and throwing debris 70 to 80 feet into the air 14 miles south of this border town, 170 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

Sulphurous gases belched forth and steam shot out.

A group of volcanologists from Mexico City reportedly was flying to the scene to determine whether this was the third volcanic eruption in the past decade in Mexico.

The last volcano discovered in the sparsely-populated northwestern portion of Mexico was Boqueron, first noted in September, 1952, on San Benedicto Island, about 250 miles south of Lower California.

Mexico's most famous volcano of the 20th century is Paracutin, which first burst forth in a farmer's cornfield in Central Mexico near Morelos. It died out two years ago.
