A flaming section of the Manville Jencks mills in Manville, R. I., crashes to the ground as a $5,000,000 fire destroyed the mill Monday. No deaths were reported in the huge state alarm blaze.

U. S. Orders Firms To Cut Oil Imports

By ROBERT F. MORISON

WASHINGTON —UP— The nation's oil importers Wednesday faced a harsh government ultimatum: Cut oil imports voluntarily or bow to compulsory curbs.

Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, gave the oil importers one week to answer the government's ultimatum.

"I want to be certain that a solution on the basis of voluntary action is not available before any government action is taken," Flemming said.

Flemming acted to protect domestic oil producers who have protested that increased oil imports were hurting their business and making it unprofitable to spend money to bring in new oil fields.

Cool producers also protested against the oil imports.

Authority for curbs

Congress gave President Eisenhower authority to curb foreign oil imports if they are found to threaten the national security. An official said the President could increase tariffs on oil imports, impose quotas on oil imports, or pay domestic producers a subsidy.

A special presidential advisory committee recommended last February that oil imports be limited to the 1954 level. Mr. Eisenhower endorsed the recommendation.

Flemming reported, however, that imports of fuel and crude oil over the first seven months of this year have been running sharply above the 1954 level. He based his report on statistics provided by the 25 oil importing companies.

Flemming said imports of residual oil have increased 23 per cent over the 1954 level and imports of crude oil 15 per cent. In the same period, he said, domestic production of crude oil increased about 5 per cent.

Some Triple Ratios

It was learned that some of the importers tripled the import ratios recommended by the presidential advisory committee.

Flemming said half of the companies exceeded the recommended ratio on crude oil and three out of every four topped the ratio recommended for residual oil imports.

Flemming said the companies, in their reports to him, had made clear they had no intention of cutting imports back to the 1954 level. But he said he hoped they now would do so rather than force government action.

Should the companies fail to heed the government's plea, Flemming would certify to President Eisenhower that the national security was threatened by endangering vital domestic industry. The President would direct a further study and then take what action he deems necessary.

The companies which received the warning are:

Asiatic Petroleum, New York; Atlantic Refining, Philadelphia; Cities Service, New York; Eastern States Petroleum, Houston; Gulf Oil, Pittsburgh; Phillips Petroleum, Bartlesville, Okla.; Shell Oil, New York; Sinclair Refining, New York; Socony Mobil Oil, New York; Southwestern Petroleum, Fort Worth; Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana; Standard Oil of New Jersey; Sun Oil, Philadelphia; Texas Company, New York; Tide Water Associated Oil, San Francisco; and McBride Oil, LaBlanca, Tex.

Major Says Course Is Not Torture

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

STEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Nev.—UP— You kneel on a broomstick until the pain has you sweating. The insufferable blond young man in the weird helmet and green shirt calls you an s.o.b.

His brown, haired accomplice, just as insufferable, screams that your wife is a tramp.

The brutish-looking soldier standing behind you with a rifle inquires in a roaring voice, "you want your head smashed?" He swings the butt menacingly close to your left temple.

What with one thing and another, including minutes-long stretches of weighted bags in your outstretched hands, you get to feeling that it is just possible you might pass out.

But, said the blue-eyed major, you do not break, you do not feel you are being tortured, and if anybody wants to know, just being a member of a Strategic Air Command crew "is far worse than this."

Thus lightly did a 25-year-old B-47 navigator from Texas dismiss the thought that the U.S. Air Force survival training school here is subjecting its students to inhuman physical and mental ordeals.

Creates Controversy

A controversy has been going on for a while as to whether Air Force efforts to make combat crewmen immune to Communist brainwashing techniques have gone too far toward the side of "torture."

"Hell," said the major, "I knew it wouldn't last long (it lasted just 15 minutes). I knew the swearing and the cracks at my wife were just meant to make me mad. And I knew the whole idea was to help me out if I ever ran into the real thing."

"Under the circumstances," he added, "you certainly couldn't call it torture."

Johnson Says Import Action Is Needed

AUSTIN —UP—

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson expressed his gratification that defense mobilizer Arthur Flemming took action "along lines laid down by congress" in warning 18 American oil importing firms voluntarily to restrict imports or be forced to do so.

Johnson agreed that "obviously" something needs to be done.

Flemming notified the 18 importers that unless they cut back their imports, which he said were set by a presidential advisory committee, compulsory federal curbs would be imposed under authority voted by congress at its last session.

Johnson, in a statement issued through his Austin office Tuesday night, said "I am very gratified that Mr. Flemming has taken action along the lines laid down by congress."

"During the last session," the Senate majority leader said, "the executive agencies were voted simple authority to protect our domestic producers from being swamped in a sea of imports."

"At the time, I urged Mr. Flemming to keep a continuing check on the import situation so he could use the authority when needed."

"It is obviously needed now," Johnson said, "and I hope that he follows through in the event the situation is not resolved when his deadline arrives."

Firemen Attend Meet

Chief Ernest Winborne

and seven firemen attended the semi-annual Panhandle Fire Convention at the Municipal Auditorium in Amarillo yesterday for the discussion of fire-fighting techniques.

Pampa firemen captured first place in the pumper's contest, coming out with 28.2 seconds. Memphis took first place with 24.8, and Wellington gained the third spot with 27.3.

A barbecue was held at 6 p.m. at the Tri-State Fairgrounds, followed by a dance at Amarillo Hotel.

The present project of the district was discussed and plans called for a fire truck for the Boy's Ranch, close to Amarillo.

Firemen attending were: Capt. W. D. Powers, Dennis C. Bryant, E. L. Fuller, L. V. Bruce, Bill Corzine, John Pettit, and Paul Jones.

Scouts Set Fund Drive

Dr. J. B. Veale, Jr., campaign chairman for the Santa Fe District, Boy Scouts of America, announced this morning the selections of the community chairman for the forthcoming Boy Scout finance drive.

New community chairman are: Dale Lowe of Miami; H. S. Janison of Higgins; J. B. Reid, Jr., from Canadian; Alvin Williams of White Deer; Alfred Bell, Panhandle; and H. M. Babcock of Groom. Sheriff Hugh Anderson of Borger will be in charge of a barbecue scheduled.

Community chairmen and helpers will attend a free barbecue at Camp Ki-O-Wah where they will receive training for conducting community drives at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25. The barbecue will follow at 6 p.m.

Kick-off date for all 34 towns in the Adobe Walls Council has been set for Oct. 25.

If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it Lewis Hardware.

Texas Pickers To Mississippi

AUSTIN —UP—

A migration of Texas cotton pickers to Mississippi is underway, the Texas Employment Commission reported Wednesday, but in many cases the itinerant workers are being stopped at the Mississippi border because they don't have money to pay for required fumigation.

"In nearly every instance," Mississippi authorities have found pink billboards in both the Texas' cotton sacks and trucks, the TEC said.

A TEC spokesman said he was unable to explain the migration, since Texas is now hitting the peak of cotton harvest and there are enough jobs for all farm workers, and since Mississippi has a surplus of workers already.

It cannot be determined how many Texas workers are involved, because they did not consult TEC offices before leaving for Mississippi.

The commission advised itinerant cotton pickers against going without consulting their local TEC office.

Mississippi requires all farm workers to stand inspection before entering the state. The workers must pay the cost of a required fumigation.

Texas Flood Threat Eases

By UNITED PRESS

Threats of local flooding in some Rio Grande Valley communities subsided Wednesday as Raymondville, another Valley city, tackled sanitation and cleanup problems caused by flood waters that covered it for nearly a week.

Forecasters warned earlier that heavy rains likely would move on northward up the Rio Grande and cause local flooding conditions in the Laredo-Del Rio area.

Now, however, forecasters report that chances for heavier rains have decreased further north up the river and that there won't be much chance for local flooding. Only a few showers are expected in the Valley and coastal sections of Texas Wednesday.

The only recorded rainfall in the state for the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday was at Palacios with .61 of an inch, Galveston .57, Brownsville .45, and Beaumont with .13.

Autumn-Like Weather

Autumn-like weather continued overnight as Salt Flat reported a low of 54 degrees for the state. Temperatures ranged on up to 77 at Corpus Christi.

Meantime, the more than 900 persons flooded out of their homes at Raymondville were expected to be back in them by nightfall, as health authorities battled swarms of flies, mosquitoes, stench and mud.

Flood waters that covered 100 blocks of the city at one time drained rapidly Tuesday from the flat stretch of country and all the water was expected to be gone by late Wednesday, E. M. Tomme, director of public works, said.

A request that Raymondville and Willacy county be designated as a major disaster area was forwarded by Gov. Allan Shivers to federal authorities in Washington. The money would be used for rehabilitation.

U.S. Says Reds Seek Germany For Their Side

WASHINGTON —UP—

U.S. officials warned Wednesday that Russian agreement to recognize West Germany is part of a Soviet campaign to woo West Europe away from the United States by "peaceful penetration."

They said the Soviet Union failed to bully West European nations into ditching the United States and now is turning to persuasion. The only way to conduct such a successful campaign, they said, is for Russia to appear reasonable and peaceful.

The United States is perfectly willing to battle the Russians in such a campaign. Officials feel sure America's allies will not cut ties with the United States just because the Soviets appear to be more reasonable than in the past.

American officials stamped tentative approval on Tuesday's historic agreement between Russia and West Germany to establish diplomatic relations.

The State Department refused to make an official comment on the agreement pending receipt of full details. But most officials felt West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had given up little in recognizing the Soviet Union. He did receive Russian Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin's assurance that German prisoners still held by the Soviet Union would be freed soon.

Toll Roads Are Proposed

WASHINGTON —UP—

Financial advisor Paul H. Mallory of Houston, Tex., Wednesday proposed construction of 10,000 miles of toll superhighways with funds from private loans insured by the federal government.

Mallory, advisor to businessmen and insurance companies, told the chairmen of the Senate and House Public Works committees his plan would permit an immediate start on a highway program without necessitating higher federal or state taxes or an increase in the national debt.

He said congress should establish a highway loan insurance program for major roads, similar to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.'s coverage of bank deposits.

The road insurance would guarantee payment of interest and repayment of loans paid up by individuals, insurance companies, banks and other private sources.

He said the government might have to pay off on segments of the system which run through thinly populated areas because those segments "might possibly lose money." This would require the government to make "relatively small outlays during years to come," he said.

Mallory called his plan "ultra sound." It would "release the vast forces of private initiative inherent in the American system," he said, and "in the end, these superhighways will be paid for by those who use them."

Marine Lands $64,000; Situation Well In Hand

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK —UP— "Wow! I'm all out of wows, but wow, anyway! I'm unraveled and it's all over, thank God."

Those were the words that came tumbling out of Capt. Richard Sherrill McCutchen Tuesday night after the Marine landed $64,000 on a quiz show and had the situation well in hand.

McCutchen, a cooking expert who was the first contestant ever to go for and win the top prize on CBS-TV's "The $64,000 Question," grinned broadly and waved aside questions about taxes.

Reds Promise Return Of German Prisoners

BOON, Germany —UP—

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer returned from Moscow Wednesday with a Soviet promise to start action on the release of German war prisoners before the end of the day.

The Soviet assurances on the release of prisoners were given at the end of five days of talks in Moscow in exchange for West German agreement to establish diplomatic relations with Russia.

The 79-year-old chancellor looked tired as he arrived after his fatigued conference in the Soviet capital with Premier Nikolai Bulganin and other Kremlin leaders.

Before leaving Adenauer told a press conference:

"I am authorized by Marshal Bulganin to declare that before our delegation arrives back in Bonn action to release the prisoners will begin."

Adenauer, in statements to the press, assured the United States, Britain and France that he had entered no secret agreements and said Germany remained faithful to its membership in NATO and the Western European Union.

In a letter accepted by Bulganin and made public Wednesday Adenauer made it clear the Bonn government does not recognize Communist East Germany and that final determination of Germany's borders must await completion of a peace treaty.

The second point was in answer to the Soviet position that German lands east of the Oder-Neisse line, given to Poland by the Potsdam agreement, cannot be restored to Germany.

The question of German reunification was left to the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Geneva in October.

Diplomatic observers in Moscow expressed belief the German-Soviet agreement was largely a diplomatic victory for the Russians.

Adenauer said "I will limit myself to saying the situation could not remain as it was so I think establishment of diplomatic relations will be a factor for the stability of Europe and I hope you will think of it that way."

Fourth Turncoat To Return To U.S.

ALDEN, Minn. —UP—

The mother of turncoat American GI Richard Tenneson, 22, says she has received a letter from him saying he is coming home from Red China.

Mrs. Portia Howe, who made a dramatic flight to the Far East in December, 1953, in an attempt to see her son and persuade him to come home, said she received the letter Tuesday at her farm near here.

She quoted it as saying, "no matter what I say, I'll be put away."

Tenneson was one of 21 American prisoners of war who chose to stay in Communist China instead of accepting repatriation. Three others have already returned.

Mrs. Howe quoted the letter as saying in part:

"I am coming back to the states, coming home, but my friend, the Army, will see to it that I don't get that far."

"It won't be long now. On the 23rd of August, a representative of the Red Cross general society came and guaranteed that it wouldn't be too long. He said preparations were already being made.

"My request was to leave China. I first asked to go to India, but it wasn't possible then to go home. Judging from the world situation, I'll probably be going home."

"Mother, I want to explain a possibility which I hate to admit. Perhaps you won't be able to understand. The reason I'm leaving China is that certain weaknesses in my character make it very uncomfortable and impossible to stay."

Two Alternatives

"Once I'm in Hong Kong I have two alternatives. One is truth and the other is lies and more lies. To be sure, here in the safety of China, I feel certain that I'll stand for the truth. But I also know that others wanted to tell the truth after they left but didn't."

"Why I am coming back is not entirely sure myself, but there is one thing for certain—no matter what I say, I'll get put away."

Mrs. Howe, a devoutly religious woman, said the letter came as a surprise. She said none of his recent letters hinted he might come home.

"The family greeted it with mixed emotions," Mrs. Howe said. "We're all relieved and this certainly is an answer to a prayer."

Gotta Be Fast On The Draw

HOUSTON —UP—

A longshoreman from Local 872 and a warehouseman from Local 1331 whooped it up at the "Good Time Inn" Tuesday night and the talk got around to a discussion of guns.

Police said the discussion reached a climax when No. 872 argued, "my gun is the biggest."

No. 1331 replied, "my gun is fastest."

Both were right.

Fred Guillory, 41, went to Jefferson Davis hospital with a bullet wound in the neck. His condition was serious.

Police broadcast a pickup order for Guillory's 40-year-old companion who disappeared after the shooting.

Bonn, Moscow To Have Diplomatic Relations

Dock Strike Is Over

NEW YORK —UP—

New York longshoremen voted Wednesday to end a seven-day dock tieup which has spread to other East and Gulf Coast ports.

Some 5,600 of the port's 30,000 dockers approved with a shout their leaders' recommendation that they accept the offer of a New Jersey legislator to provide an airing of their grievances against the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission.

"Try to get back to work this afternoon," International Longshoremen's Association President William V. Bradley told the cheering men. "If you cannot, return tomorrow morning."

ILA leaders had been rebuffed by the governors of both affected states, by federal authorities, congressmen and a New York legislative committee in their attempts to by-pass the commission, set up two years ago to police a dock clean-up.

The ILA jumped Tuesday night at the proposal of New Jersey State Sen. James F. Murray Jr. that he set up a "citizens' fact finding committee" to hear the union's grievances against the waterfront commission of New York harbor.

Group Sets Chess Match

George Koltanowski, international chess master, will appear in Pampa next month to give a blindfold chess exhibition and lecture.

Pampa Chess Club outlined plans to bring Koltanowski here, after a display in Amarillo, last night at 7:30 p.m. in Lovett Memorial Library. Ten players guaranteed to challenge him to rounds of chess.

Voting not to have a general admission charge, members decided to assess a $1.50 entry fee, and to invite the Burger Chess Club over for the match.

Speaking seven languages, Koltanowski has held the championship of Belgium, his native country, for six times. In Scotland he established a world's record for simultaneous blindfolded chess, playing 34 games, winning 24, and drawing 10.

A time and place for the matches will be set at a later date.

The club voted to change the regular meeting room to the Lovett Memorial Library auditorium. Fifteen players attended last night's meeting.

Didn't Think of Money

"I didn't think about the money. If I had thought about it, I probably wouldn't have gone for 64,

But I knew from the first that I was going to go.

"The Corps took me through it."

The 28-year-old career officer ("I'd like to stay in the Marines until they throw me out") doubted the stake of $32,000 he had won the previous week by dishing up the correct answer to a seven-part question in his chosen category, food and cooking.

Question on Royal Meal

The query dealt with a meal served on March 21, 1939, at Buckingham Palace to French President Albert Lebrun and his wife by King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

McCutchen, who twice flunked his Boy Scout cooking test, was asked to describe:

Consomme quenelle (a clear soup with dumplings or meat balls), filet de truite saumonée (a slice of sea trout), sauce maitaise (hollandaise sauce with blood-orange juice and rind), petits pois a la française (cooked peas with onion, butter and sugar), corbeille (a basket of fruit), chateau quinquain (a French sweet white wine) and madeira serial (white, dry wine).

It's a long, long way to El Paso. In fact, it's so far that very few Pampans will be able to go down and "root" for the Harvesters at Friday night's game.

But that is no sign we won't all be listening with both ears to every play. It's no sign that we aren't 100 per cent Harvesters fans either. Everyone has a chance to prove how loyal they are tomorrow morning at the big send off pep rally.

The rally will be held behind the school building before eight o'clock. Coach Lochett wants to leave at eight sharp and urges everyone to get there early enough to have a good rally before they have to leave.

All PHSers are extra specially urged to be there, says Carol Henry, head cheerleader, and all Pampans who want the Harvesters to win are invited. So be there, ya'll. Let's show the Harvesters that "we're with you, boys" all the way.

Congratulations to Sheila Chisholm upon being elected secretary of Student Council, and to Joanie Robertson, the new chaplain. Both girls have been outstanding in SC work all through high school. Sheila also serves as secretary of the Senior Class.

They were both elected by acclamation at yesterday's SC meeting.

Congratulations are also in order for six other people, the new cheerleaders. They were elected after a shopping try-out assembly Thursday: John Jones, a veteran "hollerer" will be senior boy pleader. Cynthia Cantrell, after a close runoff with Charlotte Runyon, was picked as senior girl. Nancy Moore, also a vet, and Raul Rameriz will represent the Junior Class. Another close race was between Pat Gorman and Marcia Rogers. Pat won out and will be sophomore cheer leader along with Don Pendergrass.

Carol Henry was elected last spring to lead the group as head cheerleader.

With such a peppy bunch to lead us, we should really have a good cheering section this year.

"Course the Senior Class is always a very proud bunch, but last week they were really popping with pride. And for a good reason—senior rings arrived and were distributed.

As always, in PHS, the rings are gold with red sets and a miniature of the school building engraved on them. A few were especially patriotic and ordered green sets so they would have green and gold rings. Several were ordered without sets, these rings have a harvest hand engraved on them.

Seniors were walking around holding one hand out in front of them so everyone would see their new rings.

The rings are mighty pretty and they represent twelve years of school work. Their owners have every right to be proud of them.

If anyone is mourning over losing a 1955 gold miniature Reaper football on a chain, weep no more. The football, along with a ring on the same chain, was found in front of the Zeato Drive In. Right now they are in the high school lost and found. If it is yours, you can go by and claim it.

It is terribly inspiring to hear a hush fall over more than one hundred jabbering teens and the voice of a student speak an invocation over the PA every day at lunch. This idea was started last week and so far has been really sensational. The idea of a morning devotional is now being talked up among students.

Student Council deserves a big pat on the back for such a wild, wonderful Howdy Week. From all remarks everyone enjoyed the week and its activities to the very hilt.

One of the biggest items of the week was the performance of Curley Wiley and his band at the assembly and party. To make their music even better, PHS senior Joanie Robertson sang with the band several times.

Leatrice Urbanczyk and Carol Wilson tied for Most Typical Cowgirl and Darrell Raines "loped" off Most Typical Cowboy honors.

Philo Grombion had more hair on his face than anyone else and was awarded the prize for the longest beard. Philo's prize-winning whiskers were really in the form of side burns, but that was the closest anyone could get to a beard.

Annual and paper subscriptions are for sale NOW. Both of them will cost students only five dollars if ordered at the same time. And if you don't want to be one of those squares without an annual in May, get down there and subscribe NOW.

Blessed are they who go in circles, for they shall be known as wheels. (Or maybe they are just "screwy.")

Don't forget to have Mom wake you a little earlier in the morning so you will have plenty of time to get to school by a quarter of eight for the big pep rally. See you there!

Women's Clothes Buying Habits See Big Changeover

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK—UP—The woman standing next to you at the $6 hat bar may have a clothes budget that would pay off your house mortgage.

The youngish matron who races into the sports shop to buy a skirt she can wear out of the store may be one of the "idle rich" who used to have everything made to order.

Our shopping habits have changed. We expect more value for our money, and we get it. The results is that women with modest amounts to spend on clothes pick out designs, or copies of designs, created by names once restricted to a few wealthy customers.

Stores that once set aside entire floors for women who had the time and money to select clothes from models and then have them made now are frankly shrinking these custom departments and giving the space to clothes for working girls and average housewives.

"American buying simply is turning away from custom-made clothes," Andrew Goodman, president of one of the exclusive Fifth Ave. stores, Bergdorf Goodman, said.

"We sold fewer units in our custom shop—that means suits, coats and dresses—last year than we did in the peak depression year. In those days a woman could have a dress custom made by us for $195. Now the same dress costs $495."

Other living costs have doubled and tripled since the depression years and yet buying has increased, but Goodman said that the extra buying has turned to ready-made clothes. His store just moved the custom department into a smaller section and turned an entire floor over to a new department where the average suit sells for around $70.

"The way we live is partly responsible," Goodman continued. "Women are in too much of a hurry to have seven or eight fittings for a dress. And the new generation of shoppers is being brought up on beautiful clothes bought ready made—they won't take their mother's places in custom shops."

Goodman admitted that his store keeps the custom-designed clothes for prestige—not because there are enough customers to make it profitable.

Not a Blue Jean Set
"And don't get the idea that this new shopper we're catering to is the blue jean set," he said. "We want to attract young women who like to dress well on a limited income, whether it is for the office or for suburban living or for a television career."

That's the attitude in a store which regularly records the average price its women customers pay for various things and comes up with such figures as $45 spent for the average negligee and $1,637 for the average fur coat.

Designers who used to make $60 hats and $600 afternoon dresses tell the same story. They'll still make the specially-fitted designs at those prices—but their major business is now designing $10 hats and $100 dresses.

Miss Hayworth now is in New York and will take a ship to France immediately with Yasmin and Rebecca, the latter a daughter by Orson Wells.

Crum said there was a reason for asking withdrawal of the writ. "It boils down to this," he said. "What Rita wants is the right to call the French cops in case something goes wrong."

While Crum was giving his press interview, Dick Haymes, current estranged husband of the red-haired actress, telephoned from Hollywood. He informed Crum that he was still trying to win Miss Hayworth back and Crum said that Haymes was telephoning her daily and sending flowers.

When asked what all this meant Crum said: "No divorce is contemplated."

Rita To Fight Against Aly Seeing Yasmin

RENO—UP—Rita Hayworth, through her attorney Harley Crum, announced Tuesday she would fight a writ filed by former husband Aly Khan, asking that she produce their daughter, Yasmin, for a six weeks' visitation in Europe.

Crum said that he would ask District Court Judge A. J. Mastelli, either late Tuesday or Wednesday, to order withdrawn a writ filed by Aly Khan asking custody of Yasmin for six weeks, regardless of whether the French courts recognized the validity of the Reno divorce of the couple.

However, Miss Hayworth has indicated she will let Yasmin go to her father for six weeks when, and if, the French courts recognize the divorce. The court goes into session Sept. 15, Crum said.

Miss Hayworth now is in New York and will take a ship to France immediately with Yasmin and Rebecca, the latter a daughter by Orson Wells.

Crum said there was a reason for asking withdrawal of the writ. "It boils down to this," he said. "What Rita wants is the right to call the French cops in case something goes wrong."

While Crum was giving his press interview, Dick Haymes, current estranged husband of the red-haired actress, telephoned from Hollywood. He informed Crum that he was still trying to win Miss Hayworth back and Crum said that Haymes was telephoning her daily and sending flowers.

When asked what all this meant Crum said: "No divorce is contemplated."

France's Future As Colonial Power May Lie In Morocco

By CHARLES M. McCANN

United Press Foreign Analyst
France's whole future as a great colonial power may lie in Morocco. It has all but lost out in Indo-China, it must hold its North African possessions—Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia—or face the loss of its position as a world power. Morocco is the key to all three.

The success or failure of Premier Edgar Faure's present desperate attempt to work out a complicated solution of the Morocco crisis is now being determined. Faure may well fail if he fails. French premiers are expendable. But if he fails it will be up to his successor, or one of his successors, to try to hold Morocco and its sister areas by force of arms or by political persuasion.

Fertile Land
Morocco is a country of fertile orchards, or plains and rugged mountains of Arabs and Berber tribesmen—and of about 600,000 French colonists.

It extends from the Atlantic Ocean to the burning sands of the Sahara Desert. France's stake in its 158,000 square miles is enormous.

It is almost forgotten now that Moroccan resistance to foreign rule nearly caused the premature outbreak of World War I, and that did lead indirectly to the overthrow of King Alfonso XIII of Spain.

Morocco's history goes back more than 1,000 years before Christ, when its coast was dotted by Phoenician villages. Next came the Cathagenians.

Augustus Caesar made it the Roman province of Mauretania. Morocco's status as an Arab country dates back to 672 when the Arabians started invading it from the east.

Out of this grew the Moorish empire which extended across North Africa to the Egyptian frontier.

The Arabs were so powerful then that they managed to invade Spain and establish themselves in it. Later their piratical sea rovers ranged as far as the English coast.

Morocco's present status dates from the turn of the century when France, Britain and Germany became interested in it. France won out.

But there was rebellion, one of many, against France in 1911. Germany took advantage of it to send its gunboat panther to Agadir, and loyally with the idea of intervention, German Foreign Minister Alfred Von Kiderlin-Waschler was ready to go to war. Kaiser Wilhelm II and Chancellor Theobald Von Bethmann-Hollweg opposed him. David Lloyd George settled the French premier's dispute with Britain would go to war beside France is necessary.

Then, after World War I, came the great revolt of Abdel Krim in Spanish Morocco. The Spanish army was routed, Spain and France together defeated Abdel Krim. But the revolt was the beginning of the end for King Alfonso.

Hereford Bulls Spotlight Fair

TOPEKA, Kan.—UP—A pair of Hereford bulls vied for attention Tuesday at the 75th Kansas Free Fair.

One, a pedigreed Texas animal known as W. B. Royal Mixer 249, did lead indirectly to the overthrow of King Alfonso XIII of Spain.

This bull also took top honors in his class at the Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois and Iowa state fairs this season.

A Kansas bull, shown by John M. Lew's and Sons of Larned, was judged reserve champion Hereford. Among the diamond jubilee fair visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Campbell of Port Isabel, Tex., a couple who sloughed through mud in the midway's dust, observing their golden wedding anniversary.

The Campbell's are visiting the and establish themselves in it. Later their piratical sea rovers ranged as far as the English coast.

The Campbell's of Topela—their daughter-in-law and three grandchildren.

Brainwashing Course Praised

EL PASO, Tex.—UP—Two graduates of an Air Force "brainwashing" course in Nevada praised it as being "definitely helpful" as to what they can expect if they ever become war prisoners of the Communists.

Two lieutenants now stationed at Bessie Air Force Base in El Paso said they found "nothing harmful" in the course, physically, or mentally.

They are Thomas H. Montgomery of Baton Rouge, La., and Donald W. Newton of Keanebunk, Mo.

Captain Praised It
The survival school conducted by the Air Force at Stead Air Force Base in Nevada also drew praise of Capt. Arthur W. Kidder, Jr., of Aspen, Colo. He was an instructor at the base from March, 1950, to June, 1953, and now is stationed at Biggs.

Kidder said he had never heard of a former prisoner of war who believed the training is rugged enough.

Montgomery said the course of survival and "brainwashing" was hard work, but found it of "great potential benefit."

Crewmen Watch
The two lieutenants were graduated from the school Aug. 17. Montgomery has six years of service while Newton has had seven.

The two officers said that three members from each airplane crew of 13 were questioned in "brainwashing" sessions at the school as the remainder of the crew watched.

After the session, the entire crew took part in a critique of the questioning.

Sen Asks For Farm Subsidies
WICHITA, Kan.—UP—U.S. Sen. Andrew Schoeppl, (D-Kan.) came out Monday for direct government subsidies to farmers who improve their idle land through conservation practices.

Schoeppl advocated payments between $5 and $7 an acre. He said such payments "would help solve the farm problem."

The Kansan, who represents the largest wheat growing constituency in America, also proposed a higher government loan value on premium grade wheat.

Schoeppl said congressional hearings during October and November would be held throughout the farm areas of the country. "We hope to get an answer from the farmers themselves on some of our problems," he said.

Jackie Gleason's TV Show May Make Jump To Films

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK — Jackie Gleason, a performer ordinarily un-concerned with filmed TV, may hit the kineoscope where it hurts most this season. The location: Pow! Right in the kisser.

Gleason makes the big jump to film this Oct. 1 when his half-hour show, "The Honeymooners," bows in. This filmed bit, however, will be unlike any other you've ever seen on your home screen — it's being shot with a revolutionary new process called electronic.

Until electronic came along, it was possible to re-stage a TV show only through two processes. Open of these, movie film, is expensive, time-consuming and lacking in the excitement of live TV. The other, the kineoscope, a process in which a live TV show is filmed off a sensitized TV screen, usually is pretty dreary in quality.

Electronic, developed by the Allen B. Dumont Laboratories, has the TV and the movie industry buzzing. What electronic does is combine the techniques of live TV with film.

Briefly, an ordinary television camera and a film camera, mounted on the same base, operate with a common lens system. The system is so designed that the light passing through the lens is split into two parts — part goes to the film, part to the pickup tube of the TV camera.

Now for the first time the director of a show can see what the film camera is seeing.

Right now, Gleason is shooting his half-hour shows in the unheard of time of 37 to 40 minutes. The only breaks necessary are for changes of sets or a re-loading of the movie camera.

This contrasts with the filming of a movie, where an hour may be wasted in setting chalk marks on floors, using tape measures, laying down dolly tracks for the camera and making changes in the lighting.

Even more important, the new process has enabled Gleason to shoot his show before a live audience in New York, thus dispensing with the fake dubbed-in laughter of most filmed shows. The applause and giggles of Gleason's 1,200-person audience are being recorded, while the show is filmed.

As Gleason himself has put it, "All the laughs will be there, even the fluffs, just as if the program went to the air live. With it, we're getting what we're after — a live show on film."

ExCommission Head Dies

AUSTIN — UP — A. E. Wood, former state senator who served as the first chairman of the Game, Fish and oyster Commission, died Tuesday. He was 69.

Wood died in his sleep at his home in Austin.

Widely known for his interest in game conservation, Wood was influential in passage of legislation creating the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, now the Game and Fish Commission.

He served as a member of the Senate for eight years after being elected in 1920. He was chairman of the important Senate Finance committee for four years, and served as president pro tempore of the Senate in 1927.

Wood was born in Shelly county Dec. 14, 1885. He studied law at Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., and was admitted to the bar in 1909, setting up practice in Ballinger and later Granger, before coming to Austin.

Survivors include his widow, a brother, District Judge D. B. Wood of Georgetown; and three sisters, Mrs. Cynthia Murray of Georgetown, Mrs. Virginia Sutherland of Houston, and Mrs. W. A. Bridwell of Ballinger.

Funeral services were scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in Austin.

Victory Over Gout Is Seen

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK — UP — This seems to be the year of victory over gout. Medical scientists can scarcely believe it, since gout has been such a stubbornly unyielding foe. But the signs of victory are accumulating and now the world-famous medical journal, The Lancet, has given the victory a guarded recognition.

The recognition was limited to quoting editorially the titles of the two newest victory reports — "Complete Relief of Gout" and "Gout — Now Amenable to Control," and to noting that American and British scientists are "controlling" gout with the same success with the same means. "Consistency" and "repeatability" are hallmarks which impress scientists.

In the same issue, The Lancet published the victory report entitled "Complete Relief of Gout," it was prepared by Dr. F. G. W. Marson, a renowned British specialist in the disease. From the many cases he has under treatment, he presented seven in which gout was chronic and in its most severe and crippling form — gouty arthritis.

Science does not yet know precisely what causes gout. In its normal chemical functioning, the body manufactures a white, odorless, tasteless, and all but insoluble chemical — uric acid. In the normal body most of it is excreted although traces of it can be found in most blood. In the gouty person, a salt of uric acid, urate, is deposited in the tissues and the level of uric acid in the blood is high. No one can explain fully how it works, but Dr. Marson said: "After five years' experience with the continuous drug treatment of gout I am convinced that acute gout ceases to occur when the serum uric-acid level is controlled, but this control is not usually achieved until treatment has been continued for several months."

The control is achieved with one or another member of the drug group called the salicylates. Aspirin is one. But Marson and other specialists use mainly sodium salicylate. They use it in comparatively massive doses. Sometimes there are unpleasant side effects, especially as the treatment time lengths. But these side effects usually pass or they, too, can be controlled.

JCs Hear Rev. Hughes

Rev. Richard Hughes presented a talk on his travels to Europe and the Near East before the Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday noon.

Taking a study tour, Rev. Hughes covered 10 countries in Europe, the Middle East, and the Holy Lands. England's recovery from the blitz is almost complete, he pointed out, stressing that there is no indication of change in the present program of nationalization.

In France, Rev. Hughes toured Paris and Versailles, observing that the nation has built up an economy to a degree of prosperity that is now dangerous to the communists.

Economic, political, and social changes in Italy, Turkey and Egypt were related.

Announcements were made by Bob Carmichael, president, regarding the promotional advertising for Oil Progress Week, a current Jay-Cee project to continue this week.

A Region-1 workshop will be conducted in Berger on Thursday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. for the discussion of Jay-Cee projects.

Pampa Man To TEC Meeting

Bill Ragsdale, manager of the Pampa office of the Texas Employment Commission, is attending a manager's state-wide meeting in San Angelo this week to study the new amendment of the Texas unemployment compensation bill.

The maximum benefit has been raised from $20 to $28 a week, and other liberal benefits will be in effect. A customary waiting period of seven days to apply for compensation has been eliminated by the new law. Details may be obtained from the local office, upon Ragsdale's return next Friday.

Recent job openings, according to Lee Roy Harris, include two positions for high school graduates (ages 21-30). Men are needed for a seismograph crew, able to pass the company physical, and willing to travel. Truck drivers are also needed, with the same qualifications, for an oil-well servicing company. Both men and women and couples are in demand for feed shockers.

Industrial Survey Delay Is Seen

The industrial survey for the city of Pampa will not be delivered until Oct. 1, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, chamber of commerce manager.

Wedgeworth said this morning he had been advised by Bert C. Blanton, commercial engineer of Dallas who is making the survey, that the original delivery date, Sept. 15, could not be met.

Several Pampa business and industrial firms joined the chamber of commerce in financing the survey, the first since 1945.

Two Break-ins Reported Here

Two break-ins were reported yesterday to Police, one resulting in the theft of a small amount of cash, and the other in the loss of personal belongings, according to Chief of Police Jim Conner.

The first break-in was reported at 9 a.m. this morning from a couple who left their house yesterday about 5 p.m., leaving the rear door unlocked. When they returned about 9:57 p.m., the house had been ransacked, with drawers pulled out and a phonograph and radio placed by the front door. Missing were: one ladies wrist watch, a large pocket case knife, and one dark green Parker pen and pencil set. Evidence indicated that the party was frightened away before the theft was completed.

The second burglary was reported at 9:57 p.m. last night by a local laundry. A latch had been pulled off the rear door and a pay telephone taken from the wall. About $3 in pennies and change was taken from a gum machine and a cash register.

$236,250 Suit Is Filed Here

The suit, styled Walker Parker et al vs Reuben Baggerman et al asks damages as a result of an automobile accident on June 6 on a county road northeast of Groom.

The suit charges that Frances Ann Parker, 2, was killed in the accident and that Mrs. Parker and three-year-old Cathy Parker were injured in a collision of a vehicle driven by Mrs. Parker with a vehicle driven by Reuben Baggerman.

The suit charges Baggerman was negligent.

Truck Kills An Amarillo Man

AMARILLO — UP — Abraham C. Kelly, 58, was struck by a truck and killed Tuesday night when he started to cross U.S. Highway 66 at the outskirts of the city.

Kelly's death was the seventh in traffic this year in Amario and compared with only six for all of last year.

Range Feed Abundant

AUSTIN — UP — Hay and roughage for winter stock feed "will be abundant" over Texas as a whole, the U.S. Department of Agriculture predicted Wednesday.

However, the USDA tempered its forecast with a warning that "in much of South Texas and local areas in the west, hay and roughage for winter feed will be short."

In a range and livestock report based on conditions as of Sept. 1, the USDA said on the east side of Texas and along the upper coast, lush surplus grass is available in most pastures. On the west side of the state, cured grass is generally adequate "except in areas that consistently missed summer showers."

Early fall rains are needed over the entire area, however, to make grass for winter feed before frost, the report added.

All range feed, reported at 76 per cent condition on Sept. 1, was up one point from the 10-year average and unchanged from August.

Cattle were reported at 83 per cent condition, compared with 82 per cent a month earlier and the 10-year Sept. 1 average of 81 per cent.

Sheep at 79 per cent condition were off two points for the month but remained one point above the 10-year average.

RUTH MILLETT

Some husbands seem always to be interested in what their wives are doing. And other husbands hardly seem to know what their wives interests are.

If your husband is in the second group it may be that you haven't done a very good job of selling him on the idea that the things you are doing are interesting or important.

Sure, you've tried talking about your club's campaign to raise funds or your experiences as a den mother for the Cub Scouts. And maybe your talk hasn't met with any interest at all.

But talking about what you are doing isn't enough to get another person interested in your projects and enthusiasms.

Sometimes you have to draw the other person into your plans. You really get him interested in what you are doing.

Suppose instead of just telling your husband about the campaign for raising funds you present him with an unsolved problem and ask his advice?

Then he has to put his mind on what you are doing in order to show you that he can solve a problem that has you licked.

Or suppose instead of just telling your husband about what you are doing with your den of Cub Scouts you ask him to help you with some advance preparations.

Chances are he will not only help but will be making useful suggestions and coming up with new ideas. Then he'll want to know how things worked out.

Any woman who wants her husband to be interested in her activities should find some means of drawing him into her plans and schemes and projects.

"Football" Theme Used For Shower For Mrs. D. Rice

A miscellaneous bridal shower was presented recently for Mrs. Lawrence Rice, the former Mariene Kolb, in the home of Mrs. J. Wade Duncan, 1231 Mary Ellen. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Duncan were Meses Jewel Shakelford, Herman Jones, Lewis Tarpley, C. E. Kennedy, Ruhl Samples and Elmer Wilson.

A green and gold "football" theme was carried out in the decorations. The honoree was presented a corsage of gold mums tied with green ribbon, taken from the centerpiece. The hostess gift was an heirloom bedspread. Background piano music was provided by Mrs. Carl Stephenson.

The serving table was covered with a green lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of gold mums tied with green ribbon, flanked by gold tapers in silver holders.

Pampa News Women's Editor

THE WORKINGS OF A NEWSPAPER, its deadlines, arranging for pictures and what information is needed for different types of news stories are often a complete mystery to the average person. Because of this, I have prepared information sheets for the women's clubs reporters, which, by the way, can be picked up in The News office. A great deal of this information also applies for showers, receptions, and private parties. So, I decided to reprint sections of it in my column today and to add a few things to it.

FOR SHOWERS, and other types of private parties, it is most important that you get the information to me when I ask for it. I plan on the picture and/or the story for a certain day and I must have the information.

One of the most important factors in news stories of any kind is timeliness. In fact, that is the whole structure upon which a newspaper is built. The stories turned in right after a meeting or party will necessarily get the biggest play. Evening meetings or parties should be reported by 8 a. m. the following morning. Afternoon or morning meetings should be turned in before 5 p. m. that same day.

It might save time if you could write up in advance what you know will happen and you can then add or detract in a short time following a meeting. I have forms for showers, receptions and parties which you can pick up prior to the event or afterward.

Jones, not just "Mrs. Jones." I also need the husband's names of the women, except in the case of a widow or divorcee.

Many of you have been holding your stories for the Sunday paper. Here, again, timeliness will apply. There is also a great demand for space in Sunday's edition for weddings and engagement announcements, which are given the greatest emphasis.

I DO NOT ALWAYS have time to take a story by telephone. You may call when I am rushing to meet a deadline or when I am in the midst of an interview. Sometimes I may not be in the office and you will not be able to reach me. Sometimes Thursdays and Fridays I am unable to take stories over the phone. That is why I request that you bring the story into the office. Yours may be short, taking only 10 minutes over the phone, but multiply that by as few as six calls, and usually there are more, and that is one hour spent in conversation. Stories left in The News office, even in note form, can be typed and edited in a third of the time they can be taken over the phone, retyped and edited.

FOR THE CLUBS:

For meetings featuring a guest speaker, it makes a better story if you can get two or three quotes and a summarization of the points stressed in the speech. When there is no guest speaker, the program is usually the important thing, and I like to know dates of any important coming events or data on special projects. I like to use names, so if there are under 35 persons, there you can add a list of those attending. This also applies to private parties.

Names must be right. Please check the spelling and include the full name, such as Mrs. John

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend
I was wondering if you could give my mother-in-law and me a few ideas on starting a canasta club for mother-in-laws and daughter-in-laws.

We feel that something like this would bring a closer friendship. It would be something to do together.

I know you hear lots of things about mother-in-laws. I for one love mine very much and we like to do things together.

We thought it would be nice to have the mother-in-laws and daughter-in-laws be partners and meet once a week or once every two weeks in the evening. We could take turns having it at one another's homes. Maybe we could even take one day a year and plan an outing for ourselves.

Well, Grace, what do you think? By the way, the women who are interested could get in touch with me through your column.

AND NO SAD SACKS ALLOWED.
Thank you very much.
Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B.
I would suggest that you start your club on a small scale and let it grow gradually so that you can be sure that the members will fit in.

Why not start off with four or six. Invite your closest friends to bring her mother-in-law and have your mother-in-law invite a close friend to bring her daughter-in-law. Perhaps they will have someone else in mind. Invite two new members at a time so that everyone will get to know them well.

By letting your group grow slowly you will find there is greater harmony and you will have members who like the same things.

I am sure that you will have lots of fun with your in-law club. I hope it will continue for many years.

If anyone interested in hearing more of your plans will write me, I'll be delighted to forward you the letters.

FRESH BARTLETT PEARS are just the right companions for fine cheese. Add pumpernickel bread and you have a feast.

COOK'S NOOK

Juicy Bartlett Pears Give Tasty Preserves

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Mellow golden Bartlett pears from the Pacific Northwest are big market news now. Some of our friends in Seattle have sent us special recipes. Also this advice:

When you're preparing to serve fresh Bartletts be sure they're thoroughly ripe — golden yellow in color, and that they respond to a slight finger pressure. If they are not ripe when you buy them, keep them wrapped, or in a paper bag at about 70 degrees until thoroughly ripe.

Pear Amber (Makes 8 jars)
Four cups diced Bartlett pears (about 8), 1 large orange, 1 9-ounce can crushed pineapple, plus juice, 1-4 cup sliced maraschino cherries, 5 cups sugar, 1 package powdered pectin (3 1/2 ounce). Prepare glasses or 1/2 pint jars.

by washing, scalding and draining. Wash lids and drop into scalding water. Measure sugar into dry dish to be used later. Prepare fruits: Wash and peel pears; remove cores. Cut into small pieces. Wash orange; dice or put through food chopper, using whole orange. Add sliced cherries, crushed pineapple and juice.

Measure prepared fruits into large preserving kettle. (Total amount of fruit will be 6 cups). Add powdered pectin and stir well. Place over highest heat and bring to boil, stirring constantly. Now add measured sugar and mix well. Continue stirring and bring to a full-rolling boil (one which cannot be stirred down). Boil exactly 4 minutes. Remove from heat; let boil subside. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and to prevent floating fruit. Pour into prepared glasses. Seal.

Miss Americas Don't Have To Be So Pretty Anymore

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON — UP — A pretty face or a perfect figure won't make a girl a Miss America these days.

This is showing no disrespect to Miss Americas which are picked at Atlantic City. Including the new Miss A, Sharon Kay Ritchie of Denver — Miss Colorado. She has a lovely face, also a pretty nice figure. But it was talent that got her that crown.

Sharon also had poise, knew how to handle herself down the ramp and how to walk and talk. But most of all with the fussy judges it was the talent which won her the first prize.

Lee Ann Meriwether, last year's Miss America, also went to the top on talent. She is now trying to break in as a TV actress. She may go a long way in her field. She also could one day be forgotten. Who knows?

Babe Shopp, of Minnesota who won a decade ago, decided on a career as a mother. Now she's nursing a three-weeks old baby.

That's the way it goes. The point is that emphasis is on the so-called beauty contests is

Reds To Ease Their Censors

MOSCOW — UP — Smiling Russian leaders told five visiting U.S. senators Monday that the Soviet Union had made a start on relaxing censorship.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he brought up the subject of censorship during a two-hour chat in the Kremlin with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev. The other senators present were: J. Allen Frear (D-Del.), George W. Malone (R-Nev.), Henry C. Dworshak (R-Idaho), and Milton E. Young (R-N.D.). Mrs. Malone also was present at the meeting.

Kefauver said he "pointed out that there were many U. S. press, radio and television men in Moscow, and that some of them had difficulties."

He said Khrushchev, who did most of the talking for himself and Bulganin, replied that the Soviets had been working on relaxation of censorship; "but you realize everything can't be done overnight."

Crop Production Rate Varies

AUSTIN — UP — Anticipated crop production in Texas declined during the last month in dryland areas but was unchanged to improved in other regions, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported Tuesday.

In a general crop report covering conditions as of Sept. 1, the USDA said that while rainfall during August was "about normal," distribution did not fit crop needs. Above normal amounts of rain were general over the eastern and southeastern counties where crops were mature and corn, cotton, hay and rice harvest was in full swing.

In much of the west and northwest where rain was urgently needed for dryland cotton and sorghum crops, far below normal amounts of rain fell. All of South Texas remained dry until the last two days of August when torrential rains doused the Winter Garden area. Since Sept. 1, the Lower Valley and coastal bend have received downpours. However, parts of South Texas remained dry.

Virtually all wheat land in the northwest is prepared for planting — when moisture becomes available.

MAKING A GO OF LIFE

By ROY L. SMITH
Read Matthew 6:6-12

We must examine our own experiences. The search for God involves us in this necessity. When do we have the sense of spiritual security? When is our mind at rest? When are we in a state of spiritual tension? What are the causes of tension? What happens when we defy our conscience? What happens when we pursue those vague, wistful longings to become better persons than we are?

Such experiences, and a thousand others, are common to all men, and constitute the primary material with which we have to deal. They are likewise as real as food, clothing and shelter. To understand their significance is as important as to know something about vitamins, for they are so intimately related to personal peace and power that we are never able to master life until we have organized something to help another by sharing with him his experience.

Or again, it often happens that a group of individuals can induce an exalted experience within all its members when they act or move as a group. That is the reason why we worship together. The group effort to make God hear heightens the experience for every member of the group. Still the experience remains personal, and we must study it ourselves if we are to understand it.

All this means that if any man is to find God he must find him within his own soul, within his own spiritual experience, or he will not find him at all. We will begin searching for him, then, by beginning a search of our own hearts.

It is easy for me to feel thee working within my body, O God, for I can sense it in my pulse. The gifts of mind with which I am blessed could come only from thee. But just as certainly these pure and holy dreams of mine must have come from thee also, Amen.

Think of the most saintly person you know. Does that one have any superior quality you could not have if you were willing to pay the price of a balloon sighted over the central part of the state. And reports that a huge 20-story balloon seen by thousands of Chiswick Base in Colorado were not Force Base in Colorado were not denied.

But Lowry officials did deny a newspaper report that the downed float belonged to them. Maj. Jack Laurie, Lowry public relations officer, said it was true that a number of balloons released from the base had drifted far to the east.

"Not Lowry's Balloon" But, he said, reports that the punctured balloon carried animals proved "it's not Lowry's." He said one of the Lowry balloons carried anything other than instruments. While the mystery of the fourth balloon kept many officials up in the air, another balloon was sent up by the Winzen-firm Monday. And this one came down.

The Air Force recovered the 25-story test balloon after it had risen to the edge of the earth's atmosphere with a cargo of live animals. Officials said "all looked well" when they recovered the balloon, loaded with 40 live mice, three guinea pigs and some living tissue culture 10 miles west of Willmar, Minn.

Three Of Four Balloons Are Claimed

By UNITED PRESS
The great balloon mystery was slightly deflated Tuesday, but it was still puzzling enough to touch off a controversy.

Three of the huge balloons, which appeared out of the blue and then disappeared back into it in the Midwest Sunday, were definitely claimed.

But a fourth floater — shot down near Fowler, Ind., and accompanied to earth by two parachutists — provoked an airy dispute as to its ownership.

The O. C. Winzen research firm of Minneapolis, Minn., claimed a balloon carrying live mice and instruments, which was sent aloft Sunday and landed near Phelps, Wis.

Ohio weather forecasters gave in and said they were the dispatchers of a balloon sighted over the central part of the state.

Neither did she make the kind of money the winners today do either. She got no scholarships. She was just a 16-year-old kid who won a trophy and a few pennies and came back home.

Margaret didn't run out to Hollywood and bust into a producer's office and say "give me a script to read, I'm ready pal."

Doty Lamour didn't quite make the grade on talent in the long ago, but she was smart enough to try herself a sarong, and the salesman just happened to have her size.

But it's a little different these days. There is TV, which lives on talent, where the body and the voice or figures on the banjo don't count so much.

A youngster doesn't have to squeeze into a bathing suit anymore, that's only part of the judging. She also has to have the talent and it helps a lot if she is smart.

Ships Collide In Ship Channel

BAYTOWN, Tex.—UP—A Norwegian freighter, the SS Elg, collided with a tug-pushed barge in the Houston ship channel at 2 a. m. Monday but neither craft was seriously damaged.

The outbound freighter ran aground but was able to back off without assistance and later tied up at Galveston for its crew to check for bow damage.

The skipper of the tug, Felicity Ann, told the Coast Guard that his lead barge collided with the Elg but that no assistance was required by either craft.

Publicity Tricks Tried To Boost Hotels In Las Vegas

(EDITOR'S NOTE — One of the most amazing business phenomena of the decade has been the mushroom growth of Las Vegas, Nev., into the gambling capital of the world. But in recent months there have been reports of faltering business. The United Press, in a two-part series, details the picture in Las Vegas today and its possible future).

By ALINE MOSBY
LAS VEGAS, —UP— Las Vegas, the glittering Monte Carlo of America, has so changed that even Frank Sinatra has climbed aboard a camel to try to lure customers back to one of his dying hotels. This scene occurred at Las Vegas' first "re-tread" opening, when a hotel which opened its doors only last May already had to have a second "premiere."

The Dunes hotel never got off the ground following its first opening six months ago. The Sands hotel was asked to take over the Dunes on a lease of $1,250,000 a year, and last weekend "the Sands married the Dunes," as the ads said.

The flashy premiere — the most colorful and also most weird Las Vegas has seen — is indicative of the change in Las Vegas.

The Dunes is not the only new hotel that has failed to rake in those expected millions at the gaming tables. The seven-story, lush Riviera had to be taken over by a group that formerly ran the successful Flamingo. And that group already has asked the Sands to take the Riviera off its hands.

The Royal Nevada not only has changed owners once, but the new handlers already have tried in vain to lease the hotel to the veteran Desert Inn. The inter-racial Moulin Rouge also had to bring in new capital and has hired veteran showman Gene Mann to hyp up the shows.

The loop-la re-opening of the Dunes marked the first round in a battle to get Las Vegas out of a recession that has hit some of the expensive hotels on the suburban "strip," which is county territory outside the city proper. With Frank Sinatra, one of the owners, as the headliner of the show, the Dunes had a busy casino at its "reopening" for the first time since it was built.

Mom Arraigned In Abortion Case

PHILADELPHIA —UP— Mrs. Gertrude Silver, 49, sobbing almost uncontrollably, was arraigned before a magistrate Monday on conspiracy and accessory charges in the abortion death of her 22-year-old daughter, the bride of a Miami Beach, Fla., policeman.

Mrs. Silver sat in the courtroom dabbling at tear-puffed eyes with a handkerchief while her attorney, Thomas D. McBride, petitioned the magistrate to release the defendant on bail and "let her go home."

McBride said the attractive, wealthy matron was wholly unable to give coherent answers to questions since the death of her 22-year-old daughter, Mrs. Doris Jean Silver Ostreicher, last Aug. 24.

The Pampa Daily News

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Get Ready

Probably now is as good a time as any to get braced for the flood of propaganda that is going to start flowing from all sources of communications about the White House Conference on Education to be held in Washington Nov. 28 to Dec. 1.

If organization has anything to do with the success of such a conference, the one coming up will be a howling success for it is as tightly organized a little deal as you will come across in a month of Sundays.

On every front the National Citizens Commission for Public Schools and the National School Boards Association, both mouthpieces for the National Education Association (NEA), are arranging for "widespread interest" in the coming conference.

Here are some of the deals that have been cooked up by one or more of the agencies carrying the ball for the NEA:

Representatives of 40 State School Board Associations have held regional planning meetings.

In some states, conferences are planned in every community, county or school district.

Leadership training conferences have been held or are planned in many states, assuring not merely more conferences but more propaganda.

Such things, of course, are supposed to be reaching into the grass roots so that when opinions are expressed and resolutions are approved they supposedly will be those coming from the people, themselves, and not the school officials.

In most communities there is no voice at all speaking for free enterprise schools as opposed to government schools. Even spokesmen for parochial schools are timid about speaking out against the great political power of the public school system, now a sacred cow not to be discussed by the layman.

This dissatisfaction is now spreading to people other than those who have children in the parochial schools and the NEA and its agencies are trying to capitalize on the discontent and dissatisfaction.

The net result is that the government school bosses get a still tighter rein on the public — the better to be able to whip them into additional appropriations of tax money and additional control over the lives and thinking of the students.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

Sympathy, perhaps, is the most civilized of all human emotions but it is sometimes hard to evaluate, I think.

Q—I am shocked and disillusioned about my doctor. Recently when my mother was sick and passed away I did not get a word of sympathy although I think he did everything for my mother he could. Are all doctors lacking in human kindness?—Mrs. J. K.

A—I am sorry you did not get the words of sympathy from your mother's doctor which you wanted since this probably would have helped you a great deal. But I cannot admit that doctors are a hard boiled lot. The fact that you say the doctor gave your mother all the care he could is certainly his way of showing sympathy and helpfulness.

It is true, I think, that many doctors do not demonstrate sympathy in the same way that other people do. It should be remembered that the practicing physician spends nearly all his waking moments with what is generally bad news.

Probably no physician could continue in a balanced frame of mind if he were constantly extending sympathy to all who deserve to receive it. I think most doctors are at least as sympathetic with illness and misfortune as others or they would not have chosen medicine as their profession.

In order to preserve their judgment, however, it is necessary for a physician to show his sympathy by deeds rather than words. In fact, too much outward sympathy may interfere with a physician's judgment and therefore, with the value of his treatment. For this reason physicians almost always send members of their families to some colleague rather than trying to care for them themselves in serious illnesses.

Q—What do doctors mean when they say "traumatic injury"?—W. G. M.

A—Trauma, from which the word traumatic is derived, means injury or wound so there is no use in using both terms together.

Q—Is a fistula located near the rectum cancerous and what can be done to cure it? What causes it?—Mrs. G.

A—This is a kind of blind passageway which may be responsible for a good deal of itching and even pain. It is not can-

BETTER JOBS

Talking To Ourselves

One often hears that articles explaining of the rational explanations of the blessings of a free and unhampered market do not go to the right people. The implication is that the party making the statement thoroughly understands a limited government and a free market and is perfectly capable of explaining it.

The late Henry Grady Weaver, who was author of "The Main Spring of Human Progress," had something of interest to say on this contention. His thoughts are reproduced in the magazine "Ideas on Liberty" published by The Foundation for Economic Education, Inc. This is the way Weaver puts it:

"TALKING TO OURSELVES" "Between the great things we cannot do and the small things we will not do, the danger is that we shall do nothing."

"BUT WHAT'S the use of talking to ourselves? What's the point of sending literature on free enterprise to people who are already sold on free enterprise? Is it not true that the real problem is one of reaching the masses—those who really need some sound ideas?"

"So runs the argument whenever some useful enlightened statement is distributed among persons who favor individual freedom within a voluntary society and a free market economy. But when you stop and think about it, isn't the idea of educating the so-called masses a case of putting the cart before the horse?"

"We are too much inclined to attempt the impossible. Little if any thought is given to the one thing that we can effectively accomplish, namely, how to improve ourselves and our own thinking as individuals. The idea that we are not all-wise seldom seems to occur to us."

"It is true, of course, that many of us are wise in our own narrow and highly specialized fields. But it does not necessarily follow that we are wise in the broad aspects of the economic system in which we practice our professions and operate our enterprises."

"When you come right down to it, the very idea of 'educating the masses' is inconsistent with the ideals of individual freedom to which we give lip service. Just who are 'the masses'? Can the term be more appropriately applied to others than to ourselves?"

"We are all individuals differing in qualities and abilities, but we all share a basic human nature capable of self-development. If this is not true, then the ideal of personal freedom is a fanciful myth. It is thoroughly attainable in a practical way. And it will be more readily attainable if we quit regarding those we wish to convert as either masses or classes, and recognize the individual person as the fountainhead of good, of energy, of all that is creative."

"FREE COMPETITIVE enterprise is something we have loudly acclaimed. We have praised it, however, not so much because we have understood it, or even because we have wanted to practice it, but more because it has seemed to be the opposite of dreaded socialism. But many of us who are not socialists unwittingly play into the hands of the socialists."

"Only now and then, among all of us in America, do we find a skilled advocate of free competitive enterprise. Most of us are left speechless in a debate with a socialist, a radical labor leader or any other ardent collectivist. We sputter, but we do not complain. We lose our arguments, and in the process we provide the opposition with a sounding board."

"We cannot speak our subject well. Nor do we practice it any too well. And to be honest about it, we ourselves have inspired about as many anti-enterprise institutions as have our political opponents."

"Not only is confession justified and good for our souls, but the meekness that it inspires will make us more willing to learn. For we can learn free competitive enterprise just as we have learned our individual trades and professions. We can master the principles of freedom better than our opponents have learned the jargon of their systems, for the very simple reason that the principles of freedom are superior to anything that the collectivists are able to offer."

"ONE UNDERSTANDING man summed it up this way: 'I'm not smart enough to run the personal affairs of the great masses of people. I've got enough to do just trying to improve myself as an individual citizen.'"

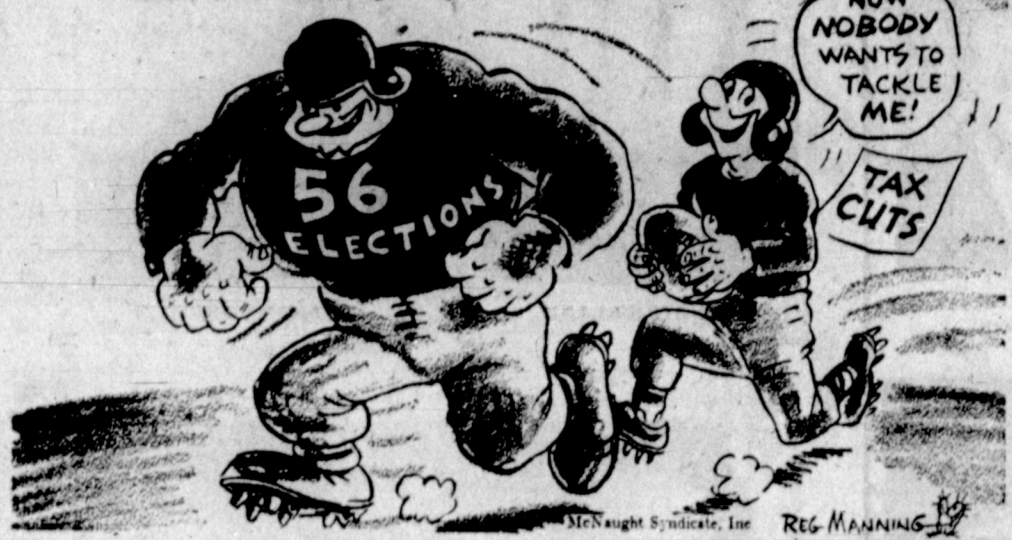

"If I work hard enough and long enough at that one job, then the time may come when two or three, or four or five, or maybe even eight or ten persons may voluntarily seek my counsel. Then and only then can it be truly said that I have earned a worthwhile influence."

erous and is unlikely to become so. Some fistulas are considered to be of tuberculous origin. The treatment consists in surgical removal which may have to be rather extensive. The symptoms will not disappear unless the lining membrane is removed.

Sharp Controversy Splits Demos Over Labor Issues

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A sharp controversy over the Democrats' 1956 political strategy has broken out, quietly but violently, among the leaders of that Party and allied labor unions. It may cause a serious split between the Stevenson and Truman factions, and between the Walter Reuther (CIO) and George Meany (AFL) forces.

Truman, and Reuther, CIO president, favor a savage attack upon the Eisenhower Administrations' general labor policies. They want to climax the AFL-CIO merger in December by allying the new organization even more closely with the Democratic Party. It would mark a dramatic but slowly developing departure from organized labor's historic bipartisanship—historic, that is, until the advent of F.D.R. and Truman.

These two fighting figures—Truman and Reuther—insist that the merged labor group of 15,000,000 throw its power, openly and actively, on the side of the Democrats. They would—in fact, they have already—branded the GOP as the conscious agency of wealth and Wall Street and "greedy corporations."

Under their scheme, future elections would be nothing less than fierce class struggles. Stevenson and Meany deplore these tactics. The 1952 nominee believes that it would be bad politics. Meany, who will head the united labor group, feels that it would injure the workingmen's prospects for future gains.

Stevenson was driven reluctantly into an extreme, anti-labor position by Truman and Reuther three years ago. In his opening Labor Day address, he refused to subscribe to their view that the Taft-Hartley Act was a "slave labor law," although he urged repeal of certain provisions.

His listeners at Detroit greeted his remarks with hostile silence. Subsequently, Truman and Reuther let him know that he would lose the labor and urban vote unless he followed and swallowed their line. He did eventually. But he carried no great industrial state, and his shift hurt him in the South.

Seeking to avoid another such somersault many Democratic leaders hope to eliminate Truman from a prominent campaign role before it is too late. Otherwise, he may again force their 1956 nominee to run as a professional, Reuther type of zealot, and lose conservative support.

Meany has revealed his clear recognition of a possible reaction against labor organization dedicated to using its power for partisan, political purposes. He has promised that the 15,000,000 membership will not try to "horsewhip" the American people.

He wants to elect more sympathetic legislators to Congress and to State Legislatures to repeal Taft-Hartley, and to defeat right-to-work laws, which are now operative in 17 states. He knows that he cannot achieve either goal without Republican votes.

In any clash with Reuther, Meany will have the backing of two powerful labor spokesmen—John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, and David J. McDonald, president of the steel workers' (CIO) union. Both regard Reuther as "too flighty." Both are relatively conservative, and quite satisfied with the wage, pension and welfare advances they have made since like took office.

John L. recalls that it was Truman who set in motion the judicial machinery which subjected him to a $2,000,000 fine. McDonald remembers that Truman tried to seize the steel mills, which would have placed his members under bureaucratic control, at least temporarily.

Both take a more objective and realistic view of politics—and economics. With weekly wages 56 higher than they were three years ago, they share Stevenson-Meany doubts that 63,000,000 workers, the organized and the unorganized, make likely recruits for the proposed Truman-Reuther "give 'em hell" brigade.

...with JAMES C. INOBRETSEN, President, Spiritual Mobilization

From Paterson, N. J., via The New York Times, comes this news story:

"For the last few weeks the station wagon used by the Passaic County Sheriff's office to transport prisoners has been stalled."

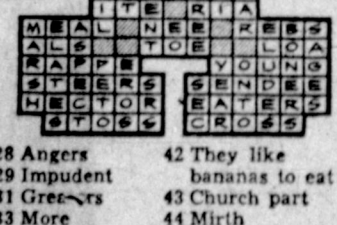

"Mechanics... found in the (gasoline) tank some marbles, candy mints, soap, paper, etc. of wool slones, scraps of sheet metal, thumb tacks and sugar."

"... Sheriff Norman E. Tattersall pointed out that prisoners in the county jail were assigned to wash the car. He sent out for a gasoline cap with a lock on it."

While our government hasn't yet completely stalled in its primary job of protecting the lives and property of its citizens, there have been times when it has spluttered and coughed pretty ominously.

I wonder if the addition to its basic task, of such foreign substances as social security, farm crop price support, subsidized housing, and the promotion of labor union monopoly hasn't had something to do with its erratic performance and expensive upkeep during the past two decades.

Maybe it's time to start looking for a constitutional cap with a lock on it.

Italy Gives Medals, Awards Out In Wholesale Lots

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ROME — There are about fifty million people in Italy. About two million hold degrees of various orders of distinction ranging from Cavalier or Knight up to the old Order of the Crown, which is now legally repudiated but still in considerable envious and/or spiteful respect by most of those who don't possess it.

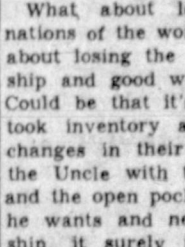

It takes faith, hope and almost muscular effort of the will to venerate the holder of a bauble who has been condemned as a traitor and let to die in dishonor as Marshal Pétain was. He held every conceivable brass checks of recognition hastily to the virtuous and the paltry. These included thousands of Americans, mostly in the latter bracket.

These are typical of the rubbish which we award in imitation of European custom. Columbia University hung one each on two executives of the New York Times that winter without sensible reason in either case. The only one to reject such a washer was Sinclair Lewis, who stopped off at Yale one time and made a scene, but he was drunk, as he often was.

The British output probably exceeds all the rest together. They went nuts toward the close of the first war and created gritty little degrees of "dame" and "member" of third and fourth-rate orders to honor postal clerks, keepers of the royal swans and fawns and tenders of the weirs. The Christmas and birthday lists of these "honors" have become so vast that Britain's army of such elite probably rivals, even exceeds, Italy's by now.

They laughed at Yanks landing in Britain wearing the ribbon of service in the American theater. But they put up posters for rout of naked bowmen by Kipling's well-armed heroes. And their own Lord Mountbatten showed up in a picture the other day wearing eight full rows of ribbons. From his Adam's apple down to his elbow. To be sure, Mountbatten was a dashing fellow, but they finally had to find a place for him far, far from the decisive events of the war.

Service Is Big Reason For Growing Air Travel

By HENRY MCLEMORE

Private Opinions Made Public: I am weary unto death of reading articles with such titles as "How the U. S. Is Losing South America," "Do the French Really Like Us?" "Is England Drifting Away From America?" and "India Weighs the U. S. A. and Finds It Wanting." ...

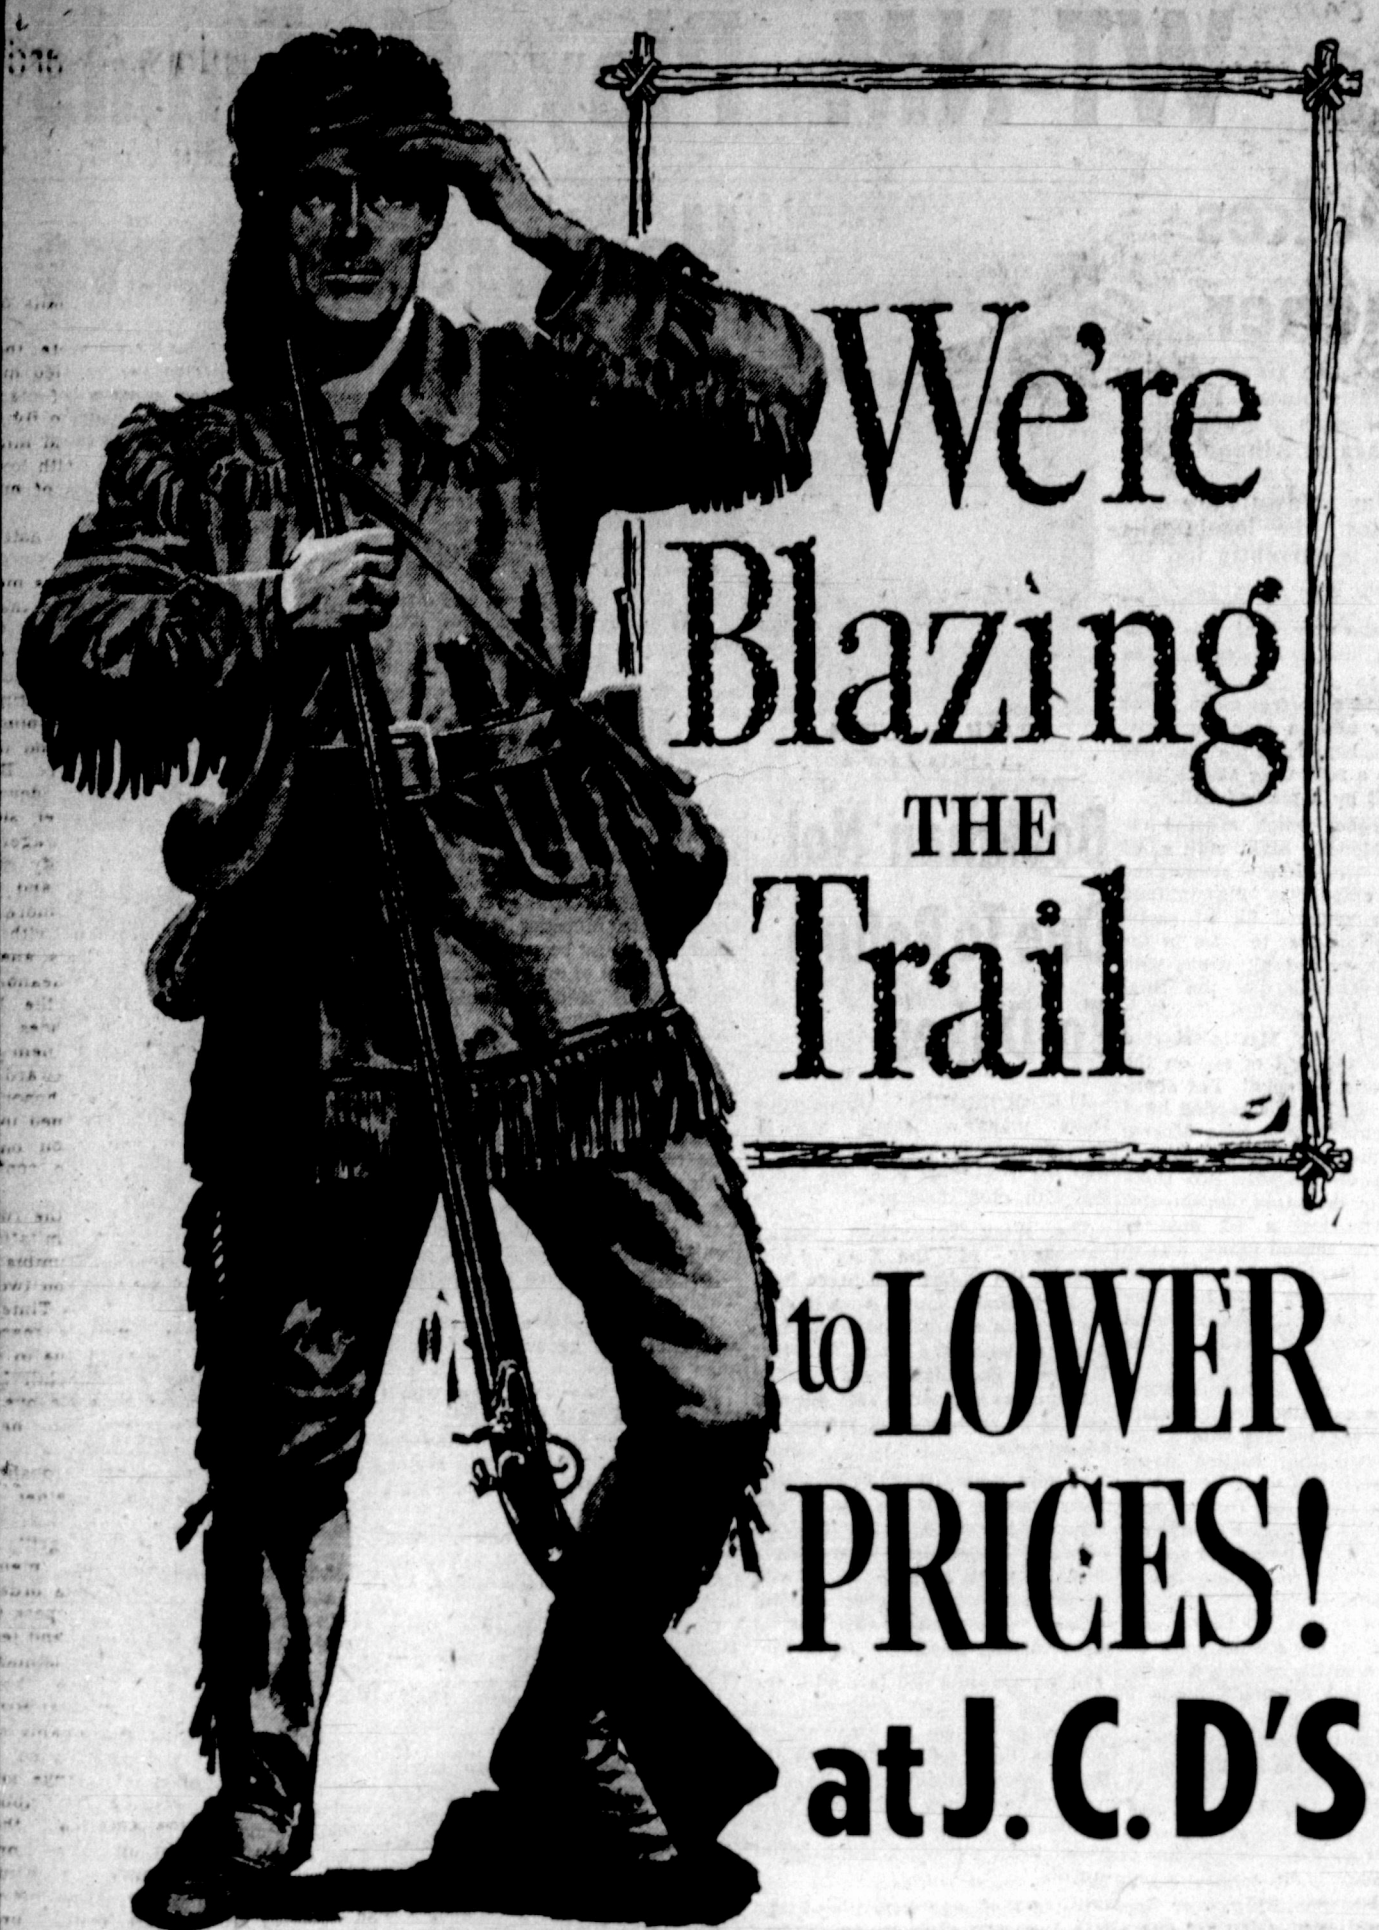

What about letting the other nations of the world fret and fume about losing the U. S. A.'s friendship and good will for a change? Could be that it's high time they took inventory and made a few changes in their attitude toward the Uncle with the high silk hat and the open pockets. As much as he wants and needs their friendship, it surely isn't a one-sided affair.

Everybody worries about the sickening traffic toll in this country, and millions of dollars are spent to reduce it, but it is going to keep getting worse and worse until automobile speeds are restricted to about fifty miles an hour. If no passenger car ever goes over 50, highway deaths would be cut by three-fourths. We all know speed kills, but we don't do anything about it except put up signs. On my recent trip to the Northwest I couldn't help wondering, as hours it took was not the most impressive part of the trip. The service was. Stewardesses waited on passengers hand and foot, and didn't wait until a buzzer summoned them. The captain called attention to all points of interest over the intercom. And there was champagne and food for the asking, all

Pollet, Halter Lead Oilers Into WT-NM Playoff Finals

G-Sox Nip Ponies: Lead Series By 3-2

By UNITED PRESS
Amarillo was one game away Wednesday from winning the right to meet the Pampa Oilers in the final West Texas-New Mexico League playoffs.

Pampa defeated Albuquerque 9 to 2 Tuesday night to take its first-round series, four games to two. Amarillo pulled ahead, three games to two over Plainview Tuesday night with an 8-5 victory.

Should Amarillo defeat Plainview Wednesday night, the Gold Sox would play the Oilers in the finals starting Thursday night. The Oilers rapped three Albuquerque pitchers for 13 hits Tuesday night, including two doubles and four triples, and Paul Halter's 390-foot home run.

Amarillo scored four runs in a two-out, ninth inning rally to down Plainview. The teams move back to Amarillo Wednesday night to complete the semifinal series. Amarillo is expected to start Rudy Arias Wednesday night and Plainview is expected to counter with another southpaw, Willie Neal.

Ivy Palmer, the league's leading hitter over the regular season, homered for Plainview Tuesday night. Winning pitcher was Marshall Bridges. Bob Swanson was charged with the Plainview loss.

Oilers Rap Dukes 9-2, For Clincher

The Oilers fought their way into the finals of the West Texas-New Mexico League Shaughnessy Playoffs for the second straight year last night with a resounding 9-2 victory over the Albuquerque Dukes at Albuquerque, winning the series four games to two.

The Seitzman are back home today to await the outcome of the Amarillo-Plainview series. The locals will meet the winner of this series, which is currently led by Amarillo, 3-2, in the playoff finals.

Should Amarillo win tonight, the Oilers and Gold Sox will then open their championship finals tomorrow night at Amarillo. Should the Sox lose tonight and win tomorrow, the series would then be scheduled to open Friday night at Amarillo.

In the event Plainview comes back to win the series, which it could do by taking the final two games tonight and tomorrow at Amarillo, the Oilers and Ponies would open the championship series at Oilier Park Friday night.

Winner of the championship series will meet the Big State League champs in the Little Dixie Series. The Big State playoff finals will start tonight with Corpus Christi and Waco battling for the pennant.

Tom Pollet and Paul Halter were the big guns in the Oilers win last night at Albuquerque. Pollet tossed an eight-hitter and was in command all the way after his mates had given him a 2-0 lead in the second.

Halter had a perfect night at the plate, four hits in four trips that included a homer, triple and two singles. In a fifth time at bat, Halter was hit by a pitched ball.

Albuquerque, which averted elimination Monday night with a 6-5 comeback win, simply succumbed to Oiler extra-base ammunition. The Oilers widened its 3-1 early-inning advantage to 5-2 in the eighth then erased all doubt with a four-run uprising in the final frame.

Southpaw Jack Martin started and left at the end of six on the short end of a 3-1 count. Ted Shandor came in and was rapped hard for four runs before John Morrill appeared in the ninth. The youngster, who won the only Duke verdict, got the same punishment.

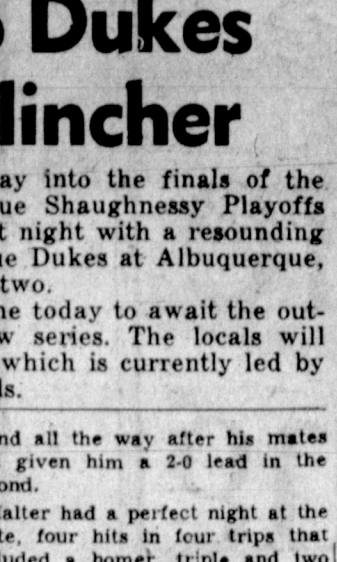

Pollet, who lost a 4-2 duel to Morrill in the second game, was in mid-season form as he scattered eight hits, including Duke footbalter Eddie Bockman's 400-foot blast over the left field wall in the eighth.

Bockman, who probably won't return here as Albuquerque skipper despite his success with a talent-rich squad that battled down the line before finishing second in the season, was the Dukes' sole shining light Tuesday. He added a single to his 33rd circuit and fielded spectacularly in his debut before the 1,924 fans.

A pair of triples by Halter and Red Dial plus a walk netted a 2-0 Pampa lead in the second. A walk, single and two forceouts made it 3-1 for Pampa in the third after Albuquerque utilized Larry Segovia's double and Joe Fortin's error in the second.

Curt Hardaway's double to left, Halter's single plus a double steal and Ernie Choukalos' overthrow to second made it 5-1 before Bockman's roundtripper far over the left field wall. Pampa's final quarter came via a single, double, Hardaway's triple and Halter's homer off Shandor then Morrill.

Bockman Not Due To Return To Dukes

ALBUQUERQUE — Albuquerque Duke manager Eddie Bockman will not be back in 1956. That was the consensus after his meeting with club directors.

The West Texas-New Mexico "Manager of the Year" who brought the Dukes in a mere half-game behind winner Amarillo on the formula of hustle-defense-pitching met with the club directors Tuesday. Bockman wasn't asked to return as skipper in 1956 but was merely given a vote of thanks for his success.

"I told them that I had two deals cooking with the Giants and Tigers," Bockman said. The 34-year-old leader had expressed a desire a week ago to tie in with an organization in higher classification. "That ended any talk of my returning in 1956."

In his season's end talk with the directors Bockman criticized the lack of promotion by the front office the final six weeks when the Dukes were fighting for the pennant. "I told them I thought a little promotion in surrounding towns would have produced much better crowds."

Would Bockman return here next summer, if Albuquerque gained Class A ranking under new owner ship? "It's hard to answer that except to say that I certainly would consider such an offer."

Bockman had no complaint about the front office meddling usually the big wrong of many community-owned clubs. "I received 100 percent cooperation all the way from everyone. No one hounded me or the players. I might also say that I deeply appreciated the loyalty of the fans in sticking with the kids all the way."

Pres. Harry Corcoran and secretary-treasurer Ed Edmunds said, "We praised Eddie for his job this year. But we frankly don't know what will do next year... whether we'll be in the WT-NM or Western or where we'll be."

"If we can stick in the playoffs, we'll break even probably," Edmunds stated. The $5000 note has been paid off, he said, and the team has been operating at a profit the past month. However, the actual financial break-down won't be available till later.

Suggestion Contrary to Rules
NEW YORK —UP—Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, Wednesday threw cold water on a suggestion that the officials announce their votes after each round of next week's Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore heavyweight title fight. Helfand said such procedure "is contrary to the rules and regulations of this state."

Yonkers and Roosevelt raceways Monday presented checks for $10,000 each and Buffalo raceway turned over a $1,000 check to Gov. Averell Harriman, acting for the Red Cross.

Harvesters Leave For EP Tomorrow

The Fighting Harvesters will leave tomorrow morning for 1955 and Jim Edwards, Kenneth Sanders and Bill Thornton may miss the lid lifter against the Austin High Panthers at El Paso Friday night.

The Green and Golders will leave at 8 a.m. by bus tomorrow. The team will stop enroute at Carlsbad, N. M., where they'll spend the night Thursday before proceeding on to El Paso.

All 35 members of the Harvester squad will make the trip although two are on the doubtful list. Reserve halfbacks Riche Gardner and Bill Thornton may miss the jaunt. Gardner was taken to the hospital last night suffering from an appendicitis attack. It was not known this morning whether an operation would be necessitated.

In the event of an appendectomy, Gardner, of course, would miss the El Paso trip. Thornton may not be able to make the trip because of illness in his family. He left this morning for Oklahoma City and it was not known whether he would return in time to make the trip to El Paso.

All others will definitely make the trip barring other mishaps. Two of the other 33, however, won't see any action Friday, quarterback Buddy Sharp and end Earl Kirbie.

Sharp is out with a twisted knee and Kirbie is recovering from a knee operation. Following are the boys who'll make the El Paso trip:
Ends — Don Babcock, Cecil Reynolds, Jerald Smith, Otis White, Don Allen, Burj Kirbie, Earl Cooper

Tackles — Ed Strickland, Doug Simmons, Don Jonas, Tommy Richardson, James Goodnight, Bill Kirbie.

Guards — Gene Devers, David Mullins, Owen Gilbert, Gary Pinson, James Weathered.

Center — Jerry Bonsel, Hunky Green, Jim Hopkins, Tommy Rhoten.

Quarterbacks — Buddy Sharp, Gary Dearen, Jerry Don Hopkins.

Halfbacks — Dickie Mauldin, Gene Emerson, Joe Cooke, Riche Gardener, Ben Hollis, Bill Thornton, Harry Ward.

Fullbacks — Bobby Dehis, Joe Cook, Jesse Ring.

Also making their trip will be student managers Kenneth Sanders and Jim Edwards.

Valdes' Win Over Cockell Tickles Archie Moore 'Pink'

By JACK CUDDY
NORTH ADAMS, Mass. —UP— Archie Moore was elated Wednesday at the good news from London, and every member of his camp entourage felt like "dancin' in the street."

Valdes TKO's Don Cockell

LONDON —UP— Hulking Nino Valdes of Cuba barged back into the heavyweight picture Wednesday on the strength of a technical knockout over Don Cockell that he claims was "better than Rocky Marciano."

Valdes floored Cockell for an eight-round fight in the third round. Cockell floored the third Briton three times.

A swarm of Valdes' fans celebrated the keyhole of the victory celebration for the 30-year-old, 207-pound Cuban as they thronged around his corner, waving their national flag and shouting over and over, "Marciano, Marciano."

It was an impressive comeback for Valdes, who had tumbled out of title contention when he lost successive bouts to Archie Moore and Bob Satterfield this year.

And it even improved on a pre-fight prediction by Bobby Gleason, Valdes' manager, that Nino would stop Cockell sometime between the fifth and ninth rounds "to go one better than Marciano."

What was his opinion of Valdes as a fighter?
"He's a big strong fellow," Archie answered. "And he hits pretty good." He grinned and added, "He put Cockell on the floor in the second round last night, I hear; but Rocky couldn't deck Don till the eighth."

Concerning big Nino's second-round flooring of Cockell, Moore remarked, "It showed that one punch can make a man as old as the next man." Valdes is about five years older than Cockell.

What's Wrong With The Cardinals?

By STAN MOCKLER
ST. LOUIS —UP— What's wrong with the Cardinals?
That's a question which ranks locally with such classics as Hamlet's "To be, or not to be" and Abbott and Costello's "Who's on first?"

Here it is mid-September and there the hapless Cards are, mired in seventh place, more than 30 games to the rear of World Series-bound Brooklyn.

This is a bitter pill indeed for the old-time fans of the once proud Redbirds, who crashed the heights of baseball fame in the '30's and '40's on the flashing spikes of men like Pepper Martin, Joe Medwick, the Dean brothers, Ed Slaughter and their mates.

The current edition of the team is a far cry from the hell-for-leather terrors of the diamond. When the hitting's good, the pitching falls apart or the reverse.

When both are holding the enemy in check somebody pulls a rock, like throwing to the wrong base or a simple grounder goes for a crucial error.

The opposition merely waits, without undue exertion, for late-inning disaster to strike the Cards. Harry Walker, himself a member of the Cards in their better days, has tried in vain to instill something of the fire and dash of the "give 'em hell" teams. The Cards still go through the motions as though they were holding themselves in reserve for more important matters after the game.

Naturally the reverberations spread far out from Busch Stadium. But one bright spot in the gloom came from a traveler arriving here recently.

"The Cards are great," he said. "I lived in Baltimore and I've just moved to Pittsburgh. The Cards look good to me."

Archie to Break Camp Monday
NORTH ADAMS, Mass. —UP— Archie Moore is expected to leave here next Monday for his title fight with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano at Yankee Stadium. Promoter Jim Norris visited Moore's camp Tuesday and after a long harangue with the challenger announced, "I am confident now that Archie will come in to New York on Monday ... instead of taking a chance by flying into the city just in time for the weigh-in Tuesday noon."

SWC Teams Picked To Win Openers Except Texas A&M

By UNITED PRESS
Four of the five Southwest Conference teams playing opening games Saturday were picked Wednesday by the "experts" to win opening rounds. Only Texas A&M was tagged to go under to UCLA at Los Angeles.

Defending champion Arkansas was picked over Tulsa; Texas over Texas Tech; Texas Christian over Kansas and Baylor over Hardin Simmons by United Press columnist Oscar Fraley, who usually gets 80 per cent or better in pre-game predictions.

The Razorbacks, meanwhile, worked on pass defense Tuesday at Fayetteville, spurring speculation that Coach Jack Mitchell plans to rely heavily on an aerial game with Tulsa.

Quarterback Buddy Bob Benson was hurt yesterday and will not play Saturday. Halfback Preston Carpenter is recovering from a leg injury and is expected to be ready Saturday.

The Texas Aggies planned another light workout today at College Station before leaving for Los Angeles Thursday morning. The Aggies stressed goal line defense and extra point kicking Tuesday.

At Waco, the Baylor Bears sharpened up on both offense and defense as sophomore Bobby Jack Oliver ran at left tackle in place of injured Bill Glass. Oliver may start at that spot against the Cowboys Saturday.

TCU's Horned Frogs stressed defense drills Tuesday at Fort Worth in preparation for Saturday night's clash with Kansas. The Frogs also worked some on punt returns and a bit on offense.

At Houston, Rice Institute staged its longest scrimmage of the season yesterday, working one and one-half hours under game conditions. The Owls' opener isn't until Sept. 24, against Alabama.

Texas, meanwhile, held a long, hard workout at Austin, stressing both offense and defense plays and kicking plays. Even though most experts give the Longhorns the nod over Tech, Coach Ed Price was taking no chances in letting up on drills for the Saturday clash.

Southern Methodist, which also holds off until Sept. 24 for its opener, went through two light work-outs yesterday. The Mustangs played a scrimmage game today between the Whites and Golds.

Lost 20 Pounds With Barcontrate

"I lost 20 pounds in one month taking Barcontrate," writes Mrs. Roger Thomas, Route 1, Box 326, Edinburg, Texas. Barcontrate is the original grapefruit juice, home recipe for taking off ugly fat.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to reduce safely, easily and without starvation diet, return the empty bottle for your money back.
