Ike Has Excellent Night

President Sleeps Without Oxygen

By MERRIMAN SMITH
DENVER—UP—President Eisenhower's doctors said Friday that he had an "excellent night" — the first use of that term — and slept without his oxygen tent for the first time since he was hospitalized.

In their 7 a.m. mst (8 a.m. est) bulletin the physicians said Mr. Eisenhower's "progress continues to be satisfactory without complication."

The use of the word "excellent" was observed as significant because in the past the doctors have not gone beyond such cautious terms as "comfortable" and "satisfactory."

Slept Almost All Night
The bulletin from Fitzsimons Army hospital said the chief executive slept almost continuously from 9 p.m. until 6:30 a.m. as he continued his slow but steady recovery from the heart attack which felled him last Saturday.

Meanwhile, one of the President's specialists, Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, said in New York that every day without complications in the President's illness counts in his favor, and that within a month doctors will be able to estimate how active the chief executive can expect to be in the future.

White, one of the world's leading medical authorities on the heart, also said that if he were in the President's position, "I think I wouldn't want to run again, from what I have seen of the strain."

Bulletin on Condition
In their 7 a.m. mst medical bulletin the doctors at Fitzsimons said:

"The President had an excellent night. The oxygen tent was not used. The President slept almost continuously from 9 p.m. until 6:30 a.m. His progress continues to be satisfactory without complication."

The chief executive was to remain in his hospital bed throughout the day but he will become a working President "for a few moments" and scribble "D. E." on two documents that he must sign.

Encouraging News
The fact that his physicians consider him in good enough shape to do this, though the documents would raise his blood pressure and signing them won't exert him more than scratching his nose, was more encouraging news than ever.

Everyone at the temporary White House was cheered by his physicians pointed out that his condition could become bad again and that no matter how encouraging the signs of recovery are, his long recuperation period will not be shortened.

PRESIDENTIAL CONFERENCE?

If the "President" sign just to the right of Adlai Stevenson's head is any indication, the 33-minute conference between the former Illinois governor and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn in an Austin hotel room Wednesday has all the earmarks of campaign strategy for '56. Rayburn and Stevenson later visited Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson at his Johnson City ranch home. (NEA Telephoto)

Heavy Rains Expected In Mexico Mountains

MEXICO CITY —UP— Torrential rains were expected in the mountains of Central Mexico Friday as killer Hurricane Janet tore herself apart after taking a staggering death toll of at least 473.

Still to be heard from, however, was the small gulf port of Nautla, which has been silent since a terse radio message Thursday reported the full fury of the hurricane was "coming straight into us."

The final advisory on Janet, which had centered about 80 miles south of Tuxtla, said the storm would continue moving westward, breaking up in the mountains.

Squalls and winds along the Mexican coast slackened Thursday night, but forecasters said mountain rain would fall in the mountains and to the west from Veracruz to Ciudad Victoria Friday.

Dangerously high tides from Nautla to Tampico were expected to subside Friday.

While the season's most violent tropical storm beat herself to death against the inland mountains, the death toll in a 70-mile path of destruction across Yucatan ripped by Janet Thursday rose to a reported 267.

In Chetumal 170 bodies were reported found in the mass of wrecked houses by rescue brigades of local volunteer workers and others flown in by the Mexican air force. Another 97 dead, mostly children, were reported from nearby Xilak, across the border in British Honduras, the village of Corozal reported six dead.

Between Janet and Hilda, which exploded into Tampico last week, Mexico suffered a reported 237 dead and more than 300 missing who were "assumed dead."

After ripping across the Yucatan peninsula Wednesday, Janet drove up the Gulf of Mexico Thursday almost parallel to the Mexican coast, battering cities and towns with its tremendous winds.

The storm finally turned inland into the mountains about 50 miles northwest of Veracruz.

Janet, with winds estimated at 125 miles per hour, was not the most powerful hurricane in history. Nor did it cover the greatest area. But Walter Davis, a Miami weather bureau forecaster for 25 years, said her extreme turbulence, combined with her powerful winds, makes her one of the great hurricanes of all time.

The 1935 Florida Keys hurricane produced 200 mile an hour winds.

Stevenson Ends Visit In Texas

DALLAS —UP— Adlai Stevenson, the Democrats' 1952 presidential candidate, returned to Chicago Thursday after a two-day Texas visit that included a conference with Senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Johnson and Rayburn both said after the conference on Johnson's ranch near Stoneham that the Democrats would not try to take political advantage of President Eisenhower's illness.

Stevenson said the conference was a friendly social visit with two friends who happened to be in politics. But he said later that he was trying to learn if Democratic leaders around the country want him to be the party's 1956 candidate.

On a stopover between planes in Dallas, Stevenson held a brief press conference and told newsmen that he hadn't come to Texas to discuss Texas politicians or Texas politics.

But he did say that he thought Texas would be better off today if "the governor had spent more time on veterans lands and less on tidelands."

It was the Texas tidelands issue that caused Gov. Allan Shivers to split with the party in 1952 and lead the state into the Republican fold. Shivers has said recently that he would vote for nearly any other Democratic candidate except Stevenson.

Stevenson's statement, referred to the state's scandal-ridden veterans land program, which saw numerous persons indicted including former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles.

Stevenson referred briefly to President Eisenhower's illness in Denver. He said he saw no reason for it to cause a change in his 1956 plans, but added that he hasn't definitely made up his mind yet.

Johnson said the President's hearty attack would cause no change in Senate policy. Johnson himself is recuperating from a heart attack suffered last July in Washington.

Kanady Refuses To Return To U.S.

WAKE ISLAND —UP— Dilmus of Houston, feared that if he returned to the United States he would be sent back to Red China.

Kanady twice had attempted to jump out during the flight from Tokyo to Wake Island.

Alfred J. Millet of Plattsburg, N. Y., who is returning from Laos where he had worked for the International Co-operation Administration, said in Honolulu, that Kanady was induced both times to return to his seat.

Millet said Kanady acted as though he had claustrophobia.

"I understand how he felt," Millet said, "because I've had similar feelings in Laos. You get the feeling they're closing in on you every once in a while."

Kanady stepped off a Pan American Airways plane as it landed on Wake Island. He presented his baggage check to Capt. T. F. George and politely insisted on ending his flight there.

One passenger said Kanady appeared "very rational" about it.

Other passengers said Kanady looked "terribly undernourished," possibly 60 or 70 pounds underweight.

The passengers, who declined to be identified, said that when the plane landed on Wake, Kanady said he knew he was on American territory and wanted to stay on ground.

One passenger quoted him as saying he wanted to remain because "it's the first bit of American soil I've seen since my imprisonment."

Another passenger who had traveled with him from Hong Kong said at times Kanady still appeared to think he was still in China and acted with an air of secrecy and great fear.

A Pan American spokesman said company personnel were instructed to keep Kanady away from excitement. He said Kanady was "highly nervous" and was disturbed by photographers' flash bulbs in Tokyo.

Cold Front Moves Into Texas Area

By UNITED PRESS
A weak cold front pushed southward into Texas Friday, setting off scattered showers and thunderstorms ahead of it.

The front won't have too big an effect on temperatures, however, and likely will die out before reaching midway into the state.

Sudden heavy deluge fell in scattered parts of West Texas Thursday, ranging up to unofficial amounts of nearly three inches at some points.

The only official rainfall measurement for the 24-hour period, ending at 6:30 a.m. Friday, however, was .22 of an inch recorded at Wichita Falls.

Unofficially, slightly more than two inches of rain fell at Vernon in little more than an hour, and caused minor flooding in some houses. Some points in Wilbarger county reported unofficial amounts up to nearly three inches.

Heavy hail fell at Lockett, eight miles west of Vernon, but there were no crop damage reports. The heavy rains, however, put a temporary halt to cotton picking in Wilbarger county.

Electra felt the stinging effects of a blinding sandstorm early Thursday night. It was followed by heavy showers that dropped .78 of an inch.

The cool front barely extended into Texas Friday morning. It should move across North Texas and the South Plains by Saturday, forecasters said.

Temperatures during the night ranged from 48 degrees at Dalhart up to 83 at Corpus Christi.

40 Medals Given Guard

A total of 40 National Guard men were presented with medals earned at summer camp at Ft. Sill, Okla., last night at the army, according to Lt. W. L. Veale, Jr., battalion commander of the service battalion.

Those qualifying with an M-1 rifle were five sharp shooters and ten marksmen. With a carbine caliber .30 were five experts and twenty sharp shooters.

Two new enlistments last night brought the present strength up to 42 men. Enlisting were: Pvt. Vernon Lee Turner, machinist for Cabot Co., and Pvt. Elbert E. Banister, parts man for Thompson Parts. Openings are now offered for nine more men, before a capacity of 51 is reached.

The local National Guard received a superior rating from the Fourth Army inspection team from Ft. Sill last week. The guard is now preparing for the IG inspection set for Wednesday night, Oct. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Crop Dusting Pilot Killed

HEREFORD, Tex. —UP— A Chickasha, Okla., crop dusting pilot was killed instantly Thursday when his plane crashed after hitting a guy wire over an irrigation well rig.

Wreckage of the plane, in which Ray Owen, 29, died, was not discovered until two hours after the crash. It was found on a farm seven miles southeast of Hereford. Owen had taken off from the Hereford airport about two hours before the crash with a 40 minute fuel supply.

Talk Of Delegating Ike Powers Fading

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON —UP— Talk of formal delegation of presidential powers, which had been diminishing since White House chief of staff Sherman Adams got back to town, could not be heard at all Friday.

And, significantly, Adams flew to Denver Friday to open up shop as White House chief administrative officer. Denver reported that President Eisenhower would be able to initial a couple of routine but essential documents by week's end.

That just about wraps up the delegation of powers idea unless the President falls or some unforeseen calamity afflicts the nation within the time limit of his expected normal recovery.

The period of his convalescence now is expected to pass without any formal and basic shift of the high privileges and duties of the presidential office. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly probably wishes now he had not permitted eager newsmen to corner him last Sunday into a statement that the Justice Department would be asked for an opinion on the exercise of presidential powers.

Hagerly is a graduate of the news staff of the New York Times and of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's smart and tony public relations office. The Washington news corps rates Hagerly the equal of the late Steve Early who heretofore had been rated the best. Steve served FDR and, briefly, former President Truman. He was terrific, despite the shortest fused temper in politics.

But they all make mistakes, and Hagerly made one Sunday when he said an opinion of exercise of powers was in the works. Adams and Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. were out of the country. Adams was back Monday in time to huddle with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and acting Attorney General William F. Rogers, a young man who had no intention of giving any delegation of powers opinion on his own.

Misses Party Line
From that conference came word by indirection that no such was urgent and might not ever be needed. Hagerly, on second thought, chimed in from Denver with supporting data. Returning the next day from Spain, Brownell missed the party line with a statement that the matter of delegation of powers was under study and an opinion would be coming up.

Brownell quickly got the word, and amended his remarks away from any quick opinion on the grave issue Hagerly had raised two days before. Several Cabinet members were in play, notably secretaries John Foster Dulles, of state, George M. Humphrey, treasury, and Ezra T. Benson, agriculture.

Not knowing whether Mr. Eisenhower would come back fast or slowly, they and others were alert against development of such a situation as came during the 1918-20 illness of Woodrow Wilson. Mrs. Wilson and the President's secretarial staff seemed to be heading up the executive department in those days and government all but foundered.

Hagerly apparently wound up the talk about delegating presidential powers. A reporter asked him Thursday if the question had been put "on ice."

"I would say it has certainly got a lot cooler," Hagerly replied.

From several days of cautious movement, here came the present set-up with Nixon acting for the President as front man in Washington. Adams will be the man closest to the President and the arbiter of what must have his attention—subject of course to medical advice.

Policy statements are more likely to come through Nixon in Washington than directly from Adams in Denver, but they will be cleared or originated there.

Peron Love Letter To Girl, 16, Found

By W. H. MCCALL
BUENOS AIRES —UP— An intercepted love letter from ex-President Juan D. Peron to a 16-year-old hobby boxer Friday tore away the last veil concealing the former dictator's fantastic life of luxury and licentiousness.

The letter was written by the 60-year-old Peron aboard the storm-tossed Paraguayan gunboat where he has waited for 11 days to go into voluntary exile. It was addressed to 16-year-old Nelida (Nelly) Rivax, the daughter of a nightwatchman and a frequent overnight visitor to Peron's mansion in Olivos.

Government sources said Peron pressed the letter into the hands of a Paraguayan gunboat sailor but the sailor delivered it to the Paraguayan embassy instead of the dark-haired beauty. It was turned over to the new provisional government.

"All That I have Left"
"You are all that I have left now that the workers have deserted me," officials quoted the letter.

Nelly was picked up by police for questioning. They wanted to know how she had acquired thousands of dollars worth of jewels, Paris gowns, rare perfumes and sparkling trinkets of the sort Peron once lavished on his late wife, Eva.

Though Nelly had a fortune, it was a pittance compared with the possessions Peron left behind in his flight — $20 million in cash, hundreds of gold and jewels in his luxury-lined secret apartments, and a newspaper and radio empire that spread through a holding company across Latin American into the United States and Canada.

Details of Peron's vast publishing empire came to light when authorities discovered a secret bomb-proof and gas-proof chamber with walls 14 inches thick where Peron was believed to have spent his last hours before fleeing to the Paraguayan gunboat.

Major Item of Interest
The major item of interest was a schematic diagram framed and hung on the wall showing a bust of Peron in the center beneath crossed quills and a drawing of the printing press. Beneath was the legend: "Newspaper, radio and news agencies enterprises."

Moroccan Official Flees Cops

RABAT, Morocco —UP— One of the sultan of Morocco's top ministers fled police in a gleaming white Cadillac Friday in a pre-dawn chase that apparently heralded the Sultan's removal from the throne.

Informed sources said Sultan Bidi Mohammed Ben Moulay Arfa's own departure appeared imminent following the flight of his vizier, or minister, of protocol, his top supporter.

However the residency announced at 10:30 a.m. the sultan was still in his palace.

Removal of the sultan from the throne is the No. 1 phase of the French government's plan to restore order in the protectorate where almost 1,000 persons have died during the past year in nationalist-inspired independence riots.

The fleeing official was Si Hadj Abdel Ramal Hajoui whose rank is equivalent to a minister or counselor of state.

He began his flight to freedom across the roofs with his Arabian robes flapping in the wind but his way apparently was cut off and he dashed back into his house and sprinted for the garage where he housed his snowy white car.

He disappeared down the Casablanca road, apparently outmaneuvering the roadblocks set up to stop him.

If it comes from a hardware store, we have it Lewis Hardware.

Sheriff, D. A. After Two Men

District Attorney Bill Waters and Sheriff Rufe Jordan are in Oklahoma City, Okla., today in efforts to extradite two men wanted here on charges of taking money from a cash register in Braxton's Food Store, 1103 Alcock.

Joe Ben Webb and Herbert Freeman are charged here with the theft of the money and efforts to extradite the two have been expedited today when an extradition hearing was scheduled.

Ike's Illness Opens Drive For Heart Fund Dollars

By UNITED PRESS
A spontaneous drive sprang up Friday to send dollar bills for heart disease research to a "get well, Ike" fund.

So far, the campaign was centered in Chicago, where a housewife wrote to the Chicago Daily News suggesting that the money be donated in the form of a birthday greeting to President Eisenhower.

The Daily News, a Knight newspaper, backed the drive in a front page editorial and said early response to the proposal was enthusiastic.

The Chicago Sun-Times, along with another Chicagoan's suggestion of a "get well, Ike" fund, also backed the idea. It said in editorial that it hoped the movement "will spread throughout the nation."

"Spontaneous Movement"
Meanwhile, Dr. E. Cowles Andrus, president of the American Heart Association, telegraphed the temporary White House at Denver that "a spontaneous movement has developed."

Andrus said the association has had nothing to do with getting the campaign started, but would be "privileged to apply such funds towards the solution of the heart disease problem."

The grass roots drive was similar to the "March of Dimes" in which the late President Roosevelt's birthday was observed by donations to fight the infantile paralysis which had crippled him.

James C. Hagerly, presidential press secretary, emphasized that the new "get well, Ike" drive is not officially backed by the White House in any way. The heart association is a "very worthwhile organization," he said, but the President does not engage in "fund raising activities."

Get Same Idea
Two Chicagoans, Joseph Halperin, 41, and Mrs. Emilie Lephien, 28, apparently had the idea for the "get well, Ike" fund at the same time.

Halperin mailed $1 to the Chicago Heart Association with the notation that it was for the "get well, Ike" fund. The idea caught on so fast that all 25 employees of the association also chipped in $1 apiece.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Lephien wrote the Daily News "President Eisenhower's 65th birthday is Oct. 14. Wouldn't it be grand for all Americans to send him a birthday greeting?"

"And wouldn't it be a good time to enclose a dollar bill as a contribution to the American Heart Association in his name?"

The idea got prompt backing from the association, which arranged for a simplified postal address at Denver for Americans who want to contribute. It is: "Get Well, Ike, American Heart Association, Denver, Colo."

Any funds contributed to the new fund will be used immediately in the fight to find what causes the heart and circulatory diseases which annually account for 82.3 per cent of the deaths in the United States.

Airmen Sue Colonel For Cursing Them

By ROBERT HAUGHE OKLAHOMA CITY —UP— Two enlisted airmen who have sued a colonel for slandering for swearing at them said Thursday they had received scores of letters from other GI's applauding their action and some offering money for their suits.

The $10,000 damage suits were filed by Airman 2-C John F. Crozman of West Lynn, Mass., and Airman 3-C Miles Miller of Marysville, Pa., against Lt. Col. Walter Callahan of New York.

They grew out of an incident at Tinker Air Force Base near here last July 6. Callahan's attorney has filed a motion to dismiss the suits and Federal District Judge W. A. Wallace is expected to rule within 10 days or two weeks.

Both Crozman and Miller said they had been submitted to no harsh discipline or different treatment since they filed the suits against Callahan.

Own Officers 'Okay' "Our own officers always treated us okay," Crozman said. "The enlisted men in our barracks are all pushing behind us. They believe we're right and urging us to go ahead."

Callahan, they said, had been friendly toward them since the incident that triggered the suit. He was transferred earlier this month to Westover Field, Mass. The Air Force said he requested the transfer prior to the lawsuit because of the illness of his wife and son.

The slender action accused Callahan of cursing the two airmen in the presence of other persons. According to Crozman's petition, Callahan told him: "You obscenities! don't do anything but ride around on your fat (obscenities)."

Miller's suit accused the officer of saying: "You (obscenities)," with no provocation on the airman's part.

Crozman says the incident occurred when he and Miller were serving as air police. He was on roving patrol and had inspected Miller's post at the hangar entrance when Callahan came out and ordered him to move a jeep parked there.

Not Without 'Permission' Crozman said he replied: "I'm sorry, sir. I am not authorized to use that vehicle without a trip ticket."

That was when Callahan lost his temper and allegedly cursed the soldiers.

Dodgers Win At Lions Club

The Dodgers beat the Yankees in the World Series game played yesterday before the Pampa Lions Club. Rev. Woodrow Adcock acted as manager of the Yankee team, backed by six women fans, as he led a horde of cereal to Rev. Richard Crews, manager of the Dodger team, which had eight loyal fans.

Judges were attorneys Arthur M. Teed, Clifford Braly, and Ross Lion Paul West.

Miss Amelia Anthony, founder of Girls' Town near Whiteface, gave a brief outline of the work being done to help the girls.

Red Wedgeworth presented the program made up of the finalists in the Horace Heidt Show auditions. Peggy O'Neal of White Deer played three classics on the piano, followed by Carmelita Hogan who gave a dance number, accompanied by Mrs. Cameron Marsh at the piano. "The Harmonettes", a girl's trio made up of Celia Miller, Lucy Jo Neely, and Margaret Miller, sang two songs.

A film of the Horace Heidt "Family Night" show was given by Frank Culbertson. Dancing girls, two drummers, a comedian, and several vocalists were featured in the film.

Announcements were made about freed by the Reds.

Bridge Club Has Election Of Officers

Dr. Ray Hampton was elected president of the newly formed Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club recently in the Pampa Hotel. Mrs. Greely Warner was named vice-president. Other officers chosen were Mrs. Jim Nalion, treasurer; Mrs. G. Rogers, secretary; Mrs. Quentin Williams, publicity chairman; G. Rogers, scoring chairman; and Bob Goodwyn, by-laws chairman.

The president appointed Mrs. George Sims to act as telephone chairman to assist in informing members of the club's activities. It was announced that the by-laws will be adopted at the meeting Monday.

After the business meeting, Mrs. E. A. Herriman directed 13 tables in a Mitchell movement of duplicate bridge. Winners in the North-South position were: First - Mrs. Clifford Braly and Mrs. P. T. Randall; Second - Mrs. Ham Linn and Mrs. Jim Nalion; Third - Mr. and Mrs. Greely Warner; and Fourth - Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fala.

Winners East - West were Mrs. Fern Snoddy and Mrs. W. D. Forsha, first; Mrs. Bob Goodwyn and Mrs. Bob Eastman, second; Mrs. Margaret Dial and Mrs. Margaret Wallace, third; and Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Williams, fourth.

Others who played an above-average - matchpoint - game were Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, Mrs. George Sims, E. A. Herriman, Mrs. C. C. Case, Mr. and Mrs. John Locke, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Braly Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Harness, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sidwell, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McMurtrey.

Acting on the scoring committee were Dr. Hampton, E. A. Herriman, Mr. and Mrs. John Locke, Mrs. Ralph Sidwell, and Dee Dodson.

It's Possible To Pick Future Heart Attack Victim

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK — UP — It is theoretically possible for medical science to pick out a person who some day may have a heart attack like President Eisenhower's. The rub is that medical science, after putting a finger on that person while he was in excellent health, wouldn't know precisely what to do in order to head off the attack.

The authority for those statements is Dr. Paul D. White and his associates in one of the most thoroughly detailed studies of coronary arterial disease ever made, a study which has the marks of a classic.

Dr. White is such an eminent heart expert, it will be recalled, that he was called in at once when the President was stricken. The results of the study were published only last year and are not known outside of medicine.

Many Significant Clues He and his associates found so many significant clues that they felt justified in the "hope" that the day is not far distant when doctors will not only "pre-select" persons "prone" to heart attacks but will be able to prevent those persons from having them.

As of now pre-selecting is theoretical, not practical. However, the study seemed to demonstrate that neither smoking nor drinking nor diet has much if anything to do with preparing the person for the attack. Indeed, there was no one thing or a few, simple things.

To pick out a person who is likely to have an attack, one would need to take all the following things into consideration and balance them against one another:

1. That person's sex, which would have to be masculine—out of 100 coronary blockages, 96 to 97 are in men. 2. His body build. 3. The structural details of his body.

4. His heredity. 5. How his body chemistry deals with its own chemical products, such as fats, especially a fat ingredient, cholesterol, and uric acid.

Youth Important to Study Dr. White, Dr. Menard M. Jefferies, and seven associates of Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, and Harvard University, studied 97 men and three women who had had coronary blockages and resultant damage to the heart before they were 40 years old. Their comparative youth is important. Theoretically everyone would die of heart disease if he lived long enough. Therefore, youngish persons who have had heart attacks were strongly predisposed.

Each one of the 97 men was "matched" with a man of the same age, height, weight, body build, mode of livelihood, racial antecedents, and social status. This group differed from the coronary group only that its members had never had heart attacks. Each group was then studied exhaustively and the findings were compared.

Surprisingly, the points of marked differences were not many. For example, routine physical examinations turned up no differences beyond the fact that the coronary group looked 10 years older, by and large, than they were.

Four Main Differences Where the two groups differed significantly were in:

1. Heredity. The coronary group had more heart-disease in their families. 2. Body build. The coronary group had many more of the well-rounded, muscular type among its members than the other. The doctors made a point that "the coronary group was not overweight in relation to the control group. They were speaking of body build, not of obesity."

3. Body structure: "Generally, the coronary heart disease group showed a decrease in vertical measurements, an increase in horizontal measurements, and an increase in depth measurements as contrasted with the control group."

4. Body chemistry: Differences in the handling of fat and uric acid. Yet not one of these points could be made sharp enough for the scientists to set it forth without "ise" and "but." The importance of their findings was not in any one or in several, but in all of them put together. And the putting-together had to be hedged in, too. That is why it is only "theoretically" possible to "pre-select" a coronary case.

Promise Kept

PITTSBURGH — UP — Three young hoodlums kept their word when they told Edward Klein he would get his stolen car back if he went to the corner of Sixth and Penn Avenues. Klein went to the spot and found the car. A few minutes later, the youths tossed his keys to him from the window of the auto in which they drove past—another stolen car.

Wakefield Resigns Post As Selective Service Head

AUSTIN — UP — Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield Wednesday announced his resignation as state director of selective service, a job he has held for more than six years, effective Sept. 30.

Simultaneously, Gov. Allan Shivers revealed he has recommended to President-Eisenhower appointment of Lt. Col. Morris S. Schwartz, Wakefield's present deputy, to fill the state draft chief's post.

Wakefield tendered his resignation to Mr. Eisenhower through the office of the governor and the national director of selective service, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey. Both the governor and Hershey expressed regret at Wakefield's resignation.

"Our state, and especially its young people, have been extremely fortunate to have this most important activity in the hands of so understanding, considerate and fine a gentleman," the governor wrote Wakefield. Hershey commended Wakefield for rendering "outstanding service." Wakefield reached retirement age in the Army in May, 1955, completing at that time 29 years of active and inactive duty as both an enlisted man and officer. He had continued to serve since that time as selective service director.

He served in both World Wars I and II, and was appointed state draft chief early in 1949 by President Truman. During World War II, he served on the staff of Gen.

J. Watt Page, state draft director at that time, handling public relations and re-employment duties.

Wakefield served in a number of capacities with Texas governors. He was press secretary to Gov. Ross Sterling in 1930 after returning from European service with the United Press.

Gov. James V. Allred appointed him as a member of the Texas planning board in Washington for the purpose of recommending worthy PWA projects.

Prison Finds One Con, Loses One

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. — UP — The Texas Prison System found one of its stray convicts—or, rather, he found himself—Wednesday but promptly lost another. Cecil Woodford, 34, serving 10 years for robbery, slipped away from Ramsey D#14623 farm last Tuesday, evading a 25-man posse and a team of bloodhounds for nearly 36 hours. Woodford gave himself up to a caretaker at Lake Ataska in Brazoria county Wednesday because he was hungry. In the meantime, Jose Zucha, 41, serving time for assault to murder from San Saba county, ditched a bulldozer at the Eastman prison farm and took off. Bloodhounds trailed Zucha to the Trinity River, then lost the scent.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. J. B. CALDWELL
 Pastor, Pentecostal Holiness Church

HAPPY MEN REJECT WAY OF SINNERS

Sin robs men of happiness. That's why the blessed Man rejected the way of sinners. The reasons are quite obvious.

The way of sinners is the hard road. The wise man declared, "The way of the transgressor is hard" (Proverbs 13:15). The Revised Version translate the word "transgressor" as "treacherous." It is hard on the body, the soul, the home, the friends, and the finances.

The way of the sinners is the way that seems right. In all of life nothing is as deceitful as sin. It is deceitful above all things. It makes the bad look good, the wrong appear right, the false seem true, and the guilty act innocent.

But all that glitters isn't a diamond and all that's metal isn't gold. The man of the Proverbs declared, "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man" (14:12).

Then, the way of sinners is the way of death. "The wages of sin is death," declare Paul (Romans 6:23): it was Solomon who avowed that the way which seems right to man, "the end thereof are the ways of death."

The way of sinners is the way of folly. The psalmist likens the folly to the unwise beast. (Psalm 49:12,13). It is the fool who hath said in his heart there is no God. It was the rich young man whom the New Testament calls a "fool." He thought he could feed and satisfy his soul with the grains of the field.

The way of the sinners is the way of the ungodly. It is verse six of the first Psalm where we read, "the way of the ungodly shall perish."

The Psalmist says, "Blessed is the man that standeth not in the way of sinners." It is completely rejected.

The safest course is not to get fixed in the way of danger. "Stand" is the second tense of sin. The first is "walking." Sin produces spiritual drowsiness. It is an insomnia that befores the thinking faculties and reduces spiritual sensitiveness to a ceiling of zero.

If you're looking for a happy life and a happy eternity, you too will refuse to stand in the way of sinners.

Jane Talk

Pampa News Women's Editor

JUST A WORD OF MY OWN, before I go into what some noted beauty authority has to say. We all — or most of us — myself included, read up on all the beauty hints we can find. We get real eager and excited over a new diet that looks like it might not be as exacting as some we have tried. We notice and exclaim when someone we know looks especially nice — has a new dress, suit or hat . . . or a new hairdo. Sometimes it seems to me that we forget what is to me the most essential "beauty aid" there is — the inner person — the inner warmth and glow of a woman at peace with herself and the world.

I WAS VERY forcefully reminded of this this week when I met Miss Amelia Anthony of Girlstown. Although Miss Anthony has attractive features outwardly, too, the real force of her beauty is her inner self, or what we call her "personality." You can't meet her without being impressed by it. So when we apply our creams and lotions, lipstick and mascara, let's not forget that what we are, what we do, our "real" self is what people will remember. It's really what constitutes beauty. An attractive appearance alone is not enough. I don't mean to preach, as I am no better than anyone else, and probably worse than many. It just happened to be on my mind, so I thought I would pass it on to you.

IF YOUR SKIN has never given you much trouble, don't let yourself be lulled into a false sense of security, warns Hazel Rawson Cades, beauty and grooming editor of the Woman's Home Companion. The wise girl, says Miss Cades, helps her skin keep its bounce and bloom with these precautions:

KEEP IT CLEAN — by washing with moderately warm water and a soap or other detergent that works well for you. Starting at base of throat, apply lather with fingertips, complexion brush or clean washcloth. Use firm circular upward movements. Rinse, rinse, rinse. Finish with cool water. Twice-a-day washing is recommended for oily skins. If yours is an overdry skin, precede washing with cream-cleansing.

KEEP IT ENCOURAGED — with a facial. After cleansing face and throat, smooth on lubricating cream and massage neck with firm circular upward movements.

RUTH MILLETT

A woman can only do so much. And often when a woman does "everything for her children" her husband doesn't get his share of consideration.

The woman who can't say "no" to her children and who thinks they must have everything they want for themselves and everything she wants for them, unconsciously turns Papa into the little man who doesn't count.

She is the kind of woman who remembers to stop at the florist to order a corsage for Junior's date — but forgets to send Papa's business suit to the cleaners.

She is never too tired to chauffeur the kids wherever they and their friends want to go. But she's often too tired to cook a real dinner and Papa has to take the family out for hamburgers after he gets home from a hard day's work.

She sees the importance of her daughter's going to an expensive summer camp — but doesn't see that the money might be better spent letting Papa join a group of friends going on a two-week fishing trip.

If she can't get everything done herself around the house and yard, she doesn't see it that the older children help. She expects Papa to pitch in and work as soon as he gets home from his job.

She is so absorbed in what is important to the children that she forgets about what is important to the man who is paying the bills and who should get his share of her time and attention.

Any woman who prides herself on "doing everything for her children" ought to check up on herself to be sure she isn't doing too much for her children and too little for her husband.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

Before you let another person read a letter written to you be sure that there is nothing in the letter which the writer might possibly have meant only for you to see. Remember that the one who sits down to write a personal letter isn't expecting the letter to be shown to others and may have said something in it he wouldn't want to have spread around.

The milk produced annually in the United States would fill a river a mile long, three feet deep and . . .

Good Shoes Are Important For Correct Posture During Those "Expectant" Days

The phrase is pretty and pregnant, not pretty though pregnant. The luminescent color of a mother-to-be's skin, her relaxed, reflective attitude and her feelings of looking forward add up to a kind of beauty that cannot be counterfeited.

Maternity clothes, in their imaginative styles and cuts and their wonderful colors, are fun to shop for and wear. They don't really intend to conceal the happy fact; they make it becoming.

Shoes for mothers-to-be are the same way, providing the young lady doesn't decide she must immediately resort to "old lady's running shoes." One mother-to-be made this mistake. She decided that since she found flat heels unbearably, she would buy the cheapest available so they would only last out the nine months. They dissolved in the rain and she had to start all over again.

Obstetricians and doctors strongly recommend, for regular wear, a medium or flat heel. The reason is simple. If one were to cart around a 15-pound laundry basket all day, one wouldn't wear high heels. They would produce a backache quite soon.

Even though the baby adds to your weight by slow ounces, the total at full term is fifteen pounds. This pulls the posture out of line and high heels aggravate the effect and produce the same old laundry backache.

Few doctors say that you absolutely can't wear high heels for big occasions during pregnancy. As long as your feet still fit in 'em and you can totter about for a few hours, your doctor probably won't object.

But for your daily wear, seek a medium, broad-based heel or a flat or wedge for good balance and a rested back. A too-soft shoe or dilapidated ballet slipper can't provide the support you need. Leather uppers, which are flexible but firm, can keep feet happy even though you're putting an extra strain on them.

Look at the soles before you buy. You'll be hitting the pavement and floors with an extra 15 pounds of impact and you want resilient and flexible leathers to do the job of shock-absorbing.

As for durability, get 'em the best your budget can afford. After Buster arrives, you'll still be carrying him up and down, up and down, those stairs and you'll cling to comfortable shoes as to your pediatrician's instructions.

This young mother-to-be is wisely bidding a farewell, though a fond one, to her favorite spike heels. To prevent backaches and off-balance posture during her pregnancy, she's going to select several pairs of handsome flats for the duration. A possibility, in her hand, is a very low heel with a wide base. Another shoe with plenty of comfort and style (top right) is a tasseled flat in glove suede leather. Still another likely shoe is wedge (bottom right) in grained glove leather.

WCSO of Mobeetie Tells Of Study Plans

MOBEETIE — (Special) — The Women's Society of Christian Service met recently in the Methodist Church with Mrs. C. W. Stribling, president, in charge.

The devotional was presented by Mrs. H. S. Bailey. The program was given by Mrs. Stribling, leader, assisted by Mmes. H. E. Matthews, A. W. Cooper and C. C. Dyson.

During the business session, the group voted to begin a nursery with Mrs. E. H. Patton in charge. It was announced the study of Indian Americans will begin Oct. 3, with Mrs. Clyde Kelley as teacher. Monday a week of prayer will be observed, with Mrs. Cooper in charge.

Attending were Mmes. Curtis Lancaster, Herk Atkins, Ernest Gordon, Sam Thomas Sr., E. S. Trout, A. A. Burch, O. G. Beck, and Stribling, Kelley, Patton, Bailey, Matthews, Cooper and Dyson.

Lodges In Skellytown Observe Family Night

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) — A family night was recently held in the IOOF Hall by the members of the Oddfellow and the Rebekah lodges and their families.

Each family brought a basket lunch. Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Ben Ross, R. C. Heaton, Beverly and David, C. M. Estes, Dale and Jimmy, V. O. Hightower, George Allen; and Mmes. Jerry Hanna, John Nichols, W. S. Berry; and Miss Addie Fern Lick.

Varietas Study Club Has First Fall Meet

The Varietas Study Club held its first fall meeting recently in the home of Mrs. Cecil W. Dalton, 1011 Christine. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Otis Nace and Mrs. J. G. Doggett.

The invocation was given by Mrs. J. E. Kirckman. Mrs. Doggett, yearbook chairman, told the study for the year, "American Frontiers." She told the women that Thoreau defined frontiers as the place "wherever a man faces a fact."

"We know that the eternity of the future is as much real as the eternity of the past, and it will be with the future that we are concerned," Mrs. Doggett explained.

Mrs. Nace, president, greeted the club members and gave two poems, "Bees Working Together" and "I Would Pick More Flowers."

Attending were Mmes. H. H. Butler, Cecil W. Dalton, J. G. Doggett, H. P. Doster, S. C. Evans, H. T. Hampton, Lee Harrah, W. G. Hutchinson, J. A. Hopkins, Dow King, J. E. Kirckman, R. W. Lane, Otis Nace, Luther Pierson, Ralph Thomas, J. C. Vollmert, and Sherman White.

DANIEL BOONE

By Russ Winterbotham and Ralph Lane

The Kentuckians met the strategy of their foe by countermarching the tunneling of the redskins under the stockade.

Rain caused the Indians to give up their attempt to dig into Boonesborough.

On the ninth day, Dan'l Boone's old friend, Simon Kenton, pounded on the gate: "The savages have gone!" he cried.

Reinforcements were near. Boone's garrison of 30 men had fought off nearly 500 redskins and Tories.

Buying 'Bargain' In Bells May Have Been A Bad Move

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON—UP—It could be that the man in Attleborough, Norfolk, Eng., made a bad buy. A. J. B. Gaskin, esq., thought he had a bargain when he bought 14 hand bells. How did he know that a full set went to 18 and that the middle bells were missing? I have a letter at hand, written to the British information service here. Gaskin said:

After the second world war, a bunch of American air men gathered at a "local" (pub, tavern or ale shop) and had a time. Some- where around the premises were 18 hand bells (the kind you pick up and rattle one at a time to stir up music.)

According to Gaskin: "Some of these fellows 'bagged' (walked off with) four of the bells. They were missed after a big night at the local."

The pilfered bells haven't been seen or heard thereafter since. Also seems they were from a very old set, and as Gaskin learned, "very little good without the missing ones."

Gaskin hopes that an appeal "could be made to the American servicemen who served in the area, and that they might be kind enough to return them. x x x and it is such a pity to have a fine set of old bells like these split up."

Maybe our man should have counted them. At this point it is proper to quote Charles Campbell, head of the British information service here. A set of hand-bells has to be tempered and tuned to perfection. "Missing bells," according to Charles "are something like four minus keys on a piano or a tuba with a couple of missing valves. No music. There are lot of bell ringers in Britain, but few of the old masters left who know how to make them."

Anyhow, our Gaskin would like

Soldier Dad Acquitted Of Murder

SAN ANTONIO—UP—Sgt. J. C. Robert Lee Paxton, 26-year-old Fort Sam Houston, Tex., soldier from Shenandoah, Iowa, was found innocent Wednesday of killing his four-year-old step-daughter.

A federal district court jury deliberated two and one-half hours before returning its verdict. The defendant's mother, Mrs. Maudie Paxton of Shenandoah, embraced her son when the verdict was read. Paxton was originally charged with first degree murder in the fatal beating of Brenda Kay Paxton last May 11 at Fort Sam Houston. But Judge Ben H. Rice Jr., changed the charge to manslaughter in his charge to the jury Wednesday.

The little girl was the daughter of Paxton's Japanese-born wife, Tsukiko. She also is charged with murder but hasn't come to trial.

Paxton testified in his own defense Wednesday and admitted he slapped and whipped the child, but denied inflicting the blows which an autopsy showed caused the child's death.

He said the manner in which his wife, who is expecting another child, punished Brenda Kay was a cause of contention between them.

Paxton testified that his wife said he paid more attention to the child than he did to her. The soldier's mother also testified that Brenda Kay once was thrown against a wall in punishment, that she had told her son to remonstrate with his wife and he did.

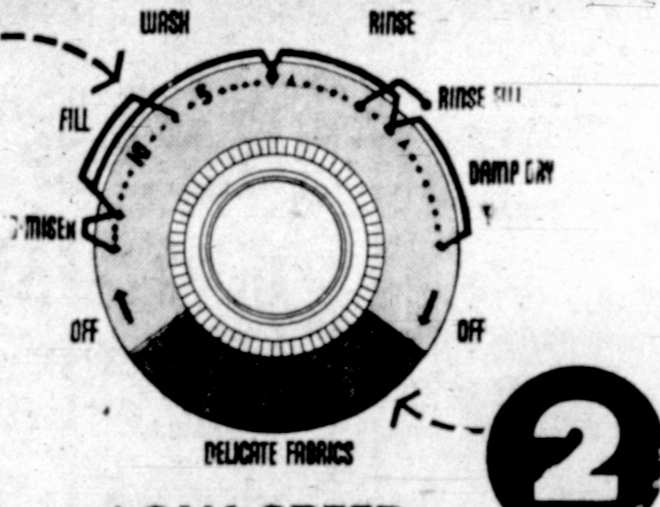

Paxton will be returned to full Army status at Brooke Army Hospital at San Antonio where he has been enrolled as a student technician.

For 1956 Whirlpool gives you TWO SEPARATE WASHING ACTIONS

NORMAL SPEED, 1
time and action for regular washing

In a Whirlpool, you can choose the correct and safe washing, rinsing and damp-dry spinning action for each type of fabric. The top portion of the dial controls the fully-automatic cycle for washing cottons, linens and all regular fabrics.

LOW SPEED, 2
short time and extra gentle action for sheerest fabrics

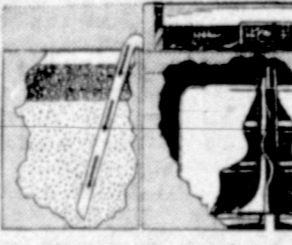

Now... only Whirlpool has a shorter time plus a lower speed for washing, rinsing and damp drying your nylons, sheerest lingerie and daintiest things. It's a separate, fully-automatic cycle to wash delicate fabrics thoroughly clean yet with hand gentleness.

ALL THE ADVANTAGES

saves over half the cost of soap and hot water

Exclusive, built-in, fully-automatic Suds-Miser is the big "extra" that only Whirlpool gives you. It saves many gallons of hot water every washday by letting you re-use hot, sudsy water for several loads of clothes.

Hot water is stored after first load.

Only clean hot water is returned for re-use.

Trial Set In Baby Kidnaping

BEAUMONT—UP—Mrs. Pauline Marie Schulze, a 30-year-old former nurse, is scheduled to go on trial here Monday charged with snatching a 29-minute-old baby from a hospital.

However, Percy Foreman, Houston criminal attorney who will defend Mrs. Schulze, is expected to file a plea for delay.

Mrs. Schulze was arrested in Houston last March 20 after Carolyn Sue Wharton, daughter of a Beaumont couple, was snatched from a crib in Beaumont Baptist hospital on March 19.

The baby was found in Mrs. Schulze's home in Houston. Mrs. Schulze, a former nurse at the Beaumont hospital, admitted to police that she took the baby. Mrs. Schulze's father, J. M. Taylor, 71, of Houston, told his daughter "wanted a baby girl more than anything else in the world."

Taylor said an operation made Mrs. Schulze sterile.

Harvesters Tackle Ft. Worth Tech

The Fighting Green and Golders of Pampa Hi rested yesterday, clad only in sweat uniforms as they worked out for the last time before they meet the Ft. Worth Tech Bulldogs tonight.

All week, it has been rough working out under Coach Jack Lockett as he has been whipping his starting lineup into condition for the Tech team.

Lockett had had the Harvesters working on pass defense in order to stop the supposed aerial attack of the 161 pound Tech quarterback, Freddie Arnold.

Arnold is a capable passer, as he has shown, even in the rain and on a dry field he might get out of hand if he gets an opportunity.

The defensive backs this week have been made ready for his attack as many of the sideline quarterbacks can verify.

Due to a missed extra point the Harvesters dropped a heartbreaker to the Vernon Lions last week. That won't be the case this week as Bill Thorton has been working out that tight toe of his preparing to rack up "after touchdown counters."

If he does as well in the games as he does in practice he won't miss a one come TD time.

Coach Lockett, with his assistants, Dwaine Lyon and Marvin Bowman, have also been working on the punt. "We hope we don't "need it." Lockett stated but "We intend to be ready just in case."

Coach Bowman has been working primarily with the defense team since the Vernon defeat. "One defensive mistake is worse than five offensive mistakes if the other team scores," he emphasized yesterday.

"The biggest fault of the Harvesters is still their inability to hold on to the ball," said Coach Lockett at Quarterback meeting Tuesday night but "We will have the boys in shape come Friday." Another problem of the boys is morale he pointed out and if they can break into the winning column they will be hard to stop.

Scouting reports will play a big part in the game this week and according to the coaches the Harvesters will be ready.

Tech runs from a split T formation with a flanker out. They like to flank the fullback, 195 pound Sherman Glass and run back inside the tackle but letterman and veteran Ed Strickland will be there to stop him.

The Bulldogs are not too successful on quick hand-offs and that is where the Green and Golders will have them bested. However the Tech passing attack should be considerably better than Pampa's with quarterback Buddy Sharp still on the injured list. Sharp will probably be out of the lineup for another week or two.

Coach Bob McPherson's Bulldogs run from a spread formation now and then but to date they have taken to the air each time. The Harvesters have considered the possibilities of a ground attack from this formation. They are determined not to be caught sleeping.

"I can't say," was the comment of Coach Lockett when asked about his prediction for the game tonight, but he will be out there trying to help the squad put a win on their record.

Long hours and lots of hard work has been the schedule for the thirty members of the Harvester squad this week.

Well, from the outcome of the first two games of the World Series, the Yanks are going to do it again and looks like I popped off too quick.

Things aren't over yet and maybe the Dodgers have been trying too hard. Now that they have their backs to the wall and the Yanks think they have it made, maybe the tide will turn. It wouldn't be the first time a winning team let up a little. (The Yanks don't play that kind of baseball though.)

If the Bums do take it, it will be a couple of records. Never has a team lost the first two games of the 4 of 7 game World Series and come back to win the flag. Also, never has the Brooklyn club won a series from the Yanks. Then, too, the Bums have never won a championship -- period.

Could be a lot of "firsts" if. Couldn't be four in a row again, could it?

Looks like only a few more days until football will push ole man baseball off the sports pages, so we might as well, by ready for it. Let's see how the top ten look now. Here is our prediction in the order they will fall: Maryland, Army, Michigan, TCU, Oklahoma, Georgia Tech, Notre Dame, Rice, Baylor and Southern Cal.

We have decided to take all the teams in District 1-A this week. Abilene will easily defeat Breckenridge and Berger will edge out (by one point) O. C. Northeast, Lubbock will win over North Side by a good TD. Amarillo will have a tougher game than Berger, but will manage one or two points over the Wichita Falls Club. San Angelo should rack up more points than Abilene, Odessa and Midland both have open dates. Yes, even some of the For' Worth scribes pick our Hustlin' Harvesters over Tech. We pick the Harvesters six points over the Bulldogs.

Texas, USC Open Tough SWC Slate

The University of Texas opens a heavy weekend slate for Southwest Conference teams Friday night when the Longhorns meet Southern California at Los Angeles.

Four of the nation's top 10 teams will be involved in the Southwest Conference clashes and the football picture would be shook mightily if the odds-makers are wrong.

The eighth-ranked Trojans will be 12-1-2 point favorites over the un-ranked Longhorns, but the Baylor Bears, rated 24th by the United Press board of coaches, are only seven point underdogs to Maryland, the top-ranked team.

The Bears and Terps clash Saturday night at Waco.

Georgia Tech, ranked No. 3, nationally, will host Southern Methodist, rated 18th, at Atlanta Saturday afternoon and will be a seven-point choice to remain unbeaten. The Ponies, who lost to Notre Dame in their opener last week, are the only conference team without a victory.

TCU is another seven-point favorite over Arkansas in the opening clash of the season Saturday afternoon at Fayetteville. The Horned Frogs are ranked ninth nationally. Both are undefeated in two games.

Still another favorite by a touch-down and a conversion, Texas A&M gets the nod over the University of Houston Saturday night at College Station.

The Rice Owls, rated 11th in the U.P. poll, get a 17-point bulge over Louisiana State in their game at Houston Saturday night.

Pampan Sets Boat Speed Record

Raymond Jeffreys, 333 N. Baerfeld the world's record for the mile straight - away for thirty minutes last week as he broke the old mark in a homemade craft. He was beaten in the boat race however by another contestant entered in the race at Knoxville, Tenn.

Jeffreys and J. C. Robertson, Altus, Okla., designed the 14 ft. run - about last winter during their spare time. They owned a speedliner at the time but felt it wasn't fast enough for them. They took ideas from several crafts and put them together to increase the speed of their new craft.

The homemade craft was then entered in three races over the Labor - day week - end at Sweetwater, Ranger and Jacksboro. He won three seconds, two thirds and one fourth of the craft's initial run.

The newly designed run - about was entered in the World's Championship Racing Regatta at Knoxville on Sept. 25th and took second place from 150 or more contestants with his craft equipped with a Mercury 25 engine.

Jeffreys has been a racing enthusiast for the past three years.

Schoolboys Play For Keeps Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

All four Texas schoolboy football divisions get into conference activity this weekend, but outside rivalries grab a big share of the attention.

The big Dallas district is the only one among the top Class AAAA echelon that plays for keeps, but four Class AAA district teams have slated conference games.

In District I-AAAA North Dallas plays Adamson, Woodrow Wilson meets Pleasant Grove, South Oak Cliff meets Hillcrest and Forest plays Sunset.

In Class AAA Big Spring is at Amarillo Palo Duro, Plainview at Lamessa, Snyder at Lubbock, Monterey and Sweetwater at Levelland in District II; Brownwood at Austin McCallum, Austin Travis at Temple and Corsicana at Ward University in 5; Aldine at Beaumont French in 8; and Victoria at San Antonio Edison, New Braunfels at Kerrville and Harlandale at San Antonio Burbank in 7.

In Class AA Sulphur Springs is at Commerce, and Gilmer at Mount Pleasant in 13; San Diego at Taft in 31, and Edcoch-Eliot at Rio Grande City in 32.

The games are too numerous to mention in Class A, which has more than its share of large districts.

The cream of the non-district district appears to be Amarillo at Wichita Falls, Breckenridge at Abilene, Houston S. F. Austin at Corpus Christi Miller, Garland at Sherman, Palestine at Longview, Nederland at Beaumont South Park Edinburg at Westaco, Freer at Alice Colorado City at Monahans, Willis Point at Terrell, Clarksville at Gladewater, Lampasas at La Vega, Bay City at Angleton, Sundown at Eudon, Ranger at Dublin, Anson at Abilene, Valley Mills at Clifton, White Oak at Canton, Troup at Past-masters at four - game sweeps in World Series competition, the Yankee players couldn't help thinking along those terms after southpaw Tommy Byrne pitched and batted them to their second straight victory, 4-2 over the Dodgers Thursday.

"I have a hunch we won't be coming back here again," one Yankee player said and another agreed with him as they left Yankee Stadium Thursday.

The Yankees have made clean sweeps six times previously in World Series play. They first beat Pittsburgh in four straight games in 1927; they made it two years in a row by taking St. Louis in four straight in 1928; they swept the Chicago Cubs in 1932 and 1933; Cincinnati in 1939 and the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950.

Turley, a 17-game winner during the regular season, never pitched in a World Series before but he did hurl in Ebbs' Field against the Dodgers the past spring.

One Previous Appearance Podres, whose 10-10 mark during the past season doesn't really speak his true pitching ability, appeared against the Yankees in 1953 World Series as a rookie and was taken out of the box after two and one-third innings. Still, he still no pre-game fear of the Bronx Bombers.

Caney Stengel would sure hope his outfield would line up for the third game after Hank Bauer had to leave after two innings Thursday with a pulled muscle in his right leg. Bauer said the injury

Jinx And Bob Turley Carry Yankee Hopes

By LEO H. PETERSEN

BROOKLYN --UP-- The New York Yankees had a 52-year-old jinx and "bullet" Bob Turley going for them Friday in the third game of the World Series while the Brooklyn Dodgers' only hope was that a switch to Ebbs' Field might also bring about a change in their fading fortunes.

The weather became a factor with the possibility of showers or thunder-showers.

The Dodgers, down two games already and well aware no team ever has won a seven-game World Series after losing the first two games, nominated southpaw Johnny Podres, who celebrates his 23rd birthday Friday, to put them back in the Series.

Professional odds-makers, who are never swayed by such things as birthdays or any other sentimental circumstances, quoted the Yankees as 19 to 5 favorites to win the Series. Largely because of the site switch from Yankee Stadium to Ebbs' Field, they quoted the Dodgers as 11 to 10 favorites for Friday's game.

was similar to Mickey Mantle's. "It's sore and I have to walk with a limp," Bauer explained. "I hurt it sliding into second base in the first inning."

Byrne was pretty much the whole show in Thursday's Yankee victory as he limited the Dodgers to five hits and drove in New York's first run with a single up the middle during a four-run fourth inning.

Yankees Checked Too Late

Byrne's blow chased loser Billy Loes and although Dodger relievers Don Bennett, Karl Spooner and Clem Labine checked the Yankees on one hit among them thereafter, the damage was done.

The Dodgers went out in front in the top of the fourth on a double by Pee Wee Reese and Duke Snider's single to right. Trying to make second on the blow, Snider was thrown out by Elston Howard.

After the game, the Dodgers claimed that a fan had reached out from the right field stands and touched the ball, and that Snider should have been credited with a ground-rule double. Umpire Augie Donatelli, stationed along the right field foul line, insisted no fan touched the ball.

Apart from that, however, Brooklyn Manager Walt Alton said the Dodgers didn't deserve to win Thursday's game the way they played.

"Byrne just stopped us cold," he added, sadly.

And that was just about the whole story.

USC 13-Point Favorite Over Texas

By UNITED PRESS
Southern California, undefeated in two starts and the nation's eighth ranked team, is a 13-point favorite over once-beaten Texas in their intersectional clash at Los Angeles Friday night as college football launches its second big weekend midst the World Series hoopla.

The Trojans, who romped to 50-12 and 42-15 victories over Washington State and Oregon, respectively, are anxious to avenge their Rose Bowl loss to Ohio State by capturing the Pacific Coast championship. Texas, on the other hand, is trying to forget its opening game loss to Texas Tech — 20 to 14 — two weeks ago.

Wichita, perhaps the strongest contender for the Missouri Valley crown, is also favored by 13 points in its league meeting with Detroit Friday night, while in another leading night game, Miami of Florida is a prohibitive choice over Florida State.

More Crowded Saturday
Saturday's program is a bit more crowded with the Maryland at Baylor game heading the list. The Terrapins, the nation's top ranked team, are favored by one touchdown, while the Bears, who like Maryland have won both starts this season, are primed for an upset. Maryland just did squeeze past Missouri 13-12 in its opener and then whipped UCLA, the 1954 champion, 7-0 last Saturday.

Tenth-ranked Ohio State, the Rose Bowl champion and 28-20 winner over Nebraska in its season opener, is the 10-point pick over Stanford in the nationally televised game of the week from Palo Alto, Calif. Stanford has a 11 record.

Second-ranked Michigan, with an easy win over Missouri under its belt, is a strong 13-point pick over Michigan State in a Big Ten meeting while third-ranked Georgia Tech is only a seven-point favorite over Southern Methodist in another intersectional game. Tech defeated Miami of Florida and Florida in its two games while SMU lost its only start to Notre Dame last Saturday.

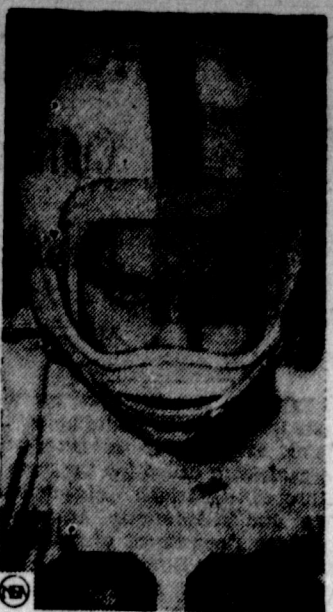

Oklahoma Favored
Oklahoma, ranked fourth, is favored by 14 points over Pittsburgh, fifth-ranked Notre Dame is a 20 point pick over Indiana; sixth-ranked UCLA is a 30-point choice over Washington State; seventh-ranked Army, one of the top teams in the East, is picked by 12 points over Penn State; and ninth-ranked Texas Christian, another Southwestern power, is favored by seven points over Arkansas, the defending Southwest Conference champion.

Here is how the oddsmakers figure Saturday's other top games: Northwestern one point over Tulane; Wisconsin one over Iowa; Purdue 13 over Minnesota; Illinois 20 over Iowa State; Kentucky 21 over Villanova; Yale 14 over Brown; Clemson six over Georgia; Vanderbilt six over Alabama; Auburn seven over Florida; North Carolina seven over North Carolina State; Duke seven over Tennessee; West Virginia seven over Wake Forest; Navy 13 over South Carolina; Marquette seven over Houston and Washington seven over Oregon.

The only game listed as an evening game involves Nebraska and Texas State.

Jensen, Boone Tie For RBI Honors
NEW YORK — American League President Will Harridge declined Wednesday to take action in a controversy which developed when Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox and Ray Boone of the Detroit Tigers finished in a tie for the American League lead in runs batted in.

Reports that Umpire Joe Paparella's call in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader between the New York Yankees and Red Sox deprived Jensen of a chance to drive in a run were investigated by Harridge and then dropped without official comment. Jensen, a pinch-hitter, drew a walk with runners on second and third. Jensen and Boone finished in a tie with 116 runs batted in.

SAFETY FIRST—Bob Oberbrunner of Beloit models a new helmet which will be worn by more than 7,000 Wisconsin high school players. It is designed to reduce facial injuries.

Bill Terry Not Seeking Giants
NEW YORK — UP— Bill Terry hastened Thursday to correct an inadvertent remark that was construed into a report that he had made an offer to buy the New York Giants.

"Yeah, I'd like to have the Giants," their former manager, now a millionaire businessman, said. "But I've made no offer nor do I intend to make one for them."

"Nuts," he shrugged, "there's a lot of things I'd like to have."

PICTURE NEWS

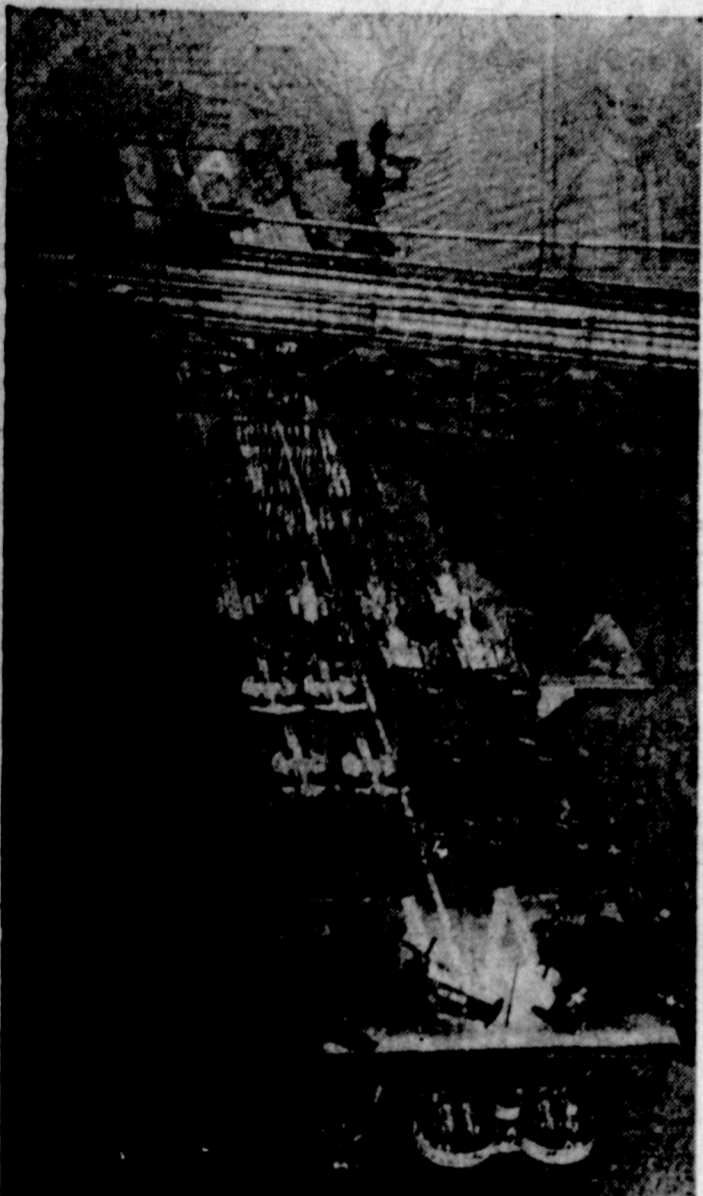

AROUND THE WORLD

DRAFTS ON STRIKE—A group of young Frenchmen recalled to active duty as reinforcements in North Africa is shown outside the Gare de Lyon railway station in Paris. Part of a call-up designed to fill gaps in the French forces, the men refused to entrain for Marseilles as they demonstrated against Air Force police. The train left Paris empty and the strikers were assigned to be flown to Morocco.

TAKING OVER—Grandma cat, left, is reporting in for her turn at baby sitting in Minneapolis, Minn. She's about to relieve her daughter who's been watching over their two litters, born the same day. Combining their families, the mama cats take turns baby sitting and the kittens will grow up like brothers and sisters.

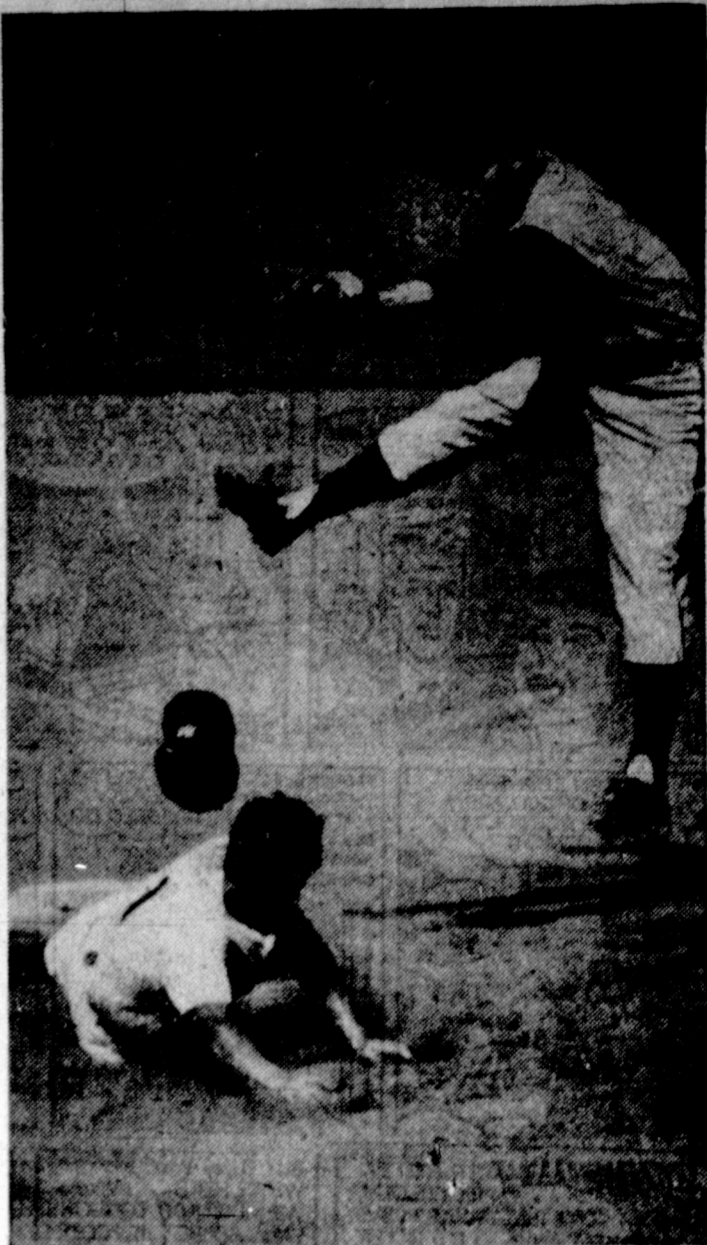

SAILING ALONG—The aircraft carrier USS Ticonderoga is shown under the Delaware Memorial Bridge en route to Norfolk, Va., from Philadelphia. The vessel had been in Philadelphia for the National Air Show and was the first carrier ever to take part in an air show. The trip also marked the first time the Delaware has been navigated by a carrier since the days of World War II.

FAST CROWD—Usually it's difficult to pick a winner before a race, but during this one in Atlantic City, N. J., it's still tough as the entries near the wire. Take your choice, left to right, of Dance-a-Bit, Straga, or Johnson T. It was Dance-a-Bit, a $143 long shot, the winner in a photo-finish. Johnson T. was second, and Straga, third.

FOR BEDTIME—A two-tone, no-iron cotton pajama for the pre-teen set is this fancy job. Ruffles at the neck, wrists and ankles complement the two-piece outfit that makes for well-dressed sleep.

IT'S A STEAL—Billy Martin of the Yankees steals second base safely as Tiger infielder Fred Hatfield goes up for high throw from catcher Frank House. The larceny came in the fifth inning of a game at the Yankee Stadium, which the Yankees took, 6-0.

THE PAST AND THE PRESENT—The days of their youth and style-consciousness may be gone, but two aged ladies in London obviously still have an interest in fashion. As they stand quietly on the sidelines in London, they make an approving audience for the Christian Dior ensemble modeled by Hilde Moray. The outfit is made of black wool.

BEARING UP—Winnie, the London Zoo's Syrian bear, is all set for a handout from visitors. The claws on her front paws look as carefully manicured as any movie star's.

BRINK OF DEATH—Three persons were shoved to their deaths and eight children seriously injured when this bus got out of control in Paris and crashed through a railing at a passenger terminal. The vehicle plowed into a group of youngsters and knocked them off a 16-foot-high platform.

HERE SHE IS!—British actress Diane Cilento grabbed that telephone to report in for work when she arrived at New York's International Airport. Diane had flown over to play the role of Helen of Troy in "Tiger At The Gates," a part she created in the successful London production.

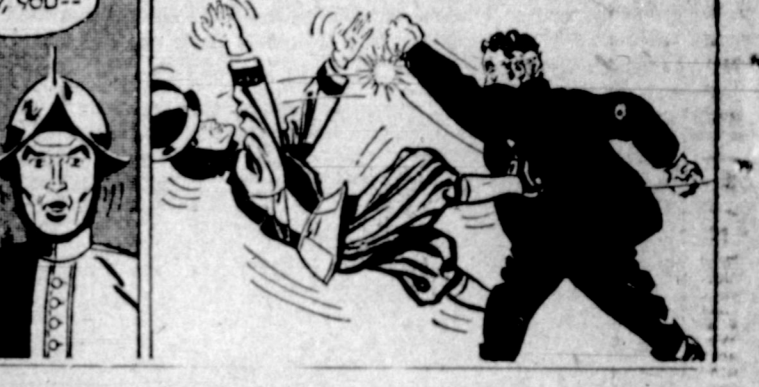

OFF TO THE FAIR—Pretty farmerettes Sandy Sands, left, and Myra Morse are all ready for the New Jersey State Fair in Trenton. This annual event, said to be the oldest yearly Fair in America, will be bigger and better this year because Sandy and Myra are on hand.

YOUTHFUL—New York's famed hair stylist Jean DeChant predicts that waves of every type and length will be the thing next season. Here, he styles a youthful look, combining waves with a soft pageboy to give a natural look to the coiffure.

NICE VIEW—Pretty Olivia Twining, daughter of Air Force Chief of Staff Nathan B. Twining, is good evidence that the sign is correct. Olivia is photographing the Iwo Jima Memorial at Arlington, Va., and the sign is the first of 25 to be erected at spots of interest in Virginia.
