FRED SLOAN
... history his meat

He Directs Study Of Our Heritage

By RONALD WATERS
Pampa News Staff Writer
Dignified and reserved the Chief Clerk of the Production Department of Skelly Oil Co., Panhandle District, is a man that has proved himself a capable leader. Fred Sloan started to work as a roustabout in the oil fields some 20 years ago, advancing to his present position as a result of firm determination and hard work.

At present he keeps daily records incident to the drilling and production of oil and gas wells from the time oil is drilled until the time of abandonment. A man of intelligence with a profound interest in the history of this country, Fred puts his mind, heart, and whole self into the leadership of the American Heritage group of the Adult Education program. About two years ago he relieved Dr. Douglas Nelson, then pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, as leader of the group.

Ex-Prisoner Of Chinese Comes Home

HOUSTON—UP—Dilmus T. Kanady came home Sunday night, 65 pounds lighter than his normal 225 pound weight, and apparently unaware that Dwight D. Eisenhower is president of the United States.

"I'm studying the history of past political events, it gives an idea of the trend of the future and enlivens discussion of the future," Sloan said. "After studying eminent writers on the subject, it's an inspiration," he added.

Sloan is a staunch supporter of the present Adult Education program saying, "Under the leadership of Walter Stein, President of the Adult Education Board, the program promises to continue to be of great interest."

Past adjutant and commander of the American Legion, Fred has been a Legionnaire since the group was organized after the armistice of World War I. He has been president of three local square dance clubs, and is now a member of the Do-Do and Heel-and-Toe groups.

Born 37 years ago in Indian Territory (Pontotoc County in Oklahoma), Fred finished elementary and high school at Center. He attended Central College at Ada, Oklahoma, A. & M. at Stillwater, and Purdue University for a total of three years.

Sloan taught school as a 19-year-old teacher at Sasakwa, Okla., in 1918. He was also Superintendent of Schools at Wagoner, Okla., and Principal at Baggoner, Okla.

Floods Threaten Mexico

Tampico Building Sandbag Dikes

TAMPICO, Mexico—UP—Storm torn Tampico, flooded throughout the greater part of September, began reinforcing sandbag dikes Monday as a new rise in the Panuco River threatened to inundate the entire city.

Thousands of refugees just returning to their homes were met by the new threat. United States Navy relief teams, rushing medical and food supplies in, reported 30,000 square miles of land under water.

Rear Adm. M. E. Miles, Navy relief director for the area, said that two square miles in the heart of Tampico is the only sector not flooded for 40 miles in all directions. The Navy said 16 aircraft are joined in an around-the-clock airlift to the hard-hit area.

Food, Clothing Rushed In
More than 33,400 pounds of food and clothing have been flown in to the region. The aircraft carrier Saipan stood by with an emergency load of yellow fever vaccine rushed here from Pensacola, Fla. It also brought food and a dozen Navy doctors to help the 30,000 refugees cut off inside the city.

The floods from rivers over a 70-mile-wide area of four Mexican Gulf Coast states were the terrible mark of the killer hurricane, Janet, which already has claimed 523 lives. It had appeared that Tampico was through the worst.

But the drainoff suddenly came pouring over the mountains to send the Panuco and Tamesi Rivers gushing to new heights. A U. S. Fourth Army team of officers and enlisted men from San Antonio, Tex., was sent in to reconnoiter.

River Goes Higher
Lt. Col. M. C. Quillen, in charge of Army and Air Force m e r c y flights into Tampico, said in San Antonio that there was every indication that the swollen Panuco River may go seven feet over its present level of three feet over flood stage.

Some 36,000 persons are homeless in Tampico. They are living in schools, churches, and government buildings. U. S. Navy planes have spotted "many people" clinging desperately to rooftops awaiting assistance.

Actually Janet missed Tampico but filled inland streams to send the Panuco out of its banks. The city had just started to recover from Hurricane Hilda, which struck two weeks before.

Two dams in rain-swollen rivers in central Mexico burst partially, flooding five small towns. The railroad station at Empalme Escobedo was reported under seven feet of water and more than 100 humble homes, were washed away.

Supreme Court Opens 165th Session Today

WASHINGTON—UP—When Chief Justice Earl Warren and the eight associate justices stepped from behind a dark red curtain Monday and took their places at a gleaming mahogany bench, the supreme court opened its 165th year.

Promptly at 10 a. m. est, a buzzer was to hush an expected overflow crowd of tourists, dignitaries and government officials in the lofty marble courtroom across the square from the capitol.

The black-robed justices filed to their places on the bench to the traditional chant of the court crier, George E. Hutchinson.

"Oyez, oyez, oyez. All persons having business before the honorable, the Supreme Court of the United States, are admonished to draw nigh and give their attention for the court is now sitting. God save the United States and this honorable court."

Opening day of the nine-month term is devoted to the formality of admitting some 100 lawyers to practice before the high tribunal. After the brief ceremony, the justices return to their offices to work on a backlog of more than 700 cases piled up during the summer recess.

For the first time in three years, the justices do not face the weighty problem of segregation in public schools.

French Leaders Postpone Conference With Soviets

PARIS—UP—France told Soviet Russia formally Monday that Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay have postponed their visit to Moscow because of the position taken by Russia on the Algerian vote in the United Nations.

Soviet attaché Alexander Anikine was called to the foreign office at midday and was received by Pinay.

Plane Crash Kills Four

HAMBURG, Ark.—UP—A light plane, occupied by a Hamburg businessman and three Hamburg teen-aged boys crashed late Sunday, killing the businessman and two of the boys instantly and fatally injuring the other boy.

The businessman, Charles Carpenter Jr., 35, was the pilot of the plane. The boys, all 16, were employed by Carpenter at a drive-in theater he operated with his brother. Two of them, Herman Farmer and Jerry Doyle Mann, were killed in the crash.

The other, Charles King, was first taken to a hospital in Crossett. He later was put in an ambulance for transfer to the Baptist Hospital in Little Rock but died before reaching the Little Rock city limits.

Red Chinese Want U.S. To OK Demands

TOKYO—UP—Communist China hinted strongly Monday that the United States must agree to Communist demands to expand negotiations at Geneva if it expects to get back all of the American civilians still held by the Peiping government.

The hint of blackmail appeared in the official Communist newspaper Peiping Peoples Daily and was broadcast by the Peiping radio monitored here.

The newspaper's "observer" criticized American "stalling tactics" at the Geneva talks and attacked U. S. refusal to discuss the United Nations trade embargo of Red China or a possible meeting of Chou En-Lai and John Foster Dulles.

Peiping promised to release 41 American civilians but so far only 15 have crossed the border and there has been no word on the remaining 26.

"China has adhered consistently to a policy of leniency toward these Americans," said the newspaper which always reflects official Red Chinese thinking.

"It is only in the circumstances of the improvement of relations between China and the United States that this policy can be made more lenient."

Then it warned: "If the United States persists in stalling in the constructive advancement of the talks on the pretext that the agreement has not yet been carried out, this will not only turn the talks into a dreary negative performance but also be of no help to carrying the agreement."

The government was still deliberately blasting—the myth that Peron was Argentina's No. 1 worker. In recent days there have been stories of huge sums of money sent abroad, of a 16-year-old mistress, and of wild parties at a suburban residence.

Parade Set To Kickoff Heidt Show

A pre-performance parade of stars in the Horace Heidt Swift Show Wagon will move down Cuyler street at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow to kick off activities preceding the 8 p. m. performance of the show in Harvesters Field House.

The parade will feature the stars of the show, who will ride in convertibles, according to C. A. "Lefty" Huff, parade committee chairman for the Pampa Shrine Club, sponsors of the event.

Huff remarked that any one wishing to drive their convertible in the parade should call him at his office at the Dr. Pepper Bottling plant.

Pampa Moisture Totals .21 Inch

A total of .21 inch of moisture fell within the past 24 hours in Pampa following .27 inch recorded at 4 p. m. Sunday, according to the KPDR radio station.

Cloudy skies are forecast for today and tomorrow with occasional showers and not much change in temperature. The high today is 72, the low tonight will be 60, tomorrow's high is forecast for 77 degrees. Yesterday's high was 68. A heavy fog rolled over Pampa Saturday night with visibility limited.

President Sleeps Well After Bad Day Sunday

By MERRIMAN SMITH
DENVER—UP—President Eisenhower's doctors Monday postponed their usual 7 a. m. (mst) medical bulletin because the chief executive was still sleeping soundly after suffering from "tiredness" Sunday night.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerly informed reporters that the President awoke at 4:25 a. m. but went back to sleep within a half hour and was still asleep at 7 a. m.

The President awoke again at 7:10 a. m. The press secretary said the chief executive's temperature and pulse were checked and found normal when he awoke the first time at 4:25 a. m.

At 8:45 a. m. the first medical bulletin of the day was an hour and 45 minutes overdue from the time it customarily has been issued. Presumably the President, still being examined by his physicians but there was no word from the temporary White House as to the reason for the delay of the bulletin, which still was being expected momentarily.

"Little Tired"
Mr. Eisenhower's physicians reported he was "a little tired" Sunday evening in the first apparent slow-down in his steady recovery from a heart attack. The doctors planned examinations to find the cause of the unexpected fatigue.

Mr. Eisenhower, lulled by a sedative, went to sleep at 8:45 p. m. He was not given any further sedation when he awoke at 4:25 a. m.

Although the medical bulletin was postponed temporarily, Hagerly at 7 a. m. said: "The President went to sleep last night at 8:45 p. m. He slept soundly until 4:25 a. m. when he awoke. At that time his temperature and pulse were checked and were found to be normal. He went back to sleep within the half hour."

The tiredness—the first slow-up reported since the President went to Fitzsimon Army hospital (See IKE, Page 8)

Specialist Huddles With Ike's Doctors

BOSTON—UP—Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart specialist, conferred twice during the night with President Eisenhower's bedside physicians in Denver.

White last talked with the Denver doctors at 4 a. m. est when the President's temperature was reported down and his general condition favorable.

White's office reported he was expecting another call from Denver "momentarily." The office said the Boston specialist still was making no plans to return to Denver ahead of schedule on Saturday.

The spokesman said the President was "sleeping soundly" the last time White talked with the Denver physicians.

The fact that White was making no plans to return to Denver immediately was considered encouraging.

White normally confers with the Denver physicians at 12:30 p. m. and at 8:30 p. m. est.

Northwest Texas Gets Heavy Rain

By UNITED PRESS
The northwest third of Texas, pummeled by downpours that set off local flooding from swollen creeks and rivers two weekends ago, was peppered by showers again Monday and up to eight inches of rain fell earlier in far West Texas.

Monday morning's rain fell north of a Gainesville to Mineral Wells to El Paso line. There was little shower activity south of the line.

Crackling electrical storms and rain hit Lamesa in far West Texas for a second straight day Sunday and over the weekend up to eight inches of moisture were featured in Yoakum county, on the Texas-New Mexico line.

The South Plains also got good rains Sunday, and up to five inches was reported west and southwest of Wichita Falls.

A moist tongue of air moving northward across Texas overran Monday the cool air that flowed in a new cool front a few days past and set off new showers.

Five-Inch Downpour
The community of Dundee, near Wichita Falls, reported a five-inch rain as new showers fell heaviest in the same area of the state Monday.

There was some local flooding in Iowa Park, near Wichita Falls, from a three-inch rain Sunday. Up to seven inches of rain was reported at Lake Kemp, but the weather bureau officially measured only 3.25 inches.

Other official rainfall totals reported by the weather bureau for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a. m. included 2.34 inches at Childress, 1.43 at Lubbock, which had additional rain earlier; 1.25 at Vernon and Electra, 1.19 at Wichita Falls, .77 inch at Abilene, .22 at Salt Flat, .21 at El Paso and 13 at Alpine. Lamesa observers measured 1.21 inches of moisture Sunday.

In the south part of the state, there also were some showers Sunday, set off by afternoon warming, but forecasters said these resulted from a different pattern than those in the north. Twenty-four hour amounts included .33 inch at Laredo, .31 at San Antonio and .27 at Victoria.

More Showers Expected
The weather bureau said scattered showers and thundershowers would continue through the day over the western two-thirds of Texas, but there would be little activity over the eastern one-third.

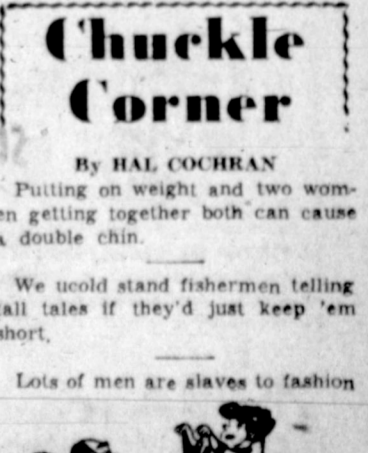

Lightning struck a power-substation at Lamesa Sunday, leaving part of the town without electricity for a while. There was similar temporary power failure Saturday from an earlier thunderstorm that broke over the West Texas town.

Lightning also struck electrical wires leading into the McDonald cotton gin at Lamesa and started a fire that was quickly put out.

Heavy deluges late Saturday were reported to have caused damage to some houses in the Post, Plains and Brownfield area. Some young wheat seed was washed away and maturing cotton crops suffered some damage from rains from five to eight inches Saturday.

Overnight minimum temperatures in Texas ranged from 60 degrees at Dalhart to 79 at Galveston.

Hall & Pinson Tire Service Saves $$, Smooths Your Ride

Hall & Pinson offers you double services: to save you money and to give you a smoother ride. Hall & Pinson Tire Co. seat cover specialists at 700 W. Foster, 4-3521, has the Tru-O-Matic Tire Truer and the Alemitic Electronic Wheel Balancer. These machines form a team which smooths out your automobile ride.

This team also saves money for you, because the machines knock out the shimmy, bounce and shake that damages the front end of your car, wears tires unnecessarily. This team cuts your repair bills, stretches your tire dollars!

Specialists
To make sure your tires get the best service — and to be sure you get all the wear from them — Raymond Hall, owner and operator of Hall & Pinson, specializes in tire and front end care.

Tire Truing — making tires perfectly round — is important to you and your car because no amount of wheel balancing can give a smooth vibration-free ride if the wheels are out-of-round.

Watch Tires
The researchers give this warning: the odds are that your tires are out-of-round if you have not taken care of them. Eight out of ten tires that have been driven more than 2,000 miles are out of round!

These same tires that go out of round in 2,000 miles were within .125th of an inch of roundness when they left the factory!

Researchers explain that a tire stretches as the molecules of rubber align themselves with the stresses of the tire and cause high spots and dish out areas on the tread. The irregularities vary from 1-64th of an inch to 1-32th of an inch on passenger car tires to over 1/8 inch on truck tires.

Quick Correction
When these irregularities in the tire tread hit the ground they cause a bump and even slow the wheel in its turn because of the extra drag on the circumference.

Even a 1/32nd of an inch on a high spot will give a bump, and bumps that overtax bearings, bushings, pins, shock-absorbers and springs!

These high spots and dish out areas cause excessive tire wear, increase vibration so that they shorten tire life and car life.

In just a few minutes Raymond Hall and his co-workers at Hall & Pinson Tire Co., 700 W. Foster, can make your tires perfectly round.

These high spots and dish out areas cause excessive tire wear, increase vibration so that they shorten tire life and car life.

Dr. Pepper Offers King Size Bottle

For the first time in its 70-year history, Dr. Pepper will be marketed in a "King Size" deposit bottle along with the traditional 6 1/2-ounce size in Pampa, C. A. Huff, owner of the Pampa Dr. Pepper Bottling Company, announced today.

Huff said Pampa is among the first cities in the nation to get the new package. Marketing began Sept. 20, 1955, he added. He said the new bottle, which will contain 10 ounces of Dr. Pepper, was being inaugurated in Pampa to meet the demands of the growing market.

"So many of our customers have told us that they would like to have Dr. Pepper in a larger package for more convenient home consumption that we decided to meet their requests," Huff said.

He pointed out that "we will offer everyone in this area a choice of sizes — regular and king size." The new, bigger size, he added, is specially suited for people who buy soft drinks in cars for home consumption.

Mr. Huff said retail grocery stores will set the price on the new package. An intensified advertising and promotional program to introduce the "King Size" Dr. Pepper has been planned.

Make Your Living More Fun-- RCA TV, GE Appliances

ADJUSTING FOR COLOR — Dick Stedum, salesman at C & M TV, 304 W. Foster, 4-3511, adjusts an RCA Victor Color Television Set, to see the World Series in live color. This compatible color set, which receives sharp black and white pictures, is a feature in the RCA Victor TV's. There are 51 other RCA Victor TV models from which you can choose. See them at C & M, and see the GE appliances there to make your living more enjoyable — to take the work out of your house work. C & M TV, 304 W. Foster.

Man, that's living — with RCA Victor COLOR TV, and with work-saving, step-saving General Electric appliances like the washer-dryer, refrigerator, with the Ironite Ione.

More and more pleasures are coming your way on the color TV programs — and all yours, as well as the black and white programs, on your RCA Victor Color TV Set. Your RCA Victor set brings you all the programs: magnificent color-casts and sharp, clear black and white programs.

Your set receives any UHF or VHF channel by a turn of the knob. High speed tuning covers 70 channels in 2 1/2 seconds!

Color Control
In addition to the regular TV controls there are two simplified controls for color: the color control knob for color intensity and the hue control knob for desired shades of color.

The RCA Victor tri-color picture tube has three electron guns. Signal-controlled of electrons from these guns scan and stimulate color-glowing phosphors on the inner face of the tube. Each gun is designed to hit only its red, green or blue phosphors.

Other features of the RCA Victor Color TV include the new color equalizer for truer color reproduction; continuously variable tone control, stabilizer to eliminate noise and hold picture steady over the entire screen, unified color amplification, crystal control of color circuits, and high gain video amplifier.

RCA Victor's "magic monitor" deluxe chassis holds picture, color and sound steady because it automatically boosts weak signals and screens out interference.

31 Models
RCA Victor in 1956 offers you 31 other TV models from which to select. These new RCA Victor TV's first again with the finest features. Have these advantages:
New, illuminated "easysee" tuning dial, new, high speed UHF-VHF tuner available on all models, new, aluminum, "all clear" picture tube, new, powerful "magic monitor" chassis, "golden throat" "fidelity tone" system.

The "all-clear" picture tube gives you 212 per cent greater contrast to give a picture sharp in every detail, better blacks, grays, and whites.

June Talk

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Women's Editor

MOST OF OUR SUMMER BRIDES are deep in the business of homemaking by this time. To aid these new homemakers, I looked up this article by Kay Woodhouse, NEA staff writer, on the purchasing of some nice and shiny pots and pans. It may save them trouble later on.

ONE OF THE FIRST tests of a young bride's skill as a young bride faces is buying the pots and pans for her new home. The old adage, "It is a hard nut to crack," is hard on a budget and usually winds up with an inefficient jumble of utensils on hand. I know that's true because it happened to me. Ridiculous as it seems now, as a bride it never occurred to me that there was any great difference in pans. Or that any though should be given to materials, construction, size and use. It was a costly lesson to learn.

So profit by my mistakes. If you're an inexperienced cook, you particularly appreciate the help of good equipment. Individual needs will vary, of course, but as a basic check list of what to buy here's one compiled by the Bureau of Human Nutrition:

One coffee maker; one double-boiler; one fry pan, 10-12 inches in diameter; one fry pan eight inches in diameter; one kettle with lid, eight quart; one one-quart saucepan; one three-quart saucepan; one saucepan or saucetop, four-quart size, and one teapot.

Taking over this list with Mary Ann March, director of home economics for a large manufacturer of kitchen utensils (Ekco), we agreed that a Dutch oven might be more useful than a saucetop.

WHEN YOU SHOP, look for double-purpose features. A chicken fryer with a high-domed lid, for example, may double as a casserole. Some of the better-grade utensils have bakelite handles that will withstand oven temperatures up to 450 degrees. This means you can use the saucetops or double-boiler tops in the oven — a real advantage at times.

You'll find good utensils made of aluminum, glass, enamelware, stainless steel, cast iron. I've used them all and they all have both good and less desirable features. As a rule, I'd examine the pan carefully. You want one that's smooth surfaced, solid feeling in the hand, flat and even on the bottom to fit firmly on the burners. Thin, cheaply constructed utensils are apt to buckle and become more rapidly. You should also think about the care you're willing to give the utensils.

IF YOU TEND to be the casual type, you may be wiser to get utensils that are the easiest to care for.

Inexpensive Luxury
A luxury bedjacket to make inexpensively with a border that may be either crocheted or knitted. (You'll find this shoulderette ideal for warding off chilly breezes, and so nice for gift-giving.)
Pattern No. 2522 contains material requirements; sewing instructions; crocheted and knit border directions.

Stainless steel, copper-clad or in combination with a heat distributing alloy, is one of the easiest materials to keep clean. I've ever cooked with. But stainless steel utensils are apt to more expensive than others. The top-of-the-range utensils will claim most of the budget. Baking equipment is usually less of an item. To start with you'll probably need, says Miss March:

A cookie sheet, muffin tin, eight or 12 cup capacity; a loaf pan in a round cake pans, two eight-inch square cake pans, two eight-inch square cake pans (just right for the package mixes), pie pan, and covered roaster which is shallow enough to use as an open roasting pan.

I would add an inexpensive broiler pan and rack on which you can broil a chop or two without messing up the large range broiler, and a covered casserole that can go from oven to table.

MATURE PARENT
By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Many children live with endless variations on themes like these: "I've got such a headache I can't see. . . I suppose I'll have to fix it myself. . . What chance have I got to see a dentist?" "Don't tell me you've torn that shirt. I just mended it. My feet are killing me. . . I'm so tired I could die."

These are complaints. In each of them, the complainer has put a hidden message. His message demands, "Get me over this headache. Fix my shirt. Take me to the dentist. Buy yourself a new shirt. Provide me with new feet. Perform my work for me."

For they cannot grant them. Five-year-old Joe cannot take his father to the dentist. 10-year-old Anna cannot provide her mother with new feet. Neither can undertake to arrange a vacation for her or solve any of their parents' other problems. The idea that they can is absurd.

The tragedy is, neither Joe nor Anna know it's absurd. For the demands are hidden and indirect, not specific and open to expose their absurdity. So what Joe and Anna conclude is that their complaining parent wants something from them — and is disappointed in them for their failure to provide it.

The result is the 20th century's ruthless and pervasive sense of guilt. For complainers abound. And we see daily the effects of association with them in anxious, apprehensive people, harassed with their accusations they have never identified, with shame of failure that never occurred.

Let's beware of complainer's hidden demands on children. If we must demand of them, let's demand openly. The anatomy of the complainer is very simple. He just does not know what he wants. He imagines he does. But what he's really asking is, "Make me know myself loved. Make me know myself valuable. Give me the peace of self-acceptance in place of this restless, resentful discontent."

LGA BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

The Ladies Golf Association sponsored a bridge tournament Friday in the Country Club, with proceeds to go toward redecorating the powder room. Participating in the event were 56 women, with Mrs. Ham Luna and Mrs. Ralph Dunbar taking first place honors, and Mrs. Floyd Imel and Mrs. Clarence Lutes as runners-up. In charge of the event was Mrs. Luna, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Sidwell and Mrs. Jim Nation. (News photo)

Baptist SS Class Is Given Coffee

Mrs. Bob Clements entertained members of the Bible Learners' Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church recently with a coffee.

The opening prayer was given by Mrs. E. L. Tarrant, with Mrs. Ellen Shipp, class teacher, giving the devotional. Mrs. Shipp was introduced by Mrs. O. B. Schiffman, president.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Shipp and Mrs. Schiffman from members of the class. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Schiffman.

Refreshments of fruit, cakes and coffee were served during the social period. Attending were Meses Myron Spencer, Parker Mangham, Herman Whaley, Fred Hinkley, Virgil Harness, Eula F. Johnson, O. O. Williams, E. L. Tarrant, Shipp, Schiffman and Clements.

RUTH MILLETT

Today I'd like to present the case of a woman who managed to lose 25 pounds without talking about it until she reached her goal.

If you don't think that's unusual, how many women do you know who are able to diet without making their diet their chief topic of conversation?

How many women do you know who can go to a party and refuse the sweet tidbits offered or take one and keep it on their plates without making every woman who is eating them feel like a hog?

How many women do you know who can turn down a hostess' whipped cream dessert without groaning out loud about the probable number of calories in it?

How many women do you know who can diet for even a few days without letting everyone they know in on their secret and all its agonizing details?

But a woman can diet quietly and unobtrusively and not become a bore or a martyr in the process. I'm sure of that. I know one who did. In fact, she was so careful not to bore other people with her diet, or rob others of the joy of eating, or to make her hostess feel guilty for providing a meal of tempting dishes that she slimmed down to a trim, girlish figure almost before her friends realized what was happening.

When they did start to notice and started asking questions she merely said, "Oh, I've been watching calories for some time now" and let her perfect chance for discussion her diet go by the board. She is the only dieter I know who has been quiet about her project and one of the few whose diet problems haven't become boring to her friends.

Types, Uses Of Pliers Are Explained For Edification Of The Handywoman

Good pliers can be a handy-woman's best tool. They are fingers of steel — holding, gripping, twisting, bending, slipping into places your own fingers cannot reach.

Pliers come in more than thirty different shapes, each with a specific function. Fortunately, you can run a well-equipped workshop with no more than five pairs, and many first-rank home handymen have done very well with only two kinds.

Combination pliers, with an adjustable jaw opening, are the most widely used. A joining pin is firmly fixed in one arm, and the other arm is notched so that it can slip back and forth. This device enables you to grip firmly objects from a width of several inches down to one of a minute fraction of an inch.

The teeth of combination pliers usually are sharp and crossed, like those of a wire wrench. A short shearing edge, often found next to the head, is useful for wire cutting. You can use these pliers to grip and pull small nails, remove rivets or bolts, or to give you a firm grasp on objects you are working on.

Different manufacturers offer many style refinements. One popular type has a "pistol grip." Both handles are curved, and the lower one fits your finger grip, enabling you to make a direct pull more easily because you get added power from your forearm.

A locking combination plier has built-in leverage that exerts great pressure. When the handles are locked, you can use the pliers as a small pipe wrench or vise.

Side-cutting pliers are a must for electrical work. You can use them to cut and splice steel wires and small nails, but if you make handles are curved, and the lower one fits your finger grip, enabling you to make a direct pull more easily because you get added power from your forearm.

Short-nose pliers are primarily designed to bend and hold curved wires and strips. You will find these pliers handy in working with "eyes and chain links." Both jaws are round and tapered near the end, enabling you to make curves of small radius with the tips and much wider curves with the base of the jaws.

Diagonal pliers are unexcelled at cutting. Their cutting edges extend the length of the jaws, and they make clean cuts on all types of copper wire. This cutting edges are on a slant so that you can easily make flush cut-offs of rivets or nails. You also can use them effectively to remove small nails where the heads are flush with a surface, or to pull cotter pins.

If you are just beginning to acquire workshop tools, you probably will find the combination pliers and the side-cutters the most useful at first. It will pay you to buy the best, because well-made pliers, properly cared for, will last a lifetime. You can tell quality pliers by the careful machining of the joint which holds the two sides together. The pin of better pliers usually is ground flush with the sides, and the pivot operates smoothly and firmly.

Rubinoff Scheduled For Pampa Concert

When Dave Rubinoff appears in popular concert in Pampa in the Junior High School Auditorium Dec. 8, he will perform as violin solos the full scores of Chopin's "Polonaise," the "Warsaw Concerto," and "Rhapsody in Blue."

The American public has grown to love these numbers arranged for piano and orchestra, but Rubinoff feels they lend themselves to violin equally as well.

A graduate of the Royal Conservatory in Warsaw, Poland, Rubinoff knew as a child the martial feeling inspired by the immortal "Polonaise." Even with freedom today confronted with tyranny and treachery as Chopin knew it, the opus is appropriate as a current theme of the times.

He was more fortunate in preparing the soul stirring "Warsaw Concerto" as the Composer Richard Addinsell worked with him on the transcribed violin version. Mr. Addinsell felt after hearing Rubinoff play the Concerto that it was a new revelation in depth of feeling as only the violin could express it.

You may purchase tickets from Altruosa Club members and hear these premiere performances on the violin. Proceeds will go into the Altruosa scholarship fund.

Catholic Women Slate Luncheon

Holy Souls' Parish of Catholic Women and the Altar Society will hold a joint luncheon meeting at 1 p.m. Wednesday in Parish Hall.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. R. D. Falkenstein, whose topic will be "Catholic Contribution to Medicine."

Hostesses for the event will be Mrs. H. Waddell, chairman; and Meses George Dillman, R. Palmer, E. B. Daley and Don Grubson.

White Deer Bridge Club Has Meeting

WHITE DEER — (Special) — The Luncheon Bridge Club resumed full meetings recently, in the home of Mrs. Otis Holladay. A "Back-to-School" theme was followed in decorations and the luncheon plates.

Members who attended were Meses Bill Abbott, Everett Butler, Joe Bates, Richard Barnes, M. A. Gann, Wayne Jordan, W. T. Townsend, Alvin Williams, L. A. Puckett, Horace Williams, and the hostess.

A guest, Mrs. Clifton Shafer, won high and traveling prizes. Second high prize went to Mrs. Alvin Williams.

Coffee Presented For Perryton Lady

PERRYTON — (Special) — A coffee and baby shower was given Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Gordon Shackelford, 1406 S. Fordham, in honor of Mrs. Jack M. Allen Mrs. Tom Knighton was co-hostess.

A corsage of pink roses was presented Mrs. Allen. The serving table was decorated with an arrangement of pink asters with blue candles at either side.

Those present were Meses J. B. Whigham, G. K. Rupperecht, Warren Cudd, Mrs. Harold Hudson, Clair Brillhart, Sidney Jines, Alton Boxwell, and Ray Vahue.

ALTHOUGH NOBODY seems to agree how best to prepare Maryland fried chicken, all the variations are delicious.

Two Ways To Prepare Maryland Fried Chicken

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor
Even in Maryland all good cooks do not agree on how to prepare Maryland-fried chicken. Some call for cooking the chicken in a sauce or gravy, others for frying the chickens and serving a creamy gravy over the crispy fried pieces. Others called for deep fat frying and no gravy at all.

Below we give two variations on the popular theme. Both are tender and delicious.

COOK'S NOOK

ONE CHICKEN, cut up for frying; 1 egg, slightly beaten; 1 cup milk, salt and pepper; 1 1/2 cups cracker crumbs; 1/2 cup butter or margarine, shortening, 2 cups hot milk.

Combine egg and 1 cup milk. Season chicken pieces with salt and pepper, dip into egg-mixture and roll in crumbs. Heat butter and enough shortening in a heavy skillet to make a layer of fat 1/4 inch deep. Brown chicken. Add 2 cups hot milk, cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes, or until tender.

Note: This may also be prepared on top of the range.

PIMENTO CHICKEN SKILLET
(4 servings)
One chicken, cut up for frying; 1/2 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 cup shortening. One 10 1/2-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup, 1 cup milk, 1 small onion, sliced; 1/4 cup sliced pimento olives.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour. Remove cover. Stir in a little more milk if gravy appears too thick. Sprinkle olives over chicken. Cover. Bake 10 minutes. Serve hot, right from the skillet, if desired.

A Trip To Mars?

An American aircraft engineer, Kraft A. Ehrlicke, who used to be a German rocket specialist and now makes a living as a missile engineer for Convair at San Diego, has figured out that a rocket trip to Mars would cost only $500,000.

This is the rough estimate he gave to delegates of the International Astronautical meeting in Denmark to show that research isn't as expensive as people think. Of course, Mr. Ehrlicke probably isn't figuring his costs on the basis of a government budget, and we can't imagine any private concern shooting a rocket to Mars just for the sake of watching the pyrotechnics.

One of these days men may tread the deserts of Mars. There is so much glamor to the idea that the politicians may not face too much protest in digging into the public purse for the research and the experiment.

But men won't really reach for the stars until the day comes when there will be a profit in sending a space ship out to the planets. In the meantime, it is a sad commentary on attitudes of human beings that the principal reason for research into rockets and satellites is a by-product of research to discover weapons with which men can kill each other more efficiently.

Any Questions?

Robert M. Hutchins, president of the thing called the Ford for the Republic, after there were a few more lifted eyebrows about the Ford Foundation which supports the fund, says that his organization has spent $2,500,000 or more in inquiries aimed at defending civil liberties.

Hutchins and his organization find that there are threats to these liberties — particularly the liberties of Reds, Pinks, and the rest of the pack of bums in that category.

We don't recall seeing any report that the pile of Ford money poured out for the aid and comfort of the Pinks and Reds that was expended in an investigation of the case of Manuel and Lucille Miller, Vermont patriots. We don't remember hearing anything about the Ford for the Republic rising in defense of Mrs. Mary Turner who has been hounded and persecuted by authorities of two states because she wanted the right to educate her own children.

It is also interesting to note that the Ford Fund for the Republic has made an "award" of $5000 to a Pennsylvania library board which refused to dismiss a librarian named Mrs. Mary Knowles. Mrs. Knowles had invoked the Fifth Amendment when questioned by the Senate Internal Security Committee. Hutchins said that the money was given to the board for "courageous and effective defense of democratic principles."

Is there any question about what the Ford for the Republic stands for?

The Doctor Says

It has been pointed out in these columns, on many occasions, that rheumatic fever in children is not only a serious disease at the time it hits, but is also one of the most important causes of heart disease in later life.

Although there are still many gaps in our knowledge of rheumatic fever, great progress has been made and all of us should join in the campaign being conducted by the American Heart Association to "stop rheumatic fever."

Rheumatic fever is a disease which may involve almost any part of the body but shows a particular liking for the joints, heart and blood vessels.

Although the exact cause remains unknown, an attack of rheumatic fever usually follows an infection with a germ of the streptococcal family.

TONSILLITIS, streptococcal sore throat and scarlet fever are among these streptococcal diseases which are so often followed, usually in two to four weeks, by rheumatic fever.

It seems that rheumatic fever itself is not contagious, but the streptococcal infections, or at

Disadvantages Of A Government Of Men

The last couple of days I have had considerable to say about the advantages of a government of principles over a government of men. Now I want to point out some of the disadvantages that come from a government of men rather than a government of eternal laws.

We have a very concrete example of how a government of men frightens people and causes great loss by the illness of President Eisenhower. The first day the stock market opened after his heart attack, the industrial averages dropped $31.89. The rails dropped $11.15. While stocks went down under price control like wheat, cotton and corn commodities went up. Because the public evidently believed that another administration would be willing to buy up more cotton, corn and wheat by taxing others to do so.

What the voters do not seem to understand is that in the final analysis the consumer pays for all waste of government.

This drop, of course, was due to the fact that a great number of people believe that our government and well-being is subjected to the will of one man and that President Eisenhower was not a man that followed principles. If he had followed principles he would never have opposed the Bricker Amendment, never advocated enlarging Social Security, never continued squandering billions on foreign nations because all of these acts are not based on principles but based on the use of aggressive force. They are not based on the belief that all men are owners of themselves and all they produce. They are not based on the commandment "Thou Shalt Not Steal" or "Thou Shalt Not Covet."

They are based on the theory that change or the majority determines right or "principles."

A government of men, of course, is responsible for the rapid fluctuation of the purchasing power of a dollar. And of course this is due to man-made laws that attempt to regulate the value of a dollar by increasing and decreasing credit. This is done by such laws as govern the Federal Reserve System, which is a government of men, and by giving the government the power to change the gold content of a dollar that is a legal man-made way of robbing creditors for the benefit of debtors.

Another great disadvantage of a government of men is protective tariffs and immigration quotas. And when men believe they have a right to make laws that confine other men in certain territories and penalize them for selling their labor to the world's highest bidder, we are bound to cause other nations to use defensive force against these laws which are based on aggressive force.

In other words, these acts of men that contradict principles are bound to lead to wars and wars are bound to lead to drafting soldiers, ill-will, ever-increasing taxes retarding the production of capital, and a much lower standard of living than would exist under a government of eternal laws rather than a government of whimsical, concealed, exalted politicians.

Moral Decay
And a government of men, of course, is bound to weaken character and cause moral decay. This is true because a government of men is always of the opinion that they have a right to use aggressive force to get control of organized "education" that corrupts and degrades the character of the pupils under the domination and control of those using aggressive force in tax-supported government schools.

Of course, the greatest harm of a government of men over a government of eternal laws is that there are no eternal principles. And this, of course, means that if there are no eternal principles there are no eternal natural rights that belong to each and every man as set forth in the Declaration of Independence. And when men are taught by men operating under a government of men rather than a government of laws that there are no eternal moral principles, that whatever works is right, we have confusion. We have people bewildered. We stunt the growth of the intellect of the youth that is grabbed by the use of the police pistol to be indoctrinated by unprincipled men who cannot tell the standard they use to determine right from wrong.

The reason we made more progress materially than any other country in the world was because we had less of a government of men before 1865, after we had freed the slaves, up until 1913 when we passed the Graduated Income Tax and the Clayton Amendment to the Anti-Sherman Trust Law and the Federal Reserve System in 1914. From that time on we have been adopting one law after another that was based on no principles but was nothing but a government of willful men.

As this column said previously, there is nothing we need more than to realize the great harm and injury that comes from a government of men rather than a government of eternal laws.

Eisenhower's Illness Will Handicap Peace Efforts

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—All forthcoming efforts to terminate or alleviate world discords and disputes will suffer seriously from President Eisenhower's illness, even if it is only temporary — two or three months for convalescence. Should it remove him from the political and diplomatic stage permanently, the few gains already achieved may vanish.

It is true that major foreign policies have been fixed and well defined. President Eisenhower has also built a team to execute them — Dulles, Hoover, Lodge, Stassen. But time and again in recent weeks, there have arisen questions of such dimensions that only the President could decide them. There was no "just as good" man around the White House, State Department or United Nations.

In several disputes with the Russians before the current session of the U.N. and its committees, Foreign Minister Molotov has asked penetrating and disconcerting questions about Ike's disarmament program, especially about proposed exchanges of blueprints and aerial inspection of military installations. For instance:

Does Eisenhower's plan include this country's far-flung bases, in Japan, South Korea, Formosa and Hawaii as well as those in Western Europe? Does it embrace the war-making facilities and potentials of our NATO Allies? Who would supervise the supervisors? Would the date be deposited with a central agency, or will it simply be exchanged?

None of the trio at New York — Dulles, Lodge, Stassen — could answer these interrogations, for they disagree among themselves. In fact, Ike's absence from the White House alone caused such delay that Molotov still awaits a reply.

This is only one of many examples of the unfortunate effect which prolonged invalidism may have on problems before the U.N., and on questions which will be raised at the October 27 meeting of the Foreign Ministers, assuming that it starts on schedule.

But Ike's role has been far greater than that of a mere negotiator or executor. No American presents such a commanding figure to enemies and neutrals alike, due to his World War II and NATO service. When nonparticipants in the "cold war" wavered or doubted, they supported the United States because they trusted him.

Embassy In Rome Is Not For America, But For Luce

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ROME — It would be hard to imagine more insulting impudence toward the millions of Americans who admired Senator Robert Taft and shared his patriotic principles than the culture fest in Rome which I have been discussing in recent essays. These Americans with few exceptions, finally voted for Eisenhower only to repudiate Truman, his guttersnipe tactics expressed in the term "Give 'em Hell" and the diluted patriotism of the Roosevelt-Truman reign.

Ike was not acceptable to real Republicans. The New York Times and Henry Luce began the ballyhoo for Ike. The Times is a Democratic paper and Luce has no known political principles.

Paul Hoffman, now of the Ford Fund for the Republic, was one of many spectacular opportunists in the conspiracy to ride off Taft. Hoffman had spent billions for the glorification of General George Marshall who could not remember where he was when the Pearl Harbor warning was trying to catch up with him and 3,000 American service men were sitting ducks. After Chicago, Hoffman actually horrified Taft's following with an abusive outburst against a citizen incomparably finer than himself which sounded as though it had been written by Truman about General MacArthur.

There is mystery about this culture fest. It did not just happen. It was put over by the American embassy where Luce's wife, Clare tends bar and the American culturists were all typical of Henry Luce's political associations. Hoffman is a director of Luce's, a director as well of the Encyclopedia Britannica and Encyclopedia Britannica films, a propaganda project.

Robert M. Hutchins, like Hoffman, a director of the Ford Fund for the Republic, also is a director of both Britannica propositions and so are William Benton and Chester Bowles, Connecticut politicians, but Democrats and close associates of Luce and his wife. Bowles is a director of the Fund for the Republic. He was Joe McCarthy who personally, knocked Benton out of the Senate with speeches in Bridgeport and Danbury. There has been no more abusive voice than Luce's in the whole grand clamor against the principal opponent of cultivated treason in the government.

So, all of a sudden, we get an attack of culture and the grand lady of the scenario is Luce's wife.

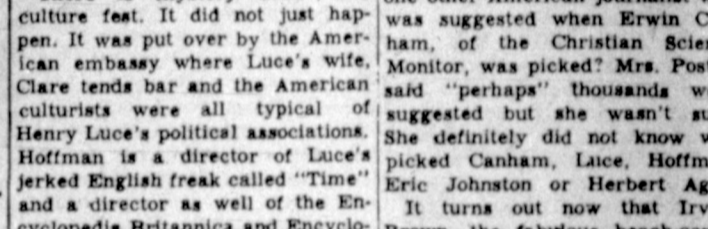

A gamin of destiny who revealed her own culture in an usually amity Broadway show called "The Women." And Luce, himself, by miraculous coincidence, finds himself on the program for a speech, so unimportant that the title was not given. But who is the bull of the woods in this rodeo? It is Paul Hoffman. He never went beyond the first year at the University of Chicago where Hutchins was president and Benton is still a director, but he holds more than 30 synthetic or phoney degrees. His selection for this exercise was not only an affront to the Americans whose character was so grossly misrepresented by this political exploit of the American embassy.

In Who's Who, both Hoffman and Hutchins claim that they are still trustees of the Ford Foundation. This is not true because, Hoffman admitted here, they both got out in 1953 and both are now with Ford's Fund for the Republic. This is a relatively minor layout but a menace nevertheless in the agreed opinion of reputable citizens whose conduct suffers nothing by comparison with theirs.

I asked Mrs. Elena Postlos, the secretary of the Italian-American Association, what person picked Luce and Hoffman and why from 160 million Americans as representatives of our culture. She said, "I don't know." Could she name one other American journalist who was suggested when Erwin Canham, of the Christian Science Monitor, was picked? Mrs. Postlos said "perhaps" thousands were suggested but she wasn't sure. She definitely did not know who picked Canham, Luce, Hoffman, Eric Johnston or Herbert Agar.

It turns out now that Irving Brown, the fabulous beach-comber of the Lubinsky international political conspiracies, first caught the brass ring in Europe in Hoffman's economic cooperation administration which is still doing business on a reduced scale. The very day Hoffman sounded off in Rome, The Daily Worker in New York praised 19 "awards" by the fund for the Republic to authors of books and scripts and added: "Anyone can see that some of these works represent the finest thinking of the American people. It is urgent that the public immediately throw its support behind the production of some of these on TV and in the movies."

This is not our embassy. This embassy belongs to Henry Luce and his wife for the promotion of some exceedingly off-color Republicans.

...with JAMES C. WOODBERRY, President, Spiritual Mobilization

In a speech to the recent Bretton Woods, N. H., conference of the National Association of Attorneys General, Sen. Styles Bridges, said, according to news reports, that the United States has 6 per cent of the population, 7 per cent of the area, and 9 per cent of the resources of the world — and a national debt greater than the combined debts of all the other nations.

Under these circumstances, Sen. Bridges reportedly declared, the time has come to call a halt to indiscriminate economic support of the 70 countries the United States has been supporting.

With this I most heartily agree. But, as I was reading this, I asked myself, "How does it happen that, with only 6 per cent of the population, 7 per cent of the area, and 9 per cent of the resources of the world, the United States is, in the reported words of Sen. Bridges, the last free, strong, and independent nation to which other countries can look for aid?"

I think the answer is primarily that America once came more nearly applying Christian principles to more areas of its life — including, importantly, the economic areas — than has any other nation. Freedom under God has "paid off" — spectacularly — in this country, insofar as we have practiced it. And it will do the same in any other country that has the moral stamina to put it into practice.

sincerely and honestly. When Pravda and Izvestia praise Ike, but express regret that "others" still sing a martial tune, they refer to Nixon and Dulles. In these hard days, regrettable as it may be, there is no satisfactory substitute for plain old "Ike."

They Made Judy Garland Spectacular A Dull Show

By HENRY McLEMORE

The Columbia Broadcasting System and the Ford Motor Company invited me to attend their Jubilee show starring Judy Garland in color, so I am quite sure they won't object if I write something about it.

I am not a licensed television expert, so I may well be wrong in my opinion, which is that someone connected with the venture accomplished the well-nigh impossible — they made a Judy Garland show a dull show.

I say Miss Garland do just about the same show at the Palace in New York in 1951, and she was a knock-out with clusters. But that time she was the whole show, and not bogged down in a squagline of reverence for the old Palace.

'Next Year' May Be Here At Last

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK—UP—This could be the long-awaited day on which "next year" finally comes to Brooklyn.

Alston Has Casey Backed Into Corner

By NORMAN MILLER
NEW YORK—UP—Casey Stengel, the "Ole Perfessor" whose World Series record is unmatched in baseball history, was backed into an uncomfortable corner Monday by Walt Alston, a "bush-league" manager whose job many had thought was too big for him.

Alston, the raw-boned "quiet man" who in his two seasons as Dodger manager has been criticized by his players, the press and Brooklyn fans alike, has an opportunity to succeed where Wilbert Robinson, Leo Durocher, Burt Shotton, and Charley Dressen failed before him. He can bring Brooklyn its first world championship in 52 years.

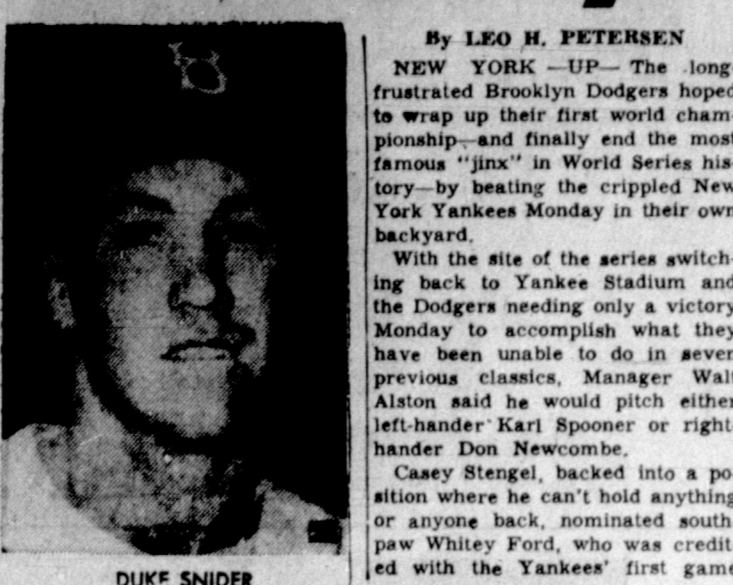

Dark Horse Is Winner At Long Island

HUNTINGTON, N.Y.—UP—A near-record finish with a three-under-par 67 Evans tournament dark horse Max Evans of Utica, Mich., a $2,400 first prize—the largest he's ever won—in the Long Island Rotary Clubs' Open golf tournament.

Graham Puts Cleveland On The Track

Otto Graham, Cleveland's returning warrior, was back on the beam Monday and so were the defending champion Browns following another wild weekend of upheavals in the National Football League.

Brooklyn Feels Jinx Is Dead

DUKE SNIDER

Snider Hopes To Tie DiMaggio Mark

By LEO H. PETERSEN
NEW YORK—UP—The long-frustrated Brooklyn Dodgers hoped to wrap up their first world championship—and finally end the most famous "jinx" in World Series history—by beating the crippled New York Yankees Monday in their own backyard.

With the site of the series switching back to Yankee Stadium and the Dodgers needing only a victory Monday to accomplish what they have been unable to do in seven previous classics, Manager Walt Alston said he would pitch either left-hander Karl Spooner or right-hander Don Newcombe.

Casey Stengel, backed into a position where he can't hold anything or anyone back, nominated south-paw Whitey Ford, who was credited with the Yankees' first game victory although he failed to go the distance.

Despite the fact that Mickey Mantle was on the sidelines again Monday and Hank Bauer, Irv Noren and Joe Collins were nursing assorted ills of their own, the odds-makers installed the Yankees 6-to-5 favorites for Monday's contest, the sixth game in the series.

The odds favoring the Dodgers win the series, however, jumped from 13-to-10 to 13-to-5 after they won their third straight game at Ebbets Field Sunday, 5-3, with the aid of two more homers by Duke Snider, and went ahead of the Yankees, three games to two.

The weather bureau predicted some cloudiness and continued cool with the temperatures in the 60's Monday's clash. Should the Dodgers win Monday, it would mark not only their first World Series triumph, but also make them "jinx-busters" as the first team in history to drop the first two games and rally to win the title in a seven-game series.

District Play Arkansas, Baylor Begins In 4-A In Lone SWC Tilt

By UNITED PRESS
Texas schoolboy football's upper echelon teams start whanging away at each other in furious intradistrict warfare this week with Texas' Southwest Conference football schedule, but the spotlight swings back to the intersectional fronts after a disastrous week against outsiders.

Arkansas, frustrated by power-happy Texas Christian 26-0 in its first attempt to defend its 1954 crown, invades Waco Saturday night to provide the opposition for Baylor's opening blast in search of the Bears' first championship in 32 years.

The rest of the league seeks to avenge last week's three losses and a tie against non-loop foes with the 50th annual renewal of the Texas-Oklahoma grid argument at Dallas heading up the slate.

TCU unbeaten
TCU, the only team with an unblemished record after three weeks of play, puts its top 10 ranking on the line at Tuscaloosa, Ala., against a green Alabama team that has lost its first two starts to Rice and Vanderbilt.

MODERN VERSION — Carlo Collodi's wooden puppet, "Pinocchio," is being refashioned in bronze by sculptor Emilio Greco, shown in Rome finishing the chalk model. The modernistic statue shows the puppet looking up at the Blue-Haired Fairy, his protector in the story known by children of many countries. A heron, topping the work, symbolizes Pinocchio's change into a real boy. Funds for the statue, which will stand in the Gardens of Collodi in the author's home town of Pescia, Italy, were donated by children from all over the world.
