Pampa Gets .04 Inch Of Rainfall

A total of .04 of an inch of rain fell in Pampa last night. The light rain, while of no economic importance, served to cool off and "air-condition" the area. Other Top of Texas area communities received rains but rainfall totals were not available late this morning. A flurry of thunderstorms lashed large sections of West Texas with high winds, rain and hail late Thursday and Thursday night, killing one person and injuring at least two others. George William Maye, 39, was killed instantly late Thursday when lightning struck him in the head as he and two other men were harvesting watermelons two miles south of Muleshoe. Two Lubbock policemen, Lt. John Thomas and Patrolman Loyd Wilson, suffered minor injuries and shock when lightning struck a power line transformer a few feet from where they were investigating a traffic accident Thursday night. Both officers were hospitalized, but attendants said their conditions were good Friday. Series of Storms The storms at Muleshoe and Lubbock were part of a series that struck through the night across the South Plains into the (See PAMPA, Page 3)

Choir Singer's Off-Key Song Is Winner

By RUSS GREEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—A church choir singer who is all mixed up geographically won Thursday night's talent round at the Miss America pageant with a hilarious, off-key rendition of "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier."

Gloria Ruth Rupprecht, 19, daughter of a Lutheran minister, shared the contest as Miss Indiana. But she was born in Chicago and lived in Winston-Salem, N.C., before moving with her father to St. Petersburg, Fla. two years ago. Miss Rupprecht now attends Valparaiso University in Indiana, her stepping-off point to the state contest which she won.

She conceivably was the first contestant in history of the pageant to win a talent competition by singing off key. Her three-minute act which earned her a $1,000 scholarship was that of a scared young soprano making her theatrical debut singing "My Hero."

Miss Georgia—tall Jody, Elizabeth Shattuck—20, was judged the finest among 17 swim suit competitors as she swept down the 120 foot runway in a white satin creation gold threaded about the bodice.

Miss Shattuck, 5-foot, 9-inch tall and 130 pounds, blue-eyed and blonde, had 27-24-38 measurements. She attended St. Lawrence University and the University of Georgia for one year each. She was born in Pittsburgh.

High Comedy Wins
Once again, it took high comedy to win the talent division. Miss Indiana had to win out over excellent performances by Miss Vermont, displaying her own paintings in an original skit with original music; Miss North Carolina's comic treatment of a news celebrity before the cameras; Miss Idaho's solo from "Die Fledermaus"; Miss Utah's violin presentation; Miss Nevada's piano solo, Miss Maryland's reading of a letter to her parents and Miss Minnesota's excerpts from "My Fair Lady."

Two thefts were reported by City Police yesterday and today, involving a billfold and a car radio. The first occurred yesterday afternoon about 2:30 when Marvin Lee Parker, of 937 S. Sumner, reported that his billfold had disappeared from his pocket. The wallet was of dark brown plain leather, and contained $100 along with personal papers. At 8 a.m. today, Dwayne Lyon of 2015 Hamilton, reported that the equipment radio had been taken from his car. Lyon stated that his '55 Pontiac had been in his driveway since about 7 last night and the radio had been taken some time between then and 8 this morning. Police are investigating the case.

Little Rock Situation Quietens

Eike Receives Report On Situation

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEWPORT, R. I. (UP)—President Eisenhower, who has warned he will use all his powers to enforce school integration in the South, received a report today that "everything was quiet", for the time at least, in Little Rock, Ark., storm center of the controversy. The report came from Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., in Washington and was relayed to the President by White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly, who had telephoned Brownell early this morning. Eisenhower told Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus in a telegram Thursday night he would use his constitutional powers to enforce the court-ordered integration of Central High School in Little Rock.

Shortly after receiving Brownell's report, the President left his naval base office on Coaster's Island for another round of golf at the Newport Country Club. In the strongest stand the President has taken on school integration, Eisenhower urged Faubus to end his resistance to the court-ordered integration and to cooperate with the U.S. district court.

The President pointedly reminded Faubus that the Arkansas National Guard, called out by the governor to stop integration, was "unarmed, armed and partially sustained" by the federal government.

The Chief Executive, theoretically on a vacation here in New England, was not—as yet—at the point of direct federal action. Eisenhower, however, was confronted by a materially changed situation since he told a press conference some months ago that he could not conceive of a situation in which state troops would be required to oppose the orders of the federal government.

The President, to put it mildly, was displeased by what he regarded as private conversations as ridiculous charges by Faubus that the federal government was about to throw the Arkansas governor in jail. The President also said there simply was no truth to the fears of Faubus that the federal government had tapped the telephones of the modest executive mansion in Little Rock.

Eisenhower, who must act on the civil rights bill by next Wednesday night, approached the Little Rock crisis with customary reserve. As an experienced military commander, the President does not like to enter any fight unless he has a better than even chance of winning. Hence, his slow-burn on Faubus.

Army Says Buying Is Tightened

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Army says it has tightened military buying practices but that getting responsible contractors who will live up to their obligations is "one of the most perplexing problems in military procurement of textiles."

Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker made the statement after the Senate Permanent Investigating subcommittee charged that a "netfarious group" of military clothing contractors sold the government substandard goods for "unconscionable" profits. The subcommittee in a scathing report issued Thursday night called on the Justice Department to bring prosecution "against the individuals whose testimony or activities indicate criminal offenses." The lawmakers questioned the activities of several quartermaster employees but reserved their severest criticism for Herman and Samuel Kravitz, two New York clothing operators. The report said their activities in supplying military clothing were "amoral and contemptible, made more so by the fact that they were defrauding the military services during the time of war and death for American military men in Korea."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), made the statements in a 58-page report on its extensive investigation and testimony taken last year into military clothing contracts.

Weapons Rushed To Mid-East Area

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States today rushed plans to speed weapon deliveries to the Middle East as a bulwark against possible Syrian aggression with Soviet arms. Officials said President Eisenhower gave a green light for rapid air delivery of "certain military items" to Jordan and faster delivery of weapons to Saudi Arabia, Iraq and perhaps other Middle Eastern countries. Turkey, one of Syria's neighbors, is scheduled to receive 100,000 rounds of American F100 Super Sabre jet fighters.

The new American interest in increasing arms shipments to Arab states immediately raised the question of whether more arms would be shipped to Israel. Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban was expected to put the question before U.S. officials at a scheduled meeting next week.

Additional decisive steps to counter Moscow's stepped-up penetration of Syria may follow an extraordinary meeting at the White House Saturday between the President, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Loy W. Henderson, Henderson just returned from a Middle Eastern fact-finding tour. The President will fly to Washington from his vacation retreat at Newport, R.I., for the conference.

Pampan To Preside Over Conference

Richard G. Hughes, of Pampa, chairman of the board of Trustees, National Housing Center, Washington, D.C., will preside over the First Annual Executive Marketing Conference to be held Sept. 12 at the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco, Calif.

Henry R. Luce, editor and publisher of Time, Inc., will be the principal speaker at the gathering which will bring together for the first time more than 200 senior officers of the country's largest manufacturers of building materials and equipment.

Late this morning, Roan was continuing the investigation in an effort to learn the identity of the burglars and reported that employees of the store were making an inventory to determine if other items were taken.

Girard's Trial Resumes

By JOHN ZIMMERMANN

MAEBASHI, Japan (UP)—Two Japanese scrap metal pickers testified today at the trial of U.S. Army Specialist 3C William S. Girard that many Americans fired shell casings at them and "laughed and clapped their hands when we ran away." The statements by Noburo Matsuzawa and Mon-ya Hoshino were among 30 affidavits filed by the prosecution at the second session of the trial that has created an international controversy. They said U.S. soldiers often fired blanks, shell casings and phosphorus grenades at Japanese villagers who made their living selling used shell casings they picked up in the Camp Weir firing range north of Tokyo to sell as scrap metal. Girard, of Ottawa, Ill., was

Postponement Of Hearing Is Expected

The hearing scheduled in District Court this morning for Mrs. and Mrs. Ezra Foster, 632 Tignor, on charges of neglecting their children was expected to be postponed, according to County Attorney Don Cain.

Cain stated that the attorney for the defendants, Jack Hood of Borger, was to request that the trial be by jury. District Attorney Bill Waters was in conference this morning and could not be contacted as to the probable date the trial would be set.

No action has been taken on the setting of the new date for the trial by jury. The couple pleaded not guilty in County Court last Saturday to charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor in giving their 3-year-old daughter beer on or about Aug. 23. The couple has seven children and the County Court has given the custody of the children to the grandparents until the case is settled.

More than 40 new teachers in the school system are expected, and business people are invited to attend and become acquainted with them. Games designed for getting acquainted are scheduled with prizes offered. Fifteen door prizes are to be given away also. Those in charge of the prizes are Dick Stowers, O. K. Gaylor and Gene Line. Kay Fancher is in charge of the games, and Hamilton will make the general arrangements and provide for background music.

FELT HAT DAY

It's Felt Hat Day in Pampa tomorrow and Miss Johnnie Lee Smith, "Miss Pampa of 1957," is shown looking over men's hat selections in a local dry goods store. The local beauty was contemplating purchasing one for "the man in her life." The day became official when Mayor Lynn Boyd proclaimed Saturday, "Felt Hat Day in Pampa." (News Photo)

Dunlap's Department Store Is Burglarized

The burglars who entered Dunlap's, 119 N. Cuyler, last night not only needed money but also clothes. The police department received a report of the burglary from Jerry Cole, manager, at 8:30 this morning. Preliminary investigation revealed that two men's suits, two ladies' coats and $61.07 were taken from the firm. Lt. Dennis Roan of the police department reported that a key to the store was obtained through an upstairs window that faces on the alley. A small roof is located below the window, Roan stated, and the burglars pried off the screen on the window and pushed in a board that was nailed over a broken pane in the window. The money was taken from a cash box in the office. Roan reported that the box was bolted to the wall in the office but that the key to the cash box was in a drawer less than a foot away from the box. The tray, containing bills, was taken from the cash box. Roan reported that no effort was made to enter either of the two safes located in the store. The two men's suits were taken from the display rack. Store employees reported that the two suits were Botany 500 suits and were both size 42. One of the suits was midnight blue in color and had a pattern of black checks while the other suit was brown and black checked in color. The suits were valued at $65 each. Not satisfied with the men's suits, the burglars also took two ladies' short coats. One of the coats was a Sport Line of California, size 10-12, and was khaki colored with a leopard collar and lining. It was valued at $24.95. The other coat was a Mary Lane, size 12, tweed short coat with a quilted red lining and was valued at $29.95. Late this morning, Roan was continuing the investigation in an effort to learn the identity of the burglars and reported that employees of the store were making an inventory to determine if other items were taken.

Ben Jack Faces More Questioning

DALLAS (UP)—Ben Jack Cage, with a lie detector test under his belt, returns for more questions today from the Dallas county grand jury. Cage took a polygraph test for the special grand jury Thursday and while he was undergoing it, his attorney, M. R. Iron, announced Cage will appear before the Travis county grand jury investigating the collapse of ICT Insurance Co. next Monday. District Attorney Henry Wade refused to reveal results of the test although Iron asked they be made public. Cage said the test was given at his request, a request he made in Mexico City before he returned to Texas. Austin District Attorney Lee Procter said Cage will testify before the Austin grand jury for three days and then will begin open testimony before a House special investigating committee next Thursday. In Austin Thursday, the Travis county grand jury heard from Steve Boone, who served as advertising manager for ICT, and said he was "moderately close" to Cage.

Raymond Massey To Play Part Of Abe Lincoln Again

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Spare, matinee Raymond Massey turns his acting talent once again to the role he plays best — Abraham Lincoln.

Massey hits the road Sept. 23 in "The Rivalry" — a play based on the Lincoln debates with Stephen Douglas. The tour gets underway in Vancouver, B. C., and will touch 74 cities in this country and Canada.

How does the loose-limbed actor feel about playing Lincoln again?

"I will continue to portray Mr. Lincoln even though the audience be but 10 people," he exclaimed. "I am happy and proud that the public has accepted me as this man of the ages."

Horrified by Report
"I was horrified by a report not long ago that I was sick and tired of the Lincoln association with my career."

"Identification with the part is an accolade. It's like being given a title. You'd be surprised how few actors are identified with any single role."

"Actors have thought it bad for them to be associated with one part. My interpretation is I'm not the man Lincoln killed, career-wise. Other roles are offered to me regularly."

Massey, who celebrated his 61st birthday this week, says he refuses to play the great President in stories of Lincoln's youth.

Stretching a Point
"I've been trying to talk my good friend Gregory Peck into playing Lincoln roles. He would do a great job. The young Lincoln belongs to younger actors. As it is, I'm stretching a point playing Lincoln was assassinated when he was only 56."

A Canadian by birth, but now a U.S. citizen, Massey began portraying Lincoln in the 1938 Broadway version of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." He played the title role more than a thousand times.

Since then there have been 10 more Lincoln portrayals by the star in movies, television and theater.

Supporting Massey in the new production are Brian Donlevy, who plays Douglas, and Agnes Moorehead as Mrs. Douglas.

"Only one thing plagues me about playing Lincoln," Massey concluded. "I am forced to listen to the same macabre jokes year in and year out. It's really quite annoying."

Red Party Gains Plague 'Neutrals'

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Communist Party gains are plaguing East Asia's two big "neutralist" leaders.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and President Sukarno of Indonesia are exceedingly friendly to the Soviet Russian and Chinese Communists.

But neither wants Communism to flourish in his own country.

The Communists won control of the south India state of Kerala in elections held last February and March.

Now Indonesia's Communists have made startling gains in provincial elections held in Java, which contains about 80 million of that country's 80 million people.

In Kerala, the Communist government has imposed crippling taxes on plantation owners, encouraged riotous strikes and freed thousands of prisoners including murderers.

Report Kerala Conversion
Advices from India report that Kerala is rapidly being converted into a Communist totalitarian state.

So far, Nehru has been able to do nothing about it.

Kerala's chief minister—provincial prime minister—is E. M. S. Nambudripad. A wealthy member of a high-caste family, Nambudripad was for years a member of Nehru's own Congress Party. He went over to the Communists after World War II.

Perhaps encouraged by their success in Kerala, the Communists now have become active in Bihar state in northeastern India. They have opened a big campaign of disruption in plants of the gigantic iron, steel, automobile and locomotive combine which is controlled by the Tata family of industrialists.

Win Provincial Elections
The Indonesian Communists won their successes in a series of provincial elections held throughout Java.

So far at least, the Communist gains have had no effect on the policy of friendly "co-existence" with the Russian and Chinese Reds which Nehru and Sukarno have pursued.

In Sukarno's case, the Communist gains may even strengthen his personal position because the Reds have enthusiastically supported his attempt to turn Indonesia into a "guided democracy." The many critics of the "guided democracy" program, say it may turn Indonesia into a dictatorship.

Sukarno will be able to say that the Reds, the strongest supporters of his "guided democracy" plan, gained strength in the elections while other parties lost. But it is hardly likely that he will like the emergence of the Communists as a major element in Indonesian politics.

THE HEAT'S OFF
MILWAUKEE (UP) — Office personnel and executives of the Vilter Mfg. Co., makers of air conditioning equipment, heaved a big sigh of relief. The office finally was air conditioned.

STRETCH — Figuratively speaking glamorous Marie McDonald does wonders for the sea-scape at Miami Beach, Fla., as she stretches in the sun. Dubbed "The Body" during the early days of her movie career, Miss McDonald is relaxing between appearances at a Miami hotel where she is filling an engagement.

CHICAGO—Former United Auto Workers organizer Charles Chalkus, on his charge that the Communists are quietly taking Britain's side in an effort to keep Cyprus from Greek control.

"The British do not appear to be cooperating with the Red unions, but they don't seem to be hindering them, either."

NEW ORLEANS—Frank J. Carrolan, Louisiana adventurer who filmed the steaming insides of an erupting South American volcano: "We were right up to the crater. It clogs up and blows, then the rocks fall back in or roll down the side of the mountain. Those blasts of sulphur were terrific. It was hard to breathe."

WASHINGTON — U.S. disarmament delegate Harold E. Stassen, on his hopes that Russia eventually will accept the latest Western disarmament plan: "The mutual interest in avoiding modern war is so large we feel we should be patient and persistent in these negotiations."

Politically Prominent Grandmother Says 'Women Must Learn Civic Awareness'

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — A housewife who talks to the four walls of her home isn't helping her community.

"Women should be interested in home. If they want safe streets, crime at a minimum and fewer stunts, they must work for them," says Manhattan attorney Caroline K. Simon.

It was this belief in her role as a young mother of a son and daughter in the 1930's that has put her in the limelight today. Now a grandmother of three, Caroline Simon is Republican candidate for president of the city council of

New York.

With silver-tipped hair and sharp blue eyes, she looks like a shampoo ad model. Instead she will be a pioneer in this city's political jungle in the November election as the first woman in New York City history to be a major party candidate for city-wide office.

Prior to this, Mrs. Simon was a powerful figure behind reforms in juvenile and women's court laws, child-labor laws and anti-discrimination action.

A native of Mount Vernon, N.Y., Mrs. Simon has been active in community and lawmaking affairs since 1926.

"I was fresh from law school" — which she attended after her marriage to attorney Leopold K. Simon — "and visited a women's court," she explains. "It was such a degrading spectacle that I wanted to do something about it."

Joining the League of Women Voters was the first step.

"You might say I make an 'avocational use' of my profession to work for things in which I believe," was her explanation of a busy life.

"It is only logical," she says. "What happens at the top of government seeps into every home in the country — into every little nook and cranny."

"I don't intend to sound preachy or goody-goody. But many women, I am sorry to say, miss the relationship between a good home and a well-run city government. That is why Tammanys thrive. I love my home and I love this city — I want the best for them both."

As for the busy life of a campaigner — Mrs. Simon murmured something about a "26-hour" day.

"I'll manage," she says, "because I organize things. Doesn't every woman?"

Each day from "very early" until about 9:30 a.m. she bustles with domesticity.

"I get breakfast for my husband, Irving Halpern. He's chief probation officer of the Court of General Sessions." Mrs. Simon uses the name of her late husband professionally since her marriage four years ago to Mr. Halpern.

"In nice weather my husband and I eat on our postage stamp terrace. Next I arrange menus, check the laundry, clean the apartment and do the marketing. I also call my parents in Mount Vernon before walking to the law office."

Even with her first venture for an elective office in November, Caroline Simon says she will squeeze in as much time with her family as possible.

How Do You Select Your Beauty Salon

NEW YORK — You'll emerge from a beauty salon looking prettiest if you know how to answer the hairdresser's questions.

So say the September issue of Seventeen Magazine in an article designed to help teen-age girls feel comfortable, act poised and achieve lovely results on a first trip to a beauty salon. If even after many trips you never have gotten quite the effect you want, you may find the answers to your problems below.

How do you choose a salon? Do some personal investigation among friends. You may find that those with the most flattering hairstyles go to the same beauty shop. Choose a salon that does work you admire, rather than one someone else likes.

What kind of shampoo should you get? Pure Castile or egg shampoos are best for young, healthy hair. Detergent shampoos give more shine right after washing, but they tend to strip the hair of its natural oils.

Should you have a rinse? There are commercial rinses that will soften problem hair and make it easier to handle. A good shampoo and thorough water rinsing, however, should be enough for normal hair.

How do you select a hairstyle? It's a big help to bring a magazine or newspaper picture of the kind of hairdo you want. If you haven't made up your mind, ask the operator to suggest several different styles.

How much should you tip? Generally fifteen per cent of your bill is proper. If you have a cut, shampoo and set, fifty or seventy-five cents is about right. Manicurists usually receive twenty-five or fifty cents. If you check your coat, and the girl helps you in and out of your dress and smock, twenty-five cents is the rule.

FOULARD MAKES BOW

There's lots of fashion news in this one dress. It's a foulard in wool knit by Joseph Guttman. Rib knit is used for cuffs, front closing and collar. It could easily be the most useful dress in a wardrobe. — By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

Quick 'N Cool Idea For Summer Menu

A simple salad can be an oasis of coolness on a hot and muggy day — and, one can be sure, there are still more of such days ahead. With this interesting recipe for Chicken Salad, however, you can have a cool and refreshing luncheon ready in a matter of minutes.

Simply prepare six crisp lettuce cups and fill them with a mixture of diced cooked chicken, celery, onion, mayonnaise and seasonings and chill in the refrigerator. But just before serving comes the little touch of the unusual — a generous topping of ready-to-eat high protein cereal, golden puffed flakes heighten food value.

Memo to middle-aged men: Judging from my mail, an increasing number of wives are worrying about the health of their husbands. To put it bluntly, these wives don't want to be widows.

But anxious as they are to look after their health there are some things they can't keep you from doing.

Your wife can see that your meals are well-balanced and easy on calories. But she can't keep you from raiding the icebox at night.

Your wife can cut down on her demands so that the budget isn't a constant worry to you. But she can't keep you from being extravagant in such matters as having to drive the latest model car.

Your wife can limit the number of nights the two of you go out each week so that you can get plenty of rest. But she can't keep you from bringing your business worries home with you.

Your wife can encourage you to get away from it all whenever you get the chance. But she can't keep you from turning a hunting or fishing trip into an endurance contest that brings you home exhausted.

Your wife can urge you to drive carefully, but there's not much she can do if you are the kind who likes to brag about how fast your car will go.

Your wife may be able to talk you into getting regular physical check-ups. But she can't make you take your doctor's advice about slowing down, losing 15 pounds or easing up on smoking.

Widow. But she can only avoid it with your help.

Well-Styled Hair Is 'Smart' Must

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

We all know it is impossible for a woman to be truly smart unless her hair is well styled. But even the most beautifully styled hairdo will not be successful if the hair and scalp are not in good condition.

There is little excuse today for dingy hair, unless it is caused by some serious scalp trouble that requires medical attention. If you have no scalp disorder, a shop around to find which of the many excellent shampoos and hair conditioners suit your hair best and use them faithfully. You will find that your hair will become springy, alive and easy to manage.

Don't try to cut your hair at home. Get a good professional haircut. It's well worth the expense, for a style that is created just for you will minimize many beauty flaws.

Most of the current hair styles are simple to care for. With the use of non-lacquer sprays, they can be kept in place from one shampoo to the next, with no additional setting required during the week.

A home permanent is another excellent aid for keeping your hair in place. It will give body to the hair and hold the setting more firmly.

The home wave, which at one time was such a bother to apply, is now a good deal simpler and less messy to handle.

One of the home wave manufacturers offers a new applicator that applies both lotion and neutralizer to the hair. This beauty helpmate is a pink plastic, squeeze-type bottle that holds enough lotion and neutralizer to finish each operation, so that you needn't bother filling and refilling halfway through each step. It is topped with a removable sponge exactly the width of one curl. This sponge spreads on the lotion in one easy, even stroke, thus eliminating combing, squinting and dripping.

When the curls are wound and soaked with lotion, simply remove the sponge top and you'll find eight tiny spray tips. Refill the bottle with neutralizer and spray it right into the heart of the curl.

With modern hair sprays, lovely color tints, easy-to-give home waves and hairdressings that bring out beautiful highlights, there is no need for anyone to have dull, lifeless hair.

Make use of them all, and remember to brush your hair religiously. Lovely hair is the frame for a pretty face and is a far greater contributing factor to beauty than the loveliest clothes of the most expensive cosmetics.

Corner Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

J. R. STROBLE
Director of Education.
First Baptist Church

"Beginning Again"

At this time of the year most churches are busy reorganizing their forces and making plans for a new church year. We hear such phrases as "Rally Day," "Back to Church," "Promotion Day," "Preparation Week," etc. All such phrases vary according to denomination, but they all mean that we are "beginning again." It means that we are setting new goals, planning to reach more people for Christ and His church, looking forward to setting new plans into action.

This is a good thing, for many people are moving into Pampa, and they need the church and its spiritual influence in their lives. Many people who have been residents of Pampa for some years have never been inside a church since living here. These and many others need to be reached for Christ. They are as much in need of the gospel as any one on the most distant foreign mission field. So it is a good thing for each church to reorganize, make new plans, set new forces into action to reach these who are without Christ and are in our midst.

Jesus appeared to Mary and Martha as they were returning from the empty tomb and told them "Be not afraid: go tell my brethren. . . ." What we need to do today is go tell our brethren that Christ is risen and able to save.

Quo Vadis Billy Graham?

Editor's Note: The success of Billy Graham's New York crusade raises the question—whether now? The following report on Graham's plans was written by the only newsmen who covered the crusade from its beginning to the end.

By ALBIN KREBS
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham is a young man of unusual vitality who doesn't believe in resting on the record of past triumphs.

Only Sunday night he preached the farewell sermon of a 16-week "crusade to save New York" that turned out to be the most successful revival of his 10-year career. He left immediately for his home in Montreat, N.C., confident his crusade had wrought great changes in the spiritual life of the city and that "New York will never be the same again."

He began a three-week rest-and-meditation period designed not only to put back on his lanky frame 20 pounds lost during the strenuous crusade but also to give him spiritually for future evangelistic battles.

Graham's job in New York is not yet done. He returns here

Sept. 24 to breakfast with ministers of the area, who are planning a follow-up phase of the crusade.

Doorbell Campaign
This phase is a program of "visitation evangelism" in which Protestant ministers and thousands of laymen will ring the doorbells of their fellow New Yorkers to try to persuade them to become active church members.

The program will be climaxed with a great closing rally on Oct. 27—Reformation Sunday—in the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants baseball team. Graham will return to New York for the rally.

Graham and his staff are already preparing for a six-week Caribbean tour that will take them to revival meetings in nine countries, beginning in mid-January.

He will preach a six-week crusade in San Francisco's Cow Palace beginning April 27, 1958, and another in Charlotte, N.C., beginning Sept. 28, 1958.

Graham is already considering seriously invitations to conduct crusades in Australia and in Birmingham, England, in 1959.

Sandwiched between major crusades on his crowded schedule are speaking engagements at religious conferences and in churches all over the nation.

Topped All Goals
Of his New York crusade, Graham said in an interview that "all our objectives have been more than surpassed." He said that "to see Madison Square Garden filled night after night in the worst audience period of the year (summer) has astounded the critics, the cynics, the experts and even me."

"Long after we're gone," Graham said, "I think the tremendous influence of the crusade will continue and be more and more in evidence."

"The tremendous impact the crusade has made on New York and in many other parts of the country can only be attributed to the work of the spirit of God. Mine is a feeling of thanksgiving and humility that God has called us to have a small part in the spiritual life of New York."

He can point to some impressive figures to argue his crusade has defied, if not "cracked" New York:

BEATING THE ELEMENTS—New methods of harvesting grain have wrought a revolution on Canada's wheat farms. Fields dotted with golden shocks of wheat ripening in the sun—once the picturesque trademark of the prairies—are now rarely seen. Instead, most farmers harvest their grain like Saskatchewan's Ed Schiefner, above. The wheat is cut and left lying in "swaths" to ripen on the ground, right. There is less chance of it being affected by wind, rain and hail, which can destroy a crop overnight. "Swathed" wheat ripens in about half the time it would require if left standing.

Rules To Beat Flu

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—The threat of a nationwide Asiatic Flu epidemic calls for your family to have a household survival plan in case the galloping virus paralyzes your neighborhood.

The Public Health Services has listed in a pamphlet now in the mails recommendations to assist local health agencies in the malls in stand-by emergency programs to use if an epidemic should tie up a community's operation.

The pamphlet was written by a special joint committee of PHS experts and top state health officials. Here are some of the steps you may soon be taking if state and local agencies follow the committee's advice:

1. Planning your budget to pay for a bigger grocery bill. You should stock enough food and other essentials to last seven days in case Asiatic Flu keeps you and your family in bed.

2. Learn how to read a thermometer and take a home nursing course. One member of the household should take a home nursing course. You may have to wait for an overworked physician.

3. Keep a list of emergency telephone numbers within easy reach. Included should be those of your doctor, drug store and health department.

The committee lists other problems which you and your local health agency should tackle. Household garbage disposal systems may be needed in case Asiatic Flu should cripple your sanitation department.

Farmers may have to make emergency arrangements to feed livestock.

Local agencies have also been advised to determine whether or not a "buddy system" is needed in your community. This is a neighborhood mutual assistance program for cooking, laundry and medical care.

Health officials aren't worried about a high death rate. The flu's chief danger is its ability to knock out essential services.

It's when health experts tackle the awesome task of mobilizing to take over these services that the scope and size of flu's defense problems mushroom. The job calls for developing a system of manpower, supply and logistics comparable to that used by the armed forces.

Volunteer reserves must be found to keep a city's transportation and communication lines in operation. Other volunteers will be needed to take care of home-maker, feeding and home-nursing services.

Strategy must be mapped to rush medical personnel and supplies to points of greatest need. Hospitals must be ready for overflow loads.

Communities must decide how to utilize their existing Red Cross and Civil Defense organizations to combat the flu emergency.

Why Young Girls Marry Before Graduation

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Love, it seems, is the main reason girls get married before finishing high school. And impatience.

Zona H. Kelly makes this report after conducting a four-year study of in-school marriages in a Tennessee city of 20,000 population.

Most girls, she says, were wed because they were "so much in love they couldn't wait."

Others had a less romantic reason: They wanted to get out of school.

Some just wanted to get away from home, where conditions were "unpleasant."

The reaction to marriage, Mrs. Kelly reveals, ranged from "very happy" to just plain happy, with not one girl expressing regret.

And then there was this conclusion on the part of high school faculty members:

The young matrons do not have a bad influence on their classmates, but they cannot be considered an asset.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Gov. Orval E. Faubus, after declaring a state of emergency and calling out troops to prevent school integration today:

"The state militia is to maintain or restore order and to protect the lives and property of citizens. I must state in all sincerity that it will not be possible to restore or to maintain order and protect the lives and property of citizens if forcible integration is carried out."

'Happy Pills' Can Now Sooth Ulcers

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., (UP)—"Happy pills" until now never cured ulcers but did soothe the people who had them.

Now the manufacturers of Miltown, the most famous tranquilizer of them all, have come up with a pill which soothes the ulcer itself.

Wallace Laboratories announced that it has developed a compound which uses "split-level" therapy in the treatment of gastro-intestinal disorders.

Ulcers, like their tension ridden proprietors, have problems of their own. Prolonged anxiety and emotional tension make the membranes of the stomach irritable, engorged, inflamed and liable to tiny abrasions.

These openings are attacked by harsh gastric juices which have been known to develop full-scale ulcers in as little as four days.

The new compound, called Milpath, contains Miltown which figuratively pats the patient on the head, and another drug which works directly on the digestive tract to control damaging hypersecretion.

It has been made available to the medical profession and is a prescription drug.
