Combat Troops To Leave Japan

By RUTHERFORD FOATS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—American combat troops in Japan through 12 years of occupation and alliance, will start closing their bases and pulling out next month, informed sources said today.
The pull-out will be scheduled in "easy stages," moving some 15,000 troops of the First Cavalry Division and about 8,000 Leathernecks of the 3rd Marine Division to new posts in the United States or the Pacific.
American-equipped troops of the new Japanese army will move into the honky-tonk circled bases where G.I. slang has become part of the Japanese language.
American officials said they hoped the pull-out would make Japan take more seriously its own defense responsibilities. Japanese officials said it would reduce the incidents and friction between G.I.s and Japanese which frequently have strained Washington-Tokyo relations.
The decision to withdraw the troops was announced in a joint communique Friday by President Eisenhower and Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi.
Orders to start the withdrawal were ready and were issued immediately.
Air Force, Navy and Army logistical forces based in Japan—estimated to total about 50,000 men—were not affected.
Back to Korea
But a simultaneous Air Force withdrawal is expected. Under the Allied decision to abrogate part of the Korean armistice and match the Communist build-up in North Korea, one or more modernized U. S. Air Force wings will return to their old bases in South Korea.
A wing of obsolescent fighter planes in Korea is expected to be transferred out for modernization, but the net effect will be a reduction in Air Force personnel in Japan, informed sources said.
The Pentagon spokesman said he had no information on where the Army combat troops and Marines now based in Japan would go.
Part of the 3rd Marine Division is in Okinawa and part in Japan. Marine commanders have said they hoped to unite the division in North Korea, but the Defense and State Departments were unwilling to stir up more political trouble by taking the additional Okinawan land needed by a full division.

Car Hits Small Boy; Minor Injuries Only

Michael Archibald, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Archibald, 1100 S. Hobart, received extensive injuries at 6:25 last night when he was struck by a car near his home.
The attending physician at Highland General Hospital, where young Archibald was taken, reported late last night that his condition was satisfactory and that the child was being kept in the hospital for observation.
The boy received multiple cuts upon the face, including one through his cheek; bruises on the head, chest and arms and possible internal injuries, according to the doctor.
The child was struck by a '57 Chevrolet driven by C. C. Wells of Lefors.
Wells told the investigating officers that the child ran out into the street as he was approaching the Crawford intersection on Hobart. He reported, "I didn't have time to do anything but try to stop."
The officers reported that Wells was nearly stopped when the car struck the child.

House Ready To OK Ike's Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—Despite a rampaging economy drive, the House today seemed ready to give President Eisenhower a major victory on a key program—foreign aid.
The chief executive has asked for $3,864,410,000. Most of the money, $2,900,000,000, is earmarked for military hardware and defense support.
The House Foreign Affairs Committee plans to complete its investigation of the administration request next week then start approving the various items, one by one. The committee started taking testimony from military and civilian leaders a month ago today.
The Senate recently completed action on an authorization bill by voting for an overall program to cost $3,617,333,000. That was a cut of less than 7 per cent.
Congressional leaders doubt the House will approve a deeper cut.

Man Fined On Driving Charge

One driving while license suspended case was brought before the county court yesterday morning.
Fritz Henry O'Grissag, 21, of Big Springs, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25 and costs by Gray County Judge Bruce Parker.
O'Grissag was picked up by city police here Friday.

Pampans Don't Yield To Tranquilizer Fad

By BILL NEAL
Pampa News Staff Writer
The recent tranquilizer craze has had little effect on Pampans. That seemed to be the opinion of a number of Pampa druggists and doctors, most of whom wished to remain anonymous.
While sales of non-prescription drugs commonly called tranquilizers have increased some during the past few months here it doesn't compare with sales in the larger cities.
"I think that people in larger cities live a little faster and are more nervous. Due to this, they use more tranquilizers," one druggist said.
There are 31 brands on the market today.
"Actually," the druggist continued, "that term is a misnomer. These commercial drugs may contain some relaxing ingredients, but true tranquilizers are sold only on prescription."
One commercial company has had a case brought against it under the Pure Food and Drug Act. Pampans have not shown much enthusiasm over these aids.
"We try to tell people exactly what they are buying when they want these pills," another pharmacist added.
The controversy recently reached a new high when the Air Force ordered all pilots to stop using them. Congress voted two million dollars earmarked for investigation of these drugs.
One local doctor felt that the recent developments in tranquilizing pills was "significant progress."

Help! My Auto's Gone... Or Is It?

A 1954 Lincoln reported stolen in Pampa Thursday night apparently was not stolen.
Gus Fincher, 407 Lefors, reported to local officers late Thursday that his car, which he had left parked near the Holmes Conoco Service Station, 845 W. Wilks, had been stolen sometime Thursday evening.
The local officers started searching for the car and notified officers throughout the area by radio to be on the lookout for the car.
Late last night Fincher came into the station and reported that the car was in a local garage. It seems that he had talked to the operator of the garage earlier about doing some work on the car, and the garage man had picked up the car Thursday without telling anyone, to begin repairs.

TWO-ENTRY FAMILY

There will be two entries in the beard-growing contest to be sponsored here in connection with the Top of Texas Rodeo in the Kay Fancher home, 2117 Hamilton. Fancher has an embryo beard growing on his face now but it is a good six weeks behind his "cohort" Beau Brummel Fancher, sitting in "the old man's" lap. Beau wasn't too happy about getting his mustache and beard combed in this photo but he confided to the photographer shortly after the picture was taken, "This contest is really cool, daddy-o, it's just that he (Kay) was coming too hard, man! By the way, Shakespeare, be sure to let the whole canine clan know that those crazy Jaycees have okayed a 'dog division' in the contest. Hokay?" (News Photo)

Japan Says She'll Trade With China

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi has informed the U. S. government that Japan soon will follow Britain's lead and slash restrictions on trade with Communist China to the level of the Western embargo against Russia.
Informants said Japan will act as soon as the 15-nation Allied Committee on China Trade Controls meeting in Paris formally confirms the American defeat in the embargo battle.
That decision is expected soon, at least within the next few weeks. Diplomatic sources here said an eight-nation majority of the committee has decided to vote to scrap the special embargo list which made curbs on exports to Red China more strict than those on sales to Russia and Eastern Europe for the past seven years.
Kishi promised President Eisenhower that Japan would be careful to avoid shipping any strategic materials to Communist China.
He was understood to have predicted that Japan's annual trade with Red China would increase to around 100 million dollars each way, compared with 1956 exports of 80 million to China and imports of 80 million dollars.
The Japanese leader found that U. S. officials had what he considered an "exaggerated" idea of how much trade Japan wanted to conduct with the Peking regime.
He explained that Japan, acting on her own, probably would not have gone as far as Britain in lowering the China trade barriers. But now, he said, the majority of the Allied committee had agreed to follow the British lead and Japan can not afford to hold back.
Eisenhower voiced sympathy for Kishi's position shortly before Kishi arrived here. The President said he did not agree with the position of some of his advisers that it is very important to maintain a tougher set of curbs on sales to Red China than to Russia.

Smalley New Polio Prexy

Arthur L. Smalley, superintendent of production at the Celanese plant, was elected president of the Gray County Polio Board of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation at a meeting of the board Friday.
Smalley replaced the Rev. Ed Hall who left Pampa to assume pastoral duties at the First Methodist Church in Muleshoe.
Kay Fancher of Panhandle Insurance Agency was elected to fill the vacancy created by Smalley moving to the presidency.
The board's monthly meeting was held at 3 p.m. yesterday. Since raising $12,000 in January, the board has had little to do other than routine responsibilities.
Fred Brook, city manager and secretary of the board, said that to his knowledge there had been no new polio cases reported in Gray County this year.
There are abundant supplies of the Salk vaccine available at doctor's offices, it was reported.
Brook said that because of excellent voluntary response, there had been no organized vaccination drive in Pampa.

Plans Completed For Pampa Rodeo

Plans for the Top of Texas rodeo, scheduled for Aug. 7-10, have been completed, Bob Andis, president of the rodeo association, announced yesterday.
"It appears that this year's show will be the biggest in the 13-year history of the organization," he said.
Goat-Mayo, veteran producer from Petrolia, will furnish the stock. Mayo has furnished stock for all previous shows.
"This is a fine testimonial of his ability to produce good rodeos," Andis said.
The kid pony show will be held two days prior to the main show with night performances set for Aug. 5 and 6. It will be open to youngsters between the ages of 5 and 15. In the past, the kid shows have drawn large crowds.
The association has also made contract with Ft. Jordan, Clayton, N.M., to bring "one dozen old-time western vehicles to be used in the rodeo parade, Aug. 7."
The vehicles are being offered to the various Pampa civic clubs to sponsor at about 50 per cent of contract prices.
They include a covered wagon and pair of mules, a doctors buggy and mules, fancy surrey with "the fringe on top," Jessie James "get-away buggy," Abraham Lincoln's coach, RFD No. one mail back, an old-time hearse, Spooner's buggy, Santa Fe special sur-

BULLETIN

BORGER, Tex., June 22 (UP)—A 16-year-old Pollett youth, Duane Broyles, was drowned today while on a horse roundup. He was thrown from his horse, then apparently kicked as he tried to ford a lake on the Parker farm.
The mishap occurred on the Fort Sill east range in the Wichita Mountains.
Names of casualties were withheld until their families had been notified.
Capt. Robert E. Kren, public information officer at the base, the 522nd Infantry center, said cause of the accident was not known. He said it was a 4.2-inch shell.
"Three men were killed instantly, and another died as they were bringing him in," Kren said. "All of the injured were brought directly from the firing range to the base hospital in helicopters."
Of those hurt, two were classed as serious. Twelve remained hospitalized tonight and two were treated and released.
Simulated Combat
Capt. L. D. Justice, base medical instructor, had taken a group of students to the exercise for training under simulated combat conditions.
His Tabrit soaked red with blood, Justice told reporters, "I never thought I would get such a realistic demonstration at a time like this."
Four helicopters carried the dead and injured to the hospital, which issued an emergency plea for blood and plasma. Within 45 minutes some 500 soldiers, including all of the 522nd's B company, had lined up to offer blood.
"We had to turn donors away, there were so many," Kren said. The public had been invited to the demonstration by the Army. Such demonstrations are held here about once each quarter.
Taking part were the 552nd Infantry Battalion, 548th Field Artillery Battalion, 6th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, 587th Field Artillery Battalion and the Associate Arms Division of the Department of Tactics and Combined Arms.
The demonstration was labeled the Army's new five-sided approach to modern warfare under the name, "The rifle company in the attack."

ROKs Prepare For Communist Attack

By ROBERT MONAHAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
SEOUL, Korea, June 22 (UP)—The Allies began gearing their outmoded defenses in Korea today for any attack by the beefed-up Communist forces to the north. Observers said late model U. S. jet fighter planes capable of handling virtually anything the Communists can put in the air are being prepared for shipment to the Republic of Korea early next week from Japan.
The ROK army cancelled all leaves for its 700,000 men and went on full alert following the United Nations command's notice to the North Korean Communists Friday that as a result of the illegal Red buildup the Allies will rearm their own forces with up-to-date weapons and scrap the clause in the 1953 armistice treaty forbidding such rearmament.
ROK defense officials denied that their alert was designed to prepare the country for a possible retaliatory Communist move, but this was the impression received by the average man in the street in Seoul, the capital.
The South Koreans were jubilant at the news that the United States and its allies planned to modernize defenses.
Observers predicted that the beef-up would include F-100 Super Sabre jet fighters and a wing of F-86F Sabrejets.
A Far East Air Force spokesman denied that the United States had any "firm intention" of sending in Super Sabres.
"However," he added, "we point out that we have the capability of sending these planes into South Korea at a moment's notice."
Flying time between the jet airbase at Osan, Korea, and the big Itazuke U. S. Air Force Base in southern Japan is brief.
It was believed that the strengthening of the air defenses will be given priority over increasing the armaments of the ground forces, which include 80,000 American troops as well as 5,000 troops of other Allied nations in the UN command.

Gillette was arrested for this county by the police department at Enid Friday morning after officers there were informed by the sheriff's department of the local warrant.
Sheriff Rufe Jordan reported last night that Gillette reportedly be tried tomorrow.

Artillery Shell Kills 4; Wounds 13

FORT SILL, Okla., June 22 (UP)—Four men were killed and 13 injured today when a mortar shell fell short and exploded in the midst of a company of ground troops during a public firing demonstration at the Fort Sill artillery base.
Approximately 300 soldiers and civilians witnessed the accident from bleacher seats about a mile from the blast.
A board of investigation began immediately an inquiry to determine who, or what, was responsible. The base public information office said the 4.2-inch mortar shell was fired from Battery C of the 522nd Infantry Battalion. Don Stires, Albuquerque, N.M., a civilian who saw the accident through field glasses, said he was "watching this platoon move forward when a blast hit the vicinity."
"I saw men fall everywhere from the shock," Stires said. "As the smoke cleared, I saw most of the men lying on the ground, and then I noticed a man running toward us waving his hat."
Stires said the troops had just started advancing under fire when the shell struck.
All of the injured were members of Company B of the 522nd Infantry Battalion. The foot soldiers were making a mock attack on Adam's hill under cover of artillery and mortar fire when the shell exploded among the men, instead of ahead of them.
The mishap occurred on the Fort Sill east range in the Wichita Mountains.
Names of casualties were withheld until their families had been notified.
Capt. Robert E. Kren, public information officer at the base, the 522nd Infantry center, said cause of the accident was not known. He said it was a 4.2-inch shell.

Soviets Attack US Disarmament Plan

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, June 22 (UP)—Official Soviet newspapers today opened an attack on the new American disarmament plan.

In the first Soviet reaction to the plan being unveiled piecemeal by Harold E. Stassen at the five-power United Nations Disarmament Subcommittee conference in London, the Moscow press denounced it as a "maneuver" which contained only "old stuff."

"A mountain was in labor and a mouse was born," said "Trud," the Moscow trade union newspaper.

"Pravda," the official Communist party newspaper, accused the West of "maneuvering" to avoid disarmament. It charged the United Nations committee report last week accusing Russia of illegal intervention and brutality in Hungary was a "red herring" designed to complicate the international atmosphere and cloud over the disarmament issue.

In London, Western diplomats were disappointed by the Moscow press attacks. American, British, French and Canadian officials at the five-power talks had been expressing the greatest optimism yet that there could be an agreement with Russia on a "small, measured step" towards eventual disarmament.

Specifically, Trud and Pravda criticized Stassen's proposal for a cut to 2,500,000 men apiece in the American and Soviet armed forces as a stepping stone towards an agreement that would include ban on nuclear weapons tests.

However, it was not clear whether the attacks also were on the entire American program, which Stassen will continue to unveil after the conference recess ends next Tuesday.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt may soon lose his sole remaining ally in the Arab world.

Four of Egypt's eight fellow-members of the Arab League are now openly opposed to his pro-Russian, anti-Western policy and are pretty solidly lined up with the Western Allies.

Three others are doing nothing to help Nasser in his steadily developing isolation.

This leaves only Syria in support of Nasser. And diplomatic reports from Middle Eastern capitals say that a political blow-up which would unseat that country's leftist government may come at any time.

A challenge to President Shukri el Kuwaly and Premier Sabri Asali by conservative, pro-Western politicians and business leaders has been increasing in strength for weeks.

Opposition members of Parliament have offered their resignations in protest against the government's pro-Nasser policy. It was the Suez Canal crisis, which seemed to be such a big victory for Nasser, that started him on the way to isolation.

Nasser's victory, it developed, the most important of his fellow-members of the Arab League. Revenues of oil-producing Saudi Arabia and Iraq fell alarmingly. Lebanon, Jordan and Syria suffered severe economic losses.

This has had a great deal to do with the challenge to the Syrian leftist regime.

As has been said frequently, the visit of King Saud of Saudi Arabia to President Eisenhower last January convinced him that cooperation with the United States was desirable.

Then came the victory of young King Hussein of Jordan over the Egyptian and Syrian complicity, tried to overthrow him.

In view of the threat to the Syrian leftists, Nasser must feel that he is a lonely man.

Fired Strong Words
Buchanan fired strong words at the Air Force this spring. He charged that a special test of asphalt at Kelly Air Force Base, Tex., was a one-shot affair which foreclosed a true test of asphalt's qualifications. And when the Air Force issued a revised "paving criteria" which all but banned asphalt, he fired charges of prejudice which found their way to Hebert's committee.

Army engineers who build the runways haven't seen eye-to-eye with the Air Force. They have tested various types of asphalt and concrete and have given the impression that some will hold up under the hardest beating if the paving foundation is laid properly.

All sides will have a chance to tell their stories and delineate them with charges, figures, and samples of test materials.

Funeral services for Mrs. Daisy S. Cobb, who died at 3:30 a.m. Friday in Houston, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Duengel-Carmichael Chapel with Rev. Edgar Hubbard, pastor of the White Deer Presbyterian Church, officiating.

What sounds like the most fun in a long while has apparently taken the imagination of Pampanos. It's the beard-growing contest to be sponsored by the Pampa Jay-Cees in connection with the Top O' Texas Rodeo.

If there was any doubt at the beginning of the Pampa Rebels' baseball season as to their potentialities as a winning team, it has certainly been eliminated the past two weeks.

Coached by Deck Woldt, Joe Fortin and Frank Kempa, the Rebels have proven their heavy hitting power, but their success is by no means entirely offensive.

While cruising through this fair city the other day I was particularly impressed (once again) at the lack of speed exhibited by our traffic lights.

And the coordination is rather reminiscent of a spastic jackrabbit on a hot griddle. I suppose that this is the greatest boon to the seista - loving set - who contend the world is moving too fast anyway - since the advent of the snail.

The beard-growing contest being planned here in connection with the Top O' Texas Rodeo sounds like so much fun for the men. But since women are always wanting "to get into the act," or a nicer way of saying it is to cooperate, too, why can't some idea be worked out for the gals to participate?

Stocks Declined During Last Week

By ELMER C. WALZER, United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks dropped for four straight sessions in the past week after the industrial average had set a new high since Aug. 17 on Monday.

Oils were sold for profits after a long rise. Ralls failed to get into action and finally fell back, further unsettling the market in general. Chemicals were depressed at times but drug issues enjoyed a good market in several sessions.

The Dow-Jones industrial average closed the week at exactly 500, a level said to be a crucial one. If that figure is broken on volume, expect more selling, said the market men.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost exactly one full point on the week which meant a loss in value of all listed issues of $4,400,000,000.

Merger Of Two Protestant Denominations Set Tuesday

(Religious News) By LOUIS CASSELLS, United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Next Tuesday (June 25), in a ceremony at Cleveland, two of America's oldest Protestant denominations will formally merge into one body.

ger faction. A minority group within the Congregational Church still is adamantly opposed to the merger and has threatened to remain independent.

The Congregationalist church, descended from the Pilgrims who came to New England aboard the Mayflower, will unite with the Evangelical and Reformed Church, which German and Dutch immigrants established in this country in the early 18th century.

Leaders of the Protestant ecumenical - "drawing together" movement regard the forthcoming merger as one of the most significant that has taken place in the struggle to reunite the long-divided Christian family.

The Cleveland ceremony will mark the confluence of two entirely distinct streams of Protestantism. The Congregationalists stem from the English reformation, while the E&R churches are spiritual descendants of the continental reformation led by Luther, Zwingli and Calvin.

No Basic Disputes: Despite their diverse ancestries, the two groups found they had no basic disputes over doctrine. The principal differences which had to be ironed out in the protracted unity negotiations were in the realm of polity, or church government.

Years In Making: Merger negotiations between the two groups have been in progress for years. A previous decision to unite in 1949 was blocked by a lawsuit brought by an anti-merger faction.

The plan of union is designed to provide elements of both systems within the United Church of Christ. In effect, local churches will have a wide latitude to choose for themselves how closely they will be connected with the central organization.

Brief items from the churches: The National Council of Churches estimates that more than 7,000,000 American children will attend church-sponsored vacation schools and camps this summer. Religious educators are enthusiastic about the rapid spread of these youth activities. They point out that a child may receive as much religious training in one month at a daily vacation church school as he gets during a full year of the traditional hour-a-week attendance at Sunday School.

The Massachusetts Council of churches in a state-wide crusade against organized gambling. First step in the "educational campaign" was distribution of a state crime commission report asserting that Massachusetts has more bookies than lawyers and dentists.

New Residents Of Pampa Didn't Like Their Former Home--Chile

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

"Spending a total of seven months in Chile made us Americans."

This statement was made last week by Bill Bowen, 1124 Seneca Lane, who recently returned from Chile.

Bill, his wife Betty and 2-year-old son, Jim, spent seven months at Maria Elena, Chile, where he worked as a research chemist for a nitrate mining company.

Until last October, the Bowsens had lived in Texas and at the time they left for Chile they were living in Borger and Bill was working at the Philtex Equipment Station at Phillips.

They are both graduates of Texas University and said that they had always taken America for granted.

At the present time, Bill is working at Celanese with a special problems group.

After spending seven months in Chile, they both said that they fully realized what a privilege it was to live in the U.S. They said before going to Chile, Communism had been associated only with Russia, but after living with it for every minute during the seven months they fully knew the meaning of the idea of Communism.

Bill reported that many people in Chile were either died-in-the-wool Commies or Commie sympathizers.

The living standards in Chile are very low and Betty reported that living there would compare to 1850 standards in this country. She reported that there is little refrigeration in the country and that shopping is very difficult.

She said that, "having a maid was a necessity because one woman could not run a household in that country."

One example she gave of the difficulty of preparing food there was in obtaining molasses. Instead of going to the store and buying a jug or can of molasses, the cook went to the shop and bought a long stick which was boiled all day and the following day it might be molasses.

The Bowsens reported that the government prohibits the importing of most items into the country and that the only food is that which is locally grown. They reported that all fruits and vegetables needed to be cooked before eating to destroy the germs and that in buying meat, a person had to be extremely careful that the meat wasn't rotten.

Bill said that there is only one philosophy among the residents of Chile, "Never do anything today that can be put off until next month or next year."

Another concept that seems to be prevalent among the people of Chile, Bill reported, is that "the day isn't complete until they have stolen something." The Bowsens said that they had a closet in their house with a lock on it and any item that they couldn't do without and that could not be replaced was kept in this locked closet when not in use.

Betty reported that one of the advantages of having a maid was that the maid would keep everyone else from stealing the items in the house and then you had only to watch the maid and keep her from stealing.

If you are having trouble paying your income taxes, don't worry Bill reported, in Chile taxes are about 250 per cent more than taxes here. The government takes all of the taxes, he reported, and gives the people nothing in return. He stated that so many people work for the government, that is they are on the government payroll whether they work or not, that after the payroll is made there is nothing left for public works.

Speaking of the situation in Chile as far as where the money goes, Bill reported that there was no use in the U.S. sending foreign aid there because it would never be used to raise the living standards of the country. It would only be used to put more friends and relatives of government employees on the payroll of the government, he said.

All residents of Chile dream of coming to the U.S. some day but yet there is an open resentment of all Americans and of the U.S. There is a definite caste system in Chile and the people of one class do not mingle with people of another class. The average wage of a worker is $1 a day, Bill reported, and a big chunk of this is taken out as taxes.

The government prohibits companies from compelling workers to work on Sunday and Bill reports that everything in all plants shuts down at midnight on Saturday.

The state police are every place with their rifles, the Bowsens reported, and it is not unusual to have them follow an American from the time he leaves his house until he returns.

Maria Elena is in the Pamppas (desert) of northern Chile where it rains only about once each ten years, they reported. Bill laughingly reported that they moved from "Pampas to Pampa."

There is no vegetation on the Pamppas, he reported, and even through it is extremely dry, there is no dust as we have in the Panhandle. He stated that there is some dust each evening but that it is not noticeable.

There is not much recreation in Chile, they reported. There was a radio station at Maria Elena, but everything was in Spanish and the record programs become boring. The golf course was in the middle of the mine pits, Bill said, and that the first time he played on the course he knocked the head off a new club.

All of the papers, magazines and any other printed matter was in Spanish and, as Betty said, "When you are dumped onto the docks in the middle of the night, you learn to speak Spanish by morning or you starve."

Food was the main thought of the Bowsens while they were in Chile. Because of the lack of refrigeration and the government forbidding the importing of food, it was extremely difficult to obtain enough food. They said that living expenses in Chile were over $400 a month for them and that they were always hungry.

They both laugh about the first trip they made to a grocery store after moving to Pampa. They kept filling up baskets with food, to the horror of a checker, and when the bill was totaled up it came to over $110. They said it had been so long since they had seen food that they went "wild," but that the food had all been eaten.

Another item that was hard to endure were the almost constant earthquakes. They reported that they never knew when they would be thrown out of bed or have everything in the house turned upside down.

Christmas was a very painful experience for them, they stated, because there was nothing to buy for gifts. They said that the people of Chile do not buy gifts, not even for their children, and that their neighbors thought they were crazy because they had a plastic swimming pool for Jim.

The Christmas tree they had last year was a broom stick with bottle brushes, painted green, stuck into the stick. Of course there were no lights.

They reported that they were 1,200 miles from the nearest large city and that the roads could only be traveled in a jeep. Bill said the best highway in Chile was only two narrow ribbons of concrete. As the Bowsens were leaving the airport to fly to Florida they saw the entire air force of Chile, 19 old B-26 bombers.

They said that not having freedom of speech was the worst thing about living in Chile. They were almost afraid to think much less make any statements.

In conclusion they had only one thing to say, "If anyone in the vicinity of Pampa is planning on living in Chile, our advice is DON'T."

Government Stand On Girard Case Is Hard To Understand

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration's urgent determination that GI William S. Girard shall be tried by Japanese courts on a charge of manslaughter scarcely can be understood except by persons on the scene here in Washington.
As the matter stands today, Federal Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy's ruling of last Tuesday holds that to turn Girard over to the Japanese would be to deprive him of rights guaranteed to an American citizen by the United States Constitution.
The Justice Department has appealed directly to the Supreme Court, contending that McGarraghy's decision was "clearly wrong" and that it would be in the public interest to obtain speedy disposition of the Girard case.

Agreements Seen Endangered
Administration officials fear disruption throughout the world of the relationship of American troops overseas and the governments of the countries in which they are stationed. One official suggested that, if the Supreme Court forbids a Japanese trial for Girard, the whole structure of agreements under which U.S.

Brethren To Have Homecoming

In the monthly meeting Tuesday, the Evangelism and Fellowship Committee of the Church of the Brethren worked on plans for a Homecoming day to be held morning and afternoon on Sunday Sept. 20.

Also plans were discussed for a good-will visitation at homes in the area around the church.

The Sunday morning services at 11 at the Church of the Brethren include a duet by Velda Rose and Mary Hubbard with background music by the Junior Choir directed by Miss Eileen Oltman. "Bargains and Values" is the subject announced for Rev. Minnich's sermon.

The Youth Fellowship meets at the church at 6 p.m. Sunday with the Faith Area group leading a discussion on the teachings and beliefs of the Church of the Brethren. On Monday at 8 p.m. the Church Board will meet in a special session to plan for the July Council meeting.

An Evening Vesper Service is planned for Tuesday. This service will be the Hour of Power meeting for the week. The vesper is planned for 7:30 p.m. and will meet on the hillside southwest of the intersection of Williston and Pennsylvania. Participants are invited to bring blankets or some-troops are based overseas would collapse.

"We well might have to withdraw our soldiers from Japan and perhaps from other countries," this official suggested. He explained that the governments of the countries involved could and perhaps would insist that U.S. soldiers be subject in some degree to local arrest and local law.

Immediate Action Seen
The Justice Department asked the Supreme Court to review the Girard case and is hopeful of immediate action. There is less hope, however, of a decision favorable to the government. On the day before Judge McGarraghy's ruling in the Girard case, the Supreme Court expressed itself emphatically in the field of personal rights.

He also took a small double-burner electric stove.

thing to sit on, the Rev. Minnich said.

At 7 p.m. on Wednesday the Junior Choir will rehearse. The town children who plan to sing on Sunday are expected to attend rehearsals. The Senior Choir will practice at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. This practice will prepare for a musical program the following Sunday evening. Russell West is director of the Senior Choir.

The Church of the Brethren Annual Conference is in session at Richmond, Virginia this week. This conference includes delegates and representatives from churches all over the United States and from the churches of the mission fields in India, Africa and South America.

The attendance at the conference on Sunday is expected to approach 10,000 for the afternoon session. The Sunday evening session will include the laying on of hands and the consecration of newly assigned missionaries who will soon be going to the several mission fields of the denomination.

The Church of the Brethren Conference is unique in that it is attended not only by delegates but by lay members from all over the United States and these lay members may enter into discussion of general conference business.

Yankees Take League Lead With 6-5 Win Over White Sox

Berra Clubs 13th Inning Homer To Give Yanks Win

NEW YORK, June 22 (UP)—Yogi Berra, the old pro clutch hitter of the New York Yankees, led off the 13th inning with his ninth homer of the season today to give the world champions a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox and a half game lead in the American League.

Berra's blast, off the second pitch by Paul LaPalme, enabled relief pitcher Tommy Byrne to pick up his second win. The triumph was the Yankees' ninth straight. Byrne took over for Don Larsen in the fifth inning and yielded only one hit in nine innings while striking out seven and walking seven.

A crowd of 33,130 saw the four-hour and 15-minute struggle in which the White Sox routed Art Ditmar and ran up a 5-2 lead in three innings.

The Yankees came from behind to tie the score against reliever Ddie Howell by the seventh.

Bosox Bop A's

BOSTON, June 22 (UP)—Mike Fornieles, winning his first game after seven straight losses, stopped the Kansas City Athletics with a 5-1 shutout today to give the Boston Red Sox their fourth straight victory.

Save for Billy Martin's fourth home run in the sixth inning, the pint-sized Cuban right-hander showing great control and a crisp curve—kept the A's in check until the ninth. Bob Cerv and Lou Skizas, who got the first hit off Fornieles with two down in the fourth, belted successive singles to start the inning. But Hal Smith filed out and Woody Held tapped into a game-ending doubleplay.

The Red Sox scored all their runs off losing pitcher Arnold Portocarrero, driving out the husky Kansas City righthander with a four-run cluster in the third inning. Mickey Vernon's sacrifice fly and a Ted Williams single scored two runs and Frank Malone hit his third homer over the left field fence, scoring Williams.

Senators Scalped

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—Bob Lemon, sidelined for three weeks earlier this season because of injuries, pitched his first completed-game victory of the year for the Cleveland Indians today when he held the Washington Senators to five hits to win, 7-1.

A six-run fourth-inning outburst, in which rookies Dick Brown and Larry Raines each hit a two-run single, helped Lemon score his fifth victory against four defeats. Three of the Washington hits were made by Roy Sievers. The only run Lemon gave up was unearned, resulting from Chico Carrasquel's error on Pete Runnels' grounder.

Cubs Belt Giants

CHICAGO, June 22 (UP)—The last-place Chicago Cubs belted four New York Giants pitchers for 16 hits today to swamp the visitors, 12-4, in a game called after six innings because of rain.

The umpires waited 35 minutes before calling the game, when heavy thunderstorms struck the city.

Outfielder Walt Moryn was the hitting star with two singles and two doubles in four times at bat, while Lee Walls connected for two singles and one double in four trips to the plate. Centerfielder Chuck Tanner turned in a home run with two men on base, and Dale Long also homered after one of Moryn's two-baggers.

Tigers Nip Orioles

BALTIMORE, June 22 (UP)—Al Kaline singled to score Charlie Maxwell from second base with two out in the top half of the thirteenth inning tonight and give the Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The victory went to Paul Foylack, who pitched to all but the final Orioles hitter of the game and allowed only five hits. Frank Lary replaced Foylack when the Orioles loaded the bases with two out in the last of the thirteenth and got Jim Busby to send an easy bounce back to the mound.

SPORTS

Kramer's Pro Tennis Troupe 'Lost'

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Jack Kramer's pro tennis troupe is "lost" somewhere in South America today, according to Ted Schroeder, but the man who planned the Chili bean tour figures that no news is good news.

"The last thing I heard," says husky Ted, "was that they couldn't get from Montevideo to Buenos Aires. Finally they found a hydroplane line and I guess they made it O.K. Anyhow, I haven't heard of any drownings down there."

Kramer, Ken Rosewall, Pancho Segura and Dinky Pails are making a 24-match swing down the backbone of the Andes and across the Pampas to the east.

Kramer, who gave up competitive tennis because of a bad shoulder, returned to action for the tour and Schroeder bet him a dinner that he'd break down along the way. Big Jake sent him a letter from Caracas which said:

"Thought he'd die. The first night I thought I'd die. The second night I was afraid I wouldn't. But things are getting better now and you're okay."

gonna blow your bet." Schroeder couldn't care less. After the headaches of lining up the tour, he's glad to wash his hands of the whole bit.

"I had five matches lined up in Colombia," he moaned. "Then, came the revolution."

"On top of this, I couldn't get any word from the promoter in Uruguay. Finally, a guy calls me from Wall Street and says I don't know him, which I already know. But it seems he's a ham radio operator and one night he's talking to a friend in Uruguay. The guy asks him 'Do you live near Jack Kramer?'"

So the guy says yes and the guy in Uruguay says 'tell Kramer the Uruguay Lawn Tennis Assn. says it's a deal. So this has to be the first match ever booked by a ham operator.'

Brazil A Headache
Brazil gave Schroeder a headache, too.

"The guy writes me a five-page letter but it's in Portuguese," he grimaced. "Finally I get next to somebody in the Brazilian Embassy and they translate it for me. The first four and a-half pages are about the weather. The last line says the matches are okay."

Finally the South American travel agency which was lining up transportation called from Rio collect.

"This guy speaks nothing but Spanish so Segura has to translate for me," Schroeder explained. "The gist of it is that if we fly roundabout, going to Florida, then down and over instead of straight down the West Coast, we can save $23 on the grand tour de la mer."

It took a half-hour and the phone bill was $120. LEEDS, England (UP)—Peter Thomson, the Australian ace, set an all-time record for 72 holes in British tournament play with his 264 total that earned him first prize in the Yorkshire Evening News Tourney Friday. Thomson has rounds of 65, 67, 64 and 68.

MILAN, Italy (UP)—World lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans was offered $40,000 today by Italian boxing promoter Dr. Vittorio Strumolo to defend his title against European champion Dullio Loi of Italy.

Tee off time is 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., but all local players are urged to play Saturday morning in order to allow out of town people to play in the afternoon. All rounds must be completed by 6:30 Saturday night. Players not entered in the tourney will not be able to tee off until after 3.

The tournament will be followed by a supper at the club, which is included in the entry fee.

Oil Patch Tourney Set For June 29th At Country Club

The Oil Patch tournament, one of the more unique golf tourneys held in this area, will take place at the Pampa Country Club Saturday, June 29, announced Hart Warren, Country Club pro.

The 18 hole, blind bogey tournament is open only to people connected with the oil and gas business. Contestants should register early, according to the tournament committee, because only 100 players can participate and the first to sign up will be eligible.

The tourney is unique also in that high handicap players have an equal, if not better, chance to win than the low handicap shooters.

Some $500 in prizes will be given away in many different categories, such as greatest number of balls in the water, fewest putts, most balls out of bounds on certain holes, ect.

Tee off time is 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., but all local players are urged to play Saturday morning in order to allow out of town people to play in the afternoon. All rounds must be completed by 6:30 Saturday night. Players not entered in the tourney will not be able to tee off until after 3.

Meet Roy Harris Of Cut And Shoot, Texas. 'He's Jest Rougher'n A Stucco Bath Tub'

By FRANK GODSOE
NEA Special Correspondent
CUT AND SHOOT, Tex. (NEA)—Ever since he was knee high to a puddle duck, the folks here at Cut and Shoot, Tex. — a rough-and-you're-on-your-own town in the middle of what is known as the Big Thicket — have been saying that "Roy Harris is jest rougher'n a stucco bath tub."

Today, the boxing world and Willie Pastrano, in particular, knows it. Harris, a $220 a month rural school teach, a $100 fighter four months ago, bashed Pastrano around before a wild-eyed crowd of 8,828 star-eyed spectators in Houston.

To any of the 3,000 Houston characters who came to timber to see Harris win, it was only natural. Roy gave a third ranking Pastrano just about the same treatment city slickers get at Cut and Shoot, a place where they say if you stand around long enough you'll be cut and if you try to run you'll be shot.

Roy Harris is 23 and weighs 190 pounds and he now has victories over Bob Baker, Charley Norkus, Joe Rowan and Pastrano in an all-winning 21-bout career. He had a lot of amateur fights.

He has totally excited oil barons in Houston, who now say they'll put up any amount to get Floyd Patterson down here for a title bout with the hick heavyweight, as he is called.

You won't find Cut and Shoot on the map, but it's there, as tough a community as Texas ever has seen. Shoes aren't popular in Cut and Shoot, but coonskin caps are. It is nine miles east of Conroe, an old town 40 miles north of Houston.

Harris is a grade school teacher in the area. He spent four years at Sam Houston State in Huntsville but didn't acquire much police. Cut and Shoot isn't conducive to culture, either.

They farm, fish, raise a few pinkey woods rooster hogs — and fight. The timber around town is so thick Harris tells you, "Sometimes it's noon before it gets to be daylight."

Harris, black-haired, sleepy-eyed, doesn't look as if he can fight. But when they get 10 rounds with him, they usually leave town with bumps all over them.

In two years and eight months he has stepped into the heavyweight rankings in a big way. He brought about what has to stand as the most colorful fight crowd of modern times. For the Pastrano fight, Roy trained in a rodeo arena at Conroe and the fans who trailed him to Houston normally wouldn't go to town once a year.

Harris was a 2-1 underdog, but Conroe and Cut and Shoot people spurned the odds. "Don't want odds," they snorted. "Just want more damn fools who want to bet against Roy. Why, Roy'll whip the whole United States Marines."

Roy is a condition fighter. He may not be the fanciest — boxing heavyweight to come down the pike in some time, but he is a guy who will fight you all night and every time he hits you he hurts. He wrecked Pastrano. Against Baker, he took a hard right, went to the floor, then pulled himself up. Baker was startled that Harris was up. He soon forgot all about that, for Harris turned in into a war and the burly Pittsburgh heavyweight had to fight for his life.

Before the Pastrano fight, Harris' manager, Benny King, and Roy's father, Henry, who trains him, made their stand known on officials.

"Roy is his own official," they chorused.

It was no gag. Roy ducked away from Pastrano's jabs and pounded rights to body all night, mixing them up with wicked uppercuts.

Neither is the school teaching a gag. Roy handles a typical rural school class at Cut and Shoot, which means teacher has to defend himself at all times. And oh, how those PTA meetings wind up in Cut and Shoot!

But Roy Harris takes care of everything. Around here they say he'll take care of Floyd Patterson, too.

Elk City Elks Hand Rebels First Loss

Hard-Throwing Pitcher Whiffs 23 In 11-3 Game Last Night

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Pampa Rebels dropped their first game of the season last night to the Elk City Elks, 11-3.

The Elks, boosted by the sizzling pitching and power hitting of Richard Hunt, quelled the Rebel winning streak, which until this game, had reached seven straight. Getting off to a fast start in the first inning the Elks pushed across three runs off hits by Ed Peach and Richard Hunt. Held scoreless in the second inning the Elks again started hitting off Rebel pitcher Dale Lake in the third, and with five hits drove in seven more runs. Ray Stephenson replaced Lake on the mound during the third and prevented further scoring.

The Rebels came alive in their half of the third when Terrell and Brown walked, followed by Cruise, who blasted a double and Conway with a single to score three runs.

After the third inning both teams clamped defensively and the only other score came in the sixth when Elk City pitcher Hunt pitched the only home run of the game.

Dale Lake is credited with 10 loss for the Rebels, allowing 10 runs, 10 hits and 2 walks. Relier pitcher Ray Stephenson, who finished the game, allowed only three hits, three walks and one run.

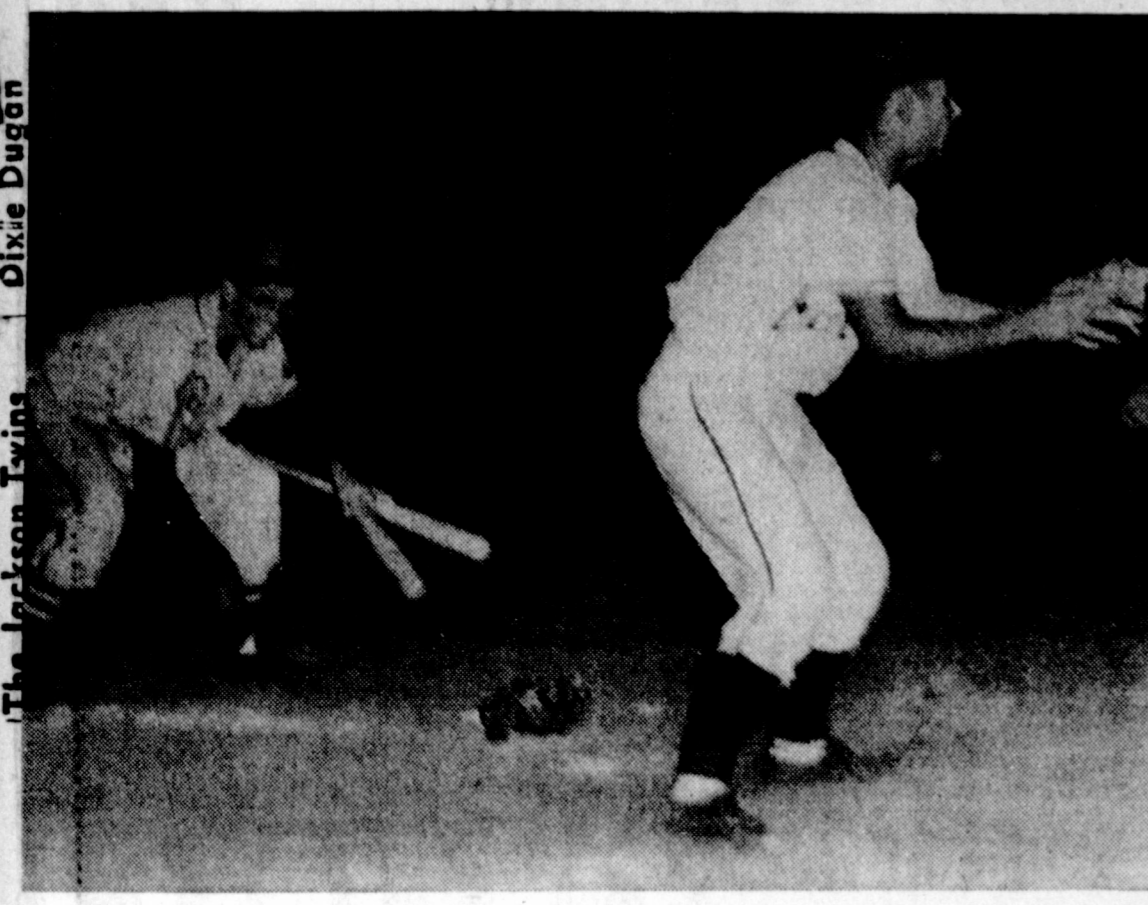

Richard Hunt, hurler for the Elks, allowed 4 hits, had 23 strike outs and allowed 3 runs.

The Rebels left 7 runners on base compared with the Elks' 10. Elk City now has a record of 8 wins and 2 losses, compared with the Rebels' 7 wins and 1 loss.

The Rebels meet Berger this afternoon for their first district tilt. The game will be played in Berger at 3 p.m.

By S. V. WHITEHORN

Caddo Lake, situated in east Texas and Louisiana, is one of the outstanding spots in the south to spend a week or so of relaxation and good fishing. The lake covers between 35,000 and 40,000 acres with much of the water being about ten feet in depth, and chuck full of bass, white perch (crappie) and yellow cat fish. It is a lazy appearing body of water and you get the relaxed feeling the minute you drive up to the lake. There will be fishermen leaving the boat docks by the boatloads with colored guides at the motor. These guides make it a profession and they are really on the ball when it comes to escorting the fishing party about the water, and stopping at the right places to catch a string of white perch or other species.

Game Warden Tom Browning arranged for Henry Lewis to guide us the first day. Henry immediately took charge of the boat the morning we left and neatly piloted it thru some of the roads that are common on Caddo. There are tall cypress forests that grow in the lake and in order to navigate there are roads cut through these woods. We had covered about two miles when Henry pulled up to the edge of a cypress and stated that we would fish in the spot for a few minutes. A bucket full of minnows and cane poles provides the best method for fishing. All the angler had to do was to swing the line near Henry for him to bait the hook. Each time a fish was caught the angler swung the hook over to the guide for him to string the fish and place another minnow on. It was a lazy way to fish but it was lots of fun. There isn't another lake like this one in Texas.

Accommodations are adequate since Caddo Lake State Park is practically on the banks of the water and cabins with electricity, air conditioning, hot and cold water, showers, etc., are at your disposal for a very reasonable fee.

Colorful is the descriptive word to fit the park since it was made amid the tall pines and oak trees that fill the park area which consists of some 485 acres that are marked with trails and paved roads.

Blue Jays fill the tall trees and when a plate of table scraps are placed on the pine needles the birds are but very little afraid of the people. They will light within a few feet of the bird feeders and compete for the choice scraps.

Heard a fellow ask a fisherman with a large string "what did you catch the fish with?" the reply was short and simple, "bait." Well the people around Caddo are friendly and helpful and will go to any length to assist a tourist. Alvin Starr, park keeper, is typical with bits of friendly advice towards information necessary for the campers.

Boats can be rented at one dollar per day and minnows bought at about 2 cents each. Any other type of fish bait is available. Crawfish usually sell for about the same as minnows.

Game Transplants Generally Successful

White-tailed deer have been transplanted in Texas with greater success than any other species, according to a report of restocking statistics for the last 15 years compiled by the Wildlife Restoration for the Game and Fish Commission. Roughly 15,000 white-tailed deer have been trapped and released with "generally successful results."

The only complete failures of white-tailed deer have been in a comparatively small part of the state "where public thinking did not favor game conservation," the report stated. But under the impact of educational programs, "even this section is slowly being stocked with white tails and practically all good white-tailed deer range in Texas is now occupied."

During the 15 year period, 6,952 wild turkeys, antelope, a d mule or black-tailed deer were transplanted to new range.

"Mule deer transplanting," said the report, "was successful to a far lesser degree and many plants were a complete failure. It was found that mule deer, which are found mainly west of the Pecos, were more difficult to establish in new areas than white-tails, had a greater tendency to return to the trap-site if liberated within one hundred miles radius of their home range."

Transplants in north Texas in the Palo Duro Canyon have been established and are continuing to grow in numbers of individuals, but no successful mule deer plants as far east as Austin have been recorded.

The report said that competition with domestic sheep has been "a serious factor in limiting antelope numbers" although the fleet pronghorn have been successfully stocked both in the Big Bend country and in the Panhandle.

"Competition between cattle and antelope on the same range is far less severe and antelope continue to thrive under moderate stocking with this type of livestock."

Transplants of the Rio Grande variety of wild turkey have been made practically all over the state, although they were not native east of a line through the state drawn from north to south through Fort Worth, Waco and Houston. Ancestral range of the eastern race of turkeys extended to approximately this boundary.

"Transplants of Rio Grande birds east of Austin," the report explains "have generally met with failure although one such plant in Freestone County is continuing to increase under hunting pressure." Taken from June issue of Texas Game and Fish.

Stobbs Breaks Sixteen Game Losing Streak

WASHINGTON (UP)—"Now I know how Don Larsen felt." Those were Chuck Stobbs' first words after being mobbed, hugged, kissed and swarmed over by Washington Senator teammates moments after he snapped his 16-game losing streak Friday night with a 6-3 victory over Cleveland.

Stobbs, aided by 9,462 morale-boosting Senator fans who brought every conceivable kind of good-luck charm to the park, didn't pitch a perfect game but his seven-hitter was good enough to earn him his first victory of the season after 11 defeats and his first triumph in 17 decisions since he beat Baltimore, 2-0, last Sept. 5.

Lincoln Wins Mile In AAU Tourney

DAYTON, Ohio, June 22 (UP)—Merv Lincoln, one of Australia's sub-four-minute milers, tonight overtook Bob Seaman on the final lap to win the mile run in 4:06.1 at the AAU track and field meet.

Lincoln, making his last appearance in the United States, and Don Bowden of the San Francisco Olympic Club, both of whom have run the mile under four minutes, had been expected to threaten the mark again. But Bowden failed to live up to expectations, finishing in third place, and Lincoln ran just fast enough to break the old AAU mark of 4:07.1 set by Wes Santee in 1953.

Lincoln was clocked for the quarters in 61.9; 2:07.8, and 3:09.9.

Ran In Pack

Both Bowden and Lincoln ran back in the pack in early portion of the race. Jerry Walters of the Striders set the early pace, Bowden took the lead at the half.

Seaman of the Striders took the lead from Bowden early in the final lap and relinquished it to Lincoln only on the far turn of the final lap when the Australian turned on with his famous kick.

Experts here described the effort as a tactical race rather than a time testing one. Lincoln appeared to finish with something to spare.

The mile was divided into two sections, because of the large number of entries, with the fastest men entered with Lincoln and Bowden.

Earlier Reggie Pearman of the New York Pioneer Club, who won his first AAU championship in 1947, did it again in the 440-yard run.

Pearman, who is 33, edged John Telford of Wayne State University by a couple of yards in new meet record time of 46.4. The old record of 46.6 was established by Jim Lea of the Los Angeles Athletic Club in 1954.

Charles Jenkins of Villanova, the Olympic champion, finished third.

First Championship

Pearman's first AAU championship was established in the half mile. He won with a driving finish, leaving others in the lurch.

Robert Backus of the New York Athletic Club won the 56-pound weight throw with an American and meet record toss of 44 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

His performance exceeded his previous American record of 44 feet and two inches and his meet mark of 43 feet, both made last year.

Backus' throw was almost five feet ahead of his nearest competitor, Martin Engel of the New York Pioneer Club. He threw the weight 39 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

John Macy, a Polish refugee student at Houston University set a new AAU record of 13.55 in the three mile run, closing with a burst of speed that brought the crowd to its feet.

Macy, 28, won by 50 yards and had the race much his own way during the final portion. He led at two miles, being clocked at that point in 9:28.7. He holds the AAU indoor title for three miles, Max Truex of the Southern California striders took second place in a race run so fast that all six men placing broke the old mark of 14:18.5 set by Horace Ashenfelter in 1954.

William Dillinger of Oregon University was third; Philip Coleman of the University of Chicago, fourth; Maj. Robertson, Striders, fifth, and Alex Breckenridge of Villanova, sixth.

Middleweights Want Re-match

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—Skillful Joey Giambra and aggressive Rory Calhoun, ranking middle-weight contenders who fought to an unusual 10-round draw Friday night, don't want a championship fight—they want a re-match.

What was closest to the hearts of both fighters today was a chance to prove the draw was a "fluke," although the state's boxing rules have a supplemental point system to make such a decision a rarity.

The fourth-ranked Giambra, a slight favorite going into the fight, weighed 157 1/2 and the sixth-ranked Calhoun weighed 159.

Reds Ambush Bus

MANILA, June 22 (UP)—Communist Huk rebels ambushed a bus last Friday in southeastern Luzon, killing three soldiers and wounding three civilians.

Roadrunners Drop To Coors In First Defeat Of Season

The Amarillo Coors, staging heavy rallies during the first and last of the game, downed the Pampa Roadrunners, 15-11.

Clyde Isral, first man to the plate for the Coors, pounded one over the fence and spurred a flock of hits that resulted in an 8 run lead in the first inning of the game.

The Roadrunners promptly retaliated, in a lesser degree, by bringing across 3 runs off hits by Cecil Reynolds, Bobby Seitz and Gerald Clark.

Able to hold the Coors in check Pampa pushed across 3 more in the second as Amarillo pitcher Leonard Davis gave two free trips and allowed Waner of the Roadrunners a single.

The Roadrunners gained the lead in the 4th as relief pitcher Jim Clarich of Amarillo walked two, followed with hits by Seitz, Secrest and Waner. The three runs brought in gave the Roadrunners a one run lead at 9-8.

Again in the fifth the Roadrunners managed to score two more and push their lead to 11-8.

However Amarillo hitting caught hold again in the sixth when the Coors brought in five runs. Again in the seventh against the relief pitching of Ramsey, Amarillo gained their final two runs.

After the fifth inning the Roadrunners remained scoreless.

Leonard Davis received credit for the Amarillo win, and Max Molberg is charged with Pampa's loss.

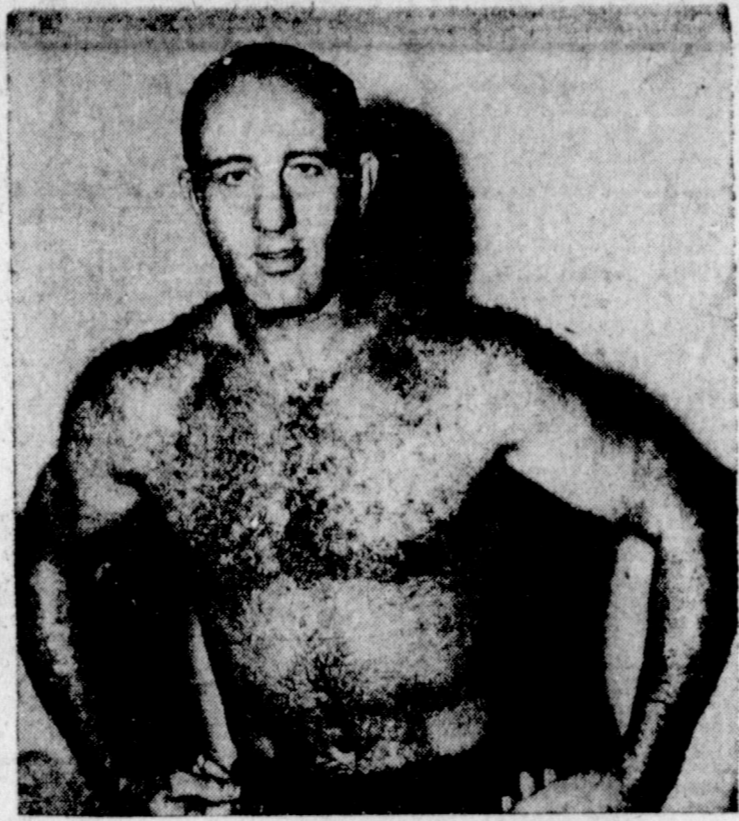

The Roadrunners totaled 10 hits against the Coors' 15. A total of 10 Pampa runners were left on base compared with 6 for Amarillo.

This was the second game for Pampa's newly organized team. In the first tilt they defeated the Perryton Pioneers 9-6. Next scheduled game is Tuesday night in Oiler Park when the Roadrunners play a return game with the Pioneers.

Tomorrow night's wrestling at the Sportman Club will feature a tag match composed of Bob Geigel, Dory Funk and Dizzy Davis against Danny "Bulldog" Plechas, Ivan Kola and Iron Mike Debaise in the main event.

The semi-final match will pit Iron Mike against Dory Funk in a 20 minute one-fall bout. In the first event Plechas will oppose Geigel in another one-faller with a 20 minute limit.

In last week's matches Davis downed Phelps, and Geigel was a victor over Kola in the first two events. In the main event, which featured Funk vs Plechas, each man had one fall to his credit when the "Bulldog" grew tired of wrestling Funk and threw the referee out of the ring, resulting in his disqualification.

The matches, beginning at 8:30 are sponsored by the Pampa Shrine Club. Admission is $1.50 for ringside; $1.25 for reserved seats; 90 cents for general admission adult and 50 cents for general admission children.

Saga Of Dick Mayer

A Reluctant Champ... And A Woman Who Won't Quit

DICK MAYER AND HIS WIFE, DORIS

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Doris Mayer is an attractive little woman who could be found during the United States Open Championship, walking down the Inverness fairways outside the ropes, with the rest of the gallery, a raincoat over one arm. She watched closely as her husband, Dick, lined up shots. She'd bite her lip as the ball soared down the fairway. Then she'd start walking again.

Doris Mayer was, you'd think, just another professional golfer's wife rooting the meat-and-potato side of the family home.

But with Dick and Doris Mayer and the U.S. Open, it was vastly more than that. It was the story of an extraordinary shotmaker having been put back on his pins by a woman who wouldn't let him quit. There were, for example, lost weeks in southern California last winter. Doctors told Mayer he had ulcers.

"Things were going badly and I was all mixed up," he says.

Mayer lost all interest in the game he played so well, played none at all. Instead, he played the horses at Santa Anita, and found out that the old saying, "All horses players must die broke," was perfectly true. Like a lot of fellows before him he attempted to drown his troubles.

Finally there was the inevitable return to his wife and two children in St. Petersburg Fla., in March. "I'm all through," Dick Mayer, an underweight sick guy whose stomach pained and hands shook, told his wife.

It is in spots like this that a wife takes over and Doris Mayer is all wife. She took her husband over completely as manager, nurse, companion — everything.

Doris Mayer couldn't lose faith. She had too much to fight for. This was a young man from a fine Old Greenwich, Conn., family and a nail hard tank driver who fought for his country in World War II.

Mayer now was too weak to put up much of a fight against it, and the very next day Doris had him out for the St. Petersburg Open, although he hadn't competed in a tournament in months. He had to pull out after two rounds, but it was a start.

Mayer was a reluctant combatant, but it was on to Seminole, where he had a 36-hole total of 146. Then it was Miami, where he was third.

Dick's strength was coming back and Doris was feeding him vitamin pills and giving him grass and dust shots, he being allergic to both. Then the Masters and an eighth at Greensboro, a fifth at Las Vegas and a piece of the money in Louisville. Now he was coming on. He was second in Fort Worth, eighth at Hot Springs, fifth at Greenbrier and in the money in Kansas City.

And always there was Doris dragging Dick away from celebrities in locked rooms. His rounds in the Palm Beach Round Robin at Wykagyl — 72-69-70-65-74 — showed that Mayer was getting back on his beautiful game, but he still lacked the missus' urge.

Dick persisted he wasn't interested in trying to qualify for the Open the next day at Metropolis, and Knollwood. But Doris again rolled up her sleeves and went to work. She packed her husband off to bed and practically shoved him out on the first tee the next morning. He finished as medalist with Sam Snead, then took his smooth swing to Inverness.

49th Year THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS SUNDAY, JUNE 23, 1957 11

Peg O' Pampa

WE ARE VERY SORRY to see the splendor of the climbing roses diminish with the passing of the weeks . . . especially those of the Curtis Douglas' . . . which were the most magnificent . . . but other types of roses will be coming "into their own" now, so that all is not lost . . . summer is here now to stay, although it is hard to believe it, with all the cool weather we have been having . . . he who denies that we have the finest climate just doesn't know what he is talking about . . . at least, we do when it rains enough!

SUNDRY STATEMENTS of interest, perhaps . . . Jeff Bearden . . . Grover Henshell . . . and W. M. Lane surely were the picture of the red-blooded outdoors-type Americans the other day . . . leaning on their golf clubs, every mother's son of them . . . and along these lines, with, we may add, absolutely no reflection upon the names mentioned above, one of our pet peevish is the little car that hauls the golfer around the greens . . . what kind of exercise do you call that? . . . we have always assumed that one of the excuses for playing the game was that it gives the poor office-bound citizen some exercise and badly needed fresh air . . . saw Mrs. Johnny Hines looking pretty as usual, downtown last week . . . we bet that the Overton Clinic is missing Florence Jackson . . . she is on her vacation . . . did you ever see so many houses a-building . . . a boom due in part to the Franks company we expect . . . Waldon Moore and his family have been on vacation . . . quite a flurry of excitement about the poison hemlock . . . no one wants to play a Socrates, apparently.

A WELCOMING COMMITTEE of one, here, to new babies . . . belonging in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Norton (boy) . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson . . . Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haynes . . . Mr. and Mrs. Max Hukill . . . Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jenkins . . . all boys . . . can't somebody break the chain and produce a girl once in a while? . . . seems like more boys than girls are born, but we suppose it evens out sometime.

HERE GOES WITH THE CORN FOR THE WEEK . . . although secretly we hope you will not take us at our own evaluation . . . an astronomer, when asked by the press about flying saucers replied, "No comet." . . . comment on a three-times-married philosophy professor . . . he said "Put divorce before Descartes." . . . please don't waste those purple tomatoes throwing them around like that!

SUMMER GOINGS ON . . . out of town lately were . . . Corrine Case who visited in Lubbock . . . Marguerite Thompson who is visiting in Oklahoma . . . and the Clinton Evans' are in California, the land of the smog and the gold . . . Don and Joan Thompson are going to be out of town permanently . . . they are moving to Dallas . . . we suspect she will find use for her talents in decorating and we hope Don is successful in his business venture . . . Pampa friends will miss them . . . there is a couples' garden club in case you are interested . . . meets at night . . . Jenny Davenport and Doris Bullard were at the swimming pool recently . . . don't Doris and Ralph McClure have a fine looking pair of sons . . . and smart as whips, too . . . Linda Holt and Anne Evans are in Santa Fe, New Mexico for a few weeks . . . anywhere near a mountain or two is the place to be in summer . . . M. F. Waggoner and his wife are visiting in Ohio . . . Johnny Syper has worked hard in the Bible School program . . . Loraine Hilton and Mrs. Travis Lively Jr. . . . are among those taking swimming lessons this summer . . . saw Joe Cree with his friendly grin . . . guess they are enjoying their home, except for the lawn-mowing that has to be done so dog-gone often . . . Carl and Mary Hills are enjoying their new home . . . Mack and Ronald Hubbard's little boy is the cutest, fattest little thing you ever saw . . . they say he eats anything that looks like food, and we believe it.

THIS IS THE TIME . . . vacation-summer-time . . . it's ho for the Trail (One Way Traffic Ahead) . . . it is the time of the sunburned left-elbow . . . for the No Vacancy signs which become visible at 4 p.m. . . . it's ho for the open road . . . (Under Construction, Travel at Your Own Risk) . . . it is the season for keeping an anxious eye peeled for the highway sign that you always just miss seeing until you are past the corner . . . the season for leaving your sunglasses wherever you have stopped to rest a minute . . . for listening to the chorus of protests when you deny the fourth popsicle of the day . . . for wondering what became of that carton of soda-pop you bought just yesterday . . . until you find all the empty bottles under the tree where the kids were . . . it is the time of the year when otherwise sane people decide that their nice, comfortable homes and soft beds are less inviting than the hard, rocky, grassy slopes of some camp ground or picnic ground . . . and feel like trading ye olds bathe tubbe for a lake . . . and English ivy for poison ivy. Ah, summer!

PARTING WORDS . . . Frank Fata and Smiley Henderson were seen together in town last week . . . hear that Canita was here Wednesday afternoon for bridge club meeting . . . wonder how she is liking Amarillo life . . . the daisies are beginning to bloom in the oil-fields according to well-informed sources . . . saw Gladys Robinson having coffee downtown one day . . . she has three well-behaved boys . . . heard she was in an auto wreck recently, but didn't see any signs of it . . . Mrs. H. H. Boynton was looking happy and pretty one day last week . . . fofoey . . . think I'll go jump in the pool!

AND NOW, LIKE THE AFTER DINNER speaker who says he is going to quit, and then goes on and on, I will go on and on . . . however, since both space and the "think tank" are exhausted, you, dear readers, are going to get a lucky break . . . we'll quit now, while we're ahead of the game, on a note from an old autograph book . . .

Yours till butter flies,
Peg

MRS. BYRON ROSS BYARS JR.

In the First Methodist Church, before a candlelighted altar flanked by floor - baskets of white gladioli, jade palms, with the choir rail decorated with huckleberry forming a hedge background, Miss Pat Ward exchanged wedding vows with Byron Ross Byars Jr. in a double - ring ceremony performed by Reverend Edwin L. bride wore a gown of Camella peau de faulle by Bianchi. The de-colletage of neckline was accented with bands of hand-run Alencon lace and tulle and studded with seed pearls. Princess lines of the gown flared into fullness, emphasized by a matching bow and entered into the aisle-wide court sweep. The brief sleeves were complemented by mitts of the same material as the gown.

Her finger-tip veil of imported silk illusion fell in tiers from a crown of pearlized flowers and tulle leaves. She carried a white lace fan, on which was centered a white orchid and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Bob Kreigh of West Chicago, Ill., Miss Jo Ann York of Dallas, Miss Caroline Thompson of Richmond, Mo., and Miss Patricia LaRue of McKinney were bridesmaids.

Flower Tips Are Shown At HDC

The Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Worth Nelson, 600 Bradley Drive, with Mrs. A. P. Coombes, president, presiding. Mrs. Tandy McGlohon was elected secretary to replace the former secretary, Mrs. R. H. St. Aubyn, who has moved out of town.

Mrs. Boyd Maulle gave the program on flower arranging. She said that flowers should be cut with a knife at an angle to absorb more water, and that they should be cut early in the morning. If they become wilted, they should be cut again and placed in luke warm water. Mr. Maulle explained that when arranging flowers, use no more than three colors with a dark color at the bottom of the arrangement to catch the eye. Also, start at the top and work down with definite vertical and horizontal lines. Flowers should appear to be flowing from the vase. The arrangement should be no taller than 1 1/2 times the height of the vase.

Refreshments of ice cream cake, and Cokes were served. The next meeting will be July 2 in the home of Mrs. George Perkins, 1918 Christine.

YOU and YOUR HOME by Jack Foster

BEAUTY HAS NO PRICE-TAG

Your home, the place where the most significant hours of your life are spent, is what you make it. Lush daydreams and casual wishing for more attractive surroundings will avail you nothing. Many folks have the idea that they cannot make these dreams come true because they can't afford it. This, of course, is an unsound belief... because the home that is attractive and out-of-the-ordinary costs no more, basically, than the home that is commonplace.

A wealth of unpriced beauty surrounds all of us, waiting to be tapped and put to use in our homes, and in our everyday living plans. Color, arrangement, contrast - these have no price-tag, yet are of immeasurable importance to an attractive room setting.

Next to color, furniture arrangement does more to distinguish a room than any other decorating factor that we know of. Consider the room sketched above. The off-center arrangement of three metal panels on the fireplace wall is striking, adds drama. Note also how the gentle curves of the sectional sofa give a softening effect to the sleek Modern feeling in the room. Accessories have been carefully chosen to add color accent and a feeling of warmth and hospitality.

A pleasing furniture arrangement can accomplish wonders for a home. Our trained, experienced decorators will discuss your furnishing and decorating plans with you - help you with ideas and advise whenever you find it convenient to come in. Do make it real soon.

MRS. KENNETH VERNOY HINKLE

Evening Wedding Vows Unite Miss Howard, K. Hinkle

In a double-ring ceremony read at eight o'clock on the evening of Saturday in Grace Temple Baptist Church, Miss Nancy Jean Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eugene Howard, became the bride of Kenneth Vernoy Hinkle of Pampa. The bride's parents live at 1402 Scripture, and the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bern Vernoy Hinkle live in Pampa.

The Rev. Henry H. Kinkeade, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Irving, officiated for the rites. Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and white stock, palms of greenery and Swedish iron candelabra. White satin bows with greenery marked the aisles.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of pale ivory silk taffeta and chantilly lace. The bateau neckline was outlined with patterns of the chantilly lace, and complemented the empire' lace bodice and long lace sleeves that tapered to petal points over the back of her hands. The princess lines of the bodice flared to a bouffant skirt, veiled by panels of chantilly lace, which swept to a wide chapel train.

Her veil of imported French silk illusion fell in misty tresses to her fingertips on a pearl tiara.

She carried a cascade bouquet showered with stephanotis and centered with a white orchid.

Miss Karen Wilson of Tyler, the bride's cousin, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Lynn McClurkan, Marcia Wells, and Jane Shands, all of Denton.

The bride's attendants were a pair of identical attired in mauve pink silk organza. The empire' chantilly lace bodice, marked by a narrow bias organza fold forming a small pouff bustle in back, was fashioned with a dainty sawtooth decollete neckline and brief sleeves, complemented by wrist length white glove' gloves. The full princess paneled organza skirts were waist length. They wore matching silk organza bandeaux and shoes dyed to match.

They carried colonial bouquets of feathered white carnations.

The bride's mother wore a gown of mauve chantilly lace over taffeta. Her mauve hat matched her satin pumps. Mrs. Hinkle selected a costume of teal blue chantilly lace over taffeta for her son's wedding. She wore a white lace hat and teal blue pumps. Both mothers wore corsages of white cymbidium orchids.

Billy Dee Pilgrim of Dallas was best man. Other attendants of the bridegroom were Weldon Knight of Denton, Gary Pamplin of McKinney, and Rhea Roberson of Dallas. Bobby Grahman, Dan Hinkle, Durwood Knight, and Gunter Knight, all of Denton, served as ushers.

Ronald Lee Vermillion, cousin of the bride, and Gunter Knight were candlelighters.

Mrs. Thomas Ryan of Denton sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Robert Dale of Den-

Leggit-Meeks Are Wed In Home Rites

In a double-ring ceremony on Saturday afternoon, June 15, at two o'clock Mrs. Gladys Leggett of Wellington became the bride of J. Aaron Meek of Pampa.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pampa, read the service in the Jack VanBebber home at 1207 S. Birge in Dumas.

Arrangements of pink roses, snapdragons, and canterbury bells decorated the living room, while palms flanked the picture-window forming a background for the ceremony.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Jack VanBebber, sister of the bride, wore a gray lace sheath. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Homer L. Craig of Pampa was best man.

The bride was attired in a larkspur blue lace over taffeta. Her accessories were blue and her corsage was white gardenias.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was feted at a reception in the VanBebber home. Mrs. Jimmy Leggett of Abilene, Tex., presided at the punch bowl.

After a trip to Colorado, the couple will be at home at 1243 Williston, Pampa. For traveling, the bride chose a navy blue linen suit with white accessories.

Miss Tinkler, Bob Caddel Married In Double-Ring Church Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. BOB CADDAL

Miss Mary Lue Tinkler became the bride of Bob Caddel on June 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Kellerville Baptist Church with the Rev. J. R. Lawson performing the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with baskets of daisies and evergreen leaves. The white kneeling altar was flanked with four candelabra holding blue tapers. Candles were also placed in the church's windows.

Miss Tinkler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Tinkler, Kellerville. Mr. Caddel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Caddel, 422 N. Russell, Pampa.

"I Love You Truly," "Indian Love Call," "Through The Years," and "The Wedding March" were played by Mrs. James Connor, pianist, who accompanied Miss Carol Lawson as she sang, "Always," and Eddie Brown and Bobby McPherson duet, who sang, "Because."

Mr. Tinkler, father of the bride, gave his daughter in marriage. She was gowned in street-length white lace over white net. The strapless, fitted bodice was lapped with a lace jacket buttoned down the front with lace buttons and featured a rounded lace collar and long sleeves. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was attached to a scalloped mantilla edged with tiny white pearls and sequins. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations with a shower of white satin streamers tied in lover's knots.

Mrs. Don Stafford, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a white linen sheath dress with a light blue linen duster and white accessories was the attire chosen by Mrs. Tinkler for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Caddel, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dark blue dress with black and white accessories. Both of their corsages were

Miss Covalt Bride Of Daniel Michael

At ten o'clock on the morning of June 15, the marriage vows of Miss Geneva Covalt and Daniel G. Michael were solemnized in the St. Matthews Episcopal Church with the Reverend William E. West officiating. Large white mums with a candelabra formed the background for the change of vows.

Mrs. Jack Skelly, organist, played "Ave Maria" and "Oh Perfect Love." Candles were lighted by Michael Noland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Noland.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of imported white organza fashioned with a bandeau of pois de sole taffeta with a boat neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was attached to a lace headband studded with seed pearls and iridescent sequins.

The bride followed the tradition of something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue. She carried a bouquet of three green cymbidium orchids interspersed with staphanotis and attached to a prayer book. Along with the prayer book, she carried a handkerchief over a hundred years old.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Jimmie Bossay, wore a bouffant ballerina-length dress of petal pink nylon dotted-swiss over taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline and Empire waist. Matching hat and gloves complemented her costume. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses surrounded by pink carnations.

Kay W. Lewis served the bridegroom as best man. Mrs. Edith Charmasson, mother of the bride, chose for the wedding a white and gold print silk dress with white accessories. She wore a white carnation corsage sprinkled with gold.

Mrs. A. E. Michael, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue silk shantung dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Wedding guests were registered by Miss Virginia Bates. For a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Mrs. Michael wore a sheath dress of cocoa and champagne printed silk with a boat neckline, sleeveless, with a coverdress of cocoa crystalline with a fitted bodice, full skirt with a large bow at the neck. Her accessories were black patent with white gloves. She wore a corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return they will reside at 1342 Coffey.

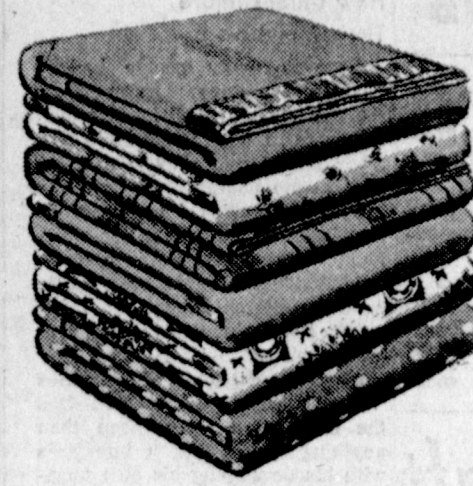

Mr. Michael is a geology graduate of Texas Technological College and is employed by Core Laboratories, Inc.

Mrs. Michael is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Charmasson of Woodward, Okla. and L. R. Covat, 1225 Duncan, Pampa. Mr. Michael is the son of Mrs. A. M. Michael of Rochester.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's mother and Mrs. Warren D. Short, Rochester; F. E. Gauntt, Rule; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Covalt and Mrs. Eva Meier of Woodward, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Gardiner and son of Tulsa,

Church and the Draft

A few months ago the Chicago Tribune noted editorially that certain Pentagon brass were doing what they could to enlist the clergy into an all-out effort to sustain the concept of universal military service. It seems that a Colonel Claude N. Shaver, chief of the Wisconsin Military District, circulated the clergymen of that state by letter, informing them that they had a "sacred" duty to prepare young men for military service and to advise them on the provisions of the reserve forces act of 1955.

The letter lectures the ministers of the gospel on the "moral obligations and responsibilities which have been thrust upon the United States to help build a free world." They are urged to "arrange a meeting in which will participate religious, youth, and civic leaders—of obligated military service with a spirit of dedication and zeal for a worthy cause."

Apparently quite a number of the clergymen of Wisconsin went along with the idea. However, at least one pastor did not. This particularly learned gentleman wrote the Tribune, saying:

"You will note that I am being officially informed by this army bureaucrat that it is my 'sacred task' to whoop up propaganda for continuing the peace time draft and helping to get youths interested in the reserve program—through my church. This letter is objectionable because it steps over the clear border line of separation of the church and state.

"The churches of America are not agencies of the state—particularly not of the military arm. The churches are asked to 'spearhead' a propaganda drive to fasten the draft permanently on the nation and whip up enthusiasm for it. I think this new effort to hook churches and synagogues to the military machine is going to backfire, as it should."

Hurray for the Wisconsin cleric who wrote that! We hope and trust that there are a legion of the cloth who will feel and speak up in the same vein. Indeed, the church is not supposed to be an agency of the government. And the zealous Colonel Shaver should have checked his American history a little more thoroughly before he sought to enlist the churches of America into such a drive.

Constitutionally, and historically, we have a long and favorable record in which separation of church and state has been an honored policy. And the church should not permit itself to be wheedled into a position of supporting any particular governmental doctrine, even when the position of the church is manifestly the same as that of the government.

For example, we can presume that the military is interested in checking communism. And we can certainly presume that the church is similarly interested. However, the approach of these two organized bodies, while their aims may coincide, are bound to be and should be widely divergent. And for the one to seek to further the efforts of the other, is an outright abridgement of the separateness concept.

Further, how any church could support the peace time draft is a matter of considerable wonderment. Certainly, we wish to do all possible to stop the spread of communism. But stopping the spread of communism can never be accomplished by inflicting involuntary servitude upon the youth of this or any other nation.

If there is a national emergency which requires the military service of our young men, when have those men ever failed to respond? If there is not a national emergency of such nature as to require such service, why should they be compelled to a life of military control?

The only effective soldier is a man who BELIEVES. And how can a man dedicate himself to a belief when he is not asked to think, but is instead compelled to alter his life by a governmental order which fails entirely to consider him as an individual human being?

There is much ground for moral and legal argument respecting the present draft laws. The church would be well advised to refuse utterly to participate in any such ruse as that attempted by the Wisconsin colonel.

We were happy to note that at least on Wisconsin clergymen saw through the situation. And we were also happy to discover that the Chicago Tribune had carried the item and thus helped to inform the American people in its service area.

BEFORE THE DISHES ARE DONE

BETTY KNOWLES HUNT

TEMPUS SURE FUGIT!

By the time this column is published, I shall be in New England attending a college reunion with my ancient and honorable classmates. Just how "ancient" are we? I think I'll take the "fifth" Amendment! On that question, since there is not the slightest doubt in my mind that an honest answer would certainly "incriminate" me! But I'll give you a hint by admitting that we proudly donned our mortar boards and accepted our B.A. degrees back in the threeshire thirties.

My most vivid memory of that prominent occasion is the never-to-be-forgotten image of my late father, a man of the most complete integrity, impeccable manners, and stubborn devotion to principle, walking out in the middle of our Commencement Address with the equally-stubborn father of a classmate!

In the aftermath of experience and maturity, I long ago learned to smile at this incident, and indeed—to feel proud of my father's rather dramatic "non-conformity." You may recall that the "thirties" were depression days, and my father was struggling and sacrificing mightily to provide his three children with a college education.

Our Commencement speaker was one of those young New Deal "brain-trusters" with a noggin full of easy answers for a shiny new world, and the theme of his message to us starry-eyed kids was to "go out and spend, spend, spend" until we had spent ourselves right out of the depression!

My father had quite contrary theories, and having "spent himself" mightily thin to get a mere female daughter her B.A., he had already warned me that I was "on my own" the day after graduation, to earn my own way in the world, to balance my own budget, and to save for my own rainy days. It was tough going, but five working years later, I knew that my father was dead right, and our eager-beaver brain-truster was a nice but nutty nit-wit! That unimportant national debt, which we "only owe to ourselves," is now costing us about eight billion dollars a year just in interest payments alone, and that "guaranteed security" which the New Dealers promised us via the Federal Government, is just as "unguaranteed" as ever!

Tempus sure does fugit, and the life-cycle has now turned another turn, for my sixteen-year-old High School Junior daughter will be traveling with me to New England, gazing with starry eyes at female college campuses. In another year, her parents, like theirs before them, will be struggling and sacrificing to send the first of our four children through college, in the wondrous hope that however costly this "higher education" may be it will somehow open golden gates to a knowledge of man and his world.

Five years hence, I shall probably be sitting in some college auditorium listening to another Commencement speaker, as he attempts to launch my eldest child into the rugged realities of paddling her life-raft alone, armed with a college degree and a heart full of vulnerable dreams. On that delectable date, her parents will undoubtedly be some $8,000 poorer, and like my good father before

How Unions Injure Their Members

Since so many people believe labor unions have been good for the working man and for mankind in general, I want to set forth how labor unions injure those who belong to the unions.

By labor unions I mean unions that insist on bargaining for individual workers who want to make an individual bargain or want to have a different agent from the union. I know of no other kind of labor unions.

Hinder Development of Faculties

The thing that injures and does the union man more harm than anything else is that it interferes with his developing his own faculties. How does it do this? It does this because it prevents him from using his conscience and his judgment. And when he does not use his conscience and his judgment, it cannot develop. Even what he has deteriorates by lack of use.

It is hard to conceive of anything that does any individual more harm than for a man not to be constantly exercising his mental faculties. It is a well-known fact that if a man does not use any member of his body it withers away. The same thing applies to his mental and spiritual faculties. If he does not use them he loses them. It is a law of nature that what you do not use you lose.

Now let's give a few examples as to how labor unions hinder a member from developing all the talents that God gave him.

When he becomes a member he agrees to abide by the union constitution and the rules passed by the officers or majority. Invariably labor unions limit the number that dare learn a trade. But that limitation also interferes with that union member learning another trade from the one he has learned. It thus puts him in a groove—a sort of treadmill. If the trade he has learned is too easy for him and doesn't require all his faculties, he is handicapped in learning another trade at the same time.

Man should be permitted to learn as many trades as he believes will be to his advantage, and as rapidly as possible. There should be no arbitrary length of time required to learn a trade. Men are different. Some can learn a trade in a fraction of the time others can. And the man with initiative is greatly handicapped because in order to get protection against competition, he has to give up, also, his right to compete with other workers and learn another trade. Thus he cannot make an individual bargain, and when he cannot make an individual bargain, his judgment is impaired.

Loss Confidence

A union membership tends to cause the individual to lose confidence in his own ability to improve his lot. Instead of relying on being more and more useful to his fellowman in order to improve his lot, he relies on the labor union. In fact, the labor union prevents him from relying on his own creative ability.

There seems to be nothing more pathetic and nothing more harmful than to have individuals lose confidence in themselves. When they lack self-reliance in themselves, they become wards or an adjunct of some other person or group. That, of course, as stated above, dwarfs one's initiative, his judgment. And when he loses courage to try to improve his own lot then he has to cling to something, so he becomes a part of some collective group like a labor union.

Bad Associates

When one joins a labor union, he comes in contact with other people who have lost faith in themselves, have lost confidence in their own ability to compete in creating wealth. He comes in contact with people who do not understand that wages can only come from production. He comes in contact with men who believe in no eternal moral and economic principles. His mind is thus not stimulated to understand natural law.

He comes in contact with men who seem to believe, judging from what they say, that the employer is the enemy of the working man rather than his benefactor. He comes in contact with men who seem to believe the employer pays his wages rather than the customer who buys the product of the employer. He comes in contact with men who have no principle by which to determine what each and every person should receive. He comes in contact with men of little experience in creating wealth.

The men with whom he comes in contact are so confused and bewildered that they cannot answer questions about what they are advocating without contradicting themselves. Nor can they set down any principle that governs their human relations.

It is hard to conceive of anything that does any man more harm than to lose confidence in himself, as do all members of organized labor which insists on bargaining for men who want to make an individual bargain.

The columns, of course, are open for any man who believes that labor unions do not injure their members to refute any of the above statements.

me, in no mood for moonstruck nonsense. As a now battle-scarred "chip off the old block", however, I can predict a "second-generation walk-out" if such should be the case!

Currently, I am polishing up an original musical ditty called "Fat and Forty Blues" for rendition at Reunion. Not that I look or feel that way, heaven forbid, but I did get a rude set-back a few months ago when my teen-aged trio and

Can't Spend Ourselves Out Of Our Troubles

By Thurman Sensing

FOREIGN AID PHOBIA

It is estimated that by the end of this fiscal year, June 30th, we shall have poured out $62 billion in foreign aid since the end of World War II. We shall also have at that time a balance of $8 billion authorized for foreign aid but unspent. This amount, of course, will eventually be expended—who ever heard of a government bureau turning unexpended money back into the Treasury? — thus making certain a total expenditure for foreign aid of $70 billion. On top of all this, the Administration is asking for $4 billion more for the next fiscal year. That would make $74 billion. And after that—on and on.

This nation of ours has become very similar to the punch-drunk fighter character of our favorite comedian. We hear birds flying over when there are no birds. We hear bells ringing when there are no bells. We live in continual fright when there is no reason to be afraid.

We are afraid communism will take over the world if we don't keep pouring out billions of dollars. We don't stop to think that communism is not stopped by dollars, it is stopped by ideas. We should do everything necessary for self-defense—but there is nothing in history to make us fearful that the ideology of communism will replace that of freedom.

The trouble is that we adopted a philosophy about twenty-five years ago that we could get anything we wanted if we just spent enough money. We tried to spend ourselves out of the depression. This effort failed miserably. Now we are trying to spend ourselves into safety from socialism and communism. Any such effort is also doomed to failure.

Money just won't buy everything. In fact, in many cases the pure expenditure of money makes worse the conditions you are trying to cure.

As long as we keep doing out economic aid to other nations, these nations will do very little toward improving our own economic lot. As long as we keep pouring out military aid to other nations, these nations will do little toward defending themselves. As long as we keep giving nations billions of dollars because they threaten to go communist, they will continue the threat. In other words, as long as we are willing to keep passing out our billions, there will be no lack in the demand for them.

All this means that if we continue to look at our policy of foreign aid from the basis of fear and from the viewpoint of demand, then there will never be any end to it, because we can always find something to fear and there will always be those who will accept our dollars.

Who can say that our foreign friends seemed somewhat wounded by my uncomplimentary comments on their Elvis Presley recording of "Hound Dog"? My fourteen-year-old second daughter's words still ring with a horrifying echo. She retorted: "Oh mother! Don't be so old-fashioned! You had your Rudolph Valentino!"

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

It is desirable to issue a warning about appendicitis every once in a while.

This tricky and common condition is still responsible for several thousand deaths each year, most of which could have been avoided.

The appendix usually lies in the lower right part of the abdomen. But it may be on the left side or it can be twisted so that it lies toward the back. Hence the location of pain may not always be alike.

FURTHERMORE, acute appendicitis does not always cause severe pain. In older people especially the pain may be slight and may not be located where it is expected to be. In fact, the pain is likely to be, at least at first, pretty much over the entire abdomen.

Vomiting with appendicitis is common, but diarrhea is rare. Fever is the rule, though this is often not very high.

The presence of too many white blood cells almost invariably accompanies acute appendicitis. For this reason a blood count is most important if appendicitis is suspected.

CATHARTICS OR laxatives are dangerous. If there is the slightest question of appendicitis the best thing to do while waiting for a diagnosis is to eat and drink nothing at all. Laxatives (and to a lesser extent, food and drink) produce wave-like movements in the intestines which greatly increase the chances of rupturing the inflamed and germ-laden contents into the abdominal cavity.

RECENT YEARS penicillin has often been given before operation and afterwards. This seems to make the recovery somewhat easier.

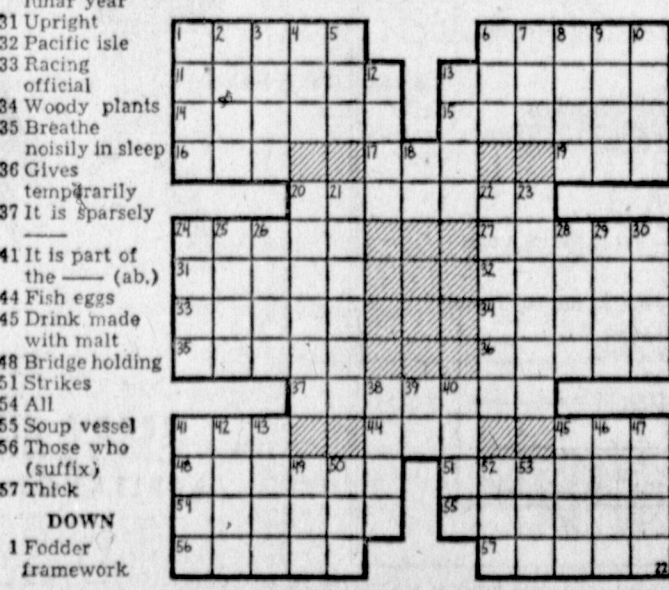

Most deaths from appendicitis could be avoided if more people realized the risks of using laxatives or of waiting too long before the appendix is removed.

Court's du Pont Decision Is Tribute to Enterprise

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — In its important du Pont-General Motors decision, the Supreme Court paid a remarkable tribute to the enterprise, initiative and imagination which has bestowed industrial and economic supremacy upon the United States. The fantastic story has as great an interest for housewives and stylish dressers as it has for industrialists, economists, politicians — and Nikita Khrushchev.

It explains why the United States was powerful enough to save the Free World in history's two worst wars. It shows why we are able to keep Russia at bay today. But it also reveals why American women live so comfortably and conveniently, and why they can dress so smartly at relatively low cost. Even Dior could draw lessons from the opinion.

Writing in a breezy style rarely found in Supreme Court literature, Justice William J. Brennan, Jr., has given us a generally unknown chapter of industrial progress that reads like best-selling fiction. The story begins when Theodore Roosevelt was rattling sabers in the face of the Kaiser and an earlier generation of Japanese war lords.

MILADY'S FINERY AND HER CAR — But the men on the Delaware River were not content with the Detroit market, and they sought other uses for their basic products and their over-expanded plant. It was this prolonged, tedious and costly search which resulted in the development of nylon, dacron, orlon and other synthetic materials of everyday wear.

EVER ENTERPRISING — In that year, the du Ponts' principal product was commercial and military explosives — dynamite and smokeless powder. Cotton and chemicals were the main ingredients for these commodities.

When T.R. decided that the Army and Navy should manufacture their own weapons in order to insure a wartime supply, the du Ponts saw a loss of business to the government monopoly. They immediately looked around for new products and new markets instead of throwing up their hands. They hit upon such new use for cotton and chemicals as lacquers, celluloid, artificial leather and artificial silk.

Japanese silk had become extremely expensive, and estranged relations with Tokyo might cut off the supply altogether. Only a few years before, Roosevelt had sent the famous "white fleet" around the world as a warning to the threatening Japanese.

AMERICAN PROGRESS — This kind of progress is not exclusive with the du Ponts, although possibly the most spectacular example. It can be duplicated in many other industries, which are now worrying over the effect of the decision on them. But the Brennan fantasy justifies the statement of another builder of new industries: "Don't sell America short!"

UPS AND DOWNS — The du Ponts bought up artificial leather plants in this enforced expansion. This development, however, was

Judge Awards Youngsters $5,000 Per 'Pocket Money'

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The Woodward boys, youngsters of eight and twelve, have been awarded $30,000 a year each for living expenses. I forget the judge's name who thought this a reasonable sum for growing boys, but it is obvious that he is a believer in the old saying "Children should be seen (in Tiffany's) and not heard."

A sixth of the sum, which is $5,000 the way I figure, was marked for "pocket-money." Wonder how the little shavers will carry it around. I think fifty cent, crisp 100 bills would be nice. They would make a nice flat packet, and wouldn't put a bulge in the boys' rompers.

True, five one-thousand-dollar bills would make an even smaller packet, but for some reason an eight-year-old flashing a grand note at the candy store would be a little on the ostentatious side. Almost show-offy.

But a C note, no. It goes perfectly with a purchase of two packs of bubble gum, a bag of jelly beans (if they still sell such things), and maybe a licorice stick or two.

When I read of the Judge's grant, I knew that a Niagara of water had flowed under the bridge since I was eight, and, four years later, twelve. I can't recall off-hand a single boy in Bradenton, Florida, who ever carried around as much as $5,000 in his rompers or overalls. Two or three thousand, maybe, but not five. Nor do I remember any hundred-dollar bills flying out of any of my playmates' pockets when we played Follow The Leader, Leap Frog, Cowboy and Indian, or Shimmy.

I always carried my heavy dough in my watch pocket. When I would get a whole fifty-cent piece I wouldn't trust it to the corner of a knotted handkerchief. In the watch pocket it went, and the pocket was sealed with a safety pin, and every five seconds I would pat the pocket to make sure my hoard was still there.

I didn't spend anywhere near five grand a year when I was eight or thereabouts. Not that I didn't have pretty heavy expenses. I was awfully rough on cap pistols, and had to have at least two a year. And caps for them were pretty steep, running as much as five cents for a roll of two or three hundred.

Rubber bands came high in those days to, and I always had to have a good supply on hand for my slingshots, of which I never had less than five.

Then there was Sen-Sen. I doted on these flavored pellets guaranteed to make your breath sweet as a spring wind, not to mention smelling like a flower bed in the hot sun. Why I thought my breath needed sweetening I don't know, for I had not taken up the evils of smoke and drink quite yet. But I dearly loved Sen-Sen and had to have two packages, at five cents a throw, each week.

We made most of our own baseballs, wrapping a small stone in twine, and then applying bicycle-tape for a covering. Occasionally, we would get a real baseball, but some slugger always knocked it in the Manatee River, or in the palmettos where it was lost forever.

Texas Railroad Commission Reports Five Deep Intents

Five of the 34 intentions to drill filed in the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad Commission last week were for depths over 5,000 feet.

Two of the deep intentions listed were for wildcats.

Here are the statistics:

Soil Conservation District News

By HERSHEL BELL, Range Conservationist

Every farm home needs a good windbreak planting that will afford protection from the cold winter winds, prevent snow from piling up around the buildings and lots, and generally make a more pleasant and comfortable place in which to live and work.
 During the summer months nothing can add more to the beauty of the home than the background of varying shades of green afforded by a well planned windbreak. Yard beautification with shrubs, roses, and annual flowers is more easily obtained and much more effective with this kind of background. Furthermore, the protection from blowing soil in the farmyard makes these beautification plantings possible. It also keeps a lot of dust off the windows sills, furniture, and floors.
 Why not have a farmstead windbreak? Is it drought? Work? Cost? None of these should prohibit the many benefits and comforts of this valuable improvement to the farm home. Yet in the Gray County SCD only a small percent of the farmsteads have good windbreaks.

BIRDS FIND HOME

CHICAGO (UP)—A bird in the hand may be worth two in the bush, but Mrs. Steve Janick thinks two birds in the hand are too many. Mrs. Janick found two sickly robins in her yard and nursed them back to health on beefsteak scraps. The robins liked the treatment so much they won't leave. And Mrs. Janick, having heard stories about the birds and the bees, is worried that the two robins may become three, or four, or...
