TOP OF TEXAS—Clear to partly cloudy and hot through tomorrow with widely scattered late afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Low tonight, 72. High tomorrow, 96.

Officials See Upswing In Traffic Deaths

By UNITED PRESS
Americans opened the Fourth of July holiday with a relatively good safe driving mark today, but officials expected the casualty pace to quicken and boost the traffic toll beyond the 500 mark. The National Safety Council stood by its estimate of 535 deaths on the highway during the four-day holiday, despite the early lag in traffic fatalities.

Accidents are expected to take many more lives as millions of persons headed for holiday fun at beaches, resorts, picnics and family get-togethers. A United Press tally from 6 o'clock Wednesday night to 9 a.m. c.s.t. showed at least 35 persons killed in traffic accidents. Five drownings were reported and five persons died in a variety of other accidents.

Holiday Observed In Pampa

Natives of the Top of Texas set out today for a hot July 4th holiday. Expected to be high on the list of activities for the fun-loving natives of this area were swimming, picnicking, boating, and, perhaps, just a few hours reading. The sun shone brightly over the Pampa area this morning to make prospects fine for "the day out."

Local officers are attempting to locate the persons responsible for two burglaries at the Spence Hearn residence at 600 N. Somerville in less than a week. The latest burglary occurred between 1:30 and 7 p.m., Tuesday. The burglars entered the house and took $3 in pennies, between $10 and $15 in old coins which were in a watch case and a .22 caliber H and R, nine-shot revolver.

Russell Would Like To Meet With Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell said today he would welcome an opportunity to discuss the civil rights bill "man-to-man" with President Eisenhower. But the Georgia Democrat, leader of the southern bloc pledged to a last-ditch fight against the bill in the Senate, declined to say whether he will seek a conference with the President. At a news conference Wednesday Eisenhower opened up the possibility of such a meeting. He said he always was willing to discuss the highly controversial legislation with its opponents. But he said Russell "has never given me any oral or written message on it himself."

Lightning Hits Top O' Texan; He Survives

Douglas B. McDonald, 30, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. McDonald, live at the Phillips Petroleum Company's Gray Plant, southeast of Pampa, was struck by lightning recently and survived. A-3C McDonald is stationed at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda, Mich., and was playing golf on the base course when the phenomena occurred.

The bolt was attracted by his vertically extended golf club, entered his right hand, travelled down the right side of his body, spread out at his waist and blasted into the ground through both feet.

The flash blasted his trousers and one shoe off, hurled his cap and golf club about 10 feet and left him face first on the ground. McDonald, whose worst injury from the lightning is presently expected to be the loss of a toe, attended school in Lefors in the early forties and entered Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene.

McDonald was playing golf in a base match when the incident occurred, at about 2:30 p.m., June 25.

Officers Seeking 2-Time Burglars

Local officers are attempting to locate the persons responsible for two burglaries at the Spence Hearn residence at 600 N. Somerville in less than a week. The latest burglary occurred between 1:30 and 7 p.m., Tuesday. The burglars entered the house and took $3 in pennies, between $10 and $15 in old coins which were in a watch case and a .22 caliber H and R, nine-shot revolver. Earlier, Hearn reported, burglars had entered the house and had taken a quart jar containing pennies. The officers were checking information this morning in an attempt to determine the identity of the burglars.

School Aid Bill Hope Abandoned

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday night he has abandoned hope for enactment this year of a federal school aid bill. "There is at best a fifty-fifty chance that the bill will pass the House during this session," Nixon told the National Education Association convention. "There is virtually no chance that it will pass the Senate before adjournment."

Cabot's Search For Housing Is Still On

A total of 28 local residences are well underway. All of the steel framework for the office building has been erected and the brick walls are about one-third completed. The concrete slab for the shop building has been poured and the erection of steel framework is expected to start within a few days.

Work on the new office building is scheduled for completion by September 10 and parts of the building should be in use by September 1.

"At least 50 of the employees who will be transferred here already obtained, will be needed to house the employees, Stinson said.

Joe Rutledge, specification engineer with Franks in Tulsa, has been temporarily assigned to the industrial relations department to assist with the work of helping the families settle in Pampa. He is contacting local property owners in an attempt to locate additional housing.

None of the families of the Franks employees have moved to Pampa but most of them are expected to arrive in Pampa during the latter part of August, Stinson reported.

Work on the new office building and shops at the Cabot Shops, five miles west of Pampa, were the Franks facilities will be located. If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it. Lewis Hdwe. (Adv.)

Three Of Red Party's Top Members Ousted

By COLETTE BLACKMOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW (UP)—Communist Party Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev can be expected to follow up the smashing victory for his liberalization policy with a major shakeup of the Soviet government, Western observers said today.

The Communist Party Wednesday accused three top members of anti-party activities and ousted them from the party presidium. They were former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Premier Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich.

But their high jobs in the government, technically distinct from party posts, have not yet been questioned. But it was almost certain they would have to leave the cabinet as well in light of Khrushchev's ascendancy although they may not have to answer for "anti-party" activities before the law.

Accused of Misdeeds
A 3,500-word party resolution accused them of the most severe misdeeds of party policy, but there was no suggestion of criminal activities.

(In London Western diplomats said Khrushchev had emerged as undisputed master of Russia, bent on removing the last vestiges of "Stalinism" in the party and from Soviet internal and external affairs.

Yugoslav Communist leaders were pleased at dropping of the "old guard" Bolsheviks and said the move would strengthen peace in the world. In Poland the Communist Party said the Russian purge would bring Poland and the Soviet Union closer together in political thought.)

There was no immediate word of the whereabouts of Molotov, Malenkov or Kaganovich. They have not been seen in public here for more than a week.

Shepilov Fired
The first effects of the shakeup were these:
—Party Secretary Dmitri Shepilov "who joined" the "anti-party" group lost his job as one of Khrushchev's assistants in the party secretariat and his alternate membership in the central committee.
—M. Z. Saburov, 56-year-old first deputy premier and former state planning commission chairman, was quietly dropped from the presidium but apparently not the central committee. The party resolution made no specific charge against him.
—First Deputy Premier M. O. Peryukhin was demoted from full member to alternate member of the party presidium. No reason was given. Peryukhin succeeded Saburov as planning chief last December.

Zhukov
—Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Russia's defense minister, was promoted to full membership in the presidium. He is the first professional soldier so honored.
—Mrs. Ekaterina Furtseva, chairman of the Moscow district party, was similarly promoted. She becomes the first woman with full membership.
—N.G. Ignatov, former interior minister under executed secret police chief Lavrenti P. Beria, was recalled from isolation in the East-Kirien republic in central Asia to the presidium.
—O. W. Kuusinen, last director of the Comintern (Communist international movement) when it was dissolved in 1943 under wartime pressure from the allies, joined the presidium after heading the dissolved Karelo-Finnish republic in northern Russia.

Nine Coolers Purchased By City

A total of nine refrigerated air conditioners were purchased for installation in city offices at a special meeting of the City Commission yesterday.

A total of five bids were submitted and the contract for furnishing the units was awarded to Brown and Hinkle Inc., 211 N. Ballard, on a low bid of $2,165.94.

Before the units can be installed, additional wiring must be installed in City Hall to allow for enough electricity for the new air conditioners. The job of installing the additional wiring was given to Trail Electric, 1433 N. Hobart, on a bid of $360.

The installation should start within the next few days, John Keonitz, city purchasing agent, reported, but because some of the equipment must be ordered and the arrival date is not known, the exact time the work will start is not known.

MAKING PROGRESS—Construction work on the new office building at the Cabot Shops, west of Pampa, is well underway with the steel work completed and the brick walls about one-third completed. The building should be completed by September 10 and some of the offices will probably be in use by September 1. Cabot officials report. The new office is being constructed, along with a new shop building, to allow room for personnel from Franks Manufacturing Company, a Cabot subsidiary, to move here about September 1. (News Photo)

Alcoholism Creeps Up On You

(Third in a series on alcoholism.)

WASHINGTON (UP)—About 70 million Americans drink alcoholic beverages. Some take a drink only two or three times a year. Others down a fifth of whisky a day—or more.

Medical science knows, as a statistical fact, that about 7 per cent of all drinkers will wind up as alcoholics. But it cannot now predict, with any degree of accuracy, who will be included in that 7 per cent.

The problems of preventing and treating alcoholism could identify a specific "cause" for this pervasive illness which now afflicts nearly five million Americans in all walks of life.

The search for a cause, or causes, has been a principal objective of the scattered and poorly financed research which is being conducted on alcoholism. To date, this research has produced several conflicting theories—and very little firm knowledge.

Here's One Theory

Some scientists are convinced that people who become alcoholics are suffering from some kind of physiological disorder—a vitamin deficiency, a malfunction of the thyroid or other glands, or a defect in metabolism which causes alcohol to become, for them, an addictive poison.

Exponents of this theory have been unable to produce evidence convincing to a majority of doctors. The prevailing medical view is that the physical ailments, such as vitamin deficiency, which appear in advanced alcoholics, are the result rather than the cause of excessive drinking.

Other scientists go all the way to the other extreme and attempt to explain alcoholism solely in psychological terms. Compulsive drinking, they say, is the symptom of some "personality inadequacy." The alcoholic is trying to drown hidden feelings of anxiety, guilt or inferiority.

Unsupported By Research

The psychological-origin theory was dominant until fairly recently, when researchers began to shoot holes in it. They pointed to a large number of unquestionably neurotic people who drink, but never become alcoholics. They are quite "normal" from a psychiatric viewpoint until they begin drinking excessively.

Now a majority of medical authorities seem to be coming around to the view that alcoholism is like fever—it can be symptomatic of a tremendous variety of causes. In any one individual, alcoholism may result from a physiological defect or a psychological disturbance—or both.

It is interesting to note that the organization of recovered alcoholics called Alcoholics Anonymous arrived at this conclusion years ago. Its definition of alcoholism has long been: "An obsession of the mind coupled with an allergy of the body."

One of the "sharpest" disputes concerns the role played by alcohol itself in causing alcoholism. This dispute has inevitably become involved in the continuing battle between wet and dry forces over local option prohibition.

The National Temperance League and other groups seeking to outlaw alcoholic beverages contend that heavy and prolonged drinking is a primary cause of addiction to alcohol. They bolster this assertion with statistics showing a relationship between per capita alcohol consumption in each state and the number of alcoholics per 100,000 population. (The District of Columbia, for example, is tops in both categories.)

A spokesman for the licensed beverage industries insists, with equal vigor, that "there is no scientific evidence to indicate that drinking alcoholic beverages is responsible for alcoholism." In support of this position, he notes that 93 per cent of the people who drink DON'T become alcoholics.

Scientists tend to tread warily on this disputed ground. Dr. Harold E. Himwich, writing on the physiology of alcohol in a recent issue of the American Medical Assn. journal, said it is "probable" that prolonged, excessive intake of alcohol brings about changes in the body "so that alcohol assumes the characteristic of a foodstuff required by the cells."

When that happens, he said, "a need for alcohol has been created as a result of excessive drinking."

Russell Flays Press Over Jury Trial On Rights Issue

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—It is six months now since President Eisenhower sent to Congress a four-point program to compel southern states to accord certain civil rights to Negroes.

The four points were these:
—Establish a bi-partisan commission to investigate civil rights violations and to make recommendations.
—Create a civil rights division in the Justice Department.
—Provide "new laws to aid in the enforcement of civil rights."
—Permit the federal government to act in civil courts to impose civil rights by injunction.

Russell Flays Press

Point four would permit punishment without trial by jury of persons who obstructed civil rights for Negroes as defined by law and the Constitution. It is the point most actively assailed by southern Democrats in Congress and it is the point in which compromise might finally be had.

The administration bill is likely at this session to be amended to provide for jury trials or to die in Senate filibuster. A similar bill sponsored by Eisenhower died last year in Congress. The issues have been widely debated but not yet to the extent to which they would be explored if the Senate filibuster developed.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) Tuesday accused American newspaper and radio-television media of "abuse of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press" through a "campaign of deception" about the real objectives of the pending civil rights proposal.

Russell said the bill had come along behind a smoke screen of propaganda that it was mainly a bill to insure Negro voting rights whereas its real purpose was to give the federal government unprecedented power to force white and Negro children to attend school together.

The Eisenhower bill unquestionably is intended to arm the Justice Department with power to speed through the courts the racial integration of the southern school system. It appears to be no less directed, however, to bring to the polls those southern Negroes who do not or cannot vote.

Eye On Polls

It is racial integration in the schools which fires the South to angry protest. A general movement of Negroes to the southern polling places on election day, however, would reshape the southern way of life about as much and as rapidly as the mixing of white and Negro children in the schools—and, perhaps, reshape things too in the North and West.

Several factors, including a 14-cent tax, tend to reduce the Negro vote. Conservative southern politicians who win comparatively safe seats in the House or Senate remain a long time. Their power multiplies with the accumulating years until their achieve committee chairmanships and enormous authority to help or hinder legislation in their field.

The southern conservative bloc in Congress somewhat balances the comparatively radical northern Democrats. Conservative southern Democrats and conservative northern Republicans have been combining for years to oppose and sometimes to defeat the left wing elements of both parties. It is a fair assumption that the conservative southern politician will begin to disappear from Congress if and when the southern Negro vote is cast.

Thereafter, the conservative voice in Congress will have just about the force and volume of a piccolo section in a 531-man brass band.

TAMPA, Fla. (UP)—Tampa Times reporter Dana Cessa had to use a 12-minute parking meter Wednesday because the hour meters were all taken. He left a note saying: "At Chamber of Commerce meeting. This 12-minute parking place was all I could find."

When he returned, he found this reply:
"Don't park in 12-minute place unless you're attending a 12-minute meeting."
There was also a parking ticket.

'Audrey' Adds A Footnote

Death-Dealing Texas Disaster Season

By LLOYD LARRABEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Hurricane Audrey added a footnote to a death-dealing disaster season in Texas which has seen virtually every natural catastrophe strike the state this year except volcanic eruptions and earthquakes.

At least 60 deaths, more than 400 injured, and property damage approaching 100 million dollars were charged directly to turbulent weather in Texas thus far this year.

Last January, 244 of the state's 254 counties were listed as drought disaster areas and eligible for federal aid, after seven years of severe drought.

The tornado season set in on Feb. 16, and more than 120 twisters have struck the ground since that time, in widely separated areas of the sprawling Lone Star state.

Five were classified by William L. McGill, state coordinator of defense and disaster relief, as major tornadoes.

They were the Dallas tornado of April 2 which claimed 10 lives and caused multi-million dollar damage, twisters in a two-county West Texas area encompassing the towns of Littlefield and Levelland, Tyler in East Texas, Silverton in the Panhandle—where 20 persons died, and Olton in West Texas.

Flood producing rains began deluging the state in mid-April, overflowing 13 river basins.

Marlene Says New Hollywood Beauties Don't Have Glamour

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The World's leading example of glamour has decided the new young stars of Hollywood don't have any.

"The real glamour women in the history of movies are very few. There have not been many, just a handful. Today the French actresses probably have glamour, but the stars here just don't."

Marlene Dietrich, who pales even Ava Gardner and Rita Hayworth when it comes to true glamour, isn't quite sure what glamour is. She thinks "it has something to do with authority."

But whatever the ingredient is, the new beauties of the screen don't have it, she observed with a shrug.

"There are no glamorous stars today because the people who give glamour to these women are not around—producers such as Irving Thalberg, L. B. Mayer," reflected Dietrich.

Now it's bosoms. "They took those little girls and did something with them."

"This bosom business is a national American disease. It has spread everywhere, to England, to Italy, like Coca-Cola."

Except for Audrey Hepburn—she's in a class by herself—she's European. It's very reassuring and wonderful that with all these girls who are wired for sound in the front there still is Audrey.

Disarm Talks In The Critical Stage

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The London disarmament negotiations appear to have reached the critical stage.

Harold Stassen, chief United States delegate, and his Canadian, British and French colleagues are offering Russia a series of proposals which include a suspension of nuclear weapons tests.

It is indicated that the proposals represent the limit to which the Allied countries are prepared to go in search of agreement.

Hence, it seems to be up to the Soviet government to accept the proposals substantially as they are if it really desires to join in a historic "first step" toward a broad disarmament treaty.

For the first time, the Soviet government has shown a disposition to make concessions that would guarantee the Allied countries against its evasion of any armaments limitation agreement.

Agree To Inspection
Notably, Russia has swung around to the idea of accepting a system of inspection to guarantee fulfillment. This is a radical departure from the Russian tradition of secrecy which the Communists inherited from the Marxist regime.

In recent weeks, however, the United States has grown much more cautious about its own position.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, has contributed to caution in Washington.

On May 19, Radford said to correspondents in Washington that he didn't like the way things were going.

Doesn't Trust Russians
"We can not trust the Russians on this or on anything," Radford said. "The Communists have broken their word with every country with which they ever had an agreement."

President Eisenhower said at a press conference on May 22, however, that something "just has to be done" to start disarmament. He agreed with Radford that it is necessary to be cautious in dealing with a government that "has a history of breaking treaties."

But he said that the United States must not be "recalcitrant" or "spicy" in negotiations.

American caution was further increased when on June 24 three leading scientists told Eisenhower that the United States could now make a hydrogen bomb that was nearly free of radioactive fallout.

They urged further development of nuclear weapons. This would mean further tests.

Lancaster, Douglas Movie Is More Fiction Than Fact

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—"Gunfight at the OK Corral," starring Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas, is a current boxoffice smash, but the movie is more fiction than fact.

The film tells about a famous gunfight that actually took place in Tombstone, Ariz., Oct. 26, 1881, with U. S. Marshal Wyatt Earp brothers and friend, Doc Holliday (played by Lancaster) and his brothers and friend, Doc Holliday (Kirk Douglas), mowing down a gang of cowboy rustlers headed by the Clanton and McLowery brothers.

were preparing to leave town. The Earps were gunning for the gang, not because of a murder but because each side accused the other of master-minding a Wells Fargo stagecoach holdup.

The town of Tombstone was divided—and historians still argue; whether the Earps murdered the cowboys before they had a chance to throw up their hands, or whether the Earps fired only after the cowboys reached for their guns. (The Earps were supposed to be arresting the cowboys on a charge of illegally carrying arms. Historians say only two were armed, and legally, as they were riding out of town.)

Actually the Earps surprised the cowboys in the corral as they It Pays To Read The Classified.

Mocha Pecan Chiffon Leaves Nothing But 'Second Helpings' To Be Desired

Pecans have provided generations of Americans with mighty good eating since their beautiful trees first grew wild along the river banks of southwestern states. But no dish of our ancestors ever tasted better than this Mocha Pecan Chiffon Pie, and today's homemaker can buy Pecans either in the shell or already shelled at her favorite grocery store.

As for this recipe, it's as simple to make as "all-get-out" as Grandma used to say. The combination of coffee, cocoa and Pecans leaves nothing, but nothing, to be desired unless it is a second helping! By the way, our favorite taste-tester says to tell you that this superb filling is also excellent as the "fill" for an angel food cake or simply piled into a pretty dessert bowl and served with custard sauce. Try this pie first, however — it's a prize winner!

MOCHA PECAN CHIFFON PIE

Yield - 1 - 9-inch pie
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
3 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons instant coffee

3 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon imitation rum extract
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup finely chopped Pecans
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
Pecan Halves
Whipping cream

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine in heavy saucepan the cocoa, 1/2 cup sugar, water and instant coffee; stir to dissolve sugar. Bring to boil, and let cook gently for 4 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks slightly. Pour hot mixture on top slowly, stirring constantly. Return to saucepan. Stir over heat until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add gelatin, vanilla and rum extract; stir until gelatin dissolves. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Beat in 1/4 cup sugar by single teaspoonful, beating constantly; beat until whites stand in stiff peaks. Fold with Pecans into gelatin mixture. Turn into baked pie shell. Chill until set. Garnish with Pecan Halves and whipped cream.

Relax In Summer With Easy To Fix Cheese Specialty

Make it with cheese and make it special! There's just no end to the versatility of cheese, and when planning Lenten menus it can be a cook's best friend in the kitchen. There are cheese dishes suitable for every course in every meal. For instance, cheese muffins or cheese soufflé are just right at breakfast... an appetizer of cheese wafers at lunch... a cheese and rice casserole for supper... green beans or cauliflower with cheese sauce for dinner... a salad of cottage cheese and fruit is good anytime... lemon cheese cake or cream cheese cookies are marvelous desserts.

These Cheese Bran Muffins are tasty and a bit different from the usual muffin. The cheese and bran add flavor appeal that blend perfectly with any favorite breakfast menu.

CHEESE BRAN MUFFINS

1 cup whole bran cereal
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
1/4 cup soft shortening
1 cup sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup grated cheese
9 1-inch squares of sliced cheese
Combine whole bran cereal and milk; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add egg and shortening and beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; mix in grated cheese. Add to first mixture, stirring until combined. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Top each muffin with square of cheese and bake about 10 minutes longer. Serve immediately.

Yield: 9 muffins 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

What Could Be Happier Than A Happy Cake At Birthday Party

"Happy Cake!", joyfully exclaimed 2-year-old at sight of his birthday cake, and thus the name for this sweet and colorful creation was coined! It looks elaborate, but you can make this extraordinary production with ease and economy if you follow the instructions of Mrs. Tucker's Homemakers Department which developed the cake with novel decorations that are completely edible and plentiful enough to serve everyone.

HAPPY CAKE

2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 cup Mrs. Tucker's Shortening
2-3 cup unbleached egg whites (5 medium)
1-3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/4 cup milk
Sift the flour, measure and sift again with sugar, baking powder and salt. Add the shortening, egg whites and the 1-3 cup milk. Beat for 3 minutes on medium speed of mixer or by hand, counting 150 beating strokes a minute. Scrape bowl and beat frequently. Add flavorings and the 1/4 cup milk and beat as before for 2 minutes. Pour into a 10-inch tube pan with 4-inch sides which has been rubbed lightly with shortening and dusted with flour. Bake in a moderately slow oven* (325 degrees) 1 1/2 hours or until done.

TO DECORATE: For the frosting cream together until smooth

and light 1/4 cup Mrs. Tucker's Shortening, 1-3 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 1/2 cups sifted powdered sugar and 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla. Reserve 1/4 cup for decoration and tint remainder any desired pastel shade. Cover hole in top of cake with a round of cardboard and frost entire cake smoothly. With sharp knife cut top from cake cones and fill tops with remaining frosting—tinted—contrasting pastel shades. Decorate sides and top of cake with bright cellophane wrapped hard candies. Use colored marshmallows as candleholders. Thin some of the tinted frosting with a few drops of milk so it flows easily and use a paper cone to form the clown on wax paper. Let dry overnight, lift from the paper and into place.

Stew Takes Only Minutes To Prepare, Can Be Forgotten Till Time To Serve

A young bride recently said that the reason her mother excelled in cooking was that she spent so much time in the kitchen, especially on dishes such as stews and pot roasts. What this bride didn't know is that although these dishes require long cooking, they take little time to prepare and almost can be forgotten until they're ready to serve.

Another stew with some unusual seasonings is this Spicy Beef Stew.

Hearty chunks of beef are cooked with bay leaf and caraway seeds and vinegar and red cabbage are added toward the end of the cooking time. (The vinegar not only adds to the spiciness of the stew, but also helps the cabbage keep its red color.) Gingersnaps make the gravy spicy, too.

SPICY BEEF STEW

2 pounds beef stew meat
3 tablespoons lard
2 medium onions, sliced
2 cups hot water
1 bay leaf
1 1/2 teaspoons caraway seeds
3 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1/4 cup vinegar
1/2 cup broken gingersnaps
Brown beef in hot lard in a large, heavy skillet. Add onions and brown. Add water, bay leaf, caraway seeds, salt and pepper. Cover pan and cook over low heat 2 hours. Add vinegar to stew. Cut cabbage into large wedges and place on top of stew; cover pan and cook 10 to 15 minutes longer or until meat is cooked and cabbage crispy-tender. Soak vinegar snaps in 1/4 cup warm water. Remove meat and cabbage from pan; discard bay leaf. Add ginger snaps in 1/4 cup warm water and heat to boiling, stirring to make smooth gravy. (Add more gingersnaps for a thicker gravy.) Return meat to gravy and stir. Serve over rice or noodles and surround with cabbage wedges. 6 servings.

American 'Burger' With Italian Touch

Since the typical homemaker probably serves hamburgers at least a few hundred times during her career, it's important for her to keep in mind that the essential attribute of a really good hamburger is good meat, well-seasoned and imaginatively prepared. Her favorite meat dealer will take care of the meat, but it's up to her to supply the imagination.

PIZZA BUNBURGERS

(Makes 6 servings)
2-3 cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
1 egg
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/2 cup fine cracker crumbs
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
6 hamburger buns, split in half
1 8-ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon oregano
1/2 pound Mozzarella cheese, cut in strips
Combine evaporated milk, egg, beef, cracker crumbs, salt, pepper, mustard, onion and green pepper. Blend together until well-mixed. Form meat mixture into 12 thin patties (about 1-3 cup each). Place each patty on hamburger bun half, covering completely. Place Bunburgers on broiler pan. Broil 5-7 inches from heat for 5 to 7 minutes (or to taste). Combine tomato paste, garlic salt and oregano; mix well. Top each Bunburger with about 1 tablespoon tomato mixture and cheese strips. Broil until cheese bubbles (1 to 2 minutes).

If you have difficulty making your black suede shoes some clean, take them to your shoemaker and let him do an expert job. When he's finished, they'll both look and be clean. And they won't rub off on your stockings.

Buying one pair of stockings at a time is false economy. Always buy three pairs so that when one pops a run, you've the others to match up.

Cooking And Eating Out-Of-Doors Is Modern America's Way Of Life

Barbecues have swept the country from sunny California in the West where they first gained their popularity to the East, North and South. Cooking and eating out-of-doors has become part of the American way of life and the whole family loves it. Dad is given the opportunity to express himself in the culinary art in a man's world... the out-of-doors. The younger members of the family love the casual dress and atmosphere. And Mom enjoys them because the whole family pitches in and helps prepare, cook and clean up — with not a grumble to be heard.

The space required for barbecuing can be as small as a few square feet in the backyard or as large as the public parks where fires are permitted. The grill can be as simple as a wire rack set on two low columns of bricks or as elaborate as the built-in type. The most popular and moderate priced is the new modern portable grill. Other helpful equipment necessary for the outdoor chef are a long handled fork, tongs, heavy gloves — preferably of asbestos, a hinged or box type broiler with a handle, a bottle with a sprinkler top to put out fire flareups and a basting brush.

Crunchy Cookies

A cool drink and a few crunchy cookies give a quick pick-up on a hot afternoon. These raisin cookies, rich with molasses flavor, make a tasty summer snack. They are made with lard, a shortening which gives good keeping qualities.

RAISIN-MOLASSES COOKIES

1 egg
1/2 cup lard
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup molasses
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup strong coffee
1 cup seedless raisins
Cream lard, sugar and egg together until light and fluffy. Stir in molasses. Sift flour, soda, cinnamon, ginger, cloves and salt and mix into lard mixture alternately with coffee. Stir in raisins. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees F. 15 to 20 minutes. 4 dozen.

Charles Van Doren's Little Brother, John, Is On TV Now

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 3 (UP)—Charles Van Doren, who smoked and perspired his way to $129,000 on a TV quiz show early this year, can sit back and relax Thursday night.

Sombody else in the Van Doren family will be sweating it out on TV.

Charles' younger brother, John, takes the plunge into television tomorrow evening as panelist on the new Jack Barry NBC quiz, "High-Low." John, an instructor in American history at Brandeis University, was coaxed into the job by Charles who had to turn it down because of other TV commitments.

"I guess my brother is closer to me than anybody ever has been in my life," said Charlie today. "It's really a wonderful relationship. So when it was decided that I couldn't do 'High-Low,' I really wanted him to do this thing on TV.

John is "Bright Guy."

"You know, all the time I was on 'Twenty One' and all of those wonderful things were happening to me, I kept wishing something nice would happen to him, that some fairy godmother might come along and touch him on the shoulder. This, I think, may do it for him. He's a really bright guy."

Charlie acquired a wife and an NBC contract after his fling on "Twenty One."

"The NBC contract is for three years with two years of options," explained Charlie. "It calls for me to do everything except singing, dancing, acting or performing on variety shows. But as a matter of

"There hasn't been much physical change in my life. I've got a new car, a new double bed and an air conditioner for my apartment. I got my mother a dishwashing machine.

"I've stopped smoking—I was up to a pack and a half while I was on the quiz show. But best of all, I suppose, it is what has happened inside of me. I feel less shy with people. I used to be terribly uncomfortable in a crowd, but no more."

Van Doren, who receives $4500 as an English instructor at Columbia, will continue teaching. "It's tremendously satisfying work. And then, too, there's the thought of how long all this is going to last. Maybe NBC will drop me in three years, maybe they'll say I'm no good. Maybe, it's all luck. You know, so far I've been a terribly lucky fellow."

It has been estimated there are between 20,000 and 40,000 different species of fishes.

WHAT TO DO WHEN BREATHING STOPS

These five figures illustrate, from top to bottom, the steps in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation now being taught in Red Cross First Aid courses.

(1) Mother, using middle finger of one hand, clears child's mouth of any foreign matter. With same finger, she holds the tongue forward.

(2) Mother places child in a face-down, head-down position, and puts him firmly on the back with the free hand, to help dislodge any foreign object in the air passage.

(3) The child is placed on his back, and the mother, using middle fingers of both hands, lifts the lower jaw from beneath and behind so that it "juts out."

(4) With one hand only, the jaw is held in this jutting-out position.

(5) The mother, covering the child's mouth and nose with her mouth, breathes into the child with a smooth, steady action. The free hand applies continuous moderate pressure to the child's abdomen, between navel and ribs, to prevent the stomach from being filled with air.

Ike Wants Foreign Aid Emphasis To Be Shifted Toward 'Loans'

EDITOR'S NOTE: A big change has been proposed in U.S. methods of helping friendly underdeveloped nations. The idea has won enthusiastic approval of a bipartisan majority of the Senate. The House Foreign Affairs Committee, however, voted to limit the program to one year instead of three as President Eisenhower proposed. The following dispatch tells how the new plan would work.

By JOHN B. HOLLISTER
Director, International Cooperation Administration

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's proposal to shift the emphasis of U.S. economic development assistance to friendly foreign nations to loans instead of gifts should be welcomed by every American taxpayer.

In brief, the President has asked Congress to appropriate $90-million dollars out of this year's security program to establish a development loan fund. To operate effectively, this fund must have adequate money and adequate planning time. Therefore, the President has also asked Congress to authorize the government to borrow from the treasury up to 750 million dollars in each of the two following years to finance the fund in those years. This three-year total of up to two billion dollars represents less than a half of 1 per cent of our own yearly gross national product, which is running at the rate of $20 billion dollars.

If this fund fulfills its purpose of speeding economic development among almost a billion people, the dividends to the United States will far exceed the investment. These proposals of the President's are now before Congress. The Senate has already authorized these requests in full.

Change In Emphasis

The new proposal signifies a fundamental change in emphasis from the practice of past years and would accomplish the following important improvements:

—The American taxpayer would know how much money was going toward helping the economic development of friendly nations, and would know that all of it was on a loan basis.

—Foreign nations will know that the United States has certain limited funds (two billion dollars over three years) available for loans for really worthwhile projects that will contribute significantly to building economic strength.

—All parties will know this money is available until used — and not, as in the past, for a limited number of months.

This, I am convinced, is the sound, business-like way for free nations to work together. The very creation of the fund will inspire borrowing nations with a greater sense of zeal and responsibility. Loans, rather than gifts, will encourage self-reliance, and the long term availability of the fund will encourage thoughtful long-term planning rather than frantic emergency action.

Purpose Of Fund

About a billion people — almost one-third of the world's population — live in the underdeveloped areas, particularly in the Middle East, Africa, and Asia. The average income is about 100 dollars a year, in contrast to about 2,500 dollars in the U.S. Malnutrition, poverty, sickness take such a toll that their life expectancy is about 30 years, in contrast to 70 in the United States.

Nineteen of these nations have achieved political independence since World War II. They are determined to achieve economic growth, and independence too. However, they do not have adequate capital and foreign exchange to begin essential development in roads, dams, railroads, utilities — the very sinews of economic growth. They must turn to the outside for help. Notwithstanding the blandishments of the Communist bloc, most of these new countries turn to us, and other industrialized nations of the free world, for this help.

The purpose of the fund is to provide the most economical and effective way for the United States to assist in these nations' own efforts to progress.

They're Standing In Line To Hear Lena Horne Sing

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—At the famous Coconut Grove they're standing in line to hear Lena Horne, for this may be the last time for years that one of the greatest of all-time popular singers will work in a nightclub.

The sultry singer, one of the highest-paid club acts since 1941, is retiring for the time being from the nightclub circuit to make her Broadway debut, in a Harold Arlen Musical about the West Indies, "Jamaica."

Lena also hopes to snare a regular TV show, if NBC's "experiment" with another colored singer, Nat Cole, in a 15-minute program is a longrun success.

"The reason I'm giving up clubs as a full-time career is that I am almost 40, and I don't want to be an older woman singer," she explained over lunch in her suite at the Ambassador Hotel.

"I don't think there's anything too attractive about an older woman singing about sex and romance. I'll feel more graceful when I'm older if I'm working in the theater instead of singing about how crazy some man makes me feel!"

"Jamaica" doesn't have a complete cast yet, but a million dollars worth of tickets have been sold already. Originally the musical was written for Harry Belafonte, she said, "but he had too many commitments so they re-wrote it for me."

Lena hopes her Broadway debut "will open up new opportunities for me" so after the run of the show she will move on to other fields.

"I'm a little tired of clubs and I feel good about leaving them," she said. "I was in a rut. I began to know all the headwaiters and their children!"

SCHOOL WORK (ING) ON THE RAILROAD—Old Casey at the throttle would really have thrown on the brakes if he had chugged into the Detroit Terminal Railroad to see these 42 local high school students operating the road. After two days of orientation, the youngsters—including 11 girls—did actually run the big terminal. They threw switches, weighed cars, classified trains, even operated Diesel locomotives. The educational project was sponsored by the Railroad Community Committee of Greater Detroit in cooperation with school officials.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Economic Merry-Go-Round That Is U. S. Foreign Aid

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT:

What To Do With Surpluses

Yesterday the House of Representatives was considering the proposal to extend the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954. This is Public Law 480 which was approved on July 10, 1954, as an emergency program for disposing of surplus agricultural commodities through various means calculated to return some permanent benefit to the United States.

The methods of disposal included (1) sale for foreign currency (2) barter (3) donation, both domestic and foreign. It was proposed to extend the present authorities in the Act until June 30, 1958.

The law authorizes the President to enter into agreements with friendly nations or organizations of friendly nations for the sale of surplus agricultural commodities for foreign currencies to be used for market development, foreign assistance, settlement of U.S. obligations abroad, and certain other purposes. The foreign currencies accruing from these sales have been used for market development projects, including marketing studies, exhibits at trade fairs, advertising and promotional displays, and exchange visits of industrial representatives of the United States and the foreign countries from which the foreign currency was obtained. The currencies are also being used in economic development, assistance to American sponsored schools, libraries and community centers, and for economic development loans.

In general, it can be said that the foreign currencies obtained under the provisions of this Act are being used in the furtherance of the foreign aid program, and it might be pointed out in addition thereto, in fact, if you traced some of the foreign aid dollars, you would find that these dollars are given to a particular foreign country by the United States under the foreign aid program. The country receiving the dollars exchanges them into their own currency, then uses their own currency to purchase agricultural surpluses from the United States. The United States then uses this foreign currency in economic or other development of the foreign country. The end result being that the U.W. gives the foreign country some money with which to pay for surplus commodities from the U.S. so that the money received in payment for the surplus commodities, which was given to the foreign country in the first place, can be used to develop the foreign country.

This is quite an economic merry-go-round, as you can see. It enables the foreign country to use the American dollars for trade with other countries, yet at the same time, insures the expenditure of an equivalent amount of money for the purchase of foodstuffs to be used in the country and, also, the expenditure of the amount of money representing the value of the foodstuffs in development purposes for that country. It has been argued that a much simpler process could be devised; that the foodstuffs could be delivered to these nations free of charge. However, if this was done, it would tend to do away with all of the administrative machinery necessary to maintain the economic merry-go-round above referred to. Many people would lose their government jobs in both this country and the foreign country. It would make bookkeeping operations so simple that everyone could understand them, which is an abhorrent thought to an average bureaucrat. In fact, a simple direct program could result in an excellent possibility of a measurable reduction in the budget. Such a proposal would bring immediate opposition from the Administration, with warning cries about inflation.

But be that as it may, there is a distinct controversy in this country as to the good or bad of the foreign aid program. My observation is that it would be most difficult to reconcile the clear-cut differences of opinion concerning the foreign aid programs, both direct and indirect. Nevertheless, the debate concerning Public Law 480 furnished the basis for a most interesting development. The Congresswoman from Missouri, Mrs. Leonor Sullivan, offered a new amendment that would authorize the Commodity Credit Corporation which holds all of these surplus agricultural commodities, to donate to charitable organizations and certain needy persons in the United States, surplus food commodities. An amendment had been adopted authorizing the donation of raw cotton and cotton products to these people in the United States.

However, the discussion on Mrs. Sullivan's amendment became very heated, and Congress, sitting as a Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, became deeply involved in all of the complexities concerned with providing foodstuffs to needy foreign nations but denying them to our own people. After the oratorical smoke had cleared, a vote was taken on Mrs. Sullivan's amendment and the result was 89 yeas and 128 nays. In simple words this meant that the amendment had failed; that this country could and would provide surplus food commodities to be used in foreign nations and would go so far as to ship these commodities to those foreign nations and pay the freight on them, but would not make them available to a needy grandpa or grandma in this country, even if they came to the storehouse for them.

Court To Rule On Keeping Pet Alligators

DALLAS (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lerro were ordered to appear in Justice of the Peace W. E. Richburg's court in their fight to keep their pets.

Their pets are a trio of small but surly alligators, named Mo-Mo, Jo-Jo and Missouri. Mo-Mo, four and a half feet long, was hauled snarling out of a Dallas sewer Monday night and Jo-Jo, a pint-sized gator, was fished out of Five Mile Creek. Both beasts wandered from the pit in which the Lerros keep them.

Missouri stayed home like a good little alligator. Neighbors accused the Lerros of keeping the creatures "injurious to the health of those who reside in the vicinity" in violation of a state law.

One complainant told Richburg he once found one of the toothy reptiles in his home. The Lerros got their pets back from the Dallas pound Tuesday.

Mrs. Lerro scoffed at the neighbors. "Some of the people around here have never seen one and don't understand that they're perfectly harmless—unless they're cornered or pushed." Richburg indicated the Lerros may bring their pets to court to prove how pleasant they are. Mrs. Lerro said her son, Howard, 14, plays with the alligators all the time and has never been harmed.

Children playing in a sewer Monday night brought back reports of a hissing monster. A dog-catcher hauled disgruntled Mo-Mo, thrashing and hissing, from the sewer with a noose.

Reds Might Build Bombs In China

By WILLIAM C. SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—British and French officials have warned the Soviets could build a hydrogen bomb stockpile in Communist China unless the Peking regime is included in any first-step disarmament proposals.

Red China's exclusion from any such pact, they said, could provide Russia with a means of circumventing any East-West agreement on ending nuclear bomb production. They added that Russia could transfer its manufacture of fissionable materials to Communist China since no provision has been made yet for setting up international checkpoints there.

Four new cases diagnosed as "non-paralytic polio" were admitted to Memorial Hospital late on Tuesday and Tuesday night, bringing the total to 17.

San Bernardino County, in California, is 20,160 square miles in area and is the largest county in the United States.

Mrs. Ruth Cowan Nash Assumes Job As GOP Public Relations Consultant

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If the GOP thinks it's getting a frilly, giggling dame as its new public relations consultant, it's in for a surprise.

Ruth Cowan Nash, who was appointed to the post to take on some of the duties recently dropped by Mrs. Anne Wheaton, newly appointed assistant White House press secretary, is a reporter's reporter.

In her 27 years working for a wire service, Mrs. Nash proved that she was a tough as they come and that she could cover any story a man could cover. She made a name for herself in Chicago covering crime stories during the Al Capone era, and was the first woman accredited as a war correspondent in Europe during World War II.

World War II friends remember her as the woman who demonstrated "How to Stay a Beach-Head on a Beach-Head." She carried 12 bottles of bleach with her overseas and kept her tresses shiny throughout the war.

Reporters at the Pentagon, after the war, remember her as a charming lady and a top reporter.

Teen-Age Social Problems Discussed By Noted Physician And Psychiatrist

NEW YORK — Is it right to be interested in sex? "It's not a matter of right and wrong. Every boy and girl is interested in sex." So says Dr. Edward J. Hornick, noted physician and psychiatric specialist on adolescence, who discusses teen-agers' emotional problems in a definitive article on "Sex and Your Emotions" in the July issue of Seventeen Magazine.

Dr. Hornick tells teen-agers that "sex is one of the dynamic working forces of your body... it is the warmth of your personality; the drive of your existence." In order to fully understand sex, he says, one must "find a way of comfortably and appropriately relating your feelings about the biological aspect of sex to sex in its larger meaning — to your total adolescent life and to your future as a woman."

Some of the problems covered by Dr. Hornick include whether a boy expects a girl to let him kiss her on a date, how a girl should decide on a code of behavior, what's wrong with going steady, and whether a girl should discuss her feelings about sex with her family.

Does a boy expect a girl to let him kiss her on a date? "No, a boy does not necessarily expect a girl to let him kiss her on a date, although almost every boy will try." He is pleased if you respond to his kiss because you really want to, or if with or without a kiss you show your interest.

RUTH MILLET

"What's the matter with a husband who can be a fascinating talker when he is in a crowd but who barely gives his wife the time of the day when they are alone?"

The reader who asks that question goes on to say:

"If we have friends in or go out with several other couples my husband talks so entertainingly about all kinds of subjects, including his work, that he is a real asset to the group."

"During those times I find out all kinds of interesting things about the people he knows, about his work, about his ideas."

"But when we are at home alone he answers my questions with two or three words, never tells me anything about anything. He keeps his nose stuck in a book, behind a newspaper, or if he can't find anything better to do without talking, he watches TV."

"I'm not as dumb as all that, I don't think. I was graduated from the same college he was. I keep up with what is going on in the world. And I would love to just sit and talk once in a while — but no dice. What do you think is wrong?"

Well, maybe he is just refusing himself by reading and meditating. If his work keeps him talking to people all day he may need to be quiet when he is at home.

Or maybe he is the kind of person who needs more than an audience of one to really shine. Some people are like that. They only make the effort at conversation when they have an audience they want to impress.

Or maybe you haven't learned the art of drawing another person out and making him want to talk. Some wives think if they ask a few flat questions, like "Well, how did everything go at the office today?" they are being as stimulating as possible.

But all that does to a man is make him give the easiest answer possible, "Not much," or "Same old routine."

Society And Guild In Joint Meeting For Program And Pledge Service

(Special To The News)

SHAMROCK — The Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild met in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church on Monday evening for a joint pledge service. Arrangements of lilies and Bells of Ireland were featured around the room.

The worship center was a white church, world globe and a white cross.

Mrs. Boyd Williams, president, presided at the business session at which time Mrs. W. Y. Burden was elected as vice president to replace the vacancy created when Mrs. Bob Purcell moved from Shamrock.

Mrs. Clyde Whittle led the prayer. Mrs. Risk, program chairman, gave the devotional, "We Give Because We Love." Group singing was led by Mrs. Williams accompanied by Mrs. Lyle Holmes.

A drama, "Lift Up Your Eyes," was presented by Meses. Willis Caperton, Christian Service; Mary Pace, Wesleyan Service; Lyle Holmes, off-stage voice; J. R. Benson, Africa; Bryan Close, North Africa; Boyd Williams, Asia; Henderson Coffman, Latin America; Rufus Dodgen, North America. Mrs. S. L. Draper, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Pace, sang "We Give Thee, But Thine Own." Mrs. Rufus Dodgen gave a reading entitled, "Christ In Interspect."

Mrs. Williams gave the dedication prayer at which time each member signed a pledge card and laid it on the worship table. Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. L. Reavis and her committee.

The tea table was laid with a hand-drawn cloth and centered with a floral arrangement of white gladioli, Bells of Ireland. Mrs. Williams, president, presided at the crystal punch service.

Those present were Meses. Byron Close, Henderson Coffman, Lyle Holmes, Willis Caperton, Boyd Williams, Rufus Dodgen, Lin Sharp, C. L. Reavis, J. R. Benson, Clyde Whittle, Jack Montgomery, George Robinson, Clark Bumpers, Mary Pace, S. L. Draper, Elsie Hood, and M. E. Risk.

SPANISH BASES ALMOST READY—American long-range nuclear bombers will begin "limited operations" out of Spain this fall. In an emergency our Strategic Air Command could move into Spain today. The three main SAC bases (Seville, Torreon, Saragossa) have had housekeeping crews for several months. Newsmap shows our network of air bases and naval installations. Lifeline of the complex is the $45 million, 12-inch, American-built fuel pipeline. Torreon's 13,400-foot runways are the longest in Europe. Rota is a combined port-naval air station. It will be able to handle three large Forrestal-type carriers simultaneously. At El Ferrol and Cartagena, the Navy is installing underground fuel dumps.

Converted Housewife Glad To Return To Homemaking

NEW YORK (UP)—Pauline McCarthy, tired and retired, is the happiest housewife in the country today. She's slaving over a hot stove again instead of under hot lights. A slim, 32-year-old blonde whose husband is a bricklayer foreman, Mrs. McCarthy was plucked warm from the bosom of her Cleveland family and turned into a TV star by CBS last week. She made $559.50 by appearing on the Garry Moore morning show on "I've Got A Secret" and on "Edge of Night."

and the mother of three, was tapped in a shopping center parking lot. She and her husband were railroaded to Manhattan on Thursday, June 20. CBS coughed up enough dough to pay for her husband's lost salary and also hired his mother as a baby sitter. Mrs. McCarthy was officially declared a TV star on Monday. "It wasn't so bad at the beginning of the week—I was on the Garry Moore morning show and we just talked and then there were interviews and costume appointments and publicity pictures," recalled Mrs. McCarthy. Even Missed Lunch "But around Wednesday, everything seemed to bust loose. I rehearsed for 'Edge of Night' from nine in the morning till noon. Then they put me in a cab and sent me to another studio to rehearse for 'Love of Life.' Then I went back in another cab to 'Edge of Night,' rehearsed some more and went on the air. Thursday morning, they got me up again to rehearse some more for 'Love of Life.' Then at noon, they told me I had to rehearse for the Garry Moore Friday show. I was going to do a skit with him. Then they sent me back to 'Love of Life' again to play the

GOP County Heads Adopt Resolutions

A nine-part resolution was unanimously adopted at a recent meeting of the Republican County Chairman, 31st Senatorial District, according to George Cree Jr., chairman. Another resolution was adopted by majority vote. The resolution adopted unanimously was as follows: "WHEREAS, despite the courageous action taken by several patriotic Senators and Congressmen, it appears that no strong grass roots opposition, and no cohesive force has been brought in this country to stem the ever-increasing tendency of our government in its top-heavy spending bureaucracy; and, "WHEREAS, it appears people at the local level of our political structure should take a definite stand as to the issues threatening the future health, economy, and welfare of the United States, and, "WHEREAS, in order to sponsor and support in every manner those who are so bravely struggling to save our constitutional form of government, and our system of free enterprise, the following policy is proposed for the Republican Party, 31st District of Texas, for the consideration and study of all concerned: "NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that we the undersigned County Chairmen of the Republican Party of the 31st District, State of Texas, do hereby unequivocally propose:

- "1. That the Federal Income Tax be substantially reduced.
- "2. That the Administration immediately without delay reduce the Federal Budget.
- "3. That a systematic program be established for the reduction of our National debt.
- "4. That the United States discontinue economic aid to all the world and cease and desist underwriting the economy of other foreign nations, excepting those cases obvious to our national defense. It is now apparent that we cannot buy friendship and that we must

Newport's 'High Society' Is Introduced To 'Jazz'

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Newport rocked, but rolled with the punch when Mrs. Louis L. Lorillard decided the staid summer colony needed a jazz festival. "That was in 1953, and the "av- maid. Friday morning, Garry Moore again. Then over to 'Love of Life' again. "It was nice and an experience and all that, but it's not for me. From now on, I think I'll just sit in my living room and let somebody else do the work on TV."

erage socialite didn't know what jazz was," said Mrs. Lorillard, whose friends include Astors, Vanderbilts, Armstrongs and Gillestes. In an interview at her Manhattan apartment, Mrs. Lorillard said she dreamed up the idea of introducing Lower Basin Street to high society "because I've always loved jazz." "Newport was sort of a vacuum where the arts were concerned," she said. "We first thought a symphony was the answer. But we got the New York Philharmonic up for the summer of 1953, and the box office results were ghastly." "Wanted 'Name' Musicians She suggested the festival to her husband, and to George Wein, an authority on American folk music. "The townspeople were lethargic and we couldn't get name musicians," she said. "Some of the residents were shocked at the idea... they were opposed to anything new coming to Newport. Today, she said, the town not only is solidly supporting the festival ("It brings in tourist revenue") but apparently so is most of New England. The festival in the first year, 1954, attracted 13,000 persons. This year, in its fourth day run July 4-8, some 40,000 fans are expected.

Non-Profit Operation The festival is run by a non-profit corporation, of which her husband is president. And Wein is vice-president. Any money made on the event is spent on "furthering jazz," said Mrs. Lorillard who dreams of seeing a school for jazz established at Newport.

Old-Fashioned 'Silos' Soon To Be Replaced

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—You may confidently look forward to rapid and drastic changes in the rural landscape. Scientific technology is about to move across it with giant bags which have some resemblance to an old-fashion tobacco pouch but are many thousand times larger. These bags, agricultural scientists predict, will soon dot country horizons as silos dot them now. Indeed, they're going to replace silos eventually, the prediction is. The reason is that they are, so to speak, "a better mousetrap." The bags are made of forest green vinyl plastic sheeting and come in two sizes, one that contains 40 tons of silage, the other 80 tons. They were developed at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, Rutgers University, and they now have passed exhaustive tests at 33 agricultural experimental states around the country.

are not efficient in that regard, so farmers rely more on hay-making than on silage-making. Keeps Air Out Experiments have shown that vinyl plastic prevents the gas to seep out but prevents the outside air from seeping in. The tests have shown that the spoilage rate of silage stored in the bags is negligible. The agricultural experimenters have worked out simple ways of filling them. The economics as worked out by the experimenters show that a bag will pay for itself with one filling and the bag will survive intact four or five fillings. But the bags can be patched, as simply as the inner tube of a tire can be. The commercial collaborator of the agricultural scientists was the Bakelite Co., of the Union Carbide Corp., which is beginning general distribution. An 80-ton bag costs retail $135, a 40-tonner, $75.

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—An American Airlines plane had to make a forced landing because of a toothpick in a marlin. Henry Moore, Tucson, Ariz., swallowed the toothpick in his martini as the plane flew over Iowa. The pilot made an unscheduled landing so Moore could be rushed to a hospital where the toothpick was removed.
