

Walter Rogers Reports: Some Discussion On The Status Of Forces Agreement

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT:
Status of Forces Agreement
The Bow Resolution
The Girard Case
 A smoldering international issue of long standing will probably burst into flame just about the time you receive this newsletter. I speak of the Bow Resolution introduced by Congressman Frank Bow of Ohio. This Resolution concerns the Status of Forces Agreement, which is Article 7 of the North Atlantic Treaty, and other treaties and agreements which provide for foreign countries to have criminal jurisdiction over American Armed Forces personnel stationed within their boundaries.

This has not been a crucial issue in the past, for the simple reason it has never before been favorably recommended by the Committee on Foreign Affairs. It was the subject of much oratory in many places throughout this country and, also, on the Floor of Congress, but nothing effective could be done until the matter came before the House of Representatives for official decision. It is now pending in the Rules Committee and probably will be presented to the House before July 15.

The Resolution, in effect, directs the President to take action nullifying provisions in the North Atlantic Treaty and other treaties and agreements — those provisions which give foreign countries criminal jurisdiction over military personnel stationed within their boundaries. It was under this type of agreement that Japan was demanding the right to try the Girard case.

It was the publicity given the Girard case that brought into focus the status of the GI in a foreign country. Once the American public realized the full significance of the situation, a great clamor arose from the grass roots demanding a change in policy. Girard became famous overnight, because the citizens of this country began to ask each other whether or not the GI's, who were responsible for the defense of this country, had lost their Constitutional rights because of a treaty between this country and a foreign country. This question prompted the Supreme Court of the United States to extend its term so the Girard case could be heard. It decided to hear this case during the week of July 8 which, incidentally, is the same week during which the Congress probably will take up the Bow Resolution.

The Committee on Foreign Affairs favorably reported the Bow Resolution the latter part of the week of June 24 and filed the written report on July 1, 1957. The Department of Defense issued a communication expressing deep concern over the matter and vigorous opposition to the Resolution. This communication also contained communications from high-ranking, present and former officials of the present Administration, in strong opposition to the Bow Resolution.

It is also pointed out that the State Department, acting through the Honorable Christian A. Herter, Acting Secretary, issued a statement on June 28, 1957, strongly opposing the Bow Resolution and taking the position that the Resolution is unconstitutional. In other words, these opponents of the Bow Resolution are in favor of these GI's being tried in foreign courts. There are many people in high offices in this land who vigorously disagree with them. The pro and con arguments have been well and fully presented. I can appreciate the sincerity with which both sides have spoken, whether they be Members of Congress or in the Executive Branch of the government, and I respect their views.

However, the basic problem involved is the question, "how secure are Constitutional guarantees?" American citizens have always been led to believe that the rights guaranteed them under the Constitution of this country were inviolable. If this is true, there is no right or authority in this country, including the President of the United States, to subject an American citizen to trial before a foreign tribunal without the consent of the American citizen involved. To say that such power does exist is to say that the President of the United States is greater than the Constitution and that ours, is after all, a government by man and not a government by law. In other words, if it is unconstitutional to forbid an agreement between this country and a foreign country, which violates constitutional rights of an American citizen, as the State Department alleges, it must be admitted that the Constitution of this nation is not supreme, politically speaking. This I am not prepared to do — now or in the future.

I can understand how a man, who wants to enlist in the armed services, may be willing to waive his constitutional rights and submit to the jurisdiction of a foreign tribunal. But I cannot, by a stretch of the imagination, understand the reasoning that would result in an 18-year old boy being drafted and sent to a foreign country without his consent and, in many cases, against his wishes, and being turned over to a foreign court in which the Constitution of the United States is unknown in substance or procedure.

If the Constitution of this country is to be repealed, let it be repealed by a vote of the people — not by internationalists, the Department of Defense, the Department of State or the President of the United States.

Red Army Marshal Zhukov Emerging As A Real Power

By K.C. THALER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 LONDON (UP) — Red Army Marshal Georgi Zhukov is rapidly emerging as the key factor behind the power shift in Soviet leadership, top diplomatic sources said today. He is expected to assume a top position soon — possibly the premiership.

The jawed defense minister, conqueror of Berlin and wartime friend of President Eisenhower, played an important role in saving party boss Nikita Khrushchev in last week's Kremlin revolt and Khrushchev depends on his loyalty for survival, the sources said.

Zhukov was not considered a man seeking a military dictatorship and not a "Napoleonic type." But he is being pushed upward by the constant increase in strength of the Red army over which he has unchallenged control, diplomats said.

It was not known definitely he would replace Premier Marshal Nikolai Bulganin. But Bulganin was believed under a cloud and on his way-out because he sympathized with V. M. Molotov last week when Zhukov saved Khrushchev from the would-be Molotov coup.

Upstairs Kick
 Diplomatic observers said to make the Khrushchev-Bulganin split less obvious Bulganin might be kicked upstairs—that he might take the place of President Klement Voroshilov who would be dropped. Voroshilov also backed Molotov.

It was noted that Khrushchev took precedence over Bulganin today in Prague and was greeted

Little Hildy McCoy Wins Parents Of Her Very Own

MIAMI (UP)—Little Hildy McCoy won parents of her very own when a Florida judge made her the legally adopted child of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Ellis after a long inter-faith battle in the courts.

Hildy was born to a Roman Catholic mother and the Ellises are Jewish. But the couple fought in two states—losing in Massachusetts—to win the victory finally accomplished here Wednesday.

Oilman Hits Excessive Imports

WASHINGTON (UP)—Jack Abernathy, president of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, charges that oilwell drilling in the U.S. is declining because of excessive imports.

In a letter to Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, head of the President's cabinet committee investigating crude oil imports, Abernathy made an urgent plea for a return to the 1954 import ratio. He said the President's special committee in February, 1955 recommended imports should not "significantly exceed" the 1954 ratio to domestic crude production.

Judge John Prunty ruled that the Ellises, who fled their home and business in Boston rather than give up the freckled youngster, are "proper persons" to adopt Hildy.

The Ellises were not present when Judge Prunty announced his decision. But Mrs. Ellis, reached by telephone, sobbed:

"Our attorney just telephoned me that it is now Hildy Ellis. It has been a long time—six long years."

"I can't wait until I can tell my husband the good news."

Ellis was out looking over a new home they plan to move into soon.

The Florida Welfare Department on Monday recommended that the Ellises be given the child. The report said that to "separate the child from the only parents she has ever known... would do serious damage to her emotional security."

The report cited the Ellises' "excellent reputation adequate income and better than average home" in recommending the adoption.

On Monday, Judge Prunty termed the Ellises "suitable" parents for little Hildy but delayed the decision in order to study the possible effect of Massachusetts court decrees against the adoption on the child's future.

Prunty said the best interests of Hildy would be promoted by the adoption. He said that as of this date she is the legal heir of the Ellises and hereafter "will be known as Hildy Ellis."

SWEATING IT OUT—Weather predictor F. M. Ties, of Brodhead, Wis., wipes his forehead as the temperature creeps higher and higher, dimming hopes of making his winter snow-fall prediction come true. The weather prophet, using a formula he learned from an Indian, forecast 40 snows, one more than the total which actually occurred. Ties, who claims to have missed only twice in 50 years, says the system can be used anywhere. Formula: Total snowfalls is equal to the total of the month and the age of the moon at the time of the first snow.

Jack Paar Took Mental Notes On Show Emcees

By JACK PAAR
Written For United Press
NEW YORK (UP)—When I begin my new version of "Tonight" on July 29, I guess I'll become a part-time master of ceremonies. The show will be heavy on comedy and music, but there'll also be guests. I'm elected to introduce them and, therefore, I become an emcee.

There are all types of emcees. I've observed a lot of them during my 16 years on radio and TV and I've been making mental notes. Herein are those that stand out in my mind:

The Act-Joiner: This emcee thinks he has enough over-all talent to join every act. This type is fast disappearing though, because of what happened to one of its members. An emcee on a Provo, Utah, station tried to join a fire-eating act. I understand he's still burning.

Always Smiling
The Mona Lisa: This guy is always smiling. No matter what happens, he smiles. The secret, I understand, is to say "cheese" over and over to yourself. I tried it once, but it didn't work. How can you smile and say roquefort?

The Arm Sweeper: When this one introduces an act, he stands full face to the camera until he says the act's name. Then he half turns and sweeps his arm toward the direction the act is to appear. Sometimes he knocks down cameras, stagehands and often, sponsors. Each emcee knocks down only one sponsor per career, however.

The Toe Dancer: He is an emcee who bobs up and down on his toes during his introduction. I never could figure out whether he's nervous or his feet are sore.

Back And Forth
The Shifter: This is a variation of the Toe Dancer, only he rocks back and forth instead of up and down, giving the appearance of a limp metronome.

The Off Camera Talker: This guy is always sharing a gag with someone off camera. He usually breaks up laughing and says something like, "Okay now, Ed, you cut that out." Then he goes on, leaving everyone to wonder who Ed is and what it was he was supposed to cut out.

Well, there's the list I can recollect, I'm sure you've seen them all. In other words, here are some emcees who need no introduction. Hmmm.

Texas Scores Another 'Most'

HOUSTON (UP)—The deepest oil well in the world—more than four miles underground—may soon belong to Texas.

At present that distinction belongs in Louisiana.

But the Great Western Drilling Co. is plotting a location that may go down below 22,000 feet.

The well is being drilled for Phillips Petroleum Co. and is a test demonstration for new diesel electric drilling equipment designed by General Electric Corp.

Supper In A Skillet

Ground beef balls, whole potatoes, and a savory tomato sauce make this a meal in a pan. Add a salad of head lettuce wedges with French dressing, a fruity dessert, and a beverage to complete the menu.

- MEAT BALL SKILLET
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
1/4 cup bread crumbs
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 cup milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
Salt
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 1/4 cups tomato juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 small potatoes
2 medium onions, sliced
2 stalks celery, sliced
Mix ground beef with chopped onion, crumbs, mustard, chili powder, milk, egg, and 1 1/2 teaspoons salt; shape into medium-sized balls. Brown in hot fat. Add tomato juice, Worcestershire sauce, vegetables and 1 teaspoon salt; cover pan and simmer 20 to 30 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. 6 servings.

Quick Summer Dinner

QUICK SUMMER MAIN COURSE
Simple and short-cooking, sausage links wrapped in sliced ham are a nourishing hot weather main course. They require about 20 minutes cooking — time enough to prepare a vegetable, crisp salad and beverage to complete the meal. Serve a quick-mix pudding or ice cream for dessert.
Place four pork sausage links per serving in a skillet with a few tablespoons of water. Cover the pan and cook over low heat five minutes. Wrap a thin slice of ham around two of the pre-cooked links and fasten securely with skewers or picks. Place each roll on a peach half or pineapple slice. Arrange on a broiler rack and broil three inches from the source of heat until the meat is slightly browned, about 10 minutes. Serve two bundles per person.

An All-Time Favorite For Picnics Is Ever Popular Pork 'n Beans

When it's picnic time... it's Bean-time, U.S.A. Every July is picnic-time, and everyone loves a picnic. An all-time favorite for picnics is the ever popular can of Pork and Beans. It's ideal the way you can pack several cans in your picnic basket and then just set them on your grill to heat until they're "piping hot" and ready to serve.
Center your picnic menu around canned Pork and Beans. The use of canned foods adds up to less preparation time which is something we all welcome.

Simple Smorgasbord Fits In Perfectly With Casual Summertime Entertaining

BEET AND HERRING SALAD

ROASTING TIME
Boned and rolled roasts have become increasingly popular with the American homemaker the last few years. When cooking any type of boned or rolled roast, remember that the roasts require approximately 10 more minutes per pound more cooking time than roasts which have not been boned.
STEAK GARNISH
Garnishes can be so easy to prepare and add color and individuality to a meat platter too. An unusual steak garnish may be prepared by wrapping a half slice of bacon around a tomato wedge. The bacon slice can be secured with a wooden pick. A mushroom cap can then be placed on the tip of the wooden pick. These bacon-tomato-mushroom garnishes can be broiled with the steak during the last 8 to 10 minutes of cooking.

OUTDOOR COOKERY
Outdoor cookery has attracted many an amateur chef in recent years. When broiling steaks, chops or patties over a grill during an open air meal, make sure the flames of the fire have died down. Cook the meat over glowing coals.
STUFFED FRANKFURTERS
Next time you're looking for a different way to prepare frankfurters, try this tasty frank idea. Split frankfurters lengthwise and stuff with mixture of pickle relish and minced onion. Place under broiler to heat.

EASY DINNER
Prepare your favorite meat loaf mixture. Pack it into an 8 X 11-inch loaf pan. After baking cut the loaf into six equal portions. Top each portion with a swirl of mashed potatoes. Place the meat squares and mashed potatoes under the broiler just long enough for the potatoes to gain a golden tinge.

COOKING IN LIQUID
To procure the best results when cooking meat in liquid, keep these pointers in mind. Corned beef, cured pork and tongue are not browned before being cooked in liquid. Meats cooked in liquid should be simmered, never boiled. Boiling will cause the meat to become stringy and difficult to carve.

SEASONING MEATS
When broiling steaks or chops, season them on each side after broiling. If seasoned before broiling, the salt will tend to retard the broiling process. Roasts may be seasoned before or after cooking since seasonings penetrate the meat less than 1/4 inch.

cuts and a variety of breads and wafers will make a good spread with the two salads.
A simple type of smorgasbord fits in perfectly with the summertime relaxed and casual mode of entertaining. With this eye-catching beet and herring moided salad as a centerpiece for your buffet the menu is sure to be a success even though accompaniments are kept very simple.
Potato salad can be piled in the center if the salad is made in a ring mold. And slices of hard-cooked egg make effective garnish on top of the deep red mold. Evaporated milk is used in the salad to give a pleasant bit of creaminess and there's chopped celery, too, for crunchiness.
An attractive platter of cold cuts and rye crackers or breads in baskets are a good choice for this summer smorgasbord.
BEET AND HERRING SALAD
1 jar fillet of herring in wine sauce (8 oz.)

1 can baby beets (1 lb.)
Beet liquid plus water to make 1 cup
1 envelope lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup evaporated milk
1/4 cup sauce drained from herring
1 egg finely chopped celery
Drain herring, saving wine sauce. Cut herring into small pieces. (There will be about 1 cup.) Drain beets, saving liquid. Shred beets. Add water to beet liquid to make 1 cup and heat to boiling. While liquid is heating, place gelatin in a medium size mixing bowl. Add boiling liquid and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Cool. Stir in milk and wine sauce. Mixture may look curdled, but does not affect appearance of finished salad. Chill until mixture begins to thicken, then fold in herring, beets and celery. Turn into a 5 cup mold and chill until set, about 2 to 3 hours. Makes 6 servings.

Food Page Instead Of Wishing For A Sleighride In July, Just Try These Kraut Salads

Dreaming of a sleighride in July to cool off with? It takes a lot less effort to prepare and eat a refreshing, tangy Sauerkraut Salad. This is the day of more leisure and less time in the kitchen, especially during the hot months, and kraut is the salad ingredient to keep it that way. No washing, no extra preparation with canned sauerkraut. You just toss and serve, or mold and chill. Instead of spending your time wishing for a July sleighride to keep temperatures down, just try these two delightful kraut salads.
First a tossed kraut apple salad that serves four to six. Combine the following ingredients: One one-

Another kraut recipe your family will love is Chili Kraut Salad. This salad serves six. Combine one one-pound three-ounce can sauerkraut, drained and chilled; two medium-sized apples, cored and diced; one half cup raisins, one teaspoon sugar, one teaspoon paprika and one-half cup sour cream. Mix together lightly but thoroughly. Garnish with crisp radish roses and water cress, if desired.
When using a moderate broiling temperature, steaks, chops and patties need only to be turned once during cooking. When broiling, timing is important and should be watched closely to insure the best results.

WHAT EVERY MOTHER SHOULD KNOW ABOUT SUMMER DRINKS

One that's best for growing children is Sealtest Chocolate Milk. This nourishing beverage contains healthful milk proteins, vitamins and minerals. It's wonderfully refreshing, too—smooth, rich, chocolaty. And there's no mixing bother. Sealtest Chocolate Milk costs so little. Always handy, too—at your store or at your door.

Plenty Of Peaches Available This Year

The grocer's oft-repeated, "Sorry, we're out of that," won't apply to at least one food this summer, for the 1957 peach crop will be well above average, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service.
Peaches are available right now at attractive prices from growing areas in southern states, including Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. In fact, Texas production is expected to be about 11.7 million bushels, 6 percent larger than in 1956, although it is down considerably in Arkansas because of spring frosts. Production also is up substantially in Georgia and the Carolinas, and in California.
Look for plentiful peaches all through July, and into early August. In fact, you'll want to buy peaches by their looks. Most shoppers prefer their peaches with a pink blush, but that's only part of the color story. Look also for what's known as the "ground" color. Select peaches that have a creamy or yellowish color background. At that stage they will continue to ripen after picking. As for blush, some varieties have it, some don't.
Pass up over-ripe, shriveled, or bruised peaches. Avoid those with hard knots or decayed spots, unless these peaches are low priced. Handle peaches with care they may be bruised easily. Let partially ripened peaches "mellow up" at room temperatures. Store ripe ones in the refrigerator.

Limes Have That Different Flavor

This should be the year when limes come into their own as a flavorful, interesting and different fruit, suggests the Agricultural Marketing Service.
The supply will be plentiful and the price attractive, for the 1957 crop of Florida limes currently is estimated at 420,000 boxes, 5 percent larger than the 1956 crop and over sixty per cent above average. Limes all too often are overlooked in shopping, but they shouldn't be. Besides making a refreshing drink or drink ingredient, limes can be used with any food usually served with vinegar or lemon juice. Prepare limeade as you would lemonade, although with perhaps a bit more sugar added — or add it to lemonade, for a "different" flavor.
Lime-juice is tempting in salads, salad dressings, mixed with honey in fruit cocktails and added to chilled fruit juice. Lime pie rivals its close relative, lemon pie, in deliciousness. Limes also provide an excellent flavor for tasty sherbets or ices.
Limes that are green in color and heavy for their size are the most desirable. Deep yellow fruits — that is, those that are fully ripe — do not have the desired acidity. Since limes lose juice rapidly when the air is dry or hot, they should be kept in the refrigerator.
Incidentally, it was Columbus who brought limes to America, and here they have been grown in California and Florida since the early days of the citrus industry.

Notice!! Out-Door Cooking Enthusiasts, Here Are Recipes For Barbecue Sauces

- Upon popular request from some of our local out-door cooking enthusiasts, we are printing several recipes for barbecue sauces, which have come to our desk. For foods that require basting, choose a sauce that complements the natural flavors. Use a mildy seasoned sauce of mostly oil and herbs for chicken and fish. Pork chops and ribs call for a little fat and lots of chili sauce or tomato sauce. A well-seasoned sauce that's rich in oil is good for hamburgers, beef kabobs or steaks (if you like your steak basted.)
SAVORY SAUCE (for chicken or fish)
1 clove garlic, pressed or grated
1 c. butter or margarine
4 t. flour
2-3 c. water
1-1/4 t. pepper
4 t. salt
1 T. sugar
1/2 t. dried thyme
1/2 t. hot sauce
6 T. lemon juice
Sauté garlic in butter several minutes. Blend in flour, then remaining ingredients. Cook 1 to 1 1/2 slightly thick, stirring constantly. Baste chicken often while broiling. Makes 2 cups.
WESTERN SAUCE (for beef)
1 t. salt
1 t. pepper
1/4 t. cayenne pepper
2 T. chili powder
2 T. Worcestershire sauce
1 T. dry mustard
2 bay leaves, crumbled
1/2 c. butter, melted
1 c. vinegar
1/2 c. catsup
1 c. water
1 medium onion, grated
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/4 c. brown sugar
In saucepan, mix all ingredients, blending well. Quickly bring to boil, then lower heat and simmer 20 minutes. Brush on meat while cooking. Makes about 3 cups.
READY SAUCE (for all meats)
1/2 c. lemon juice
1/2 c. soy sauce
1/2 c. salad oil
1/2 c. wine vinegar
1/2 t. monosodium glutamate
Salt, pepper, herbs, as desired
Blend ingredients well, adding desired seasonings. Cover and keep on hand in refrigerator. It is ready to use or basting all meats and poultry.
CHICAGO (UP)—A policeman's cat that defied an anti-litter ordinance and got away with it has done it for the last time. Sgt. Thomas Maher told a veterinarian to perform a sterility operation on his cat, Minnie, which has just produced her 12th litter.
MIAMI (UP)—Police said thieves breaking into Donald A. Forsblade's apartment put pleasure before business. The looters cooked a meal in the kitchen and drank six cold beers before making off with $242 worth of Forsblade's belongings.

Newsmen Responsible For Some Of Best-Kept Secrets In WWII

Better Relations Expected Among Communist Countries

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The Kremlin shake-up is likely to improve Soviet Russia's relations with Yugoslavia, Poland and Communist China.
President Tito of Yugoslavia, Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland and Chinese Red leader Mao Tse-Tung support strongly the contention that there can be "different roads to socialism."
That means, of course, that it is not necessary for Communist countries to follow blindly the lead of Soviet Russia.
To a great extent, the victory of Soviet Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev over his enemies in the Russian collective dictatorship is a victory for Tito, Gomulka and Mao also.
Tito broke away from Russian domination in 1948. Gomulka was a great measure of independence as the result of his skillful course in last fall's Polish Revolt. Mao never has regarded China as a Soviet satellite.
Some Disagreement
There have been sharp divergences between these three leaders and the Russians on matters of Communist doctrine.
There has been intermittent feuding between Tito and Soviet leaders for nine years. Mao criticized Russia's brutal suppression of the Hungarian revolt and gave possibly decisive support to Gomulka in Poland's rebellion against Russian domination.
Two of the three biggest Soviet leaders purged in the Kremlin shake-up were old-line "Stalinists" who held that Moscow was the supreme fountain-head of Communist wisdom.
This seems to make it likely that there will be much closer cooperation in future between the Russians and the supporters of "national" Communism.
Mao Tse-Tung is expected to be in Warsaw on July 22 for a

Britain's Stag Hunters At Bay

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON (NEA) — The British squirrel's love of blood sports, particularly stag-hunting, has always puzzled the foreigner.

The French make jokes about it, such as the hoary one about the English milord who throws open the windows exclaiming, "I say, what a splendid morning — absolutely topping. Let's go out and kill something."

As for American sportsmen, they are horrified at absence of what they consider adequate game laws and predict that without a closed season, the last of Britain's deer may soon be wiped out.

The pink hunting coat, however, is on its way out, if a group of determined animal-lovers is to be believed. The blast of the hunting horn may soon be heard no more, and the last huntsman will have downed his last stirrup cup of mulled wine before setting off at a brisk canter in pursuit of the luckless stag.

For a ban on stag-hunting as a cruel sport is called for in petitions signed by just under 800,000 Britons. The petitions will be presented to Parliament by Anthony Greenwood, Labor member for Rossendale, and already the hunting ban has gained wide support in the House of Commons.

In a recent Commons debate stag-hunting was described as "fiendish" and "brutal" by Conservative and Labor members alike, Conservative Howard Johnson, of Brighton, referring to it as "this disgraceful practice which prevents us calling ourselves a civilized nation."

Even the Queen's name has been dragged into the controversy. Had she attended the annual meeting of the League Against Cruel Sports held recently in London the Queen would have heard her self described as "our worst enemy."

Not that Elizabeth II has ever taken part in a hunt, herself. No, it is Her Majesty's silence on the subject that irks league members, who interpret her silence as approval.

"Surely now is the time for a word of disapproval from the Queen," 83-year old Mrs. Dudley Ward, of South Harrow, told the league, while Lord Grey de Ruthyn, league president, criticized the Queen for taking Prince Charles and Princess Anne to a fox hunt at Hadlow Down, Sussex. (The royal children watched the hunt move off, were whisked away immediately afterwards.)

Almost everyone's opinion on stag-hunting has been canvassed except of the deer themselves, and this omission has now been rectified by hunting enthusiasts. The name of this proud, antlered beast has now been invoked in favor of its own extermination.

Cruel sport? Not a bit of it. Stags love the hunt. They are never happier than when being pursued by hounds and horsemen. So says Sir Dennis Stuckley, high sheriff of Devon, in the West of Britain.

"I am absolutely certain," Sir Dennis declared recently, "that a Gallup poll among my wild deer would disclose 100 per cent majority in favor of the protection the hunt affords them."

He is joined by pink-coated Col. Brian Gooch, joint of the Norwich Stag-hounds, who make the distinction of hunting "carted" deer — i.e. the deer are not hunted to the kill, but are carted away after the hunt, to be used over and over again.

"They know us and realize we won't hurt 'em," Col. Gooch maintains. "Dammit, we're practically on Christian name terms."

It has remained for Sir Bernard Waley-Cohen, 42, chairman of the Devon and Somerset Stag-hounds, to put the deer's eye-view most succinctly.

"Hunting," Sir Bernard told a recent press conference, "is in no sense cruel. There is no reason to assume that the hunted stag is not just as happy when he is being chased as he is when he is fighting to claim another deer for a wife."

Sir Bernard is concerned with keeping down the 700 red deer that roam Exmoor, and he thinks that hunting is the most humane method. If the hunt were abolished "the deer would be shot down mercilessly by farmers, and Exmoor would be littered with wounded deer dying in agony," he claims.

South made a lot of tricks at no-trump. He started by covering West's ten of clubs with dummy's jack. It held and he led the king of hearts. East won with the ace and played the six of diamonds. South's ten held the trick and he was ready for some real operation.

He led a heart to dummy's jack and East's ten fell. Two more heart leads forced East to let go of a spade and a diamond. The ace and king of clubs were played next and East found himself in an inexorable squeeze. If he discarded a spade the whole spade suit would be good and if he discarded a diamond all the diamonds would be winners. South made six odd.

The bidding of the hand is a good example of the JTB in operation. With 11 high card points and a good five card spade suit North wanted to be in game once his partner opened a no-trump.

His two heart bids was the transfer to spades and showed at least five cards in that suit. South's two spades was the automatic rebid whereupon North jumped to three no-trump.

This bid gave a complete picture of his hand. He had already guaranteed at least five spades. The jump in no-trump showed 10 to 12 or maybe even 13 points and a hand suitable for play in either spades or no-trump.

South's pass was obvious. He had a normal no-trump with only two spades and strength in all other suits.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

THE JUDGE AT WORK

The judge has many duties in a trial.

He sees that it goes in an orderly way and according to the rules — in selecting the jury, presenting evidence, hearing the lawyers' arguments, instructing the jury, and bringing in the verdict.

Before the trial starts, the judge sees that the questions put to prospective jurors are proper. He excuses jurors. He must see to the litigant's, lawyers, and witnesses. He must put down public disturbances.

The judge must see that the lawyers keep within due limits in questioning witnesses, arguing to the jury, and in their attitudes toward each other and the judge.

The judge tells the jurors their duties and what questions of fact to decide. He instructs them on what law controls the rights of the parties. He sees that the verdict is due in form. He must decide any requests for rulings by lawyers.

For example, after the plaintiff's lawyer has made his opening statement or presented his evidence, the defendant's lawyer may move for a directed verdict. This motion grants the plaintiff's facts but denies their cogency as a matter of law. If granted, the motion will not allow the plaintiff to recover judgement.

A directed verdict also ends the case before the jury can decide it. It is a decision by the court on a question of law. Either plaintiff or defendant may concede the facts but deny, as a matter of law, their power to sustain the other party's case.

A judge may render a "judgment notwithstanding the verdict" after the jury has brought in its verdict, when he should have granted, but mistakenly denied, a directed verdict.

The judge now and then may rule on the law and thereby take the suit out of the jury's hands. His ruling in no way reflects on the jury, but works to keep down needless litigation. When he does this he usually expresses the sincere thanks of the court for the time of the jury in standing ready to do its work.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Sale May Muffle Mayor Clough

GALVESTON (UP) — Controversial Mayor George Roy Clough may be muffled by the sale of his radio station Aug. 1.

A group of local business and professional men plans to pay $105,000 for radio station KLUF, long used by Clough as an outlet for his outspoken political views.

Asked if he thought the purchase was a move to hush his public voice, Clough answered: "If it is I have no way to prove it." "But part of the new owners' interest is political."

Among the purchasers of KLUF is David Nathan, a department store owner whom Mayor Clough defeated in an election in May.

Method Of Getting Anti-Cancer Substance Is Developer's Secret

SCIENCE TODAY
By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
(Copyright 1957 By United Press)

NEW YORK (UP)—If there hadn't been an Andrew Conway Ivy, there would have been no Krebiozen controversy. Only an Ivy could have maintained himself against the scientific community for almost six years—and only an Ivy would have investigated the stuff in the first place.

He is a two-way doctor, a Ph.D. as well as an M.D. In his youth he enjoyed nothing more than putting on boxing gloves. In 1949 when Krebiozen first came to his attention, he was vice-president of the University of Illinois in administrative charge of the Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical Colleges, and he was head of the Department of Clinical Science and professor of physiology.

Nor was that the full measure of his eminence. He was universally recognized as a cancer expert, a director of the American Cancer Society, an influential figure in the councils of the American Medical Assn. which had honored him with medals and scientific appointments, chairman or member of many scientific committees, frequent adviser of the federal and state governments on scientific matters, recipient of six honorary doctorates and many other recognitions.

Top of Heap
As he sat in his Chicago office on a summer day in 1949, he was, most definitely at the top of the heap. His secretary said a man wanted to see him, and he said, let the man come in. Being Ivy, his door is always open to anyone at any time. For years he had thought that the day might come when someone would talk through that open door with the answer to cancer.

The man spoke no English and was accompanied by a French-speaking American businessman. Through this interpreter, he said his name was Steven Durovic and he was a Yugoslav emigre living in Buenos Aires and engaged there in a pharmaceutical business with his brother, Marko. He was a doctor of medicine, Durovic continued, having gotten his degree from the University of Belgrade where he had been a professor of medicine until forced into exile by the post-war revolution which overthrew the monarchy.

His only credentials were his own say-so. He was a scientific unknown—he had never contributed a word to "the literature." But he made sense at once to Dr. Ivy. He said he had obtained from the blood of horses, a substance which he believed horse body chemistry had produced for the purpose of protecting horses from the overgrowth of new body tissues. Uncontrolled growth is the essential mechanism of cancer.

Agrees To Test
What Durovic wanted to know, would this substance protect other animals, particularly man, and would Ivy test it and find out? Ivy said he would. Being Ivy, he had tested anything which made even a little sense theoretically. Indeed, his major scientific reputation was for being an utterly tireless investigator.

Naturally, he asked Durovic for the details. Durovic said he would not disclose the precise methods he had used in obtaining the material; nor would he provide the pure substance for chemical analysis. He was the discoverer and he expected to profit from it, he said, and he was afraid other pharmaceutical interests would pirate it. He added that he had already put well over 1 million dollars into his experiments—his family's money and the money of investors.

To any other scientific investigator, Durovic's secrecy would have closed the door. The secret remedy, the unknown chemical compound, the magic potion rouse blinding suspicions in practically all scientific minds, and you can see why because the secret remedy is the essence of medical quackery. Scientific ethics enjoin very strictly against secrecy. But Ivy had always been unorthodox.

Entitled To Profit
Being Ivy, the mere possibility of the tulip is a creation of centuries of cross-breeding.

The Suez Canal first was opened in 1869.

of Durovic's material being "biologically active" against cancer in man was the paramount consideration. Believing in "the American system of free enterprise," he believed the discoverer of such a substance was entitled to profit from his discovery, he explained to this reporter, adding that, anyway, he was concerned with the scientific aspects, not the commercial ones.

So Durovic supplied the material, which he had named Krebiozen. It was dissolved in vegetable oil in ampules. Ivy had only Durovic's word that it was a white powder—even to this day he has never seen the substance in its pure form. Nor has anyone else, aside from Durovic and his brother. That is the basis for opposition charges that perhaps it doesn't exist.

Ivy injected a ampule contents first in animals, then into himself. In that way, he found out it was, at least, harmless. His animal experiments, so dearly prized by orthodox scientists, were sketchy but indicated the material was active. He proceeded to two human beings with far advanced—and hopeless—cancer. Their tumors shrank. Thus Ivy began an investigation which continues to this day. However, all incredible hell soon broke loose. If it hadn't happened you couldn't believe it.

Extradition Request Is Granted

AUSTIN (UP)—Gov. Price Daniel granted the request of New Mexico for extradition of Dr. Richard F. Boone, under indictment at Santa Fe on embezzlement charges.

Secretary of State Zollie Steakley said he was preparing formal extradition papers to be issued. Steakley acting for the governor, heard New Mexico's request for extradition of Boone at a hearing June 20.

Boone, who served as chief medical officer of the New Mexico state prison from Nov. 15, 1955 to March 18, 1957, was charged in Santa Fe county, N. M. with embezzlement of a microscope valued at $150 and an electro-cardiograph valued at $750.

Defense counsel for Boone at last month's extradition hearing charged that the embezzlement accusations against Boone were politically inspired after he spoke out against "corruption" in the New Mexico state penitentiary. The request for extradition was made by New Mexico Gov. Edwin L. Mechem.

Boone, now in Dallas, had been a practicing physician in Texas since 1931 before going to New Mexico. At the time, he was a practicing physician at a government hospital in Waco, and was a visiting professor of psychology at Baylor University.

WATER-NO CHASER
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department ruled that liquor could be sold throughout the day here despite an election on a 35-million-dollar bond issue for an aqueduct. The board agreed that a water district vote didn't constitute a political election.

Wedding Of Miss Josephine Foote And William W. Proett Solemnized

(Special to The News)
PERRYTON — Miss Josephine Foote and William W. Proett were united in marriage on June 30 in the First Methodist Church.

Miss Foote is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Foote. Mr. Proett is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Proett of Conrad, Ia.

Reverend Proett, father of the bridegroom, read the double-ring ceremony amid a setting of large white chrysanthemums, which flanked the altar.

Miss Fae Marie Beck, organist, played "Mein Jesu, der du mich" by Brahms, "O-Hall This Brightest of Days" by Bach, and "Jesu, Joy Of Man's Desiring" by Bach as a nuptial prelude.

"Pastorale in F Major" by Bach was used for the professional and "Hymn of Joy" by Beethoven was the recessional.

Miss Janette Waught sang "O Perfect Love" by Barnby.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of bridal taffeta and lace. The lace-covered bodice was designed with a scoop neckline accented with appliques of lace and long tapered lace sleeves. The full taffeta skirt extended into a chapel-length train. Her Veil of Illusion fell from a lace head-dress embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis and the lace wedding handkerchief carried by her maternal grandmother.

Miss Brenda Ann Foote was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pale blue taffeta and lace waist-length dress, styled with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full flared skirt. Her bandeau was of blue taffeta and she carried a nosegay of pale pink carnations and peonies.

Best man was Laurie Halberg.

of Lawton, Okla., brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Ushers were Leon Whitney of Amarillo, J. W. Taylor of Colorado Springs, Colo., and John Ray Towles of Gunnison, Colo.

Mrs. Foote, mother of the bride, wore a white linen and lace sheath with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua brocade dress with white accessories. Both of their corsages were of pink sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The serving table was laid with a cloth of white satin centered with a bride's bouquet and crystal candelabra.

Mrs. Charles Russell of Austin presided at the punch bowl. Miss Mary Kate Surratt of Panhandle and Mrs. Laurie Halberg, sister of the bridegroom, served the tiered wedding cake. Guests were registered by Mrs. Jene Kutchmarek.

Mrs. Proett attended Southern Methodist University and was graduated from the University of Texas. During the past two years, she has taught in the mathematics department of the University.

The bridegroom was graduated from Westmar College, LeMars, Ia., and attended Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill. He has been with the Methodist Board of Missions for the past

World News In Pictures

EGO-CENTRICITY—A new wrinkle in the art of egg laying is admired by Mrs. Roy Cott, of Leavenworth, Kan., who holds a peanut-shaped specimen. The freak egg was sent to her by her mother, Mrs. E. R. Dixon, of Topeka, Kan., who got it from the nest of a white leghorn hen.

NOISY NEIGHBORHOOD—A hen pheasant certainly found a noisy neighborhood in which to raise her family. She laid her eggs 50 feet from a busy runway at New York's LaGuardia Field. Airport gardener John Moloney examines the nest of 14 eggs while the pheasant is away. She does most of her egg-sitting at night. The sun takes over in the daytime.

FEMAL MAN—Learning her new duties down to the last letter, this would-be postman, not yet in uniform, trundles her "rolley" from house-to-house in The Hague, Holland, under the watchful eye of a regular mailman. Owing to a shortage of male personnel, Dutch postal authorities are recruiting women for the letter-lugging job. The postwomen will be issued "trolleys" to make their job easier.

BACK AGAIN—The lady and gentleman, lassoed by the hydrant-happy terrier, should look familiar. They're Myrna Loy and William Powell at the time the couple were making "Thin Man" pictures. Hollywood's putting the "Thin Man" into a television series. Peter Lawford and Phyllis Kirk, who will play the key roles in the new series, pose, inset, with a new "Asta," without whom no "Thin Man" series could be.

STPO SIGN—As if the freeways aren't enough of a challenge to motorists, this sign confronts them at the corner of Pearl and Gordon Streets, in downtown Pomona, Calif. Tommy Bromley one of the smaller residents of Pomona scratches his head over the sign. But young Tommy isn't really as confused as the drivers who pass this corner. He can't spell, either.

SALT HARVEST—Bearing their burdens on their backs, Guajira Indian women trek across the sprawling salt beds during the annual salt harvest on the Guajira Peninsula, Manaua, Colombia. More than 2,000 Indians and their families take part in the harvest each year. The salt, which has been evaporating for 10 months under the hot tropical sun, is placed in 1,800-pound mounds by each individual family and carried to shore by the women in 100-pound bags. For each 100 bags they are paid about $10. These salt beds, in use since the 16th century, will yield some 42,000 tons of salt this year.

ROUGH RIDING—The man who claims he led the famed charge up San Juan Hill in the Spanish-American War is having rough riding these days. Former Pvt. Alfred C. Petty, 80, above, seeks the Medal of Honor for his part in the battle that immortalized Teddy Roosevelt's "Rough Riders." However, Secretary of Army Wilbur Brucker says the Department of the Army opposes a private bill by Rep. John J. McFall (D-Calif.) to give Petty the nation's highest military award.

AERIAL ROUNDUP—Cowboys took to the airways to herd hundreds of storm-stranded cattle out of the waterlogged marshes of Cameron (La.) Parish in the aftermath of Hurricane Audrey. Occasionally the "copter cowboys" resorted to "Operation Cattlelift" to remove some of the stranded cattle, particularly calves. The animals were picked up in rope slings (above) and transported to the nearest highway. Ranchers reported several hundred head had been saved by the use of the helicopters.

CHAINS OF MOTHERHOOD—Mama Robin looks chained to her task here of incubating her eggs on the pulley of an overhead crane. The bird set up house at the B. F. Goodrich Koroseal plant, Marietta, Ohio. Company workers cooperate by using another crane until Mama's "free as a bird" again.

PAPAL ANNIVERSARY MEDALLION—Issued by the Vatican mint, this silver medallion commemorates Pope Pius XII's 19th year as Pontiff. On the obverse side is a profile of the Pope with the Latin inscription: "Supreme Pontiff Pius XII in (his) 19th year." On the reverse side is the figure of Pope Innocent XI, who was beatified under Pius XII. The Latin inscription reads: "Innocent XI, elevated to the glory of the altars by Pope Pius XII, Oct. 7, 1956."

BUG-EYED—Eight-year-old Michael Marecak, of Denver, Colo., may be a butterfly hunter with a cockeyed technique, but his unorthodox methods are invariably crowned with success. Subtly luring the unwary insect onto his nose, Mike stares the flighty creature into submission and then with a quick swish of his handy net another butterfly winds up in his collection.

EXPECTED TEMPERATURES
Above-normal temperatures from now until August will be experienced by the lower half and northeastern section of the nation. The northwestern portion will have below-normal readings. A band running from the upper Great Lakes to the West Coast will have near-normal temperatures. Only the lower portion of California is expected to be hit with really soaring temperatures.

MAN OF MANY MOODS—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson runs the emotional gamut during a question-and-answer session with newsmen at the Pentagon. Starting off with a big smile (top), Wilson shifts into a pensive mood; lights a cigarette to help his thinking along; and winds up scratching his ear as he ponders a puzzling query.

HURRICANE WARNING—Hurricane Audrey wasn't the only big wind in the news as Tommy Jackson stormed out of the New York Boxing Commission offices after refusing "one more handshake" with Floyd Patterson for photographers. Jackson, sporting a goatee and a scarlet headband, signed for the heavyweight championship fight at the Polo Grounds on July 29.

HISTORY REPEATED—A common scene during the lifetime of Hans Christian Anderson is repeated as Michael Benedetto, 9, left, and his brother, Eugene, 6, sit comfortably in the lap of the statue honoring the immortal fairy tale author in New York's Central Park. The statue of the Danish writer, who enjoyed reading his fairy tales to children, depicts him holding an open book in which the opening of his story of "The Ugly Duckling" is engraved.

DUSTING OFF AN OLD ONE—An Egyptian worker brushes the sand off one of two small statues that were unearthed during the recent excavations at Dahshour, Egypt. The excavations, led to the uncovering of the lost tomb of the 13th dynasty King Amni Aamu. The statues are small compared with the usually massive statuary of ancient Egypt.

HEY, JILL... TEACH ME TO ROCK AND ROLL!

CRAZY, MAN! CRAZY!

REMEMBER, DEAR... WHEN WE LOOKED FORWARD TO THE PITTER-PATTER OF LITTLE FEET?

BUT THAT'S RIDICULOUS! HOW CAN YOU KNOW YOU'RE GOING TO...

STAND BY WITH THE IODINE.

POCK!

DON'T ASK ME HOW I KNOW... I JUST KNOW.

OH, MY POOR CAMELIAS STOP IT!

THAT'S IT

I'M GONNA PUNISH 'AT DOG MUZZLE HIM!

SO REVD STANS WAS ONCE LINKED WITH A MARKHAM IN ALABAMA CRIME! HE MAY BE THE ONE STANS TRID TO NAME AS HIS KILLER!

YES, BUT MARKHAM DISAPPEARED YEARS AGO! SEE YOU LATER, EASY, I'VE GOT TO GET SCARBO'S OKAY ON MY INTERVIEW!

PARDON ME... CAN YOU POINT OUT MARK SCARBO'S YACHT?

AFFRID IT'S NOT HERE, IN FACT, I WAS LOOKING FOR IT MYSELF!

BUT I MUST FIND HIM! I'VE COME ALL THE WAY FROM ALABAMA JUST TO SEE HIM!

MAYBE I CAN HELP YOU! I'M TED FOREE, MISS-ER MARKHAM! MARIE MARKHAM

SORRY, WE'RE BUSH!

I WAS JUST TRYING TO COLLECT FOR THE PAPER, MRS. RUGGLES!

BANDAGE MY FINGER, WILL YA, POP?

LATER, DAVEY!

HILO! NOT NOW, GEBE!

DEAR, THERE ARE ALWAYS INTERRUPTIONS!

NO TIME FOR 'EM ON THIS SCHEDULE, I'M WORKING OUT!

THAT GOLF MAGAZINE YOU SUBSCRIBE TO CAME THIS MORNING, PHILIP! SHALL I BRING IT UP?

I WISH YOU WOULD ANNIE! THERE MIGHT BE AN ARTICLE IN IT BY SOME PRO THAT WOULD HELP ME AGAINST RUFFY!

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT JEFF? HE FELL OFF A SCAFFOLD ON THE TENTH FLOOR AND GRABBED HOLD OF A ROPE ON THE SIXTH FLOOR AND SAVED HIMSELF!

KEPT HIS WITS ABOUT HIM, HE!

YEH!

IN A TIME LIKE THAT WHAT COULD BE BETTER THAN A QUICK PRESENCE OF MIND!

ABSENCE OF BODY!

WHY NOT LURE IT YOURSELF AND SAVE THE LOT FOR A MORE WORTHY CAUSE?

I'LL TRY IF YOU'LL HELP, PAL!

I'LL GET THE UNDER-SIDE... YOU TAKE UNDER THE HOOD!

PRETTY DARK DOWN THERE...

THERE'S A FUNNY LOOKING GIZMO I NEVER NOTICED BEFORE!

ON SECOND, THOUGHT LET'S TAKE IT DOWN TO THE GARAGE!

Boots

WAKE UP DEAR! YOU PROMISED TO MEND THE SCREENS!

WALDO! WAKE UP!

OH, WELL, HE'S TIRED!

I'LL GET DINNER ON!

SOMEBODY NON DINNER??

CAZ...?

HEY! YOU'RE NOT LISTENING!

I SAID LOOK AT THAT TERRIFIC SPECIMEN!

I AM, SUSIE!
