Complaints To Be Checked

Hazards Talked By Commission

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

Fire hazards resulting from weeds within the city was the main topic of discussion at the meeting of the City Commission this morning.

The commissioners expressed the opinion that the great number of weeds within the city will be a great fire hazard after a freeze when the weeds dry out.

With this in mind the commissioner instructed the city manager to see that the ordinance stating that weeds must be cut be enforced to the fullest extent.

Residents were warned that if weeds are not cut on property owned by each person, charges will be filed in Corporation Court on the property owner.

Another fire hazard was also discussed. The building formerly occupied by the Belvedere Club on Alcock, came up for discussion.

Several complaints from residents in the area have been received in regards to the fire hazard created by the building. The building was damaged by two fires in one day early this year and the danger of another fire is great, the residents of the area report.

The commissioners instructed Fire Chief Ernest Winborne and City Manager John Koonits to check on the hazards created by the building.

Trailer Houses
Late this morning the commission was discussing the ordinance regulating trailer houses within the city. Bob Gordon, city attorney, explained that the city has an ordinance that states that a trailer house is considered a trailer park and must meet certain regulations.

The commissioners asked about the placing of trailers upon the back of property where a house already stood. Gordon reported that city regulations state that no more than one family unit can be upon a given area of less than 9,000 square feet.

At last report, the commission was considering bringing the ordinance up to date and the enforcing of the regulations in regards to recent violations in certain areas of Pampa.

Engineer's estimates in the amount of $44,960.13 were approved for payment to Ray Boswell for paving completed on Pampa streets. Of this total, $26,598.92 came from a trust fund set up from payments on paving received from property owners, $5,976.1 from the street improvements bond and $12,384.30 from general funds under the current paving program.

The new salary schedule for city employees, set up under the 1957-1958 budget, was approved this morning. The new schedule provides for an approximate 10 per cent increase in pay for city employees.

The only other action taken this morning was the approval of payment of bills of Lovett Memorial Library in the amount of $113.72. This sum was used for the purchase of books for the library last month.

Traffic Ordinance
Late this morning, the motion expected from Ed Myatt, commissioner of Ward 1, in regards to the abolishing of the section of the traffic ordinance dealing with no right turns on a red light, had not been made.

Myatt reported that he would make the motion as soon as all other business was completed. At press time the motion had not been made.

Collision Of Car And Train Injures One

Mrs. Fanny L. Jackson, 310 W. Albert, was reported in good condition this morning by attendants at Highland General Hospital.

Mrs. Jackson received injuries at 1:37 p.m. yesterday when the 1949 Nash she was driving struck a Fort Worth and Denver train at the Albert street crossing.

The extent of her injuries were not known today pending a check of X-rays, the hospital attendants reported. There is a possibility that Mrs. Jackson may have chest and leg injuries.

According to the investigating officer, the train was in the process of switching cars when the Nash hit the side of one of the freight cars. The Nash was demolished, the officer reported.

The only other collision reported within the city yesterday resulted in three cars being damaged.

The collision occurred at 8:40 p.m. on Ballard, 30 feet north of Francis. A 1957 Ford driven by John A. Smith, 407 Crest; a 1949 Plymouth, driven by Harold R. Andrews, 2126 N. Banks; and a 1954 Pontiac, driven by Elsie F. Weyrick, Skellytown; were in collision.

Damages to the Ford were estimated at $250 with the Plymouth damages estimated at $90 and the Pontiac encumbering damages estimated at $45.

Legislators Getting Down To Hard Work

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN (UP)—Lawmakers got down to work in earnest today with introduction of Gov. Price Daniel's water bill and a hearing on a pair of lobbyist control bills scheduled.

The special session of the legislature, to run 30 days, opened Monday with a 36-minute address.

AUSTIN (UP)—Gov. Price Daniel said today as long as he is governor "there are not any federal troops who are going to occupy our school campuses and the halls of our schools."

The governor's statement was greeted with applause by some 40 pro-segregation legislators, primarily from East Texas, at a breakfast meeting at a downtown hotel.

The special session of the legislature, to run 30 days, opened Monday with a 36-minute address.

On tape today is a Senate State Affairs Committee hearing on lobbyist control bills introduced Monday by Sens. Searcy Bracewell of Houston and Crawford Martin of Hillsboro.

Daniel's water bill was to be introduced today in the House, and the House Conservation and Reclamation Committee scheduled a meeting on it for Thursday afternoon.

Daniel outlined his five-point program for the session in his address:

Plan Outlined
Creation of a planning division for the Board of Water Engineers to conduct research, assemble data, and coordinate "all agencies interested in future planning so that there will be one source in the state for information and leadership on this subject." It also provides for purchasing conservation storage in federal reservoirs.

Lawyers Would Set Aside Court Ruling

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Teamsters Union attorneys prepared today to ask the U.S. Court of Appeals to let James R. Hoffa take office as union president.

The union's lawyers want the court to set aside a temporary federal district court injunction preventing Hoffa from taking over command of the nation's largest union for 10 days.

The 44-year-old Hoffa, who was planning to take over from Dave Beck possibly today, also was to be arraigned today in New York on federal wiretap, conspiracy and perjury charges. His lawyers are seeking a postponement of trial on grounds disclosures by the Senate Rackets Committee prejudiced the case against Hoffa.

Beck Staying In
Federal District Judge F. Dickson Letts signed the temporary injunction Monday continuing Beck in office. Beck has agreed to step down before his term expires Dec. 1.

Letts held there was a chance

its summer recess.

In other cases linked to subversive problems the court:

Set aside the contempt convictions of Willard Uphaus, executive director of World Fellowship, Inc., who challenged New Hampshire's subversive activities law.

Agreed to look into the firing of a New York City subway conductor who refused to say whether he is a Communist. He was discharged under provisions of New York's 1951 security risk law.

Reversed, with government agreement, the contempt convictions of three Portland, Ore., witnesses who refused to answer questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1954.

Denied a hearing to Hugh Bryson, San Francisco union leader, convicted of filing a false non-Communist affidavit with the government in 1951.

The court acted in two cases bearing on the race issue. It refused to review segregationist John Kasper's criminal contempt conviction for interfering with integration of the Clinton, Tenn., high school last year. Kasper must now serve a one-year jail sentence in a federal prison.

It also rejected the fourth appeal of Virgil D. Hawkins, a Negro who has been trying since 1949 to gain admission to the Uni-

Heavy Rains Lash Texas

By UNITED PRESS

Monsoon-like rains up to nearly eight inches lashed eastern and central Texas today, bringing new flood threats in the wake of downpours and tornadoes that left death and destruction across the state the past two days.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported 7.45 inches of rain at La-Grange, 63 miles southeast of Austin on the Colorado River, and warned residents from Austin to the Gulf to be prepared for floods.

A Colorado River bulletin by the weather bureau said considerable flooding of lowlands could be expected south of the Austin area.

Sharp rises resulting from runoff of the past two days combined with heavy rains today were expected to send new torrents of floodwater southward.

Forecasters warned all interests along the river to prepare for expected flooding. The Colorado was expected to go over flood stage of 24 feet at Columbus.

Blinding rains which dumped up to two inches in one hour pelted numerous points in eastern and central Texas again Monday night and early today.

Forecasters said a strong inflow of southerly winds overriding cool air pushed to the Gulf of Mexico would bring new, heavy rains and thunderstorms to East and Central Texas through Wednesday.

The squall line spawned a tornado five miles north of Dayton, in Liberty county, late Monday and knocked five farm houses from their foundations. Another was crushed against a pecan tree.

Three Suffer Injuries
Three members of the Buddy Sherry family suffered minor injuries when their house was lifted by the twister, carried 200 feet and slammed into a pecan tree. The twister hit during a blinding rain.

Another tornado dropped to earth near Kirbyville, 80 miles northeast of Daton, and demolished a 6,000-square-foot building containing seed and pine burrs.

The flood situation, meantime, eased in West Texas and most of the estimated 300 persons chased from their homes by high water at Balinger were able to return today.

Heavy Rains Push East
But the heavier rains pushed on into the eastern and southern areas of the state Monday night. By dawn today Houston reported 4.50 inches, Palacios 4.99, College Station 4.04, Beaumont 2.87, Galveston 2.06, Victoria 2.14 and Austin 1.87.

Another heavy thunderstorm hit Austin early today, dumping .71 of an inch within an hour. Houston reported two inches Monday night between 5 and 6 p.m., flooding underpasses and stalling traffic.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said 3.20 inches of rain fell in six hours at Palacios early today. Heavy rains also were reported at Meridian and Cleburne, in Central Texas.

Other moderate to heavy rains were reported at 8:30 from Fort Worth to Gatesville.

CRMWA To Re-Examine Plans

The work of re-examining plans for the multi-million dollar Canadian River Dam and water distribution system by the Bureau of Reclamation received the go-ahead signal yesterday when the board of directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority authorized a total of $12,500 for the payment of approximately half of the cost of the work.

The approval of the funds was made after the directors were informed by the finance committee that the Bureau of Reclamation had informed that group that the Bureau did not have funds available at the present time. The Bureau had stated that if the CRMWA would pay for half of the work of re-evaluation of the plans, the bureau would try to match the funds; Fred Thompson, local director serving on the finance committee, said that the Bureau hopes to have the money shortly after the first of the year.

The $12,500 approved for the re-evaluation work was part of a $46,353 budget approved by the directors for the current fiscal year, Thompson said. He reported that the authority will obtain the funds from a 50 cent assessment on each water meter in use in the 13 member cities. About a year ago there

Demo Solons Demand Speedup In Missiles

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower scheduled a White House meeting today with the nation's top scientific brains to assess this country's progress in the cold war of science.

Eisenhower's meeting with his 13-member science advisory committee came against a backdrop of strong new demands from two Democratic senators for a speedup in the U. S. intercontinental ballistic missile program.

At the same time, the United Press learned this country is trying to reassure its friends and allies around the world the Soviet Sputnik doesn't mean a U.S. defeat in the scientific and military races. They are being reminded America still has an atomic Sunday punch ready for any Communist aggression.

Mystery Force Probed
In Cambridge, Mass., scientists at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory were investigating a mysterious physical force which apparently is shifting the course of the satellite, Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the observatory, said the force's appearance may be the biggest development since the satellite was launched.

The session with the scientists was scheduled before the Russians popped an artificial moon into a globe-girdling orbit Oct. 4. But White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said missiles and satellites would be on the agenda.

Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said Monday he thinks this country has kept pace with Russia in military strength in the past five years. But he said it was a "matter of opinion involving many factors" whether America is stronger than Russia now.

Symington States Disagreement
A far different view came from Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.). He declared Russia will be able to bombard the United States with ICBM's within two or three years. He said it is ahead of the United States.

Symington, a former Air Force secretary and a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the administration cutbacks had slowed the missile program. He renewed his demand for a special session of Congress Monday at a press conference, asserting a "great deal more" money can be used profitably to speed up the program.

The cutback charge was backed up by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) with correspondence showing the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee urged Eisenhower in 1955 to put the ICBM on a wartime "crash" basis.

Public Firing Of 'Talos' Is Held Today

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUNDS, N. M. (UP)—Defense officials permitted the first public firing today of the navy's Talos anti-aircraft missile which can carry an atomic warhead at supersonic speed higher than any known bomber can fly.

The press, military, and public officials were invited to observe two firings at drone aircraft targets guided by radar controls.

The test weapons had conventional, high-explosive warheads. Following the firings, a push-button, land-based version of the Navy's Talos shipboard missile system was scheduled to be turned over to the Army for evaluation.

If further tests warrant, the Army plans to incorporate the Talos into the nation's air defense network.

The Navy has announced that the Talos in its first test firing in 1954 reached supersonic speed and shot down a target at 25 miles. But informed sources have estimated its slant range now at about 100 miles and its speed at about 1,000 miles per hour.

There has been considerable improvement in the Talos since its first test firing, according to the Navy.

The land-based Talos system, developed by the Radio Corporation of America, utilizes the latest electronic research for completely automatic operation. It launches and fires the guided missile without human direction.

Spokesman Says Egypt Sent Arms For War

By WALTER LOGAN United Press Staff Correspondent

An official spokesman for the joint Egyptian-Syrian military command said today Egypt sent heavy armor and Soviet-built jets to Syria primarily "to participate in any war operations with the Syrian army."

The statement coincided with a stepped up propaganda campaign by Moscow accusing the United States of pressuring Turkey into "provocative" actions against Syria and Turkish warnings that it would defend its territory.

The Egyptian-Syrian spokesman in an interview with the Cairo newspaper El Akhbar, said the Egyptian expeditionary corps was made up of "striking forces ready to carry out large scale military operations."

He said they included heavy tanks, armored cars, artillery units and Soviet-built warplanes.

No War of Nerves "The dispatch of Egyptian troops to Syria was not a military display nor was it intended as a war of nerves against any country," the spokesman said. "It was effective military aid given for immediate coordination with the Syrian army in blocking any aggression."

New blasts against Turkey and the United States came from Moscow radio and the Soviet Communist Party organ Pravda.

Moscow radio said the "imperialists" were pushing Turkey into provocations against Syria and were playing a "dangerous game with fire."

Pravda said the United States brought pressure on Turkey "in an obvious attempt to make her attack Syria." It brought up previous charges of a U.S. "plot" to subvert the Syrian government, and accused the United States of trying to intimidate the Arab countries.

Turks Not Worried But the propaganda attacks failed to upset the surface calm in Turkey and a government spokesman in Ankara said the Turks were not worried.

Turkish Defense Minister Semirgin said Turkey was "taking the necessary measures" following reports that Egyptian troops were deploying along the Turkish border with Syrian troops.

And he added a warning of his own: "Any aggressive action will be broken into pieces by Turkey's strong army. To busy oneself with Turkey is to play with fire."

In Amman a spokesman denied reports Iraqi troops may be stationed in Jordan as result of Sunday's border meeting between King Hussein and Iraqi King Feisal. The spokesman said the subject was not discussed.

Lebanese and Saudi Arabian officials showed no particular concern at the situation and said they believed it was a "healthy master stroke by Nasser" in the interests of Arab unity.

Dedication Of Generating Station Held

Cunningham Station, newest of the Southwestern Public Service Company's eleven base-load generating stations was dedicated yesterday in brief ceremonies held at the plant site 10 miles west of Hobbs, N.M.

The new station was named for J. E. Cunningham, president of the electric light and power company since 1945, and it contains the largest single generating unit in the State of New Mexico, a steam turbo-generator capable of developing 80,000 kilowatts of electric energy or more than 100,000 horsepower.

A. R. Watson, executive vice president and general manager of Southwestern, who served as master of ceremonies today, told the guests that this was the first generating station the company had ever named after an individual. He pointed out that the company's generating capability was almost six times greater today than it was when Jack Cunningham became president 13 years ago.

"The owner of the tool boxes may recover them by making identification," Conner said.

Thompson also reported that the president of the authority, Howard Hoffman of Slaton, resigned his office. A nominating committee was named to make nominations for officers to be elected at the next meeting of the directors to be held in Plainview on Nov. 11, Thompson said.

The meeting yesterday at the Hilton Hotel in Plainview was attended by Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa and three representatives of the Bureau of Reclamation.

Congressman Rogers said that he felt sure the Federal Government would approve the use of funds by the Bureau of Reclamation for use in the re-valuation work and that the government would help the authority to the fullest extent.

AD FOR SPUTNIK

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Someone here apparently expects the Soviet earth satellite to land in his back yard. The following notice, complete with a box number, appeared in the classified section of the Memphis Commercial Appeal: "Available soon. One slightly used Sputnik. Fully equipped with radio, temperature control and all extras. Weighs only 184 pounds. Bright aluminum finish. Live a little. Be the first in your neighborhood to launch one of these handy little prestige builders."

TRUST TO DISTRUST

PARIS (UP)—Japanese engineer Kitan Hiroo was quickly transformed Sunday from a trusting soul to a doubting Thomas. A stranger offered to look after Hiroo's luggage in a hotel elevator until the engineer got to the lobby. When Hiroo arrived, the obliging stranger and the luggage, including $1,200 in travelers' checks and a round the world plane ticket, were gone.

Firms Are Honored At Canadian

(Special To The News) CANADIAN — Ten area and local firms and organizations were to receive Department of Army certificates of recognition and appreciation for outstanding public service here at the regular meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The Army made the awards in recognition of outstanding public service rendered to the United States Army Reserve program according to Major John A. Santoro, unit advisor for the United States Army Reserve program at Amarillo.

Local organizations recognized were the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Record Area firms receiving recognition were The Higgins News of Higgins, the Ochiltree County Herald of Perryton, Radio station KEYE of Perryton, The Shamrock Texan of Shamrock, radio station KEVA of Shamrock, radio station KPAT and KPND of Pampa and the McLean News of McLean.

Representative of all of the organizations were invited to attend the meeting in Canadian Monday night.

Dogs And Cats May Be TB Germ 'Reservoirs'

By DELOS SMITH, United Press Science Editor. NEW YORK (UP)—Scientific investigation has disclosed that dogs and cats may be "reservoirs" of tuberculosis germs. This is important because if tuberculosis among human beings is ever wiped out, all "reservoirs" of the germs will have to be wiped out first.

The investigation was notable because it was made in Glasgow, Scotland which has one of the most effective public health services in the world but also has as yet undetected reservoirs of TB germs that keep the "new cases" rate among "people more or less steady."

Other possible reservoirs had been checked and so a University of Glasgow team headed by Dr. V. M. Hawthorne looked into dogs and cats. First, they checked the human "contacts" of 14 dogs which were, most definitely tubercular.

These contacts numbered 80 but only 34 consented to medical investigation. Of those 34, X-rays of 12 showed evidences of TB. That's a whopping 35.2 per cent. Three of the 34 had active TB, a rate of 8.82 per cent. In mass X-ray examinations of Glaswegians at large, the rate was 0.72 per cent.

sons and they owned 20 dogs and 15 cats. Two dogs and two cats were found to be containers of TB germs. This, the scientists said, "must raise the question of the advisability of allowing dogs and cats to live in tuberculous households."

Hawthorne and his associates were chary as to conclusion-jumping. They pointed out weaknesses in their study—and weaknesses in existing knowledge of how TB germs behave in mammals other than human beings and cattle. For instance, their number of human cases associated with tubercular pets was small, and it may have been that the TB germs in the two dogs and two cats merely were "in transit" through the animals.

Wider Appreciation But they wanted public health scientists throughout the world to know what they were doing so they could look into the possibilities, too, and also so there would be "a wider appreciation of the possibility of the occurrence of tuberculosis in dogs and cats."

Before medical science got TB in human beings under fair control and the disease still was "the White Plague," there were no facilities for finding out if people and their household pets passed TB germs back and forth but now there is the all important question of the "reservoirs"—and dinner plates.

where those "reservoirs" are.

MORRIS LEVINE ... president

WILLIAM LEVINE ... board chairman

Brothers Were At One Time Wichita Falls Paper Boys

Two brothers, who point with pride to the fact that they were both among the first newboys in Wichita Falls, now head Levine's Incorporation, a chain of over 40 popular priced department stores that spread over the states of Arkansas, Texas, New Mexico and Louisiana.

Morris and William Levine gained their first business experience selling papers in Wichita Falls in 1907 and it was in nearby Iowa Park that the first Levine's store was founded in 1921.

When the store was founded Morris was 21 years old and William had not yet reached his majority, making it necessary for Morris to sign all the legal papers for the partnership. The firm flourished and out of his experience as a youthful businessman, Morris evolved a two-word piece of advice for young people starting out in the world. He says, "Start early."

When the depression of the early 30's struck the nation the Levine brothers had 13 stores. Instead of liquidating, as so many merchants did during this trying period, the brothers adopted a cutback principle that reduced the number of stores to four but permitted them to maintain a solid foundation for the great growth of the future.

The merchandising policy of Levine's has been the same since the first store was founded and has become well known to thousands of shoppers throughout the Southwest. It is a cash-and-carry policy with an unconditional guarantee on all merchandise sold.

Also, from the very beginning, the Levine chain has operated as a family store—a place where the entire family can be outfitted with quality clothing at popular prices.

In 1946 the Levine stores were incorporated and since that time there have been several units added to the chain.

Not only are the Levine stores designed for family shopping but they are a family within themselves. From the very beginning, the Levine brothers recognized their employees as a top asset. A profit-sharing trust fund was established for Levine's employees and the organization completely carries the fund toward the day of the employee's retirement. A life insurance policy is provided the employee without extra cost and hospitalization insurance is only partially paid by the employee.

Levine's has many employees with long records of service, carries the fund toward the day of Many have been with the company more than 15 years service. More than 40 per cent of all the employees in Levine's stores have more than 10 years of service.

HUNGARIAN HOUSING WORST

VIENNA, Austria (UP)—Communist Hungary's building chief said today the Budapest housing shortage is the worst ever. Building Minister Rezszo Trautmann said 200,000 persons were registered as "priority cases" in the Hungarian capital. This meant, he said, they do not have places of their own, but are receiving shelter from friends or relatives.

Young Homemakers Want More Privacy, Individuality

By BETTY PRYOR, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON (UP)—America's young homemakers want more privacy and more individuality in their homes.

That was the conclusion of 100 housewives, averaging 31 years of age, who attended a "Congress on Better Living" here last week. All through the three-day session ran a strong demand for more privacy—starting with bigger lots to separate each house farther from the neighbors.

Within the house itself, they wanted more privacy for each member of the family.

Flexible walls. A second bathroom to reduce "family quarrels" was their first choice for improvements. More flexible walls to corner off a den for their husbands, a "room" for each child and "primp space" for themselves also were high on their list.

As for individuality, they demanded more "distinctive" exterior colors and objected to "development" homes.

No single house style won a majority favor. Slightly more than a third wanted a split-level home, nearly that many preferred the ranch house style, while the rest liked a two-story Colonial.

But nearly all agreed on wanting more trees, and felt builders should be prohibited from stripping them all off a lot.

Needs of Home

The conference was sponsored by McCall's magazine to determine how today's homes meet the needs and desires of their occupants.

The delegates, from 93 communities in 45 states, had previously been top scorers in the magazine's decorating and home improvement contests. Their median family income is $7,000 a year. Good location ranked high in their home desires. Their ideal spot would be near schools, churches and public transportation, but not close to shopping centers.

They also wanted neighbors with similar incomes "so there would be less competition in keeping up with the Joneses."

Other home desires included — a family room for informal eating and recreation, a new kitchen, air conditioning, a basement, more closets and storage space, a dishwasher, a clothes dryer, soundproofing, more electric outlets, a double sink and a peephole in the front door.

BRIGHTON, England — Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, on the chances of Russian aggression:

"Nobody can deny that it has been the West's possession of the (nuclear) bomb which has deterred and still deters the Soviet Union from open aggression. Even the most recent developments, however, startling, have not altered this strategic fact."

He Was First

George Washington was not first president of the United States. It was John Hanson of Maryland, under the Articles of Confederation.

RIDE 'EM, COWGIRL—Jacky Misko of Cleveland, Ohio, really doesn't expect her little car to back—but she's prepared for it in her western outfit. This buckaroo cycle car does 18 m.p.h. and gets 60 miles per gallon. It costs $400.

Homemakers Cut Housework Corners With Tips Of Work-Saving Short-Cuts

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

At this time of year, when there's more housework as well as more demands on time from outside the home, work-saving short-cuts are of extra interest to homemakers.

The periodic washing of large items such as curtains, bedspreads and slip covers is easier today with automatic washing machines and the many drip-dry fabrics.

But if you've ever struggled out the back door loaded with a water-logged basket full of dripping fabrics, you'll appreciate this idea to lighten the load and control the river of water.

After rinsing these sizable items, place them in an open-weave plastic laundry basket set in bathtub or wash tub and let the water stream down the drain. In about five minutes, when most of the water has run off, straighten and smooth the still-damp pieces and hang them to finish drying.

The light weight and easy storage of a portable ironing board, usually used for travel, makes it a good aid at home, too. When lack of time precludes a prolonged session at the regular ironing board or when you're needed in another room to supervise homework or children, dig out the

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend—

I work in a large office where everyone is congenial and there is a minimum of unpleasantness as far as personality clashes are concerned—with one exception.

One of the women employees, by her constant irritability and persistent pettiness, succeeds in making many of us uncomfortable and in making what could be a pleasant and enjoyable job a difficult one since in order to complete our work successfully we are forced to cope with her whims and moods.

Some time ago she was critically ill and those upon whom she vents her spleen today were the ones who did everything within their power to help her. A "for instance" is this: One of her fellow workers for months has picked her up and brought her to the office every morning. Today she no longer speaks to her former source of transportation and would rather come to the office late than accept a ride.

Wouldn't this woman who takes such a dim view of people who are eager for a pleasant, compatible atmosphere, be far happier herself if she were less antagonistic and eager to try being pleasant to others instead of trying to pick her teeth as they are intruding upon her time and patience—or lack of the latter?

Dear Annoyed

There is a possibility that the woman's ill temper is the result of her illness and if that is true it will have to be overlooked as much as possible until she has recovered.

However if it continues too long and her fellow workers' forbearance is worn thin, then the matter should be called to the attention of her employer who is the one best suited to have a talk with her, pointing out the damage she does herself by such an attitude.

She may not realize that a persistent irritability loses poison through her system, making her feel worse than is necessary and certainly destroying any sense of well being she might attain. Nothing deters her regaining of health as much as an unhappy approach to life and whoever helps her to realize it will be doing her a great favor.

Oiling will help put vim and vigor back in your nails. This is true for brittle nails that break or split easily. Any oil will do; just rub it on. An application before going to bed is always good. But more important when your nails start to chip, check your diet to see if there is a deficiency causing your brittle nails.

Parents Of Retarded Child Work For Others Like Him

By DOROTHY FLANDERS
ST. LOUIS (UP)—A husband-wife team with nearly unlimited brain power gave up their only son, David, to an institution five years ago but they are fighting every inch of the way for others like him.
 "I guess self-pity is the first emotion that strikes the parent of a mentally retarded child," said the mother, Dr. Elizabeth Boggs, mathematical chemist. "You progress from there to the feeling God has chosen you for a particularly difficult job—and you start to work."
 Her story, different, yet typical of the stories of 1,000 parents of mentally retarded children gathered here, was told during the convention of the National Association for Retarded Children.
 Mrs. Boggs, who once was associated with the atomic bomb project in World War II, works about 60 hours a week. Her husband, Dr. Fitzhugh W. Boggs, research physicist, heads the New Jersey chapter. Their home is up near Montclair.
 She feels she is working for 12-year-old David, the tall, dark-eyed boy who inherited so many of the physical characteristics of his parents—and none of their mental power. The boy was 10 days old when an infection so badly damaged his brain that he will be institutionalized the rest of his life.
 "There is no language that David understands," Mrs. Boggs said. "But he recognizes us—many retarded children don't know their parents. And when we arrive at the institute for a week end outing, he grabs us by the hand and zips through the door for the ride. Besides, that scamp knows there is candy in the glove compartment for him."
 David doesn't know how to open the car compartment. That must be done for him. He was three years old before conclusive tests showed how limited his mental capacities were—"and it was a relief to know," his mother said. When his hyper-activity reached the destructive stage he was placed in an institution for the 24-hour daily care he needed.

"Prentiss came into a little inheritance! His uncle joined the navy and left him a half-dozen silk ties!"

News Outlook
 By CHARLES M. McCANN
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 United Press correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.
Headlines And News
 Queen Elizabeth will be taking the headlines in the United States this week. But London insiders say Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will be making the real news. This will be a secret, urgent proposal that the United States and Britain answers Russia's Sputnik triumph by resuming cooperation in the nuclear energy field. Lloyd will argue that the two allies are hurting themselves by working independently on the same projects and that a single, clue, given by one side to the other, might save months in a vital cold war race. Lloyd will serve as the Queen's minister-in-attendance in the United States. But before she arrives in the United States Wednesday, Lloyd will be in Washington, seeing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and probably President Eisenhower.
Girard
 The word from Tokyo is that the defense of 33 William S. Girard, on trial for killing a Japanese woman scrap metal scavenger on a firing range, is going strong. A lot of evidence is still to be heard. But the betting is that the Ottawa, Ill., GI will get a very light sentence—and that it probably will be suspended.
Nixon
 Don't be surprised if Vice President Richard M. Nixon endorses Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) in his bid to replace Goodwin J. Knight as governor of California. Knowland insists he has no 1960 presidential ambitions which might pit him against Nixon. Also, Knight backed a move to run Harold E. Stassen instead of Nixon for vice president last fall.
Split
 Washington reports that congressional Democrats are badly split on a big issue. They've got to decide whether to keep demanding federal economies and a tax cut, now that Sputnik is circling the globe, or to demand more defense funds. Arguments are waxing hot on both sides.
Invitation
 London says it's about certain now that Queen Elizabeth will invite President and Mrs. Eisenhower to visit her in London. The Queen will make the invitation personally while she is in Washington, palace sources say. If the President doesn't want to go, he may be on the spot. He isn't ill, no election is impending and the school integration situation is cooling off. Any refusal would have to be made very diplomatically, including a convincing reason, to avoid a snub.
Sign Of The Times?
 Motor experts say there's no mention whatever of horsepower in the elaborate press package on the 1958 Buick which has been mailed to a lot of mobile editors throughout the country. But there are plenty of details on brakes, transmission, suspension and styling. Detroit recently has been playing down horsepower and playing up safety.

Nehru
 Tokyo reports that Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is having a good time on his visit to Japan. He is likely to go home empty-handed economically speaking, however. Japan would like to build export markets in India. Trade expansion is a chief aim of Premier Nobusuke Kishi. But India is in no position to pay for goods except through a deferred payment scheme. This, Japan can not afford to accept.
Sports Outlook
 Boxing faces a busy fall and winter except in the heavyweight division, where champion Floyd Patterson has no worthwhile challenger. Middleweight King Carmen Basilio is the only champion who faces a tough opponent—in the event Sugar Ray Robinson agrees to a return match. Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore should have little trouble with Chuck Spieser. A tournament involving Virgil Akins, Isaac Logart and Tony DeMarco will decide the vacant welterweight title. Joey Brown should keep his lightweight crown against Joey Lopes. The bantamweight division will have an undisputed champion after Alphonse Halimi of France meets Rau Macias of Mexico. Both have claims to the title. Flyweight Pascual Perez faces little threat from Spain's Young Martin.

 A convict cowboy seems to be headed for trouble as his thrashing, thundering Brahman Bull takes off for the "Wild Blue Yonder." The above action shot was taken at the Texas Prison Rodeo at Huntsville. # Levine's Store Policy Set

By Twelve Directors

The rapid growth of Levine's, Inc., which now has 45 outlets in Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana, has resulted in the development of a smooth working executive force which guides the destinies of the far-flung chain.

When the first store was founded in Iowa Park, Tex., in 1920 there were only two executives — the founders of the store — Morris Levine and his brother, William Levine. Today, in addition to the two Levine brothers the policies of the chain are directed by a board of directors consisting of 12 members.

Morris Levine serves as president of the company and in addition to these duties he also coordinates the buying of piece goods, household articles and promotional items.

William Levine is chairman of the board and secretary and treasurer. In addition to these duties he also buys men's suits, trousers and work clothing.

Harry Lipshy, vice president and director, is in charge of all buying and is merchandise manager for the entire chain. Lipshy has held the post of chief buyer since 1948 when Levine's was incorporated. Mr. Lipshy moved his headquarters from Lubbock to Dallas in 1954.

Sid Weiss, vice president and director, is merchandising supervisor and in this capacity he travels a great deal of the time between the 45 stores located in four states. Mr. Weiss is also buyer for ladies ready-to-wear and lingerie.

Director Edward J. Sieger is in charge of the 13 stores in the Dallas area and makes his headquarters in Dallas. Lee Berg, who serves with Sieger in directing the heavy volume in the 13 Dallas-area stores, is also a member of the board of directors.

David Shoss, manager of the big Dallas Tech store at 511 West Jefferson in Oak Cliff, Dallas, serves on the board of directors.

Other directors in other areas are: Julian Mandelstein, Corinth, Highland Park was vice president; Ben Brookner, Wichita Falls held onto seventh place; and Ed Finberg, San Angelo.

Amarillo, Ray, Abilene, Austin

Still Head AAAA Top Teams

The same teams make up the Texas High School Football Defending champion Abilene, lost one first place vote to Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Abilene and Austin.

The voting by the 16-member coaches Board even turned up the surprise of one team advancing in spite of being defeated as Amarillo climbed from 10th to 11th after losing 6-0 to Dallas Tech.

David Shoss, manager of the big Dallas Tech store at 511 West Jefferson in Oak Cliff, Dallas, serves on the board of directors.

Other directors in other areas are: Julian Mandelstein, Corinth, Highland Park was vice president; Ben Brookner, Wichita Falls held onto seventh place; and Ed Finberg, San Angelo.

Amarillo polled nine first-place votes, one less than a week ago, it wound up with the same number of points — 145, while Ray also got the same point total — 133 although getting four first-place votes to two a week ago.

Against the same rivals, these two lower Rio Grande Valley powers have run up just about the same score and their meeting should prove an explosive one that might project the winner far into the state race.

It is the only game matching undefeated teams within the division although Port Arter, one of five unbeaten but tied teams, tackles La Marque, which holds the same distinction in AAA.

Aside from these two games and one which sends perfect-record Belton against troublesome Rockdale none of the other scheduled contests seem to offer serious threats to the unbeaten teams' records.

Gilmer, which boasts the division's best scoring average of 42.7 points per game, may have that figure lowered a bit but isn't expected to lose to rival Pine Tree in a district game.

Harvesters Prepare For Amarillo Game

The Pampa Harvesters began practice yesterday to meet one of the top AAAA teams in the state Friday night as they encounter the Amarillo Sandies in Harvesters Park at 8 p.m.

The Sandies have ranked since pre-season as a top-notch team contending for the state AAAA title, along with Abilene and Ray of Corpus Christi.

This season, the Amarillo team has rolled to four straight impressive victories, having defeated Admson of Dallas, 57-0; Paschal of Fort Worth, 34-7; San Angelo, 47-7; and Odessa, 35-0. They have averaged 45 points per game and have allowed their opposition an average of 5.5 points per game.

The Harvesters have compiled a 4-1 record this deep in the season, having lost to Austin of El Paso, Midland, Wichita Falls and Palo Duro, and defeated Arlington City of Fort Worth, in District 3-AAAA. The Harvesters have played only one game, that being to Palo Duro. The ill Friday night will mark the district opener for the Sandies, who had their open date last Friday. Pampa's free night will come after the Sandie game on Oct. 25.

In other previous 3-AAAA action, Plainview has defeated Tom. S. Lubbock, 18-6; and Lubbock Monterey downed Borger, 14-7.

District action slated for Friday night other than the Pampa game will be Plainview at Borger and Monterey at Palo Duro.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

Two or three summers back I have yet to observe a covey of Myron Blackburn, dyed in the wool East Texas, and I were driving along a county road approaching the Canadian river. It was a few days after a shower and the mesquites, sage, and buffalo and blue stem grass posed a beautiful picture, and I stopped the car and looked upon the peaceful scene for a few minutes. I remarked, "Myron don't you think this is the most beautiful country you ever saw?" Myron sat there for a full minute with a serious expression stated, "to tell you the truth, this is Texas is the prettiest country in the world". Malouf Abraham thinks the same as Wes Issard except that Malouf thinks the country around Canadian might be more beautiful than the country to the west.

I once heard a native of the plains remark that they thought the flat farm land was the most beautiful country—anywhere.

There were two G.I.'s in Japan that had been stationed in that country for more than a year. One of them had an expensive watch but it was always eight hours slow. Each time he was asked what the hour was he always gave the eight hour slow setting. Finally one of the G.I.'s, tired of getting the same answer, remarked "why don't you wake up and set your watch correctly, the time in Japan is exactly 8 p.m." The other, a Texan remarked, "I don't give a hang what time it is in Japan. I want to know what time it is in Texas". Sure there is beautiful country in other places, possibly, but this part of the continent seems to please the occupants pretty well. After all it is a persons privilege to be content with their surroundings, and even let off a little steam about their country.

Homer Greenhill, an oldtimer that has travelled the plains for years with Morton Salt, stated the other day the boys down at Shamrock at a Rotary meeting were commenting on what a huge quail crop abounded in that area. "More birds than I have ever seen before" was typical of some of the remarks made by some of the Rotarians. To top the conversation off with Mr. Greenhill stated that Veteran Game Warden G. P. "Slim" Davis gave an afterdinner talk and confirmed the general conversation of the abundance of the bob-white quail.

Usually this time of the autumn when travelling country roads in the late afternoon or early mornings there are quail seen, however

Aggies Drop To 4th Place, Razorbacks Jump To 9th

By FRANK LITSKY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Michigan State, rolling up better than 600 yards a game, grabbed the number one spot today in the weekly college football ratings of the United Press Board of Coaches.

Notre Dame and Arkansas, two unbeatens who turned in last-quarter upsets over sectional powerhouses last week, crashed the top 10 in the ratings by 85 leading coaches.

Michigan State displaced Oklahoma as the national leader for only the second time in two years. The Spartans, who won the 1952 national championship, rolled to a 35-4 win over a Michigan team good enough to rate No. 3 last week. Meanwhile, Oklahoma won its 43rd straight game with a 21-7 triumph over Texas but had its hands full.

The coaches gave Michigan State 821 of a possible 350 points, based on 10 points for a first-place ballot, nine for second place, etc. Oklahoma dropped to 308 points and second place.

Eighteen coaches rated Michigan State No. 1 while Oklahoma received only 12 votes for the top rating. Minnesota drew two first-place ballots and Iowa, Duke and Arkansas had one each.

Notre Dame Outlook

Terry Faces Rough Road

CHICAGO (UP)—Terry Brennan sizes up his Notre Dame football team as "good but not great" and with the worst yet to come.

The youthful coach reminded his followers that a rough road lies ahead on the schedule and he cautioned Irish backers not to get any notions of an immediate return to the oldtime football glory.

"We're in a happy position now and our team is much better than last year," he said. "But by no means does it indicate Notre Dame is back."

Brennan made his first appearance as a victorious coach in almost two years before a Chicago Quarterback Club lunch Monday.

"And it feels good, let me tell you," he said. "I always felt we'd get going. I'm thankful that the Supreme Court didn't repeal the law of averages."

Although Brennan warned of the rough competition ahead, he still basked in the glow of last Saturday's 28-21 triumph over Army when Monty Stickles' field goal won the game.

"Just think, if that kick was off the mark, I could be a bum instead of a hero," Brennan joked.

He said he was happy with the team's performance from the season's start, when the Irish beat Indiana and then Purdue.

"The team is in the best shape it's ever been and it's a fighting club that refuses to quit," he said.

"The Army win was a real shot in the arm that should keep the boys' morale up for the remaining games."

Dyana, who is by a Texas Ranger female which adds up to 19 total championships for the combined winnings of the sire and grandchild. This is second to none. Dyana was put down by me a two trials and she came out with two wins.

Wrestling Results

Iron Mike DeBiese and Dory Funk were both disqualified in last night's main event at the Sportsman Club wrestling by referee Tommy Phelps after a near brawl occurred in the ring. Both DeBiese and Funk had one fall to their credit when two other wrestlers entered the ring and as the fracas got out of hand, Phelps ruled a double disqualification.

In the second part of the main event, between two women wrestlers, the fabulous Moolah defeated Rita Cortez in the two out of three fall match.

In the semi-final, Roger Mackay downed Art Nelson in one fall and Danno O'Shocker felled Roberto Pico in the opening match.

The wrestling is held each Monday evening at 8:30, sponsored by the Pampa Shriners for the benefit of the Shriners Crippled Children Fund.

Sportsman Club is located one mile south of town on the Lefors highway. Admission is $1.50 for ringside, $1.25 for reserved seats, 90 cents for general admission, adult and 80 cents for general admission children.

When does the dove season close? Oct. 17 at sunset. When does the duck and goose season open? November 1st.

Many Panhandle hunters were under the impression that the dove season closed Oct. 1st for some reason.

Baseball Trade Talk Begins

DETROIT (UP)—Baseball is completed for the year but the trade talking season is just in its "warming-up" period, Detroit Tiger General Manager Johnny McHale said today.

McHale brushed aside Chicago White Sox Vice President Charles Oomskey's talk about obtaining Harvey Kuenn or Charley Maxwell.

"He's been talking about Kuenn for a month," McHale said. "But all he wants to give up are second liners like Sammy Eposito, when Chuck starts including the names of Minnie Minoza, Nellie Fox and Bill Pierce, we'll start getting down to business."

"After all, McHale is a guy who's about time they gave up Pierce back—he's been on loan a long time." The Pierce trade was probably the worst ever pulled by Detroit. The Tigers obtained catcher Aaron Robinson, who did not last, for the slick southpaw.

McHale said he wouldn't trade any players who had a bad year this season just to trade them. Kuenn was among the Tigers who had poor seasons, hitting below .300 for the first time in his major league career.

"When we trade, it's going to be to help the club," McHale emphasized.

He said Detroit's chief interest is in Billy Martin of Kansas City, Al Smith of Cleveland, a first baseman to spell Ray Boone and perhaps an outfielder. The fourth-place Tigers also are weak behind the plate.

McHale said Detroit was long on pitchers and that the hurlers were the Tigers' top trade bait. The A's want southpaw Billy Hoft for Martin.

Keynote On Defense Stopped Flashy Era Of The T Formation

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Football, whether you talk about the college or pro game, has moved into a new cycle of play today in which the keynote is defense and ball control.

Gone, on the whole, are the tremendous scores of the past few years. Gone, too, to a great extent is the wide open passing game which marked the height of the T-formation era.

All of which means that the defense finally has caught up to the offense.

"That's the way the game goes," explains Buf Donnell, the Columbia coach. "When the T grabbed hold, it took a while for everybody to learn to use it—and stop it. Now we're in for a new era until somebody comes up with something new. Then the game will break wide open again."

NFL Scores Less

Professional scoring, which was reaching stratospheric proportions at one stage, is indicative of the change.

Last year, the Chicago Bears led the National Professional League with 363 points, which was an average of 30 per game. This year they are averaging 14 2-3 points per game. The New York Giants, who were the league champions, led the Eastern Conference with 264 points last year. That's a 22-point per game average. This season they're averaging 17 points for three games.

Baltimore came up with part of the answer to such scoring when it devised a four-man defensive line composed entirely of tackles. These are Gino Marchetti, 240 pounds; Art Donovan, 265; "Big Daddy" Lipscomb, 285, and Don Joyce, 250 pounds. Even a veteran pro line finds it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to stop this kind of tonnage when it crashes in to flatten the ball carrier or pursue the passer.

Pass Defense Expands

Then there has been an accent on scientific pass defense, and the pros have developed ball-hawks like Jack Christiansen and Yale Lary of Detroit, Lindon Crow of the Cardinals and Emlien Tunnell of the Giants who make it tantamount to giving up possession if you try to throw in their territory.

This works out the same way in college, where much time has been devoted to defense. Consider the Southwest Conference, which once was known as the aerial circus of the collegiate gridiron. The Texas Aggies Saturday threw two and completed both but let go at that in beating Houston.

Rain Hampers Southwest Practice For Saturday Tilts

By UNITED PRESS
Southwest Conference clubs searched for dry spots on which to practice today, bored already with movies and trotting around gyms.

Not a club managed a full workout Monday as rain drove them indoors. Texas A&M watched movies of its victory over Houston and heard a scouting report on Texas Christian, Saturday's opponent, before working out in sweat clothes inside.

Rice started an outside practice but a deluge drove the Owls indoors, where they watched movies. Not a serious injury was sustained against Duke although Raymond Chilton received a slight ankle sprain. He is expected to be ready for Southern Methodist Saturday.

Baylor didn't work out at all, spending the afternoon with movies and scout reports on Texas Tech, the next foe. Coach Sam Boyd said he will not use any player in the game who can't work out regularly this week, which would leave out co-captains Doyle Traylor and Jerry Marcell, who suffered leg injuries against Arkansas.

Coach Bill Meek said the day was wasted for Southern Methodist indoors. The squad heard reports on Rice.

Texas Christian managed to work on dummies for a while on a soggy field after hearing the word on Texas A&M.

Amarillo, Ray, Abilene, Austin Still Head AAAA Top Teams

The same teams make up the United Press' top 10 Class AAAA schoolboy football ratings this week, but there was a general shakeup of positions below the top four clubs — Amarillo, Corpus Christi Ray, Abilene and Austin High.

The voting by the 16-member UP Texas High-School Football Coaches Board even turned up the oddity of one team advancing in rank despite being defeated as Texarkana climbed from 10th to ninth after losing 6-0 to Dallas Tech.

Dallas Tech took over fifth place by virtue of the victory, displacing Baytown, which tumbled to 10th in the wake of an upset loss to Midland. Other changes saw Temple climb to sixth from eighth and Wichita Falls from ninth to eighth. Highland Park was idle and held onto seventh place. Amarillo polled nine first-place votes, one less than a week ago, but wound up with the same number of points — 143, while Ray also got the same point total — 138 — although getting four first-place votes to two a week ago.

Which won its 42nd straight victory. Defending champion Abilene, lost one first place vote to three and dropped one point to 131.

Austin High, scored on for the first time — as was Ray, earned 111 points, a gain of 16, and Dallas Tech picked up six to wind up with 95.

From there, it was a drop of 35 points to sixth-place Temple's 53 points. Highland Park pulled in 48 points, Wichita Falls 29, Texarkana 27 and Baytown 22.

Waco climbed to the top of the second 10 with 15 points, a shade ahead of Port Arthur, Fort Worth Paschal and Midland.

A meeting between Abilene and Waco is the closest thing to a match of top-rated teams, but Temple tackles Class AAA's undefeated — untied Killean in another feature.

Aside from these two games and one which sends perfect-record Belton against troublesome Rockdale none of the other scheduled contests seem to offer serious threats to the unbeaten teams' records.

Gilmer, which boasts the division's best scoring average of 42.7 points per game, may have figured lowered a bit but isn't expected to lose to vitallite Pine Tree in a district game.

Top Graded Harvesters Announced

Frank Snow, Jess Ingie, Robert Langford, Dick Watkins, Jim Scott and Don Bigham were the top rated players in the Pampa-Palo Duro Game, according to the film graded by the coaches.

Defensively, Snow, Ingie, Langford and Watkins ranked high while Scott and Bigham were the top graded offensive men.

Heading the defensive list was Snow, who rated an 81 per cent for the game, followed by Ingie at 76 per cent, Langford at 74 per cent and Watkins at 73 per cent.

Of the four men, Watkins is the only underclassman, being a Junior, while the other men are seniors.

On the offense, Don Bigham led at 73 per cent, followed by Scott at 72 per cent. Scott is one of the few sophomores on the Harvester squad. He is at the end position, weighing 164. Bigham, offensively, is left halfback, and a senior at 180 pounds.

After grading the film, head coach Jack Lockett stated that although mistakes were made in the game, the boys all played hard and exceeded any previous game in defensive strength. The only other team to hold the Dons to 12 points was Midland, who lost to them, 12-2. The Harvesters out-gained the Palo Duro team in total offense, 248 to 184 and tied them in first downs, 12 to 12.

Through the air, Pampa led with four of six passes completed for 82 yards, while holding the Dons to one of three passes for eight yards. Palo Duro averaged 36.8 yards per punt and Pampa averaged 30.1.

Princeton Angered

A modern David is abroad in the land and even though he has been unable to do a modern Goliath in, he has wounded this Goliath enough to force a genteel groan of pain.

The David in question is the Rev. Dr. Hugh Halton, Roman Catholic chaplain of students at Princeton University. The Goliath is Princeton University, specifically, and the Ivy League and other rankly secular institutions of higher learning by association.

For several years now Father Halton has been challenging, through specific instances, the premises upon which Princeton projects the view of reality to its students. Since such a challenge must deal with fundamentals, it is necessary that he examine the very core of the philosophical and theological postulates which were given the students as "truth" (never "truth" with a capital "T" because, as every Rousseauist knows, man makes his own "truth").

Such a procedure soon became very irritating to the academic powers for by stripping away the obscurities of "academic objectivity," there was nothing left but the cold, brutal and inhuman philosophy of Marx, his precursors and successors.

Princeton's answer to Father Halton was to withdraw recognition of his status, disclaiming any attack on the Roman Church and even going so far as to apparently postpone the announcement of Father Halton's "unfrothing" until Princeton's new President Goheen had been installed in office because Presbyterian Goheen's wife and children are Roman Catholics. This, of course, was in the best tradition of liberal procedure which would absolutely prove to anyone with an I. Q. above 80 that religion was not the issue. This might be known in the world of politics as a Machiavellian impression; in other words completely beside the point except to those who arrive at conclusions by impressions instead of reason.

If the Father didn't fully realize it in the past he is certainly aware now that his attacks were not only offensive to the entrenched pundits but also to the Certified Gentlemen which the Ivy League colleges, in particular, produce. To challenge the realm of the Certified Gentlemen is an act of lese majesty for they rule America with a patronizing mailed fist that brooks no challenge. The treatment of the Halton-Princeton affair by such national magazines as "Time" and "Newsweek" shows how the Certified Gentlemen of the Establishment try to "get their man." And since they seldom miss, we, sadly, predict Father Halton will one day soon find himself in less controversial surroundings.

Father Halton is one of those very few individuals of a near extinct species who not only understand the issues of today in the context of Christian tradition but find themselves in a place to directly question the intellectual process which seems bent on enervating this tradition with preachments extolling moral relativism and sentimental utilitarianism. In the midst of the mentality which permits honorable recognition of Alger Hiss, Father Halton is not a godfly but a devastating threat.

In brief, the Father has committed the sin of rendering critical judgements by reasoning from a concept of an organic moral order which rational men must hold to if they are to measure right and wrong, good and evil.

The sickness afflicting the West which Father Halton has analyzed as an integral part of Princeton has concerned many besides himself and it is heartening to find a man in the tradition of Christopher Dawson, George Santayana and Irving Babbitt attacking this evil at one of its roots. By being outspoken, Father Halton has clearly shown that the Establishment prizes nothing more than saving face . . . a face so clean shaven, so urbane, but serving as only a genteel mask for a pseudo-intellectual cult whose lives are dedicated to the bitch-goddess of moral relativism.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Probably most parents are not familiar with a disease usually known as cystic fibrosis of the pancreas. This is believed to be an inborn or hereditary disorder which occurs about once in 60 births. It is estimated that 7,000 children are born with this disease each year in the United States alone.

It is a peculiar disorder. The most common symptoms are a chronic cough, abnormal intestinal functioning and excessive sweating, especially around the head. The disease is diagnosed not only from the symptoms but also by special tests, including analysis of the sweat. Although there is no absolute cure for the disease at present, treatment with the antibiotics and by other means is important, particularly if given early.

Study of this disease has been accelerated by the formation of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, (2300 Westmoreland Street, Philadelphia, Pa.).

A COMMON problem brought to me by parents is the treatment of undesecended testicles. This is a difficult subject to discuss, since there has been some difference of opinion among those who have studied the question on what should be done and at what age.

In general the question is whether to try to give a boy with undesecended testicles hormone stimulation or to bring them down by surgery. Probably today the majority opinion is that it is best to try hormone injections first, and, if this does not succeed to use an operation.

One recent article on this subject suggested that it is best to defer hormone stimulation until the age of eight. The writer also stated that neither this form of treatment nor operation should be delayed to the age of puberty, that is around 12 or so. Others favor treatment considerably earlier.

ANOTHER KIND of a problem comes from Mrs. F., who writes that her seven-year-old daughter has trouble with excessive dark looking hair on her arms and legs which she thinks is getting more noticeable as the little girl gets older. This is usually important from the standpoint of appearance rather than health, though occasionally there are hormonal difficulties which account for such excessive growth of hair.

If Mrs. F. is sure that her daughter does not have any hormonal difficulty the question is whether to ignore the excessive hair, bleach it or remove it by waxing, by a special kind of rub or by shaving.

The area is too large to justify the use of the electric needle as a rule and X-rays can be dangerous. In making this decision it would be well for the mother to get advice from a skin specialist.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. Hollis

"Are The Public Schools Doing Their Job?"

I received a letter from a friend who is a staff member of The Foundation for Economic Education who knew I was intensely interested in better education, that stated: "Be sure not to miss the John Keats article in the Sept. 21 Saturday Evening Post."

It was an article written by two different persons — one answering "No" to the above question and the other answering "Yes."

The man answering "No" to the question was John Keats, a freelance writer and author of "The Crack in the Picture Window," a humorous book on housing developments.

The party answering "Yes" was Herbert L. Brown Jr., managing editor of "Changing Times," (The Kiplinger Magazine).

It did not seem to me that either party delved deeply enough into the question of what education has to do in order to know whether public schools are doing their job. Both of them contended that education should teach the pupil to think, but neither was specific about what the pupil should think. It seems to me that they neglected the major part of an education — knowing the difference between right and wrong, between justice and injustice.

"The Post" has a subhead in Mr. Keats' article, who opposed public schools, as follows: "The author asserts that public schools stunt young minds by feeding them insipid lessons in social conformity and 'living skills' — instead of furnishing intellectual challenges to develop mature citizens."

"The Post" said for Mr. Brown: "This parent declares that the American public-school system is demonstrating a notable superiority over private schools in equipping youngsters to meet the demands of the complex age in which we live."

Mr. Brown, in defending schools, is a candidate for the Board of Education in Arlington, Va. Both writers had experience in the Arlington schools, which are in a suburb of Washington, D. C., so they both drew different conclusions from the same schools.

Mr. Keats, explains how splendidly the suburban schools in Washington, D. C. are physically equipped and how nice the teachers are and how hard they are trying. Then he writes:

"These facts might make it seem difficult to explain why we sold the pleasant house that served us so well, and have just moved to a smoky city to spend more than $2,000 a year in order to send our three children to a private school this fall."

Mr. Brown has been appointed head of a citizens committee, so his connection with government schools makes it a little more difficult for him to look at the situation objectively.

Mr. Keats' main objection to the schools is that they do not teach the children to think. He says: "My wife and I believe the school should at least ask children to try to think if it can't train them to think."

As to the results that come from government schools, Keats quotes Dr. Conant as saying: "If a layman really wishes to hear eloquent evidence as to the inadequacies of our public secondary schools, let him talk to the professors on almost any campus."

Mr. Brown, who defends the schools, gives some figures to show that public schools show a better test in college board scores than private schools in all but three subjects: English composition, French and Spanish.

He writes: "I do not question anyone's right to maintain or support a private school, but I do say that support of public education is a basic obligation of citizenship. I cannot shake the conviction that private schools in twentieth-century America may be an anachronism."

If it is a basic obligation of citizenship to support public education why is it not a basic obligation to support public food, clothing and housing? There can be no education or even life without first having these necessities.

I cannot but wonder how he reconciles what he advocates with the Golden Rule and the Covenanted Declaration of Independence. I wonder by what standard of right he wants his children taught; what he uses as a guide to determine right from wrong, justice from injustice, education from mis-education.

We need more discussions that go to the roots of education.

Lag In Ballistic Program Poses Political Problem

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The long-range effect of the Russians' astounding scientific triumphs has now been analyzed by two strangely contrasting bodies at Washington — the National Security Council and the strategists at Republican National Headquarters and the White House.

Although our fearful lag in nuclear, ballistic and satellite weapons and devices is primarily a military problem, GOP spokesmen concede that it has completely changed the political prospects for 1958 and 1960. Unless the Administration can recoup quickly in the nuclear and planetary contest, the Democrats feel confident of victory in the Congressional and Presidential elections.

They recall that President Eisenhower's greatest ballot-box asset in 1952 and 1956 was his well-advertised ability to "cope with the Communists" because of his military and diplomatic experience and background. Yet it has been during his regime that the Russians have scored their most amazing gains over the West in the diplomatic, political, military and scientific fields.

REPUBLICANS AT DISADVANTAGE — But even the emergency effort to match the Russians, as reportedly recommended by his top advisers on the National Security Council, will operate to the Republicans' disadvantage in many ways.

Tentative plans contemplate a "crash" program estimated to cost from $5 to $10 billions, possibly more. That will kill any chance of a tax cut at the next session of Congress. In fact, a general 10 per cent increase in the current rates may be necessary.

Other casualties will be a balanced budget for 1958 and 1959, and the attempt to keep the public debt maximum at the present figure of $275 billion.

MAY HERALD "AUSTERITY" PROGRAM — In short, Eisenhower adopts suggestions that he move fast to catch up with the Russians and to secure our national defense structure at home and around the world, the American people may be headed for a period of "austerity" as severe as the belt-tightening days of World War I and II.

Not even Pearl Harbor, that matched the disaster inherent in Russia's development of a 5,000-mile ballistic missile, the earth satellite and a hydrogen explosive "of new design."

The cautious and conservative Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire summarized succinctly and graphically the serious nature of the crisis, as well as its possible effect on the American people's everyday living. He expressed the views of a majority of his Capitol Hill colleagues when he said:

"The time has clearly come to be less concerned with the depth of the pile on the new broadloom rug or the height of the tail fin on the new car, and to be more prepared to shed blood, sweat and tears, if this country and the free world are to survive."

MOPSY

The British have been very insistent in their remarks concerning the efforts of the American Congress to suppress and expose Communism. But the methods used by the English Royal Commission for dealing with the same problem are much worse. It has the power to arrest and hold witnesses incommunicado FOUR DAYS. Its hearings are SECRET. Witnesses MAY be tortured and subjected to the AGONY OF SELF-INCRIMINATION is not recognized. It would seem that the British pot has been calling the American kettle black.

I'd sure like to be a perfect, virtuous family man like crooner Pat Boone. But it would kind of get me down if the fan magazines were as constantly and publicly amazed by it.

Role Of Italian Waiter Is One Of Rare Originality

By HENRY McLEMORE

FLORENCE — I am collecting notes for a definitive work on restaurant waiters and had hoped to hold it to three volumes, until I started studying the various Italian types.

Now I see that I am going to need a fourth volume if all the types who take and serve your order are to be thoroughly covered. In most European countries waiters run to a type, but not in Italy. There are as many varieties as there are saucers for spaghetti, which means almost as many as there are grains of sand.

The Italian restaurant waiter does have one dominant characteristic, however, that is not to be found in any other. Certainly not to such a marked degree, anyway. The trait which sets him apart from any of his fellows in his unwillingness to bring a customer his check.

The Italian waiter will do anything under the sun to keep from presenting a diner with his bill. He will disappear into the kitchen and stay for what seems hours. He will walk backwards to avoid catching sight of an upraised hand beckoning him to bring the reckoning. He will go off into a corner of the room and busily rearrange an already arranged basket of fruit. He will reset tables, sweep imaginary crumbs off unused tables, shoe a peacefully sleeping cat from under a table, or stand forever in front of a serving table realigning sauce bottles and oil and vinegar cruet.

Anything at all that will keep him from handing a diner the bill for a meal. This applies even to the smallest restaurants, where it is obvious that the lone waiter is also the proprietor, and depends on the checks for a livelihood.

The service in Italian restaurants is much faster than in English, German, or French restaurants, but one has to spend just as much time at a meal. There is no use in swallowing quickly in the hope of getting out in, say, half an hour. It takes that long to get the bill once it has been requested.

That last resort gesture of impatience — standing up and looking as if ready to walk out without paying — works fine in most countries, but not in Italy. I have walked as far as the door without having the waiter show the least interest. One almost feels that the waiter would breathe a sigh of relief if the customer did walk out and disappear, instead of finally grabbing him by the arm and all but wresting a check from him.

Another characteristic of the Italian waiter is his unwillingness to bring one salt and pepper. This, I trust, is based on loyalty to the chef, not laziness. The waiter probably feels that the cook knows much more about seasoning than the customers, and he is not going to have them spoil a dish by dosing it with salt and pepper. As a pepper lover, I make it a practice to carry a small pepper mill with me in my pocket. It saves time and hard feeling all around.

The Italian waiter is also a great believer in soups. He always makes a valiant effort to sell this item, even on the hottest days, and many show their resentment at a flat refusal. And some even bring soup whether one orders it or not. This always makes for action.

Men Must Use Their Ingenuity Or It Declines

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

Much is being written these days about the softness of American youth. Army officers who have investigated the reactions of American prisoners of war in Korea report that nearly one-third of those captured died as a result of the hardships suffered. Of the survivors, almost a third eventually collaborated with the Communists.

One camp contained 1657 American prisoners and 300 Turkish prisoners. More than a third of the Americans died from hardships suffered, but not one Turk succumbed.

TEAMSTERS DEFEY LABOR AND GOVERNMENT (Chicago Daily Tribune)

James R. Hoffa is the new president of the teamsters union, which has more members than any other union in the world. He was elected by an overwhelming majority in face of a disgraceful and dishonorable record that has been thoroughly documented by the McClellan committee.

The AFL-CIO executive board has said that it will suspend the teamsters union from membership unless it cleans house. Hoffa's election raises the question whether this was more than an empty threat. Hoffa and his lieutenants appear confident that they can beat this rap as they have beaten others.

They reason that they have on their side not only the million and a half teamsters but also the choice of respecting or not respecting the picket lines of other unions.

Hoffa's calculation may be upset as the AFL-CIO convention in December, even though the ground rules provide for a two-thirds vote to expel a union. One consideration that may play an important part in the convention's decision is the possibility that Congress will take notice of what organized labor does to cleanse itself.

The revelations of the McClellan committee have made a deep impression on public opinion. There is little doubt that Congress intends to take action to correct proved abuses. If organized labor shows itself willing and able to handle the cheaters and the goons in its ranks, the probability is that the new laws might be less drastic than they otherwise will be.

If Congress decides that the labor movement needs to be overhauled, Congress can do the job. It can, for example, forbid industry-wide bargaining and it can require the dissolution of such a huge aggregation of power as lies in the teamsters' organization, Congress, which enacted the anti-trust laws, can extend them to labor unions; the long line of decisions upholding the Wagner act and the Taft-Hartley act leave little doubt of the constitutionality of legislation regulating the conduct of unions.

The election of Hoffa is going to have consequences for the teamsters union and for the labor movement in general. The seriousness of the consequences will be determined at the AFL-CIO convention,

Buyers Play Vital Role For Levine's

The story of how the Levine's stores succeed in offering quality goods at popular prices has a behind the scenes chapter that is vitally important. This chapter concerns the buyers and warehouse personnel who comb the country for the top quality goods, take it into the central warehouse in Dallas and distribute it again in proper proportions to the 45 Levine stores.

Chief buyer for the chain is Harry Lipsky who also holds the position of vice president and member of the board of directors. Lipsky has been a Levine employee for 31 years and has watched the chain grow to its present size. He makes frequent trips to all the stores to advise managers on current merchandising trends and also personally goes annually to the markets on the East and West coasts.

Bill Svidlow is the buyer for ladies ready-to-wear and lingerie. He, also, makes frequent trips to the markets in New York, Chicago and California in order that these departments in the Levine's stores may have the very latest in fashions and fabrics. Svidlow has been an employee of the Levine chain for eight years. Until coming to Dallas four years ago as a buyer he was assistant manager of the chain's Lubbock store. The shoe departments in the 45 Levine stores are headed by Charles Cristal, 38-year-old native of Fort Worth who now makes his home in Dallas. Cristal joined the company in 1952 after having worked for two years with an important Fort Worth retail shoe outlet. He supervises the buying and merchandising of shoes and is also in charge of the personnel in the various shoe departments.

Christal points out that Levine's department stores carry a complete line of men's, women's and children shoes.

The shoe department head holds a master's degree in retailing from New York University.

Jack Pines is buyer for millinery, handbags and accessories. According to Pines the Levine's stores will have one of the finest arrays of fall millinery in the history of the chain on display for the Lochnwood opening.

Pines stressed the fact that in handbags this year the customer will get more for her money than ever before and costume jewelry will follow the trend of the "dressed up" look with matching stones being very popular.

Harold Pink is supervisor of the warehouse and handles budget controls. He is responsible for the incoming goods being properly marked and routed for distribution to the various stores in the chain.

"WHAT GOES UP"—The dirt rising from an incinerator and other causes must come down. A national organization's survey on polluted air shows (see Newschart) how many tons of "particulate matter"—dirt—there is in each cubic mile of atmosphere over many U.S. cities. Minneapolis was found to be the cleanest sizable city with only 53 tons. Housewives, the survey revealed, add great amounts of dirt to the air just shaking dustpans. A back yard incinerator, it added, is worse than a blast furnace in raising more dirt per ton of material burned.
