Increases in production of the crop ranged from 44 per cent in Texas to over 300 per cent in Kansas and Missouri. Other increases noted were 69 per cent in Oklahoma and over 100 per cent in Colorado.

Cotton acreage in much of the Texas plains and New Mexico is about two weeks later than normal, needing a break from the weatherman and a late frost, the "Condition of much of the 1958 inter wheat acreage is the best a number of years with a large part of it being planted on land which had been "summer fallowed" under the Soil Bank during the 1957 crop year," the report

Crop prospects by states in the Southwest included:

TEXAS - Early September showers aided in growth of late sorghums and cotton acreage and enabled farmers to plant much of their intended wheat acreage. If frost holds off until the average killing frost date or later, most of these crops will mature.

OKLAHOMA - Except in the Panhandle, most of Oklahoma needed more moisture early in September to seed the 1958 winter wheat crop and to mature late sorghums, cotton and peanut acrege. Since that time, most of the ate has received the needed rain-

Plans Made For Perryton Year Book

(Special to The News) PERRYTON - Newly elected members of the 1958 Ranger Staff are making plans for a bigger and better, annual, including several additional pages, specially design-ed cover and better coverage of the school activities.

Other changes, under the direction of Editor Glenda McGibbon, will include the addition of more sports shots, more casual pictures and some reorganization of the sections.

The theme of the Ranger annual, the progressive oil boom, will be sarried out throughout the annual and on the cover.

The 1958 annual staff consists of Glenda McGibbon, editor; Janie Putman, co-editor; Carmen Easter, class editor; LaVerna Kershman, business manager; Bill Shannon, boys sports; Barbara Burns, girls sports; Donna Hoots, organizations; Nancy Wright, assistant organizations; Karen Crum, oners; Nancy Reitz, junior high school; and Linda Spence, elemen-

Individual Action

As the marching feet of humanity tread onward into the unknown before us, the conflict for men's minds is shown in ever sharper focus. The menace of communism, not as a Russian threat but as an ideological nemesis in our own country, becomes more acute. And socialism, its more respected, but equally disreputable ally, continues to ride the white horse like one of the equestrians of the Apocalypse.

More and more people are awakening to the ever present danger. And in that awakening two important facets against collectivism develop.

There are those who concentrate on the mass approach. They wish to urge others to take action.

Others concentrate on the individual approach. They say it is more important to cause individuals to understand the full meaning of the problems we face than to organize mass action. Further, they say that if sufficient numbers of individuals truly understand, mass organizational efforts will not be necessary. If there are enough unorganized individuals who really understand the meaning, both of freedom and its enemies, socialism and communism, then those individuals of themselves will know what to do and will do it.

The aims of both the mass organizers and the individuals are identical. They differ only on the advisability of a particular method to pursue. In the end, both want action. The organizers want political action under discipline and control. The latter want any kind of action, political or otherwise, which is enlightened, controlled by the individual and not subject to the inherent evils of centralization.

We find ourselves unerringly drawn to the second method. We believe that the individual who once understands what freedom really is-as well as what the enemies of freedom really are and what these enemies plan—we believe that this individual will know what to do.

We are reminded of the historical fact that great changes in human conduct and destiny have ALWAYS been brought about by a few. Perhaps the most farreaching change in human affairs was brought about by the teaching of Christianity. Yet Christ made no attempt to organize mass action. He was constantly exhorted to do this very thing. He refused. He was content to instill in a few, as much of his teachings as these few could comprehend.

There were only a dozen, and one of them proved Yet from this small nucleus the greatest change ever to occur was marshalled. It didn't take vast numbers. It took a handful of dedicated men.

If one studies the history of the founding of our nation, he will discover one startling fact. There was no such thing as a wide and popular political movement to establish the United States of America. Rather, there was a hard core of informed patriots who gave of their all, that this nation might have its being. At the most, these informed patriots could not have numbered above a hundred and fifty. Perhaps there were far less. Some have guessed that our true founders did not exceed 20 in number.

If we turn to the French revolution, we find monarchists giving credit to the so-called Republican Club of Paris or bringing about the throne toppling. This Republican Club apparently wielded significant power. After it was all over, it was discovered that at no time did the powerful Republican Club number more than five members, of whom Tom Paine, an American, was

If we examine the rise of freedom in England, during the reign of Queen Victoria, we discover another and similar situation. At the beginning of Victoria's rule, there were hundreds of laws and taxes which were grinding down the people into impotence. Two men, Bright and Cobden, came forward with almost revolutionary ideas. They convinced both the monarch and the parliament that a reversal in procedure was in order. Away went the obnoxious corn laws, and scores of other petty and harassing enactments. Britain regained her financial equilibrium and went on toward her period of greatest influence.

In each of these cases, and in scores of others which could be cited, changes occurred not because of mass action, but because of superior ideas expressed coherently and even brilliantly by a few dedicated men.

We hold that this is the crying need in America today. Not mass action; but superior ideas, articulated by intellectual leaders who know the score. Communism and socialism cannot survive the truth, plainly stated. Today the right wing needs dedication, not mass following. It requires the skills of vocal men and women who can present superior ideas in a superior manner.

If this kind of leadership can be found and developed, we do not need to concern ourselves unduly about

Union Printer's Letter, With Answer

I want to continue to answer the claims made by union printer R. B. Burwell in his letter for pub-

One thing he contended was that The Register got the same price for subscriptions as did union papers in the territory. Of course every paper is different, just like every person is different, but as a matter of fact, The Register sells its 7-day paper for $1:60 a month. The Riverside Press - Enterprise without a union contract sells its 7-day paper for $1.85 a month. The San Bernardino Sun without a printers union sells its 7-day paper for $1.95 a month. The Pasadena paper, which is a union paper, sells its 7-day paper for $2.00 a month, just the same as the Long Beach Press-Telegram sells its 7-day paper for $2.00 a month. The sevenday L.A. papers sell for $2.25 per mo, one union and one not union. So Mr. Burwell is a little careless in his claim.

Now some questions for Mr.

Troublesome Menace

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

If there are then why will not union members answer questions without contradicting themselves or evading answers?

Would Mr. Burwell contend that an employer should pay an employee more than his customers are willing and able to do the same job for simply because the union said, "Pay this wage or we strike." and then pass this extra cost on to the customer or reduce his own profits and thus retard his ability to better serve his cusomers? If so, why?

He implies that those people who criticize labor unions that practice striking, are contending that unions are composed of racketeers, blackmailers and thieves. Unions have a lot of fine people as members knowing the means used by unions to get a non-competiive wage.

I have had a conscientious union printer tell me it made him bow his head in shame that he had to belong to the printer's union in order to work in a union shop that did the things the printer's union did. I have had another conscientious printer tell me he would not take a job as a foreman of a union shop because he would not take the oath required by the printer's

Most union printers do not like to be obliged to strike and injure other people. They are victims of the labor union bosses or the will of the majority and they do not reallze that labor unions that limit apprentices and deny the competitive way of establishing fair wages are doing great harm to their fellowman by keeping their wage levels down and all other wage levels down over a period of years by their methods of restricting production. They have been told so often that unions are good and help all workers live better that many of them actually believe they do.

Here's a quesion that I have never found any union man able to answer. They talk about justice and fairness in labor relations but they will not answer questions about it. Let any believer in striking labor unions that practice collective bargaining answer this

If employees are not to be selected on the basis of competition—the workers who will do the most for the compensation paid—are they to be selected on non - competitive rules? By lot? By seniority? By size of family? By favoritism? By a third party? By the government? By needs of the worker? By rotation? By force or intimidation? Otherwise by what measurable, impersonal eternal rule are they to be selected?

The columns are open for Mr. Burwell to answer the questions I have asked him, or anyone else, without evasion or contradicting himself. It is well to have these questions openly and thoroughly discussed becausee most of our trouble comes from not thinking through the successive results that are bound to follow any method of interference with a free and unhampered market for establishing fair wages, fair profits and fair consumer prices.

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D. ONE SIDED FACIAL PARALYSIS CHARACTERIZES BELL'S

Mrs. H. and several others have asked for another discussion of Bell's palsy. I have done this in the past and am not aware of any particularly new developments on its cause or treatment.

This is a nerve disorder and I shall try to explain what is involved. There are 12 nerves which comes directly out of the brain. Each of these is numbered and has its own name. In the case of Bell's palsy it is the facial nerve, or seventh, which is involved. This nerve supplies some of the skin and muscles of the face. The characteristic feature of Bell's palsy is a paralysis of the muscles of one side of the face, This produces a drooping or sagging of the lip and an inability to close one eye. As a result, the two sides of the face do not look alike even when at rest. The difference is more conspicuous when the patient tries to wrinkle the forehead, smile or laugh. It becomes difficult to close the mouth completely. Saliva or food may drip out of one corner. Bell's Palsy often comes on suddenly and is associated with a variable amount of pain. The pain may disappear rather abruptly and leave nothing but a mild tingling. A change in sensation to pressure or from the prick of a pin is common. The sense of taste over the front part of the tongue is often altered. The disorder may be the result of injury such as a cut or a gunshot wound. It may follow the extraction of a tooth, although why this should happen is not understood. Infections of various sorts. especially those in the upper part of the nose or throat, frequently precede the onset.

The figure used to be $50.
