Hoffa Bandwagon Gathering Steam

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press Staff Correspondent
MIAMI BEACH (UP)—The Jimmy Hoffa bandwagon appeared today to be turning into a full-fledged steamroller in the race to succeed retiring Union President Dave Beck as top man in the nation's largest union.

Hoffa's bid for the $50,000-a-year labor post seemed to gain momentum by the hour while his opponents apparently were deadlocked in the much-reported plans

Contempt Action Is Sought

By CHARLOTTE G. MOULTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Thirteen Teamster Union members said today they will seek contempt action to bar seating of "illegal" delegates to their union's convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

Lawyers for the so-called "rank-and-file" group also said they will seek to have Teamster President Dave Beck and his heir apparent James R. Hoffa cited for contempt.

If the courts won't help they said it should be a matter for Congress to do something about next year.

The new moves in the group's surprise Hoffa drive were disclosed after U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren refused Tuesday to block the union's upcoming presidential election at Miami Beach.

Attorney Thomas J. Dodd noted U. S. Appeals Court requirement that delegates to the Teamster convention must "be selected in accordance with the requirement of the constitution of the union."

"There are a vast number not so selected," Dodd said, "and we are going to start contempt proceedings against the union if any one of them is seated."

In New York Godfrey Schmidt, another attorney for the rank-and-file, said contempt citations will be sought against Beck and Hoffa on grounds they "haven't obeyed" the Appeals Court order to hold the election "in accordance with the union's constitution."

Miniature Civil War Expected In San Marino

SAN MARINO (UP)—Communists and anti-Communist rivals in this freckle-faced republic drew battle lines today for a miniature civil war.

A group of Christian Democrats who proclaimed a new anti-Communist government held up in an unfinished iron foundry just 50 yards from the Italian border. They had 200 men who slept on straw on the floor during the night, their rifles of 1891 vintage at their side.

The Communists, with 250 volunteers were entrenched in the government palace a few miles away.

In the middle was Police Chief Fittore Sozzi and his force of 50 men armed with World War I carbines. Sozzi apparently was struggling to remain neutral.

The entire population—14,000 persons—of this ancient 30-square-mile republic was on edge.

The opening shot was fired Tuesday night after four Christian Democratic leaders announced in a proclamation written in long-hand they were now the legal government of San Marino.

A bullet allegedly fired by a member of the Communists' people militia plunked into a piece of wood just above the head of metal worker Giulio Massima as he was entering the Christian Democratic compound.

It prompted a Christian Democratic council of war that did not end until after midnight.

'Confidential' Trial Jury Dismissed

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—One of the most sensational courtroom dramas in movieland history—the Confidential magazine criminal libel trial—was listed as a flop today after the jury failed to reach a verdict and dismissed in the 13th day of deliberation.

The trial came to a sudden end Tuesday when the much-confused jurors revealed they were "hopelessly deadlocked" 7-5 for conviction. Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker declared a mistrial and set Oct. 10 for discussion of a possible new trial.

Whether a new trial will take place remains a big question mark. The prosecution had vowed to "fight to the end" for a conviction but the defense maintained a new trial "will be a shameful waste of the taxpayers' money."

The jury's dismissal climaxed more than six weeks of dragging the alleged private activities of top movie stars through the limelight and nearly two weeks of actual deliberation. The time spent deliberating tied a Los Angeles county record of 13 days for a criminal trial.

The quick ending came as a surprise even to Judge Walker. He had summoned jurors back to his courtroom to ask them how they stood. Foreman Fred L. McCulley, a retired railroad man, informed the judge of the deadlock and advised him there was little hope that the panel could ever agree on a verdict.

Individual defendants Fred and Marjorie Deane, the husband-wife operators of an alleged Hollywood listening post for Confidential, were in court when the jury was "thanked" and dismissed.

Vandals Hit Wholesale Warehouse

Vandals hit in Pampa last night and the resulting damage was estimated at $400 this morning.

Local police officers reported that the vandalism occurred at the Gulf Oil Products Wholesale warehouse, 501 W. Atchison, last night.

The report of the vandalism was made this morning when employees of the firm arrived to open the business for the day.

Investigation by the officers revealed that approximately 42 blows had been struck by a hammer on four trucks of the firm. A total of three windshields, one half windshield, six door glasses, four vent glasses, two rear view mirrors, a directional signal and a gasoline meter were damaged by the vandals, the officers said.

Late this morning the investigation was being continued by the officers in an effort to determine the identity of the vandals.

Bond Is Set On Assault Charge

A bond of $1,500 was set by Justice of the Peace D. R. Henry yesterday afternoon for Luther Nickerson, 421 Elm, who was charged in District Court yesterday with assault on a minor child.

Following the filing of the charge a warrant was issued for Nickerson's arrest. He later made a statement to District Attorney Bill Waters and the bond was set.

The charge against Nickerson alleged that he had assaulted a minor girl on the night of Sept. 14, according to Waters.

Nickerson made bond yesterday afternoon and was released from jail pending action on the charge by the Grand Jury.

'Ike Is Violating Congress' Intent'-Byrd

By ROBERT F. COLL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd accused President Eisenhower today of violating the intent of Congress by failing to cut federal spending for the current government year.

The Virginia Democrat, leading economy advocate and chairman of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, made the charge after publication of the administration's mid-year budget review.

The review showed that despite heavy appropriation cuts and military strength reductions the federal government now expects to spend 200 million dollars more

Petitions On Lake Needed By Friday

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer
COPIES of petitions to be signed by Gray County voters calling for a bond election on Lake McClellan were expected to arrive in Pampa today and will be circulated for signatures.

The announcement was made by Bruce Parker, county judge, as a result of action taken yesterday by the Commissioners Court of Gray County.

The County Commissioners approved the calling of the bond election if the voters sign the petitions by Friday, Judge Parker reported that two petitions will be needed.

ONE PETITION will ask that an election be called for the purpose of selling bonds for the repair of the spillway at the lake, changing the course of a side draw that has been causing damage, a new bridge below the dam and other repairs and facilities at the lake. The amount needed for these repairs was estimated at $500,000 yesterday.

The other petition will call for $250,000 in bonds for the paving of roads leading to the lake from highways 70 and 56. The length of the two roads is 9 1/2 miles from highway 70 and 2 1/2 miles from highway 56.

THE LAKE has been offered to the county by the U.S. Government if the county will repair the damaged spillway and will maintain the lake site as a recreational area.

The same offer was made to Pampa during the summer but the County Commission turned down the offer due to the cost of repairing the dam, spillway and other facilities.

FOLLOWING the action by the county to call a bond election for the purpose of making the repairs. The county asked the government if the lake would be given to the county and the offer was made recently.

The original cost of $370,000 for the repair of the spillway remained the same but the increase to the $500,000 figure resulted from

Juveniles Are Warned Against Staying Out Late

A 15-year-old boy and a 16-year-old girl appeared before Juvenile Court Judge Bruce Parker this morning and received warnings not to stay out late at night.

The two, accompanied by a 30-year-old boy and a 19-year-old girl, were stopped by city officers at 2:40 this morning on Brown. The older boy was arrested on a charge of being intoxicated, according to Jim Conner, chief of police.

Judge Parker stated that the younger boy admitted that he had been drinking but there was no evidence that the younger girl had entered into the drinking of beer last night.

"Because they had not appeared before me prior to today," the judge stated, "they were only given a warning. Next time the penalty will be more severe."

Governors Ask For Ike's Understanding

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—Four moderate southern governors tried urgently today to salvage an agreement for removal of federal troops from Little Rock.

The governors made it clear they thought Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus should provide the assurances needed to save the agreement worked out Tuesday with President Eisenhower.

But at the same time they appealed for "understanding" on Eisenhower's part for possible "unwitting" changes in the way Faubus worded his guarantee to prevent obstruction of court-backed integration of Little Rock's Central High School.

Strikes, Unrest Mount Today In France

By ARTHUR L. HIGBEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS (UP)—A wave of strikes, strike threats and general economic unrest swept France today making urgent and more difficult President Rene Coty's task of finding a new premier.

The political crisis was so deep, so far reaching that a growing feeling of alarm was reflected in the Paris press. Prices dipped on the stock market and the franc fell slightly Tuesday.

The government of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury was down but not quite out as result of the loss of a vote of confidence Monday night. He was legally still in office, but with no actual power.

To President Coty fell the task of bringing some order out of the threatened chaos and the feeling grew he must find another French strongman, another Gen. Charles de Gaulle or another Pierre Mendès-France.

The labor unrest piled troubles on a government already bogged down in disagreement. France had no firm hand to quell the national discontent or even to represent the country at the forthcoming U.N. debate on Algeria.

Farmers throughout France were on strike against the government's agricultural price-pegging policy, still in effect despite Bourges-Maunoury's downfall. Sporadic industrial strikes broke out across the country.

Circus Slates Two Shows Here Today

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer
There's no sleep for the circus performer in the summertime according to Charles Dillon, manager of the Clyde Beatty Circus which rolled in to Pampa this morning and began setting up the "Big Top" which was knocked down in Childress last night after a two show stand.

This morning at 8 the show was well on its way in preparation for the performances which will be given at 3 and 8 p.m. at Recreation Park.

The seventy-two trailers, trucks, and mobile units with the show travel separately and leave each site as soon as the work is done. By the time the last unit is moved out from one location, the first ones to leave are all ready for the show in the next town.

"This method of travel is still in the experimental stage," stated Dillon, "but, it is proving to be quite successful."

Life under the "Big Top" is one exciting event after another; you rest in the winter and work in the summer—unless there are animals to train, equipment to repair or acts to perfect, Dillon says. Today, Pampans can see the famous Jean Attiliana from Europe daring gravity and proving herself to be one of the greatest tight wire performers in the world. Along with Jean will be the Zooppe family of bareback riders; Helene, the world famous trapeze artist and many others including clowns, wild animals and unusual performances.

Little Mike No Longer Alone

NEW YORK (UP)—Little Michael Maida, 5, is no longer a small boy alone in the world.

Just two weeks ago, on Sept. 17, his mother Catherine, 28, stabbed him with a kitchen knife.

For Mike, it was the end of his small world. His parents were divorced and his mother, all he had left, had now turned on him.

"My daddy doesn't want me," the child cried piteously. "Now my mommy doesn't love me."

But Mike's daddy did want him. After the boy spent several days in Bellevue Hospital recuperating from cuts in his back and wrist, his father Salvatore took him home to live with him.

Mrs. Maida, who was separated from her husband two years ago and divorced in August, will be arraigned in felony court within two weeks, according to her attorney, Jerome Rohnick.

Even for Mrs. Maida, there could be a happy ending to the story.

The stabbing of her son took place the morning after she quarreled with Joseph Lupo, 31, a clerical worker whom she had been dating.

Police said Lupo didn't want to marry Mrs. Maida because he had his own family, including a 70-year-old mother, to support. After the quarrel, Mrs. Maida started drinking.

It was Lupo who hired Rohnick to represent Mrs. Maida. Lupo told police he was sorry about his quarrel with Mrs. Maida, and about the consequences of it.

He even said that when and if Mrs. Maida is released, he hopes to marry her.

Barbershop Club Will Charter Hooker

The local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will charter a chapter at Hooker, Okla., Saturday.

The Pampa chapter will also participate in the program to precede the charter presentation. Two quartets from here will sing. The Chord Craftsmen, composed of James Evans, Bill Haley, Barney McMullen and Hansford Ousley, and another quartet, as yet unnamed, will participate. The unnamed quartet is composed of Bunny Shultz, C. R. Howard, Howard Buckingham and Dave Redus.

Buckingham, president of the local chapter, will present the charter as a representative of the International SPEBSQSA board of directors.

A combined chorus made up of members of the Pampa, Amarillo and Dumas chapters will also sing.

And then, on Nov. 2, the local chapter's chorus will go to Oklahoma City, Okla., for the all-district contest. The district is composed of singers from the states of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico.

The Pampa group was recently host to the chorus from clubs in Amarillo and Dumas. The three singing organizations got together to sing in a combined chorus.

The three-club "get together" is held every two months and Bill Haley, of the local club, is director of the combined choruses.

In other Barbershop activity, plans are nearing the final stages for the annual Parade of Quartets, to be held in the Junior High Auditorium Oct. 26.

Several outstanding quartets will be in the parade as well as two local quartets and the chorus.

Students Enter School Without Troop Escort

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Nine Negro students entered Central High School without a troop escort this morning. They were greeted by jeers and catcalls from some 40 white students who had been assembled on the school steps.

The Negroes, six girls and three boys, were driven to school as usual in an Army station wagon preceded and followed by jeeploads of National Guardsmen. The convoy arrived at the front of the school at 8:20 a.m. c.s.t.

The students got out unescorted across the campus. Instead of walking up the front steps, as on previous days, they veered and entered the building through a side entrance on the ground level.

Group Stand on Steps

A group of 40 to 45 white boys and girls stood on the steps awaiting their arrival. Such a group has been on the steps each morning since integration began.

As it became apparent that the Negro children would not walk up the steps through this crowd, some of the white youths shouted "chicken" and made jeering noises.

The Negroes entered the building without further incident.

Mrs. Lucius C. Bates, Arkansas president of the NAACP, said the students had "a terrible day" at school Tuesday.

Mrs. Bates said pencils, papers and pebbles were thrown at the children. She said the girls were shown knives and were shoved.

"When they asked a guard to move the incident he just moved away," Mrs. Bates said. "They (the Negroes) got no protection."

Just "Wonderful"

Mrs. Margaret Jackson, vice president of the anti-integration Mothers League of Central said "wonderful" when told of Mrs. Bates' statement.

"I have no animosity in my heart for colored people but there is resentment in our hearts... that never was there before," she said.

Mrs. Bates said "every day the President leaves his troops in Little Rock, he contributes to our cause."

Mrs. Bates said that the children would continue to go to school as long as the President assures them protection.

Conflicting Versions

There were conflicting versions as to what happened when one Negro girl walked up the school steps.

American Killed In Haiti Jail

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UP)—Official American charges that a U.S. citizen was beaten to death while in police custody brought relations between Washington and Haiti's ruling military junta to a state of crisis today.

The American, Shelby Talamas, was picked up Saturday night for violating the curfew while out seeking a doctor for his wife. She gave birth the next morning while Talamas was in prison.

A three-man U.S. medical team examined the body of Talamas, and said the chubby, 30-year-old American was beaten to death despite statements by the Haitian military government he had died of a "heart attack."

U.S. Ambassador Gerald Drew filed a vigorous protest with Foreign Minister Col. Louis Roumain and demanded a full explanation of the incident. But Gen. Antonio Kabrera, head of the ruling junta, refused to see him personally.

SOVIET SATELLITES?—Y. C. Khabibzhev, a Soviet missile expert, said in an article in a Moscow publication that Russia plans to send manned rockets to the Moon, Mars and Venus by 1965.

The Soviet scientist estimated the trip to Venus would take 146 days and the voyage to Mars 238 days. The article disclosed that Soviet scientists plan to attack space in three steps: 1. Unmanned rockets guided by radio from the earth will first blaze the interplanetary trail. 2. Unmanned "armored laboratories" would then be fired to positions on the planets to reconnoiter them by television. 3. Multistage rockets would deliver a manned "scientific station" to each of the planets.

Texas Reports 9,151 Flu Cases in Week

AUSTIN (UP)—A total of 9,151 cases of flu in Texas were reported to the State Health Department for the week ending Sept. 28, also with 11,827 cases of "influenza-like illnesses."

Sixty-one counties reported flu, four of them with 1,000 or more cases.

Counties reporting more than 900 cases included Jefferson, 1,874; Reeves, 1,200; McLennan and Orange, 1,000 each; El Paso, 782; Webb, 592; Brazos, 589, and Travis, 586.

The Health Department said it received a telegram from the California Health Department supporting the use of Asian flu vaccine although surplus is available in California for shipment to Texas.

It was in reply to a telegram from Texas Health Department Commissioner Henry A. Hollie, who asked for any surplus of vaccine in California after hearing of the San Francisco Medical Society's denunciation of mass flu immunization.

Seek To Link Gunman With Unsolved Killings

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Authorities today sought to link a gunman, who with a companion shot and killed two state troopers, with the unsolved murders of five persons in California and New Mexico.

Victor Wayne Whitley, 26, Granger, Tex., was captured Tuesday near North Vernon, Ind., at the scene of the slaying of two troopers and the unsolved murders of five persons in California and New Mexico.

State police sent Whitley's picture and fingerprints to western points as a suspect in the murder of two FBI agents in California last July, and the slaying of two young women and a man in New Mexico two days later.

The tall, blond bandit, held in jail here under a heavy guard, admitted he and his slain accomplice staged a cross-country crime spree before their wild two-state flight that began Monday afternoon in Michigan.

In their wake the killers left one state patrolman dead and one wounded seriously in Michigan, and another state policeman dead and two police officers wounded, one critically, in Indiana.

Also killed was Whitley's partner in crime, Ralph Walker Taylor, 36, of near St. Alban's, W. Va.

Taylor was wounded fatally by a volley of police bullets when the two bandits crashed a road block south of North Vernon shortly before midnight Tuesday night.

Work on the construction of three county bridges, damaged by floods resulting of heavy rains last spring, has been completed, according to Wayland Merriman, consulting engineer.

He reported that the work on the Cantonment and Deane Fork bridges across the North Fork of the Red River has been completed. The final work on roads near the bridges is underway at this time and should be completed in the next week or two, Merriman said.

The other bridge completed is located in the southwest corner of the county, located about four miles northeast of Groom. The work on repairing the road near the bridge will take about a month, however, he stated.

Rebels In Cuba Claim Landings

HAVANA, Cuba (UP)—Cuban Rebel forces maintained today that a new anti-Batista "expeditionary force" landed Saturday in Oriente province in Eastern Cuba. But Cuban military authorities denied such a landing had taken place.

Reports of a new rebel landing were carried Tuesday by two local newspapers. The reports were passed by the chief censor in the presidential palace.

An army spokesman, however, termed the reports "untrue and biased." He said there has been "no disembarkation anywhere in the national territory." A similar denial came from a naval spokesman.

But Rebel sources in Santiago and Havana, denied the official denial. One rebel spokesman, in fact, maintained the rebel reinforcements brought ashore "light artillery."

United Press correspondent Reeve Waring quoted Rebel sources in Santiago as saying the rebel force came ashore Saturday between Belic and Nicaro. This is in the general area where rebel leader Fidel Castro landed with his band last Nov. 26.

Waring said reports reaching Santiago maintained a large landing craft was found abandoned in the Belic area. He said there were large troop movements out of Santiago for the coastal area, by land and sea, Monday.

Unconfirmed reports in Havana placed the number of rebel reinforcements at between 180 and 300 men.

Anyone Lost A Coleman Heater?

Chief of Police Jim Conner never knows what he will find in his office in the mornings.

The officers on the night shift are leaving all types of articles in his office for the chief to worry about.

Yesterday morning when he reported for work he found a new white-sidewall tire, complete with display stand and advertising, that two officers had put under Monday night.

As if that wasn't enough, the chief walked into his office this morning and stumbled into the Coleman heater for a trailer home, the Coleman forced air heater was reported lying in the intersection of Ripley and Banks last night by two men and the same two officers loaded it into the trunk of a patrol car and dumped it in the chief's office.

Conner stated today that if anyone is missing a Coleman heater for a trailer home they should contact him.

Quotes In The News

Quotes From The News (Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)

By UNITED PRESS
NEW YORK — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt on returning from a tour of Soviet Russia:

"The only piece of world news in Communist newspapers was the integration incident in Little Rock, Arkansas. The Russian newspapers usually give about two and a-half columns to world news. These were taken up with exactly what happened in Little Rock."

VATICAN CITY—Pope Pius XII, in saying woman must subordinate herself to man in marriage, but should not shun recent female gains in cultural, professional and political fields:

"On the contrary, she must assume her responsibilities in all domains and face the demands of them with an effective missionary aim."

WASHINGTON — Harry S. Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette, charging that Gov. Orval E. Faubus created the Little Rock school crisis basically for his own political gain:

"... I don't think this was an act of deep feeling. I think it was done for political support in Arkansas."

ENSCHDEDE, Holland — One of the 20 widowers who retreated from the first World Congress of Widows and Widowers, attended by about 360 widows:

"There wasn't a one worth looking at."

WASHINGTON—Thomas J. Hagerty, Chicago Teamsters official, in predicting two other anti-Hoffa candidates would unite with him:

"I believe they are interested in beating Hoffa, and I think that's the only way it can be accomplished."

INTEREST RAISED
DUBLIN (UP) — The Irish government followed Britain's lead Sunday by raising the bank rate for interest on loans. The rate went up from 5 per cent to 6. The British rate is 7 per cent. Ireland's economy is so closely tied to Britain's that the move was expected.

RUTH MILLETT

I stopped to talk with two women working in their yards. Both yards are a pleasure and both women are mainly responsible for the beauty created. One enjoys what she has brought into being, but to the other the work has brought more frustration than pleasure.

The shoe with the pointed toe and slender shaped heel is the shoe with fashion importance for fall and winter. We show it in a black suede leather version (upper left) that has unusual throat line accented by single fake pearl teardrop. Silver leather in two textures is used (upper center) for pump that's pale silver at front and gunmetal at back. Shaped heel is medium height. American beauty suede leather is used (lower left) for slender pump embroidered at the front in black braid. Curved Louis heel is mid-height. There's elegance for evening (lower center) in this pump of silver crushed leather with butterfly bow of glittering rhinestones. Patent leather (right) takes on a new look for fall in this embossed design in a gunmetal shade. The bow has cut steel buckle. This, too, is a shoe with shaped mid-heel.

Mature Parents

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE In school last term the 9-year-old daughter of a mother I know got poor marks in arithmetic. Her teacher made her promotion to the fifth grade conditional on her attending summer school and passing its tests. So the child attended it. Soon her work was earning B's and the occasional A. When she was finally given her average, it was a B.

Braves May Have To Bank On Spahn For Three Wins

Lefties Open Key Game

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK (UP) — Whitley Ford of the New York Yankees and Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, two of baseball's craftiest southpaws, went out after the opening, and what usually turns out to be the key game, in the World Series today.

HOLDING COURT—This is Casey Stengel's 11th World Series, three as an outfielder and eight as a manager, so the millionaire boss of the Yankees is very casual in the dugout, discussing his club's chances against the Braves. Ol' Case answers all questions in double-talk.

Although Ford, hampered with arm trouble periodically during the season, won only 11 games, the Yankees were 13-10 favorites to win the first game and 17-10 choices to take the series.

Spahn, a 21-game winner and the only pitcher on the Braves staff with previous series experience, was manager Fred Haney's automatic choice. Most baseball experts were agreed that as the 36-year-old southpaw goes, so will go Milwaukee.

They figured that the underdog Braves to beat the Yankees, who are used to World Series triumphs, would have to get two, if not three, triumphs out of Spahn.

Persons React Differently To Tests By Lie Detector

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—On the question of whether scientific lie-detection is really reliable in detecting liars, an elaborate scientific experiment—with people indicated that much depends on what kind of person is being tested.

However, Dr. Jack Block of the University of California, Berkeley campus, who supervised the experiment, avoided relating his experimental results with the practical business of detecting lies. He had assembled psychological "data," he said; application was something else.

This data showed that out of 70 persons tested, some were highly "reactive" to the key measurement of the lie detector—the "galvanic skin response"—and some hardly reacted at all. He and his associates tested the 20 highest and the 20 lowest reactors for personality traits.

The 20 highest—whose high-reacting might brand them as liars whether they were or not—were worriers. Their anxieties and tensions found relief inwardly and they were given to minor symptoms of bodily illnesses which didn't exist in fact.

Are Submissive
They were dependent personalities—they were inclined to be dominated and to be submissive. They allowed others to take advantage and permitted themselves to be exploited. When opposed or frustrated, they were inclined to give up and withdraw.

On the other hand, the low-reactor expressed their hostilities quite openly, by getting mad and telling people off. They wanted personal independence and shunned leaning on any man. Towards people and events, they were critical and skeptical and it took a lot to impress them. They tended to be rebellious and not to conform.

The "galvanic skin response" comes from the measurable amounts of electricity which the body generates under nervous stress. The lie detector measures this and also measures pulse and breathing rates and blood pressure. In body function all are hooked up nervously. Theoretically, if all show a high responsiveness when a person is being questioned about a dangerous or painful subject that person isn't telling the truth.

Heat Not On
Block's subjects were male applicants for enrollment in medical school. They thought they were hooked up to all parts of the imposing lie-detecting apparatus, but actually they were connected only to the measurers of galvanic skin response. The heat really wasn't put on them—they weren't questioned about anything personal.

Indeed, they were instructed as to when and how to lie. For instance, they were told to keep in mind any number from one and

Cary Grant Is Worried About Small Problem On Movie Set

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—C. Grant, a happy-go-lucky individual, grew serious today about a small problem on the set of his new movie, involving the social standing and psychological nip-ups of three youngsters.

The script calls for a trio of small fry actors, two boys and a girl, 8-11 years old. This necessitated stand-ins. And it is the stand-ins who trouble Mr. Grant.

"These little devils spend a good portion of the day standing under hot lights while the scene is being set up," Grant explained over a cup of coffee. "It's difficult, unrewarding work."

"Then, just as the excitement is about to start and the cameras are swung into position, they are shunted aside for the three little actors."

"It seems terribly unfair to me. Lord knows what effect it has on the youngsters. They are even called 'the second team.'"

New Field Opens
Childless himself, Grant admits he has seldom associated with the younger generation. His interest in the forlorn stand-ins has opened a new field of friendships for him.

"I've never paid much attention to kids," he grinned. "But this situation has given me something to think about. I wonder if the money they earn will make up for the possible psychological reactions."

In this case the kid actors earn from $300 to $400 a week. The stand-ins collect a comparatively paltry $50-75 per week.

"It's different with adults," Cary went on. "They are stand-ins because they want to be. The children, however, are working because their parents want them to. I think it shows a lack of forethought."

At a set-aside party, a few days ago there was cake and ice cream aplenty, but when Grant looked the three little "orphans" were on the outside looking in. Cary immediately invited them to join the group.

"It was merely an oversight," he explained, "but they are as sensitive as any other youngsters. It must have hurt their feelings."

"Whenever I bring pictures of the actors in the picture ('Paramount's 'House Boat') I give the stand-ins the same presents. The way I see it, kids working around adults should be treated equally."

Grant said the six youngsters receive the same treatment in the studio school, but on the set the actors have their own dressing room and are fussed over a great deal more than their stand-ins.

"I see no real solution to the problem, except that a studio should go back to using midlets for stand-ins. They're used to it. Or maybe they could use dummies for the job."

"Anyhow," Grant concluded, "getting to know the youngsters has been a new experience. I ac-

Prince Phillip Is Controversial Man In Jolly Old England Now

EDITORS NOTE:
Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip visit the United States this month. This is the second of five dispatches about the man in the royal family.

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Unlike most fairy tale romances, the story of Elizabeth and Phillip really begins with their marriage ceremony of crimson and gold as the young couple knelt on the spot where British kings had been crowned for 800 years.

As they left the great abbey, Prince Phillip could have, in the ordinary course of events, been sure of some 20 years of his beloved sailing and family life mixed with a certain amount of public duties.

The sudden death of George VI five years later changed that irrevocably. The princess he took to Kenya in Feb. 1952, at the start of a commonwealth tour, returned to a mourning Britain as Queen.

Even as the body of the King lay in state in Westminster Hall, Phillip knew that his carefree life at sea was over. Although he resisted it as long as he could, he eventually accepted the inevitable.

And among the first things he did was to toss down the gauntlet of battle to the defenders of the barnacle encrusted traditions of running royal households. This is a war of many and continuing skirmishes. The old guard dies, but it never surrenders.

Breaks Up Racket
Phillip broke up the dining racket. He discovered that all sorts of people had the right to eat in the royal palaces on the Queen's bounty. There were five dining rooms going in Buckingham Palace alone. Top servants had lesser servants to wait on them and lesser servants had minor servants.

Buckingham Palace has hundreds of rooms, miles of corridors. Messages used to be taken around by hand. Phillip put in an intercom among other such outlandish innovations as effective central heating. European princes, who

Liberals In Britain Dream Of Miracle

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Great Britain's tiny Liberal Party is dreaming of a political miracle.

They were crushed after World War I, between the Conservatives, their historic rivals, and the upstart Labor Party.

But in recent months there have been some important shifts in voting in "by-elections"—elections held in individual districts to fill Commons seats left vacant by death or other causes.

Conservatives Losing Strength
Though Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is personally popular, the Conservatives have been losing strength. The Laborites have increased their majorities in those seats they have won. The Liberals also have gained heavily in voting strength.

One reason for this is that a lot of Conservatives have been slaying away from the polls. It is largely because of this that the Labor vote has increased relative-ly as compared to the Conservative vote.

But Liberal candidates have been polling votes so large—even though not enough to win elections—that both Conservative and Labor party leaders appear to be somewhat worried.

It seems inconceivable that the Liberals can make themselves again a real power, in House of Commons representation, for a long time.

Young, Enthusiastic Leaders
But their new, young, enthusiastic leaders believe they are on the way and that their party will become a "third force" in British politics between the right-wing Conservatives and the left-wing Laborites.

The Liberals are aiming at presenting candidates in about 200 districts in the next general election, which may be held at any time up to May, 1960.

By spotting their men in close districts, they hope to win enough seats to put them on a long, slow Labor vote has increased relative-ly as compared to the Conservative vote.

Red China Hosts Number Of Visitors

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Communist China is playing host to an unprecedented number of official and semi-official visitors from both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Delegations from eight foreign countries are in China now. Delegations from three others have just left.

The reason for the visits is: 1. Red Chinese leaders Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai are assuming steadily increasing importance in the Communist World. 2. Non-Communist countries are becoming increasingly interested in trade possibilities.

Hungarian puppet Premier Janos Kadar is the most important foreign visitor at the moment.

Next in importance is former Indonesian Vice President Mohammed Hatta, who has again become the No. 2 leader in his "neutralist" country.

There are two visiting delegations from Byria, where pro-Russian leaders are now in control of the government. One delegation consists of journalists, the other of students.

West Delegations Leave
There is a big parliamentary delegation from Soviet Russia and there are delegations from Russian satellites Czechoslovakia and East Germany, semi-independent Communist Poland and independent Communist Yugoslavia.

The delegations which have left were from West Germany, France and "neutralist" India.

The West German delegation, which enjoyed semi-official status, signed an agreement for an exchange of $54,700,000 worth of goods each way.

This represents only a tiny fraction of West Germany's total annual exports of $ billion dollars. But it is an indication of a trend. A similarly semi-official delegation of French economists also has left after long discussions in the possibility of trade.

It was announced on Saturday that the Red Chinese government will send an official delegation to Great Britain in mid-October to talk trade.

Relaxes Trade Restrictions
Britain has led the Western world in seeking increased trade with Communist China, and has drastically relaxed its restrictions on types of goods which may be sent there.

Britain also led the way among Allied countries in recognizing Red China. The recognition was accorded by a Labor government, which was then in office, on Jan. 6, 1950. That was immediately after the Communists swept the Nationalists off the mainland.

The Chinese did not respond. They snubbed the diplomatic envoy whom the Laborites sent to Peking. The respective embassies are still headed by charges d'affaires, not ambassadors. But this situation is likely to end soon.

Communist China is having its troubles. Its economy is suffering from growing pains. Even more than in other Communist countries, intellectuals and members of the Communist Party are beginning to question the acts of their leaders and Communist philosophy itself.

But Red China's prestige is beginning to rival that of Russia's in most of the Communist world. In the Far East, Chinese prestige is higher.

The Gold Standard

There have been all manner of "experts" telling us all manner of things about the gold standard. But for unmitigated nonsense it would be hard to beat the recent statement of a New York man, Dr. Franz Pick, in an address he made in Salt Lake City.

The burden of Dr. Pick's message was that a return to the gold standard at this time is impossible. The reason is, according to him, that there are insufficient gold stocks in the world to provide the backing for the currency, and other obligations in this country alone.

Dr. Pick is supposed to be an authority, too. He is the publisher of "Pick's World Currency Report," which is a respected trade item in a number of countries.

This does not mean that Dr. Pick's report in toto was ridiculous. On the contrary, he said a number of important things. For example, this is from the same speech which he addressed the Mining Congress in Salt Lake City:

"The U. S. monetary policy has done a perfect job of debasement of the yellow metal. This process, communicated to all other monetary administrations of the world, including the Soviet orbit, has pushed the gold price—in 1939 dollars—to its lowest level in history here and abroad. By this technique, running away from problems that could not be mastered, the government was able to show a fantastic prosperity, built up only on the loss of purchasing power of the monetary unit."

Now that's a fair statement of fact. But the idea that a return to a gold standard is impossible is even within the meaning of this second statement altogether untrue. In his second statement Dr. Pick reveals that the gold we once knew has been deliberately debased by government policy.

And, of course it is true that if the present debased gold dollar were relied upon to furnish redemption of our currency without freeing it from its deliberate debasement, why, Dr. Pick would be correct. At its present controlled level, there isn't enough gold in the world to cover the mammoth inflation we have been saddled with.

But what is to compel a continuation of our debasement of gold? Why, only a continuation of the same governmental policy which is one of flight in the face of reality. However, if gold were returned to the free market, it would, almost overnight, overcome its artificially controlled debasement and rise to its free market value . . . which in view of circumstances would be prodigious.

At the present time we are accustomed to think of gold as being worth $35 an ounce. But that is its controlled and debased value, not its real value. And real value can only be ascertained in a free market, anyway, where every individual has an equal chance to compete for gold reserves and thus set its value by means of trade and exchange.

Thus, if we sought to return to a gold standard, the primary first step would be to cause the government to stop its control of gold. Then in the free market, gold would be worth whatever everyone decided it was worth and nothing else would determine value.

If this occurred, gold, instead of being worth $35 per ounce, might find itself valued at $50 an ounce, or $100 an ounce, or even $500 or $1000 per ounce. And if gold is thus permitted to attain to its real value on the basis of the laws of supply and demand, we would certainly find that there was enough gold to serve as backing for the currency. Regardless of the supply, if the market is free, the supply would be adequate as a base for our currency.

And can you imagine the boom in our mining industry if gold were to be permitted to rise to its free market value? We can't imagine what that value would be, but in view of its present scarcity in this country it would be considerable. Let us just arbitrarily presume that its true market value would level off at about $100 per ounce. Immediately, mining gold would become a profitable enterprise. Right now, at its controlled price, it hardly pays to hire the miners. But at its real value, things would really cut loose.

With all due respect to Dr. Pick he could have served the Mining Congress much better if he had pointed out this fact, rather than going along with the administration policy that there is so little gold we can't trust it as a medium of redemption.

The Doctor Says

SINGLES OFTEN ESPECIALLY SERIOUS FOR OLDER PEOPLE

It is a little difficult to say whether shingles or herpes zoster should be classified as a disease of the nerves or a virus. Because as it may, this strange disorder is caused by a virus and does involve the nerves. Or perhaps one should say the nerves of feeling or sensation.

In a review of herpes zoster published in a leading medical journal 206 cases were analyzed. Among the 32 patients under the age of 20 with shingles the condition cleared up in 30 in 14 days or less. In four elderly patients the symptoms lasted six months or longer.

The first sign of the disease is usually a pain or burning sensation which is confined to some part of the body and to one side only. Why it should be one-sided is still not known.

It is particularly common around the chest, the hips, the abdomen and the face. It is particularly serious when the eyes become involved.

In the review just mentioned, involvement of the eye did not occur in patients under the age of 20. It appeared to become more common in more or less direct relationship to age.

Herpes may come on immediately after an acute infection like pneumonia or meningitis. Sometimes it develops without obvious cause and sometimes come in epidemics.

One of the curious features of shingles is its relationship to chicken pox. The virus particles of chicken pox and herpes zoster cannot be told apart by their physical appearance. Furthermore, there have been many reports of chicken pox occurring in people who came in contact with victims of shingles. Occasionally the opposite has been observed.

Many different kinds of treatment have been used for shingles. Soothing lotions or other preparations help a little. X-rays have been used with variable success. Antibiotics also may have some value. Anything which improves the general health is considered valuable. However, so far there is no single specific remedy.

In elderly people or those weakened by illness, herpes is often

Palaces For "Protectors"

Charles I. Faddis recites in the September "The Freeman" the experiences of former peoples and how they lost more and more of their freedom somewhat similar to how we are losing our freedom in the United States during this century.

Mr. Faddis is a former congressman from Pennsylvania and seems to have a clear picture of what is taking place in the United States. For a couple of days I am going to reproduce his article. He writes:

"The dissolution and fall of the Roman Empire left a vacuum of law enforcement in the Mediterranean Basin and in the region bordering it to the north. By virtue of a roaring-voice, a horse, a coat of mail, and a two-handed sword, many petty and ruthless men, calling themselves barons, popped into power—but history has termed many of them 'robber barons.' The secret of their success was rule by brute force. They took over a territory, called it their own, and administered its affairs as they willed.

"By threat of the two-handed sword, they persuaded the more simple-minded people within the scope of their power to build them castles on craggy heights overlooking tracts of fertile land, encouraging these toilers with frequent applications of the lash and occasional hangings. In these castles the barons and their henchmen lived and enforced the baronial will. Each baron divided the land around the base of his castle into small plots which he allotted to men for the purpose of tillage. The holders of these plots were the serfs of the barons, and each baron promised to protect 'his serfs' against the depredations of other barons if they would keep him in the luxury of the day. The serfs lived in squalor, the barons in luxury.

"The barons took a goodly share of the crops and animals and a certain amount of the time of the serfs, their wives, and children for labor in their fields and in their castles. They usurped and exercised the power of judgment and execution. Since their luxurious standards of living and their gauges of importance depended upon the number of their serfs, the latter were fixed to the land upon which they had been placed. Serfs were not allowed to move about or attempt to better themselves, all this being done in the name of their 'lord and sire'.

"The Myth of Security"
"Of course, the territory in which these benevolent plunderers conducted their so-called welfare operations was, in theory, ruled by some king or some wise right to rule and the bounds of whose kingdom were often doubtful. At the best, provision and supplies were never plentiful. The trains of pack mules were liable to be captured at almost any time or place by the marauders from the castles, who claimed that it was blessed to despoil the rich in order to enrich the poor—the barons, of course, getting the lion's share of the spoil. Since the kings did not have enough power or stability to chart a strong long-range policy, they were forced to resort to temporary measures in order to sustain themselves. Bribery, special favors, extraordinary privileges, immunities, and titles were bestowed upon blackmailers, in proportion to their ability to threaten the peace. Women were given in marriage, or otherwise, in order to secure allies and preserve the status quo which was ever the primary objective.

"The rights and liberties of the common people were of no concern when weighed against the lust of the barons for power. These masters tightened their hold without mercy until the serfs were slaves indeed. This condition was not brought suddenly by any decree of anyone in power. No indeed. Even the ignorant power-infatuated barons realized that they could not suddenly deprive a great number of people of all of their rights and liberties without bringing about a general uprising. Therefore, these rights and liberties were stolen a little at a time, under the pretext of necessity for security. Necessity has ever been the argument for tyrannical decrees. The most remarkable fact of the entire matter is that it was done to the very people who had always been so free and independent—the Germanic and Gallic people who had furnished the best warriors for the Roman Legions and who had even sacked Rome."

a particularly serious thing because it hangs on so long. The persistent pain is called postherpetic neuralgia.

When nothing else seems to work, cutting the nerve by surgery or other procedures on the nerves may have to be considered. Older people with nerve pain following shingles deserve the utmost sympathy. A study suggests progress in preventing postherpetic neuralgia may be made by more strenuous efforts to reduce the severity of acute attacks.

Senator Green Revives The Foreign Aid Fight

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Dulles-Hollister quarrel over the use of American taxpayers' money to finance foreign governments' socialist schemes has been revived in acute form by none other than Senator Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island. The Democratic Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has promised to make a sweeping investigation of this controversial question.

Green's immediate concern is the failure of Bolivia to compensate the American owners of the famous Paterno tin mines, which that country nationalized several years ago. But, in his written protest to the State Department, he warned that continued American support of other nations' adventures in socialization and nationalization might create a wrong and harmful impression of the American attitude on this problem.

It might convince other countries, he said, that the United States condones and approves the kind of totalitarian economy which we condemn in Russia and the satellites. He reminded Dulles that Americans have invested heavily abroad, and frequently at the solicitation of the State Department itself.

U. S. HELP TO BOLIVIA — "As time goes on, and as the United States continues to expend large sums to help the Bolivian Government (and many other similar regimes — Ed. note)," Green wrote the State Department, "we have identified more and more openly with the Bolivian Government."

"This is most unfortunate because it has led to misinterpretation of the United States Government's policy with respect to nationalization. The time has come, it seems to me, for clarification of this anomalous situation.

"We owe this, not merely to the people of the United States, who contribute to the support of Bolivia as taxpayers, but also to our many friends in countries in the Western Hemisphere, in Europe and in Asia, who look to the United States for clear and intelligent guidance in these troubled times."

AN EFFORT AT CLARIFICATION — In retiring as head of the International Co-Operation Administration, John B. Hollister tried to provide the "clarification" demanded by Senator Green. Without consulting Dulles, Hollister declared that the Administration would frown on financing nationalized industries and activities, giving preference to private borrowers.

Dulles tried to brush the controversy under his expansive diplomatic rug. Conceding that the U.S. preferred private development, he said that the mixed policy of underwriting both public and private enterprises would be continued.

CRACKER BARREL

Darryl Zanuck has put Ernest Hemingway's novel, "The Sun Also Rises," on the screen with great success. It deals with a period, back in the Twenties, when many of us liked to refer to ourselves as "THE LOST GENERATION."

It was a pretty hammy time of self-dramatization for most of us. Those of us who didn't get over it used it as a pretty feeble excuse for wasteful, undisciplined lives. I learned with considerable shock the other day, when I read a new novel, "Chocolates For Breakfast," that many of today's kids are calling themselves a new "LOST GENERATION." The idea's still soporific. There are opportunities for successful accomplishment in every era. And it might be worth pointing out the fact that while certain drones were self-consciously setting themselves in the Twenties, both Hemingway and Zanuck were energetically building the beginnings of useful careers. And at the present moment, you can be pretty sure, unpretentious young people are doing the same thing.

Mac To Pompeii: 'See You Later, Crater'

By HENRY McLEMORE

POMPEII — Yes, I'm still here, sitting on the same marble block, from which I sent my last dispatch. And don't be surprised if you get another from the same spot, for I am lost in this city of ashes and lava.

I have a map of Pompeii with me, but you can imagine what good it is to me with the streets numbered and named in Latin. I studied Latin once, but that was back about the same time Pompeii was covered up and about all I can remember is E Pluribus Unum and Caveat Empior.

My only hope of getting out rests in the guided tour coming back this way. I was warned against dropping behind, but foolishly believed that I could find my way to a gate by following the chariot tracks worn in the paving blocks of the street.

I tried this, but it didn't work. The chariot track I traced must have been made by a driver who was lost himself, because it went around in circles and always ended up at the ruins of the Temple of Apollo. Incidentally, when you look at ruins you are almost sure to be looking either at the Temple of Apollo or the Temple of Venus. Every other building was dedicated to them, and this is a great help in remembering what you have seen.

The marble block I am sitting on is right in the middle of a street. It is one of three, about a foot and a half high, and was used by pedestrians for stepping stones when it was raining and the streets were flooded.

Straight ahead, several miles away, is the cone of Vesuvius, which caused Pompeii to look the way it does. If worst comes to worst and the guide gets lost, too, and never comes back this way, I can aim my steps at Vesuvius and finally reach Naples.

Of course, I don't know any more about Naples than I do Pompeii, but I do know that "Albergo" means hotel in Italian, and could rent a room until help arrives.

There are hotels in Pompeii, but they are not in such good shape. Most of them have only one wall standing, and I haven't laid eyes on a bell captain, yet. All the rooms have a view, though—quite a view. And you can't beat Pompeii's climate at this time of year—warm sun, gentle breeze, and skies as blue as the Bay of Naples, which is as blue as a fifty-cent bottle of ink.

Right around the corner from where I am lost is a shopping street; or what was once a shopping street. Both sides are lined with small stall-like stores where, I imagine, there used to be clearance sales of togas and, after the fire sale of all time. Now the wreckage, just about the biggest downs, offer nothing more to the eyes of the shopper than broken pottery, smashed olive presses, and scurrying lizards.

The shadows are lengthening, and as the guide hasn't shown up and I haven't any desire to spend the night with the ghost of Nero, I had better head for Vesuvius. See you later, crater!

It's Up To You

Rent Control, Or, How To Pick Landlord's Pocket

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

"The people have scored an impressive victory" said Governor Harriman of New York as he approved a two-year extension of the residential rent control.

The victory of the people consists in being able legally to pick the pockets of the landlords. By using the coercive power of the state they are able to obtain a part of the wealth of others.

If there were more landlords than tenants, how horrified the politicians would be at the very thought of rent control.

Governor Harriman should not say "The people have scored an impressive victory," for landlords also are people. He should have said "the state has used its power to rob some of the people and give the swag to others."

Politicians think they are safe as long as they rob a minority on behalf of a majority. They forget the Commandment against coveting and stealing, and they forget that although the mills of the gods grind slowly they grind exceedingly small. The laws of God cannot be violated with impunity.

A continuation of the policy of robbing some for the benefit of others will decapitalize our country, reduce our prosperity, and eventually destroy our freedom and our free government.

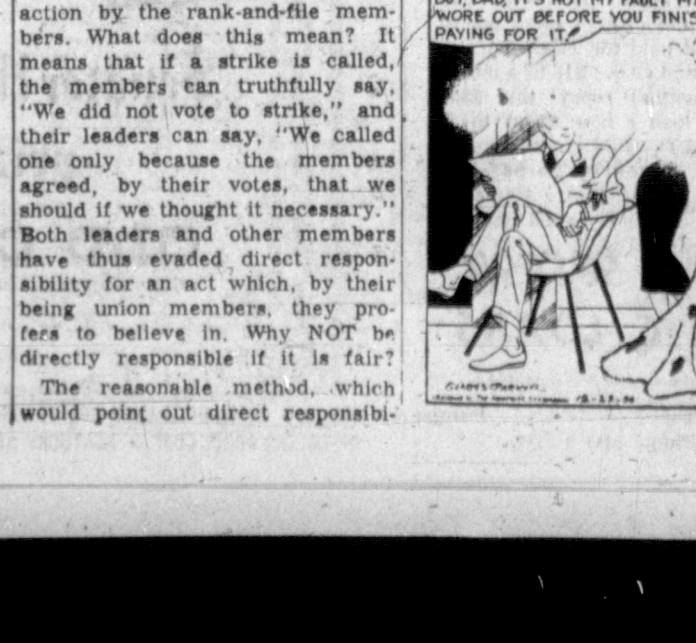

If men will not discipline themselves by observing the moral law of God as set forth in the Ten Commandments, then they will be disciplined by the authoritarian government which will arise in place thereof.

lity for a strike, would be for the rank-and-file members to vote to strike or not strike, not authorize leaders to call one if they choose. Why should the members unnecessarily allow a few leaders to decide a fate which is usually so costly and unpleasant to the members? Could it be because most members are opposed to striking and picketing, and would vote NOT to strike?

Any who still maintain that strikes are not unfair can surely understand that it is unfair for the one government of both union and employers to allow only one, the union, to use a method of force which no one is allowed.

Sincerely,
R. J. Thornthorn
