AROUND THE WORLD

TURNABOUT—Reversing the regular procedure, Charles Quinn lies in the position usually reserved for a slain deer, while the animal takes over the driving duties behind the wheel of the auto in New Bedford, Mass. It's all a take-off on the typical hunting picture normally in evidence at this time of the year.

NICE ON ICE—Greta Thysen, former "Miss Denmark," and now making a career in movies over here, makes like a hockey player on the ice skating rink in Grossinger, N. Y. Greta was enjoying a brief vacation between movies and some television commitments.

Stories Include Rain Heavy rains pounded the tornado swept Midwestern communities Thursday, hampering the search for more possible victims.

In Washington, the government announced it has designated six counties in Missouri and five in Illinois as disaster areas as a result of the widespread tornado damage.

In Murphysboro, Sheriff Howard Cheatham said 178 were injured in the storm. Two of the injured continued in critical condition.

"There's no telling how much damage is done," Cheatham said Thursday night. He said between 100 and 150 homes were demolished and at least that many more damaged. About 300 persons were homeless.

Border Towns To Undergo US Inspection

HOUSTON (UP)—Mexican border towns from Tijuana to Matamoros are in for a sweeping investigation of vice and other problems.

Newly-appointed U.S. Ambassador Robert Hill disclosed Thursday he will make a two-week tour of Mexico's border towns, beginning Jan. 6. He and Mrs. Hill are en route, driving, to Mexico City.

Hill said he is aware that problems concerning dope and prostitution exist in Mexico's border towns and affect American tourists.

"I have been reading the embassy files in Mexico City and I feel such a trip is necessary," he said. "The last time these border towns were visited by an American official was in the late 1930s."

Hill said he would report his findings to the U.S. State Department.

Missilemen Expected To Take A Break

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—Missilemen expected to take a breather today, now that they have successfully fired three of this country's biggest "birds."

There were still unconfirmed reports of an Atlas shoot to wind up the week, but an informed source said the big intercontinental missile would not be fired again until after the first of the year.

The firing of a Thor Thursday left only the Atlas visible in its tower at the Cape. Small missiles such as the Snark and Bomarc, which do not stand in service towers, were believed in launching areas at the test center.

It was also reported that another Vanguard satellite - carrying rocket had been placed in its service tower, but was not expected to be fired until after the new year.

The intermediate range Thor put on a breakthrough show Thursday. The white missile was fired a few minutes before 3 p.m. e.s.t. and rose higher and higher into a clear blue sky until it was just a dot streaking southeastward over the Atlantic. It was one of the prettiest daylight shoots in some time.

The Defense Department announced afterward the missile had flown "its prescribed course and landed in the pre-selected impact area."

Super Secret Report Warns Of Red Might

WASHINGTON (UP)—A super-secret report prepared for the White House warns that Russian military might poses so grave a threat to the nation that nothing short of an all-out defense buildup can stave off "catastrophe," it was reported today.

The Washington Post and Times Herald said the Gaither Committee report pictures the nation "in the gravest danger in its history" and "moving in frightening course to the status of second-class power."

In a copyrighted story, the newspaper said that even with the enormously more expensive military buildup recommended this country cannot match Russia's missile might before 1960 or 1961. At the same time, it said, the report shows that America lies exposed "to an almost immediate threat from the missile-bridling Soviet Union."

Of first priority, the report recommended a rapidly rising military budget through 1970, reaching in the years 1960 and 1961 a peak of about eight billion dollars above the current defense outlay of 38 billion dollars.

The group recommended for second priority a bomb shelter program costing another five billion dollars a year for the next four or five years to protect the population against radioactive fallout.

Safety Council Estimates Deaths And Wives Have Party

CHICAGO (UP)—The National Safety Council has estimated that as many as 180 persons will be killed in the 30-hour Christmas holiday from 6 p.m. Tuesday to midnight Wednesday.

The average fatality toll for a similar non-holiday period in December is 80.

Council President Ned H. Dearborn said Thursday night the traffic toll could be held to the normal figure if drivers refrain from drinking, if they slow down and if they "practice patience, courtesy and kindness toward others."

"Even a minor accident can spoil somebody's Christmas," Dearborn cautioned.

"Surely there is no place where the Christmas spirit of 'good will toward men' can be put into more practical application than behind the wheel of a car."

Dulles Flies To Franco Briefing

MADRID (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was flying here from Paris today to brief Generalissimo Francisco Franco on the results of the NATO summit conference.

Informed sources in Paris said the United States would be inclined to agree to station U.S. missiles on Spanish soil if Franco asks for them, even though Spain is not a NATO member. But there was no indication whether either Franco or Dulles would make such a suggestion today.

The two were expected to range

Toastmasters And Wives Have Party

The wives of members of the Pampa Toastmasters Club were entertained with a Christmas Party at Poole's Steak House Tuesday night during the meeting of the club.

The party began with a social hour at 6:15 and a steak dinner was served at 7.

Highlight of the evening was a talk by Judge Bruce Parker on "Youth and Their Problems." He stressed the fact that parents do not spend enough time with their children and in a very serious vein drove home a point when he stated that the parents complain about their children leaving fingerprints upon the walls of their homes when they are small, but how nice it would be if they would continue to do this when they become teenagers instead of leaving their fingerprints on a police blotter.

After a short business meeting, during which Joe Pafford was elected secretary to replace Neal Olson, who has been transferred to Levelland, the party continued with a cards social and the center pieces were given as favors to the winning couples.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Evans were guests of the club at the party.

Dallas Man Shoots Self, Sons, Wife

DALLAS (UP)—A 44-year-old former Marine lieutenant shot and killed his two sons and his wife, then turned a gun on himself Thursday in their home in Highland Park, a fashionable Dallas suburb.

A justice of the peace ruled triple murder and suicide in the deaths of James B. Ramsey, his wife Ruth, 44, and their two sons, Jimmy 13, and Dick 8. Ramsey was an employe in the tax department of the Texas Power and Light Co. Police said they had not discovered any motive for the killings.

The World War II veteran had fired two bullets into each member of his family, police said. The youngest boy was found in his bed, and police said it looked as though he had been shot as he lay sleeping. Jimmy was lying in a bedroom doorway, with two bullet wounds in his back.

Ramsey and his wife were found lying side by side in a hallway, dressed in nightclothes.

The breakfast table in the home still had food on it, while a partly-decorated Christmas tree and four red stockings were found in the living room.

The four bodies were discovered late Thursday when a district manager for a Dallas newspaper, Roger Lawson, went by the house to see why Jimmy hadn't delivered his newspaper route.

Little Rock People Are Tired Of Crisis

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Army has progressively reduced the number of troops guarding Central High School.

At the peak of tension just September there were 1,000 regular paratroopers and 10,500 federalized Arkansas guardsmen under the command of Maj. Gen. Edwin H. Walker in Little Rock. Today Walker's force consists of 432 guardsmen, of whom less than 50 are actually stationed at the high school.

This change reflects the Army's judgment—in which Little Rock leaders concur—that this city is no longer in the frame of mind that produces mob action. It is not that opposition to integration has disappeared or even waned. People are simply fed up with crisis. They'd rather talk about Christmas presents, or the new football coach at Arkansas University, or almost anything except the "unfortunate situation" at Central High School.

Hard to Find
And yet—the hardest thing to find in Little Rock today is a person who will say that the time has come to withdraw all of the troops.

So long as one federal soldier stands on the steps of Central High, the United States Army bears the responsibility for enforcing integration there. And, for different reasons, all of the numerous factions in divided Little Rock seem to want the Army to keep that responsibility for the present.

The view of many parents, teachers and school officials was expressed by Supt. of Schools Virgil T. Blossom: "We are interested in the safety of the school children. Under present circumstances, good judgment does not indicate that their safety can be assured if all the troops are withdrawn."

Good for Faubus
Supporters of Gov. Orval E. Faubus believe that "military occupation" is an issue on which Faubus can easily win a third term as governor. They are not anxious to lose the issue before next year's primary.

Extreme segregationist groups regard the continued presence of the troops as a sort of victory for their cause. "Integration is a flop on the face of it as long as they have to keep soldiers in the school," said Amis Guthridge, leader of the White Citizens Council.

Some of Faubus' opponents say it is entirely proper for federal authority—represented by the troops—to bear the burden of enforcing an unpopular integration order handed down by a federal court.

"The federal government got us into this mess," said one embittered local official. "Now they tell us that we've got to quit using the Army as a 'leaning post.' But why should enforcing a federal court's orders be a 'local responsibility. They don't ask local police to enforce the U.S. income tax laws."

Bitter Complaint
This attitude, which was expressed by many prominent citizens identified with the "moderate" viewpoint, was usually accompanied by a bitter complaint against the failure of the Justice Department to prosecute the leaders of last September's mob violence.

Although no one was willing to be quoted by name on this point, a reporter was told repeatedly that respect for law and order will never be restored in Little Rock until the federal government indicts and tries some of the agitators on whom FBI agents compiled thick dossiers of evidence in September. So far there has been no move in this direction.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said at a news conference in Washington last week that he feels "we ought to give the Little Rock matter a chance to rest for a while." This remark was interpreted here to mean that no prosecutions are planned—at least until after Rogers clears the hurdle of Senate confirmation. His appointment is due to come up next month for consideration by the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss.).

Group Raises Funds
Another group of "moderates" which includes several prominent ministers and civic leaders, is trying to raise funds by private subscription to hire a special guard force for Central High. These guards would not be regular members of the police force, but would be "deputized" for the specific duty of patrolling the school.

It is felt that this plan will assure protection of the school children without placing on the new city government (elected last month in a close-shave race with a segregationist slate) the onus of "enforcing integration."

Where does Gov. Faubus stand in all this maneuvering? He has had comparatively little to say about the matter recently. Some of his political foes believe he is trying to regain moderate support which he lost last fall. Others suspect he is biding his time until spring when he will call the Legislature into special session to enact a law closing any school that has troops stationed at it.

Faubus Disloses
Faubus himself, in an interview at the governor's mansion, suggested that he has a "plan" for resolving the Central High impasse. But he said he is "not ready to disclose it yet."

The governor said opposition to integration is still strong here, and that it seems to have been "increased rather than diminished by the use of troops."

But he expressed the belief that a "new atmosphere" is gradually being created in which "people on both sides can look at various proposals calmly and objectively, and decide which is the best approach."

"There is no need now to waste a lot of time trying to place the blame for what has happened," he said. "History in assessing this situation may well decide that mistakes were made on both sides."

SHOPPERS WATCH FIRE
LOS ANGELES (UP)—Hundreds of Christmas shoppers Wednesday night watched a spectacular, three-alarm fire in downtown Los Angeles which brought injury to six persons and caused an estimated $100,000 damage.

ON THE BEACH

With his uncle, scientist John Osborne discussed the rodents drifting toward Melbourne. "We're going to be the last major city," said Osborne. "The last to die will be the Indians in Tierra del Fuego."

"That's not the end of life upon earth. Dogs will outlive mice. Mice will last a lot longer but not so long as rabbits. Of course, there'll be nothing alive by the end of next year."

"The rabbit" gloomed Osborne's uncle. "After all we've done fighting him—to know that he's going to win out in the end!"

Modern Children Still Believe In Santa Claus

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—A stable note in our frantic world came today from one of the nation's busiest men at holiday time, the Santa Claus stationed in the Rockefeller Center area.

Modern children have just as firm a belief in Santa Claus as we did when we were small, said John Matison, 64, a sidewalk Kris Kringle for the Volunteers of America.

And their tastes in toys are just as old-fashioned, he said. This, despite the 1957 array of scientific and outer-space playthings from Sputnik helmets to satellite launchers.

Talking Doll Inevitable
"The girls inevitably ask for a talking doll," said the rosy-cheeked Kris. "The boys, for trains and bikes. Same routine every year."

Matison, who at 240 pounds looks like a Santa right out of central casting, has been ringing the bell for the Volunteers for nine years, each year in the same area.

The Volunteers, a national social welfare organization, use funds tossed into the sidewalk chimneys to aid the homeless, rehabilitate the socially or physically handicapped, for special services to the aged, and such.

and railroader. Now, when his Santa role ends Christmas Eve, he will return to work as a doorman.

"But I like being Santa," said Matison. "It keeps me from getting lonesome. This time of the year, everybody's smiling and cheerful. . . I often think it's a shame the Christmas spirit doesn't last longer."

Matison has no family other than a brother, 72, at Sailor's Snug Harbor, on Staten Island. The two will spend Christmas Day together.

Asks Only Good Health
"What do I ask for Christmas? Only for good health," said he.

"We Santas find some skeptics, mostly among the 'older children,'" said Matison. "And there are a lot of greedy ones. I remember one little boy who summed up his wishes in one brief comment—'Everything in Macy's window.'"

Another one reeled off a list which would fill a warehouse.

"I told him, 'Well you can't get all that. . . but maybe some. I'll have to take it up with the big Santa at the North Pole.'"

"The grateful father standing nearby tossed a couple of bucks into the chimney," said Matison. "Then there are the shy chil-

Dulles' Spain Visit Big To Defense?

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The visit of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to Spain may be a big development in the new plans for European defense.

Dulles is to fly to Madrid Saturday, on his way home from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris, to talk to Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

It will be only a five-hour visit. But it could turn out to be secondary in importance only to the Paris meeting itself.

Spain is not a member of the NATO alliance. But it is closely, if indirectly, tied in with NATO. This is because of the seldom-mentioned fact that under an agreement with Franco, the United States is building a network of air, naval and supply bases all over the country.

Dulles, Franco "Consult" The official announcement of Dulles' visit, first issued in Madrid, said that the visit was being made at Franco's invitation.

Dulles will "consult" with Franco, Foreign Minister Fernando Maria Castiella and other officials, it was said.

naturally will give Franco a full report of the NATO meeting which ends today, including the agreement in principle of Western European countries to the establishment of nuclear missile bases on their territory.

It is an agreement in principle, rather than of fact, because the question of equipping the bases with missiles is still to be negotiated between the United States and the individual countries concerned. As has been made plain in Paris, some of these countries do not want the missiles. Dulles may sound out Franco on the possibility of setting up missile bases in Spain. If he does, it is not only possible but probable that Franco would agree to consider the suggestion favorably.

France called "Totalitarian." That may be. But Franco also is a bitter enemy of Communism. And his country, protected by the grim Pyrenees Mountains, would be the last bulwark of defense if Russia's Red army swept over Western Europe.

France has intimated that he would join NATO if all of its present 15 members asked him to. The fear of Russian Communist aggression is pretty nearly as acute now as it was when NATO was formed in 1949.

Life Memberships And School Project Discussed At Baker PTA Board Meet

The B. M. Baker PTA executive board met in the office of John Evans recently. Mrs. R. A. Mack presided, opened the meeting and requested the secretary's report from Mrs. Evans Jones and report of the treasurer from Mrs. D. L. Martindale.

It was announced that Mrs. Aubrey Jones' third grade room won the November room count prize. Plans were discussed for the cake parties, which were won by each grade in the membership drive. It was decided to postpone the parties until after Christmas, if this met with the approval of the winners.

Mr. Evans announced that there will be a school assembly program on Dec. 20 at 1:15 p.m. in the school. All parents are invited to attend.

Mrs. Clifford Gage reported on the City Council PTA Meeting and informed the members that Mrs. Mack had been elected City Council president. Mrs. Gage also reported that a joint meeting will be held with all PTA units on Jan. 24 in the Junior high auditorium.

A discussion was held on the subject of PTA Life Memberships to be given by the unit this year. Mrs. Mack explained the purpose of the Life Memberships, stating that these funds are used to help education majors during their junior and senior years in college in order that they may complete their educations. It was agreed that Miss Alma Wilson, life membership chairman, would proceed with the nomination of a Life Member.

Discussion was held on the subject of the project for the school this year. It was agreed that an amount of money will be allotted for each grade to use as they see fit in the purchase of whatever they wish to have.

Mr. Evans reported on the PTA convention in Galveston, stating the speech made by Miss Waurine Walker was interesting and informative. Quoting Miss Walker, he said, "Every man is a sovereign in his own right and must be allowed an education. She went on to tell of Russia, where only 3 per cent of the people are allowed the privilege of a high school education." Mr. Evans also read an amusing paraphrase called, "Hawatha At Convention."

Mrs. Mack then reported her impressions of the convention. She told of a "Buss Session" which she attended along with a group, which came from the southern part of the state, for the most part. She reported that she was surprised that their PTA problems differ local problems. Mrs. Mack closed the meeting by reading an inspirational Christmas message from Mrs. W. D. DiGrassi, state president.

Those present were Mmes. Mack, Jones, Martindale, Elmer Darnell, J. H. Trotter, Carlos Grissom, Clifford Gage, Don Haynes, Warren Jackson, and Mr. John Evans.

"Peace on earth and good will to all men."

That is the way Mrs. Fred Straus, Seguin, vice president for Women's Activities of the Texas Safety Association, summed up the holiday traffic hazards program being conducted by TSA as a prelude to an all out traffic safety drive in 1958.

"Everyone has a moral responsibility to his neighbor to drive safely," she said. "A little consideration and common sense can go a long way in preventing traffic accidents."

Mrs. Straus points out that though we celebrate the most joyous observance of the year in December, this is also the month when traffic deaths reach their peak. The conviviality of the season causes people to relax their guard and thus contribute greatly to the traffic death toll.

"That is why we ask the public to cooperate with the Texas Safety Association in enlarging the Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents campaign in Texas. The attack has been stepped up during December to arouse more people to fight holiday hazards and cut down the holiday traffic death toll," Mrs. Straus said.

"During this season every driver and pedestrian should dedicate his efforts toward making the season and the year following a safe one. Our goal must be the conversion of the potential dangers inherent in the holiday season into sound sensible safety behavior," she added. "And, remember, it's more blessed to give, than to take chances."

Mrs. Straus also urged that each person re-examine his responsibility toward the entire problem of traffic safety, because individual acceptance of the rules of safety is a vital part of the accident prevention program.

Sunshine Unit Installs New HDC Officers
The Sunshine Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. V. E. Wagner recently at 1:30 p.m. for the club's annual Christmas party and for installation of officers.

Miss Helen Dunlap, home demonstration agent, installed the following officers: Misses Jim King, president; V. E. Wagner, vice president; John Mobley, council delegate; and Cordie McBride, secretary and treasurer.

Gifts were exchanged by the group and refreshments of fruit cake, whipped cream and coffee were served to the seven members and Miss Dunlap, guest.

There's a trick to whipping cream successfully that bears repeating for the beginner in cooking. First, use a small, deep bowl. Chill bowl, beater and cream. Whip cream with a rotary beater until thickened. At this point add sugar to taste and continue whipping until cream bears up in peaks.

Published Book Is By Local Authors

A new book, just off the Clarendon Press, tells the story of a woman, who came to Oklahoma at eighteen years of age, married a young oilfield roustabout; did goat-roping and calf-roping in the local Wild West Shows as a hobby; and who rode her first bronc at the Sunday try-outs of the 101 Ranch Show, while employed there. "The Rawhide Tree," by Ocie Wilson of Wheeler, formerly of Pampa and Miami, and Cleo Tom Terry, Rt. 1, Skellytown, is the story of Florence "Grandma" Reynolds, horse-woman, animal-trainer, wife, mother, and grandmother.

Copies of the book may be obtained from Mrs. Wilson, Box 57, Wheeler, Mrs. Terry, Rt. 1, Skellytown, or "Grandma" Reynolds in Fritch, Texas. All books ordered by mail, will be autographed. Copies sell for $3.75 and $4.75, plus postage, or will be mailed a n y - where COD.

The authors of the book plan a book-review, sponsored by a local group, sometime after the holidays.

Busy Bees Present Christmas Play

The Busy Bee Kindergarten Class of Miss Mary Lou Douglas recently gave a Christmas play, "The First Christmas," in the First Baptist Church. Appearing in the production were Gail Duncan as Mary; Ricky Pate as Joseph; Mark Lang, Bruce Kenworthy and Barry George, shepherds; Tollie Genks, Boots Thornburg and Todd Waggoner, Wise Men.

The Angel Choir was composed of Becky Montgomery, Edith Waggoner, Terry Ann Culley, Della Thornburg, Mike and Phill McNeily, Ronnie and Marieke Lang. Mrs. Roger Ray accompanied the group at the piano. Narration was by Mary Lou Douglas.

You won't go amiss if you paint the surface of fruit cake batter with milk just before setting the pans in the oven. According to cooking experts at Meadow Gold Dairies the slight additional moisture of the milk produces a shiny glaze.

If you buy more than enough dairy eggnog for the holidays, place part of it in the freezer. Quality dairy eggnog, point out Meadow Gold Dairies, will freeze well right in its handy carton. When thawed, it can be used as you wish.
