Macmillan Proposes Non-Aggression Pact

LONDON, Jan. 4 (UP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan today proposed a Western non-aggression pact with Russia that might "get the path ready" for a summit conference on East-West issues.

Ike Studies Reply To Bulganin

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—President Eisenhower is studying this weekend a "positive" reply to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's barrage of peace talk proposals, informed sources said today.

His decision, expected to be made Sunday or Monday, may settle the clash between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and disarmament adviser Harold E. Stassen on when and how to seek an East-West truce in the arms race.

The reply to the Kremlin was drafted by Dulles and given to the President shortly before he returned to his Gettysburg farm for the weekend. It is likely to be discussed at the National Security Council session here Monday, then go to Paris for "common front" clearance with other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council, which meets Wednesday.

Other NATO nations also are drafting letters to Bulganin.

The Soviet premier, in a flurry of letters to Western leaders just before last month's NATO meeting, called for an East-West "summit" meeting, an end to nuclear weapons testing, a non-aggression treaty between NATO and the Communist Warsaw pact nations, a semi-neutralized European zone through Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and other steps.

Preliminary U. S. reaction was that the Soviet letter was a thinly veiled attempt to influence the NATO conference. Some other NATO partners took the letters more seriously.

Officials described the Dulles draft as "positive" but declined to give any details. It follows the lines of administration thinking so far, however. It seeks to postpone the East-West summit conference until specific efforts are made to solve individual international problems, such as a start on disarmament and German unification.

Pair Reunited After Thirty Years Apart

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer

Roy Blackstock had for seven years thought his older sister, Mrs. J. S. Standlee, was dead and, last week, she called him to see if the "Roy Blackstock" listed in the Pampa telephone directory was her brother after receiving a letter from another brother who lives near Waco stating that he thought Roy Blackstock was residing somewhere in the Pampa area.

Her telephone call revealed that it was her brother whom she had lost contact with in the latter part of 1926 or early 1927. Neither of them knew where the other was and Blackstock stated, "We, my wife and I, travel a lot in the oil field, and it is very easy to lose track of folks." Mrs. Standlee, as far as Blackstock knew, had been living in California.

Blackstock received word of her death seven years ago and didn't try to look up the rest of her family as he had not seen them since they were very small children and didn't know complete names of any of them.

The death notice was actually that of Mrs. Standlee's son and she had been living in Pampa for the last two years, as have the Blackstocks.

Roy Blackstock and his sister were raised around Gatesville, and had many things to discuss upon their unexpected reunion. Blackstock stated that to see his sister and pictures of his brothers and sisters which he thought were lost was "just like having a good dream and never waking up."

Blackstock and Mrs. Standlee have for the past two years gone to the same doctor, been in the same hospital, and lived within a few blocks of each other without either knowing the whereabouts of the other one.

mit conference on East-West issues. In a broadcast to the nation on the NATO chiefs conference in Paris last month, Macmillan emphasized the need for the West to maintain its defenses but reflected growing Western European sentiment for a meeting with the Russians at the highest level—something Russia long has urged and the United States has opposed.

Macmillan said negotiations with the Russians could have as their object "to clear away the rubble of old controversies and disagreements, perhaps to get the path ready for a meeting of the heads of government."

He said this could be done either through regular diplomatic channels or by a meeting of foreign ministers.

Russia rejected the NATO proposal for a foreign ministers meeting on disarmament and urged again a summit conference.

The prime minister said a non-aggression pact "would do no harm. It might do some good." Russia already has approved the idea of such a treaty.

But Macmillan warned that the West must keep up its guard by maintaining its nuclear bomber fleets and preparing for ballistic missile bases to be provided by the U.S.

His speech contained a new conciliatory tone which may foreshadow his soon-to-be-delivered answer to Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin's "peace plea" letter to Western leaders before the December NATO conference.

"I start the new year in a spirit of confidence," the prime minister told his radio audience.

Moisture Here Totals .34 Inch

Pampa and surrounding areas had a slight fall of moisture yesterday before noon in the form of rain, sleet and finally a flurry of snow that fell from around 7 a.m. until 10:30 a.m.

Rain gauges measured .34 inch yesterday at approximately 12 noon with no moisture falling in the afternoon and early night.

It started snowing again late last night, however.

The low Friday night was 26 degrees in Pampa with a high yesterday of 39 degrees.

The temperatures were to drop again last night with 24 degrees predicted as a low in this area. High for today is expected to be 36.

The last meeting place of the pair, according to Mrs. Blackstock, they "haven't had enough time in the last week to half cover the things" they wish to talk about.

REUNITED—Roy Blackstock, 207 Montagu, and his sister, Mrs. J. S. Standlee, 1213 N. Hobart, look over pictures of their childhood after being reunited last week following over 30 years of separation. Mrs. Standlee was mistakenly reported dead to Blackstock over seven years ago and a week ago called him to see if the name in the telephone directory was really her brother. Pampan Killed In Shooting

Murder Charges Filed By District Attorney

By FRED PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

A charge of murder with malice was filed by District Attorney Bill Waters last night against Eugene "Little Possum" Grice, 52, 505 Elm, in connection with the fatal shooting at about 6:15 last night of Matiga Washington, 51, 845 S. Somerville.

The shooting occurred in the American Legion Drive in 709 S. Gray. Both men are Pampa negroes.

Mr. Washington was dead when city officers arrived at the shooting scene at 6:20 p.m.

According to Eddie Williams, who was sitting on the stool next to Mr. Washington at the time of the shooting, Grice entered the front door of the establishment and started shooting.

Williams told The News that he heard at least five shots fired and then the pistol clicked several times.

According to Williams, Mr. Washington attempted to reach Grice, but was stopped by the bullets. The body was lying in the doorway of the cafe when the officers arrived.

Following the shooting, Grice turned himself in at the sheriff's office. He gave Dan Cambern, deputy sheriff, a .32 caliber "Owl-head" revolver which he said had been used in the shooting.

Investigation by officers revealed that four bullets had entered Mr. Washington's body. One of the bullets entered the upper portion of his chest on the right side. Another bullet had passed through his belt, near the buckle, one had entered the left side of the chest (See MURDER, Page 2)

Sub-Normal Rainfall In Some Areas

FORT WORTH, Jan. 4 (UP)—Despite the heavy rains in Texas during 1957, which broke records that had stood for years in many places, some isolated spots in the state actually received sub-normal rainfall.

The vagaries of the weather were again brought out by the U.S. Weather Bureau which released today a year-end survey made by the weather bureau state climatologist at Austin.

For instance, Midland-Odessa reported total rainfall for the year of 15.58 inches, 62 of an inch below the yearly normal, and Galveston's 37.31 inches was 7.88 inches below the normal.

Bland Points Out Robert Bland, weather bureau meteorologist, was quick to point out however that towns in the immediate vicinity of these stations may have received above-normal rainfall, so spotted were the rains.

Bland also noted that much of West Texas was still left high and dry after the spring rains that drenched other parts of the state.

El Paso, for example, did not reach normal rainfall until summer was almost gone. El Paso finally received 11.29 inches for the year, 3.37 inches above normal.

Taking the state as a whole, however, 1957 probably will be referred to in the future as the year of the rains—the year the seven-year drought was broken.

Most in 50 Years The most rain in a half-century fell in Dallas, which recorded 55.14 inches, 20.72 inches above normal. Fort Worth was 14.80 inches above normal with a total rainfall of 50.49 inches.

New records for the past 25 years were set at Austin, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Waco. Austin had a total of 51.30 inches; San Antonio 48.83; and Waco 48.91.

In the South Plains, Lubbock got 24.56 inches for the year, 5.67 inches above normal, and in the Panhandle, Amarillo received 21.24 inches, just .12 of an inch above normal.

The greatest total amount in the state was reported at Fort Arthur-Beaumont, which had 66.26 inches, while Houston, recorded 61.11 inches, 14.18 inches above normal, the second largest amount in the state.

Other scattered stations—only the major stations were reported—included Brownsville 32.40 inches; Abilene 36.65; Corpus Christi 28.00; Laredo 20.06; San Angelo 22.16; Victoria 47.55; and Wichita Falls 41.60.

All these were above normal except Corpus Christi, which received exactly its normal amount.

March Of Dimes Drive Underway

The Gray county March of Dimes drive got underway in Pampa Saturday with the blue crutch street corner sale by members of the Pampa High School Future Nurses Club.

Also Saturday, members of Boy Scout Troop 14 placed March of Dimes posters in stores in the downtown area and in other business sections.

Kay Fancher, county drive chairman, reported that the money brought in by the blue crutch sale will be counted probably Monday or Tuesday and a report will be given.

The Future Nurses were sponsored in their blue crutch sales activities by Mrs. Don Baker, Mrs. Carl Lang and the teacher-sponsor, Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter.

Jack Miller, city chairman, met with the chairman of the special events committee Friday night to set up dates for various activities to be conducted on behalf of the drive this year such as the street corner collections by civic clubs, telephone, etc.

Miller has reported that he is pleased with the organization of the drive in the city of Pampa. Miller said the fire department will be putting out canisters in local stores Monday to get that phase of the campaign underway.

Fancher, who said, "We are in just as dire a need for funds now as we were before Salk vaccine," remarked that two or three downtown stores were going to request persons who asked to use the store's private phone to "put something in the March of Dimes canister."

On the county level, Fancher was in McLean and Lefors Friday checking on plans and distributing materials to help workers in the campaign.

J. R. Sparkman is chairman of the drive in Lefors and received his materials from Fancher Friday. The drive is "just about ready to get underway" in Lefors.

In McLean, Hickman Brown is chairman of the drive. Fancher reported that Brown "has things well organized and is planning a number of activities to raise funds for the drive, including a high school talent show." The Mothers' March on Polio is also organized in McLean; however, the "March" date has not yet been set.

Miller reported that the "March of Dimes mailers" requesting contributions should be in the mail sometime this week. Those mailers being sent out in Pampa have been prepared by Mrs. Kenneth Meyers, an employee in the City Water Department.

The theme of the campaign this year is "Survival is Not Enough," an attempt by the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation to focus on rehabilitation of polio victims. Fancher reported that several Pampa patients are in the rehabilitation phase now, including one youth who is at Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for treatment. It costs the local polio chapter "something like" $1,000 a month to keep the youth in the treatment center.

The campaign setup in Pampa is as follows: Fancher, county chairman, Miller, city chairman; Jimmy Thompson, advance gifts chairman; Norman Henry, business and labor; Lucien Young, special events; Homer Craig, school collections; Mrs. R. A. Mack, Mothers' March; Jim Wilks, publicity; Mrs. Adrian Foster, speakers; Mack Hiatt, treasurer; and Alton Tygerson and Martha Gordon, co-chairmen of the Texas Against Polio Society (TAPS).

Pilot Says He Was Off Course

LONDON, Jan. 4 (UP)—The pilot of a British freighter plane released by Albania today said the Albanians treated him and his fellow crew-members "like royalty" after they were convinced he had violated Albanian airspace in a "genuine mistake."

Pilot Marian Kozubski flew his DC-7 Skymaster home to Britain today. He said he strayed over Communist territory Tuesday during bad weather and that two Russian-built MIG jet fighters fired machineguns ahead of his plane to force it down.

However, he said Albanian officials accepted his explanation.

Kozubski reported the details of the incident in a telephone call to his firm, Independent Air Travel Ltd., during a brief stopover at Brindisi, Italy, on the flight to Hurn, an airfield 110 miles southwest of London.

The American-built DC-7 Skymaster flew to Brindisi from the Albanian military field at Berat where the plane was forced to land.

Expert Against One Forces Commander

By DAYTON MOORE

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—The number one military expert in the House said today he knows of "no better way to commit national suicide" than to replace the joint chiefs of staff with a general staff or supreme commander.

Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, also said there has been no firm evidence that rivalry between the military services is responsible for this country's lag in development of ballistic missiles.

He said that rather than establishing greater unification among the armed services, the Army, Navy and Air Force should be given back "a large measure of the authority and control" they had before the unified Defense Department was set up in 1947.

Perhaps, he added, the secretaries of three services should ever be returned as members of the President's Cabinet. Only the defense secretary has represented the Pentagon as a member of the Cabinet since 1947.

Vinson, one of the most powerful congressional figures in military affairs, thus took issue with three of the principal assertions made by witnesses in the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee's investigation into why the United States has fallen behind Russia in the missile-space field and what should be done to catch up.

Following this testimony, several Senators—including some members of the subcommittee—came out in favor of scrapping the joint chiefs.

But Vinson's stand, plus the previously expressed opposition of Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, means any such proposal faces rough going.

The subcommittee, which is determined to get the facts in the secret Gaither report on the nation's defenses, will resume hearings Monday with secret testimony from Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the Navy expert responsible for development of the atomic-powered submarine.

Hinkle also lined up several club members to attend the installation banquets of Kiwanis Clubs in the Panhandle. Also, he urged those in attendance to visit members who are in the hospital.

Navy Reports Interested In British Planes

LONDON, Jan. 4 (UP)—The U. S. Navy has "approached" British authorities to investigate the possibilities of using Britains giant 10-engine, flying boats for atom-powered planes, a Ministry of Supply spokesman said today.

Three of the 140-ton Princess flying boats have been in "mothballs" near Southampton for over three years. They were originally ordered by the Ministry of Supply at a cost of 28 million dollars.

Alaska Admitted To IOCC

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 4 (UP)—The Interstate Oil Compact Commission has admitted the territory of Alaska to full membership because of the discovery of oil on the Kenai peninsula, officials of the commission announced today.

Alaska is listed as a state by the commission because the compact makes no provision for territorial members, Earl Foster, secretary said.

The compact obligates member states to abide by rules and regulations designed to conserve oil and natural gas resources. Gov. Milward Simpson of Wyoming is the chairman.

Hillary Given Welcome

SOUTH POLE, Jan. 4 (UP)—The five-man New Zealand expedition under Sir Edmund Hillary hiked into the U. S. Navy South Pole base today to a heroes' welcome, a lunch of hot dogs and Navy beans and a chance to thaw their ice-coated beards after their epic Antarctic trek.

All five men were in good shape despite the rigors of the 1,200-mile ice safari. Hillary, the conqueror of Mount Everest, said the trip was "not bad at all."

Not Guilty Plea In Local Court

Lawrence William Hurdle, 1057 Prairie Dr., entered a plea of not guilty in County Court yesterday morning to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

A bond of $500 was set by the court and was made by Hurdle.

City officers arrested Hurdle at 12:40 a.m. yesterday in the 200 block of S. Cuyler after observing his driving. Jim Conner, chief of police, said.

Singers To Meet Today

The first Sunday singing of the Gray County Community Singers this year will be held at 2:30 this afternoon in the Assembly of God Church at 500 S. Cuyler.

C. O. Ammons, president of the group, said that the meetings of the association, which have been held on the second and fourth Sundays of each month, will be held on the first Sunday of each month only.

The group meets in various church buildings, he said, and the location of each singing will be announced by the association prior to each meeting.

CALLING CQ—Bobby Hill, 17, of Mobeetie is shown as he was attempting to contact an amateur radio operator somewhere in the world. The call "CQ" is used when a "ham" wishes to talk to any one listening on the wave length he is using. Young Hill has been interested in amateur radio since he was 14 and has contacted other amateurs in many countries. He said that the radio kept him from being lonely while he was confined to his bed following an automobile accident in May of 1956. (News Photo)

Teenager Makes Friends In Many Countries As 'Ham' Radio Operator

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer
The hobby of one Top o' Texas teenager has resulted in the making of friends throughout the world, and also kept many weeks of staying bed from being too lonely.
Bobby Hill, 17, of Mobeetie is an amateur radio operator and after he returned home following several weeks stay in the hospital as the result of being injured in an automobile collision on May 12, 1956, he had his radio transmitter and receiver installed in the living room of his home. And, while recuperating from his injuries, his bed was placed beside the radio equipment.

"All I had to do was reach out, turn on the switches and start talking," he said.
Bobby received his novice license on June 7, 1954, and before the license was due to expire in June of 1955 he had obtained his conditional license.

His call letters are W5FBQ and are well known around the world, according to the number of cards in his scrapbook that have acknowledged contacts he has made.

He has talked to "hams" in the following countries: Canada, Bermuda, Alaska, Germany, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Canal Zone, Spain, England, Mexico, British Honduras, Japan, Hawaii, New Zealand, Ecuador, Greenland, Uruguay and Natal.

Most of these countries were contacted on the 10-meter band with a "beer-can" antenna. Bobby said that the antenna was constructed by using a total of 127 beer cans. He soldered the cans end to end in three sections and mounted the antenna on a tower. The antenna, which is directional, is rotated by using a motor intended for use in rotating a television antenna.

He said that he first made a 15-meter antenna using the beer can principle. He mounted this antenna on a short post and it worked so well that he experimented with the 10-meter antenna.

At the present time he prefers to use the 75-meter band but occasionally makes contacts on the 10 and 40-meter bands.

Bobby first became interested in amateur radio work in 1954 when he was 14. He stated that the superintendent of schools at Mobeetie, C. R. Reeves, caused his interest by letting him talk to "hams" in various places on his radio.

"One of the best things about being a 'ham' is attending the field days of various amateur groups," he said. At a field day, he reported, the amateur operators get together and discuss various types of equipment and use the sets that many of the operators have brought to the get-together.

Bobby is finishing his high school work, which was interrupted when he was injured, and is making plans to attend college. He has recovered from his injuries and now walks with only a slight limp.

In order to obtain funds to help buy equipment for his hobby, Bob delivers The News to the residents of Mobeetie.

Supreme Court To Get Down To Post-Holiday Business

By CHARLOTTE G. MOULTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—The Supreme Court gets down to post-holiday business Monday with the government's antitrust suit against big-time boxing high on the list of upcoming cases.
The appeal of the International Boxing Clubs from a decision against them in New York last summer is among a large batch of petitions for review filed in recent weeks. The government did not oppose an examination of the issues by the high court, which has immediate jurisdiction under the Sherman Antitrust Law.

The court is likely to set the case down for argument and later give a written opinion.

Opinions on other cases already argued will be forthcoming Monday. They could include the answer to an important citizenship question: "May Congress take away the citizenship of a native-born American for acts it deems not in the national interest?"

The IBC monopoly case is the first involving professional athletes to come before the court after a full-scale trial. Other appeals have merely tested the right of the Justice Department to prosecute.

The department first moved against big-time professional boxing in 1952. The complaint, revised in 1954, challenged the legality of IBC activities between 1949 and 1953.

Figured in Conspiracy
According to the government, former heavyweight champion Joe Louis figured in the alleged conspiracy to monopolize championship fights. Louis was not a defendant in the case, however. Federal District Judge Sylvester J. Ryan last July 2 decreed that the IBC must dissolve, that IBC President James D. Norris and Director Arthur M. Wirtz must sell their stock in Madison Square Garden, and that the Garden must lease its facilities to any promoter of a championship bout who applied.

Ryan said that as a result of his decree "professional championship boxing contests will be opened with television and radio broadcasting to legitimate and healthy competition."

Supreme Court Justice John M. Harlan stayed the effect of the decree on Oct. 29, 1957, pending the high court's disposition of the case.

Unnecessary Injury, Damages
The appealing parties said "there is a substantial question whether the district court in its zeal to eliminate Messrs. Norris and Wirtz from ownership in and management of Madison Square Garden has not inflicted unnecessary injury and damages upon the public and also to the Garden in its other sports activities."

The court may also agree to hear arguments on:

The appeal of Angelo John La Marca, scheduled to be executed for kidnaping month-old Peter Weinberger in Westbury, N.Y., in

Man Tangles With Bobcat

CLINTON, Tenn. (UP)—Charlie Phillips will hesitate the next time his wife tells him to fetch the little kitty-out from under the house.

He crawled under his home Friday at his wife's bidding and the "ordinary cat" turned out to be a snarling bobcat which charged and hit Phillips head-on.

"It was like being hit by a load of bricks," he said. "I was knocked at least 20 feet. When I got up I grabbed the cat by the throat and hind legs and started choking him."

After about 11 minutes, Phillips finally killed the cat with the help of Louis Patterson of Ft. Wayne, Ind., who planted his foot on the bobcat's middle, while Phillips and his opponent wrestled.

The bobcat got his claws in before he died, Phillips was scratched on the hands and chest but was not seriously injured.

"It was the first time in my life that I was ever attacked by a bobcat," the bloody Phillips said "and I hope it is the last."

SMART, NEW TABLE TALK

Yes, it's true there's a lot of talk today about the smart, new height in dining tables. The usual and traditionally accepted height of 30 inches is still desirable in the dining room. But with the increasing trend toward eating all over the house, the new large low tables from 20 inches to 28 inches high with their appropriately scaled chairs are finding warm and popular acceptance.

There is much to be said in favor of the convenience and the decorative possibilities of these new table-and-chair groups. They are ideal for serving lunch, dinner or a late supper in front of the fireplace in the living room, and excellent for serving pre-dinner drinks, after-dinner coffee and small afternoon teas.

From a decorating standpoint these new low tables are in perfect scale with low-slung sofas

Supreme Court Goof

We have not been loud in our praise of the nation's Court, in recent years. There have been so many decisions which to our mind were highly questionable, that we have come to the conclusion that this final court of appeal has strayed from its constitutional duty and has embarked on a program of enacting legislation, rather than simply testing legislation according to its constitutionality.

Our feeling, unfortunately, has been again confirmed by another Supreme Court ukase.

Here's the story:
Eldridge S. Price of Ballinger, Tex., was the owner of a piece of property on the north fork of the Big Thompson River in Colorado in July of 1953. In the same month, the collector of internal revenue at Austin received an income tax assessment list against Price and his wife in the amount of $94,000. This list was not published nor was it recorded. It remained a private list in the office of the collector.

On Aug. 6, 1953, Price employed seven workmen to make certain improvements to his property, the aggregate cost of which was to total $7,500. In the course of time, the work was completed, but Price failed to pay the full amount of the charges. Consequently, the workmen filed a mechanic's lien against the property in the amount of $4,445.85. The recordation of this lien appears on the records as of date of Oct. 30, and Dec. 5, 1953. On Dec. 16 and again on Dec. 31, 1953, the federal government recorded its tax liens on Price's property in Colorado.

Then, in February of 1954, the workmen filed suit in district court in Fort Collins to foreclose on their liens, which had certainly been filed prior to the government's liens.

Judge Donald Carpenter, who heard the suit, ruled that the mechanic's liens were prior to those of the government. The case was appealed to the Colorado Supreme Court, which upheld Judge Carpenter. But the government appealed again, this time to the Supreme Court, which took the occasion to reverse the findings of the previous two hearings. In a three line decision the supreme justices declared that the government list had been prepared in a claim just as soon as the assessment list had been prepared in the collector's office, despite the fact that at that time the list was secret and unknown outside that office.

The effect of this ruling is profound. In essence it serves to nullify and make invalid all state recording actions insofar as federal tax claims are concerned. It establishes the dangerous precedent because of a tax bill which only the government knows the man owes. It makes a secret decision in the office of the collector of internal revenue superior to items of public record which precede it.

It excludes mortgages, trust deeds and other conveyances, even if the federal liens are recorded afterwards. But it hits squarely at the mechanic's lien practice, and will undoubtedly have a most negative effect upon the building industry as a whole.

To our way of looking at it, this is just one more reason why the income tax law itself is so iniquitous and unjust. It ought to be repealed.

Farmer Wage Law

There is, in the mill, a proposed federal law setting the minimum wage for farm workers at $1 per hour and a requirement of the payment of time and a half for all over 40 hours of work in a week.

This little joker in the deck has been the brain-child of a couple of California New Dealers, Congressmen James Roosevelt and Joseph Holt.

Certainly a good many farmers are going to be in a difficult spot—at last those who have gone along with the rest of the doles and handouts of the federal government in the form of subsidies, free engineering and advice, special privileges, and so forth. The proposal of the two California liberals (liberal with other people's money, that is) is only a refinement of a lot of other specialized legislation for farmers to set them apart from the rest of the people of the country. And if farmers are going to be in a bad way to give their approval of this other stuff without being contradictory.

The evils of dominant government never seem obvious to a large collection of people until it strikes them right in the pocketbook. And that is where this proposal would hurt.

Of the minimum wage part of the bill, most farmers will have little concern. But when this is added to the overtime pay idea there is likely to be some pretty bitter discussion of the topic.

If youngsters who know nothing about farm work and drifters from Skid Row looking for a quick buck are to get a minimum wage and an overtime bonus as well, there are a lot of Texas farmers who are about to get an economic boot in the stomach.

The seasonal nature of the harvest is such that farm work conditions cannot be readily adapted to an eight-hour day and the marketing conditions for farmers is such that it is not easy for them to pass on to their consumers the increased costs. Too many crops, if they are not sold at the time the crop is ready, are lost and reluctance on the part of the buying public to purchase can be very costly.

Furthermore, if the government establishes a minimum wage, maximum hour system for farm work, a change is sure to develop in the traditional piece-work system used in many types of farming. Why should a worker push his energies when he probably can collect more just rolling along easily on an hourly basis.

The system if "so much work for so much pay" has practically disappeared from commercial and industrial areas under government control of wages and hours plus the determination of labor unions to have members get more than they produce. The farm seems to be the next place where proud workmanship is destined to disappear in favor of the "new" philosophy that says: "Take your time, brother. There's more money in it."

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. Hoiles
"An Interpretation of Social and Economic Evolution"

I want to continue to quote and comment from Ludwig von Mises' book, "An Interpretation of Social and Economic Evolution."
In von Mises' former books he points out that it would be impossible even to keep books and have any idea of costs if all governments operated under communism or socialism.

Marxism, Materialism and Socialism

I know of no one who exposes the fallacies of socialism and materialism more clearly and logically than does von Mises. He exposes their method. "Like many frustrated intellectuals and like almost all contemporary Prussian noblemen, civil servants, teachers, and writers, Marx was driven by a fanatical hatred of business and businessmen. He turned toward socialism because he considered it the worst punishment that could be inflicted upon the odious bourgeois. At the same time he realized that the only hope for socialism was to prevent further discussion of its pros and cons. People must be induced to accept it emotionally without asking questions about its effects."

It has been my experience that no man who believes in any form of socialism, that is, in any form of the use of aggressive force or coercion, dares try to defend his position where he is obliged to answer questions without evasion. They have to do as von Mises points out, attempt to change the subject by attacking the opponents of the use of aggressive force. If they attempted to answer questions, they would have to admit that they were governed by no eternal principle, that whatever had the most might became right. And no socialist wants to admit this.

Free Will

Von Mises emphasizes man's ability to choose. He does it in this way:
"The emotional appeal of the cogitance of this freedom, and the idea of moral responsibility which it engenders, are as much facts as anything else called by that name. Comparing himself with all other beings, man sees his own dignity and superiority in his will. The will is unbendable and must not yield to any violence and oppression, because man is capable of choosing between life and death and of preferring death if life can be preserved only at the price of submitting to unbearable conditions. Man alone can die for a cause."

Old Theory of Wealth

In speaking about the Asiatics and Western Europe, he points out that they never fully realized the necessity of free and natural division of labor. He observes:
"... And the public, actuated by the old fallacy that a business man's wealth is the cause of other people's poverty, applauded whenever rule confiscated the holdings of successful merchants."
"The economists have always been aware that the evolution of ideas is a slow, time-consuming process. The history of knowledge is the account of a series of successive steps made by men each of whom adds something to the thoughts of his predecessors."
"There is no need to analyze the opinion of many historians that to the soul of some nations the practices of capitalism appear so repulsive that they will never adopt them. If there are such people, they will forever remain poor. There is but one road that leads toward prosperity and freedom. Can any historian on the ground of historical experience contest this truth?"

Private Ownership

"We could therefore agree with the historians in not paying much attention to the indisputable fact that no people ever resisted itself to a somewhat satisfactory state of welfare and civilization without the institution of private ownership of the means of production. It is not history but economics that clarifies our thoughts about the effects of property rights."

Civilization's Decay

"Many civilizations came to an impasse. They either were destroyed by foreign conquerors or disintegrated from within. Next to the ruins of marvelous structures the progeny of their builders live in poverty and ignorance. The cultural achievements of their forefathers, their philosophy, technology, and often even their language have fallen into oblivion, and the people have relapsed into barbarism. In some cases the literature of the extinct civilization has been preserved and, rediscovered by scholars, has influenced later generations and civilizations."
"Other civilizations developed to a certain point and then came to a standstill. They were arrested as Bagehot said. The people tried to preserve the achievements of the past but they no longer planned to add anything new to them."

"Civilization is the product of human effort, the achievement of men eager to fight the forces adverse to their well-being. This achievement is dependent on men's using suitable means. If the means chosen are not fit to produce the ends sought, disaster results. Bad policies can disintegrate our civilization as they have destroyed many other civilizations. For neither reason nor experience warrants the assumption that we cannot avoid choosing bad policies and thereby wrecking our civilization."

Pegler's Walk Past the Circle With A Friend

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — Christmas Eve I took a walk with an old friend up past Columbia Circle where again the world is all up-heaved with great pipes and cables with- ing and little red warning lights blinking on the brinks of the pits. A frantic drunk stood on a tempo- rary wooden bridge howling in- sanity.

My friend ignored him cau- tiously and said, "I was in a bank's office in a bank building on the Cir- cle" one summer morning and the police came through the hatch with their baskets to move 1700 dead men from a roof on 50th street. It took weeks to get identifi- cation. No social security then. A Cuban woman had seduced them- selves up the dark and silent stairs, at the old world stories used to say. A nice young detective did great work. They were garrotted with their neckties, so he figured La- tinos did it. He was awfully dis- couraged when the D.A. let the woman and two men get away with murder two."

Where was Frank Campbell's funeral place, where Valentino lay when the mob pushed the window in?
My friend said, "It was about 66th, but I couldn't place it now. Harry Klemfuss was doing public- ity for Campbell and it was his job to make death beautiful. Campbell had a standing offer to bury any New York reporter who died rotten. Everybody on the Val- entino job got a coffin-plate a 11 The American, said they were all engraved except the date of death. Mark Hellinger used his for a pe- riwinkle for years. One of Mo-

Graw's old ballplayers used to make dates with his wife's ashes. He would park the urn on the bar and cry his heart out. She was a little actress. She had him on the wagon for years. When she died he blew up."
I pointed down the darkness into 71st Street, west. My friend said, "Joe Elwell's! What a beautiful murder. I can almost still see dear old Tom Handley and Karl Decker sitting on the stoop!"
Handley and Decker worked the murder for the Morning Tele- graph. Tom had been at San Juan Hill and Karl was the reporter who rescued Evangelina Cisneros from the Merry Castle for Hearst.
Elwell ran the first speakeasy in town. It was a bridge club on Central Park South. He was found upright at 7 a.m. in a chair in his pajamas. His wig was on a little table and his false teeth were found in his breast pocket. There was a 45 hole in his forehead. Mail jumbled and bloodied a 11 around.
The lady who had left her pa- jamas in Joe's bedroom took off for Paris. About 50 married men and women on Long Island, rich trash intermarried with Broadway riffraff, couldn't prove an alibi that night. One of them was old man Woodward whose son was killed, accidentally of course, in that shotgun mishap in his home in the small hours of the night a few years ago, Johnny Winkler, The American, said they were all playing the game of musical beds that night. Elwell was killed. Elwell had a wine cellar. The

McLemore's Dog Has Couple Trained

By HENRY McLEMORE

MADRID — The best test of your dog's smarts is the length of time it takes him to train you. Some dogs take several months to get their owners that perfect in behavior, but most of them can't wait as long as that. The average time is about six to seven weeks. Any longer time indicates one of two things: (1) the dog isn't trying as hard as he could, or (2) his owner is slow on the uptake and not too bright.
It pleases me to be able to report that Charlie, (our young poodle) Mary and I progressed nicely from the start, and that for several weeks now he has appeared entirely satisfied with the way we have caught on.
No, I'll take that back. Charlie isn't entirely satisfied. I know he still finds fault with the way I throw my rubber hose across the room for him to chase and retrieve. Often it slides under a chair too low for him to get under, and once in a while I get weary of throwing the hose (or ball or stick or rolled-up sock) long before he is ready to quit.
Charlie probably faults Mary for stepping on his toes now and then. Being a toy poodle he gets underfoot rather easily, and to be sure of never stepping on him we would have to walk around as if we were treading on eggs. Which is what we do 90 per cent of the time.
But by and large Charlie has us completely broken. I can't help but admire the patience and stay-with-it spirit he showed in breaking me to get-up-between-six-and-six-thirty in the morning. At first I was furious when he would tug at the bedclothes, growl under his breath and, if necessary, rake a paw across my face.

But he took my rebuffs without complaint and finally bent me to his will. Now I sometimes find myself waking up before he does, and when that happens I wake him. This he does not like at all and he refuses to get up until he is good and ready.

Neither Mary nor I challenge his choice of direction when we take him out for a walk. In the early days we did, but he soon put a stop to that. As soon as we tried to move him our way he would dig a poodle-type Maginot Line and go on the defensive. The only way we could have moved him would have been to drag him along on his bottom as if he were a sled. Two blocks of dragging a yipping furled is too much, so we gave in.
Actually, I am glad we did, because he picks much more interesting walks than we would have. We would never have walked through hedge, or seen the courtyards of Spanish homes, or strolled behind counters of half a dozen meat stores, or discovered most of Madrid's charming, winding, narrow streets.

Thanks to Charlie, I have developed a passion for riding up and down on hotel elevators. I never thought much of this sport before, but Charlie loves it, so we spend at least an hour a day going from the ninth to the lobby and back up again.
And the thing that gets me is that Charlie, despite all the work he has to do with us, despite the time he has to spend on us, loves us dearly.

What Effect Will Sputnik Era Have On The US?

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Two schools of thought conflict at Washington over the effect which the first full year of the Sputnik era — 1958 — will have upon this nation. Regardless of which prevails, there will be vast changes in our economic, social and educational systems.
The Ansonia Hotel was just up there, where the gamblers tied up the 1919 White Sox for the World Series fake, W. E. D. Stokes, who built the place, was a repulsive object who played on Harvard's first varsity in the first intercollegiate football game. This was at New Brunswick against Rutgers. When his case held its 60th reunion, he was invited. When he was shot in his apartment in the Ansonia he claimed a couple of show girls were trying to blackmail him. Oscar Hammerstein booked. The m shooting into the Old Victoria as the right stars. The social significance guy of the same name is a relative with a streak of the same showmanship, but not his son.
Somewhere along here was the original Reuben's Delicatessen which charged a guy $40 for a ham. The guy kicked. Harry Reichenbach, then press-agent for a sandwich joint, but later a champion operator in circus stuff, said the ham was worth it and bally-hood Reuben's into an institution.
About 1 a.m., we were back near the old Park Central where Arnold Rothstein got his and Anastasia had his mishap in the barber shop later. Eleanor Roosevelt while in the city for a few years ago, and all the help were forbidden to accept any tips from either of them. But some of the hellmen, maids and waiters got loaded and tossed Christmas trees all over the neighborhood that Christmas Eve because Elliott, who was peddling trees off the old man's Hyde Park layout, rewarded each loyal servant with a tree. How were they going to get those damn pine home in the suburbs? That Elliott is the champion of them all.

This Christmas morning, the papers reported that an actor in "Romanoff and Juliet" was killed in a fight at 64th and Amsterdam, amid those old, sentimental scenes.
Fate keeps on happening, as Anita Loos wrote when we were very young.

COSTLY PROGRAMS — This viewpoint is not advanced by the Democrats only, and for partisan purposes. It reflects the thinking of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, our most illustrious scientists (Edward Teller and Werner von Braun), and the hard-headed businessmen and industrialists who prepared the supersecret Gaither report for born in 1619. Whistler described the knotty swellings which grow on the chest.

The whole bony system is flexible, he said, and the bones can be twisted more or less like wax. Muscles become flabby and the bones can scarcely hold the weight of the body.
He also mentioned the narrowing of the chest and the prominence of the breast bone, and pointed out the unfortunate effect of rickets on the teeth.
Of course, neither Whistler, nor another Englishman named Francis Glisson, who also studied the disease, knew what caused it or how to prevent it. Now, however, we are much better prepared, and there is little need for anyone, who takes reasonable care, to develop rickets.

WOULD FEEL TAX BITE — Today's heavy taxes would seem mild by comparison with new burdens on every individual's pocketbook. From the lowest to the highest bracketeer, they would probably be increased by at least 25 per cent, possibly more on the big incomes.
The result of this huge expenditure could be terrific inflation of prices. Such an outcome would be inevitable, if concentrating on manufacture of military and related weaponry reduced the production of civilian goods. Indeed wartime rationing might have to be installed, as well as controls over wages and prices.
Labor would be controlled, too, as during World War II. The 40-hour week would quickly disappear, and possibly without any provision for overtime. Strikes would not be tolerated, even if "public service corporations."
President Eisenhower drew a sad such a prospect. He is said to feel that the American people are "not willing to foot such a bill." But the influential and responsible voices which dissent insist that failure would be fatal.

THE ACTION OF the sunlight on the skin is the best source of rickets-preventing vitamin D. However, not all of us can seek climates where the sun is adequate in winter months.
Consequently, the next best sources of vitamin D are certain liver oils which contain this vitamin in large quantities.
The liver of cod fish and of the halibut are particularly useful, and can provide the needed vitamin D. During the long winter months, therefore, vitamin D in the form of fish liver oils will provide growing children, especially, just what is necessary to prevent rickets.

THE worst time of the year for rickets is the winter, when the sun is out only a short time and then does not have much strength. The sun is important because sunlight, acting on the skin, helps the body to make vitamin D.
PROBABLY the first one to describe rickets was an Englishman named Daniel Whistler (not to be confused with the painter),

Local Savings Organization Boosts Assets 28 Per Cent

Despite vigorous competition for savings and the "tightest" mortgage money market in years, Security Federal Savings and Loan Association boosted its assets by $3,385,000, or 28 per cent, in 1957, and looks forward to even greater gains in 1958, Aubrey L. Steele, secretary-general manager said today.

Writing in the Association's annual report, Steele said that his institution now holds more savings and serves more savers than at any time in its 29½ year history. "We are gratified," he said, "at the community response to our services. In 1958, we will continue to provide a safe, convenient and profitable place for specialized thrift and home ownership savings, and will continue to offer home buyers the superior advantages of the conventional home loan."

The savings and loan executive summarized his institution's 1957 operations as follows:

—1. Net savings were increased by $3,098,000, or 28 per cent, bringing total savings at year's end to $13,670,121.

—2. A total of $422,127 in earnings, 35 per cent more than in 1956, was paid to savers for use of their funds.

—3. The home mortgage loan portfolio was increased by $2,893,000, or 29 per cent, in 1957, bringing the total of home loans outstanding to $12,702,251.

—4. Reserves were increased to $990,376, and now exceed the reserves on hand at the beginning of 1957 by $188,960, or 23 per cent.

In reviewing business prospects for 1958, Steele said the outlook for savings and the availability of home credit was more favorable than during 1957.

He predicted the housing industry would fare somewhat better in 1958, with production above 1 million units. The rise would be due, he said, to a greater supply of mortgage money, the desire of families with rising incomes for larger homes, a continued "high rate" of family migration, and a slight rise in new family formations.

School Fights Communism On The Intellectual Level

By PETER WEBB
United Press Staff Correspondent
BONN, Germany (UP)—Three special schools have been established in West Germany to combat Communist subversion.

But they are not concerned with the strange, half-world of spies, underground couriers, and state secrets.

Their purpose is to counter the Communist attack in the world of ideas, and to prepare Western minds for service on the ideological battlefield.

Opening the "Eastern College" in Cologne, West German Interior Minister Gerhard Schröder warned that Communism's main aim remained world revolution.

It was not enough, he added, to fight Communism by "laws, court decisions and administrative measures." The struggle must also be waged on the political and intellectual level where the ideology and half-truths of Communist doctrine could be weighed in the balance and compared to the ideals of Western democracy.

Has Precedent
The Cologne College, patterned on Britain's Wilton Park where Germans studied democratic processes after World War II, has 10 resident professors who arrange the week-long courses, while some 60 experts on Soviet affairs, both German and foreign are available as guest lecturers.

Subjects dealt with include dialectical materialism, Soviet economic development, the church under Communist rule, natural science in the Soviet Union, and a general outline of Russian history.

The college is designed to attract persons who, by virtue of their positions in public life, can best counter the Communist ideological attack.

These include trade unionists, judges, teachers, journalists and churchmen of all denominations.

Investigate Legal Base
A second school—the "Institute for Eastern Law"—has been established in Munich, especially to study the legal basis of Communist states.

Addressing the institute recently, Bundestag (Parliament) Vice President Richard Jaeger said that in the Soviet Union and its satellite states law was an instrument of the ruling class, designed to uphold the power of the Communist Party, and linked neither legally nor morally to any independent standards.

He warned that the real danger to the West would come when the Soviet Union had in some measure matched Western material progress and was ready for an all-out offensive on the ideological front.

The third school, the "Institute for Eastern Churches," which is attached to the theological faculty of Muenster's Wilhelm University, has a more limited aim of studying the history of the Protestant church in Germany's eastern territories, and making its findings available to church communities.

Stocks Close 1957 With 'Bullish Ardor'

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks added $5 billion to valuation of all listed issues during the past week with daily average volume of 3,266,795 shares, most since Oct. 25, 1957.

The week, bisected by the New Year's holiday, contained two sessions of 1957 and two of 1958.

The year 1957 closed with a burst of bullish ardor that brought out 5,070,000 shares, the most for a year-end session in the history of the stock exchange which dates back 165 years.

The industrial average on Dec. 31 gained 3.91 points, a rise exceeded in only one year in history—1929 when it rose 7.42 points on 2,678,000 shares. The nearest total sales for a last day to 1957 was in 1928 when volume was 4,388,000 shares.

Year-end rallying tendencies carried over into 1958 on smaller volume but the week's total of four sessions involved volume of 13,067,183 shares. The spurt at the end of 1957 left that year's total slightly above the 1956 figure.

The net results for the week were:

Industrial average closing at 444.59 up 11.68 points, widest weekly gain since July 5, 1957, and the best since Dec. 6.

Railroad average closing at 105.53 up 6.14 points, widest weekly gain since Dec. 7, 1956, and best since Nov. 29.

Utility average closing at 69.46, up 0.81 points, widest weekly gain since Nov. 22, 1957, and best since Aug. 6.

A total of 1,055 issues out of a total of 1,398 issues traded was the biggest gain figure for any week since the one ending May 15, 1948. There were only 225 losses and 118 issues closed unchanged. A total of 30 new 1957-58 highs were set and 209 new lows.

1st Methodist At Perryton To Start Program

(Special To The News)
PERRYTON — Rev. Duane Bruce, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Perryton, has announced that members of the church will begin a spiritual life enrichment program today. They will use the theme "Let God Have His Way," as this is the theme of the World Wide Church Attendance Movement for 1958.

Emphasis will be placed upon the worship of every member every Sunday, the development of prayer life in the home, the church and at work, and a concern for those who need the church.

Various activities have been planned for the months ahead including a "Four Nights for God" program, March 16-19, with Rev. Irving Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Stillwater, Okla., as guest speaker.

The congregation at Perryton will join with some 2,225 Methodist congregations of Texas in this special emphasis for the new year of 1958.

AROUND THE WORLD

BIRD IN HAND—As it recuperates from gunshot wounds, a red-tailed hawk perches on the falconer's gauntlet worn by Cub Scout Roy Pinney, Jr., of Larchmont, N. Y. A bird of prey by nature, this hawk has become quite tame and flies peacefully from one member of the Pinney family to another. When found, the bird had apparently been shot by a hunter.

WELL, IT'S LIKE THIS—Hank Aaron, outfielder for the Milwaukee Braves, is demonstrating his famous batting stance with a snow shoe after arriving in Wausau, Wis. The National League's most valuable player, Aaron was touring northern Wisconsin to make personal appearances.

SWIM SWEATER—The sweater look is handsomely high-lighted in this cardigan button-trim swim suit. Scooped almost to the waist in back, the suit is snugly buttoned like a sweater down the front. Lastex molds the figure and allows for easy, natural movement in this attractive outfit.

THE GAME ON ICE—Dan Currie, Michigan State grid ace, is holding the pigskin while Myrna Hansen, a former Miss U.S.A., attempts a place kick on ice skates in Manhattan. This unlikely situation took place on the skating rink at Rockefeller Center as a lot of spectators looked happily on.

TWIN HONOREES—The Queen of the 1958 Cotton Bowl classic, Penny Blackledge, left, of Rice Institute, will be joined in Dallas, Tex., by her twin sister, Patti. Patti has been invited to be Miss Navy, the Academy's official representative to the Queen's Court at Cotton Bowl festivities. Both girls are seniors and their father is a retired Naval officer.

OUT-BALL MINDS—Louisville's forward Don Goldstein (24) and Iona center George Carter (32) swat after a hard-to-get ball during their game in New York. Louisville won, 89-63, after considerable activity on the part of both teams.

FOR COMFORT—Orlon, the rugged fibre with the feel of cashmere, is rivaling wool for winter sports. Model Robert Bruce wears an authentic Scandinavian-designed pullover made in a bulky stitch which adds strength to good looks.

TWISTER—Cincinnati's Richie Bean (14) and Dick Ricketts (24) are attempting to guard St. Louis' Bob Pettit (9) as he twists to take a shot at the basket. The action took place during their game at Madison Square Garden. St. Louis won the event with a final 102-90.

A SLICE OF LIFE—Making like gay blades in Berlin, some German athletes are demonstrating their prowess at a strong-man exhibition. This sawing session was among the events at the Sports Press Association festival. Everyone seems to be getting a good workout.

ENCOUNTER WITH FALLING OPPOSITION—Toronto Maple Leafs' forward Dick Duff (17) is anxious to get to the puck in the foreground. In order to do it, however, he'll have to manage to get around the Rangers' Dave Creighton (16), also a forward, as New York met the Toronto team in Madison Square Garden.

UP IN THE AIR

ACROBATICS—Those men performing with ladders are firemen in Rome, left. They appear to be taking wing from their lofty perches but they're actually sliding down ropes to which they're held by safety belts. They staged these stunts during a show in honor of Saint Barbara, their patron saint.

One-armed paperhangers have nothing on Topper Martin, a one-armed, upside-down, hand-standing juggler. He's shown rehearsing his circus act in Paris where he twirls a pair of plates at the ends of two sticks and manages to make it look easy. Try it yourself, but you'd better use paper plates.

'STOPOVER TOKYO'

First 1958 'Open House' Starts Today In North Crest

The first "Open House" of 1958 starts today in North Crest, according to the Hughes Development Company. Designated "The Bonus Home," the model show home is located at 1116 Terry Road and will be open daily to the public until 7 p.m. The home is completely furnished by Pampa Furniture Co., and each room is filled with "new ideas for better home living," according to the Hughes hosts. Merchandise is being displayed, other than the furnishings, by Monarch Hardware Co., Malone Pharmacy, Furr Food Store, Heath's Men's Wear, Franklin's Ready to Wear, and Zales Jewelers of Pampa. "We have chosen one of our basic North Crest model homes for the Bonus title," E. L. Campbell of Hughes Company explained, "because at this time of the year everyone is bonus conscious and looking for January bargain buys. Our show home is what we believe to be the most home for the least cost being built today. The co-sponsoring firms who are displaying the newest in home ideas for the open house have each chosen their best buys of the year to show," he said. "We are trying to prove in this show home how much luxurious comfort one can have without spending too much money." A "bonus prize" is being offered at the open house. Everyone is invited to register free for a "life-size" play house which will be awarded at a drawing the night of Jan. 31. The play house is on display in the front yard of the show home at 1116 Terry Road. Sunday visiting hours are from 2 until 7 p.m. Weekday hours are from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. The home is completely conditioned for visiting comfort. Visitors are also invited to inspect a "brand new street of brand new homes" on Cinderella Road while visiting North Crest. Each of these homes will be open until dark. Isle Royale, a national park, is the largest island in Lake Superior.

Finland Stands As Europe's Militarily Neutralized Area

HELSINKI (UP)—Whatever the merits or drawbacks of the Soviet plan for troop withdrawals of East and West from Central Europe, the fact remains that a militarily neutralized area already exists in Europe. It is Finland.

Finland does not belong to NATO. She turned down an invitation to join the Warsaw Pact. There are no foreign troops on Finnish soil. And Finland has managed to retain friendship with East and West through an uneasy postwar period.

Soviet diplomats have privately admitted that they would have had more friends if they had treated Central Europe as they treated Finland.

The price for peace with Russia in 1944 was a heavy one—a reparations bill equal to a full year's Finnish government budget, loss of 10 per cent of her territory, almost half a million persons to resettle, drastic cuts in armed strength, and the uncertainty of what lay ahead.

The Leningrad military district continues to send amateur spies across the border, and the Finns just as regularly arrest them and apply one or two year jail terms. Finland is shunned by Iron Curtain refugees who know Finnish authorities would have to send them back if picked up.

Finland-Soviet trade is regulated by five-year pacts.

Finland's armed forces total less than 42,000—with no tanks, bombers, guided missiles, submarines or large naval craft.

All these are the pattern of postwar Finnish-Soviet policy. But there are other aspects. Finland kept her independent republican form of government. Britain is still Finland's biggest trading partner, although the Russians run a close second.

Finland is a member of the United Nations and also a member of the Nordic Council, which links five northern European states.

Despite the irritations, Soviet policy toward Finland appears to be one of genuine desire to make friends.

There is no indication that the Russians would like to make Finland a satellite—even if the opportunity presented itself.

Permits Show Growth Of Perryton

Records show that there have been 84 new residences completed during the year and several public and commercial buildings.

The total building permits were $1,174,000 during 1957. One of the major permits issued was for the new Ochiltree County jail and office building, totaling $116,000. Also issued were permits to the General Telephone Co. for an addition totaling $60,000 and a new Chamber of Commerce office building, totaling $13,000.

Other major buildings included the new school buildings completed for the fall term and the First Methodist Church new educational building estimated at $7,000.

New commercial buildings included the J&J Texaco service station and the A&W Root Beer stand on south main. New commercial buildings constructed in the new Industrial Area were—Lita Motor Co. and Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. plant.

1958 Crop Output Expected To Equal Or Surpass 1957

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—Agriculture Department economists predict farmers in 1958 will turn out as much or more than last year's record output of crops and livestock.

Average prices will be about the same.

The economists of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) and the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) base their predictions on three assumptions:

That business will continue strong with no substantial letdown in production, prices or employment; that there will not be another burst of inflation; and that no major changes will occur in government plans affecting farm income.

Income About Same

Net income from farming will be about the same since possible increases in production costs may largely offset a rise in gross farm income, the economists reason.

According to present indications, farm cost increases probably will be smaller than in 1957. The bulk of expenses in farm production now are for factory-produced items.

Production outlays are continuing to increase. The use of fertilizer has increased 3 x 2 times since 1940. The number of tractors has tripled. Cost of farm machinery has risen only half as much as farm use are continuing. Changes in resource use vary widely by type of farm. The cost of additional production on a going farm continues much lower than average costs.

Other trends for 1958 show that income from non-farm sources is expected to increase, and the number of persons on farms is expected to continue to decrease.

Slight Gain Possible

This could mean a slight gain in per capita income for farmers. Off-farm incomes now account for about one-fourth of the total farm-family income on farms with sales of more than $2,500. On farms with sales under $2,500, three-fourths of the total income is from non-farm sources.

The continued decline in the number of farms is expected to center in low-production farms.

An expected increase in marketing charges—the take of the food prices to raise further. The average hourly earnings of workers in marketing firms increased in 1957 and the trend is up. Costs of containers, packaging materials, coal and fuel oil, trucks, and machinery bought by marketing firms also were higher.

The parity index is likely to creep up, according to the economists. This would result in another slight drop in the parity ratio. The parity index is the price paid by farmers. The parity Newscharr, above, shows some of the variety of these products and the amounts utilized by auto makers in an average year, according to the American Finance Conference. In addition to steel, the average American passenger car uses about 30 pounds of aluminum and 7 miles of copper wiring.

Dialogue Jerry Lewis Hopes Will Never Be On TV Again

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Comedian Jerry Lewis is passing up New Year's resolutions and predictions this year in favor of making a list of cliché dialogue he hopes never again will appear in TV or movie dramas:

"Oh, David, I just spoke to the doctor and he says you're going to be well again, and soon you'll be able to walk in the garden!"

"Look, chief—his shoe matches the footprints in the garden!"

"Slide, me and some of the other small ranchers have decided we ought to band together to stop the Ringo Kid."

Watch Out, Honey

"Don't move a muscle, darlin'—there's a 20-foot python right behind you. But I've got a bead on him with my 45!"

"Professor, I guess this is the end of the safari. The natives refuse to cross the river—it's the sacred river of the gods!"

"But doctor, you can't inoculate yourself with this untested serum!"

"What a fool I've been. I've betrayed my country for a woman's lips!"

"Son, I've spoken to the coach and he said you're going to play in the big game on Saturday! They found out it was Jim Huntly who planted the liquor in the dean's overcoat!"

"Boys, I tell you this new D.A. means business."

"Sorry I had to knock you out, Major. But you've got a wife and kids. I'm taking up that plane 'Reckon there's gonna be a spell of trouble. Wade Kincaid's headed for Lucky's Place!"

Orville And Wilbur

"Orville, this is your brother Wilbur talking to you. I tell you, that thing will never fly!"

"Guess this is the end of the trail for old Pop Phoenix. Let the wagon train roll on without me. But do me a favor, Buck—when you get out West, name a town after me."

"Look, Rocky, this is Father McCarey talking to you. Throw that gun out the window!"

"Here it is opening night and our leading lady's drunk! We'll have to take a chance on that young kid in the chorus—What's her name again?"

"There's something strange about this place, Nora. This town isn't on the map—and look how little all the people are!"

"You can't ask me to shoot this dog, Judge! I tell you it's a wolf that's been getting at McCready's sheep!"

Before the Wind
BURLINGTON, Vt. (UP)—An advertisement in a Vermont newspaper read: "Grow rich with poultry! Immediate action advisable as the opportunity may not exist after the next windstorm."

"He figured he was in the Wild and Woolly West. As far as we were concerned, he'd come from the wild and woolly east."

Still a third correspondent, a gentleman from the Middle West, writes: "I am moved to expound upon your taxicab drivers." He tells of attentive and solicitous treatment he received from one driver who noticed he had an injured leg and carried a cane. And of the driver who took him to the station.

Zukerman contrasts this with a general strike in London in the 1920s, where he saw every car

Quigg Is Still Writing About New York

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—It's a pity to the jaybirds the way some folks do go on about New Yorkers and our delightful way of life.

"Why are people in New York so different?" asks William Zukerman in a letter to the Herald Tribune. "Why are our taxi and bus drivers so rude most of the time? And why are they the first to lose their tempers with the people whom they are supposed to serve, and become arrogant at the slightest crisis?"

He waxes unhappy over the treatment accorded stranded people trying to get home in the recent subway strike. He and scores of others stood on a busy corner in a heavy rain, he says, with passing buses too crowded to enter, and passing taxis—even empty ones—refusing to stop.

Furthermore: "Everywhere around us a stream of huge, sleek cars, some of them palatial on wheels, was passing by, literally in the hundreds, shining beautifully in the wet evening. Most of these cars had a capacity of six and even more passengers and carried only one, possibly two, people."

Zukerman contrasts this with a general strike in London in the 1920s, where he saw every car

Many Pampans Are Making, Breaking Their Resolutions

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer

With 1958 bright shining, and just peeping around the corner to see the state of things left over from 1957, we find Pampans, like the majority of people are beginning to break the newly made resolutions as well as the new ones all over again. The new ones will be improvements over the previous items and seemingly solve all problems, alter any unpleasant circumstances and whatnot.

Young Wade Phillips, San Diego, was with his great-grandfather, W. S. Scott, 325 N. Sumner for his very first New Year while his older was celebrating his 80th New Year. Both "gentlemen" have very firm resolutions about the coming year, but Wade is too young to voice his and Grandfather had just as soon his not be known to everybody.

Many are trying to make things better, such as Mrs. Joe Cunningham, The News' correspondent. Mrs. Minit, who added in with copy, a note stating, "If I were one to make New Year's resolutions, I would resolve to be a reporter this year." She added, "I hope to do just that any way."

One family who made their resolutions very firm but preferred to remain anonymous, say, "We're through trying to keep up with the Joneses, from now on no more change accounts." They also wonder who the Joneses keep up with. Business and professional people have everyday problems much as those with a more domestic occupation. Miss Melba McCarty, local beauty operator, resolved to be sure and look in the gas gauge before leaving the city limits one time in 1958. "I get early morning appointments and getting tired of actually being early afternoon appointments."

Housewives always lament that their work is never done, and Mrs. Bobby R. Seitz, 212 N. Nelson, is no exception. She solemnly resolves that during the year, she will make a schedule and an effort to each day finish what she starts before leaving for a chat and a cup with a neighbor or take a spur of the moment shopping spree.

Law-Science Short Course Is Scheduled

Ross N. Buzard, local attorney who is a Graduate of the Law-Science Short Courses on "Legal Medicine and Elements of Medical Litigation" conducted regularly for trial lawyers, announced that the Institute has just announced its plans for a unique teaching effort, to be held in Galveston at the Hotel Galvez, from Feb. 3 through Feb. 8.

The program is designed to bring the foremost Medical Specialists and Trial Lawyers of America into a teaching effort devoted to instruct Trial Lawyers interested in personal injury problems in the structure and function of the body and the various types of injuries, and their consequences, which may result from accidents. Ninety-five lecturers will take part, including such authorities as Dr. A. Earl Walker, professor of neurosurgery at Johns Hopkins Medical School, outstanding authority on traumatic epilepsy; Dr. James C. White, professor of neurosurgery at Harvard Medical School, eminent investigator on the pain problem; Dr. Herbert C. Modlin, senior psychiatrist at Menninger Foundation and Clinic and many others.

A person may attend any one day of sessions or the entire week. The first three days of the program will be under direction of the Law-Science Academy and the Law-Science Foundation, with cooperation of the Law-Science Institute, and will involve a "Clinical" approach to Legal Medicine and Personal Injury problems, with demonstration of patients in many instances.

This feature will end with "Law-Science Academy and Foundation Day" on Wednesday, Feb. 5, featuring nationally distinguished medical authorities and investigators who will speak on Developments of Great Current or Potential Interest to Trial Lawyers.

The last three days of the week will be conducted under auspices of the Law-Science Institute with three concurrent sections, as follows: "Medicolegal Aspects of Surgical or Orthopedic Injuries," "Medicolegal Aspects of Injuries of the Nervous System" and "Functional Dissection of Personal Injury Problems and Advanced Medicolegal Trial Techniques."

A trial lawyer may register for one of these sections but nevertheless take as much as 1-3 of his instruction in another section. This program, designed to bring Law and Science into close working relationship in regard to practical trial work, has been evolved and will be directed by Dr. Hubert Winston Smith, director of the Law-Science Institute, The University of Texas, Austin. Many trial lawyers from this area are expected to attend. Certificates of successful completion will be awarded to registrants.

HAPPY NEW YEAR—W. S. Scott, 325 N. Sumner, and his youngest great-grandson, Wade Phillips, San Diego, Calif., like everyone else are making New Year's Resolutions for "brand new 1958." Wade has just celebrated his first New Year's Day while his Grandfather Scott has observed his 80th.

Linda Buchanan, 1818 N. Sumner, student of Pampa High School, resolves to spend less time with activities and more time studying in view of the fact that semester exams are just around the bend at PHS.

Everywhere people are trying to solve the problems of their own lives and those of others around them by saying "I resolve." The inevitable resolutions made on that crucial day sometimes last 24 hours but most times, the thoughts are only fleeting and persons think about "next year."

Old and young alike are busy making the plans and solutions for this year. Students think of their grades, mothers of their children, businessmen and professional people think of advancements that can or should be made, while children resolve to convince their mothers that it will be all right for them to play out until dark, stay up and watch the late movie and not do their homework until time for bed.

All in all, the year is new and has the promises of all new things that are different and exciting. This reporter would like to add to the list a few "minor" items; make the deadline at least three times a week, have features back by Wednesday and have a scoop every week.

US, Russia Traded New Year Greetings

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet: The leaders of the United States and Soviet Russia interrupted their prosecution of the cold war to exchange friendly New Year greetings and express the hope that 1958 might bring better relations between them.

For Soviet Russia, President Kliment Y. Voroshilov, Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev said: "We express the hope that the forthcoming year will be a year

Educator Says Parents Should Go To School

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (UP)—A vice president of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) today said adults should go back to school to learn the educational needs of the nation's children. Mrs. Rosalie C. Kraus, Moline, Ill., told the AFT's executive council that a "complete change in public thinking" is necessary to bring America's public schools up to date.

"This change must come from within the heart and minds of people," she said. "Parents should return to school to learn respect for current needs of education, and what their lack of respect and unrealistic thinking about it is doing to their children." Mrs. Kraus said.

"Were parents to sit in today's school classrooms," she said, "they would soon find out the need for higher teaching standards and modern school facilities." Teachers have a "vital role" in bringing about a change in the public's attitude toward education, she said, which is "more important" than federal aid, scholarships and improved school laws without change.

Another AFT vice president, Paul B. High of Cleveland, Ohio, said communities "get what they pay for in the field of education." A community is "misguided," he said, when it pours vast sums of money into construction of school buildings, "sometimes luxurious ones," and then fails to furnish sufficient revenues to staff the schools with qualified teachers.

"Modern, well-equipped buildings are important," High said, "but without high-grade teachers, they are not utilized fully."

of strengthening of friendship and cooperation between the peoples of the Soviet Union and the United States of America.

For the United States, President Eisenhower replied: "I earnestly trust that the new year will bring a firmer and better understanding between the citizens of the Soviet Union, the American people and those of other nations."

In addition, Khrushchev warmly toasting the United States at a new year reception in the Kremlin said: "If the Soviet Union and the United States 'get together and reach agreement, most of the world's problems would be solved.'"

The mothers of three Americans imprisoned by the Chinese Communists as spies flew across the Pacific to see their sons. The three men are among the last six Americans known to be under detention by the Reds.

Long ago, the Chinese Communist government invited relatives of all six prisoners to make the visit. But the State Department had refused permission—the United States is still technically at war with Red China because of its intervention in the Korean War.

"There was no hint that the Chinese intended to free the prisoners. If they did, it would be a most important gesture. It might prove to be the first move toward eventual American recognition."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles announced that he would fly to Ankara, Turkey, to attend a meeting of leaders of the Middle Eastern Treaty Organization—the so-called Baghdad Pact—on Jan. 27. The alliance includes Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Great Britain.

The United States sponsored the alliance, formed to combat Communist aggression and subversion, "but refused to join it."

Protests Lodged Against Tests Involving Animals

(Science Today)
By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—Aside from the stimulation Russia's two Sputniks gave to American space science, the sharpest American reaction has been directed at those sciences and scientists who use dogs and cats experimentally for the purpose of advancing human well-being.

The reason for it is that Laika, a dog, died in Sputnik I. The reaction has been, to capsule it into a few words: Stop American scientists from doing what those Goddess, criminal Russians did—killing a poor innocent dog for no reason at all!

Organized campaigns have begun in various sections. Petitions have been or are going to be presented to legislators and other office-holders. This reporter, on his rounds of laboratories, has seen a dozen or so letters which, after denouncing scientists as "sadists" and even "murderers" urged them to give up their "Communist practices."

Laika Gave Impetus
The vociferous campaigns of anti-vivisectionists are continuous, and so have continuous substance value inside science. But Laika has given them a new take-off point and this reporter knows of one science administrator who is worried lest the emotionally exploited ghost of that Russian dog eventually sets back American scientific progress.

Ordinarily scientists publicly ignore these campaigns, thinking that notice of them, stimulates them. But the Laika-based campaign has now reached the point where the editors of the respected New England Journal of Medicine felt impelled to comment on it. The campaign, they said, is being conducted "by those who, loving mankind less, have loved their animal companions more."

Claim Inconsistent

Their editorial found "a curious inconsistency in a compassion for certain petted animals only; a compassion that can be extended neither to mankind nor to the lower creatures. It is as if the canine and the feline inhabitants of the earth took precedence over all else."

"For certainly out of the concern that is expressed by an ardent group of vociferous objectors over the tribulations of dogs and cats, little seems to overflow onto the rabbits, the mice, the guinea pigs, the hamsters, the sheep, the camels, the asses, the hawking cattle and the dumb oxen and all the fowls of the field and of the air that are sacrificed for the necessities and conveniences of mankind."

RUN DON'T JUMP

PARIS (UP)—Amar Houada, 21, faced trial today because he didn't look before he leaped. Houada, surprised by the occupant of the apartment he was ransacking, leaped out a third-story window and landed on the sidewalk next to the police station.

Hula Bowl Set For Today

By CHARLES BERNARD
United Press Sports Writer
HONOLULU, Jan. 4 (UP)—The stage was set today for the 12th annual Hula Bowl Sunday, pitting the nation's top collegians as underdogs against a Hawaii All-Star team studded with top professionals.

However with top drawer coaching talent in the person of the Air Force Academy's Buck Shaw the collegians could upset the dope. In any event the experts freely predict this year's classic will be one of the finest offensive shows ever seen in Honolulu.

Shaw has had less than a week to shape up his dream collection headed by Texas A&M's All-American John David Crow. But his job was made easier because most of his players came from schools using the T-formation, the attack Shaw intends to throw against the All-Stars.

First Since Wilkinson Shaw is the first collegiate coach brought over from the mainland since 1953 when Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma led his troupe to a 23-14 victory over the All-Stars.

For the past two years Elroy Hirsch has acted as player-coach for the pro-bolstered All-Stars. They won handsily, 51-20 and 52-21. Old "Crazy Legs" this year will be leading a contingent of 11 professionals and 11 players drawn from the best local college players, semi-pros and military personnel.

It is small wonder the All-Stars are favored with the likes of Tobin Rote at quarterback, Hirsch and Kyle Rote at ends and backs R. C. Owens, Frank Gifford, Dicky Moegle and Joe Perry in the lineup.

Shaw said his boys can be expected to do their share of scoring, too, but "it will take ball control on our part to hold back the All-Stars with their big bulge in the passing department."

Dallas Baseball Club Owners Seek Admission To AAA

DALLAS, Jan. 4 (UP)—The Burnet interests, which only last Monday turned the Dallas baseball franchise back to the Texas League, today applied for membership in the Class AAA American Association.

While the Burnetts — the widow of the late R. W. (Dick) Burnet and her two daughters — gave up the franchise, they still own 10,000-capacity Burnet Stadium and more than 600,000 square feet of real estate surrounding it near the downtown section of Dallas.

The application for membership was in the form of a telegram to American Association headquarters in Denver. It said:

"The withdrawal of the Dallas baseball club and its owners from the Texas League has been accepted by unanimous vote of the directors. The Burnet interests wish to make application for membership in the American Association. Please advise as to formal procedure."

Face Legal Pitfalls The move was the first step designed to bring higher classification baseball to this city of 625,000, but it faces some legal pitfalls.

The Class AA Texas League

still owns the Dallas territory and has hopes of finding someone to operate the franchise here, although whoever elects to do so will have to reach some amicable rental agreement with the Burnetts for use of the stadium and grounds.

The Burnetts, through their former general manager, Warner H. Lewis, have indicated that this rental figure would "be reasonable, but by that we do not mean cheap."

Price May Be High The price might be so high, in that case, Dallas would automatically become "open territory" for the American Association.

Both Dallas and Houston, the big population backbone cities of the Texas League, tried to seek league approval last fall to get a berth in a higher classification league, but were voted down 6-2.

The Burnetts, who saw attendance dwindling year after year despite first-place ball clubs, indicated all along that if they did not get Class AAA ball they would sell or lease their franchise or not operate here at all.

Efforts to sell or lease fell through, so they turned the franchise back.

Brown Tries For 6th Win In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 4 (UP)—Paul Brown will try for his sixth victory in seven tries as a coach in the Senior Bowl when he directs the South against the North in the All-Star football game next Saturday.

Brown, Cleveland Browns coach who has been as successful in the Senior Bowl as in his other coaching ventures, has directed the South team to victory the past two years. He previously coached the North to three victories in four tries.

Joe Kuharich, coach of the Washington Redskins, will direct the North.

Fifth college stars will make their professional debuts in the game, which will be televised nationally (NBC) for the first time. Each member of the winning team will receive $500 and each member of the losing squad $400.

A capacity crowd of 36,000 is expected to be on hand for the kickoff at 2 p. m., east.

Scouts from the National Football League and the Canadian leagues will make their usual visit to the game but most of the competitors already have been drafted. Thirty-one of the 50 players already have been selected by NFL clubs.

Brown's South squad includes such stars as halfbacks Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma, Dick Christy of North Carolina State and Phil King of Vanderbilt, quarterbacks Ray Brown of Mississippi and George Walker of Arkansas, tackle Charles Krueger of Texas A&M and guard Bill Krisher of Oklahoma.

Kuharich's North team includes quarterbacks Jim Ninowski of Michigan State, Hobby Cox of Minnesota and Jim Van Pelt of Michigan, halfbacks Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State and Jim Shanley of Oregon, ends Jim Gibbons, of Iowa, Les Walters of Penn State and Dick Lassus of Syracuse, tackles Jim McCusker of Pittsburgh and Frank Yox of Minnesota and guards Alex Karas of Iowa and Charles Howley of West Virginia.

Pampa Rifle And Pistol Club Holds Small Bore Rifle Match

A small bore gallery rifle match was held at the indoor range of the Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club Friday night, Jan. 3, with three stages being shot, having ten shots for record in each position of "Prone," "Sitting or Kneeling," and "Standing."

Teams were represented from Perryton, Canadian and Pampa. Perryton had the winning team with a total four-man score of 1,094.

High individual honors went to Reed Errington of Canadian with a score of 281. Running second in high scoring was Chuck Waller of Perryton with 279, and placing third was Sammy Phelps of Perryton with a score of 277.

The outstanding position score of the evening was an almost-impossible 99, a mark set by Phelps in the sitting position.

The invitational tourney is held the first Friday of each month.

Stokes Paces Cincinnati Royals

By UNITED PRESS
Maurice Stokes left little doubt in the minds of the Philadelphia Warriors today that he's the man who makes the Cincinnati Royals click.

The 6-7, 235-pound Stokes sparked the Royals to a 106-94 victory over the Warriors Friday night to make it two straight victories since he returned to action after three weeks of injury-enforced idleness. Stokes scored 11 points and seized 28 rebounds in 39 minutes.

Philadelphia is at Detroit today in a TV game and Boston at Syracuse tonight.

Wilt The Stilt About Ready To Resume Playing

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 4 (UP)—Wilt Chamberlain, seven-foot basketball All-American at Kansas, is "coming along fine" and may be able to play in the next Kansas game on Tuesday, his doctor said today.

Chamberlain became ill after the Big Eight conference pre-season tournament early this week and missed Thursday's game against Oklahoma State.

Contradicting earlier reports, Dr. Killbourn Jensen of the University Student hospital said Chamberlain was suffering a urinary tract infection. He said the infection was caused by bacteria and was not the result of an injury while playing.

Earlier reports were that Chamberlain suffered a groin injury while playing against St. Joseph in Philadelphia Dec. 14.

Fraley's Facts And Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission, is expected to resign shortly to accept an appointment to the New York Supreme Court. In which case he will be succeeded by Francis Southan, another of the commissioners.

From tee to green: Doug Forgy has been in the money in 39 tournaments in a row and PGA champion Lionel Hebert comments that "every time he starts in a tournament he acts as if he's flat broke."

Del Rice Faces 14th Season

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Veleran catcher Del Rice, a fine defensive backstop for the "world champion Milwaukee Braves," joins to the 1958 season — his 14th major league baseball — with the determination of a rookie plugging for the first team.

"I'm in top shape," said the 35-year-old Rice Friday after returning his signed contract for the coming season to Braves General Manager John Quinn, "and I'm going to stay that way."

Rice, a well-built six-footer plus, said he is "very satisfied" with his new contract and "well-satisfied" to be on the Braves roster until "I quit baseball. They'll have to take the uniform off me to get me to do that."

Rose May Not Join Kramer On Tour

SYDNEY, Jan. 4 (UP)—Promissory promoter Jack Kramer virtually gave up hope today of landing Australian doubles star Mervyn Rose for his tour even as Aussie Lew Hoad took a 2-1 lead over Pancho Gonzales in their "world series."

Hoad, a failure in his first appearances as a pro last year in the United States, outlasted world champion Gonzales of Los Angeles, 6-3, 13-11, 6-4, in today's match at White City Stadium.

It was the second straight win for the blond Aussie star after Gonzales won the opening contest in the 100-match world-wide tour at Brisbane in five sets. Today's match was the most successful Kramer ever produced at White City, luring a near-capacity crowd that paid a gate of nearly 10,000 pounds — $22,400.

But Kramer has almost despaired of landing Rose, long the "forgotten man" of Aussie tennis who had a brief moment of glory in a doubles win over the United States in the recent Davis Cup matches. Rose is generally rated the world's best amateur doubles player.

Spieser Signs To Battle Layne In 10-Round Bout

DETROIT, Jan. 4 (UP)—Chuck managed to line up have Indispierser, already under contract they want their money for a light heavyweight title fight back.

with Archie Moore, signed today. Jack (Doc) Kearns, Moore's co-manager, says he has "given up the 10-round bout here Feb. 1."

Spieser said he accepted the fight because he is concerned. But he was quick to point out that a Spieser loss would keep in shape for the proposed 175-pound championship fight with Moore.

The contract between Spieser and Moore called for them to meet for the title at the State Fair Coliseum "sometime in January." Spieser agreed to put up $100,000 guarantee for the title, shot but has been able to raise only part of the money because April in what was regarded as a no television sponsor has been found.

No date has ever been set for a Spieser-Moore match and it is doubtful whether the fight will materialize since Moore is holding out for the full $100,000 guarantee and the backers Spieser has stopped Anthony.

Frick Pushes Proposal For Expansion Of Major League

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP) — Commissioner Ford Frick today threw his weight behind a proposal designed to pave the way for "an orderly expansion" of major league baseball.

The proposal, drafted by a four-man committee and announced in Frick's office late Friday, will be submitted to the joint major league meetings in New York Jan. 12. Since Frick will cast the deciding vote in case of a tie, it is regarded as certain the plan will be carried.

The proposal reaffirms Frick's off-stated principle that New York City should not be closed to the National League because of the exodus of the Giants and Dodgers. And it wipes out the old principle whereby major league clubs "owned" territory.

Frick Optimistic
"If this proposal is passed, it should stop the endless bickering and confusion that has attended franchise transfers so far," said Frick. "In effect, we are attempting to lay new ground rules that will help in the orderly expansion of baseball."

The committee, chosen by Frick at the December baseball meetings at Colorado Springs, is composed of Frank Lane, general manager of the Cleveland Indians; Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs; Jack Meyer, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals; and Roy Egan, attorney for the Chicago White Sox.

Rosi Unhappy Over Decision

NEW YORK (UP) — Paolo Rosi, who escaped with a single-point victory Friday night, declared today, "from now on I'll fight only legitimate lightweights."

Rosi of New York, fifth-ranking contender, was dissatisfied with the split 10-round decision over New Yorker Johnny Busso in their long-delayed TV fight at Madison Square Garden.

Tenth-ranked Busso weighed 141 pounds to Rosi's 135½, and Rosi claimed, "he fought as a welterweight, after making a private agreement he wouldn't weigh more than 138 pounds." The lightweight maximum is 135.

Accordingly, Rosi said he would accept an offer to fight third-rated Ralph Dupas at New Orleans, "because Dupas insists on weighing 140 pounds." Meanwhile, he will campaign for a shot at Joe Brown's title.

After four postponements since last March because of ailments and injuries, they climbed into the Garden ring before an estimated 3,000; and they staged an excellent fight. Baldish Rosi, 29, did most of the forcing, and he landed the harder punches in the exchanges. But, fast-stepping Busso took advantage of his height and reach-to-jab and hook Paolo at long range. Rosi bled slightly from the nose and right brow.

Spooner To Strive To Restore Ailing Arm For Pitching Duty

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Karl Spooner, who had just enough big-league baseball glory to whet his appetite, today embarked on a regime to restore his ailing left arm to its 1954 efficiency.

Spooner, an occasional hurler for Macon, Ga., last season, was claimed from the Brooklyn farm club for $4,000 by the St. Louis Cardinals in what they conceded was "a gamble."

And if determination and grit have anything to do with it, Spooner will pay off.

Pitched Two Shutouts

The 27-year-old left-hander, who joined the Dodgers at the tail-end of the 1954 season, pitched 18 scoreless innings in his only two starts. In that brace of appearances he also struck out 15 Pittsburgh and 12 Cincinnati batters.

But, during the next season, he compiled a so-so record of 8-6 before his arm gave way. Adhesions and calcium deposits made the pitching motion a torture for him but he never thought of giving up. He had a fling at the winter league circuit with Puerto Rico "but I just couldn't pitch at all."

Tomorrow Night's Wrestling To Have Double Main Event

Tomorrow night's wrestling at the Sportsman Club will feature a double main event in a top night of grappling that will highlight both single-matched and tag team battles.

In the first part of the top event, Nature Boy Rogers is slated to meet Bob Geisler in a two-out-of-three fall match, slated for a one-hour time limit. The match will mark the second appearance of Nature Boy in the Pampa ring, having downed Rip Rogers last week in a second-event encounter.

Bringing in the second part of the top event, a midget tag team match will be staged, with Red Feather and Cowboy Bradley meeting Tiny Roe and Tom Thumb. The battle is also slated for two out of three falls, carrying a 45 minute time limit.

In the opening event of the night, Bobby Wallace will grapple the Great Bolo in a one-fall contest marked for 20 minutes.

Held each Monday evening, the wrestling is sponsored by the Pampa Shrine Club, with the first event set to begin at 8:30. Sportsman Club is located one mile south of town on the Lefors highway.

Admission is $1.50 for ringside; $1.25 for reserved seats; 90 cents for general admission adult and 50 cents for general admission children.

Modern Day Hunters Getting Soft?

When Grandpappy hunted he usually hunted in his spare time. It was on a rainy day or at some time of the year that he didn't need to be in the field plowing, hoeing, or in the woods cutting wood or fence building. In this atomic age some seem to think that the modern hunter should stalk his game as did our forefathers or as did the Indians. Hunting is too easy now is the remarks of some of the youthful hunters. Perhaps it might be for some of these young athletes or some of the young men that take to the field in perfect physical condition. When you get to be forty plus and fat and out of condition it is very taxing on the torso to trot over the sandhills and thru the draws in search of wild game. Grandpa was probably in good physical condition and felt up to the day of arduous tramping in the field. If Grandpa had spent several years at office work he probably would have thought that he could walk as far as ever but one day's hunt would have convinced him that he didn't enjoy the sport as much as he did when walking thru the field was a pleasure.

It is hardly ever that I write anything with fear of contradiction but this is an exception. In my opinion many of the present day hunters had almost as soon kill a pen-raised gobbler, a broad-breasted bronze corn fed gobbler, as he had a pure wild specie. Of course I said "almost." If the hunter couldn't get a wild one he would quickly and without hesitation settle for one that had been released a few days before the season opened. If it comes to an endurance contest we could have an elimination race and only those that won could have the privilege of hunting. Personally I will prefer a Browning shotgun to a tommyhawk and hunting paraphernalia to a loin-cloth. Wick, of Wick's Sporting Goods Store in Borger once actually chased down a wild turkey gobbler (after a few flights was when Wick was younger and could jump a picket fence 'just like a deer'.

Game in the hunters bag and on the table is also one of the objectives today just the same as it was a hundred years back. What this is all about is something like this. Wouldn't it be a good idea for someone that was the owner of a shooting preserve to release a few choice gobblers even though they were corn fed and somewhat tame and allow some of the esteemed guests to shoot one of these rather than for the guest to go home empty handed.

Suppose the hunter was three score and ten plus, had poor eyesight and was suffering from high blood pressure, gout, and rheumatism, etc. Should this hunter compete with twenty year old athletes? Let him get one easy in my opinion, provided the game is legal.

To really bring this idea home lets put it this way. Suppose your grandfather was like the typical grandfather and enjoyed living in the past. He would spin interesting yarns for the pleasure of the grandchildren and tell them of the way they hunted when he was a youth. Naturally the grandchildren would be 'all ears' when grandfather told them of killing game in the early days, O.K. Then suppose grandfather was invited to hunt turkey on a certain ranch here in the Panhandle. The children would know, without a doubt, that Grandfather was going to bring home two of the largest gobblers that had ever been killed in this part of the state. When Grandfather returned from the hunt could he return without game?

To Shooting Preserve Owners, this is just a simple thought. What do you think of the idea?

Blackman Renews Football Contract

HANOVER, N.H. (UP) — The coach who forged Dartmouth College's best football season in 20 years has been granted an extension of contract.

Director of Athletics Robert A. (Red) Rolfe, former third baseman of the New York Yankees, announced Friday that Dartmouth and head grid coach Robert L. Blackman had "renewed" their agreement.

Rolfe did not disclose the complete terms of the agreement but mentioned "a substantial increase in salary" for Blackman.

Texas League Sets Meet To Try Overhauling Operation

DALLAS (UP) — The Class AA Texas League, in the throes of what may turn out to be an extensive overhaul job, will stage another meeting next Thursday at which the 1958 lineup may sharpen into focus.

League President, Dick Butler said that by that time the league should no definitely if the Mexican League can work out its problems in order for Mexico City and Monterey to join the Texas League and make it a 10-club circuit. The Mexican League has a meeting scheduled Monday.

It would take at least four votes from the six-team circuit to allow a merger of two Mexico City teams to join with Monterey in the trek north of the border. But, Nuevo Laredo, Vera Cruz and Merida are reported to be opposed to the break-up of the league and could block it.

The meeting next week also would be the first in which the league's newest member, Victoria, would have a voice. Victoria interests purchased the Shreveport franchise last Monday for a reported $40,000 at the same league meeting at which the Dallas franchise was turned back to the league by the Burnett estate.

The league has high hopes someone will be able to work out a deal to keep Dallas in the league, but Butler said that he had no comment on the Dallas situation.

George Schepps, who sold the Dallas franchise to the late Dick Burnett, has publicly proposed the formation of a community-owned corporation to take over the franchise, but Butler said he had no official knowledge of Schepps' plan. The league is awaiting word from the Burnett estate on the rental fee it expects on Burnett Field.

Another franchise which should come up for discussion is Oklahoma City, where owner Jimmie Humphries has proposed a civic-group ownership as an alternative to moving the club elsewhere, possibly Corpus Christi.

Pistons Defeat Warriors
DETROIT, Jan. 4 (UP) — Guard Dick McGuire and Gene Shue combined 14 points in the last quarter today to give the Detroit Pistons a come-from-behind 81-78 victory over the Philadelphia Warriors in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game. It was the lowest scoring game in the NBA this season.

In Thursday encounters, in the boys' bracket, McLean rolled by Miami, 52-34; Briscoe downed Canadian, 51-28; and McLean turned back the hosting Lefors Pirates, 43-23.

FIRST ROUND action in the girls' division saw Briscoe defeating Miami, 54-24; and McLean ed-

White Deer Girls; Boys Lead Action In Panhandle

Opening the action, the Bucks blasted to a top-heavy 102-47 victory over Kress, with J. J. Alford pacing the winners' at 29 points for the game. Tied for second in top scoring for the Bucks were Courtney White and Jeff Bearden, who both netted 18 points in the contest.

Tigers Fall To Friona

Competing in the Claude tournament, the Goom Tigers fell in the opening round by a narrow one-point margin to the Friona Chiefs, 58-57. The Goom girls also lost in their first try to Friona, 52-45. Participating in the tourney were Quilgus, Estelline, Friona, Price College, Ralls, Claude and Matador.

Earlier in the week, the Tigers played one of the few New Year's Eve tilts of the area as they fell to the Panhandle Panthers, 66-55. In the girls' game the Panthers also came through with the win, 52-46.

Wilt The Stilt About Ready To Resume Playing

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 4 (UP)—Wilt Chamberlain, seven-foot basketball All-American at Kansas, is "coming along fine" and may be able to play in the next Kansas game on Tuesday, his doctor said today.

Chamberlain became ill after the Big Eight conference pre-season tournament early this week and missed Thursday's game against Oklahoma State.

Contradicting earlier reports, Dr. Kolbjorn Jensen of the University Student hospital said Chamberlain was suffering a urinary tract infection. He said the infection was caused by bacteria and was not the result of an injury while playing.

Earlier reports were that Chamberlain suffered a groin injury while playing against St. Joseph's in Philadelphia Dec. 14.

Hula Bowl Set For Today

By CHARLES BERNARD
United Press Sports Writer
HONOLULU, Jan. 4 (UP)—The stage was set today for the 12th annual Hula Bowl Sunday, pitting the nation's top collegians as underdogs against a Hawaii All-Star team studied with top professionals.

However with top drawer coaching talent in the person of the Air Force Academy's Buck Shaw the collegians could upset the dope. In any event the experts freely predict this year's classic will be one of the finest offensive shows ever seen in Honolulu.

Shaw has had less than a week to shape up his dream collection headed by Texas A&M's All-American John David Crow. But his job was made easier because most of his players came from schools using the T-formation, the attack Shaw intends to throw against the All-Stars.

First Since Wilkinson
Shaw is the first collegiate coach brought over from the mainland since 1953 when Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma led his troupe to a 33-14 victory over the All-Stars.

For the past two years Elroy Hirsch has acted as player-coach for the pro-bolstered All-Stars. They won handily, 51-20 and 52-21. Old "Crazy Legs" this year will be leading a contingent of 11 professionals and 11 players drawn from the best local college players, semi-pros and military personnel.

It is small wonder the All-Stars are favored with the likes of Tobin Rote at quarterback, Hirsch and Kyle Rote at ends and backs R. C. Owens, Frank Gifford, Dicky Moegle and Joe Perry in the lineup.

Shaw said his boys can be expected to do their share of scoring, too, but "it will take ball control on our part to hold back the All-Stars and their big bulge in the passing department."

Del Rice Faces 14th Season

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Veteran catcher Del Rice, a fine defensive backstop for the world champion Milwaukee Braves, looks to be on the Braves roster in major league baseball — with the determination of a rookie plugging for the first time.

"I'm in top shape," said the 35-year-old Rice Friday after returning his signed contract for the coming season to Braves General Manager John Quinn, "and I'm going to stay that way."

Rice, a well-built six-footer plus, said he is "very satisfied" with his new contract and "well satisfied" to be on the Braves roster until "I quit baseball. They'll have to take the uniform off me to get me to do that."

Fraley's Facts And Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Fearsless Fraley's facts and figures: Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson has been in steady training for six months — for a phantom opponent as yet unselected and who he probably could knock over with a shave and a haircut.

Cus D'Amato, his manager, has announced that Floyd would earn $500,000 this year, which, at 50 cents a head, means he'll have to attract 1,000,000 spectators to his training camp unless he gets money against the boycotted top 10. . . he should be, however, the best conditioned fighter in history even if D'Amato doesn't let him fight anybody.

Waddaya mean, college "boys"? The composite player in Saturday's Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., is six feet, one inch tall, weighs 206 and is over 21. . . the North line will average 221 pounds and it has to be a testimonial to vitamins.

Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission, is expected to resign shortly to accept an appointment to the New York Supreme Court. . . in which case he will be succeeded by Francis Souhan, another of the commissioners.

From-tee to green: Doug Ford has been in the money in 39 tournaments in a row and PGA champion Lionel Hebert comments that "every time he starts in a tournament he acts as if he's flat broke."

Three Birdied
George Bayer, Fred Haas and Al Baiding, in the same threesome, all birdied the 13th hole at Sanford on Friday the 13th.

Frank McGuire, North Carolina N.Y., polo dinner Jan. 20. . . one basketball coach, says that if he had center Joe Quigg, who broke a foot in pre-season practice, he would have the greatest team he ever coached — and his club was undefeated last year as it won the NCAA title.

Lou Fontinato of the New York Rangers, hockey's worst bad man since the pre-World War II antics of Red Horner, says he just can't help himself. The team recently played a charity exhibition in Washington, and General Manager Muzz Patric warned all hands to conduct themselves "like gentlemen and big leaguers." So Fontinato got into a brawl and was thrown out of the game.

Ted Williams, Lew Burdette, Willie Hartack and Carmen Basilio are on the final ballot for the $10,000 Hickok Belt as the professional athlete of the year which will be presented at the Rochester, N.Y., polo dinner Jan. 20. . . one basketball coach, says that if he vote here for Basilio.

Dallas Baseball Club Owners Seek Admission To AAA

DALLAS, Jan. 4 (UP)—The Burnett interests, which only last Monday turned the Dallas baseball franchise back to the Texas League, today applied for membership in the Class AAA American Association.

While the Burnetts — the widow of the late R. W. (Dick) Burnett and her two daughters — gave up the franchise, they still own 10,000-capacity Burnett Stadium and more than 600,000 square feet of real estate surrounding it near the downtown section of Dallas.

The application for membership was in the form of a telegram to American Association headquarters in Denver. It said: "The withdrawal of the Dallas baseball club and its owners from the Texas League has been accepted by unanimous vote of the directors. The Burnett interests wish to make application for membership in the American Association. Please advise as to formal procedure."

Face Legal Pitfalls
The move was the first step designed to bring higher classification baseball to this city of 625,000, but it faces some legal pitfalls.

Rose May Not Join Kramer On Tour

SYDNEY, Jan. 4 (UP)—Pro tennis promoter Jack Kramer virtually gave up hope today of landing Australian doubles star Mervyn Rose for his tour even as Aussie Lew Hoad took a 2-1 lead over Pancho Gonzalez in their "world series."

Hoad, a failure in his first appearances as a pro last year in the United States, outlasted world champion Gonzalez of Los Angeles, 6-3, 12-11, 6-4, in today's match at White City Stadium.

It was the second straight win for the blond Aussie star after Gonzalez won the opening contest in the 100-match world-wide tour at Brisbane in five sets. Today's match was the most successful Kramer ever produced at White City, luring a near-capacity crowd that paid a gate of nearly 10,000 pounds ($22,400).

But Kramer has almost despaired of landing Rose, long the "forgotten man" of Aussie tennis who had a brief moment of glory in a doubles win over the United States in the recent Davis Cup matches. Rose is generally rated the world's best amateur doubles player.

still owns the Dallas territory and has hopes of finding someone to operate the franchise here, although whoever elects to do so will have to reach some amicable rental agreement with the Burnetts for use of the stadium and grounds.

The Burnetts, through their former general manager, Warner H. Lewis, have indicated that this rental figure would "be reasonable, but by that we do not mean cheap."

Price May Be High
The price might be so high, no operator would risk it. And, in that case, Dallas would automatically become "open territory" for the American Association.

Both Dallas and Houston, the big population backbone cities of the Texas League, tried to get league approval last fall to seek a berth in a higher classification league, but were voted down 6-2.

The Burnetts, who saw attendance dwindling year after year despite first-place ball clubs, decided all along that if they didn't get Class AAA ball they would sell or lease their franchise or not operate here at all. All efforts to sell or lease fell through, so they turned the franchise back.

Brown Tries For 6th Win In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 4 (UP)—Paul Brown will try for his sixth victory in seven tries as a coach in the Senior Bowl when he directs the South against the North in the All-Star football game next Saturday.

Brown, Cleveland Browns coach who has been as successful in the Senior Bowl as in his other coaching ventures, has directed the South team to victory the past two years. He previously coached the North to three victories in four tries.

Joe Kuharich, coach of the Washington Redskins, will direct the North.

Fifth college stars will make their professional debuts in the game, which will be televised nationally (NBC) for the first time. Each member of the winning team will receive $500 and each member of the losing squad $400. A capacity crowd of 38,000 is expected to be on hand for the kickoff at 2 p. m., est.

Spieser Signs To Battle Layne In 10-Round Bout

DETROIT, Jan. 4 (UP)—Chuck Spieser, already under contract for a light heavyweight title fight with Archie Moore, signed today to meet Miami's Bobby Layne in a 10-round bout here Feb. 1.

Spieser said he accepted the bout with Layne because he wants to keep in shape for the proposed 175-pound championship fight with Moore.

The contract between Spieser and Moore called for them to meet for the title at the State Fair Coliseum "sometime in January." Spieser agreed to put up a $100,000 guarantee for the title said.

Spieser met Anthony here last April in what was regarded as a title fight tune-up. Spieser was the top-ranking 175-pound contender and was in line for a summa Spieser-Moore match and it is doubtful whether the fight will materialize since Moore is holding out for the full $100,000 guarantee and the backers Spieser has contracted they want their money back. Jack (Doc) Kearns, Moore's co-manager, hasn't "given up the ghost" as far as a title match is concerned. But he was quick to point out that a Spieser loss would remove the former NCAA champion from Michigan State U. from the title picture.

"Taking this bout with Layne was the biggest mistake Spieser has made since he fought (Tony) Anthony last spring," Kearns shot but has been able to raise only part of the money because no television sponsor has been found.

No date has ever been set for a Spieser-Moore match and it is doubtful whether the fight will materialize since Moore is holding out for the full $100,000 guarantee and the backers Spieser has

Frick Pushes Proposal For Expansion Of Major League

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP) — Commissioner Ford Frick today threw his weight behind a proposal designed to pave the way for "an orderly expansion" of major league baseball.

Rosi Unhappy Over Decision

NEW YORK (UP)— Paolo Rosi, who escaped with a single-point victory Friday night, declared today, "from now on I'll fight only legitimate lightweights."

Rosi of New York, fifth-ranking contender, was dissatisfied with his split 10-round decision over New Yorker Johnny Busso in their long-delayed TV fight at Madison Square Garden.

Tenth-ranked Busso weighed 141 pounds to Rosi's 135½, and Rosi claimed, "he fought as a welterweight, after making a private agreement he wouldn't weigh more than 138 pounds." The lightweight maximum is 135.

Accordingly, Rosi said he would reject an offer to fight third-ranked Ralph Dupas at New Orleans. "Because Dupas insists on weighing 140 pounds," Rosi said, "I will campaign for a shot at Joe Brown's title."

After four postponements since last March because of ailments and injuries, they climbed into the garden ring before an estimated 2,000, and they staged an excellent fight. Baldini Rosi, 29, did most of the forcing, and he landed the harder punches in the exchanges. But, fast-stepping Busso took advantage of his height and reach to jab and hook Paolo at long range. Rosi bled slightly from the nose and right brow.

deciding vote in case of a tie, it is regarded as certain the plan will be carried.

The proposal reaffirms Frick's off-stated principle that New York City should not be closed to the National League because of the exodus of the Giants and Dodgers. And it wipes out the old principle whereby major league clubs "owned" territory.

Frick Optimistic
"If this proposal is passed, it should stop the endless bickering and confusion that has attended franchise transfers so far," said Frick. "In effect, we are attempting to lay new ground rules that will help in the orderly expansion of baseball."

The committee, chosen by Frick at the December baseball meetings at Colorado Springs, is composed of Frank Lane, general manager of the Cleveland Indians; Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs; Dick Meyer, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Roy Egan, Sox.

Spooner To Strive To Restore Ailing Arm For Pitching Duty

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Karl Spooner, who had just enough big-league baseball glory to whet his appetite, today embarked on a regime to restore his ailing left arm to its 1954 efficiency.

Spooner, an occasional hurler for Macon, Ga., last season, was claimed from the Brooklyn farm club for $4,000 by the St. Louis Cardinals in what they conceded was "a gamble."

And if determination and grit have anything to do with it, Spooner will pay off.

Modern Day Hunters
Getting Soft?

When Grandpappy hunted he usually hunted in his spare time. It was on a rainy day or at some time of the year that he didn't need to be in the field blowing wood or fence building. In this atomic age some seem to think that the modern hunter should stalk his game as did our forefathers or as did the Indians. Hunting is too easy now is the remarks of some of the youthful hunters. Perhaps it might be for some of these young athletes or some of the young men that take to the field in perfect physical condition. When you get to be forty plus and fat and out of condition it is very taxing on the torso to trot over the sandhills and thru the draws in search of wild game. Grandpa was probably in good physical condition and felt up to a day of arduous tramping in the field. If Grandpa had spent several years at office work he probably would have thought that he could walk as far as ever but one day's hunt would have convinced him that he didn't enjoy the sport as much as he did when walking thru the field was a pleasure.

It is hardly ever that I write anything with fear of contradiction but this is an exception. In my opinion many of the present day hunters had almost as soon kill a pen-raised gobbler, a broad-breasted bronze corn fed gobbler, as he had a pure wild species. Of course I said "almost." If the hunter couldn't get a wild one he would quickly and without hesitation settle for one that had been released a few days before the season opened. If it comes to an endurance contest we could have an elimination race and only those that won could have the privilege of hunting. Personally I will prefer a Browning shotgun to a tomhawk and hunting paraphernalia.

to a join-cloth, Wick, of Wick's Sporting Goods Store in Borger once actually chased down a wild turkey gobbler (after a few flights was when Wick was younger and could jump a picket fence 'just like a deer'.

Game in the hunters bag and on the table is also one of the objectives today just the same as it was a hundred years back. What this is all about is something like this. Wouldn't it be a good idea for someone that was the owner of a shooting preserve to release a few choice gobblers even though they were corn fed and somewhat tame and allow some of the esteemed guests to shoot one of these rather than for the guest to go home empty handed.

Suppose the hunter was three score and ten plus, had poor eyesight and was suffering from high blood pressure, gout, and rheumatism, etc. Should this hunter compete with twenty year old athletes? Let him get one easy in my opinion, provided the game is legal.

To really bring this idea home lets put it this way. Suppose your grandfather was like the typical grandfather and enjoyed living in the past. He would spin interesting yarns for the pleasure of the grandchildren and tell them of the way they hunted when he was a youth. Naturally the grandchildren would be 'all ears' when grandfather told them of killing game in the early days, O.K., then I suppose grandfather was invited to hunt turkey on a certain ranch here in the Panhandle. The children would know, without a doubt, that Grandfather was going to bring home two of the largest gobblers that had ever been killed in this part of the state. When Grandfather returned from the hunt it could be return without game?

To Shooting Preserve Owners, this is just a simple thought. What do you think of the idea?

Blackman Renews Football Contract

HANOVER, N.H. (UP) — The coach who forged Dartmouth College's best football season in 20 years has been granted an extension of contract.

Director of Athletics Robert A. (Red) Rolfe, former third baseman of the New York Yankees, announced Friday that Dartmouth and head grid coach Robert L. Blackman had "renewed" their agreement.

Rolfe did not disclose the complete terms of the agreement but mentioned "a substantial increase in salary" for Blackman.

It's really too early to predict anything but it seems to me that Lady, my prize pointer female will be the mother of a few pointer pups in the near future. Lady is by National Champion Lester's Enjoy Wahoo and out of a Spunky Creek Female. This was the female that I mentioned a few years back that was owned, at that time, by Joe Rich, formerly of Canadian. At that time this female, same as now, was touted as being the best bred pointer female in the entire Panhandle. The pups are by a grandson of The Texas Ranger and are the tops in breeding. If they weren't the best I wouldn't own them, due to the fact that it doesn't cost much more to own the best. If you are interested, drop me a line.

O. B. Sullivan, one of the most ardent bird dog enthusiasts in this neck of the woods related about a setter called 'Cap' that he loaned to a quail hunter the other day. The dog pointed eight coveys of bobs plus seventeen singles in one days hunt. Personally my dogs can't seem at all this year and with a neutral observer giving this report of a dog's nose working to perfection, it is almost difficult to believe. O. B. Sullivan owns a great setter but it doesn't make me want to give my dogs away. I am just envious of anyone that has a dog that can smell birds this year.

Texas League Sets Meet To Try Overhauling Operation

DALLAS (UP)— The Class AA Texas League, in the throes of what may turn out to be an extensive overhaul job, will stage another meeting next Thursday at which the 1958 lineup may sharpen into focus.

League President Dick Butler said that by that time the league should not definitely if the Mexican League can work out its problems in order for Mexico City and Monterey to join the Texas League and make it a 10-club circuit. The Mexican League has a meeting scheduled Monday.

It would take at least four votes from the six-team circuit to allow a merger of two Mexico City teams to join with Monterey in the trek north of the border. But, Nuevo Laredo, Vera Cruz and Merida are reported to be opposed to the break-up of the league and could block it.

The meeting next week also would be the first in which the loop's newest member, Victoria, would have a voice. Victoria interests purchased the Shreveport franchise last Monday for a reported $40,000 at the same league meeting at which the Dallas franchise was turned back to the league by the Burnett estate.

The league has high hopes someone will be able to work out a deal to keep Dallas in the league, but Butler said that he had no comment on the Dallas situation.

George Schepps, who sold the Dallas franchise to the late Dick Burnett, has publicly proposed the formation of a community-owned corporation to take over the franchise, but Butler said he had no official knowledge of Schepps' plan. The league is awaiting word from the Burnett estate on the rental fee it expects on Burnett Field.

Another franchise which should come up for discussion is Oklahoma City, where owner Jimmie Humphries has proposed a civic-group ownership as an alternative to moving the club elsewhere, possibly Corpus Christi.

Nuptial High Mass Ceremony Pledges Miss Mary S. Bryant, Tommy Darling

(Special to The News)
WHITE DEER — Miss Mary Sue Bryant became the bride of Tommy Ray Darling at a Nuptial High Mass in the Sacred Heart Church in White Deer at 9 a.m. on December 30. The Rev. Jerome Hancock performed the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bryant of Panhandle are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Darling, 1763 Aspen, Pampa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a walk-length gown of porcelain white satin styled with a yoke neckline enriched by clusters of seed pearls; an elongated waist, and long tapered sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was attached to a small hat encrusted with sequins. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and carnations.

Maid of honor was Miss Leatrice Ann Urbanczyk of Pampa, a cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Maxwell of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, and Miss Cheryl Chance of Pampa. All wore street-length dresses of red velvet. The dresses were styled with three-quarter sleeves, and long fitted waist lines, accented by soft pleats around the hips.

They wore headpieces of white fur, and carried colonial bouquets of white carnations with red berries.

Donald Darling, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Danny Johnson and Gene Doggett, both of Pampa. Pat Darling, brother of the bridegroom, carried the rings on a red velvet pillow, showing through white lace.

Mrs. Bryant, mother of the bride wore a rose two-piece dress with brown accessories. Mrs. Darling, mother of the bridegroom wore a two-piece Wedgewood blue suit trimmed with a black fur collar with red and white accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

Mrs. Evangeline Kotara, White Deer, played the organ as the church choir sang the mass. Miss Carolyn Anderwald of White Deer sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," as the bride laid her bouquet before the altar of the Blessed Mother.

Ronald Urbanczyk of Pampa, cousin of the bride, Tom Bill Johnson, Pampa, cousin of the bridegroom, Arnold Urbanczyk, White Deer, and Douglas Rapsine, White Deer, served as altar boys.

The altar was adorned with poinsettias and white stocks. Immediately following the ceremony a breakfast was served in the parish hall.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a royal blue suit of wool knit with black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Darling will be at home to friends in Beeville, where he is in the U.S. Navy.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend
A situation has arisen in our family which has caused a great deal of bitterness between my husband and myself.

His sister died recently leaving three small children. The father has asked us to take the smallest one, a little girl, to raise and his mother will take the other two. My husband thinks that we should do this.

My feelings are that I am having some freedom after getting my own three raised. Our youngest, a boy, is in high school. I simply dread starting over again with an eight year old.

I also feel that it is unfair to expect us to take the financial responsibility as I know we will as the father is not inclined to thriftiness.

She is a dear little thing. I will admit, and very good. I do feel sorry for her but to devote years to her is too much.

Do you think I should take this on simply to please my husband? He is anxious to have the child as he feels she wouldn't have much chance otherwise.

Mrs. J.

I feel that if you do take this child you should legally adopt her since you will be assuming full responsibility for her. You should be in a position of treating her as if she were your own.

No one can tell you to take on this added burden but I am sure that if you do you will be well rewarded in the end. As the child grows up you will find that she is in your heart as much as are your own and the joy that she can bring you will be enough reward.

You also will have the gratitude of your husband and will find much satisfaction in his pleasure at having your cooperation in what he eventually feels is his obligation towards his dead sister.

Dear Miss Friend:

You solve so many problems for people. I hope that you will be able to tell me what kind of person would steal from the dead?

Our beautiful planter was stolen from in front of my father's crypt in a mausoleum. It was a lovely three tiered black wrought iron planter with three beautiful plastic pots with brownish gold butterflies on the pots. Each pot had a nice healthy plant in it, a philodendron in one, a fern type plant in another and two small shrub like plants in the third.

My father died in June. His birthday was in August and my brother sent money to my mother to buy flowers for Dad. Since we go to the mausoleum every week and take fresh flowers, we decided to buy this planter with my brother's gift. On Saturday, Dec. 7, when we went to the mausoleum to take our flowers and water our planter, there was no planter to water.

We reported our loss to the officials there and they said that a reporter lady who has a relative buried in the same corridor had reported a full blooming potted Azalea stolen that same day. This must have been stolen by the same person because surely there are not two people in this world that would steal from the dead.

Dear L.E.M.

Ghoulish people have stolen from the dead since the beginning of time, even to the extent of opening graves and removing jewels and clothes from the corpses.

It is shameful to think that such people exist but there is no use in not facing reality.

Knowing that a crypt may be robbed as well as a home, take care not to leave expensive containers there in the future.

Perhaps you could remember your father to better advantage by taking flowers or gifts to the children's ward at the hospital or by sending a bouquet to an old friend who might not have flowers otherwise.

A portion of used clothing was donated by Boy Scouts collected in a "trick or treat" campaign on Halloween.

RUTH MILLETT

Does today's teen-ager really have it so good?

A lot of adults seem to think so. They are always talking about how easy life is for today's teen-ager, with few chores to do around the modern house, with plenty of spending money in his pockets, with top priority on the family car or a car of his own to drive with clothes designed for teen-age appeal, with something doing all the time, with more freedom than kids that age have ever had before.

They have it easy, all right. But that doesn't necessarily mean that they have it so good.

The adults who have pampered and spoiled them and are responsible for their having so much aren't on the best of terms with their teen-agers.

All the while Pop is handing Junior as much money to spend in an evening as Pop, at the same age, had to spend in a month, he is reminding his son of the fact. And when Junior seems bored with the comparison, Pop gets irritated.

Then, though Junior has his pocket full of money, he also has the distinct impression that his father has a pretty low opinion of him.

Sis has a closet full of pretty clothes, far more than she needs. But Mom doesn't let her forget that they cost more than the family can afford. So Sis is made to feel selfish and demanding, even while her selfishness is being catered to.

Sure, Mom and Pop do the work around the house and yard while the kids are off having a good time. But they do it resentfully.

They haven't the backbone to say, "You stay home and do your share of the work." But that doesn't keep them from blaming the kids for being lazy and irresponsible.

And every time a teen-ager gets in trouble, these same parents who are letting their own kids run wild look at them like strangers and wonder what they're doing when they are away from home. The kids sense the distrust, and they resent it.

So we have two worlds — the teen-age world and the adult world.

Ad while the teen-ager may seem to be having a high old time in his own little world, underneath he is often lonely and frightened.

WHITE DEER — A Christmas dinner was given by the Venado Blanco Club in the home of Mrs. Florette Burns.

Each member provided a portion of the dinner.

An arrangement of Christmas symbols and red candles in green ceramic holders, spelling the word "Noel," decorated the table, which was laid with a green linen cloth and red napkins.

He senses the antagonism of adults and doesn't know that they are really mad at themselves for turning him loose in an irresponsible teen-age world, instead of making

Peg O' Pampa

TAKING A CUE FROM Durwood Kirby on the Garry Moore show on television, New Year's Resolutions should be made in reverse, since most of us break them, anyhow... so we resolve to be mean to the children... to step on cat's tails to hear them wail... to throw all the papers and candy wrappings all over the streets when riding in the car... never to do the dishes after the evening meal but to leave them to stare us in the face the next morning... to say nothing unless we can think of something bad... and so on... at least, the guilty feeling of breaking good resolutions will be absent!

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE... we heard Mrs. John Kootz saying somewhere that she is as proud of the new lights and other gains Pampa has made during the past year as if she were personally responsible for them... she just glows when anyone has a good word for the city... and well she may, as John is certainly doing a fine job as City Manager... by the way... he looks happier than we have ever seen him, and looks in the peak of health... your children can prepare for another Walt Disney feature length cartoon... like LADY AND THE TRAMP... he has purchased the movie rights for a book by Dodie Smith called "The 101 Dalmatians"... it tells a tale of two dogs that track down a woman who kidnaps Dalmatians for the fur coats they make!... some cartoon we must say... saw Evelyn Nace shopping hurriedly in the pre-New Year's Eve rush at the grocery store... everybody, nearly, was out doing the last minute chore... we went out to look at the Pampa Boys' Club building... beginning to see the end in sight it seems to us... also checked on the new Junior High School... that is really an edifice... have heard rumors of a new Furr Food store to be built, way out on Hobart Street... looks as if the shopping center is spreading out and moving north and west... a sure sign of the development of a "modern city" when these things happen... the good ole automobile is primarily responsible, n'est-ce pas?... saw Scooter Warner... he was home for the holidays... Brian Duncan had a birthday party last week... six years old... golly doesn't seem any time at all since he was Pampa's New Year's Baby... by the way, didn't anyone have a New Year's Baby this year?... saw Inez Carter in her brand-spanking-new Cadillac, driving down Duncan one day... there's a new baby girl at the James T. Winbornes... did you know?

WELL, WE CAN'T START THE NEW YEAR WITHOUT SOME LEVITY... inflation has hit the moonshine whiskey market... in Tennessee the price for homemade brew has gone from five dollars to six dollars a gallon... sad, sad... Dr. Rudolf Dreikurs, a psychiatrist, is going to lecture on "The predicament of being a man," and "The predicament of being a woman"... (in Chicago, however)... with the ice and snow we have been hearing reported for that area on the TV weather casts, we suspect it is a predicament to be anything other than a penguin or an Alaskan Husky there... at least until the snow melts... and in England jet engines have many uses besides to raise airplanes from the ground... they have been used to clear snow from the streets.

THE NEW YEAR will be sad for friends of two families who are leaving Pampa in 1958... and soon... Cliff and Virginia Estes are leaving... we'll all miss his jolly ways... and her friendship... they are going to Dallas... it means a promotion of course, but we'll not be glad to see them leave, even so... and Betty and Cliff Whitney have been transferred to New York... with a promotion... Cliff was gone during the holidays, house-hunting up there... they plan to live in Western Connecticut, about fifty miles from New York... it is a rural place... most of the house are on two-acre tracts... Douglas Edwards and Mike Todd reportedly have homes in the vicinity... Tip says that he hates to leave, but he can say he's "been around"... but the place sounds wonderful for the children... bet they hate to leave their house, now that they have just remodeled it so wonderfully... some lucky person will take it over, though, we suspect... all the friends of the Whitneys will be sorry to see them go... Terry and Randy Haralson are a couple of fine young people... both with infectious grins... Bev Fancher surely did some fine singing during the past holiday season... she keeps very busy with it... heard she has some beautiful new carpeting... Mr. and Mrs. Don George went to Dallas this past week end... a short winter vacation... have you been to Amarillo to see "Around the World in 80 Days" yet?... it's very good... see that the Guy Clements are building a house... on Christine.

KNOWLEDGE IS GOLDEN... since last year was the "Year of the Sputnik"... here is how the word came into our language... it is a pure Russian word meaning "satellite"... logically enough... its etymology is simple... s, meaning "with"; put, meaning "journey"; nik, meaning "one who"... assembled, the parts mean roughly, "one who journeys with"... and it is pronounced "with the 'put' part just as you would say 'put' in English... incidentally, the word will be in the next Webster's New World Dictionary... and along with this scientific note, we heard that some people in the science world were greeting each other "Happy Nuclear!"

MORE, MORE info... the Couples Club at Holy Souls Catholic Church had a real bang-up New Year's Eve party... with some one-hundred celebrators... at least... held it in the Parish Hall... with decorations by Mrs. Forrest Hills and assistants, Mary (Mrs. Wayne) Howell, and Ray Hudson... all decorated with serpentine streamers and such... there were tables full of gay people... Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lineman, newcomers to Pampa... and there was a whole table of people from the Canadian parish that all were glad to see... Father Lang had a fine time with his Polaroid Land Camera... going from table to table a-la-nightclub, taking pictures... everybody got a kick out of that... and all wanted their pictures... Fred and Gay Ammeter had a wonderful time... the Joe Gordons took their daughters Sara and Martha and flew to Mexico City for Christmas... they will go on to Acapulco, also... we were reading the article on past news in Pampa the other day and noticed that a public hearing on various traffic ordinances will be held... and we want to speak our piece about the "no right turn on red light" one... it sure does snarl up traffic... and it was awful during the Christmas rush... seems to us, if we may say so, that it is better to get those right-turning cars out of the way instead of making them wait, wait, wait!... see you at the hearing on January 14!

Miss Sandra London, Douglas Black Exchange December Marriage Vows

(Special to The News) GROOM—In the Church of Christ on December 21, wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Sandra Beth London and Douglas Sherwood Black, Amarillo, before a background of baskets of white gladioli and sprayed evergreens.

Miss London is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John V. London of Groom. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Black of Groom.

Bob Beaty, minister, performed the double-ring ceremony, which was preceded by an acapella accompaniment of the traditional wedding marches and "O Promise Me." Brother Beaty repeated the Disciples' Prayers. Miss Sylvia London sang, "Wither Thou Goest."

THE BRIDE

Escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in Chianti lace and tulle over satin featuring a Sabrina neckline edged with pearls and iridescent sequins and long tapering sleeves. Her floor-length gown had an over-skirt of wide white lace and was accented with ruffles of tulle and lace alternating down the back of the gown ending in a chapel train. Her veil of French illusion was caught to a lace cap topped with a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Sylvia London, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and wore a Periwinkle Blue velvet and sheath. She carried an arrangement of white split mums.

Misses Martha Kirk, Gwen Hill of Breckenridge, and Judy Newton, were bridesmaid gowned in baby-blue velvet and sheaths, with draped necklines which created back interest, and carried white mum bouquets.

Lyndon Black, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Hershel Black, brother of the bridegroom, of Amarillo, was head usher. Seating the wedding guests were Donald Clark, Lawrence Knopp and Walter Smith, cousin of the bridegroom, all of Amarillo. Flower girls were Sue Ann Bates and Patricia Hunt, cousins of the bride. They wore blue velvet full-skirted dresses and carried baskets of rose petals.

Ring-bearers were Kyle Black and Gaylan Nepper. Lighting the candles at the altar were Jack and Johnny London, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Douglas Sherwood Black

Mrs. London, mother of the bride, wore a pink and gold brocade satin sheath with blue and gold accessories and wore a flame-colored carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Black, wore a black wool suit with blue and black accessories and a blue carnation corsage.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the bride's home immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was adorned with a blue and

"Portrait Of Dreams" Ball Introduces Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club Members

In an impressive ceremony in the Pampa Country Club on December 27, the Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club welcomed its new members with a formal presentation to members and friends, using the theme "Portrait Of Dreams."

Miss Joan Jones, president of the club, wearing a white peau de soie ball gown, presided over the presentation. Her script was presented in verse as each pledge walked with her escort from the back of the ballroom down an aisle carpeted in white satin. Standing on either side of the white carpet, holding gold braided ropes were members of the Sub Deb Club.

The entire scene was one of gold. The platform, where the new members were presented, was covered in gold metallic material from ceiling to floor. Centering the stage was a replica of a victorian picture in antique gold flanked on either side with tall, antique gold candelabra with golden candles, which were lighted by Misses Maynette Loftus and Carmelita Hogan attired in white satin.

Each new member presented a living portrait in the frame, while Miss Jones read a welcome and short description of each girl, in verse, in keeping with the theme of the presentation ceremony, "Portrait of Dreams."

After each girl was presented, little Terry Ann Cully and Barbara Brown, wearing white and gold ballet dresses, presented each new member with a parasol of white net ruffles trimmed in gold. As each new member took her place, after appearing in the picture frame, the white parasols gave the illusion of the opening of a large flower.

After the presentation, Miss Betty Barnes was presented with a bouquet of roses as best pledge. Bob Burns Orchestra of Amarillo furnished music for dancing throughout the evening.

Preceding the presentation ball, new members and their escorts met for dinner in the Colonial Inn with their sponsor, Mrs. H. M. Latta.

Special guests at the ball were Messrs. and Mrs. Calvin Jones, C. B. Guidry, E. W. Hogan, H. M. Latta, Mrs. Azelle Loftus and R. D. Goodnight.

RUTH MILLETT 18

Television has often been credited with keeping American families at home.

TV may keep a family under one roof evening after evening, but it doesn't do much of anything to bring them closer together.

Families sitting in front of a TV set do little talking, except to occasionally hurl insults at the set when a program is worse than average. Or argue over which channel to watch. Or shush each other when someone imagines for a moment that something he has to say is more important than whatever some TV comic is saying, to the accompaniment of wild guffaws of canned laughter.

In order to get really close to each other members of families need to do things together, whether it is playing a game, working together, sitting in front of an open fire talking, making plans for a coming holiday — or whatever.

When, instead of doing and talking, they take to sitting and watching TV evening after evening, they are bound to lose contact with each other.

For they aren't asking anything of each other or giving anything to each other. They are simply so many individuals, members of an audience, sitting down and demanding to be entertained.

But since it is so easy a way to spend an evening, too many families think it is a good way. The fact that they are bored with what they are watching a great part of the time doesn't seem to matter.

They have forgotten, perhaps, what it was like to spend their evenings "together," instead of just in the same house.

Women with dry skin and women with oily skin both have their problems. Oily skin requires more washing than a dry skin. Experiment to find how many times a day you need a soap-and-water scrubbing for your face. The dryer your skin, the fewer times you should use soap and water.

When Leggy Tomboy Turns Into Lady, She'll Request Frilly, Feminine Room

By KAY SHERWOOD

NEA Staff Writer When a leggy little tomboy starts to blossom into a lady-like teen-ager, mom and pop are apt to note the change in attitude towards a good many things. Not the least of these will be a request for a change in her room from the sturdy and utilitarian to the frilly and feminine.

Boosting her argument are the bedroom furnishings that manage to be frilly and feminine, yet sturdy and no more trouble to care for than the less glamorous-looking equipment.

I've listened to the woes of mothers whose daughters want to go all out for ruffles and roses. The changeover may have to be gradual, but it can be accomplished without too much trouble.

New curtains for the bedroom, for example, might be sheer ruffled ones in a synthetic fiber. New draperies are sheer, strong and launder easily.

You may note on marquisette curtains a label from the manufacturer of the fiber attesting that the finished curtains have passed standards for high-quality construction and fiber content.

This should be of some reassurance to those of us who know that synthetic fibers, even as natural fibers, must be properly chosen and woven to give satisfactory service.

Lush, new, rose-sprigged comforters in nylon-covered fiberfill are very light in weight, yet strong and long-wearing. The filling is a fluffy synthetic fiber which resists matting and shifting within the quilted pattern.

A pillow matches this. Gaining popularity are blankets of acrylic fiber. These are softly napped and come in lovely colors. Repeated launderings are not supposed to affect the surface or cause shrinkage or matting of the fibers. (I've laundered a baby blanket of this type several times and it seems to take hard usage without showing the strain.)

When sheets must be replaced, lovely colors and flower-sprigged patterns are available to build up the feminine look of a pretty bedroom.

In the meantime, we satisfied one girl by bordering her ordinary sheets with a wide strip of floral-patterned percale.

To encourage good habits such as making her own bed, we did invest in two nylon contour sheets. They wash and dry so quickly a reserve supply doesn't seem to be necessary. And, the taut, fitted corners of contour sheets do speed up the bed-making routine. Little touches, such as framed prints, a pretty lamp and a whitewashed pot of ivy in the window are inexpensive and effective "lady-like" touches. If a bed or chest is scarred from tomboy days, it can be painted white and bordered in a pastel shade to match freshly painted or papered walls.

silver theme and centered with an arrangement of mums.

Miss Becky McCoy presided at the punch service. Miss Bidean Craig served cake and Miss Lynn Witt presided at the guest register. Other members of the house-party were Misses Connie Black, Doyle Black, Judy Epsy, and Brenda Brown.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado, the bride traveled in a toast-brown, wool, corded suit with black accessories. She wore the white roses from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Black was graduated from Groom High School and attended Abilene Christian College. Mr. Black was graduated from the same high school and is employed by Shamrock Oil and Gas Co. in Dumas.

They plan to make their home at 812 Sunset in Amarillo.

Miss Martha Frances Bullard Bride Of Henry J. Maple In Church Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Maple
(Photo, Call's Studio)

Miss Martha Frances Bullard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Bullard, 1177 Varnon Drive, became the bride of Henry James Maple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Maple, Route 2, in a candle-light ceremony performed by Rev. M. B. Smith in Highland Baptist Church on December 20 at 7:30 p.m.

The double-ring service was performed amid a setting of baskets of white chrysanthemums, green palms and candelabra. Miss Estelle Lunsford, pianist, accompanied Miss Marilyn Smith as she sang, "Because" and "O Promise Me." The traditional processional and recessional marches were played by Miss Lunsford for the wedding party.

THE BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, Miss Bullard was gowned in white Chantilly lace and tulle over satin featuring a high neckline with Peter Pan collar, long sleeves coming to bridal points over the hands, and a full, ballerina-length skirt encircled with satin trim. Her finger-tip Veil of Illusion was secured with a satin headpiece trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Ruth Baird, sister of the bride, was matron of honor wearing a blue crystalline over taffeta dress with a v-neckline and flared skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Ruby Bullard, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid, wearing a dress styled as that of the matron of honor. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Don Maple, bridegroom's brother, was best man. Groomsman was Kenneth Williams. Bobby Ferrell and Tommy Schrader seated the wedding guests. Randy Cantrell was ring-bearer. Candlelighters were George Bullard, brother of the bride and Parker Stewart. Miss Sharley Dawes was flower girl.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Bullard, chose a brown and black cotton suit with black accessories. Mrs. Maple, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gray Russian crepe dress with accessories of black. Their corsages were white-carnations.

For the reception in the church held immediately following the exchange of vows, Miss Laura Ferrell presided at the punch service. Miss Evelyn Haymes served cake, and Miss Jeanette Smith was guest registrar.

For a wedding trip to Amarillo, the bride traveled in a two-piece blue dress of cotton silk and wore the white roses from the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Maple was graduated from Borger High School and is employed at Motor Inn Auto Supply. Mr. Maple was graduated from Lefors High School and is employed by Boman Chase in Borger.

Mr. and Mrs. Maple are at home to friends at 721 N. Nelson.

A bridal shower was given for Mrs. Maple, prior to her marriage, in Highland Baptist Church on Dec. 10. Approximately 80 guests attended or sent gifts.

Mature Parent

BY MRS. MUREL LAWRENCE
Our daughter's best friend has been given one of the new, synthetic fur coats.

Next Saturday we'll go shopping with Doreen for her new winter clothes. From the rack of simulated beaver coats, she'll seize one, put it on and run back to us, crying, "It's just like Edie's! I want it! It will wear forever, Edie's mother says."

Nervously, we'll say, "I told you we can't afford it. Please take it off dear, and try on this nice wool one."

Doreen's face will frown in resentment as the saleslady helps her into the cheaper coat. With false cheerfulness, we'll say, "Now isn't that becoming? Just look at yourself in the mirror!"

But our daughter won't look in the mirror. With her face set stonily against the image of herself in the wool coat, she'll say sullenly, "If Edie's parents can give her a coat like she got, I don't see why you can't give one to me."

All our pleasure in providing winter warmth for Doreen will drain out of us. In a silence as discouraged as hers, we'll go home together with the good, sturdy, unwanted wool coat.

The young are always asking us to compete with other parents. We do not have to compete. Though competition may be the life of trade, it can be death to parents' self-respect.

When we allow Doreen to rate our coat buying performance against that of Edith's mother, we prove only that we are children ourselves.

The need to match the performance of Edith's mother is a hang-over from our need as a child to match the successes of our brothers and sisters.

When Doreen reproaches us for not giving her the same privilege Mrs. Jones has given Edith, the discouragement we feel is the same

Poor circulation contributes its share to skin conditions. A sluggish skin allows oil to clog under the skin and form whiteheads. Usually a good scrubbing in the trouble area will banish the whitehead in a short time.

Novel Endive Dish Will Tempt Tastes

Another novel preparation of Belgian endive should tempt discriminating tastes. This recipe was prepared by Miss Milo Mitrovich, food expert and author of international best seller books such as The Art of Cooking with Herbs and Spices.

STUFFED BELGIAN ENDIVE
4 large heads Belgian endive
3 ozs. butter
1/4 tsp. salt
4 lbs. bread crumbs
1 lbs. freshly chopped parsley
Freshly ground white pepper

Allow 1 large head Belgian endive cut lengthwise in half for each serving. Crisp endive in ice-water 15 minutes before using. Dry gently in paper towel. With sharp knife, slice Belgian endive head lengthwise beginning at root - end. Gently remove small center leaves to make space for stuffing. In mixing bowl, blend bread crumbs, chopped parsley and 2 ozs. melted butter. Use oblong casserole which can be placed over flame. Place 1 oz. butter in casserole; melt butter over medium flame. Arrange each half head Belgian endive in casserole. Brown lightly 5 minutes. Remove casserole from flame. Stuff each portion endive with 1 tbs. mixture. Place casserole in pre-heated medium oven for 20 minutes or until Belgian endive is tender or transparent.

Serve piping hot on preheated plates. If desired, additional melted butter may be added at time of serving.

The small, draped hat has found favor in this country since Queen Elizabeth appeared in several versions during her visit here. They come in satin, velours, and velvet 7 by 46 Warn M830a 12-30 ... and in jewel colors. Usually, they're worn slightly profile.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Mrs. W. has four young children. Two months ago her widowed mother died in a nursing home. She writes, "My husband felt I had too much to do to take care of her. I agreed to put her in a home, though I knew she wanted to stay with me. Now I wish to God I hadn't. I can't get over her dying in that place alone. Help me. I'm even losing interest in my children . . ."

Once, death took one man's entire family. Like Mrs. W., he hated himself because he hadn't arranged things better and protected them against their dreadful end. A good man, he couldn't understand how his goodness had merited such affliction. Friends couldn't reach his despair. Time, instead of easing his grief, increased its tensions unendurably.

Then God spoke to him. God said, "I time the coming and going of tides and seasons. I balance the relationships of stars. Clouds move on my order. Are you criticizing my arrangements of life and death? Are you instructing me?"

These words worked on the man like a rush of rain on a hot summer day. Tension left him.

The Bible says Job cried out to God, "I repent me! Until now I'd only heard about you. Now I see you."

The story of Job is the eternal story of our struggle to accept the limitations of our power to control the welfare of those we love.

It can heal Mrs. W.'s grieving self-accusation. I know, because it is what broke for me the tensions involved in the recent death of my mother.

In us all is a child who believes himself omnipotent.

As children, we think we can make Mommy materialize by yelling for her. By flapping our arms in a certain way, we're sure we can fly over the treetops. By blowing out our birthday cake candles, we're sure we'll get our secret wish for a bicycle.

By keeping a dying parent with us, we know we can take fine care of her though we must look after a husband and four babies at the same time.

But we are expecting unlimited powers from ourselves. When mother dies, our failure to exert them fills us with self-reproach. The tension of our grief is rage at our inability to change what has been. We need to see God. We need to say, "I repent me."

We need to weep with relief that it is not our obligation to arrange life and death.

Put your money on mink when it comes in the form of a headband that can go to dinners and parties or on dates. It tends a luxury look for a moderate price.

Makes Friends Manners

A charming woman never makes the mistake of disagreeing when someone is praising another woman's looks.

The minute one woman begins to low-rate another, her charm begins to drop to a near zero-rating.

Women who wear glasses may want to try a hand at eye shadow for evening wear. If applied correctly, eye shadow will bring out the color of the eyes more. And instead of making the eyes look hard, the effect is one of softness, beaming the glasses.

Modern Grandmas Young In Age, Spirit Create Haven For Special Tete-A-Tete

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

When grandmother trades her too-large home for a modern apartment, some changes in furnishings are sure to follow. Not all mature homemakers are wedded to overstuffed reminders of the past. With earlier marriages establishing the children in their own homes at a youthful age, many grandmothers are young in years and in spirit.

They are happy for the opportunity to indulge in some of the luxuries modern furnishings offer—fine fabrics, new materials that make housekeeping a breeze, comfortable dual-purpose furniture. Relaxing in peace in an uncluttered room for a tete-a-tete with a visiting grandchild is one of the rewards she can expect.

Encouraging a take-it-easy attitude is the superlong chaise longue. Loose, foam-rubber cushions and slim, sleek lines avoid a bulky look. And the length leaves plenty of room for seating space.

One designed by Norman MacGregor balances the length of the seat with a simple tailored back. Its luxurious appearance is built up with an upholstery of Douppion which has a hand-woven texture and a silken feel.

This and similar chaises are so designed that they can be used in combination with sectional sofas, forming the end of an L-shaped arrangement.

Useful in many ways are handsome tables that slide over a bed or chaise. These have polished plastic tops, white frames and round-brass casters. They can serve breakfast or tea in style or bear the weight of a typewriter without jiggling. When not in use, they look equally at home as chair-side tables.

Another versatile design is a folding table which can double for writing table, serving cart or bedroom dining table, thanks to hinged top and bottom shelves. This can be folded up for storage.

Draperies and floor coverings won't always adjust to the dimensions of new quarters. Compatible with contemporary furniture styling are the thick, tufted pile carpets with an elegant hand-loomed appearance in tweedy color combinations. Non-skid rubberized backings are a built-in safety factor for area or accent rugs.

Easy-care drapery fabrics in prints and solid colors include new weaves in glass fiber. Besides having a satiny sheen, glass fiber fabrics won't burn, mildew or deteriorate in sunlight.

Miss Thomasson Feted At Shower

A pre-nuptial shower was given for Miss Wadene Thomasson, bride-elect of Gene Vineyard, on Dec. 28 in the home of Miss Ruth Adcock, 1201 Williston.

Guests called from three until four o'clock and were greeted by Miss Sarah Harnly.

Hostesses for the shower included Miss Harnly, Cynthia Duncan, Carolyn Ford, Sandra Walsh, Judy Neslage, Judy Ellis, Dot Gantz, Ruth Adcock, Rhona Finkelstein, Myrna Montgomery, Lu Kock and Mrs. Gary Herr.

The serving table, featuring the bride-elect's chosen colors of pink and white, was covered with a white organdy cloth trimmed with pink satin and centered with two dozen pink rose-buds. Silver and crystal appointments complemented the table.

Cake and punch were served to the guests as the bride-elect opened her gifts.

Corsages of white carnations were presented to Mrs. Nora Thomasson, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. George Vineyard, prospective bridegroom's mother, and to Mrs. Louie Hooper, sister of Miss Thomasson. The honoree's corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

Arizona has more national monuments than any other state. It has 16.

Simple Beef Pies Fit Easily Into Holiday Schedule

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Gaiety often brings a hearty appetite. That's why your Christmas or New Year's Eve buffet should have a few substantial items, such as a baked ham or roast turkey, and at least one simple hot dish. We like this recipe for individual beef and mushroom pies for the easy-to-handle hot dish—delicious, different, and simple enough to make and serve.

PARTY BEEF MUSHROOM PIES (MAKES 8 SERVINGS)

One-third cup finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 pound ground beef, 6-ounce can sliced broiled mushrooms, 1 beef bouillon cube, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon chili powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 cup mushroom broth, 1 tablespoon cornstarch.

In skillet, saute onion in melted shortening until barely tender about 5 minutes. Add meat and cook until meat is brown and crumbly, about 15 minutes. Meanwhile drain mushrooms reserving broth. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water and add chili powder, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Add to meat mixture in skillet and stir well. Combine and add mushroom broth and cornstarch, stirring until mixture thickens. Add mushrooms, cover and simmer over low heat, about 10 minutes. Serve in biscuits while still piping hot.

BISCUIT CUPS (MAKES 8 BISCUITS)

Follow package directions to make 8 biscuits using a package mix. Roll dough to 1/4 to 1/2 inch thickness. Using a 2-inch cutter, cut out biscuits. Roll each biscuit out lightly. Fill bottom of 3-inch muffin tins taking care to cover bottoms snugly. Bake in preheated 425-degree F. oven until biscuits are lightly browned, 10 to 12 minutes. Reduce heat of oven to 325 degrees F. While still hot, fill biscuits with hot filling. Return filled biscuits to oven until filling sets in shells, about 10 minutes.

CHRISTMAS DINNER: Half

Wallpaper Creates A Family Room

Walk into any home and where do you find the family? In the special room that's cozy, comfortable and casual.

If your home hasn't space for a relaxing "family room," there are ways of using wallpaper to create an extra room. For example, in the sketch above, left, the long, narrow room was going "unused" because there wasn't any room for furniture. Note the off-center door, no longer in use, with a protruding doorknob, plus old-fashioned wall panels jutting out unhandsoemly.

Because wallpaper teams readily with wallboard, here's how a new room was created. First the doorknob was removed. Next, wallboard in four-by-eight-foot panels, was nailed on, the edges (where panels come together) filled with cement and covered with perforated binding tape. The wallboard then was primed with a good quality size, let dry, and decorated with wallpaper.

To give the illusion of openness, a wallpaper with widely spaced design was selected. The ceiling and adjoining wall were covered with a textured paper, repeating one of the softly muted colors in the wallpaper on the long wall.

Rebekah Lodge Gives Yule Basket

Pampa Rebekah Lodge No. 355, 210 W. Brown, met in regular session with Mrs. Bernice Ladd, noble grand, presiding.

grapefruit supreme, standing rib roast of beef, whipped potatoes, Brussels sprouts, buttered carrots with minced parsley, corn sticks, butter or margarine, celery, olives, radishes, plum pudding, hard sauce, nuts and raisins, mints, coffee, tea, milk.

Reported ill were Meses. Ruth Lawley, Maybelle Campbell, and Miss Grace NeCase's mother. Mrs. W. L. Brown, mother of Jim Kersey, is doing well after an eye surgery in Worley Hospital, it was reported.

It was also reported that Mrs. Laura Brown, mother of Mrs. Bessie Foster and F. D. Bales, brother of Mrs. Etta Crisler, had passed away recently of injuries incurred in car wrecks. Also, that Mrs.

E. M. Lockhart, aunt of C. R. Lockhart, had passed away. A Christmas basket was delivered to a needy family by the lodge.

Mrs. Ladd expressed appreciation to her officers for the friendship quilt, which was presented to her by the group.

"Using a little lemon juice or hydrogen peroxide on your hands will do away with stains or discolorations. Probably the most logical time to do this is when washing your hands before going to bed.

COOK'S NOOK

Plentiful Citrus Crop Heads Food News List

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

RUTH MILLETT

Sometimes a woman thinks she hates cooking, when all she needs is Corbett's Cookbook.

If you are in that "What'll I have for dinner tonight?" state right now and have been in it for weeks, save five dollars out of your food budget—take it down to a bookstore and buy yourself "Helena Corbett's Cookbook."

After reading it through from cover to cover, you'll find it difficult to decide which recipes to try first. I can promise you that it will make cooking an exciting adventure instead of a dull chore.

Miss Corbett has all the qualifications of a really superb cook: knowledge of foods, imagination, daring and a real love of good food.

Not only that, she has the rare ability to make her reader catch her enthusiasm and begin dreaming up ideas of her own.

Suggestion: Read the book through, then plan a dinner for the family using Miss Corbett's recipes and suggestions and adding any touches of your own that occur as you go along.

Set a pretty table, make each dish look as attractive as it is good—and sit back and take the bow.

And then if you can keep from planning a party, just to show off your cooking skill, I'll be surprised.

But I'll be even more surprised if Miss Corbett doesn't sell you on the idea that cooking isn't a chore or dull drudgery, but a wonderful opportunity for a woman to put her imagination and creative ability to work where it will bring her the kind of praise that is music to a housewife's ears.

Record large crops of oranges put citrus with a big C in January food news, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture advance reports. That means good health added to good eating and good prices.

Broiler and fryers will continue as a leading plentiful item in January. Potatoes will be abundant from a fall crop that is bigger and better than expected. Other plentiful in January will include apples, canned and frozen peas, dried prunes, dates and almonds and filberts.

Here's the complete list:
Fresh Citrus Fruits
Broiler, Fryers
Dairy Products
Almonds
Filberts
Potatoes
Canned and Frozen Peas
Apples
Dried Prunes
Dates
Bowls of fresh fruit make beautiful centerpieces. Here's one suggestion from our spirited California hostess friend, Mrs. Gertrude Austin:
- Use a large snowy milk glass fruit bowl and fill it with living color—navel oranges, bright red apples, rich green avocados, purple grapes and nuts with copper tones. Dip into that bowl for dessert, along with cheese and crisp crackers.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Fried chicken, whipped potatoes, canned peas with mushrooms, enriched bread, butter or margarine, cabbage salad, fruit and nut bowl, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend
I would like some information on Social Security for widows. I have been self-employed for four years as a dressmaker. I learned only a short time ago that I could claim Social Security on these grounds. I have made $500 to $700 a year.
How much would I have to pay in to get in good standing?
I am disabled in that I have an artificial hip and can only do the type of work where I can sit. Would that entitle me to draw anything any sooner?
I am 59 now and I have been here in California 2 1/2 years. I do own a car. I have to have it to get about at all. I can drive. Would owning the car prevent me from getting aid?
M. D.

Dear M. D.
A widow whose husband was covered by Social Security may receive benefits when she is 62. As a working woman who has paid into Social Security in your own right you may expect to receive benefits at the same age. If you are totally disabled you may receive payments after 50, this providing you paid into the fund originally.
I would suggest your calling the local social security branch office. For the address of the one nearest you call the post office.

LICENSE

Dear Grace Friend
I have a friend I have known for many years. This friend is now receiving the old age pension and would like to stay in my home with me.
I was told I would have to take out a license in order to keep my dear friend in my home.
It just doesn't seem like there could be such a law.
P.A.T.

Dear P.A.T.
I am sure that you would not have to have a license to share your home with your friend. If you want to make double sure call the city hall.

MATURE PARENT

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
"Since our baby was born," writes Mrs. P., "our little girl has developed temper tantrums. Her nursery school psychologist thinks they are caused by jealousy. But telling her I love her as much as the baby isn't working. Could there be another cause of these tantrums?"

I don't know why this little girl gets angry. I'm not interested in knowing.

But I am awfully interested in knowing why her anger so upsets her mother. It's a pretty common place emotion. Why does Mrs. P. find it so peculiar in her child?

Adults are not supposed to respond to anger the way toddlers respond to the sudden noise of a vacuum cleaner.
It should not be filled with mystery and threat for us. We shouldn't have to run to some psychologist over a child's tantrums like the toddler flies to Mommy for safety from the vacuum cleaner.

A child's rage should be a familiar, ordinary thing to us, not the awesome unknown.
Why is it the awesome unknown to Mrs. P.?
Sometimes our parents made it so. It was easy to do. They just showed themselves shocked, outraged or hurt when we exploded some childish rage at them.

By their recoil from it, they told us that anger was a most astounding thing. Until we correct this false impression, we are unable to treat anger in our own child as the old acquaintance it should be. We will remain as scared of it as the toddler is of the vacuum cleaner.

We don't solve our problem by seeking the "cause" of the youngster's tantrum.

Mrs. P.'s little girl will feel anger at her mother for a thousand reasons in the course of their lives together.

Her mother lacks the time and training to match the right "cause" to every explosion.
If she wants the practical answer, she'll forget all about the "why" of these tantrums—and concentrate on the "why" of her own troubled response to them.

She'll start asking herself, "Why does human rage strike me as so astonishing? In what Never-Never Land do I live that I can't recognize this child's rage as the same thing that often makes me want to yell and strike and kick?"
Even the toddler gets cozy with the vacuum cleaner after he's investigated its operations.

Prayer Vigil Held In Lefors Church

(Special to The News)
LEFORS — A prayer vigil was held at the Lefors Methodist Sanctuary from twelve noon until twelve midnight on Dec. 31, culminating with communion services at the midnight hour.
Rev. Wesley Daniel gave an address followed by a recording by Bishop William A. Martin.
Mrs. Wesley Daniel played soft music at the piano for the candle-light service.
A special service was also held in the church on Christmas Day, between the hours of 10:30 and 11:30 a.m.

Miss Andis Fetes Kit Kat Klub With Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party of the Kit Kat Klub was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Andis, 1710 Mary Ellen, with Miss Bobbie Lee Andis as hostess.

The sophomore members of the club presented a Christmas program consisting of a vocal duet by Misses Nita and Rita Cartwright; vocal selections by Miss Glenn Lewis, accompanied by Miss Andis; a skit by Misses Linda Fain and Marcia Ward, and piano selections by Miss Sue Foster.

The Andis home was beautifully decorated throughout with the holiday motif.

The tea table was covered with a Christmas cloth centered with an arrangement of clustered baubles. Candles burned in cut-glass holders.

Frosted pineapple punch was served from an antique cut-glass punch bowl by Miss Andis. White iced party cakes lettered "Merry Christmas to KKK's" was served by Miss Gay Vanderburg.

Members exchanged Christmas gifts.

Special guests were Mrs. Bob Curry, sponsor, and Miss P. A. McGuire from Shreveport, La.

Gourmet Pork On Economical List

Pork is on the list of plentiful foods for the month of January and therefore is also on the economical list. Succulent, wonderfully-tasting pork is a real treat any meal, any time for many people.

Here is a recipe for Fruited Pork Chops that we think will prove to be the savour of onion and celery... the fine texture of cream of rice.

FRUITED PORK CHOPS

1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon cream of rice
3/4 cup finely chopped dried apricots
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
4 rib pork chops, 1 inch thick with a pocket
2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet
Sauté onion and celery in butter in skillet, over moderate heat until just tender, about 5 minutes. Add cream of rice, apricots, salt and pepper and mix well. Place stuffing in pocket of each chop, fastening with a small poultry pin. Brush entire surface of each chop with kitchen bouquet. Place in shallow roasting pan and bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 1 1/2 hours or until thoroughly cooked. Serve immediately.
Makes 4 servings.

were largely of the Christian faith but even the religious connotation was not enough to quiet them.

I know of no way to teach adults thoughtfulness for others. Their particular kind of thoughtlessness is so much a part of them that they would not even understand if someone tried to explain.

A facial mask may be a coat of vanishing cream for a minute or a 30-minute round with butter-milk, oatmeal or egg. But whatever the mixture, a mask will leave your complexion with more color from improved circulation. Your skin also should be softer and smoother. A person with dry skin may wish to try a mask made for dry skin.

Oil Page IPAA Aiming At Buy American Act

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE, United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)— Fresh from a hard-won victory in his fight to curb foreign oil imports, the Independent Petroleum Association of America has now turned its guns on operations of the Buy American Act.

Its specific target is the defense department which so far has not satisfied the IPAA on why its purchases of foreign oil—$334,000,000 worth in fiscal 1957—are steadily rising in relation to its purchases of the domestic product.

Purpose of the law was to repress domestic industries if supplies are adequate and aren't going to be used overseas. In this case, domestic storage tanks are bursting with surplus oil and by-products.

Brown starts pressure on IPAA general counsel Russell B. Brown began turning pressure on the Defense Department last September. He wanted to know by what authority the department was exempting domestic oil from the law; why foreign purchases were increasing; and wasn't the exemption a violation of recommendations of President Eisenhower's Cabinet Fuels Resources Committee which Mr. Eisenhower endorsed and finally, wasn't this in conflict with the White House campaign to reduce foreign oil imports.

Brown got two answers. One, from Assistant Defense Secretary Perkins McGuire said the exemption was necessary "because a healthy oil industry in friendly foreign countries is essential to the allied effort in war time."

The second—from the Army's Maj. Gen. L. E. Cuttilla, staff director of the department's Petroleum Logistics Division—denied the department was abusing the law in favor of foreign oil. "I," he said, "consider that we are allowing both foreign and domestic industry to compete on an equal basis."

Demands Specific Basis Brown mulled this over, then fired a letter to Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy. Wasn't this confusing and inconsistent he asked. Here was McGuire claiming exemption was necessary and Gen.

The two-year old association, founded in West Texas early in 1956, will hold its three-day meeting in the Baker Hotel, with more than 200 active members from five Southwestern states, in addition to associate members and guests, the president explained.

Teacher Training Fund To Hit Science Famine

TULSA, Okla. — Shell Companies Foundation, Inc. today announced it will begin a program in 1958 leading to 100 full college scholarships a year for young people planning careers as high school science and mathematics teachers.

C. P. Bristol, vice president of the Tulsa Exploration and Production Area of Shell Oil Company, said the program is "an attack on the science famine at the place where the cure must begin — in the secondary schools."

"Preparation for a career in science should begin in high school, and high school students are most likely to become interested in science if they have interesting teachers," Bristol said.

"Developing good teachers is partly a matter of providing money for training them; but it is also a matter of generating wider public interest in the profession, giving

Pampan To Get Service Award More Natural Gas Piped From Texas

Middleton T. Buck, lease pumper for Gulf Oil Corporation at Pampa, will earn a 30-year service award this Thursday.

Buck was originally employed by Gulf in the KMA field near Iowa Park on Jan. 9, 1928, as a route man. Later he assumed the duties of lease pumper in the KMA, No. 3, Kilgore and McGee fields.

Buck was transferred to Pampa in 1939 at his present classification. Buck will be honored with other Fort Worth Production Division employees of Gulf, receiving awards for 25 years or more service, at a dinner to be held later in the year.

Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America Dec. 27 started deliveries of natural gas from the Jack and Wise Counties, Tex., area supplied by Christie, Mitchell and Mitchell, Houston; and Sunray Mid-Continent Oil Company, Tulsa.

Later this week deliveries also will be made by Warren Petroleum Company, Tulsa, Lone Star Gas Company, Dallas, is supplying natural gas in Stephens County, Okla., on NGPL's new line.

Total initial deliveries are being scheduled in the amount of 40 million cubic feet daily. These deliveries will be increased materially when Warren's Wisco gasplants are placed in full operation in February.

The new pipeline runs from the production fields in Jack and Wise Counties, Tex., northward through a portion of Oklahoma, and then west into the Texas Panhandle to tie-in to the Company's mainline near Frith, Tex., northeast of Amarillo, a distance of 350 miles.

The line, which will enable NGPL to augment existing supplies of natural gas from its fields in the Texas Panhandle, represents better than a 10 per cent addition to the Company's present network of pipelines. This includes 1400 miles for affiliate Texas Illinois Natural Gas Pipeline Company and 1700 for NGPL.

Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America is in its 27th year of bringing natural gas from the Texas Panhandle to the Chicago and Northern Illinois market area. It also sells gas to utilities in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin.

Affiliate Texas Illinois is engaged in the transmission of gas from the Gulf Coast of Texas to the same market area.

Daily deliverability of the two lines is more than a billion cubic feet.

Television In Review: This Western Tops Average

By WILLIAM EWALD, United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — ABC-TV, the network that has gone big for westerns, took the next logical step in its quest for a new, logical step in the "Real McCoy's." It's a kind of far western.

Set in California's San Fernando Valley, "The Real McCoy's" is a filmed series compounded of pretty standard ingredients — a family of characters dominated by a grandpa who has a crusty exterior, but a heart of — aw, you say it, I can't.

Generally, each number in the series hunches on a single theme — Grandpa's stubbornness. As one of his grandsons puts it: "The book all says we come from dust, but sometimes I think Grandpa's made out of rock."

Thursday night's episode was pretty typical fare. Grandpa, who hails from West Virginia, needs glasses in order to qualify for his California driver's license (Yes, Virginia, they do require a license in California), but his vanity precludes the move.

His refusal to don specs — and his family's efforts to coax him into it — leads to some pretty fair fun and pretty fair lines. Sample: "Yes, darn it. I know the President wears glasses. But in his job dent wears glasses. But in his job he has to. There's a lot of people he has to see through."

I would say the series has two redeeming qualities. One is its restrained sound track. Unlike so many of the other half-hour series bombing the airwaves, the audience laughter of "The Real McCoy's" runs in fairly mild counterpoint to the dialogue. Little jokes touch off little litters and not wild roars, and that's all to the good.

And two, it has Walter Brennan, who wheels through the role of Grandpa Amos with cantankerous enthusiasm. I say this although I must confess the crotchety old man have never appealed much to me as figures of fun. Like crotchety children, I prefer them shot, stuffed and mounted. But if it is possible to make a cranky blowhard endearing, I suppose it with you" in overalls.

It's a sort of "you can't take a bad man with you" series. Constitution Did Not Set Up A Democracy

By LYLE C. WILSON, United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Among the bogus ideas which bedevil the citizens is the belief that back there in the 18th Century the founding fathers set up the United States with democracy as its form of government.

The Founding Fathers did no such thing. There is, in fact, no such word in the United States Constitution for the political system known as democracy in which the voters count all the heads, empty or not, and give the decision to the most numerous.

Political orators and others, even including editorial writers, continue, however, to sound off with such deathless phrases as: "This great democracy, and so forth."

The Founding Fathers deliberately rejected democracy as undesirable and established the United States as a representative republic, specifically guaranteeing to each state a republican form of government (Article IV, Section 4).

In contrast to the democratic or head-counting political form which the Constitution rejected, the republican form is properly defined like this:

A state in which the sovereign power resides in the people (qualified voters) and is exercised by representatives elected by them.

James Madison was effective in steering the Constitution away from democracy. He expressed the fear that democracy favored the self-seeking maneuvers of factions or blocs within a political party.

Not Bad In Itself

The Journal of constitutional discussion indicates that the authors did not reject democracy because it was bad of itself. They rejected democracy more because it was deemed unsuitable to a nation as ready to large in area and numerous in population as the combining 13 Colonies.

These facts are intimately related to the national and congressional discussion expected this year seeking more satisfactory processes of nominating and electing residents of the United States. There has been national dissatisfaction with the presidential election process — and agitated discussion of it for man more than 100 years.

In establishing the pyres of the Electoral College process, some of the authors of the Constitution felt that they had disposed of the most difficult of all the problems confronting them, but without much confidence that they had done it.

Trend Is Indicated

The direction of discussion in recent years has been generally toward more democratic and less in election to residents. There has been considerable support or representative republicanism in the election of presidents. There has been considerable support for abandonment of the Electoral College and for a direct popular vote.

A direct popular vote for U.S. senators was established by the 17th Amendment in 1912. They had been chosen by state legislatures. That may indicate a trend. Regardless of the 17th Amendment, however, and talk of direct election of presidents, there is no doubt what the Constitution's authors thought of political democracy. They did not trust it and they were against it.
