Union United On Teamster Ouster

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press Staff Correspondent
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., (UP)—The AFL-CIO begins its third year today apparently united on throwing out its largest affiliate, the Teamsters Union, on corruption charges.

About 1,200 delegates opened the federation's second convention this morning. The vast majority seemed willing to follow AFL-CIO President George Meany's advice to expel the teamsters.

Meany said Wednesday he would not advocate expulsion of the 1,600,000-member truck union if James R. Hoffa, major target of AFL-CIO corruption charges, would step aside as president-elect.

Hoffa, now on trial on wiretapping charges in New York and defending a Washington court action to void his election has repeatedly refused to resign despite threats of ouster of his union.

The convention plans to vote on the teamsters' expulsion Friday afternoon.

Three Unions Face Ouster
Three other unions—possibly four—were lagged for ouster by the convention.

Meany said that two of the unions on the road to reform had taken a turn for the worse. He identified them as the United Textile Workers, with 40,000 members, and the Distillery Workers, with 25,000.

The 29-man Executive Council, in an all-day session Wednesday, suspended the Textile Union. Meany charged that two former officers who resigned under fire on corruption charges were still on the payroll as of last week.

He referred to Anthony F. Valente and Lloyd Kienert, former president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Merger Still Incomplete
Despite the near-united front on corruption, the AFL-CIO was far from merged on the state and local level. AFL and CIO groups in 15 states and hundreds of communities had failed to merge by today's deadline.

Kiwanians Set Banquet Tonight
Officers of the Pampa Kiwanis Club will be installed tonight at the 28th Annual Installation Banquet of the club in the High School Cafeteria.

The banquet is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m. with Ben Ogden as master of ceremonies.

Officers to be installed are: Malcolm Hinkle, president; Warren Hase, immediate past president; Sam Begert, first vice president; Arthur Artgerg, second vice president; Bob Hudson, secretary; and Cletus Mitchell, treasurer.

Directors of the club to be installed are: Mack Hiatt, Clifton McNeely, Neely Joe Ellis, Aubrey L. Jones, W. A. Morgan, W. A. Waggoner and Bob Allford.

John Rust, lieutenant governor of Division VI of Kiwanis International, will be the installing officer.

Frank Streetman, mayor of Sasakwa, Okla., will be the speaker following the installation ceremonies.

Burglars Hit Bennie's Place
The burglars of Bennie's Place, 1210 S. Barnes, received approximately $124 and five cases of beer for their efforts last night.

The burglary was reported to officers this morning when the firm opened for business. Jim Conner, chief of police, stated that entry to the building was obtained by prying open a screen of a front window.

Approximately $54 in bills and coins was taken from a cigar box that was under the counter. Also taken was approximately $70 in dimes that were removed from the coin boxes in two electric bowling machines.

The proprietor, Mrs. Bennie Corey, told officers that approximately five cases of beer were taken by the burglars.

Late this morning, the investigation of the burglary was still in progress.

If it comes from a Hardware store, we have it. Lewis Howe.

Decorations Judging To Be Dec. 23
The Annual Christmas Home Decoration Contest will again be sponsored by the Merchant's Activities Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today by the chamber.

The contest this year, will be divided into six sections with hand-engraved plaques going to the most beautifully decorated house in each section.

Sections have been divided in the following manner: Section 1, the area south of Foster and east of Cuyler; Section 2, the area south of Foster and west of Cuyler; Section 3, east of Cuyler and between Foster and Harvester; Section 4, east of Cuyler and north of Harvester; Section 5, west of Cuyler and north of Harvester.

Judging will be held on the night of Dec. 23, with unknown judges observing the decorations. Three judges will be in each section.

Entry blanks are not necessary this year, according to chamber officials, and each house which is decorated or lighted will automatically become a part of the contest.

Winners will be announced on Christmas Eve morning and each will receive a recognition plaque. No second or third place winners will be judged.

Another PR Course Requested
E. A. Willeford, who has been conducting a course on public relations sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and City of Pampa, may be in for a return engagement here next spring.

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the CoC, said that following last night's first session for the general public, there was "such a demand for another course that a request was made that he come back sometime during the month of April, 1958.

Many persons, Wedgeworth said, expressed their desire to get Willeford to come back so they could get more of their employees or co-workers to attend the course.

There has been no confirmation yet as to whether or not the University of Texas extension division instructor would return.

Some 85 persons attended the final session for the general public last night and gave Willeford a "big hand" when it was completed.

The last session for city employees will be tonight at 7 in the Palm Room of City Hall.

Santa To Visit Starting Dec. 16
Santa Claus will be on the streets of Pampa each day beginning Monday, Dec. 16, in order to visit with all the youngsters.

Stores will remain open until 8 p. m. each evening also beginning Dec. 16. Stores will be open until 8 p. m. on Saturdays during the entire season. Regular closing hours will be observed on Christmas Eve in order that the personnel may be with their families.

Minor Injuries In Accident
A Spearman man received slight injuries in a collision nine-tenths of a mile west of Miami on Highway 60 at 11:40 yesterday morning.

Investigating highway patrolmen said that Paul Ellis of Spearman received slight chest injuries when his 1956 Buick was struck by a combine header that was loaded on a trailer.

The officers reported that the trailer was being pulled by a 1947 Chevrolet truck, driven by Harley McLaten of Woodward, Okla., and that the trailer came loose from the truck.

The combine header struck the Buick in the windshield and hit Ellis in the chest, the officers stated. Ellis was taken to a doctor's office in Miami for treatment of the injuries and was later released.

Car Is Struck; Police Seeking Driver Of Other
Local officers are attempting to locate the car that struck a parked 1953 Lincoln last night.

Tom Farwell Jr., 1301 Terrace, told officers this morning that his 1953 Lincoln was struck while parked in front of his house last night.

Investigation by officers revealed that the left front fender of the car had been hit sometime between 9 last night and 9 this morning. Damages to the Lincoln were estimated at $35.

Evidence left at the scene is expected to reveal the identity of the car responsible for the collision, the officers believe.

Hinkle Buys Partner's Share Of Firm
Malcolm Hinkle announced today that he has purchased his partner's interest in Brown & Hinkle, Inc., and will now operate it as full owner under the new name of Malcolm Hinkle, Inc.

The firm, located at 211 N. Ballard, is a plumbing, heating and air conditioning establishment.

Hinkle's previous partner, Paul Brown, had been with the firm for the past four years. The business was originally incorporated in 1952 by Bert A. Howell, and Hinkle purchased 25 per cent of the stock during the same year.

In 1953, Hinkle bought a second 25 per cent and in 1953, Brown purchased the 50 per cent owned by Howell, to establish the co-ownership which has existed until now.

Hinkle stated that with the transaction, two new persons would be added to the office staff. Dale Thut will assume duties as office manager and Mrs. Francis Jackson will become bookkeeper.

Hinkle added that no changes would take place in the operation of the firm other than the change in name, which became effective today.

Work On Storm Sewer Progresses Up Hobart
The Hobart, Alcock and Francis intersection is closed to traffic as construction work on the storm sewer for the Hobart Street underpass continues to progress.

G. K. Reading, resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department, said that the intersection would be closed to traffic while the work was being done and, "The street will be reopened to local traffic as soon as the storm sewer has passed the intersection."

All through traffic, out-of-town motorists using the highways, he explained, has been detoured on Gwendolyn, Wells, Alcock and Price Road until after the underpass project is completed, Reading reported.

"The various streets in Pampa will only be blocked while work is actually in progress," Reading stated. He added that as soon as work is completed on the storm sewer under Hobart the street will be opened to local traffic.

"We want local motorists to continue to use the streets that are not blocked," Reading said. "It will be up to the motorists to find the best route," he explained.

As soon as the work is completed at the Hobart, Alcock and Francis intersection, the installation of the storm sewer on Hobart, south of the railroad tracks, where the temporary crossing will be located, will begin. As soon as work on the storm sewer is completed at that point the grade will be built and the Santa Fe Railroad will install the temporary crossing. This is expected to begin during the first part of January, Reading reported.

Work on Price Road, the detour for through traffic, is nearing completion. Reading stated that a temporary base has been laid and that the final paving work will be done next spring after the weather is warm enough to allow the work to progress.

Santa Fe workmen are in the process of installing automatic signals at the crossing on Price Road. The warnings will consist of dropping cross arms and blinking red lights. The installation work is expected to be completed during the first part of next week.

The storm sewer under Hobart is being installed in a 20 foot ditch and consists of concrete pipe with an inside diameter of six feet. This pipe connects with the concrete box being installed under Horace Mann Elementary School and St. Paul Methodist Church property. The sewer will empty into Priest Park and will run into Rad Deer Creek.

The main problem facing workers installing the sewer is that of utility lines already in the

'Vanguard' Firing Won't Be Today

By WILLIAM J. TUCKER
United Press Staff Correspondent
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., (UP)—A weary Vanguard missile crew today blamed a leaking fuel valve and wild winds around and aloft for their failure to launch an earth satellite Wednesday night.

But the crewmen will get a full day to iron out the kinks in their space machine and get some rest.

J. Paul Walsh, deputy director of the Vanguard project, announced flatly early this morning that there would be no test during the day.

Walsh held a midnight press conference after Wednesday's scheduled firing of the Vanguard, a six-inch aluminum moon already operative in its nose, was postponed.

The originally scheduled get-away time was 4 p. m., but hour after hour the launching was set further back until finally it was called off.

Walsh said the Navy would ask the Air Force missile range today for a new firing schedule but the requested time would not be earlier than Friday.

Walsh Explains
Walsh told exactly what had happened to throw the plans out of orbit.

"Basically there were no major technical difficulties," he said, "but we were plagued by a series of minor things."

"What really did it to us was a lox (liquid oxygen) disconnect valve which allows us to continue to put in lox almost to the takeoff time. This is necessary because the lox continues to boil off."

"It is necessary just before the takeoff to disconnect the lox line and this valve was giving us trouble. We attempted to replace it with a spare but had difficulty aligning the spare."

"Meanwhile we reworked the other valve. But it continued to leak because the part of the valve connected to the tip had become stiff or 'frozen' on contact with the lox. (Liquid oxygen has a temperature of 270 below zero, Fahrenheit.)

Had to Unload Lox
"Thus it would have been necessary to unload lox, allow a warm-up period for the valve, reload the lox and then take off."

Walsh said the crews were growing increasingly weary. Some had been working in the area since late Tuesday and it was considered unsafe for personnel to go through the entire process again.

Meanwhile, Walsh said, upper air currents which had been just below the maximum safe velocity for a launching increased strongly as the countdown dragged on. Later, he said, ground winds increased to the point where they were expected to exceed the 20 mile an hour maximum by the time the rocket could have been drained and reloaded.

"I cannot honestly say when the test can be resumed," Walsh said near the end of his briefing. "When we get our ducks in a row we'll ask when the schedule can be resumed."

Balanced Budget Seen By G.O.P.

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Republican Congressional leaders took an optimistic view today of the administration's chances of balancing the next federal budget despite planned increases in missile spending.

Their reports indicated President Eisenhower's aides are using a magnifying glass in an effort to find savings to offset the prospective budget increases. But no clear picture has yet emerged of what economies the administration will propose when it sends Congress next month the budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The balanced budget goal was emphasized by the White House and the GOP Congressional leaders who attended Wednesday's conference with President Eisenhower on his domestic legislative program for next year. The Congressional group was part of the larger bipartisan delegation which met with the President Tuesday to discuss defense and foreign policy.

Some of the GOP leaders were more dubious than others about prospects for saving enough to offset prospective rises in missile and space-age spending. But White House press secretary James C. Hagerly, who sat in on the meetings, said the President made it plain he is shooting for a balanced budget and believes it can be achieved if there is a will to do so.

It was disclosed after the Tuesday session that the administration wants to spend about two billion dollars more in fiscal 1958 starting next July 1, than in the current fiscal year for missile development and a number of other defense programs to answer the Soviet space age challenge. Defense sources said afterward efforts will be made to find enough savings in other defense areas to offset about one billion dollars of this.

Much of Wednesday's discussion dealt directly and indirectly with the budget. Hagerly said "there was a feeling" the administration will not have to ask an increase in the present 275 billion dollar debt ceiling when Congress reconvenes.

He and Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) agreed a tax reduction next year is "highly unlikely." Knowland added he is also "very hopeful there will be no tax increases."

Some of the Congressional group said there also was discussion of spending or elimination of federal outlays in public works, water pollution control, vocational education, disaster relief, urban renewal, the school lunch program and rural electrification.

The administration made clear Wednesday it wants Congress next year to continue its annual renewal of existing excise and corporate income tax rates. The automatic reduction provided for next June 30 in these levies would cost the treasury about three billion dollars a year.

Search For Youngster Abandoned
SYCAMORE, Ill. (UP)—Authorities today abandoned a massive search for 7-year-old Maria Riddolph, believed kidnaped and perhaps slain by a sex fiend.

About 1,000 cold and weary searchers, many of whom had not slept in 30 hours, were sent home Wednesday night and early today when they returned empty handed to the sheriff's office for instructions.

"The area within a seven-to-eight-mile radius of the city has been tramped over two or three times," a police spokesman said, "and there's no point in keeping the men out in 20-degree temperatures another night."

Sheriff Al Diesz, directing the search with the aid of seven FBI agents and state and city police, said he was convinced the curly-haired girl had met with foul play.

Maria disappeared Tuesday night shortly after a young man offered to give her a piggy back ride as she played near her home in this small farming community west of Chicago.

The FBI entered the case Wednesday night, after waiting 24 hours under terms of the Lindbergh Kidnap Law, and there were reports that Richard D. Auerbach, special agent in charge of the Chicago office, would arrive here today to take personal charge of the investigation.

One Fire Call Is Reported
A fire in a chicken house, located at 520 Oklahoma, at 3:05 yesterday resulted in the only alarm received by the fire department.

Firemen stated that heavy damage to the building and to mattresses and a trunk stored in the building resulted from the fire. The cause of the fire was not determined.

Britain's Worst Rail Disaster In 5 Years
By BERT L. MARSH
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Rescue workers braved the threat of sudden death from a train teetering overhead on a wrecked bridge today and brought out additional bodies from Britain's worst rail disaster in five years.

British Railways announced at noon that 70 bodies had been recovered from the wreckage of two commuter trains which collided in a blanket-thick fog and wrecked a bridge just as a third train was moving onto it last night.

More than 370 persons were injured seriously enough to require hospitalization. Hundreds of others among the 2,000 persons aboard the three trains suffered minor injuries.

The death toll could rise above the 100 mark. A fire brigade official said between 12 and 30 bodies may still be trapped in a pancaked coach pinned under the fallen bridge. But railway and rescue authorities flatly refused to estimate a final toll.

"We will report each body as it is recovered from the wreckage," a British Railways official said. "We will not make guesses."

Rescue work was suspended during the night because of a choking, sulphurous fog which shrouded the wreckage in impenetrable gloom. The fog began to lift this morning and a ghostly light let the daring rescue workers probe through the wreckage.

Fall Thwarted
A steam train rammed an electric commuter train jammed with home-going office workers and early Christmas shoppers at the height of Wednesday night's rush hours. Christmas parcels were ripped open and toys strewn among the wreckage.

The colliding trains slammed into an overhead railway bridge which partially collapsed, raining steel girders and masonry onto the dead and dying below. A third train crossing the bridge was derailed, its front wheels dangling over the break.

It was this third train which threatened to fall at any moment onto the wreckage below. Workmen shored it up but the bridge was still unsafe.

The three trains met disaster at a junction on the southern railroad's mid-Kent mainline, a four-track speedway. The scene was in the grimy south London suburb of Lewisham between St. Johns and Parkside junction. The Hoborn-Dartford commuter line crosses the main tracks over a bridge here.

The junction was a frequent German target in World War II. One boy of about five lay dead in the wreckage still clutching a toy drum. Near him lay a dead woman, her knitting needles still in her hands, an unfinished Christmas present torn and ravaged at her feet.

A steam train, its engineer blinded by the fog, slammed into an electric train which had halted because even its brilliant headlights could not lift the blackness of the early December evening.

A blue electric flash lighted up the fog and then there was darkness.

Two Injured In Mishaps Yesterday
Two collisions in Pampa yesterday afternoon resulted in a woman receiving a broken ankle and a boy encountering slight injuries.

Mrs. Stella Stidham, 304 N. Banks, received a broken ankle when a 1951 Ford driven by Addison McClendon, 308 N. Banks, in which she was a passenger, was involved in a collision with a 1956 Pontiac, driven by Jess T. Ring, 1040 S. Faulkner, at the intersection of Kingsmill and West at 4:40 p. m.

Hospital attendants this morning reported Mrs. Stidham was in good condition and that the broken ankle was the only injury she received.

Damages to the Pontiac were estimated at $450 and the Ford met with damages estimated at $275.

Anthony DiNardini, 13, 418 N. West, received minor injuries at 3:45 yesterday afternoon when his bicycle was involved in a collision with a 1950 Ford, driven by Jimmie Dean Berry, 1222 S. Sumner, at the intersection of Cuyler and Foster.

Young DiNardini received treatment for the injuries at a local doctor's office and was released. He came to Pampa with his Hungarian refugee family early this year.

Scenery Is Problem For Senior Play
Building the tree house and tree, which is to be used in scenes of the Senior Class production, "The Grass Harp," is the biggest problem the crew faces, according to Bob Hamilton, scenery director.

The play will be held Dec. 9-10, in the high school auditorium at 8 p. m.

The three house will be built on a platform, which will serve as a tree trunk. The trunk will be covered with paper mache and will be painted. Several limbs will extend above the tree house. Foliage for the tree will extend above the tree house, and the main back drop will picture shrubs and dense foliage to represent forest growth.

The play, written by Truman Capote, is the story of three members of the Talbo household, Catherine Creek, Collin Talbo and Dolly Talbo, who leave their home owned by Verena Talbo, Dolly's sister, and move into a tree house in the woods nearby. They are joined in the tree house by Charlie Cool, a retired judge. The controversy comes when the town "busybodies" try to get the group down from the tree.

Dolly, a trail, lovable eccentric old lady of 30, is portrayed by Pat Jones. Collin (Donald Darling) is the delinquent nephew of Dolly and Verena. Catherine Creek (Charlotte Riley) is the Negro servant who not only dominates the lives of Dolly and Collin but also insists that she is an Indian.

Verena Talbo, Dolly's bitter, domineering, businesslike sister, is played by Heide Schneider. Charlie Cool, an unhappy, unsettled, retired judge is portrayed by John Mead. Dr. Morris Ritz, (Bobby Brown) is a confidence crook who works with Verena.

Others in the cast include the wife of the Rev. (Carol Miller) a nose woman who feels she is holier than those around her. She is backed by the choir mistress, Dianna Zachry. The Rev., a meek man as concerns his wife, is played by Ralph Depe. The barber, the town gossip who is on Dolly's side, is played by Cecil Watson.

The baker's wife (Martha Gordon) is a sweet nervous woman who takes up for Dolly also. The postmaster, an elderly fellow who doubles as telegraph agent, is portrayed by Alton Thyngson. The sheriff, a rough talking bully, is played by Corky Cambern. He is backed up by his posse, which includes Big Eddie Stover (Louis Neely) Brophy (Gerald Nolt) and Sam (Charles Rithaler).

Maude Riordan, Collin's girl friend, is played by Kay Sprinkle. Miss Baby Love Dallas, a cosmetic salesgirl whose duty is "to bring beauty to the world," is played by LaJean Caldwell.

Claydon Moorman is student director and Miss Helen Schafer is director. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 30 cents for students.

In the meeting of the Pampa Jaycees held Tuesday at noon, two members were announced as outstanding Jaycees of the month of November, James Crouch and Muri Hull were recognized for their outstanding contributions to the club.

The Board of Directors meeting was held at 7 a.m. in Johnson's Cafe and plans were made to seek out a needy family in Pampa and contribute up to $50 aid for its Christmas needs. Plans were also materialized for Jaycee members to find out the necessary items needed by the Fire Department in their annual project of repairing toys and rebuilding playthings for distribution among those who need them.

In view of National Diabetes Week, the Jaycees are sponsoring a campaign to determine diabetes among the elementary grade school children in Pampa. Letters were sent out Monday giving parents instruction as how to cooperate with the program. The letters and test results should be returned by Friday, according to Johnny Campbell, Jaycee president.

The State Junior Chamber organized a program last year to promote the State Mental Health Program.

In the past few weeks, Jaycee members have been selling Christmas cards, proceeds of which will be used to further the program. Due to the somewhat slack sales, Campbell stated today that from now throughout the remainder of the campaign, Mental Health will be sold instead of Christmas cards. Contributions of $1 and $2 will now be accepted by the Jaycees through the mail. Address the contributions to the Jaycees, Box 587, Pampa. Upon receiving the donations, a box of Christmas cards will be sent to the donor by the Jaycees.

The funds will be used through the Texas Mental Health program to better the facilities of mental hospitals and further research programs.

Dr. Ashby Named Chief Of Staff For Hospital

Dr. Charles Ashby has been named chief of staff of Highland General Hospital for the coming year.

The appointment was made Tuesday night at a meeting of the hospital staff upon the recommendation of the nominating committee. Dr. Ashby is currently vice chief of staff and will succeed Dr. Julian Key, current chief of staff, in January.

Dr. Carl Lang was named vice chief of staff for the coming year. Recorder next year will be Dr. Gordon Scott, who will succeed Dr. Donald Baker.

A talk on "Economic Education" by George Roberts followed the business portion of the meeting.

Fire Sub-Stations To Be Dedicated

Dedication of the two new sub-stations of the Fire Department will be held on Saturday, Dec. 14, at 10 a.m.

The south sub-station is located at 1010 S. Barnes, with the north sub-station being located at 321 E. 17th.

Plans are being made by city and Chamber of Commerce officials concerning the dedication of the new stations and program schedules will be announced at a later date, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa C.C.

Compensation Is Awarded In Suit Here

The jury in the civil suit of L. I. Armstrong against the American Motorists Insurance Co., tried in the 31st District Court of Gray County yesterday, found that Armstrong had received permanent loss of sight in his eyes to the extent of 50 per cent and awarded him compensation in the amount of approximately $21 a week for a total of 200 weeks.

Armstrong stated that he had received the injuries to his eyes on May 14, 1957, while employed by C. F. Braun and Company. At the time of his injury, he said, he was unloading pipe and wind bew particles of the coating into his eyes.

Scheduled for jury trial in the court tomorrow is the case of Pedro J. Martinez against the Associated Employers Insurance Company in which Martinez is seeking compensation.

The suit of David Lonel Derrick against Astna Insurance Company was filed in the District Clerk's office yesterday. Derrick is seeking 60 per cent of his weekly wages for a period of 119 weeks for injuries he alleges he received on Aug. 15, 1957, while employed by Blackwell Trucking and Painting Co.

He states in the suit that he received injuries to his head and neck when he fell from a truck while in the process of loading it with "oil field mud."

Directors Of CRMWA To Meet

The board of directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority will meet at 10 Monday morning in the Hilton Hotel at Plainview for the purpose of transacting business.

Scheduled for action by the authority's directors is the hearing of a report from the nominating committee on directors selected to serve as officers next year, according to A. A. Meredith of Borger, authority secretary.

Also on the agenda for the meeting is the approval of bills for payment, a fiscal report and the approval of resolutions from member cities on the amount of water to be purchased from the authority.

New Employee At Tax Office

Mrs. Albert G. Smith, 708 N. Sumner, has been named deputy registrar of vital statistics at the city tax office, according to an announcement this morning by Aubrey Jones, city tax assessor-collector.

Mrs. Smith is taking the place of Mrs. Virginia McCaslin, who has resigned the position. Mrs. McCaslin is moving to Fort Worth later this month.

Mrs. Smith, who is a business school graduate, is scheduled to begin her duties next Monday, Jones stated.

Miller Rites To Be Held Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie Altha Miller, 60, have set for 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Duengel-Carmichael Chapel, with Rev. Bill Sparks, pastor of the Immanuel Temple Church, officiating.

Mrs. Miller, who resided at 914 E. Campbell, was pronounced dead on arrival yesterday morning at a local hospital.

UF Total: $53,698

Subscriptions in the Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign reached a total of $53,698 this morning as additional reports were made to the United Fund office.

Cash received at the office during the campaign totals $44,197.25 and pledges amount to $9,500.75, according to Mrs. Elsie Gee, office secretary for the fund.

Warren Haase, drive chairman, urged all workers who still have envelopes to complete their contacts as soon as possible so that final reports can be compiled. He urged the workers to help reach the $60,000 goal set for the campaign as soon as possible.

Reds Launch First Atomic Vessel

MOSCOW (UP)—Russia today launched the world's first atomic surface vessel, the 16,000-ton ice-breaker Lenin.

The ship was put into the water at Leningrad, the official Soviet News Agency Tass announced.

It said the ship would have a speed of 32 kilometers an hour (about 20 miles an hour) "in unobstructed waters."

"The ship will be easy to steer and will be capable of breaking ice two meters (six feet) thick," the announcement said.

Instructor Killed By Home Rocket

FLOYDADA, Tex. (UP)—A homemade rocket, constructed as an experiment for a high school science class, exploded like a hand grenade Wednesday, killing the instructor and injuring 13 students, one of them critically.

The instructor, Garland Foster, 43, had stooped down over the rocket and was lighting the end of it with a match when it exploded, hurling metal fragments in all directions. Foster caught the major charge and died lying on the sidewalk a few minutes later.

Men's Clothing Store To Open Here Friday

Pampa's newest clothing store will open its doors to the public tomorrow morning at 9 a.m., according to N. B. Fields, owner of Fields' Men's Wear, which is located at 111 W. Kingsmill.

Fields recently bought out a store in Stamford and moved the stock to its present location in Pampa. Fields has been a sports-wear salesman calling in Pampa for thirty years.

Eddie McCollum, manager of the new store, has been a resident of Pampa for 12 years and has been in the clothing business here for six years.

Fields' Men's Wear will feature a complete line of men's clothing including shoes and accessories.

Mrs. Louis Epps, Mrs. Mary McBride, and Mrs. V. J. Castka will be clerks in the store to assist McCollum.

Regular store hours will be observed with doors remaining open from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, according to Fields.

"All people in the Pampa area are invited to attend the opening tomorrow and to drop in any time," according to McCollum.

Real Estate Board Holds Officer Election

The Pampa Real Estate Board met in the Pine Room of the Pampa Hotel at noon Tuesday.

The following officers were elected for 1958: E. J. Griffith Jr., president; Roy Sparkman, vice president; Bill Clements, second vice president; Genevieve Henderson, secretary-treasurer.

A new and revised set of by-laws was adopted by the board.

The next meeting will be held at noon on Dec. 17.

Petroleum Engineers To Meet

The December meeting of the Panhandle Chapter of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME will be held at the Pampa Country Club next Tuesday. The meeting is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. with a social hour to precede the dinner.

A paper on "New Developments in Nuclear Logging" will be presented at the meeting by R. K. Swanson, vice president in charge of engineering and research of Frontier Perforators, Inc. of Pampa.

Those interested in attending this dinner meeting are requested to call MO 4-3263 prior to noon Tuesday to make reservations, according to J. D. Kenworthy, secretary-treasurer of the chapter. Tickets for the meeting are $3 each.

Coach Speaks To Rotarians

Harvester basketball coach Clifton McNeely yesterday outlined for Pampa Rotarians the basketball prospects for Pampa and the district during the coming season.

Pointing out that he has 13 boys on the squad this season, McNeely thought Pampa would make a good showing for itself, even though he had but two returning players from last year who are experienced.

Outside of considering Pampa, McNeely said he would rank the three strongest teams in the district to be Borger, Plainview and Amarillo in this order.

Visitors and guests of the club for the day were Leon Clon, Walter Rygers, Clarence Holt, Jack Todd and Terry Cutley.

Satellites May Solve The Puzzle Of Mysterious 'Flying Saucers'

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Man's invasion of space should produce a solution to the intriguing mystery of the nature of unidentified flying objects—the UFOs which have turned up again in the wake of Russia's two Sputniks.

This is the belief of the former head of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, Adm. R. H. Hillenkoetter.

"Satellite and space exploration programs should give us new, valuable information on UFOs, affording definite evidence as to their reality," he says, "and this will result because of a tremendous increase in observation of the sky by radar and telescope tracking systems and by naked-eye observations." He adds:

"This will certainly increase the number of detailed UFO reports from trained observers—reports including accurate measurement of courses, speeds, altitudes, maneuvers, and sizes and shapes of such objects."

Since leaving as boss of the nation's top-level intelligence agency, the admiral has made himself one of the best-informed flying saucer experts in the country. He is a member of the board of governors of the newly-created National Investigation Committee on Aerial Phenomena, with headquarters here.

NICAP's members include some top scientists and prominent citizens attempting to find scientific answers to the saucer mystery. Members of the board also include J. B. Hartranft, president of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association; Dr. Charles A. Maney, professor of astrophysics at Defense University, and Rev. Leon C. Le Van of Pittsburgh.

They all agree with Adm. Hillenkoetter that the advent of space exploration could solve the saucer secrets. And Russia's Sputnik has already greatly increased reports of saucer sightings.

Retired Marine Maj. Donald E. Keyhoe, NICAP director and well-known author on the subject of saucers, reports:

"There are already increases in authentic UFO reports since the Russian satellite drew public attention to the skies. Also, spotters of Operation Moonwatch, the U.S. satellite tracking network, have sighted a number of UFOs during tracking practice over wide areas."

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — AFL-CIO President George Meany on a proposal that unions adopt a voluntary wage freeze for 1958:

"There is no reason to believe that a wage freeze would be advantageous to anyone but the employer."

Eastern Peaks
New Hampshire's White Mountains include 86 peaks more than 3,000 feet high, concentrated in a small area close to the 6,288-foot summit of Mount Washington, highest mountain in the northeast.

Youthful Prisoner
Andrew Jackson, who later became U.S. president, was a youthful prisoner of war of the British. At the age of 14, he was captured by a British raiding party during the Revolutionary War.

DID SOMEBODY ELSE get there first? This photo of "strange objects" dates back to 1952 when it was snapped by a Coast Guard photographer at Salem, Mass.

For example, several days after Sputnik's appearance an Air Force jet pilot flying 42,000 feet over Washington at night reported to Moonwatch control center officers here that he saw a disk-shaped object flashing across the sky. Moonwatch officials quickly determined that it could not have been Sputnik.

The relay of the pilot's message was not fast enough to try to track whatever the object was. But the reporting procedure is being speeded up so that tracking any reported UFO will be possible in the future.

"The army of amateur and professional astronomers with all kinds of telescopes, which is organized under Moonwatch, is an ideal organization for checking saucer reports," a spokesman says.

AF Maj. Dewey Fournet, previously the Pentagon project officer on UFOs and now a member of the NICAP board, looks to the future when U.S. satellites will be in the skies in great numbers. He says:

"U.S. satellites—especially the larger ones—can be instrumented to detect or photograph UFOs within their range and transmit details to earth stations."

Maj. Keyhoe elaborates on this idea:

"Russia and the U.S. have announced they are definitely planning several space machines. So it's quite possible that these first space ships or satellites may encounter other interplanetary machines, manned or otherwise. Our space devices may even be closely approached by such alien machines."

"If this happens our space devices could be equipped to attempt automatic communication, by light or signals, or by radio, when near UFOs. Any answer would be automatically relayed to earth, and direct communication could then be established from earth stations by remote control of communication systems."

OPTIMISTIC—Rear Adm. Wm. F. Raborn, director of the Polaris Project, the Navy's 1,500-mile, ship-based ballistic missile, told newsmen in Washington that the project is ahead of schedule. The original operations date for the missile was 1962, but now Navy officials believe they can beat this goal "appreciably." The Polaris will be for shipboard use only, including submarines. Raborn was in Washington to testify before a closed-door session of the House Appropriations Subcommittee.

Margaret O'Brien Trying To Bury Her 'Child Star' Image

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (UP)—The cornball of all the cornball images ever manufactured by the movies may well have been the one of Margaret O'Brien, standing loneat solemn-eyed and arched-browed, within the mammoth hollow of a train station. It was, oh sob, a heart-tugger.

It is an image that Miss O'Brien, a lady pushing 20, regards now with some distaste. It is an image that TV is helping her to bury.

"One of the most difficult things about having been a child actress is trying to convince people that you are no longer a child," said Miss O'Brien as she fluttered her dark lashes at a plateful of manicotti. She had been rehearsing for a "Kraft Theatre" opus, "Come to Me," which will be beamed out tonight. She said she was hungry.

Out of Awkward Age

"The wonderful thing about TV," she said between forkfuls, "is that it has given me a chance to get out of the awkward age—something the movies couldn't do for me. No movie producer could really afford to take a chance at handling me an adult role."

"But TV has changed all that—and all within the past few weeks. It started with a 'Suspicion' show at the beginning of the season in which I played a woman. Then there was a 'Playhouse 90' and a 'Climax' in which I played wives. In this 'Kraft' get another chance to act—I'm playing an ugly sister who's not quite right in the head. I'm far more fortunate than the child movie stars who came before me—and all because of TV. Shirley Temple never had anything like TV to make that transition to adulthood. Neither did so many others."

Miss O'Brien, who won an Academy Award at seven and who earned $5,000 a week at the peak of her career, looks back with some detachment on her roles in such flickers as "Meet me in St. Louis," "Journey for Margaret" and "Jane Eyre." She did the straw-hat bit in "Music for Millions."

Child Acting Half Good

"In terms of my career, I think being a child actress is half good and half bad," she said as she worked through some garlic bread. "It's harder to get people to accept the fact you're older, but it's good because it helped me as an actress."

"People think because I started at four-and-a-half I was a born actress. But there's no such thing as a born actress. You have to work to be any good. I can remember as a child the endless hours and hours of rehearsal just to get a scene or even a line right."

She ordered brandy pudding and tea for dessert and tackled both with dainty gusto.

"Regrets? No, I have no regrets at all about spending my childhood as an actress. My mother made sure that I played with the other kids in the neighborhood and I got the same kind of allowance that they did."

"If I had a daughter of my own with talent I'd offer her the same choice my mother offered me. If she enjoyed acting, I'd let her act. If she didn't, she wouldn't have to. But I don't think there's anything necessarily bad about child actors. I don't think you have to become spoiled. The only important thing in life is not to be pushed into anything. That's what makes the difference."

DALLAS FORT WORTH LUBBOCK

BEEF STEW IN A BOWL—Big chunks of beef stew meat and fall's freshest vegetables are used in this version of beef stew. Stew in a bowl. Add crunchy bread sticks and a crisp green salad, if you like.

While Fall's Vegetables Are Freshest; Why Not Make Succulent Beef Stew

It's time for a stew! Now that braising beef is on the market in abundance and fall's vegetables are at their freshest, why not combine the foods in a succulent beef stew.

Big chunks of beef, cooked gently in liquid until the meat is fork tender, combined with fresh beans, celery, some carrots and corn, make a delectable and hearty combination. Serve the colorful stew in bowls—without thickening the soup stock for gravy—and watch the family clamor for more.

Serve beef stew in a bowl with a crisp green salad and crunchy bread sticks. For dessert, add apple dumplings with vanilla sauce.

This recipe for stew in a bowl is a year-round formula, for canned or frozen vegetables can be substituted for the fresh product when they are more conveniently available.

Make a double batch, if you like, and freeze the remaining stew for a treat in a week or so. Or reheat the remainder for serving the second night with a topping of lard-made pastry. It's delicious.

- BEEF STEW IN A BOWL
- 2 pounds beef stew meat
  - 3 tablespoons flour
  - 2 teaspoons salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
  - 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
  - 2 large onions, chopped
  - 1 1/2-ounce can tomatoes
  - 3 sprigs parsley
  - 1 bay leaf
  - 1/4 teaspoon thyme
  - 1 cup hot water
  - 1/2 pound green beans, cut in 1-inch pieces
  - 1 cup diced celery
  - 1 cup fresh whole kernel corn or 1 8-ounce can whole kernel corn
  - 1 cup sliced carrots
  - 1 cup fresh or 1 package frozen lima beans
- Roll meat in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Brown meat in hot fat. Add onions and cook 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, parsley, leaf, thyme and water. Cover and cook over low heat 1 1/2 hours. Discard bay leaf. Add beans, celery, corn, and carrots and cook 30 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender. If frozen lima beans are used, add the unthawed vegetable last 10 minutes of cooking. Serve in bowls, if you like, or chicken drippings and serve meat and vegetables on platter accompanied by gravy, 6 to 8 servings.

Popeye's Wimpy Would Like This Mushroom Burger

America, the home of the good old juicy hamburger, adds a festive touch to this popular favorite with Mushroom Bunburgers.

MUSHROOM BUNBURGERS
(Makes 6 servings)

- 2 1/2-cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1/2 cup fine cracker crumbs
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon steak sauce
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green onions
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 1 1/2 cups chopped mushrooms

Combine evaporated milk, egg, beef, cracker crumbs, salt, pepper, steak sauce, onions, green pepper and mushrooms. Blend together until well-mixed. Form meat mixture into 12 thin patties (about 1-3 cup each). Place each patty on hamburger bun half, covering completely. Place Bunburgers on broiler pan. Broil 5-7 inches from heat for 5 to 7 minutes (or to taste).

Black Walnut Cake Perfect For Party

Nuts and raisins bring back memories of the old-fashioned Christmas—first hunting black walnuts, then cracking them in front of a roaring fire.

You can bring back a bit of the atmosphere of the old-fashioned Christmas with a modern new cake mix with a wonderful flavor—Black Walnut Cake Mix. While the cake is baking (and oh! what a wonderful aroma) you can prepare the creamy raisin filling. You simply make up a package of vanilla pudding and fold in raisins and black walnuts.

This new cake mix flavor has been added by General Mills to their line of specialty cakes. And you'll find its many variations just perfect for your special occasion.

Here's the Betty Crocker recipe: BLACK WALNUT CAKE WITH CREAMY RAISIN FILLING

- 1 pkg. Betty Crocker Black Walnut Cake Mix
- 1 pkg. prepared vanilla pudding mix
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped black walnuts
- Whipped cream

Bake cake in layers as directed on package. Make vanilla pudding according to package directions. Cool. Fold in raisins and black walnuts.

Put layers together with filling. Frost with whipped cream.

Who Would Dream Of A Gay Christmas Without Homemade Christmas Cookies

Who'd dream of Christmas without Christmas cookies, sundry, delectable and home-made? Here's help... a single recipe that does the work of two. Both Chocolate and Christmas Fruit Cookies are made from the same basic dough. A further word: the recipe doubles beautifully.

FRUIT 'N' CHOCOLATE COOKIE DUO

- 3 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup soft butter or margarine
- 2 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup whole bran cereal
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
- 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1/2 cup broken nuts
- 1/2 cup halved candied cherries
- 1/2 cup cut dates

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Blend butter and sugar; add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in whole bran cereal, milk and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients; mix well. Spoon half of dough into separate bowl.

Into half of dough, stir cooled melted chocolate. Into remaining half, fold nuts and fruit. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets. Decorate chocolate cookies with pecan halves, and fruit cookies with halved candied cherries. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 12 minutes.

Yield: About 3 dozen each fruit and Chocolate Cookies

Two more crisp cereal holiday treats, these cookies would make delightful gifts from Santa's Kitchen and, of course, are delicious for any festive occasion.

'After-Five' Dish Nourishing Fare

To bring our food senses back to normal after the Thanksgiving season of rich 'n fancy foods, this "after-five" spaghetti dish will be a welcomed treat to your family.

AFTER-FIVE SPAGHETTI
(Makes 4 servings)

- 1 medium-sized onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- Dash Tabasco
- 1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- 1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed tomato soup
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 8 ounces spaghetti
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- Cook onion in salad oil 5 minutes.
- Add beef, 1 teaspoon salt, chili powder, Tabasco and monosodium glutamate. Cook until meat is browned, stirring occasionally. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Add soup and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, 45 minutes.
- Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve meat sauce over spaghetti; top with cheese.

MACARON BARS

- 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 cup flour
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup shredded coconut
- 1 cup whole wheat flakes
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Blend butter and sugar thoroughly. Add flour and mix well with fork. Press mixture evenly and firmly into bottom of a 13 x 9-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 minutes or until delicately browned.

Beat eggs well; add sugar gradually and continue beating until mixture is light and fluffy. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Spread over previously baked crust. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Cut into bars while still warm.

Yield: 30 bars, approximately 2 x 1 1/2 inches.

DATE DAINTIES

- 2 cups-corn flakes
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup finely cut dates
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 cup shredded coconut
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla flavoring

Crush corn flakes slightly. Combine sugar and eggs. Stir in remaining ingredients together with corn flakes crumbs. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 12 minutes.

Yield: About 3 dozen cookies, 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

Hearty Chowder Is Meal In Itself

This chowder has both turkey and oysters! The two foods complement each other deliciously. You'll like the celery flavor and the hearty creaminess the milk gives the chowder. Add more turkey if you wish, but the chowder is a meal in itself as it is.

INGREDIENTS:

- Turkey or chicken bones, if available
- 1 small onion
- 5 cups chicken broth or use chicken bouillon cubes
- 2 1/2 cups uncooked white rice
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey (more if desired)
- 1/2 pint oysters
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Paprika or parsley for garnish

METHOD: Make turkey stock or broth by packing bones in a large kettle and covering with cold water. Add the onion. Cover. Simmer for about 3 hours. Strain. Cook. Remove any remaining meat from the bones. Refrigerate.

The trick to washing artificial plants is to work quickly. This way any glue used will not be loosened and your pride and joy won't come apart. Use a cup to spill suds over a plant, but don't soak it. Rinse and shake off excess moisture.

About an hour before serving the chowder, place 5 cups of the broth in a large soup kettle. Add the rice, celery, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer thirty minutes. Stir the milk into the flour. Stir into the hot mixture. Add the turkey, oysters, butter or margarine and salt and pepper to taste. Heat. Thin with additional stock if desired.

Serve hot, sprinkled with paprika or chopped parsley.

This recipe makes about 2 1/2 quarts of chowder.

Fall Weather Is Casserole Time

Autumn weather is casserole weather in most homemakers' books. This is the season when we give page one listing to kraut, pork and apples—a flavorful combination that satisfies appetites sharpened by the bite of falling temperatures. Try these two recipes on your family soon.

KRAUT-POTATO PIE WITH SPICED APPLE SAUCE
(Makes 6 servings)

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 medium-sized onion, sliced
- 2 1-pound cans sauerkraut, drained
- 4 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
- Salt and pepper
- 1 1-pound can apple sauce
- 1/2 cup seedless raisins
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Melt butter or margarine. Add onion and cook until lightly browned. Add kraut; mix well. Spread potatoes on bottom and sides of lightly greased 10-inch pie plate. Top with kraut mixture; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 minutes. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Serve with kraut pie.

Ever wonder why small rooms always seem a mess? Perhaps you don't keep magazines or newspapers in place and ash trays clean. Put magazines and newspapers away and keep furniture in place for a neat room.

Tender And Flavorful Short Ribs Are Basis For Tasty, Economical Dinner

Cooked until they are so tender, the meat falls from the bone, beef short ribs are about the tastiest meat you could serve for a fall dinner. An economical cut from the ends of standing rib roasts, short ribs have all the full meat flavor of the more expensive cuts.

To insure the most tender short ribs, long slow cooking—braising—is best. Brown the meat and simmer it in a little liquid until tender. While the meat is cooking, prepare fresh fall carrots, apples and onions to complete the main course.

In the following recipe, instructions are given for preparing braised short-ribs with apple and onion rings. A light browning in a little butter is enough to leave the rings slightly crisp.

While the ribs finish braising, cook scraped whole carrots in a little boiling, salted water until tender, about 18 to 20 minutes. Season them with butter and sprinkle with parsley before serving.

SAVORY SHORT RIBS

- 2 1/2 pounds beef short ribs
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup water
- 3 large unpeeled red-skinned apples, sliced thickly
- 2 to 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 large onions, sliced thickly

Roll meat in flour and brown in hot fat. Add Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper and water. Cover pan and cook over low heat 2 hours or until meat is tender. Remove seeds from apple slices; brown lightly in melted butter. Remove apples from pan and brown onions in fat. Arrange apples and onions around meat on platter. 4 to 5 servings.

With an increase in electric appliances in homes housewives should watch for danger signals of overloading. Otherwise, there is a threat of fire of other trouble. If your lights flicker, fuses blow and the TV dims when another appliance is turned on, have an electrician check your wiring.

Presidency Is Not Man-Killing Job

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's bouncy recovery from a mild stroke probably makes it all right to mention the fact that this business about the presidency being a man-killing job is mostly hokum.

Six presidents have died in office, three of them by gunshot. The average age was 48 years, mighty close to the allotted three score and ten. The survival age after leaving office is around 14 years, as of now.

The man-killer myth is founded partly on the self-pity of some presidents during and after their terms of office. Your correspondent began observing presidents closely when Calvin Coolidge was in office and had a peek or two at Woodrow Wilson before that. He has seen presidents who were having their bad days or weeks. But so do golfers, ball players and plain working stiff have had bad days and weeks. Some of them die comparatively young.

FDR Needed Rest
FDR didn't look so good toward the last, but he was full of boom clear through his second term. Mr. Big was around considerably longer than most and sought a fourth nomination when he would have been better advised to seek hospital rest.

Counting the pay, the loose hours and fringe benefits, the presidency is not a bad job at all. Plenty of selfless patriots always are eyeing the White House. There isn't one among them who would be likely to grab for a job which really killed.

Presidents are not the only public officials who get to feeling sorry for themselves. Members of Congress get the blues, especially Senators, being generally older.

Sometimes, when a Senator passes on you would think he had been taking all of his meals at his desk, and sleeping on it, to boot, to hear his colleagues tell it.

There hasn't been so much of that since Sen. Royal S. Copeland (D-N.Y.) departed. Copeland was a medical doctor. It was his custom to sound off considerably back in the 20's and 30's when a colleague died. It always was overwork, although in some instances it easily could have been bootleg liquor, over-eating or other over-indulgence.

A former Republican governor of Pennsylvania suggested to your correspondent in London, Eng., on Aug. 3, 1923 that the death of Warren Gamaliel Harding the previous day probably could be attributed to bad whisky. There is no evidence, however, that Harding ever had to cope with really bad hooch.

Copeland Could Act
Copeland held always that it was overwork that killed senators, and he would put on quite a show. He did it over the years and held

Churches Examine 'Oneness In Christ'

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, (UP)—Leaders of 30 Protestant and orthodox church bodies took stock Wednesday of their progress toward "Oneness in Christ."

They found many areas in which churches are cooperating more effectively than ever before. But they also found plenty of evidence that denominationalism still is rampant.

The appraisal was made by 2,000 delegates to the triennial general assembly of the National Council of Churches. With no plenary session scheduled, the delegates split up into scores of divisions and section meetings to review joint programs in Christian education, foreign missions, social welfare and more than 70 other fields of church activity.

Any disposition of the delegates to congratulate themselves on the rapid growth of inter-church cooperation was jarred by blunt words from Dr. Truman B. Douglass, noted Congregationalist minister and veteran leader of the Church unity movement.

Douglass said individual denominations still "retain for themselves most of the important functions of the Christian church" and restrict their world, national and local councils to a relatively narrow role.

He said one "disastrous consequence" of this policy is that church councils are "preoccupied with opposing bingo and pari-mutuel betting" when they should be voicing the united stand of the churches on "life and death problems of our society."

The Rev. Dr. Donald Black, executive secretary of the United Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, said Christians must transcend not only denominational but national barriers to obey Christ's command to spread the Gospel into all the world.

He said "nationalism" is a major obstacle to effective missionary effort in the modern world—the nationalism of Americans who tend to "equate patriotism with Christianity" as well as the nationalism of Asian countries which reject Christianity as a Western export.

Germany with a population of 81 million has become the most prosperous and potentially the most powerful European nation outside of Russia. And Adenauer is indisputably West Europe's strongest man.

It now looks as if he will be able to attend the NATO meeting. If he does, his voice will carry nearly as much authority as the leader of the United States delegation, whoever he may be.

Adenauer Illness Worried W. Europe

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Western Europe is recovering from a period of acute anxiety caused by the illness of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. While President Eisenhower's slight stroke made him the center of interest in the United States, Western Germany and Western Europe generally were pretty nearly as worried over Adenauer's attack of influenza.

Eisenhower's illness caused a lot of discussion in both the United States and Europe whether it might not be a good idea for him to retire in favor of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

There were no such suggestions in the case of Adenauer. Though he is crowding 82 years of age, Adenauer is regarded as much as any one person can be as West Europe's indispensable man.

The likelihood that the President would be unable to attend the "summit" meeting of the heads of government of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations to be held in Paris Dec. 16 was regarded in Europe as unfortunate.

Adenauer Causes Worry
But the possibility that Adenauer might not be able to attend was regarded by many people in Europe as even more serious.

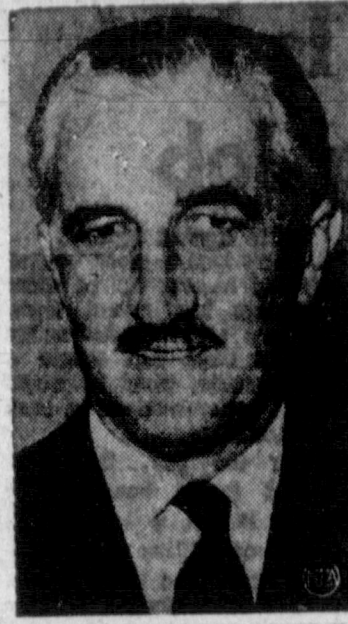

Adenauer went to bed last week with what was first thought to be a cold. It developed into influenza. It was recalled that he stands head and shoulders over all other West European leaders.

Above all, it was recalled that Adenauer has no political heir. Vice President Nixon was at hand in Washington to replace Eisenhower at the NATO meeting—or, if necessary—in the White House.

Eisenhower has been building up Nixon as the American heir presumptive for several years.

Adenauer Without an Heir
Adenauer has stubbornly refused to build up a political heir, despite persistent urging. It is true that on Oct. 31 Adenauer named Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard to be his vice chancellor. But he did it only because the West German constitution requires him to name a deputy leader. He went out of his way to make it known that he did not regard Erhard as really being in the No. 2 spot, either in government leadership or in the leadership of the Christian Democratic Party.

In the eight years since Adenauer has been chancellor, West

NATO OFFICIAL — Ernest R. Meill of Scarsdale, N. Y., poses shortly after he was sworn in at a ceremony in the State Department as Assistant Secretary General for Production and Logistics for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Two Major Events In Soviet Science

Editors Note: The following dispatch has been written exclusively for United Press by one of Russia's foremost scientists. He is Dmitri Skobeltsyn, since 1951 director of the Institute of Physics in the USSR Academy of Sciences.

By DMITRI SKOBELOTSYN
(Written For United Press)

MOSCOW (UP)—The year 1957 has been marked by two major events in the history of Soviet science, particularly in physics. One was the creation and launching of the first and second Sputniks which caused a stir throughout the world.

The second concerns a completely different set of problems and is also of international importance. I refer to the commissioning of the 10 billion electron volt proton-synchrotron or accelerator at Dubna on the outskirts of Moscow. Last April the accelerator, the only one of its kind in the world, produced proton particles with a record energy of 10 bev (billion electron volts).

These are in effect artificial cosmic rays.

The particles provide science with new tools for delving deeper into the secrets of the atom's nucleus. To obtain them, it was necessary to build a tremendous ring-shaped electric magnet weighing 36,000 tons.

Better Than Ours
The giant new accelerator surpasses two similar installations operating in the U.S. in size and energy of its particles. It is a great landmark in the history of science. And the launching of the two Sputniks opens new paths for science.

Complex machines such as the accelerator are being built to study the phenomena in a field that may be called the "micro-world"—a world of inconceivably small space and time. This is the world of the recently discovered particles of matter, the so-called mesons, hyperons and "anti-particles."

On the other hand, the appearance of the Sputniks equipped with various instruments was the beginning of a new era in the study of the cosmos.

Cosmic rays are a stream of nuclear particles, accelerated to tremendous speeds, which constantly penetrate the borders of the earth's atmosphere. These are mainly protons with a v e r a g e speed in this area equals 10 bev—the same as in the proton synchrotron we have now built.

Source In Space
This stream of particles, whose sources are located somewhere in the innermost depths of cosmic space, contain not only nuclei of hydrogen atoms (protons) but also atomic nuclei of a number of other light energy particles.

Physicists have long been using such natural high energy particles in tiny quantities to observe the phenomena of the micro-world. The giant accelerators now make possible detailed study of these phenomena because they are a terrestrial source of artificial cosmic rays.

A thorough study of primary cosmic rays can bring science extremely valuable information on the origins of these rays, especially from observation of the fluctuation and variation of the streams' intensity.

Distorts Picture
Observations carried out by instruments in the atmosphere are inadequate because even the comparatively thin atmospheric layer which separates these instruments from cosmic space distorts the entire picture in many ways. This is where the Sputniks come in. By penetrating beyond the limits of the atmosphere into cosmic space they have opened up entirely new vistas for cosmic research. The first observations of the cosmic rays by instruments in Sputnik II have already been received and will soon be deciphered and studied.

The past and future observations of cosmic rays and other radiation in cosmic space are only the beginning, and only part, of an extensive program of scientific research which the Sputniks will make possible.

In the future, and perhaps not too distant future, we will be able to test a number of physics problems of fundamental importance such as Einstein's general theory of relativity.

Greenback Party Elects Chairman

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 4 (UP)—John Zahnd of Indianapolis has been re-elected national chairman for 1958 of the Greenback party.

The party said Medford F. Greenstreet, Independence, Mo., was elected national secretary and Fred C. Proehl, Edmonds, Wash., vice chairman.

A release signed by "the ballot committee" said officers were chosen "by referendum vote by all dues-paying members."

The party's growth "is now greater than ever in the history of the party," organized here in 1876, the release said.

The adopted party slogan was: "All reform waits for money reform, then let us have money reform first."

Meeting Televised
A cabinet meeting in the White House was televised over a nationwide hookup for the first time in American history on Oct. 25, 1954.

Drilling Platform Reaches Destination

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 4 (UP)—A giant, 4,800-ton seagoing oil-drilling platform has reached its destination in the Persian Gulf after a 7,650-mile voyage, it was reported Tuesday.

The platform was built by a German dockyard. It left Rendsburg Aug. 24 and passed through the Suez Canal in October, towed by a tug.

AIR CONDITIONING—TEMPERATURES MADE TO ORDER—AT NEW LOW COST. GET A DEMONSTRATION!

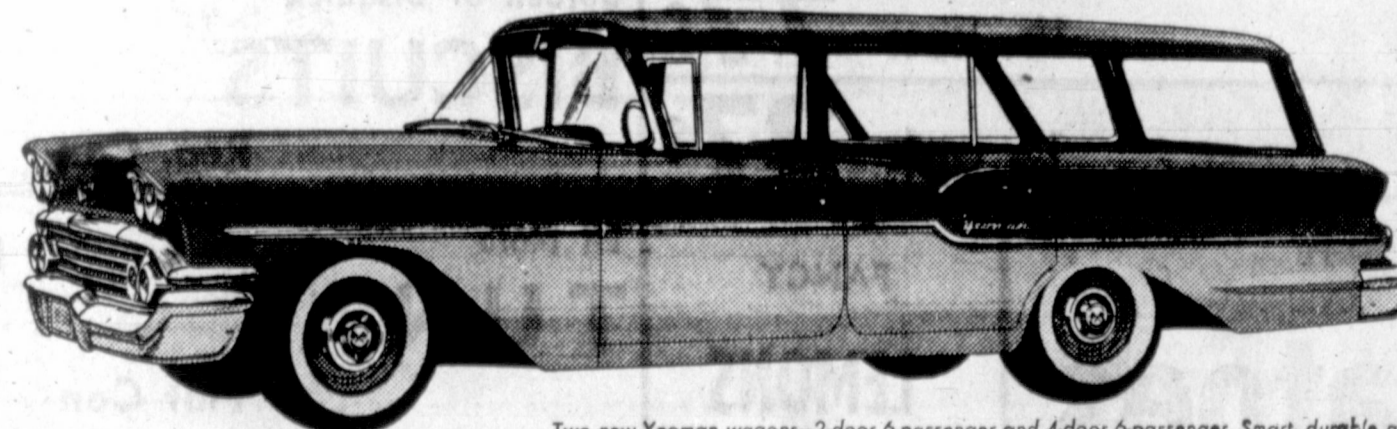

The new Nomad—the last word in station wagon style and distinction... 4-door 6-passenger.

Two new Brookwoods—4-door 6-passenger and 4-door 9-passenger models.

CHEVROLET SETS A NEW STYLE IN STATION WAGONS!

Two new Yeoman wagons—2-door 6-passenger and 4-door 6-passenger. Smart, durable all-vinyl interiors.

Wonderful's the word for Chevrolet's five new station wagons! They're boldly beautiful with new length and lozenge, new sculptured grace. They're boldly engineered with new ideas that make loading easier, riding smoother, driving happier.

Meet the year's smartest station wagon set—Chevrolet's five new wagons for '58.

They're more than nine inches longer, dramatically lower. The liftgate is hinged into the roof and raises completely out of the way for easier loading. Safety plate glass in all windows gives you crystal-clear visibility.

No station wagon built ever carried loads with more ease or passengers with more comfort! Chevrolet's new standard Full Coil suspension cradles you on deep coil springs at every wheel. And you can have a real air ride as an extra-cost option.

You can choose from two- or four-door, six- or nine-passenger models with livelier V8 or 6 engines. Stop by your Chevrolet dealer's and look over the year's smartest wagons.

Dear Santa Claus,
John and I have been trying very hard to be good all year long, and hope you think we have been good enough to receive some of the things I have listed below.

John — Santa Fe Train, yellow car, black car, red and blue dump truck, baby tool set and cowboy suit. Barbara — Cowgirl suit, pink ballerina suit for me to wear, one ballerina suit for big walking doll. Roller skates for walking doll.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Henry Jones decided to sell his home for $15,000 and when a buyer was found, the question arose as to how the buyer should finance the purchase.

Henry had a mortgage on his house, with a balance of $10,000, and the buyer suggested that Henry permit him to take over the mortgage payments, paying Henry the difference of $5000 in cash. This argued the buyer, would save him the trouble and expense of getting a new loan himself and so Henry agreed.

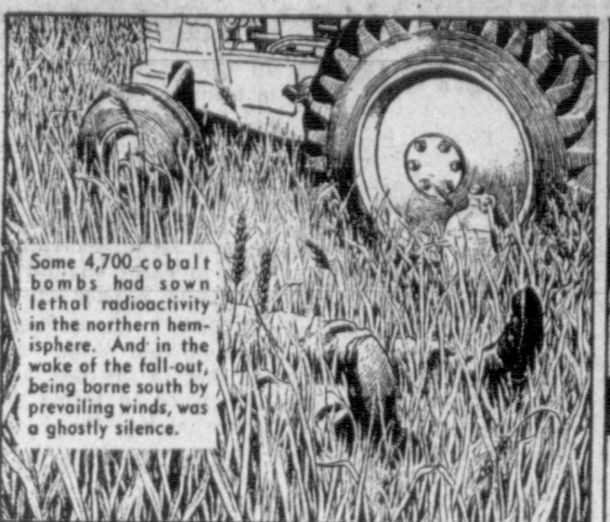

Several years after the deal was closed, Henry received a letter from his bank advising that the payments on the mortgage were far in arrears and that he would have to pay or a lawsuit would be filed.

Henry was surprised to learn that he was still liable on the original obligation, and that if the property could not be sold at foreclosure to bring enough money to pay the mortgage balance and the costs, he would have to pay the difference.

Of course, Henry might have sued his buyer for his loss, but the chances would be that the buyer is insolvent and "judgment-proof", so

ON THE BEACH

Some 4,700 cobalt bombs had sown lethal radioactivity in the northern hemisphere. And in the wake of the fall-out, being borne south by prevailing winds, was a ghostly silence.

In Melbourne, Australia, Comdr. Dwight Towers, U.S.N., learned of a flicker of hope for the last survivors of the doomed world. Explained an admiral, "There's a school of thought that this radioactivity may be dissipating."

"In that case life might continue to go on down here. Most scientists disagree but it's a matter that must be investigated." Asked Towers, "That's the object of my cruise to the U.S.?" The admiral nodded.

that Henry could not collect a judgment against him. When a mortgage is assumed by a purchaser of real estate, the financial institution still holds the original note which was signed by the seller. If Henry had contacted his bank and obtained a release of liability, Henry would, of course, have been cleared of all future responsibility of the obligation.

Henry's bank, however, would have no reason to release Henry and might be reluctant to do so unless the bank's investigation disclosed that the buyer was at least a credit-worthy as Henry. The bank may also have had additional problems concerning releasing Henry from the obligation if the loan was of the FHA or GI type.

The danger of permitting an assumption of your mortgage loan may, therefore, be considerable, especially in view of the fact that real estate markets may fall after a period of years so that the real estate itself may not be of sufficient value to pay the mortgage note in the event of a default by the buyer.

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The filming of Eugene O'Neill's "Desire

Under The Elms" was delayed recently when producer Don Hartman discovered that the ground-carpenter at the elm-shaded filming location consisted mainly of thistles. Hartman ordered his staff to find another spot for Anthony Perkins to make love to Sophia Loren. "What man would lead Sophia to a spot with thistles?" "Hornbook"

The "hornbook" was an elementary school book used in England during the Middle Ages. It consisted of a single sheet of parchment, protected by a sheet of transparent horn.

Nun Buried At Africa Convent

KAMPALA, Uganda, Dec. 4 (UP)—Franciscan nun "Mama Kevin", who died recently in Boston, Mass., was buried near Kampala Tuesday in the grounds of the convent she founded. Baganda Tribesmen, who loved the gentle nun, raised a fund to bring her body here from Boston. Sister Kevin had worked for 50 years among Uganda Africans.

Apples are the second most important export of Tasmania, ranking after wool.

Pampa News Women's Editor

MONDAY: Miss Pat Jones, the American Legion Auxiliary's representative to Girls' State this summer was the guest speaker at the League of Women Voters luncheon today in the City Club Room. The luncheon tables were attractively centered with Christmas-time centerpieces. Mrs. W. C. Breining, organizational chairman for the league, said she just "threw the decorations together" so charmingly. While in the Courthouse, we stopped by the Girl Scout office and met Mrs. Ben Graham, who is a new addition to the office with duties of a clerk-typist. She and Fern Dawson were busy counting Girl Scout calendar money.

TUESDAY: Of course, the big news today was the Santa Day Parade. You must have one foot in the grave and another on a banana peel, as the old saying goes, not to love a parade. Organizations around town really went "all out" and staged a "bang-up" parade to usher in the Christmas season in Pampa. It was a ideal parade weather, too, so that all the pretty majorettes were not too uncomfortable in their short skirts.

The winners, which you know by now, were the Kit Kat Club, first, Las Cressas Club, second, and the Highland Neighborhood Girl Scout float, third.

KKK members were dressed identically in white sweaters with full, red velvet skirts with red and white candy-striped stockings and white mittens. Jingle bells were attached to the caps and mittens. They tossed "snowballs" to the crowd as they passed by. In the middle of their float was a fabulous, real, honest-to-goodness sleigh.

Las Cressas Club formed a choral angel group, complete with silver tinsel halo and wings. Each had sprayed her hair with bronze and presented quite an attractive picture.

Girl Scouts had four entries in the parade: floats from Troop 33 of the Baker-Wilson Neighborhood, Horace Mann-Lamar Neighborhood, Skellytown Neighborhood, and Highland Neighborhood, which with its winning float depicted a "Night Before Christmas" theme.

Mrs. Jack P. Foster in the Altitude Club car was "chauffeur" Senior Citizens, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris and Mrs. Georgia (she wouldn't tell us her last name) but they were having a gray time.

WEDNESDAY: A nice note today from Mrs. Mary Cales, former publicity chairman for the DMF Auxiliary and the Rebekah Lodge, with whom it has been such a pleasure to work.

Attended the Royal Service Luncheon at noon today in the First Baptist Church, where fine fellowship and wonderful food was the order of the day. It was an especial occasion to honor and say "bon voyage" to Miss Vada Waldron, who is leaving Sunday to resume her missionary work in Menendosa, Argentina. She has been on furlough from her church in Argentina for the past few months. The Women's Missionary Union presented Miss Waldron with a beautiful, handmade, two-piece luggage set and extended to her their warm appreciation for the inspiration she is to them.

The Gray County Home Demonstration Clubs have sent out the cutest invitations to their annual Christmas Party to be held tomorrow in the St. Matthews Episcopal Parish Hall, 727 W. Browning. The invitation, which we received today is in the form of a snow-man wearing a red hat. The program which sounds like a lot of fun, is being planned with a gift exchange, Christmas carols, and a most intriguing-sounding game, "I've Got A Secret." All home demonstration club members are cordially invited to attend.

Some of the members who have a part in planning it are Mmes. W. C. Kinner, Charles Roberts, Alta Mae McClrath, Ernest McKnight, Ray Frazier, A. C. Coombes, R. L. Carlton, V. Smith, Boyd Maule, John Mobley, W. D. Swain, Jack Hoard, A. M. Nash, and Mrs. R. D. McCalip, Roy Tinsley, Jack Hoard, A. M. Nash, and Mrs. L. D. Rider.

Dressy Fashions For Little Misses

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — The little dolls will be wearing ruffles and bows for the holidays this year. They will, in fact, look like Christmas angels decked out in polished cottons and lace-trimmed organdy.

Little girls who like to dress up, and mothers who like to see them dressed up, will be in perfect agreement. Fashions for small fry rustle, show off frothy petticoats and get trimmings of lace, bows, ribbon, ruffles or fake fur.

Many come with their own pinafores in practical but airy-looking nylon organdy. The pinafore dress looks entirely different with pinafore off and therefore creates two dresses in one.

This is a white Christmas for small girls, starting with party dresses and running on through to jersey middy suits in off-white.

We show here two party possibilities for this season. Both are Kale Greenaway designs. Pinafore dress (left) has lace-trimmed nylon organdy-pinafore over aqua cotton dress with elbow-length sleeves.

On Christmas Eve, a girl might like to wear this dress of polished chambray (right) with double pockets on each side of the skirt. Trim is Swiss peasant braid and rick-rack.

Lesson On Cross For Service Guild

(Special to The News)
SHAMROCK — The Wesleyan Service Guild met in fellowship hall of the First Methodist Church for its annual Thanksgiving Dinner. Mrs. S. L. Draper, Dot Hindman, Harold Teegerstrum and Miss Agnes Reynolds were hostesses.

The dinner was served buffet style with the main table in the shape of the cross. The centerpiece for the worship center featured a wooden cross and a bouquet of autumn mums. Rev. H. H. Sharp gave the invocation.

At the business meeting following, Mrs. George Robinson presided and Mrs. M. E. Risk led the prayer. For a devotional Mrs. Draper and Mrs. Sharp sang a duet, "Take Up Thy Cross," accompanied by Mary Pace.

Mrs. Rufus Dodgen, taught the lesson on the Cross from "Disciples of Such A Lord". Mrs. Sharp led prayer. Mrs. Tindall closed the discussion with prayer.

Those present were Mmes: Chester Tindall, Fae Lawson, Bobby Bumpers; Rev. Jim Sharp and Mrs. Dodgen guests.

Members present were: Mmes. Fred Oliver, Clark Bumpers, Charles Lee Anderson, Jim Sharp, Katy Close, Francis Dewey, M. E. Risk, Harold Teegerstrum, Garvin McCaskill, S. L. Draper, Dot Hindman, Neeley Burrell, Ed. Shaffner, Louise Vermillion, Topsey Gossett, W. R. Wooten, Elsie Mae Hood, Mary Pace, George Robinson, Dudley Holland; Misses, Willa Bell Dougherty, Agnes Reynolds, Geneva Zeigler.

at Wichita Falls and the Amarillo Air Base, rather than have a gift exchange at the club's Christmas party.

Roll call was answered with each member's favorite Bible verse.

Mrs. Carlton Nance and Mrs. Newberry presented the program, "Penpoint Sketches of the Twelve Disciples."

Mrs. Nance spoke first and sketched the lives of James and John, Matthew, Thomas, James, the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus. Individual pictures of the Twelve were spot-lighted, while Mrs. Nance explained, "The pictures are new, by Sune Richards, a Milwaukee teacher, mother and professional photographer. Mrs. Richards devoted almost ten years to an almost unbelievable quest to find everyday men to use as models. Only two of her disciples had 'Biblical beards.' Some were persuaded to grow them while for others she carefully made beards, using her drama-teacher skills. With each subject she took care to pray before a sitting."

Mrs. Nance pointed out "Jesus' purpose in calling the disciples were plainly stated in the book of Mark. He appointed twelve of them whom he called apostles to be with him and to be sent out to preach."

Mrs. Newberry then spoke on Peter, Andrew, Phillip, Bartholomew, Simon, the Zealot, and Judas and also used the pictures of the disciples. Mrs. Newberry stated Mrs. Richard's purpose in making the modern pictures of the Twelve was "to do the disciples the way Jesus found them when they were ordinary men and women like us. Jesus recognized what the Twelve did not realize themselves, their inner power. I thought my portraits could help men and women of today realize they could become disciples, too."

At the close of the program, Mrs. Newberry, assisted by Mrs. Nance and Mrs. Glen Radcliff served a refreshment plate to twelve members.

Nice for evening wear is the pouch bag made of satin with a covering of lace. Comes in black or white and is moderately priced.

Lodge Nominates Future Officers

(Special to The News)
SKELLYTOWN—Rebekah lodge met recently in the IOOF Hall with Mrs. Clarence Hoskins, noble grand, in charge of the meeting. Twelve sick visits were made by the members in the community during the week.

Officers for the ensuing term were nominated. Election of officers will be held at the next meeting.

Following the business meeting, the members played bingo, with a part of the proceeds going to the Old Folks Home in Corsicana, and to the orphanage at Ennis.

Attending were Mmes. Everett Crawford, Fred Wall, Fred Anderson, Clarence Hoskins, Howard Wedge, Robert Marlar, Gertrude Hoskins, Ben Ross, W. H. McTea, Floyd McCoy, Ed Zmatory, Walter Niver, R. C. Heaton, Fred Genett, and Miles Pearson.

Chore Of Changing Sick-Bed Sheets Not As Difficult As It Would Seem

Chore Of Changing Sick-Bed Sheets Not As Difficult As It Would Seem

Changing sheets when a person is in bed is a halfway proposition because only the bottom sheet presents a problem.

But it isn't as difficult as it looks. Work on one side of the bed at a time. The hardest part of making a bed with a patient in it is to get sheets smooth and tight. A other will be no irritating wrinkles.

When changing the bottom sheet, the patient is on the side away from you, as far to the edge as possible. Have him bend a knee to prevent him rolling out of bed while you work.

Remove pillow and extra top covering, but cover patient with a blanket to keep him warm. Now loosen the bottom sheet on the side nearest you and roll it as close to the patient's body as possible. Fold a clean sheet in half lengthwise and place the center fold in middie of the bed. The bottom hem should be even with the foot of the mattress.

OPEN THE SHEET and roll top half as close as possible to patient. After this, and still working away so there will be no irritating from him, tuck in top and side of sheet as smoothly and tightly as possible. Now turn the patient over rolled bed linen toward you and cross to the other side of the bed.

Pull soiled sheet through and roll up ready for the laundry. Pull clean sheet through, smooth out and tuck in top corner and side of sheet. To remove wrinkles and hold sheet in position, pull sheet diagonally and downward before tucking it in.

And this completes the formerly bewildering task of changing a bottom sheet without dumping a patient out of bed. Make him comfortable, replace pillow and top bedding.

INCIDENTALLY, top bedding should not be too tight over the feet because this is tiring. It also may interfere with sound sleep.

And, as we said previously, rest is essential to a patient's recovery.

Many of you may want to learn more about nursing care, other than the basic guides we outlined in taking pulse, respiration, bathing and changing bed sheets. But every person needs to know how to make a sick person more comfortable and help him to get well. You don't have to be a registered nurse or a doctor to do this.

MRS. BEN GRAHAM

Mrs. Ben Graham began duties in the Girl Scout office recently as a clerk typist. She was born and reared in Pampa and attended McMurry College and Southwestern University in Georgetown. Mrs. Graham has been active as a volunteer in Girl Scouting for the past six years, having served as a leader troop, committee member, and troop organizer for the Baker-Wilson Neighborhood. Mrs. Sanders Is Honoree At Fete

SHAMROCK — A pink and blue shower honored Mrs. Pat Sanders in the home of Mrs. A. C. Brown 501 S. Houston recently. Co-hostesses were Mmes. Herbert Massey, Rufus Massey, Bob Willoughby and J. C. Breeding.

A large table with a tall white stork held gaily wrapped packages. The tea table was laid with a white linen cloth centered with a pink stork on styrofoam base surrounded with pink and white pom poms tied with blue satin ribbon and pink net. A silver coffee service completed the setting.

The honoree was presented a corsage of baby socks, rattle and pacifier from the hostesses.

Guests called between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m.

Mrs. Howe Feted With Stork Party

(Special to The News)
SHAMROCK — Mrs. Bill Howe was honored with a coffee recently in the home of Mrs. Albert Coopers. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Guy Hardin and Mrs. Louise Vermillion. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Cooper and directed to the dining room.

The table featured a pink and blue motif, laid with a white cut work cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink flowers and blue ribbons on a styrofoam base with the pink stork keeping watch. Small baby dolls were plate favors.

Mrs. Vermillion and Mrs. Hardin alternated at the silver coffee service.

Guests called between the hours of 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

POST HASTE—Tired but determined, two postmen from Baden-Wuerttemberg push on for the honor of being Germany's fastest mail carriers. They're shown in Bonn at the end of a walking competition of more than nine miles, and won in one hour, 14.24 minutes.

HOOP-DE-DO—Grandma used to roll hoops for ladylike exercise, but teenagers in Scandinavia are rock 'n' rolling them, like these two experts in Stockholm, Sweden. The idea is to keep the ring whirling, up and down, from neck to knees, with gyrations that would make Elvis Presley jealous. The new fad started in Norway, but has spread like wildfire in the Scandinavian countries.

CANDIDATE—Shapely Ellen Carr is one of the top entries competing to reign at New York's National Motorboat Show in January. The winner will be selected by the boating industry from thousands of entries coming from boating centers throughout the country. Ellen will fit the role nicely.

TRYING—New York Rangers' forward Red Sullivan, left, is battling Montreal Canadiens' defenseman Dollard St. Laurent for possession of the puck. It took place in the first period of their game in New York. Rangers won, 4-1.

FIRST ACT—Craggy-faced middleweight champ Carmen Basilio is reading a script during a visit to Las Vegas, Nev. Basilio is mulling over a night club offer made by a local hotel, and he may follow in the footlight footsteps of Sugar Ray Robinson.

HIGH AND DRY—St. Mark's Square in Venice seems an unlikely place for a seafarer to be stranded. Giorgio Rigobello made the trip from Milan to Venice in that rubber boat, but now he appears to be looking for help from a passing gondola. Time and a high tide will float him back out to a canal.

WINNING FUN—Mrs. Francis Dodge Van Lenner, of Lexington, Ky., is driving Cora's Mite to win the Hackney Pony Event at the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden. The animal has won three straight National Hackney Pony championships before this.

GRIM DETERMINATION—A youngster is taking the play from the professional gridgers of the National Football League in San Francisco as he eludes other kids to make off with a prize football. The young fans swarm down the field whenever a kick bounces out of the end zone. They make off with the ball if they can escape cops and other ball hawks.

A THING OF THE FUTURE—This view shows the new 18-hole golf course at Dorado Beach in Puerto Rico. It looks ready now, but won't be open for play until after the first of next year. Some visitors are shown at left as they inspect the new course.

PARTY TIME—During a birthday party on the beach near Ashkelon, Israel, two energetic guests staged this impromptu dance. More than 400 guests from all over Israel attended the affair, and many participated in activities like this.

MONKEYING AROUND—Waving goodbye—with his wife—a hairy traveler prepares to board an airliner at the Tokyo Airport. The gorilla is really Scotty De La Roche, who was returning with his wife Diane to the U.S. after an engagement in Japan. They do a "beauty and the beast" act.

Experiment In Jazz Is Due Sunday On Television

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Dec 5 (UP) — This Sunday Le Jazz Hot meets up with Le Television cold. TV, a medium that has turned a fairly frigid shoulder to jazz in the past, will provide a one-hour showcase for such diverse practitioners of the craft as Billie Holiday, Count Basie, Gerry Mulligan, Red Allen, Jimmy Giuffre, Coleman Hawkins and Lester Young.

Viewers In Act
"Instead, we want to give viewers the feeling that they're sitting right inside the group — right between Count Basie and Coleman Hawkins."

LITTLE LIZ

Anyone can do more than he thinks he can, but that's usually less than he thinks he does.

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Two names on his passport, two marriages to his wife under his legal and professional name and just plain legal confusion was too much for Left Erickson. The 46-year-old actor, declaring that the name was the thing, appeared in court Tuesday to have his legal name of Wycliffe Anderson changed to Erickson.

Life Used To Be Beautiful... Poor Rich Mr. Getty

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
LONDON (NEA) — For Jean Paul Getty, the 64-year-old American oilman who has holed up at the Ritz in London, life was beautiful until a few days ago.

JEAN PAUL GETTY: "Not even a cup of tea..."

That was before Fortune magazine named him as America's richest man, heading a list of 76 Americans with fortunes of $75,000,000 or over.

Floor rich Mr. Getty. Now his life is a plush-lined, air-conditioned hell.

Until a few days ago Getty could slip in and out of his Ritz suite and could browse unrecognized in the rare book shops along St. James' Street.

But he was then a mere multimillionaire whose fortune was as liquid as the oil upon which it was based, floating happily without fixed markers.

All that the world knew about Getty then was that he owned a chunk of Saudi Arabia and paid King Saud some $15,000 a day for the privilege of pumping black gold from the ground.

That and his wives, for Getty has been married five times and divorced just as many.

But now, in fixing the limits of his wealth at between 700 million and a billion dollars, Fortune has made Getty a world figure.

And these things have happened to Getty in rapid succession:

He has been besieged by press photographers, art dealers, earnest supporters of worthy causes and plain con-men.

He has been swamped with over 700 letters from individuals and organizations, all begging for money.

He has contracted Asian flu and recovered from it.

His name has been linked with at least a half-dozen love-lies — widows, divorcees, unmarried clothes models, all of them eligible as Wife No. 6.

His suite at the Ritz, which was good enough for the late Aga Khan and the Maharaja of Indore, has now become untenable, resembling more the men's cloakroom at Victoria Station than a cozy little hideaway.

Getty hardly dares to set foot outside the door for fear of being mobbed.

And now, to cap it all, the fifth Mrs. Getty is "telling all" in the columns of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express. "Anything he wanted to do he did," she says. "Success," ballyhoos the Express.)

And in Fleet Street, where American billionaires don't bob up every day in the week, it was like the good old times. At any moment the champagne corks would start popping — or so it seemed, as the British press went trooping to the Ritz to interview Getty.

But it wasn't that way at all. Instead of a "Good Time Charlie," the British reporters found a quiet American, aged 64, whose reddish hair is hardly touched with gray. Getty has blue eyes, a long, fleshy nose, and an air of ineffable boredom.

He dresses simply (he is proud that this overcoat is 15 years old), wears no diamond stickpins, nor rings. He neither smokes nor gambles, and he can't bear the taste of champagne. ("He didn't even offer us a cup of tea," one woman reporter complained.)

Where does Getty's money come from? Mostly from oil. Getty is head of the Tidewater Oil holdings in America, owns about half of the oil fields in the neutral zone between Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, with a peak production of 80,000 barrels a day.

But Getty is not in the usual "wild cat" tradition of Texas oilmen. He was born rich. His father, George Franklin Getty, was a lawyer who parlayed an initial $5,000 investment in oil into a 15 million dollar estate.

And Jean Paul Getty seems to have inherited both his father's luck and good judgment. ("I've never made a bad investment," he likes to boast.) Having dug a dry hole on his first try, young Getty had made $250,000 as an oilman by the time he was 23.

Getty's big chance came during the depression years when he bought up Pacific Western Oil, merging it with his father's interest to form the Getty Oil Company. Today this takes in about 80 subsidiaries, including Tidewater Oil and Skelly Oil.

Today, although he divides his time between Paris and Teheran, Getty owns what he calls a "fantasy style home" in 45 acres of Santa Monica, California. One wing of the mansion houses a priceless collection of tapestries, furniture, sculpture and paintings (he carries photographs of his best paintings with him so that he won't miss them.)

Until a few years ago he owned a 260-foot yacht fitted out with 10 staterooms and manned by a crew of 45. "I sold it because I found myself getting into the shipping business," he explains.

"Paul is the world's most erudite millionaire," says Mark Goulden, the London publisher, who is a close friend of Getty. "He was educated at Oxford, speaks five languages, is a geologist, mineralogist, a connoisseur of painting."

Charities? If Getty admits that he gives money to charity, he will have assorted spongers around his neck.

Hobbies? Dare he confess that he collects 18th century French furniture and he will have every antique dealer in London on his doorstep. London abounds in Louis XIV chairs when an American billionaire is in town.

Why is he in London? If Getty tells the truth — to buy rare books — he will have offers of everything from the first edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to incunabula in priceless Grolier bindings.

Does he want to marry again? If he says "Yes," a band of eligible women, ages 18 to 80, will fight to get past the doorman at the Ritz.

(To forestall this, Getty has already described himself as a "very poor marriage prospect," adding that "five times married is enough for a lifetime.")

Quotes In The News

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on the possibility of a grand Free World alliance composed of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, the Baghdad Pact and the Organization of American States: "I doubt that such an alliance is in the immediate future."

ST. LOUIS (The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., on the American Negroes will to win their struggle for equal rights: "We must say to our white brothers over the South that we will match your capacity to inflict suffering with our capacity to endure suffering."

For this Sunday's session, Herdridge, who launched CBS-TV experimental "Camera Three" back in 1953, will sweep his set clear of props.

"We're going to give these guys a bare stage," he explained.

"There'll be nothing to detract from the music. In place of a narrator, we're planning to use tape recordings we made with some of the musicians in which they talk about jazz and how they came to it. We'll work mostly with the blues, which we all feel is a root form of jazz."

Herdridge agrees that his chief problem will be the meshing of jazz, an art that works through the ear, with TV, a medium that works primarily through the eye.

"I've been to jazz concerts myself and I know how deadly they can become after you've watched for an hour or so," said Herdridge. "But we're going to use our cameras to get away from that feeling of sitting in the 20th row."

Harvesters At Home Tomorrow To Meet Elk City For First Home Encounter Of Season

After two games on the road, the Pampa Harvesters stage their first home game of the season tomorrow night as they clash with Elk City, Okla., in Harvesters Field House at 8 p.m.

The Pampa basketballers opened in Childress last Saturday night, and played their second tilt last Tuesday in Phillips. The Bobcat encounter ended in a controversy as to the winner due to a late field goal by a Childress team member, and resulted in an amount of confusion between the time keeper's and the referees' decision.

Rolling into the second season's game, the Harvesters emerged with a considerably decisive victory as they downed the Black-hawks, 78-47. Leading after the first two games played is guard Ray Stephenson, who has accounted for a total of 30 points. Stephenson has been hampered in the past few days by an injured ankle, but will be ready for action tomorrow night.

Running second in the scoring bracket is Coyle Winborn, who has racked 28 points in the two games, and in the third spot is Bill Brown with 22 points, followed by Mack Layne with 20 points.

One loss has come about recently in the Harvesters squad as Darryl Ammons is undergoing examination for an illness that may prohibit his playing for the season. Ammons, a senior, had squad experience last year. He stands 5'11" at 165 pounds.

Following tomorrow night's game, the Harvesters will go on the road again as they meet Vernon Saturday night, and then return to Pampa Dec. 10, to meet Vernon and remain at home for two more games as they host Hobbs, N.M. Dec. 13 and 14.

Team members and scoring for the first two games are as follows:

| Player         | FG | FT | Tot |
|----------------|----|----|-----|
| Coyle Winborn  | 10 | 6  | 26  |
| Bobby Gindorf  | 2  | 2  | 6   |
| Mack Layne     | 10 | 0  | 20  |
| Bill Brown     | 7  | 8  | 22  |
| Ray Stephenson | 13 | 4  | 30  |
| Larry Cruise   | 2  | 0  | 4   |
| Charles Minor  | 3  | 0  | 6   |

Minors May Change Ways Of Drafting

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—The minor league vote today on the possibility of changing the entire drafting and bonus structure of organized baseball, following two days of heated debate.

The big item is commissioner Ford Frick's proposal for an unrestricted draft that would allow the top clubs to draft a whole team, if they desired. Frick believes this would help the advancement of the players and at the same time take some of the "heat" off proposed anti-trust legislation.

The best guess is that the baseball men will stick with their present set-up on the Frick proposal, but may abandon the controversial bonus plan that has been under fire for years. The Pacific Coast League is leading the battle against Frick's idea.

As the 56th annual convention neared the end of its sessions, it appeared that 27 leagues would operate in 1958 with about 190 cities competing in United States, Mexico and Canada. There were 28 leagues in 1957 and the lone casualty was the Class C Evangeline loop in Louisiana.

AF Team To Box In Pampa Saturday

Top Panhandle Boxers To Oppose Air Force Ringmen

Pampa boxing fans will have an opportunity to view some of the finest fighters in the state Saturday night as the Optimist Club team hosts Dyess Air Force Base in Recreation Park's Bull Barn at 8.

Bringing a group of top service ringmen, the Air Force Base crew will furnish matches for outstanding Pampa and Panhandle fighters.

The service team has been working under one of the top men in the business, having as its coach Walter Gray, whose full time duties are with the boxing unit. Gray was four years the light-heavyweight professional champion of Oklahoma during the 30's.

All the popular names around Pampa and the area will be competing, including Bobby and Gary Wilhelm, Charles and James Snyder, Jesse Ring, Gary Wills, Jim Murray and Charles Coffee.

At 158 pounds, Manuel Flores is slated to meet Bobby Wilhelm, and John Richardson is slated for Gary.

Charles Snyder will be matched with Jesse Nurse in the 150-pound bracket, and Jesse Ring will battle David Harris at 155 pounds.

From Floydada will come John Fred Brown and Grant Cooper to take part in the matches and from Borger will be Scooter Darden.

All battles on tap will be with open division fighters, ranging in weight from 125 pounds up.

Two Of Top Basketball Teams Begin Season With No Defeats

By FRANK LITSKY
United Press Sports Writer
Kansas and Kentucky, two of the top five teams in college basketball, breathed a bit easier today with 2-0 records, two more days of rest and thanks for their tall boys.

Kansas, ranked second to North Carolina nationally in the pre-season ratings of the United Press Board of Coaches, had its troubles before seven-foot Will (The Still) Chamberlain led a second-half rally Wednesday night for a 66-46 victory over Canisius.

Fifth-ranked Kentucky, outscored from the floor, paralyzed backboard control and accurate free throw shooting into a 61-54 come-from-behind triumph over 11th-ranked Ohio State.

White Sox Ready For More Swapping

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—"We've got two more deals cooking," claim the suddenly active Chicago White Sox, who now are trying to get back some of the batting power they gave up to produce "the best pitching staff in the American League."

Within the past two days, the White Sox have added pitchers Early Wynn and Ray Moore to their staff in separate deals with Cleveland and Baltimore.

Brown Blasts Joey Lopes

By ED SANDSBURY
United Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (UP)—Watchful waiting proved the payoff for Lightweight champion Joe Brown when he scored his third knockout in as many defenses of the 136-pound world championship.

He put full power into no more than four punches against challenger Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif., but three of them produced knockdowns and the fourth set up the pretender for a finishing blow, prevented when referee Joe White stepped between the batters to give Brown an 11th round TKO triumph Wednesday night.

Brown, 31, was a 3-to-1 favorite to retain his championship, won Aug. 24, 1956, from Wallace (Bud) Smith, when he stepped into the ring against Lopes.

Cousy Stars As Celtics Win

By UNITED PRESS
Boston Celtics Coach Red Auerbach once said "half a Bob Cousy is better than some players in the National Basketball Association," and that statement never was any truer than today.

Cousy, hampered by a thigh injury and limited to spot performances in recent games, came off the bench in the waning minutes Wednesday night and scored nine points to lead the Celtics to a 108-98 win over the Minneapolis Lakers.

The victory brought Brown $15,840, of which $12,000 was from television. Lopes collected $9,920. It was Brown's 29th knockout in 82 pro fights, of which he has won 67. It was the 14th loss for Lopes in 58 battles.

One of his projected deals is with Washington, presumably for second baseman Pete Runnels, and the other is the one he still has hopes for with the Yanks. The Yankees want Ray Narleski and Lane would like either Don (Perfect) Gamez or Johnny Kucks along with Richardson.

Karras Named UP Lineman Of The Year

NEW YORK (UP)—Alex Karras, Iowa's hard-crashing tackle who reduced his way to stardom, was named today by the United Press as college football's "Lineman of the Year" for 1957.

The 220-pound steel-tough fellow from the steel city of Gary, Ind., was an overwhelming choice of sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation who took part in the voting. Karras received 86 votes to 27 for runner-up Bill Kriehar of Oklahoma.

For Karras, who has been picked in the National Football League player draft by the Detroit Lions and also has an offer from Winnipeg in Canadian pro football, the honor caps a brilliant career that really got rolling when he took off weight.

Here are examples of Karras' outstanding defensive plays: Against Northwestern, he jarred loose another fumble that Iowa recovered and set up the only score in a 6-0 game.

Against Washington State, one of his best games he opened holes for two touchdown thrusts and crashed through to steal the ball from Bob Newman and set up the winning score in a 20-14 game.

End Jimmy Phillips of Auburn had 25 votes in the balloting to press Kriehar for second place.

Total Football Attendance Increases In 1957 Season

By FRED DROWN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—The greatest upsurge of college football interest was registered in the East and the average attendance at games throughout the nation increased slightly in 1957.

Michigan and Ohio State were the leading schools. The total attendance at all games declined 0.16 per cent from 13,953,238 in 1956 to 13,931,295 this year.

Sectional highlights of the survey included: East—Average up from 16,203 to 17,415 for total of 2,229,059. Big gainers: Army (more games, plus Notre Dame and Navy as "home" games in Philadelphia) and Princeton's Ivy League champs. Big losers: Navy (wasn't Army game host), Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Yale.

Those were among the findings today of a United Press survey on how football fared during the season just finished at 121 colleges in every section of the country. The Midwest, as usual, had the greatest total attendance and

On the "true" measure of average attendance per game, the figures showed an increase of .007 per cent—from 23,853 last year to 24,019 this year. Five more games at the same average would have boosted the total for 1957 to 14,051,390.

South—Average up from 21,822 to 22,272. Big gainers: Perfect Auburn, Louisiana State, Big Losers (due to less games)—Florida, Miami, Georgia.

Armed Forces All-Stars

WASHINGTON (UP)—The unofficial service newspapers—Army Times, Air Force Times and Navy Times—announced their All-Star service football teams today.

Breaking the nation into seven geographical sections, the survey finds three areas with an increase and four with a decrease. The three "up" areas were enough to put the national average on the plus side.

Midwest—Average down from 25,328 to 23,017. Big gainer: Oklahoma (one more game). Big loser: Tulsa, off 43,000 in the same number of games.

The papers awarded "Most Valuable Player" honors to three back-quarterback Houston, Paton of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., former Mississippi star; Forrest James, Ft. Belvoir, Va., halfback who once played for Auburn, and ex-Vanderbilt halfback Charlie Horton of Little Creek Navy.

The East showed the greatest increase, 6.64 per cent, while the Pacific coast was up 3.23 per cent and the South 2.06 per cent. On the minus side, the Midwest was off 3.26 per cent, the Southwest 4.50 per cent, and the Midlands off 6.85 per cent.

Southwest—Average down from 33,708 to 32,192. Big gainer: champion Rice, up 35,000. Big loser: SMU off 100,000 in same number of games.

The All-Star teams by services: AIR FORCE Ends — Dan Shannon, Boiling AFB, D. C. (Notre Dame); Dick Murray, Wiesbaden AB, Germany, (Baylor).

But the Midwest again chalked up the greatest total, 3-427,399 fans with the South closest at 3,385,367. Michigan was the pace-setter with 84,105 fans for each of six home games and Ohio State was next with 80,686.

Rockies — Average down from 11,839 to 11,584. Big gainer: Utah (one more game). Big loser (but still leader): Colorado, off 23,000.

NO ASSIST—Jackie Mayes of Preston butted the ball with his head into the Sunderland goal before a tremendous crowd at London's Roker Park. But the referee ordered a free kick for Sunderland because Mayes jumped on the shoulders of that club's Willie Hedley in making daring play

Warriors Hard Hit By Siege Of Early Season Injuries

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Eddie Gottlieb, president and general manager of the Philadelphia Warriors, said, "I've been connected with professional basketball for 35 years, and I've never seen such a wave of early season injuries."

Coach Bob Wanzer of the Cincinnati Royals agreed with Gottlieb. "I've a hunch it may be caused by the stepped-up running game this season," Wanzer said. "I've really been surprised by the increased running of all the clubs when they play against us. Whether they do the same against others I don't know, but I suppose they do."

skinny because he stretches up 6-8. His upper left jaw was crushed in and fractured in three places. A quick operation pulled the bones into place.

He made that comment while praising the game of Neil Johnston, the Warriors' center, who suffered a broken jaw in a game with New York last Saturday and returned to the court against Syracuse Tuesday night, without missing a contest.

How did Johnston get his fractured jaw? "I got it from a stray elbow," said brown-haired Neil, who weighs 225 pounds but appears

"No, they didn't have to wire the bones in place," said the pride of Broomall, Pa. "But we had a half-mask of aluminum made in a hurry so I could wear it and continue to play." A strap under his chin and another around his forehead holds the half-mask in place over his left cheek and jaw during the game. He said the fracture didn't pain him on the court.

"I don't know what's responsible for all the injuries," Gottlieb admitted. "Anything I'd say would be only a guess. But I never saw anything like it."

Comedienne Joan Davis Is Making Television Comeback

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Comedienne Joan Davis is tackling the most difficult task in show business—a television comeback.

Rubber-faced Joan has signed to star in a new weekly series as the first woman to train and condition for a flight to the moon. Reaching the moon may prove easier than negotiating the rocky comeback trail.

"Space travel and Sputniks are in the news, and our show (NBC) should appeal to all groups and sexes. Throughout the series I'll be accompanied by psychologists, anthropologists and the like, who record my reactions to different and challenging situations."

Joan, whose slender figure belies her grandmotherhood, is far prettier off screen than on. When she's not making jokes the gal looks more like a leading lady than a laugh provoker.

There are about 2,500 state, district and county fairs held annually in the United States. The biggest state fair is that of Minnesota, held at the northern edge of St. Paul. Every year about 600,000 people attend the Minnesota State Fair. Fairs date from very early times, when caravan trains from the East set up shop in convenient centers to sell their merchandise.

Man Can, Too, Make A Tree!

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—The Yuletide season shows that man can, too, make a tree.

He's producing trees by the millions in the form of Christmas decorations for home, office, store, bank and beauty shop.

The man-made ones are comparative newcomers to the Christmas tree tradition, which began in 1737 in Germany.

But Williams called the artificial tree market still just a small branch of overall sales; "no more than 3 per cent of all trees sold are artificial," he said.

Applauds Wage Increase Halt

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (UP)—Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League, today issued a statement praising a proposed moratorium on wage increases in 1958 for the building trades union.

Strunk called the suggestion of Richard J. Gray, head of the AFL-CIO building trades department, "constructive and in the public interest."

One woman came into the department, spotted the tree, and said she wanted it just as it was, bulbs and all," said a store official. "Her total bill was close to $275."

My own favorite tree isn't around this year. It was a small, ermine covered one with diamond and emerald jewelry draped around it, like popcorn strings.

Goldwater's World

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona tossed out some provocative ideas recently. He was talking about labor unions, and you could infer from his talk that he thinks compulsion is as bad, and perhaps worse than corruption in unions.

He was talking to 1,500 people at the First Congregational Church Freedom Club in Los Angeles. His subject was the right-to-work laws. Goldwater said the primary evil in labor unions is compulsion.

The Arizona senator implied that while corruption is bad enough, compulsion is worse. Why? Most people are against corruption. But most people are not against compulsion.

They're against raw violence. But most people believe that when the compulsion is imposed by a group, a collective, or majority, then it's okay.

And most people believe the solution for corruption in labor unions is to throw the rascals out, and put in honest men.

But, said Sen. Goldwater, "it's compulsion that really does the harm." Men are forced to join unions, employers are forced to deal with unions whose leaders use compulsion on the men they claim to represent.

Sen. Goldwater is in favor of the right to work. But he does not seem to be in favor of any law on this subject which would use compulsion on voluntary agreements.

The senator from Arizona is now working on a number of Senate labor committees and is in a good position to know the subject thoroughly. He favors a law which would forbid compulsion.

Instead of a federal right-to-work law, he is pushing an amendment to the Taft-Hartley Law which would outlaw compulsory unionism.

He predicted however, that his amendment would not pass, at least, not in the next Congress.

Compulsory unionism, he said, is a moral issue, more than an economic issue. People must decide if they approve of compulsion morally—whether or not the compulsion appears to give them temporary economic advantage.

Although Goldwater knows it's important to remove corruption (he's a member of the subcommittee investigating corruption in the Teamster's Union) he stressed that it's equally if not more important to remove compulsion from the union picture.

Sen. Goldwater also attacked the way unions buy political parties.

"Unions should not be allowed to support candidates or political philosophies," he said. "And the same goes for corporations. Walter Reuther, president, United Auto Workers, CIO, can spend more on a political campaign than can both parties. Reuther has at his disposal at least $30 million that he can use to win a political campaign if he wants to."

Of course, if compulsion were outlawed Reuther wouldn't have that money in the first place. So no law would be considered necessary to prevent him from engaging in political campaigns if compulsion were eliminated.

Union Tribute

Signing of a "modified union shop" agreement by the Santa Fe Railroad marks another step away from freedom for the American working man.

Santa Fe is the last of the major railroads to bow before the force of union officials and agree to a semblance of compulsory union membership as condition of employment.

With the threat of a strike hanging over it, the railroad capitulated after holding fast in effort to prevent forcing employees against their will to join unions.

The agreement reached this week with the non-operating unions provides that employees opposing membership will not be required to join but that they will be forced to pay dues, fees and assessments. In other words, they will be forced to support any sort of political activity in which the union may engage, but will not necessarily have any voice in deciding what issues are to be promoted politically by the union officials.

The principal objection to a union-shop contract was that unwilling employees would be required to join and support an organization and its political moves regardless of his own choice. The only gain is by the few who for religious or other reasons are opposed to actual membership in a labor union.

Officials of the Santa Fe deserve commendation for holding out as long as they could against this compulsion.

The requirement that workers pay tribute to the union for the privilege of working is remarkably similar to our public school laws. People who are not in favor of sending their youngsters to the politically controlled schools still are not required to send them there. But they must pay taxes to support them, even though they provide private schooling for the youngsters.

A nation which can condone this injustice to its citizens can hardly be expected to be upset over the fact that a few workers for a railroad must pay tribute to a union official for the privilege of keeping their jobs.

Europeans Beginning To Show Interest In Nixon

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Although Vice President Richard M. Nixon is a virtual unknown to the people and statesmen of Europe, they now show great interest in him as a result of President Eisenhower's ill health. Many foreign newspapers suggest that the President resign immediately.

Like most political observers in this country, European writers expect Nixon to be the Republicans' Presidential nominee in 1960. Since the President of the United States exerts a tremendous influence on their affairs, including their hope of survival in a war, they naturally want to know Nixon's viewpoint and philosophy.

Foreign newspapers have begun to publish long biographies of the Vice President since Eisenhower suffered his "mild stroke." Foreign correspondents at Washington have jammed the press conferences which Nixon has held in recent days. They have buttonholed their American colleagues for information on him, especially California correspondents who know him well from daily coverage since he first appeared in the House.

EDITORIALS FAVORABLE — With only a few exceptions, most of the overseas editorial comment has been favorable to Nixon. They appreciated especially his prompt recognition that Russia's technological gains were a serious threat to the Western World, and not a mere "bubble" or "scientific stunt." They sense that a war might break on the time of the next President of the United States.

The exceptions occur in ultraliberal newspapers, which recall the Vice President only as "the man who tracked down Alger Hiss."

BRITISH NEWSPAPER ON V.P. — The adverse Nixon comment in British newspapers resembles the criticism voiced by many American Democrats.

"He seems to have become a pretty good administrator. He is a clever fellow who learns fast. He is an ambitious person." Here is the editorial reaction of the London Daily Mirror, which has one of the largest circulations of world newspapers—4,849,698. This paper caters to the populace and is extremely influential for that reason. It says:

"No one can tell yet how Nixon will shape up in the job. Too slick? Too much of a salesman? Too inexperienced in world politics? Maybe."

"But Nixon has one supreme advantage. He is only 44. Young enough to learn. Tough enough to stand the strain of the most exhausting job in the world. The pace in 1957 is too hot for the Old 'uns."

"BUDDING STATESMAN" — The staid London Times, which generally reflects the viewpoint of government, banking and business interests, says in a noncommittal vein:

"Mr. Nixon is now bound to come into the international limelight. His political rise in the United States was in conditions far from any international awareness, and in his first years in office he was still immersed in domestic politics."

"A tour of the Far East in 1953 gave him a broader view, though most of his travel was in the area of greatest American dominance. But his recent tour of Africa demanded a different approach."

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

A cataract is a disorder of the eye which I have discussed many times in the past. The exact cause is not known, but cataracts become increasingly frequent as one gets older. Since our life expectancy is so much longer than it used to be it is therefore not surprising that more and more people are faced with the problem of this affliction.

What symptoms are noticed from a cataract depend partly on the location of the cloudiness in the lens of the eye. If this cloudiness lies near the center of the lens it produces blurring of vision. Just as when the lens of a camera is blurred, the picture taken by it will be fuzzy.

Sometimes, however, a person with a beginning cataract will complain of dazzling lights, colored rings or floating shadows before the eye.

IT IS POSSIBLE for cataracts to develop in both eyes, at the same time, but more often a cataract begins first in one eye and later in the other. Sometimes the other never becomes involved.

The degree of interference with vision depends almost entirely on what part of the lens is affected and the degree of its cloudiness. Furthermore, one person who has a cataract may have only a little trouble for a long time and in another it may get worse rapidly. This is because the speed of the clouding of the lens differs from person to person.

GENERALLY, an early or beginning cataract is spoken of as "incipient." When it becomes full grown and is not progressing it is considered mature or "ripe."

At the proper time the preferred treatment for cataract is an operation. Results are usually good. Formerly, it was necessary to wait until a cataract was mature, or ripe, before it could be removed and full vision restored. Now surgical methods are available which often permit removal of a lens with a cataract on it at any stage. This represents a tremendous advance as it often saves many years of poor vision.

UNFORTUNATELY, as yet

Famous French Restaurant Serves 'Terrific' Food

By HENRY McLEMORE

VIENNE — The first "outside" meal I ever had was when I was seven or eight and Papa took us all to dinner at the Busy Bee Cafe (Tables For Families) in Cordele, Georgia.

The last "outside" meal I had was today here in Vienne in southern France at De La Pyramide restaurant.

A man's stomach can make no longer journey. Gastronomically speaking, it is a distance of more than 50,000,000 miles. The cuisine at the Busy Bee is sub-Southern, and that of De La Pyramide is recognized by gourmets as the finest in the world.

We drove out-of-the-way to eat here, and to be able to say we had eaten here. If a side trip of 100 or so miles can be made to gaze at a ruin or a stained-glass window, then there can be nothing foolish in detouring for half a day to give your stomach the thrill that comes once in a lifetime.

Frankly, I was afraid I'd be disappointed. No food could possibly be as good as that described by connoisseurs who had dined there. Joseph Weisberg in particular. His prose rhapsodies on De La Pyramide's kitchen have watered my mouth from Australia to Goose Bay.

Also, I wondered if, with my gastronomic background, I would be anywhere near capable of appreciating such food. I was nurtured on hominy grits, fried-to-death pork chops, hot biscuits and cane syrup, hopping john, rump roast and sweet potatoes.

I'm not knocking that type of fare, mind you. I could do with a helping of it right now, but I can't do with the most sensitive in the taste buds.

Let me put you at rest: Madame Point, who has carried on since her husband's death, served us a meal that makes me wonder if full tribute has ever been paid to this culinary Taj Mahal. I have eaten in celebrated restaurants in many parts of the world, but De La Pyramide's food makes other food taste like something Junior takes to school in his lunch box.

I wish I knew enough about food to tell you all about what we had, but I don't. On the other hand, maybe it's for the best. It would only make you unhappy with what you're eating right now, or are going to have tonight for dinner.

The fish we had should be hung in a place of honor in the Louvre, with ten guards standing by to prevent art-lovers from eating it. The beef was prepared in a manner too good for any cow. And as for the dessert — well, I am prepared to swear that I swallowed a small cherub with every mouthful.

I mustn't forget the soup either. Two spoonfuls and my tongue popped out of my mouth and, for the first time in its life, yelled "Hurrah!" of its own accord.

Honestly, I never tasted food like it. It's worth driving a thousand miles out-of-the-way to enjoy it, even if you're driving a team of second-hand mules.

TEACHING QUALITY AND THE PH. D.

(Chicago Tribune)

More and more holders of the Ph. D. (doctor of philosophy) degree are going into business and industry, rather than into academic life. This fact is deplored by the National Education Association, which fears "lower standards" and "a lower quality of teaching performance" on many campuses.

What is this Ph. D. degree which college administrators and accrediting agencies take so seriously? A four man committee on policies in graduate education, reporting to the Association of Graduate Schools, recently gave a disenchanted answer.

According to the deans of graduate schools at Duke, Columbia, Toronto, and Harvard, Ph. D. programs are frequently "inefficiently and traumatically disagreeable to the bewildered and frustrated candidate." A fresh Ph. D., they say, is likely to be "a sort of expert plumber in the card catalog."

What a man who, as both teacher and scholar, has an "inhibiting heritage" he will find it difficult or impossible to "throw off." He may even be "less mature, less self-poised, and less confident ... than he was as an inspired college senior."

The Ph. D. is a research degree. It is not necessarily philosophical, being given in every discipline from anatomy to zoology, including poultry husbandry. The culminating doctoral dissertation is by definition a "contribution to knowledge." All too often that means an exhaustive study of some topic previously untouched because it is so trivial.

College administrators have for decades used the Ph. D. as a means of automatic selection and elimination. The Ph. D. is like a union card, possession of which makes one eligible for closed shop academic positions. There have been two standard bases for choosing among holders of doctoral degrees — the relative prestige of the schools granting the degrees, and the number of scholarly monographs published. The possibility of rating faculty members on the basis of their teaching performance has been cynically denied, and seldom seriously attempted.

When spokesmen for things as they are in education worry publicly about "lower standards," they may mean only that they fear the passing of a system that has already lasted far too long. It is time to shatter the myth that every college teacher must have a Ph. D., and that every superintendent of schools must have a doctorate in "education" — a less exacting and even less rewarding obstacle course than the Ph. D.

And it certainly is time to act on the advice of the deans quoted above, and "define," "tighten," and "rehabilitate" the advanced degrees.

If college deans and chairmen should be driven to appointing and promoting faculty members on criteria other than doctoral degrees and bibliographies, the honorable and useful function of teaching might gain new honor on the campuses. If that should happen, the proportion of Ph. D.'s on faculties could decline and the quality of teaching performance rise at the same time.

The more you see of Ike's oil paintings, the more you realize how much time he must devote to golf.

Baptist Loan Agency Gift To Convention

DALLAS (UP)—The Church Loan Corp. of the Baptist General Convention of Texas will be given as a gift to the Southern Baptist Convention.

The executive board of the BGCT voted for the transfer resolution this week with the provision that the SBC must continue to operate it "in keeping with the original plans for the organization."

The corporation has lent nearly two million dollars since it was created in 1952 to help struggling Baptist churches in 16 states in the north and northwest sections of the United States. The loans went to 120 churches.

A survey into every phase of Texas Baptist work was authorized by the executive board. A Chicago consultant firm will make the survey.

More than $1,500,000 also was appropriated in state mission funds to BGCT agencies and departments and a $1,500,000 fund-raising campaign for Hardin-Simmons University was approved.

Dr. Carl Bates, Amarillo pastor, was named chairman of the 191-member executive board. Dr. L. L. Morris of Midland was named vice chairman and Dr. R. A. Springer, BGCT treasurer, was named secretary.

Dr. Foy Valentine of Dallas told the executive board that Texas prison officials have declined to stop presenting the annual Huntsville Rodeo on Sundays.

The annual BGCT in Corpus Christi approved a resolution last year asking that the Sunday rodeos be stopped.

Hardin-Simmons University, of Abilene, was given a go ahead on a $1,800,000 campaign to finance a chapel-auditorium-student union building to replace one destroyed by fire Nov. 25.

Hendrick Hospital, Abilene, also a Baptist property, was given permission to borrow $350,000 from the Housing and Home Finance Agency to build a dormitory for nurses.

Salaries of the Dallas administrative staff were raised from $300 to $1,000 per year. The largest raise went to Dr. Forrest C. Feazor, executive secretary, whose salary was boosted to $13,500.

Woman Going Blind Heads Group Combatting Blindness

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Mildred Weisenfeld is a woman going blind and knows it. . . has lived with this knowledge since she was 15.

But instead of sitting back feeling sorry for herself and the trick mother nature played on her, she is working to prevent others from entering a life of darkness.

"We spend 150 million dollars a year on the care and aid for the blind," she said. "No one begrudges that, certainly. But medical science generally is agreed that 70 per cent of blindness could be prevented."

Organizes Blindness Fight
This is where Miss Weisenfeld's project comes in. She organized and is director of the National Council to Combat Blindness. Its one purpose: to raise money for research in prevention of sight loss.

Her "fight for sight" began in 1946 and now has leagues in all five New York boroughs, in Westchester County, N. Y., in New Jersey, Philadelphia and Miami.

Mildred Weisenfeld, now 34, was a girl growing up in Brooklyn when doctors discovered she was suffering from a progressive degeneration of the retina.

"They think it started after I had the measles," she said. "But I remember it coming to me sharply that something was wrong when one day I couldn't aim a snowball. Twelve years ago, the drastic changes began. . . it wasn't long until I couldn't get around by myself. Blindness took over."

Just Dark Blur
Miss Weisenfeld now has about two per cent vision. I was a "dark blur" to her, as we talked in her office.

"People say how well adjusted I am," she said. "That's so much rubbish. A blind person never gets over the deep frustration. . . and the more he broadens his horizons the more he misses sight."

"But we learn to live with it. . . just as others live with their problems."

A little more than a year ago, Mildred found romance through her organization and now is married to a Philadelphia executive, whose vision also is impaired.

Nobody Doing Research
"I started the council because I got angry," he said. "It just irked me that nobody was doing anything about eye research, yet 70 million persons in this country have eye troubles."

"One person becomes blind every 20 minutes. There are 314,000 who are totally blind."

Miss Weisenfeld and seven friends each put in $1, and the "fight for sight" was on. Since then, it has raised $500,000 for grants and fellowships in colleges or at hospitals, and has a scientific advisory committee made up of some of the leading eye specialists in the nation. Right now, the council is preparing for its "gest fund - raising push - a 'lights on' benefit Dec. 15, with all branches of show business participating."

"Acting like spiritual adolescents at a time of scientific maturity. . . The danger lies not in fantastic scientific achievements but in fantastic human reactions."

made. Frank is never complacent. He looked at his never stopper and his nice clubs. He also looked at his three spades to the king and decided that he had better put the spade finesse right up to South. Out came the eight of spades. Now South had to make a decision at trick one. He looked hard at Frank but after 30 years' experience I can assure you that he got no information there. Finally South went up with dummy's ace. After all, he only needed a break in hearts to bring home his contract and it seemed silly to risk it at trick one.

Up came the ace of spades and down went South.
