Salk Findings May Reveal Cancer Cure

NEW YORK (UP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk, in his search for a better polio vaccine, may have opened the way for the eventual victory of medical science over another dread killer—cancer.

Boys' Club Construction On Schedule

Progress on the Pampa Boys' Club building is moving along on schedule according to reports this morning. The work is now centered on the inside wiring and plumbing which is being done by a local plumbers union and an electrician's group.

Cement is being poured today for curbing and sidewalks around the parking lot which is designed to accommodate some 300 to 300 cars upon completion, with parking space outside the lot also available.

The club will house facilities for sports and other activities for the approximately 500 boys active in the program during the year, including the Little League group and the 80 boxers who are now active.

Accommodations for T.V. and reading will be available along with an athletic room which will provide space for boxing, work out and bouts, basketball and other indoor sports. A concession stand has been built inside the building and plans are being made to install portable seats, which will seat boxing and basketball fans.

The work is being done by members of the Optimist Club with funds coming in from the "800" Club and programs such as the Christmas tree sales and other events including donations by citizens. Work on the building is expected to be complete in the near future.

Landscaping of the area will begin in the spring with work being done by a local garden club.

To Prepare Message For Congress

Ike Heads For Week Of Work In Solitude

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower packs a heavy brief case and heads for the solitude of his Gettysburg farm today for a week of rest and work on his State of the Union and budget messages to Congress.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower were scheduled to leave by automobile early in the afternoon for their farm where they probably will remain until Jan. 2.

Tax Exemption For College Parents Urged

WASHINGTON (UP)—A key House Republican today proposed a special tax exemption for parents of college students. He offered this as an alternative to federal scholarships, as proposed by President Eisenhower.

"It would cost less and do more good," Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) told a reporter. Halleck is a House leader with close White House connections and normally is a staunch administration supporter.

House Democratic whip Carl Albert (Okla.), in a separate interview, rejected the Halleck proposal as an answer to the critical need for more scientists but said it might have merit on other grounds.

Albert endorsed the scholarship plan. Albert said Halleck's plan would help most those families who can and will send their youngsters to college without federal aid. He said families most in need aren't paying enough federal taxes to get much benefit. Only in a "very, very few" cases, Albert added, would a special tax exemption make a difference between going to college and staying home.

The contrasting views of the two House leaders pointed up growing indications the President's plan for scholarships and other federal aids for scientific study faces sharp controversy in the House.

University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine led to his discovery of a simple technique to measure the ability of antibodies to kill test cells.

Salk disclosed the results of his latest experiments Thursday in an article in the Journal of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

He stressed the inconclusiveness of his studies and the need for further experimentation.

"It is apparent that considerable further study is required before any conclusions can be drawn," he said.

Salk chanced upon his most recent discovery while searching for a better tissue in which to culture polio virus used in the anti-polio Salk vaccine injections.

Cancer researchers have expressed interest in Salk's new technique which Salk claimed would be an aid in the investigation of "continuously propagating cell"—believed to be akin to cancerous growth.

Other recent animal tests have suggested that cancerous growths may carry within themselves the seeds of their own destruction.

Salk experimented on monkey heart cell tissues that had been maintained in artificial nutrient solutions in test tubes—tissue cultures. He found that the "continuously propagating" lines of monkey heart cells were different from fresh monkey heart cells.

Mrs. Lockhart Services Held

Funeral services for Mrs. E. M. Lockhart, long-time resident of this area, were to have been held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at Duengel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Mrs. Lockhart and her husband were ranching pioneers in Texas and Oklahoma in the late 1800's. In 1916 the couple bought a ranch north of Pampa. Mr. Lockhart died in 1925 and in 1929 Mrs. Lockhart sold the ranch and moved into Pampa, where she had lived since that time. Her address was 1137 N. Starkweather. At the time of her death, she was owner of a ranch near Higgins.

US To Confer Before Reply To Bulganin

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States, moving to back up agreements at the Paris conference, today planned long consultations with its allies before replying to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's "peace" proposals.

In a second step to carry out Paris decisions, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles scheduled a conference with 20 Latin American ambassadors today to seek closer ties between the Atlantic Pact and other regional defense groups.

At the recent Paris North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) "summit" meeting, the 15 member nations agreed to set up closer consulting methods to avoid policy differences and "clashes" such as the Suez Canal split.

These methods, to be followed in drafting the U.S. reply to Bulganin, will probably delay the reply to Moscow until mid-January. The reply, when sent, will likely reject Bulganin's proposal for an East-West heads-of-government conference to try to settle world ills.

The United States is now drafting its reply to Bulganin. When ready it will be sent to the permanent NATO Council in Paris for study and suggestions at its meeting early next month. This country's draft, and those of other nations that received similar Bulganin letters, then will be returned to their home governments for final drafting and transmission to the Kremlin.

Engineer Works On Paving

Preliminary work on the city paving program for 1958 is being undertaken by the engineer's office.

City officials requested this morning that property owners on unpaved streets, who desire paving next year, to contact the office of the city engineer. The request was made so that the city can determine the amount of paving desired under the 1958 program, according to John Koonitz, city manager.

He reported that by determining the amount of paving as soon as possible the paving work can begin early in the year and be completed before cold weather next fall.

Mrs. Buckler Rites Today

Funeral services for Mrs. C. P. Buckler, pioneer Gray County citizen, were held at 11 a. m. today in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Buckler died Christmas day. She had lived in Pampa since 1909.

Mrs. Buckler, born Sept. 30, 1883, helped pioneer many things in Gray County. One of her favorite projects was the old Pampa Library, forerunner of the present Lovett Memorial Library. She had served as president of the board of both.

She also had a leading part in Gray County and, along with her husband, had a leading part in the development of the area.

Sputnik Provides

Timetable To The Planets

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Russia's pioneer Sputnik has provided the first timetable to the planets. You take off today and you arrive on Mars the first day of spring. Sputnik I, ceaselessly circling the earth since Oct. 4, has clocked up a distance estimated today by British scientists as more than 35 million miles in 84 days. This is equal to the mileage the planets are at their closest. Russia itself made no estimate of distance in its latest report on the satellite which merely pointed out it was about to pass its 1,300th spin around the globe. More Miles
At ground level on the equator

the earth is 25,000 miles around. The satellite covers many more miles in its revolutions because its strongly elliptical orbit takes it several hundred miles away from the earth at its farthest point.

There seems to be no doubt, said selenographer (moon expert) Patrick Moore, that Sputnik I already has traveled farther than from earth to Mars.

There is a catch in the timetable. Moore says it would be "very wasteful of fuel" to try to go to Mars in a straight line. The celestial mechanics, the men who draw the road maps of the skies, recommend what they call the "transfer orbit," a route halfway around the sun.

SANTA VISITED DONALD

Charges Filed In Auto Firm Entry

Investigation work by officers of the local police department yesterday morning, of the Wednesday night burglary of the McClure Nash Co., 119 N. Ward, resulted in the apprehension of two local men at Perryton by noon yesterday.

Identification of one of the men, Woodrow Lee Robertson, was made by the officers after investigation revealed that he had attempted to cash a $42 check, made out on one of the checks taken in the burglary, at a local service station at 1 a. m. yesterday, according to Jim Conner, chief of police.

Robertson was apprehended by officers in Perryton after the local department determined that he was in the North Plains city. He was accompanied by Arthur Herndon Morris, also of Pampa, at the time of the arrest.

Questioning at Perryton revealed that a box of mechanic's tools taken in the burglary had been hidden under a culvert on a road north of Pampa. Officers began checking all the roads and the box of tools was found under a culvert on a dirt road north of Perry LeFors Field yesterday afternoon, Conner said.

Charges of burglary with the intent to commit theft were filed against the two men in District Court yesterday afternoon and they were returned to Pampa last night by Conner and Lt. Dennis Roan.

In a signed statement this morning, Robertson admitted entering the building, Conner stated. He said that Robertson admitted taking the tools and blank checks.

Late this morning, a statement was being taken from Morris but Conner said that in preliminary questioning Morris had stated that he did not enter the building.

Charges of burglary with the intent to commit theft were also filed in District Court yesterday afternoon against three local men in connection with the Dec. 21 burglary of the Coney Island Cafe, 114 W. Foster.

Charged with the burglary were: Orzo Frazier Jr., 513 Elm; Clyde Durham Jr., 615 Elm; and Edward Ronald Green, Pampa. Frazier and Green had been arrested (See CHARGES, Page 3)

United Fund Goal Short By $5,000

With the rapid approach of the end of 1957 the goal of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign is still approximately $5,000 short of the $60,000 needed to operate the agencies of the fund during 1958.

Reports from the United Fund office this morning showed that total subscriptions in the campaign totaled $55,227. Of this total, cash received at the office amounts to $46,169 with the remaining $9,058 in the form of pledges.

Persons who have not been contacted by United Fund workers are asked to bring their subscriptions to the United Fund office, located in the basement of City Hall, before the end of the year. Warren Hasse, drive chairman, said today.

Slayer Of Houston Youth Found Four Teen-Agers Admit Part In Fatal Shooting

HOUSTON (UP)—A teen-ager boy with a record of 15 arrests confessed to a "useless killing" today to clear up the mysterious murder of 15-year-old Jay Evans.

The confession came from Stewart Lumpkin, 17, one of four teen-agers who surrendered to police at 2:20 a. m. to clear up the fatal shooting that had police up against a clueless wall. Lumpkin was surrendered by his father, S. M. Lumpkin.

The other youths were identified by Homicide Capt. Harry Cole as Jimmy Price, 17, T. G. Lawson, 16, and David Lee Cave, 18. They admitted being with Lumpkin when Evans was shot down.

Cole said the boys cattered their remaining bullets near Rice Institute, dismantled the gun and threw the pieces into separate bays — then went to a double-feature movie.

Police said murder charges would be filed against Lumpkin, Price and Cave as being equally guilty, and that young Lawson would be referred to juvenile authorities.

Cole said all three of Lumpkin's companions had records as long as Lumpkin's.

Cave, a sailor home on Christmas leave, admitted he had a long arrest record and just completed a six-month sentence in a Navy stockade for cursing an officer.

Evans, described by his classmates as one of the most popular freshmen at Houston's Lamar High School, was a murdered Wednesday night, almost in gangland execution style, in front of his home in an exclusive suburban residential area.

"It was either just a bunch of punks out shooting for the hell of it, or was just one shot not aimed at anybody," Shipp, chief of police in West University Place said. "In any case, it was about the most useless killing we've ever had."

Sitting In Car
Jay was shot down in front of his home Christmas night. He was sitting in his car with three friends when a white automobile pulled up and stopped with lights on and engine running.

Jay walked to the back of the car, and his three friends, Tony Stokes Jr., Donald Leslie and Edwin Morris, all 15, heard what sounded like three shots. A door on the white car slammed and it roared away.

Parents, Won't Talk
The three boys found Jay lying half under the back of his car, a bullet in his head. He died an hour later without regaining consciousness.

Parents of the three boys refused to talk to newsmen later, saying they were afraid they might be murdered.

Hours later, ambulance driver Eddie Freeman surprised a teen-ager boy in a white shirt and blue jeans trying to get into the ambulance that took Jay to the hospital.

Decision Over-Rules District Judge's Order

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that the public schools of Dallas need not integrate in January, as a U. S. District Judge in Dallas had ordered.

The Dallas school board contended that U. S. District Judge William H. Atwell exceeded his authority when he ordered the public schools of Dallas integrated at mid-term.

The appellate court, which had held a hearing in Fort Worth in November, agreed with the school board.

It said in its decision today that the Dallas School Board is still under orders to end "racially discriminatory segregation with all deliberate speed."

But it said that did not mean mid-term. The appellate court did not set a deadline for integration.

The appellate court said in its nine-page opinion that the Negroes who brought the original integration suit had asked only that the schools be integrated with "all deliberate speed."

"Accordingly, this court (circuit court) fixed no date for desegregation more specific than from and after such time as may be necessary to make arrangements for admission of children to such schools on a racially non-discriminatory basis with all deliberate speed."

U. Simpson Tate, southwest regional attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

But at the same time, the Court of Appeals said that if the Dallas School Board stalls, then it is up to Judge Atwell to see that Dallas public schools are thrown open to Negroes.

"If the school authorities fail promptly to meet this primary responsibility to the satisfaction of the plaintiffs (Negroes) and others similarly situated, then the duty will devolve upon the district court to hold a hearing to decide whether they have done so and if necessary to proceed further as actually and effectively to require compliance," the decision said.

"In the performance of that duty, the district court must exercise its own judgment and discretion in accordance with applicable principles of the (U. S. Supreme Court) decision.

"It seems to us that the district court did not do this in entering (See DECISION, Page 3.)

Christmas Eve Meeting Of Jaycees Held

A meeting of the Pampa Jaycees was held on Christmas Eve with 22 members present for the luncheon which was held in the Palm Room of the City Hall.

Kay Fancher was in charge of the program and showed slides taken during the recent Pancake Supper which netted, according to the report given, some $400 for the club, and the Christmas parade.

The Jaycees entered the parade with a "Sputnik" float, complete with the men in space helmets.

The business meeting consisted of reports given by Jim Brown, chairman of a group of Jaycees who were in charge of providing clothes, food and other necessities for a needy family during the Christmas holidays.

A check was approved and mailed to the Texas Mental Health Program which has been completed. The Pampa Jaycees collected some $122 for the program.

Reports on the Diabetes program were given and stated that the program was complete and that no cases of Diabetes were detected; however, complete statistics were not available today.

The next meeting for the club is scheduled for Dec. 31 and will be the regular noon luncheon meeting in the Palm Room.

If it comes for a Hardware Store, we have it, Lewis Hardware.

Traffic Deaths Mounting Toll Nears Estimate Of Authorities

By UNITED PRESS
Texas' year end holiday death toll continued to climb at such a speed Thursday, Department of Public Safety officials in Austin feared their estimate of 205 violent deaths during the 12-day period would be too low.

By early today, 99 persons were dead violently. Of that total, 47 died in traffic accidents on state highways and streets. Thirty-one persons had been killed in homicides, and 21 others died in miscellaneous accidents.

Elanito Moody, 22, of Los Indios in the lower Rio Grande valley was killed Thursday when he lost control of his convertible automobile and rammed into a concrete irrigation pipe on Rangerville Road near San Benito.

Charles L. Davis, 11, drowned in the Trinity River after being forced to dive from a raft because some boys with a rifle began firing at him.

Pedro Castillo, 50, was electrocuted in San Antonio while putting up a neon sign, Jack Jacobson, 44, burned to death when a fire swept through his home at Hempstead, Tex.

One Accident In Top O Texas

Only one accident was investigated on the highways in the Top O Texas area yesterday by Highway Patrolmen.

Sgt. E. G. Albers of the Highway Patrol reported that the accident was investigated yesterday by the unit stationed at Perryton. No injuries were reported in the accident, he said.

The accident reported today brings the total accidents in the area since the beginning of "Operation Deathwatch" to seven with a total of 12 persons injured in four of the accidents.

Sgt. Albers said late this morning that no traffic fatalities have been reported by officers of the Highway Patrol in the Top O Texas holiday traffic count.

Fragrance, beautifully bottled, will appear under many a Christmas tree this year. Be it perfume or toilet water, it deserves to be used and used wisely. The girl who "saves" her perfume for special occasions is apt to wind up with none since all perfume tends to evaporate slightly once the bottle is opened. This girl (left) tries out a toilet water mist which sprays on in gentle clouds of scent. Perfume for the sophisticated (center) is rich and exotic, can be used sparingly for lingering effect. Another sophisticated perfume (right) in crystal bottle with jeweled cap, is dry, light and long-lasting. All three of these "new scents" are ready in time for Christmas giving this year and all of them come beautifully boxed. The size that you will pick depends on the amount you want to spend.

If You Received Perfume At Christmas, Don't Save It For Special Dates, Use It

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

It's a fairly safe wager that one of the festively-wrapped packages under your Christmas tree held a decorative bottle of your favorite scent.

Perfume, toilet water and cologne take their place among the most popular of Christmas gifts, for they are the essence of femininity and a delight to every woman be she sixteen or sixty.

If at Christmas time you were surprised by a perfume far more expensive than you'd ever buy for yourself, don't immediately develop a saving attitude about it. For you're apt to find it half gone before you've used it a second time.

You don't have to use your best scent when you do the household chores or spend a dateless night reading. But DO use it when you go out evenings or have friends in for a party at home. It's pointless to keep it for the one elegant jamboree you attend each year. You'll miss the fun of wearing it often and you'll lose much of it in evaporation between wearings. It is wise to store it in a dark, cool place, however. For heat and light hasten the evaporation process.

If your perfume is in a large bottle, siphon some out with eye dropper into a smaller flask and reseal the rest with paraffin until you need to fill the small container again. It will last longer that way.

Should you have trouble opening a new bottle of scent, take a glass tumbler and gently tap the stopper all around the sides. Then slowly work it loose.

The effect of your perfume depends largely on how you apply it. If you don't wish to use an atomizer, soak a piece of cotton and dab at the pulse points—wrists, temples, base of throat—spreading the scent with your finger as you go along. Be sparing, though, or you'll be literally overpowering.

Never apply perfume just before you leave the house, for the air will cause the scent to disappear. It should be allowed to set for at least fifteen minutes before you start out on a date.

Toilet water, too, is an everlasting joy. It's perfect for the office for it can be used more liberally and will leave behind the ghost of a sweet scent. And it's a good idea to use a drop or two in the rinse water when you launder your lingerie.

You sniff appreciatively when you pass by someone who is wearing a fragrant scent. Why not be that someone yourself? Don't hoard your Christmas perfumes. You'll be the sole loser if they dry out in their pretty containers.

Those present were Mrs. Ethel Willis, O. L. Moore, D. R. Henry, Myrtle McDaniels, A. N. Thorne, O. E. Stephens, Edith Roberts.

Mrs. Ramsay Has Class Yule Party

The Bethany Class of the First Baptist Church held its annual Christmas party recently in the home of Mrs. Lida Ramsay.

Scripture was read by Mrs. J. B. O'Bannon. Mrs. George Hutton read the Christmas story. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments of fruit cake and coffee were served.

Martha Nichols, Lida Ramsay, W. H. Hawkins, I. W. Raden, Jess Reeves, George Huth, Cora Patterson, Fred Conner, and J. B. O'Bannon.

Sputnik and Mutnik have combined to make the world no larger than the geographical globe in the little red school house. So the scientists tell you. Actually, long before then, "It's been a small world," as the saying goes, because of one thing: Food. Yes, food, and the enjoyment thereof.

Chances are, while enjoying a delicious meal, especially in these holiday times, you never have suspected that you were engaging in international good will, or contributing to the dependence of one country or another.

That's true for, as you sit down to the big feast, your invisible dinner partners hail from France, or Borneo, or India, or name your own country.

When you sip your consommé, General Electric home economists report, you must remember the French excel in this dish. Your relishes are natives of European regions from Sweden to Algeria and from Egypt to Ethiopia.

Turkey? Why, the pilgrims introduced it to the New World. Chestnut dressing? Borrowed from Italy and Spain.

Mashed potatoes, haled from the Inca Indians of Peru; Egypt knew green peas long before Americans did; and lettuce served as a royal dish for the Persian kings as long ago as 550 B.C. Pumpkins? The Indians did originate it, but Ancient China knew it long ago, too.

The mixed salted nuts of your menu are even more illustrative.

Here is another recipe to add to your party collection. This is called American Blue Cheese Miniature Hamburgers and will be hit of any gathering. To make 24 appetizers, combine one quarter pound ground beef round, one-half teaspoon prepared horse-radish, one quarter teaspoon salt and dash pepper; mix well. Spread on twenty-four two-inch crackers. Top with one-quarter cup crumbled American Blue Cheese (about one and one-half ounces); broil three to four inches from source of heat, four to five minutes, or until hamburgers are done.

These two new and exciting munchables are guaranteed to do away with your appetizer apathy and to spark your guests' interest.

Platter Of Delicious Holiday Tid-Bits One Of Season's Pitfalls For Dieters

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Most of us, in spite of good resolutions, tend to eat a bit too much during the holiday season. We go visiting and the food is tempting. Or, we entertain during the evening and serve juicy snacks to our guests. It's only natural to taste what we serve. And bit by bit, the poundage creeps on.

Food for the holidays is usually rich and somehow, crackers and lettuce lose their diet appeal. But nevertheless, it pays to watch the calories. The truth is, you can't eat all of the tempting foods offered you anyway so you might just as well exercise self-control. Do join the fun and don't spoil it by talk of dieting.

But do, also, take small portions and skip the really very rich fruitcake, cookies and pies. Those small cookies can be deceptive. They're light and crisp but they pack loads of calories. If you put on a pound or two during the holidays, it's no tragedy. More than that and you'll have a serious problem to deal with on Jan. 1.

One of the pitfalls of holiday parties lies in those bowls of tidbits. A handful of peanuts, a couple of pretzels, some olives and a few bacon curls and you've eaten enough calories to equal a small meal.

Since it takes inhuman self-control to eat just one peanut, about the best thing you can do is pass up the tidbits. They seem harmless, true, and when you're hungry and dinner isn't in prospect for a couple of hours, they can be almost overpoweringly attractive.

If you need a visual idea to keep yourself from reaching, just picture yourself trying to wedge into your favorite dress which has become far too tight. This notion should stay your hand. For, innocent though they look, those crystals and silver bowls yield up rolls and bumps of unwanted fat.

The girl who thinks her appearance doesn't count on a snowy, windy day is fooling herself. When she ties a scarf about her head, shoves her feet into an old pair of boots and pins up her coat collar with a safety pin, this teenager is asking for trouble.

Chances are, she'll bump into the boy she's had her eye on for weeks or the drama coach who's been considering her for an important part in the class play. The point is, your appearance counts every time you're in public, no matter what the weather. So see to it that your clothes are attractive, suitable and neat.

George Washington Carver discovered more than 300 uses for the peanut.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Roy's disobedience often exasperates his Grandma.

One day when she was visiting, he started blowing his policeman's whistle in the kitchen. His mother told him to go outdoors with it. He ignored her.

When she finally had to bribe him with cookies, his Grandma said, "What a doormat you make of yourself for that child! I tell you, when your children were young, you hopped when I said to — or got a good licking. It was obedience."

As usual, Roy's mother felt deeply discouraged by this comparison between Grandma's success as a parent and her failure. She was so depressed it never occurred to her to think.

"If Mama gave me such wonderful training as a child, why isn't it more useful to me now? If it's just resulted in turning me into a doormat for Roy to walk on, how can it be called successful? Perhaps Mama's ideas on discipline are unreliable, and learning to hop unquestioningly when she said to was fine for her but bad for me."

This would be a productive line of thought for her.

Will she pursue it? I don't know. Parents trained in unquestioning obedience as children do not easily overcome the habit.

Along with the obedience, they develop such unconscious admiration for Mama's views on discipline that they can't question them any more than they could question her commands to hop.

Unfortunately, resistance to her views is the first step in getting obedience from Roy.

Until Roy's mother can resist Mama's ideas on discipline, it will continue to be hard for her to effectively resist Roy's desires, such as blowing policemen's whistles in her kitchen.

Our response to our children's demands is deeply affected by the way we responded to our parents' demands. If they expected instant submission to their wishes, we'll tend to submit to Roy's.

So if we're having trouble with him, it's good to ask ourselves, "Am I operating on my own views of discipline, or on unconscious ones that I inherited? If the ones I inherited were trustworthy, why am I having this trouble?"

The test of all childhood training is its service to us as parents.

WMS Meets In Chapel For Study

Hobart Street Baptist Women's Missionary Society met in the chapel on Wednesday morning for Bible study.

Mrs. A. V. Hale led the group in repeating the WMU watchword, Rev. 3:8, to open the meeting.

Missionary Prayer Calendar was read by Mrs. Hale followed by prayer words by Mrs. W. O. Coll.

Rev. John Dyer taught the Bible lesson, "The Jewish Maid," taken from II Kings, Chapter 5.

The meeting closed with a reminder from Mrs. Hale for all members to attend the Christmas party on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. W. D. Pate led the closing prayer. Those in attendance were Mrs. A. V. Hale, W. O. Coll, J. D. Crawford, James Schaub, Jack Alexander, W. D. Pate, E. J. Moxley, H. C. Wilkie, C. J. Bryan, Bill Hicks, Ed Foran, John Dyer, Warren Jackson, V. L. Oliver, and Rev. Dyer.

It was announced that the Ester Kim Business Women's Circle will meet in the home of Mrs. P. D. Boddy, 1017 E. Murphy on Jan. 8 at 8 p.m. for Bible study.

Official Asks French Part To Aid Economic Instability

PARIS (UP)—Justice Minister Robert LeCourt appealed to France's quarrelling political parties today for a compromise on proposed constitutional changes to end the nation's political instability.

The French cabinet approved a draft plan Thursday but it stands little chance of passing the National Assembly unless the nine political parties in Premier Fulix Gaillard's cabinet agree on its provisions.

More than 20 French governments have fallen since the Fourth Republic was inaugurated after World War II. Sometimes it fell on sheer capriciousness of the assembly; sometimes it fell during times of world crisis. LeCourt hopes to end this instability.

The key socialist and independent parties—the largest parties in the coalition—indicated they were unhappy with the cabinet approved proposal. Even Gaillard's own radical socialist party withheld immediate approval.

The radical socialists said they would withhold their decision until January although the premier has promised to submit at least a minimum proposal for constitutional reform by Jan. 15.

The original LeCourt plan has three main provisions: —The premier can be overthrown only on a formal vote of censure and only by an absolute majority of the assembly's 596 deputies. At the present the premier must resign when a simple majority vote goes against him on a question of confidence.

—The premier would be given sweeping new powers to dissolve the national assembly and call for new elections if he has not already been overthrown on a vote of censure. In that case the president of the republic could call for new elections.

—The assembly deputies would lose the power to pass any law cutting government income or entailing new government expenditures unless they also pass a law securing the needed revenue.

Men At Large After Slaying Two Persons In Bar Argument

WASHINGTON (UP)—Two men killed a bar owner and a musician after an argument over their bill early today and then fled southward, kidnapping three persons and switching cars.

The killers, one wearing a red carnation, made their getaway from Washington after forcing their way into a car in which Pfc. Larry Monteith of nearby Fort Myer and his date, Doris Mattingly, 24, were parked.

They released Miss Mattingly unharmed outside a bus terminal at Richmond, Va. Then they drove to Alberta, Va., about 15 miles north of the North Carolina line. There they locked Monteith in the trunk of his car, stopped a black Cadillac driven by lone man and forced him to drive them away.

A general police alarm was broadcast throughout the southern states for the "armed and dangerous" gunmen.

Police said the killers entered the Jo-Dei restaurant here about 10 o'clock Thursday night and drank two bottles of whisky. An argument developed over their bill, which came to $20.

The restaurant owner, George P. Kalde, 33, ejected them. But the two men returned about 2 a. m. just as Kalde was closing up.

Police said the killers, one about 22 and one about 45, shot Kalde to death at the restaurant. Then they shot and killed Kenneth Harlan Fisher, 38, a hillbilly guitarist and singer who worked at the restaurant.

A bullet struck and critically wounded the bar's blind pianist, Bernard J. Malner, 28, who was sitting on a bar stool.

Eleven Shots Police found 11 expended .45 caliber cartridges at the scene. A short while later the two men drove up behind a car in northwest Washington in which Monteith and Miss Mattingly were said he was a policeman and ordered Monteith to open the door. He was immediately joined by his companion, and they forced their way into the car.

Miss Mattingly told police they were armed with a .45 pistol and a sawed-off shotgun and were carrying whisky bottles.

They ordered the couple to drive to Richmond. En route, Miss Mattingly said, they bragged of having killed three men and continued drinking.

Monteith and Miss Mattingly begged the two men to free them. They agreed to release her at the Richmond Greyhound Bus station.

City Transport Union In 2nd Day Of Talks

NEW YORK (UP)—City and Transport Workers Union negotiators entered their second round of talks today with a feeling of optimism that a threatened New Year's Eve bus and subway strike may be averted.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Thursday that the City Transit Authority and Transport Workers Union leader Michael J. Quill had told him they "feel certain" a contract can be reached before the Tuesday midnight strike deadline.

Wagner made the statement in a meeting with Quill and transit officials in his office. He had called the two sides in to tell them before the first round of bargaining talks Thursday that he was adopting a "get tough" policy toward the threatened walkout.

He said New Yorkers, harassed by two transportation tieups in the past month, were "sick and tired" of such strikes.

"We just won't stand for a strike," he said. He then demanded a contract settlement.

Following the session in Wagner's office Quill and Transit Authority officials retired to begin their negotiations.

At the end of the talks Quill said there had been no progress and that his strike threat still stood at 1 p. m. est in the offices of City Labor Commissioner Harold A. Felix.

Funeral Services Set Saturday For Carmichael Youth Funeral services for Mark Allen Carmichael, who died at 10 a. m. yesterday in a local hospital, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the chapel at Dukenel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will officiate at the services and burial will be in Fairview Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Dick Stowers, Malcolm Hinkle, Lee Moore Jr. and Joe Cree.

Mark Allen Carmichael was born May 24, 1954 in Pampa. He lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carmichael, at 1708 Dogwood.

Girl In Good Condition After Father Relented For Surgery

RICHMOND, Ind. (UP)—A little girl was in good condition today following an emergency appendectomy performed when her father relented in his religious opposition to medical care.

The father, Arthur Phippen, 40, had resisted for about three days against pleas by authorities to permit a physician to treat his daughter, July, 11, for acute appendicitis.

Instead, Phippen, his family and other members of the "Full Tabernacle of God" religious sect prayed almost continuously to save the life of the blonde, blue-eyed girl.

Phippen was persuaded to permit the operation Thursday night when authorities instituted legal action to make July a ward of the court, which would pave the way for medical treatment.

Earlier Thursday Phippen had allowed doctors to examine July at Reid Memorial Hospital. They warned July's appendix might burst within hours and she might not live through the night.

Despite the prediction, Phippen insisted on taking the girl back home to resume praying for her life.

But Phippen stood firm in his beliefs until Sheriff Edward Cordell arrived with a summons. The approved tax-exempt charity.

For immediate relief for the homeless. He also set up a flood relief fund in Ceylon as an All available stocks of bread in Colombo are being requisitioned for shipment to the flood-devastated areas. Three British RCAF planes and four Ceylon Air Force planes transported some 12,000 pounds of food to survivors in the Galoyna region.

The Indian government responded to Bandaranaike's appeal for help and promised four planes equipped for rescue operations.

Red Star emphasized that the plane was a production jet fighter of supersonic speed, not an experimental craft, and made the point Mikhalik was not a test pilot but a "typical squadron commander."

The reported flight was one more piece in an emerging pattern of vast Soviet bomber and fighter development. Printed quotes from the pilot of a newly developed high altitude bomber Thursday implied that the Russians have planes set for non-stop flights around the world with out refueling.

summons ordered Phippen, a foundry worker, to appear in court today for a hearing on the girl's custody.

"Then the law wants to take her to the hospital?" Phippen asked the sheriff.

"It does," Cordell replied.

"My church preaches that we must obey the law," the father said.

Word was flashed immediately to the hospital and Dr. P. S. Johnson was given 10 minutes to get ready for the surgery. The operation lasted more than one-half hour.

Red Paper Reports On Flight

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said today a Russian pilot flew a "standard jet fighter aircraft" at an altitude of more than 19,000 meters (62,358 feet or 11.8 miles).

"Immediately after taking off, the pilot, Squadron leader Mikhalik, flew almost vertically to a height of 19,000 meters," it said. The newspaper said he felt his aircraft had still not reached the limit and "he went even higher."

the judgment appealed from, but apparently considered itself bound to enter that judgment by the mandate of the court.
'It is a welcome decision though not wholly unexpected,' Dr. W. T. White, superintendent at the Dallas Independent School District said.
'It seems that the court was reaffirming its earlier ruling on desegregation, with all deliberate speed. It would have been a chaotic situation to organize schools in mid-term.'
The attempt of the Negroes to get into Dallas public schools has Judge Atwell and the Fifth Circuit Court.
It was on the basis of an appellate court order which today's decision said Atwell executed—that Atwell ordered Dallas schools integrated at mid-term.
When Judge Atwell ordered Dallas schools integrated, he made plain that he did so reluctantly.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. A. Hope Owen, President of Wayland College, will be the guest speaker for both services next Sunday at the First Baptist Church. Dr. Owen is a former pastor and has been president of Wayland for four years. He has been a frequent visitor to Pampa and his many friends are invited to hear him on Sunday night will be "Student Night at Christmas." During this hour the college students of the church will be in charge of the service under the direction of Lee Harkins, Jr., of Baylor. Dr. Owen will bring the message of the evening. Worship services begin at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

WAYLAND BAPTIST COLLEGE

PLAINVIEW. — The 37th annual Panhandle-Plains Pastors and Laymen's Conference has been set for Feb. 24 at Wayland Baptist College, according to Rev. Milt Arbuckle, president and pastor of First Baptist Church, Lamesa.

Outstanding scholars, Dr. Frank Stagg, New Orleans Baptist Seminary; Dr. Carl J. Giers, pastor, First Baptist Church, Cattanooga, Tenn.; and President A. Hope Owen of Wayland Baptist College have been secured for the six sessions. Dr. Stagg will lecture on "Baptist Distinctives." Dr. Giers will be guest preacher, and Dr. Owen will read the Bible study.

For music, Joe Whitten, Pampa, and Edward L. Wittner, Lamesa are in charge of group singing and will furnish solos. Earl W. Miller, Wayland, will be organist. Special music will feature John Ward, Plainview; Dr. N. J. Ellis, Pampa; Gene Kitterman, Midland; Quartet from Trinity Baptist Church, Lubbock; Octet from First Baptist Church, Lamesa; and the Wayland Baptist College International A Cappella Choir under the direction of W. E. Steward.

Tom Parrish, director of development at Wayland, will give the welcome address. C. J. Humphrey, Amarillo attorney, will speak on "The Layman's Place in the Lord's Work" and Paul Gates, Lubbock on "Why I Am a Baptist Layman." Dr. L. L. Morris, pastor of First Baptist Church, Midland, is slated for a talk on "The Preacher and His People" and Rev. Tommie Allen, Ralls for a devotional talk.

At the closing night's program, Dr. Carl Bates, pastor of First Baptist Church Amarillo, will speak on "The Preacher and His Message." Prayers will be offered by Rev. J. William Arnett, District 9 Missions Secretary, Plainview; Dr. O. C. Curtis, District 10 Missions Secretary, Amarillo; Rev. G. M. Cole, pastor of First Baptist Church, Snyder; and Rev. Carl Grissom, pastor of First Baptist Church, Andrews.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The ever-availability of the healing power taught and practiced by Christ Jesus will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson - Sermon entitled "Christian Science" will include the account in John (4:46-53) of Jesus' healing of the ruler's son that lay sick at Capernaum.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (329:1): "As time moves on, the healing elements of pure Christianity will be fairly dealt with; they will be sought and taught, and will glow in all the grandeur of universal goodness."

The Golden Text is from Daniel (2:20,22): "Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wisdom and might are his: . . . he

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Take a look at the North and South hands only. The deuce of hearts is opened against your three no-trump contract. How do you play the hand?

If the game is match point duplicate you should probably let the heart ride around to your jack and go out after everything that is not nailed down.

In rubber bridge you should go right up with the ace of hearts and insure your contract except against all four diamonds in the East hand. Your second play is a club to your ace and then you take the diamond finesse. If it loses you

Both vulnerable
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♣ Pass
6 ♠ Pass 7 ♣ Pass
Opening lead — ♠ 7

will take nine tricks made up of five diamonds, two clubs and the major suit ace.

If it wins you will also take nine tricks because you will be too smart to return to your hand with the ace of spades in order to try the diamond finesse a second time. East might just have been crazy enough to hold off with the king whole hand would collapse.

Therefore you should continue to play safe for your contract by leading a low diamond from dummy and conceding a trick to the king.

Why did you take the ace of hearts at trick one? Look at all the hands and see what might have happened. East would take the king of hearts and shift to the queen of spades. Assuming that West remembered to unblock with the king you would lose three spades, one heart and one diamond.

Plains Cotton Gins Are Jammed Now

AUSTIN (UP)—A drive to get the plains cotton crop out of the fields by New Year's Day has jammed gins with loaded trailers, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

In a weekly crop and weather bulletin, the USDA said harvest of the cotton crop was delayed by a norther that whipped up a severe dust storm in the middle of last week.

Peanut farmers in the Comanche-Earth area, trying to get their crop threshed and under cover by Christmas, were also delayed by the blowing sand. The high winds scattered fields and rolled them across fields "like tumble weeds," the USDA said. However, in spite of raging average or better peanut yields per acre.

Wheat on the High Plains continued in generally good condition despite blowing dust that hurt some stands just out of the ground. Recently-planted wheat was coming up slowly as a result of cold weather in the low rolling plains. High winds and blowing dust were blamed for sapping surface moisture in that area.

Blight was reported hurting oats in a "number of counties" over the eastern half of the state, and many fields were a yellowish color.

The citrus harvest was in full swing in the lower valley as the Florida embargo on shipments stepped up demand for the Texas fruit. Last week's activity was termed the busiest since the disastrous freeze of 1951.

Harvest of cabbage and lettuce in South Texas winter vegetable areas made good progress. Carrots moved in light volume from the lower valley and winter garden areas. In the Panhandle, carrots were beginning to clean up, but there will be some supplies for the next 30 days, the USDA said.

South Texas onions made good growth with "very little freeze damage showing up."

Early spring tomatoes were being planted in the lower valley and land was being prepared for the 1958 watermelon crop in South Texas.

Stalk fields, rescue grass and small grains continued supply feed, but the prospective large surplus of winter feed was beginning to fade. Over the eastern half of Texas, oats were not furnishing expected grazing because of "widespread infection," the USDA said. In addition, the east and south, bermuda and other summer grasses expected for dry winter feed were rotting. Hay and roughage feeding started on some Texas farms. However, all classes of livestock were wintering in generally good condition, but a few on the east side of the state were showing some shrinkage, the report said.

Salk Finds Abnormal Cells While Working On Vaccine

anti-bodies killed them all. There are innumerable questions which can't be answered now. As Salk said in his report: "It is apparent that considerable further study is required before any conclusions can be drawn." The major questions are: Were the abnormal cells ever capable of causing cancer? Are "continuously propagating" cells the same as cancer cells?

Salk revealed that colleagues in another laboratory had used the abnormal cells to produce fatal cancers in mice. But first, the mice had to be treated with X-rays and cortisone to weaken their anti-body making chemistry.

Matter of FACT

Early typewriters were patented as devices to aid the blind. In the United States the first typewriter, called a typographer, was patented by William A. Burt in 1829. No example of this machine has survived. The first practical typewriter, and one that could be mass produced, was the work of three U.S. inventors, Christopher Latham Sholes, Samuel W. Soule and Carlos Glidden.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

H. E. Skaggs—First Reader
First Church of Christ, Scientist,
901 N Frost

The wise men of old were guided by a bright star to the manger which held the baby Jesus—the human herald of Christ. The brilliant star, though glorious, was but a faint beacon when compared to the inextinguishable brilliance of the light brought to all men through the great Master. Christ Jesus said, "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." (John 8:12)

Christmas should be to us all a reminder to turn in deep reverence to God in thanks for "His unspeakable gift"—the teachings and example of the Christ—a rich heritage, lighting the way to salvation for all men. It is a reminder to turn from the dominance of materialism which would try to sweep Christianity from its path.

There is great solace in the assurance that God's gift, the Christ, is indestructible. Historically it has withstood the shocks of opposition. Today, the forces of the anti-Christ, so magnified in God-less Communism and other forms of tyranny, must inevitably yield to the all-might of the Christ message of love, peace and goodwill to men.

Thus Christmas lights the path out of fear and hopelessness, to the liberty and security which can be found only in God. It is a reminder that the Christ is eternal — an ever-present, ever-active force for good. The Christ is leavening the world. The violent upheavels produced in this leavening process can only destroy themselves and the light of the Christ will penetrate materialistic darkness with an irresistible brilliance bringing peace and harmony for all.

In our enjoyments of the Christmas season, let us be careful that the overtones of the spiritual significance of Christmas are not blotted out.

Harvesters In Home Action With Big Spring Tonight

Steers Slated For Two-Night Series

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor

PAMPA'S HARVESTERS will meet one of the state's top cage units tonight at 8 in Harvester Field House as they host the Big Spring Steers of District 2-A in the first of a two-night series.

Suffering a lone defeat in their season's inaugural to Plainview, 62-51, the Steers have marched through the past 11 games without a loss. Victories have come Lamesa, 66-40 and 45-39; Tom S. Lubbock, 55-63 and 57-43; Monterey, 57-42 and 56-46; and Hobbs, N.M., 82-64. The remaining four wins earned Big Spring the Andrews tourney championship by downing Kermit, 65-48; Muleshoe, 84-44; Odessa, 77-65 and Andrews, 61-46.

Sporting a season record somewhat similar to Big Spring, the Harvesters dropped their opener to Childress, 49-48, and have since rebounded to nine straight victories, defeating Phillips, 76-47; Elk City, Okla., 85-51; Vernon, 86-52 and 87-55; Hobbs, N.M., 74-66 and 71-68; Childress 75-48; Duncan, Okla., 58-48; and Crosier Tech of Dallas, 71-48. The last two games earned the Harvesters the championship role in the four-team Lawton, Okla. meet.

IN OFFENSIVE ACTION the Harvesters appear the more powerful, having established a 74 point-per-game average with a total of 747, while the Steers have poured through an average of 63 points per game with a 756 total.

Defensively, however, Big Spring has allowed its opposition an average of 49 points per contest while the Harvesters have allowed 56.

In the only instance for mutual team comparison, the Steers downed Hobbs by the wide margin of 18 points while Pampa's quintet took the first encounter by eight and the second by nine.

PACING THE BIG SPRING attack is lanky Jan Loudermilk, a 6'6" pivot man who has bucketed a total of 242 points for an exceptional 24 point per game average. Following the big center is guard Preston Hollis with 124 points and guard Bill Thompson with 122.

For Pampa, guard Bill Brown heads the scoring column, having tossed in 170 points in the ten encounters for a 17 point per game average. Running close behind Brown is center Mack Layne with 113 points and forward Coyle Winborn with 107 points.

Following tomorrow night's finale with Big Spring, the Harvesters will travel to Elk City, Okla., Dec. 31 and will test the Phillips Blackhawks, Jan. 3.

The District 3-AAAA opener is slated for Jan. 7 in a home tilt with the Amarillo Sandies.

Probable starters for tonight will be:

Pampa	F	6'3"
Murry or Minor	F	6'3"
Layne	C	6'5"
Brown	G	5'8"
Stephenson	G	5'11"
Big Spring	F	6'1"
Clendenin	F	6'1"
Loudermilk	C	6'6"
Thompson	G	6'
Hollis	G	5'9"

Kiwanis Cage Program Continues

The Kiwanis sponsored basketball program will be underway again tomorrow morning in all school gymnasiums, with boys in the grades including 5th, 6th and seventh invited to participate.

The program, conducted each Thursday evening from 8:30 to 9, and each Saturday morning from 9:30 to 12 is sponsored by the Pampa Kiwanis Club and is attended by able instructors or the boys who would like to participate.

Beginning soon a system of interschool play will be initiated, allowing the like grades of schools to play regularly officiated games. Boys may attend the gymnasiums of the closest school to their residence or the school of their regular attendance.

Top-Ranked College Teams Glide To Wins In First Tourney Rounds

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

Kansas, North Carolina and three touring far western teams were off to flying starts today in college basketball's Christmas tournament whirl.

Kansas, the nation's top-ranked team, breezed to a 65-50 triumph over Oklahoma in the opening round of the Big Eight Tournament at Kansas City, Mo., Thursday night while North Carolina,

Australians Have Davis For 3rd Year

MELBOURNE (UP) — Mervyn Rose, the "forgotten man" of Australian tennis, and young Mal Anderson defeated an American pickup team today in the Davis Cup challenge round doubles match, enabling the Aussies to walk off with the famed mug for the third straight year.

Rose, appearing in his first challenge round match since 1951, paired beautifully with Anderson in routing Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and husky Harry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6, to give the Aussies an unbeatable 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series.

Australia whipped the United States, 5-0 in each of the last two challenge round matches and can complete another whitewash job by winning Saturday's concluding singles "exhibitions."

Billy Talbot, non-playing captain of the U.S. squad, lost one of the biggest gambles of his life when he chose 22-year-old Mackay to team with Seixas in today's back-to-the-wall match.

Tech's Red Raiders Slam Past SMU In First Tourney Game

By JOHN COLTON
United Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (UP)—Co-favorites Rice and Texas Christian are scheduled to meet the Arkansas Razorbacks at Texas Tech, respectively, in the second round of the Southwest Conference basketball tournament tonight after all four teams posted opening wins Thursday.

Rice, the host team, moved into the second round by shutting off a last-half Baylor rally to top the Bears 62-52.

The Owls scoring combination of 6-10 Temple Tucker and 6-8 Tom Robitaille began to hit again after the Bears had closed a 32-25 halftime deficit to only three points to insure the win for Rice.

Tucker grabbed scoring honors for the game with 18 points, while Robitaille hit 11. Forward Gene McCarley led Baylor with 9.

Texas Tech, the most surprising team in the conference so far this year, continued unbeaten by sliding by defending tournament and conference champion Southern Methodist 72-70 in an overtime period.

Pat Noakes, a 6-9 sophomore center who hadn't scored a point all season, dumped in a layup with eight seconds in the game to notch the win for the Red Raiders. The game was tied 64-64 at the end of regulation play.

Rick Herrscher led the losers with 23 points while Leon Hill scored 22 and Wade Wolfe 15 for Tech.

Arkansas, behind a 45.2 per cent shooting average, jumped off to a big lead and coasted in to a 83-67 win over the University of Texas.

Browns' Brown Named As UP Pro Game's Coach Of Year

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Paul Brown, whose Cleveland Browns rebounded from their only losing season to regain the National Football league's Eastern Division title, today was named by the United Press as the pro game's "coach of the year" for 1957.

Brown received 19 of the 37 votes cast in the annual United Press poll of sports writers who covered the campaign in the 13 league cities.

Weeb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts was runnerup with seven votes. Frank Albert of the San Francisco Forty-Niners received three. George Wilson of the Detroit Lions, who won the Western Division crown in his first season as a head coach, drew two votes. Buddy Parker of the Pittsburgh Steelers got the other vote.

Most Successful Coach

Brown is pro football's most successful coach. He makes news only when Cleveland loses—which isn't often—and requires special circumstances to win the poll.

He got his chances because the Browns stumbled through their only losing season in 1956. After that 5-7 campaign, Brown tore his squad apart. Among the veterans he discarded were his only experienced quarterbacks, George Ratterman and Babe Parilli.

When the dust cleared from this unprecedented move, he started the season with 12 rookies. His new, Chicago Bear castoff whose quarterbacks were Tommy O'Connor, equipment appeared to consist largely of a fighting heart and damaged knees, and two rookies, Milt Plum and John Borton.

Mass Rebuilding

It appeared Brown was rebuilding on a mass scale but that he lacked an experienced quarterback to build around. Then Hal Bradley, one of the club's best guards, broke a leg bone in the team's final exhibition and was lost for the season. Brown had only one experienced offensive end because Dante Lavelli one of the game's top pass receivers, had retired.

This rookie-studded squad bore little resemblance to the experienced Cleveland outfits which Otto Graham sparked to 10 straight division titles in two leagues. But it won the 12-game division campaign by 3 1/2 games and twice whipped the New York Giants, defending league and division champions, enroute to the title.

Sunday's Title Game Closes Record Year In Pro-Football

By HARRY WISMER
Written For the United Press

NEW YORK (UP)—They ring down the curtain on professional football this weekend when the Cleveland Browns and the Detroit Lions tangle for the championship of the National Football League at Briggs Stadium in the Motor City.

It winds up what has been the most successful year of all from the point of patronage and gate receipts. The pros, despite everything, just seem to keep growing and growing.

The Browns reigned slight favorites to beat the Lions at midweek, but Joe Kuharich, coach of the Washington Redskins, summed up the situation correctly on your reporter's "Sports Scene" Dumont TV show when he said there was little to choose between the rivals.

It's a tossup and the breaks will decide the contest.

We like the Lions, giving them that slight edge, or a three-point margin. Detroit has more balance than Cleveland, and is well rounded defensively, especially against the type of aerial offense used by Paul Brown.

manager Maurie Schubot had about 5,600 bleacher seats, 4,000 reserved seats and 4,000 standing tickets.

A sellout, including standing-room, would mean a crowd of more than 56,000 at the game in Briggs Stadium.

Browns Field Rebuilt Team

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—The Cleveland Browns go into Sunday's title game against Detroit with a team radically rebuilt since their last title game appearance two years ago.

Of the 35 men who saw action as Cleveland walloped Los Angeles, 38-14, for the 1955 pro crown, only 13 will be on the field Sunday as the Browns seek their fourth NFL title in eight years.

The Browns offensive lineup Sunday will include only five players who started against the Rams, end Pete Brewster, tackles Lou Groza and Mike McCormack, halfback Ray Renfro and Herahel Forester, who alternated with Harold Bradley as the "messenger boys" in 1955.

Three players who faced the Rams, quarterback Otto Graham, and Dante Lavelli and halfback Fred Morrison have since retired. Center Frank Gatski, a charter member of the Browns, was traded to Detroit early this season after failing to agree on a contract. Gatski, a standout performer with Detroit, will face Cleveland Sunday.

Bradley suffered a broken leg in pre-season drills this year and is still on the injured reserve list. Guard Abe Gibron was released during the 1956 season and Ed Modzelewski, first string fullback in 1955 and 1956, lost his job this season to rookie-of-the-year Jim my Brown.

Fans Sleep In Cold For Tickets

DETROIT (UP)—Fans who braved freezing temperatures and bedded down Thursday night outside the Detroit Lions box office led the final assault today for tickets to the Detroit-Cleveland National Football championship game.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams also made a final plea to NFL Commissioner Bert Bell, urging him to "reconsider" his ban on local television for the game. The contest will be televised nationally, outside a 75 mile radius of Detroit.

Bell rejected earlier requests by Williams, U. S. Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), sportman Lou Gordon and many others to lift the blackout of Detroit for the title game.

More than 40 hardy fans, including a delegation from the Lions' "bleacher club" camped outside the Lions ticket office all night. Some of the early arrivals brought sleeping bags. Others were bundled in blankets and heavy winter clothing and brought coffee-filled thermos bottles as they prepared for the night-long vigil.

Mississippi Favored Over Longhorns QB Brown Paced Team To Nation's 2nd In Rushing

Ray Brown

By JOE McDAVID
United Press Sports Writer

OXFORD, Miss. (UP)—Mississippi lost its two previous Sugar Bowl games but coach Johnny Vaught has two teams to throw against Texas this time in an effort to break the New Orleans jinx.

Vaught often alternated his first and second units during 1957 touchdown drives. This reserve strength is one of the big reasons Mississippi is a three-point choice to whip coach Darrell Royal's Longhorns on New Year's Day.

Vaught also has some strong backs and slick tricks which he hopes will give Mississippi its first Sugar Bowl triumph.

Second in Rushing

Mississippi was second in rushing among the nation's major colleges this year, averaging 350.7 yards a game on the ground. Quarterback Ray Brown leads the bevy of hard runners who compiled this record.

Brown averaged 5.4 yards per carry. Fullback Bill Hurst and right halfback Billy Lott are two other leading Mississippi ball-carriers.

But these three had to share the rushing with Leroy Reed, Kent Lovelace, Cowboy Woodruff and James Hall. Each of these players except Hurst averaged at least five yards each time he cried the bill in 1957. Hurst was no slouch, averaging 4.7 yards per try.

But Vaught knows he will need more than brute strength to corral the Longhorns. Vaught has a little black book which contains every good play he's ever seen plus a few he dreamed up himself. He plans some surprises for Texas.

"I imagine we do have a few new things," Vaught said, grinning at the idea.

Two Sugar Bowl Losers

In its previous Sugar Bowl appearances, Mississippi took a 2-7 beating from Georgia Tech in 1953 and a 21-0 whipping from Navy in 1955.

Vaught realizes it could happen again unless his Rebels can lasso

Walt Fondren and Bobby Lackey, the quarterbacks who direct the Texas attack. He admits he is trying to devise a "stop Fondren and Lackey" defense.

"We have given emphasis to stopping Fondren and Lackey," Vaught said.

Vaught concedes that may be something of a problem. Besides regular runs and passes, Mississippi must watch for the Fondren and Lackey quick kicks which Texas used to put opponents in the hole this year.

When Mississippi has the ball, Texas will have to defend against a multiple offense. Mississippi uses the split-T but it is a split-T with many variations. Vaught has gone far beyond the basic option and dive plays of the standard split-T attack.

Physically, the Rebels will be stronger than they have been since the season started.

Basilio Named Fighter Of Year

NEW YORK (UP)—The Ring Magazine named Carmen Basilio "fighter of the year" today and noted an unexpected upsurge in professional boxing during 1957.

Now the sport faces 1958 "with flags flying and rums beating, both in and out of the ring," the magazine stated in its annual review.

Basilio of Chittenango, N.Y., won the ring's fighter-of-the-year award for the first time because, while still welterweight champion on Sept. 23, he wrestled the mid-weight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson in a thrilling fight that drew the year's biggest gate—$519,477.

AIFNF: Basilio's welterweight (147-pound) title was vacated automatically when he won the mid-

The Pampa Daily News

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we at any time be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Published daily except Saturday by The Pampa Daily News, Atchison at Somerville, Pampa, Texas, Phone MO 4-2525, all departments. Entered as second class matter under the act of March 3, 1879.

Golden Rule

It should be recognized by now that a belief in liberty is a highly moral belief. There are some who insist that a belief in liberty "without adequate government control of liberty" is an invitation to chaos and crime. But the fact is that when government seeks to control liberty, liberty ceases to be. And in place of it all we have is slavery to the government and conformity administered by politicians.

So the idea of liberty under state control, is in itself an immoral concept and a contradiction in terms. If state control is to supercede liberty, then morality flees. For morality in essence is self-control, no more or less. And self-control is the opposite of state control.

We would agree that if the individual does not control himself, some other person or agency surely will. However, to have a moral and a libertarian society, self-control must be emphasized and state control reduced to a minimum.

We know of no better guide to morality and consequently to self-control than the Golden Rule. This rule, so often misunderstood despite its simplicity, is the base of virtually every civilization. It is so important, in fact, that most of the world's major religions have taken it as one of their sacred tenets. They may phrase it differently. But the essence of it remains the same. Here is how eleven of the world's living religions state this basic yardstick of human behavior and self-control:

BUDDHISM

"In five ways should a clansman minister to his friends and families—by generosity, courtesy and benevolence, by treating them as he treats himself, and by being as good as his word."

CONFUCIANISM

"Do not unto others what you would not they should do unto you."

HINDUISM

"Men gifted with intelligence should always treat others as they themselves wish to be treated."

ISLAM

"No one of you is a believer until he loves for his brother what he loves for himself."

JAINISM

"In happiness and suffering, in joy and grief, we should regard all creatures as we regard our own self."

JUDAISM

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

SHINTOISM

"The suffering of others is my suffering; the good of others is my good."

SKISM

"As thou deemest thyself, so deem others. Then shalt thou become a partner in heaven."

JAOISM

"Regard your neighbor's gain as your own gain and regard your neighbor's loss as your own loss."

ZORASTRIANISM

"That nature only is good when it shall not do unto another whatever is not good for its own self."

CHRISTIANITY

"All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

Thus we see eleven ways of saying virtually the same thing. And in every case the admonition is aimed at the individual. The suggestion is that you, as an individual, consider others. For if you consider others you must practice the kind of self-control you hope and trust others will practice.

This is the base of morality and it is the base of liberty. No possible collectivized dream of security by means of state control can ever equal the magnificent concept of the Golden Rule.

DEEPER LOOK

Alfred Kohlberg, an inveterate letter-to-the-editor writer and a student of affairs in the Orient, has come up with some interesting information which we feel should be passed on to our readers.

Some may remember that it was primarily Kohlberg who was responsible for breaking the "Amerasia case" and the breaking up of the Institute of Pacific Relations, an avowed Communist front organization. Having been involved in anti-communist work in connection with this particular case, Kohlberg has continued to watch and write about other areas that have concerned him.

In a letter to the editor Kohlberg points out: "Today's Daily Worker, in a front page editorial, quotes yesterday's Washington Post's report that chairman I. I. Rabi of the Presidents Science Advisory Committee and the majority of that Committee agreed with Sen. Javits, former Secretary of Air Letter, and former A.E.C. Commissioner Murray, that Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer should be recalled to our top scientific councils. Dr. Oppenheimer was top dog when the decisions against priority for Missiles and against H-Bomb were made. Among his assistant advisors at that time were Chairman Rabi and Missile Czar James R. Killian, Jr."

"On Dec. 1, 1950, headlines in the N. Y. Times screamed 'AIR BASES ARE ABANDONED (In Korea) U. S. Marines Encircled.' Dec. 2, they read: 'M'Arthur CALLS CURBS A HANDICAP. Communists Assaulted Not Only U. N. Forces but Free World Truman Says.' On Dec. 3, they read: 'ALLIES QUIT DEFENSE ARC IN WEST, Chinese Menacing Rear of U. S. Tenth Corps, Washington Fears Reds Aim at Rout and to Sweep U. N. Forces into the Sea.'"

That same day Dr. Killian appeared in the Boston Herald as signer of a letter to President Truman proposing: 'immediate acceptance by the U. N. of what we understand to be the three Chinese proposals. Namely: withdrawal of U. N. troops from Korea. Withdrawal of 7th Fleet from Formosan Waters. Seating the Chinese Communists at the U. N.' Dr. Killian's defense of Dirk Struik and other Communists at M.I.T. further revealed his lack of understanding of the Red menace.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. Holmes
AFL-CIO On Right-To-Work Laws

I want to reproduce a couple of more questions the California State Federation of Labor asked in their booklet, "What about the 'Right to Work' Fraud?"

They have asked one question they evidently think will embarrass and shut up most persons who believe in men having a right to work without paying tribute to anyone.

They have introduced the religious question in the matter. They think that if they bring up the religious question and cite statements by leaders of organized religion that any man who dares question them will be regarded as against the Christian and Jewish religions. Listen to this question and the answer:

"What do the religious groups of the nation think of the morality of the union shop?"

"Answer: On this, they're unanimous. The largest Protestant federation of the U.S., the National Council of Churches of Christ in America — and the National Catholic Welfare Conference, official voice of the Catholic Bishops of the U.S. — have united in defense of the union shop; they've both held 'right to work' laws to be immoral and a threat to industrial peace. It's the same with America's leading Rabbis — not one has approved the 'right to work' concept. The religious leaders know 'right to work' means brother fighting brother with the job going to the lowest bidder — 'right to work' means a return to the jungle."

In the first place, the National Council of Churches of Christ in America does not speak for the different Protestant denominations. It also received $200,000 from the CIO, so its judgment is not 100 per cent impartial. Most important of all, however, is that these men at the head of the church are inexperienced and do not really know what the union shop means. In fact they do not know enough about it that they would dare to attempt to defend their position endorsing something they do not know what it means.

They would be embarrassed in a very short time if they pretended to use the Decalogue and the Love Commandment and the Golden Rule as guides to determine what was moral. Or if they were pure pragmatists and believed whatever works is moral, they would not dare stand up and answer questions as they would before a court, because they would be contradicting themselves in no time. While those people who understand what the closed shop or union shop means and use the moral precepts of The Declaration of Independence and the Jewish and Christian religions as a guide, are willing and able to defend themselves on their position against the union shop.

Neither have the Catholic bishops at the head of the Catholic Welfare Conference had experience in adding to the wealth of the world and furnishing jobs. Neither do the Union Shop advocates specify what experience America's leading Rabbis have had in adding to the wealth of the world and furnishing better jobs. And you will note that they do not say the Rabbis have opposed the right-to-work law, but they have not approved it. They undoubtedly have not approved it because they do not know what the law would mean.

And the religious leaders do not know, as the folder states, that "right to work" means brother fighting brother with the job going to the lowest bidder — "right to work" means a return to the jungle. They might so believe but they certainly do not know. It means nothing of the kind. It means departing from the jungle and from chaos and each person in any trade or transaction believing he must benefit his customer as much or more than anyone else in order to deserve their business.

Right-to-work law also means that it is more blessed to give than to receive; that you should give full measure on a voluntary basis and not get things by threats of doing injury to anyone.

Not a single one of the religious leaders referred to would dare to try to defend for one minute the union or closed shop. If they understood it they would give evidence, if not proof, that they were governed by no moral law excepting their own changeable will.

And all this propaganda comes out of tax-free money. The labor unions will have millions to spend to sell hate and poison and confusion and fallacious practices that will more and more enslave mankind and keep the standard of living down rather than raise it. On the other hand, any concerted action that advocates this kind of a law has to pay taxes on the money to promote it.

Is this kind of favoritism fair? The columns of this newspaper are open for any to challenge any of the above statements, provided he will answer questions as he would before a court.

Wagner, Harriman Cross Mayor's Father

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — Both Mayor Wagner and Governor Harriman have exhorted working stiff to rat on racket unions and the racketeers commanding them. The city and the state have official bureaus now whose services are offered as protecting and avenging forces. Wagner, Harriman and these bodies are engaged in dirty work by all the old standards of their party, for it was laid down in the holy writ of Wagner's old man that whoever should rat upon a union, however corrupt, was a scab, a fink and deserving of hell's fire.

Thousands of pages of legalistic lumber from the Supreme Court, the Labor Relations Boards and a hundred other courts and boards firmly hold the Wagner Act to be so righteous that it would live eternally, even beyond repeal, which finally came.

Another great bundle of moralistic rubbish holds exactly the contrary, but always with the frustrating provision that reform can be wrought only by clean hands. Obviously this excludes disruptionists and malcontenters. Even the opposition agreed with the Reds who organized and operated the original apparatus of old Wagner's Law that corruption was inevitable in unions because they were human institutions. Thus, all rebels against homespun American perfidies within the AFL and CIO must be viewed as betrayers of labor.

Mayor Wagner is a dull fellow who seems unaware of the turmoil which his late father instigated by lending his name to an act written by the Communist Lee Pressman of the Alger Hiss apparatus.

Old Senator Wagner had the hide of a rhinoceros and didn't twitch even in the presence of the ghastly strike of the Capone mob against perpendicular transportation in his own city of New York. This fiesta caused the death of a number of cardiacs toiling up and down the stairs. It was organized and directed by George Scallise and was called off with eclat in a scene at Mayor La Guardia's desk the files of the Police Department in the City Hall, a half mile from and FBI which contained proof that Scallise had served four years as a white slaver.

The Scallise gang was a platoon of that politico-criminal mob loosely called the Mafia which reported to La Guardia's henchman, Vito Marcantonio, and held title to a big batch of local judges and state Legislators.

But, as noted, his son, being dull, probably knew the score no better than he does today. If he did know the score today, he would realize that in calling upon rank and file workers to squeal on crooks in their unions, he repudiates his own father's doctrine.

Finks have been killed for squealing on union tyrants, on drummed out of all unionism in perpetual disgrace. Let us hope that the old Heinie scratching his belly on a rosy cloud, forgives his kid on the ground that he knows now what he does. He hardly could know less.

Harriman is a nonentity so negative, except for his money, that it would be a waste of thought and good white paper, quite expensive these days, to search for explanations. If he had the mentality to know his stuff, he would understand that he has exhorted the swarthy strangers from Puerto Rico to heretical conduct in proposing that they squeal on racketeers who hold them in thrall.

Both the mayor and the governor were solicitous about Puerto Ricans because their party lured this bewildered mass of tropical country people into the urban jungles of New York for political motives and left them at the mercy of typical Democratic party unionists. The mayor and governor have turned their backs on God, for Senator Wagner said this only way to kick out racketeers was due process within the rackets themselves by consent of the crooks complained of. Mayor Wagner and Harriman may not know this, but that is no excuse. For precedent, I refer them to Original sin and baptism.

Dulles Was 'Goat' At NATO Summit Meet

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Secretary John Foster Dulles was the unhappy diplomatic "goat" at the recent Summit Conference in Paris, which he attended along with President Eisenhower. His emergence so visibly in that role may lead to a fairly early resignation.

President Eisenhower, it is now obvious, finally learned that his Secretary of State is extremely unpopular with the Prime Ministers and Foreign Ministers of Europe and of many neutral nations, especially India and Arab countries in the Middle East.

These statesmen respect Mr. Dulles, but they do not trust his judgment on world affairs, particularly concerning his chilly and aloof attitude toward Russia. They think him too strict, too pious, too moralistic, and not sufficiently realistic.

LITTLE FAITH IN DULLES — They fear and distrust what they describe as his "shoot it out" viewpoint toward Moscow and Mao Tse-tung in Peking. Indeed, despite all the fine and lofty language of the official communique, its meaning is quite plain. It is that, in contrast to the Dulles philosophy, our major and minor Allies, as well as neutrals, want to find a way for "living with Russia" even, if uneasily.

Only after another earnest effort to get together on a practical and live-and-let-live basis will they consent to become exposed and vulnerable outposts for whatever missiles and nuclear weapons the United States develops and offers to them.

Secretary Dulles' legalistic mind led President Eisenhower into making an unfortunate blunder at Paris, and on an extremely important question dividing the Russian and Western factions — namely, the reunification of Germany. There can be no real peace in Europe or elsewhere until this question is solved satisfactorily.

SECRETARY OF STATE'S UNFORTUNATE MISTAKE — In his address at Paris, which was prepared by Dulles, President Eisenhower said on this subject: "At the Summit Conference more than two years ago (Geneva), this was formally and solemnly promised to us by Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Bulganin. Unhappily, that promise has been repudiated at the cost of the international confidence which the Soviet rulers profess to desire."

The cold, diplomatic fact happens to be, as was pointed out to President Eisenhower at Paris, that the Communist leaders did not give such a pledge "formally and solemnly." They made their withdrawal from East Germany contingent upon other developments, including the removal of American and Allied troops from the Western Zone of the divided country.

The Geneva Conference communique simply referred the reunification problem to the respective nations' Foreign Ministers for settlement "by means of free elections . . . carried out in conformity with the national interests of the German people and the interests of European security."

The lawyer heading our State Department may have interpreted this ambiguously diplomatic language, and sold the thought to would pull out of her buffer state, whence she has been invaded for hundreds of years, without a similar withdrawal by her Western opponents. But no European statesman has ever given that interpretation to it, and so they informed Eisenhower at Paris.

Konrad Adenauer, the German Chancellor, was especially insistent in differing with the Dulles version of the Communist commitment at Geneva. He led the European group which wants to parley with the Kremlin again. Ironically, while Eisenhower listened to these misgivings and suspicions, Dulles offended again at this critical moment. In the current issue of a national magazine widely read in Europe, he writes that there can be no "meeting of minds" with the Soviet. It was in this same magazine that he boasted of his "Diplomatic Brinkmanship," which so antagonized Congress.

Real Christmas Must Be Spent In America

By HENRY McEMORE

MADRID — Christmas just isn't Christmas if you aren't at home. I never realized that more than I did Wednesday here in Spain. And of all places, a hotel room is about the worst spot I know of in which to celebrate the best day of the year. Festivity just doesn't stick in a hotel room. I sang "Jingle Bells" until I was hoarse, and a manager called to find out if there was anything he could do for me, but it didn't help much.

Few things look more pathetic than a stocking hanging on a shower curtain rod. That is where ours were, and the sight of them was enough to make you sad. I tried hanging them on the radiator but that was worse and from the tram was no better.

We did have a wreath on the door, but a hotel door is no place for a wreath. It really looked pathetic there, with the number 1156 just above it.

Before the day was over, I was feeling real sorry for myself. My self-pity reached its peak when we went out to dinner and sat down, not to turkey, not to stuffing, not to green peas and sweet potatoes, not to cranberry sauce, but to a great big dish of apella.

Now I like apella and that goes double for the kind they make here in Madrid, with the saffron rice all mixed up with everything under the sun, including shrimp, crab, chicken, and now and then a charming little baby octopus. But that is no Christmas dish. There has to be a turkey all golden brown at the head of the table with those drumsticks, rising majestically in the air, mounds of stuffing afloat in gravy, and slices of white meat wearing a crisp and crunchy skin. And for me, at least, there has to be hot, home-made rolls; and for desert, ambrosia with maybe a slice of moist coconut cake.

To make matters worse, the present I had ordered for Mary did not arrive from Germany. So all the poor girl got was one of my neckties. It looks good on her and she was very appreciative, but you know as well as I do that a necktie, slightly worn, is not the perfect gift for Santa Claus to bring a wife.

When I get home I am going to celebrate a late Christmas even if the day happens to be Arbor Day or National Apple Cider Day!

The Spanish people, of course, had a great day — but they were at home. I could not tell what they were doing or what they were singing but they looked as happy as could be.

To have a real Christmas, an American has got to be in America. I don't aim to spend another one away from those shores.

Indonesia Tries To Pressure US

By CHARLES M. MCCANN United Press Staff Correspondent Indonesia is trying to put pressure on the United States and other allied countries to support its claim to Netherlands New Guinea. Threats are being made that the "national interests" of allied countries may be endangered if they side with The Netherlands. Hints also are being made that Indonesia's "neutralist" policy may swing further toward cooperation with Communist-ruled nations. The Indonesian government has made its dispute with The Netherlands over West New Guinea an issue in which any country which supports The Netherlands will be regarded as "colonialist." On the other hand, Indonesia claims the solid support of all the Asian and African countries which oppose "colonialism." May Turn To Reds Newspapers in Jakarta, the capital, are hinting that Indonesia may turn to Soviet Russia for aid. In its attempt to force The Netherlands to give up possession of West New Guinea, the Indonesian government has taken control of all Dutch interests, estimated to total more than one billion dollars in value. It is being intimated also that unless The Netherlands gives in this property may be seized outright. An Indonesian Foreign Office spokesman warned members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization recently to "be on guard" against supporting The Netherlands. Support for The Netherlands, he said, would be taken as support of colonialism. Without specifying just what he meant, the spokesman then said he hoped NATO countries would not risk their own national interests "for the sake of Dutch colonialism" in New Guinea. During the recent United Nations debate on New Guinea, the United States took a neutral attitude, despite the fact that The Netherlands is a fellow member of NATO. Indonesia Not Satisfied This, however, did not satisfy the Indonesian government. Foreign Minister Subandrio—he has no first name—complained in a speech in parliament last Saturday that the United States has shifted from "the possibility of an active and constructive" policy. Such a policy, naturally, would have supported the Indonesian claim. The Indonesian government is pursuing its claim by every means despite indications that it may be heading toward chaos. Ever since the country won its independence from The Netherlands in 1949, there have been chronic revolts in several parts of the islands. Army officers have seized control of parts of Sumatra. For months there has been serious dissension in the parliament. For reasons not yet made quite clear, President Sukarno has requested "leave" to take a rest abroad. It is expected that he will leave the country Jan. 5. Nobody knows whether he will return. Sartono, speaker of parliament, has been sworn in as acting president. In the campaign against Dutchmen in Indonesia, the government has caused severe economic dislocation. The Netherlands are the economic brains of the country. As part of the dislocation, it is now admitted that Indonesia faces a critical shortage of rice, its staple food.

If Churches Drew Up Balance Sheet

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press Staff Correspondent Records were set in virtually every field of religious activity balance sheet on religion in America, they could report impressive growth in assets during 1957. If churches drew up a year-end sheet that is subject to statistical measurement. But the statement of condition would also show formidable liabilities. There are still many leaders who find it difficult to detect any vital. On the credit side of the statements would be such facts as these: Church membership soared past the 100 million mark and continues to grow at a rate of 3 per cent a year—nearly double the rate of population increase. Sunday School enrollment hit an all-time high of more than 40 million. Spending on church construction climbed to $70-million dollars, a 95-million dollar increase over 1956. More than 3,000 new congregations came into being. Contributions to religious bodies totaled about $3,500,000,000, an increase of nearly 7 per cent over last year. The number of missionaries in foreign service rose to 22,650—twice as many as U.S. churches sent abroad twenty years ago. The bible dwarfed all other best-sellers, with estimated sales of 8-million copies. On the debit side, church leaders might record another array of statistics which are hard to square with the picture of a nation on its knees: Americans spent three times as much on alcoholic beverages as they gave to their churches. The number of church members, reached an all-time high of 5-million. Narcotics addiction, the national divorce rate, the highway death toll and juvenile delinquency arrests rose to record levels along with Sunday School enrollment. Facts Are Baffling Pornographic literature flooded the country. . . and a scandal sheet racked up the largest newstand sales of any magazine. At first glance, the balance sheet may seem completely baffling. On one side is clear evidence of a strong and growing public interest in religion. On the other, the symptoms of a sick and immoral society. Many clergymen believe this paradox simply demonstrates that Americans are responding in two radically different ways to the experience of living in an era when the shadow of the H-bomb and the intercontinental missile hangs over every tomorrow. Some people are turning to religion to find a meaning for life which transcends the anxieties of an uncertain earthy existence. Others are seeking escape from the same anxieties in the age-old philosophy of "eat, drink and be merry."

Matter of FACT

The only woman whose statue is in Statuary Hall in the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. is Frances E. Willard of Evanston, Ill., who for 19 years was president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. She was one of the leaders of the movement when it was formed in 1874 and served as president from 1879 until the time of her death in 1906. Besides her temperance work, Miss Willard was also a leader in behalf of woman's rights.

R. Hess May Be Moved, Released

By JOSEPH FLEMING United Press Staff Correspondent BERLIN (UP)—This might be the last Christmas in four-power Spandau prison for Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's former deputy. U. S., Russian, French and British officials are considering transferring Hess to an insane asylum, or releasing him outright. There is a feeling among the four powers that it is ridiculous to operate a whole prison just for three men. Hess, Nazi munitions minister, Albert Speer and youth leader Baldur von Schirach are the only inmates in a prison built to hold 660 men. Originally the four-power war crimes prison held seven top Nazis sentenced by Nuernberg's International Military Tribunal. But four already have been released. Only one of the four served out his full term. There is a growing belief among allied officials that Spandau should be closed and its inmates transferred to less expansive quarters. Hess' future hinges on his sanity. Is he insane, or is he faking insanity? At 63 he is aged and haggard. He looks like a bony scarecrow in his grey prison uniform. His eyes are sinking under beetle brows. He is untidy, complains bitterly of illness, does little work, hardly speaks to anyone and appears to live in a world of his own. He breaks his long silences only to harangue himself on Hitler's virtues and the part he himself played in the rise of Nazism. Sometimes he attempts to goose step in a cell 10-feet long and six-feet wide. Or he shouts the Horst Wessel song. Hess was sentenced to life at Nuernberg. But whether he dies in prison depends on the verdict on his sanity. If he can convince the four powers he is insane he will either be released or transferred to an insane asylum. But the four powers cannot agree. This is not an East-West conflict. Some officials think he is insane. Others that he is faking and merely is eccentric. Complainant Before It costs the Germans, who must pay for Spandau's upkeep, an estimated 900,000 marks ($214,285) a year to support the prisoners. They complained when the prison held seven men. Now that the prison only has three men they consider the matter ridiculous. The West Berlin city government estimates it costs 50 times as much to support Hess in Spandau as it does for an ordinary prisoner in an ordinary jail. The big four power costs are considerable, too. Companies of U. S., Soviet, British and French troops take turns guarding the prison exterior. Inside there is a staff of four-power guards headed by four wardens, one from each power. In addition, there is a housekeeping staff of cooks, kitchen help, maids, janitors and cleaning women. Von Schirach and Speer both are serving 20-year terms and have nine years left to serve. Admiral Karl Doenitz was released last year when he completed his 10-year term. Admiral Erich Raeder, foreign minister Konstantin Von Neurath and economics minister Walther Funk were released before completion of their terms because they were old and ill.

Biggest Little Stories Of Year

By DOC QUIGG United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—The biggest little stories of the year (sorted and classified for history's long run):

Genius In January, in Knoxville, Tenn., the FBI had to step in and capture escaped convict Robert Husky. He had made good his escape from a state prison by pouring disinfectant on his feet. The bloodhounds turned up their noses at his trail and walked off the job.

Modernity In February, in Los Angeles, Jerry A. Prod, 19, was arrested for shaving—while driving. The cop said Prod was hurrying to work trying to steer his car while using an electric razor.

Fortitude In March, in Brie-Comte-Robert, France, Auguste Ibrlesie won a bet of a bottle of champagne by gulping more than four gallons of fresh clams in less than an hour. Then he drank the champagne.

Mail Gail In April, in Memphis, Tenn., a letter to a penal farm inmate was returned to the post office stamped "escaped." The post office returned it to the sender stamped: "Moved. Left no forwarding address."

Domesticity In May, in Los Angeles, Mrs. Robert Biggs got a divorce on the ground that she was lonely. Her husband owned a burlesque theater.

Invention In June, in Brawley, Calif., farmer W. I. Fifield reported that a helicopter landed in his watermelon patch, the pilot jumped out, grabbed three melons, jumped back in, took off.

Medicine In July, in Tokyo, doctors pondered the case of the woman who was allergic to her husband. A top dermatologist flown from the U.S. to investigate the case reported only: "Whenever her husband would come near her she would break out in a rash similar to poison ivy."

Outrageous Fortune In September, in Paicoma, Calif., Mrs. Virginia Schoen, 34—who six months earlier had been rescued by the fire department when her hands got caught in a non-functioning garbage machine—did it again. Barefoot, she tried to kick shut the refrigerator door, got her big toe caught in the hole left by a removed broken handle, got rescued by the same F. D.

Philosophy In October, in San Diego, bartender Pat Freeman unveiled a "Sputnik Cocktail" designed for engineers working at nearby missile plants. Ingredients: Vodka and the juice of sour grapes.

The Military Again October, in London, it was disclosed in Parliament that Britain has an enormous military stockpile — of "pants, woolen, long" for the Women's Royal Army Corps — enough surplus women's long underwear to last the corps 800 years.

Identification In November, in St. Paul, Minn., a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Watkins and named Sputnik Eisenhower Watkins.
