Mrs. Perry Lefors Services Monday

Mrs. Perry Lefors, who would have been 90 years old on March 4, died quietly in her sleep on Saturday morning at 5:30 in Worley Hospital. She had been invalid for over two years, since Oct. 1955.

Mrs. Lefors was one of the early pioneer settlers of this area, having come to the Panhandle area as early as 1884. She was born in Rhinefelden, Switzerland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Lang, prominent citizens in Rhinefelden, who were engaged in the furniture and upholstery business. The business is now being carried on by Anton Lang's great-grandchildren.

The then Miss Lang came with her father and sister, Lena, to the United States and settled in Frankfort, Ky. After spending two years there, Miss Lang, with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thut, came to the Panhandle in 1884. Enroute to the Travis Leach Camp on the North Fork of Red River at an overnight stop in the Diamond F Ranch, Miss Lang met Perry Lefors, ranch foreman. This meeting culminated in their marriage three years later on Jan. 15, 1887. To this union were born six daughters and one son.

Mr. Lefors preceded his wife in death on Sept. 6, 1909, as did four daughters, Mava, Erna, Eva, and Frieda, who succumbed to the typhoid fever epidemic which ravaged the country that year. All died within a space of six weeks, six weeks.

Mr. Lefors, a founding father of Gray County, was among the first settlers in the area. He came to the Panhandle in 1878 and settled on the North Fork of Red River, near the present site of Lefors, his namesake. As an interpreter and mediator between the Indians and Frontiersmen in those days, Lefors was regarded by his friends as a philosopher and a good neighbor to everyone. He was instrumental in getting petitions signed to organize Gray County at the end of the century. A second namesake, Perry Lefors Field, county airport, is also a memorial to his life.

Mrs. Lefors' main concern in life was the welfare of her family. She was a devoted wife and mother; never critical of the hardships that were a part of the early pioneers' life. The happiest moments of her life were when she could cook and prepare large feasts from family recipes she brought with her from Switzerland. She was instrumental in organizing the first Christian Science Church in Pampa thirty years ago to which she was a devoted member; and was also a member for twenty years of the first chapter of Eastern Star organized here.

A true American, Mrs. Lefors loved her adopted country and lived by the creed passed on by her husband, "first learn to love the people, then you will love the country."

Hearing On Injunction Suit Against City Postponed

The hearing on the temporary injunction against the City of Pampa to halt construction work on the Hobart street underpass was postponed Friday afternoon and a rescheduled hearing in District Court on Feb. 7 at 2:30 p.m.

A continuation of the injunction hearing was requested by the council for the city. They requested that they be given additional time to prepare the defense case. The city is represented by the firm of Gordon, Gordon and Buzard.

The attorneys for Claude McLaughlin, operator of McLaughlin Grocery, 802 S. Hobart, who filed the suit for the injunction, did not oppose the request for continuation. McLaughlin filed the suit after construction work on the underpass project and the storm sewer system for the underpass had resulted in the blocking of his business.

The ditch for the storm sewer had blocked the entrance to his store and the placing of the bypass tracks for the Santa Fe Railway were placed on Ripley.

It was stated in court Friday afternoon that the ditch in front of McLaughlin's business was being filled in and that customers could use Hobart, going north from Wilks, to arrive at the store.

Jaycees Distinguished Service Award Given To Warren Hasse

Warren Hasse received the distinguished service award for outstanding community service at the annual "Bosses Night" banquet held by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, Friday night in the Palm Room of City Hall.

The award is to reward the efforts of individuals interested in their community's progress. Hasse has served on several civic projects and his efforts in this line are well recognized. He is also popular as a sports broadcaster for radio station KPDM, which he co-owns with Coy Palmer.

Jack Lacy, manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker for the event and his talk capped off the successful affair.

Lacy expertly laced humor and moral into his talk. His vocal expressions brought numerous chuckles throughout the evening and he drove his point home on the value of an imaginative and enthusiastic Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Kay Fancher acted as emcee for the event and introduced the Jaycees and their bosses and special guests, including E. O. Wedgeworth; E. L. "Smiley" Henderson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Rufe Jordan, Gray County sheriff.

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, introduced Lacy.

Horton Russell gave a brief outline of the club's activities during the last year and pointed out that an even more ambitious schedule is being worked out for 1958.

The event climaxed the observance of Jaycee Week in Pampa as proclaimed by Mayor Lynn Boyd last Sunday. John J. Jones was in charge of the activities during the week.

RECEIVES AWARD—Warren Hasse, left, was named recipient of the Pampa Jaycees' distinguished service award for outstanding community service at the club's annual "Bosses Night" banquet Friday night. The banquet was the climax of Jaycee Week in Pampa. Hasse is shown above displaying the plaque he received and being congratulated by John J. Jones, chairman of the club's Jaycee Week committee. ## Khrushy: 'Sputniks Not All'

By WHITMAN BASSOW

United Press Staff Correspondent MOSCOW (UP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a speech made public Saturday said the two Soviet Sputniks are "by no means the last word in Soviet science and technology." He coupled the statement with a fresh call for a "very urgent" East-West summit conference.

He said again that the Soviet Union can and "shall probably" launch another earth satellite "double and more than double the weight" of Sputniks I and II. Sputnik I weighed 184 pounds. Sputnik II, still circling the earth in space, weighs more than half a ton. The weights were announced by Soviet scientists at the time of the launchings last Oct. 4 and Nov. 3.

The Communist Party leader spoke glowingly about Russian scientific advances in a speech he made Wednesday at Minsk, en route back to Moscow from secret talks at the border with Polish officials. He now is back in Moscow. Details for the speech were released by the Tass news agency.

Promises Bigger Satellite In the field of international affairs, he said the Soviet government "considers the need to convene a conference of leading statesmen of a high level, with the participation of the heads of government, as very urgent."

On space science he said: "The world's first artificial satellites have been successfully built and launched in the Soviet Union. Furthermore, the launching of the satellites is by no means the last word in Soviet science and technology."

It was recalled that shortly after the Sputnik launchings last fall, Khrushchev said the Soviets had other surprises "up our sleeves." At that time he said that bigger and heavier Sputniks could be hurled into space with Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"There has been surprise throughout the world that the weight of the second satellite was more than six times that of the first and totalled more than half a ton," he said.

Old Timer's Club Meets

Twenty members of the Area Old Timer's Club met Friday for a business session and party. Persons who have lived in the Panhandle area for 50 years or more are eligible to attend the meetings and automatically become members.

For the program, every old timer present told of some experience he or she had during the early days of the Panhandle when settlers, rather than towns, dominated the area.

Mrs. Cliff Vincent, Lefors, read a story of early day life in the Panhandle in concluding the program.

During the business meeting, the group decided to meet the first Friday in January, April, July and October, during the year. Refreshments of Angel Food cake and coffee were served.

U. S. SIGNS FAIR PACT

WARSAW (UP)—The United States and Poland have signed a 10-year agreement providing for American participation in the annual International Poznan Fair, it was reported today. ## R. C. Hoiles Clarifies New Pampa News Slogan

Today the News discontinues the use of the slogan "One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers." In its place will appear as a slogan, "Your Freedom Newspapers."

An editorial in today's issue gives the old slogan and the new one, with the explanation of each slogan.

R. C. Hoiles, president of Freedom Newspapers, Inc., which publishes The News, said, "The change was made for two reasons: 'The slogan did not specify what the newspaper was attempting to be consistent with. It was therefore often misunderstood. 'Another objection to the slogan was that it set a standard of other men rather than of principles of God. It had a tendency to try to

READY AND WAITING — As the photo at left testifies, Franks Manufacturing, a division of Cabot Shops, has done its part in the "Derrick Man" March of Dimes project. The firm has set up its newest rig and hauled a crane cabin up about three quarters of the way to the top, or 60 feet, into which disc jockey Earl Davis will step at 4 p.m. today and not "return to earth" until $2,000 has been contributed for this project to the MOD campaign. Davis will play records and appeal for contributions from his lofty perch. In the above photo, two Franks employees are shown as they rode the crane cabin up to secure it to the rig. They are Felix Fisher and Beryle Teague. (News Photo)

Disc Jockey Goes Up Today

Today will be a big day in the local March of Dimes campaign.

For today, the telethon, which has been going on all night over an Amarillo television station, and to which Top of Texas have contributed (with their gift counted toward Gray County's drive), will culminate at 4 p.m. and disc jockey Earl Davis will begin his stay in a crane cabin 60 feet above the City Hall lawn. Davis will stay in the cabin until $2,000 has been raised for the March of Dimes. Franks Manufacturing, a division of Cabot Shops, supplied the cabin and a new rig to lift it into the air.

The local National Guard unit will pick up all contributions to the telethon today. Contributors have been asked to call MO5-5737 and tell members of the Desk and Derrick Club, who have worked the phones all night and will work today, how much they wish to give. Local contributors will have their name included in drawings to be held in connection with the telethon.

Mail contributions to the telethon will be accepted. They should be sent to March of Dimes Telethon, care of Postmaster, Pampa, Texas.

At about the time the telethon is supposed to end, 4 p.m., Davis will climb the ladder 60 feet into the crane cabin and there he will perch until the $2,000 goal is reached.

A 55-gallon barrel will be placed at the base of the rig in which passersby may place their contributions. Davis will do his regular afternoon disc jockey show over radio station KPAT from his lofty abode. He will also be "armed" with a loudspeaker to appeal for contributions from those who pass near the rig after 5 p.m. each day. Earl is in a big rush to get down so he won't miss any more Pampa Harvester basketball games than absolutely necessary. He is expected to ask for large contributions from any and all.

Yesterday morning, employees of Franks Manufacturing drove their newest rig into town and parked it on the City Hall Lawn. A couple of hours later, the rig

'For Betterment Of Mankind; And Not For Its Destruction'

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower told the world Saturday that U. S. and British scientists have taken the first step toward harnessing the hydrogen bomb for "the betterment of mankind" and not for its destruction. He made the statement in publicly congratulating the scientists for their progress, announced Friday, toward controlling the vast power of thermonuclear fusion.

The President's statement was broadcast around the globe as a reminder to all impressed by Russia's Sputniks that the West also is capable of major scientific achievements.

The United States had been criticized in Britain for its earlier reluctance to exploit the propaganda aspects of the hydrogen-energy advances which were jointly reported by the two governments Friday.

Eisenhower's statement also carried a renewed plea for action to devote the skills and energies of all nations to "a worldwide atoms-for-peace program."

He said: "The simultaneous announcements yesterday by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of the Atomic Energy Authority of the United Kingdom, is evidence of the continuous work going on by scientists of our two countries to harness the atom for the benefit of mankind," he said.

"The eventual peaceful evolution of the vast thermonuclear power of the hydrogen bomb from an instrument of war to a service to humanity opens up unbelievable vistas for the future."

"This is only a first step, but it does bring within the realm of possibility a limitless supply of atomic power and energy for all the world for many thousands of years to come."

"The people of the United States congratulate the American and British scientists for the contribution they are making toward peaceful uses of the atom. All Americans sincerely hope that other scientists in other countries will be encouraged by their governments to do similar research."

"As these and other scientific experiments continue, the adoption of a worldwide atoms-for-peace program becomes more inevitable to permit all scientists to devote their skills and energies to the betterment of mankind—not to its destruction."

The project for Gray County is the widening, strengthening and resurfacing of State Hwy. 152 from US Hwy. 60 east of Pampa, to Laketon. This work will be under the supervision of G. K. Reading, resident engineer.

Greer stated that the Traffic Safety Program would be directed toward 918 Miles of Highways in 104 counties. The 158 projects scheduled will be on highways which carry traffic volumes of from 600 to 3,000 per day.

Narrow pavements will be widened, and shoulders improved. Culverts and structures at hazardous locations will be widened, and dangerous curves flattened. In addition, other safety features were programmed—channelization of traffic, control of access with barriers placed along hazardous sections, control of access with frontage roads at points of congestion, and similar work.

"We expect to get all work under way on this special traffic safety program during the calendar year of 1958," Greer stated.

Officers of the Regiment managed to support their Band.

In 1781, Emperor Franz Josef II stationed the Deutschemeister in Vienna, and then the band acquired the typical Viennese touch which it still retains. From this time on, the Band was the official ensemble at dances, and other social events of the army. The group was more than just a military band; it became the peacetime interpreter of the finest in Viennese music.

Hedy Fasserl, charming soprano of the comic opera branch of the Vienna State Opera was born in Vienna. She began her career as a dancer, but after the war she began taking singing lessons at the Vienna State Academy. As her voice improved and her range expanded, she moved on to such major theaters as the Raimund Theatre and the Wiener Berbertheater in Vienna, and prominent musical theaters of Germany, Switzerland, Denmark and Sweden. (See Concert, Page 3)

Vienna's legacy to the world of the best in light music will live again when this major musical production, under the patronage of Austria's Chancellor, His Excellency Julius Raab, makes its U. S. tour.

Star billing goes to the Deutschemeister Band, under the direction of Austria's undisputed March King, Captain Julius Herrmann, who has been called "the Furtwaengler of the brass." Soloists are soprano Hedy Fasserl, star of the famous Vienna Volksoper, films, radio and television, and debonair tenor Erwin von Gross, well known in Europe as Austria's "Mr. Operetta." The attraction will also include the Singing Boys and Girls of the Vienna Woods (gumpoldskirchen), the Grinzinger Schrammel Ensemble, and a rather player for vocal accompaniments.

In 1741, Empress Maria Theresa commanded that each regiment should have its own band to stimulate the troops on parade or in battle. The band of the Deutschemeister regiment first played in Milan, Italy, in 1741. For reasons of economy, the Austrian Court Council ordered that each commanding Colonel had to support his own regimental band. Many groups fell by the wayside, but Commander Colliore and the of-

'MARSHALL' WYATT EARP — Gray County's own Wyatt Earp is shown polishing his saddle in preparation to ride in the parade of Wyatt Earp Day in Dodge City, Kans., tomorrow. Young Wyatt, 5, is a deputy marshal of Dodge City and will lead the parade along with the TV Wyatt Earp, Hugh O'Brian. Wyatt will leave for Dodge City this afternoon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. ## Pampa's Wyatt Earp Will Lead Celebration Parade At Dodge City

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

A young Gray County resident will once again help in leading the parade at Wyatt Earp Day tomorrow in Dodge City, Kans.

The young man is Wyatt Earp, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Earp who live south of Pampa. The people of Dodge City "took to" Wyatt last year when he put in an appearance at their annual celebration.

This will be the second year that the namesake of the famous marshal of the old West has led the parade in Dodge City.

This year the celebration at the Kansas city will feature two Wyatt Earps. One of them will be a real Wyatt Earp and the other one will be Hugh O'Brian, who portrays the rugged pioneer of the Old West on television.

Young Wyatt will not be able to ride his own horse, Tony, in the parade. When asked the reason, he said, "He has a cut foot." His mother explained that while the family was gone during the Christmas holidays the Welsh pony cut the foot on a fence.

This won't be any problem though as the citizens of Dodge City have already promised to furnish young Earp with a horse for the celebration. It won't be his own horse but at least Wyatt will be using his own saddle.

The saddle was given to him last May by the citizens of Dodge City. A delegation of men from that town flew to Pampa at that time and presented the saddle to Wyatt.

While being interviewed Wyatt was busily polishing the saddle in preparation for tomorrow's celebration. He had just finished polishing his holsters and gun belt and said he was ready to go to Dodge City.

Young Wyatt is the youngest deputy marshal ever appointed in Dodge City. He has a commission card and his badge bears the numerals '25' along with the words 'Dodge City.'

He was deputized last May and has all the authority of any officer of Dodge City.

When asked what he wanted to be when he grew up, Wyatt said, "I don't know. I'll decide when I grow up."

Wyatt received a football suit last Christmas and, according to his mother, can hardly wait to be old enough to play football with other boys. He stated that he wanted to be a football player when he goes to school.

He will start to school next fall and hopes he will get to attend Woodrow Wilson School.

Like all growing boys, he likes to play but gets the most fun from riding his horse.

When he has on his western attire, complete with his guns and badge, young Wyatt seems to be a small version of an old-time Western lawman and if the expression on his face is any indication, he likes to dress like one.

Much Money Spent On Farm Problem; Still No Solution

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — In last week's slashing attack on Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, the chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee accused Benson of sharp practices.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) was the accuser. He objected to Benson's estimate of the 1957 cost of the farm price subsidy, contending that other costs were included in the lump sum which Benson was reading from a prepared statement.

The lump sum was $3,200,000,000 and Benson was coming in his text to a mention of the economic, military and other activities abroad which also were included in the figure. He failed to get that far, however, before Ellender and others cut in with their charge that Benson was attempting to mislead the public with a padded estimate of farm subsidy burdens on the federal Treasury.

A Bipartisan Hazing

Republican senators joined Democrats in giving Benson as rough a congressional going over as any cabinet officer is likely to face unless he were up for impeachment. Benson would have been better off explaining his program before the Senate in its chamber than he could hope to be before the Agriculture Committee.

That committee was loaded against him. It reflects the opinions, prejudices and aspirations of one of the most effective pressure groups operating in American politics. That group commonly is called the farm bloc.

Benson spent six somewhat disorderly hours before the Senate committee attempting to state the administration's case for its farm proposals which are intended to reduce or prevent over-production and thereby to cut the costs of government efforts to support basic farm prices with federal subsidies.

There are facts and figures on both sides of the argument. Benson's best argument is that the subsidy program has not worked so far. The taxpayer who is or is not a farmer has a stake and a legitimate interest in the farm price ruckus now developing here. The taxpayer pays the bills and the bills have been considerable over the years.

For a lasting solution of the farm problem the price would have to be cheap. But the problem remains and the money is gone.

Without trying to mislead anyone, as Benson was accused of trying, it is worth knowing that a publication called the federal budget in brief states that federal expenditures for 10 fiscal years, 1950-59, inclusive, for functions for "agriculture and agriculture resources" add up to $33,400,000,000.

Exceeds Truman's Budget

These functions are officially described as farm price support and related programs, agricultural land and water resources, rural electrification and rural telephone loans, farm ownership and operation loans, research and other agricultural items.

In the new 1959 budget, for example, more than two-thirds of the projected expenditure is for farm price support and related programs. That amounts for $3,200,000,000 of the $4,600,000,000 budgeted. That is more money than the preceding Democratic administration was accustomed to spend to aid farmers.

Harry S. Truman prepared the budgets for 5 of the 10 fiscal years referred to. The greatest expenditure in any of those years for agriculture and agricultural resources was $2,900,000,000 in 1953. The least under President Eisenhower was $4,400,000,000 in 1955.

Dartmouth's "Indians"

Nickname for Dartmouth College's athletic teams is "Indians," derived from the fact that the school was chartered in 1769 as a charity school for the Indians.

How To Trim Pentagon Waistline

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA) — A crisis has the same effect on a nation that an expense account has on a salesman — it loosens the pocketbook.

So most of the committees inspecting President Eisenhower's 74 billion dollar budget will ponder whether we are spending enough this year — particularly on rockets and missiles to worry Bulgarians and Comrades into political politeness. Looks like a grim season for pennypinchers.

But that shouldn't mean all Pentagon items should be indorsed, for I'm sure enough billions can be cut from boobish boondoggles to create a traffic jam in outer-space.

I have long proposed a Presidential mission to diet non-essential outlays to the national rib cage. I've offered — for mere travel costs and odd beverages — to play guide.

I'd take it to Scottfield Barracks in Hawaii where a veterinarian with lieutenant's bars spends 10 hours weekly treating bowser's snuffles and kitty's rash — and even the odd distempered canary — the pride of pet loving officers. Does this further an anti-missile missile?

I'd take it to Heidelberg, where Army jeeps and gas transport uniforms big game hunters. To Pireus, Greece, where Navy launches go deep sea fishing. To Tokyo, where canned goods hooked from Army commissaries provision many a home-away-from-home.

I'd take it to Clark Field, the Philippines, where your dollars run an expensive closed TV circuit to keep the poor bored darlings updated on Perry Como.

Does this fill a rocket's war-head?

I would take it to one Air Force base where two airmen devote full time to putting out a weekly paper — complete with gossip column — usually deposited, unwrapped, in the trash.

To another where an airman jerks sodas at a government counter — 100 yards from a civilian sweet shoppe.

Does this knit a single strand on our radar-defense web?

I would take it to Fort Bragg where drafted GIs spend unpleased days monthly shaking martinis on the brass hat cocktail circuit, manhandling the colonel's lawn, chauffering the general's 10-year-old to dancing school, rolling tennis courts.

Does this put even a wainut in tours, bridge contests, reducing orbit?

I would take it to Okinawa where thousands yearly finance social programs to jolly service wives with bingo evenings, island courses. Also lessons in Japanese which a few will learn — just when hubby is transfereed to Iceland.

Does this blast off an ICBM?

I would take it aboard an aircraft carrier in the Mediterranean where an admiral uses a plane or vitation — to slip over to the Rivi helicopter — depending on the in-ers and have high tea or low cognac with a delightful Miss Fitz. Aboard a cruiser where mountains of dishes break everytime the sea has dyspepsia; no one takes the trouble to lash them tight. Aboard a destroyer whose propeller has been badly bent three times in 16 months — thanks to a navigator who couldn't get a license to run an oxcart in Lhasa, Tibet.

Does this create a guided torpedo to run under the Archangel icepack?

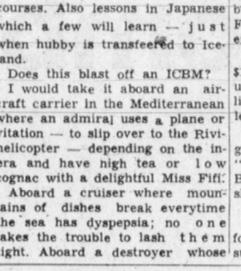

This is but a partial itinerary of the Sparks Guided Tour to Cut-Rate Security. For further stops I'd display a suggestion box for any ex or present serviceman — no names, please.

The Hoover Commission saved millions by ending competitive buying; the Army, Navy and Air Force bid madly against each other for catchers' mitts.

But don't forget the $1,000 and $100 and $10 bill. Henry Ford used to go around turning off lights. Old Man Woolworth collected odd snips of ribbon.

As the battle of the budget begins, let the tired taxpayer cry: "Billions for defense — gladly. But not one cent for skin-diving slippers for mountain troops."

Kansas annually produces one-fourth of the U.S. winter wheat supply.

COLD COURSE—While most of the nation's students are burning midnight oil preparing for final exams, Jim Johnson, University of Michigan student, does his homework through a hole in the ice. Part of his studies include making dives under the ice of a lake near the Ann Arbor campus, to see where the fish are and what they are doing under the wintry conditions.

Adenauer Moves Toward Red Talks

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made the first definite Allied move toward opening secret talks with Soviet Russia on easing world tension.

In a letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, the 82-year-old West German leader offered to turn the current Russian-German trade negotiations in Moscow into talks on East-West issues.

Alternatively, Adenauer said he was prepared to agree to "any other promising point of departure" to try to eliminate Russian-German tensions. But he added that he was ready to take up the whole range of disarmament and security issues, with which all Allied governments are concerned.

Strategy Seemingly Changed

A few days ago, it looked as if the United States might make the move through Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., its ambassador in Moscow, who has been ordered to Washington to confer with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

It seems certain, however, that Adenauer made his offer in agreement with the United States and other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

President Eisenhower, in his letter of Jan. 12 to Bulganin, said that secret diplomatic negotiations should precede any formal East-West talks by foreign ministers or heads of government.

However, the President's comment was made in general terms. Adenauer's proposal was specific. He asked Bulganin directly to agree to start the talks going.

London dispatches quote Communist diplomats as saying that the Soviet government still insists on a "summit" meeting. Not only that, but the Kremlin is represented as wanting to hold a jumbo conference which would include Allied, Communist and neutral leaders.

It is obvious that the Russians hope that by insistent propaganda, they can bring sufficient pressure on the United States, Great Britain, France and West Germany to agree to such a conference.

But if there are two men in the whole diplomatic world who are unlikely to be swayed by such propaganda and such pressure, they are Adenauer and Secretary Dulles, who represents Eisenhower.

The Soviet government certainly made a big and effective show with Bulganin's letters to heads of government of countries all over the world.

May Be Too Smart

But there are indications that the Kremlin may outsmart itself. Bulganin's letters were timed to get publicity just before the meeting of the NATO allies in Paris, which Eisenhower attended, and Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress.

The Soviet government followed this up with a statement on Tuesday, timed to rouse suspicion over the motives of Dulles in deciding to attend next week's meeting of the Middle Eastern Treaty Organization allies in Ankara, Turkey.

It seems reasonable to suggest that this bombardment of such obvious propaganda statements may already have reached the point of diminishing returns, to use a phrase sometimes applied to high taxation.

In any event, the Kremlin now has from Adenauer a direct and concrete proposal to get started by means of secret diplomatic talks if it really does want to find a way to reduce world tension.

The Truth About Air Ride

-and why it's better
in a Buick

Every window of every Buick is SAFETY GLASS.

Most cars have always used horizontal leaf springs. Some use horizontal torsion bars. For two decades, Buick has used nothing but upright coil springs at all 4 wheels for better, softer cushioning. And to get the most out of these buoyant upright springs—to bring additional solidity, balance and stability to the ride—Buick developed a new kind of chassis. This exclusive Buick chassis has the rugged roadability of a massive X-braced frame and the true-tracking steadiness of Buick's Rotoflow Torque-Tube Drive. Developed and perfected by 20 years of experience with upright springs, Buick's Miracle Ride Chassis today turns out to be a "natural" for replacing upright coil springs with upright air springs. It's this exclusive chassis engineering experience that gives you in Buick the smoothest, most advanced, most experienced air ride* in the world.

CONCERT

where she sang before the royal family as Vienna's musical representative. The crown of these successes was her engagement by the State Opera in her native city, where she sang first parts in all the classic Vienna musicals.
Czech - born Erwin von Gross makes his American debut as tenor star of "Vienna on Parade," he grew up in Vienna, and attended the Vienna School of Music. From there he was invited to the Graz Opera House, long the proving ground for Vienna itself, and a house in which many other great names received their "baptism of fire." In leading tenor roles both in classic and modern operettas, Gross has become a favorite with the public.
The Singing Boys and Girls of the Vienna Woods were organized a decade ago at Gumpoldskirchen, the ancient wine center on the Roman highway in the Wienerwald, by Professor Josef Ziegler, who remains the chief manager of the choir. Their Viennese and Austrian folk songs first won them acclaim on Radio Vienna. The dancing group which has become a permanent part of the Singing Boys and Girls of the Vienna Woods specialize in native folk-dances, performed in costume.
The Vienna Concert - Schrammel owes its name to a quartet established in the 18th century by the brothers Schrammel; they specialized in Viennese song. Reorganized after the war in 1946, the four players are graduates of the Vienna State Academy and members of first class Vienna orchestras. On the American tour of Vienna on Parade they will supply the background for vocal numbers.
The artists engaged for this concert are of the first rank. The repertoire is light and attractive. It promises to be one of the most engaging musical shows ever offered to the American public, and Pampa is fortunate to be included on their fourteen week tour. Admission to the concert is by membership card only.

Texas 'Drys' Expect New Victories

By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS (UP)—Anti - liquor forces in Texas expect to call more local option elections in 1958 than they did in 1957 and they expect to win more of them.
Why? Because this is an election year.
"Election years are years when church people win local option elections," the Rev. Albert F. Tucker, executive secretary of Texas Alcohol-Narcotics Education, Inc., said. "Off years are when the wets win."
Last year, according to Tucker, the dries won three elections and the wets won three. The dries regard as their 1957 victory the defeat of an attempt to allow the sale of beer only for home consumption in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas by 7,337 votes.
Tucker said TANE's function is education, not calling local option elections. He said that when local citizens decide they want to start a dry movement, TANE helps them with figures, facts, literature and speakers, but does not, in itself, set up a local option election.
He expects that one of the first local option elections of 1958 will be in Robertson county in south Central Texas, which prohibitionists would like to dry up completely. The county is now partly dry.
Education is Main Function
Tucker said TANE's function is education, not calling local option elections. He said that when local citizens decide they want to start a dry movement, TANE helps them with figures, facts, literature and speakers, but does not, in itself, set up a local option election.

65 Baptisms Reported By Catholics

The Sacrament of Baptism has been one of the most frequently administered Sacraments in Holy Souls Catholic Church in the past year, according to the Baptismal Record. There were 65 ceremonies performed in 1957.
Mary Beth LeFebure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. LeFebure, was the first baptism of 1957 when the ceremony was held on Jan. 13 with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neslage as Godparents.
Russell Robert Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Norton, was the last baptism administered by Rev. Myles Moynihan CM before his transfer to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kernan stood for the child who was baptized on Aug. 11. During September, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiCristo were Godparents for John Christopher Slinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Slinger. This was the first baptism officiated by Rev. Otis Meyer CM, who replaced Rev. Moynihan.
The baptismal birthday of Andra Dora Warminski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Warminski, was celebrated on Dec. 27. This was the 65th baptism. Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Haiduk were Godparents.
In some parishes, there is a set time for administering the Sacrament of Baptism. In other parishes, such as Pampa, Baptisms are by appointment.
"It took her more than three months to get him into a state hospital. If he had had a personal counseling service, we could have advised her right away," TANE emphasizes the educational approach, as opposed to the Carrie Nation approach. It has three full-time field workers to speak in churches and schools.
In 1957, TANE workers spoke in 2,709 churches and more than 2,000 schools, trying to warn adults and children against liquor or narcotics before they try them.

Ike Goes To Pentagon For Conference

By RUTHERFORD POATS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower went to the Defense Department Saturday and took a personal hand in planning reorganization of the military high command.
He conferred for more than two hours with 16 top military and civilian advisers, including Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, on how to reduce interservice rivalry and streamline the department's complex organization.
It was the first time in his five years in the presidency Mr. Eisenhower had gone to the huge defense headquarters across the Potomac River for a business conference. He had made four other visits for social functions.
The White House did not explain the unusual procedure except to say that it was the President's idea.
The conference followed McElroy's announcement earlier this week that the department is proceeding "under forced draft" to set up a reorganization plan.
Reorganization is a hotly disputed issue in Congress which has been aroused by Russia's apparent supremacy in the ballistic missiles and Sputnik fields.
Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the conference was a follow-up on the President's pledge, in his state of the union address and last Monday's Chicago speech, to participate personally in "prompt" moves to unify and improve the defense organization.
Neither Mr. Eisenhower nor the other participants gave a hint of the plans being considered.
The President emerged from the conference at 11:25 p.m. c.s.t. and told photographers who earlier had requested a group picture, "I'm sorry, gentlemen, but I'm here on business."
Changes publicly endorsed by some of the conferees range from scrapping the present Joint Chiefs of Staff in favor of a single military chief with a German-style general staff, to cautious proposals designed to reduce red tape delays in getting Pentagon decisions.
Two key Republican senators declared their opposition to drastic changes which may create a military strong-man Saturday.
Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) rejected a "Prussian type supreme general staff" under a single commander as "a military monstrosity" and "a device of alien militarism." Bridges is chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and senior GOP member of the Preparedness subcommittee.
Two former chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, the present service secretaries and chiefs, and two of the three special civilian consultants appointed by McElroy this week were present at the Pentagon conference.

Born In Canadian Financier Robert R. Young Found Dead In Winter Home

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Robert R. Young, the "Maverick of Wall Street" who whipped some of the country's top financial wizards despite his "bantam" size, shot and killed himself Friday at his palatial oceanfront home.
The 60-year-old chairman of the board of New York Central Railroad apparently did not leave a suicide note. But Mrs. Young, the only member of the family here now, told Police Lt. F. A. Mead that he had been "despondent the last few days."
Mead said doctors estimated that Young had killed himself at about 10 a.m. and the body lay unseen for two hours.
The weapon he chose was a double barreled shotgun, and both barrels had been fired. Mead said Young's body was seated in a chair.
Mrs. Young was in the house at the time, Mead said.
Young came here in December to spend the winter in accordance with his annual custom, a member of the house staff told police. He had been a prominent member of the winter social colony here for 20 years, and his home was one of the largest in the fashionable resort.
Young was the central figure of a proxy battle for control of the New York Central and became its chairman of the board in 1954, on leaving the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad.
Young had become chairman of the C&O Board in 1942.
He was born in Canadian, Tex., Feb. 14, 1897, and began his highly successful business career with the Du Pont Company. He held positions as corporate officer with the Allied Chemical Corp., General Motors, and the Allegheny Corp., among other firms.
A drop of 58 per cent in the price of the New York Central's common stock in 1957 had caused Young to reorganize his personal assets last October.
He sold 50,000 shares of his 100,200-share holding to his wife, who in turn sold him 7,300 shares of her 12,650 - share holding of Allegheny Corp. $4 preferred stock. It was through Allegheny, a holding company, that Young obtained control of the railroad.
No Financial Difficulty
A business source said that Young was not in financial straits. "There was no financial difficulty at all of any kind, none of even a minor nature," he said.
The source said that Young had other personal investments which would have offset the slump in Central stock last year.
He said Young's realignment of his assets, in which he sold part of his holding, was partly for year-end tax purposes.
He estimated Young's present wealth at several million dollars.
It was understood that Young had planned to come to New York city this week for an Allegheny board meeting.
Young, a vociferous Texan from the panhandle country who became known as the Maverick of Wall Street because of his spectacular financial manipulations, had spent little time in New York for the past year, staying most of the time at his Palm Beach and Newport, R.I., homes.
Mead Boastful Promises
He had left operation of the Central up to its president, Alfred Perlman, who was reported en route to Washington at the time Young's death was disclosed.
Young made some grandiose promises when he took over the New York Central after a proxy battle with the aid of money put up by Texas oil millionaire Clint Murchison and Sid Richardson.
Young said the value of NYC stock would go up and stay up after he took over. He boasted that the road would become one of the best railroad investments in the nation and said that the only reason it had never before realized its full potential was because of Morgan and Vanderbilt interests in it.
NYC Stock Dips
NYC stock, which was in the low 20s during the proxy battle, went up to nearly $50 a share. Then in late 1956, the railroads in general began to lose money and NYC stock nosedived to around 13. It closed at 15.5 on the market Friday.
Young, whose height of five feet six inches earned him the nickname of the smallest Texan in the world, squared off during his fabulous rise with many of Wall Street's mighty, including the Morgans, Mellons, Vanderbilts and Harrimans. In most cases, he emerged the winner.
He made his first million in the stock market crash of 1929. He amassed a fortune doing what others considered unorthodox. His efforts was in buying seemingly worthless securities, reorganizing companies and making them pay. He had an uncanny knack for producing dividends.
The hardest work I ever did was punching cattle down in Texas," he once said. It was more strenuous than fighting bankers for control of railroads.
Young was attacked as a brass promoter by many. But he refused to be valetudinarian of his graduating class at Culver Military Academy because of shy-

FIRE STATION BOSS — Fireman W. D. Powers and "Mister," the station mascot, look over the equipment to see if everything is under control. "Mister" has been the big "boss" around the station for some time now and doesn't seem satisfied at night until he has checked all of the doors and surrounding grounds of the fire station before retiring to the broom closet for the night. ## 'Mister' Is 'Boss' At Central Fire Station

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer

Almost nine years ago, "Mister" came to live at the Central Station of the Pampa Fire Department. He was a tiny month-old pup which, by all means was not the traditional black and white spotted Dalmatian "fire dog," but he has served his purpose well.

He is part bulldog and part collie, weighing about twenty pounds and standing about 18 inches high. He has a pointed nose and short, stubby tail, which wags with joy and happiness when a box of "Yummies," favorite candy of cakes, comes into sight.

Elmer Doggett, who formerly lived in Pampa, gave the pup to the station, which immediately became his home and the crew his masters.

The "red car" is his and the Chief's "Mister" feels that he has priority in the question of who comes first concerning the vehicle.

When asked if he wants in the "red car," the little dog runs to the door and whines, and if the questioner is only joking, he spends some time in the "closet," "pouting."

The crew at the station has never trained the dog, now beginning to gray around his muzzle, to ride on a truck for fear he will be thrown off and hurt; however, he has more times than not ridden in the Chief's car to the fires.

One time in particular when "Mister" was in the car asleep, his favorite hideaway, a fire alarm came in from the southeast part of the city and he went along for the ride, not much disturbed for all of the excitement. Whoever was driving the car evidently failed to shut the door when he got out because when the trucks returned to the station and the excitement died down, no "Mister" was in sight. The men then remembered seeing him in the car and returned to the scene of the blaze.

In the middle of the night, without even a close street light burning, a very much irritated "Mister," sat in the same spot where the car had been parked. He had been waiting for the fire crew to return and take him back to his favorite spot.

Not many "strange dogs" have invaded the territory around the station house which he rules over like the "king of the beasts." If a little dog should be around that belongs to someone, a couple of scoldings will calm "Mister's" temperament and he leaves it alone, if it doesn't bother him too much.

A monkey shared the spotlight with the dog for several years before he got "too mean to keep" and had to be given away. "Mister" tolerated him and that was all. Nobody has favor in the eyes of the pup if they get more attention than he does, according to the firemen.

"During 'Fire Prevention Week,' the first thing visiting students ask to see is not the giant pump trucks or a fireman sliding down the pole into the downstairs part of the station; but, to see "Mister," the "boss" around the station.

"Mister" knows when it is time for him to eat and the nearest fireman around usually gets his foot stepped on, a friendly little look with a slight question, and a whine to let him know that the little fellow is again hungry. If no attention is paid him, "Mister" scratches his chosen "feeder" on the leg and heads for the cabinet where his food is kept. If by chance the water can is dry when he gets thirsty, old "Mister" turns it over and waits, if he gets no response, he rattles it around un-

Is Okinawa Important Strategically Or Not?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The United States is building its strategy in the Western Pacific around the stronghold of Okinawa, a semi-tropical island 75 miles long, some 1,000 miles south of Tokyo. Last week the island capital of Naha installed its second leftist mayor. How reliable is Okinawa as a base. What is its future?

By ARNOLD DIBBLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO (UP) — The biggest American stronghold in the Pacific is Okinawa. It is within 1,500 miles — range of an intermediate range ballistic missile — of virtually every potential trouble spot in Eastern Asia.

But this works two ways. So is Okinawa really a vitally valuable base in the atomic age?

This reporter spent 10 days in Okinawa recently and propounded this question to many persons. Very few doubted that Okinawa was a highly-prized piece of military real estate, but with important qualifications.

First, though virtually no one will talk about it, it must be realized that Okinawa today is fully ready for instant atomic retaliation. There are rockets and planes ready to strike at once.

And secondly, with the rough, tough 3rd Marine Division encamped there, Okinawan forces are ready to move at once to intervene in so-called "brush fire" wars. The Third Marines, for instance, were put on transports and headed for sea when the Indonesian crisis was at its height.

Could Be Neutralized
But the qualifications are important, too. There is no doubt that three well-placed nuclear bombs from the Red Chinese mainland could put the island out of business. As in case of war, there could be sabotage of considerable proportions behind the lines by Communists.

However, this is true of virtually every base in the world which rings Russia or Red China.

Meantime, what has the military made of Okinawa?

There are 40,000 Marines, Army, Air Force and Navy men on the island. Many of them — Marines excepted — have brought dependents.

Houses Overlook Sea
There are row upon row of one story, modern type houses in neat, grassy housing areas, many overlooking the beautiful China Sea.

The Americans have brought their cars, too. But traffic is kept running smoothly and a 30 m.p.h. speed limit is strictly enforced.

It also is an island of giant PXs, of fabulous military clubs, swimming pools and a much criticized golf course. This course is primitive indeed by U.S. standards, but because arable land is so scarce, it is the target of bitter propaganda by the leftists.

Claim PXs Too Big
There also is the charge that Okinawa is one giant post exchange.

It is true that the PXs cater to just about every need. American businessmen complain that the PX has far exceeded its original purpose of supplying necessities to servicemen away from home.

Inevitably, the PX has led to black marketing. It is estimated that at least 50 per cent of the coffee in Japan is smuggled from Okinawa. And there are shops along the main highways openly selling spare parts for American refrigerators, stoves and autos. These parts could come from only one source.

But it all adds up to a comfortable place for Americans to live. And this is reflected by the reenlistment rate which, for the Air Force, is the highest in the world.

Big Bend National Park, in western Texas, encompasses more than 707,000 acres of mountains and canyons.

WHILE THE BIRD'S AWAY—White Paws, a kitten belonging to Mrs. Martin Gal of Battle Creek, Mich., figures a cage in hand is better than chasing a bird any day. That's why she pays no attention to Peppi, the parakeet, when the bird is let out of its cage to fly around the house. It's the cage White Paws wants—and into which she pops as soon as the bird has flown the coop. While Peppi flutters around outside, White Paws takes a cat nap inside.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—It's now as official as a federal court judge can make it. During trial of a film rental suit in San Francisco, an attorney said: "The motion picture business, your honor, is unique." "You can say that again," commented Federal Judge Ed Murphy.

MICKEY ROONEY'S Andy Hardy revival in MGM's "Andy Hardy Comes Home" may include walk-ons for all the dolls he loved it up with in the mid-30's flickers. What a list—Judy Garland, Ava Gardner, Esther Williams, Lana Turner and Gloria de Haven...

Now that all the commercial sponsorship has been eliminated, the big names are eager to guest on the Oscar Awards telecast March 26. Clark Gable has agreed to his live TV debut for the show and Danny Kaye will do a comedy routine.

If he can cut the legal red tape in his NBC contract, Jack Webb will retire as an actor to concentrate on directing and producing. There's a chance now that "Dragnet" will be renewed in '59 and the plot is to spring Jack from the show, with Ben Alexander taking over and breaking in a new partner.

The guest star epidemic is moving into domestic comedy. "December Bride" and the Danny Thomas Show will lean heavily on big-name guests in future stanzas...

Lighter Side Of Congress by FRANK ELEAZER United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—The lighter side of Congress:

With most of our lawmakers each day more deeply involved in problems of space, photographers around the Senate are wrestling with a matter that is merely, but increasingly, global.

It has to do with a senator's head. "Don't shoot the bald spot," Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has been warning them lately. Johnson laughs, but this is not to be mistaken to mean he is kidding. Officially, Johnson is not running for president. But he'll have a hard time making the picture men believe it.

On occasion, Johnson has stopped a press conference until he got all the photos around up in front of him. So far they haven't had too much trouble cooperating. But they wonder how long they can remain in his good graces and still take their pictures. Bald spots have a way of speaking.

The best current examples of the old senatorial haircut as a matter of fact are being displayed by two House members—Reps. L. Mendel Rivers (D-S.C.) and Leslie C. Arends (R-Ill.), neither of whom has said anything yet about parlaying the overdue haircut into a seat in the Senate.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has been presiding over the Senate since 1953, not only has not succumbed to the uninhibited Senate-type haircut but lately has been wearing his noticeably shorter.

"It's not Madison Avenue," he claims. "It's Martin of the Senate barber shop."

Barber Martin, Nixon reports, has been cutting his hair for years. Lately, Martin decided it would look better shorter.

It used to be that a man's wife made important decisions like that.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.), tall, lean, and 44, has a full head of black wavy hair, with a nice touch of gray at the temples. It is beautiful, and he aims to keep it that way.

Smathers takes all kinds of precautions against getting bald. He even owned up recently to standing on his head now and then, to encourage good circulation in the scalp. In 20 or 30 years we will let you know how that works.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, a man who as everybody knows has his last problems with hair years ago, was posing for pictures this week with Rep. Howard W. Robinson (R-N.Y.), who had just taken his seat in the House.

Rayburn introduced the ubiquitous picture men to the new member as follows: "They're nice fellows, but sort of like waris. They are all over you."

Stock Market Is 'Bull Movement'

By ELMER C. WALZER United Press Financial Editor NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks this week broke through a hitherto impenetrable barrier and signaled what chart experts hailed as a new bull movement that could carry on for several weeks.

This barrier was set on Nov. 29, 1957, at 449.87 in the industrial average. It was a level that attracted new selling each time it was approached until the late Friday dealing when it was pierced with such vigor that tickers ran late for a few minutes.

This operation was purely technical and had nothing to do with the news which tended toward the bearish side despite moves toward easier money and high consumer buying at retail.

At the close of the week, the industrial average stood at 450.66, a clear penetration of the Nov. 29 close. At that level it was at a new high since Oct. 9, up 6.54 points on the week, up 14.97 points on the year, and down 27.68 points from a year ago.

The railroad average closed at 107.63, a new high since Nov. 7, up 0.53 point on the week, up 10.67 on the year to date, and off 41.33 from 1 the corresponding period of 1957.

The utility average closed at 71.38, a new high since June 18, up 0.55 point on the week, up 10.67 on the year, and up 1.25 points from last year at this time.

The average for the 65 stocks in the Dow-Jones calculation closed at 153.15 a new high since Oct. 9, up 1.74 points on the week, up 7.46 on the year, and off 16.52 points from the corresponding date a year ago.

Sales for the week average 2,804,274 shares daily, against 2,419,521 shares in the previous week and 2,099,595 a year ago. Sales so far in 1958 total 39,117,251 shares compared with 38,775,006 shares to this date in 1957.

The market didn't quite break the Nov. 29 barrier in the Standard & Poor's Index of 500 stocks. It missed that by one cent and closed the week at 41.71, indicating a gain in all listed issues of three billion dollars. So far this year the gain in market value amounts to eight billion dollars.

Stocks penetrated their Maginot Line of Nov. 29 despite such adverse news as omission of dividends by two of the nation's largest railroads—New York Central, and Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh Steel also omitted its dividend while Detroit Steel management said it would ask directors to defer dividend action until their next meeting. Lukens Steel declared a smaller dividend than in the preceding three quarters, Hamilton Watch and Motor Wheel cut dividends.

Most of the business indicators showed declines but these like the dividend cuts were considered results of the business dip which is old news. Wall Street was looking ahead to better times and some experts held that a turn for the better would be visible before the second quarter is very old.

For the week 994 of the 1,391 stocks traded advanced, while only 278 declined and 119 held unchanged. There were 87 issues setting new highs for more than a year and only 7 new lows.

American Telephone led the list in turnover and allowing for the rights showed a gain of 4% points. More than a million telephone rights traded, closing the week at 3 1/16. Royal Dutch, whose rights also were traded, was second in volume, closing up 1 1/2. American Motors, third in volume, set a new high, and rose nearly a point with other motors mixed.

Oils had gains ranging to more than 2 points. Tobaccos rose to new highs and registered advances running to more than 3 points. Steels ruled higher. Zenith, Freeport Sulphur, and McIntyre Porcupine rose 5 or 6 points. Glass issues rose several points. Coppers and aircrafts declined. Sugars strengthened.

Five Pampa Fighters Take Regional Crowns

Harvesters Roll Over Lubbock, 80-58

Pampa Wins Open Division Team Trophy

Sports Roundup

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor

THE HARVESTERS play Plainview Tuesday night at home in game that will be decisive in the District 3-AAAA leadership. If Pampa can down the Bulldogs the loop will go into a three-way tie between Borger, Plainview and Pampa. A loss, however, would put the Harvesters third with Plainview holding the undisputed lead.

Plainview has a strong team both in experience and depth, having five seniors on the team with three of last year's starters included in the quintet. The shortest man on the starting lineup stands 6'0".

ONE FACT that will attest to the potential strength of the Plainview team is that two more of last year's regulars are presently out with injuries and may return before the season is out. Jay Laird had an early-season knee injury that required an operation and he is still out of action. Also Lee Richard, a 6'4" senior, has been sidelined with a bad knee but is beginning to move back in play.

FOR THE SEASON the Plainview team has a 19-1 mark, the lone loss coming from Palo Duro in a pre-conference tournament game, 66-61. In the five conference games the Bulldogs have spilled Lubbock, 83-58; Monterey, 72-51; Amarillo, 81-46; Palo Duro, 83-67; and Borger, 55-53.

Other than Borger, mutually comparing the opponents of Pampa and Plainview places the two teams about equal. The Bulldogs dropped the Sandies by five points while the Harvesters took a 15 point margin; Plainview passed Monterey 21 points and the Harvesters won by 13.

IN CONFERENCE play Plainview has averaged 68.8 points per game compared to 70.6 for Pampa. Defensively they have allowed 55.0 per game compared to 59.4 for the Harvesters.

The men to watch from Plainview will be 6'2" forward Bill Reeves and 6'6" center Bobby Grace. Reeves has averaged 17 points per game and Grace has Pampa's Harvesters felled another opponent in the District 3-AAAA race as they powered their way past the Westerners of Lubbock, 80-58, in Harvester Field House Friday night.

Jumping to a fast lead in the opening minutes of the game, the Harvesters unleashed their methodical offensive strength to walk away with the decisive victory over the Lubbock cagers.

Coach Max O'Banions Westerners staged their biggest show of strength in the last minutes of the first quarter and the early part of the second as they momentarily halted the Harvesters and pushed to a 21-20 trailing score.

As the second quarter dwindled however, the Harvesters widened the margin and ended the half with a 42-20 leading score. The second half belonged all to Pampa as they pushed to 64-45 going into the final period of action and ended the fray with a 22 point margin of victory.

Playing a brilliant game for the Pampa cagers and also registering the high point mark for the night was forward Coyle Winborn, who tossed 24 points during the evening. Winborn hit the exceptional mark of ten field goals in 12 attempts to ring up an .833 percentage for the evening. He also played a major part in the backboard control that the Harvesters maintained throughout the game.

Ranking behind Winborn was Ray Stephenson with 15 points and Mack Layne with 13. Scoring seven points and also playing his well-known flashy defense, Charles Minor was a constant threat to the Westerner offense through his ball hustling. Minor repeatedly took the ball from the hands of the Lubbock players.

For the Westerners, Duane Key led the scoring column with 21 points, followed by Bill Spitzer with 13 and Jerry Cowan with seven.

In a rare occasion, the Harvesters were outdone in the free throw department, hitting 12 of 18 for .666 compared to Lubbock's 16 of 22 for .727.

Next on tap for the Pampans will be a crucial game in the 3-4A

Shockers Clip Lubbock 'B'

Pampa's Shockers jumped back into the winning bracket Friday night as they downed the Lubbock Cowhands, 61-56, in Harvester Field House.

Craig Winborn sparked the Shocker offense by netting 21 points during the evening, followed by Joe Timms with 13 and Mert Cooper with 12.

Coach Cully's sophomores were also engaged in a tournament over the week end, taking part in the Stinnett Invitational meet. Beginning Thursday night the Shockers defeated Happy, 54-42, but returning to the Saturday playoffs fell to the laude Mustangs, 47-32. The Mustangs had previously defeated the Shockers in an early season game, 41-37.

Next game for the Pampans will be Tuesday night in Harvester Field House when they meet the Plainview "B" team at 8:30.

Something To Cackle About

Whatever Happened To... GENE BEARDEN
BY UNITED PRESS

Gene Bearden, a handsome southpaw pitcher, won 20 games and lost only seven for the Cleveland Indians in 1948 and No. 20 made American League history. In the first playoff in the league's history he pitched a perfect game against the Braves and, in relief, saved the last game that made the Indians champions of the world. For the next five years, it was all down hill for handsome Gene as he tried, but failed, to make a comeback with Washington, Detroit, St. Louis Browns and finally the White Sox.

Whatever happened to Gene Bearden? Today he is sales manager for the Washington Contact Service at Memphis, Tenn., an organization that specializes in collecting unpaid bills.

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Herb Elliott ran his first mile race in 10 months Saturday and became the fourth Australian to better 4 minutes for the distance since winning at 3:59.9 at an inter-club track meet.

Elliott, a 19-year-old youngster from Perth who has been tabbed by his coach, Percy Cerutti, as a potential 3:55 miler, won with ease.

Elliott undoubtedly would have produced a better clocking if he had been pressed in the final quarter of a mile. Ron Clarke, the runner who had the honor of carrying the Olympic torch into the Melbourne Cricket Ground to signal the opening of the 1956 games, was a distant second in 4:08.1. Tom Worrall was third in 4:20.6.

Geoff Fleming, the early leader, quit after a half-mile when Elliott took charge of the race.

"Today's race was something experimental," Elliott said after joining John Landy, Jim Bailey and Mervyn Lincoln in Australia's group of 4 minute milers. "It was my first mile race for about ten months and I've been in something of a rush preparing for it."

"After all, it's only been six weeks since I resumed training after my foot injury. I'm very pleased with my form."

Elliott, who trains by running over sand dunes, was sidelined with pulled tendons in his right foot. His best previous mile was a 4:04.0 effort last March while defeating Lincoln in the national championships. Elliott's clocking today was no surprise to his 26-year-old coach.

"If Herb does not do a 3:54 or 3:55 mile within the next year, he will be in trouble with me," Cerutti said several months ago while predicting Elliott would become the world's fastest miler.

Earl Britton Is Sales Engineer

Whatever Happened To... EARL T. BRITTON
BY UNITED PRESS

In the mid-1920's a Midwest football slogan said, "As Grange goes, so goes Illinois" and the insiders at Champaign added, "As Britton goes, so goes Grange."

For Earl T. Britton, a great full-back at Illinois in 1923-24-25, was the deadly blocker who blasted the goalward paths for galloping Grange. Normally, little glory falls to a blocking back but Britton was so good at his trade he always received due credit.

Whatever happened to Earl Britton? Today he's a sales engineer for the Michigan Seamless Tube Co. in Detroit.

Patterson Caught Training For Immediate Title Bout

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (UP)—British promoter Harry Levene came to Floyd Patterson's training camp Saturday to negotiate for a London title fight and discovered the heavyweight champion training for another mysterious defense of his crown.

Levene, who flew in from London, wants Patterson to defend in London's huge Wembley Stadium in late June or early July.

But Levene and newspaper men, who accompanied him to Patterson's camp were surprised to find Floyd in the midst of serious training for an unannounced United States fight that apparently would be staged in late February or March.

Trainer Dan Florio said Patterson had begun training here three weeks ago and that he had started boxing preparations on Jan. 12. He is now sparring from three to four rounds four times a week.

Manager Gus D'Amato, who was with the party that trekked up here over the snow-mantled mountains from New York, admitted that the champion is training for a fight but he said, "I don't want to talk about it because some of my powerful opposition might try to stop the match."

In Saturday's visiting group was Pete Rademacher of Columbus, Ga., the 1956 Olympic champion who tried to wrest the title from Patterson at Seattle, Wash., last August but was knocked out.

Patterson received a $250,000 guarantee for the Rademacher bout but D'Amato would not disclose what guarantees he is asking for Floyd's next defense in the United States or for the proposed London defense.

Boxers At Home Wednesday

PAMPA'S OPTIMIST Club boxers may be in for one of the roughest nights of the season Wednesday when they host a group of fighters from Fort Riley, Kans., in the Boys Club building at 8 p.m.

The bouts will mark the first occasion to be held in the Optimist's boy building, which is located at the intersection of Barnes and Craven Streets. The structure was designed by the club to house crowds for the events as well as to facilitate the recreation and workouts of the boys participating.

Bringing a host of army champions, the Fort Riley team has promised to match the top name fighters of the Pampa area. Among the outstanding contenders from Kansas will be Fred Elliott, a 147-pound slugger who ranks as 1956 Fifth Army Champion and All-Army semifinalist.

Another top ranking fighter will be Fred Byrd at 147 pounds, a Fifth Army title holder.

ADDITIONALLY slated are Eddie Kitchen, 165 pounds, 1957 1st Infantry Division Champion; Loomis Oglesby, 178, 1st Infantry Division Champion; and John Coleman, the Air Force slugger, 111 Division Champion, Abdon Torres, 112 pounds; 1956 Fifth Army Champion; Leon Thompson, 119 pounds, 1956 and 1957 Fifth Army Champion; James Hutchinson, 125 pound, 1957 Fifth Army runner-up; and Richard Jackson, 132 pounds, Fifth Army runner-up.

It was also stated by the coach of the team, Lt. James Brenton, that boys in any other weights could be furnished to meet of the area fighters.

Slated among those to be opposed are Gary and Bobby Wilhelm, Gary Wills, Charles Snyder, Jesse Ring, Scooter Darden and Jerry Argovitz of Borger.

College Cage Game
NEXT SATURDAY night Pampa will have the college cage game in Harvester Field House between Pasadena's Jimmy Bond, the former all-star for the Harvesters, and Wayland. The game will be a return to the home court.

REGIONAL CHAMPION—Gary Wilhelm, 136-pound Optimist Club slugger, won one of the five regional titles gained by Pampa fighters in last night's finals of the Amarillo Golden Gloves. Wilhelm took the Open Division crown for the second year straight as he downed Manny Perez of Amarillo. He is slated for action next Wednesday night as the Optimist team hosts Fort Riley, Kans. in the Boys Club Building at 8. (News Photo)

Pasadena-Wayland Clash Set Saturday

Next Saturday night in Pampa fans will see Jimmy Bond, one of the all-time Harvester greats return to the home court as the Pasadena Crusaders will meet the Wayland College Pioneers in Harvester Field House at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Pampa Kiwanis Club, the game will pit two of the powers in their conferences in a top display of collegiate cage power.

Playing for Pasadena, Bond has ranked through the season as one of the outstanding players on the team. Statistics recently released show that Bond led the entire squad in both scoring and rebounding.

Reapers Fall To Borger

The Pampa Reapers fell in their Friday afternoon encounter to the Borger Junior High, 46-26, in a game played in the Bulldog gymnasium.

Wide paced the losing offensive attack by netting 10 points and Richardson tied with Garren for second with four points each. Other scorers in the contest were Green with two; Stroud with two; and Warner with two.

The Reapers are scheduled to play the White Deer "B" team next Saturday night in Harvester Field House at 6:30, prior to the Wayland vs Pasadena college game.

Shriner's Pie-Throwing Sale Heads Tomorrow's Wrestling

Tomorrow night's wrestling at the Sportsman Club may demand as much courage from the spectators as from the contestants as the night will mark the annual pie-throwing auction staged by the Pampa Shrine Club.

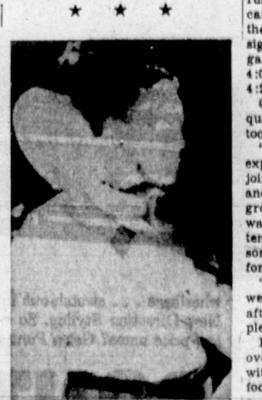

Rules for the between-match sale are that the pies will be auctioned to the highest bidder and along with the full-sized mirangue will go the right to hit any person, wrestler or fan, in the house. All proceeds from the pastry flying sale will be given by the Shriners to the March of Dimes fund.

Filling the card for the unusual nights will be a tag match filling the main event slot. Iron Mike DeBlase is slated to pair with Danny "Bulldog" Flechas in battling George and Sandy Scott. The tag battle will go two out of three falls, limited to one hour.

The second event will feature Kipper Joe Christie in a three-fall grapple with Bob Geigel. The match will carry a 45-minute time limit.

Bringing in the first event will be Plechas pitted against Sandy Scott in a 20-minute one-fall tussle.

The Sportsman Club is located one mile south of town on the Lefors highway. Admission will be $1.50 for ringside, $1.25 for reserved seats, 90 cents for general admission adult and 50 cents for general admission children.

IN TOMORROW'S MATCHES—Tomorrow's pie-throwing auction at the Sportsman Club wrestling will result in such scenes as is pictured above when the pie buyers gain the right to hit any person with the purchased mirangue.

Pampa's Optimist Club boxing team came through with five regional championships while sweeping the Open Division team trophy in last night's final matches of the Amarillo Golden Gloves meet.

In the High School Division Kenny Powell and Lucky Dunham gained titles and in the Open loop Gary Wilhelm, Bobby Wilhelm, and Jesse Ring came through with victories.

Opening up in the 106 pound High School bracket Powell gained a decision over Donny Lesley of Borger and Dunham followed in the 112 level by gaining a TKO over Don Malone of Borger. Dunham, the only fighter from Pampa who battled three nights of the meet, used 55 seconds of the second round in downing his opponent.

In Open Division action Gary Wills of Pampa dropped a decision to Borger's Scooter Darden in one of the top battles of the evening. Wills was entered in the 126 pound bracket.

A repeat championship came to the Pampa team in at 136 pounds as Gary Wilhelm downed Manny Perez of the Amarillo team in one of the hardest fought battles of the evening.

Following at 147 pounds Jesse Ring gained his title through a decision over Charles Snyder, another Pampa contestant. Both Ring and Snyder rank as outstanding fighters for the Pampa team.

Out of competition in this area for the past two years, Bobby Wilhelm returned in a big way as he blasted Charles Bridgeman of Amarillo for the 160 pound championship title.

The final Pampa entry lost through a KO as Doug Simmons dropped to Carl McClure of Dumas in 47 seconds of the second round.

In individual awards, Calvin Irvan of Dumas won the sportsmanship trophy and Durwood Williams of Borger was presented the Hamilton award.

Team-wise the Borger team took the trophy for the High School Division, with Plainview second and Pampa third. The Open Division team trophy was given to Pampa, received by Optimist Club coaches Ben White, and Ollie Wilhelm. Also coaching the Pampa team was Oren James and Cliff Dunham.

NFL May Drop Its Bonus Draft Method

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The National Football League may drop its draw-from-the-hat method of making its "bonus" draft choice of college stars when it opens its annual winter meeting Tuesday.

Instead, the "bonus" selection may be awarded to the team which finishes the season with the lowest won-lost percentage.

Demands submitted by the NFL Players Assn., scheduling, rules changes and the completion of the 1958 draft are other items which will be taken up at the three-day meeting.

The league, toeing the straight and narrow and hearkening to suggestions by the Celler congressional committee, will drop the hat-draw because it smacks of a lottery.

This adaptation of a suggestion by the committee headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) during the government's hearing on professional football last summer, and permitting a drafted player "the city of his choice" if he has a valid reason were listed as the two most important items on the agenda.

"We want very much to follow the suggestions of Congressman Celler, the able members of the committee, and the attorneys who gave us so much aid in Washington," Commissioner Bert Bell said. "They gave us plenty of good, sound advice, and helped clear many misunderstandings. We're grateful to them."

The popular bonus choice, whereby the teams drew from a hat and the winner had his choice of any player in the college market before the regular draft rotation began, was started 12 seasons back. A team winning once was eliminated from future draws. The bonus pick completed its course when the Chicago Cardinals, the last "lucky picker," was the only non-winner left last fall.

"What will be considered is a bonus choice to the team with the lowest percentage in the standings," Bell explained. "Once they get their choice, they are eliminated until every team gets a bonus pick."

Of even more importance in Bell's mind was the writing of the player's choice of cities into the constitution. The limiting of a player's services to the team

AREA BASKETBALL ROUNDUP:

Bucks, Warriors Take Area Cage Wins

White Deer Continues Dominance Of District Play

The White Deer Bucks continued to dominate the area basketball scene last week as they swept to four victories, including both girls' and boys' divisions.

In Tuesday encounters, the Bucks rolled by the Perryton Rangers, 73-62, and the girls' took their tilt for the evening, 64-60. Rounding out the week Friday night the White Deer teams again took a double victory, downing the Gruber teams. The boys' gained their win by a 51-42 margin and the girls' won by a wider 75-60.

McLean Tigers Ravage Pirates

McLEAN'S TIGERS ripped to a double victory in Tuesday night action as they encountered both the girls' and boys' teams of Lefors. In the boys' action, the Tigers dropped the Pirates, 39-29, and in the girls' bracket won by 55-29.

Friday night saw the Pirates having trouble again as they met the Irish of Shamrock, again losing both divisions of the cage action. The Pirates lost the boys' game, 38-28, and were defeated in the girls' tilt, 42-32.

The Lefors "B" team came through with the only victory of the week as they edged the Shamrock "B", 34-32.

Wildcats Fall To Tigers

The Canadian Wildcats ran into double trouble in their Friday night encounters as they fell in both the girls' and boys' division to the McLean Tigers. In the boys' tilt, the Tigers were pushed but came through with a slim 57-54 victory.

Roy Sessions ranked as high point man as he sparked the Wildcats' offense with 16 points while Hill and Woods tied with 14 each for the winners.

In girls' action, the Canadian team fell, 52-42, with Barbara Meek leading the game scoring with 32 points for the losers while McPherson paced the winning McLean team with 24.

In Tuesday night games the Wildcats also had trouble as they fell to the Clarendon Bronchos in both divisions. The Bronchos paced a 63-35 win in the boys' loop and girls' took their game, 43-30.

Miami Clubs Mobeetie

(Special To The News)
MIAMI — A good example of true sportsmanship, though unintentional, came to the fore Tuesday night as the Miami Warriors swept two games from the Mobeetie Hornets, engaging in both girls' and boys' action.

During the second half a Miami player became confused and settled two points for the Mobeetie five but before things could get straight a Mobeetie flash had dropped two points in the wrong net to give Miami an added field goal.

However, the Warriors led the boys' action and came through with a wide-margin 62-29 victory over the Hornets. Larry Anderson paced the Miami offense with 24 points while Dave Turner sparked the Hornets with 10.

The Warriors led through the game by quarter scores of 13-10; 25-13; 38-24 and 62-29.

Dom DiMaggio Heads Business

Whatever happened to...
DOMINIC DIMAGGIO
By UNITED PRESS
Dominic DiMaggio, little brother of Joe and Vince, was the third DiMaggio to make the major leagues. He hasn't the physique of his older brothers but he possessed a great arm, co-ordination and a keen batting eye behind those spectacles that won him the name of "little professor." For 13 seasons, little Dom played center field for the Boston Red Sox, rang up a .298 lifetime average and ranked with the best leadoff men in baseball history.

Whatever happened to Dom DiMaggio? Today, at 39, he is president of the American Latex Fibre Co. of Lawrence, Mass., a business he entered shortly before his baseball retirement in 1953.

Three Player Deals Pending Among Major League Teams

NEW YORK (UP)—Talk about at least three major player deals said to be near completion overshadowed the actual business on the schedule today when the major leagues opened separate meetings.

New General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians, President Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants, and Roy Hamney, general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, shaped up as the key men in the deals that were boiling on the front of baseball's hot stove.

Lane was dickering with both the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers with Indians' fast baller Ray Narleski as his chief bait.

Stoneham reported he was very near announcement of a trade but was holding off until he found out if he could get better terms from a third team.

Hamney was reported anxious to land a first baseman and the Cincinnati Redlegs, with three on their roster, were seen as the most likely source.

Lack Of Site Forces Loss Of Dallas Baseball Franchise

DALLAS (UP)—Lack of a playing site has forced the Dallas Community Baseball Assn. not to exercise its option to purchase the Dallas baseball franchise in the Class AA Texas League, even though spokesman George Schepps said the group had the money necessary.

"The only reason we failed to close the deal with the Texas League was due to the fact we did not have a playing site," Schepps said. "We had the money."

However, league president Dick Butler said failure of the Schepps group to close the deal did not "close the door" on the association.

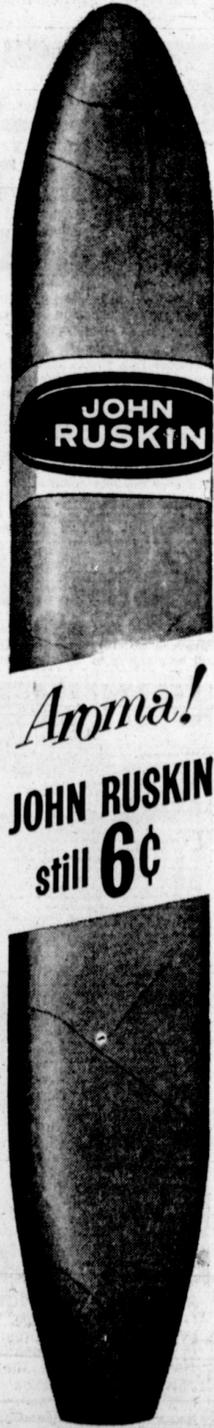

Option Means Little
He said the first option the group held on the franchise meant little as his group was the only party in Dallas known to be interested in acquiring the franchise that was recently turned back to the league.

Schepps said tonight he had held another conference with the attorney for the Burnett interests and former Dallas Eagle general manager Warner Lewis.

"They would not commit themselves at all when we tried to find out how much rent they wanted or how long a lease they wanted," Schepps said. "We asked them if $35,000 was enough money and got no answer. They said they wanted guarantors. We had men backing us worth a net of $2,375,000, and that didn't seem to be enough."

Lewis Disagrees
"At no time has Mr. Schepps given us satisfaction that sufficient financial backing was available to make the lease of Burnett Field to his group practical," Lewis said.

Schepps said although the group had failed to meet their deadline in the purchase of the franchise, they would "continue our efforts even harder than ever."

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN

Out where the wind blows and there is scarcely anyone to listen, where the dry arroyos lead into the main channel, is where you will find the lonely Canadian River making its way into Texas from New Mexico. Miles from anything more modern than a barbed wire fence, the Canadian is gently flowing onward into Texas. A lone coyote, perhaps occasionally a cowboy, a black-tailed deer and a few scattered white-tailed cattle make up the larger species that wander by to greet the Canadian as it enters the Panhandle. It is a comparatively small stream when it makes its appearance in the Lone Star State but it is a large body of surface water as it departs into Indian Territory.

Worthless could easily be the thought of an outsider as he gazed upon this windswept, mile wide valley with a small stream meandering eastward. Worthless wouldn't be the word, by any means, of an informed Panhandle resident. The citizen, in the know, understands that underneath this barren sand that makes up the river valley there is a vast amount of water flowing. The water is not but under the brown sands there are varied depths, up to 180 feet, down to the hard bottom. This amount of river sand acts as a huge sieve through which the waters flow. Sometimes the water makes its appearance upon the surface, and usually it does in the form of a small stream, but this doesn't compare to the flow that is running below the surface.

What does all this amount to? It would really take an engineer to explain the potential and how the acre feet of water could be utilized. One of the small items on the agenda for the Panhandle sportsmen is one that has been almost completely overlooked. Let's take the Canadian River reservoir and think about what it will mean to the Texas fishermen, the Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico fishermen. A place to tie up their boats as the sun is setting behind the jagged cliffs and mesquites. The fisherman and perhaps his family or maybe several families will camp along this lake shore and plan to spend from a fortnight to several days angling for the dentists of the deep with their appetites sharpened with the freezing wind or the warm breezes that will fan the campfire. Fishing for crappie, black bass, channel cat, mayb, flathead and blue cat, plus rainbow trout will be a part of the angling activities.

One of the smaller items that should be considered towards furnishing the arriving carloads of fishermen accommodations is something that perhaps the average host hadn't thought of. Let's look at it this way. Suppose you had invited a group of people to the lake, as soon as they were settled down on the lakeside and had made camp and got the boats into the water, they would want to start fishing, or at least the average fisherman would. Okay, then, what shall we use for bait? What are they going to fish for? What is a good question. If it was for black bass, and they were expert anglers, there is a vast assortment of artificial lure that might be employed. On the other hand, if your guests are just mediocre fishermen and didn't have the correct fishing paraphernalia, it would be wise to suggest that they fish for any particular species, exactly whichever they designated, and purchase a minnowpail full of shiners and pull the boat to some shallow cove and canoe fish or else use a cork or float with a shiner attached to the hook at the desired depth below the cork. If the group was fishing for crappie, minnows would be the most choice bait. If they were fishing for black bass, then minnows would still be the most perfect bait. Channel cat prefer minnows above most baits. How about rainbow trout? They do consume minnows and perhaps minnows would be ideal for rainbows.

Minnows are the most popular bait in the entire Southwest, in my opinion. From the time the lazy Canadian River enters this state and flows eastward to the bridge north of Borger on Highway 15, the river is simply a minnow hatchery. However, from the Borger bridge eastward to the Pampa bridge on Highway 70 there are very few, if any, shiners in the waters. Clear, transparent waters, as the lonely Canadian flows into Texas, but as it flows from Borger eastward the water changes its color. However, east of the bridge on Highway 70 minnows begin to show up when a seine is dragged through the waters. The minnow species in the Canadian would make up an interesting feature in any outdoor publication, however this information will have to be submitted later. Nevertheless, a few years back, P. D. (Dude) Moseley, State Game Warden at Canadian, and I made only one drag with a seine and had five containers holding five gallons each full of minnows. The average length of these minnows was about ten inches each. That is almost the length of the fish the Panhandle fishermen trek to Colorado to try to catch on a fly rod, isn't it? Well, boys, the river is full of choice trolling bait, crappie bait or flathead catfish bait at certain times of the year and in certain places.

The average fisherman needn't worry about choice bait. The minnow hustlers will have a vast supply on hand each time an angler steps up to the bait house. Did you know that the Canadian River, plus several of the Panhandle streams, are recognized by bait dealers throughout the top half of Texas as being ideal places to sack up a few thousand minnows for their customers? A few years back a bait dealer from Lake Texoma was fined for selling a load of these on the Harry-King Ranch in Lipscomb County. The bait dealer was trespassing to take fish or minnows. There is one specie of minnow in the Canadian that is practically extinct in all other streams in the U.S.A. This minnow is the most common only found above all other species.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

ARCADIA, Calif. (UP)—Jockey Manuel Yeas, who has accounted for 16 winners at the current Santa Anita meeting, was set down for five days Friday for causing interference in a race on Thursday. Yeas's suspension goes into effect on Jan. 28 and runs through Feb. 1.

LONG DISTANCE CALL—Comfortably seated, Richard Manning toots his whistle for a penalty while officiating by television in the Los Angeles City College gymnasium. A special closed circuit system is used to transmit the action to an adjoining room, where the referee is stationed with a microphone which relays the whistle and call to the court. Designed to give the official a wider view without getting in the way of the players, the experiment was labeled a success after a game between Los Angeles State and California State Poly.

Fearless Fraley's Facts

Experts Say Sugar Ray Will Be Choice Against Basilio

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Carmen Basilio is an opening 9 to 5 favorite to defend his middleweight title against Sugar Ray Robinson in their rematch at Chicago Stadium on March 25, but the fight experts contend that Robinson will be the choice at ring time.

The reasoning is that Basilio will be more confident this time plus the fact that each passing month takes so much more out of those 37-year-old Robinson legs. But Sugar Ray is only three pounds over the 160-pound middleweight limit as he goes into training and his new-found sharpness is expected to sway the price.

Bill Talbert, America's Davis Cup captain, is highly optimistic over the chances of regaining the big silver mug the next time and believes that the United States could have won it this time if Dick Savitt, Budge Patty and Ham Richardson had been on the team.

Breaks Costly

"All four singles matches were decided by one break in the fifth set," he asserted. "With steady campaigners such as Savitt, Patty or Richardson the breaks might have gone the other way."

Back in November, Willie Shoemaker had to choose between the Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man and Wheatley Stables' Bold Ruler in the Trenton Handicap. It was assumed he chose Lowe's Gallant Man because of a sense of obligation due to the "pull up" ride he gave the horse in the Kentucky Derby.

Now there is another obvious reason. Willie just hit oil with his first well — which he received from Lowe...so the rich get richer.

Jackie Farrell, a member of the New York Yankees front office staff for 16 years, was a newspaperman before that. During that earlier era, one of his jobs once was to ghost write for Dizzy Dean.

Didn't Matter

"It was okay," Jackie grins, "except that he couldn't read—and I couldn't write."

Bobby Fischer, Brooklyn's 14-year-old triple crown chess champion, is learning to ski under the tutelage of Olympic competitor Toni Kastner — and in return is teaching Kastner to play chess. Many chess (not cheese) champs have been good athletes. Cuba's Jose Capablanca was a top tennis star and Russia's Boris Spassky clears six feet in the high jump.

Some TV shows refuse to give their stuff gratis to the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service — but sports are completely cooperative. AMF's "Bowling Time" (see show has just been presented to the service organization and will be seen by 250,000 servicemen at the Thule Air Base, Greenland; in Seoul, Korea; Dhahran Field, Saudi Arabia, as well as in Manila, Adak and Okinawa.

Williams Challenges Brown To Title Bout

WASHINGTON (UP)—Young Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams, the bundle of bobbing and weaving fury who threatened a major upset against lightweight champion Joe Brown until stopped by a cut eye, today challenged Brown to a title fight.

All three ring officials had Sonny Boy ahead in the TV fight at the New Capitol Arena Friday night when he lost on a technical knockout in the fifth round because of an eight-stitch cut, high on his upper-left eyelid.

"I chased him all over the ring, and he had to butt me to stop me," said 22-year-old Williams. "Maybe the butt was accidental but it did the trick. I'll watch out for his head if he'll meet me in a title fight."

Ernie's eyelid was nicked in a head collision in the third round and it began to trickle blood in the fourth; and another head collision in the fifth caused it to bleed profusely.

Brown's title was not at stake in their scheduled 10-rounder because each weighed more than the 135-pound limit. Brown scaled 137½ pounds; Williams, 138½.

Sonny Boy, a 3-1 underdog appearing in his 24th fight and second TV bout, showed absolutely no respect for the more experienced and highly regarded champion. Using a low bob-and-weave, he forced the action in every round. He slid under the taller champion's long arms and hampered him at close quarters. Referee Ray Bowen stopped the bloody eye might be permanently injured if Williams were permitted to continue.

Adenauer Pushes For New Negotiations With Russians

Foreign News Commentary
United Press Staff Correspondent
By CHARLES M. McCANN
The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:
Chancellor Konrad Adenauer proposed this week that West Germany and Soviet Russia start direct talks on easing world tension.
It was the first direct move by an Allied leader to use old-fashioned secret diplomacy in seeking a basis for broad "cold war" negotiations between Russia and the North Atlantic treaty powers.
Adenauer suggested, in a letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, that the current Russian-German trade discussions in Moscow might be turned into cold war talks. Alternatively, he said, "any other promising point of departure" might be chosen.
President Eisenhower opened the diplomatic week by replying in just 44 words to a 10,000-word letter from Bulganin proposing that a conference of leaders of countries of every political slant be called to discuss world problems.
Eisenhower said that Bulganin's letter contained nothing which he had not covered in his reply to a previous communication from Bulganin.
Following his new propaganda technique, the Soviet government alleged that the United States would use the meeting of the Middle Eastern Treaty Organization, which starts in Ankara, Turkey, Monday, to try to get NATO members to set up nuclear missile bases on their territory.
The allegation was made in a statement issued by the Soviet Foreign Ministry. It proposed the establishment of a missile-free zone in the Middle East.
Similar bluffs had been issued by the Kremlin just before the North Atlantic treaty "summit" meeting in Paris and President

Eisenhower's State of the Union message to Congress.
President Marcos Perez Jimenez of Venezuela, one of Latin America's leading "strong men," was thrown out as the result of a dramatic revolt after nearly 10 years as his country's dictator.
Army leaders, workers, intellectuals and the Roman Catholic Church combined against Perez Jimenez.
A general strike in protest against dictatorial rule marked the beginning of the end.
Wild disorders broke out in Caracas, the capital, and other cities. Casualties were estimated at from 145 to several hundred killed and more than 1,000 persons wounded.
Perez Jimenez fled in his private airplane to the Dominican Republic, where he asked asylum by that country's "strong man" regime.
French Premier Felix Gaillard won a vote of confidence by 33 to 226 from his National Assembly, the controlling house of Parliament, after a two-day debate on foreign policy.
It was the second vote of confidence in six days. The first, which Gaillard won by a majority of only 20-253 to 233—came on the budget.
He still faces critical votes on plans for Algerian home rule and for constitutional changes intended to make it harder for the National Assembly to overthrow its premiers.
France got itself into an argument with Communist Yugoslavia when its warships intercepted, in Algerian territorial waters, a small Yugoslav merchantman en route for Morocco. The Yugoslav ship was escorted to Oran, Algeria, where 100 tons of arms were taken from it. France said the weapons were destined for the Algerian rebels. Yugoslavia denied it and called the seizure "piracy."

'Peyton Place' Star Native Of Area Which Disclaimed Book

By HAZEL K. JOHNSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The New England which shudders at the mention of "Peyton Place" in novel form is in a sticky position when it comes to Hope Lange.
Most of the northern seaboard states boycotted and disclaimed the book.
But the girl who plays Selena Cross in the Hollywood version is a native daughter of that region—and the pride of the country side.
"I was born in New England," the slight, blue-eyed blonde 24-year-old girl said, "and although my family and I moved to New York when I was very young I spent many summers in Connecticut where my sister now lives."
Hard To Boycott Selena
And it's a little hard to extend a boycott to a New Englander who portrayed Selena with such sensitivity that she is an odds-on favorite to pull in an Oscar nomination as best supporting actress.
Over a cup of coffee in the breakfast nook of the Beverly Hills home she shares with actor husband Don Murray, the young star described a post-New England childhood which included helping serve customers in the family's New York tearoom.
"Even now I receive letters from some of the little old ladies who were our customers and are following my career," she said. Other fans include friends of her brother, a student at Harvard.
Hope said the emotional role of Selena was particularly taxing as she went on location "just after my son, Christopher Paton, was born."
Still Has Scars
"I still have the scars from a chase filmed in the woods up in Maine," she said, "and to make them ore difficult, I had to cry through 25 takes."
Hope (and New England) may be in line for a second bow for the part she plays in the unreleased picture, "The Young Lions," starring Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift, and Dean Mar-

"The girl I play also is from New England," she said, "and there's no question that New England may be proud of this girl."
Hope, too, is proud of this part which she helped strengthen by insisting it be rewritten. "The original screenplay made the girl I play someone for the other characters to bounce off of," she said. "In the rewrite the part takes on more meaning."
Man Forms Group Against 'Sack Look'
By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Man in our office is so wrought up about the sack look for the females in '58 he's formed the "Society for Preservation of the Female Shape as Nature Shaped It."
No dues. A man can be married or single. Only one special membership requirement—to join, you must loathe the sack, or what some parts of the dress industry call the chemise or shift. (I'll relay all inquiries.)
Said the irate, and married, founder of the society today, "Ever since I realized that the return of the sack look was not a gag, I've been toying with the idea of instituting a national movement of organized revolution by the downtrodden males of the republic."
"I have yet to find a man who really likes the sack look."
"I'm convinced that all we men have to do is muster our courage and tell the womenfolks how ridiculous they look."
Many Potential Members
Do men in general really disapprove of the loose-fitting styles which dominated spring collections shown by New York leaders recently?

Peg O' Pampa

OUR BONNET the one with the pretty posies on it... is off in a sweeping bow to Inga Pratt for the wonderful and tireless contribution she is making to the March of Dimes campaign... by appearing before as many women's clubs as she can to stress the importance of continuing support of the Polio Fund... the story Inga tells of her daughter, Dorothy's gallant battle with the disease is not an easy one for her to repeat over and over... but she does it so courageously... and after you hear her you feel the urgency to make your contribution as large as you can... We were distressed earlier in the month to hear of the apparent antipathy towards making contributions to the Polio Fund... because it was felt that the Salk vaccine had solved the problem... which it has, partially... but not for the many millions, who were stricken before its discovery and who must still receive daily or hourly therapy for rehabilitation... nor for the ones for whom it will not help avert the disease because they do not take the vaccine... we've heard Inga speak several times recently so we will not hazard even a guess at the number of clubs she has appeared before... but we do know that she spoke to Twentieth Century Forum... of which she is a former member... and they were happy to have her back in their midst... even so briefly... another group of gals we know are bending their efforts towards making this year's drive as successful as never before are Georgia Mack... Eva Green... Lois Shelhamer... Bettyann Jackson... Mrs. Don Cole... Mrs. Weldon Trice... Harlene Rose... Frances Noblitt... and Reva McGuire... who will be heading up the Mother's March on Polio tomorrow night between the hours of seven to eight... calling at our homes for contributions... we've heard, too, that Nancy Gabelman had the Rho Etas and their guests in her home on Friday morning for coffee for the benefit of the MOD... Certainly sounded like a lot of fun... mixing coffee and companionship for such a worthy cause...

To receive honestly is the best thanks for a good thing.
—G. McDonald

LAST WEEK'S HIGHLIGHTS Dan True was guest speaker at Twentieth Century Cotillion Club's Guest Day Coffee... and we agree with "dew tell!"... we wouldn't have missed it for the world!... Dan looked so dapper in a navy blue suit, black brogans, and bright red plaid tie... we were just a mite disappointed though, because the day was sunny and bright... had it been otherwise, perhaps, he would have worn his rain "umbrella" hat... but the pretty hats... feathered, furred, and jeweled... that members and guests wore more than made up for Dan's lack of colorful headgear... we saw Frances Hofess... Marge Brauchle who looked especially attractive in a red dress... Thelma Brown... and Wanda Campbell... which reminds us... Wanda has a new mystery book that should be ready for her readers by early fall... it has been accepted for publication and should be off the press by that time... As in "Museum Mystery," her first book, this new one will have a local setting in Gray County... we thought Per Stubbe's centerpiece for the serving table was breathtakingly beautiful... why, oh why do our arrangements look like what they are... dead leaves... while Per's look professional and inspired... another highlight of last week was the dinner party that Claude and Jane Hoover gave for their daughter, Jane Ann, in the Pampa Country Club... on the occasion of her fifteenth birthday... she received a pretty new watch, too... certainly was a lot of activity out at JoAnn Thompson's home last Tuesday evening... when the Kit Kat Klub held its weekly meeting... as we were "buzzing" back from a friends home... we saw Sybil and Clarence Qualls going into the house with their camera equipment... to take pictures, we guess, of the KK's in their new blue and white club jackets... at least, 50 girls in one home... can you imagine it?

We must look deep into realism instead of accepting only the outward sense of things.
—Mary Baker Eddy

SORRY TO HEAR THAT Georgia Mack's daughter, Jimmie Kay, is ill in Worley Hospital... playing hostess to the flu bug... and that Fern Dawson is also laid low with a pesty cold... hope they both will rest and take it easy... but get well quick... Fern was royally honored... and deservedly so... at the recent Top o' Texas Girl Scout Council Banquet... she looked so proud... yet so modest... walking between two Marine escorts of honor to receive gifts of appreciation from the council... and we heard so many comments about the wonderfully delicious rolls that the high school cafeteria staff served during the banquet.

There is as much greatness of mind in acknowledging a good turn, as in doing it.
—Seneca

AROUND TOWN Saw Rev. James Minnich striding down Frost the other afternoon with a stack of books under his arm... and Kay Fancher wearing a pair of pink slacks... yes, pink... one of our favorite TV programs, "Father Knows Best," this week brought out a fact that is so important... the role of a father in PTA work... it was done subtly and entertainingly... hope you saw it... you fathers, you... did you know that Rev. Woodrow Adcock now has a private pilot's license to fly a plane?... some how it seems so apropos... for a minister to be flying around in the air... a tip to Georgia Crutchfield's Lady B Lovely patrons... don't chew gum ever!... that gal can smell the flavor even if you have thrown it away an hour before... by the time you are reading this, Miss Wadene Thomasson will be Mrs. Eugene Paul Vineyard and Miss Dorothy Cheryl Chance will be the bride of Buzzy Patrick... they assumed their new names last night... our congratulations and best wishes to them... and Susie Spoonmore was guest of honor Friday night at a bridal shower held in the home of Inez Carter... sorry we don't know all the pretty details... but this copy must be in long before the affair is held.

THE LAST WEEK of the new year is waning... and its about time to tear off the calendar leaf to admit February with Abraham Lincoln's and George Washington's birthdays... and, of course, the Mardi Gras planned by the Holy Souls School and Home Association to be held Feb. 1... and the annual Aunt Jemima Pancake Supper and Dance to be given Feb. 18 by the St. Margaret's Guild... and it is not the least bit to early for the man-of-the-house to start planning what to give the little woman for Valentine's Day... a hint to the wise is sufficient, we always say.
Happy Hinting
Peg.

Mrs. Forrest Durwood Ruegger (Photo, Call's Studio)

Miss Carolyn Maples Bride Of Forrest Durwood Ruegger

Miss Carolyn Joyce Maples became the bride of Forrest Durwood Ruegger in a ceremony performed at seven thirty on Friday evening.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Maples, 101 S. Sumner. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Ruegger of Ar-Orca, Miss.

Rev. J. R. Maples, brother of the bride, performed the double-ring ceremony in the Central Baptist Church. The setting for the impressive service was one of candlelight, gladioli, and ferns. Seven candelabras were used, the center candelabra held three white tapers; three candelabras were on either side of the center one and each held seven white tapers.

Miss Sheila Cables, organist, played the pre-ceremony music and the traditional wedding marches. Tony Maples, brother of the bride, sang "One Alone," "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer."

THE BRIDE Escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with scalloped, curved neckline and long, tapering sleeves, which came to bridal points over the hands. The fitted bodice came to a point in the front and back of the full-gathered, floor-length, skirt of lace over satin. Her Queen's Crown of jeweled pearls held secure the finger-tip white tulle Veil of Illusion. She carried a white orchid corsage atop a white bridal Bible.

ATTENDANTS Mrs. J. R. Maples, sister-in-law of the bride, served as matron of honor wearing an ice blue crystalline dress over ice blue taffeta, ballerina length, which featured three-quarter length sleeves and a neckline straight across the front and to a point in the back. She wore a headpiece of ice blue crystalline tulle and carried a cascade arrangement of one dozen American Beauty Roses.

Twentieth Century Club Hears Topics Of General Interest At Recent Meeting

Twentieth Century Culture Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Doyle Osborne with Mrs. Rufe Jordan as co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. J. W. Edminister opened the meeting by leading the members in the reading of the club collect.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. G. L. Craddock gave the devotional, "Hope for the New Year." The study program for the meeting consisted of a review of the book, "Helen Keller; Sketch For a Portrait" by Van Wyck Brooks, and a report on the "Problems That Face the Institutes of Higher Education."

Mrs. V. L. Hobbs in her review, told the members that Helen Keller, at the age of nineteen months became totally deaf and blind, as the result of an illness. "Her family were unable to communicate with her and believed she was mentally deficient, also."

"However," Mrs. Hobbs continued, "At the age of nine her family procured a teacher, Anne Sullivan, for Helen. She learned rapidly and soon knew a manual deaf and dumb language and the Braille alphabet. Helen completed her education at Radcliffe College, where she was graduated with honor." Mrs. Hobbs said, "After graduation, Helen was faced with a problem of deciding what to do with her life. She decided that a career of writing and lecturing would enable her to better help others with similar handicaps. The courage and perseverance that empowered her to conquer her blindness and deafness has served as an inspiration to many to follow her example."

Mrs. Myles Morgan reported on the problems facing American universities and colleges, which are expected to double enrollment within the next 15 years.

Mrs. Morgan stated, "The launching of the Russian sputniks and the ensuing Russia-United States missile race has brought about a tremendous interest in mathematics and science. Which brings up the problem of are these two subjects to be stressed regardless of individual capabilities and at the neglect of others?"

"Financial problems, too, are facing these institutions. Are they to join in the ever-growing list on Federal aid?" she asked.

"A greater problem is the shortage of capable teachers, now and in the future. Financial recompense is not inviting those who might otherwise become teachers. Nor is the teaching avocation held in as high esteem as is the college football team," she continued.

"Space for this great influx of students can be found with fewer difficulties than can the other problems facing American universities and colleges," she concluded.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE "Our six-year-old boy has developed fear of werewolves," writes a mother.

"A new baby sitter we had saw some movie about one and described it to him. Now, though he's been going to school by himself, he insists on my taking him in case a werewolf jumps out of the bushes at him. I'd appreciate any help you could give..."

What's the big thing about a werewolf? Its double character, isn't it? One time it presents itself as a safely civilized human being; the next it's a savage beast. It's always losing control of its human feelings to wolfish ones.

Children experience wolfish feelings, too. If we give Johnny's sister the last of the chocolate milk, he may want to snarl at us and knock the glass from her hand. To avoid trouble, he subdues these savage impulses. But his controls of them are still unsure.

So if he hears a vivid story about the werewolf's inability to control its wolfishness, he's suddenly made more aware of the weakness of his own controls and may develop great anxiety lest they slip one day and expose his wolfish aspect to us.

If we show ourselves impressed by the werewolf's wickedness, we also show ourselves impressed by Johnny's wretched possibilities.

So we might try saying to this little boy, "All right, I'll take you to school. But if this werewolf jumps out of the bushes at us, I'm going to be as nice to it as I can. It must feel very lonely and sad with everybody hating it so it has to lurk about in bushes. You don't have to be nice to it if you don't want to, but I'm not afraid of it at all."

We're really saying to the frightened child, "I feel kindly toward your wolfish impulses."

The werewolf is a very interesting legend. To learn to live together, we human beings have had to learn to discipline our savage feelings. Perhaps the werewolf represents our secret knowledge of the old Mr. Hyde within ourselves and the frailty of our hold on the civilized identity of Dr. Jekyll.

Perhaps we found the knowledge so uncomfortable that we started pretending Mr. Hyde existed outside ourselves and turned him in to the werewolf legend.

Anyway, it may be a productive speculation for parents.

Dan True, TC Cotillion Club Speaker At Guest Day Coffee Held In Library

Mmes. Martin Stubbe, W. D. Price Jr., Dale Thut, and Alvin Agan, Twentieth Century Cotillion Club hostesses.

Dan True

BRIDE-

Barbara Cody, Lefors, served cake. Mrs. Wayne Harris was guest registrar. Other members of the house-party were Mmes. Bill Cody, Tommy Redus, Burl Lewter, Jimmy Cox, Sue Carter.

For the wedding trip to Arcola, Miss. the bride wore a smoke gray wool suit with winter white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Ruegger was graduated from Lefors High School in 1954 and received a BBA degree, majoring in accounting, from West Texas State College in January of this year.

Mr. Ruegger was graduated from Arcola High School in Arcola, Miss., in 1953; attended Midwestern University in Wichita Falls; and is presently stationed at Amarillo Air Force Base, while attending Amarillo College.

They will make their home at 1913-B Brazos in Amarillo.

Guests and members of the Twentieth Century Cotillion Club were entertained with a Coffee held Tuesday morning in the Lovett Memorial Library.

Mrs. Lee Moore, president, welcomed the guests and introduced Mrs. Dale Thut, who presented the guest speaker, Dan True, KGNC-TV weatherman, of Amarillo.

Mr. True's topic for discussion was tornadoes in particular and weather in general. He illustrated the building of a storm shelter, made of redwood and steel, that would accommodate six or eight people and can be constructed for under $200. He suggested that the shelter could be used as a playhouse for children of the family during the rest of the year.

In describing the sound of a tornado, Mr. True said, "When you hear a sound outside of your home that is not like anything you have heard before, that is it! You will know it when you hear it."

"Most injuries received during tornadoes," Mr. True continued, "are caused by flying objects that have the impact of a bullet shot from a gun. It is a good idea to find protection in any southwest area, even if the protected area is only a few inches above the ground. This will prevent being hit by flying objects. Even a culvert in a street will offer some protection, or the cement foundation of a house that extends up from the ground, if you are in the southwest corner."

"A lot of homes are destroyed," Mr. True went on, "that are not even in the direct path of the tornado. It is a good idea to raise a window or open a door to balance the air pressure within the house to the air pressure outside of the house."

Interest in Mr. True's subject and appreciation of his ability to explain and clarify questions, was evidenced in the general discussion that was held during his talk.

During the social hour, members were served coffee and miniature sweet rolls from a table decorated in a "weather" theme. The focal point of the table was the copper barometer encircled with a dried arrangement of leaves and flowers sprayed with bronze. Hostesses for the social hour were Mmes. Martin Stubbe, W. D. Price Jr., Dale Thut, and Alvin Agan.

RUTH MILLETT

Sure, men still think they are the superior sex, even though women outlive 'em and usually outsmart 'em in the never-settled battle of the sexes.

If you want proof, here it is. Men think it is just dandy for a middle-aged man to take as his second wife a girl who is young enough to be his daughter. But how silly they think a middle-aged woman is if she marries a man even 10 years her junior.

Insurance rates go up when Junior starts to drive the family car but not when Sis does, yet you men still talk condescendingly about "women drivers."

So many women now share the burden of supporting a family that more than half of today's working women are married. But an awful lot of husbands still think helping around the house is beneath a man's dignity, even if it isn't beneath a woman's dignity to earn a pay check.

Men haven't yet found a more suitable comment for a silly woman's lack of sense than to say, "If that isn't just like a woman!"

If a man were as indispensable to an executive as is an excellent secretary, who sometimes knows more about the business than the boss, his boss would give him a fancy title and a suitable salary. But the executive figures he can keep a right-hand man who happens to be a woman in the mere job of secretary until she reaches the age of retirement.

Though his wife may read more than he does and keep better informed about local news, when they go to the polls to vote in a local election, the husband doesn't hesitate to tell his wife how he thinks she ought to vote. But he certainly wouldn't dream of asking her opinion on how he ought to vote. Politics is still a subject men think they understand better than women, simply because they are men.

The list could go on and on. But why offer any more proof? Men KNOW they're superior — but women know men merely THINK they are.

It's amazing how often women neglect their feet even though they spend hours each day standing and walking. Many make the mistake of buying improper shoes — those that are too high-heeled for normal comfort or don't fit the foot. A woman whose feet hurt will have trouble being a gay companion.

Lenten Study Held By St. Margaret's

St. Margaret's Guild met in the Parish Hall of the St. Matthews Episcopal Church on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. Devotional was given by Mrs. Jack Cooper.

Mrs. Charles Bruce presented an interesting program on "The Episcopal Church in Japan." A report was made on "Sei Ko Kwai," which is Japanese for "Episcopal Church of Japan." Material for the report was taken from the first two chapters of "Rise As the Phoenix" and "Cross and Crisis."

The program followed the theme of the study of the entire church for Lent.

During the business meeting, a report was given of the annual Parish Dinner, which was held on Jan. 15.

Reports were made by all committees for the Mardi Gras Aunt Jimma Pancake Supper to be held on Feb. 18 at 5 p.m.

Tickets to the supper have been donated by the Texas Printing Co. and may be purchased from any member of the church. It was decided that contests will be held again this year between the men's, women's, boy's and girl's groups with prizes awarded the one selling the most tickets in each group.

Tickets are to be priced at $1 for adults, which includes admission to the dance to be held at 8:30 p.m. and 50 cents for children under 12 years, it was announced.

Plans were also made to have a Trial Run of the Mardi Gras Aunt Jimma Pancake Supper on Feb. 6.

Coffee and doughnuts were served to the following Mmes. George Roraback, Clem Followell, C. R. Howard, Paul Hinton, Ross Shaw, Bob Huston, Laskey Baker, Willard Blanton, Charles Bruce, Jack Cooper, Bill Ragadaje, Jack Reeve, Robert Malone, Bruce Scott, and Miss Susie Tucker.

European Trip Topic For Club

(Special to The News) MIAMI — Mrs. R. E. Thompson was hostess to the members of the Home Progress Club recently.

Mrs. Eunice Holland, president, conducted the business session.

Mrs. Windom D. Allen had charge of the program, and spoke on her recent European tour. She told of visiting at Lourdes, France, the "Miracle Shrine" and of bathing in its healing waters.

"This shrine and healing spring originated when Bernadette, a young 14 year-old French peasant girl, had 18 visions of the Virgin Mary. Today pilgrimages are made here by people from all over the world to bath in its healing waters and receive the benefit of its healing qualities," she said. Mrs. Allen showed slides of the Grotto, Shrine, alters, churches and grounds.

Mrs. R. E. Webster conducted a parliamentary drill and led a discussion on parliamentary procedure.

Refreshments were served to one guest; Mrs. Annie O'Loughlin and members; Mmes. H. J. McCustion, Howard Mulkey, W. L. Russell, C. W. Bowers, Theo Jenkins, C. C. Shield, R. E. Webster, C. C.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace
Would you please give me some suggestions for a 50th wedding anniversary gift.

Would it be all right to give each a gift or do you give just one gift to both? They do not want dishes.

Mrs. McC.

Dear Mrs. McC.
Anything for their home would be a suitable gift — lamps, candlesticks, hook ends, vases, pieces of furniture, bedding, fireplace equipment. Sometimes it is fun to give money for a little trip the two would enjoy whether it might be a week end or just lunch and a show in the city.

Sometimes several people get together and give a check apiece, so that the money can be put into one large gift such as a radio or television.

If you have two gifts in mind, one for each, it would be quite proper to give them each something.

SERVICE MEN'S ADDRESSES

Dear Grace Friend
I like to write to service men and I was wondering if you had a list of servicemen or if you know where I can get some names and addresses.

I've noticed you have every once in a while in your column a list of service men's addresses, and I was wondering if you have some now. I sure hope you can help me out.

D. V.

Dear D. V.
At present I don't have any addresses for you.

Why don't you call the chaplain at the Marine Base and ask for some addresses. He may be able to help you.

WEAVER

Dear Grace Friend
Could you tell me where I could buy a weaver and what it would cost and if I could sell the made goods. I am in need of income and I can't go out. I am an elderly lady.

Mrs. M. F.

Dear Mrs. F.
Do you mean that you would like a loom?

I am sorry that I have no information concerning a weaver. If any of my readers knows what you mean and will write me, I'll be happy to send you the information.

BIG HIPS

Grace Friend
Could you please help me. I have quite large hips and I would like to lose about two inches.

When washing woodwork—or metal, for that matter — always wash from the bottom up. Then dirty water won't trickle down onto unwashed sections. Water streaks of this variety are hard to remove.

A housewife can have a spottish home without working like a trooper. Cleaning items as she works rather than leaving them for a full day's job is one way. For example, as part of the dishwashing routine, sponge off the refrigerator. This removes fingermarks and food splashes.

YOU — AND COLOR

Color preferences are as varied as the human personality—and as unpredictable. We are all affected by color and whether we are consciously aware of it or not, we respond emotionally to it. Our responses differ according to our conditioning and association.

One individual, for instance, will find red in its many ramifications a stimulating and enjoyably exciting color, while another may regard it as being tense and enervating. Blue to one, may suggest a feeling of serenity and restfulness, while others will find it a depressant.

When choosing the colors to be used in your home, key your color scheme to your personality. Let your own inner responses—your likes and dislikes—guide your selection. Never surround yourself with colors that irritate you, regardless of how fashionable they may be at the moment.

A background of muted colors gives the room sketched above an atmosphere of serenity. Ice blue walls are warmed by a citron-yellow rug, draperies and ceiling. The sectional sofa, the largest piece in the room, is also of citron yellow. Cerulean blue chair and rich brown tones of walnut tables give pronounced color accent. Bright accessories add distinction, may be removed as moods dictate.

The home furnishings for which you have registered a preference—well-scaled, handsomely designed pieces with a flair for causality—await you here in our store. We've made sure that every piece we offer you is an outstanding example of efficient and enduring beauty and an excellent value. Come in today.

Manners Make Friends

Never hesitate to apologize when you realize that you were in the wrong. "I'm sorry, I was wrong about that" will often set matters right when a proud silence only widens a breach.

Only a very small person thinks he couldn't possibly make a mistake — or admit making one if he did.

Mrs. H. Johnson Art Club Speaker

Pampa Art Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. O. W. Appleby, 1300 N. Russell, with Mrs. Ruth Spearman in charge of the program. Mrs. Spearman introduced Mrs. Howard Johnson, who spoke on the subject, "Impressionism in Art."

Proper storage of household cleaning items will encourage their use, especially by young helpers in the family. Who wants to dig into the back of a closet for mops, cleaning waxes or vacuum cleaner attachments? Try setting up an organized storage space for cleaning materials.

Doors that swell and stick and stubborn drawers can be placed smoothly until they move smoothly. Cover the fresh surface with shellac to keep dirt from working into it.

In applying eye shadow, women must be especially careful about getting it close to the nose. Keep it as near the center of the lid as possible. If you go farther with it, the eye shadow will make your eyes seem closer together. And your eyes are already close, the results will be startling.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is not license. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

YOUR FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

"Your Freedom Newspaper" becomes The News' slogan today rather than "one of Texas' five Most Consistent Newspapers."

Your freedom as well as our own has always been the primary goal. We believe the new slogan expresses this goal better than the old.

Of course we shall continue to endeavor to be consistent with the moral truths expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence. These great moral expressions are our primary guides. The former slogan, "Most Consistent Newspaper," which meant consistent with these guides, was often misunderstood.

We believe the new slogan will promote a clearer understanding of our editorial policy which is dedicated to promoting true freedom.

Following, for your comparison, are both the old and new slogans, with explaining paragraphs:

Old Slogan

One Of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

New Slogan

While a request for letters pointing out any deviations from these principles is not expressly included in the paragraphs explaining our new slogan, we shall welcome these letters in the future as much as we have in the past.

The Nation's Press

SO LITTLE FROM SO MUCH

(The Wall Street Journal)

In a year and a half, according to the best estimates of the State Department, the Russians have promised to pay some $1.5 billion in foreign aid.

The dangling of this financial assistance by the Kremlin is credited by the State Department as contributing mightily to Communist success in seducing foreign governments into the Soviet orbit. Therefore — or so argues the Administration — this country must increase its foreign aid spending and grant it on more liberal terms to counteract the Russian efforts.

Well, it's not yet proved that the Russian foreign aid has accomplished as much as alleged. For one thing, a lot of it has been paid and there's disillusionment around the corner for some of the beneficiaries. For another, there is no instance yet in which Russian foreign aid has enticed any foreign government into the Russian orbit that wasn't already skipping along the edge anyway.

But even if the Russian success has been as touted, this hardly suggests that buying friendly governments represents a good bargain. If we can buy them away from the Russians by upping the ante from our foreign aid funds, what's to prevent the Russians from buying them back again by tossing a few more rubles in the pot?

There's something else curious about using the Russian foreign aid statistics to argue that our foreign aid officials should have more money to do more of what they have been doing.

During this year and a half when the Russians were supposedly having such a success with promises of $1.5 billion, the U. S. actually disbursed something like $6 billion in foreign aid. Hardly anyone claims a comparable success in winning friends with our $6 billion. As a matter of fact, since World War II our total spending among foreign governments has exceeded $60 billion. Yet, if anything, the Western nations that have received all this money are less happy with us than before.

Surely some questions are in order about the whole concept of our foreign aid program if it is true that the Russians can accomplish so much with so little while our foreign aiders are accomplishing so little with so much.

The other day, Communist Tito refused to take any more free arms from the United States and the peculiar fight we are waging against the Reds looked very dark indeed. But after a couple of days he broke down and admitted he would let us give him free spare parts for his war machines. And that made us just as happy as we could be.

The Income Tax Robs Some To Benefit Others

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

The progressive income tax makes it legal (but not moral) for the stronger and more highly organized pressure groups to seize the property of some for the benefit of others, usually themselves. Farmers get payment for unsaleable crops. Residents of the Tennessee Valley get cheaper electricity. Some businesses get tariff protection and others get subsidies. Some workers get pay for idleness (featherbedding) and unemployment relief when jobs are available. All this comes from the incomes of other workers. It creates a scramble to get something for nothing. It focuses attention not on producing more wealth but in robbing others.

During the past generation the role of government has changed from that of protecting life and property to that of seizing property at the behest of the numerically superior groups of voters.

It is all a violation of two of the Ten Commandments. Paul covets the property of Peter. He is unwilling to steal, but he combines with other Pauls to induce the government to tax Peter. The money thus acquired is used to subsidize the Pauls. It is coveting

Free Rider

Dan Smoot, in "The Dan Smoot Report," has a very rational answer to the unions' "Free Rider" charge in his January 6 report. Of course if one would analyze who are free riders, one would have to determine what a free rider means. If it means someone who produces more than he actually gets, then any man who does, is a free rider. That is, provided one believes it is ethical and just and right for each and every man to get all he produces.

Since the labor unions never know how to tell how much each man should get, those people who will answer questions on the subject contend that the only way to tell how much each man produces is to have a free and unhampered market for the product of what each man produces. But here is the way Smoot handles this question:

"The unions' 'Free Rider' argument against right-to-work laws, is that, because a union gets benefits for all employees in a unionized plant, all employees should be forced to support the union: employees who get the benefits of unionism without paying dues are getting a free ride at the expense of union members.

"Unions claim it is a heavy burden on them to bargain for employees who do not pay union dues.

"Actually, contract negotiating is about the least expensive of all union activities. Unions spend most of their money on political lobbying and propaganda and on such funds for union officials.

"Moreover, it is unions who demanded this monopoly of bargaining which they now claim to be such a burden.

"Unions are not content to go into a company and sell their services, on a voluntary basis, to employees who want to buy, permitting employees who don't want union membership to do their own individual bargaining.

"Unions know they would get nowhere in a system like this. Not very many employees would willingly buy union services, because an able and ambitious employee, if permitted to apply himself and work as hard as he wants to, could get ahead much faster on his own than by being tied down to the general average of mediocrity which unions require.

"So, unions demanded a law which would give them exclusive bargaining rights for all employees in a plant where they can get a bare majority of employees to vote for the union. They got it (in both the Wagner Act and the Taft-Hartley Act); and now they claim they are imposed on if the employees who don't want their services are not forced to pay for them.

"One union argument is that, inasmuch as unions do so much good for so many people, all people who benefit should be forced to support the unions!

"If there were any sense or validity in this argument, then all churches, clubs, fraternal organizations, political parties, and other groups whose activities are thought to be beneficial to society could compel all members of society to join and pay dues.

"Unions answer this point by saying unions are different. Unions, in fact, claim that they should have the power of government itself. When AFL challenged the constitutionality of a state right-to-work law in the Lincoln Union vs. Northwestern Company case (in 1949) AFL lawyers filed a brief which said:

"The common rule of collective bargaining carries with it the legal doctrine that the union is the common authority for government of a society of workers. It has in a sense the powers and responsibilities of a government.

"This is identical with the corporate-state idea which Mussolini tried out in Italy and called fascism. It is also identical with the communist idea that all workers in a workers' soviet, or union, must be governed by that soviet, or union.

"Even if unions did create benefits for workers or society at large, they could not, in a free society, have the power to force people to join and pay dues. They can have such power only in a society where people are slaves."

and it is stealing, but Paul's conscience is clear because it has all been perfectly legal. This process can go on as long as Peter's resources hold out. It is not likely to stop unless men and women agree that the government must not be entrusted with the power to interfere in the economic activities of the people. If it has this power the process will go on until the last bone of the last taxpayer is picked bare.

In this connection it is well to recall the lines of Rudyard Kipling — "In the Carboniferous Epoch we were promised abundance for all. By robbing selected Peter to pay for collective Paul; But, though we had plenty of money, there was nothing our money could buy. And the gods of the Copybook Headings said 'If you don't work you die'."

Today the Federal debt is $276 billion. When we add State and local debt, corporate and private debt, and our liability for Social Security we find that we have mortgaged our future for about $1 trillion. The total value of our entire national wealth is about $750 billion. Everything we own, therefore, is mortgaged for more than its value.

We are creating wealth rapidly but spending it more rapidly. That way lies certain disaster. The process must be reversed and debt of all kinds reduced.

West Germany Doesn't Want To Rearm Itself

By RAY TUCKER

BONN — West German statesmen and industrialists admit frankly — in fact, brutally for an American — that they do not want to rearm with conventional or nuclear forces, despite the Paris NATO Peace Conference agreement "in principle" to that effect. They have found peace to be more profitable than war, and it is difficult to blame these losers in history's worst military disasters.

The West German attitude, which Chancellor Konrad Adenauer expressed so violently at Paris, and so surprisingly to President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, is based on economic, emotional and political factors. But the basic fact, which Washington refuses to recognize, is that Western Germany cannot be regarded as too solid an ally and bastion. The inhabitants are eager for an arrangement with Russia.

WEST GERMANY — West Germany, ironically, is the most prosperous nation in all Europe, including the British Isles. In respect to every economic index — employment, wages, national gross product, the banking and financial situation — it has progressed far faster and greater than its two European victor nations.

The millions of postwar youngsters, earning an average of $50 a week in many industries, do not want to put on a uniform at $30 or less a month. In that respect, they do not differ from American boys. Corporate spokesmen agree with this attitude, as interviewed by 30, 13-country newspapermen on this around-the-world good — will flight, which is sponsored by Qantas, famous Australian Air Line. One reason why West Germany is wallowing in prosperity is that, unlike the United States, that country has no $40-billion-a-year defense budget, or no military expenditure approaching that of smaller NATO members. It has no heavy plant investment devoted to production of noneconomic goods, such as normal or nuclear weapons.

NO DEFENSE PLANTS — In fact, we were amazed to be told quite frankly by leading industrialists and Adenauer aides that West Germany has no defense plants at all. It will be several years, if then, before West Germany can turn out even a cartridge.

Meanwhile, for all these reasons, Bonn has fallen far behind in its original pledge to contribute 12 divisions to NATO. Only three, not too well equipped or trained, are partially ready for battle with the Russian Reds and satellite units should they attack.

Despite his victory in the recent elections, Adenauer is reported to be slipping in popularity. For an American reporter, it is interesting to learn that he is held to be the "Franklin D. Roosevelt of Germany." He is regarded as a "democratic dictator."

RE-EVALUATE ATTITUDES — President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, in sharp contrast to their optimistic television report on the NATO Conference's accomplishments, must re-evaluate the estimate of Adenauer's and West Germany's post-Sputnik posture. And this observation applies to almost every West European ally save Britain, Belgium and Holland. Europe has mind its fill of wars, and doesn't mind admitting it.

AN INTERESTING QUESTION — "Jim" Winchester, one of the 12 American correspondents on this around-the-world flight, has asked a most important question of statesmen, politicians and industrialists whom we have interviewed. He wanted to know what these statesmen considered to be the most dangerous to humanity, and which they would like to see eradicated. Here are some of the answers:

The Archbishop of Canterbury — spastics; Undersecretary of State Herter perhaps thinking of the President's attack — heart; The German Minister of Housing — nuclear radiation; Prime Minister Nehru — "We must learn to keep cool or nothing else will be worth while"; Lollobrigida — malnutrition.

THE NATION'S PRESS

MONEY AND THE MIND

The Wall Street Journal

Among the sad and true facts about our educational system reported by Secretary Folsom to President Eisenhower were the following:

Only one out of three high school graduates has had as much as a year of chemistry; only one out of four has had a year of physics.

Only one of three graduates has more than a year of simple algebra.

Only about one out of five of all high school students, in the year 1955, was taking a course in any foreign language.

Every one of the 48 states has a special program to promote the teaching of home economics and the distributive trades (merchandizing) in the secondary schools. Only eight of the 48 have similar programs to improve the teaching of science and mathematics.

These are the educational deficiencies which Mr. Folsom proposes to attack with a billion dollars of Federal funds. It would be an "emergency" program, like Jupiter or Atlas, to crash us through the educational barrier in four years.

Yet to anyone who will look about the countryside at the new high schools, rising like architectural gems, it should be self-evident that these are not deficiencies of money. Algebra requires little more than a blackboard, an interested teacher and intelligent pupils. A magnificent physics or chemistry laboratory can be built for the fraction of the cost of a gymnasium.

Mr. Folsom does not underestimate the gravity of the deficiencies; he does not err in thinking that good education, like anything of high quality, costs money and that it is tragic waste for good minds to be left in ignorance. The error here is in the remedy he proposes.

If there are four students in a high school and only one is taking physics, there can be many reasons why the other three do not. They may not have the intellectual capacity. Their interests and aptitudes may lie elsewhere. They may, as young people sometimes do, prefer a "crip" course to hard work. The school authorities, as very often happens, may steer them away from a subject in which they will not do well because a poor pupil may lower the school average. The teacher may be incompetent to arouse enthusiasm.

Present Need Is For Better Teachers

By Thurman Sensing

SOME OBSERVATIONS ON EDUCATION AND SPUTNIK

There is much hue and cry throughout the nation right now about more pay for teachers. We can agree with this if the aim is to get better teachers; we cannot agree if the aim is simply to give the teachers we have more pay. Generally speaking, the teachers now employed are getting all they are worth. Our need is better teachers! And under our economic system, wherein we usually get what we pay for, the best way to get better teachers is to pay better teacher salaries.

As a matter of fact, if we had better teachers, we very likely would not be having so much hula-hula about the need for federal aid scholarships for exceptional students. It has been our second-rate teaching and second-rate educational leadership over the past generation that has brought all this trouble upon us. So-called "progressive education," which emphasized the froth rather than the substance, ignored the exceptional student to a large extent and tried to bring all students down to a common level. Our whole educational program has suffered accordingly. It is a most hopeful sign that we are seeing a decided reaction in our schools and among our educators to "progressive" education.

Of course, the current popular move for the federal government to provide scholarships of various sorts, particularly in the field of science to meet the "scare" of the Russian Sputnik, is all a snare and a delusion. Maybe scholarships in certain fields to exceptional students would help right now — but why from the federal government? Must we keep on asking the question — where is the money coming from? We all know that the federal government has no money of its own, that whatever money it furnishes the various states must first come from the people in those states. It is "mooching" money, as has been stated, don't the states know that they are mooching with their own money that the money they put up direct is being matched with some more of their money which they have put up indirectly? Why not keep all the money at home in the first place — and thereby save the administration cost of federal bureaucracy and at the same time the federal control that always goes along with federal aid of any sort?

There is another aspect of this Sputnik scare that deserves some consideration. Since when has the United States been "afraid" of competition? Haven't we always thrived on it? Doesn't it account in large part for the accomplishments we have achieved in this country in the way of a high standard of living? Is competition only good when it is internal? We know it is not, if we would only think about it a moment. We know that if some other nation achieves something which we ourselves desire, then we are more likely to work that much harder. In many ways, the Sputnik could be a blessing in disguise to a people who had come to believe that they must always be first in everything.

We need to do some more thinking, too, about how to remedy our laxness in scientific education before going off half-cocked in our efforts. Actually, our whole educational system needs overhauling. It needed it long before Sputnik was ever heard of; Sputnik just brought it to a head.

Neither can our present educational deficiencies be solved by simply offering some courses in science at the high school and college levels. It is much deeper than that; it must run the whole course of educational training. We must pay more attention to fundamentals and less attention to frills, from the first grade to the doctor's degree. Science courses alone will not solve our problem. Not every problem can be solved by a slide rule and a chemical formula. The real aim of education should be the acquisition of wisdom, not the accumulation of knowledge — and there's a vast difference between the two.

Another final observation — the amount of money spent on education per pupil — which we use entirely too much as a gauge of value — does not necessarily determine the quality of education the pupil receives. Money can be wasted or it can be used wisely. The value received varies accordingly.

Americans And Their 'Dog Sentimentality'

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — A friend of mine got home about midnight, that night of the terrible, cold rain, and a little mutt, a kind of crew-cut cocker, was scrunched up against the front door of the apartment house in the lee of the little entry, wet and shivering. This friend said that for an instant it brought to mind the strain from "My Man," as Fanny Brice used to sing it, "cold and wet, tired you bet, — but I love him."

My friend said, "Hi, little fellow, how you?" The mutt wiggled all over, wiggled and wiggled and nosed at the door. And when he pushed it open, the pooch slipped in and stood there, wiggling.

My friend said, "Oh, now chum, a nice character like you must have a home around here. You do not look like a little stray dog. I can't take you in. Somebody will be walking the streets all night, calling for you, and worrying sick. No, you can't come in. Go on home so they will stop worrying."

He opened the door again to put him out, but the pooch gave him those eyes. So he said, "Well, come on in; but just for a saucer of milk; then you have to go out so they can find you. They will be worried crazy. I would not want anyone covering up my mutt. If you were my mutt, even for kindness, and make me worry a n d walk the rainy streets on a night like this."

He led the pup into the kitchen. The Cocker cleaned a saucer of milk in a couple of licks. Then another. Then my friend walked to the door. He said, "Come on, now; outside!" The pooch went along, begging with his eyes, his tail and the wilted posture of his body. It was a production. My friend opened the door. "Out!" he said. He spanked his hands together. "Get out!"

The janitor filled in my friend. Some people up the street got transferred to Toledo or somewhere and gave their dog to a neighborhood kid, but his parents wouldn't let him have a dog. That was all. The janitor said he didn't know what had come over kids. Or parents.

World News In Pictures

STRANGE RANCE—A cow in search of its home range is this black and white critter strolling along the center line of the Lake Washington Floating Bridge in Seattle, Wash. The cow was one of five that fell from a cattle truck when a panel gave way. There were no cowboys around so State Patrol officers held an emergency roundup to clear the bridge.

LITTLE GIRL, BIG DOG—Four-year-old Rayne Puhl, of Cleveland, Ohio, appears awestruck as she looks up at an ice replica of "Fritz," the St. Bernard mascot at the Boyne Mountain (Mich.) Lodge. The 14-foot ice sculpture was made by employes of the lodge.

THIS ONE'S ON THE HOUSE—Farmington Township, Mich., firemen are true firemen. They set this blaze, and form a standing-room-only audience for the ensuing inferno. Township officials decided that the cheapest way to get rid of 11 condemned buildings was to burn them to the ground. Farmington is just outside the Greater Detroit area.

HOLLYWOOD'S GO-MAN — After 10 go-go-go years in Hollywood, work-happy Jerry Lewis is still one of the busiest guys in town. He's producing his own movies, writing TV routines and acting. He'll play a month or so in night clubs, then take off to Europe, followed by more TV shows and movies plus production and direction of a new TV series. Here he takes a brief moment out to pose with three two-month-old babies who are with him in Paramount's "Rock-a-bye-Baby."

SCIENCE ADVISER—Dr. Wallace R. Brode, above, one-time Ohio State University professor, has been named scientific adviser to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Brode, 57, now associate director of the National Bureau of Standards, was recommended for the $18,000-a-year post by Dr. James R. Killian, President Eisenhower's special assistant on science and technology.

BAG OF TRICKS—Preparing to disembark in New York from the liner Kungsholm is 17-year-old Florence Bjorman of Gothenburg, Sweden. Peeking over her shoulder is another new arrival, a good luck doll that made the voyage with her. Florence, who appears impressed with her first look at New York, is en route to Libertyville, Ill., to become a governess.

CONTROL MAN—The Soviet press revealed that the Kremlin has quietly replaced the political chief of the armed forces—the man who secures the Communist party's control over the Red Army. The new head of the political administration of the armed forces is Col. Gen. F. I. Golikov, above, a professional soldier. He replaces Col. Gen. A. Zhetlov, who played a decisive part in the struggle which led to the ousting of Marshal Georgi Zhukov from his top party posts.

TUNED TO SPACE—Designed to probe outer space, this massive 61-foot diameter antenna dwarfs a workman at the experimental radar station being developed for the U.S. Air Force by the Stanford Research Institute at Menlo Park, Calif. The 100-megacycle transmitter is used to gather data on the behavior of very high and ultra high frequency radio signals and reflection from meteors.

EVERYBODY'S FAVORITE — Three years of being the nation's favorite mother-in-law on TV's "December Bride" show, on top of 28 years of beloved-mother roles in the movies gives Spring Byington, front, center, something of a record. "I'm related to EVERYONE in Hollywood," she laughs. Pictured with her are other members of the "December Bride" cast—Frances Rafferty, left, and Verna Felton; in rear, Dean Miller, left, and Harry Morgan.

WHITE HOUSE CHIEF—Maj. Ralph C. Stover, above, is the new chief of the White House Police. Stover, 46, has been a member of the White House force since 1940. He succeeds Maj. Hobart W. Francis, who retired after 22 years.

BIG AS A TRUCK—This huge aluminum body with a capacity of 37 1/2 cubic yards is the largest ever built for a dump truck. The truck is 30 feet, 3 inches long, 12 feet, 4 inches wide, 11 feet, 11 inches high and weighs 54,000 pounds. Built by Mack Trucks for the Aluminum Company of America, it will be used in bauxite mining operations in the Dominican Republic. The truck, for off-highway use, is powered by a 335-horsepower turbocharged diesel engine, carrying a load of 67,000 pounds.

FACES GRILLING—Joseph S. (Joey) Fay, one-time vice president of the International Union of Operating Engineers, has been summoned to appear before the U.S. Senate special committee probing corruption in labor and management. Fay, 65, pictured above as he was released from Clinton Prison in Dannemora, N.Y., in 1956 after serving eight years for extortion, was a key figure in a sensational scandal that rocked New York State politics five years ago. At that time it was revealed that Fay, even while in prison, held court for a steady stream of visitors.

CAPITOL'S SOUP FEUD FOR THOUGHT—Bean soup has been causing pots full of controversy since 1907, when the U.S. Senate restaurant started serving the delicacy, previously sacred to the House kitchens. House members have enjoyed bean soup daily since 1904. The squabble has flared up anew with the reconvening of the 85th Congress. Chief Senate Chef Ross Destito admits House priority with the soup, but claims the Senate recipe is "naturally" the best. House Chef Ernest Zahn counters that his recipe preserves the soup in its classic state, but refuses to venture an opinion on which soup is best. "I don't eat it myself," he says. "I just cook it."

JOHN'S TURN TO LEAD—John Plaisted, 6, blind since birth, can't understand why his pal, Muggs, doesn't play like he used to. The dog, cut down by a shotgun blast while defending the family-owned tavern in Oregon City, Ore., against burglars, is now blind, too. It will be little John's chore to teach his pal the ways of the world of darkness.

IN THE SWING—Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams leads Mrs. Rocco Siciliano, wife of a special assistant to the President, in the figures of a square dance to the tune of 74 billion dollars, at a Washington hotel. The occasion: a dance given in honor of, of all things, "Debut of the Budget."

RUSSIAN FOREIGN AID IN PAST THREE YEARS TOTALS 7.8 BILLION DOLLARS

THE SOVIET ECONOMIC WAR—President Eisenhower, in his State of the Union speech and again in his budget message, warned that Russia has launched a "massive economic offensive." Newsmap, above, shows that the President wasn't—and the Russians aren't—fooling. Moscow has concentrated its loans and other aid to the key countries shown, surpassing U.S. aid, twice over. Important is the fact that Russia focuses its financial fire, not only on countries already in the Red camp, like Yugoslavia, but on shakily neutral ones like Egypt, India and Afghanistan in the hope of achieving subversion and eventual political domination. The weapons the Soviets use in this dangerous economic war are loans—at lower interest rates and with longer payment periods than the U.S. offers.

and in addition the ace of hearts. It looked as if school were out but Harold did a little more thinking. Maybe South's ace of hearts would be a singleton, Harold led the deuce of hearts and East played the ten. South took his ace of hearts and went after the diamond suit. Alj Harold had to do was to duck twice and South wound up with a lot of good diamonds but with no way to get to them.

South played the rest of the hand well and managed to get out of his troubles for down one, but it was little consolation against the four no-trump he would have made against average defense.

Astrodyne, Inc. Officials Named

Officers and directors of Astrodyne, Inc., were announced last week following incorporation of the company as a Delaware corporation to specialize in solid propellant activities under the joint equal ownership of North American Aviation, Inc., and Phillips Petroleum Company.

Headed by eight principal officers of the two parent concerns, the new company unites the activities of North American and Phillips in the vital and expanding field of solid propellants for rockets, missiles and aeronautical power units. A result will be the expediting of research, development and manufacture of higher energy solid fuels, propellants and associated devices.

Officers of the new corporation include... as president, J. L. Atwood, who is president of North American; vice president, R. W. Thomas, who is Phillips vice president for research and development; treasurer, R. A. Lambeth, who is North American's vice president-finance, and its treasurer; and secretary, Paul J. Parker, who is secretary and assistant treasurer of Phillips.

Eight officials of the two founding companies were elected as directors of Astrodyne. From North American, they were... Atwood; Lambeth; J. S. Smithson, vice president administration; and S. K. Hoffman, vice president a general manager of North American's Rocketdyne Division.

Phillips officials elected as directors of the new company were... Paul Endacott, president; Stanley Learned, chairman of the executive committee and assistant to the president; W. W. Keeler, executive vice president, and Thomas.

The new company will have its headquarters and operations at Air Force Plant 66 near McGregor in central Texas where Phillips has conducted solid propellant research and development for the air force since 1952 and currently employs about 900 people. A manufacturing line at this plant produces Jato (Jet-Assist Take-Off) motors and makes other rocket engines and propulsion units developed there. Phillips employees at Air Force Plant 66 and some of North American's personnel will transfer to the new company.

Astrodyne officials explained that within a few weeks contracts and operations for the government at Air Force Plant 66 would be transferred to Astrodyne subject to air force approval of the company's proposal.

Phillips has conducted research and development on solid propellants for a number of years. The company developed one of the country's largest solid propellant engines and accomplished the first commercially successful use of ammonium nitrate as an oxidizer.

North American has engaged in the development and production of large liquid-propelled rocket engines since 1946 and its Rocketdyne division is delivering engines for the Atlas, Thor, Jupiter and Redstone ballistic missiles from plants in Canoga Park, California, and Neosho, Missouri. These activities will continue in North American Aviation.

California TV Station Will Start 'Subliminal Perception'

By VERNON SCOTT United Press Hollywood Writer HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A movie-land TV station soon will beam "invisible" messages to Southern California television viewers via subliminal perception — a method of reaching the audience's subconscious mind.

Station KTLA will begin with public service announcements, such as "contribute to the March of Dimes," and "drive safely." If all goes well the next step will be commercials. And therein lies an explosive issue.

Commercials that register on the mind without conscious consent of the viewer smacks of brain washing. During the course of an innocuous musical show or horse opera a blurb for soap could be flashed on TV screens several times a minute influencing viewers to buy a product they don't want.

Will It Fly? "There is no federal commission ruling on subliminal perception yet," says Lew Arnold, KTLA vice president. "So we're going to give it a try."

Thus far the FCC hasn't taken a stand, other than advising broadcasters to refrain from experimenting with SP commercialism.

"I don't think we're dabbling with anything dangerous," Arnold added. "To begin with we'll stick to public service announcements, and we will tell our audience in advance when the technique is operating. It's a new means of communication."

"Everything depends on audience acceptance. At first we will try to avoid complaints. If everything works out we may use Pre-

North Plains Fair Is Discontinued

(Special to The News) PERRYTON — At a meeting of the directors last Wednesday evening at the Chamber of Commerce office, it was decided to discontinue the North Plains Fair.

The directors recommended that a celebration observing Perryton's birthday on Aug. 22 be held in place of the three day fair.

The directors, in their official action, cited three reasons for discontinuing the fair. These are lack of interest, lack of facilities and difficulty in financing the event.

The corporate structure of the fair Association will be maintained and new officers of the organization were elected. The fair will be revived in 1959 if sufficient interest is shown. The new officers are Wesley Bryan, president; Harry Reimer, vice president; Gayle Ferguson, second vice president; Fred Zachary, third vice president; John Young, fourth vice president; George Yates, fifth vice president and John Mayfield, manager.

Not High Adventure
The trouble with "High Adventure", of course, is that it is not really high adventure. It never were called in from both believing and scoffing factions to kick the plates around. The Air Force was represented by an officer who wrote off 98.1 per cent of sightings as balloons, aircraft, astronomical phenomena, and what have you. (I don't have anything, honestly, sir.)

Maj. Donald Keyhoe, a believer challenged the figures brought up a few examples of sightings which he believed indicated intelligent, piloted Wedgwood is somewhere out there.

Prof. Donald Menzel, a Harvard astronomer, said a pox on everybody and it's all nonsense — 100 per cent of the sightings are unqualified observers.

Me, I'm keeping my mind open. And my windows closed.

Short Shot: NBC-TV's "Kraft Theatre" got off its clinker kick Wednesday night and turned out a fairly neat little study of duty and courage, "Eddie." Good performances by Pat O'Brien, Fay Wray and Rip Torn.

The Channel Swim: Kenneth Arnold, the pilot who turned in the flying saucer report that triggered the wave of sightings some 10 years ago, walked out on "Armstrong Circle Theatre" prior to Wednesday night's production. He felt the hour was a little too hot 'n' saucer.

The sponsor of CBS-TV's "Studio One" killed a March offering, "Ex-President," by David Davidson as too controversial. . . CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan takes off for Europe Monday to make films in Brussels and Rome. One sequence with Anna Magnani will be used and titled and representatives on his Feb. 16 show.

Doc Quigg Belongs To Ulcers Group

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—A reminder of the crazes that flit about this town arrived by mail today in the form of a card declaring me a charter member of "U.U."

U.U.? That's Ulcers Unanimous. It's described on the card as being "The Society for the Amelioration, Emasculation, and Eventual Elimination of Peptic and Duodenal Ulcers."

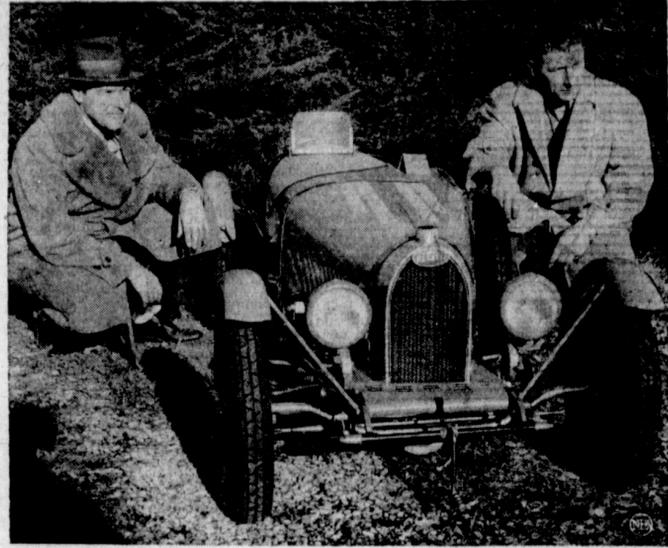

It turns out to be an anti-tenseness organization, "devoted to unwinding, relaxing, and just plain loafing." It advocates four-day weekends, two-hour siestas, and letting new bills become old. It absolutely forbids lunching at work desks, barking at secretaries, or yessing bosses.

This worthy outfit held its first annual do-nothing convention out in Jersey this week during a 10-hour lunch break. I was unable to attend because I couldn't get up energy enough.

In this age of brittle nerves, wound-up brains, and hairtrigger dispositions, U.U.'s aims are admirable. And it gives me an idea. Apparently it's anybody's privilege to start such an investigation.

Herewith I become founder and managing director of the following long-needed national organization:

- L.L.—Lists Lunatic: Society for the strangling, throwing down, and tromping underfoot of all the looney lists of "the 10 best..." or "the 10 most..."
- F.F.—Fashions Fallacious: Society for the prevention of the masquerading of such horrors as the gunny-sack dress and the monster-happy hat under the name of beauty.
- A.A. (1) — Abstainers Anonymous: Society for people who are ashamed they made certain New Year's resolutions and crave the miserable company of people who feel the same way.
- A.A. (2)—Appetites Avaricious: Society for completely ignoring the warnings against eating whatever you want whenever it is set before you wherever and how-so-ever you please.
- S.S.—Shavers Shambolic: Society of mutual sympathy among men who makes a shambles of their faces trying to shave as fast as the balplayers demonstrating razors on television.
- F.F. (2)—Filters Frivolous: Society for the propagation of cigarette filters containing boosters which automatically increase the nicotine content of the smoke as it passes through.
- C.C.—Commercial Contumacious: Society for aroused and righteous protest against and swift trial of radio and TV commercials whose sound booms out above the normal sound level so suddenly that it wakes slumbering neighbors for blocks around.

NOT FOR SALE—Handmade and prized beyond price is this tiny race car, the work of Phillip Miller, left, and William Geyer, of Upper Arlington, Ohio, a suburb of Columbus. It is a gleaming two-thirds size copy of the most dazzling of early European grand prix racing cars—the Type 35 Bugatti. From horseshoe-shaped grill to the tip of its boat-tail, it accurately duplicates an automobile produced by Ettore Bugatti, an Italian who produced about 8,500 of the world's finest cars in France. Miller, a Bugatti fan, and Geyer, a car-loving machinist, spent two years of evenings, Saturday and Sunday on the project. Miller has shown the car at sports car races, where it has never failed to draw a crowd of admirers. But the Miller-Geyer Bugatti is not for sale—on any terms.
