6 Youths Go Before Judge

Six youths, five from Pampa and one from Groom, four 15-year-olds and two 14-year-olds, went before Gray County Judge Bruce Parker this morning after being "rounded up" by Pampa police yesterday in connection with the robbery of two coin machines, one from the Speed Queen Laundry, 801 N. Sloan, and the Roberts Laundry Mat, in Amarillo.

The youths filed in court this morning that they took $22 from the coin machine at the laundry in Pampa and $16 from the laundry mat in Amarillo.

Pampa police received a call from James Woods, 410 Rose, who was doing his laundry at the Speed Queen. Woods told city police that it looked as if someone had broken into the coin machine. While police were investigating at the laundry, a woman who lives in the neighborhood told them she had seen a car around the laundry about 1:30 p.m. Sunday and had copied down the license number.

After checking the number, police found the car belonged to a boy at Groom and shortly afterward all six of the boys were "rounded up" by city police.

The boys had $31.30 left of the $38 they took from both machines.

The disposition of the case was not known at press time today.

Worth today, but rivers and creeks receded over the rest of the state.

Bobby Ray Loven, 25, missed a curve on White Settlement Road near Fort Worth today in his automobile, went through several wooded and concrete barriers and plunged into the flood-swollen Trinity.

Officials ordered an autopsy, to determine whether he was dead before his car sank, or whether he was drowned, thus becoming the state's 17th weather and flood victim.

More Rain Expected
Authorities expected an undetermined number of homes in the "flood bend" section between Fort Worth and Lake Worth to be flooded. Residents have fled about 250 homes in "flood bend."

Ben Hickey, manager of the Fort Worth water board, said he was letting all the water possible out of the three lakes above Fort Worth, in anticipation of rains later this week.

The five-day forecast predicted "moderate to heavy" precipitation in scattered thundershowers about the middle of the week.

Brazos River
The Brazos River, which bubbled into Waco through storm sewers Saturday, was receding today. Engineers opened gates on Lake Whitney Sunday; they had been keeping them closed until the flood got safely past Waco.

They still were letting water out of Lake Waco, where one gate was open. Lake Waco is on the Bosque River, which had about exhausted its flood waters.

'Moderate' Labor Bill Urged

Recession Measures Are Demanded

WASHINGTON (UP)—The National Association of Manufacturers today renewed its demand for tax cuts, government economy and a curb on the "power of union monopolies" as measures to cure the recession.

NAM President Milton C. Lightner said his organization deplors increased federal spending for "pump-priming" and any step-up of government intervention in business and state economic planning.

Lightner, who is chairman of the board of the Singer Manufacturing Co., Elizabeth, N.J., spoke in testimony prepared for the House Banking Committee which is holding hearings on bills to relieve unemployment.

He urged the committee to reject all the bills pending before it, calling them part of an "opportunistic trend" by advocates of greater federal spending and interference with states and private enterprise.

Attacking what he termed "the hysterical demands for the discredited pump-priming measures which so prolonged the Great Depression of the Thirties," Lightner praised the Eisenhower administration for "considerable spirit" in resisting such demands.

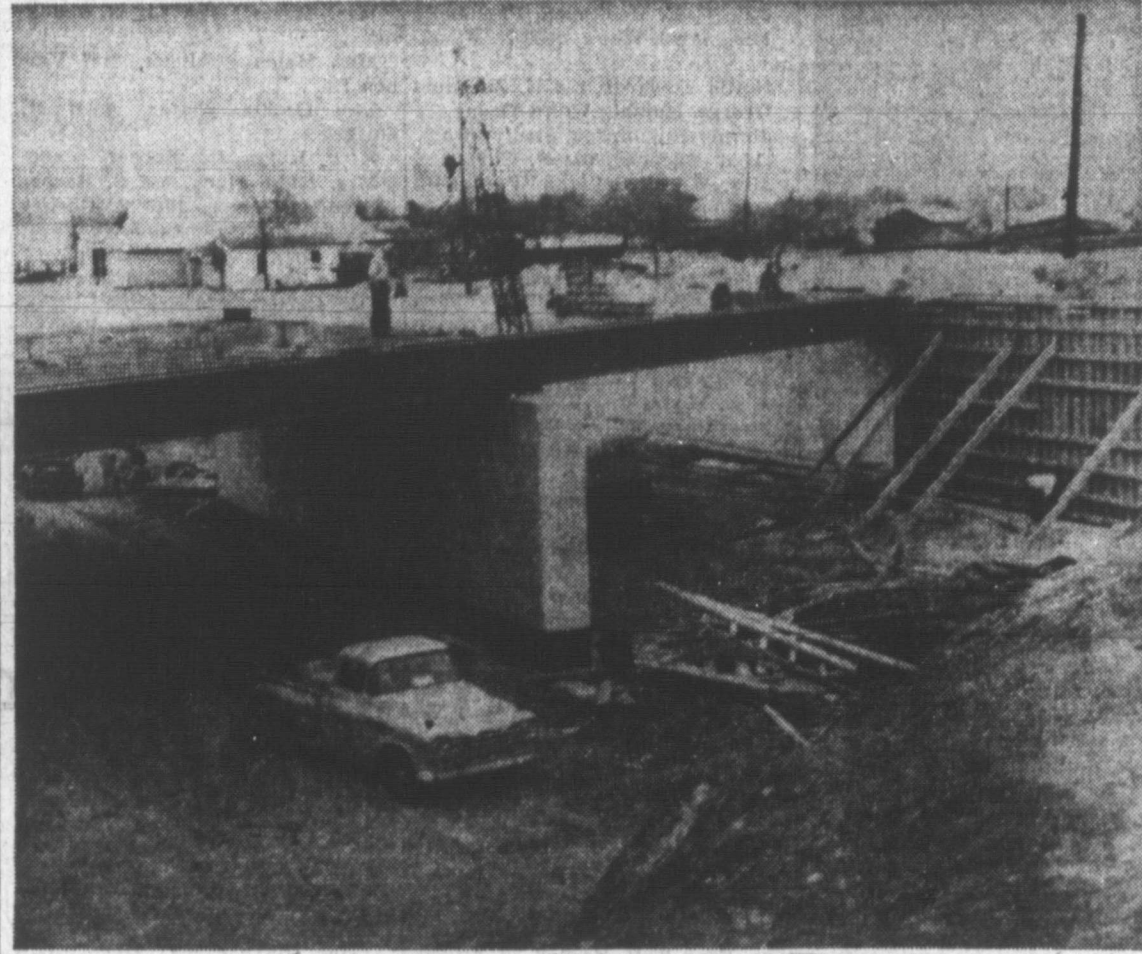

On taxes, he suggested cutting corporate an individual income taxes to make more money available for investment in job-making industrial expansion.

Lightner's testimony followed a prediction by Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks that the United States is headed into "a prosperous decade" despite signs of recession that now are "everywhere around us."

Weeks spoke at ceremonies Sunday at Stratford Hall, Va., family home of Civil War Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee. He said "long-range growth vistas, unfolded by science, technology and industry, reveal breath-taking wonderlands in the next decade which should inspire confidence."

A new government report meanwhile showed construction took a normal seasonal upturn in April and about equalled its pace of a year ago. A joint release by the Labor and Commerce Departments said the dollar value of all construction in the first four months of 1958 was up 2 per cent compared with the same period of 1957.

But it said the physical volume of work "probably did not increase" over last year because of higher prices.

500 Attend Center's Ground-Breaking Rites

Five hundred Pampans, from all walks of life, turned up for the mechanized ground-breaking ceremony in the construction of the Pampa Youth and Community Center Sunday.

By 3 p.m., two school buses, a ground-breaker and assorted cars were parked on the sunny Center site, west of Hobart, between Kentucky and Harvester.

Brass gleamed in the sun as W. R. Tregoe led his High School Band in the opening concert.

The program was short and snappy. Father William E. West, pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, made the dedicatory prayer.

Behind him in an open truck sat four members of the Center Board of Directors, Johnny Campbell, Fred Nealgue, Rev. Dick Crews and Mrs. Inez Carter.

Stepping up to the mike, Campbell said, "We were elected by the citizens of this community for one purpose, to provide a Youth and Community Center. We have almost $140,000 for the building."

Nealgue, next at the mike, said, "We need all your help to get this on its way. We haven't been quite fair to Inez Carter."

Earlier in the Campaign, Nealgue dubbed Mrs. Carter "The Center's Fairy God Mother" since it was she who pledged a $125,000 operating fund if the citizens of the community would provide the $300,000 building fund.

Mrs. Carter said a few words to the crowd, saying she knew they would help get the Center.

Rev. Dick Crews, pastor of the First Christian Church, came on for the lead speech.

"There has been a great deal of misunderstanding," said Rev. Crews, "about the whole program. It will be a guided program of wholesome recreation. We are affiliated with the National Recreation Association." Rev. Crews said that the NRA definitely does not back the development of "lounge hazards" but of mature individuals, ready to take their place in the community.

"Recreation, not wreckreation," declared Rev. Crews.

Rev. Crews pointed out that the Center would be available to many organizations and institutions and could be used in a cultural way for crafts work and hobby shops. Said Crews, "the whole family will be able to use the pool. The program will provide instruction in life saving and swimming and offer many facilities that we do not now have."

"No one was against the Center until we started a Campaign to raise funds to build one," said Rev. Crews. And then he told the story of the young man who wrote his girl friend that he loved her enough to climb the highest mountains and brave the greatest storms but added that he'd be over to see her if it didn't rain.

Said Rev. Crews, "Nothing worthwhile is accomplished without vision, enthusiasm and imagination." He said that Mrs. Carter should not have to build the Center for it will be everybody's Center and Pampa is everybody's town.

Looking out over the field, the Rev. Crews said, "When I came to Pampa, there was not a house immediately north of here." (See ATTEND, Page 8)

Water Safety Program Sets Registration

Registration for the Red Cross Water Safety Summer Recreation Program will be May 19-20 in the Chamber of Commerce Conference Room, the Pampa Chapter announced today.

Anyone over six will be eligible to swim in one of the Water Safety classes taught by Red Cross instructors.

Enrollment will be from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, May 19-20. A $1 enrollment fee will entitle one to a two week water safety class and two weeks of summer recreation.

The program will start June 2 with instruction in Junior and Senior Life Saving, June 2-13. Takers of Junior Life Saving must have a minimum age of 12 and a maximum of 18. Senior life savers must be at least 16. All such students must have completed their swimmer requirements.

From June 18 through July 25, the instructors will hold Beginner, Intermediate and Swimmer classes.

There will be a special Mother's Class with three sessions of two weeks each, June 16-27, June 30-July 11 and July 14-25.

Coach Clifford McNeely, coordinating the Water Safety Program, is in charge of Summer Recreation.

From three to four instructors will work with each session. The instructors are Mrs. Marilyn McClure, Mrs. R. A. Fugate, Mrs. Warren Jackson, Mrs. Marion Osborne, Mrs. D. J. Geary, Mrs. Wayne Jones, Mrs. Carl Hills, Mrs. Marietta Baird, Miss Barbara King, Miss Martha Skelly, Mrs. Harold Beckham and Mrs. Charles Potter.

In addition, Pampa girls coming home from college may help out with the program.

In their meeting Saturday, the group discussed the possibility of a Couples Class that would be held from 6 to 7 p.m., taught by (See SAFETY, Page 8)

'Non-Controversial' Limitation Rejected

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland urged approval today of a "moderate" labor bill. But he rejected a suggestion that it be limited to "non-controversial" reforms.

He testified as the first witness at a resumption of Senate Labor subcommittee hearings on suggestions for a broad labor reform bill.

Chairman John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said in an opening statement that the subcommittee has a "mandate" from the Senate to act "promptly" on legislation that would protect the rights of labor, management and the public.

Knowland, sponsor of what he has described as a 13-point "bill of rights" for workmen, was about to start his prepared remarks when a fellow Republican—Sen. Irving M. Ives (N.Y.)—broke in with a question.

Protect Against Abuses
Ives asked if Knowland would favor a "moderate" rather than a "extreme" reform bill, saying he feared that a bill "loaded with some rather controversial proposals" would die in the House.

Knowland said he is opposed to "extreme" legislation, but would have to know what Ives meant by "moderate."

"By moderate, I mean virtually non-controversial," said Ives.

Knowland quickly replied that he "would not agree" that a labor bill should be confined to "innocuous...non-controversial" material. The country, he said, expects "moderate" legislation but legislation which will protect the union member against the kind of abuses disclosed by the Senate Rackets Committee.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, meantime, issued a statement calling for adoption of President Eisenhower's proposal for sweeping labor reforms.

Will Answer "Mandate"
Mitchell said the proposals would give assurance that rank-and-file members would control union policies and spending, and would protect workers and the public from labor-management abuses.

Knowland's "bill of rights" includes proposals to promote union democracy by requiring secret ballot in elections, providing for recall of officers, and barring racial or other discrimination in union membership.

Much of the legislation pending before the subcommittee was offered unsuccessfully as amendments to a welfare fund bill passed last week by the Senate. (See MODERATE, Page 8)

As Jayce president at the time of the program, Campbell will have an all expense paid trip and tour Washington with other Jaycees presidents.

Putting up at the Shoreham Hotel, the Jaycees contingent will visit Congressmen and witness two sessions on Capitol Hill. They will attend a White House conference and have luncheon at the Pentagon. There is a possibility that they will visit the President and Vice President.

The Pampa Jaycees received this recognition on the basis of a report submitted to the Commission. Horton Russell succeeded Campbell as president recently.

Center Report Meet Tuesday
Following the mammoth ground-breaking, Sunday, on the Pampa Youth and Community Center site, Campaigners will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Palm Room to report further subscriptions to the Center Building Fund.

As of the last report meeting, Thursday, the group had $135,000 of the $300,000 goal.

This equals 45 per cent of the Youth Center fund and General Campaign Director Johnny Campbell expects to see 50 per cent of the Building Fund soon.

New Lights Go Up On Foster

The Southwest Public Service Company of Pampa is putting up new light standards on Foster street in order to finish the "white way" from Hobart street to Kentucky street. The new lights are expected to increase lighting by at least 100 per cent.

Youth Unable To Explain Abduction Of Young Girl

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A mentally retarded boy, 15, whose abduction of Kathy Hampton, 6, touched off a three-day kidnap search, told police he didn't know "why I did it, I just did."

The boy, Robert Martin Reich Jr., was arrested Saturday shortly after a woman found Kathy wandering along a city street. The little girl was scratched and dirty, but otherwise unharmed.

Kathy, whom physicians described as a "very tired little girl," rested at home today. Doctors said she had not been attacked.

Police said Reich admitted taking Kathy "for a bicycle ride" last Wednesday. He told police he took Kathy to an abandoned house, tied her up, tore off her clothes and left.

Police Sgt. Frank O'Neill, who questioned Reich, said the boy showed on a map the two-mile route he took with Kathy to get to the house.

"I led her up some steps I had noticed when I was there at another time," O'Neill quoted Reich.

"While Kathy was looking out the window I tore her dress up the back. When she started to cry I slapped her and she stopped."

Reich said he tore the girl's clothes into strips to bind and gag her.

"After she was tied, I put her in the corner and hid her with a piece of linoleum that was in the house, then I went home."

"My grandmother asked the newspaper stories about Kathy to me." Reich said, "but I was afraid to tell her what I had done or go back to the house."

"I am sorry for what I did."

Kathy's disappearance set off the most intense St. Louis police search in 25 years. At the peak of the investigation, 150 policemen and detectives took part in the hunt.

Car Is Mobile Maternity Ward
STARKVILLE, Miss. (UP)—H. G. Huddleston is operating a mobile maternity ward.

He did not choose this role. It was forced (or laid) upon him by a hen who frequents the elementary school at Booneville, Miss., where Huddleston teaches.

For some reason this hen chose Huddleston's automobile as a nesting place—in the space between the radiator and grille.

Students at the school abetted the operation by providing nesting materials.

Now Huddleston is taking an extension course at Mississippi State College here. He drives around the campus with the hen, untroubled by the noise and movement, perched dutifully on her eggs.

The blessed event is due in about two weeks, Huddleston says. Until then, he is driving slowly and taking it easy over the bumps.

Charles Starkweather Goes On Trial For His Life Today

By JACK V. FOX
United Press Staff Correspondent
LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Charles Starkweather, recharged garbage man who has confessed killing 11 persons in a rampage of terror in two states, went on trial today with the prosecution seeking his execution in the electric chair.

The scene at the 70-year-old Lancaster County courthouse was surprisingly quiet in view of the outrage provoked by the mass slayings last January.

More than two dozen armed deputies were in the corridors and at the doors. But the public numbered less than 100.

A panel of 147 prospective jurors was called.

Shortly before the trial began, new evidence was revealed, damaging to Starkweather's 14-year-old girl friend.

Starkweather, 19, has confessed to all 11 slayings, but his lawyers produced photographs of a jail wall in Gering, Neb., where the killer was held shortly after his capture. He had scribbled on the wall:

"They got us Jan. 29, 1958.
"Kill 11 persons.
"Charles kill 9—all men.
"Carl kill 2—all girls."

"Carl is Carl Fugate, the overgrown schoolgirl who was with Starkweather on his rampage. She is now in a state mental hospital pending a ruling whether she is to be tried for murder or as a juvenile.

Graham Points To Four Attitudes Toward Christ

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says either Jesus Christ is what he claims to be or he is "the greatest fraud ever to walk among men."

"I accepted Him, and He changed my life," Graham told an overflow crowd of 18,500 at the Cow Palace Sunday. "He can change yours."

The 39-year-old evangelist opened the second week of his San Francisco Bay area crusade by outlining the influence of Christ on history, culture, the arts and people.

"There are four attitudes you can take toward Christ," he said. "You can ridicule Him... you can reject Him outright... you can neglect Him... or you can receive Him. I'm asking you today to accept Him."

A Graham spokesman said Sunday's crowd boosted the eight-day total to 135,900, as compared with 126,500 for the same period during the New York crusade.

The spokesman said 598 responded to Graham's plea to "accept Christ" Sunday, bringing the total "decisions" to 4,374, compared with 5,071 for the same period at Madison Square Garden.

Treasury Department Is Only Winner In Income Tax Quiz

NEW YORK (UP)—A contest to decipher and clarify a 212-word sentence appearing in last year's federal income tax guide produced no winners Sunday night but clarified at least one point—understand it or not, you still have to pay.

"The winner is really the Treasury Department," said Dr. Bergen Evans, moderator of the CBS-TV panel show "The Last Word," which debates proper usage of English.

To which panelist Inez Robb added: "It always is."

The closest any of nearly 700 contestants came to rewriting the sentence in "simplified English" was Page A. Mead, a sales engineer of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich. His entry was judged to contain five mistakes.

He was awarded a copy of the book "Simplified English," a Bible, a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica, and Evans' "personal admiration for his being able to understand the sentence at all."

Present for the announcement was Sen. Arthur W. Watkins (R-Utah), who initiated the contest March 20. Watkins offered the first two prizes himself after encountering the marathon sentence on Page 8 of the Internal Revenue Service booklet "How to Prepare Your Income Tax Return on Form 1040-A."

When letters swamped his office he turned the contest over to "The Last Word." The panel program admitted defeat along with its nearly 700 contestants.

On Capitol Hill:

'Dirty Bomb' Issue To Senate Floor

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) planned to take to the Senate floor today to answer Atomic Energy Commission testimony on disclosure that three leading atomic experts—including former Atomic Energy Commissioner Henry D. Smyth—have been denied access to certain data on thermonuclear research.

"If it's true, it's an outrage," Anderson told the United Press.

A Senate labor subcommittee began hearings expected to last a month aimed at working out a broad labor reform bill.

Senate Democratic leaders promised last week that if no "extraneous" amendments were added to the measure they would guarantee the Senate a nother chance to vote on sweeping labor reforms later this year.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.), who sought unsuccessfully to attach a "labor bill of rights" to the welfare fund legislation, was one of today's scheduled witnesses. Another was Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Rackets Committee.

The House Space Committee called Roy W. Johnson, the Defense Department's space agency director, to testify on legislation to set up a civilian space agency.

Committee Chief Counsel George J. Feldman predicted the committee would wind up its hearing, already three weeks old, this week and then approve the bill "very quickly."

Feldman meantime disclosed the group is considering adding a freedom of information provision to the measure. If approved, the precedent-setting provision would require the proposed new agency to make "maximum disclosure" of all of its scientific information within our limits of national security.

Benson Is Now Becoming Acceptable In Farm Belt

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The possibility that Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is becoming moderately acceptable in the farm belt seems incredible although it may be true and, even, reasonable.

There is some evidence in support of it, not the least of which is that the well-informed secretary, himself, believes it to be true.

A United Press lead on the first farm-price report for April revealed why Benson believes he is emerging from the farmers' doghouse and, moreover, why the secretary is planning this year to take an active part in the Republican congressional campaign.

The U.P. lead went like this: "Farm prices bounded upward in April, bringing improvement in farmers' purchasing power for the sixth consecutive month.

Farmers Doing Better

"The Agriculture Department reported that farm production costs kept pace with prices received, rising to a new all-time high for the seventh consecutive month. The parity ratio—the relationship between prices received and prices paid—remained at 87 per cent, the same as in March."

The Wall Street Journal found this to be editorially interesting and commented:

"There are a number of groups in the population that aren't doing as well as a year ago, but one of the largest groups of all is doing quite a bit better—the farmers."

The Journal calculates that farm prices as of last April 15 were about 10 per cent above April, 1957, while farm costs rose only 3 per cent in the same period.

Farmers will not accept Wall Street's yardstick to measure Benson, but in this instance it is a matter of mathematics rather than a matter of sentiment.

Whether Republican politicians will be persuaded by the new Benson look remains to be seen. Republicans must contest this year's election against Democrats who would rely more on the taxpayers to hike farm prices. Some Republicans have been demanding that Benson be fired.

Want Benson Out

Farmers passed the word to the White House that Benson must go if Republican candidates are to have a reasonable chance to win. President Eisenhower has supported Benson consistently with a determination which has dismayed the congressional politicians. They have acknowledged that Benson's departure would not much, if any, change administration farm policies.

What they want is to get rid of the man, regardless of future policies, on the theory that the farmers just don't like him, mistrust him and believe that Benson's sympathies lie elsewhere.

Improving changes in net farm income, however, may change all of that, Benson believes that it will do so. He notes accumulating invitations to campaign this year in congressional districts and in states where the farm vote is decisive.

Benson is a conservative who believes in less, rather than more, government control and regimentation. He advocates the law of supply and demand as both sane and safe. He has a high regard for his own hand and discard dummy for the taxpayers' dollars and Arnold Levine of Pittsburgh who sat South noted that there was only one combination of cards that would allow him to bring home 12 tricks. East had to have the king of clubs and the ace of hearts and West had to hold the king of spades.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Armstrong

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been playing bridge with the same girls for years. After one of the bridge games I picked up the tallies and did a little reading. I found several errors in favor of this one party who kept the score. Now I know why she always went home with the prize. Should I mention this to anyone or should I keep quiet?

Dear Wise: If you are REALLY "wise" you'll not mention this to anybody other than the party who made the errors. They could have been honest errors, so do it privately and diplomatically or she'll put it down as another "grape" slam.

DEAR ABBY: I am an R. N. (registered nurse) who married a man twelve years my junior. His father is an invalid and I am beginning to think the reason he married me is to take care of his father. My mother-in-law will come right out and tell you that she has one of those "in-name-only" marriages and all she does is run around. My husband works 10 hours a day, so I am the one who takes care of his father (without pay). I am getting pretty sick of this. Have you any suggestions?

NURSE WITHOUT PAY: Dear Nurse: Tell your husband you have "had it" and he and his mother had better start making arrangements for the care of his father. If you wait for them to relieve you of your "duty" you will wait a long time.

DEAR ABBY: I am Protestant and my husband is Catholic. When we were married we agreed that he should keep his religion and I should keep mine, but I had to sign a pledge saying our children would be raised in the Catholic faith. Frankly, I'm sorry now and think we should compromise and raise all the boys in his faith and all the girls in mine. What do you think of this idea?

A PROTESTANT: Dear Protestant: I think ALL children in the same family should be raised in the same faith. The family that prays together stays together.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question to ask you and some of your readers. It is no secret that the best cooks in all the world are men. (In France they wouldn't even let a woman in the kitchen except to wash the dishes), so why is it that in THIS country, women kick their men out of the kitchen?

CURIOUS: Dear Curious: When an American man goes into a kitchen, he generally isn't there to COOK, he is either hungry or he wants to supervise.

DEAR ABBY: My husband bought his mother a gas stove over five years ago. She picked it out to be sure she got what she wanted. She decided she didn't like it, so he traded it in on an electric stove. Now she says she would have had the gas stove back again. Today he is trading her electric stove for gas. I have been using an old second-hand wood stove ever since I was married, 14 years ago. What do you think of that?

OVERLOOKED: Dear Overlooked: The squeaky wheel get the oil. Squeak a little!

CONFIDENTIAL: To "The Temple of Bartender" you have one "marriage on the rocks" coming up unless you simmer down and go directly home after work.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

First Week Of Permanent "Frizz" Avoided with Late Shampoo, Cut

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

No woman wants to go through that first week of fuzzy, unmanageable hair that often follows a permanent, however good it may be. There are some tricks that will help to prevent this nightmare.

Revolutionary as it may sound, ask your operator Not to shampoo your hair before the permanent. The permanent will take better and with less frizz if it's given over hair that has not been shampooed for a week or so. The reason for this is that shampooing strips your hair of its natural oils, just as washing your face removes the oils.

After the permanent, have your hair shampooed and set. Then, have it cut. This is a procedure that probably sounds startling to you but it works beautifully. When you have your hair cut after a permanent, you remove any frizzy or split ends and leave only a soft, natural curl.

Organization can turn beauty routine into a matter that's pleasant and easy. The woman who makes a practice of changing her hairdo and her mind a dozen times at the last minute, just before she goes to a party, is the one who emerges looking tucky.

Clothes should all be clean, repairs made, shoes neatly polished or brushed, handbags in labeled boxes. If you have a routine about clothes, you never run up against the business of trying on six dresses in order to find one that looks right. You've planned ahead.

You know which dress is right for which occasion and it's in your closet, ready for you to wear. You've acquired skill in applying make-up so that the whole thing takes 10 minutes from powder base to mascara. And you emerge shining, fresh, immaculate.

Those oily areas around nose, chin and forehead can be annoying to any woman. Even women with very dry skin have them. The best way to treat them is to keep them as dry as possible. You can do this by cleaning them with astringent cleanser while you use cream for the rest of your face and your neck. Clean them three or four times a day, since these are the spots that breed blackheads easily. And blackheads set in, remove them quickly. Never powder over these areas during the day when you're away from home without removing old powder first.

Derby Homestretch For Horse, Jockey

By JOHN G. DIETRICH
 United Press Sports Writer
 LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—The last quarter of a mile down the muddy homestretch at Churchill Downs that Ismael Valenzuela rode on Tim Tam to win the Kentucky Derby Saturday was also the homestretch of a longer and harder road the little jockey has traveled in his 23 years.

Now Valenzuela rides high in the saddle, winner of fame and fortune in the nation's greatest horse race, and permanently identified with a great derby champion.

All doors in racing now stand open to him. He can go on from here to join the Arcaros, Longdens and Shoemakers who have found wealth, even social status, in racing.

That's a long, long way from Christmas Day in 1934 when Ismael was born at McNary, Tex., the fifth child of a migrant Mexican sheepherder family.

Milo, as he is generally known, believes there were 22 children altogether, some of whom died in infancy. His Spanish-accented English has led to some confusion as to whether seven or 12 of the children still survive.

By the time he was 11, little Milo was riding the speedy quarter horses of the Southwest and in informal races in Mexico and Arizona.

His hard-driving, gutsy style soon won him a reputation, particularly as an upset specialist. He rode Porterhouse to a stunning upset of Swais on the west coast; scored an equally sensational win over mighty Nashua with Mister Gus; and booted a little-known colt named Nashville home in front of Bold Ruler.

It was about this time he made his first contact with Calumet Farm. He rode for Calumet trainer Jimmy Jones for several months and won several west coast stake races with the Calumet filly, Miss Clementine.

The money was coming in now, and a good share of it still went back to the family. Their father died several years ago and Milo and a brother bought two ranches in Colorado for their mother and their sisters.

It was a new life for Milo. He now owns a big new house in California. A big Lincoln and a smaller car fill the garage.

He isn't sure about the immediate future holds. After his winning derby ride, Valenzuela was asked if he would continue to ride Tim Tam in the Preakness, Belmont and other major stake races.

 "Those understandably skeptical Los Angeles fans had solid evidence today that the Dodgers 'wasn't' dead—just sleeping.

The evidence was an old-time Brooklyn-like display of power—26 hits good for 47 total bases—as the Dodgers whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-7 and 15-2, Sunday. It marked the first time the Dodgers were able to win two straight games this season and delighted a crowd of 38,453 that sent the Los Angeles attendance over the half-million mark for only 15 dates.

The Dodgers pulled out the opener on a two-run seventh-inning homer by Charlie Neal and then hammered out 18 hits, including five doubles, two homers and a triple, against six Philadelphia pitchers in the nightcap. Don Zimmer swung the big bat in the second game with a homer, three singles and four runs batted in.

The outburst was the biggest of Sunday activity which followed generally the pattern of the season—heavy hitting in the National League games and excellent pitching in American League games.

Pirates, Giants Split
 In the National, the Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants split a doubleheader, Ramon Mejias smashing three homers in Pittsburgh's 6-2 win and Eddie Bressoud singling home the winning run in the Giants' 4-3, 10-inning nightcap victory. Walt Moryn's third double gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-4 victory before Steve Binko's 14th-inning double earned the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 decision, and the Milwaukee Braves backed Warren Spahn with 13 hits to down the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-2.

In the American, the Baltimore Orioles scored 4-3 and 4-0 victories over the Detroit Tigers, the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox exchanged 2-1 decisions and the Washington Senators defeated the Kansas City Athletics, 7-3. The second Washington-Kansas City game was ended by rain with the score 2-2 after nine innings. Rain also cancelled a Chicago-Yankee doubleheader at New York.

Tripled by Neal and Dick Gray helped the Dodgers cut an early Philadelphia lead to 7-6 in the sixth inning and Neal then tagged Robin Roberts for his game-winning homer with Gil Hodges aboard at the seventh. Danny McDevitt scattered 10 hits to win his first game in the nightcap, which featured a seven-run Dodger rally in the fifth.

Mejias, who hit only two homers in 58 games last season, clouted two off Johnny Antonelli and another off Marv Grissom to lead the Pirates to their eighth victory in nine games. Ron Kline got credit for the win although Elroy Face finished it. The Giants, however, stopped the Pirates from taking over first place when Daryl Spencer's double and Bressoud's single broke up the 10-inning nightcap. Orlando Cepeda hit two homers and a double for the Giants in the second game.

Robinson Slips
 Moryn's "wrong field" double—on which left-fielder Frank Robinson slipped and suffered a minor injury—enabled Don Elston to win his fourth game for the Cubs. Binko's pinch double, which broke up the second game, also earned Willard Schmidt his first win for Cincinnati.

The Braves knocked out Vinegar Bend Mizell in a four-run fifth, featured by Ed Mathews' double and a two-run single by Wes Covington. Spahn breezed to his fourth straight win with a five-hitter that gave him a 48-28 lifetime edge over the Cardinals. Stan Musial went 2-for-3, bringing his average to .517 and his hit total to within 12 of the magic 3,000 mark.

Gene Woodling hit a two-run homer and threw out the potential tying run at the plate for the Orioles in the first game and Jack Harshman pitched a five-hitter for his fourth straight win in the nightcap. Milt Pappas, 18-year-old right-hander, won the opener although he retired with a sore elbow after seven innings. Detroit has lost three straight and several of nine after a 6-3 start.

Bobby Avila's ninth inning double earned Mike Garcia and the Indians their first game decision but Frank Malzone stung home Billy Conso to break up the 12-inning second game at Boston. Frank Baumann, $100,000 bonus southpaw, went the distance for the Red Sox in the second game and allowed only eight hits.

Harvesters, Dons Play Tomorrow

The Pampa Harvesters and the Palo Duro Dons will meet in a District 3-4 baseball game tomorrow at Amarillo, starting at 4 p.m.

This will be the second meeting between the two clubs this year. Pampa won the first game, 9-0, on Kippy Williams' one-hitter.

The Harvesters have lost their last four district games and stand 3-4 in district play for the year. They have a 12-6 season record.

Palo Duro is in third place in district standings and with a win Pampa could tie them for that spot.

Silky, Tim Tam In Move To Pimlico

By RAY AYRES
 United Press Sports Writer
 LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Silky Sullivan was shipped to Pimlico today to redeem himself in the Preakness Stakes. But the turf world still wanted to know: What happened to him in the Kentucky Derby?

Calumet Farm's Tim Tam, the Derby winner, also moved on to Baltimore for the second of the Triple Crown classics, Lincoln Road, Noureddin, Jewel's Reward, Martins Rullah, Chance II Tony, A Dragon Killer, and Ebony Pearl also are expected to be on hand for the Preakness along with Backbone, Nala, Board Man, and Grey Monarch, who did not run in the Kentucky Derby.

There was no positive answer to the Silky Sullivan riddle—not from Silky's trainer Reggie Cornell, not from his personal veterinarian, Dr. Jock Jockey, not from Jockey Willie Shoemaker after the colt finished 12th in the 84th Derby. He beat only a horse which never had won a race and a 122-1 shot who was eased up before he had gone a mile.

The consensus placed the blame on the bad condition of the track. None of the Derby horses liked the running strip, not even Tim Tam, who gave famed Calumet Farm its seventh victory in America's premier horse race.

Silky Sullivan was a good 20 lengths behind at the finish.

"My horse ran bad and I don't know why," said Cornell. "Why he even let Martins Rullah beat him and I know he can beat him. It wasn't the muggy day. He was puffing so little when he came back he never could blow out a match. There is no need to beaf about the track but he didn't like it."

Dr. Jockey, who accompanied Silky on the trip from California, reported the colt was in top condition.

"He ate all his dinner. He slept well. He's all right now. It seemed to me he was struggling, trying to gather himself together but found the track too slippery," the veterinarian said.

"Tim Tam didn't like the track but he finally took off and got going," said trainer Jimmy Jones, who reported Ismael Valenzuela also would ride Tim Tam in the Preakness.

Tulsa Now In Third Place

By UNITED PRESS
 Tulsa dropped into third place in the Texas League Sunday, leaving Austin in clear possession of second.

Everybody split doubleheaders except Corpus Christi, which beat Tulsa 9-7, thereby dropping Tulsa half a game behind Austin.

League-leading San Antonio split with Fort Worth, winning the first 4-3 and losing the second 5-0 as Marcelino Solis tossed a four-hitter.

Houston blanked Dallas 3-0 on Howie Nunn's 5-hitter, although three Dallas hurlers managed to hold Houston to five hits. Charles James poled a homer for the Buffs, Dallas came back for the second game, 7-5, with Bob Hand's homer leading a 10-hit attack.

Victoria, stopped Austin 7-1 in the first game and Austin took the nightcap 9-6.

The sites are the same tonight.

HANSGEN WINS ROAD RACE
 DANVILLE, Va. (UP)—Walt Hansgen of Westfield, N.J., driving a Lister Jaguar, led all the way in winning the feature event at the Virginia International Raceway Sunday. Ed Crawford of Chicago was second and Lance Reventlow of Beverly Hills, Calif., son of millionaire heiress Barbara Hutton, finished third.

Nearly one-half the families in the United States use installment credit.

Stan Moves Up Another Notch

ST LOUIS (UP)—Stan Musial has moved up another notch to eighth place on the all-time list for most hits by major leaguers.

The veteran Cardinal's first baseman raised his career total to 2,988 hits by collecting two doubles against the Milwaukee Braves Sunday.

Musial now has hit safely in all 15 in St. Louis games this season. He has collected 31 hits in 80 at-bats for a .517 average.

Nobody Conned 'Em Like Silky

By OSCAR FRALEY
 United Press Sports Writer
 NEW YORK (UP)—They wrote "fins" today to the saga of Silky Sullivan.

The roof fell in at 4:34:05 p.m. Saturday when a colt called Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby. At that moment, Silky was staggering along 21 lengths back in 12th place and the Horatio Alger tale ended.

Silky Sullivan had proved to be nothing but a con artist.

A horse-happy nation, believing in the "little people" and the luck of the Irish, had taken him to its heart. But when it was over they discovered that Silky had worked the shell game on some hayshakers and then, taking a seat in the big time, had blown his roll without a struggle.

He had conned them well.

Living It Up
 Silky was really living it up when he clobbered those Santa Anita hicks. He gave 'em 28 lengths and beat 'em. He spotted

'em 40 lengths and cut them down as they came back to him and then copped the Santa Anita Derby after being 30 lengths out.

But this gang he bumped into Saturday was a bunch of high-rolling smoothies.

There are some who will contend that there were too many horses in front of him. But that wouldn't have mattered to the old Silky of the hot hand. For they were well spread out heading into the stretch and there was plenty of racing room in that long, long dash down to the wire.

But Silky didn't even make a serious bid.

He was 19 lengths back at the head of the stretch — and 21 lengths back when it was over.

Those trying to preserve the vestige of a dream will say everything was against him. But that's the way he made his reputation and a "nothing" colt called Red Hot Pistol robbed the fairy tale of its final shreds of fantasy in those last long yards.

Silky, beginning what was expected to be one of those patented rushes to the front, started a bid just as they rounded into the stretch. He passed Red Hot Pistol by a length and moved into 11th place.

But when it was over, just 400 yards farther down the track, Red

Evans And Curry In Main Event

In the main event at the wrestling matches, to be held tonight at 8:30, Don Evans and Bill Curry will trade holds.

The first event of the evening will feature Alex Perez and Tommy Phelps and in the second event of the night, Don Curtis and Big Bob Orton will square off against each other.

The Perez, Phelps match will be a one fall, twenty minute affair and the Curtis, Orton match will be a two out of three fall, 45 minute match. Evans and Bill Curry will wrestle one hour or two out of three falls.

The wrestling is sponsored every Monday night by the Pampa Shrine Club at the Top O' Texas Shrine men's Club, located one mile south on the Lafors Highway.

Hot Pistol had overtaken Silky and went on to beat the Sullivan to the wire by two and one-half lengths.

Even Quit Trying
 It was the final blow. The missile hadn't only failed to leave the launching pad. It had even quit trying.

So the bubble burst as it has for so many others in sports.

It made you remember Primo Carnera when the bulldog was over and hoodlums' pistols no longer shocked his rivals into feigned insensibility. You thought of Chuck Davely, who waltzed up to the waterweight trail until they threw him in finally with an old pro named Kid Gavilan.

And you thought of the flame-outs of such as Red Barney and Clint Hartung — and the way the Cleveland Indians and the Philadelphia "Whiz Kids" rolled over and played dead in their World Series wallpops at the respective hands of the Giants and Yankees.

There will always be bubbles in sports as the longshots come on to build their castles in the air. But most of the time the idolaters are matched by a large portion of doubters. This time they were few and far between.

Because nobody ever conned 'em like Silky Sullivan.

Adventures Of Mind

The April 26 issue of the Saturday Evening Post may be a milestone in the publishing business. The editors of this popular (circulation in excess of 5,750,000) weekly have apparently decided that good solid reading may become in time as popular as some of the exciting but shallow fiction which is the mainstay of most news stand publications. Therefore, in the issue alluded to, the Sat Eve Post is embarking upon a new series which it is calling "Adventures of the Mind."

This is a rather daring departure for any publication, and especially daring for the Post, which has built its popularity thru the many years of its issuance on some pretty stable formulae which aren't subject to erratic change.

Here's the way Post editors describe what they are doing and why:

"For some little time we Post editors have been deeply disturbed by the obvious — and obviously dangerous — chasm that separates the intellectuals of our nation from the millions of citizens whose attitudes and opinions determine national policy and set the standards of national behavior.

"The intellectual, or 'egghead' (as we carelessly brand him), has deep reservations about the ordinary layman. He feels that we don't understand him, or respect him, or reward his labors — that we give to the crooner, the comedian, the halfback, the allegiance of our minds and our pocket-books. And so he goes his cloistered way — toiling quietly in his laboratory, at his easel, typewriter or blackboard, communicating chiefly with his colleagues thru lectures and scholarly journals.

"Yet the fact is that what the scholar thinks, the artist creates, the scientist discovers, cannot achieve full reality without the rest of us. Without us no idea or institution can flourish."

Then comes the boldest pronouncement of all.

"The Saturday Evening Post (is) attempting to build it (circulation) by opening our pages to the wide-ranging reports and speculations of the intellectual world."

Can it be that the Post has decided that new popularity can be gained by representing serious studies which encompass profound and worthy subjects? It could be. Statistics gleaned from the habits of the reading public reveal that today in most of our libraries non-fiction, history, politics and science are out-pulling most fiction saving only the who-dunit variety of thriller.

Perhaps, the Post, rather than revealing a great daring, has inadvertently been compelled to cater to what the public wants. And if the library figures are accurate, what the public wants is something with the bone and sinew of reality, rather than so much of the boy meets girl routine.

In any case, whatever the reasoning, serious studies in a truly popular weekly, is an innovation. And we hasten to applaud the Post editors for this exciting gambit into the world of reasoning, logic and speculation.

While we're about it, we'd like to mention the very first item which the Post has selected to launch this series. It is called: "An Evolutionist Looks at Modern Man" and is from the pen of Loren Eiseley, who is chairman of the Department of Anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania. This is a splendid study, easy to read and easily one of the best summations of the problem posed by the supposed necessity for "tough mindedness" in our modern world.

"Adventures of the Mind" promises a great deal. Both the Post and Dr. Eiseley get a straight A from us in this April 26th issue. We recommend it to our readers.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOLES

The "Free Rider" Excuse

One of the common contentions made by believers in striking labor unions against a law that would make it a crime for an employer to require membership in a union to get or hold a job, is that those who do not belong to the union and work under union contract are "free riders." They are getting something they claim that they do not pay for.

"Free rider," of course, is a coined word. It has one meaning to the labor unions and another meaning to the man who believes in individual responsibility; to the man who believes in the free enterprise system.

Labor unions contend, of course, that the man who does not belong to the union gets the benefits coming from unions without helping pay for these benefits.

But the man who does not belong to the union and believes in free enterprise is convinced that he would get more, and in the long run everybody would get more, if there were no striking unions. He is convinced he would be more likely to get a steady job and that the employer would prefer to hire an individual he could depend on rather than to hire a union man who cannot make a binding contract. He is convinced that if the labor unions have a right to make a minimum wage, they also have a right to make a maximum wage, as many of the unions do now. So they all get the same. So the man who is efficient enough to believe in the competitive system would much prefer to have the right to make his own individual bargain, because he is convinced that he and his family and everybody else would be better off in the long run without a collective bargaining agreement where each man's pay was set by majority rule.

He is also convinced that instead of the non-union man being a free rider, it is the union man who is the free rider, because he is getting a wage above what he could get on a free and unhampered market for what he produces. He is convinced that if the employer were permitted to select his own help and pay on a competitive basis, that production could go up and total wages would go up; that there would be no long periods of unemployment; that wages would be adjusted rapidly when errors had been made in over-expanding this or that industry; that the height of wages would be the guide of what society wanted produced and there would be only reasonable unemployment.

He is convinced there is no way individual wages can be arrived at under the collective bargaining unit that denies the competitive, free enterprise system; that wages established by collective bargaining have to be arbitrary, and when they are arbitrarily high, these arbitrary wages have to be passed on to the customer or the profit that can go into better tools have to be reduced. And anything that reduces profits interfering with a free and unhampered market where the customer is the boss, is harmful to mankind as a whole. And anything that interferes with the free market as to what is to be produced is one of the primary causes of long periods of unemployment.

And the man who believes in the competitive system also knows that any time any man is unemployed, not only is that man hurt but every other worker in the world is injured by having one less buyer of his production. They know this because in the free market the gain of one is the gain of all, and the loss of one is the loss of all.

So instead of the worker who is efficient enough that he believes in the competitive system and thinks wages should be established on a competitive basis being the free rider, he is the man who is carrying the free-rider union man. He is a free rider because he is getting more than a free market wage for what he produces. That is the real and only true meaning of a free rider.

So the next time you hear a man using the alibi against right-to-work laws that these laws would protect the free rider — the non-union man — point out that these laws would not protect the non-union man in getting something he did not earn but they would have a tendency to stop protecting the union man who is a free rider and getting something he did not earn.

The man who is getting more than a free market wage for his services, and any man who gets more than other people can get for the same service, is the man who is demanding special privilege. He is the free rider.

Fair Enough

Woman Has Had About All She's Going To Stand For

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My friend, Mrs. Smith, that is her real name, Mrs. Smith, has worked hard many years and her husband is night-clerk in a bottle-store out in the wilds. He has been stuck up with guns twice in six months. Her mother was very sick, but Mr. and Mrs. Smith thought the old lady would make it, but soon after the first stick-up, she died. Actually many homicides do occur far off the premises even though no shot is fired.

Everyone for miles and miles of rolling desert and foothills loves Mrs. Smith because she is loaded with character. Her work day in her own store ends about seven p.m., a little shop where she sells things and does things. And these days, after closing, she goes to the back room of the liquor store and takes up a sentry post behind the partition with a loophole amid the bottles. She moves around. She keeps the coffee kicking, but she is never more than a jump from that loophole, with rifle handy by. Next time she aims to get her a pig. She isn't aiming to pink him in the shoulder of just knock his hat off. She is aiming to blow a pig right through the forehead with a slug the size of a sweet pickle. If the pig has got a partner, she will get him, too. And maybe load some darling 18-year-old pig into the jeep and toss the carcass onto its mama's front stoop. That may be rough on the mama, but Mrs. Smith's own mother is on her mind these nights.

I am not spinning you one of those dialect feature stories. I am telling you how it is in a patch of the United States where a politician planted on the bench by a sorry old spavin of a Governor turned loose on probation two young pigs who killed a helpless man in a stick-up. They robbed him and then they shot him dead and when the deputies came tearing up, roused by the shots, one pig yelled to the other, "Get the cop, kill the cop," but the cops brought them down the mountain and this judge turned them loose on probation. When they are 21 the records will be destroyed, provided they are nice pigs meanwhile. Thus, they will not be handicapped by the legal record of their having shot a man dead just to be killing. Two other men have been kicked to death in this settlement in spontaneous outbursts of youthful spirit in the last few years, but all the pigs were just maladjusted; not bad.

Mrs. Smith is a big personality. When a neighbor went away on business and a local wino defaulted on the little job of watering her roses and things a o that they wouldn't burn up, this white-haired number took it on herself to do the watering. So twice a week, dead tired, because her job keeps her on her feet long hours, she would go to this neighbor's house and whip the hoses and spray a around until almost sundown. She saved the roses and so forth just as an act of neighborly goodness.

After her husband was stuck up that first time, her old mother was afraid that the shock would lay him low because of his heart condition. Instead, it laid her low and Mrs. Smith firmly believes those pigs killed her.

When Mr. Smith was stuck up the second time, he knelt by the cache where they hid the money, with a pistol at the back of his head for the longest time while they argued whether to kill him. One of them thought Mr. Smith had recognized him. They finally lit out.

Mrs. Smith isn't much of a shot, but she is a real frontier citizen. If she hears "this is a stick-up" or "get-em-up," from the back of that partition, she will get her a pig, sure.

Most everybody around is loaded for pig at night now. A .45 by the bed, in the car, even in the living room before bedtime.

Of eight stores in the row with the liquor store, the only one that hasn't been stuck up or broken into in two years is the hardware, only three months old.

The hardware man figures his number will come up as soon as the days begin to shorten. If it does, Mrs. Smith will be only 40 yards away and she will give it her all.

She says she ought to get hung if she misses her pig through that loophole. It draws a bead on the counter, beside the cash register, 12 feet away.

They have messed around with Smithly all she is aiming to stand for.

ON TO INDIANA

(California Farmer)

We suppose that our compatriots on both the San Francisco and State Chamber of Commerce will have a just up and die when they read this, but we are going to try and sell you on Indiana.

Our message for today is, "On to Indiana." How come Indiana? Well, we just finished reading an ad in the U.S. News and World Report. This is a full page ad, and it has a big headline reading, "Why so much industry prefers to locate in debt-free Indiana."

Turn the stampede headed for California. Turn the leaders up that box canyon labeled Indiana. Quick, man, before it's too late. California is going under. All we have left is standing room. And, baby, it's smoggy out here.

Now that we have the stampede turned around, let's try and find out what's so great about Indiana. Well, according to the ad, Indiana is completely debt-free. In fact, the rascals have some fine print in their state constitution which forbids bonded state debt. They have a real cute way of saying it. The ad reads, "In Indiana new industries don't pay yesterday's bills."

In this ad, they boast that Indiana was the first major industrial state to pass a "right-to-work" law. Here in California everybody, except a guy named Bill Knowland, is afraid to even mention the words right-to-work.

On Nation's Mind

Once a week, time and weather permitting, I get on the telephone and call five or six numbers in each of the 48 States, as well as a couple of Possessions.

I ask the same question of whomever answers — "What topic occupies most of your thought and conversation these days?"

Having just completed the last of this week's calls to a Mr. Thomas Tipper at Ev. 3-1147 in Red Wing, Minnesota, I thought you might be interested in knowing the No. 1 topic on the nation's mind.

It is the 250-foot left field screen in the home grounds of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Once the baseball season started, that left field screen took over the No. 1 spot, ousting such perennial topics of conversation as the nuclear bomb, Summit talks, a business slump, the high cost of living, children, and where to spend a vacation.

The screen also has wrested first place from Lincoln and the Civil War as the subject on which the most words are being written. Everyone with a typewriter spends on the average of an hour per day either assembling the short left field boundary or defending it.

Thomas Costain, Dr. Frank Slaughter and Frank Yerby are reported to be doing historical novels on the Dodgers' screen. Mickey Spillane is said to be turning out a new mystery thriller with the screen as a locale.

I don't know how much truth there is to it, but I have heard that Twentieth-Century Fox and Columbia Pictures are shooting on both the screen and the movies behind it right now, with Marlon Brando (in the role of a fan who was hit by a pop fly that went for a homer) playing the lead in the Columbia film.

There is some talk of holding the proposed Summit talks behind the screen, with Khrushchev's chair occupying a spot of honor.

Old ladies, who have never heard of any screens save the fireplace variety, can be overheard on the street condemning the Los Angeles screen.

"It's a shame," I heard a shawled old lady say the other day on the street car, "to have spindly-legged shortstops threatening Babe's home-run record."

Not everyone is against the screen, though, which is more than can be said of all the left-fielders playing in the Coliseum. Some think that the screen is as fair for one hitter as it is for another. Others say America is a free country, and that if the Dodgers want to put the screen fifty feet from home plate, they have a perfect right to.

Still others see the screen as a great encouragement to men who have never hit a home run in their lives, and are dying to.

As for my own feelings about the screen, I would like to paraphrase the late Gertrude Stein. I am sure that if she were asked

Down South

By Thurman Sensing

'Shuffle Off To Buffalo'

While in a Northern city recently, a Southerner was asked, "How are things down South?" His answer was, "Just fine. All the hill-billies and Negroes are moving out, and only the better class of folks are left."

The answer was given, of course, in jest — and probably to needle the questioner a little — but it is to be believed that many Northern cities have reached the point where they think it contains "more truth than poetry." These cities are now facing problems — even worse problems — such as the South has faced for almost a hundred years. Perhaps they will now gain some conception of what the question of segregation and race relations is all about!

A recent issue of the Wall Street Journal carried a most interesting article on this subject, centering its attention on Buffalo, New York, which had never had a Negro problem until recent years. Buffalo's Negro population now amounts to some 10 per cent of its total of about 600,000 compared with a mere 3 per cent in 1940. And it is growing at a fast rate. While losing white population, Buffalo's Negro population increased 38 per cent between 1950 and 1955 alone. In Chicago, now 19 per cent Negro, colored people are expected to comprise one-third of the population by 1970. The same thing is expected to happen in New York City.

In opening its article, The Wall Street Journal, saying, "the nation's civic planners are desperately seeking to prevent many of their dream cities of tomorrow from turning into nightmares," asks some pertinent questions: "How can the cities be kept from turning into giant, ghetto-like concentrations of low-income folk largely Negroes, as the flood of new migrants from the South helps squeeze more and more middle-income whites to suburban areas?"

"In clearing slums, how can the creation of new belts of slums and new racial tensions be avoided in the areas into which the present tenement dwellers are moved?"

"How can new migrants and other slum dwellers be prevented from turning even new public housing projects into concrete-and-glass centers of filth and social decay?"

Buffalo is finding out, as many other cities are also, that public housing projects solve neither the slum problem nor the race problem. It is the trend in Buffalo, as elsewhere, for the Negroes to concentrate in the cities and for the middle-income whites to move to the suburbs. Also, Negro leaders are suspicious of rebuilding of Negro slum areas through help from the Urban Redevelopment Administration. They say the effect is to embalm segregation.

Actually, the central fact that is coming to the forefront is that segregation, whether legislated against and whether planned — in spite of all the agitation we have had on the subject — is bound to take place anyway in most urban areas. Which simply means that mere man cannot interfere with the laws of nature and expect to get by with it. All races should have complete respect for each other and all races should have equal rights — but the fact still remains that segregation of the races is just as natural as life itself.

What people in general should be wise enough to do is to learn to let natural laws work to the benefit of all, and not attempt to obstruct natural laws to the detriment of all. Moving north will not solve the problem of the Negroes. Forced integration will not solve the problem.

The problem of the Negroes will only be solved within their own race, by diligent efforts to improve themselves, by being taught by their own teachers in their own schools, by developing their own businesses and their own professional careers — the very process that has been going on in the South for the past 90 years or more. Racial progress can only be developed through racial pride, a pride of race that has no desire to be integrated.

There are things much worse than segregation. Ostracism is one of them — and for a splendid illustration of this witness the pitiable cases of the very few Negro children in the public schools of Little Rock and Nashville, who have no chance whatever to lead normal lives and who have been sacrificed upon the altar of integration just to prove a point.

In her opinion, she would answer, "A home run is a home run is a home run is a home run."

And it is, as long as it cleans the bases, wins ball games, and goes into the record books.

have this ten acres and the Center will be built right here where we are. A beautiful Youth and Community Center is going to rise from this spot," he prophesied. Feeling that a town's best investment is in its youth, he added, "Let's give them a vote of confidence to let them know we believe in them and the future that awaits them. Let's catch this vision and let's get it up."

And with that the big dirt mover, from Borwell Contractors, went into action, leaving a wake of fresh dirt as it made three runs on the Center location.

MODERATE

Kennedy said the subcommittee, in drafting a bill, will act promptly in answering the Senate "mandate" to report legislation that is "fair and effective."

He referred to a promise by Senate Democratic leaders given during last week's final debate on a union welfare fund bill. The leaders said if no "extraneous" amendments were added to the bill they would guarantee the Senate another chance to vote on broad labor reforms later this year.

With this pledge, virtually all amendments to the welfare bill were defeated and the bill passed and went to the House. Even if the Senate acts on a broad labor reform bill, however, its prospects of enactment are dim.

The House has shown no inclination to tackle any labor legislation this election year, even the "noncontroversial" welfare fund control bill.

Indonesian Troops In Rebel Capital

SINGAPORE (UP)—The Indonesian loyalists announced today that their troops are in Bukittinggi, the rebels' former capital and their last major stronghold on Sumatra.

They said the city fell at 10:15 a.m. Sunday to infantry columns which immediately began "mopping up" the surrounding countryside.

The loyalist advance on Bukittinggi had been stalled for more than a week, but neither side had reported heavy fighting in the area.

Rebel guerrillas are expected to continue fighting in the hills and jungles of Sumatra, while the main focus of insurgent activity shifts to Menado on Celebes Island, believed to be the base of the rebel air force.

Week-end reports indicated that guerrilla warfare has already begun. Radio Medan said a grenade thrown by an "unidentified person" wounded one soldier in Permatang Siantar, while a sizeable rebel band fought loyalist forces on the outskirts of the city.

Radio Medan reported also that loyalist planes started four villages believed to be "rebel hideouts" in North Sumatra over the week end.

Forecasters said the Trinity River will fall at Dallas and change only a little at Rosser, below Dallas for the next few days. Flooding will continue on the Trinity's East Fork above Rosser for the next few days.

The worst flooding in Fort Worth was expected in the McGee addition, which is lower than the other sections in "flood bend."

Eagle Mountain Lake was expected to crest about mid-afternoon 4.5 feet above its spillway. Lake Worth, directly above Fort Worth, was expected to crest at the "critical point" of two feet above its spillway. Lake Bridgeport, the most remote of the three lakes on the West Fork above Fort Worth, was 6.7 feet above its spillway at last report.

Shoreshore Along Coast
Eagle Mountain Lake in the Fort Worth area pushed into about a dozen homes in the Dido area, in addition to fishing camps.

Scattered thundershowers fell along the lower Texas coast, where there was no flood threat, Sunday night. There were scattered light showers in north central Texas Sunday, but none was reported heavy enough to add much burden to flooding rivers.

Temperatures Sunday night dropped as low as 43 at Lubbock and 45 at Junction. They ranged upward to 68 at Brownsville and Galveston.

Forecasters said clear to partly cloudy weather will last at least through today and Tuesday, giving streams some chance to run down.

Meanwhile, reliable sources here said the loyalist warship sunk by a rebel bomber in Balikpapan harbor last week was the 815-ton corvette Hang Tuah, sixth largest ship in Jakarta's navy. Survivors of the British tanker San Flaviano reported last week that the corvette had been sunk, but were unable to supply its name.

Gonzalez In Race For Governor

SAN ANTONIO (UP)—State Sen. Henry Gonzalez, an avowed foe of segregation, says he will formally file his name today as a candidate for governor.

The 42-year-old former San Antonio city councilman revealed his decision without fanfare Sunday night at the 12th annual La Feria de las Flores fiesta. He said he will go to Austin today to file.

Gonzalez, a first-term senator, led filibusters against pro-segregation legislation in the last legislature at Austin and was named the "Man of the Year" by the Texas chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

"My stand is well known on segregation," Gonzalez said. "We don't have any place in the United States for first, second and third class citizens."

"The Constitution of the United States is color blind. I will go by the Constitution and the laws of the country, and it's not a question of the feeling of any person or his prejudices. I'm going to follow the dictates of the Constitution."

Flagpole-Sitting Record Claimed

BREMERTON, Wash. (UP)—Morris Elliott, 47-year-old father of five, today claimed the world's flagpole-sitting record.

Elliott went up the pole 197 days ago saying he wouldn't come down until at least today. The previous record, set by William Howard, 34, of Portland, Ore., was 196 days.

Elliott whiffed away his lofty hours over the past months by watching TV, listening to the radio, and telephoning friends and relatives.
