Lebanon Asks Intervention

BEIRUT (UPI)—The government of Lebanon today asked the United Nations to move in a force of several thousand men and seal off its frontiers.

The disclosure was made by Health Minister Albert Mokheber, named by President Camille Chamoun to act as liaison officer with the United Nations observer teams here.

Mokheber said Lebanon asked for land, sea and air force troops and that the request already is in the hands of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Hammarskjold leaves New York today and is expected in Beirut sometime during the night for an on-the-spot reports of observer teams.

Mokheber said the Security Council may be reconvened to consider the Lebanese request.

Lebanon accused Syria in the Security Council of aiding the six-week-old rebellion against the pro-Western government by sending a steady supply of arms and smuggling troops across the border.

Lebanon Remains Quiet

Lebanon itself was tense though quiet except for the occasional whine of a sniper's bullet and Maj. Gen. Fouad Chehab, the Lebanese chief of staff, declared "the situation under control."

But official circles expressed concern that the well armed and well organized rebel troop units might severely strain the security forces if an all-out attack is ordered across the nation.

Hammarskjold's greatest worry was believed to be that another flare-up of the fighting might embroil the United States, Britain and Russia.

There have been persistent reports the United States and Britain would go to Chamoun's rescue if he asked for military aid. The Soviet has warned it would reply to such aid by helping Nasser.

And Egyptian newspapers have warned that any American aid to Lebanon would be regarded in "Cairo" as a declaration of war.

Faces Severe Test

It was obvious that the deadly situation in the Middle East would give Hammarskjold one of the biggest tests of his policy of "quiet diplomacy."

United Nations reports said merely that Hammarskjold would come to Beirut to oversee the formation of U.N. observer groups charged with seeing that no Syrian aid reached the anti-government rebels.

But observers said his duties would be far more important and that he might even confer with Nasser after his initial visit to Lebanon. In the past he has won Nasser's approval of his quiet method of handling Mideast disputes.

Traffic Group Meets Tonight

The Traffic Safety Commission will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 it was announced today. The meeting will be held in the City Engineer's office in the City Hall and everyone is invited to attend.

Communists Slay Nagy

By JURT NEUBAUER
United Press International
BUDAPEST (UPI)—Former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy, a liberal Communist who led the October 1956 revolt against the Soviet union, has been executed for high treason, the government announced today.

Executed with him were Gen. Pal Maleter, leader of the revolutionary military forces which held out for days against Soviet troops and armor, and journalists Miklos Gimes and Jozsef Szilagyi whose writings helped raise what the government called "the pirate flag of national Communism."

Five others identified by the Hungarian justice department as leading figures in the "anti-state conspiracy" were imprisoned for terms ranging from five to five years.

A communique, carried in the official Hungarian press, said Nagy and his accomplices were tried and found guilty of attempting to overthrow Hungarian Peoples Republic. In addition, Nagy was charged with high treason and Maleter and Sandor Kipacsy, former Budapest police chief imprisoned for life, with untidy.

Others who joined the conspirators in the months preceding the revolt were Ferenc Janosi, Nagy's minister of culture, who received an eight year sentence, and newspaper editor Miklos Vasarhelyi, sentenced to five years.

Former president Zoltan Tildy, a non-Communist who joined Nagy's cabinet during the revolt, was sentenced to five years.

Grain Is Overflowing Elevators

Wheat farmers continued to bring in wheat by the truck loads today and local grain elevator operators began to worry where they were going to put it all.

The bumper wheat crop that is expected this year is most certainly becoming just that.

Already in Pampa there have been approximately 100,000 bushels of wheat brought in to the elevators, which are beginning to overflow.

The combine shortage in the Top of Texas area has slowed down some with combines being brought in from Southwestern Oklahoma.

William Ragsdale at the Texas Employment Commission here said today that he would like for area farmers to know that he had plenty of tractor drivers ready to go to work and if any of the farmers were needing them to give his office a call.

Ragsdale said that only about 10 or 12 more combines were needed for this area.

Most farmers felt lucky that the "hoppers" didn't become too bad and most Top of Texas area farmers have had no insect trouble.

Credit Group Luncheon Is Set Friday

The most important meeting of the Pampa Retail Merchants Association since its recent reorganization will be a city-wide meeting in the Palm Room Friday, Manager W. L. Veale states. Business and professional people in Pampa have received invitations to the Friday luncheon, an information meeting kicking off the Association membership drive.

Charles T. Lux, from Austin, executive vice president of the Associated Credit Bureau of Texas, will be the main speaker. His topic will be the advantages of membership in the Retail Merchants Association.

Veale and Lucien Young, Association president, will bring the merchants up to date on what has been done since reorganization and what the Association hopes to do in the future.

Veale believes that credit bureaus used properly benefit the entire community.

CoC Membership Leaders Get Gifts

The directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, meeting yesterday, gave wrist watches, sport coats and headgear to the three top teams in the Chamber's membership roundup; then accepted the Industrial Committee's proposal for a career clinic in combination with the former Business-Industrial-Education Days.

Finance Director Warren Hasse, who led the membership campaign, honored John Gikas and his first place team of Gerald Sims and J. C. Roberts with Bulova watches for gaining 26 new Chamber members.

E. L. Henderson, Horace Prince and J. B. McGuire Jr., received sports coats for their share of 11 new membership. Henderson will possess his sport coat when he returns from an insurance trip.

Elmer Fisher, with Jack Vaughn and Ed Myatt, earned a sum of hats through their addition of six members to the Chamber.

With 82 new members and 128 renewals, the Chamber boasts a membership of 210.

Frank Culbertson, chairing the Chamber's Industrial Committee, recommended that the Chamber join with the High School and Altrusa Club in sponsoring Career Days. These will serve much the same purpose as BIE Days except that they will be specifically geared toward helping the student choose a career.

E. O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager and new president of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers' Association, discussed the feasibility of advertising in Texas Parade magazine. Such advertising would include a story with pictures which might achieve a purpose of drawing new industry to Pampa.

Aide 'Didn't Know' Actions Improper

By JAMES BARR
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams said he might not have done what he did for his friend Bernard Goldfine if he had known—as he was told today—that his action was improper.

Adams, staunchly defending his controversial relationship with the New England industrialist, conceded under questioning his decision to help Goldfine "might very well have been different" had he known the government information he sought for Goldfine was supposed to be kept confidential.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams said today he and his White House associates have now concluded they ought not to make personal calls like those made to the FTC for his friend Bernard Goldfine.

"I had no knowledge of the rules," Adams said. "I certainly had no knowledge that the information I received was not perfectly proper. Had I known of that, my decision might very well have been different."

Adams has acknowledged Got Preferred Treatment

But the President's chief aide insisted he was merely forwarding a routine inquiry. He swore he never sought or got any federal favors for his Boston friend.

Adams appeared at his own request at a jammed hearing of a House subcommittee investigating his relations with Goldfine, who once was accused by the FTC of mislabeling fabrics.

Subcommittee Counsel Robert W. Lishman told the presidential aide that Goldfine "did get preferred treatment" as a result of Adams' action.

Lishman said that after Adams' inquiry into Goldfine's troubles with the FTC, the industrialist got information which both the law and FTC rules required to be kept confidential.

Shortly before Adams testified, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Goldfine in 1956 sent President Eisenhower a gift of vicuna cloth. Hagerty said the President told him he gave the cloth to someone but forgot who it was. The secretary denounced as "a lie" a published report that Goldfine had given the President a coat and had conferred with him at the White House.

Adams admitted accepting gifts from Goldfine on the basis of long friendship and said he and Mrs. Adams had presented gifts to members of the Goldfine family.

No Intention to Err

Asking the rhetorical question, "Is it proper...for any public official to accept any gifts from any friend?" he gave this reply: "...I can only say to this committee, with a clear conscience, that in the 5 1/2 years that I have been in my post, I have never permitted any personal relationships to affect in any way any actions of mine in matters relating to the conduct of my office."

"If, on the contrary, I have in any way so conducted myself as to cast any semblance of doubt upon such conduct, I can only say that the error was one of judgment and not of intent."

He promised in his prepared statement to give "full and frank" answers to any questions about "the propriety of any actions of mine in relation to Bernard Goldfine."

The subcommittee had produced evidence that Adams accepted about $2,500 worth of hotel hospitality from Goldfine. There had been reports that Goldfine gave him a $2,400 rug and a $700 vicuna overcoat.

SHERMAN ADAMS ... more publicity than Ike

Adams Called 'Abominable No-Man'

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
This is a day many persons felt they'd never live to see. Sherman Adams is getting more publicity than his boss, President Eisenhower.

Ever since Eisenhower became president, and for months before that, Sherman Adams has served as his right hand man. And the more a nonymous, the better Adams liked it. In his case, however, anonymity is not equated with unimportance.

President Eisenhower doesn't sign a paper that doesn't contain a note reading, "O.K. S.A.," a fact that once led Mr. Eisenhower to remark: "I can sleep a lot better knowing that little fellow is in that office."

Adams, 59, is a hard-working, square-jawed, no-nonsense assistant to the President who has acquired such nicknames as "The Great Stone Face" and "The Abominable No-Man" among Washington officeholders.

His function is to serve as a shock absorber and lobby insulation for the President. Nobody gets to see Eisenhower without clearance from Adams.

He checks incoming reports, correspondence and papers. He speaks for the President. "Every instruction I give to someone is to be an interpretation of what the President himself would do if he were giving it," Adams has said.

Jim Hagerty, White House news secretary, summed up Eisenhower's faith in Adams in these words: "President Eisenhower knows that when Gov. Adams personally hands him something to approve that all the work has been done on it... that he himself doesn't have to worry about it."

To stay on top of callers, telephone calls and correspondence, Adams is used to working 11 or 12 hours a day, six days a week. (See NO-MAN Page 3)

Beauty Pageant Entry Deadline Is Saturday

Sponsors have until Saturday to get their entries in for the Miss Pampa Beauty Pageant that the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce will produce in the High School auditorium at 9:30 p.m., Friday, June 27.

To date, 13 Pampa High School graduates have registered for the Pampa preliminary of the Miss Texas Pageant, July 21 in Amarillo, and the Miss America Contest, Sept. 1 in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

The only requirements for the girls, according to Jaycee Beauty Pageant Committee Chairman Eldon Blumer, is that they be a High School graduate, between the ages of 18-25, single and never been married. By the age requirement they may be 18 but not over 25 by Sept. 1.

Blumer asks local firms to call him at his place of business,

MO 4-7491, or at home, MO 5-5275, if they know of a girl they would like to sponsor or of any girl who would like to enter the contest.

The Miss Pampa judging will proceed on the points of talent, beauty, personality and poise.

Francis Cress will act as hostess for the occasion; Jim Crouch is in charge of the advanced ticket sale. Tickets are now on sale at Wilson Drug, Southwestern Public Service Company, Richard Drug and the News Service. Adult tickets are $1; Children's are 50 cents. Every Jaycee is also selling tickets.

Carol Rose Miller, Dianne Zachry, Linda Bullard, Kay Sprinkle, Maynette Loftus, Nelda Cooper, Karla Cox, Martha Gordon and Raina Storms are among the entrants. Thus far the talents exhibited will be dramatic, dance and piano.

MISS PAMPA' PREPARATIONS

In preparation for the Miss Pampa Beauty Pageant next week, the Pampa Jaycees are placing signs in strategic points in town today. James Crouch, heading the advance ticket sale, appears with the poster, left. Eldon Blumer, Beauty Committee chairman, helps him with the large sign.

Final Action On Labor Bill Promised

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Final action was promised today on the Senate's labor reform bill after four days of strenuous debate.

Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) said the Senate was within three or four amendments of reaching a final vote and said the bill should be passed by late afternoon. But he warned another night session—the fifth on the measure—might be necessary.

The administration failed to get all the reforms it wanted from the House — principally further curbs on the authority of Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries.

The role of the military in a proposed new federal aviation agency was under scrutiny of a Senate aviation subcommittee studying legislation designed to reduce danger of collisions between aircraft.

Under the present bill the military's role would be limited to appointment by the defense secretary of a special military adviser to the new agency's administrator. The administration contends the military should have "active participation" in activities of the new agency.

Wheat Fire Was Just Stubble

The Pampa fire department received a call today that a wheat field was burning five miles east of Pampa. When firemen arrived they found that a farmer was burning his wheat stubble.

As a result of this false alarm, fire department officials sent a plea to all farmers in this area to please call the fire department and tell them when and where they are going to burn the wheat stubble.

Fire department officials said that false alarms like the one today, costs the city "a lot of money."

NO-MAN

(Continued From Page 1) In his statement Adams admitted the hotel hospitality — but "with no strings attached" — and sought to clear up the matter of the rug and the coat.

Eisenhower Given Cloth Without mentioning its cost, Adams said the rug was loaned to him and Mrs. Adams by Goldfine who had "commented on the shabbiness" of the old rug in the living room of their rented Washington home.

"The rug is his property and he so regards it," Adams said. As for the coat, Adams said the material of which it was made cost Goldfine's mill "about $69."

"I accepted this gift," Adams said, "in the same spirit in which he accepted, many years ago, a gold watch from me."

Shortly before Adams went before the subcommittee, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen Goldfine in 1956 gave President Eisenhower some vicuna cloth and that the President sent the industrialist a thank you note.

But Hagerty denounced as "a lie" a published report that Goldfine had given the President a coat. Hagerty said the President told him he gave the cloth to someone but forgot who it was. Hagerty also branded as a lie a report Goldfine once visited Eisenhower at the White House.

"No Strings Attached" Adams told the subcommittee Goldfine is "proud of his mills and their products" and in 1955 gave the governors of all the states and territories enough woolen fabric to make a suit.

Adams admitted that Goldfine had paid his hotel bills in New York, Boston and Plymouth, Mass. Goldfine, he said, "offered these facilities and I accepted them — with no strings attached."

Adams did not place a value on the large Oriental rug in his home. Estimates have placed the value at $2,400.

According to Adams, Goldfine offered to get a better rug than Adams had. Adams said he told Goldfine that such a rug would be of no use when he moved from his present home or returned to New Hampshire.

8 Oak Ridge Workers Are Exposed

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI)—Oak Ridge officials began an intensive investigation today into an accident which left eight workers suffering from radiation exposure.

The accident, called the first of its kind, happened Monday in the Atomic Energy Commission's huge special products plant when an employe emptied a small container of enriched uranium into a larger drum. A nuclear reaction then took place.

The eight workers from the uranium recovery department were held in the plant dispensary for observation.

Four others were released after examination showed they had not been exposed to excessive radiation.

Plant and AEC officials did not release the names of the men injured or how large a dosage of radiation they received.

The AEC emphasized that the accident represented no danger to Oak Ridge or the rest of the workers in the plant.

Midland Blast Kills Two MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI)—A booming explosion at an oil well servicing company killed two men and rocked the city Monday night.

The blast, thought to have been from an exploding carbide tank, ripped up two sheet iron buildings owned by the Hale Paraffin Service, and blew a hole in a nearby residence. The blast was felt two miles away.

Scattering sheet iron over a 100-yard area, the explosion tore down highlines and damaged an automobile outside one building when it threw one of the victims through the vehicle.

The explosion victims were identified as Carl Allen Jones, a foreman at the plant, and W. E. Kenney, 37, an Atlantic Oil Co. employe from Aransas Pass.

ADAMS

(Continued From Page 1) Often asleep by 8:30 p.m., Adams is up at 6, preparing for the new day while listening to his hi-fi set — preferably music by Mozart — after reading a half-dozen morning papers.

After a breakfast that befits a former lumber millhand, Adams drives to his White House office in his 1957 model two-tone green Oldsmobile convertible, arriving at 7:30. Immediately, he's immersed in conferences, answering the phone or checking things out with Eisenhower, whom he often sees a dozen times a day.

Not one to waste a word, Adams will often say into the phone one word: "Yes," "No" or "Maybe" and hang up.

Because of his influential position, Adams has made many enemies, not only in the Democratic Party, but among Republicans as well. Many old-line Republicans resent some of his choices for patronage plums.

Chiropacters Attend Meet In Dallas Attending the 43rd annual convention of the State Chiropactic Association in Dallas last week, chiropacters from Pampa and other towns met on the provisions of a new State law, requiring all chiropacters to attend at least one refresher or post graduate school course before relicensing each Jan. 1.

The chiropacters from Pampa were Dr. Harry J. Loveless, Dr. G. P. Miller, Dr. Robert H. Rutledge, Dr. R. E. Thompson and Dr. T. J. Wright. Rutledge is president of the Pampa Chiropactic Association.

Lectures on a number of technical and research subjects went into the convention refresher course. The course included discussions by two national chiropactic educators, Dr. Vinton Logan of St. Lewis, president of Logan Chiropactic College, and Dr. Carl Cleveland of Kansas City, dean of Cleveland Chiropactic College.

Ag Secretary Ezra T. Benson Hits Farm Bloc 'Maneuvering'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson says farm bloc "maneuvering" on the omnibus farm bill would force some children in summer schools, camps, and child care institutions to do without milk for at least part of the summer.

The bill was approved by the House Agriculture Committee last Friday despite strong indications that some of its provisions would invite a presidential veto.

Benson told the National Press Club Monday the measure was "loosely drawn," and tied some good proposals to "several ill-begotten and ill-conceived items."

A special school milk subsidy program expires in 14 days on June 30, Benson pointed out.

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Police throughout Mexico were alerted for possible violence Monday following the fatal shooting in Chihuahua of a youthful supporter of presidential candidate Luis Alvarez.

Jesus Marquez Monreal was shot down by unidentified gunmen Sunday while he was decorating the streets in preparation for a visit by Alvarez. It was the first fatality of the 1958 campaign.

Angry Alvarez supporters prowled the streets of Chihuahua through the day, tearing down posters of the government party. There were no immediate reports of violence.

Alvarez, addressing a crowd of 35,000 in Chihuahua's "Plaza de Armas," described the Marquez murder as "a crime against the free citizens of Mexico." He charged that local political chiefs were responsible.

Fire Hurts Four In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—A fire in the old Harlandale Theater on the city's south side injured four firemen Monday.

A short circuit in a ceiling outlet was believed to have caused the fire which weakened the roof of the building, sending it crashing down on firemen in and around the building.

The four were rushed to a hospital, but none were thought to have been seriously injured.

Other firemen brought the blaze under control almost immediately and surrounding buildings were not damaged.

Injured in the blaze were J. R. Gonzales, 26, Oscar Villareal, 23, A. A. Peche, 42, and Rudy Garza, 31.

Elfrida Stretches Winnings

NEW YORK (UPI)—Elfrida von Nardroff, the pretty walking encyclopedia from Brooklyn, ran her record television quiz earnings past the quarter-million-dollar mark Monday night.

Miss von Nardroff, a 32-year-old brunette who quit her job as a personnel officer to devote full-time to the quiz show "Twenty-One," added $5,900 to her previous earnings to reach $253,500 when her opponent, Herbert Hulse, a Goldsboro, N.C., bank clerk and lawyer, was unable to identify several United States ambassadors.

At the show's end however, the Brooklyn quiz whiz was one point behind her new opponent, Robert Leicester of New York, an assistant high school director. Both Miss von Nardroff and Leicester correctly answered questions on Greek mythology, baseball and bodies of water.

Ironically, Miss von Nardroff is worse off financially now—as far as ready cash is concerned—than when she first began to amass her TV fortune. She said she is in debt for about $2,000, which she has borrowed from friends to meet expenses since she quit her job. She cannot collect any of her prize money until she quits the show or is defeated.

The basics for teen-age beauty are no different than those for any other age. The teen-ager needs less make-up and more rest but the same sound diet and exercise that make beauties of the older girls. This teen-ager (left) knows that lipstick looks best when it's applied with a brush, lightly and carefully. So she practices until she learns how to handle the brush. After a warm tub bath, she relaxes (center) with a glass milk and the telephone. Exercise can come (right) in the form of rock and roll since dancing is the equivalent of walking. The steps to beauty are many but the three shown here should be part of any teen-ager's program. With them, any girl has the beginnings of true good looks.

Gavel Club Plans Park Salad Supper

Order of the Eastern Star Gavel Club met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Ed Rallsback, 1906 N. Nelson, for a covered-dish dinner with Mrs. Earl Casey and Mrs. L. R. Bigham as co-hostesses.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Rallsback.

Secret pal gifts were exchanged; names revealed and new secret pal names were drawn for the next six months.

The remainder of the evening was spent playing games. The next meeting will be held on July 10 at seven o'clock when members will entertain their husbands with a salad supper.

Members present, in addition to the hostesses, were Mmes. C. V. Davis, W. M. Murphy, Katie Vincent, Ethel Alexander, J. F. Fuqua, Oscar Shearer, Pearl Mitchell, Stella Wagner, J. L. Burba, W. R. Morrison, Bill Flewelling, Crystal Hankhouse, W. M. Boyles, H. E. Croker, Dennis Stillwell, G. K. Reading, C. F. Pennington, W. A. Rankin, and Ethel Kiser.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband just loves to fish but I am the one who has to clean them. Whenever we go on a vacation my husband drops me off at the fish house with a mess of fresh-caught fish to clean. I am the only woman in the fish house cleaning fish with a bunch of men and I feel like a darned fool. My husband goes off to the cabin and sleeps. What can I do?

SICK OF FISH
Dear Sick: Next time your husband sends you to the fish house with a mess of fish, return empty handed. Tell him you were so distracted by all the "BIG, STRONG, HANDSOME FISHERMEN" in there cleaning fish that you plum forgot to bring the fish home.

DEAR ABBY: I would like you to settle an argument for me. My girlfriend says that when you are 25 you are an old maid. I disagree. I think it is 30. Would you please clear this up for me? Thank you.

CURIOUS
Dear Curious: An "old maid" (in my opinion) is simply a woman who is not married — yet. Cupid does business with women of all ages. Where there's LIFE there's HOPE — and vice versa.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my boyfriend stole my diary right out of my desk drawer. He took it home and his mother found it. It was very personal but there wasn't anything in it that I could be put in jail for. He says his mother doesn't think I am fit company for him and now he has to break up with me. Do you think he is just using that as an excuse or should I find out from his mother if she really saw my diary and ask her what was so bad about it? Please help me. I am very mixed up.

CRAZY MIXED-UP KID
Dear Mixed: A boy who steals a girl's diary is not exactly choice company, either. Don't check his story with his mother. No matter why he wants to break up with you, let him go. Good riddance!

DEAR ABBY: I almost died laughing when I read in your column that the Red Cross gave stationery to prisoners in stockade, Abby, are you off your rocker? The RED CROSS never gave away anything. When I was in Service, the only time I saw the RED CROSS is when they came to collect blood. I paid for cigarettes that were plainly marked "GIFT OF THE AMERICAN

Teeners Capitalize On Youthful Glow Leaving Sophisticated Style Til Later

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Being a beauty while you're in your teens is mostly a matter of looking fresh, radiant and clean. This is not the time for artificial make-up, elaborate hairstyles or sophisticated clothes.

Leave the heavy hand to the older girls and make the most of your own natural assets: a fresh skin, shining hair and an abundance of energy that makes both rest and exercise easy for you.

When you apply light make-up before going out on a date, here's one way to have that glow without artificial. Wash your face and neck thoroughly while you're running your bath water. Next, apply powder and lipstick. Then, while you relax in the tub, you'll find a sort of dewy bloom forming under the make-up. You'll look radiant, natural and picture-worthy.

Exercise, whether you get it in a swimming pool, on a dance floor or tennis court is all-important. It's essential both to a clear skin and a pretty figure. Don't ride when you can walk. Next to swimming, walking is the ideal all-around exercise since it uses the most muscles. Tennis is fine, too, and dancing will give those muscles a good workout in the same sense that walking does. The point is never to let a day go by without exercise of some kind.

Your bathtub is a dandy place to relax as you soak clean. A warm bath will send you off to sleep in no time but it will do more than that. I will leave you healthier, give you a feeling of well-being and start you on the way to a pretty skin if you haven't already got one.

For in the case of the teen troubles that beset many teenagers, medical advice usually runs to keeping the skin scrupulously clean and going light on the make-up. The best thing, of course, is to see a doctor before you try clearing up your skin problems. If often takes expert guidance to turn a bad skin into a glowing one since skin problems vary even among teenagers.

Meat Casserole Is Summer 'Quickie'
A can of luncheon meat, one of soup and a package of frozen vegetables are easily turned into a hearty casserole, ideal for serving in a hurry on some of the busy days ahead.

LUNCHEON MEAT CASSEROLE
1 can luncheon meat
1 package frozen mixed vegetables
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) cream of mushroom soup
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
Cut luncheon meat into eight slices. Break up block of frozen vegetables and place in a 1 1/2 quart casserole. Top with luncheon meat slices. Dilute soup with milk and stir in Worcestershire sauce. Pour over meat and vegetables. Toss butter with crumbs and sprinkle over top of meat and vegetables. Bake at 375 degrees F. 30 minutes. 4 servings.

Work And Duties Of County Officials Discussed At Lefors HD Club Meeting

(Special to The News) Refreshments were served during the social hour. The next meeting for the group will be on June 26 with Mrs. Rider as hostess. Members present were Mmes. A. T. Cobb, O. O. Bishop, Wanda Schiebella, John Lantz, E. J. Leininger, Charles Roberts, L. D. Rider, B. J. Diehl, and Miss Norma Lantz.

"A misdemeanor is an offense against the criminal law, of lesser degree than a felony misdemeanor, and includes petty crime, disorderly conduct, violation of game laws, municipal ordinances, and health regulations. Punishment sometimes includes imprisonment, but usually only a fine with imprisonment only on non-payment of the fine."

Mrs. L. D. Rider, president, presided over the business meeting as the secretary's report was read by Mrs. A. T. Cobb and year books were filled out.

MM Class Plans Ice Cream Social

(Special to The News) LEFORS — The Mary Martha Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Pete Boyer on Monday night, for the monthly social. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. David Robinson, in absence of Mrs. Albert Stokes, followed by prayer by Mrs. Leonard Cain.

The report of the nominating committee was given by Mrs. Boyer as follows: Mmes. Glen Cullen, president; Grady McCool, vice-president; Homer Morrow, secretary assisted by R. E. McDonald; Leonard Cain, treasurer and Frank Cooksey, social chairman. The report was approved by the group and those named will hold office for the next six months.

Games were led by Launa Hill. Secret Pal names were revealed and new names drawn for the next three months after the opening of gifts.

An ice cream social was planned for the group and husbands in the home of Mrs. David Robinson on July 7.

Refreshments of cake, tea, coffee and punch were served. One guest was present, Mrs. Alice Williams, and the following members: Mmes. Glen Cullen, Grady McCool, Richard McDonald, Leonard Cain, Frank Cooksey, Homer Morrow, Jack Boyer, E. W. Connell, Charles Earhart, David Robinson, Johnny Taylor, Pete Boyer, and Albert Stokes.

Beef-Aroni Insures Against Starvation For Fishermen When Fish Aren't Biting

"Togetherness" is a way of life advocated by a leading woman's magazine, and the Texas Beef Council heartily endorses the theory that families who share each other's problems and triumphs are happier for the sharing.

However, on lazy summer days when Mother is convinced that the most comfortable place in the world is home, and the "boys" in the family long for the cool breeze on the lake, there is a lot to be said for few hours of "separateness."

Miss Flowers Is Feted With Parties

(Special to The News) PERRYTON — Miss Charlotte Flowers, bride-elect of Henry Hale, was honored with a kitchen shower in the Harvester Room, Hotel Perryton.

Hostesses for the evening were Misses Kathleen Jones, Jane Malone, Phyllis Vernon, and Barbara Hunt.

The serving table was covered with a yellow linen cloth. The centerpiece consisted of a large skillet and a stew pan, gifts from the hostesses, filled with an arrangement of daisies.

Mrs. Oscar Flowers, mother of the honoree, presided at the silver coffee service. Approximately twenty-six called or sent gifts.

Old Mexico Theme For KKK Rush Fete

As rushers arrived at the Kit Kat Klub's second rush party in the home of Misses Joy and Gay Vandenburg, 1615 N. Russell, they were greeted with an air of Old Mexico.

The gala atmosphere was enhanced by a Spanish pinata, surrounded with brightly-colored ornaments. The centerpiece was a small Mexican boy taking a siesta.

Entertainment was provided by Miss Jane Wells, who sang and danced and Misses Sara and Martha Gordon, who sang Spanish songs.

Certain Words Mean Death To All Of Us

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some newly obtained facts now bolster a psychological theory that certain words mean death to all of us (although we don't know it) and those words stir anxiety deep down inside us because we're so very much afraid of death.

The theory comes out of psychoanalysis. Psychiatrists who use that technique discovered certain words produced in neurotic patients what is known in the trade as "the anxiety reaction." The patients didn't know why or how, and that's where theorizing begins.

The words, it was theorized, were symbols to the unconscious minds of the patients—they symbolized death. Thus they aroused the fear of death unconsciously and this fear boiled up to the surface and caused an exaggerated anxiety which had neither rhyme nor reason.

Theory Tested

Dr. W. W. Meisner, psychologist of St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo., tested this theory in 40 non-neurotic men between 23 and 45. You may ask how he could do that if the mental process is unconscious, and it is a good question. He made use of the probability that a jolt of anxiety in the unconscious mind will increase the electrical charge which is always running through the skin.

He took them one by one into a sound-proof room where temperature and humidity were maintained at ideal levels, laid them comfortably on a bed, attached electrodes to their hands, and pronounced the words in the most "neutral" tone of voice he could use.

The words he obtained from psychoanalytic literature. All were theoretically proved to be symbolic of death. He got 20 sets of these altogether and mixed them up with 30 words selected because they could have no emotional meaning of any kind.

The theoretical 20 death symbols were: 1. Bird; 2. Journey; 3. Candle burning out; 4. To burn; 5. Across a bridge; 6. Trip; 7. Old man; 8. Statue; 9. Sleeping person; 10. Train trip; 8. Old man; 9. Statue; 10. To drive away; 11. Black; 12. Water; 13. The silent one; 14. To depart; 15. Thunder; 16. Stranger; 17. Terminal; 18. The end; 19. Four; 20. The thirteenth.

Increased Response
Many of these words increased the electric skin response of many of the subjects. Some did it for only a few of them. No one person was entirely unresponsive to all 20 of them. You can understand that this sort of measurement can't possibly be all white or all black. Scientifically it can be measured only statistically—and statistically Meisner obtained quite "significant" results indicating that the words did arouse unconscious anxiety.

The question remained: did the unconscious mind associate the words with death? After the relaxed testing on the comfortable bed, he gave his subjects lists of words and asked them to write in what they associated the words with. A significant (statistically) number wrote "death" after the death symbol words a significant (statistically) number of times.

Meisner reported the results to the American Psychological Association.

Readers Take Cummings Seriously

Editors Note: Vernon Scott is on vacation. Today's visiting fireman is Robert Cummings, who complains that his fans take his TV love-making and brow-beating too seriously.

By BOB CUMMINGS
Written for UPI

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—My subject is letters. Like Perry Como, I get letters. And, like Perry, I get many nice letters. But, speaking just for myself, I also get some letters that are not so nice. For instance, when my producer-writer Paul Henning writes a sequence in my show that calls for us to give Schultz 66 kinds of hallelujah, you should see the letters I get. To say that they are reproving is like saying that nations were cross with one another during World War II.

How does an actor defend himself against such vituperative castigation? He doesn't.

He merely consoles himself with the likely thought that he must have done a reasonably adequate job of acting to set off the wrath of credulous viewers. Actually, I'm very fond of Schultz and I have great respect for her acting ability. After all, she won this year's Emmy Award and that bears proof of my opinion during four years of working with her.

But, in future shows, if I have to stage the act of lowering the bombastic boom on Schultz, I'm gonna do it. That's my bread and butter, you know.

Another thing. In the role of a playboy-photographer, I am often called upon to play-pretend on pretty girls. You should see the letters I get about that! My character is not only defamed, it's literally boiled in a bubbling cauldron of infamy. But again, this is the way I make my living and provide reasonable security for my beautiful wife and our five lovely children.

Obituaries

By United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Carl Erickson, 67, a staff illustrator for Vogue magazine for the last 40 years, died Monday. Erickson was an illustrator for the French and British editions of Vogue, as well as the American edition.

NEW YORK (UPI)—L. A. Mckler, 43, a chemical engineer who specialized in petroleum chemistry, died Sunday after a short illness. He held more than 80 American and foreign patents in the fields of thermal and catalytic processes.

THE BOYS IN BLUE—Twice a week at Ohio State University in Columbus they prepare to fight the Civil War again, where a squad of Union infantrymen and their commander, William Vance, drill with authentic 1863-vintage Springfield rifles. Members of the Pershing Rifles, a national ROTC group drill, they call themselves the Grand Army of the Republic, Restored, and march according to the book—in this case the War Department's 1863 Drill Manual. They and a Confederate group at the University of Kentucky are the only Civil War drill squads left in the nation. In the last "skirmish" between the two, the Blues won in both sham battle and drill competition.

Airman Is Under Guard At Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Dallas' lovedick airman was under armed guard at Carswell Air Force Base Hospital here early this morning while awaiting transfer to his home base at Gulfport, Miss.

Airman 3C Donald Keeton, who led military and civilian authorities on a three-state search in an attempt to halt his faked "suicide flight" last week, had been scheduled for transfer to Keeler Field, Gulfport, Monday, but Carswell authorities said Keeler escorts had been delayed.

Keeton was expected to face AWOL charges at Keeler for leaving a suicide note pinned to his bunk and taking off for Dallas in a rented plane "to see my girl" last Thursday.

"I don't care about him anymore," Keeton's former sweetheart, little 17-year-old Doris Lynn Bowling told United Press International late Monday night. Saturday she had insisted "I love him, but I'm not in love with him enough to marry him." Crew-cut, sandy-haired Keeton had eluded three F-100 jet interceptors, a helicopter and scores of them equipped with radar tracking devices, and set his plane down on a hidden field near Tyler, Tex.

He caught a bus to Dallas Friday night, said "Hello, I'm here" to his harried mother who had spent two sleepless nights wondering whether her son was alive and called Doris Lynn.

Promptly arrested by Dallas police, Keeton spent a few minutes at the jailhouse with the high school senior before being whisked to Carswell.

Keeton told newsmen "I'd do it again if I had to," despite the fact Doris said she will not marry him. He termed the flight a success.

Carswell authorities said he was under medical observation. They said detailed studies, if any, of his condition would be undertaken at Keeler.

HODGE BOUT SET

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dan Hodge of Wichita, Kan., former national Golden Gloves champion, was matched today for an eight-round main event with Drew Brown of New Orleans at Holyoke, Mass., June 23. In his first professional fight last week at Scranton, Pa., Hodge knocked out Norman Jackson in the first round.

Sullivan's World Fair Trip Was Fairly Painless TV Fare

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—I must admit at the start that I've had it up to here with the Brussels World's Fair, but Ed Sullivan's filmed visit Sunday night on CBS-TV was relatively painless.

There were, of course, the inevitable shots of pavilions, people walking, people staring, and the atomium, a structure which has always struck me as a kind of abacus with swollen glands. And too, Sullivan somehow managed to find and film a dancing act, a novelty act, an animal act and a musical group called the Nitwits, which described them, I would say, precisely.

But Sullivan did come through with more exciting footage—a Bardot, for example. It must be admitted that Miss Bardot didn't dance, for example. It must be said that her brain anyway?

Best of all though was a session with a Ukrainian dance group to which Sullivan wisely devoted a major portion of his hour.

The troupe was cornball, but in the best sense. The dancers threw themselves into their work with a wonderful élan, a tremendous expenditure of energy and a fair amount of precision. They reminded me of a bunch of Pepper Martins dashing around the bases for the old St. Louis Cardinals.

Along with all this, Sullivan trotted out filmed talks with William Holden and Sophia Loren, a dash of Jacques Tati and Maurice Chevalier, and a scattering of other offerings that affected my digestion in varying ways.

This may seem like an awful lot of entertainment to crowd into one hour and it was. But as the man said, you ain't seen nothing yet.

Next week, Sullivan celebrates his 10th anniversary on TV and he will jam in kinescopes from the best of his old shows that will feature, among others, Marlon Brando, Jackie Gleason, Victor Borge, Charles Laughton, Lucille Ball, Desi Arnaz, Bing Crosby, Phil Silvers, Jack Benny, Perry Como, Johnny Ray, Grace Kelly and someone with the improbable name of Elvis Presley.

Bob Crosby, who has worked in the shadow of his brother, Bing, moved into another difficult spot Saturday night when he took over a summer pinchhitter for Perry Como. The new Crosby entry was pleasantly innocuous, which, I suppose, is TV's idea of summer entertainment.

Tonight's TV highlights: "Cowtown Rodeo" (ABC-TV). Prelimere of summertime one-hour Eastern from Cowtown, N.J., with rodeo riders and assorted four-footed supporting players.

"Twenty One" (NBC-TV). Elfrida von Nardroff, the girl who can't say no, has yeased herself into a match with attorney Herbert Hulse of Goldsboro, N.C. Miss von Nardroff has built 248,000 on 17 appearances on the show thus far.

"Studio One" (CBS-TV). "The Left-Handed Welcome," drama about a young singer who visits his home town. With Tommy Sands and Elaine Stritch.

The Channel Swim: Singer Jimmy Dean has been signed to an exclusive long-term with CBS-TV. . . Freddy Robbins got the emcee job on the daytime "Haggy Baggis," a new quiz that bows in on NBC-TV June 30.

RED EQUALS RECORD
WARSAW (UPI)—Maria Itkan of Russia equalled her own world record of 53.6 seconds for the 400-meter run today in the Janusz Kusocinski memorial track and field meet. Maria set the record originally in Moscow, June 6, 1957.

I SEE YOU—The exciting lines of a smoketack seem to have inspired this winter coat that shrouds the wearer from nose to knees. Displayed in Paris as part of the Basta collection, it's called "Wink," which is about all the young lady would be able to do.

"Winner's Circle," formerly titled "Be a Winner" replaces the nighttime "Treasure Hunt" on NBC-TV on June 24—the new show is a quiz with a horse race gimmick. . . Sy Shaffer, whose trombone notes open the Arthur Godfrey shows on CBS-TV, left over the week-end for Austria where he'll be guest conductor with the 110-piece Vienna Philharmonic for nine concerts.

Court In Ruling On Passports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court has ruled that the secretary of state has no authority to refuse a passport because of an applicant's alleged Communist Party membership.

The 5-4 ruling came on appeals by artist Rockwell Kent, 75, of Asbury Park, N.J., and psychiatrist Walter Briehl, Los Angeles. Both were denied passports in 1955 after they refused to sign non-Communist affidavits.

Both had been accused of supporting Communist causes and of having been party members.

Justice William O. Douglas spoke for the majority. Dissenters were Justices Tom C. Clark, Harold H. Burton, John M. Harlan and Charles E. Whittaker.

Douglas said Congress did not give the secretary authority to "withhold passports to citizens because of their beliefs or associations."

"Congress made no such provision in explicit terms," the opinion said, "and absent one, the secretary may not employ that standard to restrict the citizens' right of free movement."

Kent had wanted to go to Europe to paint. Briehl had wanted to attend medical conventions in Geneva and Istanbul.

When they sued in Federal District Court to obtain passports, Miss Frances Knight, director of the passport office, produced information alleging that they had supported Communist causes and had been accused of party membership.

Douglas held that "the right to travel is a part of the 'liberty' of which the citizen cannot be deprived without due process of law" as provided in the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

In other major decisions, the court:

—Held 6-3 in a decision of major importance to labor that so-called "hot cargo" clauses in labor contracts cannot be legally enforced. But it said such contracts, common in the trucking industry, are permissible if adhered to voluntarily. Hot cargo clauses provide that workers cannot be required by their employer to handle non-union goods or goods from firms whose workers are on strike. An estimated half a million workers are covered by such contracts.

—Revived a suit by Interhandel, Swiss holding company, to regain stock control of General Aniline & Film Corp., which the U.S. government seized during World War II on ground it was enemy-controlled. In an 8-0 decision, the court sent the case back to Federal District Court here for further proceedings. The government had wanted to sell its seized stock in the firm, amounting to 93 per cent, but has been prevented from doing so by Interhandel's suit.

—Refused to examine the contempt citation of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Stern, now living in Czechoslovakia and under indictment in this country on charges of conspiracy to commit espionage. The court's order makes final a lower court decision dismissing their appeal from fines of $25,000 for failing to respond in 1957 when subpoenaed to testify before a New York grand jury investigating espionage. They moved behind the Iron Curtain from Mexico City in July, 1957, and two months later were indicted on the espionage conspiracy charge. Mrs. Stern is the daughter of the late William E. Dodd, former U.S. ambassador to Germany. Her husband was once a New York investment broker.

Showers Are Top Weather Activity

By United Press International
Occasional thundershowers in the Plains states and the Southeast marked the only weather activity of any significance across the nation today.

Scattered, light showers, however, were expected in flood-devastated Indiana where the rampaging Wabash River continued its swollen passage to the Ohio River.

Late evening showers Monday night, centered mostly in the central and Southeast portions of the country, were riddled with occasional thundershowers that left locally heavy deposits.

About 1 1/2 inches of rain fell at LaMar, Colo., during a six-hour period Monday night, while AI-pine, Tex., was soaked with a 2.82 inch downpour. More than two inches had fallen at Jackson, Miss., in the past 24 hours.

Cloudy skies were imported to the mid-Mississippi Valley by a weak low-pressure headed eastward from the Plains. Light, scattered rainfalls were associated with the pattern as far north as Chicago.

Except for a few showers over the Great Basin area, and thundershowers in north central Montana, skies west of the Rockies were clear.

Showers in the mid-Mississippi Valley today were expected to extend across Illinois into Indiana where the Wabash River broke through the levees at three separate points Monday.

The most critical breakthrough occurred at West Terre Haute where 40 per cent of the city was inundated and 1,500 persons were forced to flee their homes. Several other breakthroughs occurred along the Illinois-Indiana border.

'Dynasoar' Contracts Awarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) announced Monday that the Air Force has awarded contracts for development of the "Dynasoar"—a manned aircraft capable of operating both in outer space and within the earth's atmosphere.

The contracts went to Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co. and Boeing Airplane Co.

The Air Force confirmed Jackson's announcement.

The plane will be designed to fly in the initial reaches of outer space, circle the world at speeds of about 17,000 miles an hour and return its pilot safely to earth. The first model is expected to cost about 150 million dollars.

The "Dynasoar" (dynamic soaring) is an advanced boost-slide vehicle, designed to use both aerodynamic lift and centrifugal force.

Rick Pezdirtz purely paydirt

Leathery Deck Woldt is a gent with gobs of headaches these days.

Take for instance, this morning, he's two throbbers for certain.

Not only is the former Oiler hero and vet Pampa High baseball coach finding that booking games is the most tortuous thing since rock-and-roll music, he has no hopes of landing so much as one week-night game here, for his American Legion Rebels.

Not that Deck's agit night baseball. He's all for the idea. After all it's here to stay, has been for some spell, too. His trouble stems from the yawning fact: There is no official-sized lighted diamond in the city.

Had old Oiler Park not been dismantled stick-by-stick, the Rebels in the summer, Harvesters in the spring, and so forth, would have a place to call home.

This would indeed be a beautiful situation. Just like everybody having free air-conditioning and Sophia Loren delivering the mail twice a day.

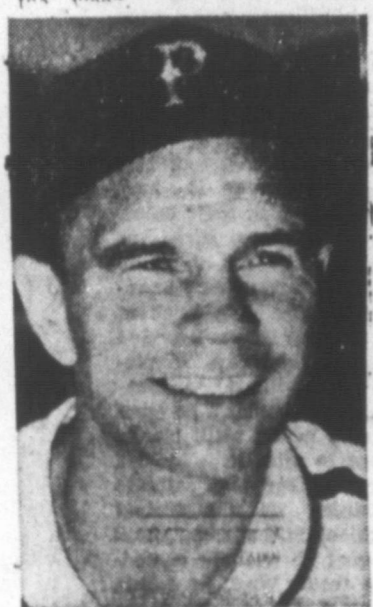

But it ain't being done in this day and time.

You build your mousetrap, then you go looking for mice. And only then.

Going, Going . . . Gone!

Don't be soaking up any wrong impressions though. Woldt's not sobbing over spilled milk or any such nonsense, he's, instead burning the long distance phone wires, trying to come up with something.

Something like a half dozen home-and-home series with neighboring city teams. He has lightless Harvester Park here for Sunday games, and can take to the road for night games during the week.

DECK WOLDT
... who's worried

Wanted: 1 Ball Park

Yet Woldt is among a handful from the old school. He's slugging back.

A summer's play would be healthy for building up his Pampa High club for next spring. The Rebels have nothing to fret about, not certifying a team in time. June 1 was the deadline.

Better teams have done likewise this year. Luffkin, runner-up to Amarillo in 1956 and state champ over Fort Worth last summer, has abandoned its Legion team. Not because of no playing facilities, they've a new 1700-seat stadium, lights, fence and all. But because of growing pressure from Teen-Age League officials.

Newcomers Impress

Woldt continues his struggle with a 6:30 workout this evening.

"It's not like during school," Deck explains. "Most of these kids work, and can't get off in the daytime to practice. You can't blame them for wanting to work, can you?"

Deck had his Rebels hit a couple rounds of batting practice during their initial drills Sunday.

He was pleased with the showing of four newcomers, Larry Stroud at first and Lee Roy Watson at short impressed Sunday. Both are only 15. Pampa High basketball manager, Billy Wray, looked smooth in centerfield and John Ayres, who'll be a senior this fall, had a good day at second.

"We're going to try our best to scrape up some games. It won't be nothing fancy. But if the kids want to play bad enough, we'll get 'em some games," Woldt commented.

Like we say afore, "go-man-go!"

PEEWEE SEES BUMS WITH FLAG, Maybe!!

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Those last-place Los Angeles Dodgers who've been taking a cutting around in the National League aren't downhearted. Almost to a man they say: "We're no second division team."

In fact, Capt. Peeewe Reese said the club shows signs of "straightening out" and that they "might go all the way"—that is, win the pennant.

As an old Dodger fan who used to watch them over the years from the press box in Brooklyn, I talked to several members of the club and found that their morale is anything but shot because the team happens to be in the cellar.

For one thing, the Los Angeles fans are patient and enthusiastic. They do not call the Dodgers the "bums," or give them the "bold," as they used to do at times in Brooklyn.

Attendance for 33 games the Dodgers have played at Los Angeles Coliseum has been 949,802, which is 141,208 ahead of the pace set in Milwaukee last season when the Braves established a National League attendance record for the year of 2,215,404.

"No club has pulled away in this league," declared Peeewe Reese. "We're only eight games out of first place. If we get going, and I think we will, anything can happen. We're too good to stay down where we are."

"Strange things happen in baseball. Milwaukee hasn't played the type of ball everybody thought they would.

NL Chase Like Yanking Teeth

Cards Hot, But Not Going Up

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

The St. Louis Cardinals may yet catch the Milwaukee Braves but Manager Fred Hutchinson wishes they'd stop trying to do it the hard way.

A .469 pace since May 7 has brought the Cardinals back from their 3-14 start into a tie for fourth place in the National League. That's the best pace of any NL team over the five-week period but it's been like pulling teeth all the way.

For one thing, the Cardinals' starting pitchers aren't winning. Only one starter has won in the last 10 days and the "big four" of Larry Jackson, Linda McDanel, Vinegar Bend Mizell, and Sam Jones show a combined 15-21 record. Only the erratic but surprisingly successful relief work of Morris Martin, Billy Mufet and Phil Paine, 8-2 combined, has saved the staff from buckling altogether.

night when the Cardinals out-ried a 3-1 lead into the ninth but scrambled the Cincinnati Redlegs, 6-5, in 11 innings.

Cincinnati's Joe Nuchal carried a 3-1 lead into the ninth but the Cardinals tied it on pinch-hitter Joe Cunningham's two-run single. Then the Redbirds pushed over three runs in the top of the 11th for an apparently easy victory only to have the Redlegs rally for two in the last of the 11th and force Hutchinson to go to the bullpen for the fourth time of the night.

Eddie Kasko, whose error helped the Redlegs take a 3-1 lead in the sixth, doubled home the final two St. Louis runs in the 11th. Don Blasingame broke the 3-3 tie with a single.

The three-run margin appeared to be more than enough for Morris Martin, who did gain credit for his third win, but the ex-Brooklyn lefty never retired a batter in the 11th. Burgess singled and Gus Bell homered whereupon Hutchinson signalled for Jackson, Jackson, who has won two of his five decisions in relief, retired the side in order.

Tom Acker, fourth Cincinnati pitcher, suffered his second defeat without a victory.

The Redleg - Cardinals game was the only one in the majors Monday but the Chicago Cubs got a brilliant performance from their newly signed bonus pitcher Dick Ellsworth in an exhibition game with the Chicago White Sox.

Ellsworth, an 18-year-old left-hander from Fresno High School, pitched a four-hitter. Pinch-hitter Walt Moryn singled home the winning run for the Cubs after they filled the bases on walks to Cal Neeman, Ellsworth and Tony Taylor. Rookie Bob Shaw was the loser.

East goes, West in the American League in tonight's all-night game schedule while the West invades East in the National League. In the AL it's Boston at Chicago, Washington at Detroit, New York at Cleveland Baltimore at Kansas City. In the NL it's San Francisco at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at Philadelphia, Chicago at Milwaukee and St. Louis at Cincinnati.

MAD MANAGER

When Fred Hutchinson gets on an umpire, the St. Louis Cardinals chief really climbs aboard. Hal Dixon is on the receiving end this time. The Redbirds hold 4th, after topping Cincinnati last night, 6-5, in 11-innings.

PHILS NEED HIM

Bouchee's Fate In Ford's Hands

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — First baseman Ed Bouchee, the promising Phillies rookie sidelined to a psychiatric hospital by a brush with the law, sought to return to baseball today, confident he can ignore any decision from the state.

"Baseball is my life," he said during a workout at Connie Mack Stadium. "I'll take anything to get back into the game."

The highly regarded first baseman was arrested on a morals charge last winter in Spokane, Wash. He was placed on probation and entered the Institute of Living in Hartford, Conn., where he underwent psychiatric treatment.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick must decide if Bouchee's return to the active playing ranks would be in the best interests of baseball.

Frick emphasized he would judge the case only on its merits.

"This much is certain," Frick said. "I am not going to restore the boy to active service just because the Phillies need a first baseman; nor am I going to persecute him just to prove I'm against sin." Phils' owner Bob Carpenter said the return of Bouchee to the lineup would be a big boost for the team, but he will not request his reinstatement until he gets the approval of Bouchee's doctors and probation officers.

Bouchee said he is physically and mentally ready to return. He said he has kept in condition physically with workouts at the stadium under the direction of Phillies coach Bennie Bengough since his return from Hartford on June 4, and his mental treatments have prepared him for abuse from the fans when he takes the field.

Second-Stringer In NCAA Limelite

OMAHA (UPI) — A team that lost its top pitcher through an NCAA eligibility ruling, but won three straight college world series baseball games on the strength of its pitching, goes against Western Michigan tonight.

Doug Gulick, who zoomed into the top pitching slot when Ernie Nevers was declared ineligible, was expected to start for Missouri. Dick Sosnowski, another second-stringer who suddenly found himself in the spotlight, takes the hill for the Broncos.

Power-hitting Southern California squares off with Holy Cross for the second time in the double elimination tournament.

Weill Makes Pitch For Harris-Floyd

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Al Weill, the former New York promoter who managed Rocky Marciano to the heavyweight title, makes his pitch today, against heated local opposition, for permission to stage a title bout between champion Floyd Patterson and Roy Harris, the Texas challenger.

Weill goes before the California state Athletic Commission to present a formal application for a promoter's license, braving the hard stares of those he calls the "jealous" local promoters.

Weill said he will post the required bond for the projected Aug. 4 fight between Patterson and Harris from the Texas town of Cut and Shoot.

Signed contracts of both fighters, he said, will also be deposited with the commission.

Harris and his manager, Lou Viscusi, were due to attend the meeting.

Before leaving Houston Monday night, Viscusi said he and his fighter who is just out of the Army, are hopeful of overcoming local opposition to the bout.

"The other promoters out there are fighting this thing hard," he said. "They are afraid a heavy-weight championship fight will hurt the gate for their fights."

Local fights which could be affected by the heavyweight bout include the Pete Rademacher-Zora Foley fight scheduled for July 24; and the Carmen Basilio-Aragon fight scheduled for late August.

Patterson's manager Cus D'Amato indicated he will go along with Weill on his plans. D'Amato, an ardent foe of the International Boxing Club, has held Patterson's title on ice since the champion knocked out amateur Rademacher last August in Seattle.

Tim Tam Has 50-50

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Kentucky Derby champion Tim Tam was scheduled to go under the knife today in an operation on his painful leg injury that was seen having about a 50-50 chance of restoring him to racing.

Dr. Jacques Jenny, associate professor at the University of Pennsylvania's school of veterinary medicine who was to head the team conducting the operation, warned that it was difficult to predict the outcome.

Phillips Pops Kempa By 5-1

Phillips koyed Kempa Humble, 5-1, Monday night behind the steady hurling of Ray Cotter.

Cotter posted six strikeouts and chipped in with a double for Phillips. Teammate Ben Sparks, who played shortstop, poked a solo homer for the Phillips crew in the second inning, off starter Frank Kempa.

Ray Moore finished up for the Humble outfit on the hill, relieving Kempa.

Lila Misses Top Flight By 1 Stroke

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — Defending champion Meriam Baile of Northwestern University opens her defense of her title in the Women's Collegiate golf tournament today.

Miss Bailey was one of 16 collegians who qualified Monday for the match play tourney. Twenty-eight other golfers failed to qualify.

BAD BREAK

Pampa's Lila Austin barely missed the Championship Flight. She fired an 88 here Monday and it took an 88 to qualify for the top flight. Her sister, Shirley, shot a 112. Both girls are representing Odesa Junior College.

But Clifford Ann Creed of La Mar Tech in Texas stole some of Miss Bailey's glory by firing a two-over-par 75 over the tough Iowa State College course to win medalist honors in the qualifying round. Miss Bailey shot an 80.

Miss Creed, who skipped a practice round Sunday, played consistently on her first try on the course to edge National Amateur champion Jo Anne Gunderson, Arizona State, who had a 76.

Judy Kimball, a Sioux City, Iowa, golfer attending the University of Kansas, finished third with a 77.

Highland Notches 3rd Straight, Tops Tom Rose, 15-11

Highland Lumber enjoyed two healthy seven-run innings Monday evening to spank Motor Inn, 15-11, in a free-scoring Little Farm League game at SFA Park.

It was Highland's third win without a loss.

Highland took a 7-0 lead in the top of the second only to watch Motor Inn spike home plate with seven tallies of their own in the home half of the second.

The Highlanders, however, struck for seven more tallies in the sixth to put the game on ice. Larry Stephens and John Clark combined pitching talents to post the win while Thompson and Emmitt Saltzman hurled for the losers.

In another Little Farm League contest Monday, Radcliff Supply trounced Tom Rose Oldsmobile, 22-9, as Ronald Goodwin posted the win with a 12 strikeout performance. Ronnie Browning absorbed the setback.

GK Inc. tripped Sportsman Store, 12-1, with Allen Wilson picking up the win and Bob Ellis taking the loss in the third Farm Loop tilt Monday.

Looks Like Pancho The One To Beat

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Defending champion Pancho Gonzalez of Los Angeles and Australia's Ken Rosewall, the last unbeaten players in the field, bid for their third straight victories tonight in Jack Kramer's $15,000 round robin pro tennis championship.

Gonzales was a strong favorite against last-place Rex Hartwig of Australia but Rosewall faces a toughie in Frank Sedgman, another Aussie, who lost his only match to rookie pro Lew Hoad.

Hoad was knocked off himself Monday night by twice-beaten Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2, and dropped to third place with a 2-1 record.

Rosewall trimmed Pancho Segurik of Ecuador, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1 for his first place tie with Gonzalez in a field of seven top professionals.

Tokyo Joe Finally Gets Ring Decision

It took a month to do it. But Tokyo Joe finally salvaged a win in Monday night wrestling here at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club.

However, Tokyo doesn't feel much like cheering today. He's too battered and bruised.

In the main event last night, Tokyo split the first two falls with Iron Mike DeBaise. As he left the ring following the second fall, however, the Great Zorro, who had whipped Bob Elliott in the semifinal match, crashed a spectator's chair over Joe's head, and that was all for the Jap.

He couldn't master the strength to return to the ring, but officials awarded him a disqualification victory over Iron Mike for Zorro's interference. Tokyo Joe had lost a similar match only last week when Iron Mike stepped in trying to give him a hand against Dory Funk.

In the opener, the Great Bolo, a substitute for Angelo Savoldi, fought to a draw with Ricky Romero.

School Totalitarianism

During the past several weeks, a House Education and Labor subcommittee has been holding open hearing on various and sundry measures aimed at providing federal taxes for local government schools. The Congressional hopper has been virtually jammed with a whole series of would-be laws, which aim at providing federal funds for construction, federal funds for scholarships, federal exemptions for educational moneys to be spent, federal funds for increasing teachers' salaries, and so forth.

During these hearings, the National Education Assn. and all those favorable to federal aid and control of the nation's school systems, have had ample opportunity to present their side of the story. It has been announced that those opposed to more of this federal control and dominance of the nation's schools would have an opportunity to express their views late in May.

However, in a surprise move, and one that is highly unethical, the leftwing members of the subcommittee suddenly approved one of the bills (that dealing with school construction) without waiting to hear the negative side of the story.

The negative side, incidentally, has been very well prepared and documented and proves conclusively that federal aid for construction programs in the various states is not only not needed but is, in the main, unwanted. This testimony was not heard. Instead, the proponents of ever more socialism and government control of our already sadly saturated school, pulled a quickie and sent this measure to the full committee, which is now very likely to bring it up on the floor of Congress for passage.

This is not the only event which places the nation's educational system in even greater peril than existed heretofore. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has drafted a new measure calling for the expenditure of more than a billion dollars. The major feature of this bill, which undoubtedly will get favorable treatment from the collectivists in the congressional committee, is that at least three quarters of the money to be taken from the American people by force and violence is arbitrarily to be used to increase the salaries of teachers.

According to Congressman Ralph Gwinn, who analyzed the measure, "more than three-quarters of the money authorized by this measure is to be doled out to the states to pay salaries of high school mathematics and science teachers. Up to $150 million per year is to be spent directly by the government—to be matched by the states in the usual grant-in-aid fashion—to employ additional science or mathematics teachers, or to increase the salaries of those already employed."

Then, Mr. Gwinn points out, the bill also provides that those states which already have increased the salaries of teachers or are about to do so, independent of federal action, will not be cut in on this lush melon of the educationists.

The purpose is clearly to foster federal control of the nation's school arm.

Now this whole putsch toward a federal totalitarianism respecting schools has been carefully timed. As the news comes through respecting each of the enormously costly bills, Robert M. Hutchins, president of the fund for the Republic and a former chancellor of the University of Chicago, has caused an article to appear in Esquire Magazine which carries out the thinking of collectivists without notable exceptions.

Mr. Hutchins is not content with the bureau of Health, Education and Welfare and the tremendous spending program it advocates.

He wants to see the total power in the hands of the federal government. Says Hutchins: "Our government has illustrated its apparent contempt for the importance of education by the position of the Office of Education, a subordinate bureau engaged in the preparation of rather unreliable statistics in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare." This won't do at all, as Mr. Hutchins sees it.

He wants a "National Education Act, voted into law by Congress," which would cut out all pretense and place all schools under immediate federal control. He sees this as having "sensational consequences."

The public ought, by these separate, yet pyramiding events, to realize just what it is up against in the education business. First, the proponents of more federal control don't want to hear opposing arguments. Second, they are making a mammoth bid for total control of all schools. Third, they wish, in Hutchins opinion, to "declare the national responsibility for education for those willing and able to learn."

Whatever interest or control parents may have had in the past respecting their children's education is to go by the board. As an American, each child is supposedly to become the property of the federal government with the government itself assuming full responsibility for that child's education in channels pleasing to the government.

If these various moves or any appreciable part of them are successful, where will we go in this country to find a free and nongovernment owned, yet thoroughly trained mind?

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
Reader Questions My Way
Of Compelling Employer To Increase Wages

In the last issue I reproduced part of a letter from F. E. Buck, asking several questions on what "respecting creative energy" meant. I had contended that this was the best way to force an employer to raise wages. I attempted to answer him. I continue to quote from his letter:

"In order to benefit its owner," Mr. Hoiles writes, "capital has to be distributed." Assuming that by accumulated capital he means money in the bank, and by distributing it he means spending it, I begin to see what he means. He certainly means for the employer to spend the surplus capital, not the worker. But then Mr. Hoiles writes, "If it is put into tools then the owner of the tools has to bid against other employers to get employees to operate these tools, and this bidding against other employers compels the employer to raise wages in order to keep his employees."

"(1) Granting for the sake of argument that this hypothesis is sound and would work providing the employer had the good sense and foresight to invest in tools of production and distribution, what evidence have we to assume that he would always do so?"

"(2) What is there to hinder him from squandering his profits on gambling tables at Reno?"

"(3) Or what is to hinder him from buying a million dollars worth of productive pasture land and turning it into a private non-productive dude ranch?"

"(4) And what is to hinder our hypothetical employer from spending a few million buying up antique curios and 'priceless' art collections?"

"(5) What of the man who takes his capital out of the country and invests it in Arabian desert oil wells, and the profits from which may or may not even enter our domestic economy?"

"(6) What evidence is there that he will not just foolishly hoard it as many men of wealth have done down through the years, leaving vast sums to their children and even great grandchildren?"

"(7) While it is true that any money he spends would tend to stimulate the over-all economy, by the same token wouldn't this be true if any portion of this money were spent by his employees without whom his money never would have been produced?"

Answers
I have numbered his questions so that I can answer them by number.

(1) There is no evidence that the employer would always invest his profits in tools. However, if he realizes that there is no greater pleasure than the pleasure of accomplishment and that it is more blessed to give than to receive, he is not likely to squander his profits. He also would know it is a bad example for his children. Of course, all persons are fallible. However, if there were no persons of means to buy new luxuries like autos, airplanes, televisions, etc., when they were in their experimental stages and high priced the man with small means would never be able to have these things that have now become necessities for most people in U. S. The luxuries of the rich are the roadways to progress. If there were no rich buying new things that seem to be foolish at that time, there would be mighty little progress. Besides, does not every man have the right to spend what he has acquired on a voluntary basis by benefiting others, as he sees fit. If he does not who has the right to coerce him as to how he should use what was his own? Should it be left up to the labor unions or the government?

(2) If he squanders his profits by gambling, he would simply be transferring his wealth to another. There would be no real wealth lost.

(3) If he did not use his pasture land in a way to benefit mankind, taxes would eat it up. The man sold the pasture land would have the money that could be invested in tools.

(4) There is nothing to hinder him from buying antiques and curios, but if the government or the labor union takes away a man's right to use his property as he believes will make him happy, he will not produce and everyone will suffer.

(5) If he takes his wealth out of the country where it will increase more rapidly than any other place, that will benefit all mankind. He will not be inclined to do that unless he believes by so doing he will increase his wealth faster and thus benefit himself and at the same time the world. And just who should have the power to restrict a man from using his wealth the way he believes best?

(6) If a man cannot leave his wealth to his children or to those he wants to leave it to, he will not be so likely to create wealth. And even if he leaves it to his children, they will distribute it. And if he tries to hoard it he will lose it by depreciation and obsolescence. If he hides his dollars they will burn up paper dollars he will injure no one. Other dollars will buy more.

(7) The man who gets his wealth on a voluntary basis is much more likely to use it wisely than workers or politicians who get their wages on an involuntary basis by threats of strikes or by taxation. Of course, there would be no wealth without employees, nor would there be wealth, even to support employees, if there were no tools — no capital. Most of us would starve to death if it were not for accumulation of tools.

"Yet," Mr. Stratton said, "I think he is the smartest of the bunch."

George Stratton And His Relations With Roosevelt

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES — And so, after all these years, we met. I sat at lunch with George Stratton, on his first day in circulation in more than 18 months of confinement in his house. Mr. Stratton, a Texan, vivacious and beautiful, was plainly anxious for quick little warnings of overstrain. Mr. Stratton is an oil man, a pioneer producer of the big, modern passenger planes now fading into antiquity, and a survivor of strenuous business relations with Elliott Roosevelt.

In Bill Thompson's regime in Chicago, he was commissioner of police. He sold the first automobile ever sold on instalments in Chicago and was punished by the trade for that unconventional act that year and saluted by the same associates for the same innovation the next. He has been around.

George Stratton was pouring forth with lusty amusement and earthy scorn which seemed to stimulate his spirits, the story of the beautiful Arabian stallion, Hatal, a nameless Arab colt and three mares that crossed Texas, Arizona and California in a freight car during the military traffic jam of the Pacific Campaign and plopped down on his farm outside Los Angeles.

These steeds were a gift of King Ibn Saud to Franklin D. Roosevelt. They came ashore on the Gulf Coast, whether at Houston or what other port Mr. Stratton does not remember. Like Blaze, Elliott's rogue mastiff which bumped the U.S. seal off a military plane from Washington to Los Angeles, the horses got priority on the Southern Pacific to Los Angeles while MacArthur and other commanders in the Pacific waited for the gear to get on their way.

Elliott and Faye Emerson already had encamped in the Strattons' "other" house as their honeymoon cottage. Stratton already had staked the invertebrate bridegroom to $20 for pocket-money for the wedding on the Grand Canyon at dawn. Blaze had moved in with the happy couple and so badly defiled the interior of Mrs. Stratton's personal sedan that she hosed it out as best she could and tried to forget it.

Now Elliott phoned Mr. Stratton that he needed grazing and barn-room for five horses. All three mares were with foal and all five horses were weak and scrawny. Two of the foals were born dead. "Somewhere" Mr. Stratton has a bill of sale or deed of gift from Ibn Saud to President Roosevelt, but otherwise there is no clear title to any of them. Mrs. Stratton pines for Hatal, so gentle, so personal and good, now living on Eugene Starr's place. The colt made no special impression. The mares were sold up in Oregon long ago. Hatal is still at stud and his last five get have been colts. He is 18 years old.

Elliott and Faye spent eight months in the Strattons' house and Mrs. Stratton is not reticent. Faye wanted to "decorate" some rooms with a wallpaper of "paid" design. Mrs. Stratton vetoed that, but did consent to some other novelties. When she got her horse back, Blaze had committed "foul excesses and the lovers, themselves, had been so indifferent to Mrs. Stratton's standards of tidiness that she was shocked and permanently estranged. Elliott also had run up a little chit of $8.90 in casual borrowings.

Nevertheless, Mr. Stratton said, Elliott came to him within three months after his father died wanting to borrow $80,000 to buy out the other heirs to Hyde Park so that he and his mother could go into the Christmas-tree business. Mr. Stratton asked about security. Elliott said he and his mother would give their personal notes. Mr. Stratton did not have $80,000 available for this purpose.

"Yet," Mr. Stratton said, "I think he is the smartest of the bunch."

But couldn't almost anyone with that gall make money given the power and prestige of the White House? Perhaps so, Mr. Stratton said. But still, Elliott was very aggressive; Elliott had great imagination. Nothing daunted him.

Mr. Starr had joined the table for coffee. He now owns the great Arab stallion, Hatal. But again, he may not own him. Not without that official paper from Ibn Saud to President Roosevelt.

It is "around somewhere." It must be "around." But Stratton has been ill so long, he can't pass title to Mr. Starr, although, of course, he would defend that title.

Mr. Starr looked up gravely from his coffee.

"Looks as though I might have a stolen horse," he said. "I was born in Tucson. I remember what they used to do to horse thieves over here."

To Free Government
Regimentation Destructive
Nothing is so destructive to free government as regimentation. Enforced conformity of any kind, and particularly in the public schools, is a powerful factor working toward the destruction of American institutions.

If our children are forced to conform to a single educational system, with no differing orientations in accordance with differing practices and ideologies, we shall develop a mass common-denominator type of citizen, lacking the variations that are necessary to bring forth or to maintain a rich culture.

If we develop a standardized mind through uniform education; a common type of thinking through standardized government propaganda; mass circulation magazines and blanket radio and television coverage; a common dependence upon government assistance of all kinds, including conformity to standardized provisions for retirement, and maintenance in case of accident or disaster, we shall become a standardized herd of humanity — easy prey for manipulators and would-be dictators.

One of the safeguards against this powerful tendency is variety in education. The greater the number of private schools with differing emphases and ideologies and under a variety of sponsorships, religious and otherwise, the more likely we are to maintain our pronounced individuality and to preserve our initiative and self-reliance. Schools conducted by Lutherans, Episcopalians, Methodists, Quakers and Catholics will all be different, as will those conducted by Jews or Atheists. Let parents have the right of choosing the kind of schools they want their children to attend. We will then be sure of continued differentiation in taste, cultural emphasis, methods of teaching self control and achieving individual character.

If we are to have public schools, let them be under local management insofar as possible. Until recent times, a local School Board controlled each school. There was no mass conformity to some overall pattern-laid down in the State

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

"I was told," writes A. P., "that parakeets are undesirable for pets in the home, as they carry germs. I should like your opinion as to whether the diseases they carry are communicable to human beings."

I would not go so far as to say parakeets are undesirable as home pets for those who like them. However, SICK parakeets are undesirable.

These birds belong to a group, including parrots and love birds, which may harbor a virus which can attack human beings and cause a disease called ornithosis, or psittacosis. Naturally, those birds free of the virus cannot spread the disease.

Psittacosis is not a new disease. In 1922, 76 cases were reported in the United States alone, with seven deaths during that year.

Fewer cases of the disease appeared for several years thereafter, principally because of the activities of the U.S. Public Health Service which quarantined sick birds and banned their shipment from foreign countries to the United States and from state to state.

In 1951 the regulations for parakeets, parrots and love birds were relaxed and there has been a considerable increase in the number of such birds sold for household pets.

Unfortunately, this has been followed by an increase in the number of cases of psittacosis. There is reason for believing that many cases of psittacosis are not reported because the disease may be confused with other human disorders caused by viruses.

Since psittacosis carries risks for life as well as to the general health, more rigid enforcement of quarantine and other health regulations seems desirable. Every prospective buyer of birds should be assured that the birds are free of disease.

In an editorial in the New England Journal of Medicine two or three years ago, it was said that, since it appears unlikely that the disease will be entirely eliminated, several suggestions are in order.

All persons, the editorial pointed out, who acquire birds as pets or work with them should be made aware of the risk of psittacosis, even with birds appearing healthy. Danger of the disease is not eliminated by the addition of a certain chemical to the drinking water, which is a practice apparently used by some bird dealers.

It was suggested that doctors should be more suspicious of the possibility of psittacosis in illnesses involving chills, cough, fever and the like.

Capital or in Washington. Individuality flourished. The schools of that time were, in many respects, like private schools. They lacked the standardization which has come during recent decades.

Our Constitution does not authorize the Federal Government to exercise any function in connection with education except for defense. There should be no usurpation of power by Washington at this or any other point. Let the States be careful not to standardize their own school systems. Let each local School Board exercise a large measure of control over what shall be taught, what books shall be used, and what kind of teachers shall be employed. In that manner many of the advantages of private schools can be retained in a public school system, and the evils of standardization avoided.

Civilization cannot be developed or maintained on a basis of uniform human beings. That type of society lends itself readily to manipulation and in times of crisis will almost certainly fall a prey to the dictator. Individuality and diversification are essential if we are to remain free.

The Anti-Picnickers Of America Are Bitter

Most minorities in this country are given a good hearing, and stand a much better chance of having some, if not all, of their grievances settled to their satisfaction.

That is why the Anti-Picnickers of America are so bitter. They form one minority which the vast majority of Americans have no patience with, and for whom nothing is done.

The Anti-Picnickers, as their name strongly suggests, are against picnics. Not for other than their own sake. Anyone else can go off in the woods and eat hard-boiled eggs and stale sandwiches as often as he likes, just so long as he doesn't insist that the Anti-Picnicker come along, too. Or take his refusal to come along as an insult, or as a weakness of character.

Anti-Picnickers have a hard time making themselves believed. Most people just won't believe that a man really means it when he says he can't see the sense, say in driving eighty miles to eat cold food under a tree, or from a wooden table located a few yards off a highway.

There is something born in most Americans that makes them want to eat in a cleared spot in the woods or, better, still, tucked away in the underbrush. It's probably a hang-over from the days when such spots were the only places their pioneer ancestors had to eat.

The Anti-Picnickers also feels that the drive back home, after a day in the woods, or under the sun, through traffic that would exasperate a turtle, is enough to make the picnic illegal. Tired, sun-burned, or scratched, or both weary, disheveled and itchy, he can't help but resent having been pulled away from his own cool, comfortable home.

He resents picnic food, too. The ladies' magazines make it look awfully attractive with their colored pictures, but it never turns out that way. These pictures of picnic food, by the way, are usually snapped in a studio, or in a kitchen, and not after they have traveled miles down the highway. If picnic food was the best a restaurant offered, it wouldn't be open a week. People would walk blocks to make sure to miss it.

The Anti-Picnicker also fails to see why sitting on the ground around a tablecloth that flaps about with each gust of wind is considered such a treat. Why, he wants to know, isn't a dining table more comfortable? What's wrong with a good chair for sitting purposes? And what is the charm of a paper plate, or half-cold coffee, or iced tea that lost its chill somewhere between home and the place you turn off to reach the rustic picnic grounds?

Another thing is the loading of the car. The Anti-Picnicker fails to find any joy in lugging all the picnic gear from the house to the car, putting it in and then taking it out to rearrange it. And it has to be taken out of the car at the end of the day, which is just when a man feels the least like wrestling with boxes, hampers and dirty linen.

But a man who stands firm against the picnic is looked upon as a misfit, an un-proper American, a bad family man, a spoil sport, a jerk. Unfortunately, there is usually no more than one Anti-Picnicker in a family. This means he is always outvoted, never has anyone to stand up for him, or to sympathize with him.

DOG SHOTS MAN
SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — A dog shot his master dead during a hunting trip, authorities reported today. William McKenzie, 40, was shot by his dog, a large black and white pointer, while hunting kangaroos Monday with his pet dog, was standing outside his truck with a loaded shotgun lying on the seat. The dog accidentally stepped on the gun's trigger, causing the gun to discharge. The shot hit McKenzie in the side, SUICIDE IN JAPAN
TOKYO (UPI) — A suicide occurred in Japan at the rate of one every 24 seconds last year, the Welfare Ministry on Population reported today. The announcement said 21,900 persons took their own lives during 1957 to make suicide the No. 10 killer in Japan. Nervous breakdowns, family troubles and boredom were listed as major causes, the report said.

BIRD IS READY
VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Lockheed's new "Bird," a faster version of the X-7 missile, was ready for the Air Force today a month ahead of schedule. The 37-foot, air-breathing missile will be tested from a B50 bomb bay at the Air Force's Missile Development Center at Alamogordo, N.M. Lockheed said the missile is equipped with a parachute and a nose spike, enabling it to be recovered and flown again. Each recovery would save $350,000.

THIRTY-DAY FORECAST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The northeastern quarter of the nation will enjoy cooler than normal weather in the coming 30 days, but above normal temperatures will prevail in the West and Gulf areas, the Weather Bureau forecast Monday. The 30-day outlook from mid-June to mid-July said the coolest weather will center in the Great Lakes region. The bureau reported heavier than normal rainfall in the Southern and Central Plains and also in the South Atlantic states. Less than normal rainfall is anticipated in the Great Lakes region and west of the Rocky Mountains.

MADE IN CHINA — Communist Chinese boss Mao Tse-tung (second from right) examines the first automobile to be made in China. Somewhat reminiscent of a 1935 Ford, it's called the "East Wind." The maroon six-seater was newly arrived in Peiping from Manchuria, where it was turned out by the No. 1 Motor Vehicle Plant in Changchun.

Farm Magazine's Readers Prefer Free Market System

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI FARM EDITOR

A Southern farm magazine, Farm and Ranch, has reported a poll of its readers shows nearly nine out of 10 in favor of a free, supply-and-demand system in agriculture.

The magazine circulates in 17 Southern states. The results of its poll are based on about 2,000 replies to a questionnaire.

In these 2,000 replies, 87½ per cent of the answers were in favor of a free market agriculture with a minimum of government interference.

Fifty-five per cent of the replies said Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson is doing a good job. The magazine, in an editorial, said the poll may indicate a sharp change in thinking by Southern farmers, a change that hasn't been recognized yet by most politicians.

On Capitol Hill: Several Democratic members of the House Agriculture Committee are pondering plans to introduce a bill allowing cotton farmers to sell their acreage allotments.

Some of these lawmakers had intended to try to get this provision into an omnibus farm bill approved by the House Committee last Friday. The plans were dropped, however, because the omnibus bill was already too long and complicated. The Congressmen didn't want to complicate it further with what might be another controversial issue.

So the allotment sale issue was put aside for the moment, but not forgotten. Some of its backers will now try to get support for the bill with the idea of getting it passed as a separate measure.

On The Business Scene

Industrial production rose slightly in May, reversing an eight-month decline, according to the Federal Reserve Board. It ascribed the upturn to a "small industries which have suffered gain" in activity in durable goods recorded its seventh consecutive most from the slump.

Although elated by June operations, steelmakers expect operations to hit the skids in July. Steel magazine reported. The magazine "grim" even though steelmaking described the outlook for July as advance last week.

Workers drawing unemployment compensation fell by 65,300 in the week ended May 31, the Labor Department reported. This brought the total down to 2,827,600 the lowest since early January. The department cited as the reason for the downturn seasonal gains in employment, recalls of laid-off workers and exhaustion benefits.

James Lees & Sons Co. trimmed carpet prices 3½ per cent because of lower wool costs and most other carpet producers are expected to follow.

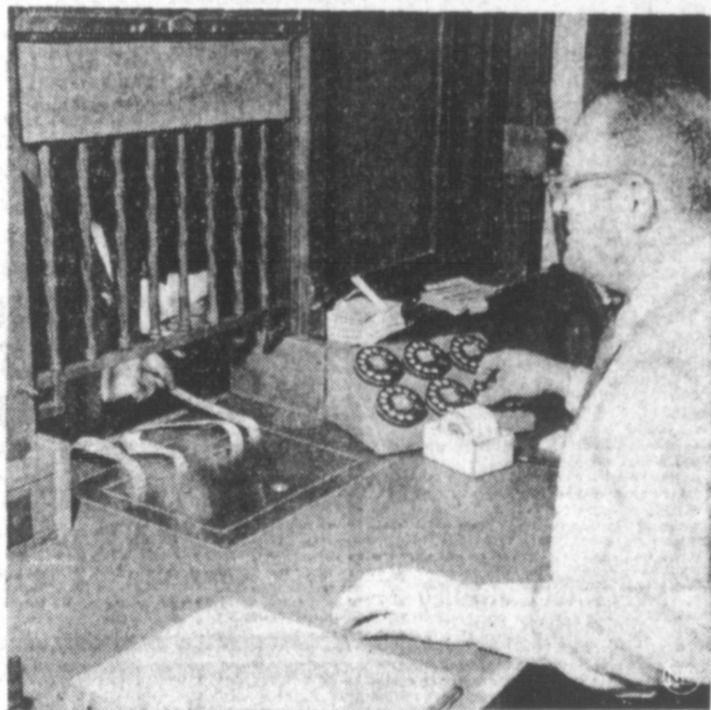

The Treasury, in a final report on its recent $9,550,000,000 refinancing, said holders of three maturing issues exchanged all but $56 million dollars worth of their securities for two new Treasury issues offered. Subscriptions for a new 2½ per cent bond totaled $7,384,371,500. The balance of the rollover, $1,815,261,000, went into a 1¼ per cent certificate.

At Manhattan, Kan., Agriculture Department scientists have been experimenting with the use of lindane to protect wheat and corn from insects.

The scientists have now issued a preliminary report saying the dosages of lindane they have been using — up to 10 parts per million — are not high enough to protect the grain over a year or more.

Furthermore, their report said, chemical residues remain in the wheat and wheat flour when lindane is used.

No official tolerances have been set for lindane treatment of stored grain, and the USDA says the chemical should not be used for that purpose by farmers or grain men.

US Expedition Says There Is An 'Abominable Snowman'

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—An American expedition which set out to find the abominable snowman reported today the creature "is no more a myth—but hard truth."

Members of the U.S. team did not see the creature which Himalayan natives swear exists, but former California Prof. Norman G. Dhyrenfurth reported a "reliable" native Sherpa guide saw one.

The team returned late Sunday night from a four-month trek through the Himalaya Mountains near Mt. Everest seeking the hairy half-man.

Dhyrenfurth said that while "our investigations are still unfinished, we want to declare that the yeti," as the Tibetans call the snowman, "is no more a myth—but hard truth."

For years Nepalese mountain folk have told legends of the "yeti," which is usually described as a hairy creature bigger than man.

grown-up man," Dhyrenfurth said. "We have returned with definite proofs of the yeti's existence in the Himalayas."

He said one of the expedition's "responsible, reliable" Sherpa guides reported sighting "one four 4-foot yeti collecting frogs in a rivulet."

Dhyrenfurth said the guide reported the creature chased him when caught in a flashlight beam.

Dava Temba (the guide) ran to inform us—but we found the yeti gone by the time we had marched one mile to the spot," the professor said.

"I visited caves in which the yeti lived and collected droppings, hair and enough other proofs to convince scientists about its presence," Dhyrenfurth said.

"Our investigations showed they (yeti) were of two varieties, one about 10 to 12 feet tall, and the other smaller—about 4 to 5 feet high."

Money Running Out For 'Hopper Control Program

AUSTIN (UPI)—Agriculture Commissioner John White said today money is running out for the state's emergency grasshopper control program in the Panhandle.

White said additional spraying crews likely would be sent to the Panhandle this week to join some 25 state men who are working with federal forces on the project.

However, White said, "Our emergency funds for insect control are being rapidly depleted."

"We are spending over $3,000 a week now in salaries, alone, on grasshoppers, not including the fire ant control work in East Texas. If more crews are used in the Panhandle, the salaries and other expenses may exhaust our available money in about 10 days," White pointed out.

White said he was awaiting a report from Gov. Price Daniel, who flew to the Panhandle today to make a personal inspection.

"We should know in a few days whether or not additional money will be available from the Governor's office," he said.

"State funds are being spent primarily on spraying of highway right-of-way in cooperation with county and federal governments. However, as a 'courtesy measure' some of our men are assisting in aerial spraying of privately-owned farm and ranch land," White said.

Nigeria annually exports about 100,000 tons of chocolate beans or 15 per cent of the world production.

Senate Passes Property Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today legislation authorizing Kerr county, Tex., to use 90 acres of land for recreational purposes without having the property revert to the federal government under a previous agreement.

The land, formerly part of a veterans hospital, was sold in 1962 with the understanding it would revert to the United States when no longer used for the agricultural purposes.
