

5,000 Battle-Ready US Marines Land At Beirut

Sent To Protect US Lives

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — The United States intervened by force of arms today in the swiftly spreading Mideastern crisis.

More than 5,000 battle-ready U. S. Marines, acting on direct orders from President Eisenhower, landed at Beirut, Lebanon, to protect American lives and prevent that little revolt-torn nation from suffering the same fate that befell Iraq and "martyred" members of its government.

The U.S. action was taken with the "full support" of Britain.

The Marines streamed ashore from the U.S. 6th Fleet — the world's most powerful — under cover of war planes from the U.S. carrier Essex.

The President's action was taken at the direct request of Lebanese President Camille Chamoun to protect Lebanon against "indirect aggression."

"Not Act of War"
It was the first landing of U.S. troops in such force and circumstances since the Korean War and it came amid new war fears unprecedented since Korea and the dying days of the war in Indochina.

It was touched off by Monday's surprise revolt in Iraq which toppled the government of 23-year-old King Feisal and faced the Western world with the danger of a conflagration which could spread to Jordan and Lebanon, eventually engulfing Israel and the whole of the Middle East.

President Eisenhower said the U.S. forces had "not been sent as any act of war" but that they would demonstrate to the world this nation's concern "for the independence and integrity of Lebanon, which we deem vital to the national interest and world peace."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said today it has received unconfirmed reports that two American businessmen were killed Monday by a mob in Iraq.

The Security Council was summoned into session today at U.S. request.

Challenge to Russia
A message from the rebel Iraq regime today demanded that the meeting be delayed until a new Iraqi delegate could arrive to replace Iraqi Ambassador Abdul Majid Abbas. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold rejected the request.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge informed the council of the troop landings and said the forces would be withdrawn "as soon as the United Nations can take over." Lodge also informed the council that veteran United Nations diplomat Fadil Al-Jamali was murdered in the Iraqi insurrection and his body dragged through the streets of Baghdad.

The American action amounted to a challenge to Russia and to the United Arab Republic of President Gamal Abdel Nasser whose government immediately recognized the revolutionary Iraq regime headed by leftist Brig. Gen. Abdul Karim Kassem.

Other developments in the grave new crisis:

Baghdad: The rebel-controlled Baghdad Radio first offered a $20,000 reward for the capture of former Premier Nuri Es-Said, but later said he had been shot and killed while trying to escape, disguised as a woman. The fate of King Feisal still was in doubt. The rebel regime imposed a strict curfew and banned groups of more than four to five persons.

Beirut: The 2,500 American Marines were ordered to assemble in a Beirut suburb. But the Pentagon in Washington said there were "no plans at present" to take them out of the country. U.S. Ambassador Robert G. McClintock (See MARINES Page 2)

City To Get Radar Gear

City Commissioners gave City Manager John Koonz permission to buy new radar equipment for Pampa. Koonz said that the radar equipment would be purchased from the Texas Supply Co. of Dallas.

The commissioners were all in agreement that the new radar equipment would help save many lives in Pampa and cut down speeding on some of the city streets.

The commissioners also voted to pay half of the cost of the storm siren now in use in Pampa. The total cost of the siren is $632.29. The City will pay $316.15.

LEBANESE FIGHTING

Two Lebanese government soldiers race over open ground for cover under heavy fire during an advance on a rebel position in Ainab. Note mud being shot skywards between the two soldiers.

AND WAITING

Lebanese rebels, some armed with new rifles, defend a position on a back street during recent fighting in the old quarter of Tripoli. The rebels had heavy sandbag fortresses blocking many of the key back-streets, and were well defended against government soldiers.

FACES CONTEMPT CHARGE!

Goldfine Remains Mum On Questions

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millionaire Bernard Goldfine, in the face of an almost certain contempt charge, today stuck by his refusal to answer questions of House investigators about his tangled financial dealings.

The gift-giving friend of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams said the House influence inquiry should be halted while a federal judge decides if the questions are relevant to the probe. His suggestion was rejected.

Goldfine was called to face a showdown on his refusal to answer 22 questions by the subcommittee members. He said again today that they were not relevant.

The textile tycoon read into the record a statement originally offered by his Boston attorney, Samuel P. Sears. The lawyer had been prevented from delivering the full statement and Goldfine was allowed to read it after he swore that he spent two hours to help prepare the document.

Sears charged that the subcommittee's questions were aimed solely at "embarrassing and exposing alleged derelictions of Mr. Goldfine" and at laying groundwork for a contempt proceeding against him.

Meanwhile agents of the Internal Revenue Service were conducting a new inquiry into the federal tax returns of the textile tycoon for some of the years he was generously paying bills for Adams and other public officials.

Government tax sleuths were reluctant to discuss their new explorations of Goldfine's harassed financial affairs. But United Press International was able to determine these facts:

—Because of his testimony that he took as business deductions amounts spent on Adams and other federal employees, the IRS is subjecting the returns involved to microscopic re-examination.

—Internal Revenue officials in Boston are probing to determine why Goldfine did not make a tax return for 1956. Harry Cavanaugh, the district collector, reported that to his knowledge no return for that year has been filed nor has his office been notified such a return was filed elsewhere.

Rackets Group Hard At Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee staff is already at work on legislative proposals to correct conditions exposed by its current underworld hearings, it was disclosed today.

Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) has ordered suggestions prepared for committee study within the next one to three weeks.

He said the proposals might be ready by Friday when the inquiry into alleged gangster infiltration of labor and management groups in the Chicago restaurant business.

If not, he said, they probably will be made public two weeks later after hearings involving reputed criminal elements in the Detroit area.

Kennedy conceded there is no chance for action on new labor laws. The Senate last month approved a labor reform bill based on the committee's findings last year but it is still bogged down in the House.

UN Security Council Gets Call; Lebanon Asks Help

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States summoned the United Nations Security Council into session today, presumably to inform it that American troops were being sent to Lebanon and Jordan.

Britain also may inform the council it is sending troops to the Middle East in answer to appeals from Lebanese President Camille Chamoun and Jordanian King Nassein.

The urgent calls for help were understood to have been dispatched Monday shortly after supporters of United Arab Republic

President Gamal Abdel Nasser overthrew King Feisal of Iraq.

France also was understood to have been asked for help by Chamoun and Hussein but most of its troops are busy fighting the rebellion in Algeria. The French have given no indication of what answer they will make.

Acting swiftly at the request of President Eisenhower, the U. S. delegation arranged the Security Council meeting.

Lodge To Present Case

American sources here would not say precisely what the council would be asked to do, but other informed diplomats expected the United States to serve notice its troops were going into the Middle East under "self-defense" provisions of the U. N. charter.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was rushed by the Coast Guard from his yacht, on which he was vacationing off the coast of Maine, and flew here late Monday night to put the facts before the council in its most serious session since the Suez Canal crisis of 1956.

The United States, to avoid the red tape of having the council adopt a new agenda item, which could lead to procedural filibustering by Russia, asked the 11-nation group to meet on the Lebanese complaint that has been before it since last May 22.

That was Lebanon's complaint of intervention in its six-week-old rebellion by Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Friendly diplomats said Lodge probably would take advantage of Article 31 of the charter, which says:

"Nothing in the present charter shall impair the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense if an armed attack occurs against a member of the United Nations, until the Security Council has taken the measures necessary to maintain international peace and security."

"Measures taken by members in the exercise of this right of self-defense shall be immediately reported to the Security Council."

First US Military Move Since Korea

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower announced today that more than 5,000 U. S. Marines have landed in Lebanon to protect 2,500 American lives and help defend that revolt-torn land against "indirect aggression."

The President linked the U. S. action to the bloody overthrow of the Iraq government by pro-Nasser rebels in Baghdad Monday. He said that in Monday's coup "the lawful government" of Iraq "was violently overthrown and many of its members martyred."

Seven Ships Of 6th Fleet In Beirut Harbor

By LARRY COLLINS
United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — United States Marines landed in Lebanon today.

At least seven war ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet sailed into Beirut harbor with advance elements of more than 5,000 Marines assigned to the fleet.

The ships, including an aircraft carrier, anchored two miles offshore and sent the Marines ashore in small boats on orders from President Eisenhower to help protect Lebanon's "sovereignty and integrity" as well as American lives.

Eisenhower acted on a request from Lebanese President Camille Chamoun.

Lebanese government officials issued emergency orders to insure that there was no opposition to the U.S. Marine landing.

Heavy guards were placed at the waterfronts of Beirut and Lebanon to prevent any vessels from going to sea.

Beirut airport was closed to commercial traffic.

President Eisenhower made it clear that the landing of the Marines was an act friendly to Chamoun and "not an act of (See SEVEN Page 2)

"These forces," the President said, "have not been sent as any act of war."

He said the Marines were dispatched in response to "an urgent plea" from President Chamoun of Lebanon "to help maintain security" and "to protect American lives."

First Since Korea

Eisenhower said the American military measures in Lebanon "will be terminated" as soon as the U. N. Security Council takes the necessary action "to maintain international peace and security."

The President, who Monday called on the U. N. Security Council to act promptly in the grave Middle East crisis, said the American action was being reported formally to the emergency meeting of the council this morning.

This was the first landing of American forces on foreign soil in such numbers and under such circumstances since Korea.

Congressional leaders quickly supported the President's decision to use troops.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said "Americans will certainly unite when the security of the free world is imperiled."

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said "there was no other course to take but a course of appeasement."

To Protect Americans
The President had called in Democratic and Republican congressional leaders Monday and presumably advised them in advance of the troop decision.

Eisenhower said in a special statement that Chamoun linked the troubles in Lebanon to Monday's coup in Iraq.

NO BEARD? THE POKEY

The Beard Growing Contest, sponsored by the Pampa Jaycees, picked up speed Saturday when the Contest Jailer went up in front of the LaNora Theatre. Beardless Pampans cheerfully paid $1 for a shaving permit rather than risk imprisonment in the cage.

The beard race will hit its height during the Jaycees sponsored street dance Aug. 5. Honest Jess Williams will be in from Amarillo with his band to play for the dance and do his share of the judging.

Already bristles can be seen sprouting from once smooth chins. Beards of all shapes, sizes, colors and densities are making their appearance in downtown Pampa. Razors are becoming old fashioned and until Aug. 5, say the Jaycees, "beards will be more fashionable than the sack dress."

"This will be everybody's contest," says Contest Chairman Clyde Dickerson. Top award will go to "the most outstanding beard." The longest, shaggiest and thickest beards will each get a prize. The youngest and oldest beard growers will be in the running and the man with the neatest mustache will win a prize.

Dancing will commence at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 5 between the Court House and City Hall. Beard growers will have their moment of glory at 9:30 when judging starts. Dancing will continue until midnight with the Honest Jess Williams Band.

"Anybody who gets thrown in jail Saturday," says Dickerson, "will have to be bailed out by a friend with a dollar. But the Sub Debs will be there to make phone calls for prisoners."

Anyone without a beard and a shaving permit is in danger.

Ball money and dollars from the sale of shaving permits will go into the Pampa Youth and Community Center Building Fund, the Welfare Dental Clinic, the teenage Road-E-O and other projects of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Pampa Goes All Out For Rodeo

The Pampa Business and Professional Womens Club is now selling store front decorations in connection with the Top o' Texas Rodeo, Aug. 4-9.

This project bears no relation to the Rodeo Value Round Up, covering the same dates, B. M. Behrman of the Merchants Activities Committee, Pampa Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The merchants have planned a super value program for Rodeo week. The Round Up banners, however, will be entirely within the stores. The ones being sold by the ladies of the B&P Club will be strictly for the outside.

CONFINEMENT ON CUYLER

Bill Tarpley, no beard, no shaving permit, puts up a valiant struggle against two determined Jaycees, Jimmy Hayes, left, and Clyde Dickerson. As chairman of the Jaycee Beard Growing Contest, Dickerson is doing his best to get Tarpley into the penitentiary on Cuyler. Gene Hollar, Jaycee proxy, looks on in delight. Be it said for the diligent Jaycees—they may not have beards but they have their permits in pocket. Either one would have saved Tarpley from confinement. (News Photo)

AMERICANS IN FOREIGN HANDS—In three separate incidents in the month of June, a total of some 64 U.S. citizens were taken into custody in three foreign countries (see Newsmap above). Ransom for the eight officers and one sergeant held by E. Germany has been set tantamount to official U.S. recognition of the Communist puppet government. Cuban rebel kidnappings—of both U.S. servicemen and civilians—took place ostensibly as retaliation against claimed American aid to Cuban army planes at the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, on the south coast of rebel-infested Oriente Province. In the third incident, involving another forced landing of an American aircraft on foreign soil, Russia demands U.S. admission of "deliberate" border crossing and assurances to "prevent violations" in the future.

Missionaries Will Be Guest Speakers

A missionary couple from New Mexico will speak in the mid week prayer service of the Pampa First Baptist Church, Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor, announced today. Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson from Albuquerque, N.M., will be the guest speakers. Service time will be 7:45 p.m. The Wilsons have been missionaries to the Navajos for several years. They have been guests of the church on numerous occasions. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Wilson was a secretary in the Church office. Sunday School teachers and officers will hold their meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday, before the prayer meeting. The adult choir will rehearse, following the service, at 8:30 p.m.

The capital itself was quiet as it has been for days. The U.S. and British embassies advised all their nationals to stay off the streets in Beirut after noon. The ships in the harbor were too distant for observers to determine their nationality. Shortly after noon the U.S. embassy ordered all Americans to move into the residential area around the Commodore Hotel in Ras Beirut, a suburb where foreign residents live on a hill overlooking the city. Normal activities in Beirut were almost at a standstill. Portraits of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic appeared in greater numbers around rebel headquarters in the Basta district of the capital. Diplomatic reports reaching Beirut indicated the Iraqi rebellion so far appeared to be confined to Baghdad, the capital, with army units outside the city so far not committed.

"President Chamoun," Eisenhower said, "made clear that he considered an immediate U.S. response imperative if Lebanon's independence, already menaced from without, were to be preserved in the face of the grave developments which occurred yesterday in Baghdad whereby the lawful government was violently overthrown and many of its members martyred." The U.S. Marines were dispatched, the President said, "to protect American lives and by their presence there to encourage the Lebanese government in defense of Lebanese sovereignty and integrity." "Can't Stand Idly By" Before President Eisenhower made his announcement news dispatches from Beirut reported that at least seven warships had dropped anchor in Beirut harbor and were disembarking troops. The U.S. Embassy ordered all American nationals to assemble in a Beirut suburb. Eisenhower said there are about 2,500 Americans in Lebanon and that under the United Nations this country cannot "stand idly by" at a time when the Lebanese government "may not be able to preserve internal order and depend itself against indirect aggression." The President said the U.S. troop landing will demonstrate to the world this nation's concern "for the independence and integrity of Lebanon, which we deem vital to the national interest and world peace." Earlier this morning, the Defense Department tersely announced that an undisclosed number of military transport planes had been sent from a base in South Carolina to "an undisclosed European Air Force Base." The huge C-124 Globemasters presumably were sent to Europe to be ready in case army troops were to be sent into the Mideast. Before making his troop announcement, Eisenhower called off the regular Tuesday meeting of Republican congressional leaders at the White House to keep an eye on the crisis. The White House announced plans to call the emergency U.N. session following a 2-hour and 10-minute session late Monday with 22 congressional leaders of both parties. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and his brother, Allen W. Dulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, briefed the lawmakers on the Mideast situation and military leaders told of possible military steps that could be taken.

Water Safety Program In Final Weeks

The Red Cross Water Safety and Summer Recreation program went into its last two weeks yesterday, reports the Pampa Chapter. About 250 boys and girls will enter the beginner and intermediate classes. Beginner and advanced beginner swimmer classes received about 50 adults. Mrs. Charles Potter and Mrs. Wayne Jones, Water safety women, are teaching the adult classes. The beginner classes have Mrs. Carl Hills and Mrs. Harold Beckham as its Water Safety instructors. Mrs. Warren Jackson and Mrs. D. J. George are instructing the intermediates.

Morgan Edwards, pool manager, states that the pool will be open Saturday mornings for swimming mothers. They will pay the regular entrance fee for their morning swim.

Thirty beginners, seven swimmers and 19 intermediates completed their two weeks' training Friday and received their certificates. Marcus Sanders Pool has completed its program. Water Safety Instructor Buddy Moore gave the examinations. Roy Watts was in charge of the Marcus Sanders program.

The Chapter reports that James Diehl is the new Water Safety instructor for LeFors. Diehl has just been authorized to give the exams in the program conducted by Charles Lisensbe. This Water Safety school is in session twice a week, with beginner and intermediate classes Wednesday and Saturday.

Gene Chance is carrying on the program in the Pampa Country Club pool with Mrs. George Hofess as Water Safety instructor.

Steve Allen's Vacationing But His Subs Going Great

Television In Review
By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only a Greyhound pup named Steverino remains behind this summer on what was "The Steve Allen Show."

Allen's summer replacements, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, are wisely placing their emphasis on music instead of comedy. Their opening show on NBC-TV Sunday night proved these two youngsters, Mr. and Mrs. in private life, have what it takes to handle an hour-long show.

Aside from being fine pop singers, they bring to their work good cheer, good taste and a frightening amount of poise. Only some introductory chatter about their marriage seemed forced and uncomfortable.

Sunday night's premiere had enough electronic, musical and artistic changes of pace to make for a fast-moving hour and the sets were properly uncluttered. Guest stars Margaret O'Brien, Jackie Copper, basso buffo Salvatore Baccaloni and Shari Lewis were all given material aimed at showing them off to best advantage.

I guess Steve and Eydie will be around for a long time. All they seem to need is a fair-sized budget. They'll supply the talent.

rooms on Friday with a format about as solid as ectoplasm.

Beneath all its psychic hocus-pocus we find a simple game in which contestants, called "sensitives," try to guess what card emcee Vincent Price has pulled from a pack.

Producer George Wolf promised us "unusual experiments" on this show and we're still awaiting them. Anyway, Friday's three contestants scored five hits out of 21 guesses, which doesn't cost the sponsor much money or raise any excitement. I think the trouble is that ESP is too personal and unpredictable a phenomenon to flourish in this public showcase. His own ESP should have warned emcee Price to steer clear of this trained quiz show.

Channel Chips: Olivia de Havilland on "Youth Wants To Know" spent too much time trying to work in plugs for her new picture, "Outlook," another NBC-TV Sunday program, consisted of a 30-minute plug for a new MGM movie, "The Last Word" on CBS-TV featured some erudite verbal fighting between John Mason Brown, Bergen Evans and Alistair Cooke. Dorothy Lamour, in a strong, never seemed as bare as she did in that low-cut gown she wore on "What's My Line" Sunday.

The Chanel Swim: Maurice Chevalier will be on hand when "The Desilu Playhouse" premiered on CBS-TV Monday, Oct. 6, with a filmed show titled, "Lucy Goes To Mexico." Jeannie Carson will play Jo in the hour musical version of "Little Women" on CBS-TV Oct. 16. NBC-TV's "Modern Romances" will present a three-week serial next month instead of the usual one-a-week. Sheb "Purple People Eater" Wooley was pulled out of the Bob Crosby and Dinah Shore shows on NBC-TV because of the "exclusivity clause" in his CBS-TV contract. He's now suing CBS. Meanwhile, Ed Sullivan gets him for a July 27 appearance (on CBS). J. Carroll Naish will play the part of the Indian story-teller on the Shirley Temple Storybook production of "Hiawatha," set for NBC-TV Oct. 5.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"How should we have bid this hand?" writes an Ardmore, Okla., reader. "I made six hearts all right, but all that is necessary for a spade grand slam is for me to trump one of dummy's little diamonds in my own hand. Who went wrong?"

The answer is that the hand is really a difficult one to bid properly, and North and South should not be too disturbed about their failure to reach seven spades.

NORTH		EAST
♠ K 10 8 6	♥ 7 5 3 2	♠ 10 8 4 2	♥ K 8 6 5
♦ Q 7 6	♣ A 10 3 2	♦ A 10 8 6	♣ 5

♠ 4	♥ 10 8 4 2	♠ 7 5 3 2	♥ K 8 6 5

South must be given at least 90 percent of whatever blame there is, since holding A Q J 9 of spades he never got around to raising his partner.

His opening one heart bid was correct and he might well have jumped right to six spades over his partner's response of one spade. Still, there is nothing wrong with his three club bid of North's jump to four hearts.

At this point South had another opportunity to bid six spades in which case North might have passed or gone to seven spades. We will never know because South bid six hearts.

I know why South went wrong. Somehow or other, South must have suspected that his partner's one spade bid had not been entirely honest. What South overlooked was that if North had been fooling he would not have to stay in spades and South certainly had no objections to a grand slam contract.

Dairy Exports May Damage Relations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Monday warned Congress that a proposed export subsidy on dairy products might "gravely" damage American foreign relations.

W.T.M. Beale Jr., deputy assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, said the proposal would carry the threat of "massive United States dumping" to New Zealand, Australia, The Netherlands and Denmark—four major dairy exporters.

He told a Senate agriculture subcommittee that the more successful the export subsidy program, the more "adversely affected" would be the economies of those countries. As a result, he said, the support the United States could expect from them "on other issues in the whole range of international forums would be diminished."

Beale was joined by Agriculture Department officials in testifying against the subsidy. It is sought by the American Dry Milk Institute and others and proposed in a bill introduced by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Clarence L. Miller, associate administrator, Commodity Stabilization Service, said the proposal would increase the total cost of the dairy support program and "further depress foreign market prices without substantial benefit to American dairy farmers."

Ralph Cole, speaking for the American Dry Milk Institute, Chicago, said American producers of dry whole milk "must receive assistance" from the government to maintain "our dwindling share of foreign markets."

Charles G. Todd, testifying on behalf of the Carnation Co., Los Angeles, argued that reduced export prices on government-held stocks of dry milk, butter and cheese already is a "subsidy to exporters" of those products.

He said commercial exports, of sweetened condensed milk, however, have "virtually disappeared" because of price disadvantages with foreign producers. He urged an export subsidy on evaporated milk equal to $1.21 a case (48 cans tall size).

Daniel Spokesman Denies Charge Made By Gonzales

AUSTIN (UPI) — A spokesman for Gov. Price Daniel has labeled as "completely false" a charge by State Sen. Henry Gonzalez that the governor recently invited a group of lobbyists to the mansion to solicit support in his re-election campaign.

The denial was issued by George Christian, press director for Daniel's campaign headquarters.

"The governor frequently has friends to the mansion for meals, and these have included trade association representatives, farmers, newspapermen, legislators, teachers and many others who are interested in state government and the Democratic party," Christian said.

"These visits have not been in connection with his campaign for re-election, and in no instance has he solicited campaign contributions at meetings of this nature."

"All such meetings have been in connection with the Democratic convention activities, in which the governor has urged that a majority work to prevent the DOT minority from taking over control of the Democratic party," Christian added.

ANOTHER GREAT CADILLAC TRADITION

If there is one quality which is instantly apparent in a new Cadillac—it is most certainly the car's great dignity. Cadillac's regal bearing, its impressive stature, and its majestic design give it a presence that is uniquely its own. It is a rare pleasure to command such a motor car—and we think you will agree, once you've taken the wheel for yourself. Why not do so soon?

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A divorcee who works for my husband has been on my mind lately. She is supporting her aged mother and teen-aged son supposedly on the salary my husband pays her. I sat down and figured it all out and I doubt very much if she can pay her rent, drive a car and dress the way she does on what she pays her. She is blunting I think either my husband is paying her more than he says or he is helping her out with extra money. Should I go to her and ask for an accounting? Everytime I see this clothes horse I do a slow burn. Thank you.

SUSPICIOUS WITH CAUSE
Dear Suspicious: Better do a slow burn than to accuse an innocent woman and make an ash of yourself. You can air your suspicions to your husband but leave her strictly alone.

DEAR ABBY: We are asking your advice on how to keep the good will of the customers and keep clean merchandise after teen-agers try on everything in store just for the fun of it.

DISGUSTED CLERKS
Dear Clerks: Teen-agers are not the only ones who "try on everything in the store" just for the fun of it. Many adults who have no intention of buying (and should know better) do the same thing. That's just one of the costs of doing business. A successful sales person must have the patience of Job and also be a good actor.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 53, and am interested in remarrying. Different friends of mine have said to me, "You should meet Charlie." I would love to meet Charlie because everyone says we are just right for each other, but I have never told me that they have told Charlie about me and he says he's like to meet me, too, but so far nobody has gotten us together. I am sick of hearing about Charlie and not meeting

Vows For Miss Anderson, Bobby Watts Repeated In Double-Ring Ceremony

(Special to The News)
SHAMROCK — Vows for Miss Patsy Anderson and Bobby Watts were pledged in a double-ring ceremony performed on June 30 at 8 o'clock in the First Baptist Church.

Rev. J. E. Byers performed the ceremony in a candlelight setting featuring a sunburst arrangement of candelabras forming an arch centered with tall, white baskets of white mums and Fujii mums. Orchid ribbons extended to the arch from the baskets. The kneeling bench was flanked with candelabras bearing lighted tapers and the aisles were marked with orchid satin bows.

Miss Anderson is the daughter of Mrs. Hallie Rogers, Shamrock, and James Anderson of Texarkana, Ark. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Watts of Jones, La.

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gownned in white lace over taffeta, styled with a molded bodice, boat neckline, three quarter length sleeves, and a full, waist-length skirt. Her finger-tip Veil of Illusion, edged in lace, was secured to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid encircled with meline puffs and showered with white satin ribbon tied in Lover's Knots.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Jimmy Cannon, maid of honor, Mrs. Dean Howard, matron of honor and Miss Barbara Sue Bell, bridesmaid, wore identical street-length dresses of orchid or-gandy designed with fitted bodices, boat necklines and cummerbunds encircling the waistslines of the bouffant skirts. Their headbands were of matching orchid meline puffs encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestones. They carried colonial bouquets of crown asters in two shades of orchid and tied with orchid satin ribbon.

Leo Watts, Hobbs, N.M., served his brother as best man. Ushers were James Collingsworth and Dean Howard, who also lighted the altar candles.

Mrs. Willingham, Stinnett, cousin of the bride, and Gertha Anderson, sister, were flower girls, dressed at the other feminine attendants and carried lace baskets containing rose petals.

Mrs. George Howard, organist, played a prelude of wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Howard, cousin of the bride, as she sang, "I Love You Truly" and "A-ways."

The bride's mother, Mrs. Rodgers, wore a suit of blue linen accented with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

RECEPTION
For the reception held in the Fellowship Hall of the church, the bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and complemented with the bride's chosen colors of orchid and white.

The three-tiered cake, topped with a bride couple, was served by Miss Phyllis O'Gorman. Mrs. Leon Willingham, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch service. Mrs. Bobby Gene Hammack registered guests. For a wedding trip, the bride traveled in a blue linen suit with white accessories and the orchid from Mrs. Watts was graduated from Shamrock High School and attended West Texas State College. Mr. Watts was graduated from the high school in Jones and attended Louisiana College. They will be at home in Shamrock, where Mr. Watts is employed by El Paso Natural Gas Co.

Oven 'Burgers' Are Excellent Appeasers

Texas mothers with children home from school are re-discovering an old, old fact: teen-agers, being equipped with bottomless-pit appetites, are splendid food budget wreckers.

An excellent appeaser for voracious young appetites, as all mothers also know, is hamburger — in almost any form. Oven Cheeseburgers, this month's recommendation from the Texas Beef Council, are "inside-out" cheeseburgers, which require easy-on-the-budget ground beef, and a minimum of last-minute preparation.

To serve six:
OVEN CHEESEBURGERS
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
6 slices American cheese, trimmed to round shape
6 slices onion
6 slices tomato
Salt and pepper the ground beef, and make into 12 thin patties. Place a slice of cheese, onion and tomato on each of six patties and use the other six for covers. Seal the edges carefully. Bake in foil-lined baking dish at 350 degrees for one hour.

Sub Debs Accept Bids At Breakfast
Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club held its annual "come as you are" breakfast yesterday morning in the home of Miss Sarah Lou Harnly. Members awakened rushees and escorted them to the home of Miss Harnly where a breakfast of orange juice, rolls, donuts, grapefruit, and pineapple was served, with Miss Marilyn Fite presiding at the juice service.

During the party, bids of rushees for membership in the Sub Deb Club were presented.

Miss Kay Waggoner, SDC president, submitted the list of rushees receiving bids, after which Mrs. Nancy McDowell, junior co-sponsor, presented the bids on a white satin pillow inscribed with green letters, "SDC."

Rushees submitting bids at the breakfast were Misses Mary Helen Ayres, Kristi Brown, Carol Cleveland, Joyce Doggett, Donna Forsha, Melody Hunter, Jan Hall, Anne Hofessa, Barbara Holt, Carolyn Hudson, Ann Hutchens, Jimmie Jones, Susan Kay, Jackie Miller, Judy Miller, Myrna Pope, Dixie Timms, Elaine Tinsley, Lin Joan Hagaman.

Sponsors present were Mrs. H. M. Lunda, senior sponsor and Mrs. McDowell.

Special guest were Mmes. L. Harvey, John Harnly, and Ed Cleveland.

Avoid Frost-Bitten Appearance, Smile And Stave Off Turkey-Track Wrinkles

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
There are lots of rapid ways to acquire wrinkles. If you really work at it. Squinting. Frowning. Compressing your lips. Turning down the corners of your mouth. Raising your eyebrows.

In time, you can wind up looking like a frostbitten apple. And if you want a lined neck, just dig your chin into your collar and keep your book on your lap while you read. By not doing any of these things, you will, of course, miss a good many unnecessary wrinkles. This doesn't mean that you should keep your face expressionless. Heaven forbid.

It just means that nervous and unattractive mannerisms that produce wrinkles are easily avoided. Many times we use these mannerisms without really being aware of them until our mirror calls our attention to them in the form of another new line.

A girl's best friend, if she wants to look good, is a sound night's sleep. Yet there are lots of night owls who don't seem to realize this. They work up their energy by the end of the day to the point where they'll put off indefinitely going to bed. They putter. They wash out a pair of stockings, finish the latest mystery thriller, watch TV or gossip on the telephone. All pleasant enough if you're in bed by 10:30 or 11 p.m. But it's merely cutting in uselessly on your all-important sleep to waste an evening.

The best way to break this habit is to plan your evenings for awhile. Have one evening in which you do personal lingerie, another in which you take care of beauty chores. This way, you won't wind up giving yourself a home permanent at midnight.

Summer is good for the feet, no doubt about it. Open sandals, going barefoot, walking on the beach are all beneficial to your feet. But remember, others see more of your feet.

The toes that were hidden in closed shoes all winter are out in the open now. That means the nails must be evenly and regularly trimmed, rough spots must disappear under a pumice stone, and polish, if you use it, must be changed at least one a week.

Meanwhile nature will help you along. Walking on the beach will smooth out rough spots on muscles. Open sandals will give you comfort in hot weather. And your feet will be prettier by fall.

Engagement Told Of Shamrock Pair

(Special to The News)

SHAMROCK — Mr. and Mrs. Clois Hanner of Lela announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha Joyce, to Leon Ray Pepper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pepper of Shamrock.

The wedding is to be on August 23 at 6 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Lela with Rev. J. D. Lavelle, pastor, officiating.

LITTLE LIZ

There may be times when money is no object, but it's always an interesting subject.

RUTH MILLETT

"My husband keeps telling me that I'm getting old and ugly," writes a dejected wife. And then she asks, "What can a woman do when her husband talks like that to her?"

You can teach him better manners in a hurry — if you really want to.

Make an appointment at a good beauty salon. Tell them to take you in hand and hang the expense so long as they can make you look younger and prettier.

Then go to a good dress shop and get yourself some new and becoming clothes. If you need to lose weight, go on a diet and sign up for a course at a reducing salon to help you along.

When the bills start coming in, your husband may blow his top. But let him yell. Nothing he can say about your extravagance will hurt nearly as much as that "You're getting old and ugly" routine.

When he has had his say, remind him that it was he, not you, who was dissatisfied with your appearance. Tell him that you intend to keep right on spending money on yourself until he thinks you look good.

If that doesn't make him change his insults into compliments, nothing will.

Just don't get cold feet about spending money when you start your self-improvement campaign. Any man who is unkind enough to tell his wife she is getting old and ugly ought to have her can through the nose for his ego-shattering remarks.

And any wife who has been told by her husband needs the reassurance she'll get from her mirror after a few sessions at a beauty salon and a shopping spree.

Johnson Praises Texas Water Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson has praised a water report issued by federal and state agencies as an important beginning in solving Texas' water problems.

Johnson said the report "points the way toward preparation of a state program to control floods in Texas and to meet the water supply needs of the future."

In his weekly radio report Sunday, Johnson said it was an important beginning toward an adequate statewide program for control and use of the state's water resources.

"The number one problem in Texas is the conservation, control and development of our water resources and the future growth and progress of the state will be limited only by its available supplies of water," he said.

Johnson said he asked for a blueprint of the Texas water plan a year ago from the Commission of the Bureau of Reclamation and the chief of the Corps of Engineers. Later, he said, he asked the Soil Conservation Service to help the two federal agencies and the Texas Board of Water Engineers with the report.

"The report establishes a pattern for determining what the controlling elements of a long-range Texas water program should be," Johnson said. "It sets out a plan of action for reaching a realistic and effective solution of the Texas water problem."

"I earnestly believe this water report is one of the most far-reaching documents ever prepared on any aspect of the economy of Texas," he said. "It simultaneously gives full recognition to the sovereignty of the state over its water resources and establishes that the federal agencies can make major contributions to the evolution of a plan to control fully—and to develop fully—these resources."

Johnson said the first essential in drawing benefit from Texas water resources "is that adequate supplies of water must be accessible when and where required."

Price Wants Constitution Revised

GALVESTON (UPI) — Gov. Price Daniel Monday made a plea for revision of the Texas constitution as a means of providing "a strong, up-to-date government."

Daniel spoke before the Texas State Association of Fire Fighters convention.

"A few Texans think we should junk our present constitution in its entirety and start over," the governor pointed out.

"I do not hold with this view, and believe we can do the job without endangering loss of the vital elements of self-government and freedom written by our forefathers," he added.

Daniel expressed belief "most Texans will agree that a constitution written 82 years ago is certain to have many outmoded provisions which actually hamper the administration of the people's business."

He said many provisions can be abandoned entirely, such as a requirement that the governor protect the frontier against invasion by hostile Indians.

"Your present governor isn't worrying about Indians, but he is concerned about the protection of our state's rights and local self-government against the inroads of socialistic centralization in Washington."

"A strong, up-to-date state government will help immeasurably in this fight," Daniel said.

65 Million Had Jobs Last Year, Despite Recession

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has reported an average of 65 million Americans held jobs in 1957—a new record despite the recession in the latter part of the year.

Some 2,800,000 workers were unemployed on an average during the year, according to Census Bureau figures, but despite recession layoffs this was "only slightly higher" than in 1956 on a percentage basis.

In a report Sunday, the bureau also said the nation's total average labor force climbed to 70,700,000 in 1957. This was 400,000 higher than in 1956, but the gain was smaller than anticipated in view of the unusually sharp gain in the labor force during the previous two years.

Actually, some 77,700,000 Americans—or two out of every three aged 14 or older—worked during all or part of 1957. This was a gain of 8,800,000 since 1950. Both figures included employed and unemployed workers and members of the armed forces.

The bureau said average civilian employment of 65 million was 300,000 above the previous record set in 1956. However, the long-term downward trend in farm jobs resumed after a three-year

Even though joblessness averaged only slightly above 1956 on the year average, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate had crept up to 5 per cent by last December and then continued climbing through last February.

Jury Is Picked For Will Case

BALLINGER, Tex. (UPI) — A contest to break a will which would leave thousands of dollars to Texas A&M and Texas Tech began in district court today with selection of a jury.

Mrs. W. A. Guinn of San Angelo contends her husband, who died in 1950, was not in full possession of his faculties when he provided that upon her death his estate, valued at $400,000, would go to the two state schools.

The case has been heard seven times since 1952 and been before the Court of Civil Appeals twice. Hung juries have resulted in instances when the case did not go to the appellate court.

Mrs. Guinn was left community property valued at $195,000 when her husband died, but the remainder of the estate under the will provides that upon her death Texas A&M and Tech Tech benefit.

A venire of 42 persons, two of them women, was summoned for the case before 119th District Judge O. L. Parish.

The New York Yankees aren't looking to coast into the World Series, they're aiming to fly in by a record 20-game margin.

They didn't decide on that figure arbitrarily, either. If they can make it, they will shatter their own record of 19½ games by which they won the 1938 American League pennant.

This bit of side-play is perfectly all right with Casey Stengel, who wouldn't mind being remembered as the Yankee manager who captured a pennant by the biggest margin in their history. Right now the distinction belongs to Joe McCarthy, who led the 1938 Yankees.

The runaway Yankees increased their lead to 13 games — largest margin of the season — with a 6-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Monday night.

Southpaw Whitey Ford breezed to his 11th victory while giving up only three hits and walking none. He got the only run he really needed when Hank Bauer led off the first inning with his ninth homer of loser Early Wynn. Mickey Mantle slammed his 23rd homer in the seventh to help Ford run his lifetime record to 24-8 over the White Sox.

Senators Blanked

Ex-Yankee Jack Urban halted Kansas City's six-game losing streak when he shutout Washington, 4-0, on four hits for his seventh triumph of the year.

The Athletics rapped Pedro Ramos for three runs in the first inning, Preston Ward doubling home two of the runs and then scoring himself on Harry Simpson's single.

Bob Boyd's eighth-inning homer broke up a pitching duel between Skinny Brown and Herb Motard and led the Baltimore Orioles to a 2-1 win over the Detroit Tigers.

Boyd also scored Baltimore's first run in the opening inning when he doubled and came home on Gene Woodling's single. Brown yielded seven hits and struck out eight in posting his third straight victory.

The Boston Red Sox snapped a three-game losing streak by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 4-3, in 10 innings. Southpaw Don Mossi walked in the winning run by giving up a base on balls to pinch hitter Ted Lepcio with the bases full; Jim (Mudcat) Grant, however, was the loser.

Braves Regain Lead

Murray Wall hurled two-hit ball after replacing Dave Sisler in the seventh inning to gain his fourth victory. Dick Brown homered for the Tribe.

Milwaukee, which relinquished the National League lead Sunday by dropping the game to San Francisco by dropping the Giants, 12-3, behind Lew Burdette's five-hit pitching.

Wes Covington and Johnny Logan paced the Braves' 16-hit attack, the bulk of which was borne by loser Red Worthington. Covington drove in three runs with a homer and three singles while Logan also knocked in three runs with a homer and a pair of singles. Leon Wagner homered for the Giants. The victory was Burdette's eighth of the year.

Keller Eyes WLL Title Tie

E. M. Keller gets a chance to tie for first place in the Western Little League this evening when they battle with cellar-dweller C. R. Hoover.

With a win Keller will tie Utility Oil for the top spot and a one game playoff will have to be played to determine the manager of the Western League All-Stars.

This is the last regular scheduled game for Western Little League teams this year.

Keller will carry a 10-7 record in the game while Hoover supports a 5-11 record.

FACES SUSPENSION

Thunder Bolt Is On Carpet Today

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

HAVERTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—U.S. Open golf champion Tommy Bolt goes "on trial" today before his own profession, facing possible suspension from tournament play because of his behavior.

Bolt's predicament, as he faced the wrath of the Long-suffering Professional Golf Association executive committee, hurried into the background Thursday's opening of the annual PGA tournament.

The status of the man known as "Thunder," whose most recent explosions had drawn him a $500 fine, was to be decided today at a command appearance before the governing body of his own association.

There was no advance word of what punishment — if any — would be meted out to the club-throwing, terrible-tempered test shot artist who announced only last month as he won the coveted U. S. Open that he was a "reformed sinner."

Subsequent events failed to prove that assertion. He withdrew from three events after only nine holes and also was accused of "unbecoming conduct" after verbally attacking tourney officials. And then it was revealed that he had been on probation for past misdemeanors since last January.

No Isolated Incident

"Bolt has been advised to appear before the executive committee," said PGA president Harold Sargent of Atlanta. "But it should be pointed out that this is not as a result of one isolated incident. This is because of his general overall conduct — the same thing on which he has already been on probation since last January."

It was indicated by Sargent's tone that Bolt's story would have to be mighty strong to avert complete suspension from tournament play.

"It would be a crime if they let him continue to compete in tournaments without taking some drastic action," Sargent said. "Bolt's drastic action," said one of Bolt's fellow professionals.

Another of golf's most highly regarded pros said that while there didn't seem to be much they could do about banning Bolt from the impending PGA tournament, merely because he was on the ground, "it would stem that for the dignity and future good of the game, something certainly should be done about him."

"Like A Child"

None of his fellow pros would permit themselves to be quoted but one of their top members summed up the general feeling when he said:

"This is like a child with a temper tantrum whose mother keeps saying 'no, no,' and he keeps right on doing as he pleases. That kind of a child has to be sat on—hard."

Bolt is scheduled to be one of 188 pros, including 11 former champions headed by defending champion Lionel Hebert, to tee off Thursday in the revamped tournament which this year for the first time changes from match to medal play because of financial reasons.

The change in format was made because the big names were being knocked out in early rounds in recent years and the guys named Joe who survived couldn't draw peanuts.

Bowlers To Meet In Court Room

The Pampa Bowling Association will meet to elect new officers for the 1958-59 season and to discuss the formation of winter bowling leagues in the County Court Room at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

PBA secretary, Stanley Brake, announced Monday afternoon that the meeting was switched to the court room when the Cabot Auditorium, where the gathering was supposed to take place, could not be obtained.

He asked for all interested local bowlers to come out to tonight's meeting at 7:30.

Dodgers To Spend 1959 In Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Any hopes the Dodgers had of leaving the Coliseum for their own park next year were dashed today as the club prepared to appeal a judge's ruling that the Chavez Ravine contract with the city was invalid.

Superior Judge Arnold Praeger's ruling that the Dodgers' contract with the city was not valid was being studied today by attorneys for the baseball club and the city. Assistant City Attorney Bourke Jones said it might be six months before an appeal could be heard.

Giants Get OK On New Ball Park

San Francisco Giants got past the final barrier in their fight for a home Monday when the Board of Supervisors voted to build a new stadium at Candlestick Point.

By a vote of 8-2, the supervisors gave their approval to all the legislation necessary to get construction underway, including an order of leases and of a five-million-dollar city bond issue for buying the Candlestick Point property.

When finished, the new stadium will be approximately five miles from the center of town and will seat at least 45,000 persons, 22,000 more than Seals Stadium, where the Giants now play.

The park also will have space for 12,000 cars and is expected to be ready for the team next year.

Dodger president Walter F. O'Malley indicated he expected to play the entire 1959 season in the huge bowl with its 250-foot left field foul line. But he said right field might be revamped so that left-handed hitters like Duke Sniker won't lose all chances of getting an occasional home run.

O'Malley refused to lose his optimistic view of the Dodgers' future in Los Angeles, however, declaring he had expected an appeal would be taken to higher courts regardless of which side won the court case.

Pair Tied For LFL Leadership

Motor Inn almost blew itself out of the title picture for a Little Farm League pennant Monday, letting an 11-3 advantage dwindle to an 11-8 lead.

But they caught themselves in time and with Emmitt Saltzman posting eight strikeouts, managed to stop GK Trucking Company, 11-8, and bolt into a tie for first place with Rex Rose Ford, a 15-11 winner over Sportsman Store Monday.

Highland Lumber, after seven straight wins, was whipped for a third consecutive time, bowing to Tom Rose Oldsmobile, 16-9.

In Motor Inn's win, George Johnson and Larry Jewell had a triple and double off losing hurler, Jerry Wilson.

Joe Dan Brock spun Rex Rose to its win with his battery mate, Billy Dickie rapping a pair of doubles and a homer. Pat Nash also had a homer and a two-bagger for the winners.

Gary Johnson hurried Tom Rose to its 16-9 win with J. Palmer taking the loss for Highland, the latter's third in a row after seven straight wins. Mike Courtney hammered a two-run homer for the winners in the first frame and team-mates Jim Bernard had 5 for 5 and Jimmy Deaton had 4 for 4.

US Wins Again; Germans Fall In Tag Team Match

America won again! Art Nelson and Iron Mike DeBaise, a pair of husky Americans, defeated Germany's Kurt Von Poppenheim and the Great Zoro in two straight falls at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club Monday night.

The four locked horns in a tag-team match and more "dirty play" was passed between the vicious quartet than has been witnessed here in some time.

Von Poppenheim came out the worse for his night's appearance. He was beat to a pulp by both Nelson and DeBaise when they cornered him and gave him a nuckle working-over.

Ricky Romero, the Mexican flash, lost his first fall to the great Bolo in the semi-final event but then rebounded with a pair of half-nelsons to post two falls and win. He had to apply his second half-nelson for a good ten minutes before he could get Bolo to hollar "uncle."

Nelson and Von Poppenheim battled to a draw in a 15-minute opening match.

Responsibility

Some months ago, a woman came to our office. She was in a state of high nervous tension. Occasionally, tears came to her eyes as she told us her plight.

It seems that a particularly brutal murder had occurred in another state. This woman announced to us that she was responsible in a small measure for the crime.

Our newsmen's instincts aroused, we questioned her closely. Did she know the killer? Was she related or acquainted in any way with the victim? To these questions she was wide-eyed and indignant. Of course she did not. But her reasoning went something like this.

Society was responsible for the murder. She was a part of society. As such she was, in some mystical way, responsible for what had happened.

If you are baffled by this line of reasoning, you may imagine our own confusion. The woman had never been to the state where the crime had occurred. She did not know any of the persons involved. But she had swallowed hook, line and sinker, the current hooey that all people are responsible for all actions committed in our society.

Clearly, we had a case on our hands. This particular woman had taken onto her shoulders events in which she was totally disconnected, and she had made them her own.

Before you smile pityingly over her sad predicament, better check your own reactions.

Are you convinced that because you are an American and, through the genetic incident of birth, you were born in this country, that you are automatically called upon to give of your wealth foreign powers? Are you quite convinced that the starving populations of India, China and Eastern Europe and Russia, are in some way your responsibility? This is the line of reasoning shared in by all global do-gooders.

Obviously, our president and a large number of our Congressmen share the same illusion. So if much company in a fallacy is reassuring, take what reassurance you can.

The whole thin stretch of imagination stems from the idea that we are our brothers' keepers. We are no such thing. Each person is the keeper of his own decisions and is responsible for his own thoughts and actions. By no construction of logic can the best of "society" be made responsible.

The problem seems to revolve about the meaning of the word responsible. What does it mean?

We have checked every known authority on the meaning of the word and nowhere can we detect the idea that groups of people can be responsible. Responsibility always rests with the individual. And it only relates to the free choices and actions of persons as they individually go about their business. The idea that you are in some way responsible for your neighbor's actions is sheer balderdash. You are, thank goodness, only responsible for your own. And this, in itself, should give each of us quite enough to handle.

If we were, for the sake of argument, to assume that some of us or all of us are responsible for the choices and actions of others, then we would be insisting that in some way we were superior persons and that others were inferior. We would have subscribed to the soul-destroying doctrine that others are not or cannot be responsible for what they do and that we must shoulder their burdens as well as our own.

What right do we have to assume a responsibility for another, and thereby rob the other of the lessons life will teach him? Are we so superior in our own affairs that we can with impunity seek to dominate and lord it over others in the area of responsibility?

This whole sharing of responsibility stems right from the heart of the Communist Manifesto. When private ownership is destroyed, even in theory, then it behooves the state to assume the responsibility for all persons since, without property, no person would be in a position to sustain his own life. And since the state, by this double-domed mysticism of the hearing of responsibility is supposed to be all of the people, then it would have to follow that society is responsible for everything—and that none of us as individuals is responsible for anything.

The Doctor Says:

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Thanks to many correspondents who have written me following the publication of previous columns on warts, I now have quite a collection in my file of strange cures and other interesting comments on this peculiar disorder of the skin. I do not doubt that there are more strange notions about the cure and cause of warts than any other human disorder.

It is impossible to quote from all of the letters, but one man wrote that when he was 10 years old (he is 82 now) his left hand was a mass of warts. A schoolmate told him to steal a piece of red flannel and a piece of raw pork, to fold the pork in the flannel and bury it in the ground under a stone.

The writer said that he did as directed and, strange to say, in three days the warts disappeared and he has had no more for the next 72 years.

Another correspondent said that he had trouble with two warts on his face and a lot under his arms and back. He asked many people for a cure, but no one seemed to know. He has asked me to suggest a remedy. This is more unusual than the first letter, because it seems nearly everyone has a pet cure for warts — and are not bashful about passing it on.

The fact that warts disappear after so many different kinds of treatment — even including burial of an object — is particularly astonishing, because warts are almost certainly caused by viruses which are small living bodies too tiny to see under the ordinary microscope.

Why a condition caused by viruses should disappear following so many kinds of treatments (or none at all) is truly extraordinary. The so-called "seed wart" which occurs on the hands is the most common type. Children are more likely to have warts than grown-ups.

Warts can be spread from one part of the body to another, but there is no basis for the old superstition that handling toads will cause warts.

Proportional Taxation

Bradford B. Smith in his book "Liberty and Taxes," points out the tyranny that is bound to result from progressive taxation — that is, taxation that is not in proportion to income.

He observes that the only way to make our taxation system in harmony with liberty is to repeal the Sixteenth Amendment. His proposal, which is new to me, is that we each contribute an equal fraction of our time or life each year to support the government; that means equal sacrifice where all people are equal before the law as they are before God. He puts it this way:

This Tyranny Foreseen
"This adjustment was provided in the Constitution (before the adoption of the 16th Amendment in 1913) by providing that all direct taxes (of which income taxes are the most direct) should be apportioned among the states in exactly the same way that representation is given in the House — that is, according to population. That was impossible for a majority to get together and support a direct tax that fell more heavily upon a minority than by the same act it bore upon the majority. The principle of the voluntary was preserved. The majority had to assume a tax burden voluntarily before it could impose one (but not a greater one) on a minority. Those in the minority were constrained to pay, it is true, but only as much as those of the majority imposed on themselves. Each voter had one vote in electing representatives to decide the tax and each was therefore to pay the same tax his representatives levied."

"No better protection for identifying federal taxation with liberty could have been devised; there is no surer way to re-identify them than to repeal the 16th Amendment which granted unlimited power to majorities to impose direct taxes on minorities not paid by themselves, and which has made possible an orgy or demagogic tax exploitation under the slogan 'soak the rich.' There is, of course, no freedom but only tax tyranny when the mass of the electorate supports heavy taxation of a small minority, while itself escaping the burden."

"Contrary minded people say that a greater means 'can afford to pay more' or have 'greater ability to pay.' To some extent this is undoubtedly true and to it consideration will shortly be given. But it still remains true that tampering with the identity between voting and paying is tampering with individual liberty in America. It is far better that the majority surely and voluntarily vote taxes on itself while a minority escapes, for that is freedom, than that a majority impose taxes on a minority which the majority escapes, for that is tyranny. The majority has power to protect itself, the minority does not, as pointed out by Madison in the Tenth Federalist paper."

"If everyone paid the same tax then it is conceivable that the tax would equal the whole of some small incomes and be but a fraction of some large incomes. It would deprive some of the whole fruit of their exertions and others of diminishing fractions of the fruits of theirs. It is apparent that equality in taxation does not necessarily mean equality in relative burden or sacrifice. If we distributed taxes so as to make the tax burden, rather than the 'tax amount, equal to voters, would we then still have tax paying and tax voting equated? Would the identity be even closer? There are certain reasons and precedents for supposing this would be the case. But what is an 'equal burden?' Perhaps the closest to the fundamental that we can get is to recognize that when man is born into the world he has only his limited life span at his disposal. It is the element of man's time involved that gives value to things. Air is necessary but has no value because it is abundant. Conditioned air has value because it involves the time of men to provide and operate the mechanisms to produce it. Gold and diamonds take time to discover and mine. An equal burden to men of unequal capacity can then be deemed a burden that conscripts an approximately equal amount of each person's time. The earning power of men may differ but an equal proportion of each person's income tends to represent an equal conscription of time or enjoyment and hence an equal burden."

"This recognizes that a spoonful of food to the well-fed would yield more human satisfaction if fed to the hungry — the law of diminishing utility; but it holds that a ten per cent of each person's income tends to be equally prized."

burning with diathermy needles have all been used with success. One of the treatments consists of the use of injections containing a heavy metal called bismuth. Warts also disappear in most cases after X-ray treatment.

But the most astonishing treatment is by the use of suggestion. How the mind can have an effect on a virus disease is a mystery. It has long been known that warts which may have been present for years can disappear suddenly and completely following suggestion.

This has been confirmed by scientific observers. Just how to go about this kind of treatment is not settled, and some doctors remain skeptical. But it seems certain that it does happen.

Warts (except plantar warts on the feet) can hardly be considered serious, but they are troublesome and peculiarly interesting in their behavior.

Wonder What T.R. Would Think Today?

Robert Allen Reports:

July 24 May Be Day Of Destiny

WASHINGTON — Fateful day to watch in the protracted Lebanon fighting is July 24.

That's the day the Lebanese Parliament is scheduled to meet to select a successor to embattled President Chamoun. At present, the most likely choice appears to be General Fuad Shehab, Lebanon Army commander.

A Christian of a noted Arab family, Shehab is pro-Western and favored by the U.S.

In Secretary Dulles' opinion, the outcome of the Parliament session will determine whether there is peace or further strife in Lebanon. He believes the chances are good for the former, but has not ruled out the latter.

That's what Assistant Secretary of State William Macomber Jr. told a group of congressional leaders in a report on Dulles' talk with UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, following his return from a first-hand survey of Lebanon, and a meeting with Egypt's Gamal Nasser.

According to Macomber, Hammarskjold was told by Nasser that General Shehab is "Acceptable" to him as successor to Chamoun.

Hammarskjold also told Dulles that Nasser promised to moderate the violent Cairo radio and press attacks on Chamoun. That has partially taken place, although Egyptian propaganda activities against Chamoun are still continuing.

While Secretary Dulles is hopeful Chamoun's elimination will end the Lebanese fighting, Macomber told the congressional leaders that the Central Intelligence Agency anticipates intensified rebel attacks around the time the Parliament is scheduled to meet.

"If the Chamoun government asks for our help to keep from being driven out by force," asked a House leader, "is it our intention to intervene with military units?"

After a moment's hesitation, Macomber nodded affirmatively.

"If a request for U.S. military aid is made under the conditions you state," replied the State Department official, "it will be honored by our government."

"That is, we will intervene with military force?"

"Yes," said Macomber, "that is what we would do."

England Finds No Charm In Meters

By HENRY McLEMORE

Just at the height of the tourist season, when London is so filled with Americans that Nelson atop his pillar in Trafalgar Square is about the only Englishman in sight, fuel has been added to the anti-American fire.

The fuel is the parking meter, a purely American invention (unless the Devil had a hand in it). It was introduced to London streets for the first time last week, and by now the resentment against the penny-a-minute watchdogs of the curb is certain to have mounted high.

The Englishman despises a Paul Pry almost above anything. And a parking meter, with its little mechanical eye cocked on one's car, and keeping a record of how long it has been against the curb, is just that. Some have had their little glass-enclosed faces pushed in by now, you may be sure. For England, more than any other country in the world today, cherishes eccentrics and holds them dear.

The Englishman who first canes a parking meter over the head, or yank it up from its roots, will be punished to the full extent of the law, but he will have the sympathy and understanding of all his countrymen, including the judge.

The parking meter represents pretty well what Englishmen have against us. They don't dislike Americans as such. It is the tremendous impact that our country has on their own that keeps them slightly livid.

They don't mind us speaking the American language but they boil at the thought of it replacing the King's English in England. They have no objection to American teenagers wearing jeans and pony-tails and doing the rock 'n' roll, but they do sigh when their own teenagers follow suit, almost to a boy and girl.

It's all right for you to adore iced tea, and order chunks of ice in our drinks, but it horrifies them to see more and more Englishmen demanding other than lukewarm drinks.

This feeling is understandable. Certainly no American visitor in London feels very far away from home. He hears familiar American music wherever he goes, has no trouble getting hot dogs and hamburgers, sees shops advertising the latest New York styles, reads the display lights of the movie houses, and the sky is hardly ever clear of an American plane.

Of course, the English ask for these Americanizations themselves. They are not thrust upon them by their former colony. Like the parking meter, they came, they saw and they took back.

Speaking for myself, I wish England had taken all the parking meters, or that we had given them all ours for the damage we did, say at Bunker Hill.

The parking meter is completely without charm. It has no decorative value, never makes an allowance for a motorist not having a penny or a nickel on his person, and never overlooks an unforeseen delay in a store.

It is an ungraceful, half-faced, stony-hearted miser. It's greedy, too, and never wanders away from its post of duty. Inhuman, it stands there, night and day, in any sort of weather, ready to run up its little red flag and squeal on a violator.

The invention of the parking meter is nothing for our country to brag about, and if England throws all of them out of the country, there will be few who will come to their defense.

Labor Union Powers Strangling Country

By Thurman Sensing

WE MUST COMPETE!

The vast economic and political power of the major labor unions of the country is gradually but surely strangling our economy. After all is said and done, we must face the fact that the main thing that brought on the current recession and the main thing that is keeping us from recovering from it is that we have priced ourselves out of a competitive position. And we must compete, because in a free enterprise economy that is a fundamental law—compete or die.

This situation, while permeating most all segments of our industry, is most noticeable in such major industries as automobiles and steel, industries which underlie the well-being of our whole economy.

In the steel industry, for instance, wages will automatically rise on July 1st. The steel workers' union was asked to forego this increase, but it refused to do so. As a result, the price of steel will rise—and this at a time when the industry is operating at only about half capacity and when foreign steel can already be bought at a delivered price well below that of domestic steel.

And it is no answer at all to say, as the union does, that the industry can absorb the increased cost of wages without increasing the price of steel, because that is not the way a free economy works — when cost rises, prices rise. The steel industry would be doing neither itself, its workers nor the general public a service by operating without profit; this would only make bad matters worse.

Actually, this attitude on the part of the steel union is a very selfish one. They are taking advantage of a situation at the expense of the rest of the workers of the country, increasing their cost of living and keeping them out of jobs that would otherwise be available under more competitive conditions.

This is not advocacy of free trade, by any means, but it is also not an advocacy of higher tariff protection. The erection of tariff walls is not an activity on which America enjoys a monopoly, and as the President so aptly pointed out in a recent speech, one of the popular economic illusions that should be nominated for oblivion is the belief that we can export without importing — and certainly no country is going to import our goods if our prices are not competitive.

We have always been able to compete with foreign goods under reasonable tariff protection, and we always should be—and shall be, if not stopped from doing so by selfish segments of our economy that price us out of the market both at home and abroad. Through efficient tools of production, through mass production methods, through research and improvements, it has always been possible for the American worker to produce much more in an hour's time than his foreign competitors. We have accordingly been able to compete and our standard of living has been high.

What we must not overlook now, however, is the fact that our knowledge has also been exported along with our goods, in recent years especially, and that highly efficient industrial plants are growing rapidly abroad. The only way the American workers can justify receiving, say, four-times as much per hour as the foreign worker is to produce four times as much in value per hour. The American worker has heretofore been able to do this, or better, but not always now, because our wage rates in many industries have been rising much faster than the productivity of the workers.

It is this very fact that is not only pricing us out of foreign competition, but even worse, is pricing us out of the domestic market. When the general economy is declining, wage rates in many fields are declining and workers are losing their jobs. It is both selfish and short-sighted for the automobile workers, for instance, to demand higher wages that will increase the price of automobiles when people generally are not able to buy them even at present prices.

Industry-wide unions should be deprived of their monopoly power, their ability to strangle our economy. They should face the facts of life on their own accord, or they can be quite certain these facts will be forced on them — to the detriment of all.

The Nation's Press

(The Wall Street Journal)

Time after time since the war the Soviets have done things that seemed incredibly stupid from their own point of view. And this fact, we think, should have some bearing on American policies and attitudes toward them.

Right after the war Soviet transgression caused the division of Germany and of Europe when moderate policy might have won Russia great gains in the West. A few years later, with the Czech coup the Soviets gave the West such a scare it set up N.A.T.O. which the Kremlin has been trying to wreck ever since. The Berlin blockade and the Korean War accomplished nothing except to intensify Western rearmament, which they obviously don't want. Crushing the Hungarian revolt again branded them as aggressors, and peculiarly vicious ones at that, in the world opinion they are trying to attract.

Now once again they seem (in the eyes of Western logic) to be blundering. They could have let the Hungarian revolutionary leaders die forgotten in prison. Instead, at the very time they are showering the world with ostensible good will, cultural visits and talk of easing tensions at a summit meeting, they advertise their brutal killings of those leaders. Why?

One fairly reasonable explanation for all this puzzling behavior is that, from the Kremlin, immediate concerns within the Communist bloc generally take precedence over relations with the United States; world opinion or anything else. If it's a matter of direct and tangible importance to the Soviets, the rest of the world can go hang.

Thus they stamped on Hungary because otherwise the revolt would undo their whole European satellite system. Presumably they have now proclaimed the executions of the Hungarian leaders because they felt it necessary to give a terrible new warning to all the restive satellites.

On that basis, the Soviets can be expected to continue to goof (as it appears to the West) over the years. For the problems directly concerning them within the Soviet Union and in the Communist empire are enormous if not insoluble. Their own profound contradictions may continue to cross them up — and continue to give them these massive black eyes in the world opinion.

185,000 Get 'No Job' Pay Through June

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas made unemployment compensation payments totaling $38,164,878 during the first six months of 1958, a member of the Texas Employment Commission said Monday.

Maurice Acers, representative of employers on the TEC, told the Austin Kiwanis Club at a noon luncheon that a total of 185,000 persons received payments during the period.

He said the average insured jobless worker was entitled to 19.8 weeks of payment but drew an average of only 12.7 weeks. Acers said that proved that unemployment compensation served as a "rainy day tide-over" between jobs rather than prolonged relief.

Acers said 42,730 workers exhausted their benefits during the six-month period.

He predicted a decrease in available workers between the ages of 25 and 44 during the next 10 years, and urged immediate attention to revision of hiring standards. Acers said the nation's labor force will increase a total of seven million in the next few years, but the increases will be in age brackets now generally considered "too young or too old."

Meetings Set For Talks On Guard Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI)—State adjutants general converged on Washington to organize a protest against the Army's latest plan for reducing the National Guard from 400,000 to 360,000 men. Meetings scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday under the chairmanship of Maj. Gen. Maxwell E. Rich of Utah, national president of the Adjutants General Ass. Oklahoma's congressional delegation already has carried to the White House and the Defense Department a protest that the cut will "weaken the defenses of our country" by closing armories and reducing combat readiness.

The proposal now under consideration is a compromise with the Army's original plan to reduce the number of National Guard divisions from 27 to 21. Instead the Army now proposes to retain all 27 divisions but to reduce the number of combat units in 16 of them. The Guard would actually lose somewhat more than 40,000 men. Its last reported strength was above the authorized figure of 409,473 men.

In the course of the reduction, beginning this fall, all Guard divisions would be reorganized along "pentomic" lines. The process normally would substitute five "battle groups" for each division's three regiments. The 16 divisions marked for reduction would get only three instead of five battle groups. The House Armed Services Committee has disapproved the reduction. The Senate armed services group is expected to take similar action.

5-Year-Old Is Almost Hung Here

A near tragedy happened here yesterday when Debra Pfeil, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Pfeil, 412 N. Dwight, and a neighbor-boy were playing in the back yard of the Pfeil home.

The young boy, also five, tied a chain around Debra's neck and then Debra started to climb a tree. The end of the chain caught on a broken limb and Debra, losing her footing, was hanging in the tree with her feet dangling in the air.

A neighbor-woman, Mrs. Mary Winegart, looked out her window and saw what had happened. She raced to the Pfeil home and pulled Debra loose from the tree.

Debra received only scratches, but she is too scared to climb trees again.
