Taps Sound For Unknowns

Arlington National Cemetery (UPI) Taps sound today for two unknown dead of World War II and Korea.

Tonight as the shadows thicken in Arlington's majestic beeches and pin oaks these dead will join the nameless fighting men of World War I in the nation's most honored shrine, thenceforth to be known as "The Tomb of the Unknowns."

There, as their countryman of that other war has done since

Nov. 11, 1921, they will "rest in honored glory" revered by their country though "known but to God."

Today's 30-minute final rites in Arlington's marble colonnaded Memorial Amphitheater, on a green hill facing the Potomac and the capital beyond, and tonight's interment conclude a week in which the new unknowns have received the highest honors their nation can give.

These tributes included medals of honor authorized by Congress and presented in the amphitheater by President Eisenhower.

They included three days of lying in state in the Capitol rotunda, an honor accorded in the republics past to only 13 other persons, including five presidents and the unknown enshrined more than 37 years ago.

They included a mile-long procession past half-staffed flags from the Capitol to Arlington with saluting batteries firing a round a minute.

They also included unpremeditated tears—like those shed by Mrs. Reginald Godfrey of Providence, R.I., whose World War II soldier son is "missing in action." In the rotunda Thursday she looked at the second World War's unknown and said: "He could be mine."

Her son is forever gone but "Today," she said, "I feel a little closer to him." She could have been speaking, too, for the mothers of 9,200 other never-identified dead of the nation's last two wars.

PHS Seniors Of '58 Get Diplomas

Pampa High School Superintendent Knox Kinard called out the names of 224 Pampa High School graduates Thursday as the cap and gowns walked the Fieldhouse to receive their green bound diplomas from Principal L. J. Edmondson. First to receive their diplomas were Honor Students John Adrian Mead and Patricia La Marr Jones and Class President Marvin K. Pickett.

One hundred and twenty-three of the Graduating Class plan to attend college. Valedictorian Mead and Salutatorian Jones are both ready to enter Rice Institute in Houston. Mead will take up nuclear physics. Miss Jones' major will be Biological Research.

Speaking to the graduates, Mead said, "We've had it pretty easy these past 18 years." The valedictorian tended to minimize the importance of his High School career. "Life is a continuous process," said Mead, "and we need an attitude of movement to continue in life."

He declared that a diamond in the rough was worth much less than a cut and polished gem. With no nostalgia Mead quoted the class motto, "We are different; We are great. We're the class of '58." "Let's be different and great for the rest of our lives," Mead concluded.

In the Salutatory Address, Miss Jones expressed her philosophy of life. "Don't ever be the sort of person who when he falls lives there and cries about it," she told her classmates. "He's the one who gets stepped on."

Miss Jones told the parable of the stone cutter who hit a piece of marble a hundred blows without cracking it but on the 101st blow, shattered it. She emphasized that the final blow was not as significant as the 100 that had gone before.

Great masses of people "a subsist to unimportance" but, Miss Jones continued, "We are here for a purpose. If you can take the gloom and sorrow, joy and happiness of life, you have achieved your purpose."

Principal Edmondson recognized the 22 students who will receive their diplomas upon completion of the summer school curriculum in August.

Boaters Are Urged To Be 'Safety Wise'

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The Army Corps of Engineers today warned boaters and swimmers in Texas lakes over the long Memorial Day weekend beginning today to "use common sense" and help prevent accidents and deaths.

Col. Walter J. Wells, Fort Worth district engineer, advised users of lakes to be "water safety wise," and perhaps save your life or the life of another person.

The district engineers office issued these pointers for boaters and swimmers:

Boating: Don't overload your boat. A boat must carry at least one life preserver for each occupant. Practice good manners afloat at all times.

Motor boats, when approaching small boats or docks, should reduce speed sufficiently to insure safety of lives and property. If your boat upsails, stick to it and use it as a life preserver.

Obedy bad weather warnings; head for shore when a storm breaks. Don't pass a boat in distress, but give help; if you need help, ask for it. Boats must not approach closer to the dam or appurtenant structures than indicated by warning signs.

Swimming: Don't swim alone; there's safety in numbers. Don't swim from boats—use beaches. Look before you leap; be sure water is deep enough before diving. Know your own strength; don't overestimate your swimming ability. Mind your manners; mischievous acts or pranks might cause a tragedy.

And a special warning for youngsters: All children who cannot swim should wear a strap-on life preserver.

Evening Lions Set Committees

Robert Hamilton took up his duties as new Boss Lion of the Pampa Evening Lions Club Thursday by appointing two committees and asking for action by the next meeting.

Gene Lewis Jr. will head the Membership Committee. The Special Project Committee will be in the hands of Byron St. Clair. Hamilton also asked Dr. Philip Gates to report on his suggestion that the Evening Lions hold less formal meetings during the summer.

Working with Lewis, L. S. Riley, James Edminster, Dr. Gates, and L. B. Pennick will endeavor to bring more men into the Evening Club, starting with the meeting Thursday.

St. Clair's Committee of Ed Anderson, E. B. "Buck" Haggard and D. Y. Biggers will look for a project idea to bring before the Lions for work this summer.

De Gaulle Or Civil War

French Leaders Mull Over Coty's Ultimatum

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—Vigorous, 76-year-old President Rene Coty summoned France's tired political leaders to a meeting today to work out terms for installing Gen. Charles De Gaulle as head of a "government of public safety."

The political leaders had the night to think about Coty's ultimatum: De Gaulle or civil war.

The power to tip the scales one way or the other lay with the Socialists.

The powerful Socialist opposition to De Gaulle was beginning to crumble. The only thing that held it together was the specter of leaving the Communists alone in the opposition—a strategic spot for the Reds to pick up electoral support.

Coty began the consultations at 1 a.m. (6 a.m. e.d.t.) with National Assembly Speaker Andre Le Troquer. Next on his schedule, in order, were Senate President Gaston Monnerville, Radical-Socialist Party leader Edouard Daladier, former premier and Socialist Party boss Guy Mollet, and Maurice Deixonne, Socialist floor leader in the assembly.

The generals and French settlers who began the De Gaulle-to-power movement in Algeria May 13 said they would accept whatever way the general chose to take over the government.

But they were getting restless and clearly threatening to install De Gaulle by force if the politicians in Paris refused to accept him.

"The streets of Paris echoed into early this morning with the forbidden sound of automobile horns, shouts and cheers as thousands demonstrated happily for the 67-year-old wartime resistance leader.

"De Gaulle to power" and "Algeria is French" shouted the crowd as it swirled through the streets. Many were students out with their girlfriends for an evening of fun and there was no sign of the solemnity of the mass anti-De Gaulle demonstration of Tuesday.

There were no incidents this morning and police wore broad smiles as they watched several hundred demonstrators march around the Arch of Triumph shouting "Vive De Gaulle."

De Gaulle was expected to take over the talks with political leaders later after the groundwork for agreement had been worked out by Coty.

De Gaulle abhors political bickering. The negotiations on his takeover were expected to last through today and Saturday.

WREATH FOR THE WAR MONUMENT
Officials of the Pampa VFW and VFW Auxiliary place a Memorial Day wreath on the War Monument in Fairview Cemetery. William Leonard, commander of Post 1657, VFW, and Mrs. Leonard, president of Post 1657 Auxiliary, took the lead in honoring the dead of all wars. The Kerley Crossman Unit, American Legion Auxiliary, had a part in getting the wreath to the stone.

Price Fixing Charged

29 Oil Firms Are Indicted

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — A federal grand jury indicted 29 oil companies Thursday on charges of conspiring to violate the anti-trust laws by fixing prices of gasoline and crude oil.

Companies reached for comment categorically denied the charges and said they were confident their position would be sustained when they are brought to trial.

The indictment climaxed an investigation which the grand jury started on March 4, 1957, at the height of the Suez Canal crisis. The inquiry was ordered after the oil companies put into effect an almost uniform price rise throughout the country.

The jury was convened by the justice department to hear evidence of possible collusive price fixing in the production, refining, transportation and marketing of gasoline and other petroleum products.

Companies named in the indictment included Standard Oil of Indiana, New Jersey and Ohio; Texas Co., Socony Mobil, Phillips, Sinclair, Skelly, Sun, Tidewater, and Monsanto Chemical Co.

The justice department had no immediate comment on the indictment. But it indicated it had been caught by surprise on some of the charges, and that the indictment did not take the form originally anticipated.

A civil anti-trust suit already is pending in New York federal court charging the big five of the oil industry with conspiring to engage in an international cartel to monopolize trade and keep petroleum prices high.

Defendants in that suit, filed on April 21, 1953, are Socony-Vacuum (See FIRMS, Page 3)

Airliner Said Deliberately 'Buzzed'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. William F. Knowland and 61 other persons aboard a United Air Lines DC7 had a narrow escape Thursday when an Air Force B47 "deliberately buzzed" their airliner near Salina, Kan.

The charge of "buzzing" came from UAL pilot W. K. Wolfe of Palo Alto, Calif. Other passengers confirmed his story. Knowland was dozing at the time of the incident, which took place Thursday afternoon.

Wolfe said he and the B47 were flying at 20,000 feet about 10 miles east of Salina. He said his air speed was better than 400 miles an hour.

"This was a near miss due to deliberate buzzing," Wolfe said in a report filed after his arrival.

He said the B47 passed from north to south "in front of our plane, at a distance ranging from 500 to 1,000 feet."

"Two seconds after it passed, we were jolted by its slipstream," he said.

The plane was United's flight 705, which left Philadelphia for San Francisco, with a stop at Washington.

Knowland, Senate minority leader, was returning to California for the windup of his primary campaign. He is seeking the republican nomination for governor.

"These things aren't pleasant," he said. "I'm glad it was a near miss."

Friends To Bid Dalmatian Goodby

FALLS CHURCH, Va. (UPI) — For 10 years Daisy the Dalmatian has been mascot of the local fire department and a favorite of neighborhood children.

She was given to firemen as a gift when she was a pup. The kids made it a daily habit to drop by on the way home from school to visit her.

Daisy also grew fond of riding on the fire truck.

For the past two years, though, Daisy hasn't been able to ride the truck. She has cancer.

Firemen have decided to end Daisy's suffering by having her put to sleep.

But this won't be done until after the county carnival today, so that all her friends and former playmates can stop in and say goodbye.

UP, INS Consolidation Cleared

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department has held that the consolidation of United Press and International News Service into the new United Press International was exempt from the anti-trust laws because INS was in "failing circumstances."

As a result, the department said, "We do not plan at the present time to move against this acquisition" under the anti-trust laws.

Assistant Attorney General Victor R. Hansen, chief of the Anti-Trust Division, reported the department's findings in a letter to Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press International.

He said the department had concluded after extensive investigation that the consolidation of the two press associations "falls squarely" within the "failing corporation section" of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

The supreme court has construed that section as meaning that a business which can show that it is in bad financial shape does not have to stay in operation.

Began Inquiry Immediately

Hansen noted that the department embarked on its inquiry immediately after learning of the United Press International news service consolidation.

He wrote Bartholomew that the Anti-Trust Division "moved promptly to secure those facts relevant to any determination of legality under Clayton Act, section 7."

Analyzed All Data

"With this in mind," Hansen wrote, "we have examined all the facts submitted to us. Beyond that, we have endeavored to verify such facts by independent inquiry."

"Against that background, we have concluded that INS's acquisition by UP falls squarely within the 'failing corporation exemption' to section 7 enunciated by the Supreme Court and adopted by the Congress.

"Accordingly, we do not plan at the present time to move against this acquisition under Clayton Act, section 7."

Earlier this week, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) asked the Justice Department to seek a temporary injunction to halt consolidation of the two news services.

A justice department spokesman, who said he had been briefed by Hansen, said "The INS had showed the Justice Department that it has been losing millions of dollars for the past 14 years."

The department spokesman added that "The United Press showed the Anti-Trust Division that on foreign service it was making money and on domestic service it was losing money." He added that "on the balance the situation was not particularly favorable."

The Supreme Court decision cited by Hansen was handed down by the Supreme Court on January 6, 1950.

Background Given

It involved an appeal by the International Shoe Co. from a Federal Trade Commission ruling ordering it to divest itself of the stock it had purchased in the McElwain Co., another shoe manufacturer.

The court, in a 6 to 3 decision, sustained International Shoe in its argument that it was not a violation of law for it to acquire "a corporation with resources so depleted and prospect of rehabilitation so remote, that it faces the grave probability of a business failure."

It also made the added stipulation that there must not be any other prospective buyer.

The decision set aside the FTC's order against International's acquisition of McElwain.

He said the B47 passed from north to south "in front of our plane, at a distance ranging from 500 to 1,000 feet."

"Two seconds after it passed, we were jolted by its slipstream," he said.

.20 Inch Of Rainfall Here Last Night

Rainfall in Pampa last night totaled .20 of an inch, according to the rain gauge atop the Pampa News Building. Pampa has received 1.10 of an inch of moisture in the past two days.

A pair of tornadoes rumbled side by side through southeast Harris county Thursday night, ripping a path of destruction a thousand feet wide and nearly a mile long.

There were no injuries, but the Department of Public Safety estimated the damage to the area near Barker, 30 miles east of Houston, at $5,000.

They said residents were warned by the sky, which turned purple about sundown, shortly before the tornadoes put in their appearance.

The DPS said only one of the tornadoes touched the ground, running for three-fourths of a mile before it dissipated.

It rammed across U.S. 90, bowling over power poles and leaving hot lines hanging four feet from the pavement.

It yanked a cattle trailer off a truck as the owner of the equipment watched, then tossed it into a pond.

It smashed five sheds and a barn on the Holley Ruly farm for an estimated $500 damage; caused $1,200 damage to the George Thomas home, $100 to the G. D. Waggoner home, and $1,000 damage to a barn it left roofless on the Book farm.

It smashed rice crops in the path of destruction. Windows were sucked from houses and rain poured in, creating extensive damage.

Man Is Killed In Typical Gangland Style

CHICAGO (UPI) — A man with a "cross on his forehead"—gangland slang for a marked man—was slain in typical underworld fashion Thursday night.

Authorities probed possible ties with the million-dollar All-gauer Fireside Restaurant blaze which took place several weeks ago.

Police said Vincent James Sparri, around 40, was gunned down by five men who shot him twice in the back and at least three times in the head.

A black notebook in the victim's pocket showed a floor-plan for a building basement, and the word "All-gauer" scrawled on it.

Sparri, also known as Dominic Albano, Vincent Costa, and by several other aliases, had apparently been "holding up" in the southwest apartment near which he was slain.

He was walking north on the street when a car pulled up and five men got out, shot him, then jumped back in the car and drove away.

Sparri's record showed he was wanted by the government on a federal narcotics charge, for violating the stolen automobile act, and had served time for robbery.

Mrs. Hickey Is Located; Doesn't Remember Mishap

Pampa Police finally found Mrs. J. W. Hickey, who was believed to have been the driver of a 1950 Buick that plunged into a culvert Tuesday night about 11:30 in the 1200 block of S. Barnes, Wednesday.

Mrs. Hickey told police that she didn't remember getting into her car and driving it and that she has blackout spells sometimes due to a heart condition.

Police are still investigating the accident and are looking for the truck driver who took Mrs. Hickey to a filling station after the accident.

Pat Boone To Get Degree

NEW YORK (UPI)—Singer Pat Boone will be graduated from Columbia University next Tuesday with high scholastic honors, the university disclosed Thursday.

A spokesman said the singer will be graduated magna cum laude—the second highest honor attainable—from the school of general studies.

Boone, who had a four-year "A" average, ranked in the upper five per cent of his class, the spokesman said.

General Motors, Auto Workers Fail To Reach Agreement

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors and the United Auto Workers early today failed to reach an agreement and 128 GM plants across the nation began operating without union contracts.

Negotiators for the UAW and GM met until 12:20 a.m. e.s.t., 20 minutes after the old contract, signed in 1955, terminated.

When the talks ended, the union had trimmed the cost of its demands considerably but the company said the price was still too high and agreement impossible.

There was no dramatic union call for a strike and no company orders for lockouts. Both sides in the past week had laid their plans to keep the 225,000 GM workers on the job on a no-contract basis.

The GM-UAW standoff at the bargaining table was expected to spread to Ford and Chrysler, which have contracts expiring Sunday night.

General Motors also turned down the request of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) for a contract extension to June 12. The IUE, representing about 20,000 GM workers, has thrown in its lot with the UAW, asking for the same contract.

First test of working without a contract was due today at Atlanta, Ga., where Memorial Day is not observed. GM Chevrolet Fisher Body and Buick—Oldsmobile-Pontiac plants were scheduled to operate there.

GM president Harlow H. Curtis has said all wages and benefits will continue at present rates. He said union committeemen will still get paid by the company to adjust worker grievances, but will get only half the time provided by the contract.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said the union will have no trouble maintaining its strength and dues collection and will win its goals "ultimately."

On her wedding day, this bride will look beautiful through the ceremony and the reception despite the crush of people and the bugs of well-wishers. Her secret lies in the care she takes to make her make-up both natural and long lasting. She uses the same care with fragrance. First, she uses spray mist in lily of the valley scent to create a cloud of fragrance about her (left). She applies a true-color lipstick (center) that leaves color on the lips even when the lipstick has been removed. And she finishes with perfume, matched in scent to the spray mist. She sprays it on at wrists and throat where it will last longest.

RUTH MILLETT

Mothers the country over seem to have had little luck in persuading their teen-age daughters that a girl misses a lot of fun by going steady when she is still in high school.

The girls have a mother-proof argument. They just say, "If you don't go steady you have to wait around hoping some leftover boy no girl is going steady with will ask you for a date. If you go steady you know you'll have a date for everything that comes along."

Mothers, being feminine, too, and setting as great store by security as do their daughters, find that argument hard to talk down.

But if the fathers of the country really put their minds to it they might be able to sell their sons on the idea that going steady is a lot less bright from a teen-age boy's point of view.

Fathers might have luck with this kind of approach: "I don't blame girls for wanting to go steady. Since they can't ask a boy for a date, they like the security of going steady with one boy so they can always be sure of having a date."

"But a boy is a sucker to tie himself down to one girl, when he could be going out with different girls every week."

"A man gives up that kind of freedom when he marries and settles down to one woman for life — and that is as it should be. But he's silly if he gives up the right to date any girl he pleases before he is engaged to be married."

"So if you have as much sense as I think you have, you won't let

Best Laid Plans Help Bride To Look Most Beautiful On Her Wedding Day

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

To walk in beauty on her wedding day is the dream of every bride-to-be. And lovely she will be, if she avoids exhaustion, beauty's foremost enemy.

Wedding preparations can be hectic, but they don't have to be. The secret lies in starting long enough in advance so that all the necessary details can be accomplished in a leisurely manner. And plan your beauty ahead, too.

If you're going to get a permanent, have it done several weeks before the big event so that all the frizziness will have vanished. And don't wait until the night before your wedding to wash and set your hair. Have it done two days ahead so that it will be soft and natural looking.

Make-up should be subtly applied on the day you walk down the aisle, for softness, not sophistication, is the keynote. And you must be certain, too, that your make-up will last through many hours.

Try using dry rouge. After you've applied it, set it with a dash of cold water on your cheeks. It will give it extra staying power.

Your face powder will stay on longer, too, if it is applied with a fluffy puff rather than a flat one.

Use eye make-up with a light touch, and if your brows and lashes are naturally dark, skip it altogether for this day.

Your lipstick should be true-color, and one famous beauty house offers a lipstick that is claimed to blend with every complexion and need little, if any, attention once applied.

To avoid sending your guests gaily off wearing your lipstick, try this method of applying it:

So far we've been working on the girls in trying to discourage steady dating. Maybe it would be a lot easier to convince the boys that going steady isn't such a smart idea.

Put on one coat, then blot. Apply another coat, wait two minutes, then blot again until no color appears on the tissue.

The fragrance for your wedding day should be delicate, but it, too, must last. There is a lovely new spray mist that is a blending of the essential oils of perfume with an aerosol medium. Spray it in the air and walk through the mist. The faint lily-of-the-valley scent should last for hours. After the spray, use a light perfume on all the pulse points. This will be the biggest day in your life. So plan it far enough ahead to avoid strain from weariness. Play down your make-up so that you look naturally lovely, and your dream will be realized—you'll truly walk in beauty.

There are 56,000 miles of oil pipelines in Texas, 33,000 miles being trunk lines and 23,000 miles gathering lines.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am single and occupy my evenings "sitting" with children. I've been asked to sit with four and five children at one home. Some people have the nerve to "pool" their children with the neighbors and I sit with them all for a flat fee of a dollar an hour. I'm expected to give them supper, baths and put them to bed. It is five times as much work to take care of five children as it is for one, so I think I should be paid by the CHILD, not the hour. I'd like the opinion of others as well as your own on this subject, please.

UNHAPPY WIFE
Dear Unhappy: It seems to me that if a girl is really interested in getting the facts about a man's marital status, it wouldn't be too difficult. Give your husband first chance to tell her. If he passes—it's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed a letter in your column from a father who complained because his wife slipped their teen-aged son extra money besides his allowance. He said the boy's allowance was "more than plenty." Please tell me how much, exactly, is "more than plenty?"

TEEN-AGED BOY
Dear Boy: "Plenty" should cover all necessary expenses (lunches, transportation, school supplies) and "more than plenty" should cover entertainment and non-essentials. It is my opinion that boys who are old enough to "date" are old enough to earn the money with which to do it.

DEAR ABBY: When I started to work at this place, the Assistant Manager asked me out. I refused him because I was going steady. My boyfriend and I broke up about a week ago and I would like to let the Assistant Manager know that I would like to go out with him. How can I inform him without pushing myself?

NO PUSHER
Dear No: You need an "assistant" too. Enlist the help of a co-worker, and let her (or him) give him the news.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on a letter signed "INHIBITED." Speaking from personal experience, Med students are the worst kind. Just because they know all about anatomy from textbooks and cadavers they think they are entitled to special privileges. I prefer Law students. They have more respect for girls.
BETTY CO-ED

CONFIDENTIAL TO R. E.:
Cameras don't lie but they sometimes exaggerate a little. Better see the girl in person first.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Shower Honors Miss J. Putnam

(Special to The News)

PERRYTON — Mrs. O. A. Schuster was hostess for a bridal shower recently honoring Miss Janie Putnam, bride-elect of Sam Schuster. Sharing the hostess duties with Mrs. Schuster were Mmes. Rex Clark, Spencer P. Whippo, L. H. Kaup, Lloyd Phillips, J. J. Keim Sr., Dick Barton, Fred Tillman, Warren Clements, W. L. Herndon, Harry Barlow, Nellie Mounts, and Wiley Moreland.

Mrs. Schuster received guests and Miss Glenda McGibbon presided at the guest book. Mrs. Duane Mounts, Dumas, cousin of the honoree, assisted with the gifts.

Corsages were presented by the hostesses to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. J. W. Putnam and Mrs. Kieth McLain, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

The tea table was covered with a white embroidered linen cloth centered with an arrangement of white daisies with white candles in silver holders at either side. Garden flower arrangements decorated the entertaining rooms. Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. McLain alternated at the crystal punch service. Approximately one hundred and twenty-five guests called or sent gifts during the appointed hours.

FIRMS

 Oil Co., Gulf Oil Corp., Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, Standard Oil Co. of California and the Texas Co.
 The government charged in the civil suit that the companies since 1928 had "engaged in an unlawful combination and conspiracy to restrain interstate and foreign commerce of the United States in petroleum and petroleum products." The companies denied the charges.
 More than 300 persons were subpoenaed during the grand jury investigation here. Recent witnesses included the chairmen of the boards of three major-oil firms.
 The criminal indictment charged that beginning in 1956 and continuing to January, 1957, the defendants engaged in a unlawful combination and conspiracy to raise, fix and stabilize prices of crude oil and gas throughout the market.
 The indictment accused each oil firm engaged in purchasing crude oil of agreeing to increase its posted crude oil prices through-out its area. It said each defendant engaged in marketing gasoline agreed to increase its auto-gas prices uniformly.
 The Justice Department said the following oil companies were indicted:
 Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp., Ash-land Oil and Refining Co., the At-lantic Refining Co., Carter Oil Co., Cities Service Co., Cities Service Oil Co. (Delaware), Continental Oil Co., D-X Sunray Oil Co., Esso Standard Oil Co., Gulf Oil Corp., Humble Oil and Refining Co., In-diana Oil Purchasing, Magnolia Petroleum Co., Monsanto Chemi-cal Co., Ohio Oil Co., Phillips Pe-troleum Co., Shell Oil Co., Sin-clair Crude Oil Co., Sinclair Oil Corp., Sinclair Refining Co., Skel-ly Oil Co., Socony-Mobil Co., Inc., Sohio Petroleum Co., Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), Standard Oil New Jersey, Standard Oil Ohio, and Sun Oil Co., Texas Co., and Tidewater Co.

Sub Sinks; Crewmen Escape

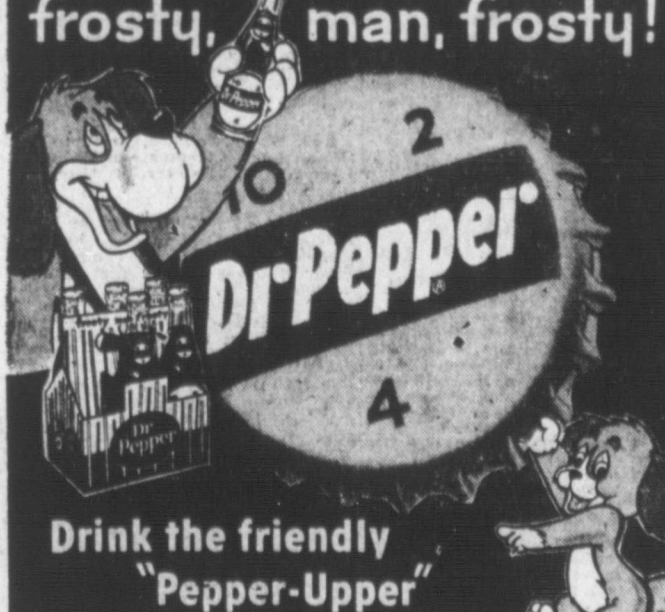

HONOLULU (UPI) The subma-rine Stickleback, rammed amid-ship by the destroy escort Sil-verstein, sank to the bottom of the Pacific Ocean Thursday night but all 82 crewmen escaped.
 No one was injured on either vessel.
 The Silverstein knocked a four-foot hole in the Stickleback's pressure hull frame during after-noon Navy maneuvers. The Stickleback later surfaced and tied up alongside the destroyer.
 Dist radio reports from the doomed submarine said the for-ward battery and control room was flooded. Another message said the Stickleback had a 20 de-gree list to port and a downbow of 15 degrees.
 But the submarine surfaced on its own power and the crew transferred to other vessels which sped to the scene.
 The repair ship Greenlet began towing the submarine back to drydock at Pearl Harbor but the Stickleback turned over and slipped beneath the waves.

Decline In Unemployed Continues

The number of unemployed workers drawing unemployment compensation benefits was reported Thursday night by the Labor Department.
 The number dropped by $2,000 in the week ended May 17 and brought the number of workers drawing jobless insurance down to 3,019,500. This still was sharply above the 1,364,200 listed a year ago.
 The decline was due in great part to the fact 55,000 workers exhausted their benefits. The other main factor was a seasonal pickup in outdoor work, mainly construction.
 The department also said job-less claims by newly-unemployed workers reached a six-months low in the week ended May 24 when such claims dropped by 34,700 to 324,500. During the comparable 1957 week, new claims numbered 212,500.

Oil Firms Deny Charges

HOUSTON (UPI)—Three Hous-ton-based oil firms, indicted Thursday on charges of price fixing by a federal grand jury in Alexandria, Va., have denied the charges.
 The Texas Company, the Hum-bly Oil and Refining Co., and Continental Oil Co. all charged that the federal indictment was returned on charges that are "com-pletely without foundation."
 Texaco said "we deny the charges... and say they are completely without foundation. Texaco, in accordance with its long-standing policy, has always acted independently and in strict compliance with the anti-trust laws."
 "The action of the Department of Justice in procuring this indictment represents a type of harass-ment which is misunderstood abroad and which does incalcu-lable harm to the prestige of our nation and American business throughout the world."
 Morgan J. Davis, president of Humble Oil, said his firm's long-standing policies of crude oil and product pricing violates no laws conspired with anyone to commt and that the company at no time any unlawful act.
 "It is deplorable," Davis said, "that in addition to the physical and economic problems oil companies must face daily in serving the American public, they must also be compelled to defend them-selves against unfounded, politi-cally inspired criticism at every turn."
 "It is to be hoped the friends of the petroleum industry and the public in general will recognize this attack in its true light," he said.
 L. F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil, branded the in-dictment as "ridiculous and il-logical."
 "It must be remembered that the indictment is simply a state-ment of charges—charges which we know are incorrect," he said. "We stand ready to prove in court our complete innocence of these charges."

Collision Fatal To Daughter
 SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI)— Cars driven by a woman and her pretty 18-year-old daughter col-lided head-on near their home Thursday killing the daughter.
 The girl, Diane Montgomery, was to have graduated from high school at exercises Thursday night.
 Mrs. Montgomery told officers when her daughter's car ap-proached on the wrong side of the road she thought it was a prank and that the girl would swerve away. But the car kept coming.
 Relatives said the girl had been "susceptible to fainting spells" and may have been unconscious before the collision. The mother was hysterical and was placed under a doctor's care.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Envoy H. C. SEAGO
The Salvation Army

To gain the material things of life we should look at God's word in Matthew 6:33.

But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

God also tells us to put on the whole, not half, armor of God in Ephesians 6:13-18. The armor is to cover us completely.

13. Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.

14. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness.

15. And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace;

16. Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

17. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God:

18. Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints.

We need everything that God can give us in these evil days. We should read and study the word of God daily to show thy self approved.

—Timothy 2:15

Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a work-man that needeth not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

Pray without ceasing. 1 Thes. 5:17

Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall. 1 Cor. 10:12

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. John 10:1

Our God must come first, we can do this by reading the Bible, make prayer a daily practice, go to church and ask a friend or our neighbors to go with us, and helping people in every way possible to come to God to know the peace that passeth all unstanding.

And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus. Philipians 4:7

The fruits of a good clean Christian is found in Galatians 5:22-23.

22. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith,

23. Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.

There won't be a whole mess of citizens shaking their heads and muttering, "Ain't this surprising," while spooning Sunday morning coffee cool.

Gimme Mah Shooting Iron

"Ah hope he does decide to go down to Texas," Pampa High's hoop hotshot, Bill Brown drawled the other day, after returning from a weekend romp over the "40 acres" sometimes called the University of Texas' Campus.

Good Skates...

Waltz me around again Willie... Dean Bettis and Jeanne Smith, a pair of skating smoothies, are eyeing the June 22-25 South Central Regional Skating Championships at Tulsa after recently winning first place in junior dance at the recent Panhandle Roller Skating Championships in Amarillo.

Flying Fishermen

Pampa anglers are still having superb luck. Ooops! I beg your pardon, showing super skill. Thomas W. Walker, Lawrence Flaherty of Borger and Kenneth Prather reeled in 225 white bass over the weekend at Canton Reservoir. And no old battered fishing jalopy for these gents, they make their fishing trips in Flaherty's private plane. Yeah, for the life of leisure!

Bold Ruler Races At Belmont Today

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bold Ruler and Gallant Man, bitter turf rivals last year, resume their feud today in the 58th running of the $59,300 Carter Handicap at Belmont Park, with some other top-flight horses joining in.

Ten horses are entered for today's seven furlong race, an event always remembered for its 1944 renewal when a triple dead heat for first place was recorded. The photo finish camera could not determine between Bossuet, Walt A Bit and Brownie as they crossed the finish line—the only triple dead heat in American stakes history.

Major Loops Will Do Some Swapping

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International
Look for a big rush in baseball's trading market the next two weeks with all clubs making their annual frantic effort to cash in on that one final deal before the "windows close" on the June 15 deadline.

Over in the American League, the teams are even more desperate to make a deal than in the National. The Yankees' fast start, of course, has a lot to do with the general atmosphere of urgency on the part of the seven other clubs.

Only the off-by-themselves Yankees feel they can stand pat and still win, but all the other clubs are of a mind and mood to swing a deal—and that includes the world champion Milwaukee Braves.

Dallas-FW Want Majors

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—A survey committee of Dallas and Fort Worth officials today studied possibilities of attracting big league baseball, football and other sports to the area by building a major athletic stadium between the two cities.

Reaction ranged from enthusiasm on the part of the original proposers from Fort Worth to cautious endorsement from Dallas representatives.

Fast '500 Field Off

By ED SAWSBURY
United Press International
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—A record payoff for a record speed was forecast today for the daring driver who defies death for nearly four hours to whip the field in the 42nd 500 mile auto race.

There were several favorites in the fastest field in history, which qualified for the $300,000 run at an average speed of 143.445 miles per hour, but the risk of destruction for the slightest mistake make even a favorite lucky to finish the chase.

The outstanding choice was Jimmy Bryan, national driving champion in three of the last four years and third in the 1957 500, even though his qualifying speed of 144.135 miles per hour was only eighth fastest in the starting field of 33.

Drives Hanks Car
Bryan will be driving the car in which Sam Hanks, now retired, won a record $103,844 for victory last year. This year the winner should receive more from an increased overall purse. Only one other car in the field to be driven by rookie Judd Larson has won the race, carrying Pat Flaherty home first in 1956.

But every other car was given a chance to win since durability is almost as important as speed. Every driver has only one strategy to follow, pass everybody ahead until there is nobody in front and then stay there.

Two of the drivers set qualifying speed records, Dick Rathmann at 145.974 for four laps, and Ed Elisian at 146.508 for one lap. The slowest qualifying car, driven by Bill Cheeseburg, hit a speed of 142.546.

Record Anticipated
Prospects for a new record were high since the weather forecast was favorable and drivers indicated they expected to run about 142 miles per hour at least early in the chase. Hanks set a current record at 136.610 miles per hour last year.

The weather outlook was for a partly cloudy day with a high temperature in the low eighties. However, the wind was expected to reach 15 to 22 miles per hour during the race, and it could hamper the speeds.

Rathmann, Elisian and Jimmy Reece, the only drivers who qualified at a speed of 145 miles per hour, shared the favorite ranking along with Bryan while Jim Rathmann, three years younger than his brother and runnerup to Hanks last year, and Pat O'Connor also were rated among the more likely victors. Elisian qualified at a speed of 145.926 miles per hour. Reece at 145.513, Jim Rathmann at 143.147, and O'Connor at 144.823.

Journal On School

On the whole we liked what the Ladies' Home Journal has published in its May, 1958 issue about schools. The magazine has gone all out to approach this leading problem in a variety of stimulating ways. To accomplish this it has presented four articles in series, the first two of which are featured and are excellent. The third one, in our opinion is mediocre and the final article should have escaped publication.

Still, taken as a unit, the approach is unique and helpful. The leading article was prepared by A. Whitney Griswold, president of Yale University. Dr. Griswold puts his finger on the government high school, and his index job at the failure of this institution ought to give the NEA a painful jolt in the ribs.

It is now generally recognized thruout the United States that our high schools are not performing adequately one of the two main functions they are supposed to perform in our educational system. This is the function of a bridge between elementary school and college. Whatever they may be accomplishing in preparation for citizenship of students who do not go on to college—and there is widespread dissatisfaction with that, too—as bridges to higher education they are buckling in the middle.

With that as an opener, Dr. Griswold points out that the people themselves are going to have to provide the solution. He indicates distrust of any further government meddling in the educational business, especially from Washington.

While Dr. Griswold does not suggest that the government pull out of the educational business entirely, he leaves the field open for that conclusion by making it plain that the job is up to the people themselves. Clearly, if the people cannot or must not call on their government to pull them out of the muddle, then there is little reason to insist on the government in the school business, which has caused the basic muddle in the first place.

Quite properly, Dr. Griswold sums up his position. "A nation's schools are part of its culture and the indifference with which ours have been treated bespeaks a cultural rather than an economic failing. The pages of history are full of instances of the collapse of nations and decline and disappearance of civilizations that began with cultural decay."

The second article comes from the pen of writer Glenn Matthews White and is called, "The Challenge of This Century." Mr. White is concerned, not with the backward child but rather with students of exceptional promise and ability. He lauds with fervor the Gifted Child Committee which was formed in Palo Alto in 1953 and which concentrates on stimulating academic excellence among pupils with I. Q.'s of 140 or better. This committee also encourages students with lower I. Q.'s who are doing outstanding work in certain subjects.

The merit of the program, which of course, is handled within the framework of the government schools themselves, lies in the fact that the normal appeal to mass standards has been abandoned in a sincere effort to create excellence. This is contrary to the ordinary procedure of the government coercive pattern and for that reason is especially noteworthy and commendable.

The results have been astonishingly favorable. The following observations have been made about the program to date: (1) Children singled out for special attention do not create a "snob" group; (2) children excluded from the program generally are not jealous or envious; (3) many more children than previously supposed can profitably skip a grade in elementary school; (4) when exceptionally able children are grouped for a class in one subject, their work improves in other classes.

All of which causes us again to look at the superiority of the private or independent school, which if it can function entirely outside of government control or influence, would normally strive for just such academic excellence as the Gifted Child Committee is seeking. The outstanding fact about this Palo Alto experiment is that it has been permitted to occur within the coercive framework of the tax-supported school. If author White had checked into private and independent schools, he might have found that this procedure was far more normal there than he had supposed.

The third article in the quartet was prepared by Dr. Benjamin Spock, a medic. Dr. Spock is afraid of pushing students beyond their abilities.

If his fear would only crystallize in a program to keep the kiddies home who aren't educable, we'd be all for it. As it is, Dr. Spock takes the opposite track from that of Mr. White, and comes off rather second best.

The final piece, written by Journal editor Margaret Hickley, is sticky. It concerns mental health, psychiatry in schools and the spending of a lot more of the taxpayer's money to make the schools sort of hospital annexes instead of confining them to their proper function.

On the whole, however, we think the Ladies Home Journal is to be commended for using so much of its space on this vital problem. And a few more articles such as Dr. Griswold's and Mr. White's would not be amiss.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOLES

Union Man Defends Compulsory Unionism

I am continuing to quote questions asked a defender of the closed shop and his answers, together with my comments.

The union man was asked this question: "Is it not the aim of every man who does not belong to the union so he will have to join?"

Here is the answer of the union man: "Right, Mr. Editor. That is as it should be. A man who refuses to join his fellow workers in a union to better wages and working conditions is a foe of his fellow workers and is eyed with suspicion by them. Forcing him to join is just another function of majority rule, which you do not believe in. Yes, Mr. Editor, seniority should prevail. It prevails in our Senate & Congress and also in many other endeavors. Naturally the older men have the seniority, because they were there first. As older men pass away the younger men will then enjoy the seniority."

Now we have the picture of the man who believes in the closed shop. And he is undoubtedly sincere in believing the union men have a natural right, a God-given right to starve out any man who doesn't agree with them; who believes everybody will be better off under a free and unhampered market than giving any fraction of employees or employers the right to deprive another man of his God-given natural right to pursue happiness.

The man who will answer questions without evasion and believes in principles does not regard a man who creates wealth and puts more into the world than he takes out as his foe. He regards him as a citizen of integrity; a man who is useful to mankind. He regards him as the same as an inventor or a man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before. Yet this union man is contending that this man should be starved into submission.

There we have the real picture of the ideologies of the closed shop.

The union man contends that the editor does not believe in majority rule. There are certain things that the editor believes should not be settled by majority rule. A man should not be compelled to join a church because of majority, or read a book or do a job because the majority said he should. Nor should he be obliged to work at the wages determined by the majority, whether it be less or more.

Would Mr. Union Man contend that a woman must marry the man the majority of a union specifies she must marry?

Seniority

Seniority is all right when everything else is equal, but seniority is harmful if it keeps a man on a machine who does not produce as much on it as other men are willing and capable of producing. If it requires an employer to keep a man who cannot produce enough that the employer can sell his product without a loss, then seniority is absolutely wrong. Only when everything else is equal should seniority prevail. And because the government adopts seniority is no proof that it is right according to the Decalogue and the Declaration of Independence and the Golden Rule and the "Love thy neighbor as thyself" commandment.

This union man seems to worship civil law and whatever the majority specifies.

Would he contend that it was all right and moral and just that one man had a right to own another man, as was the civil law before the 13th Amendment that abolished slavery in 1865?

The union man was asked this question: "If unions can raise total wages without causing unemployment and benefit all mankind, then why not triple the wages?" He never answers that question. He just denies that unions cause unemployment in this manner: "Unions do not cause unemployment. Could you honestly say today's unemployment is caused by unions? Of course not. Nobody seems to know the right answer to today's unemployment. I don't see how you can contend raising wages causes unemployment. The more wages a worker earns the more he will spend, and more workers are needed then to produce what his extra dollars have been spent for. Improvement in machinery and automation are a very definite cause of unemployment."

Repeating Reuther's Propaganda. The fact of the matter is, if arbitrarily increasing wages to more than what a man produces as measured by a free market does not cause unemployment, then why do they not arbitrarily double or triple wages if it does not cause unemployment and better mankind as a whole as they claim?

The simple reason is that it does cause unemployment when wages are raised above production. When the worker produces the wages he gets and his product can be sold and benefits the buyer, then, of course, this kind of wage does not cause unemployment, but it is wages above production that cause unemployment. And the consumer who buys the product, who is another worker, past or present, is the final judge of whether he wishes to buy the products of arbitrary wages.

Certainly rational men who believe in free enterprise know exactly why we have unemployment.

Robert Allen Reports:

McElroy Having Difficult Time On Satellite Plans

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Neil McElroy is having a difficult time producing the "large, bold, firm planning" on missiles and satellites that he promised months ago.

His three top Pentagon assistants in charge of these supremely important fields are bogged down in a welter of official gobbledegook.

Directed by McElroy early this year, under Senate Armed Services Committee prodding, to formulate a comprehensive and cohesive missile-space program, these three officials have finally made a report to him that is a maze of bafflegab.

If it says anything, neither McElroy nor anyone else has been able to figure out what it is. Consisting of three pages of single-spaced typing and one chart that is as incomprehensible as the rest of the document, this result of prolonged cogitating and conferring has been tossed back to these three officials with demands for an explanation of what it means — if anything!

Authors of this remarkable whodunit are: Assistant Defense Secretary Paul Foote, in charge of Research and Engineering; William Holdaday, director of Guided Missiles; and Roy Johnson, head of the Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Senate Armed Services Committee, after studying this perplexing report, have reached two conclusions: These three Pentagon officials were either unable or unwilling to draft a plan to coordinate and integrate the rival multi-billion dollar missile-space activities of the armed services.

To cover this up, a report was submitted which uses a lot of high-flown language but says nothing of any consequence. McElroy asked his three missile-space assistants will be closely questioned about this backstage situation when the Committee considers the Pentagon reorganization legislation.

Following are publishable highlights of this curious document: "PROBLEM: To delineate the relationships between the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Research and Engineering), the Director of Guided Missiles and the Director, Advanced Research Projects Agency.

"DISCUSSION: The relationship between all three individuals is one of close interdependence from the standpoint of keeping each other informed as to the breakthroughs, advances and requirements in their respective fields. The Director of Guided Missiles and the Director of ARPA probably have a closer and considerably different relationship than either has with the ASD (R & E) because many of the vehicles and components developed for military weapons systems under the direction of the Director of Guided Missiles may be utilized by the

It is interference by the government and labor unions in a free and unhampered market. Of course, a man who gets a higher wage because he produces more also spends more and benefits himself and all mankind, but the man who gets an artificial wage that he does not earn as judged by a free market causes unemployment. Would Mr. Union Man contend that a robber increased purchasing power or only transferred it? Or a man receiving a gift increases purchasing power or transfers it? It seems to me that artificially high wages arrived at under duress only transfer purchasing power but do not increase it, any more than the robber increases purchasing power. (To be continued)

Mayor's Aide Endorses Cop, 'Vigilante' Violence

J. Ralph Granara, a not-too-popular Bostonian writing on the mayor's letterhead, from a social background of the waterfront, has endorsed violent physical repartee between cops and joyous vigilantes who battle for the lord on the one hand, and the hordes of delinquency on the other. Mr. Granara craves the privilege of this forum for a rough-hewn discourse in favor of chastity, chivalry and the inexpressible satisfaction of virtue incarnate towering over the horizontal hoodlum. In the absence of objection he will have the floor as follows:

"I grew up in a section circled by the docks that berthed tramp steamers from all over the world and next door to the Navy Yard. Each section of the district had gang fights with our fists and it was not our way to put the boots to a down opponent or resort to any club, knife, or filed-down belt buckle. Innocent bystanders were included in our galas only by invitation from a qualified combatant and damage to property was purely incidental and very seldom.

"There was a bully in each gang and it was my fortune to a fall foul of one. My father, a man of majestic honor and impressive indignation, over my mother's protest, made me wage combat and we fought two hours on a lumber wharf. We were about 13. We were a bloody mess at the end but neither he nor any other bothered me again.

"We sometimes stepped out of line and the cop on the beat would fly fly some backhanders, he usually would tell the old man, and we got two lickings instead of one with no editorial lamentations over police brutality. Nobody ever sued the city or anything any cop ever did to any brat of our set.

"Out of that jungle came some of the most distinguished men of our glorious republic including clerics named Butch, Duke, Flip and The Deacon. I saw The Deacon leave helpless on the ground one of the toughest fighters in the district with his jaw broken in two places, his nose flattened and numerous teeth missing. This fresh guy had cracked out of turn to a couple of real nice girls. The Deacon today is well on his way to be a prince of the church.

"Your own proposal of bodily violence will bring outrages from public leaders who encourage young storm troopers to ever more wanton abuse of the well-behaved. But violence will put down violence if we always bear in mind and honor the precept of Captain Barnes of the Chicago Police that cops are paid to win fights, not to lose them.

"A few years ago a gang of teen-age bums congregated near my home, respecting nobody and least of all the real nice, respectable girls of that section. Twice my own two teen-age daughters were targets of their dirty language. Twice I warned them, to be answered with language which caused my cheeks to blanch with mortification. The third time, I drove downtown to a gym where I enlisted three partisans. Returning, three veterans of numerous waterfront disorders accepted with pleasure my invitation to proceedings. We arrived in two cars and with no protocol the slugging began. We laid low six and the rest took it on the dango but the entire exercise was over all too soon.

As time has gone by these young men have accumulated civility, manners and a chivalrous respect for members of the opposing gender. They will change a tire or wash my car and they always call me 'mister'.

"I am persuaded that I and my friends diverted these worthy boys from prison and degradation. All of them are married now, save one to whom I paid my special courtesies in the combat looks like a very good natural welterweight. He jabs like a pilderiver, he is split higher than a basketball player and I am trying to cure a tendency to chin himself on left hooks. I keep telling him what Dempsey did to Sharkey that night in the Yankee Stadium. But this generation is brain-washed. He says who is Dempsey?

"Give me a hundred young, tough cops with a sprinkling of football men, boxers and combat soldiers, in squads of five in 20 cars, and I will cure delinquency in any city the size of Boston. Give me a few more of the same and I will pacify New York.

"The time has come to give the bum's rush to the hysterical fakery who have been protecting these killers. Let us meet the enemy on his own terms on his own grounds and break many beaks and jaws and scatter a few teeth.

"I am, Sincerely, Colonel Ralph Granara, Press Sec. and Asst. Dir., Public Relations, Mayor's Office, City of Boston, City Hall.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M.D.

A letter from Mrs. F. asks for a discussion of Hodgkin's disease. She is particularly interested because her 23-year-old son has been diagnosed as having it.

This is a strange but fortunately somewhat uncommon disorder. It received its name from Dr. Thomas Hodgkin, who first described it in 1852. Its cause remains unknown.

The disease is more common in young people than in older ones and more frequent in men than in women.

Usually (but not always), enlargement of the lymph glands in the neck is the first sign noticed. The swollen glands are not painful. Slowly glands in other parts of the body may become enlarged.

The disease does not interfere with general health for a long time, but gradually anemia tends to develop. Low fever is often present and the patient slowly loses weight.

THE LYMPH GLANDS and the spleen which are affected in Hodgkin's disease are part of a chain or group of tissues called the reticuloendothelial system.

The fact that this system is attacked has raised the question of some infection being at fault. So far, however, no germ or virus has been proved responsible.

The patient with Hodgkin's disease usually goes through periods of remarkable improvement. The enlarged lymph glands may disappear almost completely.

Occasionally the disease turns out surprisingly well. For example, there is a report of a patient with extensive proved Hodgkin's disease at the age of seven who finished college, is now working as a newspaper man, is married and the father of a child.

X-RAYS HAVE been used in treatment for many years. They often cause improvement lasting for months at a time. Treatment with drugs has not been particularly successful.

There have been several favorable reports on the treatment of patients who have Hodgkin's disease with preparations called "nitroxy mustards." These substances seem to be quite helpful for some patients and are used extensively. Other chemical substances have been and are being tried.

"In view of the great interest in this disease, and the research being conducted on it, we can hope for new information which will improve today's treatment methods.

'Kraft Theatre' Does A Good Job On 'Boy Called Ciske'

BY WILLIAM EWALD
NEW YORK (UPI)—NBC-TV's "Kraft Theatre" trotted out the kind of story Wednesday night that had everything wrong with it, but strangely enough, it all came out fine.

"A Boy Called Ciske" was the name of the drama and it was one of those Spencer Tracy-Mickey Rooney things about a bad boy who was brought around by love and understanding and liberal applications of schmalz.

It was a familiar old crotch with a standard set of characters (the drunken mother, the perceptive teacher, the physical weakling friend), a plot line that snaked along a freely charitable path and an ending almost as predictable as the American League pennant race.

In different hands, it might have been unbearable, the sort of dramatic excursion that collapses in a bog of emotional squash. But Kraft in recent weeks has been operating under a new team of craftsmen who seem to give everything they tackle a shot of class.

It was craft that not only saved "A Boy Called Ciske," but made it a gripper, an honest tigger with substance and core.

Kraft hasn't been bothering much lately with "stars"—instead, it has concentrated its efforts upon casting actors for its parts, a rather peculiar course of action for a TV drama show. As a result, Wednesday night's play, like all those on Kraft in recent weeks, received some solid performances from its players.

Peter Lazer, a youngster who shouldered most of the burden, turned in a clean and glossy job, unmarred by the mugging that child actors usually inject into their performances. Young Lazer got some excellent crutching from Peter Cookson as the understanding teacher and Sally Gracie as the alcoholic, no-goodnik mother.

One further note: I'm for changing the name of the show to "Craft Theatre."

Lowell Thomas, a gentleman who seems to be as ubiquitous as oxygen, wound up in Morocco Wednesday night in the concluding episode of his CBS-TV "High Adventure" specials.

Morocco is the place with leather, Berber tribesmen, sand vipers, the Atlas Mountains, Casablanca and frightening looking harems from which we get the term scarem-harem.

Thomas, aided by his color cameras, spent an hour showing us these things as well as some of the local characters including a Berber barber (or was it a barber Berber?), a dancer, a fire-eater and a medicine man who treated a woman with anxiety symptoms by whacking her on the rear with a sacred slipper, a treatment that looked cheaper than analysis although a bit hard on the seat.

I would say it was a pretty successful hour as these things go and I am particularly pleased to report that the writing in these "High Adventure" things seems to have improved a good deal, too.

Wilbur Says Average Guy 'Over-Crisised'

By DOC QUIGG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — "The way I got it figured," said Wilbur, our office grouch, "is that the average guy has faced so many crises in the last few months that he's over-crisised. He's numb. Not in a state of shock—I wouldn't say that. Just numb."

What makes you feel that way, old man?

"Because he just doesn't react," said Wilbur. "You ask him how he feels about the Sputnik threat or the H-bomb menace, and he just stands there kind of bleary-eyed. You ask him does he think the recession is winning, losing, or drawing. He just spreads his arms."

"I tell you the average guy around this town has been hit with the news of so many international crises that he's lost his capacity to get excited. My grandpa used to tell me that back in the gay nineties, when things were slower and men had time to form an opinion, you couldn't even say the words 'free-silver' out on the streets without starting a fight."

"A generation ago, the Black Sox scandal was a bombshell in baseball. But nowadays, you ask the average New Yorker what he thinks about the Giants and the Dodgers leaving town, and does he cloud up and holler?"

"He does not. He looks helpless thinks about the Giants and the Dodgers leaving town, and does he cloud up and holler?"

"He does not. He looks helpless and quasi-sullen and replies mildly: 'Let 'em go.' The fight has gone out of him because of the eternal crisis-posture of his existence."

"You ask him his opinion of the what posed by the sack dress; all he can do is look blank and say 'Aaahh.'"

On The Business Scene

By United Press International
F.W. Dodge Corp. reported construction contracts in April were 4 per cent above April, 1957. In the first three months of the year awards had fallen 11 per cent below the like 1957 period. Residential building contracts in April were 1 per cent over the 1957 period.

The Committee for Economic Development announced the formation of an independent 25-man commission to undertake the first full-scale investigation of the nation's monetary policies in a half-century. The blue-ribbon commission will make recommendations aimed at promotion of more effective economic policy.

U.S. Steel Corp. is taking final steps to bring its new and enormous iron ore properties in the Quebec-Labrador area into production. "Big Steel's" Quebec subsidiary, Quebec Cartier Mining Co., issued a call for bids to construct two of the largest segments of the project—a 193-mile railroad and a 60,000 horsepower hydro-electric plant.

Gobel Reminded Of Vacation He Went On Last Summer

By GEORGE GOBEL
Written for UPI
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — For no particular reason that I can think of, I am reminded of a vacation trip I went on just last summer. See, it all came about one day when Alice—you know Alice. She's an income tax deduction that never quite paid off.

But anyway, Alice said, "George, I think it's time we got away from it all." By "all" she meant three children, a dog named Spooky, two parakeets, a goldfish and her mother—which I have listed in the order of their importance.

"George," she went on, as is her wont, "it's time we went away on a second honeymoon." And I said, "What are you talking about? The first one hasn't even taken yet." Well, this went over like a bucket full of turkey eggs, so off we went to the hideaway lodge, and I knew it was gonna be a fun spot as soon as I saw the sign that said, "Bar closed on Saturday night."

But we took a room and I'll say this for it; it had a beautiful view, overlooking an abandoned weasel farm. I think they're nice. Then as soon as we got unpacked we went down to dinner, and that was kind of an adventure. See, at this place they gave each guest a napkin ring and a napkin and you had to use this napkin for three meals. And let me say this, after a chop suey dinner, a goulash breakfast and a spaghetti lunch you had yourself a pretty greasy napkin.

After dinner, we went into the recreation room and right away a guy rushes up to me and says, "My name is Simpson and I'm in oil."

Well, it turns out this Simpson is there with his wife and she was another fun-loving sport. See, she hated television and everybody in it—especially short comedians with crew cuts. And as if

This little trip taught me one thing and I'd like to pass it on to you: With vacation time coming up be sure to watch out for four things. Poison ivy, poison oak, snake bite and anybody who says to you, "Let's go on a vacation."

So long, neighbors.

The word "trump" in a card game is a corruption of the French "trionphe," meaning "triumph."

And as if
