Nationalists Win First Air Victory

By AL KAUF
United Press International
TAIPEI (UPI)—The Chinese Nationalists, scoring their first air victory in more than two years, shot down at least two and probably three Russian-made MIGs over the Formosa Strait today, it was announced here.

A Nationalist jet did not return from the dogfight 14 miles south of the Matsu Islands, officially because it was crippled by "engine failure." Search craft found no trace of the missing jet.

One Communist pilot parachuted into the sea. A race between Nationalist and Communist patrol boats seeking to be the first to reach him developed into a running gunfight.

The Communists won the race, but the Nationalist Defense Ministry said one Red gunboat was sunk in the sea skirmish.

Later in the day, three Communist gunboats attempted to invade the waters off Nationalist China's northern outpost Matsu Islands but were driven off by Nationalist coast artillery, according to the official Central News Agency.

It said the Communist boats had rubber landing barges roped to their sides. The three warships pulled ahead of a fleet of Red gunboats and attempted what appeared to be an invasion stab at the Matsus, the agency said.

An Air Force spokesman said crewmen of a U.S. destroyer escort saw "at least two" Red jets crash in flames. A third MIG was "missing from its flight formation" when it returned to the Red-held mainland, the spokesman said.

Authoritative Chinese sources said that three Communist planes were destroyed in the dogfight, but the spokesman could not confirm the third kill.

Eight MIGs tangled with seven U.S.-made Sabre jets in the third air battle reported so far in Nationalist Chiang's "vest pocket war." The Communists shot down two Nationalist planes in an earlier encounter, and the Red radio said today they damaged two more in a clash Wednesday.

24 Americans On Board

Airplane Crashes In Atlantic Ocean

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI)—A KLM Super Constellation with 99 persons aboard crashed into the Atlantic Ocean today on a flight from Amsterdam to New York.

Officials of the KLM Royal Dutch Airlines conceded that the wreckage of a plane sighted 130 miles west of Shannon was theirs. They feared the death toll was heavy.

At the Hague, KLM announced that there were at least 24 Americans aboard.

The wreckage was sighted first on the radar of a British Overseas Airways Corp. airliner on a New York-to-London flight.

No Sign of Life

One of six Royal Air Force long range Shackleton planes, dispatched from points in Ireland,

England and Scotland to search along the airliner's route, reported sighting the wreckage at 8:45 a.m.

The Shackleton reported it saw bodies in the water, floating wreckage and a few half-inflated life rafts. It reported no sign of life.

All indications were that the plane was beaten down into the sea by a heavy thunderstorm.

KLM officials said the plane was at 16,000 feet when it sent out its last radio message.

An Air Ministry official said the plane may have been struck by lightning.

Hot Search For Percolator Lid

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—A percolator lid disappeared in a Tulsa department store Wednesday and store officials alerted police.

A full search of the large store was planned, but just before the inch hunt they arrested Charles West, 18, an employee of the store, and charged him with taking the lid.

West confessed.

Store officials whisked the lid away from him and put it in a vault for safekeeping.

Today, the lid was back on its percolator, on display in the store.

Too much fuss for a coffee pot lid?

It's valued at $30,000 and is solid gold with incrustured rubies and diamonds.

Crowds Praise Men Who Shot Him

Boyd Police Chief Is Wounded

BOYD, Tex. (UPI)—Police Chief Lee Cockrell was shot down on Main Street Wednesday night and nearly half the population of this little town gathered to praise the men that shot him.

Cockrell was shot twice in the back and once in the arm trying to arrest three men who allegedly threatened to take Mayor W. B. Horn on a "one-way ride" if he didn't fire the police department.

Cockrell was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in Fort Worth, seriously wounded.

After the shooting, about 200 persons of the 500 in this Wise county town gathered around the city hall. "I hope he's dead," cried a voice from the crowd. "We sure won't miss him," yelled another. There were few women in the group.

Battle Accounts Vary

"People who live around here are afraid to come to town," said a service station operator. "They were afraid they'd get a ticket."

Cockrell was reported "much improved" today after undergoing an operation to set his arm. It was broken by the slug that hit it.

Accounts of the gunbattle varied, and Wise county Sheriff Carl Ramsey said he had not yet completed his investigation.

Highway patrolmen and sheriff's officers from Decatur were rushed to the scene soon after the crowd started to gather, but there was no violence.

The crowd complained against the police department. They complained of beatings and false arrests.

Curbed Them

Cockrell, 48, started a search for the three men who allegedly threatened the mayor. The men were identified as Orville Lee Peel, 22, Warren Saulters, 23, and Joseph Earl Henderson, 21.

No charges were immediately filed against them.

Cockrell said that he found the three men and forced their car to the curb. He stepped out with his pistol drawn.

Saulters got out and leveled his shotgun at a deputy accompanying Cockrell. Cockrell ordered him to drop the shotgun.

Saulters complied, but Henderson came up from behind Cockrell and shot the chief. Cockrell whirled and fired, but said he didn't know whether any of his shots took effect.

Felt Sting in Shoulder

Henderson denied he had any part in the shooting. He said he was standing near a watermelon stand and suddenly felt a sting in his shoulder.

He was taken to a clinic in Azle with a bullet wound in his shoulder.

A witness, 14-year-old Jerry Nelson, told a somewhat different story. He said Cockrell stopped the three men at the watermelon market and told them he was tired of their "hot-rod" around town.

Nelson said the chief and his deputy tried to get the three men into the police car. When they refused, the boy said, Cockrell fired a pistol shot at Saulters' feet but didn't hit him.

Says Gromyko Has Uttered 'Nonsense'

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International
UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd gave full support to President Eisenhower's Middle East peace plan today and blasted Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko for uttering "just plain nonsense."

Lloyd called for private talks at the United Nations to arrange details of Eisenhower's six-point Mideast plan. He said Gromyko's charges of aggression by the United States and Britain were unfounded. The Soviet official, he said, "has got the record wrong."

In fact, Lloyd said, it is the Russians who have been shipping arms to the Middle East and attempting "to whip fears of war and to create a kind of international hysteria."

Eisenhower Wednesday proposed a do-it-yourself economic program for the Arab world. He suggested establishment of a U. N. standby peace force and emphasized the need for action in the world organization to safeguard Lebanon and Jordan.

Hammarskjold's Big Role

Lloyd told the General Assembly's emergency session today he thought it would be "unwise" to go into details of these plans at this stage.

"One of the advantages of our meeting here is that we have the opportunity of private consultation and discussion," he said.

Lloyd put forth his views as U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's peace-making role was assuming increasing importance. There was belief that the entire problem might eventually be turned over to him. This task would include helping set up an economic development organization and forming a U. N. peace force for the Middle East.

Lloyd lambasted Gromyko for his speech Wednesday in which he denounced the United States and the United Kingdom for "aggression" in the Middle East.

On the other hand, Lloyd said, "President Eisenhower's address was an admirable introduction."

"Just Plain Nonsense"

Lloyd's backing of Eisenhower's peace plan came after the Arabs and Communists reluctantly conceded that the President had outlined a constructive program to end the threat of war. But the emphasis was on Soviet charges of "aggression" against the U.S. and Britain.

Lloyd said the assembly was meeting to consider Lebanon's and Jordan's complaint of outside interference, not to consider Russia's demand for the immediate ouster of American and British forces. Gromyko's charge of aggression, Lloyd said, "is just plain nonsense."

Britain's position was more difficult than that of the United States. Jordan itself was created by Britain after World War I from the ruins of greater Syria and young King Hussein has been the repeated victim of Egyptian propaganda attacks. For the past several days Western diplomats in Cairo have heard rumors of new attempts planned against Hussein.

Today in Cairo an Egyptian source, giving a cool and even angry reception to the Eisenhower proposals, asked how U. N. or even British forces could stop a bullet from killing King Hussein. And it was generally believed any grab of Jordan would send Israeli troops into the nation in self protection.

Senate Calls For Hoffa's Testimony

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee, plainly unsatisfied with the explanation it got about Teamsters affairs in Kansas, called today for the testimony of James R. Hoffa.

The Teamsters international president sat on the sidelines all day Wednesday while a former governor of Kansas, union officials and a taxi company president described the unique labor contract that grew out of a 1953-54 cab strike in Wichita, Kan.

The committee was told the Teamsters Union paid the city's four taxi companies $15,000 on condition their cab drivers voted to adopt a union shop.

It heard several reasons for the payment, the contract gave the union an important stake in a stable taxi industry; the long strike had hurt the taxi business and it needed revitalizing; the companies were entitled to the money as damages stemming from strike violence.

But both Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) and Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Nebr.) indicated they could think of a simpler explanation. They pointed to the contract clause that voided the $15,000 payment.

Fire Destroys School House At Mobeetie

A fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Mobeetie High School last night.

The fire started about 8 p.m., it was estimated, in the north end of the school building and quickly spread throughout the rest of the structure. Firemen from Wheeler, Mobeetie and Shamrock fought the fire until about 2 a.m. this morning.

Mrs. L. A. Reeves, wife of Superintendent L. R. Reeves of the Mobeetie schools, said, "we smelled the smoke about 10 p.m., but when we went outside to look we couldn't see any flames. We took off for the school house and when we got there we could see it blazing on the north end."

Mrs. Reeves said that the building, that houses grades 7 through 12, was "completely demolished and the estimated damage is $150,000."

"School was to have started Aug. 29 and all of the churches here have donated their buildings to us. We still have a grade school at Old Mobeetie and we could hold classes there if we have to," Mrs. Reeves said.

The Reeves and agricultural teacher Jerry Swarts, were the first ones to arrive on the scene. Swarts immediately called the Wheeler Fire Department.

When they arrived, the building was pretty well burned but the firemen of the three towns received praise from citizens of Mobeetie for keeping the fire from spreading through the north end of town.

The only thing salvaged from the fire were some steel cabinets that had the students' grades in them.

The school board of Mobeetie scheduled a meeting this afternoon for 1 p.m. to decide a place for their students to go to school and to decide on the final damage amount.

The society's museum is situated on the campus of West Texas State College and contains 40,000 square feet of space for display and storage. The museum has a permanent staff of four and uses around twelve students on a part-time basis to help with museum work.

Club visitors and guests for the day were Nevt Secret, Cleo Wilson, Ed Weatherly, Audie Morgan, Frank Brisson, Art Buckley, Jeff Wilson, Ed Crow and Jack Kay.

GETS TEST

This artist's conception shows how a high-flying "enemy" attacker is electronically portrayed by the Army's Kingfisher target missile. Capable of matching the speed of any known tactical aircraft in the world and projecting a "blip" portraying a wide variety of planes and missiles, the Kingfisher relays information on hits and misses of interceptor missiles. Launched from a B-50, the Kingfisher has just completed its first real test at Alamogordo, N. M. With its unique electronic system, it replaces drone targets which are destroyed when hit, whereas the Kingfisher can be used over and over.

Man Struck By Car Here; Hospitalized

A 43-year-old Elgin, Okla., man, J. R. Gardner, was listed in fair condition this morning by H. E. Land General Hospital attendants after he was struck by an automobile last night in the 1500 block of N. Hobart.

The automobile was driven by Francis Everett Lackey, 1124 Terry Road, who after striking Gardner didn't stop.

The accident occurred about 10:40 p.m. and at 10:45 p.m. Pampa police had Lackey in custody.

From details given by witnesses and from talking to Gardner, police were able to piece together this story:

Gardner was checking the oil in his truck parked beside the road in the 1500 block of N. Hobart. Lackey drove by, struck Gardner and continued driving to his home.

Police received a call about 10:40 that there had been a head-on collision at 1500 N. Hobart. Officers Dan Lewis and H. L. Kay immediately sped to the scene of the accident. Upon arriving, the officers found out what had happened and, after questioning a witness, were able to get a description of the car.

The car was a company car belonging to the Continental Emsco Co.

Lewis and Kay had earlier last night seen two cars fitting that description parked on Terry Road. The officers then proceeded to check out the two cars. They found Lackey's car parked in his driveway with scratch marks, a dent in the front fender and two bent steel bars on the side of the car. A piece of clothing, later identified as part of Gardner's trousers, was also found near the car. Officers called Lackey out of his house and took him to headquarters.

Lackey said that he didn't know he had hit anybody.

A trail of oil was found leading from the scene of the accident to Lackey's house. It was believed by officers that Gardner had an oil can sitting by the truck when he

Ike Says It's 'Ridiculous' The Pentagon Studied Surrender

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower considers it "ridiculous" that the Pentagon is studying under what conditions this country might surrender in an atomic war, the White House said today. He has demanded an explanation from officials.

A Defense Department spokesman acknowledged that such a study has been made.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen the President considered the study "ridiculous."

Hagerty said the study was brought to Eisenhower's attention by Republican congressmen at a White House conference Tuesday. The President immediately asked the Pentagon what it "was all about."

"We certainly wouldn't agree to anything like this," Hagerty declared.

Hagerty said Eisenhower was more curious than angry about the matter.

The Defense Department spokesman said the study was completed some time ago.

He said an effort had been made to determine what conditions had caused nations to surrender in past wars and to find out what conditions might lead this country to capitulate in a future war.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported recently that three non-profit scientific agencies are studying whether the United States can survive and continue to fight after an all-out nuclear attack.

The newspaper reported that one group was studying "conditions when surrender would be advisable rather than to try to continue a war that is already lost."

Congress Expects To Crack 'Logjam' With New Farm Bill

By WILLIAM THEIS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress expected to crack its adjournment logjam today after a farm bill agreement which one Democratic leader said averted a session-end. Assistant Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.) said Southern Democrats "had decided to stay until hell froze over" in order to get a satisfactory cotton price support bill when the farm bill compromise was agreed on.

The farm bill being rushed through the House today is the "real key to adjournment," Mansfield said in an interview. "This breaks the logjam."

The new bill, agreed to by Democratic and administration farm leaders Wednesday, would head off scheduled cuts in cotton and rice planting allotments. It also would allow cuts in price support floors to 65 per cent of parity for corn next year, for rice in 1961, and for cotton in 1962.

Hopes Senate Will Agree

The Senate already has passed a farm bill cutting corn and cotton supports even more deeply. But Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said he was hopeful the Senate would agree to the House bill rather than insist on a conference to work out a new compromise.

The House also was slated to vote today on two big and complicated bills to overhaul excise and income taxes to give some relief to small businessmen, distillers and various others at a cost of about 300 million dollars a year in federal revenue.

The legislation, agreed on by Senate-House conferees Wednesday night, would increase taxes on certain other groups, however, including thousands of policemen.

Congressional tax experts predicted President Eisenhower would sign both bills.

A partisan battle was in prospect in the House Labor Committee where Republicans were ready to push for their new version of the Senate-passed Kennedy-Ives labor reform bill.

The GOP-backed proposal and the Senate measure both would provide safeguards for union funds and democratic elections. But the Republican bill is tougher. Democratic supporters were prepared to fight in the committee for the Kennedy-Ives legislation.

Regardless of what happened in the committee, it began to appear that Speaker Rayburn might call up a floor vote Monday.

The Senate added its own touch to the adjournment rush Wednesday night by passing its $1,300,000 space-age education bill, including provision for 23,000 scholarships. The House version of this bill contained no scholarship provision.

Major developments in Congress Wednesday: Slaughter: The House passed and sent to the White House a bill to require humane slaughtering of livestock.

Social Security: Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) said Congress would pass a "good" social security bill despite threats of a presidential veto unless a House-passed version was overhauled. Johnson said he would not be deterred by "this veto stuff."

Roads: Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks opposed establishment of any new construction standards for the contemplated $9 million dollar, 41,000-mile interstate highway system. He told the Senate Roads subcommittee present rules would prevent a state from trying to build marble bridges or gold-plated highways.

Then, Nelson said, Sautlers grabbed Cockrell and they began wrestling around. The boy said Cockrell started firing in all directions.

Nelson said Henderson started running and was hit as he ran away.

Cockrell was rushed to a hospital.

Crowd Gathers

Authorities said the crowd gathered at the city hall after the two remaining patrolmen walked down the street with shotguns under their arms.

A 22-year-old man in the mob said "Cockrell beat me up on Father's Day last year because I wouldn't give them some information about some boys they had chased. I was knocked down with blackjacks twice."

An 18-year-old boy said "They stopped me for nothing and jerked me out of my car and beat me up last September. They held guns on me and gave me a ticket for going 45 in a 30 mile zone. I was just going to the FBI about our civil rights," his father said. But he said the police "just lied when the FBI came down here."

A 53-year-old man said he was arrested while standing on the street one day and taken to Decatur. "I don't know why I was arrested," he said. "I didn't do anything. They finally told me I'd tried to break into city hall — I didn't — but they never tried to charge me."

Some Complaints
City Councilman C. D. Rolison, who said he had been on the council only two and a half months, said he thought the mob has "some legitimate gripes."

Inside the city hall, which was guarded and locked, City Councilman J. C. Grandstaff said "They're just a bunch of punks trying to take over this town," in reference to the crowd.

He said he was ready to add to the police force if necessary. The mayor said the three men "made some threats and pushed me around some and cussed me. I haven't had any trouble with them but he (Cockrell) might have had."

"There have been some complaints against Cockrell," he said. "They thought he was too rough on them. You have to get rough sometimes."

Mother Of Elvis Dies In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Mrs. Vernon Presley, mother of rock and roll entertainer Elvis Presley, died in a Memphis hospital early today, apparently of a heart attack, she was 42.

Mrs. Presley's physician said death came at about 4:15 a.m. c.d.t. It was unexpected, since she had reported "feeling so much better" only a few hours before.

Her husband was at her side when she died, but Elvis was asleep in his $100,000 mansion "Graceland" in suburban Whitehaven.

"She apparently died of a heart attack," the doctor said. The husband said he was asleep on a cot in Mrs. Presley's room when he was awakened by her "suffering for breath" at about 4 a.m. He immediately summoned the physician, who pronounced her dead.

Elvis has been here on an emergency leave since Tuesday night, shortly after Mrs. Presley was admitted to the hospital for treatment of a liver ailment.

Elvis quickly joined his father at the hospital, and a witness said there was a brief emotional scene. The body was taken to a funeral home. Funeral arrangements had not been made.

Wednesday, the doctor had reported that Mrs. Presley was quite ill but had not "lost any ground in the last 24 hours." She ate a good lunch and early Wednesday night was reported sleeping quietly.

AIRPLANE

which left in charter Wednesday night. Because of the replacement, Flight 607E was delayed nearly five hours in Amsterdam.

It left Shannon airport at 10:05 p.m. Wednesday and was due in Gander at 6:15 a.m. today. The pilot made a routine radio contact with Shannon at 10:40 p.m. when the plane was approximately 200 miles west of the Irish airport.

The U.S. Coast Guard in New York said the pilot told the Shannon control tower at that time he was heading for a point in the ocean 55 degrees north and 30 degrees west—350 miles northeast of Gander and 700 miles west of Shannon — from which he would make another radio check at about 1:31 a.m.

But there was only silence after that, and a vast international air and sea search effort got underway in the early hours this morning.

Sight Bodies in Water
The first to sight the wreckage was the pilot of a British Overseas Airways Corp. plane en route from London.

He promptly radioed that his radar had picked up spots that he thought might be wreckage.

The RAF Shackleton sped to the scene and reported seeing bodies and wreckage in the water.

KLM announced that most of the passengers were non-Dutch. A spokesman said they belonged to "at least 10 different nationalities."

KLM headquarters in The Hague said that the crew consisted of the captain, two co-pilots, one radio operator, two stewards, one stewardess and one flight engineer.

Shannon airport reported that six persons, believed to be Irish-Americans, boarded the plane there.

Plane Hears SOS
The radar-sighting of the wreckage by the BOAC pilot was apparently the first definite word about the missing plane since its last contact with Shannon. Officials at first thought sunspots might have caused a radio blackout that prevented the Dutch pilot from further communication.

A Pan American Airways cargo plane reported at 8:08 a.m. that it had picked up an SOS at a point approximately 450 miles east of Gander. But the Coast Guard in New York said it had not intercepted any such SOS.

A spokesman suggested the PAA pilot may have misinterpreted orders relayed to all craft in the North Atlantic to be alert for an SOS from the KLM plane.

The RAF Shackleton first caught sight of the wreckage at 8:45 a.m. It reported the life rafts were partly inflated.

In New York, a KLM official said the Super Constellation carried several inflatable rubber life rafts and other survival gear for use in the event of a crash at sea. He said the rafts were equipped with food, water and a portable radio for sending emergency messages. He added that the plane had an adequate number of life jackets aboard and each passenger had been instructed in their use before takeoff.

ment unless the union shop was put into effect.

"Regardless of the trimmings," Curtis said, "if management put the men in the union they got $15,000. If not, the union got the $15,000 back."

The bulk of Wednesday's testimony came from Payne H. Ratner, Republican governor of Kansas for two terms ending in 1942.

Ratner, now a Wichita lawyer, represented Hoffa during a 1953 congressional investigation of the Teamsters. He said he approached Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan.), co-chairman of the 1953 House investigating group, to seek assurances of fair play for Hoffa.

He denied any part in the sudden end of the hearings which prompted charges at the time that pressure was being applied from "high up" in the Eisenhower administration.

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons today had seven players in the fold for the 1958-59 season with the signing of guard Dick Farley, acquired from the Syracuse Nationals in an April trade.

GIANT SUB—AND FRIENDS—This sketch shows how the new, 447-foot-long submarine USS Triton, will look traveling underwater with two attack subs of the Skipjack class. Triton was built at General Dynamics Corporation's Electric Boat Division at Groton, Conn.

Nikita Launches New Offensive

By K. C. Thaler
United Press International
LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has launched a new-type diplomatic offensive to win back the initiative lost by his backing-out of the summit, diplomatic sources said today.

On the eve of the United Nations General Assembly emergency session on the Mideast, he has embarked on an unprecedented all-out "Vote-for-Khrushchev" campaign among small western U. N. nations.

The essence of the new propaganda offensive is "lobbying by diplomatic note," its purpose to disrupt and undermine western allegiances, in the view of Soviet affairs-experts today.

Khrushchev, personally credited with the new strategy, was held desperately anxious to obtain the widest possible support in the United Nations against the U.S. and British mideastern policies.

Some experts believed the Soviet leader was fighting a battle for survival.

Opening Shot
The opening shot of the Soviet diplomatic offensive came last weekend with the dispatch of a new-type note to the Greek government urging it bluntly to support Soviet policy in the Middle East against Anglo-American "aggression."

Almost immediately afterwards, Moscow dispatched a similar letter to Stockholm asking the neutral Swedes for backing at the U.N. for Russia's mideastern designs.

More notes of a similar nature were believed in preparation in the Kremlin's diplomatic work-shop.

In the past, Moscow has sent notes of intimidation to smaller nations on the eve of major military developments in the West.

It had been Khrushchev's strategy to threaten smaller NATO nations on the eve of a NATO council meeting, or to warn members of the Baghdad and SEATO alliances just before they met in special conference on military and political decisions.

New Khrushchev Line
The new Khrushchev line seeks instead the support of western-minded U. N. members with a mild mannered "please-vote-for-me - because - the - Anglo-Americans - are - bad - boys" appeal, the sources said.

The full implications of the new strategy have not yet sufficiently emerged.

But both Soviet affairs experts and British diplomatic officials believed that Khrushchev was building up for a major propaganda show "with a difference."

The Soviet leader was believed badly in need of a diversion of Soviet and world public attention from the loss of prestige he sufferred at the hands of Red Chinese leader Mao Tse-Tung at their recent meeting in Peiping.

The proposal for a U.N. special assembly on the Middle East was held a poor second choice for which the Soviet leader was now desperately anxious to rally the widest possible support to justify himself.

All Men-In-Street In Moscow Think Alike

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI)—It's easy to put your finger on the pulse of the public in Moscow. What one man in the street thinks, everyone thinks.

As a result, life is much simpler for journalistic poll-takers in the Soviet Union than it is in the West.

For many years, every time there has been an international crisis, I've dashed out into Broadway, the Rue de la Paix, Piccadilly or St. Peter's Square to record the reaction of the average man.

Frankly, in the West this is a headache job. The Westerner is disputatious and opinionated and apt to take a contrary view simply because he's cussed—or simply because he believes in it. You always wind up with a notebook filled with conflicting views.

Not so in this strong and bustling capital of Russia.

I've spoken to a number of Russians in the past few days about the summit conference and international tension and the results always have been the same.

Cites Air Bases
The first man I talked to was standing in front of the squat mausoleum where thousands queue daily to see Lenin and Stalin eternally lying in state.

He said he learned his English in the hotel where he is employed.

As we strolled down wide Gorki Street, with women street cleaners busy on the sidewalks, he suddenly said, "Tell me, why do you want war?"

I said I didn't want war and furthermore I didn't know any American who did.

"But you are ringing us with air bases," he said. "And everybody knows air bases can only be for aggression."

I tried to explain the American attitude to him but he was my first Russian man in the street and so I can be forgiven the waste of time.

Agree to Disagree
My second Moscow pulse interrupted my dinner at the sky-scraper Hotel Ukraina, which stocks 71 wines, champagnes, liquors and liquors and serves such delicacies as hazel grouse in sour cream, roast duck stuffed with apples, beef stroganoff and chicken ala Kiev.

He was a Russian at the next table who introduced himself as a wartime merchant mariner who had fallen in love with San Francisco.

"I hope you do not approve of your country's interventionist policy in Lebanon," he said. "Let us drink a toast, 'Hands off the Middle East.'"

I solicited a conversation with another Russian at the Prague restaurant who asked, "Why did your President make such difficult conditions for a summit meeting?" The conversation then followed the eventual course, ending in agreement to disagree.

I must say that every Russian I have spoken to was friendly, curious, helpful and at least superficially sincere.

De Gaulle Promises Territories A Vote On 'Total Independence'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Kingsbury Smith, vice president and associate general manager of United Press International, is on a fact-finding tour of Europe.

By KINGSBURY SMITH United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—French Premier Charles de Gaulle has promised that France's overseas territories, excluding Algeria, will have the right to vote for "total independence" in the forthcoming referendum on a new constitution.

Paul Reynaud, chairman of the Constitutional Consultative Committee, told United Press International in an exclusive interview today that De Gaulle has made this promise to him personally.

"It was my idea," Reynaud said. "I felt it was of capital importance to France's international position that the people of the overseas territories should be allowed to ask for total independence when they vote on the new constitution. I urged Gen. De Gaulle to agree. He will do so. He told me so."

No Other Solution

If the inhabitants of French overseas territories are given the opportunity to vote in a national referendum on whether they want complete independence, it will mark an historical milestone in France's relations with her former colonies.

Should they vote affirmatively, it is generally agreed in Paris that De Gaulle is the only French political leader who could get away with granting them independence.

If De Gaulle carries out his promise to Reynaud and the people of the overseas territories should vote for complete independence, those who know the general are convinced he would grant it. There is no doubt, however, he would do so with bitter disappointment.

He told the consultative committee last week he conceived of no other solution for France and what is still left of its empire than "a form of association—integration or federation." He said anything else would mean "a cessation, with all the consequences that it would bring and with the risks and perils for those who would choose it."

Pressed For Changes

His promise to Reynaud would indicate he is prepared to allow the natives to risk those perils if they wish.

Reynaud also told this correspondent he is confident the modifications which De Gaulle is accepting in the proposed constitution will safeguard democracy in France.

The 79-year-old former premier, still remarkably energetic, is acting as the defender of French parliamentary democracy in his role as chairman of the Constitutional Consultative Committee.

The father of a 4-year-old son as well as three other children, Reynaud paced his office in the Chamber of Deputies with the vigor of a man at least 20 years younger as he dold of the changes he had persuaded De Gaulle to accept.

"The original draft of the constitution contained some provisions which were dangerous. We were particularly concerned about the famous Clause Fourteen. That would give the president of the republic absolute power in certain circumstances.

Powers Too Broad

"For example, when the republican institutions, the nation's independence, its territorial integrity, or the fulfillment of its international agreements were threatened in a grave and immediate manner, the president would have the right to take any measures he considered necessary, after consultation with the premier and the presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies."

"I told Gen. De Gaulle I thought these powers were too broad. I cited, for example, the U. N. committee has agreed unanimously that mankind faces "new and largely unknown hazards" as a result of radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons tests.

The committee, which has been studying the problem for more than two and one half years, found that "even the smallest amounts of radiation are liable to cause deleterious genetic and perhaps also somatic effects."

Somatic effects include cancer and leukemia. The report added, "The irradiation of any groups of people, before and during the reproductive age, will contribute genetic effects to whole populations in so far as the gonads (reproduction glands) are exposed."

UN Committee Agrees That Radiation Fallout Hazardous

By JOHN McNUTT United Press International UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—A 14-nation U. N. committee has agreed unanimously that mankind faces "new and largely unknown hazards" as a result of radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons tests.

The committee, which has been studying the problem for more than two and one half years, found that "even the smallest amounts of radiation are liable to cause deleterious genetic and perhaps also somatic effects."

Somatic effects include cancer and leukemia. The report added, "The irradiation of any groups of people, before and during the reproductive age, will contribute genetic effects to whole populations in so far as the gonads (reproduction glands) are exposed."

Praises Study

In Washington, the Atomic Energy Commission lauded the "thorough-going study" made by the U. N. Scientific Committee on the Effects of Atomic Radiation but said "man must learn to live" with radiation.

The AEC added, "It is important to note that in so far as leukemia and bone cancer are concerned, the committee has pointed out there is no certainty that fallout will produce any additional cases of either disease."

Moreover, said the AEC, the committee "has taken pains to estimate the greatest number of cases which might result from fallout under the most pessimistic conditions."

A Political Problem

The committee's report, which will be submitted to the next regular session of the U. N. General Assembly, stopped short of calling for cessation of nuclear tests. It said that problem was one for the political men, not the scientists, to solve, and called merely for "cessation of contamination" caused by nuclear testing.

The 15-nation group said, "Radioactive contamination of the environment resulting from explosions of nuclear weapons constitutes a growing increment to world-wide radiation levels."

"This involves new and largely unknown hazards to present and future populations; these hazards, by their very nature, are beyond the control of the exposed person."

You readers can see what happened. The unlucky expert opened the king of diamonds. Eventually South guessed the correct club play and made his vulnerable slam.

As for the poor unlucky expert, I feel for him and hope you do also. He was smart enough not to double the six spade contact and once he failed to double, his partner should have realized that six spades was very likely to make. Obviously someone was void of hearts. East should have bid seven hearts and taken his small loss.

Richly Purple Grape Velvet Dessert Is Royal Enough To Set Before Monarchs

The convenience and popularity of frozen concentrated fruit juices is pretty well established by now. And many of the juices have found added use as ingredients in recipes as well as being served as a beverage. Frozen concentrated grape juice assumes the newer role in an elegantly simple dessert aptly called grape velvet. Velvet in texture it is, for evaporated milk whipped to its peak of fluffy lightness is included among the ingredients.

Made with an unflavored gelatin base the dessert gets a surprise touch of spiciness with the addition of a little cinnamon. Miniature marshmallows are folded in, too, and dotted on top of the grape velvet after it has been spooned lightly into sherbet glasses.

This dessert could be a real lifesaver when you want a company dessert in a hurry. It takes little time to prepare and only about one and a half or two hours to chill and set. Spoon it into your prettiest sherbet glasses and you'll have as pretty a dessert as you could ask for.

GRAPE VELVET
 1 can frozen concentrated grape juice (8 oz.), undiluted
 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 1/4 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 cup evaporated milk, chilled
 1/2 cup cold
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 1/2 cup miniature marshmallows
 Thaw grape juice, then pour into water to make 1 cup. Mix gelatin, sugar and cinnamon in a small saucepan. Add grape juice - water mixture and stir to blend. Stir over low heat until mixture is thick and gelatin is dissolved. Cool, then chill until gelatin is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Whip evaporated milk until it is stiff. Add lemon juice and whip

GRAPE VELVET—Grape Velvet, richly purple in color and dotted with white miniature marshmallows, is a regal looking dessert that is made with few ingredients and little effort. Whipped evaporated milk gives it a fluffy texture so that it piles lightly and prettily into sherbet glasses.

stiff. Add lemon juice and whip until very stiff. Fold in gelatin lightly but thoroughly, then fold in marshmallows. Spoon into sherbet glasses. Garnish with additional marshmallows, if desired. Chill until set, about 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

For Easy Livin'

By Isabel Du Bois

If it's easy livin' you're lookin' for, choose blue-sky cookin' and eatin'.

Nothing makes for a more care-free day. Besides, everyone loves a picnic . . . youngsters, proverbial thirty-niners, even golden agers.

Make it a picnic in your own backyard or pack-up the picnic basket and take off for a sandy beach or some roadside table along the highway.

Remember the one prime rule about picnic food: Never can there be too much. Air and exercise sharpen appetites, so plan to have plenty of everything.

There's a trick in avoiding the usual muss and fuss of last-minute picnic shopping, cooking and sandwich making. The solution is to prepare the lunch days or weeks ahead, and store it in the home freezer until your mood for easy livin' fixes the day to eat out.

Such a menu from the freezer might consist of: Fried chicken, buttered soft buns or bread and butter sandwiches, individual fruit cups, assorted cookies, cupcakes or cake wedges and lemonade.

To round out the menu, relishes such as carrot and celery strips, olives and pickles from the refrigerator, and potato chips from the cupboard shelf, could be tucked into the food hamper.

Preparing the Chicken
 To ready the fried chicken for the freezer, follow your favorite recipe. Then when the chicken is cooked, cool it quickly by spreading the pieces on a large flat pan. Float the pan in ice water. When cool arrange chicken in a shallow serving dish, placing a double thickness of waxed paper or saran between individual pieces so that they can be separated easily when it's time to serve. Wrap the entire serving dish in freezer paper. Press paper tightly against chicken to force as much air out of the package as possible. Seal and freeze at once.

Freeze either soft buns from your favorite bakery or food mart or make bread and butter sandwiches from enriched white, rye or whole wheat bread. Butter the buns or bread well and wrap individually in freezer paper, pressing out as much air as possible. Package several sandwiches together in a plastic bag. Or use plastic boxes. Label and freeze at once.

To make the frozen fruit cups prepare fresh fruits with sugar or syrup and freeze in small plastic containers. Fruits such as blueberries, peaches, pineapple, plums and raspberries are excellent for freezing. Also strawberries, watermelon or cantaloupe balls or a mixture of these fruits.

Include Desserts
 Your favorite cake, cookies or cupcakes can be purchased days or weeks in advance from your favorite baker and stored in the freezer. And when picnic day arrives you'll find them just as fresh and good tasting as they were when you tucked them into the freezer.

If you like, cookies, cupcakes or cake wedges can be arranged on a paper plate lined with foil, then the entire plate carefully wrapped in freezer paper and sealed. Or wrap individual portions of cake, cupcakes or cookies and freeze. Frequently you'll find it better to have several smaller packages so that the pastries can be opened as needed.

Even the lemonade for this menu comes from the freezer. For approximately ten cups use two cans (8 ounce size) frozen lemonade concentrate. Add either two quarts of water or two large bottles of soda water. Ice cubes and lemon slices can be floated in the cups, if you wish.

This picnic menu has been planned so that it will be ready to serve right from the basket without the necessity of cooking or heating.

So for easy livin' this summer keep a menu such as this on hand at all times. Then when you hear that inevitable cry, "let's have a picnic," you'll be ready for blue sky eating at the drop of a picnic basket, so to speak.

Better For Being Taken Over Grill

Better for being taken over the coals are these toasted treats made from Brown 'n Serve French bread with a distinctive herb-cheese sandwich filling.

HERB-CHEESE TOASTIE
 3 (5-ounce) loaves Brown 'n Serve French bread
 1/2 cup finely crumbled Bleu cheese
 3 tablespoons small curd cottage cheese
 3 tablespoons grated Cheddar cheese
 3 tablespoons dairy sour cream
 1 teaspoon minced chives
 Few pieces dried tarragon

1 tablespoon dry Sherry
 Cut each loaf of bread diagonally, almost through to bottom crust, into 12 equal-sized slices. Combine Bleu cheese, cottage cheese, Cheddar cheese, sour cream, chives, tarragon and Sherry. Spread 1-1/2 teaspoons cheese mixture on one side of each slice of bread. String the loaves on a long, sharp-pointed skewer, inserting the skewer through the center of each one. Heat over hot coals, turning to brown bread on all sides. Yield: 6-8 servings.

Lunch On The Terrace

Come the magic days of genial sun, of soft air . . . and we move outdoors. And a special pleasure of summer is the outdoor meal. A meal on the terrace, however, is fun only when the traffic to and from the kitchen is kept to a minimum or eliminated altogether. After all, easy-going relaxation should be the keynote of such a meal. A little planning, a pinch of know-how will do wonders to keep Mom from popping up. So keep the menu simple, the dishes few but good—and the easier they are to make, the better.

Such a terrace luncheon might be:

Open Meat-Cheese Sandwich on White Bread
 Celery and Carrot Sticks
 Spiced Prunes
 Minted Apple Sauce Dessert with Lady Fingers
 Chilled Apple Juice with Fancy Ice Cubes

For the sandwich use any cold meat you fancy—cold sliced chicken, lamb or beef from yesterday's roast. Or use one of the many popular cold cuts—ham, tongue, Bologna, veal loaf, spiced luncheon meat and team it with cheese for

SKEWERED BROWN 'N SERVE ROLLS
 String along with Brown 'n Serve rolls for your picnic. Make 3 or 4 parallel slits across the top of each roll, leaving bottom crust extra left. Place on well buttered white, rye or wholewheat bread. And fall to with gusto! Spiced prunes are delicious with the sandwich, as are celery and carrot sticks.

Something Different
 For dessert, try this apple sauce dessert with lady fingers. It is light, cool and refreshing—and practically effortless. For you buy the apple sauce at your grocery store and the lady fingers at the nearest bakery counter. The apple juice drink has tang and verve and, clinking with fancy cubes, looks gay and thirst quenching.

Here's how on the simple specialties for another meal:

Spiced Prunes
 1 lb. prunes, cooked
 1 cup vinegar
 1 cup granulated sugar
 1 cup water
 1 teaspoon ground cloves
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 Combine vinegar, sugar, water, spices and boil 1 minute. Add prunes. Bring to boil. Cool and refrigerate.

Minted Apple Sauce Dessert With Lady Fingers
 2 cups canned apple sauce
 1/4 cup crushed peppermint candy
 Lady fingers
 Combine sauce and peppermint candy; mix well. Place in bowl and circle with lady fingers. Make 4 servings.

Apple Juice with Fancy Ice Cubes
 3 strawberries
 3 maraschino cherries
 1 lemon slice
 1 lime slice
 1 orange slice
 10 cups apple juice, chilled
 Fill ice cube tray with water. Drop in strawberries, maraschino cherries, 1/2 slice lemon, 1/2 slice lime and 1/4 slice of orange. Put into freezer and freeze until solid. Place 2 ice cubes in each tall glass and fill with apple juice and serve. Makes 7 servings.

whole. Spread a soft filling in each slit. Thread rolls on a long skewer so that sections are held together firmly. Hold over hot coals, turning frequently, until brown and crusty, about 8 minutes.

"CUSTARD A LA MODE—A WONDERFUL DESSERT"

Custard with ice cream? Certainly it's different, but ever so good. Both are smooth and creamy, both so rich in important dairy foods. Bake the custards in ring molds, center each with a scoop of the ice cream. Then top with sweetened crushed raspberries, and await the rush of compliments!

Custard Ala Mode Signs Happy Ending To Many Dream-Like, Hearty Dinners

In so many ways, custard is the ideal dessert. So smooth and jelly-like in texture, sweet but not too rich, it can bring a happy ending to many a hearty meal. And yet so many hostesses decline to serve custard!

Because of its modest appearance, perhaps?
 If such is the case (and we happen to think that it is), you will indeed welcome Custard a la mode, which competes with the most elegant desserts — on their own terms. Its preparation is the same as any custard, but it is baked in individual ring molds rather than cups. Unmold onto pretty dessert plates; let a scoop of ice cream bask in the center of each. Ladle crushed sweetened berries of your own choice over all — raspberries, blueberries or strawberries.

Custard with ice cream? A WONDERFUL idea . . . your family and guests will say.

CUSTARD A LA MODE
 8 individual ring molds
 3 eggs
 3 tablespoons sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 1/2 cups milk, scalded
 2 1/2 cups vanilla ice cream
 1 lb. Pkg. frozen raspberries, thawed

In a saucepan beat eggs. Add sugar, salt and vanilla and mix well. Add milk gradually, stirring vigorously. Pour custard into well buttered molds. Place molds in pan of hot water and bake in a 375 degree preheated oven 15-20 minutes or until set. Cool. Loosen edges with sharp knife and unmold on dessert plates. Place a scoop of vanilla ice cream in center of custard, and top with raspberries.

Something Has To Be Done About Food Even At Peak Of Summer's Heat Wave

August is in some respects the most difficult month of all for homemakers, the Texas Beef Council staff feels.

These are the "dog days" when summer has worked itself into a peak heat wave, it's time to think about getting the children ready to go back to school, and SOMETHING has to be done about dinner, but summer foods are no longer new and exciting.

In August, "What can I have for dinner?" ceases to be a problem and becomes a daily crisis. "Oven Hamburger Stew" has many things to recommend it for hot-weather serving. It's nourishing, it can be prepared ahead of time, it's "something different," and it tastes good. This recipe makes 5 to 6 servings.

OVEN HAMBURGER STEW
 1 1/2 pounds ground or chopped beef
 3 cups cubed raw potatoes
 2 cups sliced carrots
 1 large onion, chopped
 4 tablespoons fat
 1 No. 2 can tomatoes
 1 cup water
 3 tablespoons flour
 1/4 cup water (for thickening)

Parboil potatoes and carrots until almost tender; drain. Brown onion lightly in 2 tablespoons of fat; add tomatoes and 1 cup water. Make paste of flour and 1/4 cup water; blend into tomato mixture; stir until thickened. Combine with potatoes and carrots; pour into casserole. Combine beef, Accent, salt and pepper; form into small balls; brown in remaining fat. Place on casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes.

PRECOOKED HAMBURGERS
 Feeding 50 can be fun. Try this package ensemble for hamburgers that saves on time, toil and cooking space at picnics. Cook hamburgers ahead of time at home and place in split bakers' buns. Wrap individually in heavy duty foil and store in freezer until ready to use. To recapture their hot, juicy flavor, heat packaged hamburgers on the grill for 10 minutes on each side, or until thoroughly heated.

Pineapple Cookies Are Pretty Tasty

For something pretty tasty to serve with iced tea on warm summer evenings are Pineapple Cookies.

PINEAPPLE COOKIES
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/2 cup white sugar
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 1 egg
 1 3/4 cups all purpose flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon soda
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup Crushed Pineapple, well drained
 1 Tablespoon, lemon juice
 1/2 cup nuts, chopped
 1 cup grated coconut
 Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together. Stir in Pineapple, lemon juice, nuts and coconut. Drop from teaspoon onto well-greased cookie sheet.
 Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a 375 degree F. oven. Makes approximately 70 small cookies.

LAUNCH BIGGEST SUB EVER—This is an artist's conception of the new USS Triton, largest submarine ever built. It has a length of 447 feet, a 57-foot beam and a 5900-ton displacement. It is the first ship in history to be propelled by two nuclear power plants. Triton was designed for radar picket duty, and will travel with high speed carrier attack forces, running ahead of the main fleet to serve as an early warning station. Triton carries 13 officers and 135 men. It was built and launched at General Dynamics Corporation's Electric Boat Division at Groton, Conn.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Philosophy Of Big Government

Big Government
There have been complaints for many years about the government in Washington getting too big. Last week, the Congress had a good taste of what happens to the individual when government becomes too centralized and too concentrated.

The House, in effect, denied to an individual, from whom the government had taken real property under condemnation proceedings, the right to recover that property for the same price which he received from the government, even though the government did not use the property for public purposes. As an isolated transaction, this did not register too deeply with many people, but it could have the most serious repercussions if such a policy is continuously followed in the future as it has been in the past few years.

The government has the right, regardless of the Constitution or statutory law, to take your property for public purposes. This Constitution and statutes limiting this right on the part of the government only to those cases where the property is needed for public use and where the owner receives just compensation.

The particular matter before the House of Representatives last week concerned an airport site which was selected by the Department of Commerce. A number of the landowners, mostly families holding only a few acres, were called upon to get off the land because the government needed it for a public purpose, to wit, an airport.

Some sixty-odd landowners, reconciled to the fact that they had no defense against such a proceeding, settled with the government and moved off the land, giving up their homes which had been occupied by some of them for many, many years. This was in the early 1950's. The government acquired only a part of the land included in the original project, because it was soon determined that someone had made a mistake and that the chosen site would not be satisfactory. The government, however, continued to hold the several parcels of land it had acquired for some seven years, although some of the former owners had tried to get it back. This land was finally declared surplus by the government and turned over to another agency to be sold to the highest bidder.

The former owners came in and asked that they be allowed to repurchase the land at the price which had been forced upon them when they were forced to sell the land and move off. The government agency simply told them that they would not consider the matter, but that the land had to be appraised and sold at whatever its value might be at the present time, either by negotiated sale or by a public auction. This government agency would have carried out its threat had not a bill been introduced that stopped them from doing this. This action, however, only served to delay the matter for a few months.

The bill was up for debate last week, and the House amended it so that the government agency is required to sell the land at present prevailing prices. The former owners, although having first opportunity to buy, are denied the right to repurchase at the price they received. The government, in effect, has said to these people, who are kicked off their land involuntarily, that even though the government does not use the land for public purposes, the individual is nothing more than a cog in the wheel of the state; that compassion or emotion has no place in the operation of a government, and that the rights of individuals have become absorbed in satisfying the whims and demands of big government advocates and bureaucrats.

The fact that the man who lost the land had to pay income taxes on what he received from the federal government is not taken into consideration. The fact that it costs a man quite a bit of money to move is not taken into consideration. The fact that money is required to re-establish a home in a strange locality is not taken into consideration. The relationship between the individual and the land upon which he was raised and which was, perhaps, owned by his family before him for many generations, is cast aside and not taken into consideration. The memories of a mother of the family that she raised on a small plot of land, and the emotional feeling which she must have, are held for naught. It was argued on the Floor of the House in the debate that human beings, who are Members of Congress, cannot and must not yield in the least to the compassion they might feel for some person under these circumstances. In other words, we, as Members of Congress, must yield to big government—big government that takes over and destroys the rights of the individual; that places the state above the man of which it is made, and adopt the philosophy that the state is all powerful and is not the creature of man, but that man is the creature and the servant of the state, and that Members of the Congress must incur themselves in a case-hardened coat through which the normal emotions of man must not be allowed to penetrate.

This may be the philosophy of some, and God forbid it may become the philosophy of this country, but as for me, I shall never subscribe to it. When the time comes in this country that we are willing to deny the individual his inherent rights on the basis of fair play and honesty, the dignity of man will be lost as will the concepts of the government which was entrusted to us by our forebears.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Who Inherits Property In Absence of Will?

What will happen if you should die without executing a legal and proper will? Who will inherit your property? Your husband, wife, mother, father, children, your wife's relatives? The best way you can say who will have it is to provide a will which will protect your rightful beneficiaries and dispose of your property in accordance with your wishes.

When a deceased has no will, or dies "intestate" as the law calls it, the property of that person is distributed according to a detailed formula fixed by law. In some cases this may be the way you yourself would divide it—but in many cases it is not.

The provisions of the law concerning the distribution of the property of a person who dies without a will are rather complicated, and all of the possibilities cannot be covered by a general statement.

There are different rules for real estate and for personal property, for community property and for separate property, for homestead property, and for all of the many possible combinations of surviving relatives. Each situation must be carefully studied to determine the correct distribution of the property.

For example, here is a general idea of how the community property which you and your spouse have accumulated will be divided if you do not make a will prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and there are no children, the surviving spouse receives all of the property.

If, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of deceased children, they would divide one-half of the property, while the surviving spouse would receive the other one-half.

Of course, grandchildren do not share in the estate unless their parent who would inherit is deceased. And when descendants of previously deceased children do inherit, they receive only the portion that the child would have regardless of the number of such descendants.

An odd note, perhaps, is that the surviving spouse already owns one-half of the community estate prior to your death, and the law

'A-Weight We Go' Might Be New Television Show Name

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Now that Jackie Gleason and Buddy Hackett will be together on a new comedy show, Hackett says CBS-TV ought to call it, "Wide, Wide, World," or "A-Weight We Go."

The 449-pound team (both weigh 220 joking wet) comprise what is said to be the first fat comedian team in show business. In any case, they'll be the only fat comedian team on TV next season.

Hackett, unlike Gleason, isn't adds nothing to this share where there are children surviving.

When there are only children and their descendants surviving, they divide the entire community estate between them.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

lifting a lettuce leaf to lose weight. He prefers to eat, "Each meal is a party for me," said Buddy, who was attired in a black sports shirt, black slacks and white buckskin shoes. In this outfit, he avoids billiard parlors lest he be mistaken for a rolling eight ball by someone with a cue stick.

"Just think," he said, "two fat men on one show. We can forget all about closeups. All I know about the show is that we start rehearsals on Sept. 15. Gleason told me he doesn't like to rehearse too much. I told him that's fine because neither do I. I think we'll rehearse after each show. That way, it'll be fresh in our minds."

Why did Hackett, a top banana in his own right, sign on as Gleason's second banana?

"People say I did it because I needed a steady job," said Buddy. "That's not so. I haven't been out of work in 11 years. I have movie scripts at home piled too feet high—enough to keep me making pictures for the next two years."

As for why he's going with

Gleason, Hackett said: "I think he's a fantastic talent. He thinks I'm a great actor. I'm a very good actor, but I know comedy best. Another reason is that I'll have a chance to be home for a whole year with the wife and kid."

"And the main reason, I guess, is that, like everyone else, I'm curious. I want to find out what comes of this wild Gleason-Hackett combination."

Bumper Crops In Texas Expected

AUSTIN (UPI) — Bumper crops yields, "almost across the board," appeared in store today for Texas farmers.

A record - setting wheat crop was in the bin, and record-yielding cotton, sorghum grain, corn, peanut, hay and rice crops "are shaping up," the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported.

"This very unusual crop season received that needed boost to put it in a class by itself when an early July cool front triggered showers over a large part of the state. Even though hot, windy weather followed those rains, feed crops and cotton in central and southern counties were well along before the moisture got away," the USDA said.

Texas' cotton crop was forecast at 4,150,000 bales, a 14 per cent increase over last year and the largest crop since 1933.

A bin - bulging 254 million bushel sorghum grain crop was in prospect.

A record - large hay crop was being baled.

Peanuts were planted late, but "even stands were secured... and crops have made good development," the report said.

Pean production for Texas was estimated at 45 million pounds, off 18 per cent from last year but 42 per cent above the 1947-56 average.

Citrus trees were reported in "healthy condition." The Aug. 1 condition of grapefruit was reported at 61 per cent of normal, compared with a rating of 62 per cent for the same date last year.

Meantime, as hot, open weather hastened maturity, harvest of sorghum and cotton moved northward and westward.

The first bale of cotton was ginned as far north as Rockwell county. The harvest was in full swing in the upper coast, at the peak in the coastal bend and past its peak in the lower valley.

Harvest of summer vegetable crops continued active in the Panhandle. Potatoes and onions were reported available in good volume, and supplies of cantaloupe and carrots increased. Planting of eggplant, bell peppers and carrots was active in the winter garden.

Seed beds for fall crop vegetables made good progress in South Texas, but required lots of water because of high temperatures, the USDA said.

Soaring temperatures quickly cured grass over most of Texas. But ample dry grass was reported available in all areas except the Trans Pecos.

All classes of livestock were "holding up well," even though high temperatures forced them to hunt shade. Feeder lambs started to move from the west plateau counties, and goat shearing was underway.

RUTH MILLETT Lodges Conduct Public Installation

Wives are forever complaining that their husbands don't understand or appreciate them and are completely indifferent to their interests.

Before a wife gets to feeling too sorry for herself because her husband seems to take her for granted she might ask herself a few questions to see if, from his point of view, she appears to be a bit indifferent, herself.

When your husband gets a haircut, wears a new tie, or a new sports shirt, do you notice and comment?

When your husband manages to lose a little weight by dieting, do you tell him how handsome he looks?

When your husband brings home a new suit of clothes do you admire his taste, instead of asking, "Why in the world did you buy another blue suit?"

When your husband is bragging about his golf score; the big deal he pulled off, or is explaining to you how he landed a big bass are you all interested attention, or do you just pretend to listen?

Have you bothered to learn anything at all about your husband's current enthusiasm — so that you can, at least, talk about it intelligently?

Are you as interested in your husband's life as you are in the lives of your children?

Are you bored when your husband talks business?

Do you cooperate when your husband wants you to help work out a family budget or asks you to try to cut down on the food or clothing bills?

Before you holler that you aren't appreciated — you ought to be sure your husband is.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to this man six years and what I want to know is, after a man gets to be fifty is he supposed to forget about love and affection? My husband says I am a grand-mother already (I am 48) and I should take up gardening or some other hobby to keep busy and forget the romance. When I snuggle up to him or want a kiss or a pat he tells me he is not nineteen years old any more. I can support myself and now I am wondering if I didn't make a bad deal in marrying him. Is there a solution? I don't want a divorce.

SET ASIDE

Dear Set: A man of fifty is not ready for the fox farm. Many men his age (and older) are bursting with love and affection. Have him see a doctor.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband read your article on "Hi-Fi Shatters Family Nerves" he tore it out. I asked him what he was tearing out of the paper and he said, "Never mind, it will only start an argument." So I went to my neighbor's and read it. If that article didn't fit our family to a tee, I will eat my hat! I didn't write that letter but I am glad the wife who was a victim of a loud Hi-Fi set had the courage to send it in. Maybe other husbands will realize that their wives can't take all that racket and they will keep it low. Thanks, Abby.

ANOTHER HI-FI VICTIM

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I was engaged to marry a fellow who was in OCS. The date for our wedding was set and my parents bought me an imported lace wedding gown. My fiancé was killed in a training accident. It took me two years to get over it, then I became engaged to another fellow. This time, to be perfectly honest, the man jilted me. I am now engaged to marry a wonderful man and we are both sure this is "it." My parents insist that I wear the first wedding gown they bought me. I am not superstitious, but I can't even look at that gown without feeling sick. They paid a lot of money for it and think I am being foolish. Please tell me if I'm wrong? I'll wear it if you say so.

MIXED EMOTIONS
DEAR MIXED: No one should blame you for feeling the way you do about the original wedding gown with all its unhappy memories. Sell it or give it away — but don't wear it. Buy a less expensive one for this happy occasion and good luck!

DEAR ABBY: We have a house cat which I love very much but my mother is always giving him dirty looks because he claws at the furniture. We have had to replace two chairs on account of him. I try to tell my mother that he keeps his claws sharp that way but she says he is a house cat and as far as she is concerned he doesn't need sharp claws. How can I keep him off the furniture? The next piece of furniture that gets ruined is going to be the end of him.

CAT LOVER

DEAR C. L.: Inquire at your pet shop about a certain product that is sprinkled on furniture that is guaranteed to keep the cats off.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RELIEVED": Thanks for your telegram. I, too, am relieved. Sometimes a good scare is worth more than good advice.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

FLOWERPOT barbecue grills are perfect for the slow and gentle cooking required for Gypsy Lamb Stew. Rice a la Riojana.

COOK'S NOOK Delicious Gypsy Lamb Stew Simmers Over A Flowerpot

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Now is the time for all good cooks to get out of doors and watch their grills. Small table grills, originally inspired by the Japanese hibachi, are increasingly popular. These adaptable outdoor barbecue gadgets can be carried inside to finish the cooking if rain falls.

Actually, you can make your own table grill with flowerpots.

Line each pot with foil, fill the bottom with sand, and place charcoal briquets over the sand. When the fire is burning well, place hardware cloth (firm wire mesh) on top of the grill plate. Always use a large asbestos pad under any table grill.

In Spain, much cooking is done with charcoal over units no larger than this. Slow cooking of the charcoal fire helps to give food tenderness and flavor. Meat sautéed in olive oil over very low heat can be cut with a fork. The Spanish cooks explain that olive oil has a lower boiling point and quickly sears the meat, even over a low heat, preventing the meat from being grease soaked.

GYPSY LAMB STEW

(Makes about 6 servings)
Have 2 or 3 pounds boneless lamb from shoulder cut into 1-inch cubes. Brown in 2 tablespoons light olive oil; stir in 1/2 cup paprika, 2 cloves crushed garlic and a pinch of saffron. Slowly add 1 tablespoon flour; when bubbling, add 1 cup water and 1 tablespoon wine vinegar and about 1 1/2 teaspoons salt. Simmer until meat is very tender when pricked with fork.

RISE A LA RIOJANA

(Makes about 6 servings)
Sauté sliced onion in 2 tablespoons olive oil until tender. (To speed things up, this may be done in advance on the kitchen range.) Add 1 cup long grain rice, stir to coat thoroughly with the olive oil. Add 3 cups water and 3 chicken bouillon cubes, 1 tablespoon minced parsley and 1 jar roasted sweet red peppers which have been drained and cut into large pieces. Cook uncovered until all liquid is absorbed and rice is fluffy; this may take about 1 hour. Cover during last 10 or 15 minutes to make sure all rice is soft. Fry 1/2 cup sauce, pass Spanish mayonnaise, made by beating 1/2 cup Spanish olive oil into 1 or 2 egg yolks, using an electric blender or mixer. When mayonnaise is thick, stir in 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt.

Tomorrow's Barbecue Dinner: Vegetable relishes with sour cream dip, Spanish Gypsy lamb stew, rice a la Riojana, tossed green salad.

The annual Garden Club Day at the 1958 State Fair of Texas will be Tuesday, Oct. 14, Mrs. John R. Salois, chairman of Garden Club Day, has announced. Dates of the 1958 State Fair will be Oct. 4 through 19.

Presentation of an award to the outstanding Garden Club Woman of the Year and demonstrations by two composition experts will highlight the Garden Club Day program. Dallas Mayor R. L. Thornton Sr. president of the State Fair of Texas, will present the honor award at 10:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the new air-conditioned Dallas Garden Center at State Fair Park. The program will follow the presentation.

The guest speakers, Mrs. Charles J. Hinckley and Mrs. V. A. Harrison of San Antonio, will demonstrate and discuss the gathering and preparation of dried arrangements in a lecture entitled "Enchanting Compositions for Winter."

A Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judge, Mrs. Hinckley has specialized in flower arranging for the past twenty years. She is one of Texas' outstanding specialists in fresh flower arrangements, table settings and compositions of dried and treated materials.

Mrs. Harrison, who serves as chairman of judges on the Texas Garden Clubs' State Board, specializes in roses as well as flower arrangements. During the summer she travels over Texas gathering materials to dry and treat for winter compositions.

The two speakers will have on display more than a dozen compositions, all staged with special lighting and complementary backgrounds.

For an abundance of lush growth and a profusion of blooms in a single season, be sure to provide Tuberous Begonias with a complete and balanced diet. According to the Belgian Begonia Growers Association, the two common problems in handling these aristocrats of the summer garden are over-feeding and over-watering.

Tuberous Begonias like to be moist and cool. A mist spray is highly beneficial during the hot dry summer months. These plants have shallow roots and for that reason must not be allowed to dry. On the other hand, a water-logged condition will cause rotting of the roots and stem.

Tubers can easily be saved from year to year. Just as other tender bulbs, Tuberous Begonias need a rest period over the winter. In most areas, tubers are taken out of the ground with a digging fork after the first killing frost. They are washed and allowed to cure in the sun for two or three weeks. When thoroughly dry, the stem can be pulled out easily. Store in a cool and semi-moist place over the winter, often in dry peat or dry sand.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

THEY'RE PROS—Larry McNeny, 8, tests the home-made miniature golf course behind his home in Dallas, Texas, as his brother Frank, left, 11, and friend Jack Bernick, 11, await their turns. Larry got about 350 bricks from his father, a contractor, and Frank and Jack helped him construct the nine-hole layout. Now they're in business.

GOOD FORM—Karol Fageros is giving some tennis instruction to seven-year-old Carole Siska on a court in River Forest, Ill. Karol, who has gained fame for her tennis costume of gold lame panties, is a pretty good player. The youngster she's instructing could do a lot worse than learn the rules of the game from an expert.

AFTER ONE—Kansas City 2nd sacker Mike Baxes gives it all he's got, but he's still unable to stab liner smashed over his head in the 4th inning of the Yanks-A's game in New York. The drive, hit by Norm Siebern, went for a single, and it looks like Mike's doing the same.

ROYAL WORKOUT—Although Princesses are sometimes thought of as languid ladies who sit around the palace doing nothing at all, Denmark's Princess Margrethe is not like that. The heir-apparent to the Danish throne is attending a W.A.A.F. school in Copenhagen where she's learning jiu jitsu and is shown tripping an opponent.

SHAPING UP—“Mr. Big,” John Baker, right, six-foot-six tackle from North Carolina College, compares size with “Mr. Little,” Tom Forrestal, five-foot-eleven Navy quarterback during practice in Chicago. They're members of the College All-Stars preparing for a game with the Detroit Lions.

BIG STRETCH—Yankee 1st sacker Bill Skowron stretches to snare the ball in time to retire Kansas City's Bill Tuttle (13) in 8th inning of the first game of twin-bill in New York. Tuttle grounded to shortstop Tony Kubek and was thrown out. Coach is Don Heffner. Yanks won opener, 3-1, in 10 innings.

OPTIMIST—Roy Harris, Texas challenger for Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title, takes a break from tuning up his muscles to tune up his guitar in Los Angeles. He's training there for his August 18th bout with Patterson, who's also training on the West Coast.

JAM SESSION—A former All-American tackle at Alabama, Charles B. “Foods” Clement is tackling a batch of jelly at home in Memphis, Tenn. Clement relaxes in the kitchen by whipping up items from fruits and berries sent to him by his mother, Mrs. Ada Clement, from a farm in Rover, Ark.

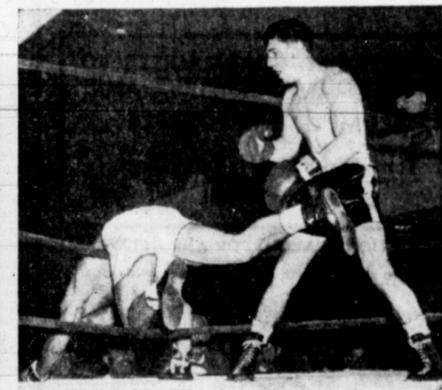

ON GUARD—Five basketball greats show they're on the ball where they will be on duty as Pinkerton operatives for the 105-night meeting of the Raceway in Yonkers, N. Y. Left to right are: Richie Guerin, formerly of the N. Y. Knicks; Greg Riel, St. Bonaventure star and now coach at Iona Prep in New Rochelle; Bob McDermott, all time great player and coach with Fort Wayne Zollners and Pistons; John Magee of Boston College, and Van Breda Kolf, former Princeton star and now coach at Hofstra College.

HONEST INJUN?—An actor who had never ridden a horse until recently, Bronx-born Sal Mineo, 19, plays the role of a Sioux Indian in a new Walt Disney production, “Tonka.” While on location near Bend, Ore., Sal posed with one of the cow ponies he rides in the movie.

NO FISH—One guess is as good as another about what Shelly Silverstein, of Brooklyn, is doing with a fishing rod on a highway in Queens, N. Y. His car stalled after a heavy thunderstorm flooded the street, but Silverstein was still out of luck.

ROPE TRICK—Welterweight Billy Flamio lies draped over the ropes almost out of the ring as Eddie Lynch watches during their bout in New York. Flamio recovered and pounded out an upset victory in the 10-rounder, so this was merely a temporary upset and not at all permanent.

BALLET FOR ATHLETES—What looks like a ballet lesson is really a rhythmic gymnastic session for some boys and girls in Rome. It is part of gymnastic and tennis courses held at the Foro Italico there. Although the secret of these young athletes may be different, it's a fact that the courses have been successful.

R. Langford To Play For East Team

Robert Langford, Pampa's All District line backer, is in Childress making ready for the Greenbelt Bowl game Friday night at 7. Langford will play for the East team in the Ninth Annual battle of area All Stars. He was one of forty-eight selected from a field of over 100 boys nominated by coaches from 69 area high schools.

Time Out With "RED" CROSS

Boys were selected on the basis of their high school football performance record and on the basis of their coaches' recommendations as to character and attitude. Langford was elected to the All District team as defensive line backer and to the second All District team as offensive fullback while a student at Pampa. He was highly recommended by former high school coach Jack Lockett. If past history repeats itself there will be standing room only in the 3,000 seat Childress Municipal Stadium on the night of Friday, August 15th.

Alston Bum Pilot For Next Year

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Manager Walter Alston was set today for another year at the helm of the Dodgers, who have been languishing around last place in the National League for most of the current season. There had been a great deal of speculation on the manager's fate—mostly to the effect that he would be dumped. But vice president and general manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi fooled almost everyone Wednesday when he announced Alston would be signed for another year along with the Dodger coaches. The coaches include Charley Dressen, former Brooklyn and Washington manager who had been mentioned as a top prospect for Alston's job, Greg Mulleavy, Joe Becker and Al (Rube) Walker, the retired catcher.

Milwaukee Braves Pick On 'Cousins'

By FRED DOWN United Press International It looks like the Milwaukee Braves are out to win the 1958 National League pennant the same way they won the 1957 flag — by stomping all over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

And even the streaking, miracle-hoping Pittsburgh Pirates won't be able to do much about it if the Braves keep knocking off the Redlegs at .800-pace, as they've been doing the past two years.

The Braves, rocked by two straight losses in Pittsburgh, returned to the winning track Wednesday night when they picked on their favorite "cousins" for 9-2 and 4-2 victories. The sweep built the Braves' lead back to 5 1/2 games despite the fact the second-place Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-9, and the third-place San Francisco Giants drubbed the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-2.

The Braves ripped the Redlegs apart, 18-4, last season and have a 10-3 edge this year making a two-year domination of 28-7 for .800.

Sluggers Go To Work Juan Pizarro pitched a seven-hitter in the first game for the Braves and Lew Burdette came through with a six-hitter in the nightcap. The Braves' long-ball sluggers were at work as usual against Cincinnati pitching. Joe Adcock blasting a three-run first-inning homer in the opener and Ed Mathews and Andy Patko homering in the nightcap. Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski drove in seven runs between them as the Pirates stretched their winning streak to seven games — longest for the club in nine years. Clemente knocked in four runs with homers in his first two at-bats and Mazeroski, batting .520 over the last seven games, drove in three with a homer and a single.

Three-run homers by Willie Mays and Valmy Thomas were the big blows for the Giants who routed Vinegar Bend Mizell with a four-run fifth inning and "lived it up" with five more runs in the eighth.

Out Of Cellar The Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Chicago Cubs, 6-5, in the other National League game when pinch-hitter Elmer Valo doubled home Don Zimmer in the ninth. The victory lifted the Dodgers out of last place into seventh place.

In the American League, the Washington Senators extended the New York Yankees' "slump" with a 9-4 drubbing. The Detroit Tigers whipped the Cleveland Indians, 6-2, and the Baltimore Orioles shaded the Boston Red Sox, 2-1, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics, 6-5, after a 2-1, 11-inning loss in the first game of their two-night double-header.

The Senators, who hadn't beaten Whitey Ford since Sept. 20, 1954, racked him up with five runs in the eighth inning as the Yankees suffered their fourth loss in five games. Roy Sievers hit his 33rd homer for the Senators.

Arnold Portocarrero won his 12th game for the Orioles who beat Boston's Frank Sullivan for the first time in two years. Gene Woodling led the Orioles' 10-hit attack with three hits.

Harry Simpson won the first game for the Athletics with an 11th-inning homer and the White Sox took the nightcap when Billy Goodman singled in the ninth with the bases filled.

Santee Builds Business On Publicity

By LYLE SCHWILLING United Press International LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Wes Santee is building a business based on publicity gained from his suspension by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Santee, still much like the cocky kid from Ashland, Kan., who electrified the nation's track fans with his running at the University of Kansas a few years ago, was actually thanking the AAU in some ways.

"I don't really dislike the AAU," the 28-year-old life insurance salesman-javelin manufacturer said. "It was only that a couple or three men were out to get me and they did."

"But all that publicity opened many new doors for me. It has helped me sell life insurance and it is helping me in the javelin business. I don't have any complaints."

The AAU clamped a life suspension on Santee on Feb. 19, 1956, just at a time when he appeared to be America's greatest hope for a four-minute mile.

Santee had ripped off a 4:00.5 mile, then the fastest in the nation, before his suspension. The AAU said he accepted too much expense money to run in three track meets in California. The case went to the courts but the AAU ruling held. Santee hasn't run competitively since that time, but his business is booming.

Santee was a lieutenant in the Marine Corps when he was suspended, and upon being discharged a year ago in May, returned here to sell life insurance.

Santee and Kansas Track Coach Bill Easton in the past six months have started their own javelin manufacturing business.

The javelins currently are being made "back east," he wouldn't say where, and are sold from a corner in the basement of Santee's home.

"Within six months, we hope to have a factory going here in Lawrence," he said.

Mazeroski Key Pirate Player

Player Of The Day United Press International —BILL MAZEROSKI

A .520 batting average over the last seven games gives some idea why Bill Mazeroski is regarded as the key man behind the Pittsburgh Pirates' current drive on the front-running Milwaukee Braves.

The Pirates achieved their longest winning streak in nine years, seven straight, with a 10-9 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night and the 21-year-old second baseman contributed two hits that drove in three runs.

During the Pirates' seven-game skinn, Mazeroski has collected 13 hits in 25 at bats and driven in 11 runs. The son of a Wheeling, W. Va., coal miner, Mazeroski is regarded as the best fielding second baseman in the majors.

Robertson In Pecan Business

Whatever Happened To... Charley Robertson United Press International

Charley Robertson, then a right-handed pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, pitched a perfect game against the Detroit Tigers on April 30, 1922, not a batter reaching first base. There were none other in the major leagues until Don Larsen of the Yankees did it against the Dodgers in the 1956 World Series. Robertson was a major leaguer for eight seasons, five with the White Sox, one with the Browns and two with Boston's National League club. Despite his perfect game, there never was a season in which he won more than he lost.

Whatever happened to Charley Robertson? Now 61, he is engaged in the pecan business in Fort Worth, Tex.

Then Bavasi surprised the news men by stating: "My choice is Walt Alston, and always has been. And he wants his coaches to continue with him next season. He and the coaches will be back in the '59 season."

No new contract had been signed, Bavasi said, because the appointment had been decided upon only a few hours before the announcement.

Their Own Words

There seems to be a bit of concern on the part of sincere but generally misguided union members, that those of us who espouse the "Right to Work" are far too harsh in what we have to say about some of the nation's labor bosses.

It might serve at this juncture to introduce in evidence some of the actual statements taken from various labor boss speeches, so that rank and file union members may come to know the nature of the men who dominate them in their various collectives.

"The future of labor-management relations is big labor and big business, for there is no room for the small business or the small union. That is unfortunate, but true. We have reached the saturation point. Now we have to organize what don't belong to us to stay in business. We are in business to make money—not for profit; we are a non-profit organization, but to expand. We are out for every quarter we can get."

(James R. Hoffa, teamster vice president—in an interview with The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, March 4, 1956.)

"If this boycott should force the company to go out of business the workers will be no worse off."

(L. S. Buckmaster, president of the United Rubber Workers—Winchester Virginia Evening Star, Jan. 21, 1957.)

"James J. Sporny, manager of the Equipment Division of Quaker City Motor Parts Co., testified that on Tuesday Bernard J. Marcus, organizing director for Teamsters Joint Council 53, told him:

"You will get nothing in. We will close you up first if you don't sign up. We don't want a vote, we want a contract. I control Philadelphia. The union controls the country."

("Union Official Threatened to Ruin Multimillion Business, Court Told"—Philadelphia inquirer, Dec. 20, 1956.)

Mr. Hoffa announced, at a meeting of the union's constitution committee, that if he was elected he would fight for an all-embracing council of American transport unions—air, land and sea—for joint action.

"You cannot have a one-city strike any more," he said, "or a strike in just one kind of transportation. You have to strike them all."

(James R. Hoffa, vice president International Brotherhood Teamsters—New York Times, Aug. 8, 1957)

"We are very sorry to hear that you object to becoming a member of the largest Labor Organization in the City of Quincy, namely, Lodge No. 822, in the International Association of Machinists.

"We are giving you the opportunity to join our organization and become a part of the greatest Union in America today. If your signed application is not received within the next few weeks, other action will be taken against you. We do not like to take such action, but when you force us to it, we will carry out the mandate.

"Our forefathers fought hard to accomplish what benefits the worker has today, and we intend to preserve that accomplishment, if we have to revert back to their tactics. We are very certain that you wouldn't want to be followed along the streets and called 'scab'..."

(Letter from Edward Hoffman, chairman, organizing committee, Lodge No. 822, International Association of Machinists, to employees of a machine company, Quincy, Ill. March, 1949)

"Labor trouble is ahead if the Ohio Right-to-Work law is passed. I know lots of tricks to use on the production lines. Then watch what happens to production figures."

(Richard Gosser, vice president, UAW, in speech on October 30, 1957, before Toledo Industrial Development Committee)

"It seems to me that it is almost sinful to have any labor dispute degenerate to the point this one has—where we actually have to wreck the company. That's what we're doing, wrecking the company."

Don Rand, UAW international representative, in discussing union action in the four-year Kohler dispute —The Wall Street Journal, Aug. 9, 1956.)

"Don't be disturbed about whether you are asking for more than a fair share.

"The most you can wring out of an employer under the best of circumstances will be a hell of a way short of your fair share.

"It is interesting to find out what the employer calls a fair share. It generally boils down to as little as you will take. So the devil with their philosophies.

"Let the philosophy be: build your union to a degree of strength that you can wring out of the boss every last penny that the business will allow to be wrung out."

(Martin F. Walsh, regional director for the Steelworkers, at Rhode Island Industrial Union Council—AFL-CIO News, Feb. 11, 1956)

"This is not going to be any milktost movement. We are going to seek these things in a militant manner... in the militant manner in which our organization was founded."

(Walter Reuther, New York Times, Dec. 9, 1955)

"We boys are moving South. It may mean murder and bloodshed. Can you imagine what those textile hill-billies will do with a gun in their hands once we get a few of them paying dues? We mean to do it. We are going to organize every textile company in the South."

(Article in "The American Textile Reporter," Feb. 16, 1956)

"These so-called labor leaders that differ with the movement will be uncovered. We plan to, and we will, publicly and among the rank-and-file, brand them as traitors—and that's what they will be called—traitors.

"We are warning you now, and we are warning all in the future: DO NOT DIFFER WITH THE MOVEMENT WITH RESPECT TO ISSUES OR CANDIDATES. WE WILL NOT STAND FOR IT."

(James L. McDevitt, Co-director of COPE, at a regional meeting of local union officials in New England at Hartford Conn, July 19, 1956—from an observer on the spot)

These are just a sampling.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
Principles And Heresies
Rights And "Rights"

I had a letter from a friend calling my attention to an article in the August 2 issue of the "National Review" under the above heading. It was written by Frank S. Meyer. My friend wanted me to be sure and read it. I had already read it and loaned it to several people.

One of these parties wanted me to comment on it in my column. I am glad to do so because I think it is a boiled-down summary of the ideologies of the Decalogue, the Golden Rule and the American way of life as set forth in the Declaration of Independence. It is worth reading several times.

Frank S. Meyer is one of the editors of the "National Review." This is the way he puts it: "One of the most unpleasant aspects of the political scene in these Liberal decades is the mixture of white and black with which politicians, social workers, trade union leaders, and leaders of so-called minorities insistently demand that the state decree and enforce special privileges for all and sundry. Worse, the privileges demanded—material security from the cradle to the grave, equal economic treatment despite differences of ability, equal education irrespective of ability and at the taxpayers' expense—are dubbed 'rights.' Thus a concept vital to the existence of a free society, the concept of the unalienable rights of man to life, liberty and property, is brought into disrepute."

"The true rights of men are not claims to material and social privilege; they are rights in their persons, rights to live uncoerced by other men or groups of men, rights derived from the nature of man and from the moral law. What such rights mean in detail has been spelled out in the Constitution of the United States and in the principles of the common law, and understanding and respect for them has been fundamental to the political structure of our Federal Republic in its best days.

"Nevertheless, so repellent has the contemporary clamor—which dresses out a garb for special privilege in the language of 'rights' become, that some conservatives, throwing out the baby with the bath water, would deny the very essence of rights independently of any possible reference to the individual human person. Substituting the concept that the rights of the individual person vis-a-vis the state are conditional and dependent upon the person's performance of his duties to society and the state, they proclaim the doctrine: no rights without corresponding duties.

"Now, granted that the duties that impinge upon human beings derive from the same moral law from which their rights derive, nevertheless duties and rights do not depend directly upon one another. The individual person lives in a social milieu constituted of other persons and of the groupings of persons which make up social and political institutions. However much awe and reverence may become associated with these institutions, they cannot as such have any moral claims upon him. Only insofar as they represent the moral rights of other persons, that is, only insofar as they have duties to them, do they command respect from him. The great Commandment, which is the cornerstone of the structure of Western moral thought, reflects this hierarchy of values, ignoring utterly everything but God and individual persons: 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself.'"

"Society, which is simply an abstraction meaning the sum total of all the relations between persons, cannot be a primary source of obligation in moral and political thought. To insist that it is, is either actually to believe that society is a living organism endowed with a soul and constituting a third term that should be added to the Great Commandment, or it is to talk nonsense. Only if one is willing to take the former position, is it possible logically to defend as an axiom of political theory the proposition: no rights without corresponding duties.

"This doctrine depends upon the belief that society is a being, almost a person, who in reciprocal relationship with individual persons hands out rights as they fulfill their duties to it. In such a scheme of things, rights would obviously be dependent upon duties performed; but they would not be rights, they would be rewards for good behavior.

"The rights of human beings, however, are not the gift of some Leviathan; they are inherently derived from the nature of men. The duties of human beings are not tribute owed to Leviathan; they are moral imperatives grounded in objective value. Each is independent of the other; it is not a matter of quid pro quo." (Something for something.)

Robert Allen Reports:

USS Seawolf Is Engaged In Underwater Endurance Test

WASHINGTON — The USS SEAWOLF is now somewhere in the South Atlantic engaged in an underwater endurance test which, if successful, will make fabulous naval history.

The nuclear-powered submarine, second to be built by this country, is endeavoring to establish a new underwater cruising record of at least 60 days.

Present record is 31 days, set earlier this year by the A-powered USS SKATE.

The SEAWOLF participated in the remarkable feat. It accompanied the SKATE on its 8,000-mile underwater cruise. The SEAWOLF remained submerged 30 days — just one day short of the SKATE's record.

Details of the current 60-day test are classified for security reasons, but the following can be reported.

The SEAWOLF departed from an East Coast port last weekend, accompanied by a special task force consisting of both surface vessels and other submarines. Among Navy men the belief is general these ships will circle the globe.

Authorities carefully do not confirm that. But they do acknowledge this record-seeking trip will cover "more than 10,000 miles."

The SEAWOLF will cruise the entire distance underwater. If it succeeds in doing that in some 60 days of continuous submergence, it will constitute, Admiral Arleigh Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, has told congressional leaders, "a major breakthrough of the first magnitude, with implications extending far beyond the realm of undersea warfare."

During this extraordinary endurance test of crew and atomic submarine, they will take part in combat and other maneuvers. Certain new equipment particularly is to undergo rigorous trials.

The SEAWOLF's unannounced record attempt highlights the impending launching of two more nuclear submarines.

They are the SEADRAGON, which will go down the ways on August 16, at Portland, N.H.; and the TRITON, on August 19, at Groton, Conn. The TRITON is the world's largest submarine.

They will be the seventh and eighth of the Navy's steadily growing fleet of these powerful underwater craft. Congress has voted funds for a total of 29 of them. Three are in operation — NAUTILUS, first to be built, SEAWOLF and the SKATE. Three others are undergoing final trials but have not yet been commissioned — SWORDFISH, SARGO and the SKIPJACK.

Skipper of the SEAWOLF is Commander Richard B. Lanning, Annapolis, Va. In the two years the submarine has been in operation, it has traveled more than 50,000 miles, of which about 75 percent have been underwater.

Only the NAUTILUS has cruised further. It is on its second 100,000-mile, so far the SKATE has logged around 22,000 miles. Curiously, the SEAWOLF functions at only 85 percent of its nuclear reactor capacity. That is due to a long-persisting corrosion problem which has never been solved. After the endurance test, this experimental reactor will be replaced with a pressurized-water type similar to that in the NAUTILUS and SKATE.

ANOTHER SUBMERSIBLE — The Navy is going in for bathyscaphs. They are wanted to explore extremely deep reaches in the Pacific Ocean. At present, only two bathyscaphs are in existence. The French have one, and Italy the other. The latter will be used later this year off the coast of California for International Geophysical Year research. Navy scientists want to explore particularly the so-called Marianas Trench, near the Philippines.

This oceanic canyon is more than 36,000 feet deep.

One reason for the special interest in this vast canyon is its possible use as an "atomic ash-can"; that is, as a dumping ground for radioactive debris from nuclear power and other plants.

Spearheading the bathyscap program is Dr. Athelstan F. Spilhaus, of the University of Minnesota.

ATOMIC FALLOUT — As a result of the new law permitting the exchange of nuclear secrets with Britain, it is doubling its spending for A-powered submarines: from $7,000,000 to $14,000,000. Admiral H. G. Rickover, "father" of the atomic submarine and Chief of the Naval Reactor Branch, is not convinced the Russians have such vessels. He told the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, "I know of no concrete evidence that the Soviet has built an atomic submarine. From the information we have, the Russians have put on more of propaganda than actual performance in nuclear power. They talk big, but they haven't got the real thing."

REVISED SCHEDULE — Vice President Nixon is making a significant change in his European trip plans. He is postponing it until after the November state and congressional elections.

Nixon was to have embarked on this European tour early in September. But that's been dropped at the strong urging of California and national Republican leaders. They pled with Nixon to devote his time and efforts in September and October to electioneering.

They frankly told him they needed all the help he can give them, particularly as President Eisenhower contemplates little campaigning. Nixon will have to carry the main load for the Administration.

As a result of this change in plans, the Vice President will extend the duration of his European tour. He now proposes to spend at least six weeks there.

Instead of going direct to the continent, Nixon will first fly to London for a five-day stay. His original itinerary did not include Britain. Also under the new schedule, he will stay longer in each country than previously contemplated.

Another change under consideration is including of Poland in his itinerary.

Yugoslavia will be visited, as originally planned. But no other Communist country was on Nixon's list. Now he is deliberating going to Poland and possibly Rumania.

Too Much Government Is Cause Of Many US Slums

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

A leading religious journal, thoroughly dedicated to socialism, said in its editorial columns recently: "But a nation in which the making of slums is outracing all our previous half-hearted efforts at building adequate housing will surely agree with the senators that Congress should facilitate home construction and highway building."

Why are we making slums faster than we are rebuilding them? First, rent controls have discouraged private capital from seeking investment in the housing industry. It is almost impossible to win an adequate return and who is there among us who will invest his savings where he knows there will be little reward? Second, feather-bedding made possible by protective legislation has increased the cost of housing beyond the capacity of most people to rent or purchase.

The Doctor Says:

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

There is great confusion almost everywhere today concerning the possible risks to the human body by exposure to radiation. Although all the answers still are not known, an excellent discussion of this subject has come recently from the American College of Radiology and the American Dental Association.

The principal problems of exposure to radiation, (including X-rays) are: The possibility of local reactions, such as burns; the possibility of sterility; the possibility of shortening life; the possibility of provoking such diseases as cancer and leukemia; and the possibility of damaging the human seed which will lead to malformations or undesirable changes in generations yet unborn.

Today the chances of severe local reactions from the use of X-rays for diagnosis or treatment are slight. The risk of local injury from large amounts of radiation to the whole body from atomic weapons or accidents with nuclear energy is present, but about this the medical profession alone can do little.

There are hazards of producing sterility if the sex glands are exposed to too much radiation before or during the procreative period. Consequently, precautions in protecting them are strongly recommended.

Such disorders as cancer and leukemia can be produced by over exposure to radiation. However, this is a risk principally to those who are occupationally exposed and so presents a problem which is largely technical.

The question of hazard to the human seed is extremely complex and perhaps cannot be answered for many generations. But this risk involves only those before or during the procreative stage of life. Unnecessary radiation to children, the young, and women during pregnancy should be kept to a minimum.

The general conclusions at the present time are partly technical and partly involved with common sense. The technical ones relate to methods which keep the exposure to X-rays and other radiation at the lowest possible level and smallest possible body area compatible with the diagnostic or treatment procedures which are needed.

The common sense outlook is that "no specific procedure can be condemned or prohibited if it is sufficiently indicated for the good of the person on whom it is done."

The Condition Against Which The Socialist Journal Loudly Protests Has Been Brought About By The Very Socialism Which It Proposes As A Remedy.

As noted above, the journal declares that "Congress should facilitate home construction and highway building." How does Congress "facilitate" these things? By seizing the money of its citizens, very wastefully erecting housing facilities and then electing certain of its citizens to enjoy a housing subsidy at the expense of their fellows. In other words, the Christian journal is advising the state to rob many in order that a favored few chosen usually with an eye to politics may profit by whatever portion of the swag is left after a wasteful, inefficient bureaucracy lives from the operation.

"We must also find ways" says the journal, "to build the public school and college classrooms which we need." The only way Government can do these things is further seizure of the people's wealth.

The journal correctly points out that the situation today differs from that which existed in the thirties. "Then the principal of social responsibility for economic welfare had to be debated; today it is accepted by both parties." The journal is right; socialism has been accepted in large measure by both parties and that is what makes it so difficult for those who do not approve to find ways of expressing their disapproval.

Philosopher-'Mankind Must Renounce War'

Editor's Note: United Press International Vice President and Associate General Manager Kingsbury Smith is on a fact-finding tour of Europe.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
 UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
 MINFORD, WALES (UPI)—A practical world peace plan that could be considered at a United Nations General Assembly meeting, or a summit conference, if one is ever held, was outlined today by Lord Bertrand Russell, Britain's most famous philosopher.

In an exclusive interview with this correspondent, the 86-year-old intellectual genius, who wrote a masterpiece on mathematics and won the Nobel Prize for literature, warned that time is running out for the adoption of effective measures to prevent a nuclear war that is likely to destroy the human race.

"The chances at present seem to me to be about 50-50 whether there will be a human being left in the world 40 years hence," he said. "If present policies continue to be pursued, the chances will be very much less than that."

The plan outlined by Lord Russell envisaged agreements "in principle" with Russia which he felt could pave the way for permanent peace and a "paradise" on earth for mankind.

The renowned and highly controversial "free-thinker" developed the points of his peace plan in response to questions put to him by this correspondent who traveled over 200 miles from London to a picturesque hillside in Wales to interview the man who is generally recognized as possessing one of the world's greatest minds.

Since the Middle East situation involves a danger to world peace, Lord Russell felt that any U.N. General Assembly or summit meeting on that subject should consider the broader issue of how to prevent a nuclear war. If agreement could be reached on that question, he is confident such problems as those of the Middle East would be much easier to solve than they are likely to be otherwise.

He thinks it would be a good idea to have two outstanding personalities who are not closely associated with either the East or West bloc attend the opening session of a General Assembly or summit conference on the Middle East problem and address the meeting as the "representative of mankind" on the dangers of nuclear war and unrestricted atomic tests.

Names Albert Schweitzer

He suggested that Albert Schweitzer, the noted philosopher and humanist, would be a good man to be one of them. Asked whether he himself, as a recognized spokesman for those who fear the effects of nuclear explosions, would be willing to address such a meeting, if invited to do so, Lord Russell replied:

"I would go like a shot. It would be an opportunity in a thousand. I doubt, however, that I would be invited. Both sides suspect me to being sympathetic to the opposite bloc. The Communists have been after me recently because I denounced the Soviets for the execution of the Hungarian revolt leaders. If I did address the summit meeting on the dangers facing the human race, I would like to have Premier Nehru of India also speak on the same subject. The Russians might pay more attention to him than they would to me."

Asked what he would propose to Khrushchev if he were President Eisenhower at a summit meeting, the mild-mannered though mentally vigorous humanist remarked:

"That is a large question in-

Folk Song Composer Works For Very Little Money

By CHESTER SELTZER

ANTHONY, Tex. (UPI)—Daniel Hernandez, a laborer who writes songs, has composed folk ballads that rate high on the hit parade in the Southwest's "Little Mexico" sections.

All along the border—from El Paso's "Little Chihuahua" to San Antonio's "Little Laredo" quarter, Mariachi musicians sing the Mexican corridos or ballads turned out by Hernandez.

His ballads of "Marcos Aguirre" and "Roberto Rodriguez" have been distributed in the "Little Mexicos" on unbound sheets of paper.

Hernandez, 48, works on the songs in his off hours.

"I can't read music," he said. "So when the melodies come to me I have to keep humming and whistling them until I can play them on the guitar."

Guitar Sets It

He said, "once you've got the song on the guitar it's like putting it into notes and you never forget it."

Hernandez once earned his living as a guitar player and fiesta singer. In those days he also wrote ballads, he said, selling them in El Paso and Ciudad Juarez.

Robert Ryan's Newspaper Career Was Very Short One

By HAZEL K. JOHNSON

UPI HOLLYWOOD CORRESPONDENT
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actor Robert Ryan's career as a newspaperman was brevity personified. He took the place of a girl friend reporter for two days on the Chicago American when she was ill. And he had an even shorter acquaintance with the editor of that paper. He never met the man.

"As a matter of fact I don't believe I've ever met an editor," Ryan said in between rehearsals for Dore Schary's "Lonelyhearts." All of which is interesting in view of the fact that Ryan has been steadily rehearsing his part as a "hard-bitten and thoroughly cynical newspaper editor" at Goldwyn Studios for the past six weeks.

The movie's publicity office obviously is manifesting little dis-

 KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A truck-car accident here forced local police to make out two separate reports.

The first was quite routine. The second was written after some 20 neighborhood children opened a door of the ice cream truck and helped themselves.

ONE KEY IS ENOUGH
 MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—One key to a city is apparently all that cowboy star Roy Rogers can handle at one time.

The actor—who is honorary mayor of his home town of Chatsworth, Calif.—asked Milwaukee Mayor Frank Zeidler in a letter not to give him a key to Milwaukee when he arrives today to perform at the Wisconsin State Fair.
