British Fishing Boat Boarded

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Icelandic coast guardsmen boarded a British fishing boat early today, on the second day of the "cod war" over Iceland's arbitrarily-imposed 12-mile limit. The British navy said the frigate Eastbourne, on escort duty with the British fishing fleet, is speeding to the rescue of the trawler Northern Foam.

Love-Sick Youth Kills Girl Friend

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI)—A love-sick youth confessed Monday night he shot his girl friend so "no one else could have her."

John Hixon, 17, was arrested in Detroit 15 hours after he abandoned the body of Carolyn Waldron, 16, on a scenic lover's lane in the Waterloo recreation area.

The distraught youth said he fired two shots from a .20 caliber deer rifle at Carolyn early Monday, climaxing a long argument that began Sunday night when she wanted to break up.

Hixon, a graduate last June of Jackson High School, was returned to the Jackson County Jail Monday night. State police said Prosecutor Russel Noble probably would have the youth arraigned on murder charges in Justice Court.

Hixon, a mild-looking youth with closely cropped blond hair, said he was in love with Carolyn and wanted to stop seeing him. He said they drove to the recreation area about eight miles east of here to talk it over and patched up their differences.

When he started to drive home, Hixon said, Carolyn mentioned another boy's name and said "She didn't know—maybe the romance had been too stormy and maybe we'd better break it off."

"I stopped the car and said, 'Ok, if that's the way you feel.' "He got out of the car and began to walk along a trail into the woods. I jumped out of the car and took the rifle from the trunk and shouted, 'Come back here or I'll shoot you.'"

"She turned to face me and said, 'I don't think that gun is loaded. You wouldn't do anything like that.'"

Hixon said he shot her twice as she started to back away from him.

Seven Known Dead As Liner Crashes

LONDON (UPI)—An Independent Air Lines Viking airliner with three persons aboard crashed into the densely populated London suburb of Southall this morning.

Seven persons were known killed including a mother and her newborn baby, one other child and the three members of the plane. Police on the spot estimated the death toll at 15.

The crash demolished three houses and severely damaged three others. Fire roared through the wreckage, fed by gasoline from the crashed plane and sheets of burning gas from a broken main.

An eyewitness said the Viking hit a lamppost before crashing into the close-packed rows of houses.

The pilot of the plane, identified only as a captain named Major, apparently tried to crash the plane on a nearby sports field but plowed into a row of houses instead.

A reporter at the crash scene said it looked like "some macabre, surrealist landscape."

One wing of the airliner, glittering silver in the morning sun, stood on end in a back garden. One engine was thrown almost to the doorway of the charred houses. The area was a tangled mass of airplane fuselage, household furniture and pieces of tables and beds.

The last holiday weekend of summer claimed a traffic death toll larger than the National Safety Council estimated, a United Press International count showed today.

But the toll was lower than last year, when 442 persons died in traffic during the Labor Day weekend, and a council spokesman attributed the decrease to "the greatest united effort ever made by traffic enforcement agencies throughout the country to prevent holiday accidents."

The UPI tally showed 422 persons killed in traffic accidents from the start of the Labor Day weekend at 5 p.m. Friday to mid-night Monday. An additional 109 deaths, 12 persons killed in plane crashes and 78 dead in miscellaneous accidents brought the total holiday death count to 621.

Authorities today captured an Irving, Tex., man who kidnapped a police sergeant, held a shotgun against his head and forced him to drive 140 miles at break-neck speeds over North Texas highways.

The black-haired man had pulled a pistol on Sgt. Harvey S. Derrick at Irving, seven miles west of Dallas, and told him "I'm not going to kill you. I'm going to Iowa."

Derrick said his captor ordered him into his patrol car, warned him "Don't go for your gun," and forced him to hit speeds of more than 90 miles an hour before coming to a halt at a huge roadblock on U.S. 80, five miles west of this East Texas oil town.

Naval Battle Near Quemoy

Death Toll Surpasses Estimates

United Press International

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—The nationalists reported that they sank 11 and possibly 12 Communist motor torpedo boats in a wild midnight naval battle off Big Quemoy island today. But an eye-witness report from the battle scene said Red guns and ships disrupted efforts to reinforce the Nationalist stronghold.

A Defense Ministry communiqué said one Nationalist vessel was hit and towed back to the Pescadore Islands, with 10 men aboard wounded.

The Reds resumed their intensive shelling of Quemoy today for the 11th straight day, with almost 2,000 shells fired into the island up to midday. The Nationalists were reported ready for anything.

UPI correspondent Charles Smith, the only U.S. wire service reporter on Big Quemoy in the front line of the current vest pocket war, said the deputy Quemoy commander, Maj. Gen. Kao Yang-foon predicted an imminent Red invasion of that key Nationalist defense link but said the Communists would meet disaster in any such try. Smith landed with eight other correspondents during the height of the naval battle.

"Determined and Ready" Smith said Kao pinpointed the islets of Tatan and Quemoy just offshore in Red-held Amoy harbor as the most likely point for the initial Communist thrust.

"We expect an all-out attack in the near future," Kao told Smith. "But we are determined and ready."

However, UPI photographer Norman Williams, who was aboard another craft during the sea fight and was forced to return to the Pescadores without landing at Quemoy, underscored Red strength in the area.

"I emphasize we could not complete the landing of troops and correspondents because of Communist resistance," Williams said in a dispatch from his landing craft.

He said about 30 Nationalist soldiers, the 3 correspondents and 2 Nationalist navy escort officers managed to get ashore while the remainder returned to the Pescadores.

He added that they zigzagged all the way back because of a submarine alert. Before they left Quemoy, they had been buffeted by winds and waves stirred up by Typhoon Grace and attacked by Red artillery and torpedo boats. It was quite an experience, Williams said.

And then Pandemonium "Fire from the torpedo boats started slowly, but built up within five minutes into a heavy attack (See BATTLE, Page 2)

Part of the North Crest Addition was taken into the City today, by vote of the Pampa City Commissioners.

Other results of the morning meeting today were the authorization for a sewer line across Plot 167, Suburbs of Pampa, and the approval of three payments to Ray Boswell Contractors for paving completed.

School Board Hands Teamster Veep Before Rackets Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamster Vice President Harold J. Gibbons went before the Senate Rackets Committee today to answer its charges that violence and iron-fist control are the secrets of his success in the nation's largest union.

Gibbons was scheduled to take the stand as the committee resumed its investigation of the 1,500,000-member Teamsters Union and the men around its president, James R. Hoffa.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the questioning of Gibbons was expected to last all of today's short session and most of tomorrow's. He said some other witnesses may be called to testify on Gibbons' activities in the St. Louis area, where he controls most of the Teamster organizations.

After completing the Gibbons inquiry, the committee will turn back to Hoffa's union and personal affairs. The Teamster president, absent from the stand but on hand in the hearing room for two weeks, might be called late in the week, Kennedy said.

Aside from his dominance of St. Louis Teamster affairs, Gibbons is considered the closest man to Hoffa in the international union, with the possible exception of Hoffa's long-time Detroit associate, Vice President Owen (Bert) Brennan. An executive assistant to Hoffa, Gibbons is second in charge of the international.

Man Captured Who Kidnapped Police Sergeant, Fled In Car

Three May Unveil Secrets

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States, Britain and Russia are expected to unveil secrets of nuclear fusion today as a prelude to possible cooperation in harnessing hydrogen bombs for peace.

The atomic "big three" have promised to take their knowledge of controlled fusion off the secret list. Papers at today's session of the atoms-for-peace conference here were expected to reveal information that has been withheld from the public for years.

Edward Teller, "father" of the H-bomb and chief U.S. speaker, planned to advocate the use of H-power to build canals, blast out harbors and create underground steam for power.

US Plane Crashes; No Survivors

AGANA, Guam (UPI)—A military C-124 Globemaster with 19 persons aboard crashed in the Pacific today about 60 miles west of Guam.

The Air Force said there was no indication of survivors but a search was being made. U.S. Navy destroyers reported to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, that they had recovered three bodies from the sea.

The four-engine military Air Transport Wing, Travis Air Force Base, Calif., and was en route to the Far East. It went down after taking off from Guam for the Philippines.

An Air Force spokesman said "some debris was sighted" in the area by Air Force and Navy search units.

A spokesman at Travis said the plane left "four or five days ago" carrying seven crewmen and 12 passengers.

Worst Race Rioting In London's History

The Negroes fought back, hurling bricks and bottles from houses where they had barricaded themselves.

A major battle developed around two adjoining houses in one street where some 300 Negroes were besieged by hundreds of white hoodlums, who showered the buildings with bricks, bottles and "Molotov cocktails" incendiaries.

"We'll fix you niggers!" the white rioters screamed, but despite their best efforts they were unable to set the buildings on fire. Police forced their way into the buildings about midnight and took away many of the Negroes.

In a similar incident, a group of Negroes barricaded in a house were booked "for inciting violence" when they started shouting insults at the mob and police force they were armed with cleavers.

Adults involved Although the white "troops" were teen-agers, there were some indications that adults, cruising the area, in automobiles, were calling the signals for the violence. One man who appeared to be directing the mob drove a station wagon with a Nazi swastika draped over the hood.

There were girls as well as boys among the white rioters. One Negro fled for his life when a gang of "Teddy Molls" in tight skirts and sweaters began pelting him with bottles.

Racial bitterness, which has been smoldering in this country since Negroes and Indians in large numbers began pouring in after World War II, has erupted into violence a half dozen times in the past two weeks.

Worst Storm In Four Years Strikes Cuba

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuba's worst hurricane in four years bore down on the central provincial capital of Camaguey early today, leaving considerable damage but no known casualties in its wake.

The big U.S. naval base at Guantanamo was one of the first points struck by the raging winds, but underground shelters and a stormproof buildings protected men and equipment. Rear Adm. Robert E. Ellis reported Monday night the big blow caused "no material damage" to the base.

In Miami, the U.S. Weather Bureau said at 3 a.m. e.d.t., the storm was about 450 miles south-east of Miami, entering the Gulf of Guacanayabo off the South-Central coast of Cuba. It was moving west-northwest to northwest at 16 to 18 miles-per-hour.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 tomorrow in the Central Baptist Church with Rev. Thurman Uphaw, pastor of that church, Rev. Carroll B. Ray, Perryton First Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duemkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

DOWN ON THE FARM—Figures from the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that farmers' cash receipts from commodities and government payments totaled $30.8 billion dollars in 1957. Income from livestock and livestock products (bottom half of pie) were 17.4 billion dollars, or 56.5 per cent of the total. Crops (upper half) accounted for 40.2 per cent. Last year continued a trend begun in 1954, in which livestock have provided over half of farmers' cash receipts each year.

'Torch Death' In Chicago Is Probed

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN
United Press International
CHICAGO (UPI)—Authorities today investigated the "human torch" death of a man who said he was just passing his uncle's restaurant when he was engulfed by flames.

James Murdough, 28, died Monday, a victim of one of two restaurant fires which broke out in Chicago during the Labor Day weekend.

Murdough fled from the Grill Truck Stop restaurant Sunday night and died about 12 hours later in Little Company of Mary Hospital of burns over most of his body.

He told police before he died that "I was just passing the place."

Police officials ordered the arson squad and crime laboratory to investigate the fire and an earlier blaze at Carmen's Steak House in an effort to determine if the fires might be connected with alleged restaurant racketeering in Chicago.

The truck stop fire was preceded by a muffled explosion, firemen said, and a can containing a quart of gasoline was found inside. However, Roy Murdough, 39, the restaurant owner, said the gasoline had been in the building for two weeks.

Roy Murdough said he and his new nephew were on good terms and that James had visited him in his home about three hours before the fire.

The blaze at Carmen's Steak House caused an estimated $75,000 damage. Four firemen were hurt battling the fire, the second blaze to hit the building since last October.

The Truck Stop fire was the 24th restaurant fire in the Chicago area since Jan. 9, and authorities are continuing their investigation into the possibility that some of them might have been set by alleged labor-gangster terrorists.

In hearings before the Senate Rackets Committee last month, it was brought out that union officials and restaurant operators agreed to "sweetheart contracts" in exchange for labor peace.

Constitution Party In Convention

AUSTIN (UPI)—Members of the Constitution Party met today for their one-day state convention, with major business being selection of a nominee for the U.S. Senate to run in the November general election.

State Chairman R. Glenn Florence, a LaPorte banker, said he hoped the session would draw "from 60 to 100 delegates."

The Constitutionists have announced they will offer as a candidate for the U.S. Senate in November "an outstanding Texan, who will stand for states rights and the Constitution."

Florence said the party will offer on candidate for governor because "under Texas' election laws—a party whose candidate polls more than 200,000 votes in the general election must hold a primary election in selecting their nominee for the following election."

"That could offer problems," he said.

Sweet Corn Festival Queen

HOOPESTON, Ill. (UPI)—Janice Ilene Hansen, 19, Marshalltown, Iowa, reigned over the National Sweet Corn Festival held here during the weekend.

Miss Hansen, brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Hansen, and a junior at Iowa State College, was chosen from among 12 contestants.

Camella Jane Kyger, 20, Indianapolis, a junior at the University of Indiana, was named the most popular among the candidates.

Officials of the festival estimated that approximately 10 tons of fresh sweet corn, buttered, salted and cooked in the live steam of an old fashioned locomotive, were given away during the festival.

Youth Drowns In Creek

SILSBEE, Tex. (UPI)—Gordon D. Gary Jr., 5-year-old son of Dist. Judge Gordon D. Gary Sr. of Beaumont, drowned in a creek late Monday while on an outing with his family.

The body was recovered shortly after 7 p.m. in five feet of water by Silsbee volunteer firemen who formed a human chain to wade through Village Creek.

Judge Gary, his wife and son were visiting over the weekend at Flying Red Horse Club on the creek, located some six miles south of Silsbee.

The boy was last seen sitting on steps leading down to the water. Searchers theorized he may have become fascinated by a float 25 feet from the bank and attempted to wade toward it.

Richard C. Butler, attorney for the board, said the "good faith" with which it had acted throughout Little Rock's crisis and violence stood it in good stead before the courts.

He said the Supreme Court had delayed its decision until at least Sept. 11 because the Legislature passed a bill postponing Central's opening until Sept. 11. Faubus then stole a march on the court by not signing the bill into law and thus leaving the Sept. 8 opening scheduled.

In other nationwide integral developments:

—Gulfport, Miss., city and school officials awaited calmly, and presumably with some counter plan, the initial step by Negro minister Glenn King to assault segregation barriers in Mississippi schools. King has announced he would attempt to enroll his daughter today, but Gulfport officials say registration does not begin until Thursday.

—In Greensboro, N.C., professional segregationist John Kasper topped a generally bad day by verbally attacking evangelist Billy Graham before a home state audience. The attack brought a chilly reception and many persons walked out of the Ku Klux Klan meeting. Earlier in the day Kasper was hooded and drowned out at Charlotte and Monroe.

CONSUMER INCOME VS. FOOD PRICES

AHEAD OF THE GAME—Retail food prices in 1957, although more than double the 1940 level, were about the same as in 1951-52. Newschart above, based on data from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, also shows that disposable personal income per person has climbed in every year but one since 1940. Food prices climbed rapidly in the immediate postwar period. Today they are about 10 per cent above the 1948 peak. Income, however, has increased even more substantially.

Migrant Ministry Has Outposts In 31 States

NEW YORK — Maria Lopez is a two-year-old charmer who daily tucks away a hot lunch planned to help small homes grow straight and strong.

She has mid-morning and afternoon naps, a big glass of milk at snack time, lots of warm affection from dawn until dark and a fun time with other youngsters from neighboring cabins.

Maria might be one of the casualties in the lives of one-million agricultural migrants and their children were it not for the new child care center. She could easily be a sickly child lying uncared for, in a shack or in the hot sun beside the vegetable rows.

The Migrant Ministry of the National Council of Churches gives many Marias and their brothers tender care and an opportunity to play and learn together in a center during the 10 to 15 hours a day when their mothers work in the fields picking America's food.

As the 1958 migrants and their families move from their winter crop areas in the southern states toward the northern fields, many citizen committees are helping local church groups maintain such centers. San Jose, Calif., which shelters Maria, has a citizens' committee made up of growers, canners, fruit processing unions, grange and service club members and others. School and health officials are active.

The center in Hendersonville, N.C., the first in the state for migrant children, was launched by the Welfare Council. Civic minded groups in Springdale, Ark., aid in the first center in that state. Committees help operate seven centers in Florida. The Navajo Tribal Council will give a hand when the Arizona center for their pre-schoolers opens this Fall.

Trends and facts about migrants and efforts to help them, compiled in the annual nationwide Migrant Ministry survey were announced by Miss Edith Lowry, national director of the ministry for the 33-denomination National Council of Churches. They reveal that:

1. The Federal government, states and communities are waking up to the plight of homeless, exploited migrants and are pressing for action on housing, transportation, education and health fronts.

2. Mexican nationals are being brought into this country to tend the crops in such numbers — almost half a million this year — that jobless domestic workers in some sections feel threatened by consequent lowered wage scales.

3. Spanish-speaking migrants who usually winter in Texas and summer in Western and central states, are being pushed by the Mexican-national influx into many other states. Florida had 3,000 in one camp earlier and a group is now in a Virginia Eastern Shore camp.

4. The Migrant Ministry is carrying out a broad-gauge education curriculum project in cooperation with state education authorities, in order to make available to public schools a teaching guide geared to migrants' life experiences.

As to housing, Miss Lowry reported that only 10 percent of the 700 farm labor camps in the teeny central San Joaquin Valley in California remain sub standard new magnitude, Miss Lowry closed. West Virginia will see a Migrant Ministry established for the first time; a chaplain will serve two labor camps. In Washington, where 75,000 migrants are harvesting, two teams are being education, worship, crafts and recreation to five-neighborhood units.

Volunteers are the heart of the Migrant Ministry. Miss Lowry noted. They're now an army of 10,000, including 6,600 regular trained volunteers (This figure is most doubled in the last three years) and more than 3,000 members of migrant committees. This season 448 summer and 50 year-round Migrant Ministry staff will reach approximately 143,900 migrants in 319 areas within 23 states.

In Idaho 50 community women teach migrant mothers to sew and in California several trained corps give illiterates the rudiments of reading and writing. A Red Cross nurse provided lessons in home nursing in Spanish to mothers in Louisiana. Students from Vanderbilt, Scarritt and Peabody colleges in Nashville, Tenn., helped with the summer program and in Waco, 169 women from 34 churches worked in relays around the clock in a welcome center. Ministry leaders in Oregon acclaim the youthful team from First Presbyterian Church of Stockton, Calif., who will help Oregonians build a migrant center.

New York State has five volunteer service units, two Mennonite, one Presbyterian, one Episcopalian and one American Friends Service Committee. Mennonite service teams work with the Ministry in Michigan, California, Florida, Arizona and New York. Brethren Service units serve in several states.

Across the country from each other, two states where the migrant thrust is sharper year by year, have 1958 Ministry plans of

THE DOOR WAS OPEN—The Primary Department at the First Presbyterian Church in Montgomery, Ala., made a luxurious resting place for these four cows. The critters sought shelter there from heavy downtown traffic after escaping from a cattle truck. The room only suffered minor damage from the invasion, but it took 15 men two hours to oust the cows. Said pastor Merel Patterson, "Maybe I'll have to change the church's 'open door' policy."

Reductions In VA Hospitals In 32 Years

By FRANK SPENCER
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI)—It's been 13 years since World War II and 5 years since Korea and 32 years from now the veterans hospitals will start showing a reduction in patients, Veterans Administrator Sumner G. Whittier said today.

"But," Whittier said, "that's based on this country remaining at peace. If there's more war there'll be more veterans."

Whittier, who has had his job eight months, was interviewed while here to inspect VA facilities and to address the American Legion convention.

"We are operating 172 hospitals and taking care of 111,000 patients," Whittier said. "Our projections show the number of patients will increase until 1968. We'll have 194,000 of them at that time, if the same percentage of admissions applies, but after that we'll have fewer and fewer."

Besides war there are other factors that could change the picture, Whittier said, among them being the nation's economic situation, advances in medicine and alterations in legislation.

As veterans administrator, Whittier is boss of 175,000 employees in an organization that spends about five billion dollars annually.

"Our hospitals are undergoing continual change," Whittier said. "Some are going to have to be expanded because of increased population. Others will have to be closed because they're wearing out or they've been found to be unnecessary."

"Our veterans are living longer and this increases our workload. But we're doing extensive research and hope to make inroads in some areas, like mental illness. Our psychiatric discharges are up

Appeal For Aid Gets Results

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—A public appeal for aid over Radio Station WACO today turned up the identity of a wanted hit-run automobile within 45 minutes after the appeal was made by Capt. Sam Gardner of the State Highway Patrol.

Gardner made his appeal at 5:55 a.m. for any news of a 1947 or 1948 light colored Chevrolet suspected of being the vehicle that struck and killed 41-year-old Eddie Rose Doherty of the Mt. Calm community Monday night. A headlight rim and fragments of headlight glass at the scene provided the clues as to the vehicle.

At 6:40 a.m., Gardner called the station to report a caller had identified the wanted car as one belonging to a resident of the Axtell community north of Waco.

Doherty's body was found alongside SH 31 some 12 miles northeast of Waco Monday night.

32 per cent. Congress gave us 15 million dollars for research. That's five million more than we asked."

Labor Day Claims 29 In Texas

United Press International

The holiday weekend officially ended at 12:01 a.m. today, closing a three-day Labor Day period that marked a grim toll in deaths across the state.

At least 29 persons, the number predicted by the Department of Public Safety, were killed in traffic accidents from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday. There were 10 drownings and 7 other accidental deaths for an overall figure of 46.

Edwin Earl Williams, a 53-year-old Longview man, was killed late Monday night when his car careened off the road and hit a tree near Greggton.

An 18-year-old Houston Negro girl, Jennie V. Mayfield, ran in front of an approaching car after an argument with a boy friend and was struck and killed.

Five drownings were reported Monday.

Two Wharton Negroes, Sammie Mimms and Nap Pettitt, drowned near Bay City.

The son of a Beaumont district judge drowned in a village creek north of Beaumont. He was 5-

Americans Still Indulge Too Much

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Fortune magazine report warned today that an increasing number of Americans were smoking and eating themselves to heart trouble.

It said positive guidance was needed to curtail an increase in coronary disease.

Evidence is piling up that Americans, especially men, are making some "fatal" mistakes regarding their hearts.

Specifically, the evidence indicates that Americans may be smoking too much, eating too much rich food and not getting adequate exercise, the magazine said.

The report said there appears to be a "real" link between cigarette smoking and coronary disease.

year-old Gordon Gary, Jr., James Lewis McIntosh, 19, drowned in Beard's Bayou near Beaumont.

Charles Allen Jackson, a 21-year-old Dallas Negro, drowned in the Trinity River.

Liberals, Conservatives May Go At It Again In San Antonio

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas' feuding liberal and conservative Democrats may be at it again at the coming state Democratic convention in San Antonio.

The show-down could come over the filling of the key position as temporary chairman of the meeting.

A spokesman for the liberal-labor Democrats of Texas (DOT) who declined to be named, said the group would be ready with a candidate to oppose Ernest O. Thompson, the railroad commissioner expected to get the backing of Gov. Price Daniel and the conservatives.

If Thompson is nominated, the liberals would take it as a sign that "boys, you're in for it again," he said.

Liberals remember that it was Thompson who wielded the gavel as temporary convention chairman when the liberals were defeated at the 1956 convention at Fort Worth in September two years ago.

Yarborough Influence Cited

This source said Sen. Ralph Yarborough would throw his political weight behind an opponent of Thompson.

Yarborough could be nominated himself, but he might prefer to nominate or second the nomination of a liberal, the spokesman said. Or, the senator might not enter the fight personally.

The show-down, if it comes, could come relatively early in the convention.

Presumably, the issue would be determined when a vote comes on the acceptance of the convention's order of business. This customarily includes nominations for temporary convention officers.

An amendment proposing another candidate for chairman would call for a roll call vote that might determine the outcome of the convention.

Johnson Vs. Rayburn

Whether Sennie Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, who found themselves in a political donnybrook at the 1956 convention, will take part in any fight this year is not known.

However, Yarborough's active role at San Antonio seems assured. He has engaged in a verbal duel with Daniel recently over how the party should be run in Texas.

Yarborough, with a six-year term in his pocket, has more freedom for head-knocking than Johnson and Rayburn, who will seek election support in two years.

Some of Yarborough's friends think he is ready for a knock-down-drag-out-battle in San Antonio.

"He is the one man who doesn't mind going for broke," one put it. "He has lost so often defeat doesn't bother him."

Bandit Holds Up Theater

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas police searched today for a lone bandit who held up the Esquire Theater and made off with about $1,500 in the day's receipts and petty cash.

Harvey Brown, 27, Dallas, told police he and projection booth operator A. E. Ballard, 41, also of Dallas, were in the theater office about 11:15 p.m. Monday when the bandit, who wore a red bandana, forced them to open the office safe.

Brown, the theater's assistant manager, said the thief then searched them, backstage and locked them in a switchroom before making his escape.

Brown had been installing a new light switch in the office, had a screwdriver in his pocket and used the tool to force the pins out of the switchroom door.

The men notified police who put out a pickup bulletin for the bandit.

School Of Instruction Conducted For District And Local PTA Officers

Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, District 19, were host to Mrs. John Segulia, state vice president from El Paso, in the Pine Room of the Pampa Hotel on Tuesday.

Following the district board meeting, Mrs. Segulia gave a school of instruction for district officers and chairmen.

Luncheon was served during the noon hour, followed by a school of instruction for all City Council and local unit officers and chairmen. Approximately 30 attended the school of instruction and luncheon.

During the board meeting, Mrs. James Lewis, presiding district officer, presented this thought: "Twenty-Four Hours. You wake up in the morning and lo! your purse is magically filled with twenty-four hours of the magic tissue of the universe of your life. No one can take it from you. It is unobtainable. No one receives either more or less than you receive. Waste your infinitely precious commodity, as much as you will and the supply will never be withheld from you. Moreover, you cannot draw on the future. It is impossible to get into debt. You can only waste the passing moment. You cannot waste tomorrow. It is kept for you."

Mrs. Lewis then read and explained the district by-laws.

Mrs. H. E. Saum, yearbook and publicity record book chairman, distributed copies of the yearbook and publicity book regulations and explained them.

Reports were given by each officer and chairman.

Mrs. R. A. Mack, City Council PTA president, outlined the tentative plans for the district Spring conference to be held in Pampa in April.

Officers and chairmen attending the district board meeting were:

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You made a boo-boo when you told the Sgt. he made a wise choice when he married his childhood American sweetheart in favor of the Okinawa girl. Any G. I. will tell you that the Okinawa girls make better wives than American girls. The American girl just wants a man for a "meal ticket" and she never appreciates him once she gets him. The Okinawa girl looks up to her husband, waits on him and makes him feel important. She is grateful for everything he does for her and adores him as master, provider and protector. The Okinawa wife is happy in her devotion and asks nothing more than the privilege of pleasing her husband. I ought to know. I married one.

DEAR MISS ABBY: Excuse me, please. I am Okinawa Missus. I marry American G. I. He promise me to be faithful husband. He is not faithful. He is happy. I am not!

RESPECTFULLY,
OKINAWA MISSUS

DEAR ABBY: Every morning about 3:00 a.m. our 4-year-old and 6-year-old come in quietly and get

RUTH MILLETT

Fed up with housework? Tired of being tied down? Convinced that you can't find even a few hours a week to call your own?

A housewife writes: "With four small children and all my own work to do, I used to feel about as dull and drab as any woman could. All I did, it seemed to me, was cook and scrub, wash and iron, and try to keep four boys from killing themselves, each other, or completely wrecking the house."

"I'll admit I often felt sorry for myself because I never had a minute I could call my own. I always found time to get the children to the doctor and dentist, time to do errands for my husband, time to help out a neighbor, time to bake a cake for a church supper — but never time to do anything I wanted to do.

"Then one day it dawned on me that it was nobody's fault but my own that I never had a minute for myself. If I could make time for everybody else I could make time for myself, too.

"So now for the past year I have had 'Mama's afternoon off.' Every Wednesday afternoon I hire a sitter for four hours with money I squeeze out of my household allowance. And short of having a child who is too sick to leave, I take off from home every Wednesday to do something I want to do.

"It may be a leisurely shopping trip. Or a visit with a friend. Or a movie my husband doesn't care about seeing. Or an appointment at the beauty shop.

"What I do isn't very important. But knowing I have a half day off a week coming to me to spend anyway, I choose to make it a lot happier and, I'm sure, a lot easier for my family to live with.

"I'm writing you all this because I thought some of your readers might be dragging along the way I used to, feeling they don't have a minute to call their own. I just want to tell them that nobody gives a busy housewife time for herself. She has to make it."

in bed with my husband and me. I try to make the children go back to their own beds but my husband calls me "unreasonable" and "cruel." He doesn't mind sleeping with children in the bed because his mamma tells me as a child he used to sleep in a bed full of cats and is used to a meow scene in bed with him. I am not used to it. The children always have sand in their hair so between waking up squashed and with sandy sheets I am unhappy. What should I do?

SANDY SHEETS
Dear Sandy: Children belong in their own beds and if you don't want them sleeping with you forever, better put a stop to it right now. P.S. — If you bathe the children and wash their little heads every night, the sand problem would be solved. Even if they sleep alone, sandy sheets are no fun.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wife who grabs my billfold and looks through it every chance she gets. She also opens every letter that is addressed to me and seals it back together again. What do you suppose she is looking for?

PUZZLED
Dear Puzzled: If YOU don't know, nobody does. And if she ever finds it, heaven help you!

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend has been seeing another woman for about six months and he tells me how much free love he has been getting from her. I have refused to give him any free love because I don't believe in acting like that before marriage. He tells me I am from the old school. Is there anything wrong with my beliefs or is it him?

OLD SCHOOL
Dear Old: Hang onto your "old school" ideas. The "free love" he has been talking about is the most expensive kind. Drop that sales man before he enrolls you in his school.

Possibility Of Arson In Chicago Fires

CHICAGO (UPI)—James Murdough, 28, died today from burns suffered in one of two weekend restaurant fires in the Chicago area, which brought arson investigations by police and the state's attorney's office.

Quotes In The News

United Press International LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Gov. Orval Faubus, on the school integration issue: "You know, I suppose 90 per cent of the people in the North think I am the most rabid segregationist in the South."

When Republican candidates draw the issue this fall on the record of Congress, they are more likely to concentrate on specifics than the overall record of Democratic treatment of President Eisenhower.

Democrats also might quarrel about a Republican label on foreign aid and foreign trade bills—two of the three legislative issues to which Eisenhower gave overriding priority.

Firemen found a sealed two-gallon can containing about a quart of gasoline in the restaurant, but Roy Murdough said this amount was in the can two weeks ago.

The second weekend fire swept Carmen's Steak House, and owner William Buzanis, 60, set damage at $75,000, although fire officials listed damage at about $40,000.

Officials said the fire was the second in less than a year to rip through the one-story building. The other blaze last October caused an estimated $60,000 damage.

Carmen's was formally owned by Chris Carson, who figured prominently in the recent McClellan Senate Rackets Committee probe of the city's restaurant industry.

Buzanis denied ever having any labor trouble. He said some of his workers belonged to a union and some didn't.

When the establishment reopened last April, remodeled after the first fire, Buzanis and Carson were joint owners. Buzanis said he became sole owner Aug. 15.

The U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, was hit by the hurricane during the night. The storm caused considerable damage in eastern Cuba, but no casualties were reported.

The flow of cool Canadian air in the east extended into portions of the southeastern states by early today. Readings in the 30s were common across northern Michigan, and Grand Marais, Mich., reported an early morning temperature of 29.

Don Prigmore Blazes New Record; 25 Under Par Takes Top o' Texas

By RICK PEZDIRT
Daily News Sports Editor

Calm and collected Don Prigmore, a young blond citizen who has been walloping the whey out of golf balls ever since he stood knee-high to a seven-iron, captured a happy Labor Day gallery's heart and the 22nd annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament championship here Monday afternoon.

An icy-nerved customer on the greens, the 20-year-old Pampa golfer practically tore the field to shreds in Monday's rugged 36-hole pressure-packed back lap of the 72-hole Championship Flight, wiping out a one-stroke deficit to win by a handy 11 shots and set a new tournament record in the process.

It was almost as if Prigmore had been toying with Borger's Don Kaplan for the first two days of the tournament. Kaplan owned a slim one-shot advantage over the steady-eyed Prigmore after Saturday and Sunday's 18-hole rounds.

But by lunch time Monday, it was a much different tale. Kaplan, who had plastered out rounds of 67 both Saturday and Sunday slipped Monday morning with an injury to his left hand. Prigmore was carving out a brilliant eight-under-par 65, lowest single round score of the five day Top O' Texas event. The 65 missed the course record by three strokes.

Any pipe-dreams, Kaplan, a Texas Tech golfer, had of edging back into contention from five strokes behind in the final 18 Monday afternoon were quickly stepped on as Prigmore came up with a 67, his second of the meet after a 68 opening day, to run off and hide from the rest of the field.

Kaplan, apparently trying from the long day's haul under a broiling sun, could do no better than 73 in the afternoon round and he almost was kicked out of the runner-up spot by an onrushing Melvin Chisum of Pampa.

Chisum, runner-up last year, missed a vital putt on the 18th green where he needed a birdie tie Kaplan for second.

The final scorecard for Prigmore showed a preposterous 25-under-par 267, beating by bits the 273 Kaplan used in winning the 1956 tourney here over the self-same Mr. Prigmore who turned the tables heartily Monday. Kaplan was also the 1955 champ.

Prigmore replaces Amarillo's Jimmy Russell as new champ. Russell didn't compete in this year's meet.

After stepping from the 18th green and toweeling off his sweaty forehead, Prigmore grabbed a soft drink and exclaimed, "It was my putting that did it. I don't remember when I putted so well, had so many of those lip-clingers drop on in the cup. The drives were going good too. Most stuck to the middle of the fairway like they were guided by radar or something. I kept 'em low, under the wind much as I could."

The Baylor bomb-shell won a handsome trophy and a new set of irons for his efforts.

A three-way tie for fourth developed behind Chisum, who moved up from 10th to third with a morning 68 and afternoon 69 Monday. Amarillo's John Farquhar, who lagged only three shots back entering Monday's action, out dueling Bob Geise of Amarillo and Vance Moxom of Borger in a shootout after the three had deadlocked for fourth with 284's.

On down the line, Amarillo's H. G. Cogburn at 286 was seventh, Pampa's Lea Howard at 290 was eighth and Amarillo's Joe Gibson and Jimmy Smith, the Friday medalist with a 66, tied for tenth at 291.

A 293 by Amarillo's Joe Bob Brown was good for eleventh, while the rest of the way it was: 12th, Burt Watkins of Pampa at 296; 13th, Bill Garrett of Amarillo at an even 300 for the 72 - holes; 14th, tie between Pampa's Tom Cox and Amarillo's Cameron Roach, both at 301. And 16th was Jim Bob Campbell of Amarillo, with a 307.

Four of five Pampa players took top honors in the President's Flight, which was composed of the high 14 scorers in the first two rounds of the Championship Flight.

Max Hickey, with a 149 on rounds of 73-76 Monday, won it, with Canadian banker, Harry Wilbur, this year's Pampa City Wide tournament champ over Prigmore in the finals, as runner-up with a 150.

A. D. Prichard and G. C. Austin, both of Pampa, were knotted in third with 151's while C. F. McGinnis, the 1945 Top O' Texas champ, was fifth at 152. Austin had been the last local golfer to snare the tournament's title, pulling off the caper in 1950.

Pampa's Henry Rose won the first flight over Borger's Jim Hen; Jim Deaton took the second flight diadem from L. E. Chisum in an all-Pampa event; and Quannah's Clark Wells hung on to stop Pampa's Tom Adkins for the third flight crown.

Bill Russell of the home club toppled Dr. D. W. Wright of Dumas in the fourth flight finals; White Deer's Hulen Laycock clobbered Pampa's Jeff Bearden in the fifth flight; and George Smith, Pampa High swinger, snatched away the sixth flight bunting over Amarillo's Preston Garrett.

In the seventh flight De Wayne Strealy from Amarillo staggered McLean's Conley Bishop in the finals.

Over $2,000 in prizes were awarded in the field to winners and second place finishers from an original field of 134, many of whom first teed off here last Thursday in a West Texas Pro-Am.

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—Remember the name: Purvis James Ferree.

He won the rich British Columbia Centennial golf championship here Monday. Today he is en route to Salt Lake City where he must be considered a major threat — even if the fans there never heard of him.

The young pro from Winston-Salem, N.C., picked up 6,400 in the $50,000 Vancouver event — more than he had earned all year.

SWC Camps Already Hit With Injuries

United Press International

Injuries lost little time breaking into the news as Southwest Conference football teams opened workouts — some in fine physical fettle and others bringing moans from the coaches because of excess poundage.

Most prized player to drop up on the casualty list was Southern Methodist's talented sophomore halfback, Glynn Gregory, who was forced to the sidelines with a pulled thigh muscle. Another sophomore, Rice's Brad Rhoden, a guard turned halfback, broke a wrist bone in dummy tackling.

Poor condition of some of their players brought a bit of anguish to Coaches Abe Martin of tite-favored Texas Christian and Darrell Royal of highly-regarded Texas, but in the other camps the coaches beamed at the voluntary conditioning of their pupils.

Ends shines for TCU
Quarterback Hunter Enis, the spring-blooming passer whose showing at that phase of the game was instrumental in boosting TCU into the No. 1 spot, seemed to have picked up where he left off with his bulls-eye pitching as Martin drilled the 72 Frogs twice Monday.

At SMU, Coach Bill Meek also discovered he may lose No. 2 guard Charlie Terrell for the season with a stomach ailment. Terry reported to a hospital Monday instead of the practice field with the 64 other Mustangs.

Eager sophomores pushed juniors for starting roles at halfback and tackle in the Texas camp, with halfbacks Drew Morris and Bobby Matocha and tackles Don Talbert, Timman O'Brien and Dickie Jones drawing praise from Coach Royal after two hard workouts.

The lack of condition, Royal said, "is down more than we can afford."

Coach Jess Neely ordered contact work for his 60 Rice candidates in the afternoon since, he said, the squad had a "long way to go" to get ready for Louisiana State Sept. 20.

Aggies Make Changes
Coach Jim Myers made three position changes as his 63 Texas Aggie stalwarts sweated through a pair of drills. He moved Don Smith from strongside end to weakside end and reversed the procedure with Jackie Estes while shifting end Jackie Cauthron to blocking back.

At SMU, Coach Bill Meek also discovered he may lose No. 2 guard Charlie Terrell for the season with a stomach ailment. Terry reported to a hospital Monday instead of the practice field with the 64 other Mustangs.

Prospecting while wondering whatever happened to a new baseball park for Pampa?

The Pampa High Harvesters, who are looking and feeling sharp this week after a drabby Saturday afternoon workout, play not one, not two but three Saturday games this year.

We learn on a tardy note, that due to Fort Worth's not having enough stadiums to go around, the Pampa - Arlington Heights will be unraveled on Saturday night, Sept. 20. Kick-off comes at 7:30 in Farrington Field.

The Big Green climax their season in November with two Saturday games hosting Plainview here in a 2 p.m. struggle on Nov. 15 and winding up in a 2 p.m. tilt at Borger on the following Saturday, Nov. 22.

Looking Good

Babe Curtman must be getting his grid advice across to his players.

The head Harvester coach was noticeable hoarse this morning as he laughed and shook off his raspy voice saying, "It happens every fall. The kids have to get in shape physically and I have to get in shape vocally."

The Babe said he has been impressed with the quick way newcomer Terry Harrison has been catching on. Haralson, who was recruited out of the band to help the Harvesters, has been switched to quarterback from a start at the fullback post.

Pampa High lost a quarterback Monday when Don Hazel who played with Deck Wold's American Legion Rebels the past summer, moved with his parents to Stinnett.

Hazel, a sophomore, was expected to bark signals for the B-team this fall.

A 2 p.m. game scrimmage has been set aside for the Harvesters Saturday as twice-daily drills will end in favor of single sessions per day, leading to the Sept. 12 opener at Wichita Falls.

No Help Needed

Most of new Top O' Texas golf champ Don Prigmore's praise went to Pampa CC pro, Hart Warren, and the way he had the local course in shape for the five day event which was concluded here yesterday.

No doubt about it. The course was in beautiful shape, and Warren is thanking the rain gods for much of the help.

Larry Schaefer, the Canadian kid who won the Spirit Award in the Panhandle Grid Classic at Amarillo this year is a native of Pampa. Larry's dad wanted his son to play so much in the tournament that he asked us if we'd mind writing a letter to Frank Hodnik, general chairman of the project and coach of the Sodbusters. It's doubtful our letter had much to do with Larry's landing on the Sodbuster eleven, he's the kind of athlete that doesn't need a public relations agent.

Panhandle's quarterback Ted Addington, who played for the Sodbusters was also born in Pampa. Chatting with Panhandle coach Chick Williams yesterday, we were

Buhl's Back, And Braves Are All In

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International

Bob Buhl's sudden and amazing return to pitching stardom made it more likely than ever today the Milwaukee Braves will be favored over the New York Yankees in this year's World Series.

While the Yankees, who suffered their first "losing month" in Casey Stengel's 10-year managerial reign during August, stumbled into September still in search of starting pitchers, Buhl returned to action Monday and hurled an impressive 2-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a doubleheader.

Buhl, an 18-game winner two straight seasons, had been on the shelf since May 13 with a sore shoulder — but he came "all the way back" in one stunning game.

Buhl's victory, which adds him to the long list of Braves' starting pitchers including Lew Burdette, Warren Spahn, Carlton Wiley and Joey Jay, made unhappy reading for Stengel, who still is looking for somebody to back up Bob Turley, his 20-game winner and only dependable starter.

Rangers Shooting For 3rd 5-AA Title

The veteran Perryton High grid mentor, with two straight District 5-AA championships neatly tucked behind him, says, "It'll really be tough trying to whip Quanah for the crown this year. You have to rate them first in the conference. My gosh, they've got nine regulars returning this fall."

Perryton, however, is expected to come up with a top-rate club as 11 monogram winners, five of them starters, from last fall's team which lost to Seymour in a 13-6 bi-district thriller are back.

The Rangers had a sweet 8-3

4 Kangaroo Kids Sizzle

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—The sluggers from under the Southern Cross rode as high, wide and handsome as expected in the U.S. amateur tennis championships today and the only American excitement was generated by a blood "upset kid" from Stanton.

Four of the Kangaroo Kids from Australia — Ashley Cooper, Mal Anderson, Neale Fraser and Ron Laver — composed the hard core of the round of 16. And today Cooper was favored to lead the field into the quarter-finals.

But, while Uncle Sam's chances of keeping the Forest Hills silverware weren't too bright, there were lusty cheers for the trio of upsets turned in by 19-year-old Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif.

Strong Union Idea

In view of the columns of publicity which labor bosses have been receiving lately there appears to be a rather widespread and growing conviction that something should be done to curb the lawlessness and reckless disregard for life and property which have been evinced in so many labor unions.

Persons of high moral integrity, including clergy, teachers, businessmen and lay persons, have rather well united behind the current drive to "clean up" the unions. This, in itself, is encouraging.

What is discouraging is that so many of these people, not excluding the clergy, continue to ignore the central fact, that the idea of a strong union and the idea of a clean union are incompatible.

What appears to be lacking in the minds of so many who are expressing what we trust is their honest opinion, is a knowledge of economics. From one end of this nation to another, there is a dearth of understanding in this vital area. Nor do we quite see how the American people generally are ever going to understand the fundamental evil of labor unions, until or unless they get the economic facts of life firmly implanted in their minds.

The illusion persists that the working man needs a "strong labor union" in order for him to offset the evil tendencies of owners and managers, who, were they not confronted with the mass bargaining power of the truculent labor lords, could force their will upon the helpless serfs of industry who would then be exploited, robbed and coerced into a state of poverty and docile obedience.

This conclusion is based upon a number of fallacies. The foremost of these is the idea that the owners and the managers, in some magic way unknown to mathematicians, have an almost endless amount of money with which to pay larger and larger salaries. The concept, carefully nurtured by Marx, is that a dollar of profit is an unpaid wage.

The first thing that should be realized is that owners and managers do not have a great stack of dollars standing by with which to meet repeated demands for more money. Rather, all the money that any business or industry ever obtains is the money that it takes in from its customers.

Does belonging to a labor union make you a Socialist? This might seem to be an odd question to those who have been too busy with their own affairs to give a lot of time and thought to the question.

Why the tie-up? Why should a union labor-controlled Congressman also be controlled to vote of Socialism? Certainly there is nothing in the early history of unionism that would require such a tie-up between labor unions and Socialism.

All of the income that is received from customers is what any business has to work with, no more and no less. This money must be divided in five directions. If the division is not made in all five directions, the business will fail.

1. The cost of goods or services. Category included raw materials, electrical or other energy, insurance, water, advertising and all similar expenditures. There are few persons who would advocate that these goods or services be received without the bills for them being paid.

2. The cost of replacing the tools of production. Tools always wear out. If they are not replaced and improved upon constantly, they will be long before there will be anything with which the workers can work. Even the government has recognized the inevitable necessity of replacing tools and has permitted what is called a "depreciation allowance" when taxes are paid.

3. The cost of government. Taxes, as we all know, have to be paid. This is one of the largest drains upon productive industry.

4. The cost of human energy. This cost constitutes wages, salaries, and commissions. Incidentally, this also includes the salaries of the managers who are simply workers employed to use their brains instead of their muscles.

5. The cost of the use of the tools. The tools of industry are always owned by someone. They can be owned by an individual if the individual is the sole owner of the company.

There is no more reason to organize the workers to try to prevent the payment of dividends to stockholders, than there is reason to organize the suppliers to try to prevent the payment of wages.

All cost of production must always be paid. The use of force and coercion in any of these cases simply increases the overall cost of the product to the customer. If these facts are understood, it will be readily seen that there is no reason at all for a "strong union."

Does belonging to a labor union make you a Socialist? This might seem to be an odd question to those who have been too busy with their own affairs to give a lot of time and thought to the question.

Why the tie-up? Why should a union labor-controlled Congressman also be controlled to vote of Socialism? Certainly there is nothing in the early history of unionism that would require such a tie-up between labor unions and Socialism.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Importance Of Convictions

Dan Smoot, in his report explaining the necessity that more individuals better understand the blessings that come from the free, private enterprise system that respects human initiative, says the best way for one to help stop the trend toward socialism and collectivism is to have conviction. He puts it this way: "The greatest weapon an American individualist can have is conviction. If you have conviction that the blessing of being an American is to have freedom from governmental tyranny, then you will have no trouble identifying the enemy of freedom. He stands out as clearly as if he wore a red coat (Referring to the Founding Fathers against the Red Coats of England.) he is any person who, presuming that you can't manage your own affairs, wants government to take your money and mine so that government will then have the power and resources to manage your farm, run your business, fix your wages, and provide for your retirement and pensions and housing and electrical power and medical needs."

That's mighty good advice. As an illustration of what convictions can do, he reports that "In July, 1958, the Democratic Convention of Precinct 2, Ward 10, of Ector County, Texas, adopted the following resolution, by a vote of 437 to 1: "Know all men by these presents, that: "Whereas, the graduated income tax is a tax on ability and initiative and as such is immoral; and, "Whereas, the graduated income tax is a part of the communist scheme to destroy our free enterprise system; and, "Whereas, the graduated income tax is making criminals out of otherwise honest U.S. citizens;

"I wonder how those of my generation would fare if, by some miracle, the years and the wrinkles could be rolled away, and we found ourselves on the way to the fourth or fifth grade again. I don't know about the others, but I am sure I would be as out of place as a TV set in Mt. Vernon, as an anachronism as a tank at the battle of Crecy. My book strap would be out of place for sure. I haven't seen a kid with one of those awning over his shoulder, or twirling about his head like a lariat, for a long, long time. Books go in brief cases now, with the children marching along like tiny lawyers headed for court, or diminutive Anthony Edens busy on Her Majesty's business. A brief case is a better carry-al, but it can't hold a candle to a book strap full of books as a fighting weapon. In my day little boys fought more than they seem to fight now, and that goes double for preachers' boys, of which I was one. I have delivered, and taken, many a telling rabbit punch from a loaded book strap. And what about my lunch in its brown grocery sack? Sugar sacks and the like were carefully hoarded for packing sandwiches, an apple, and a slice of cake and cookies. They went out with the Moon and Diana cars, and now a proper lunch box must be gay in color and bear the likeness of a radio or TV set. I don't believe I'd like the fancy lunch box very much. I believe it would make too much of "Whereas, we have been propagandized and misled to believe that these billions have been used to gain friends, when in truth we have alienated millions who had been our friends; and, "Whereas, the graduated income tax has provided the funds that have under-written most of the socialist schemes of the federal government and the growth of the welfare state in our nation making us each day more dependent upon federal subsidies and hand-outs; and, "Whereas, it grows more apparent each day that economy in the federal government, is impossible as long as its supply of money continues; and, "Whereas, the dictatorial power and gestapo tactics of the Internal Revenue Department are invasions of basic human rights of U.S. citizens and contrary to basic American law; and, "Whereas, the graduated income tax has brought us to live in fear of government as it was never intended by our founding Fathers and has made us into a nation of cowards, liars and cheats so that we are afraid to speak out against this monstrous destroyer of human rights for fear of reprisals against our personal possessions, our businesses and our families; "Therefore, be it resolved that this Democratic Precinct Convention of Precinct 2, Ward 10 of Ector County composed of patriotic freedom loving Americans of the Great State of Texas speak out forcibly as our forefathers before us in 1776 and demand the repeal of the immoral and socialist 16th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America. "And be it further resolved that the Legislature of the State of Texas set in motion the procedure for repeal of the 16th Amendment as prescribed in the Constitution of the United States of America."

"If this movement, started by a group of patriots working within the Democratic Party in one West Texas county, could gather enough momentum to sweep the nation, it could stop the relentless one-world socialist drive which is demoralizing Americans, eliminating their independence as a nation of free people, and pushing them into bankruptcy. "Take the excess money away from the Washington spenders, and they cannot buy your neighbor's vote with your money - and then use your money to pay for the destruction of your republic! "The example of these West Texans should answer the "What can I do?" question that many Americans are now asking: put pressure on political organizations and political candidates who want your support to take the same stand that the Texans in Ector County took."

The largest city in Ector County is Odessa, with a population of some 65,000 people. Freedom Newspapers, Inc. publishes the daily paper in Ector County.

School Just Isn't What It Used To Be, Says Mac

By HENRY McEMORE

Millions of erasers have been dusted, millions of Good Morning, Teacher," have been said, and millions of boys and girls (especially boys) have been sent to the foot of the line in spelling bees, since last I marched off to grammar school in September. I wonder how those of my generation would fare if, by some miracle, the years and the wrinkles could be rolled away, and we found ourselves on the way to the fourth or fifth grade again. I don't know about the others, but I am sure I would be as out of place as a TV set in Mt. Vernon, as an anachronism as a tank at the battle of Crecy. My book strap would be out of place for sure. I haven't seen a kid with one of those awning over his shoulder, or twirling about his head like a lariat, for a long, long time. Books go in brief cases now, with the children marching along like tiny lawyers headed for court, or diminutive Anthony Edens busy on Her Majesty's business. A brief case is a better carry-al, but it can't hold a candle to a book strap full of books as a fighting weapon. In my day little boys fought more than they seem to fight now, and that goes double for preachers' boys, of which I was one. I have delivered, and taken, many a telling rabbit punch from a loaded book strap. And what about my lunch in its brown grocery sack? Sugar sacks and the like were carefully hoarded for packing sandwiches, an apple, and a slice of cake and cookies. They went out with the Moon and Diana cars, and now a proper lunch box must be gay in color and bear the likeness of a radio or TV set. I don't believe I'd like the fancy lunch box very much. I believe it would make too much noise when opened in secret, under cover of the desk, and a sandwich slipped out for a bite during geography or hygiene class. Speaking of hygiene, I wonder if that is still taught? I can see my hygiene book right now. It was brown, sort of thin, and filled with intriguing pictures of the lungs, stomach and various canals. Hygiene class kept us kids on edge, for we were never sure what the teacher was going to talk about next. Would the modern fourth or fifth graders know what to do with a bean bag? Bean bags were our salvation on those days when rain kept us indoors at little and big recess. Did I throw them around? I can remember winding up with all my might and hurling bean bags at girls and hearing them squealing when they saw one zooming at them. Let me make me sound naughty, let me say that "D" was the standard grade in deportment for a boy. Anything higher than "D" marked him as a bit of a sissy. "D" boys got quite a few whippings with a peach tree switch, but more often they were kept after school and made to dust erasers, tidy up the room, and water the hundred and one potted plants that stood on the window sills. These chores usually required an hour, and that meant an hour lost at baseball, football or swimming. Much preferred was a switching. That was short, even if not sweet. I can still feel that limber peach tree switch wrapping round my calves, and I believe if I looked real hard I could find a few red rings. One thing about school these days must be the same - the smell of the buildings. Chalk and floor oil, and boys and girls, all worked together to create an odor that is to be found nowhere else.

Sideways Looking

By Whitney Bolton

NEW YORK — Let us now take our leave of the fanciful and finispin areas of science fiction and enter a realm of reality no science fiction writer ever dreamed of: a trip to Mars with plasma as our fuel. It is being worked on, seriously and with evidence to support hope, exactly 21 miles from where the state of matter there is a fourth state of matter. Don't blush, neither did I. I grew up, as you, on the credo that our world was composed of three states of matter: solids, liquids and gases. The scientists at Republic Aviation say, no, there is a fourth, and plasma is it. Nor need you flinch at a by-product of human blood being used as a space vehicle fuel of the future. The plasma they mean is not blood plasma. This plasma, if read more correctly, is formed when the molecules of gas are broken down into positive ions and negative electrons by an electric charge. At this point the boys at Republic do venture onto ground broken by science fiction writers. The latter, for several years, have spoken blithely of space vehicles skittering all over the galaxy on an "ion drive." Well, the plasma drive isn't an ion drive. Positive ions are present, that is all. But so are negative electrons. And they all work like dogs to power a space vehicle in what the Republic savants call the magnetic pinch propulsion plasma motor. No kidding, they do. The engine goes this way: there is within it a magnetic field, functioning without pumps, pistons, mechanical motion or other breakable parts. The magnetic field compresses the plasma and squeezes it tightly out of the exhaust, thus creating a thrust engine. Got it? If not, go upstairs to the bathroom, uncup a toothpaste tube and squeeze. The paste you see emerging almost will be like compressed plasma, only the MPPP engine has less moving parts than the two fingers you used to squeeze the tube. Now where does the magnetic pinch come from? That's easy. A nuclear reactor (and it can fit into a space vehicle as easily as into an atomic submarine) creates power for the electric system and gives life to the pinch. You fly to Mars, therefore, on a simple, almost fool-proof propulsion system operating on a small amount of nuclear fuel plus some plasma gas. What have they so far? More than you'd think. They have elaborate drawings in full, a model about three feet high that works, all of the equations and factors. If you want to know more, and there is much more than this skeletal explanation here, write to Alfred Kanes, Milton Mineman, William Melroy or Joseph Neuringer. They are the four scientists who think in terms of Mars and are convinced that a vehicle to the moon will be nothing. Something like throwing an old bottle cap out of a window. The trip to Mars at 34,600,000 miles is their challenge. Their estimate is that a plasma engine weighing no more than 16, 000 pounds complete with holding frame can do the trick. That's only eight tons. Ask how much fuel, gasoline and four engines of a big airliner weigh today when the plane is loaded for a trans-continental or trans-Atlantic flight? Sixteen thousand pounds is a feasible weight. At this point this reporter says thanks, gets to the plasmic scientists and ventures onto personal grounds. He thinks and has been told that any drive capable of sustaining motion would permit an object simply to get off the ground and keep going until it left the gravity field of earth. If the drive is sustaining it need give the object an initial speed anything like 25,000 miles an hour. It has only to keep on its way. The pull of gravity would become

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

Some exceedingly interesting and significant questions have been raised in a letter from Mrs. B. She writes that she is 52 and has recently discovered that she has glaucoma. First, she wants to know if this disease can be avoided. She asks whether anything can be done to cure it except an operation, and whether I should recommend the operation or the use of eye drops. Finally, she asks how long a person with glaucoma can expect to retain his sight. Glaucoma is one of the most serious diseases of the eyes and is responsible for a great deal of blindness. There are few diseases in which early diagnosis is so important, because treatment started promptly can prevent a great deal of unnecessary loss of vision. Some doctors like to divide glaucoma (with the exception of those resulting from injury or disease) into four main kinds: the acute inflammatory, the chronic inflammatory, the "absolute" and the chronic simple type. Also, eye specialists recognize secondary glaucomas, which are not caused directly by blockage of the fluid drainage from the eye, but are the result of some other disease process either in the eye itself or elsewhere in the body. In people in and past middle life, glaucoma should always be suspected. In a letter on this subject, a physician wrote that suspicion should exist under the following conditions: when the patient is over 40 (two out of every 100 people over 40 have chronic glaucoma); when a family history of glaucoma exists; and when there is unexplained aching in or near the eyes. Turning to Mrs. B.'s specific questions, I believe one can say that at present there is no way by which this disease can be avoided. And her questions on operation or the use of eye drops, this is a highly technical problem which must be decided by the physician after he has studied the situation. In some instances eye drops will be sufficient. In others this will be followed eventually by recommendation for operation. And in still others immediate operation may be best. Mrs. B.'s final question on how long one can expect to retain sight depends also on individual circumstances. If the glaucoma has been discovered early and the treatments are successful, the vision may be kept almost indefinitely. It is, however, important to remember—and I cannot emphasize this too strongly nor too often—less and less as the object went farther off. The ideal all scientists dream of is a vehicle that will simply start and keep going without great initial jet thrusts. The MPPP engine does envision at first a high - thrust surface take off. But even that may be licked in time. Meanwhile, start remembering the plasma drive as the first seemingly feasible space propulsion means.

THE NATION'S PRESS

From Capitol Life Contact

I believe that my personal situation is in danger. I believe that the time is come for a personal dedication to unselfish citizenship. I believe that we as citizens are being bought and seduced by Federal government funds and favors. I believe that politicians who promise the people doles for votes are false prophets, and enemies of freedom. I believe that those who corrupt self-reliance with government gifts are our most dangerous friends. I believe that opportunity is more important than security. I believe that the "welfare state" will lead us into socialism and communism. I believe that the nation's first line of defense is a sound, solvent economy at home. I believe that Federal government spending, if continued at the present rate, will bring political chaos through bankruptcy. I believe that you cannot accept government money without government dictation. I believe that accepting government aid is like taking drugs - pleasant at first, habit-forming later, damning at last. I believe that the expression, "It's going to be spent, so I might as well get mine," is unpatriotic. I believe that the only way to stop government extravagance is for each one to give up his own pet project for government aid. I believe that it is my personal duty to oppose any man who tries to prostitute patriotism with government gifts. I believe that I owe it to myself to determine the effect of each new government proposal upon my personal freedom.

American Legion Down To Business

CHICAGO (UPI) — The 3,065 delegates to the 40th annual convention of the American Legion settled down to business today following a Labor Day parade which lasted nearly all day.

High on the agenda for today's opening session was an address by U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

A United States spokesman for the U.N. said in New York that Lodge will reveal an "outer space for peace" plan in his address to the Legionnaires. The plan will be formally proposed by the United Nations later.

The proposal for world cooperation in exploration of outer space will be comparable to President Eisenhower's 1953 "atoms for peace" plan, the spokesman said.

Lodge, who arrived here Monday night, refused comment on the contents of his talks.

National Commander John S. Gleason Jr. took the salute from an estimated 50,000 Legionnaires and members of the armed forces Monday in a parade which lasted more than 10 hours.

Legion officials had estimated the procession would take 12 to 15 hours but as chilly breezes cut through the marching ranks the pace was speeded up in the early evening hours.

Also on the reviewing stand were Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, 8th Army Commander Lt. Gen. William H. Arnold and 10th Air Force Commander Robert E. L. Eaton.

Two of the hottest issues facing delegates today as the business sessions begin were the matter of racial integration and proposed cuts in the strength of the National Guard.

The National Guard Assn. has asked the help of the Legion in fighting a proposed cut in the size of the guard from 400,000 to 360,000.

Three resolutions are up for consideration on the integration question: Gov. Orval Faubus slipped into Chicago to confer with Legionnaires from his state on the problem then returned to Little Rock.

After he departed a delegation spokesman said the governor "did not want to be a party to anything that might bring segregation into the legion."

Among the resolutions on the matter was a strongly worded proposal presented by Ernest A. Rowton of Florida which called for action to prevent further usurpation of power" by the Supreme Court.

First Japanese ambassador to the United States was Mimi Buzenokami, in 1860.

Stolen Car Kills Two

JUAREZ, Mexico (UPI) — Two El Paso teen-agers, hiding a stolen car, failed to negotiate a curve on Zaragoza-Juarez highway Monday night, and were killed when their car crashed off the road.

Dead were Fernando Briones, 16, and John E. Downing, 17.

Police said four others in the car were injured.

They were 18-year-old Jesus Herra Herrera, and 22-year-old Antonio Lascane, both of Juarez, and Carlos Marshall, 18, and Jose Vega, 17, both of El Paso.

Vega was released from a Juarez hospital after brief treatment and the other three were hospitalized under observation.

Under Water Record

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two Houston men set a record for underwater swimming when they emerged from a swimming pool at 12:02 a.m. today, after having been under the surface for 42 hours and 2 minutes.

The previous mark, 41 hours and 1 minute, was set at New Orleans, Aug. 10 of this year.

A crowd of about 500 persons greeted the dripping Don Pever and Arch Yancey. The rubber-suited men were stripped from their beneath-the-water garb and taken to St. Joseph's hospital for a checkup.

Pever, a lifeguard, and Yancey, a disc jockey (KNUZ, Houston), got their supply from a plastic bubble three feet in diameter. Airlines from the top of the 15-foot deep pool kept water out of the bubble.

Divers brought food to the men and they ate it under the bubble.

Pever and Yancey started their record-smashing performance at 6 a.m. Sunday, at Gateway Crystal Pool.

Man Calls Cops; Kills Himself

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — A 45-year-old Corpus Christi man killed himself Monday night after telling a police dispatcher about his marital troubles.

Floyd Lee Hamon told the dispatcher he would kill himself, then hung up. A neighbor called the police immediately and said he had heard two shots.

Hamon died of a .32-caliber pistol wound after running into the yard of another neighbor.

He was manager of an auto service company.

Approximately one-tenth of the U.S. milk supply is sold as cottage cheese.

Judge Hears Integration Arguments

By TOM NELSON
United Press International

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — A federal judge today hears arguments in Alexandria on the plea of 30 Negro children for an order admitting them to several previously all-white Arlington schools in a direct challenge to Virginia's "massive resistance" laws.

A quick ruling was expected since schools in this residential community across the Potomac from the White House are scheduled to open Thursday.

Federal Judge Albert V. Bryan last year ordered seven Negro students admitted to the schools, but he stayed his order to allow an appeal to the Supreme Court. The high court upheld his decision.

The new plea is from five of those seven, and 25 new applicants.

The case may test the amended version of Virginia's Pupil Placement Act, under which these Negro pupils were denied admission to the Arlington schools.

Bryan brushed aside original state placement machinery last year as a hindrance to Negro applicants.

But Arlington School Board members have continued to maintain they are powerless as long as Virginia law reserves assignment authority to the state placement board.

Meanwhile, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond was expected to unveil today at Richmond plans for this showdown week in Virginia's long battle to keep public schools segregated by race. One law on the books requires the closing of any public school that mixes white and Negro students.

Norfolk and Charlottesville also have been ordered to integrate their schools. But the opening of the fall terms have been postponed until Sept. 8 and Sept. 15, respectively.

Women do not have the vote in the great majority of the Latin American republics.

The word "milliner" comes from Milan, Italy, which at one time set the fashions throughout the world.

Since the 1950 census, 21,700,000 people have been added to the population of the United States.

Old before its time?

Just like people, a tire can get old before its time.

For example, the life of a tire may be shortened as much as 25% merely as a result of chronic under-inflation. Over-inflation is bad, too.

Best way to avoid premature aging of your tires is to let your Phillips 66 Dealer take care of them for you. He'll check them frequently, make sure they're properly inflated, and repair them if necessary. And, if a tire becomes unsafe, he can provide a new and dependable Phillips 66 Action-Tread Tubeless Tire.

Drive in at any station where you see the orange and black Phillips 66 Shield.
