'Leave It To Dag' Passage Seen

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International
WESTERN diplomats today predicted narrow passage by the U.N. General Assembly of a "leave it to Dag" Hammarskjold resolution aimed at maintaining peace in the Middle East.
The mild and vaguely worded resolution introduced by seven Western nations was opposed by most of the Arab world and by the Communist bloc because it did not demand the immediate withdrawal of U.S. and British troops from Lebanon and Jordan.
But twin declarations by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd promising to withdraw the troops when requested to by the assembly was expected to assure the necessary two-thirds majority in the 51-nation body.
Sir Leslie Knowlton of New Zealand, assembly president, hoped the assembly would vote by Wednesday night. But observers predicted there would be rash attempts to modify the resolution by such disaffected nations as India and Japan and perhaps some Arab states.
May Call Meeting
French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville arrived today in New York and might have something to say on the Norwegian resolution. His arrival made it possible for Hammarskjold, the U.N. secretary general, to set up a "little summit" conference of the United States, Britain, France, Soviet Union and United Arab Republic.
The "leave it to Dag" resolution would send him to the Middle East with a "philosophical mandate" under which he would try to work out arrangements for "peaceful coexistence" of the various Middle East nations.
It was given a boost Monday night by Sweden which announced it would send additional personnel to Lebanon to reinforce U.N. observer teams and "smooth the way for the evacuation of American troops." Hammarskjold had wanted to reinforce the U.N. forces there for just that purpose.
Resolution Before Assembly
The resolution was put before the Assembly's emergency session late Monday by Norway, Canada, Colombia, Denmark, Liberia, Panama and Paraguay. Its principal provisions would:
—Call upon all countries to forego threats or acts of aggression, direct or indirect.
—Request Hammarskjold "forthwith to make such practical arrangements as he... may find would adequately serve to help in upholding the purposes and principles of the charter in relation to Lebanon and Jordan."
—Note that Hammarskjold is preparing a report on creation of a standby peace force as suggested by the assembly's regular session of the Assembly. It would ask him to study with the Arab countries the setting up of an Arab do-it-yourself economic plan.
—Invite Hammarskjold to report on his peace efforts not later than Sept. 30.

Commission Takes Water Line Bids

In its weekly meeting this morning, the Pampa City Commission took six bids for the construction of new City water lines. The commissioners will meet again, at 4 p.m. today, to award the bid.
In other action, the Commission approved a $15,784.71 paving estimate for Ray Boswell Contractors and approved payments of $227.85 to Robertson, Merriman & Bowden, the City's consulting engineers; and $22,281.84 to E. B. Baker for seal coating streets.
On the first reading, the commission passed an ordinance taking part of the Hughes North Crest Addition into the city limits and approved a plat of the Jarvis-Sone West Addition.
The bidders for the pipe contract were the Steed Construction Company of Fort Worth, $243,074; the H. B. Jordan Company, Amarillo, $174,915.50; the Brodie-Enix Construction Company, Amarillo, $149,351.50; the Foxan Construction Company, Amarillo, $168,460.62; the Arey Pipe and Construction Company, Pampa, $195,282.32; and the Stockton Construction Company, Amarillo, $167,456.47.
The bids were made on the basis of the type of pipe to be used in the water system.

Solon Denies Special Hoffa Treatment

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Kansas congressman today denied that he went away to James R. Hoffa during a 1953 House investigation of the controversial Teamster Union president.
Rep. Wint Smith, a Republican, appeared before the Senate Racke Committee to repeat earlier denials that Hoffa got preferential treatment at House labor subcommittee hearings five years ago.
Smith testified at his own request before the committee re-examined its effort to prove that Hoffa's union is honeycombed with criminal types by spotlighting the careers of Barney Baker and Tom Burke, two Hoffa associates.
Smith said stories of "pressure from way up there" that allegedly cut short the Hoffa investigation were misleading. Smith said it was strictly a matter of the subcommittee being ordered to stick to the subject of welfare funds by former Rep. Samuel McConnell (R-Pa.), then chairman of the full Labor Committee.
Smith also said there never was any contempt of Congress action pressed against Hoffa because the union leader eventually answered all questions put to him.
The committee had taken lengthy testimony from Payne H. Ratner, former Republican governor of Kansas, who said he contacted Smith in 1953 to plead for fair treatment of Hoffa. The committee also put into the record a letter Ratner wrote Hoffa which quoted Smith as saying there would be no contempt action.
Ratner denied any improper action in the case.
Hoffa, who was not listed as a witness during the opening phase of the Baker-Burke investigation sat behind Smith, his face expressionless.
Both Baker and Burke have been mentioned in earlier testimony in the current hearings, but only as passing figures in the mammoth parade of characters down into the main Hoffa inquiry.

Lightning Hits British Plane

LONDON (UPI)—Three lightning bolts damaged a British European Airways Viscount carrying 45 passengers when it ran into a severe storm over Western France Monday.
Pilot John Cann made an emergency landing at Cognac, France, after the successive bolts cracked the windshield, damaged an engine cowling and knocked out the plane's navigation lights. Nobody was hurt.

Jet Trainer Kills Four In Emergency Landing At Pier

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI)—A T33 jet trainer slammed into a fishing pier and plowed into a parking lot here Monday, killing four persons and seriously injuring three others.
Air Force officials said the plane, flying over the Atlantic with several other fighters, developed engine trouble, and attempted to crash into what the pilot thought was a vacant lot.
The wing of the aircraft smashed into the side of the concession stand on the pier, the plane burst into flame, and fell into a parking lot nearby trapping three members of an Indiana family in their car. The fourth victim was on the pier at the time of the crash.
The charred bodies in the car were identified as Harold Snider, 46, New Albany, Ind., and his two sons, David Wayne, 9, and Freddie, 7, Mrs. Snider was at a motel when the crash occurred.
The Air Force will fly the mother, Mary Snider, and her two daughters, Marilyn, 17, and Hope, 13, back to their home at New Albany.
L. J. Mackey, Lancaster, S.C., died at Myrtle Beach Hospital several hours after the incident, and J. R. Martin, Conway, S.C., was reported in serious condition at the hospital.

Labor Bill Is Now Issue In Fall Elections

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Kennedy-Ives labor bill, stone-cold dead in Congress, took its place today among the very live issues for the fall election campaigns.
Killed in some measure by political maneuvering, the bill was scheduled for a revival by campaigning Democrats and Republicans alike. Leaders in both parties saw political dividends in Monday's 198-190 House vote which shelved it.
"Any Republican in a close district who voted 'no' will have a hard time explaining to his people," said House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.).
"The Republicans have been handed a gold-lined political issue if they have the sense enough to take it," said Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.).
McCormack and other Democrats—like Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) who sponsored the bill—contended that its defeat will let labor racketeers prey on unions unchecked. Republicans who voted against the bill will have to take the blame for that, they said.
Goldwater and other Republicans—like Sens. Carl T. Curtis (R-Nebr.) and Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.)—said the blame must be shouldered by Democratic leaders who kept the House from improving the "weak" Senate bill.
Kennedy issued a statement after the House vote declaring, "Only (Teamster president) Jimmy Hoffa can rejoice at his continued good luck. Honest union members and the general public can only regard it as a tragedy that politics has prevented the recommendations of the McClellan committee from being carried out this year."
Kennedy said "Constructive labor reform legislation will definitely be brought forward again next year. In the meantime, those who defeated this bill will bear heavy responsibility for the labor racketeering that will continue unchecked."

.06 Inch Of Rain Falls Here

The early morning rainfall in Pampa totaled six hundredths of an inch, according to the rain gauge atop The News building.
The rain had stopped by 8 a.m. By 11, the temperature was higher than in the past two days of the cool front. Low tonight is predicted at 69 and the high tomorrow, 89.

Bodies Recovered

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—The Iranian relief organization Red Lion and Sun announced today that 135 bodies have been removed from the rubble of 40 villages hit by earthquakes.

Jet Trainer Kills Four In Emergency Landing At Pier

The two pilots, Capt. Wallace B. McCafferty, San Bernardino, Calif., and Capt. William J. Sitzman Jr., Waukegan, Ill., were flown by Air Force helicopter to the 6th Naval District Hospital at Charleston, S.C.
Sitzman was listed in critical condition but McCafferty had been taken off the critical list late Monday.

USS Triton To Be Launched Today

By WILLIAM D. CLARK
United Press International
GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—The USS Triton, the world's largest submarine which will act as a sonar-radar bloodhound for high-speed carrier task forces, goes off the launching ways at the Electric Boat Yards of General Dynamics Corp. this afternoon.
Triton is a radar-picket sub, 477 feet long and displacing 5,900 tons. It is so big that a special channel had to be dug in the Thames River into which it will plunge after being christened by the wife of Vice Adm. John M. Will, head of the Military Sea Transportation Service.
And 700 feet of cable and four cement blocks of five tons each were set up as an arresting apparatus to check the speed of the first twin-reactor submarine and keep it from plowing across the river into the opposite shore.
Triton is 128 feet longer and 2,900 tons heavier than Nautilus, which now is homeward bound after a history-making under the ice crossing of the North Pole.
It will be nearly another year before Triton will be ready for sea trials and then acceptance by the Navy.
Triton's job will be to scout for

House Okays Peron Medal For Vaughan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House without debate gave its permission Monday for Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to former President Truman, to wear a medal from former Argentine dictator Juan Peron.
The award list, which included 326 other retired government personnel, had been held up by Congress since 1949 because it included Vaughan's name.
The bill now goes back to the Senate for acceptance of House amendments.
The fess over Vaughan's medal started in 1949 when newspaper columnist Drew Pearson suggested Vaughan should be fired for accepting the Order of General San Martin from Peron. Truman reported that "no 'a-o b' would tell him how to run his office."
This fanned a controversy which was enough to block consideration of all medals by the House because Vaughan's name was on the list.
The Constitution requires Congress to give its consent before a government official may accept any "present, emolument, office or title" from a foreign state.

Absentee Voting In Jump

With absentee balloting closing today for the run off of the Gray County Democratic Primary, a rush was observed in the County Clerk's office, raising the number of ballots cast from 69 to 114. The balloting will close at midnight today but mailed ballots will be honored until 1 p.m. Saturday if postmarked today.
The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday for the Second Democratic Primary. In this run off, voters will complete the work of the first primary in naming candidates in the general election November 4.
G. H. Kyle and G. L. "Nate" Lunford are running for County commissioner from Precinct 2; John W. Dwyer and O. L. Tibbets from Precinct 4. The justice of the peace race from Lefors, Precinct 1, has W. R. Combs and Mrs. Gladys Pafford.
For associate justice of the Supreme Court, Place 1, the choice will be J. Edwin Smith or Robert W. Hamilton.

Miss Dunlap To Retire

Miss Helen Dunlap, Gray County Home Demonstration Agent, is retiring effective Sept. 1, according to County Judge Bruce Parker's office.
She will be succeeded here by Miss Louella Patterson, presently home demonstration agent in Ochiltree County.
Miss Dunlap will move to her home town in Kansas.

6 Rebels Killed

HAVANA (UPI)—A five-man Cuban army patrol beat off an attempted rebel ambush at Cabana, killing six of the enemy, the army announced Monday night.
It said the patrol suffered one casualty.

Board Of Development Due Directors

A six-man nominating committee met this morning to compose the slate of names from which five directors of the Pampa Board of City Development will be chosen.
The committee includes past presidents of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development.
The slate will be sent to the COC Board of Directors for approval at its Monday meeting and from there will be sent to the City Commission where the directors will be chosen for the three-year terms, according to E. L. "Smiley" Henderson, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.
The past presidents serving with Henderson on the nominating committee are Paul Crouch, Fred Thompson, Charles B. Cook, Gene Fatheree and Floyd Watson.
The directors will meet in Pampa's Steak House Monday at noon to approve the nominees and to hear final plans for the annual COC meeting Oct. 30 in Robert E. Lee Junior High School.

Amendment Discussion Set Here

Ervin W. Luedtke, executive secretary of the Texas Real Estate Association, will speak at a special meeting of the Pampa Real Estate Board at Poole's Drive Inn at noon Thursday, on the subject of "More Industry and Tourist Trade for Texas."
He will discuss in detail proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 7, which is to be voted on at the general election in November. This subject is of prime importance to the business people in Pampa, and the Board extends an invitation to local business people, especially those that are concerned with the tourist trade and business development.

Benson Farm Bill To Ike For Signature

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An administration-directed farm bill negotiated its final congressional hurdle Monday night after weeks of uncertainty and was sent to President Eisenhower for signature.
The Senate by voice vote passed the compromise measure which permits Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson to drop minimum price supports to as low as 65 percent for corn next year and for rice and cotton in 1962.
Although bitterly assailed by farm state Democrats and Republicans, Congress passed the bill to forestall heavy cutbacks in cotton and rice planting allotments next year. The cuts would have occurred automatically if Congress approved no farm legislation this session.
The measure was regarded as a major victory for Benson, who said the bill "contains many forward-looking provisions which will give our nation's farmers and ranchers more freedom to plant to market, to compete and to make their own decisions."
Eisenhower was certain to sign the measure which was worked out by House Republican and Democratic leaders to break the farm legislation deadlock.
The Senate approved the measure after backing down from its original demand for a conference committee to iron out differences between House and Senate versions of farm legislation. Speaker Sam Rayburn had said there would be no farm legislation this session unless it did.
The bill retains the present parity concept as a basis for price supports. The Senate version would have replaced that supports based on average crop prices in the three preceding years.
Benson conceded the bill was not all the administration sought. But he said it was based "on the sound principle that a wider range of price supports will lead to expanded markets for this nation's abundant agricultural products."
He said the measure would make cotton more competitive with synthetic fibers, widen the range of price supports for cotton and rice and give corn growers a chance to decide on acreage restrictions.
In terms of parity the new bill would permit supports for corn to be cut to the lowest level since 1939 and supports for cotton to the lowest level since 1940. Parity is a legal yardstick for measuring a "fair" price for farmers, taking into account the prices he pays for the things he buys.
Cotton this year is pegged at 81 percent, corn at 77 percent, and rice at 75 percent of parity, under a flexible scale which allows supports for basic crops to range from 75 to 90 percent of parity, depending on supplies.
Before the Senate acted, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicted that the bill would pile up small grain surpluses to "astronomical" heights, push prices down to "disastrously low" levels and depress hogs and cattle prices before Congress comes back next January.
He said Congress next year would have to "remedy" the "damage" done by the bill.

Session's Close By Week End Hoped For

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress' adjournment steamroller gathered momentum today with the lawmakers jumping into floor action on another round of controversial legislation.
Leadership in both Houses remained silent on a possible adjournment date but feeling ran high for a close to the session by the week end, if not before.
The House was geared for a floor fight over a bill to launch a new program of subsidies for the mineral industry. Similar legislation has passed the Senate.
The 650-million dollar bill faced such strong opposition in the House that sponsors agreed in advance to accept amendments to scale down the cost to less than 500 million dollars. The administration recommended subsidies as an alternative to imposing restrictions on imports of foreign lead and zinc and other minerals.
Vote One Education Bill
Also, in the House, the sid-to-science-education bill comes up for a vote on the question of sending it to a Senate-House conference committee. Both the House and Senate versions are aimed at bolstering science education to meet Russia's Sputnik era challenge.

Influence Bill Is Victim Of Adjournment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A first-step bill aimed at curbing attempts to put political pressure on federal regulatory agencies appeared dead today—a victim of the congressional adjournment rush.
The bill hit at abuses uncovered by the House influence investigating subcommittee before it turned to the alleged influence for favors relationship between Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and millionaire Bernard Goldfine.
Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.) of both the influence-investigating subcommittee and its parent House Committee said the bill was shelved for the year because of lack of time to act on it.
Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), a subcommittee member, said the bill can just as well be included in "a comprehensive attack on the problem" next year. Other subcommittee members agreed.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House today approved by voice vote and sent to the White House a bill to raise social security taxes and benefits.
The House approved a 900-million dollar bill while the Senate passed a $1,300,000,000 version.
The Senate passed by voice vote in a Monday-night session a compromise farm bill which permits Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson to drop minimum price supports for corn to the lowest level since 1939 and supports for cotton to the lowest level since 1940.
The administration directed farm measure forestalled heavy cutbacks in cotton and rice planting allotments next year. The legislation now goes to President Eisenhower for certain signing into law.
Labor Bill Killed
Also Monday night the Senate approved President Eisenhower's nomination of W. Wilson White to head the Justice Department's new civil rights division.
The House late Monday killed the Senate-passed Kennedy-Ives labor reform bill. House supporters saw the bill failer under an onslaught of 198 votes against as opposed to only 190 votes for. The bill failed to get a simple majority under a procedure which would have required two-thirds approval of members present.
The bill was scheduled for a revival by campaigning Democrats and Republicans alike this fall. Leaders in both parties saw political dividends in Monday's action.
House Republicans blamed Democratic leadership for bringing the bill up under the no-amendment procedure, while Democrats said 137 Republican votes were primarily responsible for the bill's demise.
Other developments Monday:
Rideover: The House and Senate sent the White House a joint resolution that would confer a gold medal on Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover for his work in developing the nation's atomic submarine fleet.
Public Works: A House-Senate conference committee agreed on a compromise $1,118,000,000 public works money bill keyed to providing more jobs. The measure now goes back to both houses for (See SESSION'S, Page 2)

MIGs Roam The Formosa Straits

TAIPEI (UPI)—Soviet-Built MIG fighter planes roamed the Formosa Straits today but the Nationalist Chinese Defense Ministry reported no combat.
The Nationalists warned their neighbors to be on guard against Communist subversion and infiltration in East Asia, from Japan in the north to Thailand in the south.
At the southern end of the Straits, Communist artillery bombarded little Quemoy Island with 30 shells before dawn but caused no damage, a defense communique said.

Teacher's Newest Pet Is Classroom Helper

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Teacher's newest pet is the classroom helper, a woman volunteer who takes over schoolroom chores other than instructing.

This fall, some 8,000 of these women volunteers will go back to school for at least three hours each week, in a unique program sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The auxiliary originated the project last year, said Mrs. Ray Godbey, of Lynwood, Calif., the national president. Mrs. Godbey is in town for the auxiliary's 14th annual convention.

She said the program has one major aim — to free an overworked teacher from some of the non-teaching jobs and leave her more time for educating tomorrow's citizens.

The "pilot" project opened last October in Kansas City schools, with 21 women volunteers. By year's end, it had spread to all parts of the nation.

Serve Without Pay

Volunteers in Illinois gave nearly 4,300 hours; in Nebraska, 3,700; in North Carolina, 3,400; in Ohio, 1,600. All told, some 4,000 women volunteered 37,000 hours.

"This year, we expected to double the number of helpers," said Mrs. Godbey, in an interview.

"The greatest need so far has been in the rural areas," she said. "But we have workers for wherever they are asked." The usual procedure is for the local VFW to let the school know workers are available, but wait to be asked to help.

But Mrs. Godbey said there are exceptions — in New Mexico, one parent worried about her own little girl crossing the street on route to class so asked if she could serve as "cop" on the corner for the whole school.

Volunteers pledge themselves not to take pay and to perform "without comment or question the tasks assigned to me by the teacher or school administrator."

Perform Many Duties

These assignments may include taking attendance records, collecting money for milk or hot lunch, helping young children with hats, coats and raincoats, passing out and collecting work material, helping in the library.

Helpers guide young children to playgrounds, tidy up the classroom, answer telephones, do typing or run duplicating machines in school offices. In some cases, they've also been asked to chaperone dances.

She said the project has approval of leading educators and the National Education Association.

Apparently it also has the sanction of the children. Mrs. Godbey said volunteers now find themselves being treated to apples, or other gifts, just like teacher.

She told one worker who said her reward for the hours given came when a six-year-old came up to her and presented a prize rock from his collection.

"Next to my teacher, I like you best," he said.

Burial For Victims Of Crash Set

GALWAY, Ireland (UPI)—Business stopped here today for the mass funeral of 27 unidentified victims of last Thursday's KLM plane crash which killed 99 persons.

Exact cause of the crash was still unknown. A coroner's jury found Monday that the victims died as the result of "multiple injuries caused by violent impact," but said there was "no evidence to show cause of impact."

The unidentified bodies were taken to the small cemetery of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in downtown Galway for burial in one grave.

The bodies of three Americans, two Dutch nationals, a Mexican and a man tentatively listed as an Iraqi, were among the 24 recovered from the Atlantic off Ireland near the spot where the four-engine Super-Constellation hit the water. They will be flown to the victims' homelands later this week.

Five denominational services were organized at the mass grave — Roman Catholic, Jewish, Church of Ireland, and N.

SH-H-H-H!—It's unusual for Spike Jones to ask for quiet; but he doesn't want the baby waked up as he and his wife, Helen Gryco, show off their latest offspring for the first time in their Hollywood home. Three-week-old Gina Marie has a big brother, Spike, Jr., 9 and a sister, Leslie, 7.

Red China Is Still Holding Four US Citizens Prisoner

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Red China promised almost three years ago to release "expeditiously" all Americans imprisoned in Communist Chinese jails. Despite the promise it still holds four U.S. citizens as captives.

The United States has no idea when — or even whether — the Peiping Regime will free them. But it presses for their release at every opportunity.

In the meantime, the United States constantly cites the unhonored Red Chinese pledge as evidence that Communist China's word is worthless. It did so in a recent eight-page memorandum sent to all American diplomatic missions explaining why the United States refuses to grant diplomatic recognition to the Peiping regime.

The four, whose sentences range from 15 years to life, were among a group the Red Chinese promised to free during negotiations in Geneva between Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Ambassador Wang Ping-Nam. The talks started Aug. 1, 1955, and the agreement was announced Sept. 10, 1955.

Actually, there were 41 American civilians in Red Chinese hands at the time the talks started. Red China agreed to free 22 of those during the first six weeks of the discussions. In the Sept. 10 agreement, they agreed to let all other Americans return home.

Freak Accident

MESSINA, Sicily (UPI)—Carmelo Lubica, 77, died Monday night of a wound received when his dog accidentally discharged a hunting rifle.

Police said the freak accident occurred 17 days ago when the dog tipped over the gun Lubica had leaned against a wall in his home at Longi.

Sentences Vary

The Americans are: John Thomas Downey of New Britain, Conn.; Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass.; Robert McCann of Altadena, Calif.; Hugh F. Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y.

United States also pressed Red China to agree to a renunciation of force in the Formosa area. Communist China refused.

Bids To Be Asked On Work At Base

Bids will be invited Aug. 26 by the Tulsa District Army Engineers on construction of "J" Street Extension and check house at Amarlito Air Force Base, Amarillo.

Work to be accomplished includes construction of a masonry 5,500 feet of asphaltic concrete pavement 24 feet wide, including pipe culverts and electrical distribution and street lighting system.

Estimated cost of construction will be under $100,000 but under $300,000. Construction period is 180 days.

Outstanding Week End TV Happenings Small Things

Television In Review

By WILLIAM EWALD

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Views and reviews:

Some of the most outstanding happenings of the TV week end were small things — the appearances of the duke of Bedford on the NBC-TV "Jack Parr Show," Pat Wayne on the ABC-TV "Dick Clark Show," Domenico Modugno on the CBS-TV "Ed Sullivan Show."

The duke was a deadpan charmer, recounting as he did his decision to turn his British ancestral mansion into a jazzy tourist trap complete with juke box, hot dogs and a nudist colony. He also was engagingly frank about the reason — money. He has promised to return to the Parr show this week and I recommend you catch him.

Pat Wayne, son of actor John Wayne, did some singing on the Clark bash and the girls in the audience seemed to flip. Pat, a biology major in college, shapes up as a cinch bet for the movies. He is cast in the Tab Hunter mold, but taller, huskier and a trifle darker.

Modugno, the Italian composer of "The Blue Painted By Blue" also called "Volare" was a happy addition to the Sullivan show. At first glance, his style seemed to smack of Johnny Ray's, but actually Modugno injects more humor into his delivery and he coats it all with a weird dream-like manner that is a striking departure from American singing techniques. At one point, Modugno even turned his back on the audience as he free-floated through his lyrics, a striking piece of attention-getting nonsense.

From what I was able to catch of the NBC-TV Steve Lawrence-Eydie Gorme show, it again seemed the highlight of the week end and perhaps of the entire week. Steve and Eydie turned up as mystery guests on CBS-TV's "What's My Line" and again scored in a brief bit.

George Fenneman is a terribly personable guy — it's a shame to waste him on a limp quiz like ABC-TV's "Anybody Can Play." Aside from Andy Stewart, the infant comedian, the show doesn't have much juice at all. Teddy Nader ran his winnings to $22,000 on CBS-TV's "The $64,000 Challenge" — that puts him only $500 below the all-time high of boy science wizard Bob Strom.

The Channel Swim: Mary Martin will star in two special NBC-TV color shows on a single day during the Easter season. She'll aim a matinee show at the kids and an evening spectacular at the adult trade. Miss Martin will draw on material from the stage pro-

Quotes In The News

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson, expressing faith in this country's space program despite the failure of Sunday's "moon-shot":

"I feel that before this century is out we are going to have people not only on the moon, but also on near planets."

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee, on the question of fair advertising practices in the medical field:

"In the field of ethical (prescription) drugs especially, the public has a right to expect and demand a degree of responsibility as well as standards and practices different from those in the promotion of soap, television and automobiles."

COLOMBO, Ceylon — Minister of food and agriculture, Philip Gunawardene, warning Western powers of Ceylon's future nationalization plans:

"I assure you that within 5 to 10 years we will nationalize all plantations and the white companies will have to pack up and get out of this country without trying to dictate terms to us."

duction of "Music With Mary Martin" which will take off on an 83-city tour starting next month.

In a surprise move, the sponsor of "Dotto," a quiz seen Tuesday nights on NBC-TV and each Monday-through-Friday morning on CBS-TV, canceled both shows. Starting today, the daily CBS-TV show has been replaced by "Top Dollar." Tuesday night, "Colgate Theatre," a series of filmed dramas, will take the place of the NBC-TV version.

The debut of NBC-TV's "Brains and Brawn" has been postponed from Sept. 6 to Sept. 13. Jack Linkletter, emcee of NBC-TV's "Haggis Baggis," will transfer to Columbia University from the University of Southern California this fall to complete his senior year.

WASHINGTON — Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), charging Democrats with "legislative tyranny":

"The members are being placed in the impossible position of swallowing a lot of bad legislation to get the job done."

Miss Graves Feted At Bride's Party

(Special To The News)
PERRYTON — Miss Wanda Graves, bride-elect of David Odell, was honored at a bridal shower and tea in the home of Mrs. J. W. Dragom recently.

Co-hostesses for the occasion were Mmes. Lina Schweitzer, L. L. McGarrugh, Lloyd McGarrugh, Johnnie Ferguson, Cleve Hudson, and Miss Barbara Ferguson.

Miss Ferguson and Miss Billie Graves, sister of the honoree, assisted with the gifts.

Corsages of white flowers, tied with mint green, were presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. O. P. Graves.

The tea table was covered with a white linen cloth centered with white chrysanthemums and carnations. At either side were white tapers decorated with mint green and small white wedding bells. Mrs. Graves and Mrs. Schweitzer presided alternately at the punch service. Mint green tea napkins were inscribed in silver with "Wanna and David."

Approximately forty-five guests called or sent gifts during the appointed hours.

Keeping items made as a hobby to decorate a home or give to friends is relatively simple. Some hobbyists like to oil paint on expensive glassware. Dry paint won't rub off if the surface is covered with a thin coat of clear shellac.

Exchange Student Honored At Party

(Special To The News)
PERRYTON — Mrs. O. A. Schuster and Mrs. Neal Flathers entertained with a tea last Wednesday afternoon in the Schuster home as a courtesy to Miss Ricky Friz.

Miss Friz is an exchange student from Bielefeld, Germany and is making her home here with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sanders. Mrs. Sanders and Mrs. Flathers received the guests and introduced them to the honoree.

Corsages were presented to Mrs. Saunders and Miss Friz.

The tea table was decorated with pink tapers in silver candleabra. An arrangement of pink roses in a silver bowl centered the lace cloth.

Guests were members of the senior and junior classes of Perryton high school.

Invited guests included Mrs. Advertisement

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a card club along with seven other women. The other night at the Club I won first prize, which turned out to be a set of four place-mats. I told my hostess I HAD place-mats and couldn't use them and would she mind exchanging the prize. One of the other women spoke up and said she thought they were beautiful and would I mind selling them to her. I had to ask the hostess how much she paid for them. It caused a whole big fight and two members resigned and I went home without my prize or the money. My husband said I should have accepted the prize and kept my mouth shut. Please give me your opinion.

PRIZE WINNER
Dear Winner: Your husband is a very wise man.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe this is not important enough to rate a place in your column but it would help me a lot to know how to handle my problem. I am going with a wonderful young man and we seem to agree on everything except this. I can't get him to wear a necktie. He says he doesn't care to go any place he can't get in without a necktie. All he wants is comfort. He's neat and clean and very handsome, but I wish he'd wear a tie. Can you help me?

DON'S GIRL
Dear Girl: Quit nagging him. When you've got that ring on your finger you can tell him what to wear around his neck.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to see this problem in print because maybe others have the same problem. My father-in-law lives with us and he is not a well man. He is overweight and has a heart condition, high blood pressure and ulcers. The doctor tells him what to eat and what not to eat but it goes in one ear and out the other. He uses salt and pepper freely and helps himself to all the bread, butter and potatoes he wants. When he is up all night suffering with his stomach I am the one who has to walk the floor with him. He is making a nervous wreck out of me. How can I get him to follow doctor's orders without getting into a fight with him?

CELIA
Dear Celia: Doctors can only TELL us how to preserve our health, they can't follow us home and be policemen. If a grown man deliberately says that which the doctor forbids, he should be treated like a child. Dish out his food and hide the verboten.

DEAR ABBY: A family across the street has a houseful of kids. Their father is a part-time minister but nobody holds that against them. They have two older girls who have both tried to get a license for driving, but neither of them passed. They get in the car and drive anyway and all the neighbors have to call their little ones in the house to keep them from getting run over. Both girls have hit trees, fences and whatnot. I mentioned this to the mother and she says she knows it but can't do a thing with them. She asked me not to tell the father. Should I?

NEIGHBOR
Dear Neighbor: Have another chat with your neighbor. Tell her if SHE doesn't tell her husband, you will — and make it plain, if THAT complaint falls on deaf ears you will notify the police.

Confidential to Poor Richard: He is probably saving your raincoat for a rainy day. Ask him to bring it back on accounts that's what YOU bought it for.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters, and answers in one book, ask your bookdealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

dew tell!

By Doris E. Wilson
Pampa News Women's Editor

Put your best foot backward when trying to wiggle your way into the sleek, new streamlined cars while wearing the latest, short hemlines.

A woman's life revolves around her family and more and more of this life revolves on wheels. Recent surveys show that the average woman spends one-tenth of her waking hours in a car more than any other place. So, with this thought in mind, we have undertaken an extensive survey to alleviate the problems incurred when boarding or alighting from a low, low car wearing a high, high hemline. While short-skirts show-off legs, there is a limit to how much leg a lady wants to show. And stepping into the new, low cars can present a problem for the woman who wants to remain a lady while wearing the vampish, knee-length skirt.

The solution is to back in gracefully. In sitting down (backwards or forwards) never bend from the waist with legs straight or you'll expose the backs of the knees. Rather bend knees and tuck under. Once you've achieved a sort of side-saddle position, you can swing both legs together into the car, and you're ready to go.

Once inside the car, you don't have to tape your knees together to remain modest. Substitute "camouflage" using your handbag, held at knee level, until you've made the proper adjustments.

Inside the car, most comfortable and attractive is a sideways positioning of legs (if you're a passenger) or a straight-on position with the back seat back farther than usual (if you're the driver).

Getting out of the car is a simple matter of reversing the procedure for getting in. First, adjust your skirt to maximum length. Then swing your legs out of the car and wiggle the rest of you into a standing position. It helps to be as close to the door as possible before going into action. It also helps to have a steady arm to lean on waiting. Just grab hold and a house your frame out of the car!

On second thought, when wearing the new short fashion, why not just walk to where you want to go?

Farewell Fete For Mrs. Bigham

(Special To The News)
LEFORTS — Mrs. M. E. Bigham, who moved with her family on Aug. 11, to make their home in Lubbock, was honored with a farewell coffee on that date in the home of Mrs. Charlie Tutor, from nine to eleven o'clock in the morning.

Hostesses with Mrs. Tutor were Mmes. A. L. Flinchum, O. R. Henry, and Roy Nobles.

Multi-colored roses in a crystal bowl formed the centerpiece for the serving table with crystal and sterling silver completing the appointments.

Guests were Mmes. Burl Davis, John Roberts, R. T. Jinks, Walter Hughes, C. E. Fenno, Wayne Harris, Tom Gee, L. C. Fofd, Billie Jones, R. C. Ogden and Cora Bradford.

Gifts were received by the honoree from those who attended and from other friends who sent gifts, but were unable to attend.

Pack frozen food in cardboard cartons or wrap in paper when defrosting the home freezer. This prevents as much thawing as possible while the food is in warmer air.

As Summer Draws To Close, It's Time To Switch Cosmetics As Tan Fades

By ALICIA HART
NMA Beauty Editor

As summer draws to a close, a lot of girls begin worrying about getting rid of that tan they've spent so much time acquiring. Actually, there's no reason to hasten the process. A summer tan can look very well with the first dark clothes of fall. And it disappears rapidly anyway once you're away from the sun. Your daily bath will help to scrub it away. Meanwhile, you'll need to change your lipstick, rouge and powder shades as your skin becomes lighter. If you keep your make-up keyed to your skin, your tan should not present a problem in the early days of autumn.

This is one of those things that no man will understand and every woman will grasp immediately. That's the need that a woman has to spend one evening a week happily putting away at beauty tasks. This may include shampoo and set, fresh manicure, electric massage and the washing out of nylon-dainties. She may press a dress or two, mend some gloves or turn up a hem. If she's efficient, she probably has a list of things waiting to be done. Knowing that she has time to herself in which to do them can make her face the balance of the week with a relaxed and serene feeling.

The beauty benefits of summer can carry over into autumn. True, days at the beach are over but the habit of being out in fresh air can stay. To get both the exercise and fresh air that you'd get at the beach, walk. Resist the temptation to take the car or a bus. Remember that water is soothing to the nerves and that a relaxing

RUTH MILLETT
We women have the funniest ideas of economy—

We'll fill the ice boxes with little dabs of leftovers because we feel extravagant if we immediately throw away what we know we are going to throw away eventually.

We'll call a friend instead of a taxi to ask for a ride for ourselves or one of the children when the family car is in for repairs.

We'll figure with glee on how much we save by buying a marked-down item we had no intention of buying at the regular price.

We'll spend more on gasoline than we save when we drive across town to a food market that has a few specials the neighborhood market doesn't offer.

We'll pick up a hat for a song and then have to go out and buy a dress to wear with it.

We'll proudly put our bridge winnings aside to save for something special — without ever thinking of taking our losses out of the winnings.

We would rather buy in small amounts than plunk down enough money at once for a six months supply of stamps or a month's supply of canned goods.

The air was chockful of Quotes. They were many shapes and styles and some of them should be labeled Misquotes by us citizens who profess to know.

It was like the 1,460 people who had gone to watch Roy Harris, the hero of the underdog from Cun-N-Shoot, Texas, spatter the champion, Floyd Patterson, all over the big teevee TelePromTer screen in Amarillo's Municipal Auditorium, couldn't wait to get away.

They had taken their own good time in finding their seats before the heavyweight title fight began, laughing and poking ribs and slapping backs. Almost all agreeing that this Harris kid had the stuff to make the Negro champion from New Jersey want to plunge his head in the sand and dream of the old days against lesser challengers, like Hurricane Jackson and Pete Rademacher.

But it didn't happen that way, as you must already know. We hope not, but Jesse Mayes, the Pennant Club barbeque and beer tycoon, may have had the answer. Walking back to his car after viewing the fight, Jesse said, "Patterson's liable to be just like those other Colored champs . . . they have to get too old before you can whip 'em."

Mayes laughed, "That Harris had the same trouble tonight I've had all my life . . . couldn't hit hard enough!"
Yep, plenty of words in the air nowadays. Don't see how the airmail gets through.

Peterson In 'Classic'

Comes the dawning of a new day and we've been informed by Ollie Wilhelm, who was also at last night's TelePromTer fight show in Amarillo, that his son, Gary, the mighty - might who quarterbacked Pampa High last fall, has passed up a chance to play in Saturday night's first annual Panhandle Grid Classic. He couldn't get off work for a week.

It'll be Gary Peterson, who operated at right tackle for the Harvesters last autumn, carrying the Pampa colors into the first Amarillo schoolboy all-star event.

Chatting briefly with Putt Powell of the Amarillo Globe-News prior to last night's fight, we understand Peterson may be used at guard by City Slicker coach Bill Cross, the former West Texas State and pro gridder.

Putt said, "Peterson looked good out there in practice today." It seems the coaches are high on the Pampa athlete. Sam Pecchia, who coached the Amarillo High B-team on Thursday and scouted for the Sandies on Friday nights last season, agreed with several other coaches who scouted the Big Green last year, that Peterson was something of an "unsung hero" up front for the Harvesters.

The 170 - pounder may do some hardy beak-bustin' in Saturday night's first football fracas for the Top 'o' Texas area.

Softball Sidelights

If Ed Dudley plays football for Jim Myers at Texas A&M this fall like he played softball for the champion Kempa Humble nine Sunday, you can start hauling off the new Aggie coach's worries in a wheel - barrel first thing in the morning.

All the former Pampa high flash did was drive home three of the winning club's four runs in the finals on a homer, single and double. He was the only player in the game to collect three hits, half as many as the whole Phillips outfit could muster. Dudley also came up with two beautiful defensive plays from his shortstop position, digging out a couple of wicked smashes and turning them into putouts at first for the first two outs in the 6th.

The 1958 Pampa Industrial League Sportsmanship Trophy was presented Paul Hulsey by loop director Tavis Lively, Jr., before Sunday's finals got underway. Hulsey, popular third-sacker for KP Lodge, had a big year for the league's runner-up team, James Shew, who pitched for Phillips of Pampa this year, won the award the last two seasons. A secret vote of the managers and league officials determines just who gets the Sportsmanship Trophy each year.

SHADES OF GUNSMOKE: Garland Pool, regular catcher

for Kempa Humble, had to miss the championship game Sunday with a bad leg. He was limping back and forth between the dugout and his third-base coaching box when some of the onlookers started to call him "Chester." Pool's only reply wuz, "Ah, shucks, Mr. Dillon!"

It took 22 tournament games to settle the dispute about just who has the best softball team in the Top 'o' Texas area. Phillips Men's Club had won the meet the past two years, both times coming up through the loser's bracket.

Chief Fagan, the loser for Phillips Men's Club in Sunday's final match must have an arm of iron or maybe rubber. The pudgy Indian pitched all seven of the runner-up team's games in four days. Ugh!

Eight of the 22 tournament games were decided by three runs. There were three one run margins of victory and as many two run cushions. Only four games got anywhere near out of hand, three being won by ten runs difference and one by 11 tallies.

"Smoothest tournament, yet." That's the way Lively, the meet director, put it as he nodded, "Yes, we'll hold it again next year."

5 New Coaches Are Hired Here

Five new coaches — to help fill out the staffs at Pampa's two junior high schools — have been hired here it was announced Tuesday morning.

Pampa High head football boss, Babe Curfman, said the new coaches should fit into the athletic system here very well. The new coaches are John Hale, Lester Ramsey, John Dobson, David Kelly and Sammy Jackson.

Dobson and Ramsey are expected to coach and teach at new Robert E. Lee Junior High where Norman Phillips is head coach.

Ramsey, a graduate of West Texas State, comes to Pampa from Withersall where he coached one year.

Dobson, a 1957 graduate of Southeastern State Teacher's College in Oklahoma comes from Madill where he also put in one year as coach.

John Hale, a 1950 graduate of Howard Payne College, and David Kelly, a summer graduate at the University of Corpus Christi are expected to coach at Pampa Junior High with Gene Chance.

Hale, who's had seven years of coaching experience, comes from Del Norte, Colorado, where he coached for the past two years. The Pampa Junior High job will be Kelly's first crack at the coaching profession. He played two seasons at the University of Wyoming under Bowden Wyatt before transferring to Corpus Christi.

BASEBALL FANS FINED

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — William D. Swanson, Beloit, Wis., and John R. McDonald, Roscoe, Ill., were each fined $10 Monday for a baseball chat. The two picked centerfield as the place to ask Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn whether the Phillies would win the flag.

Floyd Keeps His Heavy Crown; Flogs Harris With KO in 12th Round-By-Round

ROY BLEEDS FROM PATTERSON'S BELTING

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, dissatisfied with his gory title knockout over Roy Harris, said today, "I want to get busy now, and so I may defend soon, in England."

The champion believed he should have disposed of game Harris, from Cut and Shoot, Tex., before the 12th round Monday night, even though the kayo in that session had tagged the bloodsmearing challenger with his first defeat in 23 bouts.

Floyd's victory before an estimated 17,000 at Wrigley Field was his 15th knockout in his last 16 fights. But he was dissatisfied with his own trip to the canvas in the second round and displeased because his bleeding opponent had survived four knock-downs.

"I want to get busy now," said the 23-year-old champion.

Manager Agrees

"That's right," agreed manager Cus D'Amato. "And our next defense may be for promoter Harry Levene in London. We've given him our word we'll fight for him if there's a good European challenger. It looks as if there'll be a good one over there soon." Apparently D'Amato was referring to next month's fight between Sweden's unbeaten Ingemar Johansson, European champion, and Eddie Machen of San Francisco, second-ranking contender. D'Amato is reported to believe Johansson will win the fight at Goteborg, Sweden, and be available as challenger.

Manager Cus, dissatisfied with the gates Patterson has drawn in his three American defenses, wants a big one now; and he believes London is the place to get it away from the alleged influence of the International Boxing Club.

Asks Bout Be Stopped
"I've got to keep busy to keep sharp," said the unmarked champion who had given Harris such a battering that his own trainer, Bill Gore, asked referee Mushy Callahan to stop the bout when the action was finished in the 12th round but before the bell could start the 13th.

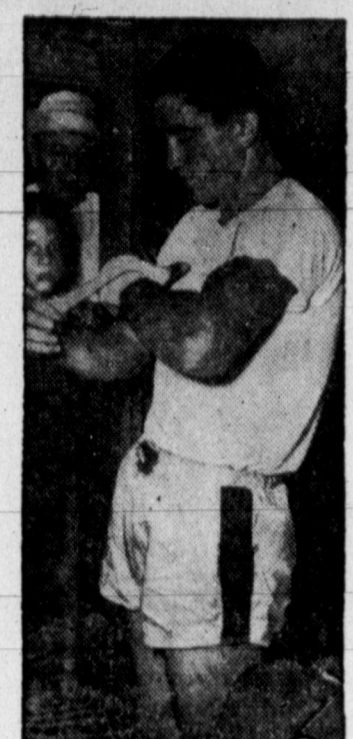

Callahan waved his arms in mid-ring, signaling the bout was over. He announced it was a "knockout" in the 12th round. Under California rules, when a bout is stopped to save a fighter from further punishment it is a kayo — not a technical kayo.

At that time the 25-year-old challenger was bleeding profusely from the nose and from cuts on his right brow, his right temple, nose bridge and left eyelid.

Harris made a brave stand against the champion from Mt. Vernon, N. Y., but he was out-gunned. Patterson's right-hand smashes to the body and to the weaken him as early as the third round.

Down Four Times
A right to the chin put Harris down for the count of eight in the seventh. A left in the eighth round dropped him for "seven" and a right for "three" in the eighth. Another right to the chin floored him for "nine" in the 12th. And a smashing left hook sent him reeling across the ring, just before the bell ended action in the 12th.

The champion may receive more than his guaranteed $210,000 through his percentage provisos, because a large surge of fans to Wrigley Field provided an estimated gate of $300,000 and early reports from the TelePromTer Corporation indicated theater-TV receipts at 151 theaters in 133 cities would approximate one million dollars.

ROY HARRIS
... bloody and bowed

Harris Hopes For Re-Match; Not Hurt Bad

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Roy Harris, the game heavyweight from Cut and Shoot, Tex., was looking forward today to another crack at Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title, unimpaired by the beating he took about the head and eyes.

The 25-year-old Texan was dripping gore from the area of his left eye Monday night when the fight was stopped at the end of the 12th round.

Downcast, Harris admitted in his dressing room afterwards, "I guess maybe I wasn't as good as I thought I was."

He sat with a towel over his head as his trainer, Bill Gore, tried to soothe away photographers who were trying to get a picture of the cut which appeared to be about a quarter-inch long. The eyelid itself was puffed to the size of a goose egg.

Gore, who was kept busy between rounds stopping the flow of blood from the left eyelid and other cuts about the head, said the eye suffered no permanent damage.

"There's nothing under the cut," he said. "In a few days it will be all right."

Patterson's a great fighter," Harris said. "But I'd like to fight him again and I think I could beat him."

Harris insisted he never blacked out despite the pounding he took from looping lefts and right smashes.

"I got nailed to the body quite a few times," he said. "Those right hands hurt."

"He didn't have me anywhere near out. Of course he shook me up a few times. I think I should have pressed him more. I learned a lot about his fighting and I think I could catch him the next time."

"I got nailed to the body quite a few times," he said. "Those right hands hurt."

Patterson Not Proud Of 'Slip'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The haunting thought that people may regard him as a "cheese champion" brought some baleful self-reproach from Floyd Patterson for "my canvas style of fighting."

Young Floyd made the "canvas style" crack in his dressing room Monday night when asked to explain how or why had he been knocked down for a count of four during the second round of his 12-round knockout victory over gallant Roy Harris.

Patterson hung his head sheepishly and his words were laden with self-criticism.

"It seems that I've been going down so much lately, I dunno what to think," he answered soberly. "I thought it was more of a slip than a knockdown because I know I wasn't hurt."

But it seems I've been constantly slipping lately. It must be my canvas style of fighting."

He was thinking not only about Monday night but also about being decked by amateurish Pete Rademacher last August in Seattle and also about his training camp knockdown by a little-known sparmate named Jose Torres two weeks ago.

He spoke with the realization that as long as he is knocked to the canvas by second-rate challengers and takes longer than the prescribed time to dispose of them, he will never be regarded in a class with such great recent champions as Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano.

And the thought gripes him.

Cuppers Sweep

RYE, N. Y. (UPI)—The United States Davis Cup tennis team completed a 5-0 sweep over Argentina Monday in the final round of the American Zone eliminations.

The victory qualified the U. S. to meet Italy or the Philippines in the interzone finals in Australia in December.

Ham Richardson of Arlington, Va., needed only 70 minutes to beat Eduardo Soiano, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5. Then Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, concluded the series by crushing Enrique Morea, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Cut-N-Shoot Still; Hero Struck Out

By KYLE THOMPSON
United Press International

CUT 'N SHOOT, Tex. (UPI)—This tiny community in the wild Big Thicket country of East Texas settled down into virtual obscurity again today. Cut 'N Shoot's light, Roy Harris, went out Monday night.

Some 6,000 fist-clenching fans, friends and neighbors of the plucky schoolteacher-pugilist, watched in anguish as their favorite fighter took a savage beating from heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in Los Angeles.

The Cut 'N Shooters viewed their champion on four closed circuit television screens at a drive-in theater in nearby Conroe, Tex.

They nervously peered at the screens as Patterson edged by Harris in the first round, then let out their biggest cheer when the hometown favorite floored Patterson in the second.

"Come on! Hit him again, Roy," the crowd yelled as Patterson-picked himself up.

Then Harris' pace slackened. The crowd groaned.

Cut 'N Shooters, who had envisioned their never-before-beaten favorite copping the crown, cheered Harris on, but Patterson overwhelmed the rugged Texan.

Harris lost; Harris was knocked out. The fight had been stopped. Cut 'N Shoot was silent.

Before the fight, Roy's neighboring Texans parted and whooped it up.

Today, they had no time for whoop-dee-do. Rather, they thought of a possible re-match.

"Roy can do it," Cut 'N Shoot seemed to say.

But, H. G. Rose, constable of Conroe, summed-up the fight in a few short phrases.

"You'll have to admit that Patterson is a better fighter. Roy just didn't have a punch, and Floyd did. That's the whole story," Rose said.

And, the TV crowd that had paid $7.50 per head to watch the closed circuit broadcast silently agreed with the Conroe lawman.

"Roy put up a good fight," was the prevailing opinion. "He stayed in there for 12 long rounds, even after he was bleeding like a pig cut for barbeque, and that's a true Texan for you."

Round-By-Round

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Here is a thumbnail description of Monday night's Floyd Patterson-Roy Harris heavyweight championship fight:

Round One: Patterson drove Harris into the ropes with a flurry of punches and then landed a stiff left on Harris' left eye.

Round Two: Harris won his only round when he floored the champion for a four-count early in the round with a right to the stomach and later stunned him with a right to the head.

Round Three: Patterson regained command, opened cuts above and below Harris' left eye and started blood flowing from Harris' nose with a hard left.

Round Four: Patterson, still the aggressor, opened a cut over Harris' right eye and buckled Harris' knees with lefts and rights to the head. But Harris hung on.

Round Five: The champion took the fifth round as he opened a third cut on the Texan's head; Harris' one good blow was a solid right late in the round.

Round Six: Patterson opened another cut over Harris' left eye and Harris appeared visibly tired as blood streamed down both sides of his face and nose.

Round Seven: Harris was floored with a right to the head and took an eight count, getting up just before the bell sounded to end the round.

Round Eight: Patterson floored the Texan twice, once with a stiff left to the head for a six-count and then for a four-count with a right.

Round Nine: Both fighters missed punches, Harris landed two good head punches, but Patterson buckled his knees again and doubled him up with stomach punches.

Round Ten: Harris answered the bell very tired, blood streaming from his face and his chest streaked with gore. Patterson landed hard punches to win the round.

Round Eleven: Harris tied Patterson up several times in clinches and landed a good right to the head as he managed to hold the champion almost even.

Round Twelve: Patterson floored Harris for a nine-count early in the round and almost sent the Texan down again but Harris managed to grab the ropes and hold on. At the round's end, trainer Bill Gore asked referee Mushy Callahan to stop the bout.

Dickerson Is New UCLA Head
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—George Dickerson, 45, the late Henry R. (Red) Sanders' chief assistant, is the new head football coach at UCLA.

His appointment was announced Monday night by athletic director Wilbur Johns, who said the Board of Control of the UCLA Associated Students had approved a contract with Dickerson which was "in no way on an interim basis, but extended for a period of more than one year." The board also announced retention of the present coaching staff in its entirety as recommended by Dickerson.

Norstad Says Progress Is Made On Missile Bases

By KINGSBURY SMITH
United Press International
PARIS (UPI)—General Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander for Europe, said today "satisfactory progress" is now being made in discussions with the NATO countries concerning the establishment in Europe of intermediate range ballistic missile bases.

In an exclusive interview with this correspondent, the youthful-looking war-time Air Force commander also said he was "confident that when the new weapons are available, satisfactory sites will be ready for their reception."

"Furthermore," he added, "in the case of ICBM's, because of their range, great latitude is available to us in their siting."

"I am convinced that, as the heads of government, at their December meeting, decided on the establishment of ICBM sites in NATO territory, because they are necessary for the defense of NATO, each country in the last analysis will do what is necessary in its own defense, and to contribute to NATO defense."

"This confidence is based on my recognition that these new weapons will make a significant contribution to the deterrent, and therefore to our first task the preservation of peace, and also will make a contribution to our second task, the defense of the peoples and territories of NATO if we are attacked."

Countries Object
Establishment in Europe with nuclear warheads, are considered by SHAPE planners necessary to the modern evolution of the war deterrent power of the NATO "shield."

Some of the European countries, including France, Denmark and Norway, objected to the establishment of ICBM sites on their territory when the proposal to strengthen SHAPE's defensive power with these weapons was made at the Atlantic Council meeting last December.

The French did not want the bases established in France unless they had some measure of control over use of the missiles. This would involve congressional modification of the law restricting the President alone the right to determine when American nuclear weapons would be used.

Denmark and Norway have laws which prohibit the stationing of foreign military forces on their territory. Little hope is held at SHAPE that those laws will be changed in the near future, but there is confidence that France will agree to the establishment of some sites on its territory.

Still Not Satisfied
Since French Premier Charles de Gaulle is determined to have greater recognition given France as a major power, and since he wants a more effective voice for the French in the formulation of Allied global strategy, it is believed at SHAPE that he will wish his country to be equipped with the weapons that, diplomatically as well as militarily, speak loudly.

While General Norstad told the writer he feels the balance of military power still remains with the West, he is far from satisfied with the strength of his own deterrent "shield" in Western Europe.

He now has available approximately 21 divisions. He expects eventually to get about 28, which approximates the 30 divisions he regards as the minimum forces required to enable him to fulfill the mission of SHAPE forces in the central area of Europe.

The mission has changed since NATO was established nine years ago. Originally, it was hoped that the SHAPE forces could establish a defensive line in Germany strong enough to hold up a Russian attack until powerful American and British armies could be brought to France.

Mission Outlined
Today SHAPE's mission is, in effect, to make Russia realize that any attempt to extend Soviet domination in Europe by a limited war would precipitate an all-out nuclear conflict with the United States and its NATO allies.

This mission requires Allied combat-ready forces sufficiently strong to prevent the Soviet or satellite armies from suddenly overrunning a small country or grabbing some territory and then presenting NATO with a fait accompli.

House Calls Certain Ads 'Deceptive'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House investigators have charged the Federal Trade Commission let manufacturers of toothpaste and tranquilizer drugs get away with "deceptive" advertising at the expense of millions of shoppers and physicians.

A group of lawmakers suggested Congress might strip the FTC of its authority to police advertising and turn the job over to the Food and Drug Administration.

The recommendation was included in a report by a House government operations subcommittee which held hearings on drug advertising in February and on toothpaste ads last Sunday.

The report was made public Sunday.

It said the FTC should call the toothpaste and drug makers together to try to set up a voluntary "code of fair advertising practice." It further recommended the agency on its own require the manufacturers back up their claims with "competent scientific proof," such as is now required of cigarette makers.

The subcommittee noted manufacturers spent more than 25 million dollars last year to promote the 12 leading brands of toothpaste. Yet, it said, the American Dental Association testified some of the sweeping claims in the ads actually "discourage proper dental hygiene."

The group also said its hearings "threw some doubt on whether physicians generally are so sophisticated or literate as to be advertising-resistant."

In the highly critical report, the subcommittee charged "the FTC has not discharged its statutory responsibilities to halt or prevent deception" in the advertising of prescription tranquilizing drugs and dentifrices.

Senators Like Rep. Knowland

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bill Knowland, Republican leader of Senate, is quitting soon to face a clouded political future in California, and most of the Senate will be sorry to see him go.

Many senators found it easy to disagree with Knowland but few of them ever had much doubt about where he stood. They developed a liking for him even though they found it hard to get to know him.

Like most effective congressional floor leaders, Knowland has had a foot in each of the two camps of his party. His biggest headlines came, however, when he spoke as a conservative critic of the Eisenhower administration.

More recently he has squared off against labor leaders and pressed for a federal law to guarantee democracy in unions and a state right-to-work law in California. Whether this tack was politically wise will not be known until November, when Knowland will win or lose the race for the governorship of California. He is now the underdog.

Inherited Taft's Role
Regardless of the political consequences, it could be taken for granted that once Knowland had chosen his road he would stick to it whether it led to Sacramento or political oblivion.

It has been five years since the late Sen. Robert A. Taft handed picked Knowland, then 45, as his successor to lead the Republican side of the Senate. Knowland also inherited Taft's role as chief spokesman for the conservative wing of the GOP, although he had been something of a Young Turk in his earlier years.

Both Taft and Knowland were less conservative than some of their warmest admirers. They had other qualities in common, too. Both were tireless workers and strong partisans, willing to do their homework and unwilling to disguise their no-nonsense feelings with diplomatic niceties.

Knowland at first lacked the sensitivity needed to calculate what the Senate could or could not be persuaded to do. But he learned fast, even if he never acquired the finesse of his Democratic counterpart, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

What Future Holds
On at least two occasions, Knowland has shown that he knew when it would pay to bedown when it would pay to be downright bull-headed. Although the majority leader is supposed to guide the Senate program, Minority Leader Knowland forced showdowns in the Senate last year on civil rights legislation and this year on a labor reform bill. Perhaps the Senate would have acted on both measures anyway, but Knowland did force the issue. Once that was done, however, he was outplayed by Johnson in the prolonged struggles over the substance of the bills.

If there were political insurance policies, Knowland would now rate as a poor risk despite his easy victories in two Senate elections. He made a poor showing in the June primary in California and his insistence on running for governor helped to divide his party. Yet less than three years ago he was preparing to seek the presidential nomination if President Eisenhower decided against a second term.

Few senators have ever made it to the White House. When he announced he was running for governor instead of the Senate, it was assumed he wanted to run for president from a governor's chair. However, he has done about everything except use Gen. Sherman's classic words to declare himself out of the race in 1960, when his fellow Californian, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, is expected to be the GOP nominee. Still only 50, Knowland could be a commanding figure as governor of California in later election years. If defeated, he would be virtually dead as a national political force.

French Warn Of Red China Danger

By KINGSBURY SMITH
United Press International
PARIS (UPI)—Two of France's most eminent statesmen warned today that the West's greatest danger from the Communist world in the future is likely to come from Red China.

Former premiers Paul Reynaud and Georges Bidault, in exclusive interviews with this correspondent, said the Chinese Communist leaders appear much more willing to risk war with the West than Russia.

Reynaud, who recently returned from a meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow, went so far as to predict that Communist China will one day precipitate war with the West.

"I am convinced that Communist China envisages the possibility of an atomic war with the West sooner or later," Reynaud said. "Russia, under Khrushchev's leadership, will not deliberately precipitate war with the West, but if Communist China continues to grow strong and gets possession of atomic weapons, I think it will do so one day."

Both Reynaud and Bidault foresaw the possibility of an eventual break between Red China and Russia.

Khrushchev Warned About China
"China," Bidault said "is potentially three times as powerful as Russia. The Chinaman is yellow and the Russian is white. All of China's population, already around 650 million, is growing rapidly. Russia's population was 200 million according to the last census. That is about 15 million less than had been thought."

"China's huge and rapidly increasing population, coupled with the program of industrialization and education of its many millions, means that Russia must eventually be subordinated to it."

Reynaud said he told Khrushchev to beware of China. He cautioned the Soviet ruler that the recent decision of the Chinese Communist leaders to abandon the birth control program and promote instead a rapid increase in the already huge population was an ill-omen for the white race.

"When I was explaining to Khrushchev that the Allies insist on the unification of Germany as the basis for a European settlement," Reynaud said, "he asked me: 'Why do you insist on forming a united Europe?'"

"Because, I replied, in 25 years there will be one billion Chinese, and the division of Europe in the face of that power is an anachronism. — I stressed that point because I am convinced that the only consideration that will one day make possible a genuine understanding and rapprochement between Russia and the West will be the common Chinese peril."

Bidault and Reynaud agreed that Communist China is now exercising a dangerous influence on Soviet policy. They both interpreted Khrushchev's action in calling off a summit meeting after his recent visit to Peking as evidence that the Chinese Communist leaders had imposed a "veto" power on Russia's freedom of action with the Western powers.

"NERVOUSNESS" NOT IN TEXT BOOKS, CURABLE

Gynecology textbooks are concerned with the diseases of women but you will search in vain for that disorder so common among women and generally termed "nervousness."

Nervousness is a word that means a general debility that affects not only the activities of the organs of the entire body, but also changes the personality and habits of the luckless man, woman or child suffering from its debilitating influences.

Its unfortunate sufferers are told to take up golf, sewing, or just any old hobby that will get them out of the office of their puzzled family physician.

They have about as much chance forgetting nervousness as they would ignoring a cancer or broken leg!

There is hope, however for this lost legion.

Dr. Gordon Miller D.C.
A lady thirty-six years old, could remember back when she was nine years old and she said she was nervous even then.

With a tight shaky feeling in her stomach she couldn't take a full breath, nor could she relax nor sleep at night. She had frequent headaches, poor appetite, indigestion, and constipation, female trouble, with painful irregularity, and sinus trouble, all of which were rapidly growing worse when she was told by her family doctor to forget it or take up a hobby. She knew she was really sick so she took a friend's advice and came to Miller Chiropractic Clinic for an examination.

Our regular spinal analysis and spinal X-rays located trouble affecting her central nervous system which resulted in faulty function of several organs.

After completing her required period of adjustments, she said, "Sleep okay now, tightness gone, stomach and bowels back to normal, and all other symptoms gone. Feel fine."

Why don't you take your friend's advice and investigate? You have nothing to lose except bad health...

As you read the utterances of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Egyptian President Nasser in the current Middle Eastern muddle, you see at work a technique of oracles which by its very nature is destructive of good faith in international relations.

Privileged Class

Every now and again Harper's Magazine strikes oil in the field of ideas. The July issue, just out, contains an article by John E. Booth who is a staff member of the Twentieth Century Fund in New York City. It is entitled, "Veteran: Our Biggest Privileged Class."

The armed forces are urging retiring officers to take jobs as school teachers. Sounds good. But, with the juvenile delinquency problem, wouldn't it be a good idea to send a few tough sergeants and M.P.'s into the classrooms along with them?

Well sir, the American people are getting smarter all the time. Jesse James thought up plenty of alibis but he never tried saying that he just didn't know the rules.

IT'S A HAND-ME-UP FROM MY LITTLE SISTER!

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES Free Riders

In the American Enterprise Assn.-book, "Labor Unions and Public Policy," a chapter by Philip D. Bradley has a great deal to say about the fallacy of the free rider argument.

The union, of course, has to contend that all workers in a given line get the same benefits from labor union contracts and thus should all pay dues. Listen to this:

"The histories of the AFL and the CIO proclaim the inherent difficulty of reconciling the conflicting interests of skilled and unskilled workers within the same organization. In industries where skilled and unskilled labor have common representation smouldering disputes between the two classes of workers frequently break out after contract settlements. Conflicts also develop over plant location. How, for example, can the interests of Southern workers be said to be promoted by a union which wants to prevent the expansion of the industry in the South in order to protect the jobs of its Northern members?"

Or consider the situation of workers in so-called low wage companies. Unions frequently attempt to liquidate such companies even though their employees may enjoy real wages as high or higher than the workers employed by companies paying higher money wages.

But the basis of conflict may be the exercise of power by older workers, the introduction, location and control of new processes or operations, the merger of companies or plants, policies designed to promote the welfare of union leaders at the expense of membership groups.

Conflict Over Distribution of Benefits

The author goes on to give a concrete example of how labor unions actually hurt certain members who do not have seniority by benefiting those who have seniority. He puts it this way:

"Support the proposition that a union may obtain economic benefits for the group-it represents is provided by the accomplishments of the International Photo Engravers' Union. The data suggest that by 1929 this union had raised the level of real wages in the trade above that which would have prevailed in the union's absence. Union bargaining in this case is the source of an economic surplus of the kind assumed by those who believe in the union-benefit doctrine. How this was accomplished is easily understood.

"The union's constitution enjoins the local unions to limit the number of apprentices to one for each number of journeymen as may seem just. But it also provides that without the approval of the executive council the ratio may not exceed one apprentice to seven journeymen and two apprentices to 14 journeymen regularly employed. Further, the minimum period of apprenticeship in the trade is six years, a longer period than is needed for the professional training of a doctor, lawyer or atomic scientist. These provisions guarantee that control over the supply of union photo engravers rests in the hands of those who understand that an 'unjust' increase in the supply might undermine union wage levels. Moreover, closed shop agreements largely eliminated the possibility that the shops would turn to non-union sources of supply. The union had anticipated the possibility that unresisted fluctuations in demand might not be met by the inflexible supply and had therefore provided, in the language of one of its officers, for 'an equitable, fair and just permit system' through which nonunion men might temporarily help satisfy the trade's requirements. Under these conditions, where the union controls the supply of workers and where it also prevents the employment of turning to other sources of supply, it would be surprising if wages in the trade were not higher than they would be in the union's absence.

"Beginning in 1929 the union's wage standards were put under great pressure by the general readjustment in prices, wages and incomes that began to develop in that year. Given the magnitude and duration of the pressure it was necessary for the union to adjust to it by one means or another and it might have been expected that a lowering of its wage standards would be one method through which the union would seek, in part, at least, to meet the problem. But the index of union hourly wage scales for the years 1929-1940 indicates that the union had little confidence in this type of adjustment. The index of wage rates paid in the shops rose each year from 1929 through 1932, fell one point in 1933 and then increased every year thereafter. While the wage rate index was rising, price indexes were falling. Hence the real wage rates of photo engravers rose even more than their money wage rates. By pointing to the behavior of either money or real wage rates the union could support a claim that it had benefited the workers represented. However, since the union ruled out adjustment through rates, it had other methods of adjustment

You'll Never Be World Champ—

Robert Allen Reports:

King Saud Of Arabia Is Definitely On Way Out

WASHINGTON—Another pro-Western Arab king is now definitely on the way out.

King Saud is going abroad soon "for his health"—permanently!

The ailing Saudi Arabian monarch has lost a crucial gamble to regain the upper hand in his oil-rich realm.

As a result, it is now only a question of time when he loses his throne.

Most likely way this will happen is that Saud will depart for Switzerland for the avowed purpose of receiving medical treatment, as he has in the past, and never go back home.

King Saud's attempt to restore his authority was thwarted by his younger, pro-Nasser brothers, Crown Prince Faisal and Prince Mishal.

Last April, in a surprise palace coup, Faisal, with the aid of Mishal and Saudi army officers, stripped Saud of virtually all power. He was forced to proclaim Faisal as Premier, Foreign Minister, and Minister of Finance and Economy—which gave him control over Saudi Arabia's huge oil revenues of around $24,000,000 a month.

While this left Saud little more than King in name only, he still retained one trump card.

This is his personal, so-called "white army" of Bedouins. This force of some 12,000 white-robed desert warriors is traditionally loyal to the King, with the primary function of guarding him and his immediate family. But while well equipped with rifles and small arms, the Bedouins lack heavy weapons and armored vehicles.

In a showdown, they would be no match against the 20,000-man Saudi army that has tanks and artillery—supplied by the U.S. as part of its military aid to the oil-rich desert kingdom.

Early this month, Saud sought to remedy the "white army's" deficiency in armor and heavy weapons by buying them from Britain and France.

They were willing to provide them, but the deal never went through.

forced upon it. Thus, although the union provided a remarkable demonstration of its power, not only to maintain but actually to increase wage rates under highly adverse conditions, it failed completely in its efforts to maintain rates under highly adverse conditions. It failed completely in its efforts to maintain even a reasonable volume of employment at those rates.

"In the worst years of the period only 16 per cent of the membership could find full-time employment, 46 per cent found part-time employment while the remaining 38 per cent was unemployed. Testifying before a committee of the United States Senate on employment conditions in the period 1930-1938, an officer of the union stated that one-third of the membership was totally unemployed, one-third worked part time and one-third was regularly employed. The records of the union indicate that severe unemployment continued up to the entrance of the United States into World War II and, in fact, that unemployment in 1939-1940 almost equaled that of 1935-'38. Thus the required adjustment amount for the years 1935-1938. Thus required adjustment was made in terms of unemployment and it came even though the union restricted the supply of labor by virtually discontinuing the registration of new apprentices, by extending the period of apprenticeship and by decreasing the apprentice-journeyman ratio."

FLASHES—Senator H. Alexander Smith (R., N.J.), ranking member of the Foreign Relations Committee who is voluntarily quitting this year, is slated for a presidential appointment. Committee colleagues say that is definite, but don't know what the new job will be. They are conjecturing it will be in the State Department.

Secret strategy of House Democratic leaders is to seek a vote on the Senate-passed labor reform bill next Monday. They propose to bring this stymied measure before the House by moving suspension of the rules. That will take two-thirds vote of those present, and it's a toss-up what will happen on the Kennedy-Ives bill which the Senate passed more than a month ago.

GOING, GOING—Two significant straw polls in the White House.

The top presidential assistant and his wife are declining all social invitations after August 28, on the ground they will "be out of town." Latest to be turned down for that reason is a member of the International Claims Commission, who invited the Adames to a party.

General Wilton Persons, deputy assistant to the President, is selling congressional friends that Adams is definitely quitting around September 1. According to Persons, the President is "reconciled" to that, and is seeking a successor to Adams.

Another White House source is saying the President has five names under "serious consideration" for Adams' place. According to this authority, three names on this list are:

Robert Hill, Ambassador to Mexico; C. D. Jackson, New York magazine executive and former White House assistant; and Thomas Stephens, White House appointment secretary.

Looking Sideways

By Whitney Bolton

NEW YORK—Ordinarily, I do not run any temperature over the rash of beauty contests in the United States each summer, being a little long in the tooth for this kind of response. Twice across the years the promoters of these gymnasiums have asked me to come down to the boardwalk somewhere and be a judge, selecting the most vivacious gorgeous of all the dolls mincing by, but good sense has each time caused me to send a note of vast regret. Do not misunderstand, I am as susceptible to young female beauty as any fellow in trousers, but I never did think it would be fun to work in a candy factory and I still flinch at the idea of 30 or 40 superb dolls en masse. It's just too much at once.

However, I am about to give up these childish ways because of a young woman from Texas. As anybody who knows me at all knows full well, I am a ripe plum for anything concerning Texas. I love Texas. I love its people, its roads, its grapefruit, its motels, its restaurants and its full-power air-conditioning in homes, rooms, hotels and automobiles. They have the best in all categories. I did not rise up in hauteur when Miss Edna Ferber wrote a too-long indignant article "Giant," because I feel that a writer has a right to make a book when an idea strikes. But I winced at some of her opinions.

Any new comes Miss Mary Hendricks of Arlington, Tex., who had such a full quotient of authentic, eye-stunning beauty that 29 other Texas contestants fell by the wayside, unable to compete against her endowments. The only puzzle in the whole business is that these carelessly edited New York newspapers can't seem to get together on Miss Hendricks' stature. One paper has her at five feet six inches, another at five feet six and still another at six feet even. I sit here in New York and read all I can about Miss Hendricks, and I still don't know how tall she is. But if she is 6'-6", I would not find it surprising since I have known several young women from that area who stand tall, clear and lovely.

Miss Hendricks comes from a town my greatest describes as having 430 persons in it, but it is not a new gazetteer and for all I know by now Arlington may have 14,890 or 456 persons in it. All I am certain of is that it is outside Dallas on the road to Fort Worth but, just to keep peace, I'll also say that it is outside Fort Worth on the road to Dallas.

Billy Rose is the only man I know who took a stand in Fort Worth once and dared to face down the rivalry between these two estimable cities. And even Billy dodged authorship of enormous signboards of slight derision when Fort Worth and Dallas were operating rival durbars. Billy studied his Fort Worth carnival with amazing and rollicking diversions, while Dallas went in for more informative exhibits. The signs read: "Go To Dallas For Culture—Come To Fort Worth For Entertainment."

Who authorized that mocking message and it was definitely not Mr. Rose. Sir William always knew when to disclaim blame.

In any case, Miss Hendricks in newspaper pictures is a beautiful Arlington girl. No one from Arlington ever offered me anything. Some people in Dallas once offered me an air-conditioner for my car and some people from Fort Worth once offered a milk-white one only slightly less enormous than Crater Lake and a pair of fancy Western boots. I made my manners to all concerned and said thanks, but no thanks. No one needs any inducement to write about Miss Hendricks, a young woman so explosively lovely that if she does not win the Atlantic City search for Miss America, she will firmly believe the thing I will firmly believe the thing is contrived in a lot of years of looking at photographs of these vying beauties I don't think I ever saw one quite as sublimely attractive as this Texas girl and I am not trying to sway things in her direction. It wouldn't work. Otherwise, I might.

The fact is, gentls, Texas abounds in these tall, lissom and stungering beauties. That is, they stagger you. They don't stagger, I remember when the Rose-show was on in Fort Worth I met a dazzling field of them, starting with Mary Dowell, of Fort Worth, who is more than six feet tall and came to New York to be the most famed showgirl of her time. Miss Dowell, who reached fame as Stutterin' Sam, is still in New York and I see her here and there from time to time. And time she don't deal her no severe blow. She is still a raging beauty.

In a way, it's too bad Billy Rose isn't working at show producing any more. He could build an entire extravaganza around shattering good looks of Miss Hendricks. But will some Texan who knows please report: is she 5'-6", or 6'-6", or in between?

Mac's Dog Is Proud: He Got A Lassie Medal

By HENRY McEMORE

It's a good thing Charlie is a toy French poodle, not a peacock, else there wouldn't be room in the house for him and us too. He'd have his tail fanned out like a gambler's deck, and be steppin' and a-struttin'.

For his Lassie Gold Medal arrived from Beverly Hills today, plus a citation, plus a personal letter from Lassie. And he is crazy about them. He has eaten the letter, and was going to work on the citation, when I showed him the medal.

That stopped him. And no wonder. Because when Lassie awards a dog a gold medal he doesn't make any bones about it, so to speak. Fixed to Charlie's collar, it is so heavy it holds his head close to the ground, making him look as if he thought he were a bloodhound, and was only three jumps back of a convict.

All Charlie has to do to insure himself three squares a day for the rest of his life is to learn the formalities and etiquette of pawn shops. And I can teach him that. Hocked, the chunk of medal would guarantee him a juicy bone a day from now on out.

Heavy or not, he likes it around his neck. Two minutes after I had fastened it on him he was out of the door, showing it off to every animal in the neighborhood.

The first neighbor he saw was a cat, and he lit right out after it. Then he made the rounds, visiting Prince, Duke, Cindy, Rex, Du-hess and Chip. He gave them all a good chance to admire the medal, take a long look at Lassie's face, which is on it, and read the inscription which says:

"Awarded To Charlie, Owned By Henry McEmore, For Giving A New Meaning To The Tradition That Man's Best Friend Is His Dog."

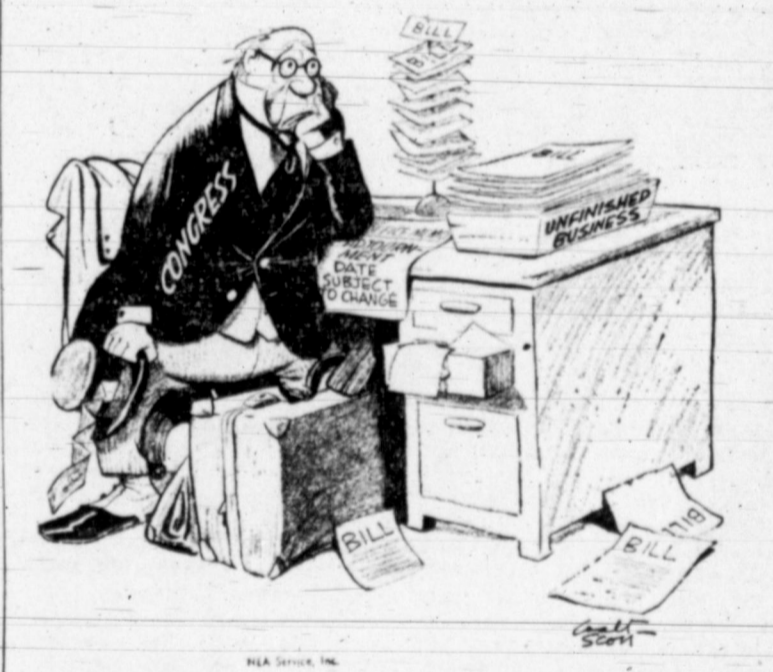

Save one, all Charlie's friends seemed happy over his honor. The exception was Chip, the boxer, who growled when he saw the medal, and nipped Charlie on the ear. When he came yipping home, his medal swinging like the pendulum of a grandfather's clock, I comforted him with the old maxim, "Into every life some mipped earz must fall."

Tonight, after we have watched Lassie on TV, I think I'll break the news to Charlie that I've feel half the medal belongs to me. After all, it has my name on it.

She Leaped Three Floors To Escape The Russians

Editor's note: Ten years ago this month a middle-aged Russian school teacher leaped from a third-story window of the Soviet consulate in New York City. She said she had been held prisoner and jumped rather than be returned to Russia. Today, a decade later, she lives in seclusion, still fearful of revenge. This week she granted United Press International an exclusive interview on condition the news agency keep her present whereabouts secret.

United Press International Okana Stepanova Kasenkina sat in her tiny one-room apartment and recalled the day a decade ago "when God helped me to warn America."

"I think God did send me to this country in time," she said. "I had to tell Americans to watch out for Russians without souls."

She had been sent to the United States to teach children of Soviet officials, including a son of present Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Abruptly she was summoned home and the school ordered closed. She knew what that type of order meant: her husband had disappeared at the hands of Soviet secret police in 1926.

Mrs. Kasenkina sought refuge with anti-Soviet Russians but was allegedly "kidnaped" by the Communists and held in the New York consulate.

At mid-afternoon on Aug. 12, 1948, as diplomatic and legal battles on her behalf appeared lost, she jumped from a third-floor window of the consulate.

Police rushed the Ukrainian ("I am not a Russian") schoolteacher to a hospital.

Leads Quiet Life
In the 10 years since, she said, she has been "looking for happiness."

She has wandered from place to place, changing her room sometimes to avoid reporters, other times because, in the words of a friend, "she sees Russians under every bed."

Short, smiling, she looks like a typical grandmother. As for money, "I have enough," and as for clothes, "I get some when I need them—no more."

Mrs. Kasenkina wore a tiny black crocheted cap, a blue sweater and a lavender and brown dress. "Don't forget my Southern shoes. They call me Yankee down there but I belong in the sun of the South."

What has she found in her new homeland?
Last fall she became an American citizen. Last winter she joined the Catholic Church. She has learned to paint ("Oh, you should see the colors I use."). And, she says, "God helps me to read."

Six Sisters Disappear
Besides all this, she has fought and won against what she calls "sickness and suffering." The injuries she suffered in her leap. The stroke she suffered four years ago. It helps, she says, to have "two, three, maybe five" pillows at night.

But it is a lonely life. A dentist today. A doctor tomorrow. A friend, a passer-by for conversation.

"My business now," she said, "is with God. I feel best in church. When I visited the South I spent every day in church—one, two, three times a day. The service was beautiful and the people so nice."

Gray-haired, she holds her cane and tips a pill from a bottle. "I don't feel able to do all I'd like," she said. "I can't be excited."

She was one of seven sisters, but after she leaped into the headlines "they all disappeared ..."

International 'Naturists' Slate Meeting

WOBURN ABBEY, Eng. (UPI)—The Rev. Brougham Yates Caxton of Brixton was washing cups and saucers in the camp kitchen here wearing a silver chain around his neck, nothing else. Just the chain.

Two women helpers weren't even wearing that much. For this was the camp kitchen at the International Nature Camp in the wooded seclusion of the southern section of Woburn Abbey Park, the stately estate of the duke of Bedford who needs the rent money to help pay his millions of dollars in inheritance taxes.

"It takes all the fatigue out of cooking," Yates Caxton said. "But you have to be careful frying bacon because you are liable to be splashed with hot fat."

Yates Caxton, a naturist for 25 years, leads a sect called the English Rite which he described as catholic in outlook but with all services conducted in English. He was reluctant to give his training and ordination details but said he was ordained by a retired bishop and operates a small chapel. The sect has no connection with the Roman Catholic Church.

The nudists here are the advance guard of the sixth world congress of the International Naturists Federation which starts a two-week session here next Sunday. So far 200 have arrived and more will pour in from the 38 nations represented.

Yates Caxton was being helped by two women cooks (clothed) he borrowed from the Bedford Educational Authority and by two women helpers, members of a sun club, who wore only their wedding rings. The two cooks wouldn't give their names.

Among the early arrivals were Ralph Roberts, 33, a salesman, and his wife, Hilda. Roberts is not a member of a cult. He is a salesman of sunbaths for the sun bathers and he and his wife had to take off their clothes to be admitted.

Jeanne Akers Is The New Miss Perryton

(Special to the News) PERRYTON — Miss Jeanne Akers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Akers of Perryton, was crowned "Miss Perryton" in the annual contest held Friday night at the Perryton swimming pool. Runner-up was Miss Nanjean Boxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Boxwell, who was sponsored by the Perryton Lions Club. Miss Linda Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Rogers, and representing Saied's Store, placed third.

Miss Akers and Miss Boxwell will represent Perryton in the "Wheatheart of the Nation" contest which will be held next Saturday night in the school auditorium. The winners received prizes of $50, $25, and $10.

Miss Susan Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Patton, representing Sutor's Service and Miss Marlene Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mart Wagner, representing Stewart Printing Company were the other two of the five finalists.

A water ballet group of 10 girls from Hugoton, Kans., appeared under the direction of Carmen Bridon, director of the new Hugoton pool. Two divers from Hugoton did exhibition diving.

The winner was crowned by Miss Maureen Pearson who won the "Miss Perryton" title last year. Miss Gaynelle Leatherman was runner-up and was also runner-up in the "Wheatheart" contest behind Miss Carol Dixon of Shattuck, Okla.

Miss Akers will be a senior in Perryton High School this fall where she is a member of the Ranger Band. She was sponsored by Taylor Drug.

Other contestants in the contest were: Miss Pam Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams, representing Beta Sigma Phi; Miss Marion Riley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Debs Riley, representing Epsilon Sigma Alpha; Miss Donna Cottrell, representing the Hotel Coffee Shop; Miss Carol Daley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Daley, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Miss Sue Akers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Akers, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Miss Donna Hoots, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hoots, representing the Business and Professional Women's Club; Miss Barbara Stollings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stollings, representing Community Public Service company, and Miss Betty Mayhan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Allen, representing Russell's Steak House.
