

Election Talk In The Air In Britain

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG United Press International
LONDON (UPI)—General election talk is in the air in Britain. The Labor opposition is becoming more and more convinced that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will pull a "snap" election in the fall—probably early in October.

Macmillan is riding high on a crest of popularity. His personal prestige is at its peak. The Laborites believe he will try to cash in by sending the nation to the polls. The result, they fear, would be another victory for Macmillan's ruling Conservatives.

The prime minister has done nothing to back the general election scuttlebutt. On the contrary, he has said repeatedly he is not even thinking of elections at the moment. Aides say he would not consider them before October of 1959.

But the Laborites believe Macmillan will spring a general election bombshell announcement at the Conservative party's annual congress opening at Blackpool on Oct. 9.

It is generally agreed that the political dice are loaded in Macmillan's favor if he does appeal to the country in the near future.

When Macmillan took over from Sir Anthony Eden early in 1957 after the Suez debacle, the Conservative Party's fortunes had plummeted to rock bottom. Macmillan was regarded as only a stop-gap genie at best.

1957 Economic Crisis
An economic crisis in the fall of 1957 brought Britain to the verge of bankruptcy and resulted in a series of by-election disasters for the Conservatives.

But in recent months the situation has changed abruptly. Recession fears are fading. The nation's finances are back on the rails again. The bank rate—upped to a near-record seven per cent during the crisis—is back to four-and-a-half per cent and may be slashed still further.

Macmillan's personal popularity was boosted sky-high by his efforts to bring about a summit meeting with the Russians and by Britain's military intervention in Jordan.

Recent straw polls have put the Conservatives comfortably in the lead.

The White House was sent a new farm bill which stipulates lower price supports on cotton, corn and rice and fewer controls on farmers. Passage of the bill was a major victory for Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Want To Marry An Island Or A Castle?

By AILEEN SNOODY NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—In the romance department, John C. Tyssen deserves a special prize. He marries quite normal-looking people to castles, islands, ghost towns or ranchland estates.

John C. Tyssen is a realtor of extraordinary properties which goes by the name of Preview. And from his dark-paneled office overlooking Madison Ave. in New York, he and his swashbuckling salesmen are doing a land office business in bills of sale for far away places.

There is on the block, for example, Campobello—the island home of the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Cost: $50,000, but includes memorabilia of the late President's occupancy.

What to do with a private island is simple. One group of eight couples in their 30s plan to buy an island in the Bahamas and turn it into a sound investment via a hotel. They will stagger their annual vacations so one is always on hand to supervise hired management.

What about more romance? Well, there is the Riviera estate where Grace Kelly gambled before cameras in "To Catch a Thief." Domaine de la Croix des Gardes with its exquisite formal gardens is perhaps the lushest item with a "Pour Vendre" sign.

However, if you would care for something slightly used (by kings and emperors) there is Steinwaend, a hunting paradise in Austria. It will go for $150,000, which covers the right to bag such things as chamois, marmot, golden eagle and ibex.

Even though suburban houses are 60 per cent of Tyssen's business, "Castles always are in season," he says.

"They may sound like a luxury, but the average European castle has become an excellent business investment."

And as an added filip for guests who hunt ghosts there is Ballygally castle in Ireland with a ghost room in one of its towers.

Persons looking for a "buy" may find it right at home. If there is a decorator or designer building a dreamhouse in the neighborhood, keep an eye peeled for a bargain in the near future.

Professional "homemakers," as Tyssen calls them, weary of their own handiwork and move on to new challenges. Or after a few thousand conducted tours, they mumble their anguish into a realtor's ear. A prime example was a decorator who put up his Nantucket 18-room Main Street whaler's mansion for sale at $35,000, a big loss.

"Just get rid of it," he begged, "before spring. Or my friends will crowd me into another nervous breakdown."

The treasury sold its latest issues of short-term bills at a price equivalent to a 1.895 per cent average yield, against 1.524 per cent last week. The increase, reflecting the general advance in short-term money rates, is still far from the high of 3.660 per cent of October, 1957.

Wamsutta Mills, one of New England's oldest and most famous textile firms, will close at the end of 1958 because of competition from foreign manufacturers.

Curtiss-Wright Corp. announced it will end its management contract with Studebaker-Packard Corp. upon completion of a refinancing plan for the auto maker. At the same time Curtiss-Wright said it will not exercise its option to buy five million shares of Studebaker common stock.

FOR SALE... CHEAP!

If you're looking for a realtor who plays cupid to far away dreamlands, hustle out and dig up a down payment for this choice 55-acre Caribbean island. Complete with a main house, annex, boatman and servants' houses, motor boats and 10 head of cattle, it's yours for only $49,000. How's the television reception? Well, that's another island of a different channel!

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is stuck on a pretty strawberry blonde where we take our dry cleaning. He gathers up all the dirty clothes he can find whether they are dirty enough to be cleaned or not, as an excuse to go to the cleaners and see this redhead. She's cute and has a nice figure, but I know she is encouraging him only because it's good for business. She acts cute and flirty with all the men customers. My husband isn't bad looking but he needs some brains to go with it. How can I convince him that he's making a fool of himself, or should I change cleaners?

DEAR ANNOYED: She is your husband's mother - let HIM call a halt to the utter clutter (by his mudder.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO SANDRA: You've got a heart like a Hilton hotel... (Room for everybody!) Don't consider accepting another engagement ring until you have returned the one you have in your drawer. Also, if you aren't sure you are "over" the chiropractor, don't get involved officially with Mr. Gotrocks.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your bookstore to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Don't let it bother you. A man is rarely taken to the cleaners by a friendly-type gal who gives all the men the business. It's a nice, clean deal. Don't press it.

DEAR ABBY: Could you please tell me what to do with my two boys? They are seven and nine and they fight and argue constantly. Regardless of what they play, they fight. I have separated them, taken their toys away, whipped them and talked to them, but nothing works I am at my wits' end. Help me, please?

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It is normal for boys that age (especially brothers) to disagree, ignore them and they will refer to their own battles and be none the worse for it. You are doing yourself far more harm than they do each other.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 years old and go with a few girls now and then but I am pretty bashful for a guy my age. Please tell me, Miss Abby, how do you get a girl to kiss you? Do you ask her or just steal a kiss?

BASHFUL

DEAR BASHFUL: Steal a kiss and if she doesn't complain of the loss - return it!

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a mother-in-law who clutters your home up (she lives with us) with little knick-knacks that add nothing to your home, but make it look like a junk shop? She keeps putting up those little framed embroidered pictures, and she also found an antique water pipe which is hanging on our wall. She has placed three pairs of candle holders (with no candles yet!) on the buffet, fireplace mantle and an end-table and I could go on and on but what's the use? Her feelings are easily hurt, so I have been giving in to her, but I have to put a stop to this. How, please?

Todd-Orr Repeat Marriage Vows

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Finley Todd, daughter of Mrs. Brooke Daniel Todd, 875 E. Drive, Beaumont and the late Mr. Todd, to 2nd Lieutenant James Wilson Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson Orr, south of the city, was solemnized recently in Our Lady of Loreto Catholic Chapel in Pensacola, Fla., where Lt. Orr is stationed at the Naval Air Base.

Given in marriage by her brother, Robert Barr Todd, the double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Condit, base chaplain. Traditional organ and choral music accompanied the rites.

Tiers of white gladioli decorated the altar where the couple exchanged vows.

The bride wore a waltz-length gown of white mist taffeta fashioned on princess lines. The yoke and short sleeves were of alencon lace and pleats at the waist were released to form fullness for the skirt. Her veil of illusion was attached to a shell cap of matching lace embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Conrad E. Butts of Houston was her sister's only attendant. Her similarly-styled dress was of pale yellow organza and her hat was of the same material. She carried an arrangement of Shasta daisies.

Lt. Normal E. Patterson of Greensburg, Ind., now stationed at Pensacola, was best man.

A wedding reception was in the Mustin Beach Officers' Club, as was the rehearsal dinner the preceding night.

Mrs. Orr was graduated this Spring from Rice University. Mr. Orr attended schools in Pampa; was graduated in 1952 from Pampa High School and in 1957 from Rice University, where he received a BA and BS degrees in civil engineering and a commission as second lieutenant in the US Marine Corps.

Lt. and Mrs. Orr are making their home in Pensacola.

Innocent-Looking Bills Can Get Through At Adjournment

The Mad Rush

The last two weeks of Congress are like outside rows of corn they should never be planted. But no one has been able to solve the problem to do away with the outside rows of corn or the last two weeks of Congress. The only way that I can think of would be to pass a resolution the last thing before final adjournment cancelling and voiding everything which had been done for the previous two weeks. This would probably work for one or two years until someone conceived the idea of recessing two weeks before final adjournment.

Much constructive legislation is passed in the last two weeks of a session of Congress, but so much attention must be paid to the major bills with all of their complexities that it is an opportune time for innocent looking measures to be pushed through without sufficient debate. Many of these measures have money authorizations included that can add up to a rather stupendous sum. On one day during the last two weeks, the Senate passed 123 measures, treating matters all the way from the Virgin Islands to the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska and Guam, territory speaking, and all the way from a bill dealing with a church to another bill having to do with jail-type confinement, spiritually speaking. The House of Representatives had several very similar days.

The committees grind to a virtual standstill during the early part of these last two weeks, because it is obvious that it would be futile to report bills that would have little chance of coming before the Congress. When a committee reports a bill, it is necessary to take it before the Committee on Rules in order to get clearance for consideration of the bill by the full House of Representatives. The Rules Committee acts as somewhat of a traffic cop with regard to legislative matters, saying what may come before the Congress and what may not. Even without the bills which are reported by the committees during the last days, there is always a log jam of bills that have been reported earlier in the session which have not been acted on by the Rules Committee. Therefore, the pressure on the Rules Committee during the last few days becomes tremendous. It would be humanly impossible for that committee to do so much as consider a small part of the requests made for hearings.

Several highly controversial measures had not been reported out of their respective committees in time for the Rules Committee to act upon them prior to the final drive for adjournment. The chairmen of these committees were, therefore, expecting to get authorization to present the bills to the Congress for a vote during this last two weeks period. However, chaos seemed to be the order of the day when the Chairman of the Rules Committee turned up missing.

He is the only one who can call a meeting of that committee and, therefore, his presence was highly essential. There are much conjecture concerning his whereabouts. One Member suggested he might be on the submarine, Skate, underneath the North Pole. However, he turned up in good shape on Thursday morning and matters began to proceed in order. These several bills that were in controversy were the Housing Bill, the TVA Bill, the Minerals Stabilization Bill, and the Distressed Areas Redevelopment Bill. All of these involved big sums of money, and each of them should have been thoroughly and completely debated before the House. It is my fond hope that some day measures of this magnitude can be reached early in the session so that ample time may be had for full development of all of the problems involved. A full-dress debate in both the House and the Senate of such measures would certainly provide much better laws and, in my opinion, open the door to a better solution of some of the problems under consideration.

The farm bill that was passed hurriedly on last Thursday was a compromise bill. It will answer only a few of the problems that I think should be in the agricultural segment of our economy. Until we do face up to our problem and begin to provide solutions to the agricultural difficulties, we can expect the continued migration of farm families into the cities and the resulting increase in unemployment and social problems. I feel that the 86th Congress, which convenes in January, should go into this problem immediately and work out fair and sound legislation as early as possible so that ample time will be available within which to act.

WALTER ROGERS
Member of Congress
18th District of Texas

You've heard of the late, late show on teevie. Whelp, the following notes are of a similar tardy type, gathered from hither and yon on the 26th annual Texas Coaching School in general, and Pampa's next best thing since Sgt. York when it comes to marksmanship, Bill Brown, in particular.

Mr. Bill (Skippy) Morgan, who occasionally doubles for a wind tunnel, especially when the subject is Texas schoolboy athletics, had some words of cheer to say about Pampa's Mr. Brown.

Morgan, of course, is one of the top schoolboy sports scribes in the state, doing good deeds daily for the Dallas Morning News.

It was this red-faced wit who first initiated us into this racket, saving a damp-eared youngster from a life of keeping the Lufkin parking meters from running away, and introducing us to a life of mistreating typewriter keys with him on the Lufkin paper.

In a post-mortem yarn on the coaching school in its entirety, Morgan wrote, "Bill Brown of Pampa led the North to its 53-49 victory over the South and convinced a packed and sweltering Rice Gym crowd that he's a basketball player to remember. The smooth 6-footer is headed for the University of Texas."

It's doubly understandable why Morgan tacked on that last sentence. He's a Texas grad himself, and loves nothing better than booming the snare drums for the Longhorns. It's loyalty, man.

Brown & Black Beat 'Em Blue
In his game story on the North upset, Morgan wrote, "Pampa's Bill Brown, as colorful a performer as his name indicates, led the upstart upstarters in a tingling last-quarter performance that left the pro-South gathering of 5,300 with mixed emotions."

He continued, "The company of Black and Brown was an unanimous winner. After J. W. Black of Dallas Samuel had coached the North to its fourth straight victory, sports writers gave Brown an overwhelming vote as the game's most valuable player. "Brown totaled 22 of 28 ballots cast. Teammates Bobby Bernard of Graham and Phil Reynolds of Waxahatchie, who fouled out in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter, gained three and two votes respectively. Belton's Billy Wilbanks got the other vote, the only Southerner named in the balloting."

Morgan quoted the ever-calm Black as saying, "We outmanned them on the backboards. We were a little more ready mentally."

Bill added, "He (Black) didn't mean to imply the Southerners were mentally unbalanced, but he agreed they were physically unbalanced when Bill did it up Brown."

Wuz A 'Thunder Stealer'
Our old buddy wasn't the only writer high on Brown, however. Don Swanson of the Dallas Times Herald wrote, "Bill Brown, whose antics on the basketball court probably could earn him a job with the Harlem Globetrotters, is the talk of the 26th annual Texas High School Coaching School. The slender 6-footer from Pampa stole the thunder from a couple widely heralded 'big boys,' 6-6 Jan Loudermilk of Big Spring and Carroll Broussard of Port Arthur."

Swanson also wrote: "The hotshot from Texas' Pampa handle who is bound for the University of Texas, scored 12 points, got credit for four assists, and was the key man in the North's 53-49 upset victory. Although he was the game's top scorer, where Brown really excelled was in his ball handling. "He's one in a million," chirped his high school coach, Clifton McNeely, who watched the game from the stands. "Every once in awhile a boy comes along who can handle a basketball like Bill."

Wanted Free Throws Bad
There were other nice things penned about Brown across the state. Dave Cooney, writing for the Houston Chronicle said: "Pampa's Bill Brown, voted the most valuable player of the game by press box people, sat in a corner of the North dressing room and answered questions calmly. It was easily seen that he was a most happy fellow. Asked about his pressure pair of free throws, both successes, in the final minute of the game, Bill answered: "Well, I just wanted them real bad. I knew that if I could put them in we'd have the game, but I just didn't think about it much."

The points put the North in front, 52-49, with 46 seconds left. That's all. Late show's over. Let's have breakfast!

BIG POISON FIGHTING FOR LIFE AFTER ATTACK
OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Former Pittsburgh Pirate hitting star Paul (Big Poison) Wane, recently recovered from bouts with pneumonia and tuberculosis, today fought for his life following a heart attack.

Wane, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, was stricken here Tuesday.

Doctors said his condition was "satisfactory."

Wane's wife arrived here Tuesday night from Sarasota, Fla., where they make their home, to visit her husband at Lutheran Hospital.

The ex-Pirate great is one of eight living 3,000 hitters, having collected 3,152 safeties in his 20-year baseball career. He was known as "Big Poison" to the opposition because of his big bat, and his brother, Lloyd, also a Pittsburgh outfielder, was dubbed "Little Poison."

Wane currently is a batting instructor for the St. Louis Cardinals. He had returned to his hotel from an American Association game between the Cardinals'

Injury Jinx Still With John Darby

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
Daily News Sports Editor
If you'll put on your thinking cap, scratch real hard, and remember the 1953 Pampa High football season, one of the more successful Harvester grid years, you'll recall the misfortunes of John Darby.

The fleet and flashy halfback was twice bitten by the injury bug. He suffered a leg injury in the second game of the season against Fort Worth Paschal and was hobbled for several days.

After the '53 Harvesters had trimmed arch-enemy Amarillo, Darby was put out of commission for the rest of the year when he received a kidney injury on the third play from scrimmage against Abilene, a club the Big Green nipped, 7-4, thanks to the tire-tout of Bobby Wilhelm, who booted the winning extra-point.

Darby, who scored three times in the 1953 season-opener-to-lead Pampa past Austin of El Paso, 39-6, was also something of a speed demon around the cinder-track ovals.

He snared high point honors in the 1954 district track meet, winning the low hurdles and broad jump and running a leg on Pampa's second place 440-yard relay team, which had turned in a fine 43.1 earlier that spring. Darby competed in the state schoolboy track and field meet in Austin that spring as the Harvesters finished 9th with 19 points.

Upon graduation, Darby sailed on to better things at North Texas State in Denton where he scraped good glory.

The coming season was to be Darby's last year of eligibility with the Eagles. NTSTC coach, Odus Mitchell, who guided his Missouri Valley outfit to an even split in ten games last autumn, 5-5, had high hopes of Darby helping better that .500 mark.

It was late one night last week and Darby, who is attending summer school in Denton this year, was returning from a movie in nearby Fort Worth with a friend when the car in which he was riding was involved in an auto accident.

Darby was not seriously hurt, but it was at first thought he had fractured a vertebrae. At any rate, Daby was left with a painful back, and now must await the verdict of his physician on whether or not he'll ever be able to return to the gridiron.

Aussies Tough
CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI)—Australia's three tennis teams landed hard and apparently had the U.S. National doubles well in hand today after winning five matches in a single day.

The kangaroo kids shrugged off a shoulder injury to one of their members, the hard-hitting Bob Howe, and needed only one extra set to dispose of their first and second round opponents.

Virgil Favored
CHICAGO (UPI)—Virgil Akins was a strong favorite to score his fifth straight knockout when he enters the ring tonight for the first time since winning the welterweight title in June.

Akins' opponent in the televised non-title bout is Charley (Tombs) Smith, a 25-year-old battler from Los Angeles with high hopes of boosting his No. 8 ranking among the 147-pounders.

Pot Of Gold!
CHICAGO (UPI)—A pot of gold worth $32,900 will be waiting at the finish line for the winner of the Arlington Matron handicap this afternoon with Irish-bred Munch the early favorite.

The New York Yankees were ready to agree with the Tribe star after Tuesday night's 8-6 Indians victory in which Rocky first of all wiped out a 6-3 Yankee lead with a three-run homer and then kept the Yankees from regaining the lead when his throw from the outfield nailed Elston Howard at the plate.

Joe Gordon, new manager of the Indians, agreed with Colavito. "I still consider Rocky an outfielder," Gordon said. "But I may call on him from time to time to pitch in relief."

Colavito has yet to yield a hit in relief in one exhibition game performance and in one regular American League game.

COULD BOMBERS BLOW IT?

Yanks Laying Eggs While Chisox Put On The Steam

By JOHN GRIFFIN

Say now, can the New York Yankees possibly blow this American League pennant after all? Sounds fantastic, because the Yankees still have a 10½ game lead over the Chicago White Sox with just 35 games to go. But it's just an outside possibility today because the White Sox are on a winning streak that now has reached six games and the Yankees are on a four-game losing streak.

Dick Donovan's four-hit pitching kept the Sox surging Tuesday night with a 7-1 victory over Boston. At New York, homers by Rocky Colavito and Vic Wertz helped the Cleveland Indians hand the Yankees their ninth loss in the last 12 games, 8-6.

Happened Before
The greatest flopperoo of modern times was staged, of course, by the Brooklyn Dodgers of 1961. They blew a 13½-game lead in the last 44 games of the season in a tallspin that started on Aug. 11 and then lost to the New York Giants in a three-game pennant playoff on Bobby Thomson's historic homer.

New York had a 6-3 lead until Colavito blasted a three-run homer for the Indians in the fifth inning, his 28th, to tie the score. Wertz then won the game for the Tribe with a two-run homer in the seventh.

At Boston, Donovan missed a shutout only when Jackie Jensen hit his 33rd homer for the Red Sox in the fifth inning. It was Donovan's seventh win in the last eight starts and his 11th complete game of the year.

In other A. L. games, the Kansas City A's swept a two-night homer broke a 4-4 tie to give them fifth straight loss, 3-1. In the 10th inning, 4-3; Pittsburgh downed the Chicago Cubs, 4-3; St. Louis edged the Philadelphia Phils, 5-4; and the Los Angeles Dodgers swept a two-night twin bill from Milwaukee, 4-1 and 7-2, to end the Braves' seven-game winning streak.

Ned Garver won the opening game for the Orioles, his 11th victory, with a five-hitter in which he allowed only one earned run.

The A's slammed out 18 hits in the nightcap.

Roy Sievers paced the Senators with a 4-for-4, driving in two of Washington's three runs with a 34th homer and a single.

The Giants gained their 19th last inning victory of the season when Orlando Cepeda reached first base as Johnny Temple dropped his pop fly in a collision and then came all the way in on Willie Kirkland's triple.

Two-run homers by Bill Mazeoski and Dick Stuart gave the Pirates their victory over Chicago with Stuart's sixth-inning walk-off Taylor Phillips being the winner.

Hobie Landrith's eighth-inning homer broke a 4-4 tie to give the Cards their win over the Phils. Stan Musial and Gene Freese also homered for the Cards and Wal Post and Solly Hemus for the Phils.

TelePromTer Is Catching On Fast
By JACK CUDDY
United Press International
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Irving B. Kahn said today the financial success of the Floyd Patterson-Roy Harris heavyweight title fight will usher in a new era of regional, as well as national, theater television in boxing.

Kahn, president of the TelePromTer Corp., predicted that henceforth the managers of champions and contenders in various divisions will investigate the possibilities of closed-circuit TV purses before signing for important matches.

He explained, "The Patterson-Harris fight at Wrigley Field Monday night was one that had been generally underrated by the public, sports writers and oddsmakers. Yet, Patterson's purse from all sources will approximate $311,000 and Harris will get his guaranteed $100,000."

Battled Handicaps
The fight was a "cold product" that was hard to sell because of champion Patterson's year-long inactivity and Harris' comparative obscurity. Roy never had fought outside of Texas and never on television of any kind. And the bookies made challenger Roy a 6-1 underdog.

"Because of the fight's success in the face of innumerable handicaps, I'm convinced that the time has come for TelePromTer to try to establish a continuity of attractions by staging four of five big

Won't Promote Bouts
"Let me make it clear," he emphasized, "that we of TelePromTer will not be the promoters of any fights; but we will cooperate with any promoter—including the International Boxing Club—that can make and stage big-time matches. And we will help with guarantees for the champions, at least."

Concerning regional closed-circuit rights, he explained that a bout like next month's Los Angeles match between welterweights Carmen Basilio and Art Aragon could have been piped to theaters in three or four Far-Western states "with good profit to all concerned."

The Pampa Daily News YOUR FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, Freedom is not license. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, The Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Govt. Meddling

Not long ago the press was filled with cries of despair from the nation's railroads. What was wrong, and why, was said in a thousand ways and tens of thousands of writers and commentators, was that there was too much governmental regulation of the rail systems.

Fortunately, after much travail and much high-pressure pleading, the government of the United States took a minor step. It removed the war-time tax on the shipment of freight and thus reduced in one area alone the terrible problem of excessive taxation insofar as rails were concerned.

Now let us consider the nation's airlines. They, too, have been confronted with a mass of governmental red tape, regulations and taxation. For a number of years the airlines have felt the heavy hand of governmental control and under this weary burden have struggled to operate a business which, insofar as public demand was concerned, is one of the more important segments of the American economy.

As an example of the manner in which government interferes with the private operation of airlines, we have only to look at the extensive proceedings being conducted now by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB). This agency of government began hearings in November, 1957, and these hearings are still in progress.

Freedom And Survival

One of the most dangerous ideas which is drifting about thru many of a empty mind these days is that a order for us to survive in this crowded world, individual freedom must be surrendered.

This thought, of course, is promoted by big government. Nor is there any variation to that fact. Throughout all of history, large and powerful bureaucracies have lured and tractable for reasons relating to survival.

The blandishments along this line go something like this: "Such and such a country is a free nation, whereas we are a peaceful nation. But however much we want peace, we must recognize that blank country could bring war upon us thru hostile aggression. Consequently, and in order for us to remain free as a nation, we must individually surrender our freedom. Only when all people are willing to surrender their money, their time, their bodies, or their lives, can all the people be free."

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES Free Rider Question In the last issue I was quoting from Philip D. Bradley's section of the book on "Labor Unions and Public Policy."

"Since the union could not find employment for all of its membership at the going rates the question arose as to which members were to have full enjoyment of the high union wage standard which to have part-time employment and which to be unemployed. This is a problem that often confronts unions powerful enough to control the rate of pay, for they find inevitably that while they may control the rate they cannot control the number of workers employers will hire at that rate.

Leaves Some Unemployed "When a wage has been determined that leaves some amount of labor unemployed, problems are forced upon a union which may lead to another basic objective. . . There frequently may be internal struggle over the locus of unemployment." That conflicts of economic interest develop between the employed and the unemployed when unions use their power to set wage scales above the levels that would provide more employment is not always as apparent as in the present case.

Another Example Of Injury To Union Members Then the author relates the case of Steele vs. Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. Seems that the white members had formed a close union that permitted them to work and discriminate against the colored union. The case was carried to the courts and the court in this case ruled in favor of the exploited. But the author goes on to say:

What are the conditions which moved the court to extend its protection to the exploited group? Surely it is not the fact that a majority exploited a minority, for the situation complained of would not be improved if a minority, through control of the union apparatus, exploited the majority.

Is This Illegal Exploitation? Then the author goes on to say: "With this set of economic relationships in mind it is interesting to speculate as to how the court which provided the opinion in Steele v. Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co. would decide if a case presented to it in charge was made and established that a group of high seniority workers in control of a union enjoying exclusive bargaining rights under one of the labor acts had deliberately set a rate of pay which had as its consequences an increase in the incomes of the high seniority workers and the exclusion from employment of other workers, who through the accident of birth or for other reasons beyond their control, lack adequate seniority. Here there are present all the conditions which were necessary to invoke its protection. . ."

Can The Exploited Be Compelled To Finance Their Exploiters? "Fortunately, a solution of the problem here does not require a prior conclusion as to which types of union exploitation the court finds acceptable. For the basic issue does not raise the question as to whether, in a given situation, the court would or would not protect one workers group from exploitation by another. That was the question in Steele v. Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co., as conceivably it could be in many other situations, as, for example, in the hypothetical seniority case outlined above. Rather, involuntary unionism confronts the court with the question as to whether an exploited group of workers can be compelled to contribute financially and otherwise to the support of its exploiters, thereby, in reality, contributing to its own destruction."

Let us have done with the various political pleas which urge us to part from our freedom so that others may control our destinies. This is always the cry of the tyrant, whether said tyrant is concerned with his own petty office, or whether he is concerned with instituting a socialized economy.

Till Now—

Robert Allen Reports:

Voice Of The Arabs' To Be Dealt With By US

WASHINGTON — Dictator Gamal Nasser's hate-breeding and subversion-inciting Radio Cairo is finally going to be dealt with head-on. The Administration had decided on a two-pronged plan by means of which it will be possible to either muzzle the viciously anti-American "Voice of the Arabs," or to beat it at its own game with counter-propaganda.

To provide the facilities necessary for this, the National Security Council, headed by President Eisenhower, has approved the following: 500,000 watt transmitter that will be capable of beaming round-the-clock broadcasts to all Middle East and African countries. This $27,000,000 radio station, which will take several years to build, will be located on the East Coast of the U.S.

Pending completion of this giant transmitter, the U.S. will lease powerful ones now available in France, Italy and Algeria. Among them is a 100,000 watt transmitter that could give the virulent "United Arab Republic Network" a lot more competition than it is now getting from "Voice of America."

The following morning, the President presided at a Security Council meeting attended by George V. Allen, director of the U.S. Information Agency. It was at this session that final approval was given the plan to aggressively combat the now overwhelmingly dominant jamming and broadcasting operations of Cairo and Moscow in the seething Middle East and Africa.

ALLING HERO — General George Marshall, World War II leader and author of the historic Marshall Plan, is undergoing treatment for an ailment at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital. Now 78, the former Secretary of State is not in immediate danger. . . The Senate Appropriations Committee, in its report on the new $39 billion plus military budget, makes special mention of the importance of maintaining the Marine Corps at 200,000. The events in the Middle East during the past weeks have established beyond question, in our considered judgment, that the security of the nation demands that the Marine Corps be maintained at a minimum strength of 200,000. . .

Looking Sideways

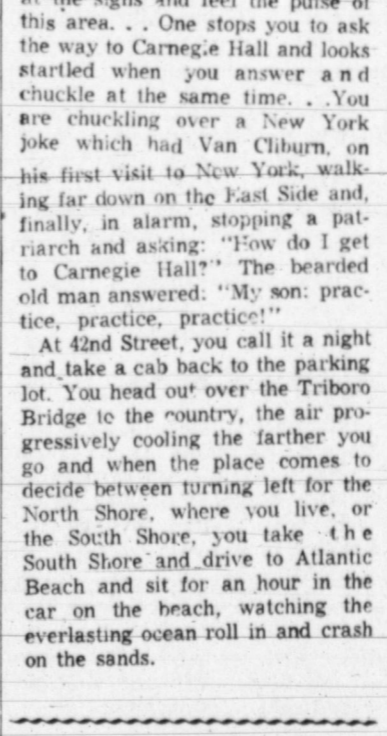

By Whitney Bolton NEW YORK — MIDNIGHT MEANDERS: The night is warm and thick, layers of still, muclaginous air lie heavily on the town, and you take some small joy that this is so because it lets you use the word "muclaginous," a word you have loved since you first heard it when you were 7 years old and for some unaccountable, less than cosmic reason you always have enjoyed it as a word—proving that Freud right there at that point was wrong because he held that oppressive, physically descriptive words of unenjoyable fact were words shunted into forgetfulness. . . You turn onto Broadway at 52nd Street and not a soul you know is in sight and it being August you don't expect to see anyone you know. . . They are all in Paris, Mexico City, Istanbul, Bar Harbor, Southampton or a dozen other rewarding locations. . . And very smart of them it is, too, to be there.

Half-way down the block you run into peripatetic Tom Weatherly, the hairless bard of Broadway. . . Mr. Weatherly is harboring a secret piece of personal philosophy. . . "I have discovered a barometer by which the true collapse of Hollywood can be measured," he intones. "Weird party-givers who do not work for the movies vanish. I knew that Hollywood was headed for disaster when Rex St. Cyr vanished, when old Atwater Kent died, and it was certainly true when Dorothy di Frasso quit picking up the tabs. Now she is dead. Kent was a funny old man with a lot of money who got some dubious kind of wallop out of paying for $25,000 parties. Di Frasso had to make a splash and St. Cyr was always a mystery. All three were hangers-on at the fringes of movies. They are gone—and so is Hollywood, as such. 'Selah!' . . . Well, seah to him, too, but it's pretty thin philosophy.

At 49th Street you meet Mitchell M. Segal, who makes heels for women's shoes. These heels are unbreakable and Mr. Segal is proud of that fact, but instead of launching into a commercial discussion of his lifetime heels, he tells you that he is low in spirit this night because Paris fashion has decreed that high heels will be replaced by low heels and "every-one knows what a nice, high, thin, spiky heel does for a woman's legs." Segal is not a man to keep his nose to the wheel machines, but wanders off into hisellectual notes of high potency at times. He tells you that for centuries heels have enhanced women's looks, stature and posture. He is grateful, he adds, to little, charming Catherine de Medici who "nailed the first heels to her little shoes so that she could be almost as tall as her husband, Henry II, and that was more than 400 years ago." . . . You are not in a mood to look up whether (a) this Catherine did in fact marry Henry or (b) whether she invented high-heeled shoes under those circumstances or (c) whether it was 400 or 500 years ago, but you thank Segal for this nugget of history. Segal, frustrated by the news from Paris, gets into a passing taxi and goes, you presume, home.

You get as far as 44th Street before encountering anything but stranger—in the town, in pairs, quartets, octets and whole groups, visitors from the farthest and nearest corners of the United States, happily trading Broadway to look at the sign and feel the pulse of this area. . . One stops you to ask the way to Carnegie Hall and looks startled when you answer and a chuckle at the same time. . . You are chuckling over a New York joke which had Van Cliburn, on his first visit to New York, walking far down on the East Side and, finally, in alarm, stopping a patriarch and asking: "How do I get to Carnegie Hall?" The bearded old man answered: "My son: practice, practice, practice!"

At 42nd Street, you call it a night and, take a cab back to the parking lot. You head out over the Triboro Bridge to the country, the air progressively cooling the farther you go and when the place comes to decide between turning left for the North Shore, where you live, or the South Shore, you take the South Shore and drive to Atlantic Beach and sit for an hour in the car on the beach, watching the everlasting ocean roll in and crash on the sands.

Much Research Is Needed On Care Of A Girl Baby By HENRY McEMORE

Since my daughter, Megan, was born a month ago, I have read everything I've written by Dr. Spock, including two letters to his family when he was a freshman in college. I have Spocks before my eyes. But if you think the good doctor, or any other of his profession, provides all the answers that the inexperienced father of a new daughter sorely needs, then you have two more things coming.

The Doctor Says:

Ulcers of the stomach, of which there are two main varieties, are usually classed among the chronic disorders. Much has been learned about this interesting condition over the past years.

Among other things, the undesirable effect of nervous strain and emotional upset has come to be increasingly well-recognized. Not all likelihood, the nerves are not the only cause of ulcers. There are certainly other influences which are important once they have developed.

Even now the victim of a stomach ulcer can probably do more to help himself by trying to avoid excitement, anger or other emotional upset than the doctor can. Many treatments have been and are being used for ulcers. Almost all of them are aimed at the stomach itself, where the ulcer lies, and at the nervous cause.

One of the most common treatments consists of frequent feedings of small meals, alternating with milk and cream and alkalis or other substances which decrease or neutralize the acids. Certain gelatin-like substances called mucins have a similar effect because they are supposed to coat the area of the ulcer and protect it from the irritating acid in the stomach.

In the last few years many people have been operated on for ulcer by cutting a nerve known as the vagus which goes to the stomach. It is not accurate to call it the "worry nerve," but it this operation seems useful in many cases of ulcer which have not responded to other treatment. One correspondent asked recently how to avoid getting ulcers. I wish I knew.

Probably those who eat regularly and well, and those who lead calm lives unperturbed by the clamors of their work or in their home stand a better chance of avoiding ulcers than those who do not. But this is about as far as one can go.

precious than a boy baby — is cold. The only advice I have found is far from satisfactory. Touch her and if she is cold to the touch she is cold. Or look at her legs and feet and if they are blue and mottled, then she is too cold. What kind of business is that? That's like pointing out a man going over Niagara Falls and saying "He's in danger." What the new father needs is some way to determine exactly, to the last 10,000th of an ounce, the exact amount of cover to put over a little girl to keep her not too warm, not too cold, but heavenly comfortable. Nothing else will satisfy him. Until he learns this, he is going to stay up all night, first putting covers on, and then pulling them off. No authority I have read on the subject of girl babies gives anywhere near an adequate answer as to how to determine when one is crying from hunger, or crying from boredom.

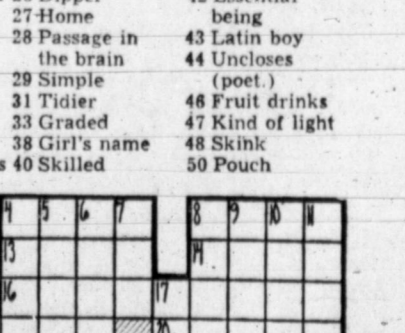

Until the hunger cry is isolated, so that at the first sound of it the father knows it is from hunger and nothing else, neither he nor his wife is going to have any peace. A hard-hearted man, indeed, to roll over and go back to sleep when you weren't dead sure what was causing the angel to cry.

As matters now stand, there is only one thing to do — heat a bottle and offer it to her. You gotta play it safe, even if you are so sleepy you fall halfway down the stairs three times a night. You gotta be sure, even if you feel inside that Miss Baby couldn't possibly want any more formula, and is going to refuse it when you offer it to her.

Refuse it she nearly always does, but how is a man going to know? Much research and study is needed on this gap in girl baby care. Then there is the question of whether to put booties on them or not. There are two schools of thought on this matter — the bootie school and the anti-bootie school. Mary and I have followed this problem by putting a bootie on one of Megan's feet, and leaving the other one bare. And we are keeping a chart on which foot seems to be doing better.

No one seems to know for sure about the cutting of a tiny girl baby's hair. Megan has a splendid patch of golden hair at the back of her head, and from a certain angle she looks a little like William Jennings Bryan in his heyday. Should a tiny girl be allowed to look like an orator? We don't know, and can't find an answer anywhere.

Still, I don't suppose we should go crazy quite yet. Megan is growing stronger and prettier and sweeter every day, which is certainly more than I can say for her parents.

TANK DEFENSE—A section of a railroad tank car is lowered into a hole on the grounds of the Gerald Federgreen family of Topeka, Kans. They will use it as a tornado shelter and say neighbors will be welcome. The shelter, which cost $250, can accommodate 25 adults.

UP, UP, UP—Streaking for altitude in vertical flight is one of the U.S. Air Force's deadliest weapons—the Boeing IM-99A Bomarc. Now in production, the guided missile is designed to intercept and destroy enemy aircraft before they reach American borders. It is capable of supersonic flight and has a range of 200 to 250 miles. An advanced model will increase this to more than 400 miles.

Jayne Mansfield, Expecting, Gives Views On Brigitte, Spain

By VERNON SCOTT
 UPI Hollywood Correspondent
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jayne Mansfield bounced back to movie-town after three months in Europe for a new movie, unchanged except for the fact that she is expecting a baby.

Mansfield-like, she had observations on the current scene, her travels, other glamour girls, and impending motherhood.

Jayne's views:

On Brigitte Bardot: "Who's she?"

On furnishing her new eight-bedroom, 13-bath house: "I'm having an awful time. Mickey (Hargitay, her husband) and I bought two Texas-size beds — they're twice as big as king-size — and we can't get them into the bedrooms. So we're sleeping in the entrance hall."

On sack-dresses: "They've saved me from buying maternity clothes. I've bought more than 20 sacks, and no one can tell I'm expecting. Every girl in the country could be pregnant, but with the new styles who can tell?"

On Spain, where she worked on location for two months: "Very quaint. The people over there are so Spanish."

On England, where interior scenes were filmed: "They aren't as reserved as people think. Even Englishmen behave like men when the right girl is around."

On her career: "I play an outdoor girl in my latest—'The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw.' It was the only American western ever shot in Spain. My next picture is going to be pure drama."

On the expected baby: "It's due in December, but I don't care whether it's a boy or a girl so long as it looks like Mickey."

On glamour: "Women are much more radiant and happy when they're expecting. After this one arrives we plan to have others. Gosh, knows, we certainly have enough bedrooms in the house for a large family."

SIGN HOME-AND-HOME SERIES
 IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — The University of Iowa assured itself a Pacific Northwest football opponent for 1963-64 by signing a home-and-home playing agreement with the University of Washington. Iowa plays Washington in Seattle in 1963 and hosts the 1964 Iowa City game.
