US Battalion Will Leave Lebanon

By RUSSELL JONES
United Press International
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Adm. James I. Holloway announced today that a 1,700-man battalion of U.S. Marines will embark Wednesday in the first withdrawal of American forces that landed here last month.

He said the partial withdrawal is taking place in agreement with outgoing President Camille Chamoun and his successor Maj. Gen. Fuad Chehab that "there has been material improvement in the internal and external security situation of Lebanon."

The battalion's pull-out will leave about 12,000 U.S. Marines and paratroopers still ashore here. The Marines will depart by landing craft over the same beaches they hit 27 days ago in the first American military intervention since Korea.

The token withdrawal had been expected. The air began clearing some weeks ago when Chehab, commander of the Lebanese army, was elected president by Parliament as a compromise candidate of government and rebel leaders.

Holloway's announcement of the pullback was the decision taken by the President of the United States and under instructions of the defense secretary.

The spokesman who read Holloway's announcement said he was under specific instructions not to comment or elaborate on the statement.

The announcement came as Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik prepared to leave for New York for the United Nations debate on the Lebanese situation.

Malik's flight, the time of which was a closely guarded secret, may find him arriving in New York today.

Atomic Warhead Exploded

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A missile-borne atomic warhead was exploded today as part of the "Hardtack" test series over the Pacific proving grounds.

The explosion, the 16th disclosed since the test series began last spring, was announced jointly by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Defense.

The test was held in the area of Johnston Island, in the AEC's Pacific test ground. The brief announcement said: "The test detonation of a nuclear warhead in a missile occurred about the Johnston Island area in the Pacific today."

"The test is part of the Hardtack nuclear weapons test series." Size of the weapon tested was not disclosed, but it was believed to be smaller than a nuclear warhead fired in a similar shot on Aug. 6.

A danger zone 435 miles in radius had been set up around Johnston Island for today's explosion. That was 85 miles less than the area established for the previous shot.

In the Aug. 6 test, the flash from the warhead was so bright that it startled residents of Hawaii some 700 miles away.

Innocent Girl Is Shot In Gang War

FORT WORTH (UPI)—A 14-year-old girl dashed into the darkness to save her dog Monday night and caught a shotgun blast in the face as gang war broke out among Fort Worth's "second generation" hoodlums.

Carol Ann Pettigrew was in fair condition today with 17 pellet wounds in her face, chest, shoulders and abdomen.

Two ex-convicts, apparently the targets of the ambush on a quiet South Side residential street, escaped unscathed. They were arrested for questioning.

Police called the shooting a "battle of pimps"—procurers and keepers of prostitutes. Investigators said it was a lucky that more innocent bystanders weren't shot.

Police Sgt. Ringlander identified the men who were ambushed as Richard Hattie Garcia, 23, an ex-convict, and Larry Wade Gungulosa, 22, Garcia, who has more than 40 arrests here, is a ringleader of the "second generation" of gangsters in Fort Worth, police said.

The last member of the top ranks of hoodlums—Jack (the Bomber) Nesbit, was shot to death by his girl friend last year. The rest of the gang exterminated each other.

Control Asked For Nuclear By-Products

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International
BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—A British radiation expert called on all nations today to submit to international control over the deadly radioactive by-products of nuclear power plants.

Dr. Robert H. Mole of Harwell, England, predicted that sooner or later "serious attempts will be made to cheapen the cost" of atomic power at the expense of precautions against radiation injury.

Mole is participating in the first international congress of radiation research being held at the University of Vermont with nearly 1,000 of the world's foremost radiation experts in attendance.

The Pampa City Commissioners in their weekly meeting today paid the monthly bills, which totaled $25,076.82.

The commissioners decided to study a request by J. A. McLain 1000 E. Browning, to let him turn his porch into a spare room. McLain didn't know he needed a building permit to build the spare room until he had it about half-way finished.

The commissioners voted to transfer $15,000 from the water and sewer fund to the general fund. Ordinance 503 was read and passed on the third and final reading. This ordinance will bring in parts of the Fraser annexes three and four.

Hereford Breeders Set Event

Directors of the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Association are busy with plans for the annual HBA Barbecue-Picnic Aug. 28 in Rube Thompson Park, according to Clyde Carruth, president.

Today, invitations went out from the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office to Association members and guests.

Music, unofficial cattle judging, speeches and pie-eating contests will be features of the program, climaxed by the big barbecue. This will be an occasion for members to get together and "talk cattle" in advance of the annual show and sale to be held Mar. 2, 3, 4, 1959.

County agents of the "Top Junior Livestock Show area will bring some of the top calves of the area to the barbecue to be used in the "Just For Fun" judging.

Emmett Lefors will furnish the beef for the barbecue, served by Frank Carter and Bill Graham. The Park is located four miles east of Miami on Highway 60.

Absentee Ballots Come In

Absentee ballots are accumulating in the Gray County Clerk's office for the election run off Aug. 23. Deciding the wins in three races, this second Democratic primary will set the stage for the General Election Nov. 4.

To date, 31 have voted in the county clerk's office. Of the 25 ballots mailed out, one has come in. Voters, who expect to be out of town Aug. 23, will have until midnight Aug. 19 to cast their absentee ballot.

G. H. Kyle and G. L. "Nate" Lunsford are the candidates for county commissioner, Precinct 2. For Precinct 4, McLean, the ballot carries John W. Dwyer and O. L. Tibbets.

W. R. Combs and Mrs. Gladys Pafford face a run off for Justice of the Peace, Lefors, Precinct 1. Carried over from the first primary July 26 are J. Edwin Smith of Harris County and Robert W. Hamilton of Midland County, contenders for the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Grocer Catches Falling Child

NEW YORK (UPI)—A grocer wounded in World War II, limped across a street Monday just in time to catch a 2-year-old boy who had fallen from a third-story window.

Benjamin Krocak, 54, was jolting up a case of milk in front of his Brooklyn store when he heard the child's screams. Then he saw little Stephen May clinging with one arm to a third-floor window ledge.

Krocak crossed the street in time to brace himself before the child fell into his arms.

Neither the child nor Krocak was injured.

The boy's mother was working in the kitchen at the time, police said.

US Is Ready To Give Mideast Plan

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles takes personal command today of the Western campaign to guarantee Middle East peace and security at an emergency session of the general assembly.

Dulles planned immediate conferences with U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd who was flying in today from London after talks with Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir on the Middle East tension.

The United States was reported ready to present a solid plan for Middle East economic development. Both British and American officials were said to favor a strong U. N. police force to maintain peace in the Middle East. It appeared the actual program might be presented by President Eisenhower.

Exact details of the American plan were a tightly held secret, but informed sources in Washington said they will be unfolded only if it becomes clear the session wants to adopt a constructive approach to life the Middle East out of political and economic chaos.

Israel Warns Nasser
The U. S. plan was believed fluid enough to allow for last-minute changes after consultations with allies and after State Department troubleshooter Robert Murphy confers in Washington today with the President.

Murphy left Paris today after a three-week tour in which he tried to restore peace in the Middle East. Washington sources said he informed President Gamal Abdel Nasser—that Israel might act if King Hussein of Jordan were overthrown.

Mrs. Meir told London correspondents Monday Israel "would have to consider seriously security measures" if Jordan were occupied by Nasser's United Arab Republic or by Iraq. Jerusalem newspapers also have hinted at such retaliatory action, aimed at winning back Jordan-held Israeli territory.

Soviet Position Same
While Dulles flew here from Washington to lead the Western drive for peace in the Middle East, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was reportedly lining up more support from the uncommitted Asian and African nations for the Soviet position.

Tuesday and Wednesday, between 8 and 12 o'clock in the mornings and between 1 and 4 in the afternoons.

Superintendent Huelyn Laycock will preside at the annual breakfast for members of the faculty and school board and the auxiliary employees, Thursday, Aug. 28, at 7:30 a.m. in the Skellytown cafeteria.

After the breakfast, a general faculty meeting will be held; group meetings will be held in each school Thursday afternoon.

Friday and Saturday, for final planning.

Grade school pupils will register on Tuesday, Sept. 2, and classes will begin in all three schools on that day. Classes in the high school and the White Deer Elementary School will begin at 8:15 each morning and dismiss at 3:35 p.m. In Skellytown Elementary School, classes will begin at 8:50 a.m. and dismiss at 4 p.m. Latin is the only course that will be added to the high school curriculum.

Seven new teachers have been employed this year. Five of these are replacements; two have been added because of an increase in enrollment.

Replacing Mrs. E. R. Weeks, who has retired as counselor, will be Miss Norma Y. Smith, who will also teach English in the high school. A graduate of Sul Ross College, Alpine, she has studied at Columbia University and has almost completed her work toward a Master's degree. She has taught at LaMarque two years; McCamey, four years and in a private school in Houston last year.

Lee O. Hamby, of Southeastern State College, Durant, Okla., will replace Calvin Strickland as instructor in mathematics; and William R. Burcham, who has a B.S. degree from Southwestern State College, Weatherford, Okla., will teach mathematics and science. Burcham served as educational director of the First Methodist Church in Clinton last year, but both he and Hamby are beginning teachers. Mr. Strickland resigned in order to attend the University of Illinois on a national mathematics scholarship.

Others teachers in the high school are: Donald Bradley, vocational agriculture; Lowell Bynum, band; Sam Christy, driver education, physical education, head basketball coach, assistant football coach; Miss Claude Evely, journalism, English, Latin; John R. Driskill, shop; Ronald Gooch, science; David Grayson, social studies; Otis Holladay, mathematics, physical education, head football coach, assistant basketball coach; Mrs. Marguerite Hudgins, business education; Mrs. Horace Ledbetter, art, physical education; Bob C. Moore, English, girls' basketball coach; Hobart McDonald, speech, chorus; Miss Geraldine Rumpy, homemaking; and Mrs. J. T. Webster, librarian.

John T. Morris will replace H. T. Peacock, now of Arlington, as principal of White Deer Elementary School. Morris received his M.A. degree at North Texas State College, Denton, and has been superintendent at Rails for the past five years. Previous to that, he was an administrator at O'Donnell and at Claude.

Mrs. Morris comes here from Rails; and Mrs. Dunlap, from Buena Vista, Ariz. They are replacing Mrs. H. T. Peacock, who will teach in Arlington; and Miss Stella Kiser, who will teach in Pampa.

Miss Wanda Hightower will teach a combination first and second grade. She is a graduate of North Texas State College. This is her first year as a teacher. Returning as teachers in the White Deer Elementary School are Mrs. Frank Anderson, Frank Anderson, Thomas V. Bates, Mrs. Sterling Bearden, Mrs. Marion DeFever, Mrs. John Driskill, Mrs. Julius Meaker, Sr., and Mrs. J. B. O'Keefe.

No changes have been made in the Skellytown Elementary School faculty.

1959 will exceed this year's output by 25 per cent. Steel magazine predicted. The metalworking week-ly said the industry will make and sell 5,500,000 cars next year, against 4,400,000 this year. It said the main reason for the increase is that fewer cars will be in dealers' hands at the beginning of the year.

Contract awards for new construction this year will top the level of last year by 8 per cent. Engineering News-Record predicted. Contracts in 1948 will total $19,480,000,000 and next year should reach $20,150,000,000 or the second highest for any year on record, the magazine said.

Steel scrap prices fell as much as $3 a ton in Pittsburgh as the result of a slowdown in buying.

Prices for the steelmaking material also were easier in Detroit and Chicago.

Excellent crops will be harvested in most areas of the Midwest despite heavy rains, floods and a cold spring and early summer, according to a United Press International survey. Wheat and corn showed excellent overall prospects and most rain and flood damage appeared to be small crops.

British Philosopher Outline Peace Plan

Editors Note: United Press International Vice President and Associate General Manager Kingsbury Smith is on a fact-finding tour of Europe.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
United Press International
MINNFORD, Wales (UPI)—Failure of Russia and the West to agree on a summit meeting coupled with the H-bomb's threat to survival of the human race makes it imperative today to educate mankind to renounce war as world suicide.

This belief was expressed by Lord Bertrand Russell, world famed philosopher, in an exclusive interview in his hillside Welsh home overlooking the Irish Sea.

"The people of the world must be made to realize," he said, "that a nuclear world war will mean an end to the human race. That must be drummed into their heads."

"The optimists say that if a major war breaks out in the near future, a few people may survive in Patagonia. Perhaps, but the long-range radioactive effects of a nuclear conflict would probably make the world uninhabitable for even the few who might survive in Patagonia. It is virtually certain that with the way new weapons are being developed, war within a few years from now would mean the end of mankind."

Says Leaders Mislead
The British nobleman who was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in World War I for his pacifist views said it was dangerously misleading for Soviet and Western leaders to give people the impression that their respective sides would survive an atomic war.

"The Russian and Chinese leaders surviving a nuclear war, and I noted that Mr. Dulles recently said the West would probably win a 'hot' war, though it seems to be losing the cold one. Both sides are misleading the people with such talk.

"The devastation and long-range effects of a nuclear world war would destroy civilization."

Lord Russell warned it would be a grave mistake to think that any major war among the great powers could be confined to conventional weapons, even if the production and use of nuclear ones had been previously prohibited and stopped by international agreement.

Renounce All War
"It should be made clear to the people," he added, "that no matter what international agreements might be signed to abolish nuclear weapons, a major war among the great powers would develop into a nuclear conflict. The moment one side was threatened with defeat, it would start producing nuclear weapons in the hope of saving itself."

"That is one of the reasons why mankind must renounce war just as the sane individual in a civilized society has renounced private murder."

The noted "free-thinker," who has been a controversial figure for more than half a century, said he doubted the present Soviet leadership would deliberately precipitate a nuclear conflict with the West, but he recognized the danger that either side might blunder into a world war by miscalculation.

"While the balance of military power remains what it is, and there are no new political circumstances, I doubt that the Soviet Union will inaugurate a nuclear war with the West," he said.

Not Sure About U.S.
"I am not, however, sure that there are no circumstances in which the United States would not do so. If the Soviet Union precipitated an ordinary, or conventional, war somewhere and American forces became involved, they might resort to the use of nuclear weapons if they were in danger of being defeated."

Asked what the common people could do to persuade the big powers to conclude and implement an effective international agreement to outlaw and control nuclear war, Lord Russell replied:

PEACOCK A real show-off, he prefers traveling in a flashy convertible, fancy tail and all. When he sees a female he cuts copers.

SWALLOW This guy operates on alcohol and drinks on the wing. You never know whether he's going to zig or zag. Neither does he.

SWIFT This bird is a fast flier. He zooms, darts, dives and glides at breakneck speeds. Give him room—so it's not your neck.

GANDER The male goose honks, flaps his wings and stretches his long neck from side to side to see everything but the road.

LOVE BIRD This species always travels in pairs, but they fly so close it's hard to tell if there's one of them or two. They're oblivious.

SPREAD EAGLE This big fellow has quite a wingspread. He sets himself down in the middle of the road and just blithely plods along.

PLUME CRAZY DRIVERS—Bird watchers can put away their field books and glasses when it comes to the varieties sketched above. Though they're like nothing ever seen in nature, each is easily recognizable. All of us have observed them—too often—on highways and streets. The description under each species was provided by the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service, which made the odd ornithological survey in observance of National Farm Safety Week.

Social Security Is Topic At LUA Meeting

Slides illustrating the fallacies in the present Social Security System of the United States were shown at yesterday's noon meeting of the Top O' Texas Life Underwriters Association.

The slides, showing how out of proportion the amount of money one might be eligible to receive is to the amount he paid in, were narrated by Ott Shewmaker.

They gave examples, wherein the amount of money paid into the system by different individuals would not represent one-fourth the amount they would be eligible to receive. The fund which is supposed to take care of Social Security payments is not large enough to take care of payments already promised, the slides pointed out.

The meeting, called to order by Neve Secret, president, had representatives from various civic clubs in town present. On hand were Mrs. Hobbs and Mrs. V. Anderson from the Altrusa Club, Joel Plunk from the Rotary Club, Bob Hamilton from the Evening Lions Club, Ray Fowler from the Optimist Club, and Mrs. Still and Mrs. Harmon from the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Others present included local insurance men not yet members of the organization, John McCausland was introduced into the association as a new member.

Showing the slides were Harry Gordon, Bennie Waller gave the invocation and E. L. Henderson introduced the guests.

CONTROL

So far nobody has come up with a satisfactory solution of what to do with the frighteningly hot potato of radioactive wastes from atomic plants. Not even the deepest ocean trenches seem to be safe dumping places for these wastes.

Scatter them carelessly and you scatter the seeds of cancer, leukemia and premature death. Industrially advanced countries like Britain, Canada and the United States can afford to lock up the more intensely radioactive wastes indefinitely in costly tanks.

The danger that someone will try to cut the cost of nuclear power by dumping wastes without regard to consequences will become increasingly acute as demand for the new source of power grows, Mole believes. He said this probably would be especially true in under-developed nations.

"This danger," Mole said, "makes the world really a small place."

If one country is careless about waste disposal, all countries will suffer, he said.

"I believe," he added, "that there should be international control of atomic wastes and some abdication of individual countries' independence."

Although this method led to some confusing moments during the first week of Hoffa's on-again-off-again testimony, there was no mistaking the committee's goal. It was trying to prove the Teamsters Union is honeycombed with unsavory characters in high places and operated with little regard for the interests of either its own membership or the public.

These charges Hoffa has denied.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY, I'm married to one of those women who has a "green thumb." She's got the house, all the windows, and porch (front and back) so cluttered up with little tiny pots and plants there is no room to turn around. The house smells like a funeral parlor and the place looks like a flower shop. She runs around watering morning and night and her conversations are full of African violets (she even belongs to a Club for this one) and the thirty varieties of ivy. How can I get her to give up her indoor gardening and pay me some mind?

WILTED
 Dear Wilton: Something other than the plants are turning green — appreciate your wife's talent and glad she has a hobby that is down to earth and keeps her home.

DEAR ABBY: I am just an old man who watches the world go by under his window. I am 78 years old and sit in my rocking chair and see a great many things as my window faces a square where children play. Every morning at 10 o'clock one mother comes outside bringing a glass of milk to her 12-year-old son. I can see the poor little fellow turning red because his friends on the block make fun of him. He takes an awful teasing as he chokes down the milk as fast as he can. Doesn't this mother know that she is doing him more harm than good?

OLD OBSERVER
 Dear Old: The milk of human kindness would give more nourishment to this sensitive twelve-year-old boy. Why don't you tell the mother to call the lad in and let him drink his milk privately?

DEAR ABBY: What makes a man want to grow a beard? It can't be because he dislikes shaving because he spends twice as much time trimming his beard as he would if he took a clean shave. My boyfriend has had his beard for two months now and I don't care for it. At first it was a novelty, but now every time I kiss him it is like falling face down on a broom. How can I get him to shave it off?

NANCY
 Dear Nancy: Kissing a man with a beard must be a ticklish business. Tell him plainly that you are not eager for his beard.

DEAR ABBY: I am a mother of three children, 8, 6 and 4. My husband deals out very strict punishment when the children disobey and that is my problem. He tells them they are not to leave the house for a full day. That means he goes to work and leaves them for me to listen to their complaints and arguments and crying all day. I think if he is going to put this kind of punishment on the kids he should stay home and see that it is enforced and not leave it for me to do. I have plenty of work-around-here-without-being a policeman. Please tell me how to explain it to him.

NO POLICEMAN
 Dear No: Explain it to him, as you have explained it to me. There must be a way your husband can punish the children without also punishing you!

Design Is Articulation Of Quality For Gadgets Must Be Good To Look At, Too

By AILEEN SNOODY NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA) — The man who builds a better mousetrap may not be on the road to fame and fortune after all. It may be a better trap functionally, but if it doesn't look like a better one, a housewife won't buy it.

And this, says silvery-haired Montgomery Ferar, is where a designer steps in. Ferar, and his partner, Carl Sundberg, have been making home tasks easier and gadgets prettier for the last 25 years through appliance designing. Design, according to them, is the articulation of quality for most people nowadays. And, unfortunately, if your product is good but doesn't look good most shoppers will pass it by.

What is good and what is new on the counters are two different things, Ferar points out.

As he puts it, "We're all for newness. But we don't believe products are new just because they're decorated like a Christmas tree."

"In designing," Ferar continued, "we work on the theory that the American public has good taste. If an item is intrinsically ugly, people will reject it."

He further points out that a consumer is more likely to purchase an item that is an improvement or evolution from something familiar... like a refrigerator with sliding baskets. But, generally, they can't take the shock of something completely new.

Which seems a paradox since in the next breath he admits Americans expect something new every day in all areas.

"Americans are more flexible now than they were 25 years ago. But, inflexibility does give us a headache."

A large stumbling block for a designer is that people don't like to give up a routine, or something familiar.

"This established work pattern plagues us," he says, "in designing home appliances. And it is very strong in industry. We find workers resisting changes on typewriters, or adding machines, for example, even when the change is good."

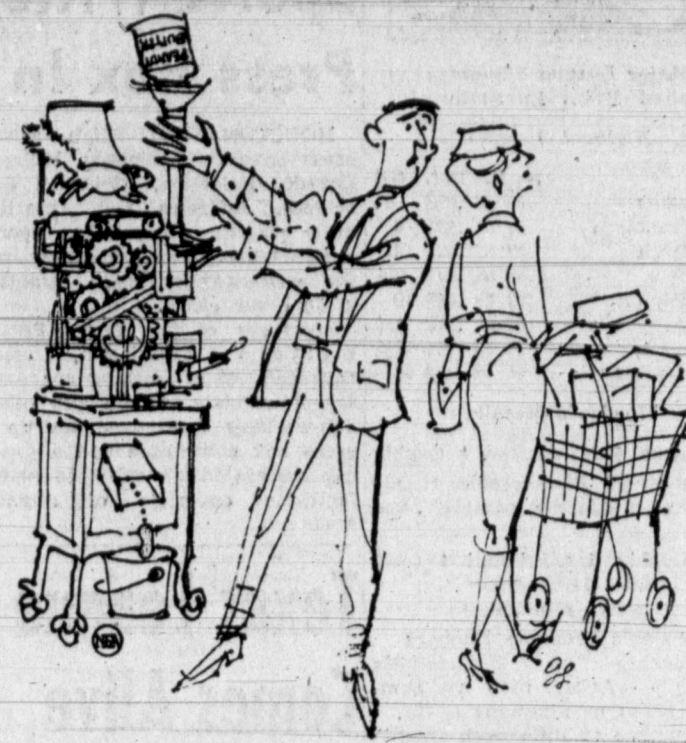

Women designers on their staff in Detroit help Sundberg. Ferar over some pitfalls men might overlook.

"However, we've found," Ferar reveals, "a woman needs a logical reason to justify buying one item over another. So in designing, you need a demonstrable gadget on an item for emotional appeal. But basically appliances must be useful."

This can lead to hair-pulling times when a good functional aid is developed for the housewife — such as a rising basket in a freezer — and she won't buy it.

But she does coax her husband into buying appliances covered with a multitude of keys and switches, and then use only a few of these time-saving attachments.

Coming to their aid Ferar explains that "most housewives utilize their appliances to the farthest degree. But, there are a few gadgets too complicated for them. We

Even if it works efficiently, a gadget as ugly as this would never appeal to the shopping housewife.

MEAT COOKERY Quiz

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
 A. Rolled Rib of Beef.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
 A. It comes from the rib section and is the boneless rolled roast after the rib and backbone have been removed from the standing rib of beef. It contains the meaty eye of the rib with some fat distributed throughout.

Q. How is it prepared?
 A. It is prepared by roasting, a dry heat method of meat cookery. It is roasted in a 300° F. oven allowing between 32 and 48 minutes per pound, depending on the degree of doneness desired.

 Pampa News Women's Editor

August seems to be bug's business month. Mosquitoes, bees, wasps, hornets and chiggers — all the "bittey" kind are out to get their last stings of the season, while another group seems bent on bombarding our windshields.
 Well, here are a few ways to alleviate insect troubles — by using the old household remedy — baking soda. When the windshield of your car becomes involved, automobiles manufacturers advise you to sponge it off with a baking soda solution. Very stubborn bugs may need some dry soda applied with a damp sponge. The soda acts as an abrasive, yet it won't scratch the glass.

Then you might take a tip from professional woodmen if you're venturing into tall grass or brush — the favorite haunts of chiggers. Dust your legs or socks, if you're wearing them, with baking soda. For some reason or other, chiggers shy away from soda.
 If one of the stinging insects gets you, remove the stinger with tweezers and apply a baking soda paste, made by mixing a few drops of water with a palmful of dry soda. The paste soothes the sting. This, too, is an old-time remedy, but one that's still advised by humans by doctors and for our four-footed friends by veterinarians.

Since baking soda has such a way with bugs, its a wise vacationist who stows a box of it away in the glove compartment of the car.
 Now, armed with your home remedy of baking soda, the outdoor chef and his audience of eat-

OFFICIAL DOUBLE KNOCKOUT—Darrigade is still on his bicycle, but is about to fall after crashing into an official who had ventured too near the track. The official was knocked into the air and Darrigade out of victory in the 1958 Tour De France. The French rider was in front approaching the finish line in Paris. The cyclist was banged up about the face.

Time Out!

WITH "RED" CROSS
While Ricks' on vacation I've been asked to sit in, so here goes. Tonight's the night! The night for the meeting at the Pampa Boy's Club for all interested parties who'd like to help build a ball park here. The meeting will get underway at 7 p.m. Bill Garrett is one of those trying to get help building the new park.

Here's what Garrett and the rest of the Pampa Optimist Club would like to have: A smooth new baseball diamond, enclosed with and eight foot outfield fence and a 500 seat grandstand which could easily be added on to as the need might arise.

They'd like welded pipe and steel beam towers for the lights, but may have to settle for the less desirable cross-rod wood poles if the necessary funds are not made available for the worthy project. The proposed site for the new park is immediately adjacent to the club building, which automatically takes care of any tab that might have occurred for the purchase of a big enough lot. The new ball park could also be used for Little League and Pony League games. So let's everybody get behind the Optimist Club and get this new park built!

I had a telephone conversation with Art Dana yesterday. Art is the Tele-Prompter director for the Patterson - Harris closed circuit telecast in Amarillo next Monday night.

Dana is also one of the officials of the Texas Boxing enterprises. He said that tickets were available at the Maxor Drug Store, 108 West 8th St., in Amarillo and that he had put back a few tickets for our citizens of Pampa. The tickets cost $5.50 for reserved seats and $3.50 for general admission. Art said to make your reservations early because the tickets were going like mad. All mail orders will be taken care of and if you wish to call in your order dial DR-4-8762 in Amarillo.

Art said that "we're sure the fight will be a complete sellout here. The equipment will be installed tomorrow. Watching by Tele-Prompter is better than being right there where the fight is taking place. It seems you're there anyway because the cameras are right on top of the action all the time," he concluded.

Well I've messed this up enough so I'll leave now and don't forget the baseball meeting tonight.

If Braves Win, They'll Get A Different Kind Of Welcome

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves may win the National League pennant, but they'll get a different kind of welcome this year from the hometown fans.

At least that's the feeling of several city officials when asked if any type of civic program will be held if the Braves recapture the flag this year.

"An aura of sophistication has come upon Milwaukee since last year," said Ald. James Mortier, a member of the Civic Progress Commission which made arrangements for the gigantic welcome for the freshman world champions in 1957.

At that time the city appropriated $10,000 for Indian signs placed on light poles on Wisconsin Avenue, arranged for a fireworks display on the lake front, and an attempt for a welcome home parade was made.

Middlecoff Wins Open In Style

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Dr. Cary Middlecoff won the $35,000 Miller Open in record style Monday to put aside any notions he is fading out of the golfing picture.

Middlecoff headed for his final tournament of the year today with his morale much higher and his pocketbook fatter with the $5,300 he earned with a record 264 at Tripoli Country Club. He came home 16 strokes under par, fighting off the challenges down the stretch of young Billy Casper Jr. and Bob Rosburg.

After accepting his first championship trophy since he won the U. S. Open in 1956, Middlecoff said he will quit the tour after the St. Paul Open this week and undergo a hernia operation. He will return next April.

Rosburg shot the hottest round Monday, a 64, and edged Casper out for second place with a total of 266. Casper was third with 267.

Sam Snead shared fourth and fifth money with Bob Goaly. Chick Harbert and Paul Horney tied for sixth.

Surprised Lady...

A housewife-motorist recently paid her first visit to a Phillips 66 Station, and reported as follows...

"All I expected from my Phillips 66 Dealer was ten gallons of gasoline and maybe the windshield wiped. But the first thing I knew they had cleaned the windows all around..."

"Was I surprised when the attendant suggested he check the tires, including the spare! Then the battery and radiator. I figured he must have me mixed up with someone important. Wife of the mayor, maybe?"

"You could have knocked me over with a feather when he started brushing out inside the car. 'You do this for everybody?' I asked. That's what he said... everybody!"

"About the gasoline... I got that, too. And that Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel makes my car run swell!"

Pirates Climb Up Another Notch

Sports Writers Applaud Press Box In Amarillo

HOUSTON (UPI)—High school press boxes at Brenham, Killeen, Laredo, Palestine, Cleburne, San Marcos, Andrews and Amarillo drew plaudits from Texas sports writers today at the same time the writers condemned facilities in 10 other cities.

Members of the Texas Sports Writers Association, often squeezed out of working space by school officials, scouts and other non-working spectators, set up a press box committee and a grading system in an effort to better facilitate coverage of athletic events.

Texas League Comes Alive

By United Press International

The Texas League has come alive.

While Fort Worth rests apparently secure in its first place spot, the rest of the league battles for a first division slot.

Currently, the fight is between Corpus Christi, Houston, Dallas and Austin, with Dallas and Houston slowly gaining ground on the coveted positions.

A five-run fourth inning and a two-run sixth enabled the surging Dallas Rangers to knock off Victoria, 7-5, Monday and hold on to fourth spot in the first division.

Houston topped Austin by only one hit, but piled up a four-run margin to move down the Senators, 5-1, and climb to within two games of second-ranked Corpus Christi.

Tulsa's Oilers put down the Corpus Christi Giants, 7-3, the telling inning being the third when the Oklahoma contingent found home plate with the feet of five men.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked San Antonio, two games out of fourth, bowed to the league leaders, 3-3, as Fort Worth turned the trick with a three-run first and a two-run seventh.

Fort Worth's Cats hold a 12-game edge on Corpus, but from there the lead thins.

Tulsa is 14 off the pace, Dallas 15, Austin 16 1/2, San Antonio 17, Tulsa 18, and Victoria 18 1/2.

With cellar-dwelling Victoria only three and one-half games away from the first division, the race shapes up as a seven-way scramble for membership in the senior foursome.

And, just about any team has a chance at poking into the money-dividing circle.

Look at Dallas. On July 23, Dallas was in last place, 18 1/2 games off the pace. Victoria is there now. San Antonio held fourth, 15 games away from first. Now Dallas has that ranking.

Dallas surged for the past few weeks and shot into the first division, setting the example for the rest of the league, and perhaps putting a spark in the eyes of club managers who would like their squads in with the seniors.

Today's schedule gives Houston another crack at Austin in the state capitol, Dallas takes on Victoria again in Dallas. Corpus Christi is at Tulsa and Fort Worth at San Antonio.

Defeat Milwaukee Behind Mazeroski

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

There's a saying among baseball men that Bill Mazeroski is headed for greatness and he's going to take the Pittsburgh Pirates along with him.

Like most quips it's not 100 per cent accurate but there's no doubt the 21-year-old son of a Wheeling, W. Va., coal miner best typifies the plucky battle the Pirates are waging to give Pittsburgh its first pennant since 1927. He is young, stylish, constantly improving and now he's proving the most important fact: he can rise to the occasion under pressure.

Mazeroski demonstrated that Monday night to 38,938 fans — largest crowd of the year in Pittsburgh — when he delivered three hits that knocked in three runs in the Pirates' 6-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The win boosted the Pirates into a second-place tie with idle San Francisco, six games behind Milwaukee, and they have a chance to cut still further into that lead tonight in the final game of the two-game series.

Face Saves Game

Bob Friend went 2-3 in his 15th game. He needed help in the ninth and got it from Elroy Face, a 155-pound right-hander who means almost as much to the club as Mazeroski.

The victory was the fifth straight for the Pirates and Face has appeared in the last four.

Over the five games, Mazeroski has collected eight hits, knocked in six runs and batted .471. For the season, Face has appeared in 43 games and been credited with 18 "saves" while Mazeroski is hitting .278 and is recognized as the league's best fielding second-inning, 5-4 decision over the Cincinnati Redlegs after losing a 12-11, 13-inning scramble of the 12-11, 13-inning Phillies won a completed game from June 1 in the only other National League activity. In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles swept the New York Yankees, 3-2 and 9-3, the Chicago White Sox edged the Cleveland Indians, 3-1, the Washington Senators beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-3, and the Detroit Tigers topped the Kansas City Athletics, 3-2.

Willie Jones singled home the winning run for the Phillies in the regulation game after Ed Bailey tied the score with a two-run ninth-inning homer. The Redlegs

Tokyo Joe Wins 4th Straight

Tokyo Joe won his fourth wrestling match in a row last night when he was declared the winner over Art Nelson due to a disqualification.

Iron Mike DeBise was so pleased with his win over Al Seavitch that he wanted to try another win. Iron Mike climbed into the ring and tried to help Art Nelson whip the "Jap." But it was to no avail as the referee gave the match to Tokyo Joe.

Tommy Phelps can't win either as a referee or a wrestler. Ricker Romero stopped Phelps last night in the first event of the night. Phelps, who usually gets beaten up by the wrestlers when he referees, decided to quit refereeing and start wrestling. He should have stood in bed.

TV's 'Tales Of ESP' Will Fold After Aug. 22 Show

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Views and reviews:
"Tales of ESP," the ABC-TV extra-sensory perception show, "revamped" its format Friday night by trotting out a re-run of a clasp Joan Fontaine film about ghosts. "ESP" folds after Aug. 22 and I would say it's a stroke of common-sensory perception on the part of the sponsor.
The Steve Lawrence-Eddie "Gorme" hour on NBC-TV Sunday night was a little cozy in spots, but it's still the brightest patch in weekend TV. Steve and Julius La Rosa's spoofing of Guy Lombardo-type vocalists singing "boo hoo" was a howler. The Compass Players failed to make an appearance on the show because one of their members, Del Close, got sick.
CBS-TV's "The Search" took a repeat trip to the physical fitness research center at the University of Illinois and it exhausted me just watching. On just about every NBC-TV "Chevy Show" one of the girls sings a torch song swaddled in a trenchcoat—Sunday night it was Janet Blair's turn with "What Is This Thing Called Love?" The hoop dance on the "Chevy Show" was a fairly fascinating bit despite the fact that a couple of participants got all tangled. John Raitt, throwing bumps while he tried desperately to spin a hoop around his hips, looked like a sedate Elvis Presley.
Nadler Still Wins
Teddy Nadler bowled over his 21st opponent, Mrs. Lorna Hahn, to run his hoolie to $32,000. Mrs. Hahn looked pretty despairing about it all and I can't say I blame her. The only thing that on the CBS-TV "Ed Sullivan Show" churned out some pretty tasty sounds.

I can't understand why tennis star Althea Gibson, who was mystery guest Sunday night on CBS-TV's "What's My Line," felt called upon to disguise her voice—Who's ever heard it? I rather liked the exchange between emcee John Daly and "What's My Line"

United Press International
LONDON — Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill of the United States, urging the Lambeth Conference of the Anglican Church to have faith in the common man:
"There is often a blessed common sense possessed by ordinary, if uninformed, men and women, which leads them almost unconsciously to discern between the vital and the secondary."
DETROIT — United Auto Workers president Walter Reuther, on his union's preparedness in the face of any industry recalcitrance:
"We have now cleared the decks of all the preliminary steps needed to call a strike and when we decide it is to the advantage of the union, we will move quickly to authorize a strike."
KUIBYSHEV, Soviet Union — Premier Nikita Khrushchev, at dedication ceremonies of a new huge hydro-electric plant, on Russia's foreign policy for "peace":
"If they (the West) disregard common sense and begin a new war we shall do everything to rout the aggressors and establish good peace on earth."
BAALBEKK, Lebanon — Rebel leader Sabri Hamad, differentiating between personal feelings and political expediency:
"I like Americans very much. But this is a bad time for them to be here. They must go from my country until it knows peace again."

The Pampa Daily News YOUR FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is not license. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, The Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

RISE OF SOCIALISM

The impractical and the indolent always dream of socialism. They imagine that the world is different than it is. And they long for a surcease from all labor, with the necessities and luxuries of life made possible by no expenditure of energy.

Socialist writers from Plato to Bellamy were always hard put to establish a method wherein the dream of socialism could become a reality. Plato, for example, in his "Republic" imagines a totalitarian state with all means of production owned and controlled by philosophers.

Bellamy, in his famous book, "Looking Backward," sought to arrive at a socialist clime by eliminating any realistic steps by means of which the share-the-wealth ideal could be obtained.

The first persons who tried to outline a practical course of action which would move humanity into a socialist format were the anarchists. Under the broad heading of the "Illuminati," such men as Bukarin, Kropotkin and Proudhon outlined a method which would compel human-kind to adopt socialism.

They had concluded that governments were capitalist institutions devised to protect private ownership. Private ownership could never endure, they opined, if governments were to be overthrown.

Some of the early anarchists, it is true, contented themselves with essays on the merits of individualism. These essays are outstanding and wise. But when the anarchists endeavored to cope with economics they came to grief.

Karl Marx was the next methodist who attempted to bridge the gap between the reality of the world and the illusion of socialism. He rightly concluded that the owners of property would never give in without a struggle.

Therefore, he advised the use of governments and labor unions as tools wherein he could "wrest by degrees" all property from those who owned it. Instead of aiming at the overthrow of government, he sought to overthrow all social and commercial institutions.

It remained for the fabians of England, under the leadership of Annie Besant, the Webbs and George Bernard Shaw, to come up with a truly successful formula. These socialists propounded the theory that their goal could be achieved by gradualness thru the processes of elections.

They could, they stated, get the people themselves to adopt socialism in a bloodless and painless manner, thru the usages of the ballot. By employing majority rule they could "sell" socialism to the people under the guise of "do-good" programs.

They would increase taxes, gradually. They would control property gradually. They would increase the numbers and sizes of state-owned enterprises. They would gradually reduce the area of freedom of enterprise, by enlarging the government.

It is the fabian attack in the U.S.A. which is doing the damage to this country. Neither communism nor anarchism appeals to peace-loving Americans. But socialism can always be made to appeal, especially when large masses of voters can be led to believe that each new socialist scheme will bring new benefits to them.

BETTER JOBS

Gems From McGuffey's Reader I have enjoyed rereading "McGuffey's Fifth Eclectic Reader." It seems to me that the contents of this reader had a lot to do with the character of those who are now older people.

Commies Win Cases Before Supreme Court by WESTBROOK PEGLER

In the integration issue the Supreme Court pulled out a legal relic from Runnymede and the heavy-eyed old rummies of the English law-courts which holds that a court may ignore the facts and base its decision on knowledge or malice lying within the hearts and minds of the judges.

That horrible fact has been airily ignored all the way since the Supreme Court discarded all previous American experience, precedent, law and the Constitution in favor of a long-winded essay on segregation by a Swede who came here on a free ride financed by a tax-exempt foundation.

Those who cried out that the book and the red pamphlets had never been discussed in the trials and that the Swede had never been presented for cross-examination were advised that by this naive protest, they proved that they did not know the law.

All that is part of the heritage from England which American lawyers and judges perennially venerate including even sons of refugees from Erin who were breast-fed on the perfidy of all that is or even was English.

This gibbering awe is taught in all the American law schools except, however, that most of them now advise their subjects that grand jurors, trial jurors and judges are free to get hunk with wretches brought before them by giving them the works as punishment for dignity and moral superiority over the common herd.

Now comes another case in which the Supreme Court might have turned the same prerogative to a decent patriotic purpose, but refused to. That is the case in which the court held that the State Department could not deny passports to Communists for travel abroad.

Tom Clark, having been Attorney General in the Roosevelt conspiracy, certainly knows how hard and well American Reds toll against the very existence of the United States.

The Doctor Says:

Among the allergic diseases hives, or urticaria, occupies an important place. Unlike seasonal hay fever (whether the result of pollens from ragweed, trees, grasses or something else) hives may appear at odd times of the year.

An outbreak of hives usually comes suddenly and unexpectedly. It shows on the skin as reddish swollen spots of various sizes and intense itching. The itching generally involves not only the raised spots but the entire skin.

These signs often disappear as fast as they come and sometimes last only a few hours. One of my children had an attack of this sort and I never did know what caused it.

Too often, however, hives goes on for days or weeks and even sometimes turns into a chronic condition which does not disappear for months or years. Chronic hives is, of course, the most troublesome variety.

Hives may follow the eating of some food to which a person is sensitive. It can also develop after a drug or serum has been given, after infection, exposure to heat, furs, insect bites and many other things. It is not a single disease, therefore.

Urticaria differs from many other kinds of allergy in that a sensitive person does not always show a skin reaction when the offending substance is placed in contact with the skin by scratching or patch-tests—a type of testing used in many allergies.

Often this failure of the skin to respond makes diagnosis of the cause of hives particularly difficult. Furthermore, no one knows why red spots should appear on the skin as a sign of sensitivity. They do not seem to serve any useful purpose.

Hankering

The telephone rang late last night, but I was late getting to it and the party had hung up. On the off chance that it was John Foster Dulles calling me to ask my aid in making up the agenda for the Summit Conference, when and if it is held, I am going to make a suggestion or two in the hope the Secretary of State will see it.

As for the agenda, I would limit it to one topic, and one alone; namely, "Whose Word is Good, and Whose Isn't?" There would be no discussions of arms smuggling, or of interference in each other's internal affairs by Middle Eastern States, and no mention of nuclear weapons.

Talk concerning financial aid, military aid, and infiltration by outsiders would be taboo. All I would do, if I were Dulles, would be to try to determine how much a promise was worth from Khrushchev, Nasser, Nehru and any other heads of states present — and I'd concentrate on Khrushchev.

His attitude gives every indication that he is a congenial liar, an accomplished double-crosser, a superb opportunist, and a man whose word isn't worth the breath it takes to give it. He has also given every sign of being a butcher, an assassin, and as ruthless a man as there is in the world today.

I can't for the life of me see any use in coming to any agreement with the man, or signing any pact with him, or agreeing to any compromise until it can be fairly well established that he has turned over a new leaf and now means what he says.

The chances of this being true are as remote as anything you can think of. What could Khrushchev say or do that would make it possible to trust his handshake, his pledge?

The answer comes close to being "nothing." If that's the case, why have a Summit Meeting? What has the United States to gain? Dulles could come back from wherever the meeting is held with a ton of papers bearing Khrushchev's signature, and it would be hard not to think of him (Mr. Dulles) as another Chamberlain if he announced that everything was fixed up — and from now on things would be just dandy.

Nasser is another tricky bit of goods. What faith could the U.S. place in his promises, even if he stood atop the Giza pyramids, one at a time, and swore over and over that he was telling the truth? It wouldn't be very diplomatic, but about the best way for Mr. Dulles to open a Summit Meeting would be to say, "Gentlemen, there are quite a few hardened liars present in the room, and before we get down to any other business let me make it quite clear that the United States is going to find it very hard to believe a word any of them says."

By forcing the United States to negotiate with East Germany for the return of imprisoned American airmen, the Reds tried to force us to recognize the East Germans as an independent government. Thank goodness, we didn't fall for that. For the Soviets recognize East Germany as nothing but a satellite. The other day, when an East German credit to Yugoslavia (for an aluminum plant) was canceled, the cancellation was signed by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Mac Misses Phone: He's Sure It Was Sec'y. Dulles

The Cracker Barrel

While American lefties say the United States should abandon its sovereignty to the United Nations and abandon preparations for nuclear defense, it is what Khrushchev has to say in rejecting any proposals for nuclear inspection: "The Western powers want the sort of control that would be tantamount to an infringement of our sovereignty. They say 'Let our aircraft fly over your country and we will let your aircraft fly over ours.' We don't want to fly over their country and we don't want even the smell of them over ours."

Excellent Crops In Midwest Forecast Despite Weather

United Press International CHICAGO (UPI) — Excellent crops will be harvested in most areas of the Midwest despite heavy rains, floods and a cold spring and early summer, a United Press International survey indicated today.

Even bumper crops were predicted in some states.

Although specific figures were not available in all states, wheat and corn showed excellent overall prospects and most rain and flood damage appeared to be to small crops.

In Iowa and Illinois, corn stands were so high that several serious accidents had been caused at blind intersections. Authorities warned motorists to use extreme care on country roads.

A bumper corn crop was predicted for Iowa in the July estimate, and old-timers said they've never seen the fields looking so green this late in the season when normally everything starts turning brown and burned out.

Farmers delayed in harvesting Heaviest flood damage in Iowa affected an eight-county area in the southwestern part of the state. Floods that struck July 1-2 killed 19 persons and caused an estimated $2,402,000 damage to primary and farm-to-market roads.

In Illinois, the crop reporting service reported both the corn and soybean crops in top condition. However, harvesting has been late and, along with rain damage in some areas, farmers were delayed in getting into their fields to work.

In Kansas, a generous July rainfall, about 2½ times normal, delayed harvesting but the wheat crop — 274,000,000 bushels — was estimated at the third largest in history.

"It delayed wheat but didn't hurt it," John Wilson, federal-state agricultural statistician said. "It was more helpful than harmful."

Crop losses in Kansas when creeks and rivers flooded in July were largely to corn, hay and sorghums.

A. V. Nordquist, head of the state-federal division of agricultural statistics at Lincoln, said the exceptionally wet weather in Nebraska "has been a tremendous boost to the state's crop prospects."

Nebraska is usually in need of rain, Nordquist said, and "we can always use rain, either for growing crops or restoration of the groundwater supply."

Too Much Rain, Not Enough The state-federal crop reporting service in Minnesota said some acreage had been drowned out in the central-western border area in early July, but that crop losses are "not too much in terms of total production."

In Wisconsin, the problem was one of lack of rainfall.

In South Dakota, crop prospects with some counties harvesting were reported generally good, their best crops in history.

Agricultural statistician Roy Tetas of Sioux Falls said winter wheat yields throughout the state were 10 bushels per acre above the 10-year 1947-56 average. Yields of durum wheat, spring wheat, oats, barley and rye are about five bushels above the 10-year average. Agricultural products account for 70 per cent of South Dakota's income.

Floods Worst In Missouri Torrential rains which drenched Indians in July accounted for new precipitation records and many rural areas were flooded and considerable damage was done to crops. However, although no figures were available, the overall picture indicated that crops would be good.

Missouri appeared to be the hardest hit from heavy rains and floods. Two floods struck within two weeks along the Missouri River, and damage to crops, buildings and roads was estimated statewide from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000.

The rain and floods came just about the time farmers were harvesting their wheat crop. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated 25 to 30 per cent of the wheat crop still is in the fields but said some of this wheat still can be salvaged if warm weather continues.

J. Howard Teter, crop statistician at Columbia, Mo., said roughly 500,000 acres of Missouri land were flooded this year, but he noted this was not all farm land but included cities, towns and villages in the path of swollen streams.

Teter said much of the Missouri corn crop is on higher ground and predicted the state still would have a good corn year.

Mice Can Stand Radiation Effects Better Than Man

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Men were mice the perils of radiation in the atomic-space age would loom less large.

Scientists attending history's first International Congress of Radiation reported dramatic progress today in the search for protection against the invisible and potentially deadly rays which swarm in space and stream from the split atoms of nuclear weapons and power plants.

The discoveries include:

- The bone marrow of unborn mice contains a powerful antidote to radiation injury.
- A two-way treatment including administration of the wonder drug streptomycin and injections of bone marrow cells saved the lives of more than 85 per cent of irradiated mice who otherwise would have died horribly.
- But mice aren't men. Would the same things that protect them from space and atomic rays have men? Dr. Alexander Hollaender of the Oak Ridge-National Laboratory, who is serving as chairman of this unique meeting, has a grim answer. It boils down to:

Because the mouse's lifespan is brief, the necessary exhaustive experiment on radiation versus tissues can be conducted and conclusions reached in a period of, say, 10 years.

The same research with man — because he cannot be treated as an expendable bit of laboratory equipment — would have to be done indirectly and would take, say, 2½ centuries.

So, since the atomic-space age is all of a sudden here, the chance must be taken that what is good for mice also will be good for man.

More than 325 highly technical papers, embracing the fields of physics, chemistry, and biology, have been prepared for the more than 1,000 scientists attending the radiation congress.
