AUSTIN — (AP)—Class AA high school basketball champion Crozier Tech of Dallas placed two men on the all-state team selected by sports writers who covered last week's tournament.

They were Bryan Miller, forward, and Jerry Champion, guard. Runner-up Lufkin's forward Paul Williams was also placed on the first team.

Joe Ed Falk of Milby, Houston, was picked as class AA's top center, and Jim Qchoa of Bowie, El Paso, went into the other all-star guard spot.

Middlecoff, handsome young professional from Memphis, Tenn., dropped a short putt to hole out in par four to end the match. Mangrum, from Chicago, missed a two-footer for his par and Locke, Johannesburg, South Africa, muffed an eight footer. Ferrier, also from Chicago, didn't bother to putt out his two-footer which also would have given him a par.

They had been even on the 36th hole last night and the match was continued today when darkness fell.

Mangrum and Locke, currently the leading money winners in the United States, played 41 holes yesterday. They had a fifth their opening round match with Johnny Revolta and Sammy Byrd which was tied at the end of 39 holes Saturday first. A 51-foot putt by Mangrum gave them the match on the 44th hole.

The winner of the Lock-Mangrum vs. Ferrier-Middlecoff match today will go on to play Herman Kelsor of Akron, Ohio, and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., in the semifinals.

In the other semifinals match, Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, and Ed Furgol, Pontiac, Mich., oppose Dick Metz, Arkansas City, Kans., and Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C.

The Vines-Furgol team advanced by defeating Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., and Jack Burke, Jr., Houston, Tex., 5 and 4. Burke replaced Ben Hogan who was forced to drop out because of a back ailment. Hogan left immediately for Alken, S. C., to rest.

College Basketball Tourneys Point to London Olympics

NEW YORK (AP)—College basketball takes its second wind today and steps off in its final big fling—a series of whirlwind tournaments pointing this year to the London Olympics.

The eliminations begin this week. The 32-team NAIA stammina test gets underway today in Kansas City. The National Invitation Tournament, involving eight hand-picked quintets, will open Thursday at Madison Square Garden.

These events will be followed by the NCAA regional playoffs—the Eastern at the Garden March 18, the Western in Kansas City March 19.

Winners of these four tournaments will qualify to meet the national AAU's three top teams and the national YMCA champion in the Olympic tryouts here March 27, 29, 31.

Rookie Clubs Homer in Cubs' First Sessions
NEW YORK (AP)—Earl York, 23-year-old rookie first sacker of the Chicago Cubs, is off to an impressive start in his bid for a major league berth.

York, a southpaw all the way, has clubbed a homer in each of the Cubs' first two exhibition games against the Chicago White Sox. The Cubs look both games by a one-run margin.

Whether or not York can dislodge Eddie Waitkus from the starting nine remains to be seen but he has made Manager Charles Grimm take notice.

York clubbed 267 in 89 games for Des Moines of the Western League last year and also impressed the fans with his fielding.

A native of Dallas, Texas, York weighs 160 pounds over his six-foot two inch frame.

Yesterday, he shared honors with rookie outfielder Clarence Maddern in the Bruins' 2-1 conquest of the White Sox. Maddern broke a 1-1 tie with a homer in the sixth inning.

NOTES FROM OTHER CAMPS:
HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(AP)—Pittsburgh Pirate Manager Bill Meyer is just a little bit mortified but happy after seeing the Bucs win their first game for him, 12-11 over the St. Louis Browns at San Bernardino yesterday.

Joe Bockman, replacing regular Frankie Gustine at third, emerged as the hitting star with four singles in six times at bat. Johnny Hopp banged out two triples. Home run star Ralph Kiner left the game early after straining his back but the injury

Tigers, Reds Meet Today
TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Rained out Sunday, the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds were slated to try again today. Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers re-named his three original mound choices—Paul Trout, Virgil Trucks and Art Houtteman to share the pitching duties.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(AP)—Bill Ayers who sparked in training last year only to flunk out when the season started, is off to a good start in his second bid for a berth with the New York Giants.

Ayers started against the Cleveland Indians yesterday and blasted the Tribe on one scratch hit in three innings. In addition, he scored once, but the Giants dropped the game, 13-8 in ten innings.

Yanks to Keep Six Outfielders
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris of the New York Yankees has indicated that he will retain six outfielders for the championship season.

Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich are set in center and right field, respectively, with Charley Keller slated for left. The other three are rookies Cliff Mays and Ed Stewart, and Johnny Lindell, star of the recent world series.

BRADENTON, Fla.—(AP)—The Boston Braves were told today by Brooklyn Dodger secretary Harold Parrott that Eddie Stanky make this comment after being traded to Boston: "The Dodgers will not win the pennant without me." Boston gave up Ray Sandes, Bama Rowell and cash for the second baseman, currently bedridden with pneumonia.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP)—Joe Dobson, Boston Red Sox pitcher, will be back in action today. He's been out following the removal of a cyst from his right armpit.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals will hold another practice session today after which the team starts a long series of exhibition games.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—(AP)—Manager Zach Taylor of the St. Louis Browns was far from pleased with the showing of his pitchers yesterday. The Pittsburgh Pirates, in gaining a 12-11 win from the Browns, combed Brownie hurlers for 18 hits. Les Moss homered with the bases loaded and Rookie Andy Anderson also homered for the Browns.

Most uncommunicative manager—Joe McCarthy of the Red Sox. Joe never did say much and this year he says even less.

USGA Announces That Golf Rules Have Been Revised

NEW YORK (AP)—Golf rules have been revised again. The U. S. Golf Association says most of the changes are effective immediately for amateurs. The Professional Golfers Association announced recently it planned to stick closer to USGA rules.

One new rule states that the club grip "may not have a channel or furrow for the fingers, or be molded to the fingers." This change takes effect Jan. 1.

From now on unfair delay in play becomes against the rules instead of merely a breach of etiquette. Penalty is disqualification.

Two chief changes relate to artificial obstructions. If an obstruction touches the ball or interferes with a player's swing, the ball now may be dropped with two club-lengths of the point of the obstruction nearest where it originally lay. This means a free ball and a clear swing, but not necessarily a clear shot.

Regarding artificial obstructions in hazards, the rule now provides relief without penalty for all except bridges and abutments.

liked to do it. Guy who is having the most fun—Bob Carpenter, Phillies president. And he'd be happier if a sore arm didn't keep him from workout with the team.

Hardest-luck guy—Tom Swope, Cincinnati baseball writer, who took a day off to go fishing, got caught in the rain, took refuge on a porch and tried to pet a strange dog. That was when Tom got the only bite of the day.

The Red Sox Tex Hugison won 22 games in 1942, 18 in 1944 and 20 in 1946. One reason why he's hopeful now is that another "event" year is coming up.

Dallmar and Fulks of Warriors Named on Knicks' All-Opponent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Taking time out to select their Basketball Association of America All-Opponent team, the professional New York Knickerbockers give places to two Philadelphia Warriors, forward Joe Fulks and guard Howie Dallmar. The other forward is the Chicago Stags' Max Zaslofsky, the center the Boston Celtics' Ed Badowski, the other guard the Washington Capitols' Bob Feerick. Dallmar is the only unanimous voice. Fulks, the league's leading scorer for two seasons, oddly enough gets the least number of votes.

Ability to Relax An Aid to Health

Medical science is becoming more and more certain that an astounding large number of present day human "ills" are caused by nothing other than the individual being unable to relax and forget his troubles. Both real and imaginary symptoms can stem from this lack of sufficient periods of relaxation, and it can develop into a very serious situation. One of the best ways yet found to relax and ease a tired mind and nerves is to sip a refreshing beverage through a pair of crisp paper drinking straws. The mere act of leaning back and sipping through a straw promotes a pleasantly lax frame of mind that leads to healing relaxation. Those whose ailments have their roots in an over-abundance of nervous tension have found this method to be helpful.

WE, THE WOMEN

by RUTH MILETT

NEA Staff Writer

Men are forever writing about what a soft life American women have, with all the labor-saving devices they have in their homes.

But when they rave on about how much easier the housewife's work is today than it was in Grandma's time, they never mention how much easier men's lives are, too.

Sure, Mama has labor-saving household equipment. But Papa has plenty of gadgets around the office or the shop that make his job easier, too.

Such inventions as the typewriter, dictaphone and interoffice communications arrangements are as labor-saving to Papa as the electric watnots are to Mother.

And, if Mama has a maid, chances are Papa has an secretary down at the office.

There is one modern innovation that the breadwinner benefits from that Mama doesn't share in at all. NO TIME LIMITS

The breadwinner has an eight-hour day, and a five-day week. But there is no labor-saving device in the home that can cut Mama's working time down to 40 hours a week.

It's funny how men can look at one side of the picture of modern living and entirely fail to see the other side.

Sure, modern women don't have to wrestle with all the problems that confronted Grandma.

But modern men don't have to wrestle with all the problems that Grandpa was faced with, either.

To help care for some of the hundreds of refugees who have found their way into the Hwa River Valley district in China, Christian women from the various communities, using American flour and milk and canned goods shipped from Protestant churches, have opened a large number of Child Nutrition and Educational Centers. In the lastens of Penglai and Showshien, some 7,000 children are being cared for, elsewhere the poor women have been gathered together and employed in church and mission sewing factories, making tens of thousands of garments for free distribution to the needy. "The poverty and need of the displaced persons of China are indescribable," says a recent visitor.

What the General Did and Didn't Say

Nothing could be more typical of General Eisenhower's honesty than his statement on the possibility of war with Russia...

In answer to a question, the general said that the Soviet Union would not deliberately provoke war...

It might be well to remember that the retired chief of staff said something more. He said that Russia is in no position to support a global war...

The general did not say that the Soviet Union is not preparing for war, or that it could not resort to war if it had the strength...

There is nothing wrong with the goal in itself. But, coupled with the Kremlin's belligerent attitude...

Our domestic problems today are pressing. They must be solved. But we would be unwise to let anyone twist the candid words...

The man who takes another man's money for labor is the one who steals his time in the foot-ped class...

Prison Warden: "I've been here for years. See, you are going to have a party to celebrate. What kind of party would you suggest?"

Employer: "Yes, you advertised for a strong boy. Do you think you would like to work for me?"

Applicant: "Well, I've just finished making 19 other applicants out in the hall."

She: "Why did you tell Mrs. Marshall her husband was dead when he had only lost all his money?"

He: "I thought I'd better break it to her slowly."

Subscriber: "Is it every possible for a young man to ask a woman she has never met to call at her home?"

Editor: "Yes, if she asks him to call for the laundry."

FOURTH PARTY?

Will the Communist party be able to put into the White House a President friendly to its aims...

Reportedly, Reds are counting on winning that election, if not the election of 1962.

How do they figure they can put it over?

The fact is, they already are on the verge of winning a great compromise victory in Washington...

They are counting on the proposed federal so-called Fair Employment Practices Commission...

We are offered the FEPC as a measure of goodwill toward our minorities — an anti-discrimination measure...

It is precisely on this point that FEPC is so determinedly demanded by the Communist party...

Thomas has defied his colleague, Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, to "investigate" his gambling in commodities...

Sen. Thomas based his refusal to testify on his "congressional immunity," and there has been a show of unreasonable courtesy...

There is no "immunity" which excuses any member of Congress from giving testimony in a congressional inquiry...

On immunity, the Constitution says members of the Senate and House "shall, in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses...

WASHINGTON — Southern resentment against President Truman's civil rights program is based on sociological as well as political grounds...

Numerous educators, churchmen and business men free of party bias are convinced that economic organization of the South cannot be revolutionized overnight...

These spokesmen emphasize that the South is gradually solving the problems which Mr. Truman would attack by federal legislation...

It is enforced now in only seven states—Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas...

Mr. Truman's so-called "interference," it is charged, may hinder the advance in this field and thus operate to the disadvantage of the prospective beneficiaries...

Even if the poor are assisted by charity from the rich, unless this charity is the result of the rich curtailing any vicious habits...

The South's record on lynchings is also cited as an argument against the White House program. Violence against colored people accused or convicted of crime has been decreasing steadily...

There were, for instance, more than 200 lynchings annually 80 or 90 years ago. There was only one resort to "lynch law" in 1945...

This improvement—even the single lynching is one too many—occurred at a time when there was an increase in all other kinds of crime...

In view of this background, southern spokesmen of integrity and integrity consider Mr. Truman's vote-getting scheme particularly ill-timed...

Keneth Hopkins, noted creator of women's chapeaux, and Alice La Vere disclosed that their ideas will be tried out this summer in an unnamed California private mental sanitarium...

He and Miss La Vere, a juvenile delinquency consultant here and in San Francisco who has worked extensively with war veterans, say they're convinced that fancy uniform and rainbow-hued ribbons appeal to men as at least partial satisfaction of male color hunger...

Popularity of such fraternal groups as Elks and Shriners stems from a love of dressing up in ceremonial attire, they add. "Women get an important mental lift and psychological boost from the styling and coloring of their hats," Hopkins explained...

"You might say that women's hats are their escape valves. They fit the 'mash' of their subconscious desires, as well as their heads."

But the male straw skimmer or dull felt "has a zero value, psychologically speaking."

The thing to be wondered at is not that prices are high, but that free American enterprises have been able to produce so quickly as to counteract this inflation with an enormous increase in production. What About Lights? Please Change Them

Take the supposition that you own an auditorium. (That's a whopper, isn't it?) All right, now you own "Better Auditorium, Inc."

The auditorium is a beautiful one—green curtains, pale blue walls trimmed in chertreuse and aqua seats. And the lights! Oh, what lights! Right in the top of the ceiling. (And where else?)

LIFE Shaded With Fear; Hands Can Provide Death

By ARLEN GIVENS
The young fellow stepped out of the doorway in which he was waiting and stood under the streetlight so the bus driver could see him and stop.

The vehicle thundered down the deserted street and his air hissed and whistled. He held his breath. The door opened, and the young man, fumbling in his pocket for the fare, stepped on. Releasing the brakes, the driver gunned the motor, threw the bus in gear, and roared forward.

He succeeded in disentangling his fingers from the various coins in his pocket and put one of the coins in the fare box. Turning, he lurched his way to the back of the bus, and the only vacant seat. Having done so, he wearily laid his head against the cool pane and watched the few cars passing by.

It was mid-winter—the night was exceedingly cold—and a full moon was to be seen occasionally, as the wisps of moisture which passed for clouds, parted. As he watched the automobiles, going and coming, with the cold wind blowing their exhaust vapors under them, a smile passed through his mind. "They're not unlike the tail of a slinking dog." While musing over this figure of speech, he became aware of the fact that he was being watched intently.

As he turned and glanced across his aisle at the person who was looking at him, the other man's shifted, giving the lad a chance to look at him.

He was a nondescript-looking fellow, with light complexion, curly brown hair which grew over his ears, begrimmed hands, and approximately three days' growth of beard on his face.

The stranger turned his eyes back to those of the youth, their glances locked; then the man looked away again, a slow smile—almost a leer—creeping over his face. His teeth, which were visible as the red lip curled away from them, were yellowed and stained. His features were abnormally heavy, resembling those of a wild animal.

While looking at this strange creature, he seemed to sense some wild, pagan thing about him. A sudden, irrespressible fear shook the young man. He thought immediately of werewolves. He sensed at the idea. Werewolves,

Hughes Winner At Press Meet

Richard Hughes won first place in the sports column contest and Nansen Campbell was elected secretary of the 1948 convention when the Panhandle High School Press Association held its fourteenth annual meeting at WTSC in Canyon Saturday.

Richard also won second place in the sports news story. Don Lane won second in the editorial contest and received honorable mention for his column. Gene Garrison won honorable mention for his feature-story, and June Myatt received honorable mention in the news story contest.

John Long of Plainview was elected president for the 1949 PHSFA convention.

Other first places in the contest division went to Lubbock sports story and advertising; Amarillo, editorial and general column; Lefors, news story; and White Deer, scrapbook on the paper's contribution to the school.

H. Deakin Wells, editor and publisher of the Wellington Leader, was the principal speaker.

Twenty-eight students from PHS attended the convention and Don Lane, co-editor of the Little Harvester and association president, presided at the opening session in the Education auditorium.

Dr. J. P. Cornett, president-elect of West Texas State, gave the welcome and George Bob Vick, association vice president and editor of the Amarillo school paper, gave the response. Immediately following this, the remaining officers were introduced. They are Marylou Williams, Plainview, secretary; and Mitchell Jones, Jr., Canyon, treasurer.

The Collegians swing band performed for the assembly before the main session got under way. Lunch, under the sponsorship of representatives from Canyon high school, was served in the college's new cafeteria.

Section meetings were held in the afternoon.

The Mu Kappa Delta gave a tea dance for the convention members in the ballroom of Cousins Hall.

Timely Tidbits

By DON LANE
Every one of you has probably read and heard a great deal about the taking over of Czechoslovakia by the Russians. You may not pay much attention to this or think it is anything to write about in a high school column, but it is a matter which affects each of us.

We know by now of the Iron Curtain and the Eastern and Western blocs. The political invasion of the democracy-loving Czechs is just another move of the curtain to engulf the world in communism.

It may be a little difficult for us to see the harm in communism—or even socialism for that matter—but we know of some of the sweet fruits of capitalism. Theoretically, the first two forms of government are perfect—but when you begin to sight cases, must take notice of the events they just don't work.

We, the high school students, must take note of the eventful guiding influence of this nation, and if we are ignorant of the problems, we can easily turn this into a "political war."

Howard will present her term in a few years we will be the time for isolationism is past. We must become past-masters of the "political war," but don't mistake that statement for mean "masters." We comprise only seven percent of the world's population, occupy only seven percent of the land area, and even in time of abundant harvests, produce only seven percent of the world's food stuffs. Claiming to be masters won't work. History proves this statement.

Two wars have been fought to save the world for democracy and after each, the number of democratic countries has decreased. The road of a democratic country is slow, hard, and ticklish. It cannot be the aggressor, but must be an excellent counter-puncher.

Let's not walk into the coming years blinded by a red flag. Let's not be bullied by the boy called Joe. We have something to give—not take!

A very pistol is one used to fire illuminating rockets.

Tryouts for the Junior Play, "Professor, How Could You?" will be held Wednesday and Thursday in room 301 at 5:35 p. m.

PHS Library Receives Variety of New Books

Among the 14 new books the PHS library has received are nine books of fiction, one of biography, two books of travel, a weather book, and a book of Indian lore.

Miss Mary Gordon, librarian, has announced that there are other books which are not on the shelves because checking cards are not available immediately. She also said that a number of books had been ordered but had not arrived.

Among those books ready for use is T. E. Santord's "The Story of Architecture in Mexico," which tells of what the author saw during a grand tour throughout that country. It includes stories of the ancient pyramids and ancient cities of the Toltecs, Mayas, and Aztecs.

"The Two Quarterbacks" by Arthur Sampson is the story of how two boys combined their talents to bring success to the team. In "Eugene Calla's" "Golden Fleeces" the reader will find action and romance in the story of a Texas city woman who married a Mo. man sheep herder.

Warren Is Announcer On Friday's Program

The radio programs which have been heard over the Pampa High Review the last few weeks have been the works of individuals. Friday's program was the semester project of Archie Warren, who worked with Archie Warren, Lorna Cobb, who presented fashion; Keith Payne and Louise Jaynes, who gave the latest gossip; Pat O'Rourke, who reported on the senior play; Burdette Laycock, who gave girls' sports; and C. L. Farmer, who presented the situation in boys' sports.

"Now Is The Hour," which was of the world for our own sake, homeroom 202, was dedicated to that room and played by Jacques chosen as the favorite song of the Wheeler tournament area.

On Monday's program, Betty country down the wrong road.

The purpose of the assembly is to encourage and stimulate interest in the field of science.

Rogers Is Speaker At Teachers' Banquet

Mr. C. M. Rogers, superintendent of the Amarillo schools, will be the guest speaker at the joint banquet meeting of the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association and Gray-Roberts County Teachers Association to be held next Wednesday in the Pampa High cafeteria.

The theme of the banquet will be "Federal Aid to Schools." The Gray-Roberts Teachers Association will elect their officers for the following year.

Places! Lights! Curtain! The first-nighter takes place as "Brother Goose," a three-act comedy by William Davidson, begins.

Monday and Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium the curtain will rise on this senior production which is directed by Miss Thelma Henzlee.

Seven weeks of practice will come to a close when the curtain falls following the last performance. Eleven actors and a number of off-stage assistants who are too often forgotten will give a sign of relief.

Four members of the cast are "veteran" actors or actresses, having been in last year's junior play. Max Hukill, Barbara Stephens, Nancy Thompson and Nicki Frazer have already experienced grease-paint and foot-lights.

That thing which gives size and shape to a stage—the set—is a major jig-saw puzzle when construction time comes, to which stage managers Bill McArthur and Jimmy Marx, can testify. These boys turned carpenters who window has to be made to complete the picture. Braces, ropes, lights and a little bit of everything clutters the stage behind the scenery.

A party will be given in the cafeteria Tuesday immediately after the play for the cast, their dates, the ushers, and all other students who helped in the play. Miss Virginia Vaughan and Mr. Aubra Nooncaster are the faculty members in charge, and cakes, ice cream, sandwiches and doughnuts will be served. Music will also be provided for those who wish to dance.

Ushers for the play will be Billy Russell, Ray Wells, Don Keppart, Eugene Imal and Darrel Ramsey.

Annual Banquet Set For Caesars, Ciceros

Caesar, Pompey, Cicero and a number of famous Romans will blossom out Monday night, March 15, when the Latin department's annual Roman banquet will be held in the cafeteria.

The clubs have been reading about the subjects and are preparing to entertain the Caesars. In their reading, they found the Romans ate onions, beans, cabbage, and hard bread for staples and used pork extensively for meat.

They ate in three courses much as we do. First, the Gustas, which was the appetizer. It included eggs, lettuce, fish, and a sauce. Second, the Prima Mensa, with the meat and bread with vegetables and wine. Then came the Secunda, with apples and other desserts.

The clubs learned that the Romans did not have some of the foods that we use every day, such as sugar, butter, coffee, tea and potatoes.

The students will eat with their fingers as did the Romans and will try to follow as nearly as possible the Roman ways.

They will be greeted at the door by slaves Janet Walters and Eulanie Ellis, who will say "Pax Domini." After the greeting, an offering of pennies to the Gods before entering the dining room.

The cafeteria will be decorated with wall murals by slaves Jan Sanders, Jo Anne Bennett, Dreka Zova, Berdene Laycock, Dolores Miller, Dianne Crawford, Mary Ellen Hawkins and Jane Hampton.

The first year classes are in charge of the dining room, the second year class is in charge of the meal, and the third year class is in charge of the general arrangements of the program.

Joyce Harrah, Mary Jo Steward, and Betty Nelson are in charge of invitations, which are to be made as miniature slates.

Betty Wilson, Eulanie Turner, and Geraldine Perkins are in charge of the placecards. Designs will be kept secret.

The consuls and Scribes (the presidents and secretaries) will relay messages from the group to their respective clubs.

Government May Be Forced To Prop Up Wheat Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government "very likely" will be forced to prop up wheat prices if present export curbs are kept intact, says Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.
Anderson referred to a requirement spelled out by Congress last year that at least 150,000,000 bushels of wheat be kept on hand in this country at all times.
The cabinet officer, in a letter to Senator Young (R-ND), said he favors repealing this "carry-over" requirement.

be carried over, in addition to government-held stocks for export, will very likely in the face of favorable crop prospects, force prices below support levels at a time when the demand for wheat to meet the emergency food requirements of foreign countries is urgent.

In reply to a question from Young as to the "feasibility" of exporting more than the administration goal of 450,000,000 bushels of wheat are fed to livestock and domestic food usage does not exceed 500,000,000 bushels.

Anderson said an "inflexible legal limitation" on stocks carried over will tend to cause serious market disturbances toward the end of the marketing year.
"Very likely the brunt of such disturbances would be borne by producers. Under such conditions farmers, the grain trade, and millers should be in a position to reduce their inventories of old wheat to a level consistent with operating requirements."
The secretary said that during the next four years, while foreign demand may be expected to continue, the carry-over stocks should be held down as long as production continues at high levels.

One possible roadblock to speedy Senate action is the determination of the revisionist group to reduce the $5,300,000,000 authorization for the first 12 months to around $4,000,000,000.
"I personally feel that even $4,000,000,000 is too high," Wherry said.
But backers of the program say they will beat off all attempts to cut the outlay.
"I think we can lick it," declared Senator Connally of Texas, ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

AS LONG AS I LIVE

by Ione Sandberg Shriber
© BY IONE SANDBERG SHRIBER, DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Ann Bancroft—she has been married—suddenly becomes terrified. Someone has seized the keys of her new brown coupe. Someone who evidently wants her to slip and fall down the steep stairs at the Yolk. Ann discovers the man of wax in her closet. Meanwhile, Laurie and Rinda are waiting impatiently for her to go to the country club house. Laurie's niece, for lunch, Rinda is Ann's 18-year-old sister. Rinda was Ann's college roommate. Just come to Tophill for a long delayed visit. Ann makes excuses for holding them up.

THEY walked down the upstairs hall to the staircase, the three of them, Laurie and Rinda and Ann. Rinda, tall and dark and elegant; Laurie and Ann both smaller, their soft red hair marking them indubitably as sisters. Then Laurie hurried on ahead, running almost, as Ann had started to do earlier.

Laurie's high heels clattered noisily on the steps and it was all Ann could do not to cry out, to tell Laurie not to run, to warn her that the steps were treacherous. Except that to do so would be to give herself away, admit her knowledge of danger, her awareness of peril. She bit back the words and Laurie reached the top of the stairs, wheeled by the grandfather clock to say, "I'll get the car started—", and flew on down, out of sight.

Rinda laughed.
"She makes me feel my age," she said and Ann nodded.
She and Rinda went down the steps together, as they had gone down other steps in the past, side by side. Steps that had led to classrooms, to house parties, to week-ends in New York. (It was Rinda who had said, "Wear those beautiful," and Ann, shivered, moved a little away from Rinda, and then glanced at her surreptitiously to see if she had noticed.)
Silly of her to move away from Rinda just because Rinda had admired her shoes. Just because Rinda had said, "Wear them today," didn't mean that she wanted to see Ann break her neck.

But she must be careful. Little things—such as instinctively moving away from Rinda—those were the things she must guard against because they were the things that would betray her.
They reached the foot of the stairs, went through the hall, and out the front door into the sunshine. Laurie was already behind the wheel of the convertible.
The top of the blue car was down and the sunbeams played familiarly in Laurie's hair. She was racing the motor, the car door was open. Ann knew, suddenly and irrevocably, that she couldn't go with them. She couldn't. She was afraid.

Laurie looked up impatiently and Ann said, weakly, "I can't go."
Rinda had started down the steps but she stopped stock-still, turned around, peered up at her. Rinda said, "What's wrong?"
Ann said, "Nothing."
She wished her lips wouldn't persist in being so dry, her throat so tight. "It's my head," she said. "It's bursting. Migraine. I guess I've had it all morning but I thought it would get better." How easily it lies came to her lips. "I'm sure, Rinda, but I'd better go to bed."
"Come on, Laurie called and Rinda, giving Ann an anxious look, went down to the car and explained.
Laurie looked up, her face instantly concerned.
"You do look a little green around the gills," she said candidly. "What a shame. Shall I tell Rush better luck next time?"
Laurie didn't argue, didn't protest, after to call off the whole uncheon. When Rinda said, in her soft voice, "I'll come with you and tuck you in," she was able to

In her mind's eye she saw once again the gardener plunging to his death. She heard his scream of terror as he fell. Had it been an accident? Or had the bridge been supposed to collapse—not when Luke stepped upon it, but when Ann did?

Tophill. The address scrawled in almost childish letters was a far cry, too, from Rinda's distinctive penmanship. The envelope looked as though it came from a five and ten. She frowned at the postmark.
Cheyenne, Cheyenne, Wyoming. Who on earth was writing to her from there? She didn't know a soul in the whole state of Wyoming, let alone Cheyenne. She slid her finger along the poorly glued envelope, drew out two sheets of lined tablet paper, read the pencilled words.
"Dear Mrs. Bancroft," the letter read, "I would of sent you a bill before but I was called home suddenly by the death of my father. Now that I am back here I have decided to stay so I am enclosing a bill for the work I done on the bridge in the garden the week before I left. I would of told Luke but I didn't see him before I left that he better have someone check the bridge again in about six months because when rope is exposed to all kinds of weather that way it's easy for it to get frayed. Right now it's in A-1 shape and you shouldn't have trouble with it before fall. If you'll send the check to 21 Ford St., Cheyenne, Wyoming, I'd sure be real obliged."
It was signed J. M. Stark.

DAZEDLY she looked at the second sheet of the letter. It was a bill. For $7.50. For inspection and work on the swing bridge in the Bancroft garden the 23rd of May.
You shouldn't have any trouble with it before fall.
Fall.
This man—this person whom she had never seen, this J. M. Stark—had been in the Bancroft gardens on the twenty-third of May. He had checked the pretty little swinging bridge.
Today was the seventh of June. This Mr. Stark had checked the bridge a week before Decoration Day. He had checked it and left it in A-1 shape exactly one week before the accident.
An accident? Had it been an accident? Or had the pretty little bridge been supposed to collapse—not when Luke stepped upon it, but when Ann did?

The thought, like some evil imp, had been waiting to pounce. In her mind's eye she saw once again the gardener, Luke, plunging to his death, as he fell; she saw the picnic basket as it hurtled through the soft spring air, its contents spilling out.
An accident? Had it been an accident? Or had the pretty little bridge been supposed to collapse—not when Luke stepped upon it, but when Ann did?

SHE didn't realize until she was inside her room and had locked the door that she was panicking slightly. Her head hurt. That was funny, after she'd made up the headache.
She sat down on the edge of the bed. Her weight made the green chintz dust ruffle crumple slightly on the carpet. She looked at the letter she held in her hand. Three weeks ago it had been Rinda's letter.
The top letter was a far cry from the fashionable stationery Rinda had used to say she was coming to

Chinese Women Choose Practical Studies
In China, as in America, the trend among women students as well as among men students in the colleges seems to be away from "cultural studies," and toward economics, agriculture, and engineering—the "practical studies." President Y. G. Chen, of the mission-supported University of Nanking, reports that there are five women to one man in the University this year, and that the largest number of the 1,160 students are enrolled in the College of Agriculture. Of the women in the College, the greatest number are enrolled in the Department of Horticulture.
