Light Vote In Second Primary

Interest was at a low ebb in the run off of the Democratic Primary yesterday. In all Gray County, a scant 2,000 went to the polls.

G. L. "Nat" Lunsford was the victor in the Precinct 2 commissioner race, besting G. H. Kyle by 154 votes. Dwyer for County Commissioner, Precinct 4, to the tune of 132 votes. And Lefors gave Mrs. Gladys Pafford 82 votes more for justice of the peace, Precinct 1, than W. R. Combs.

County voters favored Robert W. Hamilton for associate justice of the Supreme Court, Place 1, with a margin of 815 over J. Edwin Smith.

Only 1,899, a rough 30 per cent of the eligible voters, cast their run off ballots.

Lunsford scored 660; Kyle, 504; Dwyer, 417; Tibbets, 283; Pafford, 265; Combs, 123; Hamilton, 1,307; and Smith, 592.

Car Theft Spree Ends Near Groom

A car-stealing spree by a fifteen-year-old Missouri boy ended late Friday night when alert highway patrolmen questioned the 14 year old Groom as he changed a tire on the highway shoulder.

Leslie Marshall Hudson, who was released July 3 from the Missouri boys' reformatory at Booneville, Mo., was in the Gray County Jail Saturday as county officials awaited word from the probation board of the Missouri reformatory as to disposition of the case.

Hudson took a 1955 Ford in Shamrock Friday about 9:30 p.m., and drove to McLean where the automobile ran out of gasoline. In McLean, Hudson picked up a 1956 Buick and headed for Groom. On the way, a tire on the car blew out and highway patrolmen stopped a short time later to assist the boy.

After close questioning by the officers, Hudson admitted the thefts and was taken to Pampa where he spent Friday night in the city jail. He will either be returned to Missouri authorities or enter the Texas reform school for boys, officials said.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hardware.

Smith, 39; Hamilton, 132; Kyle, 79; Lunsford, 121.

Precinct 6, Laketon — Smith, 3; Hamilton, 21; Pafford, 9; Combs, 17.

Precinct 8, Hopkins — Smith, 0; Hamilton, 10.

The absentee vote gave Smith, 32; Hamilton, 56; Pafford, 6; Combs, 16; Kyle, 38; Lunsford, 35; Dwyer, 6; and Tibbets, 28.

El Paso's Hamilton In Solid Lead

Robert W. Hamilton of El Paso took a solid lead Saturday night over Houston attorney J. Edwin Smith in the runoff battle for a Supreme Court seat.

In the only state-wide race in the lightly-voted second Democratic primary, Hamilton showed 94,932 votes to Smith's 76,713, with 97 of the 254 counties reporting, 3 of them complete.

Smith was carrying Harris county — his home — by a large margin. However, Hamilton, favored to win, was carrying most other large cities.

Voting was extremely light. In the West Texas county of Irion, only 20 persons voted. That county went for Hamilton, 19-1.

Three state Senate positions were at stake.

In District 3, Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin took off with 4,614 votes compared to 3,610 for his opponent, former Rep. Frank Carpenter of Sour Lake, in the battle to succeed retiring Sen. Otis Lock. Joe B. Swanner of Brownwood counted 7,829 votes to 5,454 for Louis Crump in the race to see who will replace Sen. Carlos Asa in District 16.

In Harris county, former state Rep. Robert W. Baker took a commanding 23,814 compared to 15,420 for former state Rep. Charles A. Murphy Jr. They are racing to take the seat being vacated by Sen. Searcy Bracewell.

Wheeler, Hemphill Returns

WHEELER — Wheeler County voters favored Earnest Henderson and O. W. Pendleton for County Commissioners and Robert W. Hamilton for the Supreme Court yesterday on the run off ballot. Hamilton also led in Hemphill County.

Pendleton got 242 votes for Wheeler County commissioner, Precinct 2, to R. D. Mason's 155. In the Precinct 4 race, Henderson scored 484 to Dean McMurtry's 482. In the closest race reported in the Top o' Texas.

Hamilton picked up 722 in Wheeler County and 29 in Hemphill for associate justice of the Supreme Court, Place 1. J. Edwin Smith received 278 and 1, respectively.

Russia May Okay Test Ban

Initial Propaganda Blast Is Expected

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American officials predicted Saturday that Russia would accept a U.S.-British proposal to negotiate an international nuclear test ban after an initial propaganda blast.

These officials said they expected the Russians to milk every possible drop of propaganda from the proposal. But in the end, they said, the Russians have little choice but to go along.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan put forward the proposal Friday to suspend their nuclear tests for one year beginning Oct. 31 if the Soviet Union would start negotiations then on a permanent test and a control system to prevent cheating.

In official Soviet news agency Tass kicked off the expected Russian propaganda blast against the proposal.

Geneva First Step
It criticized the United States and Britain for putting off a halt in weapons tests until Oct. 31 and delaying negotiations for a permanent ban until that date. But the Tass statement did not say Russia would refuse to go along with the Western suggestions.

Experts have interpreted the criticism as nothing more than Soviet efforts to harvest propaganda hay while they can. They said they firmly expect Russia to go along with the general proposal.

Otherwise, officials said, Russia would not have followed her scientists to agree at the Geneva scientific meeting earlier this week on a feasible method of enforcing a test ban by inspection procedures.

Refusal to negotiate on a political level now would put the Soviet Union in a very awkward position, they said.

U.S. Defense Department officials, meanwhile, took the position that a one-year test suspension would do relatively little harm to the American weapons program.

Ask Armament Controls
A top Pentagon nuclear expert told United Press International that "we always object to anything that interferes with progress" in weapons development. But he said the Defense Department was in a position to "take in stride" the suspension.

Military men pointed out that the United States is "much further along in nuclear weapons development" as a result of the summer test series in the Pacific. The tests disclosed progress toward development of warheads for antiaircraft and anti-missile missiles, one of the most advanced types of nuclear weapons.

As for the negotiations, informed sources emphasized the United States plans to press Russia for agreement on a cutoff of fissionable material for weapons production and control of conventional armaments, and other disarmament features.

If no satisfactory progress is made toward these goals, the sources said, the United States would at some point call off its voluntary test suspension.

J. KIRK DUNCAN
... With United Fund

Duncan Heads United Fund Division

J. Kirk Duncan will head the Individual Drive of the Pampa United Fund Campaign, according to Clyde Dickerson, general drive chairman.

As chairman of the Individual Drive, Duncan will contact farmers, ranchers and others not involved in big business.

This will be Duncan's third year with the Individual Drive. He has also served in the Pampa Youth and Community Center Campaign.

"My interest in the United Fund comes from working with the milk fund," Duncan told The News yesterday. His father, Ivy Duncan, is chairman of the milk fund.

Through the milk fund phase of the United Fund, a needy child can get a pint of milk a day.

Duncan's responsibility is contacting those who live on farms or ranches, are retired or operate businesses out of their homes.

Red Chinese Bombard Quemoy Isle

By AL KAFF
United Press International

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Communist Chinese artillery bombarded Nationalist China's Quemoy Islands Saturday night with the heaviest shelling to date in the war of the Formosa Strait.

Freshly reported by the ministry of national defense said that between 55,000 and 80,000 rounds of high explosive shells were fired at the four major Quemoy Islands in a two-hour period that started after dark.

There were no casualty or damage reports available in Taipei. But casualties and damage were certain to be high. Forty-seven thousand farmers and fishermen and almost as many soldiers live on the Quemoy Islands.

About 29 U.S. Army military advisers are based on the Quemoy. Their fate was not known. A spokesman for the U.S. Taiwan (Formosa) Defense Command said Saturday night no word had been received from the American Army officers and men acting as advisers to the Nationalist garrison on the offshore islands.

Cabot Shops, Inc., Back In The Gun Barrel Business

By JOHN TEED
Pampa News Staff Writer

Cabot Shops, Inc., Ordnance Division, west of Pampa on the Amarillo highway, went back into gun barrel production this week for the first time since Oct. 27, 1955.

The ordinance plant employs about 100 men, running two shifts each day, and will produce 90 mm. gun barrels to be installed on Army tanks.

Cabot's present contract is for 1800 barrels at a total cost around $2 million dollars. Tentative plans now call for Cabot to use the ordinance plant for a variety of industrial purposes when its present contract is completed. Ownership of the equipment in the plant is shared by Cabot and the government while Cabot owns the building and land connected with the operation.

While most of the plant operators are local workers hired expressly for work on the tank barrels or were moved from other jobs with the Cabot companies, five employees who were with the plant during its former operation have returned to supervise operations here. They are John Warner, melting superintendent; Glen Weidant, melter; Ralph Esson, melter; Oral McDowell, chief chemist; and George Perette, metallurgist. Other top brass for the project includes Dick Caster, plant superintendent, who was moved to the ordinance division from Cabot Shops; and Don Forsha, factory control manager for Cabot and overall supervisor for the ordinance division. R. A. Baker is general manager of Cabot Shops, Cabot furnace. The ordinance plant was open and operating during World War II and the Korean War; however, production of all those times included many different barrels for tanks and howitzers.

Third Annual Flower Show Held Saturday

The Pampa Garden Club and the Pampa Rose Society jointly held their Third Annual Pampa Flower Show Saturday in the Lovett Memorial Library. Better than 150 entries in the various divisions were received by co-chairmen W. S. Brant and Mrs. Martin Stubbe.

Big winners in the show were Mrs. A. F. Johnston, 200 Christine, sweepstakes winner in the horticulture division; and Lorene Price, Pampa Rt. 1, sweepstakes winner in the artistic arrangement division.

Judges for the show were six Amarillo women, Mrs. Joe D. Deason, Mrs. E. L. Jenkins, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. Florence Daniel, Mrs. Charles O'Dell, and Mrs. Ted Lokey. All but Mrs. Lokey, who is a student judge are nationally accredited flower show judges, having earned this status by three years of study including flower show participation as entrant and student judge, attendance at schools, and written study materials and examinations.

Divisions included in this year's show were horticulture, roses, bulbous and tuberous plants, potted plants, artistic arrangement on the themes of Panhandle history and industry, men's arrangements, and children's displays.

The only flaw in the voyage was Danish Premier H.C. Hansen's decision last Thursday that it would be too dangerous to let the Skate visit Copenhagen, the Danish capital, after its calls at famous old Viking port when it arrived after 24 days in polar ice territory.

The pretty, blue-eyed blondes for which Norway is famous led the town's welcome, a move that was popular with the crew whose first order of business was a spell of shore leave.

The Skate, skippered by Cmdr. James F. Calvert of Cleveland, Ohio, had been at sea since July 30, when it sailed from New London, Conn., to expand the knowledge of polar navigation begun by the Pole-conquering Nautilus.

From the strategic viewpoint, the Skate was bringing much more important data back from its longer trip on the new seaway stretching between Soviet Siberia and North America via the North Pole.

Denmark may have banned the Skate from a courtesy visit to Copenhagen because of its possible nuclear radiation risk, and Britain may have shunned her sister ship the U.S.S. Nautilus—due in New York Monday—to the small port of Portland, England, for a similar reason, but there was nothing but hospitality and friendship for the Skate and its crew at this famous old Viking port when it

US Atomic Submarine Skate Is Greeted In Norway Port

By MICHAEL SARS
United Press International

BERGEN, Norway (UPI)—The U.S. atomic submarine Skate made port Saturday to be greeted by most of Bergen's population who turned out to show they weren't afraid of any possible radiation danger.

The Skate, just back from a historic cruise into Arctic waters, made Bergen its first port of call since crossing under the North Pole ice cap.

The harbor master's office said she docked "just like any other ship" in cloudy but bright weather.

OUTWARD TO THE STARS (1)—Ancient Man

(1) To ancient man the stars must have seemed very close.

As agriculture was learned, the stars played an important part in his life. He recognized their regular movements with the seasons. Later, man began to make gods of the stars. Then he transferred his earthly gods to the heavens. It was only natural.

(2) The Babylonians, from their temples, were first-rate observers. (The Tower of Babel was an observatory as well as a temple.) They saw that the planets seemed to move "through" the constellations. From this they devised the zodiac and the

(3) The Greeks early realized that the earth must be a sphere (Anaximander, about 600 B.C.).

Pythagoras developed the idea further. He conceived the universe to be made up of layers, like an onion. Pythagoras had discovered the mathematics of music. He thought that as the Moon sphere, Sun sphere, planet spheres, etc., revolved about the earth and each other they produced harmonies—the "music of the spheres." Other Greeks, particularly Hipparchus (c. 150

'Co-Existence' With Arabs Is Best Hope

By ELIAV SIMON
United Press International

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Informed Israeli sources believe that the best the West can hope for now in the Middle East is a measure of co-existence with Arab nationalism, just as in Europe and elsewhere the West co-exists with Russia.

But this is only possible, these sources say, if, in the Middle East, as in Europe, the West has a deterrent to further expansion. President Eisenhower's recent six-point plan outlined at the U.N. gives no indication of erecting such a barrier. It dangles a carrot before the eyes of Arab nationalists, in the form of massive economic aid designed to win their "good behavior."

But no whip has been brandished as an alternative should the carrot fail to achieve its purpose—as these sources believe it will.

These quarters base their thinking on the premise that Arab nationalism is implacably and irrevocably opposed to the West, just as Russia is, and that it will do everything in its power to eradicate the last vestiges of Western influence from the region.

warned it will cross only at its peril, Israeli quarters feel.

Ultimate Fate?

These sources believe that the ultimate fate of Jordan remains unaffected by anything the West has done in recent weeks. The days of Hussein's regime are numbered and there has been no let-up in subversive activity and plotting there, mainly with the aid of agents from across the border with Syria.

These sources believe, however, that one of the few stabilizing factors affecting the situation in Jordan has been the knowledge that, if King Hussein's regime were overthrown, Israel might play an active role, occupying at least part of that country.

While the situation in Jordan remains highly precarious, these sources believe that a considerable improvement has come about in Lebanon, and that there is some chance that it might be successfully "neutralized."

Iraq still remains something of an enigma. The coup there was, of course, Nasserist, but it is still not clear how far it was under the direct control of Nasser himself and how far its leaders will act independently.

While there is a close spiritual affinity between Cairo and Baghdad and both share the same aims, a number of considerations between Russia herself and Russia's Arab nationalist proteges.

A 'No-Holds-Barred' Fight Against Inflation Is A 'Must'

(Editor's note: Economic advisers to President Eisenhower are convinced he must take a no-holds-barred stand against inflation. A United Press International reporter, in interviews with highly placed advisers, reports the current administration feeling about the danger of unchecked inflation.)

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The men who most influence the administration's economic policies are convinced it must take a no-holds-barred stand against inflation. They believe the only policy that can succeed in the long run is one which seeks to keep the consumer price level stable. They contend a policy of allowing even modest or creeping inflation—perhaps only 2 or 3 per cent a year—cannot succeed. Permitted to creep, inflation is likely to run or even gallop, they say.

Can a government in a free enterprise society in which wages and prices are not controlled keep the price level constant without stunting economic growth?

Rules Out Controls

The President's key economic aides, conservative by nature, are reluctant to go out on a limb and say "yes." They are equally reluctant to say "no," even in private conversations, for that would be conceding defeat.

As one White House adviser put it, they are "fervently hopeful."

Only Wednesday the President told his news conference he has ruled out wage or price controls for the foreseeable future.

That leaves the administration with three major weapons with which to fight possible future inflation:

- Appeals to business and labor to refrain from undue price boosts and wage demands.
- Economy in government with elimination of all but essential spending.
- Control of the money supply.

make the Iraqi leaders hesitate before throwing in their lot completely with Egypt.

While Russia can rely on Nasser to continue his disruptive work in the Sudan, Libya, Arabia and the Persian Gulf, she herself, it is believed, will begin to take a closer interest in a country on which she has always cast greedy eyes—Iran.

With the crumbling of the Baghdad Pact, Iran is now in a vulnerable position, sandwiched between Russia herself and Russia's Arab nationalist proteges.

SPACE RELATIONSHIP

"Space Relationship" is one of the key phrases in the modern architect's vocabulary. And with good reason. Today's new homes, as a rule, are smaller in actual dimensions than homes of the past, yet they appear luxuriously large in spite of their modest size. This is due to fewer rooms with well-planned space relationship and the careful selection and arrangement of furniture that makes the most of every inch of space. Many of the new rooms are dual-purpose rooms.

In dual-purpose rooms, the style and scale of the furniture used in the dining area, for instance, should be related to that in the living area groupings. The free-space plan in the room sketched above shows a striking example of big performance in a relatively small area. The room's background has been kept to one color - pale sand-dune beige. Aquamarine blue sofa and lounge chairs give the room

The Pampa plant makes its own steel from raw materials shipped here from points all over the world. Plate and structural metal of low phosphorus and sulphur content is shoveled into the furnace where varying amounts of chrome, vanadium, manganese and other metals are added. The interior of the furnace, lined with heat-resistant brick, is heated to temperatures several hundred degrees above 300 degrees Fahrenheit. This process takes about six hours.

The molten steel is held at approximately 3000 degrees for about four hours before it is "tapped", or poured from the furnace. During the heating of the raw materials, various materials known as slag are shoveled onto the top of the liquid steel in the furnace three times or more. These materials are placed on the steel at certain temperatures and the combination of a particular slag and a particular temperature cause impurities such as phosphorus, sulphur, and oxygen to combine with the slag. After the impurities have combined, the slag is raked of the top of the steel.

During the heating process, minute portions of the molten metal are ladled out of the furnace and taken to the chemistry lab at the plant where an analysis of its contents is made. Measurements of the raw materials to go into the fifteen tons of steel are made accurate to one-half a pound. Heat is supplied to the mixture by three giant graphite electrodes which are capable of producing up to 5,000 kilowatts. Kilowatt input is very high in the initial stages of heating and tapers down as the heat increases. About half of each electrode is consumed in each 15-ton batch of steel.

When the steel reaches the temperature and state of purity demanded by Cabot's high specification levels, a giant ladle or pot which has been preheated is lowered into a pit next to the furnace. The furnace is tipped toward the ladle and molten steel at about 3000 degrees, is poured into its brick-lined interior. The ladle is then carried by cranes to vertical ingot molds, each of which holds about 8000 lbs. of steel. In the three or four minutes while the steel is in the ladle, it cools several hundred degrees.

The process of pouring the molten steel into the ingot molds, which are coated to resist heat, is known as "teeming." The ladle has a nozzle in the bottom through which a thin stream of liquid metal is teemed into the molds.

When the steel has cooled to 1650 degrees, the ingots are transferred to horizontal gas furnaces where the temperature is raised to 2300 degrees during a four-hour interval. After attaining the 2300 degree temperature, the ingots are Policemen were investigating a soft drink vending machine break-in Saturday. The theft occurred Friday night at the Bennett Truck Stop, 801 W. Brown.

The thieves pried the lock on the cash box door and escaped with approximately five dollars in dimes. Police in Pampa are also on the lookout for a bilfold lost Thursday night in match competition. Range lengths at the base are 25 and 50 yards.

Phone Co. Employee Is Honored

Officials and employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. gathered at Poole's Drive Inn here Saturday night to honor Roy Byerly, 1524 N. Starkweather, on his 35th anniversary with the Bell system. Byerly is now serving the Pampa area office as wire chief, in charge of all plant operations, installations, and repairs.

A gold pin commemorating Byerly's 35 years of service was presented to the Pampa by Homer T. Estes of Amarillo, Bell's plant superintendent for this district. Byerly also received a gold Tissot watch from his fellow workers inscribed with his name and "35 years." Presentation of the watch was made by Bruce Cox, Pampa plant foreman.

Byerly began his career with Northwestern Bell Telephone in South Dakota in 1923. Moving to Fort Worth in 1925, Byerly came to Pampa in 1948 as plant foreman. He was named wire chief in 1956. Pampa's telephone wire chief is a member of the Kiwanis Club and the First Methodist Church.

Lebanese US Soldier Rebel Shoots

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A rebel sniper wounded an American soldier strolling in Beirut's "liberty area" and three Navy men were seized and questioned for more than five hours in a luxurious rebel hideout, military authorities disclosed Saturday.

Lebanese government officials indicated that these incidents and the serious wounding of a French official as he drove through the city might bring a massive security crackdown and possibly even a state of emergency.

The three Navy men were released unharmed. Maj. Gen. Paul DeWitt Adams, commander of all American land forces in Lebanon, was injured slightly when his personal helicopter crashed today during a tour of troop positions north of Beirut. The helicopter lost power and dropped 800 feet into 10 feet of water about 75 feet from shore. Adams, of Heflin, Ala., and his pilot, Maj. Otto W. Huebner, of Chicago, swam to shore and were picked up by paratroopers who saw the accident.

Man Fined On Driving Charge

Cletus Rex Pruet Jr., 525 S. Somerville, entered a plea of guilty to driving while intoxicated charges in Gray County Court Saturday morning before Judge Bruce Parker. Pruet was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in the county jail.

Pampa Visitor Remembers Byrd's Visit To Antarctica

By WALLACE TRUEDELL
Pampa News Staff Writer

Admiral Byrd rode in on an icebreaker from New Zealand to McMurdo Sound. Commander John Vandale, says casually, "Reaching Antarctica, Byrd put up on Vandale's ship, the USS Wyandot, a large cargo ship fitted for ice operations. That was in 1955. Vandale is on leave from the Navy Department in Washington, D. C. Coming West to visit his mother in Amarillo, he made it over to Pampa with Ben Gull, vice chairman of the Federal Maritime Board and son-in-law to C. P. Buckler, and stayed at the Buckler home, 410 Buckler. Vandale has some tales to tell about the Antarctic, in which the villain is ice, and some words for the late Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who he considers "an idealistic individual with common sense and ability."

In the fall of '55, the Wyandot posed into McMurdo Sound with a cargo of equipment for the US air installation. "An icebreaker plowed out a channel for us to get in," Vandale recalls. The aviation detachment made sure that the airstrip was on ice that was "sure fastened."

Supplies were taken onto the ice by tractor and sled trains. The Wyandot also furnished logistic support for the planes that made aerial reconnaissance of the continent. Logistics is a military term, relating to the supply service.

Byrd rode in on the icebreaker in December on his last visit to either of the polar regions. Since Byrd made news wherever he went, the Wyandot was graced with an Associated Press correspondent and a correspondent from the New York Times.

Runways progressed in the shadow of Mount Erebus, an active but dormant volcano. Mount Erebus tops the continent at 14,010 feet. Vandale gives the average elevation as 10,000 feet.

"The airstrip was in temporary operation within five days after our arrival," Vandale says. "It was self sustaining and in an operating condition by the time we left in February."

There was reason for haste. The ice was beginning to form and "once it does, you are beset until the following year." Vandale predicts. The Antarctic summer was over. The Wyandot sailed out through the pack ice unescorted and, after dropping off additional supplies at Little America, went into Auckland, N. Z. to thaw out. "We returned to Norfolk, Va. by Cape Horn, the East Coast of South America, Montevideo, Uruguay and Rio de Janeiro," he recounts.

Vandale is now serving as field liaison officer with the Navy Recruiting Division in hot, hot Washington. He was in the office of Naval Operations before his trip to the Antarctic. Vandale has been in the Navy 17 years. He served in the Atlantic and Pacific during the last war.

This being International Geophysical Year, "Eleven nations have stations or some type of scientific establishment on the continent of Antarctica," says Vandale.

Sen. Johnson Runs Scared, Takes Little For Granted

By WILLIAM THEIS
United Press International

Lyndon B. Johnson, the lanky Texan who must take the credit record, is a fellow who runs scared and takes little for granted.

Right now he is juggling last-minute bills in advance of adjournment to make sure the record of the 85th Congress is as "complete" and "responsible" as he can make it—without starting a revolt among his campaign-eager colleagues.

Johnson, operating with an embarrassingly bare margin of one vote control in the Senate, has put through much of President Eisenhower's program—and most of his own.

That the two programs coincided at many points may be ascribed to the fact that Johnson, like Eisenhower, is a self-styled "moderate."

That the "Civil Rights" bills went through may be ascribed to Johnson's particular brand of talent at compromise and accommomodation. This 50-year-old Democrat, who suffered a serious heart attack just before President Eisenhower was stricken similarly in 1955, makes the most of everything at hand. That includes particularly his own time and that of his staff.

He prides himself on leaving nothing to chance in doing his job.

Usually, he has his votes lined up before he lets a controversial bill come to a showdown.

Colleagues recall how he produced the votes which added the jury trial amendment to last summer's voting rights bill. "We had it made," said one Democrat who opposed the amendment. "But while we were looking around for a few more votes, Lyndon went to work. When he finished we were licked."

Knowing that adjournment pressure could work in his favor, Johnson went to Texas early in August for a few days, let the Senate floor schedule slide while committees cleaned up their work. But when he returned he held the Senate in day and night session up through adjournment week.

Johnson knows what it is to operate on narrow margins. He won his Senate seat, after five terms in the House, by just 87 votes out of a million cast in his 1948 runoff election.

WASHINGTON — Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, on Denmark's refusal to let the U. S. nuclear submarine Skate dock at Copenhagen for fear of atomic mishap.

CHICAGO — State Sen. William J. Connors, Democratic ward committee man named heir to the $15,200 estate of George Allison Maloy, 81, a longtime ward precinct captain.

Kraft Mystery Theatre Is 'Terribly Underrated Show'

Television in Review
By WILLIAM EWALD

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Views and reviews:

NBC-TV's "Kraft Mystery Theatre," a terribly underrated show, pulled some superior performances Wednesday night out of a medium-cold chiller. "We Haven't Seen Her Lately." The piece was one of those things that combined foggy atmosphere with foggy plot, but it was serviceable enough as a vehicle for George Scott to wheel around in.

Scott, one of the most talented young actors in our theatre, played a weirdo gardener—one of those standard mystery story types who always seems to be burying bodies, but is really just a good guy muddying the plot—and he played it with churlish authority. He's a comer—one of those craggy-featured genies who ooze presence. Scott got some fine support from Angela Thornton, Mary Finney, Louis Edmonds and Myra Carter.

WRITER AT WORK

Wanda Campbell's 2nd Book Due Friday

By WALLACE TRUESDELL
Pampa News Staff Writer

In Wanda Campbell's new book, one of the characters says, "It could only happen in the Texas Panhandle." The story of Pampa's most thriving author is as vivid as any of the Panhandle history that she weaves in and out of her stories.

"The Mystery of McClellan Creek" is the second production of Mrs. Johnny Campbell, the mother of Mary Jay, Bill, Julia and John. Her first book was published in 1957. Focusing on the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum, she called it "The Museum Mystery."

Mrs. Campbell is still writing mysteries. Her latest will be released Friday by her publishers, E. P. Dutton & Company Inc. of New York. At 8 p.m. Thursday the Twentieth-Century-Cotillion Club will hold a reception in Lovett Memorial Library, at which Mrs. Ois Nace will review the mystery.

So Mrs. Campbell is riding high on the dark horse of mystery. Her mystery writing for young people has won her a place in the Mystery Writers of America along with Rex Stout, Earle Stanley Gardner and other literary detectives.

The roof of Texas is home to the woman writer of mystery, who came to Pampa from Trent when she was 12, who graduated from Pampa High School at 16 and worked for the Pampa News before and after college.

Her forefathers, she will tell you, reached Texas in 1834, making her a fifth generation Texan. Sensitive to the spirit of Texas, she tries to do for the canyons of the Panhandle what other writers have done for the rivers and mountains of the Southeast. But like Mark Twain, Ellen Glasgow, Paul Green, et al., she seeks to interest a world of people in the life of her locale.

Weaker writers would have given up before they started. Some writers keep regular office hours. With four children, this one does not. But she writes.

Her only published work before "The Museum Mystery" was an article in "Good Housekeeping." Her New York agent has placed both her books and probably will do the same with the next one when she has it ready for him.

Her agent is one of those who does not advertise in writer's magazines and therefore does not charge a reading fee. The literary life can be trying. Success, she confesses, does not make it any easier. There is always the next book to think about and the next book always has to be better than the last. "You're competing with yourself," she puts it.

It might be impossible. But she has always known she would be a writer. Through her years on the News, she kept the idea alive as reported, feature writer and society editor. She was fastest on the typewriter at Rodeo time when the future-filled Rodeo edition came out.

Her first book left the typewriter while she was still society editor on The News.

"It could only happen in the Texas Panhandle," she says.

should be kept close by so that the moisture of the soil can be checked every few days. From the time grain sorghum is in the boot until it matures it will need to be watered about every 13 days. Land that is too steep or uneven needs to be leveled. Leveling land and installing an underground pipe system saves a farmer a lot of time, work, and water. Also better returns from the crop are received along with the ease of operation.

Time and amounts of irrigation are very important. Deep underground moisture should be obtained before the crop is planted. Pre-watering is almost a necessity. After the crop is planted, only the first foot of soil can be watered. Too much time and water is needed to get penetration any deeper while a crop is on the land. A shovel or auger of some kind

To North Crest Bowlers

Hughes Gives A Grand

HOW CAN HE LOSE!—The richly-endowed North Crest Bowling League hasn't even started yet, but Gil Burgund, right, owner and manager of the revamped Garden Lanes here, forks over the loop's championship trophy to Jay Thompson, left, vice-president of Hughes Companies. The title trophy usually goes to the sponsor of the winning team from each league, but since Dick Hughes is sponsoring the entire North Crest League, he automatically has to get the trophy. So why wait for the season's end in April? After all, that trophy's costing Hughes over $1,000 in the long run. (Sports photo by Wally Truesdell)

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
Daily News Sports Editor

If you're a Pampa bowler, you know Dick Hughes, pioneer builder and President of Hughes Companies here and elsewhere, residents of the North Crest housing development, a Hughes enterprise, are being gold-plated served with an opportunity to unlimber Friday night muscles in one of the plush leagues in the country. Hughes, who presently holds the president's chair of the National Association of Modern Home Builders, is picking up a $1,000 tab, with which the Kegler's "dream-circuit" is being financed.

And, as if you haven't already guessed... the new loop will, of course, be known as the North Crest League. It will start rolling at the recently revamped Garden Lanes at 9 p.m. the first Friday after Labor Day.

League competition will last 33 weeks (triple round-robin schedule) ending about mid-April.

Plans call for the plush new league to be a 12-team mixed (male-female) circuit, preferably a husband-wife setup. Each of the 48 North Crest League members (two men & two women to a team) will be given colorful monogrammed shirts.

And that's not all.

Over $500 in prize money has been dropped into the "kitty" with all 12 teams figuring to get a slice of the loot at a post-season banquet already set for late April. Heaviest chunk of the dough, naturally, will be divided by the championship team's bowlers, with the runner-ups getting second top dough, and so on down the line of a dozen hardwood quartets.

Hughes, an ardent bowler himself prior to an accident that slashed a nasty gash on his firing hand, will also foot the bill for the gala post-season Awards Banquet.

"This is only the first in a series of worthwhile projects we have planned for our home owners here and elsewhere," Jay Thompson, vice-president of the Hughes Companies, said in regard to the generous goodwill gesture of his company.

The Hughes Company, currently putting the finishing touches on the last of 2,500 new homes built in Wichita Falls, has similar projects like Pampa's North Crest addition being built or already constructed in Borger, Amarillo, Grants, New Mexico; and three Oklahoma cities, Bartlesville, Clinton and Guymon.

"We feel our sponsoring of this new bowling league is a good step for linking many of the addition's home builders closer together as better neighbors, which is bound to lead to their taking an increased pride in their property and its upkeep," Thompson pointed out.

Gil Burgund, new owner and manager of the Garden Lanes here, who hopes to see bowling boom in Pampa during the next 12 months, of course, was tickled all shades of pink over the project.

"I've been around bowling for about 15 years," the former alley owner in Pasco, Washington, said, "and it's the first time I've ever heard of one man backing an entire league like this. Of course, you have your individual team sponsors, but who ever heard of just one man going all out and supporting a dozen teams at one time. It's really something."

Burgund, a likeable 54-year-old gentleman, lives in the North Crest addition, at 2312 North Rosewood Road. His home is only one of 200 in the Northwest Pampa housing development. Thompson informed that when the North Crest project is completed in about two years there will be 545 new homes in the area. "We've also got land set aside for churches, elementary schools, a park, and even a shopping center if the need should ever arise," Thompson related.

And say, Mr. Pampa Bowler, you don't have to sit on the sidelines and envy those North Crest League members. All you have to do is start mapping plans to build in the North Crest addition.

All in favor, hold up your checkbooks.

On each and every street corner, with the possible exception of Hollywood and Vine, you can catch a batch of thisms and thattums about Boxing Illness.

"Boxers just aren't hungry enough, or maybe they don't have enough ambition." That's the way the man with the Errol Flynn mustache and two garden-variety ears sized up the professional boxfight business, as he stood with an Electrolux cleaner and air purifier tucked beneath his arm.

It was Clyde Chastain, a recent graduate from the College of Very Hard Knocks, cum laude, doing the talking.

Who is this Chastain guy to make such a profound statement? Well, to start with, let's just say he's a gent who should know. He is, you see, a gent with nine years of ring campaigning and 160 pro fights behind him. Maybe, that's why he knows the inside-and-out of the boxfight business.

Chastain, who traded punches with two former World Champions and three foreign titlists during the middle-thirties, recently moved here from San Antonio following a June medical discharge (heart attack) after 18 years in the Army.

Chastain, who married the former Adaline Atteberry of Pampa, insists, "We'd like to make our home here for good. This is a wonderful climate."

The light heavyweight champ of Texas in 1935, Chastain, was twice pitted against Maxie Rosenbloom back when "Slapsie Maxie" held the World's light-heavy crown. He's also boxed welterweight champ Jackie Fields and Australian, Norwegian and Belgian champions.

CLYDE CHASTAIN
... he's been around

Clyde Sez, Too Much Mauling

Chastain, as assistant manager of the Electrolux Corporation's Amarillo branch office, had this to say about last Monday night's Floyd Patterson over Roy Harris scrap:

"Harris lacked the necessary experience. He might have done a lot better if he'd have waited a year. I think he did a fine job for the experience he had. It's an asset in his favor that he stuck in there for 12 rounder rounds like he did. The boy that has done a lot of boxing, doesn't get hurt as badly as those guys who stand flat-footed and swing."

Except for a few thin eyebrow scars and his "cauliflower" flappers, Clyde still retains his fighting weight of 172. The former Army Physical Therapist is quite emphatic in his argument that fighters of today don't give the fan's their money's worth.

Stablemate With Mushy

The Texas tiger had only four amateur bouts before turning professional. As a member of the Oklahoma National Guard he attended the Guard's summer training at Fort Sill in 1927 and entered the Guard's boxing tournament.

He won four tournament bouts and was crowned Oklahoma National guard champ at 18. Upon returning to Oklahoma City, where he was then residing, he hit the pro trail, fighting four rounds and raising and semi-windup bouts. After 25 fights he was heading Oklahoma boxing cards.

Just after turning 19 his contract was bought by Eddie Sears, then

PAMPA BOXERS RECEIVE 'LOW BLOW' DECISION

A dozen young Pampa punchers got a "low blow" Saturday when word came from Panhandle Regional Golden Glove director, Duke Nally, in Amarillo that a scheduled Friday night boxing show in Amarillo has been canceled.

Some of the better young boxers of the Panhandle area were slated to meet a group of Fort Worth batters in a Friday night program, but the matches were called off when Fort Worth officials called in saying most of their kids would either have their hands full with football or be working.

The Fort Worth group said the best they could do would be to bring three fighters to Amarillo, and that it hardly seemed worth the while.

Pampa boxers won several matches in a similar show last August in Amarillo against Fort Worth boxers from Borger, Plainview, Levelland and Clovis, N.M., were also expected to be at this year's meet before it was called off.

A native Texan (born 48 years ago in Avinger), Clyde softened his verbal blows in the second round. "Money isn't so hard to get anymore these days and many of our youngsters won't sacrifice, and spend the hard grueling years of training and fighting small club bouts to reach the top. I was the sole support of my family at 19. If I showed up for a fight out of condition or didn't give it my best, there were a dozen other youngsters just aching for the chance to show their stuff."

New Football Era Starting

Pampa High ushers in a new football era here Friday morning with the launching of fall grid training, and if there's strength in numbers like they say, the Harvester faithful can spade up a spot in the backyard right now and bury all pre-season pessimism.

For reporting to new head coach, Babe Curfman, will be 73 young huskies, who'll form both the Pampa High A and B squads.

Before the first leather is popped, Curfman and his four man staff are not certain just which boys will play for the varsity or Harvester and just which boys will be carried on the B-team or Shocker roster.

"They've all got equal opportunities to make the varsity," Curfman said Friday afternoon as he stood watching his aides with hammer and nail put together some practice field equipment.

Curfman, who replaced Jack Lockett as head taskmaster here last spring, will work with line coach Duain Lyon and back coach Eural Ramsey in trying to improve on a shabby 2-8 won-loss record hung up by last autumn's Green and Gold.

Weldon (Bird Dog) Trice heads the Shockers with his assistant, Deck Wolde.

The Harvesters will have exactly 14 calendar days to whip into shape for their season opener on Sept. 12 in Wichita Falls against a Coyote eleven that has been tabbed by coaches and sportswriters as the District 4AAA favorite and one of the state schoolboy powers.

Pampa High footballers expected to report for opening day drills at 8 p.m. Friday include:

Rex Williams, Ronnie Smith, Ruben Strickland, Bobby Stephens, Mert Cooper, Keith Yager, Clovis Shipp, Buddy Rawls, Jerry Daniels, Duane Urbanczyk, Gary (See FOOTBALL, Page 8)

THEY'LL BE SOME CHANGES—The empty lawn in front of the Pampa Country Club won't look this peaceful come Thursday. For that's the day a West Texas Pro-Am kicks off the 22nd annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament. Qualifying rounds have been set for Friday and finals in a meet that is expected to lure some 160 golfers with its $2,000 in prizes will be held Sunday. Local pro, Hart Warren, looks for the best field to ever compete here to enter this year's event.

Flashy Field Expected For $2,000 Top O' Texas Meet

"You bet your sweet life we're expecting the best field we've ever had here," blurted out Hart Warren, Pampa Country Club pro, when asked how he thought this year's 22nd annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament would stack up with past events.

The initial shooting of the tournament — always held over the Labor Day weekend — starts Thursday when a West Texas Pro-Am will be held here.

Qualifying rounds will be staged Friday and a big buffet supper will be held Friday night.

Warren, hoping for an entry list of about 160, pointed out Saturday that over $2,000 in prizes would be awarded flight winners and runners-up. Day money of $50.00 will be given the championship flight medalist.

The championship flight, a 22-member setup, will be based on 72-holes of medal play. All lower flights will be match play for the first two rounds and then swing into medal play in the semi-finals and final go-rounds.

The 6:27 Pampa Country Club course has never been in better shape for a Top O' Texas Tournament, Warren reported. "We've been lucky to have so much timely rain as we've had this summer. The greens are really lush and smooth."

Only two entries had actually been made by 3 p.m. Saturday, both by mail asking to be included in the field although they could not be here for qualifying rounds. However, the mails Monday through Thursday are expected to swell the field way over the 100 mark and local golfers will try their hand at keeping some of the two grand in prizes at home will also come across with their $12.50 entrance fees by Thursday.

Last year's champ, Jim Russell of Amarillo, is expected back for this year's meet. Russell topped Pampa's Melvino Chisum to capture the championship flight crown a year ago. Chisum, playing in the Eisenhower Junior Open Golf Tournament with three of his Pampa High golf teammates from last spring, George Smith, Larry Tarvin and Johnny Ellis, Monday through Thursday, will also enter the tournament here.

Don Kaplan of Borger, the 1955 and 1956 champion, is also expected to play here. Currently a Texas Tech golfer, Kaplan holds the tournament record for 72-holes at 273, eleven strokes under par.

Texas Amateur champ, Don Masingill and Kentucky Amateur champ, Bobby Nichols, are two other big names who are expected to play here this week.

Tournament directors for this year's event are Ham Luna and Leslie Hart.

Area Kids Blast Off Tomorrow

The world's largest schoolboy football program begins opening in Texas Monday when some 20,000 gridlers hit the practice fields to start making ready for the long autumn marches towards district championships.

Squads from 728 schools plunge into fall training tomorrow as the bulk of the mighty field — Classes AA, A, B, Six-Man and Eight-Man — move into the grind.

Next Friday their big brothers — Classes AAAA and AAA — open fall practice.

The campaign this year will be the biggest in history with 815 schools participating in the seven divisions.

Class 4A, where Dallas Highland Park is defending champion, will have 190 schools. Class 3A, in which Nederland holds the title, will send 87 schools forth. First games in these divisions will be Sept. 12.

Class 2A, with Terrell as defending champion, starts the race Sept. 5 but Terrell won't get going on that date. The Tigers, overwhelming favorites to repeat, play their opening game Sept. 12, meeting Athens, the only team to beat them last season. Athens is in Class 3A.

Class 1A, which had co-champions, also begins the drive Sept. 5 and the two that tied for the title — White Oak and Mart — have their first games then. White Oak meets New London, a Class 2A outfit that beat it last season. Mart tackles Teague, also a Class 2A team.

Class 2A has 179 teams, A shows 187 and Class B 221.

Close to home, action is expected to be hottest in revamped District 2-A where four of the top coaches find themselves in the uncomfortable position of having three conference title teams on their throats.

Lefors, favored to pick up the 2-A marbles this year, tied with Memphis for the crown last year. The Pirates, however, will have to out-scrap District 1-A champ from last year, White Deer, a club that has been moved to 2-A this season.

Lefors, 33-33, in bi-district play last fall to advance deeper into the playoff picture.

Canadian has been rated an outside chance of sneaking into this year's throne — room along with Memphis. Other 2-A teams are McLean, Panhandle and Clarendon.

Perryton appears the class of District 5-AA where Shamrock, Childress, Quanah, and Wellington are members.

In District 1-B a six-club dogfight is expected between Wheeler, Groom, Claus, Follet, Texline, and Darrouzett.

The other district the Pampa Daily News will attempt to cover this fall is District 1 in the Six-Man division, where Miami, Mobeetie, Booker, Channing, Allison, and Morse.

Short burbs follow on the area football teams whose Friday night games will be covered for the Daily News:

Whatever Happened To...
BEN JOHNSON

For a time in the 1930's, Ben Johnson of Columbia held the title of "world's fastest human" when that was a popular designation for the leading sprinter of the day. Once he ran an indoor 60-yard dash so fast he was refused a world record because officials said, "It can't be right. Nobody can run that fast." have gone by the board.

Whatever happened to Ben Johnson? He is a career soldier, a lieutenant colonel serving as a battalion commander in Korea.

Texans Blank Okies In Oil Bowl, 20-0

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—The final score came in the last quarter after Karl Don Miller discovered Friday night that the still are no match for their Texas cousins except on rare occasions. The Sooners State lads had won their first Oil Bowl game in 13 years a year ago and had hoped they had at last found the combination to put an end to Texas dominance of the interstate grid warfare.

Amarillo's Russell Puts On One-Man Grid Show

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
Pampa News Sports Editor
AMARILLO — The City Slickers in general, and Texas University-bound David Russell in particular, were too slick for the underdog Sodbusters here Saturday night as they ground out a 24-12 triumph in the first annual Panhandle Grid Classic.

An excited crowd of 5,500 watched Russell, a home-town boy who started for the Amarillo High Sandies last autumn, gobble up 133 yards of real estate in 17 carries and score two of the winners' four touchdowns, on runs of six and 50 yards.

Del Ray Mounts of Perryton took the snap from center on his own 29, lateralled back to Dimmitt's Keith Lowe and the latter fired a beautiful pass to Dalhart's Gary Finch, who snuggled the ball to his chest on the Slicker 44 and outran a bewildered secondary to the goal line for a touchdown.

All told, the pass play carried 71 yards. Russell, who was named the most outstanding back in the North-South Texas Coaching School game in Houston three weeks ago Saturday night, repeated as the most outstanding back on the field here. Jim "Tank" Forrester of Wellington, a massive 220 pound tackle who only joined the Sodbuster squad on Thursday, was lauded as the top lineman in the game.

Cage Change Causes Feud

SEYMOUR, Ind. (UPI)—Members of a Southern Illinois family, including two potential basketball "greats," Saturday denied charges that undue influence was used to lure them to basketball - happy Indiana.

Joseph Stevenson said he decided to move his family from Joppa, Ill., for a better job. But the move tossed the Stevenson family into an interstate controversy over charges of "school jumping and tampering." The charges were leveled by Coach Bill Killen of the 88-pupil Joppa High School, who asked the Illinois High School Athletic Assn. to investigate.

But the elder Stevenson, his sons, Seymour school officials and John Pennybaker, a cousin of Mrs. Stevenson, denied the charges at a hearing before Commissioner L.V. Phillips of the Indiana High School Athletic Assn. in Indianapolis Saturday.

Stevenson told us he needed more money to support his family and inquired of Pennybaker about the possibility of lining up a job for him at Seymour," Phillips said.

The commissioner, however, said he instructed Joseph M. Call, the Seymour school principal, to "return to Seymour and check every angle of this case."

"It is quite possible," Phillips added, "that a hearing before our board of control will be held before this case is closed."

jumping and tampering." The charges were leveled by Coach Bill Killen of the 88-pupil Joppa High School, who asked the Illinois High School Athletic Assn. to investigate.

"I'm not running a farm system for Indiana prep teams," Killen said.

The controversy centers around Bill Stevenson, a 6 foot 6 inch sophomore who scored 420 points last year as a freshman, and his talented brother, Frank, who was slated for the varsity as a freshman.

But the elder Stevenson, his sons, Seymour school officials and John Pennybaker, a cousin of Mrs. Stevenson, denied the charges at a hearing before Commissioner L.V. Phillips of the Indiana High School Athletic Assn. in Indianapolis Saturday.

Indians, Phils Win In Drive For AL & NL First Divisions

Phil's 4, Cards 2

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Seth Morehead, with an able assist from Dick Farrell, allowed only six singles to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Farrell came on in the eighth inning with two on and none out to put down a Cardinal rally and save Morehead's first win of the season.

Sal Maglie, the Cards' starter, failed to get past the first inning. Richie Ashburn led off with a triple and scored on Solly Hemus' single. Hemus came in one out later when Wally Post slammed his eighth home run.

The Phils scored their other run in the fourth off Chuck Stobbs.

Indians 8, Bosox 1
BOSTON (UPI)—Three Cleveland home run shots into Fenway Park's chimney left field screen and two brilliant catches featured an 8-1 Indian victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Rocky Colavito, Minny Mino and Randy Jackson supplied the power that enabled Cal McLish, Cleveland's winningest pitcher to rack up his 13th win against six defeats before 12,895.

Colavito and Mino also turned in the catches. Colavito took a home run bid away from pinch-hitter Gene Stephens in the fourth, reaching into the right field stands to make the grab. Mino leaped high against the wall in left to haul down Dick Gernert's bases-loaded drive in the first inning.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Dodgers rewrote the national league record book Saturday as Don Drysdale hit two homers to equal the best mark by a pitcher and Gil Hodges smashed his 14th grand slam homer while Los Angeles demolished the Braves, 10-1.

The lanky Drysdale broke a scoreless deadlock in the fourth inning when, with shortstop Don Zimmer and outfielder Gino Cimoli on base, he smashed one of Juan Pizarro's offerings 370 feet over the left-center field screen for his sixth homer of the season.

And the next time up, in the sixth inning, Drysdale touched Pizarro for a homer over the shorter left field screen. Batterymate Joe Pignatano had preceded the Dodger pitcher with a homer in the same spot.

Bengals Win
BALTIMORE (UPI)—Al Cicotte's airtight relief pitching gave Detroit a 5-1 victory over Baltimore Saturday and lifted the Tigers back into a fourth-place tie with the Orioles.

Cicotte relieved Tiger starter Paul Foytack with two out in the fifth inning, the bases loaded and Detroit leading 4-1. He got dangerous Gus Triandos on a fly ball to left, then held the Orioles to two hits the rest of the way to win his second game in five decisions.

A's Nip Nats

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bob Martyn drove in all of Kansas City's runs as the Athletics swept a three-game series from the Senators with a 3-1 victory Saturday.

Camilo Pascual, who pitched the first eight innings for Washington, gave up only four hits, but Martyn capitalized on the only two scoring situations Kansas City had. The A's used two hits and a walk for two runs in the third and two hits in the eighth for their final run.

Bucs Clip Cubs
CHICAGO (UPI)—Ernie Banks clouted his 41st home run Saturday to pull even with Babe Ruth's 1927 record - setting pace, but it wasn't enough to overcome the steady five-hit pitching of Bob Porterfield as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 6-1.

The Pirates staked Porterfield to a 6-1 lead by the fifth inning, collecting two runs in the first on successive singles by Bill Virdon and Bob Clemente, followed by Dick Stuart's double.

A single by Dick Groat, Banks' error and Clemente's drive to short right added a run in the second inning and chased Cub starter Taylor Phillips from the mound with his eighth loss in 14 decisions.

Chisox Win, 7-1
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox trounced the New York Yankees, 7-1, Saturday on the six-hit pitching of Billy Pierce and Ray Boone's clutch hitting which drove in four runs.

Bill Skowron's 13th homer in the seventh inning was the only run allowed by Pierce, who drew an ovation from the 23,183 fans when he pitched his way out of a none-out, bases-loaded jam in the eighth by striking out Mickey Mantle and getting Skowron to bounce into a double play.

Pierce achieved his 15th victory in beating Whitey Ford, who gave up all of Chicago's runs during the seven innings he worked and suffered his seventh defeat against 14 victories.

Women's Channel Swim Record Is Shattered
DOVER, England (UPI)—Greta Anderson, a 30-year-old Danish-American athlete, swam the English Channel from France in 11 hours flat Saturday, shattering the women's record by missing the men's record by eight minutes.

Greta, maintaining a steady 50 strokes a minute, to the accompaniment of rock 'n roll music, while her nearest competitor, a man, still was three miles out.

She slipped on a slimy rock, fell into the arms of her husband-trainer, John Sornishsen, and said "I'm sorry, darling, that I didn't do it."

"That's all right, dear," he said. Miss Anderson's swim sliced an hour and 42 minutes off the previous women's record set by Britain's Brenda Fisher in September 1951.

BB's Pepper
Oriole Infielders
BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Baltimore Orioles infielders Willy Miranda and Billy Gardner were peppered with BB gun pellets during Saturday's Detroit Tigers game against the Orioles.

Miranda was struck both while at bat and in the field. Gardner was hit while kneeling in the batter's on-deck circle. The Orioles' bat boy also reported he was struck three times.

The shots were believed to come from the upper deck, but a police search failed to locate the culprit.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By STARKEY WHITEHORN
Varmint callers and predator hunters can only oil up their rifles and tune up the calls this time of the year regardless of the amount of coyotes, cats and foxes, in the Panhandle during this part of the year.

Weeds and vegetation are so high and thick and the food so plentiful that predators won't come to a call, and if they did the hunter could not see them through the tall grass and weeds.

However, there should be a large crop of cats and coyotes, and predator hunting this fall is expected to be better than it has been the last few winters.

John Wade, veteran coyote hunter via the stag and greyhound method, recently said that he caught 76 coyotes in one winter with two hounds. When coyotes get that thick the hunter can really have a heyday.

In another year or so the wolf population will hit the peak if there are no Government efforts made to kill them out.

Bridge Over A Cliff Swallow

Each summer from the top part of Texas south at least to Austin there are scores of Cliff Swallows that nest under most of the high-way bridges. All four of the concrete bridges that span the Canadian River have furnished nesting sites for this summer visitor.

The May issue of the TEXAS GAME AND FISH MAGAZINE has a very interesting article about the habits, etc., of the swallows that frequent Texas. The feature was written by Edgar Kincaid and illustrated with photos by E. P. Haddon.

According to "Architects in Adobe," the title, "A swallow could be defined as a flying insect trap. Foster E. Beal of the United States Department of Agriculture has reported that 275 Cliff Swallows collected from March to September had eaten: beetles (113 species), cotton boll weevils (687 individuals in 35 stomachs), chinch bugs, ants, bees, grasshoppers, mosquitoes, dragonflies, may flies, lace-winged flies, and just plain flies.

"So dependent are Cliff Swallows on flying insects that they must disappear before cold grounds most of the bugs. Various kinds of swallows often become extraordinarily conspicuous in late summer and early fall.

Thousands of individuals may congregate on telephone wires and in reedy marshes. Then they vanish. Many people used to think swallows dropped down into the mud to sleep all winter. (More than 60 years ago U. S. Army Surgeon Elliott Coues compiled a list of 175 books and articles that had been written on swallow hibernation.) Actually Cliff Swallows fly to South America.

Have Wings, Will Travel

With two other long-winged species the Barn Swallow and the Nighthawk (Bulbat), the Cliff Swallow shares the distinction of being the greatest traveler among United States land birds. Some individuals go 7,000 miles from Alaska to the temperate regions of Argentina.

"When cold winds usher in the Southern Hemisphere autumn, the visitors start on their return journey through the tropics and back towards North America. Why don't the little birds settle down in the Torrid Zone, where bugs fly abundantly all year? How do they navigate over thousands of miles of woodland, pasture, field, stream, and city without guidance? Science still has not answered these questions satisfactorily."

Lions Get No Sheep Supper

A "hot wire" from a six-volt battery was enough to change the mind of a sheep-hungry mountain lion at the Black Gap Wildlife Management Area in Brewster County, reports E. A. Walker, Director of Wildlife Restoration.

Cllobbered, Drew With Maxie

Chastain wasn't enticed into the army by recruiters' tales of seeing the World and all that old poppycock. He had circled the globe 10 years before, during his ring career. In 1932, Clyde's contract was bought by Pa Stribling, father of Young Stribling, and after winter fighting in Florida they departed on a 14-month tour of the world with the initial stopover, Sydney, Australia.

The still-growing 22-year-old youngster had outgrown the mid-dleweight division, and moved into the light heavyweight class. His lone loss in nine Australian fights was to Ambrose Palmer, then the reigning champ in the Land Down Under.

His next stop was Johannesburg, South Africa, where Chastain again participated in nine bouts, and again won eight. He was held to a draw by heavyweight Ben Foord. From South Africa, the group, which included Young Stribling, visited France and England before returning to the U.S.

It was during 1933 that Clyde had his first encounter with Maxie Rosenbloom. They met in a non-title light heavy scrap in Chattanooga, Tenn., and Chastain held the colorful champ to a draw. They tangled again in another non-title bout in Oklahoma City in 1935, and this time Clyde won a decision of "Slapsie Maxie."

In 1936, after absorbing a third round TKO loss to Junior Munsell, Chastain decided to hang up his gloves for keeps. This was only the third time Clyde had failed to go the distance in his nine-year, 160-pound professional career. He was never knocked out.

No Comparisons, Paleeze

The soft-spoken ex-sergeant won't step out on the limb in comparing champions of today with the oldtimers. "Rocky Marciano has an undefeated champion; you can't improve on that kind of a record." He'll tell you with a smile, "and I won't comment on his competition."

"This Sugar Ray Robinson is one fighter who could have mixed it with the boys of 20 years back," he added and then almost in the same breath said, "I always thought Joe Louis was a great champion too."

The Chastain name hasn't dropped from public eye—or better, from public ear. Another "fight-

Quast In Women's National Crown

By NORMAN MILLER United Press International
DARIEN, Conn. (UPI)—Pert, pug-nosed Anne Quast, a 20-year-old Marysville, Wash., girl with a stout heart, a sweet disposition and a brilliant sweet iron game, won the Women's National Amateur championship Saturday with a rallying 3 and 2 victory over Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif.

Three down after the morning 18 holes, the game Miss Quast crushed the far more experienced Miss Romack with a string of four birdies between the 28th and the 34th hole, where she closed out the match by hitting an approach six feet from the cup and sinking a difficult uphill putt.

It was a heartily applauded victory by the gallery of 3,000 fans at the West Burn Country Club course. Miss Quast reached the final by overcoming a three-hole deficit Friday to beat defending champion Joanne Gunderson.

Miss Romack, who won this tournament in 1954, had demonstrated a superb short iron game and used only 27 putts in forging her 3-up lead on the morning 18 holes. But her putting and short game disintegrated in the afternoon.

The attractive 26-year-old Californian missed putts of three, five and four feet during the first nine holes of the afternoon round and lost all three holes. Miss Quast won the 21st with a chip shot that stopped one foot from the cup; the 23rd when an iron shot rolled six inches from the pin, and the 27th when Miss Romack three-putted from 30 feet. Miss Quast, a senior at Stanford University majoring in history, tied the match with a birdie on the 28th hole when she chipped to within eight feet. She sank the putt after Miss Romack had driven into the road and was shot with her second.

Blue Bombers Release Pair

WINNIPEG (UPI)—The Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western division of the Canadian football league Saturday announced the release of tackle Stav Canakes and end Willard Dewveall.

Dewveall, a 22-year-old graduate of Southern Methodist University, No. 2 draft choice of the Chicago Bears this year, failed to beat out either of the regular Bomber ends, Ernie Pitts and Frank Gilliam.

Clyde's 22-year-old son, Don, has recently appeared in the Moulin Rouge in Hollywood and his pop is confident his kid'll be in the main events in no time.

When asked if young Don ever tried to follow his father's footsteps into the ring, Clyde answered with a sly wink, "Now, he was never hungry enough to make a good professional fighter."

What's In A Name, Huh!

If there's anything in a name, Pampa wrestling fans should be in for a solid treat at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club here Monday night.

For tangling in the main event will be Hard Boiled Haggerty and Iron Mike DeBaise and they don't come any tougher than those two front monickers might indicate.

Iron Mike faces Hard Boiled in a best two-of-three fall bout with an hour time limit.

An international flavor has been lent to the night's semi-final match as Japan's Tokyo Joe locks horns with Mexico's Ricky Romero in a grudge match that could overshadow the featured attraction in bumps and bruises. Joe and Ricky tangled in a best two-of-three match and they'll be slugging it out with a 45-minute time limit to beat.

Off beaten Tommy Phelps, who's wishing he never quit his job as referee now, opposes Larry Wright in a 20-minute single fall opener at 8:30.

Rice Mail Order Requests High

HOUSTON (UPI)—Rice Institute athletic business manager Emmett Brunson said Saturday summer mail-order applications for football tickets "is the biggest we've ever had."

"Season ticket sales appear certain to exceed 20,000," Brunson said. He said tickets ordered and processed during the summer will be mailed beginning Monday.

Brunson said heaviest orders for individual game tickets by mail were for the Army, Texas and Texas A&M games. He said present trends indicate the Owls may smash their home attendance mark of 30,000 "by a comfortable margin."

'Verdict Is Yours' Offering Only Mildly Interesting

Television Review
By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Views and reviews:

"The People Vs. Thomas Crane," Thursday night's offering on CBS-TV's "The Verdict Is Yours," was only mildly interesting. But it was saved by the slick acting of a trio of youngsters who played some semi-civilized teen-agers. I'd give their names, but the show has the odd habit of flicking through the credits at jet speed without even telling who played what.

The curious thing about "The Verdict Is Yours" is that despite fairly arresting situations and skillful acting, it fails to satisfy as drama. The reason, I think, is that although the show contains isolated dramatic moments, it is essentially undramatic. It unfolds in a straight line—it lacks that quality of building and that moment of climactic illumination that is the stuff of drama.

The Baffiest Beauty Fad Of The Year

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—A young New York couple has started the baffiest beauty fad of the year—plastic eyelashes.

From their small laboratory factory in this city's warehouse district near the Hudson River, Sol and Marguerite Goodman, both graduate chemists, are turning out the phony flutterers at the rate of five ounces a day.

Doesn't sound like a lot of eyelash, until the couple explains there are about 2,000 pairs to the ounce. In other words, production is about 10,000 pairs daily.

Fake eyelashes have been around many years, Goodman said, but were "pretty much of a do-it-yourself project until the 1920s. The United States has issued only half a dozen patents on artificial lashes since 1911."

He said most of the fake lashes worn by models and actresses were of real hair, attached to an adhesive base which joined the lid. The Goodmans, who hold a 1958 patent on their product, said theirs is the only one in which both lash and base are of the same material and in one piece.

Basically the lashes, which are sold through drug and department stores, are made from strips of a plastic film of the polyester type. They are permanently curled, just as some synthetic fibers are permanently pleated, and are tinted brown or black with a cosmetics pigment.

The narrow strip to which the lash joins serves as a built-in eye shadow and comes in turquoise, agate, natural, jade, amethyst, and azure blue. All a girl does is attach the strip to the upper lid with a janolin-based adhesive.

Each lash is 6 of an inch long, has 125 strands or "hairs," and with a pair on the total of 250 makes for quite an effect.

"If the wearer thinks they're too long, all she has to do is get out the scissors and trim," said Goodman. "The lashes come off and on as easily as, well, as you take out your false teeth."

How about safety of the synthetic? Goodman said the lashes are less flammable than human hair and there is no danger from lighting a cigarette.

show, marred only by the awkward performances of a few amateurs who looked like natives of the region.

I rarely comment on low-cut dresses in television—as a matter of fact, I have a sneaking suspicion I king of like them—but last night on the NBC-TV Jack Paar show an Oleg Cassini model had on a dress that plunged to an all-time low. She may have been the first performer in TV ever to suffer from over-exposure after one appearance.
"The Channel Swim," "Capital

Punishment" with Joseph Welch as narrator is shaping up as the debut show for NBC-TV's "Omnibus" when it bows in on Oct. 26. It's beginning to look, too, that Robert Saudek Associates, packagers of "Omnibus," will do a minimum of four nighttime specs for NBC-TV—Two of them may be headed up by Peter Ustinov and Gene Kelly.

Gene Kelly's peek at dance from the male point of view set for "omnibus" in late December, probably will feature such figures of grace from the sports world as Mickey Mantle, Sugar Ray Robinson and Frank Gifford.
Carl Reiner, Sid Caesar's former sidekick, will emcee CBS-TV's "Keep Talking" on Aug. 26—Reiner has been writing his second novel this summer... There's talk that George Fenneman's "Anybody Can Play," a quiz set Sundays on ABC-TV, may stick around this fall as a Monday night entry.

The Freedom of the Press commemorative stamp is part of the celebration of the university's School of Journalism's Golden Anniversary. Peg O' Pampa

OLD SOL is already beginning to shift his hot cylinder more over in the southern skies . . . and once again comes into our bedroom windows during the heat of the of things . . . we can tell mostly by the sunshine that now comes into our bedroom window during the heat of the day . . . and by the afternoon rays that continues late on the south side of our lawn . . . to our heat-seared nostrils there is a faint fragrance of the autumn to come and we are waiting anxiously to embrace it . . . with all of its wonderfully-old, but new-again activities . . . it will be so nice to get back again into a fall and winter routine . . . nice to see old friends that summer-time activities, what with vacations and all, have prevented us from seeing . . . and it will be nice to meet and make new friends at the various gatherings around town . . . a change of season, which is just in the offing for us, always brings a fresh outlook and fresh appraisal to our way of life . . . we've said it before and since we still feel the same way will say it again . . . Autumn is our favorite time of the year . . . don't know why other than perhaps it seems to be a fulfillment of the promise made in the Spring . . . and living a fulfilled promise is indeed a privilege . . . my, oh my, old philosophical Peg . . . didn't mean to go heavy, but we've been hearing a stirring, stretching, and yawning in club and PTA circles, which set us to thinking of the fall activities that are just on the brink of kick-off . . . the executive board of the very new Robert E. Lee Junior High School met this week with a lot of enthusiasm and "let's get going" spirit, we hear . . . Vera Andis is the very first PTA president of the new school . . . they met in the pretty new conference room in the school . . . which reminds us, we believe we have heard that Thursday has been set as the Open House date for the public to tour Robert E. Lee . . . to see the beautiful auditorium . . . the soft wall tints in the class-rooms, etc . . . somehow, though, as nice and pretty as a new school is, it takes time to halow it . . . set up school traditions, school songs, etc . . . even though Robert E. Lee takes our eyes for a while, it will take time to build up the tradition and memories that we are sure are in the hearts of many ye old Pampa Junior High graduates . . . we hear that George Mack, PTA council president and Geneva Tidwell, vice president, have been busy with plans for the "get acquainted coffee" the council is giving in the morning for PTA units around town in the First Christian Church Fellowship Hall . . . and Adrienne Foster is buzzing around setting up committees to function in what is hoped will be the best Council of Clubs year ever . . . yesiree, club gears are beginning to squeak and creak into action . . . but will be in prime condition by the time the first nippy wind blows . . . speaking of wind, reminds us of a funny story we heard the other day about Fern Dawson . . . she and her family vacationed in Colorado this summer . . . and when they arrived at their destination and Fern got out of her car, she leaned over so far she fell down . . . she explained, "I'm so used to those Panhandle winds, guess I was leaning over to far for Colorado."

FALL FASHIONS . . . To begin thinking again about fall activities brings up a question near and dear to all of us . . . that of a fall wardrobe . . . Ruth Hutchens dreamed up a clever fashion show on Thursday with a theme of "back-to-school" fashions . . . the very pretty and poised models were Betty Sprinkle, Marcia Miller, Kay Kalosha, Linda Kay Buchanan, Frances Aftergut, Nancy Williams, Carol Roundtree, and Cynthia Duncan . . . we are just a few light years removed from this age-set . . . but by modifying some of the fashions that they modeled we believe we can swing into step . . . it's easy to see that two big silhouettes will dominate the fall fashion scene (so gird and girdle yourself for them) . . . they're here to stay for a while . . . like them or not, according to fashion experts . . . Most important is the so-called "empire" silhouette, borrowed from the late 18th century portraits by English painters, Reynolds and Gainsborough . . . a style which actually started in England when French court dressmaker, Rose Bertin fled there in the 1750's and not in France as legend would have us believe . . . the second new look, which can also embrace the "empire" line is the trapeze silhouette, fitted closely to sloping shoulders and under the arms, then slanting outward to a wide and "very short" hemline . . . the waistline can either be high or completely non-existent . . . the chemise as it was seen earlier this summer and last spring, looks "dated" unless it can be belted high under the bustline . . . even if you don't like the new silhouette now, fashion authorities will do their best to train your eye by the time the first frost sets in . . . and look for giant-size plaids, the larger the better, particularly in a dazzling array of autumn foliage hues or in brilliant hues, blues and greens . . . keep an eye out for the earth tones from palest gray to taupe, russet, gold, orange . . . all shades of brown . . . you'll see exaggerated collars, cowled or cuffed, some with long scarves attached . . . there will be lots of spongy-textured mohair, sometimes called "souffle" and printed woollens are a garden of rosebuds, dahlias or chrysanthemums . . . there's an elegant look about clothes this coming season and casualness seems a "nasty" word in the fashion dictionary . . . for evening wear the same silhouettes will be important, but fabrics are completely feminine . . . floating chiffons, voiles, silk crepes . . . evening colors are electric, brilliant reds, particularly the geranium tones . . . blues and greens with many prints . . . hats and handbags are slated to be bigger and flatter . . . and these large handbags will be excellent camouflage when sitting in the new, short, short skirts . . . one item that really took our eye and will be a grave aid at the Harvester Football Games these chilly, autumn evenings was a little item called "Danskis" . . . which is just a fancy name for tights . . . they come in bright colors to match your favorite sweater or skirt . . . or neutral colors.

JUST A LITTLE BIT OF THIS AND THAT . . . we know now that the recession has RECEDED . . . living proof of our statement was a scene we encountered last Sunday afternoon while taking our usual "car constitutional" around town . . . we spied three "boy-made" cold drink stands newly constructed out of old materials in the same block out on Chestnut and another just around the corner on Beech and 22nd St. . . . interested in our city economy, we took another look-see later in the week and noted that the Beech and 22nd location was building an addition to their stand . . . enlarging it, that is . . . BUSINESS MUST BE GOOD! . . . we were sorry to learn that Helen Dunlap, after five years of directing the Home Demonstration Clubs around town is retiring to her home city in Kansas . . . but a warm welcome to Miss Louella Patterson, who is taking her place . . . we are also losing to Kansas in general and to Olathe in particular, the James Minnich family . . . Larry, Richard and Pamela . . . Reverend Minnich has spent the past two years in Pampa in the pastorate of the Church of the Brethren . . . they came here from Freeport, Ill. . . and are concluding their all too-brief stay on Tuesday . . . The Carl W. Shafers, 2132 N. Russell, are getting acquainted this week with their new eight-week-old granddaughter, Mona Ellen . . . who is visiting them with her mother, Mrs. Robert D. Leonard and brother, Benny . . . they're residents in Lubbock . . . a big bouquet of diamond-encrusted Good Wishes for Ezra and Mary Francis, who had a 60th Wedding Ann. (SEE PEG, PAGE 12)

Melba Ann McCarley Pledges Vows With Dean Ward In Presbyterian Rites

LEFORS — Miss Melba Ann McCarley, and Dean Ward repeated wedding vows in a quiet ceremony in the Pampa First Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m. on August 16.

Mrs. Groves Hostess To Merten HDC For Program On Preserve-Making

Merten Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. T. G. Groves, 800 Powell, on Tuesday morning for a program on preserve-making demonstrated by Mrs. Archie Maness.

Mrs. Maness opened the demonstration by giving a history of preserve-making. She said, "Before people knew the causes of food spoilage, housewives preserved fruits with a large amount of sugar. The product was a heavy preserve, which they stored in stone crocks and covered with a cloth or paper, or both."

"Today, with a better knowledge of the part bacteria plays in the preservation of food, fruits may be processed into various products without danger from spoilage."

Mrs. Maness continued, "In making preserves, sometimes we have added too much sugar. Some preserves, especially berries tend to float when sealed in the jar. Immediately, to prevent this, let them plump in their own syrup, until they are almost cold. This causes the fruit to become heavy with syrup and when placed in containers, they will be distributed throughout the jar."

Mrs. Maness gave the following recipe for strawberry preserves: 1 qt. strawberries; 4 qts. sugar; 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Heat slowly to boiling point; boil eight minutes; skim while boiling. Let plump in syrup until syrup is about cool, but not at the jellying period. Pack in jars and let set about 12 hours. Process for 14 minutes in hot water, just below the boiling point."

Following the demonstration, the club prayer was led by Mrs. Howard, president, to open the business meeting.

Roll call was answered by giving mistakes made in preserve making.

Mrs. Vard Smith reported on her recent trip to the Texas Home Demonstration Ass'n convention in Austin.

Muffins and preserves were served to Mmes. Jack Howard, V. Smith, Archie Maness, Jack Prather, A. M. Nash, and Miss Jackie Howard.

The next meeting for the club will be held in the home of Mrs. V. Smith on Sept. 6 at 9:45 a.m.

Miss Martha Elizabeth Johniken Says Nuptial Vows With J. B. Schoolfield Jr.

First Methodist Church in Talco was the marriage scene for the exchange of vows uniting Miss Martha Elizabeth Johniken and John Boyd Schoolfield Jr., on August 16 at eight o'clock. James Phippen assisted by Reverend Dale Smith performed the double-ring service before the altar centered with a palm tree and flanked with cancelabra and baskets of gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fred Johniken, 3826 Clairborne, Shreveport, La. and the late Mr. Johniken. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John B. Schoolfield, east of the city.

Mrs. Edward Stonecipher, organist, played nuptial airs as the guests assembled and was accompanist for Miss Connie Bates as she sang "O, Perfect Love," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer. Traditional marches accompanied the wedding procession.

Given in marriage by her brother, Fred, the bride was gowned in floor-length scalloped Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a scalloped, v-neckline and long, tapering sleeves which came to petal points over the hands. The bouffant skirt was worn over ruffles of tulle and featured an inset front panel of lace. Her finger-tip Veil of Illusion was scattered with pearls and secured to a Queen's Crown of lace encrusted with pearls. She carried an orchid bouquet.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Bill D. Williams attended the bride as matron of honor wearing aqua chiffon over taffeta featuring a draped neckline. She carried a fan covered with carnations.

Miss Nancy Kelley and Miss Alice Laastier, wearing lighter shades of aqua but fashioned as the matron of honor's, served as bridesmaids. They carried carnation-covered fans.

James Robert Schoolfield served his brother as best man. George King and Beale Locke were ushers. Groomsmen were Lynn Schoolfield and Kenneth McQuigg.

RECEPTION
The bridesmaids' bouquets formed the centerpiece for the table at the reception held in the Humble Recreation Hall immediately following the ceremony. Miss Bobbie Couch presided at the punch service. Miss Sally Smith served cake, and Miss Janice Davis was guest registrar.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride traveled in a black dress with black accessories, white gloves, and wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Talco High School and attended North Texas State College, Denton. The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School and North Texas State College, Denton, where he was affiliated with the Theta Chi, social fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Schoolfield will make their home in Brownfield, where he will teach in the school system and she will commute to classes in Texas Tech this fall.

A rehearsal dinner was given on Aug. 15 in Alps Restaurant, Mt. Pleasant, for members of the wedding party.

RECEPTION
A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlor with the honored couple and their parents in the receiving line. The serving table was covered with a white linen cloth centered with an arrangement of white gladioli, large white mums and tiny blue mums.

The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a bridal couple was served by La Juana Quarles assisted by Lela Riley, sister of the bridegroom, with Neida Crouch and Karen Capps serving the punch. Table appointments were crystal and sterling silver.

Mrs. Ward graduated from Lefors High School in 1956 and attended beauty school at the San Jacinto Beauty School in Amarillo and at the time of her marriage was employed by Louise's Beauty Shop in Pampa.

The bridegroom graduated from Pampa High School in 1952, attended Texas Tech for two years followed by two years service in the U.S. Army, and has been employed as a driller in Pampa since that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward will reside in Fort Stockton, where he plans to open his own business.

Miss Peggy McCarley attended her sister as maid of honor wearing a blue taffeta dress fashioned after that of the bride's with white accessories and a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Bill Conklin, Plainview, was best man.

Mrs. Wesley Daniel, pianist, played the traditional nuptial and recessional for the wedding ceremony.

"You'll Never Walk Alone," and "I Love You Truly," were played by Mrs. Daniel preceding the exchange of vows, and "Sweet Music" was offered throughout the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McCarley chose a beige nylon lace dress over beige taffeta, featuring a rhinestone clip with which she wore brown and beige accessories, complemented by a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Ward, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of tangerine rose Shantung with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Sergeant and Mrs. Edward Lee Alley

Miss Jane Guill, Edward Lee Alley Say Wedding Vows In Seventh Army Chapel

VAIHINGEN, Germany — Wedding bells recently became a part of the Seventh U. S. Army Symphony Orchestra's musical re-percussion when they rang for the orchestra's 23-year-old conductor, Sergeant Edward Lee Alley (San Angelo, Tex.).

Alley and the former Miss Jane Laverne Guill (Pampa, Tex.) exchanged vows Aug. 11, at the Seventh Army Chapel here where Alley is stationed with the orchestra.

Mrs. Alley is a graduate of Pampa High School and North Texas State College. She was a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, Pi Kappa Lambda and Alpha Chi Sororities, The Green Jackets, and the Meritum Honor Society for Senior Women. She was named to "Who's Who at North Texas State College" and "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

The ceremony marked the first time a conductor of the soldier-symphony has married while with the orchestra. Alley is the eighth conductor of the orchestra.

Sergeant Alley holds degrees as bachelor of music and a master of music from North Texas State College. While at Texas State, Alley served as a part-time instructor for the college opera workshop. He also was listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Alley has played with the North Texas State College Symphony band, the Wichita Falls, Texas, Symphony, the San Angelo Symphony Orchestra, and the Fort Worth Civic Opera Company.

He enlisted in the Army in 1957 and was named conductor of the Seventh Army Symphony Orchestra April 9, 1958.

"MY ELECTRIC HOME FREEZER MAKES MEAL PLANNING SO

Easy!

SAYS Mrs. H. S. Hackfield,
2132 56th STREET,
LUBBOCK, TEXAS

"An electric home freezer is the perfect answer to meal planning, especially for working wives," says Mrs. Hackfield. She continues, "There are many advantages of owning a freezer. For example, it's such a convenient appliance and, because we can buy in quantity when prices are lowest, our freezer lets us realize a big savings in food costs. But, getting back to meal planning — when I have odd moments I can prepare complete meals in advance, freeze them, and then when we have dinner guests it's a simple matter just to 'heat 'n serve.'"

The same advantages that Mrs. Hackfield speaks of can be yours just as soon as you get that electric home freezer you've been wanting for so long — why wait — there's never been a better time to buy!

Story Of Inflation

As a precise indication of what inflation is doing to us we need only to examine the average gross earnings of the American wage earner in comparison to the average cost of living.

Back in 1947 weekly pay for this nation's workers averaged out at $50. In 1957 his weekly pay had climbed up to something close to $82. But inflation has dogged his footsteps so that with the exception of only two years of the past ten, his raises have been largely nullified by a watering of the purchasing power of his dollar.

Let's look at it for a year or so. The figures we have relate, of course, to national averages and do not depict the plight of any particular person. But since all-of-us provide the figures for the national average, in some small way we are related to these figures and their meanings.

In 1947 average pay envelopes were fattened by some $6.15 per week over the preceding year. But the cost of living pushed upwards by some $6.33, so that when 1948 dawned the workers found himself suffering a loss of 18 cents per week in purchasing power even though he was bringing home more greenbacks.

If wage earners ever tumble to the fact that money has no fixed value and that its usefulness is only determined at the time they make a purchase, they may become less enchanted with the idea of increased wages, and may have more to say about federal borrowing and pump priming, from whence inflation springs.

Nineteen forty-eight for example, saw wage earners pocketing a weekly increase of $4.17. However, cost of living indices show that this increase in takehome pay was paralleled by a rise in prices amounting to an average of $2.84. Thus, in two years' time, while wage earners managed to obtain an increase dollar - wise of $10.32 per week, cost - of - living increases consumed all but 17 cents per week of that two - year increase.

The same story is repeated during the whole ten-year period. In 1957 the average gross weekly earnings of production workers went up by $2.40 over the 1956 figure.

Right now we ought to be thinking of what is coming to us at the hands of the federal bureaucracy. Originally, the year 1959 was supposed to see federal spending in relation to a $74 billion budget. Now the revised figure for 1959 shows that like may spend as much as $78 to $80 billion. If this occurs, and it is likely since there appears little evidence that a ny will to reduce expenditures exists in the national government, we face a new deficit of something close to $10 billion.

The reason for so large a deficit is because the federal government is always aware of the fact that its budgeted costs are in excess of anticipated income from taxes. And this was true even when the budget stood at $74 billion.

About the only way we know of to halt this process of reducing the purchasing power of our money is to cause the federal government to curb all of its spending and to discontinue totally its deficit financing.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Free Riders

I have been quoting from Phillip D. Bradley's section of the book, "Labor Unions and Public Policy," on whether workers should be forced to pay union dues in order to hold certain jobs. Mr. Bradley mentions several reasons why they should not.

In summing up, he writes: "A conclusion of this review is that the individual worker may on entirely rational grounds disagree with those who charge that he is a free rider when he refuses to join the union which represents him. In his own defense he may state with complete accuracy that many of those who condemn him are themselves profoundly confused about a number of basic matters. Thus, he might maintain that evidence which demonstrates merely that collective bargaining differs from individual bargaining is used by his accusers in an attempt to show that collective bargaining is superior to individual bargaining in its benefit-producing capacity."

Now I want to give some other reasons why no man should be forced to contribute to something he thought was harmful to him and to everyone else, in order to have a right to produce and, thus, first serve others before he serves himself.

Probably the most serious objection to labor unions is that it takes from an individual his right to plan his own life; to be owner of himself and all he produces; to have the right to compete without interference; in producing the thing he believes he can best serve himself and mankind by producing. In short, it keeps him from using his judgment and his conscience, and to force a man to pay for something that prevents him from using his conscience and judgment tends to prevent him from developing and keeping his conscience and judgment alive.

To be specific, it compels him to take the wages agreed upon by the representatives of the majority of the union. To work only as long and efficiently as the union permits.

It requires him to work at the same rate as the slow worker who can produce only a fraction of what he produces, without the consent of the union for a higher wage.

He is, in short, at the mercy and under the control of the union. He loses his individuality.

It requires him to work for a much longer time to learn a trade than can be learned by an efficient individual. It makes it difficult for him to change to a better job.

It classes him with the slowest workman.

It requires him to strike if the majority decide there should be a strike.

It prevents him in case of a strike from giving his employer notice that he wants to quit work. It thus prevents him from being dependable.

It requires him to enter a conspiracy with other workers to attempt to injure the employer and his customers and suppliers in order to get an arbitrary wage.

In short, it requires him to violate the ethics — the Golden Rule — of all religions.

It requires him to do things he would contend violated the Golden Rule if done by the employer.

It requires him to contend that wages shall be established by injuring another rather than by benefiting the employer and his customers more than any other man will do.

Can This Be Love?

Robert Allen Reports:

Social Security Boost 'Accommodation' By Four

WASHINGTON — That seven percent cost-of-living increase in social security benefits is becoming law thanks to a last-minute "accommodation" worked out by four men.

They are: Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.); Representative Wilbur Mills (D., Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which originated this far-reaching legislation; Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, and Arthur Flemming, new Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Among them, they devised the backstage understanding that eliminated the two ominous barriers menacing this measure — strong House opposition to a more moderate Senate version; and a threatened veto by President Eisenhower.

The quartet did this by the following two-way "accommodation": The House leaders agreed to shelve their tougher bill in exchange for explicit assurances the President would not veto the Senate measure.

When Anderson and Fleming produced this promise, the House, quickly and without a murmur of dissent, approved the Senate bill and sent it to the White House to become law.

Both sides talked cold turkey in these negotiations.

"We will go along with the Senate bill if the President will take it," a House leader said. "But if he won't agree to that in advance, the House will stand pat on its measure. If the President is going to veto this social security legislation, it is our very frank intention to put him and the Republican party on record as against the bill, which is ours."

"You can be certain," retorted Secretary Flemming, "that the President will definitely veto the House measure. He will not agree to a $288,000,000 increase in public assistance funds. He is firmly opposed to that, and is prepared to make an issue of it."

"That's why we're proposing this compromise," said another Democratic leader. "We want social security legislation this year. So if the President will accept the Senate bill, we'll go along with it, too."

"I'm not sure the President will sign the Senate measure," declared Secretary Anderson.

"We don't care whether he signs it or not," was the answer, "just so long as he doesn't veto it. That's what we're concerned about. We want this bill to become law, and it doesn't matter to us whether it's with or without his signature."

The Nation's Press

HOPE FOR REPUBLICANS
Chicago Daily Tribune

Two items in Monday's paper bore directly on the question of what line the Republican party should take in the 1958 congressional campaign.

One item quoted Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, who heads the Republican congressional campaign committee. He thinks that the Republicans will have a good chance in many closely contested districts this fall if they abandon the "modern Republicanism" of Eisenhower and run as the moderate conservatives that most of them are at heart.

Mr. Simpson was especially impressed with the overwhelming victory achieved by Rep. Clare Hoffman of Michigan's 4th district. Mr. Hoffman is 82 years old, a fact which was cited against him by his primary opponents, but the voters in his district know that he is not handicapped by age. He is clear headed, staunchly independent in his thinking, and courageous beyond almost any member of the house you can name.

In a district in which there are a number of sizable industrial towns, a district into which the unions have poured a good deal of money in the effort to unseat him, he has never hesitated to speak what he knows to be the ugly truth about some of the most influential of union leaders. If he had not been thwarted by the Democrats and modern Republicans on his committee, he would have completed under Republican auspices the exposure of graft and violence in the trade union movement that Sen. Kennedy and the Democrats are now claiming as their achievement.

There would have been a difference, however, Mr. Hoffman's committee, if he had been allowed to proceed as he wished, never would have submitted so wishy-washy a legislative program as came from the Kennedy committee.

Mr. Hoffman's victory is one landmark for Republican guidance. Another was provided by Rep. Gwinn of New York in a broad speech under the auspices of the Manion forum.

Mr. Gwinn reminded Republicans that they can hardly expect to elect a Congress if they do not do as much for their candidates as the AFL-CIO does for theirs. He recalled that the business men who contributed millions of dollars toward the reelection of President Eisenhower had only penants to elect to Republican congressional candidates. In contrast, the AFL-CIO doled three more than 2 million dollars into the congressional campaigns and now can claim a hard core of 175 members who are mindful of the help they got and vote accordingly.

While not publicly opposed to the President's reorganization plan, Gates did not agree with some of its major provisions. He was especially critical of the subordination of the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

This was deemed by him as making them "fifth wheels."

SPARKS — So far this year more than 650,000 visitors have trooped through the White House. That indicates last year's record of around 1,000,000 tourists will probably be broken. The White House is open for sightseers from Tuesday through Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, without charge. Of the 132 rooms in the "President's House," as it is officially known, only six are open to the public — all on the first floor. Adlai Stevenson will disclose the details of his talk with Premier Khrushchev in a series of syndicated articles. The library of Congress is now one of the world's greatest science libraries. Authority for that is Dr. James Killian, science adviser to the President. In a special report the noted scientist said, "Few people realize it, but the Library of Congress has become a great national library of science. This is a tremendous achievement. Now one of our most immediate tasks is to find the mechanisms to make more generally known the information that is available in the library."

Robert E. McDavid, who as a member of the State Board of Equalization is in an excellent position to know the facts, last week warned a group of businessmen attending a State Chamber of Commerce Sales Tax clinic that "Proposition No. 17 will prove to be a mirage." He used the words "calamitous," "vicious," and "deceptive" in declaring that No. 17 is against the best interest of the people, and especially the people who are supporting it.

Cloaked in the false colors of tax reduction, this reckless measure threatens the economic welfare of the State and of everyone who depends upon the State's economic stability for his weekly pay check. Proposition No. 17 not only is a false alarm — it is an alarming falsity.

CRACKER BARREL

The Russian scientist, Pavlov, experimented with dogs. He taught them to expect food when a bell rang. Then he rang the bell and gave them no food. The dogs became confused, dispirited and disheartened and the principle of brain washing had been established. I saw a Communist principal apply this technique to the children of a public school. The arrangements of the lunch room were changed daily. So were the regulations on the playground. The children grew used to the hopeless arrangements of the school and docilely did whatever they were told. Now they were in a condition to think there was no such thing as fixed knowledge and to believe whatever they were told.

I cannot help but wonder if the swift flip-flops and contradictions of international politics are not meant to discourage us from taking a patriotic interest in our country or even in the free world. Are we being treated like Pavlov's dogs?

These are solemn words — and they are true. Think them — the youth of today are the foundation of America's future. They have deep hungers. I firmly believe they would like to build a better world than we are leaving them. But if they are unacquainted with the Bible, where and how will they develop the spiritual strength on which their dreams and the survival of our country depends.

Hankering

By HENRY McEMORE

Lacking the power, as well as the inclination, to honor a man by tapping him on the shoulder with a sword and saying, "Arise, Sir Joe Doakes," or whatever his name might be, Congress has created a medal which it will award to citizens for a meritorious service to the country.

This is a sound idea. Men like medals, and like getting them at ceremonies on the steps of public buildings, and in order to get them will work harder than usual. Other countries have the Order of the Bath, the Order of the Elephant, the Order of the Flaming Rhinoceros, and there is no reason why the U.S. shouldn't have one, too.

Medals put zip in a fellow, and make him hold his head a little higher. I have only two — one for accuracy in throwing hand grenades, which the Army gave me, and one for finishing third in a rope-climb years ago — and I always wear them on important occasions.

I haven't read anywhere of the new medal being given anyone by Congress, and it could be that Congress can't think of a man worthy to get one. But that couldn't be so, because offhand I can think of a hundred worthy citizens who richly deserve the medal.

Right away I think of the fellow I read about the other day who took a brickbat and hurled it at one of those little cream dispensers one sees in nearly a 11 short-order restaurants and diners. It's all but impossible for a black coffee drinker to get the kind of coffee he likes with one of those internal machines around. And it's completely impossible to get just a touch of cream. Before a man can raise a protest, the waitress has poked his cup of coffee under the little squirt gun and laced it with half a pint of cream, or something said to be cream.

A medal should most certainly go to the doughnut lover who, when he asked for a dozen doughnuts, was asked whether he wanted chocolate ones, or coconut ones, or ones dipped in a pink frosting and then rolled in nuts.

His answer was to sweep the entire messy lot of fake doughnuts onto the floor with his cane, and then give the bakery owner a good hiding. The man stands for the doughnut, the plain and simple, unvarnished doughnut that our mothers used to make, and their mothers before them.

A medal should be struck for the motorist who, having the good fortune to have a cat-o-nine-tails in his glove compartment, applies it to the filling station attendant who washed his windshield with one of those greasy compounds that, as soon as rain touches it, renders the glass as opaque as a bathroom window. "Use plain water on my windshield," the motorist cried, as he laid on a final lash and drove away.

What's wrong with giving a medal to the first military man who, entrusted with the responsibility of naming a certain operation, doesn't come up with a trick or coy designation? I'd vote, too, for a medal for the man who first makes a paper towel or napkin that actually does what paper towels and paper napkins now say they will do. Also, one for the man who pushes through legislation and makes illegal the installation of those idiotic hot air hand-driers found in rest rooms.

It's Up To You

By Howard Kershner
L. H. D.

A World-Wide, Persistence Error About US Industries

According to Department of Commerce figures, corporate net income, after taxes, as a percentage of total National income has declined from 9.2 in 1948 to 5.9 in 1957. At the same time wages as a percentage of National income has moved up from 62 per cent in 1948 to 69 per cent in 1957. This of course does not include farmers, professional people and other self-employed citizens. If these are included the percentage of National income going directly to those who labor is upwards of 85 per cent. Corporate net profit in 1957 was 5.9 per cent and the remainder would be such items as rent, interest and royalties.

There is a persistent, world-wide and enormous error in the belief that the owners of our American industries get about 80 per cent and labor about 20 per cent of the value of industrial output. Exactly the opposite is more nearly the truth. It is not to be wondered at that those who believe this error resent capitalism and free enterprise and are attracted to socialism, communism, various kinds of government intervention and welfare statism. It is doubtful if these radical ideologies would ever have gained credence in the minds of the majority of the people had it not been for this unfortunate error which has been, and still is, so widely believed.

Some of the victims of it were Theodore Roosevelt, Senators William E. Borah, Robert Marion La Follette, Hiram Johnson, George Norris and many others. If fact it has been proclaimed many times on the Senate floor and not one Senator ever raised his voice in opposition to it. Apparently it has been widely believed in all countries down to the present time and multitudes have testified to the fact that it is the main reason why they believe in socialism or communism. The trust busting campaign of Theodore Roosevelt and his followers was based upon it. It gave rise to such slogans as "robber barons, malefactors of great wealth, bloated bond-holders and others. This error became one of the bases on which socialism and communism thrived.

How We Pay

We are indebted to the Tax Foundation of 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, for a unique and fascinating way of explaining just how we spend our money for taxes.

Let us suppose that you are Henry Workaday and that the time has now arrived for you to start on a two-week vacation from your job.

You leap out of bed at 7:00 a.m. Actually it is 8:00 a.m., but the government has set your clock back so you have forgotten this. It is a bright summer's morning. Your alarm clock (price $5; tax 50 cents) wasn't even needed.

The company where you work (salary $8,000, federal income tax $976, state income tax $116) won't see you again for two whole weeks.

You look out your window at the bright green lawn and the clear blue sky. You'll be leaving your home (priced $15,000; real estate taxes $450 including school tax of $12; just as soon as everyone is ready.

You turn on the radio (price $30; tax 1.80) to get the weather report. You shove as the announcer informs you, "No federal income tax this year." You douse yourself with some reviving bay rum (price 80 cents; tax 8 cents) You dress, taking care to wind your wristwatch (price, $80; tax $8) and go downstairs to breakfast.

On the way you call to your son (federal income tax exemption, $600). "Rise and shine! We start for Lookout Gulch this morning."

Bid For A Smile

A man was being interviewed for a job and the personnel director asked brightly: Personnel director — Are you married? Applicant — No, but I can take orders, if that's what you mean.

A wealthy American girl was attending a social at a country house in England. English duchess — You American girls haven't such healthy complexions as we English women have. I always wonder why our noblemen take a fancy to your white faces. American girl — It isn't our white faces that attract them, it's our greenbacks.

Miss Wanda Leigh Wehrung Is Bride Of Robert Bradshaw

Miss Wanda Leigh Wehrung and Robert Arlo Bradshaw pledged wedding vows in a double-ring service performed on August 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Laughter, 2225 Milam, Amarillo. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arlo L. Bradshaw, 1800 S.S. Bonham, Amarillo.

White chrysanthemums and greenery decorated the wedding scene for the vows read by Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa.

BRIDE
 Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a waist-length gown of linen lace over taffeta fashioned along princess lines with a full skirt, V-neckline and cap sleeves. Her Veil of Illusion fell from a halo hat of seed pearls, tulle petals and sequins. She carried a white orchid arranged atop a white Bible showered with white satin streamers and garlands of stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS
 Miss Carolyn Kilpatrick, Amarillo, was maid of honor. Miss Donna Bradshaw, sister of the bridegroom, Amarillo, served as bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of yellow cotton-satin embroidered sheaths and carried nosegays of daisies and chrysanthemums.

Jim Kinslow, Amarillo, was best man. Robert Blakely, Amarillo, was groomsmen.

Nuptial selections were played by Mrs. Elizabeth Walker at the piano, who was also accompanist for Miss June Wraether, Amarillo, as she sang, "I Love You Truly" (Carrie J. Bond) and "Because" (Guy D'Hardelot).

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Laughter, chose for her daughter's wedding a white eyelet dress over sky blue cotton stain and wore a blue lace carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Bradshaw chose a pink decor dress with French embroidered roses on the bodice. She wore pink carnations, also.

RECEPTION
 The reception was held on the patio of the bride's home immediately following the exchange of vows. The patio was softly lighted by hurricane lamps on the garden walls.

The bride's chosen colors of yellow and white were used in the table decorations with a pale yellow-linen cloth edged in white fringe centered with a silver-based hurricane lamp garlanded with nosegays in meline frills tied to satin streamers.

The white wedding cake decorated with yellow roses was in the shape of two large bells joined by double rings and was served by Mrs. Paul Kasishke, Amarillo. Miss Billie Tom Neal, Amarillo, presided at the punch-service. Miss Kathy Kasishke, Amarillo, was guest registrar. Others assisting with the houseparty were Miss Winnie Wehrung, aunt of the bride, Waco, Mrs. Victor Formby, Mrs. Roy Swain, Childress and Miss Clara Chapman.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride traveled in a green knit coat-dress complemented with brown accessories and wore the orchid from the center of her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return they will be at home at 2737 Northwestern Highway, Birmingham, Mich.

Mrs. Bradshaw was graduated from Amarillo High School this Spring. Mr. Bradshaw was graduated from Amarillo High School in 1956; is now attending General Motors Institute and is employed by Chevrolet Engineering Division of General Motors.

Even though he doesn't smoke himself it is thoughtful for a man to carry matches, so that he can light a woman's cigarette.

If he doesn't have matches he can reach for hers and light her cigarette if she hesitates long enough to give him a chance.

For delectable and light French fried onion rings, plan to soak onion rings in milk for an hour or two before frying.
