

US TRAFFIC DEATH PACE SLACKENS

United Press International
The pace of traffic deaths for the Christmas holiday "definitely slowed" Saturday, and safety officials were hopeful that motorists would prevent the holiday from becoming the "blackest Christmas" on record.

The National Safety Council, urging drivers to re-double their efforts, said the "homeward rush Sunday would tell the story." But unless motorists further improved their highway record, council officials fear the traffic toll might approach, and even possibly exceed the four-day "Black Christmas" holiday toll of 712 traffic deaths in 1956.

At 9 p. m. est, United Press International counted at least 439 traffic deaths in the holiday period which began at 6 p. m. Christmas Eve and ends midnight Sunday. There also were 82 deaths by fires, 3 by plane crashes and 67 from miscellaneous causes for an overall holiday toll of 691.

California Leads Nation
Nine states accounted for 230 traffic deaths, more than half of the holiday highway toll. California led the nation's carnage with 46 auto deaths, followed by Texas with 40 and New York with 28. Illinois and Michigan each reported 21 highway fatalities, Ohio 20, North Carolina and Pennsylvania 19 and Florida 16.

Although the rate of highway carnage dropped somewhat Saturday, the council feared its advance prediction of 620 deaths would be exceeded.

"The pace of the toll is abating," a council spokesman said. "This is the most encouraging report since the holiday period began.

"If the drivers can just improve we've still got a chance of holding this toll down to where it won't be a new all-time record. The toll, however, is running above our pre-holiday estimate."

Law officers throughout the nation, cracking down hard on motorists during the holiday, promised no let-up as the nation moved into the final stretch. Good weather over most of the nation was expected to serve as a temptation to drivers anxious to make good time on the return home from the holiday to their jobs.

Minnesota reported only seven traffic deaths for the holiday, but a fatal accident near Mankato Saturday boosted the state's highway toll for 1956 to 686, a new all-time record.

Fires also added to the overall holiday toll. In one blaze, a mother and her eight children died when fire swept their farm home at Auburn, Wash. At Richmond, Va., a wealthy businessman, his wife and three children also perished in a fire of their home.

But at Liberty, Ind., nine elderly residents of a nursing home were rescued from a fire. A1 suffered from smoke inhalation, exposure and shock. The nine persons were found by firemen who traced the sound of their coughs in the dense smoke.

EXCHANGE DAY BLUES!

Mrs. Jean Robbins had that tired, ache-all-over feeling Saturday night at Franklin's Ready-to-Wear store, 109 N. Cuyler. Between sighs she was heard to say something about "limiting exchanges to the day after Christmas," but the sighs were weak and her voice carried barely further than a Daily News photographer. De Gaulle Slims Value Of The Franc

By CHARLES W. RIDLEY
United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Charles de Gaulle shrank the value of the franc 17.55 per cent Saturday in a move to give the nation's industries a more favorable position on international markets.

It was the seventh devaluation since World War II.

De Gaulle's government also removed some of the restrictions on foreigners converting francs into foreign currency, a risky but necessary step to attract foreign business and bolster the sagging treasury.

The devaluation, effective Monday, means it will take 493.7 francs to buy a U.S. dollar. The previous official rate was 420.1.

De Gaulle was scheduled to talk to the French people by radio Sunday. He was expected to tell them they would have to pay more taxes and do with less state subsidies to nurse the nation's economy, sapped by the Algerian war, back to health.

The French financial moves were prompted by the activation of the six-nation European common market scheduled for Jan. 1.

Britain and a number of other European nations also removed many restrictions on convertibility of their currencies Saturday in anticipation of the common market and the French devaluation.

France was the only nation to devalue its currency since its prices were about 10 per cent higher than those of its European neighbors.

Finance Minister Antoine Pinay announced the monetary moves after a cabinet meeting, although they had been expected for several days. Trading on the French franc had all but stopped on most exchanges throughout the world in anticipation of the new rate.

Past French devaluations have led inevitably to a rise in prices and a new round of inflation, with wage hikes lagging far behind increases.

This time French government hoped more favorable foreign trading resulting from the six-nation European common market would act as a counter-balance.

US Hails Trade Freedom Plans

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

LONDON (UPI)—Western European nations, led by Britain swept away currency restrictions Saturday in the biggest swing back to monetary and trade freedom since World War I.

The United States hailed the move by the 10 nations to allow "external convertibility" of their currency, permitting foreigners to convert currency received in commercial transactions into the money of their own country.

The United States, which has pumped billions of dollars into Europe's economic bloodstream, called the currency ad-

Talking Atlas Step Toward Worldwide TV

By ALVIN SPIVAK
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hugh L. Dryden, deputy chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Saturday described this country's Atlas "talking" satellite as the first step toward worldwide television broadcasts.

He said the mighty 4½-ton missile, offspring of the Defense Department rather than his civilian agency, had opened the way "toward an economically sound, reliable worldwide communications system," using satellites as relay stations.

Dryden said that the Atlas, which has been orbiting since Dec. 18 and repeating spoken and teletyped messages from ground stations, was also the "first practicable application" of a weather satellite. Such a space vehicle, he said, would "increase the accuracy of weather forecasts with very large monetary savings."

The NASA official spoke before the American Astronautical Society at a session held in connection with this year's convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The six-day meeting, which got under way Friday, is being attended by about 5,000 delegates from all fields of science. There were these highlights among hundreds of technical papers read at Saturday's sessions:

Dr. Jack Keckorian, a Pontiac, Mich., medical researcher, proposed that condemned criminals be allowed to volunteer to die under anesthesia in experiments such as heart transplants and brain surgery rather than in the electric chair or gas chamber. He titled his talk "capital punishment or capital gain" and said he already had received one offer from death row.

—Dr. Melitta Schimberg, a New York physician, said in a report on child murderers that many juvenile killers in gang wars "fail to show afterwards an adequate emotional reaction of guilt or remorse." She said "There can be little doubt that the frequent and detailed reporting of murder helps to break down normal inhibitions and social controls." She blamed "not only comics but television. DURING REVOLTS

50,000 Chinese Reported Killed

By LEROY HANSEN
United Press International

TOKYO (UPI)—Tibetan tribesmen have revolted against Chinese Communist rule and have killed about 50,000 Chinese in several months of fighting, reports filtering out from the high Himalayan country said Saturday. As many as 15,000 Tibetans, mostly fierce Khamba tribesmen, have been killed, rumors that the Dalai Lama, spiritual leader of Tibet, might seek asylum in neighboring India.

Couple More Break-Ins Here

Khamba Tribe Revolts
Commercial-travelers and refugees said the biggest flareup occurred between last August and October when the Khamba tribe in the eastern province of Kham revolted.

The Chinese Communists, who invaded Tibet in 1950 and proclaimed it an "autonomous" republic under Peiping's control in 1951, tacitly admitted they were having trouble with the warlike Tibetans.

Introduction of their new "people's commune" system of abolishing family life has been postponed in Tibet. The Chinese Reds have cancelled a trip to Tibet scheduled by Indian Premier Jawaharal Nehru.

Although there has been no apparent large-scale fighting in the last two months, travelers reported numerous small-scale clashes. The revolt was reported to have spread from Kham across the rugged country where high mountains, narrow trails and the weather combine to give Tibetan guerillas an advantage.

Reports reaching New Delhi said the main road leading out of Tibet was closed in October when it was closed by Chinese troops. The Khambas booby-trapped it with ditches lightly covered with earth. Red Chinese vehicles were stuck. Other Chinese trucks were destroyed and blocked the road when the tribesmen rolled huge boulders down on them.

Angered By Immigrants
The Tibetans, who have revolted in isolated areas on several occasions during the last three years, were reported angered by an influx of Chinese settlers into their country and the deportation of 5,000 young Tibetans to China "for higher training."

'SMALL WORLD' LOST AT SEA?

By JOSEPH A. TAYLOR
United Press International

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—Venezuelan authorities called off an aerial search for the balloon "Small World" Saturday night because of growing doubts that it had landed in the jungles of eastern Venezuela as reported.

Communications Minister Oscar Machado Zuloaga announced cancellation of the search over the "Green Hell" jungle. He said "at the moment it appears the radio message reporting the balloon's landing was a hoax."

Search planes criss-crossed over the jungle areas all day but found no sign of the balloon or the three men and a woman who crossed the Atlantic Ocean in it. Machado Zuloaga announced Friday night that weak radio messages from the balloon established it had come down in eastern Venezuela early Friday.

Saturday night, however, the communications minister said he was calling off the search "because all evidence points to the messages as being fakes."

Trinidad Reports Negative
He said he took the action after talking by telephone with airport officials at Trinidad and hearing the completely negative reports from pilots who flew over eastern Venezuela Friday and Saturday.

The minister said the search had been necessary and justified in view of the human lives involved, but he said he was beginning to think "somebody planned an elaborate joke in very bad taste."

The balloon left the Canary Islands Dec. 12 on a free flight. The four Britons aboard hoped to hit the West Indies. Their radio had not been heard for a week, and radar and lookout stations had been alerted to watch for the balloon.

(At Port of Spain, Trinidad, weather forecasters expressed doubt that the balloon had reached Venezuela. They said they had not had an advisory on the Small World's position since Dec. 14 and it might be having trouble with unfavorable weather over the mid-Atlantic.)

Leaders of the search said floodwaters caused by recent heavy rains covered almost the entire land surface of the balloon's last reported position and probably was infested with alligators. (See SEA Page 3)

TEXAS TOLL SLOWS UP

United Press International

The Texas holiday death toll slowed Saturday but still was the second highest in the nation.

A survey by United Press International at 6:30 p. m. Saturday showed that 40 Texans have died in traffic accidents since the holiday period began at 12:01 a. m. Wednesday. Fires claimed the lives of six others and 20 have died in miscellaneous mishaps to push the holiday death toll to 66. Murders and suicides added to the grand total of violent deaths during the period but they were not listed as holiday deaths.

IF YOU DRINK, DON'T DRIVE!

A drinking driver is the principal offender in Christmas-New Year holidays traffic fatalities. Police Chief Jim Conner said Saturday. The police department urges each motorist not to drive if he drinks.

Conner said that according to the National Safety Council, drinking drivers are involved in at least 28 percent of all fatal traffic accidents, and that 33 percent of pedestrians killed have been drinking.

Over the Christmas holidays, figures show 35 percent of the Rebels Hoping To Cut Cuba's Middle

United Press International

HAVANA (UPI)—A rebel radio called for reinforcements Saturday to turn back a government force fighting to prevent the rebels from splitting Cuba in two.

A rebel transmitter monitored in Havana said Fidel Castro's revolutionary forces were "under bombardment" at Ranchuelo, 125 miles west of Santa Clara, the capital of Las Villas province and a goal of the rebels in their attempt to cut through the "waistband" of the 750-mile long island.

The radio did not indicate whether the government attack was by air or ground, but observers in Havana assumed it was a ground attack since the radio called for reinforcements from the

HOT TEXAS' POLITICAL WARS LOOM AS HEADLINERS FOR '53

By LLOYD LARRABEE United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI) — For Texans, 1958 brought liberal gains in a generally conservative-dominated political picture, and promise of further battles between warring factions of the Democratic party.

As the year neared its end, political wounds arising from the September State Democratic Convention were still much in evidence.

Gov. Price Daniel accomplished his objectives by a comfortable 5-to-3 margin but sparked angry talk of revolt from his liberal foes when he purged two liberal-backed nominees for membership on the State Democratic Executive Committee.

One of the top "surprises" of the year was U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough's 220,000-plus vote margin of victory in winning a full six-year term over Dallas multi-millionaire William A. Blakely.

Alger only GOP Winner

Republicans maintained a toe-hold in the Texas congressional delegation as Rep. Bruce Alger of Dallas won a third term to remain the state's only GOP member of Congress.

However, the picture was bleak elsewhere for Republicans, as all of the GOP's 30 candidates for the state legislature went down in overwhelming defeat, and efforts to elect a congressman from Houston were rebuffed by a landslide margin.

The running feud between Daniel and the liberal-labor "Democrats of Texas" (DOT), headed by Mrs. R. D. (Frankie) Randolph of Houston, National Democratic Committeewoman from Texas, continued unabated.

Even the selection of a woman as a Democratic Party honoree provoked a disagreement between Mrs. Randolph and the conservative-led State Democratic Executive Committee (SDEC).

One Concession Mrs. Randolph, acting as national committee woman, named Mrs. Jud Collier of Mumford, a long-time party worker, for the Democratic women's day honor in October. The SDEC chose Mrs. H. H. Weiner of Seguin, former national committeewoman and said she would be honored at a later date.

The DOT paved the way for only one concession to Daniel, who has criticized the name of the opposition organization on the ground its conflicts with the official Democratic Party. The DOT executive committee voted to change the group's name to Democratic Clubs of Texas.

DOT leaders expressed belief that the group was revitalized by what Yarborough called an "act of infamy" in refusing to accept senatorial district caucus nominations for SDEC membership.

Mayhem Reigns The San Antonio Convention ended in pandemonium, with DOT leaders staging a demonstration in the convention hall which carried over into a parade through downtown streets.

At issue was Daniel's bumping of Bernard Lifschutz of San Antonio and Mrs. Chloe Armstrong of Waco as prospective SDEC members.

Looming on the political horizon was control of the party in the 1960 presidential election year, and selection of national convention delegates at the state party's meeting in May, 1960.

Daniel has endorsed Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as his choice for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnson disclaimed any aspirations for the presidential nomination, and said his only intention was to run for re-election to the U. S. Senate in 1960.

However, the manner in which Johnson couched his denial of presidential intentions indicated to political observers that he could not be removed as a top prospect for the nomination and, at the least, would be a leading figure in helping select who gets the Democratic Party's nod in 1960.

As the year neared an end, the people approved seven of nine proposed amendments to the state constitution at the Nov. 4 general election, but sent to smashing defeat a proposal to raise pay of state legislators and provide for annual sessions.

The general election also was marked by re-election of Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey to an unprecedented fifth term, assuring continued conservative control of the state Senate.

Democracy, Communism Both Take Beatings In Asia

By RONALD P. KRISS United Press International

TOKYO (UPI)—Democracy and communism took beatings in Asia this year as young nations searched desperately for governments that would work.

Democracy went by the boards in Burma, Thailand and Pakistan when military strongmen booted out the politicians one after another in a 25-day rash of coups. The general promised to bring stability to their nations, without elected officials around to mess things up.

Communism lost ground, too, as a result of two armed flare-ups that left free Asia's nerves badly rayed.

One—the Indonesian rebellion—was launched by army officers who feared that President Sukarno's "guided democracy" would guide the strategic archipelago straight to communism. By the end of the year the rebellion was crushed, but so were the Communists.

Reds Back Off

The other—the Quemoy crisis—was touched off by the Chinese Communists on Aug. 23 with a sudden, brutal artillery barrage. The guns are still firing, but not so often now. The Reds clearly have backed off—at least for the time being.

Asia's biggest men were around at the end of 1958 but some changes were in the works.

India's Prime Minister Nehru threatened to resign, then changed his mind. Red China's Mao Tse-tung did resign from the government—effective next March—but he still held supreme power as Communist Party boss. Syngman Rhee (83 years old) and Chiang Kai-shek (71) continued to run things in South Korea and Nationalist China respectively, but both have promised to end their careers in 1960.

Asia's statesmen covered a lot of mileage in 1958, on both sides of the Bamboo Curtain.

North Korea's Kim Il Sung visited his Communist comrades, Mao and Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam. Cambodia's premier, Prince Norodon Sihanouk, made a pilgrimage to Peiping after he recognized Red China. But Mao's most important guest was Nikita Khrushchev, boss of the Soviet Union, who dropped in for a four-day visit to Peiping at the end of July.

Japan's Premier Nobusuke Kishi was Asia's busiest host as leading politicians repaid him for his fence-mending swings through Southeast Asia in 1957. Presidents Carlos Garcia of the Philippines, Rajendra Prasad of India and Sukarno of Indonesia came to Tokyo, as well as Premiers Tengku Abdul Rahman of Malaya and Souvanna Phouma of Laos.

Despite the endless wave of goodwill visits, however, some of Asia's oldest feuds remained simmering in 1958 and a few new ones were tossed into the fire.

Japan and South Korea struggled to establish diplomatic relations, but mutual distrust was a barrier. Indonesia and the Philippines quarreled bitterly during the Sumatra and Celebes rebellions. Cambodia was at odds with Thailand and South Viet Nam over border problems. India and Pakistan growled at one another about Kashmir and the problem of the waters of the Indus River.

Red China had trouble with just about everybody. Peiping broke off trade relations with Japan in April and with Malaya and Singapore in November. Thailand and South Viet Nam were worried about Communist Chinese subversion and Burma was worried about border incidents.

The cold shoulder was more fashionable than the hearty handshake in Asia's diplomatic dealings for 1958, but there were a few items on the credit side.

Japan moved closer to mutual friendship with the Philippines, Indonesia and some of the war-ravaged nations of Southeast Asia. The feeling was strong, however, that Japanese friendship was welcome as long as hard cash went with it.

Agriculture Dept.

Thanks Mr. Farmer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department paid tribute Saturday to its volunteer army, an army of about 600,000 farmers, ranchers and businessmen.

These are the people who furnish the information on which the government bases its estimates of crop and livestock production, estimates that become a basic working tool of the U.S. farm production and marketing system. The volunteer reporters, all serving without pay, filled out 2,700,000 USDA questionnaires during the year.

The National Agricultural Limestone Institute has scheduled its 14th annual convention for the week of Jan. 19.

The site will be Washington. The No. 1 problem facing the limestone industry will probably be a familiar one, the administration's hope to persuade Congress to cut back farm conservation subsidy payments.

More than 8,400,000 bushels of grains and oilseeds were produced on American farms this year, a record-breaking volume. But the Agriculture Department reports that all of these crops were put under cover without any major storage pinches.

Private warehouses and farmers expanded their storage facilities. And the year closes with no expansion in the volume of government-owned storage bins.

USDA officials say, meanwhile, that crop storage will be even more of a problem in 1959. Grain surpluses will be bigger, leaving less room for storage of the 1959 crops.

Officials say this means more storage must be built next year.

Tomato shipments passed each other at Laredo, Tex., last week as Texas tomatoes went to Mexico City and crates of the red vegetable grown on Mexican farms moved into the U.S. market.

U.S. imports of Mexican tomatoes resumed, after being shut off completely, following entry of the first few loads early this month.

Tomato prices advanced last week and there was a stronger U.S. demand, partly because of bad weather in Florida, according to one dealer at Laredo. The dealer said that Mexican tomatoes may continue to enter the U.S. thought February and possibly later, if the market holds up.

The U.S. exports marked the first time that Texas tomatoes were sent to Mexico City, the dealer reported. He said his firm still has 4,000 crates, or 10 rail-road cars full, of green tomatoes, in Nuevo Laredo coloring rooms, which will be trucked to Mexico City as they turn pink.

Another product of Mexico, meanwhile — honeydew melons — passed through Laredo on the way to the New York market. It was the first shipment of the season, coming from Apatzingan, deep in the interior of Mexico.

The first car, the earliest imported at Laredo according to local shippers, crossed the border Dec. 21. In addition to honeydews, some 700 or 800 carloads of regular cantaloupes from Apatzingan are expected to pass through Laredo in the coming season.

Dr. Russell E. Teague, chairman and Kentucky state health commissioner, presented the report to the governors of the eight-state agency.

"Eight years ago," he said, "the commission undertook the establishment of a network of 44 river-quality surveillance stations in cooperation with municipalities, industries, the U.S. Geological Survey and the U.S. Corps of Engineers."

Experience in the gathering and use of this vital data, he said, has suggested possibilities of creating robot monitors.

"Some day we hope to have in operation 24-hour-a-day sentinels on the Ohio River that will serve to alert the state agencies from our central headquarters in Cincinnati on changes in river conditions and their relation to municipal and industrial pollution-control facilities."

BATTY!—Risking pneumonia from some striking over-exposure in the frigid weather of Grand Junction, Colo., Colleen Kay plays it cool on a baseball diamond. She was calling attention to the National Junior College Baseball Tournament, which won't be held there until next May. Colleen is an expert on curves.

LADDER PERFECT—Carrying extra sections to be added at the top, these Italian firemen in Rome race up high ladders in an exhibition of their skill. They were putting on an annual display in honor of St. Barbara, patron saint of firemen.

HOODED COLLAR—A hood which converts into a boat neck collar lends versatility to this ski parka. The hood-collared tops the chemise-like jacket which is made of antique-patterned cotton surah print and is warm enough for outdoor sports.

HITTING ONE UP—Ray Berdeaux (in center), of the Carondelet team, and Paul Pisani (right) of St. Ambrose, are engaged in touch-me-not soccer as both jump to deflect the ball in St. Louis, Mo. Soccer rules forbid players to use hands or arms on opponents. Pete Sorber of Carondelet is at left.

FAR FROM HOME—Eight pistol-packing roller queens lined up on the steps of the Post Office in New York during a tour of the city. They're all from Texas, where the Junior Chamber of Commerce chose 'em for beauty, personality and skating ability.

HARNESS HORSE OF 1958—Trotting driver Elick Nipe holds Emily's Pride in Columbus, Ohio. The three-year-old filly has been voted "harness horse of the year" in a nation-wide poll conducted by the U.S. Trotting Association. Nipe piloted the horse to victory in the Hambletonian, Kentucky Futurity and other harness racing classics this year.

SPECIAL SALUTE—Six Aquamaids from Cypress Gardens, Fla., performed in a featured event of the Orange Bowl Regatta in Miami as they carried these banners. The 25th annual Bowl Game takes place there New Year's Day between Syracuse and Oklahoma.

PLAYING IT COOL—Although the temperature was a balmy eight degrees below zero, two unidentified skin divers relaxed with a plunge into the icy waters of Lake Michigan at Chicago, Ill. Coming up for air, they enjoy a smoke, as one lights the other one's cigarette. Some people may think this is great fun during cold winter weather.

INCREDIBLE!—Last year, nine men rode down a street in London, England, on a motor scooter and that seemed to set a record. Since then, however, scooterists all over the world have been trying to break it, and this photograph from Burgos, Spain, is clear proof that this is about as far as they can go. Shown here are 25 men, with a total weight of 3,400 pounds, and they rode 500 feet on a little 125-c.c. scooter.

SKY LINE—In a wilderness of snow and ice-covered trees, riggers work to construct a new lift on the summit of Cannon Mountain, near Franconia Notch, N. H. The high-speed ski lift will replace the old Alpine T-Bar, erected in 1940, which has carried millions of skiers back to the summit from halfway down Cannon.

IN BLUE-GRAY TILT YANKS BLANK SOUTH, 16-0

By DON MARTIN United Press International MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—A big, strong Blue squad featuring scoring stars from Purdue and Oklahoma State battered the South's Gray team, 16-0 Saturday in the 21st annual classic in this Cradle of the Confederacy.

The game is expected to be played for the richest purse in NFL history. Each member of the winning team likely will earn $3,000.

When you think of professional football, as a large portion of the country is doing today, you think of 95-yard runs, of passers balancing on one eyebrow and throwing the ball...

The gentleman who gave out the wisdom that a good offense is the best defense was punched smartly in the snout by the Giants last Sunday afternoon.

A good defense is the best defense, that's what. And anyone who doesn't believe that just doesn't have a tee-vee set in his home, which means he is only two strides from barbarism.

The New Yorks tied a knot in the Cleveland last Sunday with good old-fashioned defense, the kind mother used to make when the old man came home from the track on payday freshly plucked.

A frigid but frenzied New York overflow will jam pack their own stadium today as the biggest thing this side of Cinderella since Walt Disney took up water-colors, lines up its prime beef against the Baltimore Colts in the National-Football League championship game.

Usually when you label a game as a "stout defensive battle," you think of a game wherein the spectators lean gently against each other and do a little "freehand snoring."

That wasn't the case last week however, and nor shall it be the case on this day of title thrills. The Giants' defensive operation against Cleveland in last Sunday's 10-0 clincher was a vivid and exciting thing. It was almost unbelievable that 260-pound citizens could filter through other 260-pound citizens in a steady stream.

Also, it was a bit incongruous that the large person who is Jimmy Brown, all-time single season rushing champ for the Cleveland, could travel roughshod over opponents in 12 previous games.

Usually (on orders from Commissioner Bert Bell), the cameras shy away from any form of on-the-field fistfights in quick order. Some large citizen climbs up from the ground and lets fly at his tormentor, and the camera shifts abruptly to a section of the stands, where a teen-ager is spilling mustard on his neighbor and a middle-aged gent is reading the Wall Street Journal.

But last week the teevee director kept the camera on Mr. Triplett who gave a first-class imitation of a maddened bull.

Of course maybe the director was just curious, like we always are, trying to figure out the logic of fist-fighting a man who has on face mask and 50 pounds worth of padding. The best you can hope for is a busted knuckle. You can get better odds sparring with a telephone post.

It's like trying to put on your overcoat in the closet, this business of throwing the ball against the Giants. That's why we've watched next week's bread dough, the spending kind, on them "char" come - back guys from New York.

Only sad note is the Giants will have to go to Baltimore to read about their victory in the sports pages. Newspaper strifes. Whoever heard of such nonsense?

He already has been quoted as saying that the attack his New Year's Day foe has been using is so varied and involved that he doesn't know how to plan a defense against it.

The Air Force Martin told interviewers after his arrival here Friday that the Air Force offense isn't "as complicated as it looks."

"Then, in the very next breath he admitted that anyone seeing all 10 of the Falcon games (in which they won nine and tied one) would have seen 10 different defenses.

"We're a small team and have to do a lot of things to compensate for it," he said. "We depend upon mobility and flexibility."

The Falcons' head man said he anticipated "a lot of action" on both teams' part New Year's Day, and then agreed that TCU probably should be the seven-point favorite - the odds-makers have made it.

The rest of the way this cold, rainy day it was a battle of rugged defenses and the North's strength prevailed.

The Blue squad never reached the Blue 30, and its passing attack vanished in the rain and gloom of Crampton Bowl. The slippery underfooting prevented the South from mounting a ground attack.

The die was cast, though, in the first half of play—before the defenses took over the show.

Duane Wood's dazzling run through a scattered Gray defense highlighted the attack. He fooled three would-be tacklers with fancy footwork and stiffarmed the last defender on the 10-yard line.

Spoo got off his scoring pass to teammate Crowl just before he was swamped under by tacklers. The ball lofted like a basketball loss to the rainy end.

The drizzle washed out the promised Gray passing attack by

Texas Boxer Is Suspended

DALLAS (UPI)—Texas Deputy Boxing Commissioner Sammy George announced Saturday he has suspended indefinitely Read

George said an investigation showed that Turman's contract with manager Buddy Scott was valid and that a match Scott made for Turman with Bert Whitehurst of Baltimore was binding.

Turman, a handsome Noorday, Tex., heavyweight whose most recent public appearance has been as a television actor, claimed that he couldn't fulfill the contract because he recently underwent an operation for the removal of scar tissue.

Turman also said that Scott wasn't his manager any more and had no right to make a match for him.

George produced a contract which bore the signatures of both Turman and Scott dated June 30, 1958. The contract was for five years.

George said he conducted no formal hearing on the matter but that Turman could have a hearing if he wanted it. Or, he said, Turman could erase the suspension by fulfilling his contract with promoter Ralph Smith.

Scott, a one-time heavyweight contender who fought such notable fighters as Lou Nova, said he couldn't understand Turman's action.

"What I have to say about the matter couldn't be printed," Scott said. "But you can say I'm confused."

"Turman has great ability and a great potential and I just can't understand his attitude."

Turman made ring history when he participated in the first mixed match in Texas in 1955 when he defeated Sporty Harvey of San Antonio. He was described by Jack Dempsey as one of the most promising fighters at the time.

But Turman's career hit a snag when he was badly beaten by Art Swiden here last year. In his last appearance he lost a decision to Donnie Fleeman, Midlothian, Tex. light-heavyweight.

IN SUGAR BOWL Davis, Southern To Clash Today

By REX NEWMAN United Press International NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The 440-yard run shapes up to be the event to watch in the Sugar Bowl

Both Glen Davis, Ohio State, running in the event unattached, who has been tagged "the world's most versatile runner," and Eddie Southern, University of Texas, also running unattached, have in the past broken the tape on the quarter-mile considerably under the Sugar Bowl record of 47.9.

Davis bettered the world mark in the National Collegiate track meet in June by running the distance in 45.7, one tenth of a second off the old mark.

Southern, who also will anchor the Texas 440-yard relay team, has been clocked in 45.9.

Holds Mark Davis holds the world record in the 400 meters hurdles with a 49.2 effort. This past summer Davis won eight races in 11 days against the world's best runners from the United States, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and Russia.

Another Olympic star, Bobby Morrow from Abilene, Mo., will make his appearance in the Bowl. Morrow was the only triple gold medal winner during the 1956 Olympics.

He tied the 100 meters mark at the Olympics with a time of 10.3, won the 200 meters and anchored the winning U.S. 400 meter relay team.

Ralph Fabian of Louisiana State University and Dee Givens of the University of Oklahoma are expected to give him his stiffest competition.

Morrow will have his sights set on the Sugar Bowl track record which Dave Sime, of Duke, holds at 9.6.

Out of Shape Sime, who was originally slated to appear in the track event, withdrew two weeks ago because he could not get in shape for track following the football season.

Sime is the only man in the U.S. who has run a better time than Morrow. The North Carolina flash tied the world's record at

Collection Of Agriculture Estimates, King-Sized Job

On the Farm Front
By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)— One of the biggest, unpaid jobs in the United States is the collection of reports from which agricultural estimates and forecasts of crop and livestock production are made.

Some 600,000 reporters in all sections of the nation participate. The reporters, farmers, ranchers, and tradesmen who serve voluntarily and without pay during the year—filled out and returned to the Agriculture Department about 2,700,000 questionnaires. The questionnaires formed the basis for the official crop and livestock estimates and forecasts prepared by the Crop Reporting Board. Additional data was gathered by the department's statisticians and cooperating state agencies.

From this information, more than 500 reports are issued. These covered 150 farm products and included reports on refrigerated warehouse food stocks, prices paid and prices received by farmers, and farm employment and wage rates. The reports tell the board how many bales of cotton or how many bushels of corn or how many mung beans were produced, and where, and on how much acreage.

Cattle Report Expanded
During 1958 several steps were taken to improve crop and livestock reporting. The quarterly cattle - on - feed reports were expanded to include eight more states, bringing the total to 21. The states are Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Montana, Idaho and Utah. The first quarterly report next month will use information from the new states.

Special tabulations were made in a number of states to obtain a more precise count of hog farms to be used in connection with pig crop reports. Last January, for the first time, weekly weather - crop bulletins were prepared and issued by the state statisticians in all states during the crop growing season.

Cotton Estimates Improved

A revised law in 1958 made it possible for the first time to show in the July 1 cotton report the cotton acreage actually planted, and from this information to estimate acreage for harvest in an Aug. 1 report, instead of a month later.

A program to improve egg production estimates was started in seven states. This is aimed at getting more complete data on commercial flocks and developing more precise estimating techniques. Plans also were made to establish monthly milking production reports in some of the 13 states not yet making such reports. The horticultural specialist program was enlarged from the pilot stage to cover 10 of the more important states producing floral and nursery products.

HALF A LOAF IS...
LITTLE THURLOW, England (UPI)— Half a loaf was better than none in Little Thurlow, but it still was half a loaf less than people here are accustomed to. Little Thurlow's 150 villagers will be given half loaves Sunday under a charity set up 250 years ago. It used to be a full loaf, but an official said the income from the charity had not kept up with the rise in the price of bread.

Ford Leading Money Star During 1958

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Glenn Ford was voted the top money-making star of 1958 Saturday in a poll of more than 700 motion picture exhibitors. They named two glamour queens—Elizabeth Taylor and Brigitte Bardot—among the top 10.

Liz ranked second in the balloting, followed in order by Jerry Lewis (3), Marlon Brando (4), Rock Hudson (5), William Holden (6), Brigitte (7), Yul Brynner (8), James Stewart (9) and Frank Sinatra (10).

Repeat winners from last year's poll, conducted by the Motion Picture Herald, were Lewis, Holden, Hudson, Brynner, Stewart and Sinatra.

Brando returned to the top 10 after dropping out for the past two years. Ford's top rating came as a surprise. His last appearance in the golden circle was in 1956, when he placed fifth. He was 12th in 1955.

"I've been around a long time," Ford said, "and this really comes as a surprise to me. Of course, I'm delighted and happy with the results of the poll. I had the help of a heck of a lot of people."

"I just hope more people will turn out to see more movies in 1959."

Bumped from the list of the 10 biggest box office draws this year were John Wayne (2nd last year), Pat Boone (3), Elvis Presley (4) and Gary Cooper (6).

The poll reflects neither popularity nor performance of the stars. Chances are if a star makes three or four pictures during the year he will fare better in ticket sales than a performer who appears in a single movie.

All-time champ in the poll is Bing Crosby, who placed number one five years in a row — from 1944 through 1948 — and 14 times in all among the top 10. Shirley Temple headed the list for four years beginning in 1935, but was toppled as champ by Mickey Rooney in 1937. Mickey's "Andy Hardy" series drew votes from theater owners for three years as the best money-maker.

A new twist was added this year when sex-kitten Bardot climbed aboard the box office list. She is the first star ever voted among the top 10 who has never made an American movie.

Wedding vows were pledged by Miss Sheila Gaye Lemons and Teddy Earl Williams at three o'clock on December 21 in the First Baptist Church. Dr. E. Douglas Carver officiated at the ceremony of double-ring vows, which was performed before a background of jade palms, poinsettias, tree and spiral candelabras. Joyce Gordon, Howard E. Grant Junior Repeat Nuptial Vows In Christian Church

Miss Joyce Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Gordon, 1501 Hamilton, and Howard E. Grant Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Grant Sr. of Houston were united in marriage on December 21 at four o'clock in the First Christian Church. Reverend Richard Crews officiated at the double-ring vows. Four seven-branched candelabras flanked the altar arrangement of white mums, white flocked branches and blue ornaments. White flocked wreaths formed the window decorations. White mums showered with white ribbon and blue balls marked the family pews. Mrs. Danny King at the organ provided the traditional wedding marches and was accompanied for Mrs. Don Patchin as she sang "Because," "O, Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in imported all-silk peau de soie and Chantilly lace yolk outlined with iridescent sequins and pearls and long, tapering sleeves which came to bridal points over the hands. The bouffant peau de soie skirt featured a back lace panel which ended in a chapel sweep topped at the waistline with a peau de soie bustle. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was secured to a sequin and pearl encrusted tiara. She carried a white Bible arranged with white roses and miniature mother-of-pearl daisies showered with satin streamers tied in Love Knots. For the bride's tradition, she wore her maternal grandmother's ring for something old; borrowed her sister's, Mrs. John Gill, white Bible; for something new, a strand of pearls; a gift from the bridegroom; and a blue garter.

ATTENDANTS

The bride's attendants were Mrs. John Gill, sister, matron of honor; Mrs. David Burns, bridegroom's sister, and Miss Mavis Yellott of Orange, bride's college roommate, bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of blue velveteen fashioned with basque waists, roll collar coming to a v-shape in the back, full ballerina skirts with a bow trim in back. They wore white feather hats, long white gloves, pearls, a gift of the bride, and carried cascade arrangements of carnations, blue bells showered with white satin ribbon. Stanley Sylvus of Houston served as best man, David Burns, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Oran Perry of Fort Worth were groomsmen. Seating the wedding guests were John Gill of Pampa, Calvin Hill of Dallas and George Taylor of Pampa.

Miss Cynthia Gill, niece of the bride, was flower girl dressed identically in blue velveteen as the other feminine attendants. She wore carnation rosettes in her hair and carried a white net basket filled with rose petals. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gordon wore a dress of dusty rose peau de soie with re-embroidered alycon lace yolk and sleeves complemented with a matching feather hat, gloves and purse. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Grant, chose blue crepe with lace and tulle yolk and sleeves, matching sequin hat and long white gloves. The mothers' corsages were fashioned from white carnations.

RECEPTION

The bride's table, for the reception held immediately after the ceremony in the church parlor, was covered with a floor-length blue satin cloth overlaid with two tiers of white ruffled net caught up with white satin bows at the slurred corners. The table was centered with a white flocked arrangement and blue bells centered with a tall white ornamented candle. Appropriate hi-fi recordings provided the background music during the reception.

RUTH MILLETT

Your teen-ager is well on the road to maturity when he admits that the kids whose parents let them do exactly as they please and come in at any hour they choose aren't the "luckiest" kids he knows. Is willing to face the kiddie he knows he'll get in order to be friendly to a teen-ager who is not accepted by his own crowd. Can say honestly of a teacher, "She's tough, but she's fair." Doesn't act as though the world is coming to an end when his plans go haywire. Would rather not always have a date than go steady just for security. Is willing to save up for something big that he wants. Now and then says, "It's not worth it," after pricing something he thought he just had to have because the other kids were getting the latest fad. Says reassuringly when he suspects you are anxious over him, "Don't worry, I'll be careful." Telephones you that he'll be later than he thought so that you won't be concerned. No longer waits to be reminded to do chores that he knows will have to be done eventually. Quits saying "You just don't understand." Occasionally says, "Here, let me do that," making you realize with a start that it's no longer easier to do something yourself than to get your son or daughter to do it.

Kit Kat Klub Pledges Are Presented

Eleven starry-eyed Pampa high school girls, pledges of the Kit Kat Klub, were presented Tuesday night at Kit Kat's Presentation Dance in the National Guard Armory.

Vivacious Karen Wells, the eleventh pledge named, was Kit Kat's choice for Best Pledge.

The club's ten other pledges were Tama Lou Whisenhunt, Katy Price, Joy Morgan, Glanda Gorman, Gail Chisum, Jackie Fikes, Zip Hall, Sandra Braly, Barbara Epps, and Linda Woodall.

Kit Kat's theme was Colonial Days and each pledge wore the costume of a Southern Belle, while the National Guard Armory stage was decorated Colonial Style, for the setting of the Kit Kat presentation.

The presentation began at 10:30 p.m. with the playing of "Star dust"—the club song. With an introduction by Kit Kat Sue Foster each pledge took the long "presentation walk" to the side of her escort. Each girl was given a black lace fan with a lime-green bouquet of carnations.

Best Pledge Karen Wells was given a fan and a bouquet of long stem roses by escort Don Darling.

An estimated high school crowd of 150 couples danced from 9 to 1 a.m. to the music of Bobby Barnes and his band.

The Kit Kats, now in their 20th year, are sponsored this year by Jean Chisholm and Betty Brown.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: As I write this my son is sitting in jail. His own father put him there. He is 17 and NOT a bad boy but some of his friends have been in trouble. He confessed that he was in on a hold-up (no one was hurt) last year but he wasn't picked up and nobody told on him. His father told him if he ever broke the law again he would turn him in. His father found a switchblade knife and some marijuana cigarettes in his pocket when he was asleep so he had the cops come and pick him up. How could a father make a convict out of his own son?

HEART-BROKEN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your husband had great courage and should be commended. It is far better that the law should take over your son now than for a more serious offense later.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to that man who bought his wife a cemetery plot for her anniversary gift when she was expecting a sewing machine; I think it was the most heartless thing he could have done.

SEWING MACHINE SALESMAN

DEAR ABBY: My husband's folks do not know we are married and I think since the baby is due in March we ought to tell them. We live quite away from them (I work and he goes to school) but he writes to thank them for his allowance. I got mad and told my husband if he didn't tell them we were married, I would. I think it's a disgrace to keep it a secret any longer. I am proud of my marriage and am hurt to think he's still hiding it. What would you advise me to do?

SECRET BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: The longer your husband delays telling his folks, the angrier they will be when he finally breaks the news. It's his place to tell them, not yours, and the sooner the better.

DEAR ABBY: There is a man who comes to my house on business every so often (he is a meter reader) and in the summer he gave him ice cream and in the winter I give him hot coffee. I am a widow and he told me once he lost his wife some years ago. I think he likes me and I know I like him. He has good manners and is nice looking. He acts lonesome, but I don't want him to think I'm running after him. How can I get to know him better?

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: He's a meter reader — not a mind reader! Ask a few of your friends in for dinner, and include him.

DEAR ABBY: There is this boy at school named Gary and I like him very much and he liked me. He gave me a note saying he'd like to kiss my ruby lips and stuff like that. I wrote back to him that we were through because he was too fast for me. Then his best friend told me that Gary didn't write that note, somebody else did and Gary was asked to hand it to me. I still like Gary and would like to go back with him, but I don't know how to make up after telling him we were through. Can you help me?

"MISTAKEN"

DEAR MISTAKEN: Ask Gary's friend to tell Gary that as long as Gary wasn't the one who wanted to "kiss your ruby lips and stuff like that" you'd like to see him again. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I am re-marrying my "Ex." Could we use the same wedding invitations and cross out the date?

DEAR J: CERTAINLY NOT!

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

RUTH MILLETT

She is 19 years old, and just about has made up her mind to quit school, marry a college sophomore and go to work to support both of them until he finishes his education.

Her parents don't like the idea but she is sure that I'll see things her way and she asks me to convince her parents that she is in the right.

I can't because I don't believe she is. Sure, she could quit school and put her husband through. It's being done these days, but it's not in order to marry at 19 she is giving up her own chance for a college education, a chance she will probably never get again.

At 19 why the big rush to get married? Why not wait until she and her husband both have their educations? Is it because she is afraid if she doesn't marry him now she'll lose him?

If so, she can't be very sure of his love. If she is sure that he loves her then she can be sure that he'll love her three years from now when both are through school and ready to begin their marriage with an equal educational background.

There is another point for her to consider and to consider carefully. If she does quit school to support the marriage while her husband is a student is he going to think more of her for sacrificing her own opportunity for him?

Or will he take it all for granted, and expect her to always be the one to make the sacrifices for the marriage?

There's not much sense in a girl's working to educate a husband when she could be getting an education at the same time for the small price of putting off marriage until after graduation.

WELL THE BEAUTIFUL DAY has come and gone... and we can't help but feel there is something wrong with our system of things... we rush headlong for several weeks... then poof! in one day it is over... but still there is that nice memory to serve for quite a time... at least we will have a short rest before Valentines and the Fourth of July... we always would never get caught in the mad rush but we did and wouldn't have missed it for the world... for it is the hustle and bustle that really puts one in the real Christmas Spirit... and in bed for weeks recuperating... sometime at the beginning of last week, winter slipped in and officially began its annual reign... we didn't exactly notice the shortest day of the year... for all days last week seemed short... if winter is officially here, it has been rather hard to detect... it crossed our unconforming mind to have our Christmas dinner in the form of an outdoor barbecue... but we quickly rejected this plan and sprayed a bit more snow on our Christmas tree and house plants... turned up "Sleigh Bells" to a greater volume on the hi-fi... and got into a White Christmas mood... we don't seriously envy neighbors to the north one bit, though... we like balmy Christmases... probably because that is all we've ever known... the "White Christmas" is for the song writers and fiction authors.

IF WE SEEM to be dwelling on the holiday past, please forgive... but so many interesting things have happened that are still fresh on our minds... that it is difficult to click it off... we heard that the Kit Kat Klub's annual Presentation Dance held Tuesday night was simply out of this world... they held it this year in the Armory, because the huge garden settings could not be accommodated in any other building... Proud and Paying Papas worked late hours several evenings constructing the high, high platform of steps... down which the new Kit Kats walked... to be presented... each member, we were told, looked radiantly beautiful... lots of ex-Kit Kats back for the dance... Heidi Schneider looking particularly beautiful in a blue gown that was the same shade as her pretty blue eyes... by the way she has pledged the Gamma Phi Beta Sorority at University of Texas... and is quite active in the Curtain Club on the campus... we didn't envy in the least the Pampa Garden Club's project of judging the Christmas decorations around town on Tuesday evening... which took between three and four hours of viewing and re-viewing... Aleith and Bob Curry took high honors again this year with their majestic-looking door... Aleith used essentially the same idea she had last year and with which she won a prize also... and added a few new ideas and walked off again with prettiest door decorations... that gal has real talent for doing pretty things even more prettily... we would nominate Mary Ellen for the merriest street in town, especially the 2100 block... every house in that block was lighted... and we believe it was the Evert Carmon's home that supplied Christmas Carols via remote speaker for passersby as they viewed the lovely homes in that block... as did the Hollis home out in the Fraser addition... The Jamie B. Deal home on Chestnut created a lot of interest the evening we passed by... cars were pausing long enough to allow the children occupants to view the pretty red door and the red oilcloth Santa, (which Blanche had made several years ago and has become a traditional part of their Christmas) surrounded by a group of toys... we heard later that someone had "taken" one of the toys... which was an unhappy thing to do... The Raymond Welch tumble-weed snowman was such a clever idea... Shirley had found three varying sizes of tumble-weeds, stacked them one on another, sprayed them with snow topped with a black oilcloth high hat... he made such a happy sentry for the Welch home... heard that the Ed Cleveland's acquired a fancy canine for Christmas... Santa arrived earlier in the week for Mrs. Cliff Broly... we've seen her cruising around town in the most gorgeous Mark III Continental... it's a Blonde Continental with blue upholstery that just sets off her blonde beauty... one of the prettiest Christmas trees we saw during our "window-peeking" round was that of the Bill Waggoner's out on Duncan... it looked like a bewel tree straight from Tiffany's... they must have used those tiny lights that from a distance look like candle-flames... their tree was literally covered with these little "jewels"... one of the nicest gestures we heard during the "nice gesture" season was that of the tradition of the B. R. Nashes... in lieu of sending out Christmas cards each year, they make a sizeable contribution to Boys Ranch in Amarillo in appreciation of all the cards that are sent to them each year by their friends... and another nice idea, we think is that which one oil well servicing company here does of sending Care packages to Europe in their client's name in appreciation of the business done with them during the year.

WE IMAGINE we could fill this column several times again with nice deeds done by people around town... we do know one gentleman, D. W. Lawrence, who took time during this busy time of the year to sit down and write a letter of appreciation for the pleasant efficient attitude he encountered at the local bus station from the two women employees there... who treated him with so much consideration at the peak of their busiest day... with parties the order of the season one of the nicest "for other people" we heard of was the one which the Altrusa Club gave for their pets, the Senior Citizens... a huge pink-flocked Christmas tree towered in one corner of the Library room with mountains of presents underneath for the roomful of guests present... the blessed thing about this Altrusa project is that they feel they are doing nothing for the Senior group, but rather it is the other way around, we've heard members say.

WE ANTICIPATED THAT A Christmas-week column would be a snap to write for everywhere you look and everyone you see is doing something interesting... but we reckoned without having the time to write about it all... the D. A. Finkelstein residence was a gay, gay place over the holidays what with Glenda enjoying a vacation from high school... Rhona home from OU... Gail home from Dallas and Rupert from Houston... the Milton Fishers of San Antonio are houseguests, too... the Finkelsteins entertained with Open House on Christmas Day... and the Raymond Harrahs held an informal "drop-in" for their friends... Euleen Moore is spending the Christmas Holiday with her parents the Waldon E. Moores... Euleen is a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority at Texas Tech... also, home from studies is Ruth Ann Adcock... looking as pretty as any Christmas tree in town... her eyes and engagement ring sparkling as bright as the prettiest lights... Nancy Goodnight has told friends of her nuptial plans for next Spring, too... The Quentin Williams with their daughter, Adelaide, are spending the Christmas holiday in Denver with the Carl Q. Williams... at least they had a view of some snow laying on top of Pike's Peak... Libby and Frank Shortwell were off Christmas Eve to spend a few days with their son and family in Lubbock... Ruth Huff was "keeping shop" at the Red Cross for Libby while she was away... and Jan Fuller left the day after Christmas via Trans World Airlines for a visit with her son and family the Don Fullers in Los Angeles... and most importantly to see her new granddaughter, Debra Lynn for the first time... Don is a metallurgical engineer and is employed in the laboratories of the Atomic Energy Commission... after parties, parties, parties, Ann Heskew really deserved the Christmas Day "breather" she took visiting with the Tabors, former Pampa residents, in Amarillo.

DON'T FORGET now, to start your New Year off with a pot of black-eyed peas and a batch of cornbread... it's supposed to insure good luck and happiness all through the year... and certainly a welcomed menu after the rich holiday foods.

The Happiest New Year Ever,
Peg.

"Paradise Angels" Form Heavenly Scene For Sub Deb Club's Presentation Ball

"Paradise Angels" was the theme for the Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club's 20th annual Presentation Ball held Dec. 22 in the Country Club ballroom. Delicate white angels suspended above a bubbling white fountain highlighted the room decorations.

Preparing the scene for the new members' presentation were Miss Terry Ann Culey and Miss Carolyn Brown, who unfolded the white satin aisle runner and by Miss Martha Marsh and Miss Kay Tooley, who lit the candles on the large candelabra-tree opposite the fountain.

Each new member was escorted to the stage by ballerina, Anita Guidry. Here, gifts from the club, nosegays of white lace and red roses, were presented to the girls by their escorts.

Background music for the presentation and dancing later in the evening was provided by Bobby Burns of Amarillo.

Christmas Carols Explained In Skit

LEFORS (Sp) — A Christmas program was held last Sunday night in the First Methodist Church under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Wesley Daniel.

A living room scene was depicted in which a grandfather, played by Raymond Jordan, explained to his grandchild, played by Thelma Daniel, the interesting facts about Christmas carols; who wrote them; how and why they were written. To illustrate the plot, carols were sung by the choir.

An offering was collected for the Methodist Orphan home in Waco.

A social hour followed the program in fellowship hall, with approximately one hundred thirty persons attending.

Feast.

Sponsors for the evening were Mrs. H. M. Luna, Mrs. Azelle Loftus, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kennedy, Mrs. C. B. Guidry, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fite.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

J. R. STROBLE
Minister of Education
First Baptist Church

The early Christian church did not celebrate the birthday of Jesus Christ. As far as the New Testament is concerned Jesus commanded men to remember not His Birth but His Death. However, in the fourth century the celebration was begun at the time of the pagan festival of the winter solstice. From that time on there has been a confusing mixture of pagan jollification and Christian rejoicing.

We, as Christians, deplore the fact that the Christmas season has become so highly commercialized. It is painful to see the original Birthday Celebration smothered under trappings and decorations, so that its religious significance is overlaid by purely pagan celebrations. But the most painful, and the most dangerous, is the fact that millions regard the Birth of Jesus as a beautifully preserved piece of folk lore. They have made no real distinction in their minds between the myth of Santa Claus and his reindeer, and the story of the Babe with the adoring shepherds.

So, as Christians, we must not hesitate to say that what we have just celebrated is a unique fact in human history. We need to see with clear fresh eyes that we live on a visited planet and that by God's choice God and man are irrevocably joined together.

All good religions teach something about God and they all urge men to lead a good life, but only the Christian faith dares to state that God became Man. Only through Him do we have eternal life and the full salvation from sin. Our values, our treatment of our fellows, our quality of living, our whole attitude towards life and death comes ultimately from what happened in the stable of an inn many years ago. That is why with reverent imagination and humble minds we must year by year look back to the First Christmas.

Some Education Progress Made

United Press International — The United States made some progress in solving its educational problems in 1958. Some, but not much. A year-end balance sheet shows many of the fundamental difficulties besetting U. S. schools are being carried forward, unsolved, into 1959.

The biggest entry on the credit side of the ledger was the passage of the National Defense Education Act. It authorized more than one billion dollars in federal aid over a four-year period to improve mathematics, science, and language teaching and strengthen other specific weaknesses in American education.

Significant forward steps were taken on several other fronts. High schools tightened their curriculums in response to public demands for more fundamentals and fewer frills.

TV Teaching Advances — There was a nationwide move to provide more challenging educational opportunities for gifted youths. More attention also was paid to children at the other end of the achievement scale, the mentally retarded and the delinquent.

Teaching by television moved out of the experimental category and established itself as a valuable new tool of education at every level from kindergarten through college.

In other vital areas, however, 1958 was a year of limited progress or no progress at all. This was the picture: — Desegregation — Public high schools were closed in Little Rock, Ark., and three Virginia cities as "massive resistance" to

Colorado Observes Centennial With 'Rush To The Rockies'

COLORADO SPRINGS (SpI) — Twenty-one events representing nine Colorado communities are on the January listing of the official calendar of events, "Rush to the Rockies" officials announced Saturday.

January marks the start of the year-long Centennial celebration commemorating the 100th anniversary of the first mass settlement of Colorado Territory in 1859. Events are planned throughout the state in 1959 to call attention to the remarkable growth and development of Colorado during the past century.

Spokesmen for the commission said the approved calendar events are in the diverse fields of education, music and drama, museums and art displays, entertainment, government and sports. The latter listings dominate with a total of eight events in this category.

Denver activities dominate the January calendar. The Mile High City offers nine activities with Centennial themes. Fort Collins lists three activities on the official "Rush to the Rockies" calendar for January. Colorado Springs and Aspen each list two. Other towns represented during the first month of the Colorado Centennial include Boulder, Glenwood Springs, Pueblo and Greeley. Centennial officials describe one event as a "state-wide" activity.

"A few of the January events are annual attractions which have become eligible for calendar listing because of the addition of a special 1959 angle which follows the Centennial theme," Thayer Tuit, general chairman of the Colorado Centennial Commission, said. He cited the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Jan. 16-24, which honors the Colorado celebration with a "100 Years History of Livestock and Agriculture Museum." The celebrated Colorado event also plans cavalry and side-saddle arena events, period costume displays, in honor of the Centennial observance.

Many of the January events have been signed for or developed as new activities in honor of the

Long Range Thor Firing Considered Big Breakthrough

By JAMES C. WEBSTER United Press International

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — The successful firing of a long-range Thor ballistic missile from an Air Force training base in California is looked on by missilemen as a significant breakthrough in the armaments race.

Planners at the Strategic Air Command's headquarters south of here and missile technicians at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., were equally exultant, not because another Thor was fired, but because it was the first launching of such a missile by a military crew.

What made the Vandenberg firing Dec. 16 so noteworthy was the fact that the nuclear-warhead Thor was now in the hands of a combat crew—and it could be fired in case of war.

The missile was not operational from Vandenberg since it was limited to about 1,500 miles. But it soon will be deployed in Britain and fired by British crewmen.

Maj. Gen. David Wade, head of SAC's 1st Missile Division, said that an announcement is expected soon on the location of the first operational Thor base in England. Unofficial sources said it might come in January.

Wade's outfit is currently training Royal Air Force crews, side by side with Sacmen, to launch the missiles once they are given to the British.

Reading Atlas Tests — Missile experts pointed out that IRBMs and the longer-range intercontinental ballistic missiles aren't of much strategic value in the hands of scientists. The machine gun, for example, would be of little use strictly in the hands of its inventors. A foot soldier would get little benefit from it unless he knew how to aim and fire it.

A SAC source told United Press International, "now we can use this thing. One of our own crews fired this one."

Another significant factor in the Dec. 16 firing was the initial success of the men that fired it.

SAC is also going full-blast at readying its ICBM Atlas bases and training crews to fire it. The missile is expected to be ready for launching by a military crew in California shortly after the first of the year.

PROTEST FILM SEIZURE — PARIS (UPI) — Pathe Newsreel protested to police today against the seizure of a newsreel containing allegedly offensive remarks about the heads of state of France and other countries. The newsreel, in which comedians Foret and Serrault Guy discussed world politics, was confiscated after it was shown to a few audiences.
