Dulles Returns To Walter Reed

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has failed to respond satisfactorily to treatment for abdominal cancer and President Eisenhower is very concerned about the 71-year-old Cabinet member.

That was the report today from high administration officials after Dulles suddenly cut short his Florida vacation and flew back to the White House for further medical observation at Walter Reed Army

Hospital. Dulles appeared thin and drawn from his State Department post. He stepped from the plane at the State Department, Columbian III, but told reporters, "I feel fine."

Eisenhower was described as "very disturbed." He was expected to visit Dulles at the hospital today when he returns from Augusta, Ga., for a 24-hour round-trip flight before resuming his vacation there.

the question of Dulles resigning their medical observation." White had informed the White House that Dulles was not responding to the treatment as had been hoped.

One high government official said medical authorities were clearly disappointed in Dulles' progress since he underwent mastectomy and radiation treatments at Walter Reed.

But other sources told United Press International the additional observation apparently was necessary to determine what further treatment for Dulles was required.

This official said the physicians what he has been through."

Asked whether a final decision on Dulles' official future was imminent, Hagerty said: "I would hesitate to answer that question because I have not been in touch with his doctors."

Eisenhower and Dulles talked by telephone Saturday afternoon.

At Augusta, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower had known about the plans for Dulles' return for several days.

Another source described the latest word on Dulles' illness as "bad news." He said the secretary had lost strength and was considerably underweight.

3 Satellites Set For Launching

By WILLIAM L. UMSTEAD
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States plans to launch three more earth satellites today — two from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and one from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

If all goes well, the three man-made moons will be fired skyward by midnight. The new satellites are designed to glean more data on the earth's make-up and weather and explore the possibility of putting huge reconnaissance satellites into orbit in the future.

The Cape Canaveral shot is scheduled to be a unique 2-in-1 launching with the Vanguard rocket. It will carry an instrumented satellite for measuring the magnetic field, solar radiation and meteor effects, and a 30-inch inflatable sphere for checking air density.

At Vandenberg, the Air Force will try to put a Discoverer satellite into a south-north polar orbit. This launching will be part of a long-range endeavor to develop satellites capable of scanning the earth with television and photographic cameras.

The 1,200-pound Discoverer probably will eject a package of instruments which scientists will try to recover. However, defense officials were mum on this aspect of the experiment.

In Stable Flight The Discoverer satellites, which are designed to achieve stable flight rather than tumbling about like other satellites, have an important relationship to aviation efforts to put a man into space as well as to military communications, meteorology and reconnaissance. The current experiments eventually may lead to 10,000-pound satellites hurled aloft by Atlas intercontinental missiles. Both the Vandenberg and Canaveral launchings will be under the auspices of the National Aeronautical and Space Administration (NASA). The former is strictly military, however, while the latter is part of experiments started during the International Geophysical year (IGY).

So, Unplug The Electric Blanket!

It'll seem and feel more like spring in Pampa and the rest of the Top of Texas area Tuesday, the weatherman promises. The forecast calls for clear to partly cloudy skies, with warmer temperatures, by Tuesday. The high Tuesday is expected to reach 64 while the low tonight is due to sink to 34.

ADOBE WALLS COUNCIL RATED REGION'S BEST

The Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scout Scouts of America, was again named the most outstanding council in Region IX at a regional meeting Saturday in Fort Worth. This is the second consecutive year that the Council has headed the 35 council region, according to Don Cain, Council president.

Cain and Yorel Harris, Council Scout executive, went to Fort Worth Thursday for the meeting. Cain spoke on developing training Cub Scouts and Explorers into the program. Muri Howard, Council training chairman from Phillips, spoke on "How to Reach Top Council."

Eliminating Drop Training was heard on.

BOYD'S FINAL PROCLAMATION

Lynn Boyd, who steps down as mayor Tuesday, has signed what he believes will absolutely be his final proclamation. The document declares that this week, beginning yesterday and ending Saturday, is Reator Week. Flanking the mayor is P. O. Gaur, (left) head of the of Highland Homes; and Roy Sparkman, (right) secretary of Security Federal Savings and Loan. The business of signing proclamations will next become the duty of Ed Myatt, elected mayor by a wide margin last week.

Soldier Of Fortune, Nye, Flees Cuban Conviction

By IRA LURVEY
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ex-Navy pilot Alan Robert Nye, convicted of trying to kill Fidel Castro and given 48 hours to get out of Cuba or be executed, made the trip in 12 hours and today was back home in Indiana. Nye assured his mother, "We're all right," and then went off to his home at nearby Whiting, Ind., to sleep.

Sunday night and hugged and kissed his mother, Mrs. Helen Lynch, 52, repeatedly. Nye, 32, was convicted early Sunday night and hugged and Sunday by a three-man Cuban tribunal which took only 10 minutes to reach a verdict after a five and one-half-hour night-time trial in the officer's club of Havana. The court said Nye was offered $100,000 to help overthrow the Cuban government. (See SOLDIER, Page 3)

AT AGE 72

James Gleason, Vet Actor Dies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Gleason, who rollicked and wisecracked his way across the nation's stage and screens for all but 20 months and a couple of Army hitch-hikes of his 72 years, died Sunday night.

The veteran actor underwent surgery last December and went to the motion picture home in the San Fernando Valley to convalesce.

Gleason, whose family tree was liberally sprinkled with stage celebrities, came into the world in the proverbial theater trunk in New York on May 23, 1886. His father, actor-producer William Gleason, gave him his first part at the age of two months. At the age of 5 young Gleason starred in the touring play "Stricken Blind."

At the age of 17 he felt the call of adventure, and joined the Army, lying about his age, and fought through the Philippine Insurrection. He started as a bugler and ended up as a tough sergeant.

Gleason rejoined his parents who then were running a stock company at the old Liberty Theater in Oakland, Calif. There he met and married ingenue Lucille Webster. She died in 1917.

The couple toured for several years and finally hit New York where Gleason appeared in two silent pictures. Gleason returned to the Army when trouble broke out along the Mexico border and stayed in the service until the end of World War I. He served with distinction in the field artillery and emerged a first lieutenant.

He returned to the stage and later acted, produced and managed stock companies. He appeared for nearly every studio in Hollywood.

Lucille Gleason also carved herself a career in Hollywood, appearing in many pictures, and some with her husband and their son, Russell. Gleason's films included "A Free Soul," "Hoopla," "West Point of the Air," "Mushy," "Merry-go-round," "Meet John Doe," "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," "Arsenic and Old Lace," "The Keys of the Kingdom," and "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn."

Russell Gleason, the couple's only child, plunged to his death from the fourth floor of a New York hotel while attached to the Army Signal Corps in 1945.

COMMISSIONERS TO TAKE OATH

Ed Myatt, Pampa's newly elected mayor, will be sworn into office Tuesday morning at the regular City Commission meeting.

Others taking the oath of office will be two freshman commissioners, H. V. Wilks of Ward One and James Crawford Jr. of Ward Four. In other business the Commission will set a date for the runoff election in Ward Three between Leon Holmes and R. K. Parsley. Parsley, meanwhile, will sit as commissioner of Ward Three.

SECRETARY JOHN FOSTER DULLES ... returns for more cancer treatment

Ike Interrupts Vacation; Is Concerned Over Dulles

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — President Eisenhower flew back to Washington today in cold, blustery weather for a crowded 24-hour schedule in the nation's Capitol and a personal check on the health of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles against cancer.

Interrupting his golfing vacation here for a day of speeches, conferences and a visit with Dulles in Washington, Eisenhower took off from Augusta aboard the Columbine III.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty refused to discuss the Dulles physical situation as the Columbine left for Washington on a flight expected to take about one hour and 45 minutes.

Hagerty said as far as he knew Eisenhower would return to Augusta Tuesday to continue his vacation through this week.

The circumstances which caused Dulles' doctors to recommend his sudden return to Walter Reed Army Hospital naturally concerned Eisenhower deeply and he was keeping in close touch with the situation.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he assumed the President would see Dulles today or Tuesday, but this will depend on a check with the secretary's doctors after the President gets back to town early this afternoon.

First item on the Eisenhower schedule in Washington was a 3:30 p.m. speech to the National Advertising Council. Tonight he speaks to the seventh annual Republican Women's Conference.

Tuesday morning the President will confer with House and Senate Republican leaders, their first meeting since Congress returned from the long Easter recess.

Monks Demand Relations Tear

By EARNEST HOBEBRECHT
United Press International

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Buddhist monks in Ceylon demanded today that Premier Solomon Bandaranaike sever diplomatic relations with Communist China and cancel the Ceylon-Chinese trade pact because of Communist attacks against Tibet.

The Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet, arrived safely Sunday in the Indian army hill town of Bomdilla and was expected to be flown to New Delhi shortly. Thousands of Buddhist people greeted the god-king with drums and dancing when he emerged from the Assam jungles.

Ceylon is predominantly Buddhist, site of one of the biggest Buddhist temples in the world — The Temple of the Tooth at Kandy, and the Buddhist monks carry great political weight. Their growing anger at Peiping crystallized Friday when the Chinese Communist ambassador refused to receive them to hear a protest.

Observers in Ceylon said the embassy rebuff to the Buddhists was a major diplomatic blunder. The Dalai Lama is revered in Ceylon almost as highly as in Tibet.

The Communist action in Tibet also has stirred other Southeast Asian nations against Peiping and thousands of telegrams and cables poured into India to congratulate the Dalai Lama on his escape from the Red army. Many of the cables from abroad offered assurances to the Dalai Lama.

Excitement over the Dalai Lama's safe arrival at Bomdilla almost overshadowed news of fighting in Tibet. Reports reaching New Delhi said the Tibetans had blown so many important highways and bridges that Tibet was now cut in two between north and south.

High School Broken Into Twice Here

Pampa Senior High School was broken into twice over the weekend, once evidently Friday night, and the second time Sunday night or early Monday morning. The total loss has been set at $321.

Police Chief Jim Conner said both break-ins were reported this morning by Custodian Henry Stinnett at 6:36.

Friday night the gymnasium was entered and a burglar or burglars escaped with four basketballs, four tennis rackets, two volleyballs, two bows and four dozen arrows. The loss was valued at $200.

Sunday night a person apparently familiar with the environs of Pampa high school ransacked the lunch room, principal's office and music room.

The burglar entered through a window in the women's lounge and went to the cafeteria where five vending machines were piled open. The loss at the cafeteria was $71 in coins.

Also prowled was Principal Jack Edmondson's office where $20 in four-cent stamps were taken from a desk.

The burglar entered the music room, opened a cabinet and scattered sheet music about the room before finding $30 concealed in a pasteboard box.

U.S. ASKS REDS FOR TEST BAN

By GENEVA (UPI) — The United States today asked Russia to accept an immediate ban on atmospheric atomic explosions and settle the question of underground tests later.

The U.S. move to break the longstanding nuclear conference deadlock was put forward by Ambassador James J. Wadsworth as the three-power discussions resumed here after an Easter recess.

The atmospheric ban, which would reduce the problem of radiation danger, would cover explosions up to 30 miles in altitude. It thus would not cover the type of outer-space shots completed last September in the U.S. Argus Project.

Western sources said after a short 70-minute conference opening session that Wadsworth had indicated if the Russians accepted the atmospheric ban, a further complete and all-inclusive ban agreement on stopping underground tests.

ground explosions could be worked out later. The U.S. proposal appeared to signal a major shift in Western nuclear policy worked out during the three-week Easter break.

Both the American and British delegations have insisted in the past that only a comprehensive ban on all atomic weapons tests, both above and below ground, would be acceptable.

But the difficulties of winning Russian assent for the close inspection required to supervise an all-inclusive ban has led, to insistent pressure, particularly in Washington, to settle for something less.

The Russian delegation's initial reaction to the latest American offer was negative. Soviet sources said the Wadsworth proposal, which presumably had full British backing, violated longstanding Soviet demands for a complete and all-inclusive ban agreement on stopping underground tests.

A Chipmunk's Song Of Spring (He'll Perform for Peanuts)

Nature's daring acrobat, the chipmunk, will entertain you with breath-taking antics — as little as a pocketful of peanuts, William R. Luebke of Madison, Wis., took these pictures of one hungry little fellow (could it have been the recording star, "Alvin"?). He tied a few peanuts to a piece of string and dangled them from a low branch. Friend chipmunk hustled to cut the prizes free with sharp teeth, filled his pouches, then dashed off to his burrow in the woods.

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's three chapters, Rho Eta, Upsilon, and Exemplan honored Mrs. Roy E. McKernan with a Recognition Tea on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the City Club Room signifying her as Pampa's Woman of the Year for 1959.

Hosts of friends were greeted at the door by Mrs. McKernan and Mrs. Byron Hibben, Exemplan Chapter president, and directed to the serving table where punch, cookies and finger sandwiches were served from a table covered with a blue organza cloth encircled with a floor-length ruffie. The table was centered with a milk-glass epergne holding an arrangement of blue and white snapdragons. Silver and crystal appointed the serving table complemented with white napkins inscribed in blue with "Woman of the Year, Julia McKernan, 1959."

During the serving period, Bill Haley, at the piano played background selections and served as accompanist for Mrs. Lavinia Webb, who beautifully sang, "We Cannot Walk Alone" and "Alice Blue Gown."

Rev. Father Edward Cashman of Holy Sons Catholic Church gave the invocation.

Welcome to guests was extended by Mrs. Otis Petty, Jr. of Upsilon Chapter, who also introduced former Women of the Year, Meses. Carl J. Wright of Ft. Collins, Colo., Rufe Jordan, W. R. Campbell, Huelyn Laycock, James Massie, Arthur Teed, Dick Hughes, H. H. Hicks, Jack P. Foster, Raymond Harrah, A. D. Hills, R. H. Nestel, and Inez Carter.

In a charming and intimate manner, Mrs. H. H. Hicks, a close friend of Mrs. McKernan's and Woman of the Year herself in 1953, described the years of service to her community, which led to the honor conferred on Mrs. McKernan on Sunday afternoon.

At the conclusion of her address Mrs. Hicks presented the honored guest with a Certificate of Recognition and a memento, a Florentine gold disc inscribed "Woman of the Year, 1959" given by former Women of the Year. Originators of the idea, Mrs. Arthur Teed and Mrs. Dick Hughes, Women of the Year for 1950 and 1951, respectively, plan to make this an annual presentation.

Presentation of the bouquet of yellow roses to Mrs. McKernan was made by Mrs. Inez Carter, Woman of the Year for 1958.

In accepting the honor, Mrs. McKernan said, "This is fun and a great honor, but, you know, you do not walk alone. We are all instrumental for good in some way; some work it put one way, some another."

This honor today, she continued, "should go to Tim and Jane, my parents. They led me in the right path in such a way that formed a great many of my characteristics; also, the honor should go to my husband, Roy, to my teachers in school, and to the nurses at the State of Charity Hospital, who taught me so much that I did not know."

Although rugs get constant wear and tear, they often are the last items in a home to be cleaned. Regular vacuuming needs to be followed once or twice a year with a full cleaning. This may be done professionally or with a home cleaning aid. But it should be done for the life and beauty of the rug.

WASH AND CARE

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Von Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband has month. Is this fair? I have been asking me for weeks if he can bring a divorced woman home for lunch who works where he works. She has been having problems with her "ex." He wants me to hear her story and give her my opinion. I told my husband a woman of her age, which is 30, should not have to ask me (I am 32) for advice. I also told my husband I don't think it looks right for him either. I am getting very upset over this whole thing as my husband has pestered me for months about meeting this woman. Am I right in telling him he shouldn't be so concerned with her troubles?

UPSET: You are correct but you'd be wise to let him bring her home for lunch. Listen to her story, give her your opinion and throw in a little extra "advice" about single women "avoiding the appearance of evil" by confining their friendships to single men.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much interested in joining the WAVES and so are two of my girlfriends, but we would like to know something first. Is it possible to join the WAVES if you aren't a virgin? Please tell me where to find out as it will save us a lot of embarrassment.

WANTING TO JOIN: Contact your local recruiting office. They will give you all the official information.

DEAR ABBY: My mother said I could go to a show with this guy named Jerry. We double-dated with Laurie and Mike. We left the house at 7:30 and when we got in the car it turned out that Laurie had seen the show we were going to see, so we all went to Mike's house. We just popped corn and goofed around and played records and watched TV. We got interested in a movie on TV and forgot the time, so instead of being home at 12 sharp like I said, we got home at 12:45. My mother was having fits I didn't lie to her. Abby, I told her we weren't at the show and she almost hit the ceiling. Now I can't go out for a

Old And New PTA Officers Honored At Council Reception In WW School

City Council of PTA met April 7 in Woodrow Wilson School with Mrs. E. A. McLennan, PTA president, and Alex Swenn, school principal as hosts. The meeting featured a reception for incoming presidents, committee chairmen, retiring officers and chairmen.

Approximately 100 guests registered their attendance in an umbrella-shaped registration book, which set the decorative theme of Spring flowers and showers. White baskets of flowering branches were used on the stage and the serving table featured a frilly parasol and early Spring blossoms.

Mrs. Helen Schaefer's Theatrical Group of Pampa High school presented the program with Miss Barbara Lunford, president, opening with a brief description of the Theatricals and a dramatic declamation, "Burning in The Night," by Thomas Wolfe from his book, "You Can't Go Home Again." A humorous skit, "Two Boys Meet Girl" was presented by Miss Beckie Peters, Doug Redman and Ronnie Elthridge.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. E. E. Tidwell, council vice president, invocation was given by Mr. Swenn. Reports were given by the treasurer, secretary and radio chairman, as well as by committees working on the Spring Conference.

It was announced that a parliamentary procedure course will be held for incoming officers on May 12 in the educational building of the First Christian Church. Presidencies were requested to have their units purchase procedure course booklets for those interested.

An invitation was extended to all PTA members in Pampa to attend the Spring District Conference to be held April 20-21 in Robert E. Lee Junior High auditorium.

Mrs. Tidwell announced that installation of PTA Council officers will take place on May 5 in Pampa Junior High auditorium. Cameron Marsh, school principal and Mrs. J. H. Trotter, PTA president, will host this meeting.

An auditing committee composed of McHenry Lane, Mrs. J. R. Holloway and Mrs. R. F. Forsythe was appointed.

It was announced that a new group has been formed to aid the

PAMPA CHERRY BLOSSOM

This is the Texas float that was seen on the streets of Washington D.C. Saturday in the annual Cherry Blossom Parade. Susan Rogers, left, daughter of Rep. and Mrs. Walter Rogers of Pampa was Texas Cherry Blossom princess. Miss Rogers was accompanied on the triple heart-shaped Texas float by Jill Teague, daughter of Rep. and Mrs. Olin Teague of College Station; Lucy Baines Johnson, daughter of Sen. and Mrs.

Lyndon Johnson of Johnson City; Karen Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kennedy of Dallas; Ginger Wright, daughter of Rep. and Mrs. Jim Wright of Fort Worth; Melinda Pickett, daughter of Rep. and Mrs. Tom Pickett of Palestine; and Mary Catherine Rogers, Susan's younger sister. Carolyn Marie Harris, daughter of Rep. Orin Harris of Arkansas, was named queen of the Cherry Blossom Festival.

000 to kill Castro.
Nye denied all the charges.
Wants Affair Closed
After his conviction, Nye was told he would be shot on sight if he stayed in Cuba more than 48 hours.
"Where is the way out?" Nye asked.

Before midnight he was in Chicago.
Nye, tanned and smiling, told newsmen at the airport he felt the whole affair should be considered closed.

"I expect no further reprisals against me or my government," he said.
"I am not bitter. I hold no animosity toward anyone. There were a lot of hotheads and rebels serving under Castro. There were some Communists involved, but Castro is not a Communist."

The charges against Nye were read to the public trial by Lt. Jose Antonio Suarez de la Fuente, the prosecutor, who demanded the death sentence.

Called Him Traitor
Suarez charged that Nye arrived in Bayamo in Oriente Province last Dec. 17 with a telescopic rifle and a pistol to carry out the "physical elimination" of Castro.
He called Nye a "traitor" to Castro's 26th of July Movement.

He said Nye was a member of the movement but had burned three airplanes intended for delivery to Castro's forces who were fighting the regime of Fulgencio Batista, now deposed and living in the Dominican Republic.

During most of the trial, the revolutionary government's chief executioner, Capt. Herman Marks, an ex-convict from Milwaukee, Wis., hung over Suarez's shoulders with his hand on his holster, watching Nye.
Nye said he had come to Cuba only to join the rebels and had informed them of a plot to kill Castro. But he insisted he had nothing to do with this plot. He said he just wanted to be a pilot against the Batista forces.

Mrs. Sharp's Rites Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Nelley Lee Sharp will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Central Baptist Church with Rev. Therman O. Uphaw, pastor, officiating. Mrs. Sharp, who resided east of the city, died at 11 p.m. Sunday in a local hospital following a five-month illness. She was born Oct. 19, 1899 in Temple. She had been a resident in Pampa for 15 years and was a member of the McLean Baptist Church. Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Joe Shepton of Mobeetie; her mother, Mrs. Leona Carwile of Pampa; brother, W. S. Carwile of Mobeetie; and two grandchildren. Interment will be in Hillcrest Cemetery in McLean under the direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Local Bands Rate High At Canyon

Pampa's high school and junior high school bands made a good showing at the Rexion XI Inter-scholastic League contests in Canyon Saturday, placing several soloists and ensembles in the First Division.

Harvester soloists in first place were Cassandra Coffin, clarinet; James Byars, oboe; Susan Kay, saxophone; Jerry Raines, clarinet; and Stanley Michno, saxophone.

A saxophone quartet featured Mary Purley, Susan Kay, John Wagener and Stanley Michno. Two clarinet quartets were made up of Dean Hearn, Ellen Wiley, Anna Graham, Danny Cantrell, David Scarberry, Willeta Lowther, Pamela Goodlett and Dean Hearn.

Leonard Haight, Carrol Husted, Carleton Burt and Terry Burns were the students in a french horn quartet. Two brass quartets starred Bob Jernigan, Larry Harkins, Leonard Haight, Charles Hunt, Cecil Collum, Jere Teed, Joe Bourland, Gary Shultz, Shane Wilbanks, John Goff, Charles Hunt and J. B. Denson.

The Harvester Band is led by W. E. Tregoe.
The Pampa Junior High Band, under Ben Gollehon's direction also rated high. First Division ratings went to nine soloists: Richard Rath, saxophone; Louise Richardson, Louella Sargent, Norma Collins and Lamoyne Clark, clarinets; Bobby Grant and Ronnie Sanford, trombones; Duane Schaub, french horn; and Barbara Graham, clarinet.

Gayle Culppepper, Louise Richardson and Louella Sargent appeared in a clarinet trio. Lamoyne Clark, Janet Connor, Audra Taylor and Norma Collins were in a clarinet quartet. A cornet quartet featured Susie Dillman, Richey Frazier, Gary Laramore and Dwight Beem.

The Lee Junior High Band, directed by Joe DiCosimo, had five soloists in the First Division: Susan Quible, saxophone; Mike Palmer, drums; Linda Mesch, oboe; Maurine Hickman, flute; and Elaine Thornburg, saxophone. A brass sextet was composed of

Police Set Probe For Mad Gunman

By WILLIAM B. MEAD United Press International
RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Police officials met here today to plan further steps in their search for someone who fired at Gov. J. Lindsay Almond.

The 60-year-old Almond was shot at Friday as he was walking from the executive mansion to his office in the state Capitol. One of his three bodyguards hustled him inside the Capitol as the other two searched for the gunman.

Police said they were "nearly certain" an ardent segregationist had fired the shot at the governor. Almond had been threatened by telegrams, letters and telephone calls several times during the current school desegregation crisis.

Wilbur Walker, an aide and one-time private detective, said he would meet with Lt. C. G. Phaugh, chief of the Capitol police force, and other state agents to plan their investigation.

Almond, however, shrugged off the incident.
"I'm just going to go on living and do the best I can," he said.
"If someone knocked me off, there's a good man ready to take my place."

He was referring to Lt. Gov. A. E. Stephens, who is next in line of succession.
The shot was fired from a clump of shrubbery lining an iron fence only a few feet from the mansion. Police who rushed to the scene found only lead fragments and a smoldering cigarette.

If your youngsters are still not protected against polio, insist that they start and complete the full series of polio shots NOW.

Polio isn't licked! In fact, among children not yet vaccinated, paralytic polio cases actually increased in 1958 over 1957. More one-year-olds were stricken than any other age group.

The 1959 polio season is fast approaching. The sooner your children are polio protected, the safer their futures will be. And since polio strikes all ages—be sure to get your shots too. See your doctor or health department NOW.

PHS Plays Dons Tuesday

Yanks, A's In Player Swap

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Carroll, a $40,000 "bonus baby" from Notre Dame, who had been unable to gain a starting job with the New York Yankees, was regarded as the key man today in A's.

The latest player swap between the Yankees and the Kansas City A's.

Carroll and outfielder Russ Snyder of the Yankees' Richmond farm club of the International League went to the A's in exchange for infielder Mike Baxes and outfielder Bob Martyn.

The Yankees immediately cut their roster to 29 players by assigning Baxes and Martyn to Richmond. Baxes hit .212 in 79 games for the A's last year while Martyn hit .261 in 95 games, mostly as a pinch-hitter.

Carroll had several spring trials with the Yankees but never was quite able to break into manager Casey Stengel's solid front line. Last year he batted .289 in 57 games with Denver of the American Association and .278 in 72 games with New Orleans of the Southern Association.

BOBBY STEPHENS ... third in RBI's

Kippy Williams Will Pitch Against Palo Duro Squad

The Harvester baseball team was to have played the Amarillo Sandies today at 4 p.m. in Amarillo, in a make-up game. The game had been scheduled last Tuesday, but was rained out.

Jimmy Walker (0-0) was Pampa Coach DeWald's probable starting pitcher for the Sandie game. Before this afternoon's game, Pampa was 84 for the season and 1-1 in district play. The Sandies were 2-0 in district and 6-5 for the season.

Tuesday, the Harvesters were to make their third trip to Amarillo within four days, to play the Palo Duro Dons. Kippy Williams (3-0) will start on the mound for the Harvesters against Palo Duro.

The Dons, through today, were 0-2 in district play and 6-5 for the season.

The Pampa batting order for the Palo Duro game will be Ruben Strickland (.143) leading off and playing second base; first baseman Larry Stroud (.242) hitting in the second slot; Bobby Stephens (.200) playing left field and batting third; Right fielder Gary Willis (.344) hitting cleanup.

Third baseman Gary Hill (.400) will follow Willis, and Centerfielder DeWayne Glover (.156) will bat sixth. Catcher Terry Haralson (.194) will be the seventh hitter, and shortstop Wendell Ridgway (.087) will hit in the eighth spot. Williams (.385) will be the ninth batter.

The Harvesters will have a two-game "homestand" this weekend, hosting Lubbock Friday and Monterey Saturday.

The Pampa - Amarillo game is the only one on tap today in District 3-4A, but all eight teams will be in action Tuesday. Tascosa will be at Lubbock, Monterey at Plainview, and Amarillo at Borger.

Through Sunday, Amarillo and Borger led the district, with 2-0 records, followed by Tascosa and Lubbock (.2-1). Pampa is 1-1, Monterey 1-2, Palo Duro 0-2, and Plainview 0-3.

A neat four-hitter by Kippy Williams and a pair of extra-base hits by Larry Stroud highlighted last week's Harvester performance.

Williams boosted his record to 3-0 by breezing to a 5-1 win over the hapless Plainview Bulldogs in Pampa's district opener.

Stroud tied Bobby Stephens for the number three spot in runs-batted-in by driving in four runs with a home run and a triple. He also got two singles, including three for four against Tascosa, to match his hit total for the rest of the year, and raise his batting average to a fairly respectable .242.

As a team, the Harvesters moved up nine points in batting, from 223 to 232. They also boosted their team fielding average nine points, from .910 to .919.

Five men, including two pitchers and a reserve catcher, are hitting .300 or better. Reserve catcher Jim Scott leads the list with .600, on three hits in five at-bats. Pitcher Keith Yager is second with .11.500, and third baseman Gary Hill is next with .400. Williams is batting .385, and Gary Willis is second.

and among the regular starters with .344.

Willis still ranks as the team's top slugger, with 12 RBI's, two home runs, a triple, and a double. Stroud is next with a homer, two triples, and five RBI's.

Catcher Terry Haralson still rates as the most economical hitter on the team. He's hitting only .194, but has collected only one extra base hit, a triple, but he is second on the team in RBI's, with seven.

Stephenson, as well as being tied for third in RBI's, is second, behind Willis, in total hits, with seven. Willis leads with 11.

In the pitching department, Yager and Williams continue to set a hot streak-out pace. Williams has fanned 32 men in 25-innings, and Yager has whiffed 32 men in 22-innings.

Six players have perfect fielding averages of 1.000. They are pitchers Williams, Walker, and Yager, catcher Scott, first baseman Stroud, and third baseman Keith Gregory.

Roberts, Atlas Top Meyers, Funk In 'Hairline' Decision

Strapping Sonny Myers may show up at ringside Saturday night with a genuine chrome dome ... that's "cat talk" for bald, man-in-case you ain't hep.

Myers was ready to have his crop chopped or tresses trimmed or just about ready to play the death scene in the Barber of Seville or anything after Saturday night's tag-team main event defeat at the hands of Nasty Nick Roberts and the Mighty Atlas. And Myers' partner, Dory Funk, who himself owns a pretty thick blond haystack, was upset enough to go begging for a pair of extra-sharp scissors.

Here's why Myers and Funk were so hopping angry over the fact Sonny had too much hair.

The two tag-team comrades had fought off Roberts and Atlas to an even split in the first two falls of their main event. Funk used a treacherous toe-hold to whip Roberts in the opening round and Roberts bumped Funk moments later to square the match with the aid of a back-breaker.

Then came the third round and what Myers and Funk are calling a dirty "hair" mess today. Myers and Atlas were in the ring and Myers was getting the better end of things as he had the Mighty

One groggy and pleading for mercy after a series of rugged shoulder blocks.

In fact, Myers was hammering away with his steel shoulders when Roberts, the Nasty One, reached in from outside the ring and got a death-grip on Myers' full head of loose hair. Roberts grabbed Myers' hair from the backside, gave one vicious tug, and Sonny hit the canvas with a resounding thud. The groggy Atlas saw his chance and mustered the little remaining strength he had left to pounce on the fallen Myers for an easy pin-and-the-match.

However, the decision of referee Peto Carreon didn't sit too well in the laps of the fans and he was booed loudly. So loudly, in fact, that promoter Bon Giegel, never a guy to not try and please the fans, barred Carreon from working this Saturday night's matches.

"You darn right, we'll have a new referee here for those folks," Giegel said after the booing stopped and the fans stormed from the Top O' Texas Sportsman's Club here. "I don't know who it'll be, but it'll be an improvement," Giegel exclaimed.

Slick Juan Humberto was too fast for Oklahoma Indian Kit Fox in their Saturday night semi-final bout. Humberto used three slams and knee-drops in both the first and second round to win two straight falls.

In the opener Funk and Atlas struggled to a 15-minute draw.

Atlas was scheduled to perform one of his astounding feats of strength but never a favorite with any crowd, the Mighty One stomped out of the ring with boos and cat-calls ringing in his ears when the hostile throng gave him a verbal raking. Needless to say his anger was the chief reason he didn't so much as break a toothpick before the Pampa fans.

Promoter Giegel said Monday morning Myers wants to take on Roberts for his out-side-the-ring "cheating" of Saturday night in this week's card, but as yet Roberts has shown due respect and not jumped at a chance to meet Sonny.

Both, however, are expected to return here Saturday night and just having those under the same roof could bring plenty of fireworks. Also booked for this week are Humberto and a surefire chiller as Atlas meets an old foe, Taro Myaki.

Advanced tickets are on sale at Levine's Department Store.

Finsterwald Wins Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Dow Finsterwald, unhappy at his treatment by the gallery, says he may not come back here next year to defend the Greater Greensboro Open golf championship he won in a rain-soaked finish Sunday.

Finsterwald, of Tequesta, Fla., picked up $2,000 as a result of his six-over-par 77 on Sunday's final round which gave him a total of 278 strokes and a two-stroke margin over Masters champion Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa.

The new champion came in saying he thought the gallery had been "impartial to everybody but me."

"I think maybe I'll give them (the GGO) $500 and not come back (to defend) next year," he said.

Wall started the round over the par-71 Starmount Forest Country Club course five strokes back of Finsterwald but was unable to catch the 29-year-old 1958 PGA champion.

Only two players broke par for the day. Slamming Sam Snead and Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla., a pair of tournament-tested veterans, firing 70s.

Snead's 70 jumped him from 17th place at 54 holes to a tie for third at 281, while Ford's 70 gave him a tie for eighth at 284. Snead was 10 strokes behind Finsterwald.

at the beginning of the final round but finished just three strokes back.

Billy Casper, of Apple Valley, Calif., who came in with a fourth-day 72, gained a tie with Snead for third at 281. Two strokes back at 283 were Tom Niporte of Bronxville, N.Y., Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, and Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.

Bears, Bisons In NHL Playoff

United Press International

It will be the Hershey Bears vs the Buffalo Bisons in the final series of the American Hockey League Calder Cup playoffs.

The Bears battled their way, in the finals against Buffalo by edging the Cleveland Barons, 4-3, in the deciding game of their semi-final series Sunday afternoon at Cleveland.

Veteran Willie Marshall scored a goal and assisted on two others to lead the defending Calder Cup champions to their decisive victory. Dunc Fisher, Mike Nykoluk, and Obie O'Brien were the other Hershey marksmen.

The hard-fighting Barons, who had forced a seventh game by beating Hershey, 3-1, Saturday, battled back in the final stanza on goals by Bob Bailey and Art Stratton, but their rally fell short of the mark. It was the second straight year that the Cleveland club had been beaten in the first round of the playoffs after finishing second during the regular campaign.

Atlas was scheduled to perform one of his astounding feats of strength but never a favorite with any crowd, the Mighty One stomped out of the ring with boos and cat-calls ringing in his ears when the hostile throng gave him a verbal raking. Needless to say his anger was the chief reason he didn't so much as break a toothpick before the Pampa fans.

Canadiens Lead Maple Leafs By Two, In Stanley Cup Play

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI) — Toronto Maple Leaf Coach Punch Imlach claims he still can see the Stanley Cup in his crystal ball today, but the Montreal Canadiens are clouding the picture.

One of the clouds was big Montreal center Jean Beliveau, who was knocked out of the last few games with a spinal injury suffered March 28 during a Montreal-Chicago semifinal. Montreal Coach Toe Blake said today "it's possible" Beliveau will be used in the third game of the NHL final series here Tuesday night.

"We might be able to surprise the Leafs and although there is nothing definite, there still is an even better chance Beliveau will play in the Thursday game in Toronto," Blake said.

The Leafs face a two-game deficit when they hit the ice Tuesday night but Imlach wasn't worried.

Matthews, Ortiz To Fight Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Un-ranked Len Matthews of Philadelphia is a slight favorite over second-ranked Carlos Ortiz of New York for their scheduled 10-round bout at the Arena tonight.

Ortiz, who has a record of 18 wins, two losses and one draw, hoped to use the fight as a springboard for a shot at champion Joe Brown but Matthews was rated an early 8-5 favorite.

Matthews, only 19, has compiled a 16-1-1 record against somewhat mediocre competition but is rated a harder-hitter than Ortiz who relies on speed and combination punching.

Reading Wins Keg Playoff

Ina Reading, reluctant at the beginning to engage in a head-to-head battle with Elaine Riddle, surprised the local bowling set with a brilliant 17-pin playoff win over Mrs. Riddle Sunday afternoon at Garden Lanes.

Mrs. Reading posted a sparkling 541 to Elaine's up and down total of 524.

Ina was a bit slower than usual Sunday, but she remained brilliantly consistent. She opened with 199, followed with a 161 and closed with a fine 181.

Elaine was superb at the start with a scizzling 210, but then disaster — in the form of a 121 — struck. She closed with a 198, but the damage was already done.

In that troublesome second game Mrs. Riddle had great trouble hitting the head pin. Often left with three or four-pin clusters and splits — Elaine had six "opens."

The three-game playoff was actually decided in the seventh and eighth frames of the third game when Mrs. Reading threw perfect strikes for a double after Elaine had managed to pick most of her 29-pin deficit. After Ina's double Elaine had to gain at least a double somewhere along the line to tie. She didn't quite make it.

At stake Sunday was the singles championship of the Women's City Tournament and a trophy. The women had split first and second place prize money prior to Sunday's playoff.

Austin Leads Texas League

United Press International

Austin held a half game lead today in the Texas League and the Senators will attempt to stretch that margin tonight at the expense of last place San Antonio.

Austin nipped the Missions 4-3 Sunday night, despite making five hits in San Antonio's six and committing three errors. Corpus Christi edged Victoria 8-7, and Tulsa whipped Amarillo 8-2. Corpus Christi and Tulsa are a half game behind Austin.

Tonight-Tulsa is at Amarillo, Austin at San Antonio and Victoria at Corpus Christi.

Giants, Sox Lead League

By FRED DROWN
United Press International

The potent bats of Orlando Cepeda and Sherman Lollar have the unbeaten San Francisco Giants and Chicago White Sox off and running today in starts that take the edge off perfect getaways by the favored pennant-contenders.

Neither the Milwaukee Braves nor the New York Yankees has lost a game but a look at the standings shows that each has ground to make up. The Giants' three-game sweep of the St. Louis Cardinals gave them a half-game edge on the Braves and the White Sox' three-game wrap-up of the Detroit Tigers has earned them a one-game lead over the Yankees.

Standings at this stage of the race don't mean much, of course, but the point is that two strong contenders—not too heavily favored defending champions—have made the most of the few games played so far.

Cepeda, the National League "rookie of the year" in 1958 when he hit .312, delivered the key blow in a 6-3 victory Sunday after driving in four of the Giants' five runs Saturday night. The Giants had rallied to tie at 3-3 on Willie Mays' two-run triple but the score was still tied when Cepeda went to bat with two out and Jim Davenport on base in the ninth.

The 21-year-old native of Ponce, P.R., snapped the tie with a triple that put the Giants ahead, 4-3, and Felipe Alou followed with a homer that gave them their final margin of victory.

Lollar, who is hitting .533 and has driven in five runs in three games, drove in two runs Sunday as the White Sox beat the Tigers, 5-3, in the only other game.

5-3. Lollar had three hits in each of the White Sox' first two victories and has made eight sacrifices in 15 tries.

The world champion New York Yankees finally got underway after two rain-outs and beat the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, on World Series hero Bob Turley's two-hit performance and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, in the only other game.

Al Worthington, who took over in the eighth inning, picked up the San Francisco victory after lefty Mike McCormick yielded three runs and six hits in seven innings. The Cardinals scored all their runs in the first inning aided by errors by Alou, Cepeda and Andre Rodgers but Vinegar Bend Mizell couldn't hold the lead against the hard-hitting Giants.

6 Strikes And Results

One would think that strikers on picket lines around newspaper plants in California and Missouri, and other newspaper workers who are threatening to strike in New York City and elsewhere, would pause to ponder the significance of the suspension in Grand Rapids, Mich. But they won't! Similar situations have existed in the past but they appear to have no meaning to those who should care the most — the people who work for newspapers.

Soil Bank Results

Are we all done? Is the age of progress and productivity to move into its eclipse? If so, you will have only yourself and your government which you look to so ardently, to blame.

Let's take the soil bank program for our examination. Recently it has been established that there are a few farmers in this immediate vicinity who are profiting enormously by leasing "state lands" and "putting them" in "banked idleness. But the condition is widespread. It has occurred all across the nation.

There are always those political opportunists, in and out of office, who will take advantage of a situation and exploit it, however it may harm the general public.

Recently the Wall Street Journal reported on the second phase of this soil bank mischief. A reporter in Wisconsin uncovered the fact that many a farmer had banked his land, turning it to "idleness" and had then left his acres to take a more lucrative job in town. He receives money from the taxpayers routed thru Washington for doing nothing. Then, he works and thus enhances his position while creating a glut in the labor market. Fascinating, isn't it?

Here is Orlo Taylor, who owns a 160-acre farm near Beetown in Wisconsin: "I won't know for sure until the end of the year whether or not we can make out, but I think the income will keep us going. After all, my two daughters are grown and married. I won't have to buy any fertilizer. All I'll have to do to the farm is have the weeds clipped twice a year."

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

"Union Coercion And Your Newspaper"

Here is another installment of an article appearing in the April "Freeman" magazine on Union Coercion and Your Newspaper written by Joseph E. Brown. It is as follows:

To Capture The Press An increasing number of American newspapers each year are drawn within the sphere of union domination, either directly through contracts in their own shops or indirectly through the necessarily close alliance of their news columns with the community they represent.

Last year, when the American Newspaper Guild observed its twenty-fifth birthday, it announced a membership of more than thirty thousand in noncraft departments of newspapers, magazines, and other periodicals. The percentage of workers under union control in craft departments of these American publications is difficult to estimate; it's safe to say it is increasing annually.

Whether or not a newspaper's employees are represented by a trade union does not matter. Because of trends in the past decade toward unification among unions, exemplified by the merger of the AFL and CIO, no newspaper can isolate itself from union influence, and it would be foolish for any publisher to think he could do so.

A publisher may officiate over a nonunion plant, for example, but chances are great that delivery of newspaper is handled by Teamster Union truckers. A newspaper tagged unfair by one union may find its paper supply brought to a sudden halt. If this occurs, the publisher must find other means of hauling newspaper, often at accelerated cost. Such pressures so magnify the expense of operation that a newspaper might find itself with a budget so overloaded that it cannot survive.

A publisher has no right to stay in business if he's a poor business man, nor is there any moral restriction against those who provide a newspaper's financing—the subscribers and advertisers—from withdrawing their support if they choose. No one is forced to pay for a newspaper, or to read one, or to subscribe to its philosophy. In a free society, acceptance or rejection by the consumer of a product guides the maker of that product in its production. In this regard, a newspaper is no different from a factory producing shoes, toy balloons, or automobiles.

THE "RIGHT" TO SABOTAGE But when a labor union, with government sanction, can employ force or intimidation to prevent the distribution of a product in this case a newspaper — it makes no difference whether a publisher is a good or bad businessman; his rights have been trod upon.

Take the case of one California weekly newspaper during the last national election campaign. Exciting his right guaranteed by the Constitution, the publisher wrote a series of editorials favoring a "right to work" voluntary union measure appearing on the upcoming California ballot. The measure was, obviously, bitterly fought by the California labor union printers whose job it was to get them in type. So they showed down in type, went home "sick," or didn't show up for work at all. Finally the publisher, sensing the reason, toned down his editorials and then dropped them altogether.

Work picked up immediately and the publisher filed a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board. Angered over his act, the printers called a strike and the paper was forced to shut down.

UNIONS ENJOY SPECIAL PRIVILEGES If labor unionism enjoyed no legalized exemption from the laws which regulate business, or if it operated with other than collective force, then it could be properly categorized by a newspaper among its other competitors.

And the significance? American manufacture is being priced out of domestic and world markets. Powerful unions are pushing costs beyond the competitive prices made possible by mass production and labor-saving devices. It is all of us who must pay the higher price, but none so much as the workers whose jobs are lost when, as with the turbines, business is lost!

Robert Allen Reports:

Kennedy Not Just Sounding Out, Now

WASHINGTON — Senator John Kennedy is doing a lot more in Wisconsin this week than merely sounding out sentiment on whether he should run in the State's presidential primary early next spring.

That eventual decision is already made. Kennedy will definitely enter Wisconsin's crucial presidential primary.

This momentous campaign decision won't be announced until later this week, but it has already been positively made by Kennedy and his lieutenants.

Meanwhile, the real purpose of his trip this week is to lay the groundwork for waging an all-out primary battle next April for Wisconsin's 28 delegates to the Los Angeles convention.

During this significant three-day sojourn, concrete steps will be taken to set up a campaign organization with headquarters and personnel.

To start this important ball rolling, the young Massachusetts presidential aspirant, accompanied by his wife, is holding a breakfast meeting in a Madison hotel for all the delegates to the 1960 convention, plus other Democratic leaders.

A number of these former delegates are planning to run again, and Kennedy proposes to lose no time in winning the support of as many of them as he can.

The decision to make this early start was reached following last month's Midwest Democratic Conference in Milwaukee. Kennedy strategists returned from this party pow-wow firmly convinced of two things:

Entering Wisconsin's primary is a risk worth taking, on the theory that after carefully weighing the virtual certainty that Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minn., will throw his hat into the Wisconsin ring if Kennedy does so, the latter and his advisers agreed to meet such a head-on test.

To get it underway Kennedy sent a personal letter to each of the 1960 delegates and other State leaders saying: "I particularly hope it will be possible for you to come to breakfast Saturday morning."

Representative Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr. (Mass.), among Kennedy's closest congressional supporters, is telling friends about the latter's backstage decision to tackle Wisconsin's crucial presidential primary.

Equally positive inside word on that is coming from another strong Kennedy backer — Representative Clement Zablocki (D., Wis.), dean of the Democratic congressmen from the State.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

WASHINGTON — You have been sitting in New York with friends, gravely discussing conditions and situations which you cannot but feel gravely about and, having no other pressures on you, decide to drive down here and visit some friends.

You give sedately by The White House, driving at a glance out of your left eye, turn right into 17th Street, follow it into the "Y" which makes it become polished, expensive Connecticut Avenue.

The avenue is not crowded and driving is easy all the way to the circle at the District Line and soon you are back in Maryland at Chevy Chase.

You turn right into a side street of ample homes and generously large old trees and make your way into your host's driveway.

There's something I want you to read. It's called "Alas, Babylon." It's a novel, but I think it will fascinate you.

It isn't exactly a novel, it's a long story in a women's magazine, and tired as you are you cannot put it down until you have finished the grim, realistic, utterly of this moment story of how war got the name in a few minutes between Russia and the United States and the weapons we know of today.

Submarines flinging atomic missiles at our shores and cities, enemy-seeking aerial torpedoes designed to find and destroy an enemy ship can see only as a blip on his plane's radar.

It is a nationally significant story with an international frame, and what makes its power is your constant sense of now, tomorrow morning, the day after this is exactly what could happen under as unplanned and accidental a circumstance.

The next morning, at breakfast you and your host linger long and deliberate over coffee and he tells you that everything within pride and honor is being done to prevent just such an occasion of tragedy but he does not believe that we ever will permit our pride and honor to be damaged by evasion and appeasement.

Fellow members of NATO may have their personal problems — like the indefensibility of Great Britain — but when the chips are down, as indeed they may be, we will not waver and twist away.

You say that what seems really sad to you is that very few persons in the United States, outside of the areas of government, appear to have any concern for the fact that a recent TV round-table in which notable newspaper editors were plain to say that they didn't seem to be any real anxiety or even awareness in the population, generally speaking.

We were in a true modern Babylon of shining cars, country clubs, new carpentering and split-level housing, a civilization based upon who of your neighbors had the newest washing machine and the gaudiest freezer.

He says, yes, that was true, but was it not superficial show which would lose all of its importance as a national theme if survival were threatened?

You say you hope so, as desperately as you hope that an honorable way out of an ugly circumstance can be arrived at, but you have no vast confidence in it.

Fair Enough

'Contempt' Is Rubber Hose To The Judges!

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — Time was when rock-listed policemen came in on the "back room" so that in court they gave circumstantial evidence of coercion. Thus confessions were rejected, good hanging cases came apart and scoundrels walked out, leering with swollen features. Thus the Forces of Decency were put to the necessity of discovering that 18 inches of garden hose broke no skin, if applied to clothed but sensitive portions of the body and a Step Forward in Law Enforcement was acclaimed by righteous men.

The garden hose, in its own turn, came to be rejected by the courts and the police were up against it until the courts introduced a rubber hose of their own, wielded by judges. This is their unconscionable power to put innocent persons in prison for endless periods for "contempt" in refusing to say precisely what incompetent judges and the department of justice want them to say, in violation of their constitutional rights not to testify against themselves.

Thus, Frank Costello got 18 months from a federal judge for refusing to act the part of a public fool for the preposterous Senator Estes Kefauver. Any decent citizen would have been justified in belling Kefauver with the water pitcher, for he is a freak of politics whose only achievements were to bring Congress into general contempt and outlaw interstate transportation of slot machines. No mountain ever labored worse to bring forth so puny a mouse, but later, in Chicago, he snorted through an awesome proboscis and sprayed the Democratic convention with tears because he did not get the nomination for president.

Myles Lane, the U.S. Attorney, admitted that 18 months was abundant. However, Lane merely prosecuted and the judge had authority from Congress to inflict this unconscionable persecution on a man whose bad repute has imposed three strikes on him every time he goes to trial. Mr. Lane has even offered the afterthought that if Costello had been more tactful and had taken the funk amendment, according to present custom-practice, he would have walked out free.

The rubber hose is now a horrible weapon of the courts which many judges, mostly federal, politicians of low culture and ignorant of the sweeter dictates of decency, use more horribly than the cops ever used it in police stations. After all, a man gets over the ugly wiles inflicted by the veritable hose. But who can make a man whole after he has been robbed of 30 days or six or 18 months or three years of his precious time on earth by a judge of such a nature that he can bring himself to do such awful things?

Costello has been convicted of just two offenses in his life. The only other one was a "gun-rap" which today would be condoned as a juvenile indiscretion.

In another instance, he got 30 days in the tomb for refusing to tell a grand jury the meaning of certain symbols on a slip of paper which a policeman stole from his pocket as he lay on the slab for emergency treatment of a gunshot wound. The cop who violated the law, his honorable duty and was not even criticized. Moreover, this grand jury and the District Attorney knew full well the meaning of the symbols and the only purpose in using the rubber hose in the hands of a judge on a man who was the victim of a serious crime and was himself accused of nothing, was to make him give evidence against himself, possibly

The London papers have been sounding off on how lousy American cooking is. But then, they have to appeal to their readers. All those people who work in the kitchens of British restaurants, blowing on the food so that it'll be nice and tepid when the waiter brings it to you, deserve to be represented and protected in their jobs. Reminds me of the English children (mentioned in a British guide book) who looked over the delicious French pastries in Paris and asked: "Mummm, can't we have some nice brussel sprouts?"

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. Every once in a while readers express an intense interest in disorders of the human body which are not particularly common.

For example, recently Mrs. L. has inquired about a disease called erythema nodosum and asks about its relationship to rheumatic fever.

This is a $64,000 question. Today no one knows exactly whether there is any relationship between those two diseases or whether they are entirely separate incidents.

In any event, erythema nodosum is a puzzling condition in many respects and one which has caused a great deal of curiosity in the minds of medical men for a long time.

The first part of the name—erythema—indicates redness; the last part, nodes or lumps. Generally, erythema nodosum shows itself by the appearance of reddish, oval, tender lumps, deeply buried in the skin. They are most common on the legs and arms, but may appear in other places as well.

For many years some believed that this condition was a sign of either tuberculosis or rheumatic fever. Now such theories are less popular and erythema nodosum is considered to be part of a general infection. Quite often people who get it first have signs of an infection in the breathing apparatus, in which certain kinds of streptococci (a common germ) are frequently found.

Furthermore, inflammation of several of the joints often comes before the signs of the disease in the skin. All of this points towards some kind of obscure infection, perhaps associated with allergy or virus.

One correspondent has asked how long erythema nodosum usually lasts. The skin signs are likely to disappear within a month. But this does not seem to be always the case, and sometimes they come back.

Treatment is not too satisfactory. Apparently drugs, such as the sulfas or antibiotics, do not affect the disease to any great degree. Salicylates (of which aspirin is one) are often used as they are in rheumatic fever. Obviously better methods would be most welcome.

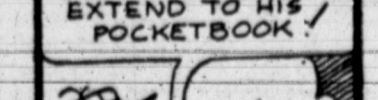

Altogether, erythema nodosum like its more acute cousin, erythema multiforme, has remained something of a problem from the standpoint both of origin and of treatment. This is not due to any lack of interest since hundreds of studies of it have been reported in the medical journals.

In view of the lack of complete information, however, it is fortunate that erythema nodosum is not more common and that it usually clears up by itself after a comparatively short time.

Visitors Week At Central Tire Plant

This is visitors week at Central Tire Works, the recapping and vulcanizing plant located at 618 E. Frederic. The owners, Ward Maddox and family, extend you a cordial welcome to visit the plant and observe how a tire is processed during the retreading operation.

Suppose you have a tire you wish to have retreaded. The first thing Central does is to dismount the tire on a new Henderson tire changer that does not damage the tire in any way. You can borrow a perfectly safe tire to use while yours is being processed.

Then the tire goes to the hydraulic spreader where it is thoroughly inspected for nail holes and breaks. The tire now goes to the buffing room where it is buffed with a precision buffer to its desired contour.

The tire is now placed on a machine known as a Bal-an-True which will show the light point in the carcass. A tire after being buffed is known as a carcass.

Now the carcass goes to the spraying machine where it is sprayed with cement.

Now the carcass goes to the tread building machine which puts the tread rubber known as cam-back on the carcass. The tire is now ready to be placed in the mold which gives it the new tire look. After being cured the tire goes to the painting department where it is painted for preservation.

Phyllis Kirk Uses Brains On Series

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Phyllis Kirk is one of the prettiest girls on television, but it's her brains that keep her flying high on "The Thin Man" series.

The svelte brunette beauty is the only video detective's sidekick who doesn't fade into the background while the hero takes all the bows. "I knew that when I accepted the role," she said, "cannily."

"We were the first of the sophisticated detective dramas, and from the scripts it was simple to see that the part of Nora Charles was that of a leading lady who made more than token appearances. Since then some of the new shows just use girls as part of the scenery."

"Asis, the pooch who romps with Phyllis and Peter Lawford in the series, has more to do than most actresses on competing shows."

"Our program was something of a disappointment when we went on the air because audiences expected it to be the same as 'The Thin Man' movies," Phyllis said. "Actually, we were talking an old idea and making something new out of it."

"None of the scripts was based on the books or the pictures. But the critics all compared me with Myrna Loy, who starred in the movies."

Phyllis admitted she never has seen a "Thin Man" film, adding "I'm scared because I heard how great they were."

"Myrna and William Powell played older people in the movie versions—fortyish. And they did some heavy drinking, too. I understand. We could never get away with that on television."

Wants Heavier Roles
The 1950 count for the first time star in movies before turning to her comedy role in the NBC-TV series. Now she's anxious to return to heavier roles.

"I've been getting picture offers since the series began, but they've all been for comedies," she said. "I'm essentially a dramatic actress and that's what I want to do."

Then why did Phyllis accept her video role?
"It sounded like fun," she answered. "And it is. However, I had hoped it might lead to more serious roles in pictures. If I want drama I'm forced to hit the straw-hat circuit back East or go to London for movies."

Penalty For Divulging Census Information Will Be Jail Term

The Lighter Side
By FRANK FLEAZER
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—People who are uncommonly sensitive about disclosing their private affairs may as well make plans to spend the night of Thursday, March 31, 1960, at home. That's the night the census taker will ask you what bed you are sleeping in, if not your own. It is not true, though, that he will ask your relationship to whoever owns it.

And if he wants to know why you didn't stay home, feel free to tell him he should mind his own business.

Whatever information you impart to Uncle Sam's nose counter, on this or other matters, will be strictly between yourself and him (or her as the case may be) and very likely will be spilled the beans can send him to jail for two years.

A Know All Survey
It's all part of the 1960 decennial census (that means it happens every 10 years) and what the government wants to do is make sure it counts everybody, as the Constitution requires.

Of course, they have broadened it out some this time. They will want to know about almost everything but the kitchen sink. Census Director Robert W. Burgess told a House subcommittee the sink was left out on the theory that everybody has one now, so why keep on asking?

The 1960 count for the first time will cover (although only in every fourth household, such added items as air conditioners (window models or central systems); washing machines, automatic or only partly so; televisions and radios (but list only the ones that are working); and bathrooms (inside or outside and how many).

On that, Rep. George E. Shipley (D-Ill.) thought now they had gone too far.
