Revolt Rumored In Brazil

Officials Say Situation Is 'Normal, Calm'

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Several air force officers were arrested today in the provincial capital of Belo Horizonte when they arrived there from Brasilia amid unconfirmed reports of an army rebellion.

The reports said army officials in Belo Horizonte and Parana were rebelling against their commanders.

Government officials here denied that any trouble was afoot. Rumors of disorders in several parts of Brazil swept Rio this morning.

The army was placed on full alert following the reports of disturbances in Belo Horizonte. But Marshal Odilo Denys, commander of the 1st Army, still denied official knowledge of the reports of trouble.

One report that four bombers left Rio this morning for an unknown destination was officially denied by the government.

A report quoting an eyewitness in Belo Horizonte said the situation there was normal. It said there was no truth to rumors that tanks were in the streets.

Rio itself was normal, and Sao Paulo, Brazil's second-largest city, also was reported calm.

Justice Minister Armando Falcão told United Press International he had talked with authorities in Belo Horizonte, capital of Minas Gerais state, this morning and they had told him the situation was "absolutely normal."

He said the same was true for other points where trouble was reported.

Some officials suspected the rumors were spread by "agitators" dissatisfied over the breakdown of a general strike called for Wednesday.

Denton Fire Destroys 25 Autos

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — A fire that broke out before business hours destroyed the Ray Dickson Motor Co. and some 25 automobiles today.

The company sold Cadillacs, Oldsmobiles and GMC equipment. New automobiles in the showroom in the front part of the big building were damaged but not destroyed. But the burned automobiles were in the big shop-department which was gutted.

The blaze was believed to have started in the shop section, but the cause was not known. No official damage estimate had been made.

An unidentified passerby saw smoke coming from the building and called the fire department. All the fire equipment in the city was used to fight the blaze about three blocks from the downtown square.

The one-story building was constructed only a few years ago.

INNOCENT, HE CLAIMS — Cuban-born Rafael del Pino, a naturalized U.S. citizen, claims he is innocent of counter-revolutionary charges by the Cuban government during his trial in Havana. The government claims he is the leader of the "White Rose" organization. Del Pino appeared in court on a stretcher because of injuries received last July when his small plane crashed on the outskirts of Havana. The Cuban government is seeking the death penalty.

City Prepares For Surety Rate Hike

City Commissioners this morning began to lay the groundwork for solving what was called a "multitude of problems that are certain to arise in corporation court" when the state's new insurance rates on autos go into effect.

The discussion began when Judge Buff Maguire said a new cash register was needed in corporation court. City Manager John Koonz said the present machine doesn't do the job and is actually a validating machine.

Mayor Ed Myatt then recommended that a four-man committee look into "the need and cost of a new machine," bearing in mind, Myatt said, that our expenses and problems will probably double after Jan. 1.

"Everyone will want to fight a case involving a traffic violation," the mayor said. The four-man team which will investigate the court's needs will be Commissioner Hershey Wilks, Koonz, City Secretary Ed Vicars and Judge Maguire.

An outgrowth of this morning's discussion was a suggestion by Myatt that a "central collecting agency" be set up in City Hall to collect all fees for licenses and permits. At present each city office does its own collecting of fees.

It was felt that a day-by-day auditing of fees in a central office would eliminate any possibility of error or question on fees.

Turning to other affairs the commission accepted the low bids of International Harvester and the Kissee Ford Co. on five city vehicles. A car and truck bid was awarded to Kissee, while three truck bids went to International Harvester.

Bids on vehicles were first opened a week ago, but a decision was delayed while commissioners thrashed over the details of each bid.

The commission also approved a one-year lease on its warehouse at N. Hobart south of the underpass. The lease, calling for a rent of $150 a month, went to Everett Carmon of C and M Television. Carmon will store furniture in the building.

Commissioners also accepted the resignation of Wylie York from the city's traffic commission. His place will be filled by Joe Wells, manager of National Tank.

In other business City Manager Koonz reported to the commission that agreements have been reached with five property owners in southeast Pampa on sewer easements across their land. The agreements involved cash settlements totaling about $500.

It was also decided that a public hearing will be held Dec. 29 on two new recommendations incorporated into a zoning ordinance under consideration by the zoning commission.

A previous public hearing had been held a month ago. New recommendations required that a second public hearing be held.

Cattle Embargo
MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Nuevo Laredo dispatches Wednesday reported that the Tamaulipas State Livestock Assn. has voted a ban on cattle exports to Texas.

Beef Week Proclaimed
Mayor Ed Myatt today signed a proclamation designating the week of Nov. 30 — Dec. 6 as "Beef Week in Pampa." Governor Price Daniel has proclaimed the sixth annual Beef Week over the state, and more than 200 Texas cities have joined in this state-wide tribute to the cattle industry.

"Texas cattlemen, as modern businessmen, have utilized every scientific advance to improve their product, and thus to maintain cattle production, our state's oldest industry, as a leading economic factor in our ever-expanding economy," the mayor said.

By long lines of beef, one of our most nourishing foods, available to our citizens in excellent quality and ample quantity, our cattlemen are helping to sustain and enhance the economic and physical well-being of our citizens, therefore, I, Ed Myatt as mayor, do hereby designate the week of Nov. 30 — Dec. 6, 1959, as Beef Week in Pampa and urge appreciative recognition of the continuing contributions this great industry is making to our state."

Hundreds Killed As Dam Bursts

French Riviera Resort In Path Of Cascading Water

FREJUS, France (UPI) — The 200-foot high Malpaset dam burst Wednesday night with a noise like the crack of doom and sent a 35-foot wall of water onto this sleeping Riviera town, killing at least 260 persons.

The official death toll was announced by rescue headquarters of the regional prefect in Marseilles. Additional scores of villagers were feared swept to their death when 45 million tons of water cascaded through the 10-mile long Reynan River valley.

Frejus, founded by Julius Caesar and a target of the Allied invasion of the Mediterranean coast, was destroyed in August, 1944, escaped total destruction because a slight rise of ground divided the wall of water into twin torrents that roared through the town's edges.

But the town of 14,000 was a scene of devastation, stunned and flooded, some of its streets running in rivers six feet deep. A French army rescue team said the scene during the night was blood chilling with screams and cries for help coming from the darkness.

The morgue was a scene of chaos. Bodies of men, women and children, most of them naked, their clothes stripped off by the fast moving waters, lay side by side in the morgue, its chapel and neighboring buildings taken over as morgue annexes.

Long lines of anxious relatives, some sobbing, some cursing, moved through the morgues, looking for their kin and found them dead.

Survivors told of seeing neighbors and even members of their own families swept from rooftops where they had clambered in an effort to escape. One rescue worker, a teacher, found several of her pupils half buried in the mud.

He leaves the country deeply concerned over the steel strike which is now in abeyance because of a federal court order. The President intends to stress again tonight the importance of steel management and labor coming to an agreement to prevent a resumption of the walkout next month.

He will base his appeal for successful steel negotiations on his belief that the United States cannot to a good job of helping his friends stand firm against Communist expansion if America is torn by serious economic strife.

Eisenhower will land at Goose Bay, Labrador, late tonight for refueling. In Rome he will be met at noon Friday by President Giovanni Gronchi, Prime Minister Antonio Segni and other high officials of the Italian government.

The arrival in Rome will set the pattern for the rest of the trip—a brief speech at the airport, a ceremonial drive into the center of the city and a black tie dinner.

This schedule will be standard first-night procedure at every stop except in India where Eisenhower will spend most of five days.

$55 Million Ft. Worth Bond Issue
FORT WORTH (UPI) — Fort Worth voters Wednesday approved a $55 million water bond issue — largest in the city's history — by a majority of nearly 3-1.

The money will be used to construct a reservoir on Cedar Creek and build a 79-mile pipeline to furnish Fort Worth with a long-range water supply. City officials hailed the results of the election as "a giant step" forward in assuring Fort Worth will continue to flourish as one of the Southwest's major metropolitan centers.

Complete unofficial returns from the 96 precincts showed voters turned out in record numbers to approve the issue by 14,316 to 5,687.

The bond issue more than doubled the previous high of $27.2 million voted in 1951 for civic improvements including streets, fire stations, recreation facilities, incinerators, airports and the Children's Museum.

Candy Barr Will Begin Sentence

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Candy Barr flew to Texas from California today to start serving a 15-year prison sentence for possession of marijuana, and she told newsmen at the airport she was through with stripping.

But the 25-year-old, shapely blonde — whose real name is Juanita Dale Phillips — refused to say more. She answered "No comment" to nearly all questions asked her.

Fred Semaan, her attorney, took her to a downtown hotel where he said he wanted to talk to her before he turns her over to Sheriff Owen Kilday.

Semaan has indicated he would start legal proceedings to try to get her out of the prison sentence. Semaan claims that Candy thought the marijuana police found on her was pipe tobacco and that the search warrant used to arrest her was outdated.

Candy's new husband, Beverly Hills' beautician Jack Sahakian, did not accompany her on the flight to Texas. Her father and a small child identified as her half-sister were on the plane with her. Her stepmother, from Edna, Tex., met her at the plane. Candy's shapely curves were covered by a black coat, which she kept buttoned as she went into the airport terminal to have a cup of coffee with Semaan. She wore black, high-heeled shoes and carried a black purse.

A host of newsmen met her plane. She appeared relieved at getting back to her home state — she comes from a small East Texas town — but she was non-talkative.

She waited until all the other passengers got off the plane before coming down the ramp. She refused to talk about her relations with ex-mobster Mickey Cohen or what Internal Revenue Agents asked her in Los Angeles.

REUNITED — John Coggins, who walked and hitchhiked 100 miles to identify his three-months-old son, Charles, after seeing the infant's picture in a paper, gives the boy a big hug and kiss. The boy's mother abandoned the baby in a bus station in Atlanta, Ga., and is missing with another son.

Religion In Politics Issue Not Settled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower may have dimmed the religious issue as a factor in the 1960 presidential campaign but there is no sign that he has pushed it out of sight.

The President appeared to be trying to knock religion out of the next year's campaign with his Wednesday news conference comment that the U.S. government has no business providing birth control help to countries with overpopulation problems.

Catholic clergymen applauded his statement and some Protestant leaders objected. The religious issue, already an unknown factor for 1960, erupted in public debate following the recent statement of U.S. Catholic bishops that government funds should not be used for birth control programs in underdeveloped countries with population problems.

The Rt. Rev. James O. Pike, Protestant Episcopal bishop of California, immediately asked if Catholic candidates for public office were bound by the declaration. Prospective presidential candidates of Catholic and Protestant faiths were asked how they felt.

There was some belief that the controversy had seriously damaged the chances of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), front-running prospect for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kennedy, a Catholic, said the birth control issue should be left to the other countries but that if any such question should come (See RELIGION, Page 5)

Hotel Opening Plans Nearing Completion
Final plans for the opening Jan. 18 and 19 of the Coronado Inn were nearing completion today, according to Stu Kines, manager.

Dedication ceremonies will be held Jan. 18 at 3 p.m. with a speech by Farris Odin, president of Western National Life Ins. Co., followed by ribbon-cutting ceremonies presided over by Mrs. Jerry Travis, 1029 Charles, who named the hotel.

Following the dedication there will be a two-hour open house for the public.

Workers who helped raise funds for the community project will be honored at a dinner at 7:30 that night. Myron Hockenberg, president of the Hockenberg System, will be speaker. A tour of the building, conducted by the hotel board of directors, will be held later in the evening.

A formal banquet and dance will highlight the second day activities, Jan. 19. Tom Collins of Kansas City, nationally known humorist, will be the speaker. The president of Hardin — Simmons University notified Kines today that the official university trio, composed of Pampa students, known locally as the Maxine-Milliron Trio, will be here to perform at the opening.

The banquet dance will be held in the Starlight Ballroom of the hotel. An orchestra has not been chosen.

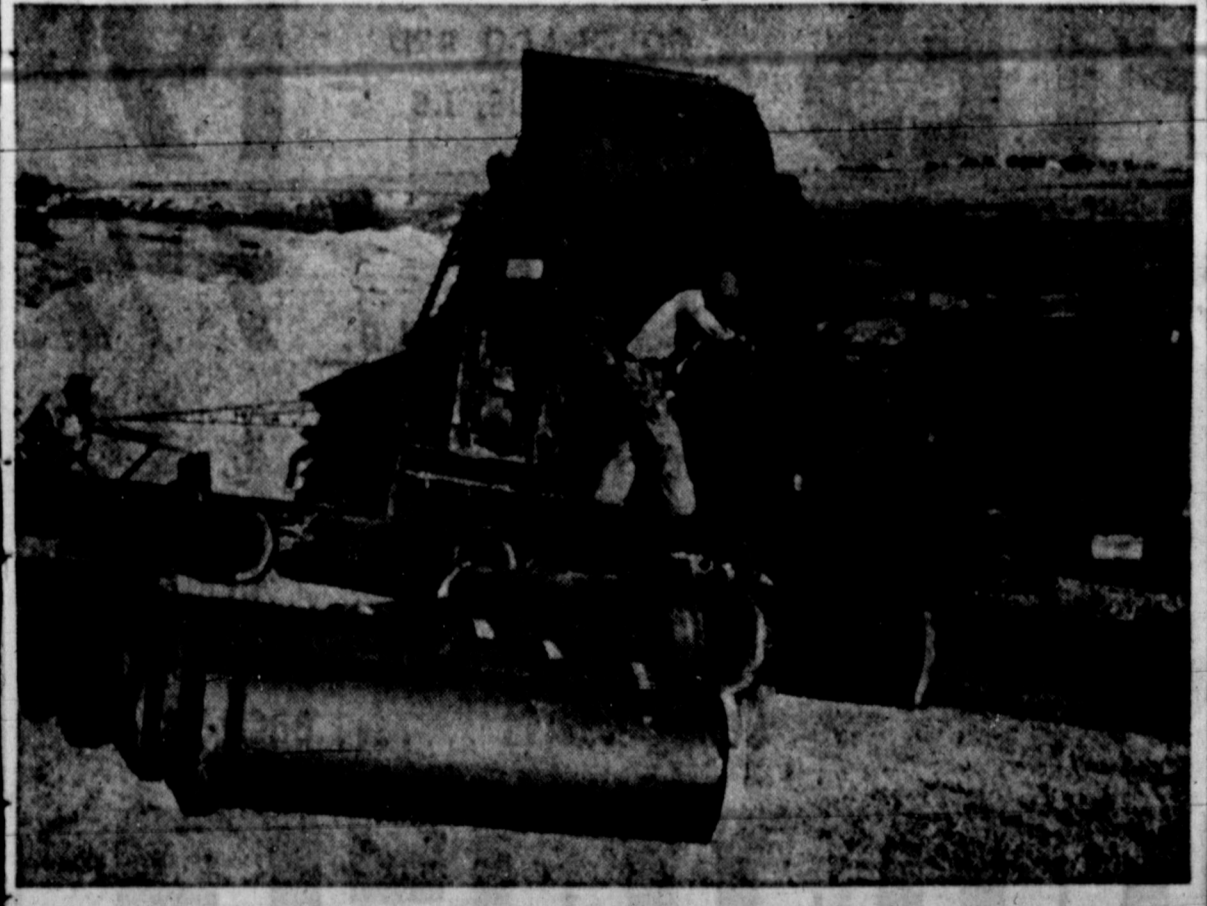

Tickets for the banquet and dance will go on sale to the public Dec. 15 in the chamber of commerce offices at $10 per person.

Kiwanis Club To Install Officers
The Pampa Kiwanis Club will install officers tonight at 7 o'clock at the annual banquet in the high school cafeteria.

Speaker for the occasion will be Melvin Munn of Pampa and entertainment will be furnished by the Nazarene College Quartet of Bethany, Okla.

Installing officer will be Sheriff Hugh Anderson of Borger, Kiwanis District 6 lieutenant gubernatorial.

SIXTEEN FEET DEEP — Pipeline for a five-mile-long sewer line, the largest such project in several years, was being laid across the Pampa Country Club property, in some places at a depth of 16 feet: The $147,862 project extends from southeast Pampa to the city's disposal plant, with one arm extending across the Coronado Inn property. At the point pictured above, workers for the Walter D. Bellamy Co. were "ditching" 16 feet deep at a forward rate of about two feet a minute. Sections of the 16-inch line lie in the foreground. All She Wants For Christmas Is Mommy
By PEGGY POLK
United Press International

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Six-year-old Juanita Hansen wants to talk to Santa Claus about changing her Christmas present. She wanted a doll, but now all she wants is to have her mother home again.

Juanita is the youngest of six children. Her father, William Hansen, 38, asked United Press International to help find his wife, Mrs. Helen Maria Hansen, 34, who left home just after dawn Oct. 12.

Her husband said she was depressed, fearing she had cancer. She refused to see a doctor, however.

"I'm going to stay like I am. I'm going to live until I die," she had said.

When she disappeared, she left a note saying "she couldn't go on living as she had been," her husband said. She took all her belongings, even photographs she had given her children and the pictures in her husband's wallet.

Juanita remembered waking that morning and seeing her mother wearing a black coat and carrying a suitcase.

Hansen, who is a truck driver, said he was on a long haul that night.

He described his wife as being a stocky five-foot-seven inches tall. He said she had brown hair but had dyed it black and red recently.

Hansen said his wife disappeared for the first time last April. She was found working in a Silver Springs, Md., department store and was brought back home.

Later, she talked of going to a place with a sunny climate like California or Florida or a large city where she could get lost. But she hadn't seemed serious, Hansen said.

A few nights ago, Juanita had a dream about her mother. "I dreamed she's in a sunny land," Juanita said. "She has a nice tan and I think she was in Virginia where my grandfather lives."

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

Human Relations

These days in business and government we hear much of "human relations," the shiny skills new from the psychology labs which help men and women work together in peace and understanding. Though not so new by a long shot, the law arises from human nature. Does the law have anything much to offer?

Trouble often arises, as the human relation people say, out of a person's feelings of insecurity and injustice. So the law seeks to ally them and to give each person his due under fair rules. Written ones. Applied by impartial judges. The law sets up courts to settle disputes fairly among men when they fall out, and to curb those who would overstep their due bounds and harm others.

Under such rules each one may know where he stands. For the law sets out his rights and duties, and takes note of his interests — in amounting to something, in earning a living and raising a family, in the pursuit of happiness and in seeking salvation.

The law gives each one wide powers (or freedoms) through contracts to work with others to serve these lawful interests. It seeks to give each man, woman and child a fair and equal chance to learn, to make mistakes, think, and to talk over experience with others, so that we may find ways the better to live together.

The law tries to fit in with human nature, giving weight to man's hopes and to his shortcomings. Indeed, as one of man's achievements, the law itself takes note that it too may fall short — that judges and juries may err (hence courts of appeal), that the laws may have flaws (hence legislatures to change them).

At any rate, these are things we find written into our fundamental law, the Constitution.

Our most important rights are specifically enumerated in our American "Bill of Rights," which is a part of our Federal Constitution. Since "Bill of Rights Day" will soon be observed, next week's column will list the rights included in that document.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

before him he would decide if in accord with his oath of office. As the first strong Catholic contender for the presidency since Alfred E. Smith, was nominated by the Democrats in 1928, Kennedy already knew his religion was an unspoken issue among Democrats wondering whom they should nominate in 1960. Coming from a Republican president, Eisenhower's remarks Wednesday may have taken the heat of the specific issue of birth control for Democrats like Kennedy and Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, another Catholic and prospective candidate for the Democratic nomination. Democrats were still worried. However much they might deplore the injection of a religious issue into politics, they still could fear whether religious bias might cost them votes. Squelching talk about birth control would not squelch questions as to whether church doctrine would influence a Catholic president's decisions.

Billy Graham Film Slated Friday Night

The film, "Southern Cross Crusade," Evangelist Billy Graham's unprecedented crusade in Australia and New Zealand will come to Pampa tomorrow night for two showings at the First Baptist Church. The feature-length picture will be shown at 7 and 8:45 p.m. The movie is sponsored by the Pampa Ministerial Alliance. The spiritual conquest of a continent saw three and a half million persons attend 114 meetings in cities spanning 3,350 miles from Perth, on Australia's west coast, to the three principal cities of New Zealand to the southeast. Highlights of the film include the climactic service of the Melbourne crusade as 140,000 persons jammed the cricket grounds to provide the largest single crowd ever to attend a Billy Graham meeting. The closing service of the Sydney crusade is documented, an event which saw two adjoining grounds crowded to capacity as 150,000 persons gathered, 5,648 of them responding to Dr. Graham's invitation to commit their lives to Christ. Interspersed throughout the crusade scenes are glimpses of Australia and New Zealand country, life and animal life, giving the viewer a warm introduction to the land "down under."

Field Day For Seers Of 1960 Business

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pity the poor prognosticators whose job it is now to predict our economy for 1960.

Here is their problem: The steel strike bungled up all the statistics that usually are relied upon to give a clue to the future. And if that weren't enough there is no certainty there won't be another steel strike on Jan. 28 when the injunction ends. And a railroad strike in March also is a possibility.

Going ahead on the assumption, borne out by past history that strikes do not occur in bad times, the experts already are saying some good things about 1960.

Prof. O. Glenn Saxon of Yale University, doesn't believe the steel strike will continue for a long period. He looks for our gross national product — all the goods and services produced — to cross the half trillion dollar mark "while practically all industries register new peaks of production."

A. W. Zelonek, economist for the International Statistical Bureau, looks for a new record in retail sales in 1960; a seven million car year for the auto industry, and increased inventory replenishment for industry generally.

Standard & Poor's, analytical and statistical service, sees an upturn for the early portion of 1960 "since a major portion of the business and earnings lost directly or as a consequence of the steel strike will be recouped next year."

The prognosticator at work looks over all things economic to try to determine the problems for the future. He finds inventories down, but credit up, and failures rising contraseasonally.

He finds foreign nations in much better shape than in many a year — in fact so good they can give us smashing competition for world markets. And he finds we still are lagging badly in world markets to the point where we have a four billion dollar balance of payments deficit in 1959.

Inventories are all to the good. Failure increases may or may not be attributable to the steel strike. If they are that department can be ignored. Credit is said to be safe. The improvement abroad is seen as having a favorable side to the point where we may be able to reduce our foreign aid program. The lag in foreign trade is a problem no matter which way the economy goes.

All things considered, the experts hold that the general business of line to form the base for next setting isn't too much out of line to form the base for a rising 1960.

A big factor said to favor continuance of the rise in the economy is the fact that 1960 is a presidential year with the administration going all out to keep things humming.

Of course, there is tight money, but money only is tight when things are on the go and business is seeking funds for expansion.

Humans Ready For Space Trips

DALLAS (UPI) — Human beings are medically "ready to go to the moon as soon as rockets capable of getting them there are built, according to Dr. Hubertus Strughold, the Air Force's top scientist in space medicine.

Strughold, a key speaker at the American Medical Association's annual convention, said it is theoretically possible for human beings to make an eight-day trip to the moon without ill effects.

But longer trips, such as the nine-month journey to Mars, are not yet possible, Strughold said. The estimated nine months travel time would have to be cut in half or to one-third before men could make the trip, he said.

Speeded-up space travel would be man's only way of making the longer trips to neighboring planets, he added. But space travel will always be a compromise between what the rocket makers can create and what their human pilots can stand.

"It is true," he said, "that speeded-up space travel would add other medical problems to the ones we already face, but these would not be so insurmountable as those involved in keeping a man in space as long as 18 months — the estimated round-trip time to Mars."

The German-born Dr. Strughold is professor of space medicine at the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

Counterfeiters Ready Inventories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman warned today that the busy Christmas shopping season is the busiest time of the year for passers of counterfeit money.

"Crowded stores and inexperienced temporary clerks provide the ideal setting for operations of the counterfeit note passers," Baughman advised shoppers, merchants and cashiers.

The best way to check a suspected counterfeit note is to compare it to a known genuine bill of the same denomination, the Secret Service chief said. In most cases, he added, defects in the bogus bill will show up immediately.

In the 12 months ended last June 30, the Secret Service seized nearly two million dollars in bogus bills and arrested 343 counterfeiters. In the previous year, seizures totaled $700,000 and 335 counterfeiters were arrested.

Hereford Homemaker Wins Beef Acclaim

"Hamburger Ring Barbecue" submitted by Mrs. R. L. Cocanougher, Hereford, was judged the best recipe combining economy beef with Hickory House Barbecue Sauce in the recent Texas Beef Council recipe contest. This is the first contest of any kind that Mrs. Cocanougher ever entered.

"I never cooked much before we moved to the ranch," Mrs. Cocanougher said, "but I had to learn fast to cook for hired hands."

The Cocanoughers, who have no children, have lived on their ranch 15 miles southwest of Hereford since 1926. Mr. Cocanougher is a well-known registered Hereford breeder.

Mrs. Cocanougher had been chief operator for the telephone company in Hereford for several years prior to her marriage and subsequent move to the ranch. "I just didn't think I could take it for about six months," she said, "no electricity-not even a phone!"

As a means of combatting the loneliness of ranch life, Mrs. Cocanougher retained her membership in the Business and Professional Womens Club, and much of her cooking is now done for various activities of her clubs.

Mrs. Cocanougher was the only entrant in the recipe contest, which was open only to the wives and daughters of the 3,000 cattlemen members of the Beef Council, who submitted two recipes which were named finalists. Her "Meat Pie with Rice," was one of the three top choices in the category which combined beef with Comet Rice.

Printed folders of the five winning recipes will be distributed during Beef Week by TBC County Chairmen, and the winners will be honored at the sixth annual Beef Dinner at noon Saturday, December 5, at the Memorial Student Center at A & M College.

Rice-Beef Recipe Busy Day Fare

Rice and beef cakes in tomato sauce. Now there's a dish that makes a lot of sense these December days.

It makes a lot of sense from many angles. This substantial treat can be prepared ahead of time and popped into the oven for the last 30 minutes of baking time. That means much when there's shopping to be done.

Also, rice is among the most plentiful of foods. Generous supplies of beef also are available as this is the season of heavy cattle marketing. It provides nutritious fare, capable of supporting a grueling holiday schedule. Finally, and also important, the cost of this rice-beef dish makes it a budget saver.

Here is a recipe for rice and beef cakes in tomato sauce, as suggested by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Ingredients needed for six servings are: 1 pound ground beef; 2 cups cooked rice; 1 egg; 1 table-spoon chopped parsley; 2 table-spoons chopped onion; 2 table-spoons

1/2 teaspoon pepper; 2 table-spoons cooking fat or oil; and 2 cups tomato sauce or thin tomato soup. If a can of condensed soup is used, add enough water to make 2 cups.

Prepare this dish by combining all ingredients except the fat or oil and tomato sauce or soup. Shape mixture into flat cakes and brown on both sides in the fat or oil in a frying pan. Pour the sauce or soup over the browned cakes, cover the pan and bake at 350 degrees, moderate oven 30 minutes, basting the cakes with the sauce spoon once or twice as they cook.

"Applewiches" Are New Snack Idea

There was a good crop of apples this year. Production totaled 118.2 million bushels — 9 percent more than average.

Of the total, 23 percent or 27 million bushels are Delicious. Most of this variety come from Washington, Virginia, California, Michigan and New York, in that order, according to a year-end report of the Agricultural Marketing Service.

McIntosh stands second and involves 151 million bushels. New York and New England produced 7 percent of these. Winesap, third, totals 9.7 million bushels, with 80 percent from Washington.

Production of other important varieties this year were: Jonathan, 8.2 million bushels; Rome Beauty, 7.8 million; Stayman, 6.7 million; Golden Delicious, 6.2 million; and York Imperial, 3 million.

It adds up to a lot of apples — some for eating raw, some for baking, and plenty for hundreds of other tasty uses. So, when the spirit of adventure pervades your kitchen, give some thought to pies, exciting new ways to serve apples, "applewiches?" These are slices of a good eating apple spread with a cream or fruit filling for tea. Applewiches may be either open-face or closed with a second slice over the topping. To prepare, core the apple and cut thick rounds, leaving "Queen for a Day? Shucks, I get a whole Beef Week in Texas!" All-over Texas the cattle industry is prepared for the sixth annual Beef Week in Texas, a state-wide tribute to Texas' oldest industry, to be celebrated November 30-December 6.

A Hearty Custom

IN COLONIAL DAYS, festive celebrations were often highlighted with a hot punch... a frosty milk one or sometimes a spicy-sweet cider. Unlike today's cocktails they were usually consumed with the food, rather than as a prelude to the meal. Today heavy desserts following a bountiful meal are often considered too much and are postponed until later. These delicious colonial punches, passed down by the Myers Rum family of Jamaica are ideal to serve with mince or pumpkin pies for the late supper on winter nights.

COLONIAL PUNCH
(10 to 12 servings)
2 cups Myers Jamaica Rum
4 cups cider
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Heat cider with sugar and spices until sugar is dissolved. Add rum. Serve hot in mugs or iced in cocktail glasses.

000-On-On! It's A Stickman To Eat"

He's as gay as a gingerbread man — and as nourishing as meat and potatoes! Because, of course, meat and potatoes are exactly what he is. This delightful, edible "stickman" starts with a broiled meat patty and oven-crisped frozen French fries. Children love to make stick figures with slim little strips of peeled, cut-up, and pre-cooked frozen French fries when they help Mother put them on a cookie sheet to heat and brown in the oven.

And any smart Mommy — or grandmother, or big sister — can copy the idea quickly on plates she sends to table for special occasion meals and parties, or to redeem a rainy-stay-indoors Saturday. Handy frozen Frenchies are pre-fried before freezing. Scientific control of time and temperature keeps fat absorption way below that of home-fried potatoes, or potato chips. When you reheat these nourishing potato strips in the oven with no added fat, they're wholesome food even for quite young children.

To make the stickman, cut eyes, nose, and mouth of carrot slices and place on a broiled meat patty at the top of the plate. Use traditional frozen French fries, or the new crinkle cut style with the scalloped look, and lay potatoes strips side by side make the body, out as usual, flat on a cookie sheet, and crisp and brown for 15-20 minutes in a 425-450 degree oven. When they're just the golden-brown color you prefer, fashion French fries into body, arms, and legs below the meat patty head on the plate, making one stickman for each child. Two layers of three potato strips side by side make the body, and single strips form arms, legs, and feet. Carrot curls or celery sticks fill the little figure's hands. An oval relish plate or tray makes a good background for the stickman alone. Served with a salad or vegetable, he fits a regular round plate.

Company Casserole Reduces Rush So Hostess Can Enjoy Guests

For informal entertaining, many homemakers like to serve casserole dishes for they can be prepared in advance and then slipped into the oven just before time to serve. This reduces the last-minute rush so the hostess can spend more time visiting with her guests.

Shrimp turns a macaroni casserole into a Company Casserole. Add a tossed green salad, crusty French bread and a hearty apple pie and you have a nice informal supper menu. The star of this meal, the Company Casserole, features a jiffy sauce recipe which eliminates the making of a roux, mixture of flour and butter used to thicken the sauce. The sauce is made with versatile super nonfat dry milk.

Sprinkle flour, salt and pepper over surface of Starlac; beat with rotary beater until blended. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add cheese; stir until cheese melts and sauce is well blended.

Melt butter in small skillet; add onion and garlic; saute until onion is tender. Stir in mushrooms and shrimp; cook about three minutes. Combine cheese sauce and shrimp mixture. Pour over macaroni in casserole. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired. Bake in moderate oven (350 degree F) 20 minutes.

IN THE SPIRIT OF THE SEASON — Exchanges of good will on some parts of the Earth are coming in a little early this year as President Eisenhower visits 10 countries with an eye to keeping the world at peace.

Calendar month, above, provides a quick reference to the country visited on any one side of the 19 days the President will be gone.

The 'Big Lie' Lies Deep In Russian Way Of Thinking

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is well known of course that the Russians invented baseball, that they beat Edison to electric lighting and, finally, that whatever the United States can do, the Communists can do better.

There are some special fields of Communist excellence, however, which are little known. They are little known because the Communists do not brag about them. On the contrary, they would prefer that some of their skills remain unremarked and unknown.

So it is with the Communist skills in the field of semantics.

The science of the meaning of words. The way the Communists play it, their words do not mean what they seem to mean, but only what the Communists intend them to mean. That is confusing to a soft head. This confusion causes the softies to fall for all sorts of Communist nonsense of which there will be a good example next month in New York City.

In mid-December there will convene a two-day conference of the American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born. Now, who could be against that? Your correspondent, for one.

This essay, in fact, is a warning: Don't be a soft head when some plausible character invites you to attend or to contribute to next month's ACPFB conference. Don't be a sucker even if you are angrily opposed to the Walter - McCarran Immigration Act and are told that the major conference purpose will be to revise or to get rid of it.

Oklahoman Is Doctor Of The Year

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—The American Medical Association today named Dr. Chesley Martin, who is 70 and who has practiced medicine in Elgin, Okla., 44 years as "Family Doctor of the Year."

He was chosen as a physician who "typifies—the thousands of general practitioners through the country who have dedicated their lives to the practice of medicine and who have given exceptional service to their communities."

Dr. Martin had been on the Elgin town board 31 years and is serving his 42nd year as chairman of the school board. He is an amateur architect and drew plans for civic buildings in Elgin. He estimated he has delivered 2,500 babies in the Elgin area and said he works 12 hours a day, six days a week. He and his wife have two sons and two daughters. The sons are both dentists.

Hail, comrades, and farewell!

Tug Holds Secret Of Missing Men

GALVESTON (UPI)—Salvage workers today will make another attempt to right the capsized motor vessel "National Pride" that snapped two giant steel cables Tuesday in a salvage attempt.

The cables—as big as a man's wrist—shaped just as the submerged deck and wheelhouse where the bodies of 11 men may be entombed, became slightly visible out of the murky waters of Galveston Bay.

A few thousand yards away, relatives of missing crewmen waited on a Coast Guard dock—hoping to find out if the steel hull of the Pride contained their loved ones.

Surveying Project Begun In 1878 Almost Finished

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government rather hopes to complete by 2000 A.D. a project it started back in 1878.

Chances are, however, that space-age satellites will force revisions and resurveys that could postpone the wished-for day.

The Coast & Geodetic Survey more than 80 years ago began a shore-to-shore and border-to-border program to determine the elevations and geographic positions which must be established before mapping and charting and all kinds of engineering projects can be carried out accurately.

Long before the job is finished, it may well happen that new information provided by satellites about the size and shape of the earth may force costly and tedious readjustment of past measurements.

At the moment, however, using instruments much like those George Washington employed, the Survey is plodding along with what it says is one of the government's oldest and least known operations.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Two of my girlfriends and I got together and we started talking about another girl. They said some things about her that were very damaging to her reputation. (They were not true) I am sorry to say that I joined in and did my share of talking. The rumors got around all over school and she found out who started them. Now I have lost her friendship. She is a very nice girl, Abby. I never realized how much harm could be done by just talking about a person.

I hope that everyone who reads this will benefit from it. I caused a lot of tears to be shed and I pray she will forgive me. I couldn't feel worse if I had robbed a cripple of his crutches.

LEARNED A LESSON DEAR ABBY: To confess a wrong and ask forgiveness is a step in the right direction. Now promise never to do it again. For those inclined to be loose of tongue—a little simplified Shakespeare: "He who steals my purse steals trash, but he who steals my good name, enriches himself not and makes me poor, indeed."

DEAR ABBY: My sister has a big hairy wart on her nose. She is always trying to shave it. We tell her she might get it infected, but she doesn't pay any attention to us. Can she get an infection from this or can't she?

SICK OF ARGUING DEAR SICK: She can.

DEAR ABBY: I am making my daughter's school wardrobe. She is a fourth-grader and very fashion-conscious. She requested a straight skirt. Personally, I think a full skirt would look better on her, but she specifically asked for a straight skirt because she says all her friends have them. My older sister opened her big mouth. She says I am crazy to let a 9-year-old girl have what she wants. I say, my daughter might not LOOK as well in a straight skirt, but she'll

Ladies Class In Study Of Hebrews

LEFORS (Spl) — Hebrews was the book for study, taught by Charlie Tutor on Tuesday morning for the Ladies Class of the Church of Christ in the church building. "For language, it is the Isaiah of the New Testament. It is an orderly logical treatise. In balance and reasonance its sentences are of remarkable precision, rising to wonderful heights of eloquence," quoted the teachers as he pointed out the theme of the book that of preventing as many of the Christians as possible from apostasy. Present for the meeting were Mmes. R. T. Jinks, Gene Robertson, Earl Lane, G. O. Carryth, Jeff Bradley, Charlie Weese, Lida Glover, Beattie Call, Charles Roberts, J. B. Marfo, Carl Wall, A. M. Miller, L. M. McCathern, Short Hill, R. H. Bradfield, Tom Gee, L. C. Ford, W. G. Hughes, Ralph Carruth, D. L. Kindie, Beulah Oatline, and H. D. Cox.

be happier with it because she'll like her friends. What do you say, Abby?

MOTHER M. DEAR MOTHER: I say you are right. I wouldn't carry this philosophy to extremes by allowing my child to "have things" merely because her friends have them. But when it comes to clothes, if it isn't too "way out"—let her have what she wants.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOOT-LOOSE": There are also a few things "loose" in your head. The reason married women look so good to you is because someone else supports them.

Man In Moon May Acquire Sweetheart As Lady Shapes Up For Space Trip

WINNIPEG (NEA) — The man in the moon may one of these days have a visit from a comely young lady, if recent findings under Canada's space research program are substantiated by further experiments. Frail (?) femininity in the person of Wilma Sanson, graduate student at the University of Manitoba, gives added weight to a theory that women are biologically superior to men, when under stress. So — if you glance skyward some night and see a LADY on the moon —

Such is the reported opinion of Dr. John Zuback, head of the space project being conducted for Canada's department of national defense. What Wilma did was enough to make strong men come all unglued — she spent six days in an isolation chamber, in complete darkness and silence except for short daily test periods. Her home, a nine-by-seven-foot dome, isolated her from all contact with others except for a short, less-than-an-hour period each day, when she performed written tests. Her only light was that which came from a small, red bulb. Memory tests were given her through earphones during those periods, too. The dome was wired for the experiment, and all sounds were tape-recorded. Four men fared less well since the test program was inaugurated. All suffered hallucinations, which took the appearance of cloud formations and dancing lights. One felt that he was being glared at by the sun in his pitch-black, man-made "dome." Wilma suffered nary a hallucination, according to her reports of her experience.

First of the four men initially tested was Doctor Zuback: He stuck it out 10 days. Second man lasted three hours; headaches and a feeling of suffocation led to his short-lived time in the dome. He was removed, at his request, and researchers found him drenched in perspiration at the end of the ordeal. As result of the tests, more women are to participate in future phases of the program. Purpose: to determine if there is concrete evidence of difference in reaction of men and women under various test conditions. The frail (?) ladies should do just dandy under a proposed phase of the program: tests under constant noise, extreme temperatures, bright lights and other "stimulating" environments. Homemakers could score high under those conditions. They duplicate those produced by a kitchenful of kids and kinkfolk at dinnertime on a holiday. What this all could lead to other than rolls of information-filled tape, no one knows. But it's fun to speculate. Men have long known that girls are out-of-this-world. It's not too difficult to imagine their traversing space. So — if you glance skyward some night and see a LADY on the moon —

Real Estate Saleslady Has Knack Of Knowing What Women Want In A Home

NEW YORK (UPI) — Woman's place, once in the home, increasingly is in selling same. The National Assn. of Real Estate Boards in Washington reports close to 5,000 women in its total membership of 65,000. It says there are a great many gals outside the association and estimated the total of female realtors at 40,000. In Manhattan alone, where a foot of land is worth a fortune and where competition is at its keenest, there are 150 women among the 3,000 members of the real estate board. The national association said there is a very logical reason for the growing numbers of women particularly in the residential field. It's the woman who buys the house, even if it's the man who pays for it. And a saleswoman has a special knack of knowing what other women want in a home. Or, as Millicent Martin, a vice-president at Kenneth Ives and Co. put it, "a woman gets more emotional about a house. She has a special kinship with the potential customer talking about more closed space, about wall space and where to put the furniture, and how come the architect forgot to include a broom closet."

She is in charge of the New York office of the firm, which also operates suburban branches; her specialty is in the sale of homes and cooperative apartments. "The whole secret is in the thought that goes into the negotiation; trying to match the person to the property," she said. "And you've got to inspire confidence."

Clovis To Fight Here Tonight

Many Pampa Open Boxers In First Fights of Year

Pampa boxers meet the Clovis, N.M., team tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Optimist Boys Club. Tonight's card, which will include about 15 matches, will send most of Pampa's more experienced boxers into action for the first time.

The Clovis squad, the New Mexico team champion, will have several top boxers in different weights to match against Pampa's fighters. Many of the Clovis fighters are state champion or finalists.

Among Pampa's open class (experienced) boxers appearing for the first time this year before a home crowd will be middleweight Norman Rexroat, welterweights Charles Snider and James Snider, and 121-pounder Dickie James.

Other open class Pampa fighters on tonight's card will be lightweights Kenny Powell and Jim Murray. Two additional fighters, Gary Smith of Lefors and Dumas's Pete Garcia, are expected to be here to fight Clovis Biffers.

Six of the seven open fights rate about equal billing. However, the 160-pound bout between Rexroat and Jimmy Apodoca, the 121-pound clash between James and Ignacio Rodriguez, and the 147-pound fight between Charles Snider and Gene Torres all are of special interest.

Pampa match-maker Oran James said that the Snider-Torres match should be the feature bout of the night. "They both hit hard and box well," said James, "and both have plenty of ring knowledge. Torres is the New Mexico state runnerup. This fight should be a great one."

Rexroat, strictly a slugger all the way, was a great crowd pleaser last year, fighting mostly in the high school division. His aggressive style usually forces the other boxer to fight his way, and an action-packed bout usually results.

James will be trying to make up for the only time he's ever lost, except by decision, in his ring career of more than 100 fights. James has never been knocked out and Rodriguez was the only fighter ever to score a TKO against him, at Hereford a month ago. Rodriguez got the TKO by opening a cut when James was leading the fight on points.

The 130-pound bout between Powell and Wade Stephenson of Borger could match the Rexroat-Apodoca fight as a slugfest. Both are aggressive, hard-hitting boxers.

A 137-pound match between New Mexico lightweight runnerup Theon Nance and Pampa's Murray is expected to be a top-notch fight.

A 147-pound fight—between James Snider and Jack Phillips of Clovis, could also be a crowd-pleaser.

Gary Smith, the "anchor man" of Ben White's Lefors squad, will meet Danny Alvarez of Clovis in a 130-pound high school match, which should be the best high school bout of the night. Smith is one of the hardest-hitting young boxers ever to fight here.

Some ring-side seats will be available for tonight's bouts, for $1.50, according to Optimist Club officials.

Tonight's matches, with Pampa fighters listed first and Clovis boxers next, are as follows. Some matches in the pee-wee weights have not yet been scheduled.

Joe Brown Keeps Lightweight Title

By ED SAINSBURY. United Press International. HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—"That kid," Joe Brown said idly, "I'll fight him again tomorrow and beat him easier."

Thus he dismissed British boilermaker Dave Charnley, the British Empire champion who failed to come out for the sixth round Wednesday night in his effort to wrest away Brown's world lightweight championship.

It was a two inch gaush over the right eye which put Charnley out of action with his sixth loss in 40 pro fights, but there was a difference of opinion as to how he got the cut.

"It was an unintentional butt," Charnley's manager, ruddy faced Arthur Boggis, said.

But Brown countered, "but, nothing. I hit him with a left and then a right, and I cut him with the left. It was as good an over-hand left as I ever threw."

The victory was Brown's sixth knockout win in eight defenses of the title he won three years ago from Wallace (Bud) Smith. And Brown thought it was one of his easiest.

"I'd give him a rematch," he said, "but it's up to my manager (Lou Viscusi) to make the matches. I'll fight Charnley tomorrow, anywhere, even London, if I can get the money out of there. Just so I get a big purse."

Brown, at 134, scored his 76th win and his 26th by knockout in 104 pro fights. He said Charnley, who had knocked out 20 opponents previously, never hurt him. Charnley weighed 133½.

Charnley preserved his record of never being knocked-off his feet. Referee Jimmy Webb and both judges, Ernie Taylor and Bill Cornellius, had Brown far ahead on points.

Webb gave Brown four rounds and scored one even for a 50-46 tally. Taylor gave Brown four rounds and Charnley the last for a 49-46 count, and Cornellius gave Brown every round for a 50-45 score.

A crowd estimated around 6,500 paid a gross gate of $32,720.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—The world champion Dodgers threw in the towel today and conceded the last-place Senators have them licked.

Footsore and frustrated after five straight days of trying to make a deal for Roy Sievers with Washington, General Manager Buzz Bavasi of Los Angeles wearily declared:

"I give up, I've tried everything." "One American League owner told me he'd give me a thousand dollars if I could make a deal with the Senators," Bavasi said.

Red Griggs the pipeline

No one can say that Texas Tech's program for building a Southwest Conference team got off to a bad start. The first player signed by Tech to a Southwest Conference letter of intent was E. J. Holub, Tech's first player to make first-team all-American.

Holub was signed by Tech Coach DeWitt Weaver just minutes after the conference's signing race started, in the spring of 1957. He didn't have to go far for his prize player. Holub was a student at Tom S. Lubbock High School at the time.

Oddly enough, Holub made All-American without making the all conference team. Since Tech officially started conference play, Holub wasn't eligible this year. He'll get his chance next season, though.

Don Meredith heads a list of eight Texas and Oklahoma players to play for the West team in the Shrine game Jan. 2 in San Francisco. The squad also includes two of Meredith's SMU team mates, end Henry Christopher and guard Bobby Loveless.

Other Texas and Oklahoma players picked for the all-star squad include Jim Davis, Oklahoma guard; Donald Floyd, TCU guard; Bill Bucek, Rice halfback; Prentice Gautt, Oklahoma fullback; and Jack Spikes, Texas Christian fullback.

What Does It Take To Win?

You may not believe this, but in the Los Angeles Open Jan. 8 in the official NCAA bulletin.

Dick Norman, Stanford quarterback, completed 23 of 39 passes for a total of 401 yards in last week's game with California. The number of completions, the yardage, and the percentage of accuracy were all single-game NCAA records.

Jerry Priddy, former St. Louis Brown and Detroit Tiger infielder, certainly believes in the saying that "life begins at 40." Priddy, who is 40 years old, has become a golf pro, and will make his debut in the Los Angeles Open Jan. 8.

It's a Rough Year For Coaches!

This was a good year for football coaches in Pampa, but a bad one elsewhere. As usual, plenty of losers went to the chopping block.

Some winners lost their scalps, too. Pennsylvania must have set some kind of record by firing a coach the year his team won the conference championship. Steve Bebo's Quakers won the Ivy League title this year and finished with a 7-1 record. Yet Bebo was fired this week.

Bob Woodruff's Florida team had a 5-4 season record, and it climaxed its season with a 23-14 upset win over traditional rival Miami. Yet Woodruff was forced to resign Wednesday under pressure.

Apparently, even winning a conference championship or beating the traditional rival isn't enough any more. Just what does it take to please the old grads these days?

One college which does quite well without all the alumni pressure, thank you, is Idaho State. That college dominates the Rocky Mountain Conference in boxing, basketball, football and track—and is even tougher on athletic recruiting and scholarships than it has to be under conference rules.

Not only are the number of scholarships limited (15 in basketball, eight in boxing, five in track, 30 in football), the scholarships cover only tuition. At that, they try to recruit athletes who can double in at least two sports.

Fullmer, Webb End Training For Middleweight Title Bout

LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—Champion Gene Fullmer and challenger Spider Webb broke camp today and motored into Logan for their 15-round middleweight title fight (NBA version) Friday night.

Co-promoter Norman Rothchild predicted a near-sellout of 7,000 at the Utah State University Field House.

"The gate may approach 100,000," he said, "because of our $60,000 cash advance, our $10,000 worth of orders and the increasing sales in various cities."

Fullmer said, "I hope to knock him out this time," as he broke camp at his home bailiwick, West Jordan, Utah.

Gene had to be content with a unanimous 10-round decision in their previous fight at Salt Lake City, Sept. 11, 1958. That was before he won the NBA version of the 160-pound crown by stopping Carmen Basilio in the 14th round last Aug. 28.

Webb of Chicago broke camp at Pocatello, Idaho, where he had been training at Idaho State College. Lanky Webb was formerly a student at Idaho State.

Twyman Puts Royals Back Into Orbit

By United Press International. Jack Twyman's scoring Royals have carried the Cincinnati Royals back on the road to a potential playoff berth.

Twyman, the National Basketball Ass'n's leading scorer, poured in 39 points Wednesday night to give Cincinnati a 135-118 victory over the New York Knickerbockers and move the Royals within a game of third place Minneapolis in the Western Division.

Syracuse won its first game from St. Louis this season by beating the Hawks, 130-121, in the opener.

Cincinnati, racking up its highest-ever total in NBA competition, twice had to overcome huge New York leads before winning the game.

Twyman led a surge in which the Royals scored 17 points to one for New York, winding up the second period with a 66-61 lead. Richie Guerin was high man for the Knicks with 29 points.

Louisianans Have Variety Of Candidates On Ticket

By JOHN G. WARNER
United Press International

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The People of Louisiana this week must sort a state government out of a collection of candidates that includes a minister, a grocer, a cab driver, a racehorse handicapper, and Earl K. Long.

Long, easily the noisiest candidate for lieutenant governor of the state has ever seen, is running on a ticket headed by former Gov. James A. Noe, called the best friend Huey Long ever had. Noe's opposition is much stiffer than Uncle Earl's. The other 10 candidates for governor include hillbilly entertainer and former Gov. Jimmie Davis and dapper New Orleans Mayor Deleessps Morrison. They are considered the two to beat.

State Sen. W. M. Rainach, the segregationist candidate, is also strong. The other "major" candidate is state comptroller Bill Dadd.

Noe isn't given much of a chance to beat these heavyweights, but he's considered a better bet than cab driver Roswell Thompson, who bills himself as "second Kingfish" and promises to emulate Earl's brother Huey; Alin J. (Black Cat) LaCombe, a racehorse handicapper who goes on hitch-hiking stumps tours; Holt M. Allen, a Jena, La., grocer, and John B. Krey, a New Orleans piano salesman.

Also in the packed field for governor are Gail Berry, an insurance man, and the Rev. Mack Stewart Jr., a Baptist minister who prayed for the money to qualify and said that on the final day for qualifying, a man he'd never seen before presented him with the necessary money.

Long, whose opponents for lieutenant governor are much more subdued and ordinary than those in the race for governor, is given some chance to leave his running mate behind and go into a second primary.

Much of this will depend on whether the voters vote a straight ticket or skip around. Long followed once that he doesn't want to be lieutenant governor under anybody but millionaire Noe, but he said that doesn't mean he wouldn't accept it anyway.

Long's campaign has been steadily losing ground since he started it, several months before the other candidates got into the fray.

"Uncle Earl" started his campaign a few weeks after he bulled his way out of a mental hospital last summer. He began hitting the backwoods stumps to let people "see how crazy I am."

Suddenly he decided not to risk being hamstrung in the stretch and dropped his plans to run for governor in favor of running for lieutenant governor. Louisiana law says a governor can't succeed himself.

Rumors are common that Long and Noe have fallen out and that Earl has given up all hope of winning.

But his stump speeches are the same as always, lots of trumpeting and arm-flailing and general pandemonium that his country constituents have loved before and probably still love.

Long has left most of the mud-slinging, the primary ingredient of a Louisiana political campaign, to Noe. Long continues to vilify his opponents, but slaps at them collectively rather than singly.

Meanwhile, pictures of Jimmie Davis talking to a Negro woman at "his integrated California honky-tonk" circulated with "vote Rainach" on them and Rainach demanded that Davis withdraw from the race "if what the picture purports to show is true."

Davis alone refuses to join in the merry mud-slinging, but from his campaign platform of "peace and harmony" he often wishes the rest of them would quit picking on him.

Davis and Morrison share the support of the state's newspapers. The only newspaper to rest its endorsement elsewhere is the Shreveport Journal, which backed Rainach.

Religious Discussion Has Place In Formal Education

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

"Education must concern itself not only with facts, but with values which give meaning to life. Religion is the keystone to the arch of learning."

That affirmation of religion's place in education was made last week, not by a church-related college, but by a major secular university.

It was the theme of a three-day "Religion in Life" program conducted at George Washington University, a 10,000-student, non-sectarian institution in Washington, D.C.

More than 50 prominent guests, including nuclear scientists, government officials, and theologians of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, took part in the program.

Some of them delivered formal lectures before the entire student body. Others exposed themselves to the intellectual crossfire of informal bull sessions in dormitories and fraternity houses.

Many served as substitute professors in regularly scheduled classes.

For example, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former NATO commander and now president of the Red Cross, spoke to a political science class on "the importance of dedicated service."

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse lectured on "religion and freedom" before a constitutional law class.

Dr. Clifford K. Beck of the Atomic Energy Commission addressed a breakfast meeting on "religion and the space age." Ceylon's ambassador to the United States, R. S. S. Gunewardene, discussed "the significance of Buddhism" before a class in the history of religion.

The program was organized by Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, famous Protestant preacher who joined the university's faculty as professor of religion in 1952.

"Religion in Life" week has become an annual feature at George Washington, and student participation increases every year, Dr. Sizoo said.

"This year every fraternity and sorority house on the campus scheduled informal religious discussions," he said. "Things have certainly changed. Twenty years ago, the average fraternity man wouldn't have been caught dead with a bible in his hands."

Device May End Confusion On Oil Change

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT, (UPI) — New electronic devices may soon lead baffled motorists out of the confusion over when to change oil in a car.

The auto and oil industries have engaged in a bitter feud over the question of when to change oil in recent years.

The result has been that the motorist doesn't know what to believe.

The auto companies claim their cars can go without an oil change for up to 4,000 miles. But when the motorist stops in at a filling station after driving only about 3,000 miles, the attendant tells him he should have his oil changed.

The confusion results because the wrong standard has been used to determine when oil should be changed.

The number of miles you have driven since you last changed oil really has no direct bearing on whether the oil should be changed again.

The oil in a car has to be changed because it collects foreign particles which normally would wear away the metal parts inside the engine. As it is used it becomes contaminated and loses its power to collect these foreign particles — such as dust or small particles of metal.

It also mixes with condensed moisture in the engine and forms an acid which eats away the metal walls of the engine.

For these reasons fresh, clean oil should be substituted periodically for the oil that has already done its work.

But the motorist needed some guide to tell him when he should change oil. Engineers decided upon the simplest one — the number of miles he had driven. They figured all motorists drove at about the same rate of speed and on the same type of roads, so after a given number of miles you could pretty well figure the oil would be contaminated.

This may have been true once, but it isn't any more. A motorist, for example, who does a lot of stop and go driving, gets his engine hot and then lets it cool only to get hot again. This speeds up the formation of acids. The motorist who does a lot of driving on country roads which are not paved is apt to get more dust in his oil.

This means the oil in one car may need a change after 1,000 miles while another car would not need it until about 4,000 miles.

The oil industry, seeking to sell more of its products, urges frequent changes. The auto companies, seeking to show superiority of their products, recommend less frequent changes up the maximum.

What is needed is a device to check contamination of the oil in each car individually.

Some of the oil companies have come up with just such a device.

In effect, it is a light source and a rheostat, or device for measuring light. A couple of drops of oil are placed in a test-tube like container and the light is directed through the oil. The amount of light that comes out the other side is then measured by the rheostat.

If the oil is clean, a greater amount of light will pass through it. If it is very dirty it will stop passage of all light.

A dial on the device is calibrated to show the motorist at a glance if his oil is dirty enough to warrant changing.

If the auto and oil industries can agree on how dirty oil can get before it has to be changed, the device could take the confusion out of the question of when to change oil.

Cost Of The Strike

Perhaps it's time for us to take up the losses incurred by all of us during the recent steel strike. Perhaps it's too early yet. The 80-day "cooling off" period could end with strikers going back to the picket line and production of steel stopping once more.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

How Should Government Be Supported?

Since Frank Chodorov pointed out to me that there was no such thing as a voluntary taxation (and I at one time advocated voluntary taxation), I have contended governments should be supported on a voluntary basis.

Down through the ages taxes have been accepted just as slavery was accepted for thousands of years. If one person or the majority does not have the right to force the minority to pay for something they do not want, then how should the government be supported? It seems to me it should be supported in proportion to the cost of the service the government renders.

In the long run even the slave owner is restricted in his creative energy because he has to watch and manage the slaves. I, as an individual, have no right to use aggressive force on any other person to make him help defend my life and property.

The man who contends that some people are so shortsighted that they should be forced to pay to satisfy his idea of what the government should be, is, it seems to me, exalting himself. He is contending that he is not like the other fellow, that he is superior. So, he wants to use force on others to make them comply with his will or the will of the majority.

Self-interest would make most everybody want to join together with those people who wanted everybody's life and property protected, and their self-interest would make them want to pay in proportion to the property they were protected. And their property includes more than just their material possessions. It includes their mental faculties that can be used in improving their livelihood. Thus it seems to me the government should be supported like churches and every private enterprise.

I remember some 45 years ago I was chairman of the finance committee of the First Methodist Church in Alliance, Ohio. It was rather a wealthy church and there were three rather wealthy individuals in the church. When I suggested to them that I thought their share would be about $500 a year, they all agreed, and the rest of the congregation then increased their support. The result was that the preacher told me that it was the first time that church had ever had enough money to pay its share of the benevolence.

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

$3.5 BILLION 'SQUANDERED' ON CANCELED WEAPONS CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON - More than $3.5 billion has virtually gone down the drain on contracts for new-type missiles, planes and other weapons that the Army, Navy and Air Force have canceled in the past several years.

Hundreds of millions more have been similarly "squandered" on other junked defense projects, chief among them unfinished or unused airbases and ordnance plants.

Those are the jolting findings of a report in the hands of Representative George Mahon (D., Tex.), chairman of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee. He directed his staff to obtain this detailed information from official sources in preparation for closely questioning Pentagon authorities on how their $40 billion-plus budgets are compiled and spent.

These hearings in January will be in connection with President Eisenhower's new budget. It is Mahon's strong conviction that large savings are possible in the huge military expenditures through more efficient and far-sighted administration.

Since September 1957, according to Mahon's revealing report, on 31 major weapons projects alone that have been canceled by the three armed services, they had spent a total of $3,573,000,000. The Air Force topped the list with close to one-half of these "lost" outlays.

Following are the principal canceled items on Mahon's list and their cost:

Table with columns: AIR FORCE, NAVALY, NAVY, ARMY, TALOS surface-to-air missile, WHO'S RESPONSIBLE, AIR FORCE, NAVALY, NAVY, ARMY, TALOS surface-to-air missile. Lists various weapons and their costs.

Who's responsible? - High on a still-incomplete study, being made by Mahon's staff, of costly bills discarded by the Air Force, is Boeing Field, Tacoma, Wash., slated to come to more than $80 million and be used by the Strategic Air Command's intercontinental B-58 nuclear-armed bombers.

Approximately $40 million had been spent on this base when it was abruptly shut down earlier this year.

In notifying his committee members of the forthcoming hearings on these matters, Mahon stressed that it is "vital we ascertain from Defense officials why billions were spent on contracts for weapons which subsequently were canceled." In addition to the staff's preliminary report, many millions more probably have been spent on other defense contracts canceled during this same period.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK - As a traveling aficionado of motels during the way back to the lustreless days when an unwept log cabin in a sparse grove of dusty pines was pretty fancy stuff, and continuing up to today when selective heat and cold, swimming pools, glittering bars and piped music to lull you to sleep are standard or you don't stay in business, I have to say that it never once entered my mind that one day I'd find a modern, gleaming motel on the 10th Avenue in the middle of the island of Manhattan.

And if I had had such a thought I would not have had the $2,000,000 it would take to implement it.

For some months, from my passing car window, I have watched in turn a line of wretched rookeries come tumbling down, a foundation being dug and stumping contemporary architecture go up on the solid block between 49th and 50th Streets and each time I passed this burgeoning structure it occurred to me that somewhere along the line a firm statute of the City of New York had been changed; a motel was being allowed whereas before such a structure was against the law. Which proves that one should never believe in legends. There never was such a law, it was only that 8,000,000 people thought there was - otherwise why had no one ever put a modern motel within five walking minutes of theaters, within a cross-town bus ride of the UN, on the direct avenue line to the forthcoming Lincoln Square and a twist of the steering wheel from the West Side Highway and the Lincoln Tunnel into Manhattan?

They polished the last window and brushed the final rug the other afternoon and I walked in to ask for someone to sit down and talk with concerning New York's first and only motel and the first hotel structure of any kind in New York in almost 30 years. One reason pushing me along was that Freddie Fox, a Broadway theater scenic designer, had done the interior from lobby to rooms to halls to restaurant and as an old friend I wanted to see what Freddie had done. He done good, as the fellow said. Real good.

It turned out that Harold Steinberg, scion of an old and sagacious real estate family of the St. Regis and the Waldorf in Westchester, not only had dreamed up the idea of a motel on 10th Avenue, with 130 rooms and 150 spaces for automobiles, but had surrounded himself with some knowledgeable people in staff. There was Kenneth Kendall straight from his post at the Ritz Hotel in London, there was Dick Barnes running the restaurant, bar and coffee shop, and he straight from Broadway's beloved Al and Dick's, which he helped to found, and other hotel executives from three of the best places in town, like the Sheraton, the St. Regis and the Waldorf. I was meeting more old friends.

Wasn't this pretty heady bring? The answer to that was, no, it wasn't. The price for rooms was commensurate with the best motel operations across the nation and had this advantage: parking was free, which meant a $12 room for two really went for $24 since it is standard for overnight parking in Manhattan, and this meant it was $4.50 per person per night, and there was no tipping allowed even though bellboys would be on hand if elderly persons needed help to move luggage from cars to rooms.

"You mean a boy wouldn't take a tip?" "If you wouldn't be hired with that understanding and dead enough to compensate for loss of tips." "In a standard, high level New York hotel, as any traveler knows," he went on, "the tipping along the way is gassy. Bags from door to desk, desk to room, car to garage, car back from garage, tips every day for the way. We have eliminated that. And if we ever had any anxieties about doing business, we already are receiving guests who demand we accommodate them even though rugs are still going down, some painting is being done and work crews are in the halls. We've had five couples from Texas, one from Indiana and so on. We aren't even supposed to open until December 7th, although Skyline has been advertised to some extent out of town."

Did he think he had the business sewed up for some time? "I wish we did," he said. "The truth is that every block on 19th Avenue between 49th Street and 50th Street has been bought up for just what we are doing. There will be 15 solid blocks in time of the high level motels close to everything. Once we pulled the plug on the idea they came streaming in. And really owners in the area are thanking us; ground prices have doubled since we built."

HEARING "SHOT" BACK MARSHFIELD, Wis. Maurer was shot in a hunting accident last week. He had two operations to remove bone splinters and the bullet, and suddenly found he was able to hear again in his right ear.

Similarities Between Henry And Washington

By HENRY McLEMORE

If George Washington were alive I'd bet a lot of people would get his mixed up. With no other figure in history do I have so much in common. Mr. Washington didn't really want to be President and neither do I. Both of us were in the army. He liked to stand up in rowboats and so do I. His mother's name was Mary and my wife's name is Mary. He was a good horseman and I have always thought I could be if I had a horse. He didn't like Benedict Arnold and neither do I. If Mr. Washington hadn't been so cussed about telling the exact truth all the time, our similarity would be even more striking than it is.

If Tolstoy hadn't written "War and Peace" I would have a much better record in St. Peter's ledger. I am always being asked if I have read it, and I am always answering "yes" when the pure truth is that I never have gotten past page 51. As great a book as it is, as good as I, I just can't get going on it. But I won't admit it. I'd rather admit that both my parents were out of town when I was born than say I hadn't read "War and Peace."

In all my travels about Europe I have never been to Monte Carlo, but in my day I must have said that I had been there, or inferred very heavily that I had, a thousand times. I have flown over it, very low in a light plane, but I don't believe I have any business counting that aerial view as a visit. I can't figure this out. There is no special stigma attached to never having been in Monte Carlo. People don't cut you dead if you say you haven't. And there is no special glory attached to having been there. Those who have still have to pay the same price for their ground round and their shirts.

Outside of my own home I never admit that I like my steak done extra well. If you asked me right this minute how I like my steak cooked I'd say, "Real pink in the middle and juicy. Cook it a n'y more and you'll ruin it." But I don't like steak that way, but I never tell the world that. I bowl seldom and when I do I'm lucky to score around a hundred, but when bowling comes up in a conversation you'd think I bowled every night. I had a team jacket and bowled a 235 average. Why? Washington wouldn't help. I'd like to say I'm a ham, but I can't help it. If truth is beauty, then just hang me in the roque's gallery, boys.

Almost every day, somewhere in the world's press, I read of some marvelous demonstration of the homing instincts of birds, gnats, animals. Not long ago, a fellow named Svend Christensen bought a homing pigeon in Copenhagen and took it by train to his farm near Hammel. To keep it from wandering, he tied its wings to its body with rubber bands so that flying was impossible. Nevertheless, the bird disappeared. Eight weeks later it reappeared in Copenhagen with the rubber bands still intact. Its feet were pretty sore, for it had WALKED 175 miles to get home.

Earlier in the century the majority of the people were hungry, dressed in rags, and lived in hovels. Free trade and free enterprise kept the cost of living down, multiplied the production of wealth and ushered in the great and prosperous days of Britain.

When a country imposes a tariff it raises the cost of living for its own and other peoples; reduces the amount of goods and services the public may enjoy, and correspondingly reduces the amount of employment. Consumption is less a both for domestic and imported goods. This means less employment at home and abroad, less goods for all and a lower standard of living for our own people and for our friends overseas. Free trade is a form of cooperation which results in more goods and services for all concerned.

Britain's free trade policy reached its zenith in 1860. This allowed the British people to buy the lowest priced goods available anywhere in the world. Britain, was also a free enterprise country, with everyone free to produce and sell whatever goods and in whatever quantity he could.

World Government

It is difficult dealing with anti-divine mentalities. And with due respect to Dr. Vernon Nash, journalist, lecturer and author, we must conclude that Dr. Nash is still wrapped up in 18th century thinking and has yet to emerge in the world of today.

The good journalist recently addressed the Denver Democratic Club and as the author of a book bearing the title "The World Must Be Governed," he reiterated the tired, old cliches about "a world," "world federalism," "brotherhood," and what have you.

Presumably, there weren't many in the Democratic Club who were willing to call the turn on the lecturer. Besides, it isn't good form, and most of us try to be in good form, whatever else we may be.

But we wish to take sharp issue with the ideas and convictions of this man, while at the same time acknowledging his right to have them. We simply disagree with just about every one of his conclusions. Not that he had all of his facts wrong, he didn't. He just added them up and got wrong. We feel were the wrong answer.

For example, Dr. Nash pointed out that when the American federal system was established it didn't come about with happy agreement of 13 co-operating colonies. He is so right. The colonies didn't agree; weren't happy; and history may yet develop the evidence that they should never have federated in the first place.

Today, there has been such a loss of state sovereignty as virtually to destroy the aims and objectives of our founders. But Dr. Nash is right when he says that there was a wealth of partisan bickering and petty jealousies back in the days the Constitution was ratified. What he fails to point out is that it is somewhat antedivine to conclude that whatever it was that happened in history must of necessity have happened for the best.

And to try to justify a world order on the negative virtue of much disagreement among the colonists - ipso facto, much disagreement now among nations - is about as absurd a twist of logic as one can parade.

There is an obvious parallel...

Dr. Nash says, "between a whole of humanity now and the colonists in the 1780's." He may be right. It is just possible that the same errors that may have been made at that time in the drafting and setting forth of the finest limitation on government ever devised (the Constitution), may be repeated. If we swing over to support of Dr. Nash's ideas and favor a world government, we are certainly going to repeat the errors with vengeance.

Dr. Nash takes as virtuous the fact of the setting up of the central government of the United States. We would have to be more particular and state that the virtue in our government was in the limitations it specifically labored under. The fact that it came at all posed a great risk. The fact that it was limited was virtuous.

But, with the passage of time, we have seen that the danger inherent in the setting up of the centralized agency has now been intensified to the peril of us all. The limitations, where in the Constitution had virtue, have been bypassed and circumvented. Today our central government is virtually unlimited. And we might point out that precisely the same fate awaits us with a world order if we succumb to Dr. Nash's urgings.

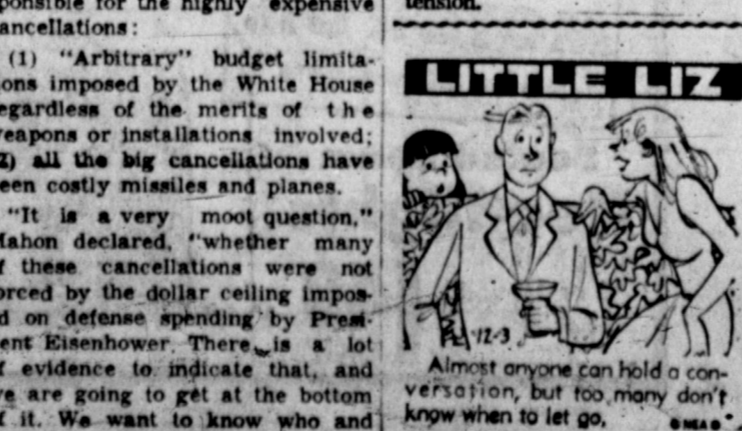

Well, anyway, Dr. Nash admits that the chances of getting all the nations to unite in one world government are pretty poor right now. But this shouldn't give us excessive comfort for the difficulties are being approached by many persons who fancy that all of the world must be ruled and that the bigger the government, the better for everyone. This is, of course, the doctrine of Moscow and it is echoed in many voices in this country.

We are always concerned when we learn of well-intentioned people who fall for this line of propaganda. It can be made to sound so plausible. Actually, it is the open doorway into a completely socialized world and total slavery.

If Dr. Nash wanted really to be modern, he might begin wondering how men can obtain their freedom, rather than concerning himself with this age-old fallacy of trying to organize a world government.

Of course, I do not expect this idea to be adopted, but we should have an ideal toward which to strive. This United States government was never wiser to be a majority rule country where the majority could exploit the minority. It is a Republic, and as the word implies, it was intended to be limited to only those things that are of a public nature and leaving to the individual those things that were of a private nature - namely, individual responsibility where each man is owner of himself and all he produces.

HEARING "SHOT" BACK

MARSHFIELD, Wis. (UPI) - Robert Maurer, 38, of Monroe, Wis., who lost part of his hearing because of a World War II concussion, regained full use of his ear Wednesday as a result of being shot in the head. Maurer was shot in a hunting accident last week. He had two operations to remove bone splinters and the bullet, and suddenly found he was able to hear again in his right ear.

Various small advertisements and notices on the right margin, including 'CRACKER BARREL', 'FISH TALE', and 'HEARING SHOT BACK'.

The Red Chinese kidnaping of an American Marine sergeant in Bombay was more than just another pin-pricking attack against the United States. It was another way of showing the Reds' contempt for India.

It also seems to have a parallel to Red Chinese tactics at the time of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States last summer.

At that time it seemed Russia's Asia ally deliberately was stepping up its attacks and threats against India's border in an attempt to muddy the Eisenhower - Khrushchev Camp David talks.

The Bombay incident, coming only days before Eisenhower's visit to New Delhi, also seems designed to muddy the talks between Eisenhower and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

It seems entirely probable now that the Red Chinese double-decker who appeared at the U.S. consulate in Bombay asking asylum and who then changed his mind, was part of an elaborate plot with several ramifications.

It enabled the Red Chinese to bring their own charges of "kidnaping" against the U.S. on Indian soil.

Probably more by luck than planning, it also enabled them to lay hands on the American sergeant assigned to guard him, and then to man-handle him in a way unthinkable in most civilized countries.

Since the United States government has a right to expect that characteristics not found in any other American compact car," the firm notes.

The labor-management struggle will tend to increase public awareness that our country is going "soft" in the demand for more and more leisure, and the whole contest will be a contributing factor in the recession expected during 1961, the investment advisory firm points out. It adds: "There appears to be little likelihood that railroads will be able to eliminate much feather-bedding in the 1960 negotiations."

Reynolds & Co. says Rubbermaid Inc. is an "interesting, low-priced issue" that holds a strong position in the molded rubber successfully diversified into plastic coated wares for a wide variety of end uses.

"We suggest commitments in Chrysler for those who can afford the risks involved," says Oppenheimer & Co. "Apparently, Chrysler has all the ingredients now — a completely redesigned line of regular cars ... and the Valiant. The Valiant is reported to be arousing wide consumer interest and some sources indicate it has features and handling char-
