Trusted Banker Accused

Dallas Firm Notes $290,000 Funds Shortage

DALLAS (UPI) - The FBI investigated a widening circle of financial transactions today in a case which began with the discovery of a $290,000 shortage of funds at the First National Bank here Wednesday.

James Cook Evans, 52, an assistant vice president of the bank, was arrested and charged with making a false entry on the books, and five other men were reported to be involved.

Ben Wooten, president of the First National, said none was employed by the bank. Wooten said he understood the six were conducting a wildcat oil well drilling venture.

The FBI, after arresting the heavy, graying Evans, said the $290,000 missing had disappeared from the bank over the past two years. The shortage was discovered over the past weekend while Evans, described as a quiet, modest man, was home.

Evans went free after posting 2,500 bond and declined to comment on the charge. He was accused specifically of a false entry of $2,000 Sept. 14, when a deposit which had not been made was allegedly credited to a customer's account.

Curtis O. Lynum, special agent in charge of the Dallas FBI office, said the larger shortage was covered up through the use of fraudulent trust receipts.

Evans had worked for the First National Bank and its predecessor, the American-Exchange National Bank, since 1925.

Real-Life Swashbuckler

Errol Flynn Dies Of Heart Attack

By JIM BILLINGSLEY United Press International

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UPI) - Errol Flynn, who cut a larger swath in real life than he did in his swashbuckling movies, died here Wednesday night during a holiday with his 17-year-old girlfriend, Beverly Aadland.

ERROL FLYNN ... dead at 50

Errol Flynn, 50, died in the penthouse apartment of Dr. Grant Gould, a friend with whom he had been staying for the past week while negotiating sale of his $100,000 yacht, Zaca.

A Fire Department inhalator squad was unable to revive the actor. It was believed Flynn died of a heart attack.

The city coroner said an autopsy would be performed later today at Vancouver Hospital where the actor's body was taken.

Friends said Flynn had complained of not feeling well since his arrival and sought to return Wednesday to Hollywood. His death came seven days after the sudden death of tenor Mario Lanza, 38, in Rome and only several weeks after the fatal heart attack of Paul Douglas, 52, in Hollywood.

His daughters, who strongly resemble their father but rarely saw him, collapsed in tears in Hollywood on hearing news of his death.

Deirdre, 14, sobbed, "I knew Dad was ill, but I didn't think he was sick enough to die." Rory, 12, overcome with grief, was unable to speak.

The girls were staying at the home of their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eddington, in Beverly Hills. Their mother, Nora Eddington Flynn Haymes - Flynn's second wife - was out on a dinner date. When she returned Miss Eddington said, "Oh, I didn't know." Then broke down crying, and closed herself from family and newsmen.

Flynn's first wife, Lili Damita, lives in Paris. She bore him a son, Errol Sean Flynn, in 1941.

The actor's latest wife, Patricia Wynore, with whom he was involved in a divorce battle, was performing in a Washington, D.C. night club when the news came. First told that her husband was seriously ill, she exclaimed, "It is his heart! Is it worse than that?"

Told that Flynn was dead she burst into tears and went into shock, according to friends. She and Flynn were the parents of a daughter, Arnela, 6.

Miss Aadland, deeply shocked, was under sedation and staying with friends in a West Vancouver suburb.

Flynn's trip to Vancouver was not a happy one. He disliked sailing the Zaca, last of his cherished possessions, and went into Hollywood.

He had come to the West Coast more than a month ago to appear in a filmed television show, and to seek a buyer for his yacht. As was his custom, the flamboyant actor made news the moment his plane landed at Los Angeles International Airport.

4 Dead In Los Alamos Plant Blast

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (UPI) - Four men were killed Wednesday when a truckload of non-nuclear explosive material blew up at the atomic laboratory waste disposal area.

The explosion rattled windows throughout this security-conscious city five miles away. Los Alamos Laboratory officials assured residents there was no radiation danger.

A spokesman said the material, similar to dynamite, was being trucked to the disposal area for unloading and burning. Cause of the explosion was not known immediately.

The dead were identified as Leopoldo Pacheco, 50, of San Juan Pueblo, N.M.; Segedo Lujan, 50, of Santa Fe; and Jose Curdova, 31, and Escobedo Martinez, 41, both of Cimarron, N.M.

Three other men have been killed in Los Alamos Laboratory work this year - two in the disposal area, and one who suffered radiation exposure during a lab experiment.

Would Make Continent A Neutral Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Secretary of State Christian A. Herter today opened an historic treaty conference on Antarctica by pledging the United States to the peaceful use of the icebound South Pole continent.

He spoke at the opening session of a conference here of 12 nations, including Russia, that will attempt to write a treaty insuring that the continent is never used for military purposes. Herter urged that the vast area not become "an object of political conflict."

Herter's remarks were followed by the policy statements of the treaty nations. The conference is the result of 16 months of informal talks by the 12 nations. President Eisenhower on May 2, 1958, called for such a treaty.

Herter paid tribute to the explorers and scientists who he said made possible the opportunity "to give legal effect to certain high principles which would insure peace and cooperation in a vast area of the world."

The conference is the first test of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's Camp David pledge to ease cold war tensions. It was the first time the Soviets have sat down with the Western nations since Eisenhower and Khrushchev had their talks.

Herter said the treaty would be a landmark in the history of international relations. He said it would be a step toward the goal of a world of peace and cooperation.

Formal Opening Dates For Coronado Inn Announced

The Building and Architects Committee of the Pampa Community Hotel-Corp. set the dates for the formal opening of the new Coronado Inn in a meeting this morning in the chamber of commerce board room. Opening dates will be Jan. 15 and 19.

George Scott, chairman of the Operations Committee, and Stu Kines, Inn manager, met with the group and concurred on opening dates.

The Building and Architects Committee also approved the purchase of a 50-foot sign identifying the Inn which will be placed on N. Hobart directly in front of the hotel.

Landscaping of the Inn premises was also discussed at the meeting and action on this will be taken in the near future, it was agreed.

Charter Party For Optimists

Optimist Breakfast Club members made final plans for Saturday night's charter party at the regular weekly meeting this morning in the club's cafe.

The club, which was organized Sept. 10 with 38 charter members, will receive its charter Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Optimist Boys Club at a banquet.

Several top district and international officials of the Optimist Club will be present at the banquet.

Members were also urged to sell more season boxing tickets and turn in the money to the club secretary. Deadline for selling tickets has been extended until Monday night when the evening Optimist Club meets.

A film, "Highlights of the Southwest Conference" was shown at this morning's meeting.

Steel Talks Off Until Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Eisenhower's steel strike fact-finding board concludes its formal hearings today with added testimony but little added hope for achieving a "miraculous" settlement of the 92-day-old walkout.

The President Wednesday gave the board another 72 hours until midnight Monday to submit its report on the issues preventing agreement between management and union.

Unless the three-man panel sees signs of rapid progress over the weekend, Eisenhower is expected to seek a back-to-work court order after he receives the report.

Scalped By Potato Digger

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) - Doctors today attempted to save the ears, eyelids and eyebrows of a 12-year-old girl scalped accidentally by a mechanical potato digger by grafting them to her abdomen.

The girl, Christine Hayes, was picking potatoes on a farm at Blackfoot, Idaho, when her hair, done up in pony-tail fashion, became caught in the digger. Her scalp and part of her face were torn off.

Explosion Damages House In Perryton

PERRYTON (SpI) - An explosion ripped through the brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chase here at 7 p.m. yesterday, but two occupants of the house, at 1110 S. Grinnell, were not injured.

Investigating firemen said the explosion apparently was caused by an accumulation of gas from a faulty safety valve on a hot water heater.

In the house at the time of the blast were Larry Chase, 16, and his grandmother, Mrs. Rosa McKenna. They were singing by the flaming explosion, but otherwise uninjured. Mrs. McKenna is in a Perryton hospital for observation. The Chases are visiting in Wyoming.

The blast blew the west wall of the house two feet off its foundation and a picture window at the east end of the house was thrown 15 feet by the outburst - for Mrs. McKenna's damage was caused to the inside and furnishings. Three inside doors were knocked off their hinges.

Warren Raymond Dalton, 23, and William Ray Hubbard, 19, both accused in the Oct. 4 slaying of 19-year-old Jerry Lyton of Pampa, will go before the Gray County Grand Jury Friday morning.

District Attorney Bill Waters said the jury will be asked to return indictments of murder with malice aforethought against Dalton and accessory to murder against Hubbard.

Dalton, who allegedly shot Lyton following a brief exchange of words at 1216 Alcock St., has been in county jail the past 30 days. Hubbard was released one week ago on payment of $5,000 bond.

Waters also reported that two young Pampa men will be brought before the grand jury on charges of car theft. They are L. H. Edwards Jr., 21, and Jimmy Allen, 19. Both were involved in the theft of a car and truck from Pampa Oct. 6.

Texas Water Stores Lower

AUSTIN (UPI) - The State Board of Water Engineers reported Wednesday total water conservation storage in major Texas reservoirs declined 4 per cent of capacity in September.

The engineers said the reason for the decline was that streamflow was generally deficient across the state.

But thunderstorm activity that triggered flash floods in many parts of Texas set intensity records in those sections.

At the end of September, conservation storage in 34 major reservoirs stood at 15,572,610 acre-feet or 84 per cent of capacity. The comparable figure for the same month last year was 28 per cent.

States Argue U.S. Reneges On Boundaries

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Spessard L. Holland told the Supreme Court today that Congress twice has approved a seaward boundary for Florida 10 1/2 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Florida Democrat concluded arguments by five Gulf states which claim ownership of the rich offshore oil resources. Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas contend the area was ceded to them by Congress in the 1953 submerged lands law.

But the Justice Department argues that state ownership extends only as far as the traditional three-mile limit. Sen. Gen. J. Lee Rankin contends that Congress only meant to recognize the existence of the claims and give the states a chance to prove their case in court.

Holland said Florida's three-league (10 1/2 mile) boundary was approved by Congress in 1948 when the state, with its new constitution, returned to the Union following the War Between the States. He said the same boundary was included in a description of the state when it was originally admitted into the Union in 1845 and was reaffirmed in the 1953 act.

Hearing Due In Slaying Of Actress

BRACKETTVILLE, Tex. (UPI) - Chester Harvey Smith, 32, will face a preliminary hearing Friday and the witnesses who said they saw him murder actress L. Jean Eldridge, 27, when she tried to leave him for her "big break" in movies.

Smith, an actor himself, has arranged for two Texas lawyers to defend him. He is being held in jail at Del Rio without bond for the butchering slaying.

L. Jean, Smith and four other men of a summer theater troupe were acting as extras in the John Wayne picture "The Alamo" being filmed near Brackettville.

She received an expanded speaking part in the film and wanted to leave the house where she, Smith and the other men were staying. She wanted to move closer to the movie set.

She slumped at Smith's feet with the knife in her breast muttering the words "I love you," witnesses said.

Harvester Dads Fete

Fathers of Pampa Harvester football players will be honored Friday night, at the Pampa-Amarillo game. The night has been set aside as "Dads Night" by the Pampa Quarterback Club, school officials and coaches.

Fathers of the players will meet in the field house at 7 p.m. and will be given special names and will sit in the section on the sidelines near the Pampa bench.

The Pampa-Amarillo game is the traditional game of the year or the Harvesters, Pampa, which has not beaten the Sandies since 1953. It is given an excellent chance of winning Friday, although Amarillo will be slightly favored.

A near-capacity crowd is expected for Friday night's contest, at Harvester Park. Game time will be 8 p.m.

Students Gear For Bonfire

"Sandy" will be burned in effigy tonight at a pep rally and bonfire at 7 behind Pampa High school in preparation for the Friday night football game between the Amarillo Sandies and the Pampa Harvesters.

Miss Flame will be crowned at the rally. Candidates for the honor are Sue Brown, Karen Capps, Gail Hulpepper, Ruth Guthrie and Zoey Lorenis.

High school students are urging everyone to wave the green and gold colors tomorrow, according to the high school cheerleaders.

Some of these banners will be distributed downtown Friday by high school students, but the supply is limited.

College Nixes Federal Loan

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (UPI) - A small West Texas college has refused to accept a big federal loan - almost as odd as a man biting a dog and just about as newsworthy in these days of a beneficent federal government.

The reason, as succinctly expressed by Dr. A. Hope Owen of Wayland Baptist College:

"We depend upon God instead of the government."

Everything was all set for the Board of Trustees to okay a $668,000 loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency to build a new women's dormitory and two new apartment buildings for married students.

But a nagging thought refused to leave the mind of Tom Z. Parrish, 40, vice-president in charge of developmental services at the college.

The more Parrish thought about it the more he became convinced that the principle of separation of church and state would be violated if the loan were accepted.

He and Dr. Owen put their thoughts together and they came out alike. They recommended to the 39-member Board of Trustees meeting on Oct. 6 that the loan be turned down - although the new housing was badly needed - and the trustees voted unanimously to reject the money.

"I regard this as a basic matter," Dr. Owen told the trustees. "Wayland is face to face with the issue of depending on the primary source, God, or turning to the secondary source, government, to supply her blessings."

Wayland has an enrollment of 602 and, although most Texas schools are segregated, it has about 20 Negro students, some of them from foreign countries.

Scientists Shooting For Million MPH

LANGLEY FIELD, Va. (UPI)—Scientists are shooting for speeds of more than a million miles an hour in space and less than 100 miles an hour close to the ground.

This roughly represents the extremes of research being pushed at its various scientific centers by the National Aeronautics & Space Administration (NASA).

Between the extremes are research and development projects aimed at:

—Perfecting collapsible space platforms and spaceships which automatically expand after being fired into orbits high above the earth.

—Development of radio communications capable of spanning the interplanetary voids.

—Boosting rockets into "parking orbits" from which lunar probes could be launched more successfully than from stationary sites on the ground.

—Designing jet aircraft capable of speeds greater than a mile a second to handle human transportation from point to point on the earth's surface.

This and a host of other research projects, including an array of spacecraft resembling everything from a flattened needle to a flexible kite, are being reported to some 2,100 guests this week at NASA's 100 million dollar Langley Research Center here.

The hottest thing in space research is a new science called magnetoplasmodynamics or MPD for short. A plasma is a gas which has been made so hot that its molecules break up into electrically charged positive and negative particles.

Such a gas is electrically conductive, and under the influence of electromagnetic forces its particles can be made to move literally at millions of miles an hour.

Since the weight of gas involved is extremely small, such motions don't generate much thrust. If you want to lift a spaceship off the ground against the pull of gravity, use chemical or perhaps nuclear rockets.

But once in frictionless space, where nothing weighs anything, fast-moving plasmas, obeying the laws of MPD, can supply speeds not otherwise obtainable.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Clever Ads Like some newspaper columns, newspaper advertising can be copyrighted.

In 1903 Justice Oliver W. Holmes declared that advertisements could be owned and copyrighted even without having any special literary or artistic merit.

An author, business, or agency that puts work and skill into an ad can protect it as a rule with a "general notice of copyright."

One publisher made special road maps for an advertiser, and got them copyrighted; the court held that the advertiser couldn't sell these maps to a rival publisher.

In another case a clever picture ran in one ad. The court told a competitor he couldn't use the same picture for his ad.

You cannot copyright some things such as a list of names publicly available or an ad so common it lacks uniqueness.

Most ads are "owned" by the advertiser, not the newspaper or magazine.

Ads which are run to get business may also create property right in a "trade name" of great value to a business even without a copyright.

Besides, a business or product name itself may often be copyrighted. Now and then, unfortunately, a company name may become so well known that without proper protection it can lapse into the common language and lose its character as property.

Trying to gain from someone else's ads may well get you in trouble.

It can be a crime for anyone to violate a copyright on purpose, and he may have to pay money damages covering all his profits. And there's more.

False or misleading ads can cause loss or suspension of certain business licenses; the post office sometimes gets rough if someone uses the mails to advertise fraudulently.

Of course ads aim to brag about one's product which is well known by the public and therefore, within limits, such "puffing" is allowed. But the Federal Trade Commission often stops certain advertisements if they are false or misleading especially as to factual claims.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Today is Thursday, Oct. 15, the 28th day of the year, with 77 more days in 1959.

The moon is approaching its full phase.
The morning star is Venus.
The evening stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this date in history:
In 1714, Sweden's King Charles XII was seen buttering his bread with his thumb.

In 1844, Friedrich Nietzsche, German philosopher, was born.
In 1914, the Clayton Anti-Trust Act became law winning fame as the statute that exempted labor from the anti-trust laws.

In 1917, the most famous spy of World War I, Mata Hari (Gertrud Zelle) was executed by a firing squad outside Paris.

In 1928, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin arrived in the U.S. on its first commercial flight, four and one-half days after leaving Germany.

In 1945, Pierre Laval, former French Premier, was executed by a firing squad for betraying his country to Nazi Germany during World War II.

A thought for today: Friedrich Nietzsche wrote: "It is not the strength, but the duration of great sentiments that makes great men."

Admitted Slayer Of Parents To Undergo Mental Testing

OLATHE, Kan. (UPI)—The decision rests squarely with a juvenile court judge today on what to do with a 15-year-old school girl who admitted she killed her parents with roach poison.

Diane Roberts, a sophomore in high school, is accused of first degree murder in the deaths Tuesday night of William F. Roberts, 43, and Mrs. Evalyn Roberts, 41. Diane was their only child.

Joseph Davis Jr., Johnson County juvenile court judge, set a hearing Oct. 23 on a petition which lists first degree murder in two instances.

"At that time," Davis said, "penalty will be determined." He said her mental condition and record of psychiatric treatment will possibly make a great deal of difference in determining what is done with the girl.

Diane had taken outpatient psychiatric treatment at the Kansas State Hospital at Olathe since June and relatives said the records as well as Diane had records of "emotional difficulties."

"I did it because mom and dad were always criticizing everything I do," Sheriff Lynn Thomas quoted the girl as saying. "Daddy beat me Sunday night and threatened to kill me. I thought I would kill him first."

Davis said that under the Kansas juvenile code "you can do no more for a double slaying than for some kid breaking a window."

Butler Returns To Fore On Political Scene

LONDON (UPI)—Richard A. Butler, who narrowly missed becoming prime minister three years ago, held unprecedented powers today that made him unquestionably the second most important governmental official in Britain.

Newspapers here were unanimous in agreeing that no one in the nation now wields more power than Butler except Harold Macmillan, who nosed him out of the post of prime minister after Sir Anthony Eden resigned in 1956.

Butler retained his posts as home (interior) secretary and Wednesday's cabinet reshuffle. In addition, he became chairman of the Conservative Party and head of its policy-making research department.

In American terms, it is as though one man were interior secretary and chief of national police, House majority leader, and chairman of both the national committee and the platform committee of the party in power.

Butler lost one title, the largely honorary label of "Lord Privy Seal," to Viscount Halifax, who left the Conservative chairmanship to take the new post of science minister.

A new face in Macmillan's reshuffled cabinet belonged to Edward Heath, former Conservative whip in Parliament, who became labor minister in place of Iain MacLeod.

Baron Mills, a close friend of Macmillan, was assigned to the sub-cabinet post of paymaster general.

Two former ministers were dropped—Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd, storm center of the recent dispute about British African policy, and Education Minister Geoffrey Lloyd, who resigned at the age of 37 "to make room for younger men."

Lloyd's successor, former boss of trade president Sir David Eccles, is 55.

The other changes in the cabinet were transfers.

Gray Ladies Sponsor Party

Some 75 servicemen attended the Wednesday party sponsored by the Gray Ladies of the Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross at the Re-training Center at Amarillo Air Force Base.

Bill Murry, field director at the base, and Mrs. Josephine Burnell, assistant field director, were in charge of the party.

Howard Alexander and Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive secretary of Pampa Chapter, called the numbers for the bingo game.

The birthday cake was won by Frank Cauffman of Clarksville.

Pampa Gray Ladies, assisted by two Amarillo Gray Ladies, served home made cakes.

Cakes were furnished by Mrs. Jack Foster, Mrs. George Tinnin, Mrs. Shotwell, Mrs. A. D. Hills, Mrs. R. E. McKernan, Mrs. Fred Ammeter, Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier, Mrs. Vern Pendergrass, Mrs. Lynn Boyd, Mrs. Jessie McKinney, Mrs. Howard Alexander and Mrs. Stanley Brandt.

Gray Ladies attending were Mrs. A. D. Hills, Mrs. Stanley Brandt, Mrs. V. Pendergrass, Mrs. Howard Alexander, Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier, Mrs. W. J. Ladd and Mrs. Malcolm Denson.

Rotarians Hear Sales Expert

At the regular noon meeting Wednesday, Pampa Rotarians heard a talk by sales expert, Fred Palmer, Columbus, Ohio.

High school senior, Jim Scott, introduced the Junior Rotarian for the month of October, Mert Cooper.

Visitors at the meeting were George Sims, Martin Ludeman, Col. June K. I. June, Dr. J. A. Hill and J. R. Walsh.

Southern Governors Pick Almond

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI)—The 1959 Southern Governors Conference ended here Wednesday with the election of Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond as chairman of the 16-state conference for the next year.

Almond, self-described "conservative realist," succeeds Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi. The conference voted to hold the 1960 session in Arkansas.

Other final actions included resolutions asking for stiffer import controls and urging the federal government to reinstate original allocations for the federal interstate highway program.

Almond, champion of Virginia's "massive resistance" to school integration, backed down from his program after the courts voided it. Almond now backs a freedom of choice plan in Virginia's fight to preserve segregation.

He told newsmen he would "certainly give consideration" to having southern Democrats caucus ahead of the national Democratic convention next year. But he emphasized that Virginia would not go to the convention "with a chip on its shoulder or rattling a sword" but in the spirit of "an honest effort to reconcile the differences in the party."

The South's rise as an industrial power was cited in the passage of a resolution asking stiffer import controls. Its effort to get better and more roads, aided by the federal interstate highway program, was a hot subject because of the federal government's reduction in allocations.

A Good Buy On Buffaloes For Gracious Living Offered By Wildlife Service

By MICHAEL POSNER United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attention suburbanites: If you consider beagles are boring, parakeets passe and other conventional pets old hat, how about an honest to goodness buffalo to live things up around your ranch-style home?

For the men who have everything, Rep. Thomas J. Lane (D-Mass.) suggests a live buffalo or elk to roam the backyard.

Lane says the animals are now available from national wildlife refugees at reasonable prices.

For example, you can buy one of the big game bison for $140 to add a little realism to games of cowboys and Indians.

Lane says the Fish and Wildlife Service is offering 303 buffalo and 91 elk as surplus animals.

Lane also has a solution for city dwellers who might have a tough time fitting one of the animals into an apartment. He says apartment dwellers may want to buy a burly buffalo for the kitchen range.

He says frozen buffalo meat will enable home owners to have a good supply of meat on hand for the cold winter ahead.

A butchered, dressed and quartered buffalo carcass ranges from $105 to $200. Butchered elk goes for $100 to $130.

According to Lane, buffalo meat is tender but he has a warning for those who want to buy buffaloes on the hoof. He says they "are wild animals of uncertain temperament and should not be trusted."

Child Safe In Abduction

GRETNNA, La. (UPI)—A 22-year-old former mental patient in jail here today for kidnaping a fourth grade girl on her way to school.

Police held Ernest J. Bordenave on charges of aggravated kidnaping. He was flushed from the densely wooded area where he took the child by more than 100 armed deputies and volunteers.

The child, 8-year-old Lona Ann Robertson, was spotted in a clearing just before dark Wednesday. She told officers that she was a hospital. A doctor said the child was in good condition and had not been molested.

Bordenave, released just last year from a state mental institution, told authorities he did not hurt the girl. He has a record of six arrests for molesting minors.

He told police he kidnaped Lona Ann to "use her as a hostage so I could get to Mexico where they couldn't put me away again."

Bordenave said he was in debt and "my mother threatened to call the district attorney if I did not pay my bills."

The kidnaper insisted that he did not injure the child and said he turned her loose about two hours after he lured her into his car. However, when asked if he really wanted only to use Lona Ann as a hostage, Bordenave confessed that if he had taken her with him he "probably would have bothered her."

Deputies hunted for Bordenave after they found his abandoned car near a wooded area. The child's book satchel and raincoat were still in the vehicle.

When Lona Ann was found, deputies asked her where the man who kidnaped her was.

"Oh, I haven't seen that fellow for quite a while," she said.

Young Stevenson Backed Politically

LONGVIEW (UPI)—Coke R. Stevenson Jr., has been assured the full support of publisher Carl Estes should he decide to seek the governorship of Texas like his father did.

Stevenson is administrator of the Texas Liquor Control Board, an agency that oversees every phase of the liquor business in wet areas of Texas and polices the 141 dry counties of the state.

Estes, publisher of the Longview News and Journal, introduced Stevenson at a civic luncheon Wednesday by saying:

"He is the personification of ability, energy, honesty, integrity and all other adjectives you can name."

Estes said "not a whisper" of wrongdoing has come from the Liquor Control Board since Stevenson became administrator in 1949.

Kin Describes Road Slayer

MONTERREY, Mexico (UPI)—Between lapses into unconsciousness, critically wounded Hilda Perez, 21, today gave police a description of the English-speaking blond young man about 30 years old who killed her 20-year-old sister and her 13-year-old brother early Tuesday morning.

The three were shot as they waited in their stalled automobile on the Monterrey-Nuevo Laredo highway for their elder brother, Raul Perez, a Monterrey dentist, who had gone for a tow-car to the nearby town of Sabinas Hidalgo.

Hilda said the man who shot the three drove up in a light blue Chevrolet with U.S. license plates, got out and approached their car.

"You want a ride?" he asked, the young woman reported.

Then he added: "I am a bandit."

They all laughed, and when the girls declined his offer, he opened fire, shooting 13 times.

Marta Perez, 20, and Juan Manuel Perez, 13, died instantly.

'This I Saw'

"In 1950, a route man for a Pampa milk firm told me a wonderful story. In his rounds he had found a number of families with small children who could not afford the price of milk.

"From his own modest earnings he had supplied the milk needs of several such families. When the need became too great for him to handle, he had appealed to two churches. They had joined in the program of free milk to those who could not pay.

"But," he said, "that still isn't enough. There are many people in Pampa who, often for only a few days, are unable to buy milk for their children."

Van Doren Has Nothing To Say To Press Before Meeting Panel

By BART KINCH
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—The counsel for the congressional subcommittee investigating the rigging of TV quiz shows indicated today the inquiry would spread to other network question and answer programs.

The disclosure was made shortly after Charles Van Doren, one-time champion of the now defunct "21" program, came out of his New England hideaway to be served with a subpoena.

Van Doren, who claimed he was not aware that U.S. marshals had been searching for him since last Friday, accepted service of the subpoena just before he held a 10-minute news conference in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Van Doren flunked his first quiz by newsmen when he refused to answer questions concerning his appearance on the "21" program. He said he would have nothing to say about alleged "fixes" on the show until he testifies before the subcommittee Nov. 2.

The 33-year-old Columbia University instructor came to the news conference with an attorney, two bodyguards and a brief prepared statement, which he read to the 100 newsmen and photographers.

In his statement Van Doren: —Apologized to the press for my apparent aversion to your company during the last several days.

—Confessed he had been "out of touch" with current events recently.

—Insisted he had not evaded service of the subpoena but had merely gone to New England "to try and find solace in the beauty of the region."

—And said he thought it would be disrespectful to the subcommittee to discuss the rigging of TV quiz shows with newsmen.

A short time later subcommittee counsel Robert W. Lisman said in Washington the group would look into another big money quiz show — "The $61,000 Question" — and possibly others.

Hal March, quiz master of the former CBS program said in Houston, Tex., "I don't see how the show could have been fixed" but insisted that if it was he knew nothing about it.

Other shows expected to fall under the scrutiny of the House subcommittee on legislative oversight include "The $64,000 Challenge," "Name That Tune" and "For Love Or Money."

British-Made Film Becomes Subject Of Late TV Show

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thanks to late TV movies, the "Fallen Idol" has become as much a part of the TV screen as the test pattern.

And this familiarity apparently is taking its place in CBS' "The DuPont Show of the Month" anthology.

Since comparisons to the movie are going to be made all over the place, I'll say at the start that the 1950 British-made film was better. The TV version of Graham Greene's suspense story was not subtle as the film, nor did it de-across the bumper seams the plot very gracefully. However, the teleplay still made for interesting 90 minutes, thanks to some unusual acting by Jack Hawkins and young Jacques Sachler.

The story deals with a young boy who worships the family butler, Baines, but loathes Baines' stylish wife. The lad becomes involved in the butler's side romance with a secretary and when Mrs. Baines is killed, tells enough lies to put Scotland Yard on Baines' trail. Since this is, after all, a suspense vehicle, there are numerous overheard conversations, snooping, big lies and little lies to help the plot along.

Foreign steel is coming into this country in a trickle—not a flood—as foreign steelmakers are finding it hard to take advantage of the emergency created by the long steel strike, says the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

The reason, the Institute points out, is that Europe is enjoying an industrial boom of its own and the steel mills there are having a big market right at home; not to mention those of Asia and South America.

E. F. Hutton & Co. says the semiconductor industry is showing increasing concern over Japanese products which are expected, to find their way into the U.S. computer market.

Standard & Poor's includes National Lead, Eastman Kodak, Grand Union, Amerac Petroleum, Lilly-Tulip, Merck, Corning Glass and American Cyanamid among its selected long-term growth stocks.

Fitch suggests Harris-Intertype as a buy for further market appreciation possibilities, from current market levels.

New Satellite 'Gagged'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's newest satellite carries an automatic gag to make sure it can't fake a beeping nuisance of itself.

This will please space scientists all over the world. If there's anything they hate, it's a satellite that keeps talking after it's as anything new to say.

Aboard Explorer VII, launched Tuesday at Cape Canaveral, Fla., a tiny timer developed by the Tulova Watch Co. for the express purpose of telling the satellite, a year from now, to shut up.

The 91.5-pound Explorer VII itself will stay in orbit 20 to 25 years. But it won't be permitted to use its radio voice, however slightly modulated, for more than 12 months.

There are only so many radio frequencies in this noisy universe, and any satellite that hogs one so long is just keeping newer and possibly smarter ones from peaking their pieces.

From now on, it is what scientific bureaucrats call a "requirement" that all U.S. satellites be equipped with "shadup" devices before launching.

If Vanguard I's antennae were ears, they would be burning. History's littlest satellite (weight: 3 1/2 pounds) also is the gabbiest.

Launched March 17, 1958, Vanguard I may live 1,000 years. Its rapping little voice, powered by the sun, may last nearly as long.

Everybody has an idea how to quench it. As one scientist said, "all we can do is listen around it."

Unless a transistor falls or an errant little meteor scores a hit, Vanguard I will beep-beep long after the scientists who created her are dust.

Cute Popcorn Kitty Kat Highlights Halloween

Watch the eyes light up when both youngsters and not-so-youngsters catch sight of this bewitching Kitty Kat centerpiece made of popcorn. It'll be a yawning success at any Halloween Party!

This crunchy confection is as good to eat as it is to look at—and so easy to make! The secret to working with popcorn is simple—plan ahead and have everything ready to use so you can work without interruption. Best of all, you can make this delicious conversation piece days early, if you wish, and it'll still be fresh and crispy on the big occasion.

If you're still ambitious, use the same pattern in miniature for Kute Kitty Kat placecards!

KITTY KAT CENTERPIECE
 5 quarts popped popcorn
 2½ cups granulated sugar
 1 cup light corn syrup
 ¾ cup water
 ½ cup butter or margarine
 1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon vanilla
 Large licorice gumdrops
 Licorice jelly strips

Measure popped corn into large metal bowl or pan and heat in slow oven (300 degrees to 325 degrees F.). Mix together sugar, syrup, water, butter or margarine, and salt in saucepan. Bring to soft crack stage (270 to 290 degrees F.). Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Pour in fine stream over popcorn and mix well. While corn is hot, pack into 3-8 inch foil lined layer cake pans. Pack tightly. Cool just a few minutes. Remove 2 of the popcorn layers from pans and remove foil. Press the 2 layers together to form one 2-layer cake. Turn third popcorn layer out of pan and remove foil. Allow popcorn layers to cool and "set."

TO ASSEMBLE AND DECORATE—Plunge 3 heavy wood picks down half-way into center of the single layer placing them 1½ inch apart for the base. Place large licorice gumdrops, one at a time, on granulated sugar and roll (with rolling pin) to 3-16 to ¼ inch thickness. Cut into large ears, eyes, eyebrows, nose and mouth from licorice and make an attractive cat's face on the double popcorn layer, pressing the candy firmly into corn. Cut cat's whiskers out of licorice jelly strips and press into popcorn face to secure expression desired. Plunge face upright on its edge onto picks. Attach ears and fasten on securely with picks.

"Journey Bread" For Breakfast

There is no reason for breakfast bread always to be toasted. If another kind of bread will tempt early morning appetites, serve it occasionally.

Johnny bread or "journey bread" as it is used to be called by early settlers who invariably had chunky pieces of cornbread in their knapsacks, is a nourishing choice for breakfast.

Make doubly sure that it has the sustaining qualities your family needs by spreading the hot cornbread squares lavishly with butter. Butter is an energy-giving spread, that teams best with cornbread in the morning, according to Meadow Gold nutritionists. Apple butter is another fine cornbread go-together.

Lemon Date Thins With Hint O' Mint Provides Charming Setting For Guests

One of these crisp autumn afternoons would be an ideal time to have a few friends over to your house for a "coca break." Hot cocoa in your prettiest cups and delicious little cookies to go along with it will be real guest pleasers at such a gathering.

Lemon date thins, dainty pale yellow cookies, edged in light brown, are particularly good ones to serve with cocoa. They are delicately flavored with lemon (both lemon rind and juice are used) and each cookie has a generous quota of snipped dates adding more wonderful flavor.

Your cocoa can be extra special by following the recipe for hint o' mint cocoa. You mix evaporated milk and water and then stir in a touch of peppermint extract just before serving. As the name implies there's just a hint of the peppermint flavor, but it's definitely an intriguing hint.

LEMON DATE THINS
 ¼ cup soft butter
 1 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 1 egg
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 ½ cup evaporated milk
 2 cups sifted flour
 1 package dates (8 oz.), snipped (approximately 1½ cups)
 ¾ teaspoon soda
 ¼ teaspoon salt

Cream butter, sugar and lemon rind thoroughly. Beat in egg. Add lemon juice to evaporated milk, stirring to blend. Add to first mixture. Measure out ¼ cup of the flour and mix with dates to coat well. Sift remaining flour with soda and salt. Add to egg mixture and stir to blend. Then stir in dates. Drop rounded teaspoonfuls about 2 inches apart on a lightly greased and flour baking sheet. Bake in preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) until cookies are done and edges are lightly browned, about 6 to 8 minutes. Makes about 9 dozen cookies.

HINT O' MINT COCOA
 ¼ cup water

2 tall cans evaporated milk (3 1-3 cups)
 1 cup chocolate syrup
 ¾ teaspoon peppermint extract

Bring water to a boil in a medium size saucepan. Reduce to low heat and slowly add evaporated milk, then chocolate syrup. Stir to mix well. Continue heating until hot, but not boiling. Remove from heat and stir in peppermint extract. Serve immediately. Makes six 1-cup servings.

"On-The-Road" Burgers Provide Travelers With Hearty Nourishment

Roadside or picnic eating can be something special even if it is only a quick stop en route to a football game. Hot and hearty sandwiches "on the road" start with wide-mouth thermos bottles filled with easily toted mixtures such as baked beans and a traditional hamburger - tomato combination. Bring buttered buns for the sandwiches and make them extra special with a covering of thin slices of Baby Gouda which soften atop the selected hot filling.

Traveling Gouda burgers or Gouda-topped beans make hearty, filling sandwiches which require little else to make up a wonderful meal. Add foods for out-of-hand eating such as carrots or celery sticks, extra wedges of cheese, fresh fruit and cookies or donuts. Hot coffee, tea or chocolate is a must. Pack the beverages and the sandwich mixtures in vacuum bottles and they will stay piping hot for as long as two hours.

Wedges of mild nut-like Gouda cheese add special interest to any sandwich or casserole combination and since this cheese is lower in calories than many of the natural cheeses of the cheddar type it's sure to please weight-watchers.

Here are the recipes for Traveling Gouda Burgers and En Route Bean 'N Gouda Sandwiches.

TRAVELING GOUDA BURGERS
 1 pound ground beef
 ½ cup chopped onion
 ½ cup finely diced celery
 1 tablespoon shortening
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper

 1 Baby Gouda Cheese, thinly sliced
 8 hamburger buns, cut in half crosswise

Lightly brown meat, onion and celery in shortening in 10-inch skillet. Add seasonings and flour; mix well. Stir in tomato sauce. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add a small amount of water, if necessary, during cooking time. Pack in hot thermos and carry to picnic. To serve, cover bottoms of

EN ROUTE BEAN 'N GOUDA SANDWICHES

 1 8 oz. Baby Gouda Cheese, cut in wedges

There's no trick to making tasty apples this fall and winter when you try a recipe based on a caramel frosting mix. Just add butter, cream and corn syrup to the mix and heat to the hard ball stage. It takes about a half hour for the syrup to reach this temperature. Remove the mixture from the heat as soon as it reaches 250°. Use apples at room temperature for cooling.

TAFFY APPLES
 10 to 12 med. apples
 10 to 12 wooden skewers
 1 pkg. Betty Crocker Caramel Fudge Frosting Mix
 ¼ cup soft butter
 ¼ cup cream
 1 cup light corn syrup

Wash apples and remove stems. Insert skewers into stem end. Empty contents of Frosting Mix pkg. into 3-qt. saucepan. Add butter, cream and corn syrup. Stir until blended. Cook over med. heat to 250° on candy thermometer (hard ball stage). Work quickly dipping each apple into the caramel; swirl until well coated. For smoother apple use large spoon to dip on more caramel. Allow to drip, then place on buttered baking sheet or waxed paper; cool until firm. If kitchen is hot or humid, refrigerate dipped apples. Makes about 12 caramelized apples.

Frozen Peas Take On Continental Grace In French Fashion Cookery

Sure to add to your fame as a good cook are a variety of colorful vegetables. New cookery methods often take less time than those of even a few years ago. Use those saved minutes to put imagination in your vegetable dishes. Look what's happening here to frozen peas, for instance.

Round jade beauties take on Continental graces in this recipe for cooking frozen peas by a favorite French fashion. Shredded lettuce, sprigs of mint, and finely-chopped onion all meld their flavors with the vine-fresh sweetness of the frozen peas. It's no trick to preserve their new-shelled color and flavor, either and you actually save time! Start the package of frozen peas, unthawed, in just a coffee measure of water, (two tablespoons full) along with an equal amount of butter, margarine, or oil and a soupcon of sugar—half a teaspoon, the same as of salt.

Peas go from package to table in less than 10 minutes, fancy dress and all. Onion, and mint (if you have it) start right with the peas over high heat. Once peas are separated, add shredded lettuce.

half above, half beneath the peas, and simmer gently 5 minutes. Add a bit of butter and cream. Mmmmm . . . gourmet eating should always be so simple!

Frozen peas, French style, will give an elegant lift to economy cuts of lamb; to lamb croquettes, and minced lamb patties. As every French femme femme knows a little extra attention to the vegetables helps keep even budget meals on the by-the-side.

GREEN PEAS, FRENCH STYLE
 1 10-ounce package frozen green peas
 2 tablespoons water
 ½ teaspoon salt
 ½ teaspoon sugar
 2 teaspoons finely minced onion
 1 small sprig mint
 ¼ head lettuce, shredded
 1 tablespoon butter
 2 tablespoons cream

Drop frozen peas into saucepan with the water, salt sugar, onion and mint. Cover and bring to a boil quickly over high heat, separating the block of frozen peas with a fork, if necessary, to hasten thawing (takes 2 to 3 minutes). When peas are separated, scoop half of lettuce under the peas and place remainder on top. Cover, reduce heat to medium, just enough to keep peas simmering gently, and cook until peas are just tender, about 5 minutes. Add butter and cream and serve at once.

Steel Strike Past Stage Of Immediate Economic Rescue

EDITORS' NOTE: What are the long-range implications of the steel strike? What effect is it having on the economy? Why isn't management and union such an accord after nearly six months of negotiation? UPI labor reporter William J. Eaton answers these and other questions in the following analysis of the nation's worst steel strike.

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation faces a double dilemma—economic and political—because the steel strike is in its 93rd day with no end in sight.

Congress undoubtedly will consider a new law next year to deal with critical labor-management disputes because of widespread disenchantment with emergency machinery of the Taft-Hartley act.

The legal dilemma is how to reserve force collective bargaining and yet protect the public interest when the giants of basic industry and organized labor clash head-on.

Cost of the nation's worst steel strike already is counted in the billions of dollars and that figure is expected to mount even if the agreement ends an 80-day truce through court injunction.

The economic dilemma is how to prevent chaos in steel markets when the strike ends and get laid-off workers back on their jobs despite problems in cranking up production.

A less obvious effect of the walkout will be its impact on union demands and management reactions in future negotiations.

The unyielding stand of spokesmen for the "big 12" steelmakers is seeking greater power to make "waterfall" working rules in the central issue in the dispute.

Leaders of the Steelworkers' Union reported the 500,000 strikers determined not to give in to management's demands for changes that could affect every detail in a millhand's life from crew sizes to coffee breaks.

While the stalemate continues, the economy has begun to feel the pinch. More than 85 per cent of steel production has been choked off, with the following results:

Nearly 250,000 workers in coal mines, railroads, oreboats and related jobs have been laid off because of the strike. These workers and the strikers have lost about three-quarters of a billion dollars in wages.

Production of 1960 model cars have been curtailed because of shrinking steel stocks. General Motors says its layoffs alone will surpass 37,000 by Friday.

Time has grown short for shipments of iron ore on the Great Lakes in the ice-free shipping season.

Direct and indirect losses in lost wages, sales, taxes and other items could easily reach $6,500,000,000, Steel Magazine predicted.

Starting up the mills will take time—perhaps up to six weeks to hit 80 percent of capacity—sources in the industry said.

Why? Because four-man teams representing the "big 12" and the Steelworkers could not agree in nearly six months of negotiations on changes in their 1956 contracts.

Even before formal sessions started last May, both sides took full-page newspaper ads to present their case to the public. The steel industry proposed a wage freeze to battle inflation. Union spokesmen countered with vows to seek the biggest increase in Steelworkers' history.

The atmosphere was tense when contract talks formally opened. They got nowhere, despite repeated appeals from President Eisenhower for hard bargaining.

Contracts were extended two weeks to July 14 at White House request but the uneasy truce collapsed and the strike began the next day.

Federal mediators moved in unsuccessfully. One of them has described the sessions as polite but grim. Finally, the President said the strike "must not continue" and called in management and union leaders on Sept. 30 to urge resumption of negotiations.

The talks began again but blew up in less than a week. Three days later, the President invoked the Taft-Hartley law and named a fact-finding board to investigate the issues in dispute.

Much to Board Chairman George W. Taylor's surprise, he could not find out what the issues were. He sadly declared that only a "miracle" could bring a settlement.

Under Taft-Hartley provisions, the President may seek court order to halt the walkout for 90 days with no guarantee that it will not be resumed on the 91st day.

The inflexibility of the law and the court-ordered return to work have troubled observers of labor-management relations for some time.

Many Solutions Suggested
Its application in the steel strike, however, seemed to create more demands for changes than any of the 16 other times the Taft-Hartley law has been used since it was passed in 1947.

There have been suggestions for compulsory arbitration, seizure of industries, compulsory fact-finding and other solutions to the emergency strike dilemma.

The steel dispute has put the Eisenhower administration in an uncomfortable position far from the "hands-off" philosophy the President once advocated.

There seems to be little doubt that it also has nipped in the bud the business recovery from last year's recession. Some government economists fear it may trigger a new rise in unemployment this winter.

Easy Movie Money Not In This Script

Hollywood
By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Not since Ingrid Bergman and Robert Rossellini filmed "Stromboli" has a movie company suffered the hardships encountered in a new German picture filmed on a rocky Mediterranean island.

One of the survivors, actor Cliff Robertson, returned to Hollywood this week looking like a refugee from a prison camp.

During the 17-week shooting schedule Cliff was knocked out with fever, lost weight and found working conditions all but impossible.

"The island was the size of three city blocks," Cliff said. "I lived in an adobe hut which was part of the set we were using in the picture. And the cast and crew were limited to a single pan of water each—for drinking, cooking and shaving."

"There were no trees, grass or any sign of life among the rocks except for lizards. And I'll be darned if I know what they lived on."

Locale of the film, "The Search for Chorofo," is Greece, but to save costs cameras were set up in Yugoslavia, including the small island off the Dalmatian coast.

Linguistically the picture was almost as bad as working conditions. Robertson and Cameron Mitchell were the only Americans in the cast. Co-star Maria Schell and her director-husband Horst Hecher are German. About 100 Yugoslavian peasants played extras, the five stunt men were Italian, 80 crew members were German, and a couple of Frenchmen were signed on as cameramen.

"Now that I look back on it, the language problem was pretty funny. We all picked up a few words in the various tongues," Cliff grinned, "but that just confused matters more."

"Every scene was shot outdoors, and in the worst possible weather. Most of the cast was laid low by fever at one point or another. But it was worth it."

Venezuela Threatened By Revolution

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt, a veteran revolutionary, today finds himself threatened by a revolution against his own eight-month-old regime.

Official statements blame the new wave of violence sweeping the Venezuelan capital of Caracas upon ousted one-time dictator President Marcos Perez Jimenez and his supporters and upon Dominican dictator Leonidas Rafael Trujillo Molina.

There is no doubt that either Perez Jimenez or Trujillo would be most happy to see Betancourt's government fall, and it well may be that Betancourt's days in office are numbered.

But so far the wave of unrest sweeping Caracas and the oil city of Maracaibo seems unorganized.

Working with Maria in a great experience. When he wasn't before the cameras Cliff took time to study the Yugoslavian people, whom he found tremendously pro-American.

"They are poorer than any people I've seen except the Chinese," Robertson said. "But you can see they are better off than they were a few years ago, and they are devoted to Tito."

"They are proud of the break with Russia and never fail to mention it. Personally, I liked the country—except for that miserable little island."

It appears to be the result of Venezuela's own lopsided economy rather than the efforts of Betancourt's political enemies.

Of the 10 republics on the South American continent, Venezuela is the richest, its oil revenues alone total more than half a billion dollars annually.

But for most of the last 50 years it has lived in a political vacuum, under dictatorships which recognized neither political parties nor civil liberties.

A magnificent new highway winds its way up from the Caribbean port of La Guaira to Caracas. In Caracas is the beautiful officers' club, the university and the university hospital. These are evidences of Venezuela's wealth.

But they take no account of the fact that of Venezuela's total population of a little more than six million, some three and a half million barely eke out an existence.

Also not taken into account is the 65 per cent illiteracy rate among the people, the 170,000 unemployed, the 600,000 children without classroom space.

Nor do the outward evidences of Venezuela's wealth take into account the fact that its economic imbalance has provided a perfect entry for the Communists whose numbers jumped from around 6,000 a few years ago to more than 80,000 today.

It was into this situation that Betancourt stepped some eight months ago, after one of Venezuela's rare free elections.

Betancourt, politically left, announced immediately that Communists would have no part in his government. He made equally clear they were not welcome at the presidential palace.

But his Democratic Action Party, with labor as its backbone, contains admitted Communists many of them in the oil fields.

In 1945, it was Betancourt, at a previous time in power, who reached the 50-50 split agreement with the oil companies which now is a standard the world over. This time, through a new tax plan, he made it 60-40 in favor of the government.

At the same time, he announced an ambitious program designed to spread Venezuela's wealth. In the latter, he has not been outstandingly successful, and he does not have the entire support of the army. That's why his days may be numbered.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We have had a "Peeping Tom" reported in our neighborhood twice in the past year. Nobody could catch him.

Last night, to my amazement, I saw a neighbor of ours prowling around my back yard. Then he climbed up on another neighbor's upstairs porch and just sat there looking in her window while she undressed. My heart was beating 80 miles an hour. I called my husband. He said for us to keep quiet because this man is a well-to-do, respected businessman in town. He is married and has a nice family, too. I think he should be reported but my husband forbids me to get mixed up in it. Can you advise me?

The most stupid thing I did was trying to take his picture in class. He sent me out of the room for that.

How can I get him to like me? LITTLE GIRL BLUE DEAR ABBY: Your attentions to this teacher have obviously been a source of embarrassment to him. You are underdeveloped (emotionally) and the poor teacher is overexposed to sweet young things. Get the situation in focus and accept the inevitable negative.

DEAR ABBY: My wife came from a broken home. She told me that she wanted to be absolutely certain that we didn't let that happen to our children. I admired her attitude. But, Abby, how long would you give a wife to "test" a marriage?

We have been married 14 years and she is still waiting to see if our marriage will "last." I am 43 and my wife is 39, and she is still "not sure." I am getting very disgusted with her. Can you help with a few words in your column?

WANTS A FAMILY DEAR ABBY: Your marriage is liable to "last" longer than the ability to reproduce. A woman who deliberately delays having a family until she is 40 is being unfair to herself, her husband, and to any children she bears. I suspect that your wife fears childbirth for other reasons, and is using this as an excuse to put it off. Talk it over with her. And encourage her to place her confidence in a competent doctor.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SALLY ANN: To get to heaven - turn right and keep going straight.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MATURE PARENT

The belief that a child will interpret parental disapproval as withdrawal of love has made many parents hesitant to express disapproval.

It certainly is not wise to confirm a child's fear by threatening to withdraw affection. Ultimately he needs to distinguish between loss of parental love and mere disapproval. As he becomes aware that his parents love him though they may not like his behavior, he also learns to separate his parents from other people.

Other people will not love him if his behavior is unacceptable. He usually learns to identify the uniqueness of parental love after a few disappointing experiences with other people. The greatest shock comes to the child who, never having encountered disapproval in the secure framework of parental love, is suddenly confronted with disapproval by others.

Discipline is important for everyone. An infant does not know what the requirements of reality are. He does not know wherein lies danger to himself. He does not know the behavior that will cause him to be loved and accepted by others. Nor does he know how to find gratification for his impulses without risking his acceptability. He does not know what, according to the patterns of his culture, is right and what is wrong.

His parents are his first and most important teachers. They are constantly teaching him and whatever form their teaching takes it is - in its best sense - discipline. This word, as commonly used, is a much maligned one. Its origin is significant; it is derived from the Latin "disciplina" meaning "instruction and training."

Unfortunately, however, it has come to have the connotation of "punishment," as if learning could be achieved only by such means. Punishment does have a place in discipline but it is only a small part of valid disciplinary methods. Discipline from without teaches the demands of reality and how they can most constructively be met. For example, the law that a driver may not go through a red light was made to facilitate the survival of as many drivers as possible. When this law's violator is punished, the punishment seeks to protect the culprit equally with his potential victim.

CHARM TEA - Mrs. Mickey McDonald, director of the American Beauty Charm Club, extreme left, presided at the service for the Membership Tea given Sunday

American Beauty Charm Club Holds Initial Meeting At Membership Tea

A Membership Tea was held in the City Club Room on Sunday afternoon by the American Beauty Charm Club for the purpose of forming a Pampa chapter of the national organization. Mrs. Mickey McDonald, national director of the organization, presided at the tea service.

As a portion of the program, Mrs. McDonald, a model formerly associated with John Robert Powers, illustrated for guests character demonstrations of the incorrect ways of walking climaxed with a demonstration of the correct method of walking.

In the late summer, Mrs. McDonald was invited to Pampa from Amarillo to lecture and conduct charm courses, sponsored by Miss Georgia Crutchfield and by the Pampa Country Club. The American Beauty Charm Club, which will be affiliated with the national Ass'n, is the outgrowth of these courses.

Mrs. McDonald explained the aims and purposes of the organization are to assist each member through information and inspiration; to develop her inherent beauty and charm. The chapter's evening monthly meetings will pertain to some phase of personal improvement; fashion co-ordination, manners, etiquette, makeup. A Queen of Charm will be crowned from among the membership annually; fashion shows will be produced and other unscheduled activities will be inspirational to the group," Mrs. McDonald outlined.

She also pointed out that membership is by invitation, limited to adult women. "The club's symbol is Venus, goddess of charm, en-

Texas Heritage Topic For Club

LEFORS (Sp) - "Texas Heritage" was the program topic presented at the Art and Civic Club meeting held in Civic Center on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. James Jinks, evening's speaker, reviewed the explorations of Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, to bring the Spanish heritage in Texas history. Included in her informative talk was the history.

"Back in the 1540's, Coronado, a large area of the state of Texas to be settled. Searching for gold, he thought he might get lost, so he had his men drive stakes into the ground to mark the way. To this day, this area is known as the Staked Plains."

Mrs. Carl Hall, president, presided as discussion was held regarding the sale of oven-savers and sending for a copy of "Spindler's Convention", a play, to check for characters, expense and royalty.

Plans were also discussed for a game night to be held Oct. 24 to raise funds for the purchase of a city-mower.

Mrs. Bill Mullins, hostess, served refreshments during the social hour.

Members present were Mmes. Babe Hall, Bill McEe, Paul Waldon, Keith Geisler, Raymond Jordan, Charles Glissen, Bud Cumberland, James Jinks, Floyd Hines, Edith Boyd, Ray Chastain, Bill Teel, J. E. Carter, L. R. Spence, Earl Atkinson, Bill Watson, G. N. DeAnne Eggleston, Laura Powell, Mougner, C. H. Gustin, R. H. Judy Neef, and Georgia Crutchfield.

Tiny Flat-Foot In Spike Heels Looks Like Anything But Crime-Preventer

Woman's View By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lois Lundell Higgins of Chicago looks about as much like a cop as I look like Marilyn Monroe.

But this tiny flat-foot in spike heels has a long and notable record in crime prevention in Illinois and nationally. And she can, if necessary, handle a revolver with as good an aim as any man on the beat.

"I'm very lady-like about a gun," said Mrs. Higgins, "but very effective."

Mrs. Higgins, 49, five feet, two inches tall, blue-eyed and gray haired, is director of the Illinois Crime Prevention Bureau. She also is President of the International Association of Women Police and member of the Crime Prevention Committee of the International Association of Police Chiefs, whose convention brought her and her husband to New York last week.

No Longer Carries Gun She no longer carries a gun on the job - that was in her early days as a policeman in Chicago. Now, she explained in an interview, she is a combination administrator, investigator and lecturer.

She and her colleagues in the bureau average 1,000 crime prevention talks a year before everyone from police to high school students.

The bureau, organized in 1949, works on a "three strikes against crime" program of education, research and legislation. Cooperating with it are a crime prevention council, consisting of representatives from city, county and state police departments, and a committee of citizen volunteers.

One of its major accomplishments, she said, is legislation making extremely severe the penalty for narcotics peddling.

"I am convinced," said Mrs. Higgins, "that the narcotics trade is part of a Communist program to wreck the young people of the free world. Of course, the money to be made is a factor. But we must remember that most of the narcotics come from Red China and the satellite countries."

Mrs. Higgins, a native of Milwaukee, and graduate with honors from Mount Mary College in her home town, started her career in social welfare. It was while assigned to a Domestic Relations Court in Chicago that she met Erank Higgins, then a bailiff but now a city building inspector. They couple will celebrate a 25th wedding anniversary next year.

Husband Take Kidding I asked her husband whether he took a lot of kidding, being married to a policeman. "Oh, sure," he said, "around Chicago they used to call me Mr. Lois Higgins. But I forgive her. She's a good cook."

The couple has two children - Frank, junior, 22, studying law at Harvard, and Mary Lois 18, a student at Mount Mary.

"I would like to see my daughter go into some phase of police or social work," said Mrs. Higgins. "It is a splendid field, that old idea that a policeman is more brawn than brain is a wrong. Today's law enforcement agencies are looking for both men and women with a strong academic background, preferably in social studies."

Memo to the autumn brides: The honeymoon is over when——He asks, "What's for dinner?" BEFORE the home-coming kiss.

—He grumbles as he writes checks for the bills.

—He tells you almost sheepishly that "some of the boys" are getting a weekly poker club together and have asked him to be member.

—He fails to notice your new hairdo.

—He reads the paper while you clear the table and wash the dishes, without any offer from him to help.

—He asks, "Does it have to be done NOW?" when you ask him to do a chore.

—He asks what you have been doing all day and then doesn't seem to listen to your answer.

—You discover that he can be grumpy before he gets his first cup of coffee in the morning.

—He hides behind the paper at the breakfast table.

—He asks you if you can't keep the bills down.

—He doesn't bother to pretend that a dish that didn't turn out quite right is delicious.

—He begins to spend a lot of time at a workbench or otherwise off by himself.

—He miffs saying, "Nothing much," when you ask him what happened at the office.

—But don't you worry about any of those signs that the honeymoon is over. They are also signs that your man is taking on the habit of a settled, married man.

Touching up kitchen shelves is easier now with the use of a pigmented shellac. This seals as does regular shellac. But dries more rapidly. Tint it to pastel shades by using tube colors of the new universal tinting type.

All-Electric Kitchen Is Eye-Catcher For Grand Central Station Commuters

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—A kitchen, of all things, now slows the traveler's rush through Grand Central Terminal.

With their eyes on the nearest clock, commuters by the hundreds daily stop off to inspect an all-electric kitchen, with its $3,200 worth of built-in range, wall ovens, dish-washer, garbage disposer, laundry center, freezer and refrigerator.

It is the first time, old-timers say, that a full-scale kitchen ever has been exhibited in the huge concrete and steel shell, which in its 46-year history has been the showcase for everything from model cars to modern art.

We paid a call this week on the kitchen's chef—"cook"—John MacPherson—to see what in the petal pink center most interests the traveling public.

MacPherson, a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve and head of the sales training program for General Electric, said it seemed a tossup between the control panel on the hood range and the special closed circuit television set.

The latter enabled visitors to see themselves in the audience. The exhibit, which will run through October, occupies a portion of the investment center run by a brokerage firm. And MacPherson said GE's reason for the installation was to salute women shareholders. They out-number men and also out-voice them when it comes to planning and modernizing the home.

Course, what's happened is that more men than women are stopping," he said. "Some of them credit to the fact that modern men commute. But we'll have a man, mechanically minded and respecting the technique of the swingout shelves in the refrigerator."

Thanks to Mrs. I. R., we have a solution to the problem of Mrs. A. L. B., whose puppy and beige rug didn't mix. Mrs. I. R. writes: "Here is something that remedies such situations: sponge or spray spots with plain soda-water. Either water from a bottle or the seltzer water from a fizz bottle. Wipe with a cloth. It really works."

Dear Polly: How can I make my bathrooms look less utilitarian and more friendly? Here are my two problems: 1—A downstairs lavatory used principally by guests. I should like it to be gay and possibly amusing without being too frilly. 2—An upstairs bathroom which includes a shower so there is a problem of everything being bathed in steam morning and evening. Bathed Bath.

Dear D. B.: The room I am planning to me, so all must be well. I do get a twinge or two about that orange-red. Not too much.

Dear Polly: Our new home has a fireplace but no mantel shelf. I had thought of putting up a big mirror without a frame that would cover the wall but I don't see them used so much any more. Have they gone out of style? If so, what do you suggest?—Uncertain Homemaker.

Treasured Family Memories Should Be Cataloged In Book For Posterity

By KAY SHWERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

What's worse—and more common—than a family skeleton in the closet is the family history squirreled away in boxes, in bottom drawers, and in unrelated envelopes on top shelves.

The profusion of pictures, souvenirs, mementos and announcements that record the beginnings and the growth of a family are too precious to be shunted aside.

A snapshot-memento album compiled for each youngster will make a treasured gift. The trick is to arrange material to tell a story with emphasis on the special events. If you include practical data such as photostatic copies of birth certificates, baptismal records, immunization records, and so on, you'll be doing your offspring a great service, when they need the information in the future.

The first step is to sort and select pictures in chronological order. Include snapshots of baby's first grin, first tooth, first time he sat up, first steps.

Other typical special occasions might include first day at school, birthday parties, confirmation, dancing parties and the first evening dress or suit.

From the snapshots taken of everyday events select some of the best that show the youngster in typical poses or activities.

Collect as many of the negatives as you can and file them in a negative file. In years to come, someone is almost certain to want a duplicate or enlargement of a particular photo.

Mementos which you wish to preserve might be: samples of first writing, hand-made greeting cards, locks of curls, early drawings, report cards, letters, invitations.

The album should be large, sturdy, handsome and, preferably, one to which leaves can be added as needed. One popular size looseleaf pages about 8x11 inches.

Couple snapshots with corresponding mementos. Write captions as you go along, including dates, names and places.

Mount material with a suitable adhesive, one which won't cause fading of prints.

A mounting cement has been developed for this purpose: double-faced tape is also satisfactory, as are gummed corners. Some of the new albums are available with gummed papers in protective acetate jackets. Pictures and papers are dampened on the corners and pressed into place on the adhesive surfaces.

Fair Sex Sets Sales Record In Insurance

WOMAN TO WOMAN
By MARY PRIME
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Detroit woman who says "I don't think I could sell a hanky to a hay fever victim" nevertheless is setting sales records for her sex in the insurance field.

She is Mrs. Ethel R. Weston, 43, widowed, and the mother of three children, aged 11, 14 and 17. Mrs. Weston has been a life insurance saleswoman only 20 months. Her sales during the period of 1957 that she worked amount to $332,500. Last year she topped the one-million-dollar mark and is aiming to do the same by the time 1959 is ended.

Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance, which she represents through the Detroit-Gold Agency, said Mrs. Weston is the first woman in the company's 108 year history to reach the million mark. Few men ever make it either, but when they do they are honored with membership in the "exclusive" million-dollar roundtable.

How has the pretty brunette widow managed to go so far, so fast? "Well I don't think I could sell a hanky to a hay fever victim," she said, during a stopover in New York en route to Detroit from the company's home office in Springfield, Mass.

"I don't sell insurance," she said. "I sell bread and butter... the security of the home. Education. I sell a guarantee for the future."

Mrs. Weston, a native of Detroit, worked as a legal stenographer and later as office manager for a real estate company before her marriage in 1939 to Allan Weston. Her life followed a pattern of domestic familiarity to millions of other American housewives. Then, in the fall of 1956, her husband—an official with the Michigan State Board of Assessors—died of a heart attack.

"He had been a genius in his field," said his widow. "He had carefully planned financing his own retirement. But life insurance had been a hit-and-miss affair."

She said that when she checked through his policies, she found there was enough to meet expenses for a while but not enough to keep her comfortable in future years and educate the three children.

Mrs. Weston went back to work, persuaded by Ruben Gold, a family friend, to try selling insurance. "A woman is admirably fitted to sell life insurance," she said. "Women can put across the need. It comes down to the basic question: a man has to ask himself—'What would my family do, if my income were cut off?'"

"It is pretty tough for a man to look at me and say, 'It can't happen to me.'"

"But you don't play on widowhood," she said. "One of our best-

In the business meeting presided over by Mrs. Ralph Hix, president, the resignation of Mrs. Juanita Rollins as secretary was accepted with regret, and Mrs. E. W. salesmen is a spinster." Mrs. Weston makes selling sound easy, but for any woman who wants to get into the field, she suggested these qualifications:

A college education, although she doesn't have one; the personality of both the egotist and extrovert; and a sincere love of people because "people are our commodity."

Favorite Son Candidate Ranks Filling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It may be too early for a head count, but 1960 looks like a big crop year for "favorite son" presidential candidates.

Some already are stirring — or being stirred by political friends. A few candidacies may not reach full bloom until convention time next summer.

Florida officials think Sen. George A. Smathers (D - Fla.) may announce his formal acceptance of a draft as that state's "favorite son" at a lunch in Miami Friday.

In Asheville, N.C., Kentucky's ever-running presidential aspirant, Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, brightened the Southern Governors Conference with the word that he'll be in the Democratic presidential race next year.

Democratic governors, who outnumber Republican state leaders 35 to 15, dominate the list of probable or potential favorite sons.

They include California's Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, Ohio's Michael V. Disalle, Michigan's G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, and New Jersey's Robert B. Meyner.

Among Republican governors in this category are William G. Stratton of Illinois and Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia. New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, if he entered the GOP presidential race, would be far more than just a favorite son candidate.

The Senate's four ranking Democratic presidential possibilities are automatic favorite son candidates — if they never reach greater convention glory.

They are Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Stuart Symington of Missouri and Lynn

Oppez Maleos Plans Visit To Johnson Ranch

A UPI TEXAS EXTRA By LLOYD LARABEE United Press International

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico visits Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson's ranch Oct. 18-19, he will see a rolling, hill country estate steeped in the Johnson family for more than 100 years, is not a ranch by Texas standards, covering only about 300 acres.

As one of Johnson's aides put it, "it's a ranch by location rather than size."

But it provides ample grazing for almost 100 cattle, and presents a colorful panorama of pecan and giant oak trees — estimated at between 500 and 600 years old — and the Pedernales river which courses in front of Johnson's home.

The ranch is located about 60 miles west of Austin, the state capital. At Johnson City, 10 miles east of the ranch, remnants can still be seen of forts which were built by Johnson's grandfather, Sam Early Johnson.

As President Lopez Mateos enters the main gate to the ranch, he will pass under a cluster of large pecan trees. His car will carry him on a low water bridge over a 90-foot dam spanning the Pedernales River which forms a man-made lake in Johnson's front yard.

Water flowing over the dam into the low water bridges rises about halfway up to the hubcaps of cars driving over it.

On a hillside overlooking the river stands Johnson's home, an 18-room, two-story white frame and fieldstone house. The center part is built around an old ranch house which was home to Johnson's of 100 years ago.

From the front porch facing the river, it is only a few steps for Johnson, his wife Lady Bird, and two daughters, Lynda Bird and Lucy Baines, to a heated swimming pool.

A comfortable six-room guest house is located across a yard east of the main house.

East of the main house is the Johnson family grave plot, where his forebears for more than 100 years are buried — including his father, who served with Speaker Sam Rayburn when he was a member of the Texas Legislature some 50 years ago.

North of Johnson's home, which affords a view of almost the entire ranch — pasture grass grows and grazed for Johnson's whiteface Hereford and black Angus cattle.

Good Hunting
President Lopez Mateos' visit will furnish him with a picture of Texas' sprawling hill country, contrasting with the Pacific Ocean meeting he had with Johnson last year at the resort of Capulco.

And if he wishes, the Mexican president could hunt doves on Johnson's ranch.

He could also hunt deer and wild turkey on nearby ranches, but that would require another visit. The deer and turkey season opens in mid-November in Texas.

Graham Sees Anarchy In Crime Rise

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham predicted this week the nation will be in "a state of anarchy within a few years if America's crime rate continues to rise."

Graham described crime as "one of the most critical social problems facing our country."

"I feel it will be one of the crucial issues in the next presidential election," he said.

The comments came before Graham addressed an overflow crowd of more than 6,000 persons here Tuesday night at the city auditorium.

Graham took two days out from the first week of his four-week crusade at Indianapolis, Ind. To participate in the appointment of 16 new missionaries by the Southern Baptist Convention. He is a member of the church's foreign mission board.

Graham told the missionaries, as the huge crowd listened, that they must never "get far from the Cross."

"Keep it at the center of your message and your life," he said.

He then turned to the audience, which spilled over into a special seats in the basement and gathered around loud speakers in front of NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Cyprus will elect a president and a vice president for the new independent republic of Cyprus on Dec. 13. Elections for the House of Representatives and two communal chambers will be held later. Cyprus will become independent next Feb. 19.

Endorse Red Recognition

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (UPI) — The National Convention of Young Democratic Clubs will be asked to endorse de facto recognition of Red China, it was announced today. Leaders of the Wisconsin delegation said they will introduce the recognition plan at the convention in Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 19-21.

The Wisconsin Young Democrats said that by de facto recognition they meant acknowledging the existence, but not approving of the Chinese Communist government.

AIRLINER OF THE FUTURE—Tomorrow's airliner may look like this artist's conception—a shovel-nosed, delta-wing craft capable of Mach 3 speeds (three times the speed of sound). So predicts R. C. Sebald, vice president of Convairstar. The plane will fly at 60-80,000 feet and be capable of coast-to-coast flight in only an hour and a half. Passengers will have individual television receivers instead of windows, and a master electronic brain will constantly monitor all the plane's systems. When could it be flying? Sometime in the 1970s.

IN THE BAG
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police chased a suspected bookie establishment Tuesday and decided it was too heavily barricaded to pull off a raid before evidence could be destroyed.

So they telephoned the suspect, told him his place was about to be raided, and grabbed him as he ran out the door with a satchel full of betting notations.

Red Griggs ★ the pipeline

Babe Curfman and his assistant coaches, Bird Dog Trice and Dwayne Lyon, are finally getting some well-deserved recognition for the job they've done this year with the Harvesters.

Curfman and his coaching staff drew praise at Tuesday's meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce for their accomplishments this year. Then at Tuesday night's Quarterback Club meeting, school board member Warren Fatheree remarked that all of the members of the board are impressed with the job the coaching staff has done.

This feeling seems to be pretty general, since Pampa has won 2 of its games, lost to the state's number one (Wichita Falls) and number five (Tascosa) teams, and come within 12 seconds of beating Monterey.

The Harvesters' accomplishments have been remarkable so far, considering the fact that Pampa lost nine games last year, and that the Harvesters are no bigger and apparently no faster, than they were last year.

Curfman credits the improvement to the players themselves. "You can't work them hard enough," he says. "We have to practically run them off the field after practice. Their spirit is really terrific. They make the coach's job much easier."

Sandie Statistics Impressive

Pampa's improvement, under Curfman, is similar to Amarillo's improvement under its new coach, Bum Phillips. The Sandies were 2-8 last year, and are 4-0 this season. They haven't played opponents as tough as Pampa's, but their improvement is still remarkable.

The Sandies play Pampa Friday night in the big annual grudge battle between the two schools. They appear to be about equally matched, except that Amarillo is heavier, and perhaps a shade faster.

District statistics released by Putt Powell show the Sandies ahead of Pampa in almost every department, but the Sandies have played only one district game against Pampa's two. The Sandies' one game was against Plainview, picked for the cellar, while the Harvesters have played the favorite, Tascosa, and the number one dark horse, Monterey.

Pampa leads the Sandies in only one team department — and this

Haralson Fifth in Total Offense

Amarillo and Pampa both have about the same number of individual standouts, as far as the statistics are concerned.

The Sandies have the district's top individual passer, quarterback Currie Bechtel. He has completed 5 of 15 attempts for 65 yards. Bobby Stephens of Pampa ranks as the number eight passer, with two completions out of four tries, for 14 yards. Ronnie Smith of Pampa is 10th, with one completion in four attempts for 13 yards.

Minor on A&M Freshman Team

Basketball practice is underway for the Bob Rogers' Texas A&M cagers. Rogers, you may remember, came to Pampa as speaker at this year's basketball banquet, and managed to sign one of the state's top basketball players.

That player, of course, was all-state guard Charlie Minor. Charlie is now a top candidate for a guard post on Shelby Metcalf's Aggie freshman team.

Minor, a 5-11, is the shortest man on the "fish" squad. The tallest, at seven feet, is the highly publicized Lodie Qualls from Smiley of Houston.

The hard-luck West Texas Buffs, still looking for their first win of the season, play powerful Mississippi Southern Saturday night, in Canyon. Mississippi Southern was the team which beat the Texas Aggies a couple of weeks ago, in everything but the score.

To add to the Buffs' woes, regu-

Aparicio, Fox Are Unanimous Picks For UPI All-Star Team

NEW YORK (UPI) — Luis Aparicio and Nelson Fox, the Chicago White Sox' brilliant double play combination, were unanimous choices today on a United Press International 1959 American League All-Star team that does not include a single New York Yankee.

Two other members of the American League champions — pitcher Early Wynn and catcher Sherman Lollar — were named to the team which also included pitcher Cal McLish, outfielder Rocky Colavito and first-baseman Vic Power of the Cleveland Indians, outfielders Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn of the Detroit Tigers and third-baseman Frank Malzone of the Boston Red Sox.

Mickey Mantle, who received eight votes for an outfield position and Yogi Berra, who got two for catcher, were the only Yankees among the total of 28 players receiving at least one vote. The team was picked by a 24-man committee of baseball experts, three representing each city in the league.

The eight regulars had a composite .291 batting average and totaled 126 homers during the season. Wynn posted a 22-10 record and a 3.13 earned run average while McLish had a 19-8 slate and a 3.64 e.r.a.

Wynn, whose 271 victories make him the biggest winner among active major league pitchers, also was a unanimous choice of the committee. Lollar received 18 votes; and Power, Malzone, Kaline and Colavito had 16 each. McLish got 11 and Kuenn won the third official berth with 10.

RESTING COMFORTABLY

OXFORD (UPI) — Athletic Director John Brickels, 53, of Miami University was reported resting comfortably at McCullough-Hyde Memorial Hospital today after being taken ill with heart trouble.

RESERVE CENTER — Dickie Wills, a 135-lb. junior, is a reserve center on the Harvesters football team. Coach Babe Curfman describes him as one of the team's hardest workers.

Williams KOs Curly Lee

HOUSTON (UPI) — Hurcelean Cleveland Williams, elated over his 10th round knockout Wednesday night of Curly Lee, clamored today for another crack at Sonny Liston, who knocked him out the last time they fought.

Williams, who weighs 211 pounds and is built like a blacksmith, went a long way toward restoring his reputation before a national television audience with his impressive win over Lee.

It appeared that the 181-pound Los Angeles boxer would weather the fight despite being repeatedly staggered by Williams and floored twice in the fifth round.

Willie Shoemaker Named To Jockey Hall of Fame

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Willie Shoemaker, headed for an unprecedented fifth national riding championship this year with more than 300 winners, today was elected to the Jockeys Hall of Fame along with two riders of the past — Mack Garner and Carroll Shilling. Shoemaker, at 28, is the youngest jockey ever enrolled at the shrine, which is maintained at Pimlico by the Maryland Jockey Club. He received 436 votes in the nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters. The total was exceeded in past elections only by the 571 cast for Earle Sande and Eddie Arcaro's 443.

Junior Highs Clash Tonight

Pampa Junior High's Reapers clash with the Lee Junior High Rebels at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Harvesters Park.

This will be the second game between varsity football teams of the two schools. In last year's series-opening contest, the Rebels took a hard-fought victory, 28-14.

Enthusiasm for the game has been running high among the teams and student bodies of both schools. A fairly good crowd is expected. Some 500 turned out for last year's game.

The Rebels, who have more weight, experience, and manpower than their crosstown rivals, will be favored by at least two touchdowns.

Rebel coach Lester Ramsey can field a line-averaging anywhere from 170 to 190 pounds. Earl Peeler's Reaper starting line will average slightly less than 130 pounds.

Ramsey, who has a 45-man squad, plans to start his alternate team, which also started last week against White Deer B — and scored a touchdown on its first offensive series of downs.

The Rebels have three quarterbacks who can pass; many good receivers to whom they can pass; fair backfield speed; and a pretty fair defense — all in addition to their heavy line. The Rebs have a 3-2 mark for the year.

The Reapers, who haven't won a game since Lee Junior High's was opened in 1958, must depend heavily on the efforts of a few men. Only 19 men are out for the squad.

The two squads have had a pair of common foes — Houston of Borger and White Deer B. Lee lost to Houston of Borger, 12-0, and defeated White Deer B, 32-14. The Reapers lost to Houston of Borger, 28-6, and to White Deer B, 30-8.

Lee will start about the same lineup on defense as on offense. The only two boys who will play defense only are linebacker Gary Epperson and cornerback Trent Olsen. Although Lee's alternate unit will start, the regular "blue" unit will probably see as much action as the alternate team.

Other Rebels, besides the starting alternate unit, are halfbacks Dickie Hafley, Travis Tucker, and Dwight Chase; fullbacks Dale Mercer, Marvel Rake; ends Ollie Karbo, Danmie Hogatt, Bill Williams, Doug Ralston, Ralph Palmer, Shawn Hills, Roger Farrow, weeks.

Players on the Reaper team, besides the starters, are center Carl O'Neal, 165; guards Bryan Prigmore, 125, and Teddy Vance, 90; center Jerry Baten, 123; ends Gualtney, 125, and James Strickland, 104; halfback Steve Gualtney, 95; and tackle Eddie Barnes, 105. Vance is injured, and will not be able to play for two weeks.

Court Escapes Blow

Bill to curb the Supreme Court made little headway in Congress in 1959. It was a sharp contrast with the previous session of Congress, when far-reaching court-curbing measures failed by only a few votes.

A survey shows that Congress in 1959 completed action on only two bills reversing controversial Supreme Court decisions. One, a provision in the labor reform bill closed the "no man's land" gap created by the Court's 1957 Guss case decision by letting states take jurisdiction over minor labor disputes involving interstate business.

Threat In S. America

As a trouble making agency in this world, it is becoming apparent that the United Nations know little competition. This fact has been brought out many times by any number of Americans who keep themselves informed of various U.N. activities with perseverance and patience.

We believe Miss Widener to be correct in her analysis of the circular set out from Santiago. And we respectfully urge plant managers and others who may be involved with this questionnaire to refrain from furnishing any information to the U.N. or to ECLA whatsoever.

Experts and businessmen who have studied the questionnaire put out by ECLA have commented as follows: "If an enemy had the answers, he would have a fool-proof instruction sheet for sabotage and for pinpoint bombing of targets. The enemy would know the location of every switch, every pole, every conduit. He could knock out all communications in no time flat."

YOUR FREEDOM NEWSPAPER We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from the government. Freedom is not license. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, The Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Importance Of Knowing Cause Of Booms And Busts

It seems reasonable to believe that if free private enterprise cannot first understand and then correct the cause of booms and busts, the citizens will become so confused and so poverty stricken because of decreased production that they will want a dictator. We will be like the Israelis, as Samuel reports, asking for a king, but in our case it will be a dictator.

The communists are always twitting about unemployment in what is called free enterprise. It is not real free enterprise but intervention by the government into free enterprise which causes us to be plagued with unemployment. And this unemployment, of course, is due to a certain error practiced by the government.

Can Labor Leaders Be Reasonable I know of no one who explains this error better than Frederick Nymeyer in his magazine "First Principles In Morality And Economics, on which depend personal well-being and social health and harmony". In the August, 1959, issue he relates how unreasonable requests are made to union leaders that they be "reasonable". He puts it this way:

"Presently (August, 1959) there is a steel strike in the United States. Negotiators for the employers, and many people - some of whom speak for themselves and others who speak and write as if they were authorized spokesmen for the 'public' - call on the negotiators representing the United Steelworkers of America to be 'reasonable', that is, not to demand large wage increases and not to strike, all for the alleged reason that the union should not contribute further to the inflationary which has been continuing steadily in the United States."

"This request to be 'reasonable', addressed to the negotiators and the members of United Steelworkers of America does not appear, upon careful thought, to have real merit and it is hard to see why the Union and its leadership should heed it."

"Recently three men were riding back from lunch to an afternoon meeting. The sales vice president of a heavy machinery company which consumes annually thousands of tons of steel was sitting in the back seat, and he was talking about the strike. This is what, in effect, he said: 'I don't see how anybody can expect a favorable response from MacDonald (head of the United Steelworkers of America) to a plea that he be 'reasonable'. How long could any labor leader expect to survive who does not fight hard, using all means that the law allows, to get for his members everything that he can? Every union head who expects to keep his job must fight for all he can get, without paying any attention to general conversation about inflationism. If he does not follow the policy of getting what he can get, strike or no strike, he won't last long. Somebody else will get his job. When I imagine myself in MacDonald's position, I can't think of myself doing anything differently from what MacDonald is doing.'"

"These were approximately the words of a business man adversely affected by the strike, and what he does not say is that he is speaking and speaking, what he said appears to be sensible; if he gets down to it if it is good for them or their group, even though it hurts society generally. If the law permits men to do what is wrong, but one man resists the temptation to exercise the power which he has to do wrong, he won't last long. Somewhere in the law, complete, irrespective of whether it is 'reasonable', it has always been that way, and it will always be that way."

"MacDonald is a foolish man if he does anything less than the law allows. If there is something wrong, it may not be the 'reasonableness' of MacDonald but his Union. He may be the law of the land which says what unions may or may not do, or finally, it is poor enforcement of laws which MacDonald and the union might be breaking. The real trouble is not the lack of sweet reasonableness, but (1) the law of the land or (2) its enforcement. The citizens of this country should address themselves to that, and omit ridiculous preaching to MacDonald about reasonableness."

In the following issue I want to quote how Nymeyer explains that it is unreasonable to expect bankers to be reasonable, and Nymeyer lays our booms and busts to the laws that we have that give bankers special privileges, just as the laws we have that give labor unions immunity from being guilty of crimes that other people would not be immune from if they did the same acts."

The 'Single Entry' System

Ivan Spear tells a story of two men in the garment industry who met at a convention. "Life is tough" said that first dejectedly. "I've got a son, I sent him to Harvard and a trip around the world. I gave him a sports car and made him a partner. Now all he does is chase after the models."

"You think that is bad?" asked the second. "Consider me, I sent my son to Yale, gave him a trip and a car and made him a partner and all he does is chase after the models and I'm in men's wear!"

All these visits by Soviet big shots may be a fine thing. But I can't help remembering an old motto that used to circulate among burglars - "If you want to rob a house, first make friends with the watch dog."

Voter Hasn't Foggiest Notion Of Meaning Of New Dispute

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—This essay is to invite the attention of the taxpayers to a political dispute which they do not understand but which is important to them.

This political dispute is important to the taxpayers because it is about the spending of some of their money. The dispute is about what economists call the growth of the real national product of the United States.

More specifically, it relates to a comparison of the growth of the United States and Soviet Union, real national product. Nikita S. Khrushchev wrapped it up very well when he visited the United States. Khrushchev bragged his way from coast to coast and back again with the promise that the Communists would surpass the United States in production and waste to us as they went by.

A great political issue is building in the United States about that. It is argued that the Russians will, indeed, out-produce the United States unless something is done about it right now. Proposed, among other things to be done, is that the government spark a faster rate of real national production by some free-wheeling spending.

It also is argued, however, that the Russians are not, in fact, about to out-produce the United States now or soon and that no government spending need be undertaken to prevent such an embarrassing development.

All of this will be a big issue in the 1960 presidential election campaign and the voter-taxpayers will be asked to judge the issue.

Results Show Salk Vaccine Series Works

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Approximately 17 per cent of this year's paralytic polio victims had been fully vaccinated with Salk shots.

This figure may be disquieting to any who looked to the vaccine for sure-fire protection. But to the U. S. Public Health Service, it is corroboration that the vaccine is "highly effective."

When Salk shots were first approved for general use, the Public Health Service said the killed-virus vaccine would be from 60 to 90 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio. Now, after several years of experience, it says the vaccine is "more than 80 per cent effective."

Through September this year, there were 3,728 known cases of paralytic polio in the nation.

The communicable disease center of the Public Health Service, in Atlanta, was able to obtain information on the immunization status of 2,892 of the victims.

Of these, 416 had received three Salk shots and 74 had received four shots. Thus a total of 490 were fully vaccinated. That is about 17 per cent of the cases studied.

An additional 528 victims had been partially vaccinated with one or two Salk shots.

According to Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney, the significant thing about these figures is that the vast majority of the people who came down with paralytic polio had failed to get a full course.

Even if the vaccine is not 100 per cent effective, Burney points out, it is demonstrably a great deal safer to be vaccinated than to be unvaccinated.

About 50 million Americans in the polio-vulnerable age group under 40 have so far passed up the protection of the vaccine, which is now plentifully available.

Some medical authorities believe that live virus vaccine would give a higher percentage of protection than Salk shots. Several types of live virus vaccine have been developed by U. S. scientists and have seemed to yield good results in field tests in other countries.
