Spice up family meals with this easy-to-make stir-fry. This dish includes mushrooms, peppers, water chestnuts, snow peas and garlic and takes minutes to prepare.

Spice up family meals with this low-fat dish

Beef-Mushroom Stir-Fry
 3/4 pound beef top round steak
 1-3rd cup water
 3 tablespoons reduced sodium soy sauce
 2 teaspoons cornstarch
 1/2 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules
 1 tablespoon oil
 5 green onions with tops, sliced (1 cup)
 1 sweet red or green bell pepper, sliced
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1 1/2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
 One 8-ounce can water chestnuts, drained
 One 6-ounce package frozen snow peas, thawed
 1 tablespoon oil
 2 cups hot cooked rice
 Trim excess fat from meat; partially freeze meat. Cut meat diagonally across grain into thin strips. Combine 1-3rd cup water, soy sauce, cornstarch and bouillon granules; set aside.

 Heat 1 tablespoon oil in large skillet or wok. Add onions, pepper and garlic; stir fry for 1 1/2 to 2 minutes. Remove from skillet. Add mushrooms, water chestnuts and snow peas; stir-fry for 3 to 4 minutes. Remove vegetables.
 Add remaining 1 tablespoon oil to skillet. Add beef and stir-fry for 2 minutes. Add soy mixture to meat; cook until bubbly.
 Return vegetables to skillet; toss to coat. Cook, covered, 1 minute or until heated through. Serve over rice. Makes 4 servings.

Main dish recipes that are low in fat

My wok gets a workout at least once a week. A stir-fried main dish such as this one lets me cook dinner for my family using just 1 tablespoon of oil. I often start with top round steak — one of the beef cuts lowest in fat and calories — and stretch it with lots of vegetables.

To save preparation time, buy already sliced vegetables from the salad bar or produce counter of your supermarket, or slice vegetables the night before and store in a plastic bag in the refrigerator.

Steak-Vegetable Pockets

3/4 pound boneless beef top round steak
 Non-stick spray coating
 1 1/2 cups thinly sliced broccoli
 1 small carrot, thinly sliced
 1 small onion, sliced
 1/2 of a green pepper, cut into strips
 8 pea pods, halved crosswise
 6 fresh mushrooms, sliced
 1 small tomato, chopped
 1 tablespoon cooking oil
 1/4 cup cold water
 3 tablespoons soy sauce
 1 1/2 teaspoons cornstarch
 4 pita bread rounds, halved

Thinly slice beef into bite-size strips. Spray a wok or large skillet with non-stick spray coating. Heat wok or skillet over high heat. Add broccoli, carrot, onion and green pepper; stir-fry for 7 minutes. Add pea pods, mushrooms and tomato; stir-fry for 2 minutes. Remove vegetables.

Add oil to wok or skillet; heat over high heat. Stir-fry beef in hot oil for 3 minutes. Stir together cold water, soy sauce and cornstarch. Add to meat in wok or skillet. Cook and stir until bubbly. Return vegetables to wok; heat through. Spoon mixture into halved pita bread rounds. Makes 4 servings.

Their first whiff of the herb-and-tomato aroma will have your family waiting eagerly to taste this main dish — and they won't be disappointed. At 364 calories and 9.5 grams of fat per serving, it helps make healthful eating a New Year's reality, not just a resolution.

Turkey Ratatouille Pot Pie

1 medium onion, chopped (1/2 cup)

 2 cloves garlic, minced
 One 15-ounce can tomato sauce
 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
 1/2 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
 3 cups halved zucchini slices
 2 large tomatoes, chopped
 4 cups cubed cooked turkey or chicken
 Biscuit Topper (recipe follows)
 Water
 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

In a large saucepan cook onion and garlic in a small amount of water until tender; drain. Stir in tomato sauce, cornstarch, salt, pepper, basil, oregano and parsley flakes. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Add zucchini and tomatoes. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Stir in turkey. Turn into a greased 2-quart casserole; top with Biscuit Topper. Use a fork to mark the top into 6 wedges. Brush with water and sprinkle with cheese. Place on a baking sheet. Bake in a 450-degree F oven 15 to 20 minutes or until golden. Makes 6 servings.

BISCUIT TOPPER: In a medium mixing bowl stir together 1 1/2 cups packaged biscuit mix, 1-3rd cup milk and 1 ounce part-skim mozzarella cheese, cut into 1/4-inch cubes, until moistened. On a lightly floured surface, knead dough 8 times. Pat or roll into a circle the same diameter as a 2-quart casserole (about an 8-inch circle).

This chicken-vegetable chowder makes low-fat eating pure pleasure.

Chicken Chowder

2 whole medium chicken breasts, skinned and boned
 1 cup water
 1 medium onion, chopped
 1 medium carrot, shredded
 1 clove garlic, minced
 2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon granules
 1/8 teaspoon ground red pepper
 1 medium potato, peeled and cut up

One 12-ounce can (1 1/2 cups)

evaporated skim milk
 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 2 tablespoons snipped chives
 In a saucepan combine chicken, water, onion, carrot, garlic, bouillon granules and pepper. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Stir in potato; simmer, covered, about 15 minutes more or until chicken and potato are tender. Remove chicken. When cool enough to handle, cut chicken into bite-size pieces; return to saucepan. Mash potato slightly.

Combine milk and cornstarch; add to saucepan. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly; cook and stir 2 minutes more. Ladle into soup bowls; sprinkle with chives. Makes 4 servings.

Visitors admire PFAA Members Art Show

Visitors to the Pampa Fine Arts Association Members Art Show on Sunday at the Citizens Bank discuss the work on display. PFAA welcomed 199 guests to view 99 pieces of art from 35 artist members. Coming up for the third to fifth grade students is the PFAA sponsored Pottery Workshop scheduled for Saturday mornings in February. For more information contact Cynthia West at 669-2728.

Minister's words remind us we should do the right thing

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column ever since I was old enough to read a newspaper. My younger brother has just joined Amnesty International, the group that helps to free political prisoners around the world. When he told me he had joined, I told him about a wonderful piece I had read in your column several years ago. I don't recall who wrote it, but it came about as a result of Hitler's reign during World War II.

I'm not sure, but I think the last few lines went something like this: "And when they came for me, there was nobody left to speak out." It brings home the principle that each of us has an obligation to speak out to help others.

If you know the piece I'm referring to, please reprint it. It's well worth seeing again, and I'd like to send it to my brother.

ROBIN MAMMEN,
LONG BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR ROBIN: The wonderful piece you refer to was titled "I Didn't Speak Up." It was written by Martin Niemoeller, a German Lutheran pastor who was arrested by the Gestapo and sent to a concentration camp in Dachau in 1938. He was freed by the Allied forces in 1945. And here it is:

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

I DIDN'T SPEAK UP

"In Germany, the Nazis first came for the communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me, and by that time there was no one left to speak for me."

DEAR ABBY: May I add one little note to the subject of paying grandmothers who have been sitters for their grandchildren for many years? I have 15 grandchildren. While they were growing up, I was the official sitter, going from one family to the other — days and evenings, too. I never refused. I was never paid, nor would I have accepted anything had it been offered.

All these grandchildren are grown now. Some are married and others have full-time jobs.

Abby, out of the 15 I sat with, only three have ever called to invite me to dinner or ask if they can do something for me that I can't do for myself.

Why have the others forgotten me now that they don't need me anymore? All but two live within 20 minutes of me!

I would love to share a bowl of soup or chili or be taken out to eat sometimes — if only to some inexpensive fast-food place. I would just enjoy being with them.

Oh, well, I love them all anyway. MICHIGAN GRANDMOTHER
DEAR GRANDMOTHER: I'm printing your letter. The guilty ones know who they are — so to them I say, "If the shoe fits, put it on, go to the phone, call your grandmother and invite her to dinner."

Abby's favorite recipes are going like hotcakes! Send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Abby's Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage is included.

What's up Doc? - Bugs Bunny in operating room

By MICHAEL TIGHE

Associated Press Writer

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Patients in operating rooms around the world are asking, "What's up, Doc?"

From Vermont to Australia, doctors and nurses are tossing aside traditionally bland scrub uniforms and donning ones adorned with Bugs Bunny, Tweety and baby dinosaurs.

The designer is Dr. J. Christian Abajian, director of pediatric anesthesiology at the Medical Center Hospital of Vermont. Abajian and his wife, Margaret, run Huggable Scrubs Inc., which customizes the pajama-like hospital outfits.

Abajian, 46, said he developed the idea for patterned scrubs in 1986 as a way to ease the tension felt by hospitalized children, who often will not pay attention to hospital staff because they are scared.

"We did it just to make my job easier ... just to relate to children easier," said Abajian, clad in a dinosaur-dotted scrub in one of the hospital's operating rooms.

The first pattern, a jungle inhabited by tigers, giraffes and frogs, was sewn by his wife, and was an immediate success, he said.

"There just wasn't any doubt right from day one that it was a hit," he said. "There really never was any doubt in my mind that it would help me with a child. But I never anticipated the response I get from adults."

Abajian said one time a man waiting in the delivery room told him, "Before I saw you wearing that shirt I was about to lose it. I saw you and I just felt so much more relaxed."

Mrs. Abajian began sewing scrubs for her husband's colleagues.

Dr. Richard Hubbell — an ear, nose and throat surgeon clad in scrubs showing Bugs Bunny as a circus ringmaster — said the clothing helps him relate to his young patients.

"It helps to ease their mind through a very stressful situation," Hubbell said. "The children love them."

When the demand started increasing as the word spread, Abajian decided to launch Huggable Scrubs

(AP Laser Photo)

Dr. J. Christian Abajian, center, is surrounded by his colleagues wearing his Huggable Scrubs at the Medical Center Hospital of Vermont in Burlington. Abajian and his family have started Huggable Scrubs Inc., a company that makes hospital scrubs decorated with Bugs Bunny, dinosaurs, pandas and other animals.

Inc. The Abajians then began the direct-mail company from their northern Vermont home in Williston, with Mrs. Abajian doing the sewing.

After several unsuccessful ventures with investors and manufacturers, Huggable Scrubs Inc. is finally getting off the ground. The company now has a business manager, and is having its garments produced by the Hedma Corp. in nearby North Troy.

In 1988, the company had sales of about $20,000. That figure jumped to about $74,000 in 1989.

Huggable Scrubs needs to approach $150,000 in sales this year to stay in business, the Abajians said.

The company processes about 35 orders a week. Destinations include Australia, Belize, Canada, Colombia, France, and about 300 hospitals in the United States.

Perhaps the biggest break for the company has been their two-year licensing agreement with Warner Bros. for the use of Looney Tunes cartoon characters.

Michelle Greenberg, an account executive with LCA Entertainment, a subsidiary of Warner Bros., said the company views this project with more than just an eye on the bottom line.

"It doesn't really matter to us whether we make money on this," Greenberg said. "He's bringing happiness to a lot of people."

You might make an important change in the year ahead where your work or career is concerned. The rewards will testify to the wisdom of your move.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Persistence and tenaciousness are your keys to success today. Others with whom you'll be involved might fade in the stretch, but your luck will grow stronger as you near the tape. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your good humor and enthusiasm will spill over and inspire others today. Your attitude will make everything you undertake easier, even if testy people are involved.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could be luckier than usual today in situations that are meaningful to you where both your finances and reputation are concerned. You may experience gains from chance as well as your efforts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your influence over others is extremely strong today and you should be able to effectively sway or persuade small or large groups. Promote pet programs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Lady luck tends to favor you today in matters that are meaningful to you in material ways. Don't rock the boat, because others can do more for you than you can do for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to associate with your enterprising friends today and not those who are indifferent. Fortunate developments could ensue if you get involved with doers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be timid about establishing lofty goals for yourself where your ambitions are concerned today. You're capable of achieving your desire. Think big and expect big results.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take positive steps today towards making something for which you've been wishing a reality. Dreams can come into being if your approach is methodical and consistent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It looks like this might be a rather profitable day for you, but not necessarily from things you initiate. Your gains could come in areas where you have played a minor role.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your greatest gift today could be your talent for taking the ideas of companions or associates and turning them into something far superior to what they originally envisioned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Due to a lucky turn of events, you might find yourself in an enviable position today where you can serve as the middleman and gain in a substantial manner from two unrelated developments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll innately know how to make others feel important today, not through flattery or phony phrases, but through sincerity. You won't be doing this to feather your own nest, yet it will.

Bomb probe saddens Birmingham, but frightens Savannah

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer

MOUNTAIN BROOK, Ala. (AP) — The FBI's mail bombing investigation has brought lingering sadness for friends of a slain federal judge in Alabama and cold fear to black leaders in Savannah, Ga., who lost a city councilman.

Federal marshals still stand guard in the driveway of the home in this Birmingham suburb where U.S. Circuit Judge Robert Vance was killed by an exploding package Dec. 16.

But the concerns of the appellate judge's neighbors center on wanting the case to be resolved.

"There is a lot of dismay over all the latest publicity, which doesn't seem to be coming to any conclusion unless there's an indictment," said the Rev. John Claypool, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, which holds Vance's ashes.

In Savannah, where voters cast ballots today to select a replacement for slain councilman Robert Robinson, some black leaders are fearful when a parcel comes to the door or a stranger calls on the phone. Robinson, a black attorney who worked with the NAACP, was killed Dec. 18 when he opened a package that was sent to his law office.

The Rev. Henry R. Delaney said some blacks, especially ministers, are apprehensive about packages. A secretary at the Savannah office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People told a reporter who phoned that she could no longer release the names of NAACP officers.

"In light of what's been happening to our people, I'm not at liberty to give out the names of any people affiliated with our organization," said the secretary, who also declined to give her name.

An uneasy silence covered even today's election to fill the Robinson's seat. Eight candidates were running, but campaign signs were not visible in Robinson's district. A runoff election will be held Feb. 20 if no candidate gains a majority.

In southeastern Alabama, FBI agents investigating the mail bombings have scoured the property of junk dealer Robert Wayne O'Ferrell in Enterprise for the past week.

O'Ferrell, who denies wrongdoing and has not been charged, has said the FBI thinks he once owned a typewriter used in a letter claiming responsibility for the bombing.

FBI Special Agent Chuck Archer of Mobile, who is directing the investigation, said between 50 and 100 investigators remained in the area Monday. But he indicated no arrests were imminent and the investigation was continuing.

Charles Ashby, the neighbor to whom Vance's wife rushed after the explosion, said life is returning to normal in the exclusive Shook Hill neighborhood, where estate-size lots are sprinkled with tall pine trees.

Helen Vance said she has recovered from the injuries she suffered in the blast that killed her husband.

In a brief telephone interview Monday, she said she is "all healed up and the soreness is gone. And I'm back to normal."

Fear is more apparent in Robinson's City Council district of Savannah, a 75 percent black, largely poor section where many turn-of-the-century homes have not shared in the coastal city's zealous historic preservation.

Black leaders are wary of a letter claiming responsibility for the killings that threatened more killings of judges and NAACP officials.

Delaney, the pastor of St. Paul's Christian Methodist Church and a speaker at Robinson's funeral, recently received a threatening letter after he appeared on a Savannah television program. A black state representative, Roy Allen, also got a threatening letter.

"Those who are in positions of leadership are a little more cautious," he said. "Outspoken persons are taking a lower profile."

Bell lab announces development of light-based computer

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Researchers unveiled a prototype computer that uses light instead of electrical impulses to process data, and said it could be as revolutionary as the transistor that ushered in the computer age.

The computer processor that Bell Laboratories displayed Monday was crude, with enough power only to operate something like a dishwasher. Within a decade, however, it could lead to development of light-based supercomputers operating at least 100 times faster than current machines, said Alan Huang, head of Bell Labs' optical computer research department.

"This stage says it can be done," said Bob Trier, technical program director for Research Consortium Inc. of Minneapolis, which studies high-performance computing. "The next stage is to find out what can be done with this technology."

For years, researchers have been looking at photons, the fundamental particles of light, as replacements for electrons in electronic equipment. Such a shift promises computers vastly more agile and powerful than today's machines.

The prototype data processor is the first to transmit information with light rather than electricity, the movement of electrons. The technique could allow a much greater flow of data.

"Your only limit when it comes to those things is the speed of light," said Jim Hammons, an analyst at The Sierra Group computer consulting firm in Tempe, Ariz.

Unlike current computer chips, information would pass not just from a chip's edges but also from its surface. Bell Labs physicist David Miller likened the development to a Manhattan island in New York City where cars suddenly weren't limited to bridges and tunnels at rush hour, but could leave through the air.

By the end of the decade, super-computers could be using more light, or "photonic," components rather than electronic, and may run at least 100 times faster than today's generation, Huang said.

The prototype — a variety of lasers, lenses and prisms and contained in a 2-foot-square box — differs from a true computer in that the program that runs the optical processor is built into its hardware rather than being contained in software, said Bell Labs spokeswoman Marj McKean. It also has limited memory, she said.
