Gramm to visit White Deer firm Sunday

WHITE DEER - U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm is to visit Scarab Manufacturing in White Deer Sunday to see one of the nation's most prominent manufacturers of composting equipment.

Marvin Urbanczyk, owner of Scarab, which exports composters all over the globe and has machines in 25 states in the U.S., said Gramm will "help send off machines being prepared for shipment to Singapore and Australia."

The senator's visit is scheduled to last from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

"Scarab competes in a global marketplace," said Urbanczyk, whose company employs 15 people and is expected to double in size within a year.

"We are excited that the senator has accepted our invitation and look forward to discussing the opportunities in exporting he predicts will occur with the changes under way in Eastern Europe and the further tightening of regulations affecting waste disposal," Urbanczyk said.

He added, "Both of these issues could have a positive effect in our efforts to bring more dollars back into the U.S."

Composting is a major trend in worldwide landfill operations because it turns trash, sludge or animal waste that would have been buried into rich fertilizer or loam.

Composting can effectively reduce the amount of trash buried in a landfill by 80 percent, said Pampa City Manager Glen Hacker. The city is currently considering its options where composting are concerned.

Jury acquits mother, son in child molestation case

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The former operators of a preschool wept when jurors acquitted them of 52 child molestation charges, but outraged parents of children who attended the school expressed fears for youngsters nationwide.

Jurors in the nation's longest and costliest criminal trial Thursday deadlocked on 12 other sex abuse counts against Raymond Buckley and a single conspiracy count against him and his 63-year-old mother, Peggy McMartin Buckley.

Superior Court Judge William Pounders declared a mistrial on the 12 counts and dismissed the deadlocked conspiracy charge against Mrs. Buckley. He set a Jan. 31 hearing to determine whether the 13 unresolved counts will be dismissed against Buckley.

Buckley, 31, who spent nearly five years in jail before making bail, and his mother, who was jailed for almost two years, cried as they heard the verdicts.

"If it can happen to seven innocent people it can happen to you, too. If it had not been in my faith in God, I wouldn't be here today," Mrs. Buckley said.

Buckley avoided reporters after the verdict. Initially, five other teachers, including Mrs. Buckley's mother and daughter, were charged.

The trial cost about $15 million and lasted nearly three years.

Mrs. Buckley planned today to file a lawsuit in federal court, contending her civil rights were violated, according to attorney James H. Davis.

But some parents whose children attended the once prestigious, but now defunct, McMartin Pre-School gaped when the verdicts were announced.

"The anger is beginning to rise," said Mary Mae Cioffi. "We have programs all over the country that tell children to run and tell when somebody hurts them, and our children told. Some of them spent 35 days on the stand and they get a 'not guilty.' It shows that our justice system needs a revamp for kids."

Although they did not testify, she added: "I know my children were molested. I had my daughter sleep between my husband and I for a whole year because she was so afraid somebody would come and get her, that they would kill her, because she told."

The investigation of alleged mass molestation at the family-run school in suburban Manhattan Beach ignited a nationwide wave of worry about child abuse when it came to light in 1983. It produced widespread fear among working parents that their children might be at risk at school.

Jurors who cleared the pair Thursday said the children may have been molested. But they said prosecutors in the trial failed to link sexual abuse to the defendants.

"I tried to believe the children," said juror Daryl Hutchins.

But he said the youngsters had been so "contaminated" by parents' suggestions and therapists who interviewed them that he could not accept their testimony.

Some fuses blown. Lefors lost power from a broken pole," said Jim Morris of Southwestern Public Service Co. "We've got 391 customers down there."

He said most of the poles damaged by ice were on FM 2300 and south of Pampa off Hwy. 70.

"Over in Roberts County we had a pole down by the substation. The area by the country club was off for a while because of a broken arm. Highway 60 east of town was off for a little while because of a fuse blown," he added.

Between 500 and 600 people were affected by the outages, Morris said.

He added that three line crews and four service men were scrambling from call to call to restore power.

"Everything except north of town is going," Morris said. "They are picking that up now."

Strong thunderstorms exploded across much of West and North Texas early today, caused by an upper level disturbance combined with a frontal boundary.

The front stretched from northeast Texas north of Longview to north of Waco to the Big Bend. A strong flow of moisture from the Gulf fueled the thunderstorms.

Here in the Panhandle a winter storm dumped more than eight inches of snow on the area. The snow turned to sleet, freezing drizzle and thunderstorms late in the evening.

Blizzard-like conditions were reported in northern portions of the Panhandle with snow drifts of three to four feet reported in some areas.

Texas Highway Department officials reported early today that two highways were closed because of blizzard conditions. U.S. 287 was closed north of Dumas and U.S. 87 was closed northwest of Dalhart.

Subscription offer set for Sunday

Come into the Pampa News office this Sunday between the hours of 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. to purchase your Sunday paper, and for $10 we will deliver The Pampa News to your home for 13 weeks.

Your new subscription will start with the Sunday edition Jan. 21, 1990. This way you have already saved $5.56 on 13 weeks of home delivery.

The offer expires at 10:01 a.m. Jan. 21, 1990, according to Circulation Manager Lewis James.

An advertisement on the subscription offer that ran in Thursday's paper incorrectly listed the offer period as running from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday, but Lewis stressed the time for the offer is only from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Jeff Jacoby with Maxey and Associates Inc., standing at far right, shows a proposed drawing for a new jail at a special meeting of the Gray County Commissioners' Court on Thursday.

Commissioners view new jail drawing

By BETH MILLER
Staff Writer

Gray County Commissioners' Court was presented with a proposed drawing of the new county jail during a special meeting Thursday with the architects of the jail.

Jeff Jacoby and Patricia Maxey of Maxey and Associates Inc. of Austin were present at the meeting to explain the drawing and continue to get input from the group on what it wants in the facility, to be built at Russell and Francis streets on county-owned property.

The Commissioners' Court also unanimously voted Thursday to sign the contract with the architectural firm. County Judge Carl Kennedy said each change requested by the Commissioners' Court in the contract was changed to reflect the county's desires.

The drawing presented was for a 72-bed facility, expandable to 96 beds with most of the jail operation related activities on the second floor.

Jacoby said, when asked by Pampa resident W.A. Morgan, that it would take an estimated $250,000 to add another 24 beds to the facility.

Morgan and former State Rep. Foster Whaley urged the group at a prior meeting this month to build at least a 96-bed facility.

"We're here looking for direction," Jacoby told the Commissioners' Court.

Commissioners' Court members were presented with copies of the drawing to study and consider what they would like changed. The Commissioners' Court is scheduled to continue discussing the jail issue at its next meeting on Feb. 1.

WTSU-A&M merger backers say opposition won't stop action

AMARILLO (AP) — Backers of a West Texas State University merger into the Texas A&M system say a report opposing the move won't stand in the way of its approval.

The state Higher Education Coordinating Board staff has issued a report urging the full board not to consolidate West Texas State with the Texas A&M system.

But state Rep. John Smithee, R-Amarillo, said he thinks approval of the merger is likely. "I believe we've got the votes" on the coordinating board, he said Thursday.

Smithee and other proponents of the merger said they plan to attend the coordinating board meeting next Thursday and Friday in Austin to show their support. They say West Texas State would gain prestige and more research dollars as part of the A&M system.

A committee studying the merger proposal will make its recommendations Thursday, and the coordinating board is scheduled to vote on the matter Friday.

Last Tuesday, the coordinating board's staff submitted a report, written by Texas Higher Education Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth, that said a merger should not be approved because it would result in program duplications with Texas Tech.

The report concluded that West Texas State should consider aligning with Texas Tech, a 23,000-student university based in Lubbock, 100 miles south. West Texas State, with 6,000 students, is in Canyon, just south of Amarillo.

Members of the Texas Panhandle legislative delegation, who had won the support of the Legislature and the regents of West Texas State and the A&M system, expressed dismay over the staff report.

"They went way beyond their duties," said state Rep. Dick Waterfield, R-Canadian. "They weren't supposed to make recommendations."

Waterfield said he believes Texas Tech might have influenced the staff report. Smithee agreed.

"I think Texas Tech began to see this as somewhat of a threat," said Smithee, a graduate of Texas Tech's law school. "This is not designed to be a threat to Texas Tech."

Ashworth said he was not pressured or influenced by Texas Tech, which has not expressed interest in linking with West Texas State. Some Texas Tech officials have expressed unease at the merger idea.

"If you took only the advantages to West Texas State University into account, you'd probably recommend approval" of the merger, Ashworth said.

But he added that he and the coordinating board staff concluded that a consolidation would harm the state's educational system, so they condemned the idea.

Specifically, they wrote that the University of Texas and A&M systems need to concentrate on improving South Texas universities that recently were incorporated into the two systems before entering into any other mergers. And they wrote that the Legislature should consider whether it would be in the state's best interest to concentrate campuses into two ever-growing systems.

Coordinating board member Ben Latham of Amarillo said he thought it unusual for the board's staff to make a recommendation on a proposal before the committee appointed to study the issue had made a recommendation.

T. Boone Pickens, chairman of the West Texas State board of regents and a leading backer of the merger proposal, released a statement pointing out that the staff report "is simply a recommendation by his staff to the coordinating board members."

Smithee said the staff report is a setback, "but I don't think it's a fatal blow. I'm confident that when the board meets next week, they'll consider the facts of the situation and approve the merger."

Terri Hawthorne recovers in a Galveston hospital after her arm was cut off in an accident and then restored by surgeons.

Rodeo champ recovering from accident

GALVESTON (AP) — Last month Terri Hawthorne was driving a friend to work in a heavy fog when she fell asleep at the wheel. When she woke up, her car had plowed into a huge piece of road equipment and her left arm was almost sheared off.

But doctors saved the arm in a nine-hour operation, and now the 20-year-old state rodeo champion is thinking about getting back to training horses.

"It was foggy and misty," Ms. Hawthorne recalled of the early morning Dec. 30 accident. "I just dozed off. I don't know how I managed to do that."

Her new red Ford pickup truck struck a 19-ton piece of road machinery parked near a cemetery. A tiny strip of tissue was all that attached her arm to her body.

Her friend, John Harrington, 21, was not hurt.

Hawthorne, who holds the 1986 state championship rodeo title for pole-bending, said she barely remembers the damage done to her arm or the emergency measures that saved it.

Dr. Richard LeConey, the attending physician at Baptist Hospital of Southeast Texas, knew there was a slight chance the arm could be saved if she were sent to the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

But fog grounded the UTMB Life Flight helicopter and a two-hour ambulance trip from Beaumont to Galveston during which Hawthorne drifted in and out of consciousness delayed the intricate surgery.

Hawthorne arrived at John Sealy Hospital with her arm wrapped in ice-cold towels in a container next to her. It took a team of 10 doctors working nine hours to finish the reattachment surgery.

"When you are working with microscopes involved, it can get fairly tedious," said Dr. Martin C. Robson, head of UTMB's plastic surgery and chief of the "replantation" team.

Robson said Hawthorne was lucky because her arm was cleanly severed.

"Whenever the arm has been cleanly cut off, the state of the art is to try to put it back on," Robson said. "She had a very favorable injury, if this can be called favorable."

Hawthorne, an avid horsewoman, is in the High School Rodeo Hall of Fame in Seguin. She rode in the 1986 high school national championships in South Dakota. And she holds the state championship for that year in pole-bending, a race against time in which the rider and horse maneuver twice through six poles set in a straight line.

Now she is hoping to return to her job as a racehorse trainer near Delta Downs in Vinton, La.

For now, thoughts of recovering in time for the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo next month keep her spirits up.

Five more counties added to disaster aid list

HARLINGEN (AP) — The Federal Management Agency has expanded the recognized December disaster area to include five more counties where winter vegetables were destroyed by bitter cold.

The expanded area includes the counties of Kinney, Maverick, Dimmit, Uvalde, and Zavala, raising to nine the number of counties in which farm workers, businesses, homeowners and tenants will be receiving assistance under federal and state programs.

Gov. Bill Clements says he urged the federal agency to designate the additional counties as disaster areas, which clears the way for low-interest loans and federal unemployment assistance.

President Bush last week designated Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr and Willacy counties as disaster areas. "The Winter Garden area of our state has been ravaged by the December freeze," Clements said in a statement. "And that means growers, farm workers, and many others have been dealt a serious setback. I hope this aid will accelerate their recovery from this weather disaster."

Graham Nance, Federal Management Agency Coordinating Officer, urged those suffering losses not fully covered by insurance to apply for aid.

"Farm workers, farmers, ranch owners, businesses and other individuals in these additional counties are eligible to apply for the same benefits that have been offered to the counties first named," he said in a statement.

State coordinating officer Ed Laundry urged people who lost their jobs as a result of the freeze to apply for aid.

Those who were covered fully by unemployment insurance under state laws will receive aid from that source. However, others who lost their jobs because of the freeze, and who are not fully covered by unemployment compensation, may be qualified for disaster unemployment assistance.

Those suffering freeze damage to property may apply to the Small Business Association for loans for the amount of uninsured losses up to $100,000 for homes and up to $20,000 for furnishings and personal property, Nance said.

A toll-free number, 1-800-527-7735, may be called Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. for information on the aid available.

Small businesses that normally are able to meet bills and pay operating expenses — but which are unable to do so because of the effect of the freeze — may also apply to the SBA for loans.

Nance said farmers and ranch owners in the nine declared counties, plus the contiguous counties of Val Verde, Edwards, Webb, LaSalle, Frio, Medina, Real and Bandera, are eligible to apply for emergency loans through the local Farmers Home Administration.

DHS to form ethics panel

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Department of Human Services, which has been wracked by allegations of conflicts of interest, plans to establish a special panel to review instances of questionable conduct.

Rob Mosbacher Jr., chairman of the Texas Board of Human Services, said the panel would be called on to clear up "gray areas on what is appropriate and inappropriate when it comes to contracts."

As proposed by DHS Commissioner Ron Lindsey, the advisory group would review instances of questionable conduct, policy changes and other matters, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

Lindsey or the board would make final decisions on the panel's recommendations, Mosbacher said.

Legislators last year criticized DHS contracting procedures. A chief target was former Board Chairman J. Livingston Kosberg, who owned stock in a computer company that solicited DHS business while he was on the board.

As a result, the state budget bill included a requirement that DHS report to the Legislature possible contractual conflicts of interest. DHS officials went a step further, requiring all firms doing business with the agency to disclose any ties to current and former DHS employees, board members and relatives of DHS employees.

In September, the American-Statesman reported that 38 current and former DHS officials and employees had links with companies and non-profit agencies that hold DHS contracts. Mosbacher had been one of those, as a board member of the Houston chapter of the American Red Cross. He subsequently has resigned.

Lindsey has recommended the panel include two DHS board members, one or more legislators, a county prosecutor, a business executive, a public representative, local election officials, a teacher or educator and a news reporter. Members would be appointed by Mosbacher.

Prosecutors hope to consolidate remaining 13 cases in gang rape

SAN DIEGO, Texas (AP) — Duval County prosecutors hope to consolidate the remaining 13 cases stemming from a March 17, 1988, gang rape at a cockfight near San Diego, but defense attorneys for the 10 defendants are expected to fight the move.

District Attorney Heriberto Silva said he will ask 229th State District Court Judge Ricardo Garcia to consolidate all remaining gang rape cases into two trials when the judge calls his docket Feb. 5.

Silva said he will ask that all aggravated kidnapping cases be tried in Jim Hogg County, and that all sexual assault cases be tried in Zapata County, the Corpus Christi Caller-Times reported Friday.

Silva said the consolidation would minimize the costs of bringing the cases to trial.

But five of the 10 defense attorneys in the cases say prosecutors have not approached them about consolidating cases.

And two attorneys who have succeeded in getting their clients' trials moved to Hidalgo County say they have no intention of accommodating prosecutors.

"I haven't conceded to any consolidation of cases," said Homero Canales, an Alice attorney representing Roberto Perez, 27.

Perez, who in February 1989 was convicted of sexual assault in connection with the incident and given five years' probation on a two-year suspended sentence, faces two additional charges of aggravated kidnapping.

Ten San Diego men were indicted April 21, 1988, on charges including sexual assault and aggravated kidnapping. All 10 defendants have cases pending.

The indictments stem from the gang rape of a 19-year-old San Diego woman during a cockfight at a ranch northwest of town.

Carlos Morin, attorney for Roel Torres, said he would prefer to keep his client's trial in Hidalgo County.

Morin cited extended media coverage after the gang rape. Most of the defense attorneys have charged that their clients cannot get a fair trial in Duval County.

Juries there sentenced the first two defendants tried in the case, Orlando Garza and Felipe Chew, to 20 years and 30 years in prison, respectively. Garza, 25, was convicted of sexual assault on Oct. 17, 1988, and Chew, 30, was found guilty of aggravated kidnapping on Jan. 28, 1989.

A state appellate court on Wednesday upheld the October 1988 sexual assault conviction of Garza.

David Almaraz, Garza's attorney, based his appeal on prosecutors' references to Garza as an "animal" and a "dog" during the trial and the judge's decision to keep jurors deliberating far into the night during the punishment phase.

Since last February, however, when a Hidalgo County jury gave Perez a suspended sentence, defense attorneys have pointed to the dramatic difference in punishments meted out by juries in the two counties.

Silva said he wasn't concerned that some defense attorneys would try to keep their clients' cases in Hidalgo County.

"That's all right," he said.

"Judge Garcia is the one who makes that decision."

Meanwhile, Jesus Maria Alvarez, attorney for Jose Carlos Briones, 30, said his client accepted a plea bargain in return for his testimony as a state's witness.

Briones' case will be resolved after all the others have been decided, Alvarez said.

Silva said defense attorneys have agreed to consolidate three cases.

Three defendants — Roberto Perez, Roberto Andres Garcia, 22, and Alejandro Bear, 23 — are scheduled for one 14-count aggravated kidnapping trial in Zapata County, according to the district clerk's office there.

Of the remaining cases, the aggravated kidnapping cases of Orlando Garza and Isidro Solis, 28, and the sexual assault trial of Corando Perez Jr., 27, are assigned to Jim Hogg County, according to defense attorneys and the Duval County district clerk's office.

None of the other remaining trials have dates set. Prosecutors have said the delays in the cases, which have stretched out almost two years, were caused by problems in obtaining court-appointed attorneys, the docket load and high legal costs.

Silva said his primary reason for seeking consolidation is to avoid high court costs, court-appointed attorneys' fees and witness costs.

"It's just a problem getting all the witnesses together," he said.

Duval County Judge Frank Garcia said the three trials already concluded, all occurring in the previous fiscal year, cost the county about $62,000, including court costs and attorneys' fees.

Mattox wants federal government to crack down on inhalant abuse

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said the federal government needs to clamp down on the sellers of liquid incense products with the same zeal it chases foreign drug lords.

So-called "poppers" are advertised as liquid incense or room odorizers and are sold in "head shops" and adult bookstores under the names such as Blast, Bullet, Rush and Texas Gold, Mattox said.

Flanked by reformed inhalant abusers, he said, the liquid incense products are often abused by young people to get a strong, quick high.

"It is a product that we in Texas are telling them to take off the market or we are going to take it off for them," Mattox said.

Senior officer Robert Martinez, the most highly decorated member of the Austin Police Department, said, "These chemicals in these products are killing our teen-agers, just like crack and speed."

"Stuff like this can make a teenager a criminal overnight. They make you a madman," Martinez said.

Alfredo Diaz, 15, an acknowledged gang member, said he abused these products and had to be hospitalized "because my heart was going too fast. I got lucky. I didn't die," he said.

Mattox criticized the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for allowing the sale of these products.

"The federal government has refused to take action on this, so once again Texas will have to lead the way," he said.

He said manufacturers have been able to skirt federal law by labeling such products as legitimate household items and chemically altering the liquid to not fit the chemical composition of banned drugs.

The "poppers" can cause acute toxicity and a wide assortment of skin and respiratory problems. He also said there is evidence that the products reduce the body's ability to fight diseases and infections.

Mattox said he received a court order to stop N.W. Enterprises, Inc. of Houston, doing business as Big City News, Gas Light News and Stadium News.

The injunction prohibits the defendant from selling products that contain derivatives of alkyl nitrites, ethyl chloride, ethylene chloride and any product purported to be an aphrodisiac, Mattox said.

Mattox said he has given a Hollywood, Calif., manufacturer 30 days notice to stop selling its product in Texas or he would sue them under state drug and consumer protection laws.

He also called on merchants to take extra precautions when selling spray paint or typewriter correctional fluids, such as Wite Out.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Opinion

Airline deregulation brings many benefits

One of the last decade's unfulfilled promises is the complete deregulation of air travel. Beginning in 1978, the government decontrolled airlines and air fares. But two-thirds of the industry — airports and the air-traffic control system — remain controlled.

In essence, we have an airline passenger industry one-third capitalist, but two-thirds run on a socialist economic model that would have been admired by the late Nicolae Ceausescu. Even so, this partial deregulation brought tremendous improvement over the past decade. A spoonful of freemarket medicine cures a host of maladies.

From 1978 to 1987, the number of passengers nearly doubled, from 275 million to 450 million. A study by economists Clifford Winston and Steven Morrison of the Brookings Institution found that air fares were about 29 percent lower than if the system had remained regulated, saving travelers $11 billion a year.

Common sense confirms this. We now have $99 coast-to-coast fares, something unheard of in the 1970s.

What about safety? According to the Office of Aviation Safety of the Federal Aviation Administration, between 1971 and 1978 the fatality rate was 4.09 passengers for every 100,000 flight hours. But during 1979-1986, after deregulation, the rate was only 2.08 — a drop of 49.1 percent.

Who most benefits from deregulation? Gregg Easterbrook, a contributing editor of Newsweek and The Atlantic, wrote in The New Republic. "People of all social classes, not just big shots, have begun to fly instead of wasting days in cars, buses and trains."

A Knight-Ridder article recently noted some anomalies and difficulties. On a flight from Philadelphia to San Francisco, fares paid varied from $124 to $586. But in similar way, identical Batman videotapes sell for below $14 up to $25, depending on the store.

Market prices always vary, even for the same item. Cheap plane seats usually are bought a month or more ahead of time, giving the airline time to plan; expensive tickets usually are bought just before the plane departs, because the plane has already been booked and seats are scarce.

Planes and airports are crowded. But that problem stems from the still-socialist two-thirds of the system. New airports are being held up by political infighting. And the government refuses to auction off airport slots, thereby encouraging the airlines to schedule all their most popular flights at the same time. A deregulated, privatized system would allow airlines to bid for slots, and would spread flights out across the day.

The government still controls the air-traffic control system, which allots new, high-tech radar and other equipment to airports in districts controlled by powerful politicians, not to airports that need it. Again, a deregulated, privatized system would mean a system that meets the needs of passenger-consumers, not politicians.

The only problem with deregulation is that we haven't had enough of it.

It's time to roll back the tax

Congress reconvenes at noon on Jan. 23. Before the sun goes down, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan will introduce a bill that ought to be passed the next day. The New York Democrat proposes to cancel the increase in Social Security taxes that just went into effect.

The bill won't be passed the next day, of course, because the Bush administration will fight furiously to keep the higher revenues rolling in. Every extra dollar that is paid in Social Security taxes contributes to the charade that is known as "deficit reduction." It takes a bad tax to make the budget look good — or at least better.

Moynihan's proposal is nothing new. The conservative Heritage Foundation has been urging a rollback for the past three years. On this issue, liberal and conservative views coincide. The so-called "trust funds" of the Social Security system are accumulating a surplus at the rate of roughly $1 billion dollars a week. Moynihan calls it folly.

The gentleman's reasoning is sound. The Social Security tax, officially known as FICA, never was intended to be a source of general revenue for the government. It was intended to pay for benefits on something close to pay-as-you-go. That was how the system operated for many years: Taxes came in; benefits went out.

Then Congress had a nifty idea. When the baby boom children of the 1950s begin to retire in the 2020s, outlays will soar. Why not build up a surplus now, to meet expenses then? The excess would be socked away in the system's trust funds and everything would be rosy. Thus Congress decreed successive increases in FICA, and this was called "prudence."

A better word is "humbug." The fictitious trust funds exist only on paper. As Moynihan says, payroll taxes have become "a continuing, permanent source of revenues for the general purposes of government."

These taxes also become a continuing, permanent burden on both employees and employers. The FICA tax rate in 1989 was 7.51 percent. It has just moved to 7.65, for both employers and employees, payable on the first $50,400 in wages or salaries. That is combined rate of 15.3 percent. On that basis, three out of four American workers now pay more in Social Security taxes than they pay in income taxes.

Moynihan's bill would leave the cap at $50,400, but would roll the rate back to 7.51. This would save the taxpayers (and cost the government) an estimated $7 billion in 1990, and as much as $55 billion in 1991. We are talking big bucks.

That is what worries the administration in its effort to cook the books for the coming fiscal year. Through the various devices of "creative accounting," revenues that are down can be made to look up, and expenses that are up can be made to look down. The documents that come from the office of Management and Budget are not pure sham, but they are mostly shame.

If we had honest accounting under a unified budget — heaven forbid! — the federal deficit in the current fiscal year would be double the figures you will read about.

Look ahead. The Congressional Budget Office projects a deficit in the government's operating budget in 2000 of $268 billion. In that same year, as Moynihan points out, the Social Security surplus would amount to $236 billion. Unless scheduled increases in FICA are rolled back, we would be financing the deficit almost entirely through the payroll tax.

This won't do. The higher the tax rate, the more it affects workers on the margin. As we heard during the debate over an increase in the minimum wage, a difference of 25 or 50 cents an hour may not appear large, but it is enough to influence a decision to hire or not to hire.

The same economic law applies to FICA. At the margin, the tax discourages employment. It also raises the general cost of labor and thus affects U.S. competitiveness in international markets.

The one man who probably knows most about Social Security financing is Robert J. Myers. He had a role in creating the system more than half a century ago, and he served as the system's chief actuary for 23 years. In 1988 he testified before a Senate subcommittee that benefits should be financed "on close to a current cost basis." Ideally, the payroll tax should be fixed at a rate only slightly above outgo.

Ideally, of course, we would move toward a system in which young workers just entering the labor force would have the option of a private retirement system, but that is another story. Meanwhile, the Moynihan rollback is the next best thing.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Jan. 19th, the 19th day of 1990. There are 346 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Jan. 19, 1807, Robert E. Lee, the commander-in-chief of the Confederate armies, was born in Stratford, Va.

On this date:

In 1736, James Watt, the inventor of the steam engine, was born in Scotland.

In 1809, author Edgar Allan Poe was born in Boston.

In 1825, Ezra Daggett and his nephew, Thomas Kensett, obtained a patent for their process of storing food in tin cans.

In 1861, Georgia seceded from the Union.

In 1937, millionaire Howard Hughes set a transcontinental air record by flying his monoplane from Los Angeles to Newark, N.J., in seven hours, 28 minutes and 25 seconds.

In 1955, a presidential news conference was filmed for television for the first time, with the permission of President Eisenhower.

Northern lights down south

Flying someplace almost every week, I've often been awed while flying over Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana by dancing fire in the northern sky.

The Aurora Borealis — the "Northern Lights" — a fountain as wide as the northern horizon of red and green and white and purple lights.

I saw them again the other night — but this time I was flying between speaking engagements in Orlando and St. Louis!

Whoa there. What are my Northern Lights doing down South?

Lowell Ponte, science editor for the Reader's Digest, confirms that we are now seeing Northern Lights from the land of palm trees and cypress and cactus.

He explains that an "invisible wind" is always blowing from our sun — a wind of charged particles called the solar wind can hit our Earth with hurricane force.

You are aware of the degree to which they disrupt communication. But Ponte says most of us are less aware of how these cosmic forces affect our bodies, our minds and our health.

Paul Harvey

One gigantic solar flare recently caused gasses high in our atmosphere to light the sky from Southern California to the Florida Keys.

Last March there was a geomagnetic storm that squeezed the Earth's magnetic field to half its usual size.

Homing pigeons got lost. Electric power surges caused citywide blackouts. Radio communications went crazy.

And, Ponte says, "Some people go crazy, too." Measurably, admissions to psychiatric hospitals increased.

We used to think that "lunatics" were influenced by lunar forces. Scientists are now convinced that solar forces are the unsettling factor.

Northern Lights routinely travel farther south than most North Americans have realized. This is because the Aurora lights up — not around the North Pole — but around the Earth's geomagnetic pole, which is on Canada's Bathurst Island, 900 miles south of the North Pole.

Thus, on an average 11 nights each year, the phenomenon is visible in Denver and Washington, D.C. Five or six nights each year you can see it from San Francisco and Atlanta. One or two nights a year you can see it from Houston, Miami, Los Angeles.

But this winter — and for the next two years — with solar activity at its 11-year peak, Northern Lights will be seen farther south more frequently.

The visible footprint of invisible cosmic forces is recognized by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in computing long-range weather forecasts.

This winter, unless this sign fails, it will be warmer in Southwestern states; cooler in the Northeast.

Teaching the East bloc how to be free

By WILLIAM A. RUSHER

In recent months, every one of the six Soviet satellite nations of Eastern Europe — Poland, Hungary, East Germany, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Romania — has cast off its communist totalitarian leadership and set a course for free-market economics and multiparty democracy.

But the new leaders of these countries are woefully inexperienced in both directions, and there is a real danger that their dramatic initiatives will end in disappointment, or even disaster. It should come as no surprise, therefore, that they are receiving — and welcoming — advice from the West on how best to reorganize their economies and set their feet on the road to democracy.

Predictably, some of the earliest Westerners to reach out to the new East European leaders were representatives of socialist parties. But conservatives will be heartened to learn that a number of alert conservative organizations have fielded teams of highly competent spokesmen, who have visited Eastern Europe in recent months, urged the new leaders to avoid socialist half-measures and begun training them in the intricate business of winning free elections.

According to London's authoritative publication The Economist, the Hudson Institute has set up a joint blue-ribbon commission with Hungarian academics and officials to improve market mechanisms in the Hungarian economy. Washington's Heritage Foundation recently hosted a group of Estonians and will shortly send a return team of advisers to Tallinn.

And three well-known supply-siders — Paul Craig Roberts of the Center for Strategic and International Studies, Richard Rahn of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and Polycornomics's Jude Wanniski — recently visited several East European capitals, as well as Moscow itself.

But it won't be enough simply to convince Eastern Europe's new leaders that conservatism is the way to go. They must also be taught how to get there — i.e., how to win the free elections that these countries will soon be holding.

Most of the leaders have never had the chance to participate in truly free elections; they know next to nothing about primary elections (to choose candidates), opinion polls to test public sentiment, the uses (and abuses) of television advertising and much else. Without help, they run a serious risk of being overwhelmed by more widely experienced ex-communists or well-financed socialists.

So it is very good news indeed that the Kriebel Foundation recently approached Paul Weyrich, perhaps the ablest nuts-and-bolts political operator now active in the conservative movement, and asked him to lead a task force to train interested individuals in force to train interested individuals in Eastern Europe in the fine points of Western-style politicking.

Weyrich accepted the challenge, and persuaded four expert associates to travel with him to Hungary, Estonia and the Soviet Union. He has now issued a report on the trip, which he says "surpassed virtually everything else that I have ever done."

They trained members of the Democratic Forum in Hungary and

"about 40 members of opposition political parties" in Estonia. But it was in Moscow itself that the team had what Weyrich calls "the most incredible experience of our lives": working with members of the Inter-Regional Group in the Supreme Soviet.

These deputies made up no bones about their preference for private property, free markets and the restoration of religion. But they asked penetrating questions about the techniques of political action in the United States. As Weyrich noted in his journal at the time, "it is as if we were transported back in time to Philadelphia, at the time that our Constitution was being debated, and we were called upon to give out views."

Since the Weyrich team came home, the Inter-Regional Group has established a special school to train political candidates. Clearly, they mean business.

Efforts like those of Paul Weyrich's team are of central importance to the future of Eastern Europe. Such efforts must be doubled, and redoubled, in the months ahead.

Gorbachev blames extremists for ethnic violence in Azerbaijan

By CAREY GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev today blamed violence between Azerbaijanis and Armenians on extremists fanning ethnic hatred to hurt his reforms, and the government warned the turmoil could escalate into a "national catastrophe."

Gorbachev told a conference in Moscow that despite the Kremlin's efforts — about 29,000 troops and police cadets are trying to maintain order in the Caucasus — the situation is not improving.

He said the six-day spasm of ethnic fighting, in which at least 72 people have died and more than 220 have been wounded, served the interests of "a group of extremists, irresponsible adventurists and representatives of the shadow economy."

The shadow economy refers to the billions of rubles in illegal trade transacted outside the state-run economy.

"Perestroika is a bone in their throat, but they can't oppose it directly, so they clutch at tension on an ethnic basis," Gorbachev told the conference, according to the official Tass news agency. The conference was convened to discuss perestroika.

Earlier today, government and party leaders issued an appeal for calm in the area.

"Today's tragedy, if it is not stopped, tomorrow could turn into a national catastrophe," said a statement carried by Tass and broadcast on radio and television.

The statement, signed only by the Communist Party Central Committee, the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet and the Council of Ministers, also condemned extremists for advocating "blind hatred and craziness."

The ethnic violence erupted Saturday, when rampaging Azerbaijani mobs attacked Armenians. Defense Minister Dmitri T. Yazov called up the reserves Thursday to help cope with the fighting, which he described as "a great disaster."

At least 10,500 Armenians reportedly have been evacuated from the Azerbaijani capital of Baku.

Debris litters Lennin Avenue in Baku in the Azerbaijan region, sign of the ethnic unrest between Moslems and Christians in the Soviet state.

The government appeal today appeared to conflict with statements earlier by Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov, who said the violence in the region was decreasing, although the mood remained "tense."

Ryzhkov spoke on ABC-TV's Prime Time Live broadcast in the United States Thursday night. He defended the Kremlin's decision to send in troops to put down the fighting, and predicted Gorbachev and the Communist Party would survive the crisis.

Tass said today that "the situation in Azerbaijan and Armenia has aggravated in the past 24 hours."

Virtually all of Baku, an oil center of 1.8 million, was on strike to press demands that Soviet troops be pulled out of the city and local authorities refrain from imposing martial law or a curfew, said Savili Peretz, deputy director of Azerinform, the Azerbaijani news agency.

Extremists blockaded the Communist Party leadership's headquarters, refusing to allow its staff to enter, Peretz said in a telephone interview from Baku. He said extremists also blocked all the major roads in and around Baku.

Tass reported rioting on the Azerbaijani border with Iran, and Peretz said some 31 miles of the border fences had been torn down Thursday by Azerbaijanis who wanted to be united with relatives in Iran. Today, guards are in control, he said.

A journalist with Armenia's official news agency, Armenpress, said four people were killed and 10 wounded early today in an Azerbaijani attack on the village of Yerashk, in the Armenian republic on the border with the Azerbaijani enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh.

The journalist, who asked to remain anonymous, said this was the first time during the hostilities that Azerbaijanis had attacked a village in Armenia proper rather than around the disputed territory of Nagorno-Karabakh.

Nagorno-Karabakh is a largely Armenian enclave of about 160,000 people inside Azerbaijan. Both Armenia, largely Christian, and Azerbaijan, predominantly Moslem, claim it.

It was not clear whether the Yerashk casualties were included in the latest official death and injury tolls.

In Moscow Thursday, officials announced that reserve troops had been called up and that some military units had been put on a wartime footing in the embattled region.

Gorbachev revealed today that the call-up concerned mainly reservists in the northern Caucasus region, and admitted it had evoked complaints from the population there.

Defense Minister Yazov said the reinforcements were needed, in addition to the 29,000 already there, to maintain order and possibly enforce a curfew. He did not say how many reserve soldiers were called up.

Mayor Marion Berry of Washington, D.C.

D.C. mayor arrested on narcotics charges

By JAMES ROWLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Marion Barry, embattled by repeated accusations of drug use, faces federal narcotics charges today after a sting operation that law enforcement sources say caught him on videotape smoking crack cocaine.

Barry was released on his own recognizance by a federal magistrate and returned to his home to await arraignment at midday. City and personal lawyers went to the home to consult with him overnight.

Barry, who planned to announce his candidacy for a fourth term on Sunday, was arrested Thursday night at a downtown hotel. FBI agents and local police videotaped him smoking cocaine after a friend sold it to him, according to a law enforcement source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Authorities had not determined whether Barry would face a misdemeanor or felony charge, sources said. The charges would depend on the amount of cocaine or cocaine-base seized when Barry was arrested at the Vista International Hotel, six blocks from the White House, sources said.

"It's a misdemeanor kind of thing," said Barry's attorney, R. Kenneth Mundy. Asked what amount of drug might be involved, he pinched his forefinger and thumb closely together and grinned.

"We aren't going to have anything to say yet," Mundy said after visiting the mayor.

Barry's arrest resulted from a joint undercover "public corruption probe" by the FBI and the internal affairs division of the Washington Metropolitan Police Department, U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens said in a statement.

The mayor has been plagued in recent years by accusations of drug use as well as the corruption convictions of several top city officials. He has repeatedly denied ever using or buying drugs.

Barry's troubles, coupled with the city's soaring homicide rate that police attribute to drug-trafficking, have attracted nationwide attention.

Former Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson, who has campaigned against drugs across the country, fueled speculation he would run for mayor when he moved to Washington last year. But Jackson said he would not challenge Barry, and he declined comment on the arrest through a spokesman Thursday night.

Councilwoman Charlene Drew Jarvis, who has announced her candidacy for mayor, said Barry's arrest "changes the political landscape of the city."

David Clarke, City Council

chairman and a mayoral candidate, called the arrest "a tragic moment in our city's history."

Top city officials met into the early hours today to assess the impact of the mayor's arrest on the operation of the District of Columbia's government.

The undercover operation was set up several weeks ago in an attempt to obtain evidence that Barry was a drug user, said one source.

Law enforcement officials released no details of the events leading up to the arrest.

WUSA-TV reported that Barry was lured to the hotel to visit a long-time woman friend from California.

The station said the FBI asked the woman to come to Washington a week ago to set up a meeting with Barry. Barry made several previous trips to see her during her stay, the station said. FBI agents babysat the woman's children during her visit.

One killed in plane collision

By WILLIAM E. SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — A landing Eastern Airlines jet tore the top off a twin-engine plane that touched down just before it, killing one person aboard the smaller aircraft, officials said.

None of the 149 people on the jet was injured in the accident on a runway at Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport at 7:15 p.m. Thursday, an Eastern spokesman said. The spokesman said a wing was damaged on the jet, a Boeing 727.

Killed was Eric Thomas, 30, of Acworth, Ga., and injured was Daniel Olthoff, 26, of Norcross, Ga., said officials at the hospital where both were taken. Olthoff was described as "conscious, alert and talking."

The collision involved Eastern Flight 111, which originated in Montreal and stopped in New York, and a twin-engine Beechcraft King Air 100 flying from a suburban airport. A second person aboard the Beechcraft was injured.

Both planes had been cleared to land, Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Jack Barker said.

Asked if that indicated a problem in the control tower, he replied, "That's under investigation."

"Obviously something went wrong for two airplanes to hit each other on the runway," Barker said. "Everything involving the movement of those two aircraft will be considered" by federal investigators.

Roger Myers, another FAA spokesman, said the Eastern plane was completing its landing as the Beechcraft still was taxiing on the runway.

"The Eastern airliner landed behind him, and they collided on the runway," Myers said. "He (The Eastern pilot) was on his landing roll," meaning the jet was still rolling to a stop.

Barker said officials did not know how much time lapsed between the two plane landings, although "It was very close between the two."

It isn't unusual for planes to land within two minutes of each other at Hartsfield, which was the world's busiest airport in 1987 and ranked third last year, according to FAA figures. The airport averaged 75 landings an hour on two runways in 1987, an airport spokesman said then.

Gene Griffin, an Eastern passenger from New York, said, "The plane veered to the left and hit something. I thought maybe it was a pothole. No one was really sure what was going on, but no one was really hurt or shaken up."

Those who witnessed the collision described it much differently.

"I seen this debris flying everywhere, terrible, just like it flipped over and it was way up in the air — terrible," said Rodney Johnson, an airport ground worker.

The Beechcraft was owned by Epps Air Service and based at DeKalb Peachtree Airport on the edge of Atlanta.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The threat of fog blocked Columbia's return to Earth until Saturday, making it the longest space shuttle mission yet.

The shuttle had planned a pre-dawn landing today at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., but Mission Control decided to keep Columbia in orbit for one more day because conditions were favorable for a fog bank to move in suddenly.

The new landing time of 12:01 a.m. PST (2:01 p.m. CST) extends the flight to nearly 11 days, surpassing by 11 hours, 38 minutes the old record, also set by Columbia in 1983.

Capsule communicator Mike Baker early today initially directed the five astronauts to lengthen the flight by one orbit, or 95 minutes, in case the fog forecast improved.

When it didn't, he said, "We've decided not to come home today. The weather looks a lot better Saturday."

"OK. Sounds like the best plan." Columbia commander Dan Brandenstein responded. Earlier he said, "This is not a good vehicle to fly into fog."

The initial directive to hold off was relayed to the astronauts just three hours before they were to have fired their re-entry engines to start an hourlong plunge through the atmosphere following a flight that deployed one satellite and rescued another.

Except for the fog threat, which would prevent the astronauts from seeing the lighted runway, weather conditions at Edwards were good. Mission control said a light fog had formed early today. Flight rules dictate visibility of seven miles for landing.

The second and last landing opportunity Friday was 4:30 a.m. PST. The shuttle will have four chances Saturday to land at the Mojave Desert base.

Columbia carries enough fuel and other supplies to stay in orbit until at least Monday, officials said.

Other U.S. landing sites at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida and at White Sands Missile Base, N.M., also had unacceptable weather conditions today.

The space travelers planned a day of exercising, photography and other light activity.

Their day began at 8:35 p.m. CST Thursday with Mission Control blaring the Steppenwolf song, "Born to Be Wild," as the wakeup music.

"Good morning, Columbia. I hope you're ready to rock and roll," said the control center.

"We're ready to rock and roll," replied shuttle pilot Jim Wetherbee.

The 11-ton scientific satellite stowed in the spaceship's cargo bay had been in orbit for nearly six years before being snared by the astronauts a week ago.

The satellite, called the Long Duration Exposure Facility, was deployed by a shuttle crew in April 1984 and was supposed to remain in orbit for less than a year, but its retrieval was delayed because of scheduling changes and the 1986 Challenger accident.

Scientists want to know how the various experimental materials stored in 57 trays outside the LDEF withstood being pounded by micrometeoroids, blasted by cosmic rays and corroded by highly reactive atomic oxygen.

"We believe LDEF is a real treasure that's going to help very much in designing future space satellites, shuttles and space stations," Brandenstein said Thursday as the crew spoke by radio-telephone with President Bush at the White House.

Bush called the rescue "a very exciting grab."

Brandenstein, Wetherbee and mission specialists Bonnie Dunbar, David Low and Marsha Ivins devoted most of the time in space to medical and science experiments and Earth photography.

In The Church Of Your Choice

A DAILY INCIDENT!

Hardly a day passes without the newspapers reporting an automobile accident. Lives are lost and bodies maimed due to careless driving on our streets and highways.

Another daily incident which the newspapers often do not report, and to which others are indifferent, is the ruining of lives and character in the wrecked, uneducated, and poverty-ridden parts of the great cities in our land. There are those who despair of ever getting out of their situation and so despondency sets in and a lack of desire to strive for worthy goals enters the spirit.

A loving God would have us aware of these whose lives, self-respect and character could be saved—if we were interested enough.

God often impresses the needs of His children upon those who attend His church. It is His will that we should show forth the love of God for mankind by helping all who are suffering.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Weekly program can strengthen Christian homes

Many families in the Pampa area are taking steps to strengthen their home life, said James Waldrop, public communication director for the local members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The church sponsors a family-strengthening program called "Family Home Evening" in which the family sets aside one night per week to meet and discuss important principles and participate in fun activities.

"The idea of the program is to improve communication and love among family members," Waldrop said.

"Since the program was first introduced by the church, it has helped less active members to become spiritually active and experience a new beginning in their family life. It has helped those families who have always remained active to have a dynamic way to solve family members' individual problems."

Waldrop explained that families often use this night to discuss how to use gospel principles in everyday living, or how to solve family problems. Activities might include a lesson, sports, excursions or a scripture study. Refreshments are usually served.

"One important aspect is that all members of the family interact in a positive setting, where they can feel accepted," Waldrop said. "Family members can develop stronger friendships in that situation."

The Family Home Evening program is easily adaptable by other Christian faiths, he said. The basic idea of spiritually strengthening the family and home life would be essentially the same for all who accept Jesus Christ as Lord Savior and redeemer of mankind.

His Touch

By Charlotte Barbaree

Scripture: "For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life." (John 3:16 NIV)

A dear uncle died about a year ago; he was not a Christian, and our grief is compounded by the sure knowledge that he is spending eternity in torment, irrevocably separated from God.

A television commercial touts a pre-funeral payment plan called the Peace of Mind Program. People are warned of the expense of funerals running into thousands of dollars. A satisfied customer testifies, "It's the best I can do for those I leave behind."

Every time I see the commercial, it depresses me. Though nothing is wrong with pre-funeral financial arrangements, pre-funeral spiritual arrangements for heavenly reservations are by far more vital.

A Christian state of soul is the best possible assurance policy for our own peace of mind. No other preparedness is more complete or dependable. None other guarantees those left behind will not be burdened by the heavy cost of grief complicated by hopelessness for our sake.

Make eternal arrangements now; come to Christ! As another commercial sings, "Do it for yourself. Do it for the loved ones in your life."

(If you are seeking salvation, read John 3 in a New Testament. If you are in need of spiritual counseling, contact a clergyman of your choice.)

Stew Supper tonight at First Pentecostal

The ladies of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church, 1700 Alcock, are sponsoring a Stew Supper in the Fellowship Hall of the church this evening.

Stew, cornbread and drinks will be served. Delicious homemade desserts will also be available.

Serving time will be from 5 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. today. The public is invited, said Rev. Albert Maggard, pastor.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Blacks in America are finding their advances toward social, political and economic equality stalled by recent Supreme Court decisions, according to the Executive Council of the United Church of Christ.

The 44-member body recently declared the rulings have made it harder for blacks to redress racial discrimination in the courts. It said the 1.6 million-member church must "declare by official action a renewed determination to eliminate racism within church and society."

The Executive Council acts on behalf of the church's main deliberative body between biennial General Synod meetings.

Glen Shinn to minister Sunday at Briarwood Church

Glen Shinn will be ministering at Briarwood Full Gospel Church, 1800 W. Harvester, at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday.

As a young man at the impressionable age of 17, in a crusade meeting much like the ones he now conducts across America and abroad, Shinn left his home, friends and family to follow the call of God upon his life.

Leaving behind the beach parties, premieres and glitter of the world he had known as a teenager in Los Angeles, he boarded a train in Pomona, Calif., with money for his tuition and a few dollars in his pocket to attend Southwestern Bible College in Waxahachie, Texas.

Overwhelmed and mystified by the call of God when it came, he had walked away from all he had known to enter the ministry.

After his graduation from Southwestern in 1953, Shinn began to speak and to preach at every opportunity.

Once he had to travel 25 miles to keep an appointment and had no gasoline; he left his watch as security. The service station attendant, impressed by his attitude, gave him some money to travel to the meeting where he was to preach.

Shinn's picture later appeared in a newspaper, and he was asked to speak on the radio. Invitations began to come, one from Fort Worth, where he later served as assistant pastor. Eighteen months later, Shinn resigned the assistant pastor post, feeling God wanted him to become a full-time evangelist.

He has been on the move ever since. And just as he has spread the Word of God wherever he goes, so have Christians who have heard him spread the word of his ministry to others.

Shinn and his wife, Faith, have ministered in evangelism from their home base of Fort Worth for more than 22 years. They have two children, a son, Christopher, 14, and a daughter, Kimberly, who recently became Mrs. Ralph Nichols.

Pastor Gene Allen invites the public to attend.

Texas native aids in transferring synagogue to U.S.

By ROBERT LUCEY
The Bay City Daily Tribune

BAY CITY (AP) — Former Bay City Council member Meyer Denn found himself in the midst of a revolution during recent visits to several Eastern European nations.

"The crowds were roaring, but they weren't rowdy," said Denn. "They knew it was time for a change. We went out and marched with 300,000 people in the streets ... Have you ever seen 300,000 people in one place? It was incredible."

This is the scene he encountered in Czechoslovakia in November when he went there to negotiate for the transferring of a 19th century synagogue from the small town of Presov to Los Angeles, where Denn now works as executive director of the Pacific Jewish Center.

PJC is an organization founded 12 years ago to promote a revival in the Jewish faith. Denn, 27, said the organization has outgrown its current facilities and was planning to build a new synagogue when he took one of several treks to Eastern Europe to research his heritage.

"When I came back to the United States, I proposed instead of building a new building, we could use an old building as the centerpiece," said the Bay City native.

The idea was met with enthusiasm and support from philanthropic industrialists such as Dr. Armand Hammer, whose personal assistant, Richard Jacobs, accompanied Denn in the negotiations.

Due to California structure codes, buildings must be constructed to be resilient to earthquakes, so a stone-by-stone transfer of the synagogue — as originally proposed — would not have been feasible.

Instead, PJC has proposed removing the interior, including an

Baptists to have conference on evangelism plan

FORT WORTH — More than 15,000 people from throughout the state are expected to attend the Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference in Fort Worth Monday through Wednesday to help launch the largest evangelistic venture in the denomination's history.

"Texas once was called the buckle of the Bible belt, but now less than half the people are affiliated with any church," said William M. Pinson Jr., executive director of the 2.4-million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

"To help reverse the growing tide of secularism, more than 5,000 Texas Baptist churches and missions are urged to join in Share Jesus Now Phase II, a program to train and motivate church members to daily share their faith in Christ," he said.

"Share Jesus Now will be climaxed by 'Here's Hope' simultaneous revivals in the churches to provide opportunities for new Christians to profess their faith," Pinson said.

"The Evangelism Conference will help provide the spark for this massive evangelistic effort through inspirational messages by some of the leading preachers and singers of our day."

Miss Texas, Leah Kay Lyle, a member of Hyde Park Baptist Church in Austin, and Tom Landry, former coach of the Dallas Cowboys football team, will share their Christian testimonies.

Messages will be brought by John Bisagno, pastor of First Baptist Church, Houston; Southern Baptist Convention President Jerry Vines of Jacksonville, Fla.; evangelist Angel Martinez of Fort Smith, Ark.; Claude Cone, executive director for New Mexico Baptists and former pastor of First Baptist Church in Pampa; and Bill Tisdale, pastor of First Baptist Church of Henderson.

Other speakers will include Tom Elliff, pastor of First Southern Baptist Church, Del City, Okla.; Rick Scarborough, pastor of Retta Baptist Church near Burleson; Herbert L. Pedersen, pastor of Oak Cliff First Baptist Church, Dallas; and Joe Ratliff, pastor of Brentwood Baptist Church, Houston.

elaborately tiled ceiling, and installing it in a new building. The old structure would remain in Presov where it would be renovated for use as museum. A small chapel for the few practicing Jews remaining in the town would also be built.

Denn went to Prague in November to discuss the idea with Czechoslovakia's communist leaders. He called his hour-long meeting with the minister on international relations "very friendly."

Ironically, within days of receiving his approval of the project, the government was toppled in favor of a more democratized system. Even during his meeting, tanks surrounded the Central Committee building which housed the Politburo, and thousands of protesters marched in another part of the city.

"An hour after the meeting, we went out and marched with 300,000 people in the streets. We were in the heart of the falling government and we were in the heart of the rising republic," said Denn.

"On Friday night we joined a march of students. They said there would be a slow measured change. But on Saturday, the same people who said there would be a slow, measured change said 'No more. Forty years is too much.'"

"The numbers of marchers mounted. We had to call the States to understand what was happening outside our door because the press was so closed."

Denn said the new leadership is eager to continue the negotiations. Later this month, architects will be traveling back for the next stage of discussions.

"This project is a very exciting project for everyone. Everyone gains from it. The idea is that it's not a Holocaust memorial per se," said Denn. "This is a living memorial. It's bringing something back to life that would otherwise die."

The synagogue is one of many that are falling into disuse as the Jewish population of Czechoslovakia dwindles.

In 1940, 4,000 Jews (about 40 percent of the total population) worshipped in the Presov temple. Today, the town's Jewish community consists of about 20 mostly elderly people, only eight of whom attend a weekly Sabbath service.

In other towns, synagogues have been demolished and replaced by modern offices. A former synagogue in Bardejov is being used as a warehouse to store toilet seats.

"The Jewish community is devastated there," lamented Denn.

Lubbock television to promote West Texas musicians

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Lubbock and the surrounding plains have, for decades, been a breeding ground for songwriters and musicians. Paying tribute to those musicians and, in the process, spreading the word has proved to be a difficult task.

Not that well-meaning fans haven't tried. Interviews with a variety of local singers and songwriters were quietly videotaped under the auspices of Dennis Harp at Texas Tech University and the West Texas Music Association, but that project appears to have stalled. There also is, of course, an annual induction ceremony at the West Texas Walk of Fame near the statue of Buddy Holly. And a limited number of local bands even have been granted air time on local radio stations.

Unfortunately, home grown talent too often has been forced to leave home to be discovered. Musicians from Lubbock often find themselves revered in Europe, especially England where Lubbock is known as the home of Buddy Holly — and indeed to many as the home of rock 'n' roll. In Austin, one nightclub continues to hold a "Lubbock Or Leave It" night every week, attracting packed houses to hear a plethora of musicians with Lubbock ties. What makes this all the more ironic is that the same musicians had trouble attracting audiences to clubs in Lubbock.

One of the most impressive, and certainly far-reaching, efforts ever made to pay homage to West Texas musical talent will debut in February on KLBK television. The station's new locally produced program, "West Texas," will be dedicated solely to promoting the music and musicians of Lubbock and the surrounding area.

The weekly program, inspired in part by the syndication success of "Austin City Limits," is being created by four fans of West Texas music: music promoter Mike Burk; Jimmy Blakley, creative director at KLBK; Don Caldwell, owner of Caldwell Stations; and David Tarpley, co-owner of Tarpley Music.

Burk is considered the project's brainchild. "I guess it all started back at the (Panhandle South Plains) Fair in September," he said in a recent interview at Caldwell Studios. "It hit me that a live music show is something that could really go over in this area. The idea at first was to film bands at different nightclubs, different places, every week, but we realized later that wouldn't work."

"But we were really lucky to come up with Tommy's Place, which, by the way, is owned Joe Ely's brother-in-law (Tommy Thompson). This place is absolutely perfect for live music. It's got three separate levels where you can sit and still see the stage, and that's where we plan to film all of shows. Actually, we're hoping to get enough material from every concert to come up with four to six programs; that way we can create a quick backlog if we need them."

Caldwell interjected, "There are no guarantees, of course. We may only get one half-hour show from a 2 1/2-hour concert. But we'll be trying to get as much high-quality footage as possible every time."

Tarpley said his company will provide mixing consoles, monitors, a public address system and technical advice. Caldwell will be situated in a booth designed to mix audio and video. "We'll be using multi-track recording and feed it into the video," he said, "and that way we can go back to the studio and re-mix the audio."

Blakley, who plans to operate a four-camera format with one camera locked down and three more mobile, will set up what he calls "a live unit, a mobile television station. Basically, what this program will be is live television."

"West Texas" will be aired first on KLBK, but Blakley added, "Obviously, we're looking to syndicate it in Europe first of all, because we feel it will be easier to market Lubbock music overseas than in the United States."

He said that he is certain that the show also will be aired on television stations KLBK's parent corporation owns in Springfield, Mo.; Monroe, La.; Dothan, Ala.; and Evansville, Ind.

The first three programs will be filmed in early January. Once the show starts airing on Sundays in February, live concerts will be filmed on the first two Tuesdays of every month at Tommy's Place. Two bands will be filmed at every concert.

Only slight limitations have been placed on musical genres that will be covered, as Blakley said, "I really doubt that we'll film any heavy metal bands. We're trying to sell the program, too, so we'll try to shy away from songs with objectionable lyrics."

Burk added, "A lot of people think of West Texas and immediately assume that all there is out here is country music. We'll feature country bands, at times, but what people outside the music industry apparently fail to realize is that Lubbock is the home of rock 'n' roll. And we plan to start the show with some of the best rock 'n' roll bands from the area, just to make sure people realize that."

Blakley smiled. "Really, the only restriction is that the bands play all original material. They can't perform any copy tunes."

The show's producers also hope to film an occasional Songwriters' Roundtable format, with a group of four or five songwriters seated on the stage and taking turns playing original acoustic music. No doubt there will be times when the occasional touring recording act may also perform for the cameras.

Like "Austin City Limits," the proposed "West Texas," program always will be filmed in front of a live audience. No admission charge will be in effect for any of the concerts, and admittance will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Asked about financing, Blakley said, "The financing for all of this comes from the sweat of our brows. All of us are contributing time and personnel and equipment. If there's money to be made, it will be later, through syndication."

"But this is a volunteer effort. Even the camera operators will be volunteers."

"And that's the way I like it," said Burk. "Because you can't buy what we want to buy. The people working on this don't see it as a job. The people working on this program are all die-hard fans of West Texas music."

Caldwell explained, "Let's face it: The Maines Brothers already have proven to people that music production can be done in Lubbock. This show is an effort to keep Lubbock talent active in Lubbock. Yes, we want to give the bands exposure. But just as important, we also want to give the people in the community a chance to know what's going on here."

"I would hope that the people in this area would support this show. Some people just don't realize how much musical talent is working in this town right under their noses."

Reader makes request for smothered steak recipe

A special "thank you" to the individuals who sent in recipes for mashed potato candy.

I've recently had a request for a good smothered steak recipe and would welcome any family favorites that I could publish on the Wednesday food page.

I get lots of recipes in the office weekly, far too many to file and save. (I pass them on to my sister who reads cookbooks like good romance novels.)

Send your smothered steak recipe to Kayla Pursley, % The Pampa News, P.O. Box 2198, Pampa, TX 79066-2198 or drop it by the news office at 403 W. Atchison during business hours.

Please include your name and phone number in case I have any questions about preparation.

Toll-free hotline numbers available for one dollar

DEAR ABBY: We are celebrating "Nader's Raiders" 20th anniversary by issuing the Consumer's Guide to Toll-Free Hotlines.

This directory contains the toll-free telephone numbers to call for free information concerning cancer treatment, Alzheimer's disease, arthritis, alcoholism, headaches, diabetes and asthma, as well as problems concerning housing, meat and poultry handling, home product safety, automobile defects, pesticides, workplace safety and veterans' benefits.

Abby, this 28-page booklet of toll-free numbers will be sent to anyone who requests it. The cost of publishing and mailing this collection of telephone numbers is $1.

Please let your readers know that these booklets are available. Believe it or not, the government agencies need help in letting the public know how to obtain these toll-free telephone numbers. Can you please help get the word out?

Major medical insurance heartburn for individuals

By CHANGING TIMES
The Kiplinger Magazine
For AP Newsfeatures

All those who must fend for their own health insurance — people who are self-employed, between jobs, retired but too young for Medicare or otherwise without access to group coverage — are heading for more heartburn.

Fewer than a dozen private insurers plus 85 percent of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans continue to offer major medical insurance for individuals. The number is shrinking, says Changing Times magazine.

Some of the insurers remaining hint they, too, might leave if the business turns too unprofitable. Washington National, of Evanston, Ill., thought about quitting this year but decided to stay.

Golden Rule, of Indianapolis, which claims to be the nation's largest writer of individual major medical insurance, has stopped enrollments in Massachusetts, where it is dissatisfied with the state's regulators. (Golden Rule has

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, "Wondering in Oak Park, Ill.," said, "I have tried to persuade my husband to get a vasectomy, but he was chicken."

Abby, why did you let her get away with that stupid statement without challenging her? Unless there was more to her letter than you printed, we have heard only her side of the story.

Where is it written that a man must get a vasectomy because his wife wants him to? Many letters in your column seem to indicate that since it's easier for a man to get a vasectomy than it is for his wife to get a tubal ligation, he should have the operation. Baloney! Neither tubal ligations nor vasectomies are 100 percent reversible. What if the marriage is dissolved — or the spouse dies and the remaining mate wants to have children with another mate?

Calling one's partner "chicken" because he doesn't want to have a vasectomy is not an indication of a happy marriage. It reminds me of the old joke about Lady Astor and Winston Churchill. She is reputed to have said, "Sir, if you were my hus-

Astro-Graph

Jan. 20, 1990

Business connections you've made in the past could be instrumental in the year ahead in helping you make your mark in the world.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your ambitions will be aided today through the good auspices of friendly associates. Remember to repay favors to those who treat you kindly. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't judge others prematurely today, especially the motives of one with whom you're closely involved. They are much more pure than you think.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Commercial and financial conditions, as a whole, appear very promising for you today, especially in arrangements where you are dealing with persons of proven reliability.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You can cut the mustard on your own today, but your greatest benefits are likely to come from your partnership arrangements. At least two of these could be exciting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If there is an ambitious enterprise you've been desirous of launching, this is a good day to light the fuse to your rocket. Step out boldly and don't look back.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A problem that has been concerning you and your mate can be resolved at this time if both dedicate their efforts to finding a common solution. Put it to rest once and for all.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Before spending money on something for your home today, use your imagination and resourcefulness to see what you can do yourself. Inventiveness can save you the expense.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could have a delightful association today with someone of the opposite sex who will assist you in a matter that can advance your self-interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your financial prospects look extremely encouraging for the next few days. You're on a fast track, so you'll have to be very observant in order to spot all of your opportunities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your ability to sell or promote your wares today could be rather remarkable. If you have something you think others should know about, make your pitch.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are presently on the right course for fulfilling your financial and ambitious objectives. Don't make changes until you know for sure they are necessary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't lower your standards today where your goals are concerned. In fact, tune them a notch or two higher, even if your projection looks a trifle negative.

McEnroe advances to round of sixteen

By STEVE WILSTEIN
AP Tennis Writer

MELBOURNE, Australia — John McEnroe, keeping his cool despite an unruly crowd and a baking sun, is giving the Australian Open some of its classiest tennis.

McEnroe sparked memories of his youth and hopes of an eighth Grand Slam triumph Friday with a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 victory over another former Stanford All-American, Dan Goldie.

The only thing missing was McEnroe's infamous temper as he moved into the round of 16 along with defending champion Ivan Lendl, Yannick Noah and 18-year-old American upstart Pete Sampras.

Defending women's champ Steffi Graf also reached the 4th round with last year's runner-up, Helena Sukova, American Patty Fendick and Japanese giant-killer Kimiko Date, who beat Pam Shriver.

Not even hecklers and chatty fans in the Australian Open record crowd of 21,028 could ruffle McEnroe, who displayed his full repertoire of shots and bounced around the court as if he were 21 instead of a month shy of 31.

"I feel like I'm controlling play, that's the main thing," said McEnroe, who hasn't dropped a set in three matches or given up more than three games in any set. "In the majors in the last few years, I've sort of gone out there flat — that's suicide."

McEnroe won the first four games against Goldie, then was broken for the only time in the three sets. After losing a love game, McEnroe held his next two services.

The crowd's noise bothered both players, but McEnroe thought it might have annoyed Goldie more.

"It affects you more when you're losing," McEnroe said. "I just tried telling myself it was getting him angry also. I think he started pressing more and more, and he just made too many unforced errors."

McEnroe took a 40-0 lead on a backhand volley in the 6th game of the second set. Goldie took the next four points and moved to break-point on a McEnroe double-fault.

Lendl kicked himself for his mistakes and five service breaks in the second and third sets, but settled down for a 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1 victory over Czech Karel Novacek.

"I'm not pleased," Lendl said. "I think that he played well and I didn't. My timing is off."

Australian Open

Sampras beat Australia's Todd Woodbridge 7-5, 6-4, 6-2 and next meets Noah, who beat Israel's Gilad Bloom, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Date, eight inches shorter than 6-foot Pam Shriver but much quicker to the net and less error-prone, upset the 11th-seed 6-4, 6-3.

"I was just making so many unforced errors, two or three a game, and you can't do that against these players," Shriver said. "She served and volleyed more than I expected, and that caught me off guard."

Graf clunked her head with her racket and survived 39 errors while the "new" Steffi Graf, teen-ager Anke Huber, succumbed to a twisted ankle.

Graf, the two-time defending women's champion, clutched her head several times after accidentally hitting herself with the most powerful forehand in women's tennis.

After finding out what it's like to be on the receiving end of her own shot, Graf recovered from a 1-3 deficit in the first set to win the next four games, beat Soviet Leila Meskhi 6-4, 6-1 and advance to the round of 16.

"I hit myself quite hard. Maybe it woke me up," Graf said.

Graf praised Meskhi, saying the 22-year-old is "getting tougher and tougher. You shouldn't underestimate her."

Huber, a 15-year-old West German showing much of the promise Graf did at the same age, played a tough match before falling to 13th-seeded Italian Raffaella Reggi 7-5, 4-6, 6-4.

Ironically, Graf also was a third-round loser at 15 in the Australian Open.

Huber turned her right ankle when she crossed her feet reaching for a backhand during her service at 15-15 in the ninth game of the third set.

She fell down, then limped to her chair, sprayed some pain-killer on her foot and returned to court.

The players split the next two points, then Huber double-faulted on break point.

Reggi, leading 5-4 after that fifth straight service break, was serving for the match at 40-15 when she double-faulted.

Huber then tried a moon ball during the next rally, but the ball drifted about eight inches long, putting Reggi into the fourth round against Graf.

Two hardest courses yet to come for Stockton

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

LA QUINTA, Calif. — Dave Stockton, who last won a golf tournament 14 years ago, owns a share of the lead in the five-day Bob Hope Classic.

But Stockton, 48, harbors no illusions.

"I know I've played the two easiest courses, and the two hardest are yet to come," Stockton said Thursday after scrambling to a 68 at Indian Wells, one of four desert resort courses used for the first four rounds of this five-day, 90-hole event.

And Stockton realized that his 68 could have been a lot higher.

One of his four birdies came after he drove into trouble, then played a shot under and around trees to the green.

He got up and down from green-side bunkers on four holes, came out of a fairway bunker on another and twice had to scramble on par-5 holes to save par.

Hope Classic

"I was happy to see the clubhouse," he said after competing 36 holes in 133, 11 under par.

He has played Tamarisk and Indian Wells, with the Arnold Palmer course at PGA West and Bermuda Dunes awaiting the next two days. The format calls for the 128 pros to play one round on each of the four desert courses, each day with a different three-man amateur team, before the field is cut for the pros-only final round Sunday at the Palmer course.

With three rounds to go, Stockton was tied for the lead with Peter Jacobsen and John Cook.

Jacobsen had sole control of the top spot until he bogeyed his final hole at Indian Wells. He finished with a 66.

Cook, still on the mend from an attack of influenza that almost forced him out of the tournament, shot 68 at Bermuda Dunes.

"I was just trying to get around without crashing, and I didn't crash," said Cook, who has not made a bogey in the tournament and has birdied seven of the eight par-5's he has played.

Mike Reid, who led and lost both the Masters and PGA last year, was one shot off the pace at 134 after a 66 at Bermuda Dunes.

The group at 135 included Bob Wrenn, Jim Booros, Bob Tway, Don Pooley and Tommy Armour III.

Pooley had a share of the lead until he double-bogeyed his 18th hole from the water at the Palmer course and shot 70. Wrenn had 65 and Armour 67, both at Bermuda Dunes. Tway shot 68 at Tamarisk and Booros' 67 came at Indian Wells.

Robert Gamez, the 21-year-old rookie who won the Tucson Open last week in his first start as a member of the PGA Tour, moved up with a 66 at Indian Wells and was very much in contention at 136.

Jones concedes college juniors could improve Pokes

(AP Laserphoto)

Cowboys' owner Jerry Jones strolls across the field surrounded by a television camera crew.

DALLAS (AP) — The owner of the Dallas Cowboys said he hopes professional football will continue to reject college underclassmen, although he conceded it might speed up his team's rebuilding process if a flood of juniors went directly to the NFL.

"The more we can condense that rebuilding, the sooner we have accessibility to good players, the quicker our rebuilding job will be," Jones told the Dallas Times Herald.

The Cowboys had the NFL's worst record for the second straight year last season. They followed a 3-13 season with a 1-15 mark.

Alabama junior linebacker Keith McCant said Tuesday he plans to forsake his senior year with the Crimson Tide and be a part of the NFL's college draft this year. He is expected to be the No. 1 pick if he does.

Atlanta has the No. 1 pick, which the Cowboys would have had by virtue of their worst record. But Dallas forfeited its first round pick by taking quarterback Steve Walsh in the supplemental phase last summer.

Scouts, agents and NFL analysts estimate 10 to 30 underclassmen will follow McCant's lead.

Although McCants is not eligible for the April 22-23 draft under NFL guidelines, the league is not expected to challenge him for fear of losing a court battle. Last year, Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders of Oklahoma State left school after his junior year and was placed in the draft.

Commissioner Paul Tagliabue and NCAA Executive Director

Richard Schultz set up a meeting this week to discuss the issue. Tagliabue this week called the league's draft rules "vague and uncertain."

Tagliabue is preparing a policy revision to accommodate more underclassmen. That report should be ready when the owners meet in March.

"The only thing I heard is him saying we need to come up with a posture rather than be in no-man's land," Jones said.

Juniors will not be scouted by the Cowboys until they declare for the draft, said Dick Mansperger, the team's college scouting director. And Mansperger said the number of juniors who will declare for the draft might have been overestimated.

"Sometimes you can create something that doesn't exist and make it snowball," he said. "I think when it comes right down to it, the numbers (will be lower). Let's hope so."

The fact that Sanders, who led the NFC in rushing this season, received a big salary along with the owners' proposal for an entry-level wage-and-bonus scale beginning in 1991, are reasons given for the increased interest among juniors to turn pro early.

The Cowboys own the rights to one first-round draft pick this year, the No. 19 overall choice, obtained from Minnesota in the Herschel Walker trade. To keep that pick, the Cowboys must release linebacker Jesse Solomon or arrange a deal with the Vikings to keep both Solomon and the draft choice.

Lady Harvesters need fast start at Estacado

By SONNY BOHANAN
Sports Editor

While a come-from-behind victory can be a good confidence-builder, Lady Harvester basketball coach Albert Nichols would prefer to take the bull by the horns from the word go.

Not that Nichols is unhappy with last month's 73-58 victory over Lubbock Estacado — it's just that he'd like the Lady Harvesters to come out of the blocks with a little more steam when the two teams meet again today in District 1-4A action.

When Pampa and Estacado squared off on Dec. 15, the Lady Harvesters trailed by 15 points, 19-4, with only four minutes gone in the game. Pampa went on a scoring rampage, however, to produce a 30-point swing and a 15-point victory.

That was within the friendly confines of McNeely Fieldhouse. Nichols is afraid that all may not be quite so rosy at the Estacado High School gym today.

"If we go down to Estacado and let these girls get on a roll and spot them points again, we're not going to catch up down there," he said. "We've got to get out there and get in the game quick and get going with it."

Sophomore forward Nikki Ryan was a big reason for Pampa's success in the first meeting between the two teams. After scoring only four points in the opening period, she finished the night with 40, the highest point total for any Lady Harvester player this season.

In fact, Ryan fell only two points short of tying the all-time, single-game scoring record, set by Yolanda Brown one year ago when she poured in 42 points against (you guessed it) Estacado.

According to Nichols, it's no accident that Pampa has had such success against the Lady Matadors.

"Nikki had a great game against them, and that's where Yolanda had good games, too," he said. "When we're under the basket, they always play straight behind us, so we play real low to the basket and feed her as she breaks across the lane. When we do that, we're able to score a bucketload.

"That's the style they want to play against us. They pull their defense way out and keep only one person up under the basket.

"It's some sure points for someone if they want to work up under there."

Ryan enters today's game as the scoring and rebounding leader for the Lady Harvesters. In 18 games she has contributed 17 points and 10 boards per contest.

Sophomore Bridgett Mathis checks in just behind Ryan in both categories, averaging 10.1 ppg and 6.4 rebounds. Sheila Reed and Christa West, both juniors, have added 8 and 6 points a game, respectively, while senior Tara Hamby is averaging 4 rebounds and five points.

In the district standings, Pampa is tied with Hereford for third place, each with 6-4 records. Overall, the Lady Harvesters are 10-9.

Estacado is in fifth place with a 4-5 record, 8-13 on the season.

The Lady Matadors are led by 5-11 sophomore Nyatasha Brooks, who scored 20 points against Pampa in December. Juniors Patrice Conwright and Angie Alexander tossed in 13 points each in that game.

"If we can get ahead of them and play good defense, we can frustrate them," Nichols said. "If we'll go out and take control, we can win this game."

NOTES: Starting times for the boys and girls basketball games today at Lubbock Estacado have been moved forward in an effort to avoid a bad freeze while driving home tonight.

The girls game will begin at 4 p.m., followed by the boys game at approximately 6 p.m. As of press time today, the games had NOT been cancelled.

See Sunday's edition of The Pampa News for results of both games.

(AP Laserphoto)

Dave Stockton moved into a three-way tie for first place by shooting 11-under par over 36 holes.

Wrestling meet against Amarillo High canceled

Pampa's dual wrestling meet against Amarillo High, scheduled for Thursday night in Amarillo, was cancelled because of snow and ice on the highway.

The PHS wrestling team won't be idle for long, however, as the Harvesters travel to Hays, Kan., today to take part in a one-day tournament Saturday.

According to Les Weatherly, president of the Pampa Roadrunners Wrestling Club, chances are good that the team will make the trip to Hays, snow or no snow.

"It looks like we'll probably go," Weatherly said this morning at 8. "We've got chains now, and we're taking some smaller vehicles."

The tournament, which begins

Saturday at 8 a.m. and will continue until late Saturday night, will feature 12 or 13 teams from around the Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas area.

"It's not as big as the Liberal Tournament, but it's going to be a pretty good-sized meet," Weatherly said.

Two weeks ago, the Harvesters competed at the Liberal tourney, which featured 15 teams. Pampa finished 13th in the team standings.

At 10 this morning, Pampa assistant coach Steve Kuhn was still unsure whether the Harvesters would drive to Hays.

"They're looking at 8 or 9 inches of snow up there," he said, "so I'll call the meet director and see if they're going to cancel it or not."

Nuggets pay dearly for taking Charlotte lightly

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

The Charlotte Hornets knew they wouldn't lose every road game. Eventually, somebody would take them lightly.

Enter the Denver Nuggets, who became that somebody.

"A loss like this was bound to happen ... when you take a team for granted," Denver coach Doug Moe said after Charlotte hung on in the final minute for a 110-108 victory Thursday night. It snapped the Hornets' winless streak on the road this season at 16 games.

"We played well and perhaps they looked past us," Charlotte coach Dick Harter agreed.

"We have been playing too well lately not to get a victory soon," said Kelly Tripucka, who led the Hornets with 28 points, including four in the final minute. "The guys just believed in each other and we knew we would win eventually."

The road losing streak was 17, including the final game of last season, Charlotte's first in the NBA. Still, it was far short of Baltimore's mark of 32 straight over two seasons (1953-54).

"We got the big lead in the fourth quarter, but when you are on a losing streak you get scared you're going to lose," Tripucka said.

Elsewhere, it was Chicago 132, Golden State 107; Phoenix 113, Minnesota 96; the Los Angeles Clippers 105, Seattle 95 and Milwaukee 115, Washington 112.

The Hornets also ended their six-game losing streak.

Denver rallied from a seven-point deficit in the last 2:05 to tie the game. A 3-pointer by Fat Lever, a drive by Michael Adams and two free throws by Todd Lichti made it 104-104 with 57 seconds remaining.

Dell Curry, who had 20 points for the Hornets, broke the tie with two free throws with 49 seconds left. Tripucka hit a 16-footer from the left baseline with 22 seconds remaining, but Bill Hanzlik pulled Denver to 108-107 on a 3-pointer with 19 seconds left.

A backcourt violation by the Hornets with nine seconds remaining gave Denver another chance. But Walter Davis missed a jumper under pressure, and Tripucka hit two free throws with 2.9 seconds left to make it 110-107. Alex English led Denver with 28 points while Armon Gilliam had 22 points for Charlotte.

Bulls.....132
Warriors.....107

Michael Jordan scored 44 points as Chicago put on its best offensive show of the season to win its 14th straight home game. The loss, which denied Coach Don Nelson his 600th career victory for the third straight game, dropped Golden State's road record to 2-15.

Jordan, who didn't play in the fourth quarter, made seven 3-pointers. The Bulls hit a club-record 11 3-pointers, two more than its output last March against Indiana.

Horace Grant had 19 points for the Bulls. Sarunas Marciulionis led the Warriors with 27.

Suns .....113
Timberwolves .....96

Tom Chambers scored 27 points as Phoenix won its sixth straight game, but lost forward Eddie Johnson with a dislocated shoulder.

Johnson, the NBA's Sixth Man Award winner last season and No. 2 free-throw shooter this year at 92.7 percent, was injured as he jostled for position with Timberwolves rookie forward Sam Mitchell in the first half.

The expansion Timberwolves lost 22 points by Mitchell.

Clippers.....105
SuperSonics .....95

Ken Norman, replacing the injured Ron Harper, scored a season-high 35 points.

Charles Smith added 21 points and point guard Gary Grant tied a Clippers record with 21 assists. Seattle got 30 points from Xavier McDaniel.

The Sonics never led.

Bucks .....115
Bullets .....112

Jack Sikma scored 19 points and made two key free throws.

Sikma's free throws with 2.7 seconds remaining sent the Bulls to their fourth straight loss. The Bucks saw a 14-point halftime lead cut to one twice in the final 63 seconds. But they made five of six free throws down the stretch.

Ledell Eackles had a career-high 37 points for the Bulls.

Ricky Pierce scored 11 of his 25 points in the opening quarter, during a 15-4 spurt that gave the Bucks a 30-20 lead.

Trio of scorers leads Evansville over Xavier

By The Associated Press

Three Aces were too much for the Musketeers.

Missing two starters because of foot injuries, the Evansville Aces got all but seven of their 59 points from Chris Mack, Brian Hill and Larry Brand and used an 11-2 run down the stretch to beat No. 20 Xavier of Ohio 59-51 Thursday night.

"We're not going to lower our standards just because we have injuries," Coach Jim Crews said. "Not many good things have happened to us this season, but the good things that have happened are because our kids believe in the program."

Evansville, 10-7 overall and 3-0 in the Midwest Collegiate Conference, scored nine of its last 11 points on free throws, missing only one in the final 4:58. The Aces had a 15-4 advantage in free throws over Xavier (12-2, 2-1).

Another Top 25 team went down when Stanford defeated No. 16 UCLA 87-79.

Mack scored 20 points, Hill 17 and Brand 15 for Evansville. Tyrone Hill, who led Xavier with 21 points, hit a jumper to give the Musketeers their last lead, 49-48 with seven minutes remaining.

No. 1 Kansas 132, Elizabeth City 65. Eight Jayhawks scored in double figures, led by Terry Brown's 19 points. Kansas burst to an 18-0 lead, tacked on runs of 17-2, 13-0 and 18-0 and scored the second-most points in its history. It also was the second-biggest winning margin in school history. Elizabeth City is 1-12.

No. 6 Michigan 90, Ohio St. 88. Reserve Demetrius Calip scored 12 of his 19 points in the second half as Michigan won its third game in six days. Ohio State was led by Perry Carter with 29 points.

A basket by Calip tied it 68-68 with 9:47 left and a 3-pointer by Sean Hig-

Colorado's McCartney named Coach of Year

By RUTH RENDON
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON — Colorado's Bill McCartney told his son that representing him at the Bear Bryant award ceremonies to name the nation's college football Coach of the Year would consist of a quick speech and no tuxedo rental.

Dad was wrong, but Mike McCartney didn't mind giving two speeches as he accepted the award on his father's behalf Thursday night.

"It surely is a stamp of approval of what we're doing at the University of Colorado," the tux-clad McCartney told about 650 gathered at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

McCartney, a graduate assistant on the Buffaloes staff, said his father told him the ceremony would not "be a big deal. You just give a little one-minute speech and you're out of there. You don't have to rent a tux."

"It didn't quite work out that way," the younger McCartney said after his second trip to the podium for the acceptance speech. He also had to talk to the crowd beforehand during introductions.

Colorado, 11-1, was ranked No. 1 during the season and earned a trip to the Orange Bowl. Even though the Buffaloes lost the New Year's Day game to Notre Dame, McCartney said the experience sets the stage for the 1990 season.

"Losing to Notre Dame was tough and devastating in a lot of ways," said McCartney. "It creates an upbeat excitement for next year. We want to be a team generally ranked in the Top 10."

Other finalists for the award named in honor of the late Alabama football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant were Miami's Dennis Erickson, Notre Dame's Lou Holtz and Bill Curry, former head coach of Alabama who's now at Kentucky.

Holtz, who won the award last year and in 1977 while at Arkansas, had a hectic schedule Thursday as he traveled to Houston for an afternoon press conference and then flew to Mobile, Ala., to address the Chamber of Commerce.

Ford steps down at Clemson

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Clemson coach Danny Ford, the third winningest football coach in the nation, resigned in the wake of the second NCAA investigation during his 11 years at the Atlantic Coast Conference school.

The 41-year-old Ford coached the Tigers to the national championship in 1981 and compiled a 96-29-4 record, including a 5-3 mark in bowl games. But ever since Clemson received a letter of inquiry from the NCAA two weeks ago concerning 14 alleged rules violations, Ford's job was rumored to be in jeopardy.

Clemson was placed on two years' probation in 1982 — a year after the Tigers won the national championship — after the NCAA found 70 rule violations by the football program that occurred between the 1976 and 1982. The Tigers were coached during that span by Charley Pell and Ford, who became coach prior to the Gator Bowl of 1978.
