City Commission observes drug dog demonstration

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
News Editor

Pampa Police Department's newest member dashed through the legs of city commissioners and playfully posed for cameras, but did not falter in his assigned task of sniffing out illegal substances hidden in the Commission Room of City Hall Tuesday.

Rosco, the drug dog, is the latest addition to the city's Comprehensive Drug Program. Trained for tracking and drug detection, Rosco will soon be joined by another member of the police department's narcotics canine division - Shadow.

Cpl. Dave Wilkinson, crime prevention officer and Rosco's handler, demonstrated some of his charge's capabilities at the Pampa City Commission's work session Tuesday.

The 18-month-old golden retriever is trained in detecting narcotics and in tracking missing persons but is still undergoing training in obedience, Wilkinson explained. Obedience training and bonding between the dog and his handler will continue for the next six to nine months, Police Chief Jim Laramore said.

Rosco, whose sense of smell is 10,000 times stronger than a human's, can detect almost any type of illegal drugs known, including marijuana, cocaine, methamphetamines, crystal, and ice, Wilkinson said. The dog is rewarded for a successful find by allowing him to play with his ball and giving him affection.

Termed an "aggressive" drug dog, Rosco will scratch the place where he smells narcotics, Wilkinson told commissioners and members of the public attending the work session. A non-aggressive drug dog would simply sit down until the handler acknowledges what the dog has found, he explained.

A videotape about Rosco was shown to commissioners prior to the actual demonstration. It explained that a plywood platform has been built for the animal in the back of Wilkinson's patrol unit. Rosco's kennel, a 6-by-6-by-4 chain link enclosure, outfitted with a dog house donated by Babb Construction, is located at Wilkinson's house.

A similar platform and kennel have been constructed for Shadow, a 2-year-old black labrador, who will be handled by Cpl. Tracy Norwood.

In the demonstration, Rosco unerringly pointed out a suitcase containing a plastic bag filled with marijuana that had been hidden in the podium at the Commission Room. Rosco then scratched at the door of a closet in the room. Inside was a suitcase. Inside the suitcase were syringes enclosed in a plastic case that had only a residue of methamphetamines in them.

As a reward, Wilkinson threw a ball over Rosco's shoulder and allowed him to play with it for a minute or two. Several times, Rosco chased the ball under the chairs containing commissioners, Mayor Richard Peet and City Manager Glen Hackler - much to the amusement of the city officials and spectators.

"I think we can look forward to a lot of success with these dogs," Wilkinson said. "As you can tell, they're trained to do what they're supposed to do."

Cost of the drug dog program will be approximately $9,600 and will be covered through a grant, Hackler told commissioners later.

Discussion about a possible non-smoking ordinance brought forward representatives of both sides of the potentially volatile issue during Tuesday's work session.

Richard Gattis, who proposed the city pass such an ordinance 1 1/2 years ago, has provided city officials similar ordinances passed by other cities and also a list of 42 Texas cities which have already passed a law against smoking in public places.

Hackler pointed out that key issues concerning the ordinance include defining "public places," being aware of rights of owners of private businesses, and determining the level of community support.

Rosco, Pampa Police Department's recently-acquired drug and tracking dog, appears to pose for the camera in the midst of scenting marijuana hidden in the Commission Room Tuesday.

"This is an emotional issue," said Commissioner Jerry Wilson. "I'm a non-smoker and I feel very strongly about this on a personal level. I also feel strongly about limiting the amount of government intrusion on the lives of individuals. We need the staff to get the facts together so we can deal with this in an unemotional way."

Mayor Peet agreed with Wilson. Commissioner Ray Hupp wanted to see what other cities the size of Pampa are doing about such ordinances. Commissioner Gary Sutherland wanted to hear from both sides of the issue.

"The size of the city doesn't matter. Whether they're 5,000 or 500,000 (population), dead is dead. It's a scientific fact that smoking kills you and involuntary smoking kills you," Gattis said, adding that he felt that safety and health were the responsibility of the government. "Anyone who runs a business is subject to all health laws concerned. Why would they be subject to one and not another?"

Danny Bainum, owner of Danny's Market restaurant, commented, "I am a business owner. I believe I should have control over that business in some way. Let's leave businessmen a little leeway. If people don't want to go where there's smoking allowed, (the business owner) is going to change it. You don't have to worry about that."

Another potentially hot issue surfaced during the city commission's work session Tuesday - obscenity and pornography. Peet pointed out that this discussion was also a result of request by the public. "This is another issue we're going to have to address," he said. "It's something we'll have to look at and deal with in our community."

City staff members have been gathering data since May, Hackler said, including the Fort Worth obscenity ordinance which was recently upheld by the Supreme Court. Peet instructed them to continue with their research and to bring the matter before commissioners once it has been completed.

In the citizen's request portion of the regular commission meeting,

W.A. Morgan asked commissioners to take action toward cleaning up the salt problem in water provided to the city through the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. The approximately $8 million needed for the clean-up could be paid for by an addition of 60- to 65-cents to water bills of every customer receiving the water, he said.

"I think we should start negotiations," Morgan said. "We've been told that it is federal property and nothing can be done, but that's not necessarily so. We will have to spend some money, but we can accumulate enough in eight years to accumulate the entire $8 million. Let's go toward spending the money and get started on it. It's our problem. Why don't we go ahead and get started on it?"

Commissioners unanimously agreed to accept a high bid of $7,650 from Pampa Senior Citizens Center for tax property located at 520 W. Francis. City officials said the Senior Citizens Center is considering using the land to enlarge the parking area.

In other action, commissioners approved September disbursements.

Hackler reported that a number of vacancies are open on several city advisory boards including the Traffic Commission, Pampa Municipal Golf Course Board, Electrical Board, Plumbing and Mechanical Board, and Board of Adjustment.

Other topics covered in the work session included the city providing funds and labor toward the improvement of the South Side Senior Citizens Center, and consideration of adding two civilian investigators to the police departments Criminal Investigation Division to follow-up on investigation of minor offenses.

Hackler also reported that he had received written confirmation from the state that Pampa can now bid for test wells to be drilled at the prison site and discussed with commissioners the city's role in handling seasonal decorations.

Police investigate window-smashings

Pampa Police Department received four calls this morning of window smashings in, or near Coronado Center, said Lt. Steve Chance of the police department.

Pampa Pool and Spa in the shopping center reported that a trash can had been thrown through a far west window of the business.

Dunlaps, also in the shopping center, reported a trash can thrown through the window of that business, as well.

The trash cans were sitting along the sidewalks of the shopping center, Chance said.

A Navy recruiter's car, parked at Coronado Center, had the windshield smashed, according to a police report.

And Bill Allison Auto Sales, 1200 N. Hobart, across from the shopping center, had windshields of six car windows smashed, according to police.

State officials file cease-and-desist order naming city businessman, title company

By BETH MILLER
Staff Writer

An official order was issued late last Friday by the Commissioner of Insurance which immediately bars a Pampa businessman from dealing in any type of title insurance business, according to certified documents from the State Board of Insurance in Austin.

David M. Dillon, a staff attorney with the state board, said in a telephone interview Tuesday that Gail Wayne Sanders, doing business as Guaranty Abstract & Title Co., 204 N. Russell, was sent a copy of the "ex parte emergency Cease and Desist Order" on Monday by registered mail.

Sanders, who has been contacted several times by The Pampa News for comment, has made no comment on the matter this week. He could not be reached today by the newspaper.

Dillon said the emergency order was issued after allegations that Sanders was engaging in the business of insurance in the state in violation of the Texas Insurance Code. Dillon also said the allegations include that Sanders was "committing unfair methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices" in violation of the Texas Insurance Code.

The order was issued as an "emergency issue," because the "conduct creates an immediate danger to the public safety or is causing or can be reasonably expected to cause significant, imminent and irreparable public injury," according to the state board documents.

The order states that Sanders is unauthorized at the present time to engage in the business of insurance.

A list of 13 items was made in the order from the insurance commissioner which Sanders, doing business as Guaranty Abstract & Title Co., is immediately ordered to cease and desist. These items include the following:

- Falsifying, altering, concealing, destroying or refusing to disclose to the state board any records relating to business.
- Making, or proposing to make, as an insurer, an insurance contract.

- Making or proposing to make, as guarantor or surety, any contract of guaranty or suretyship.

- Taking or receiving applications for insurance.

- Receiving or collecting any premium, commission, membership fees, assessments, dues or other consideration for any insurance.

- Issuing or delivering contracts of insurance to residents of the state of Texas or people authorized to do business in the state.

- Directly or indirectly acting as an agent for or otherwise representing or aiding on behalf of another person or insurer in the solicitation, negotiation, procurement ... or in any other manner representing or assisting a person in the transaction of insurance ...

- Doing any kind of insurance business specifically recognized as constituting the doing of an insurance business within the meaning of the statutes relating to insurance, including acting as an escrow officer.

- Making, publishing or circulating - indirectly or directly - a notice, circular, pamphlet, letter over any media which represents any untrue, deceptive or misleading statements about the business.

- Making, issuing, or circulating any estimate, illustration or statement misrepresenting the terms of any policy issued or to be issued or the benefits or advantages promised or the dividends or share of surplus to be received ... or making any misrepresentation as to the financial condition of any insurer, or as to the legal reserve system upon which any life insurer operates, or using any name or title of any policy or class of policies misrepresenting the true nature ... or making any misrepresentation to any policyholder insured in any company for the purpose of inducing the policyholder to lapse, forfeit or surrender his insurance.

- Forging or using a writing with the intent to defraud or harm another, with respect to the insurance business.

- Misappropriating, converting to his own use or illegally withholding money belonging to an insurer or an insured or beneficiary.

- Doing or proposing to do any insurance business in substance equivalent to any of the foregoing in a manner designed to evade the provisions of the statutes.

Sanders has 30 days from the receipt of the order to request a hearing before the insurance commissioner. If no hearing is requested, a final order will be issued, according to a spokesman at the State Board of Insurance.

The main allegations against Sanders which caused the issuance of the order are that he and the business hold no valid insurance license, as of June 1, 1990.

According to the application for the cease and desist order, Guaranty Abstract & Title Co. is a sole proprietorship allegedly owned by Jewell Flannigan. Sanders is alleged to have described himself as the owner, manager or lessee of the company, and in any event is in the control of the assets and records of the business, according to the state board documents.

Guaranty was a licensed title insurance agency through a licensed underwriter, Chicago Title Insurance Co., until Guaranty's license expired on June 1, 1990, according to the allegations, and the license has not been renewed.

Sanders, as well, does not possess a valid title insurance agent's license or escrow officer's license issued by the State Board of Insurance, according to the allegations. He held a license from April 13, 1987, to June 1, 1990, when the license expired. He has not been renewed, according to the state board.

A spokeswoman with Chicago Title Insurance Co. said Tuesday that the company has removed its name from the business and all of its forms. She said she could make no other comment on the case.

Fabian Gomez, head of the title insurance division of the State Board of Insurance, said Tuesday that Chicago has indicated it will stand by any policies that were issued on its forms during the period when Sanders was not licensed.

However, Gomez said it is unknown at this time if any closings were done in which policies were not issued.

"Gail Wayne Sanders has continued doing the business of insurance under his name and the name Guaranty Abstract & Title Co. Gail Wayne Sanders has collected premiums and issued or delivered title policies although neither Guaranty nor Gail Wayne Sanders holds a valid license," according to the allegations.

Gomez said Sanders was issued a subpoena and asked to come to Austin to talk to the state board about the situation, but he did not reply. Gomez also said an investigator with the state board who was in Pampa was unable to locate Sanders.

Sheltered Workshop to host next United Way check-in Pampa Sheltered Workshop, 1301 W. Somerville, is hosting this week's check-in of the Pampa United Way campaign from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

The check-in is scheduled to be one of two remaining in this year's campaign.

Through last week, a total of $125,513, or 38 percent of the $332,000 goal, had been pledged.

However, Katrina Bigham, executive administrator of the United Way, said there are still quite a few major firms who have not reported what their contributions will be this year. Bigham said she expects large sums to roll in at the last two check-ins.

Pampa Sheltered Workshop and Gray County Child Protective Services are co-hosts for this week's check-in.

Vice President Dan Quayle tastes a chocolate chip cookie made by B.J. Brown at an HEB Supermarket in Corpus Christi Tuesday. Quayle visited Corpus Christi to attend a fund-raising luncheon for U.S. Senator Phil Gramm. On his way from the airport to the luncheon, the Quayle motorcade diverted to the supermarket where the vice president talked with customers and store employees.

Vice president praises troops for their role in Middle East

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle concluded a day of campaigning for Republicans with a pep talk to military troops and praise for international opposition to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

"Desert Shield is not about cheap oil. It is about the future of all nations," Quayle said Tuesday night. "It is a question of whether we'll live in a world governed by law, or by the rule of the jungle."

Quayle spoke to about 300 troops and their families at Kelly Air Force Base, where dozens of military personnel were clad in sand-colored desert camouflage clothes and hats. An Air Force band played patriotic music as Quayle arrived by plane.

His San Antonio stop was the last of a four-city swing through Texas to campaign for U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and other Republicans, including gubernatorial nominee Clayton Williams. Earlier Tuesday Quayle visited Victoria, Corpus Christi and Houston.

"Our hearts and prayers are with the men and women who are there and for their families," Quayle said of Operation Desert Shield. "We are there to stop Saddam Hussein and to stop the naked aggression of Iraq invading Kuwait, and the world is united against Saddam Hussein."

The vice president also remembered the Air Force reservists from Kelly killed recently in a C-5 cargo plane crash in Germany while taking part in the Middle East buildup.

"We salute their heroism, and we will never, never forget them," Quayle said.

At a fund-raising dinner for Gramm, Quayle defended the Bush administration's stance on a Civil Rights bill passed by Congress and vetoed by the president.

"This president is committed to civil rights, and he wants to sign a civil rights bill," Quayle said. "But he will not sign a quota bill."

Quayle also criticized Democratic gubernatorial nominee Ann Richards, and asked voters to recall her remarks about then presidential candidate George Bush during the keynote address at the Democratic national convention. "Just remember what she said about our president," Quayle said. "Remember what Democrats do when they become governor. Just look at the state of Massachusetts."

Discussing the federal budget standoff, Quayle blasted congressional Democrats, saying they are responsible for the budget chaos and are trying to place too much tax burden on working families.

"The Democrats' definition of the wealthy is anyone who has a job," said Quayle, who earlier denied that the Bush administration has flip-flopped on taxes.

In Houston, Quayle had said proposed federal tax increases on gasoline, cigarettes and liquor as part of a budget deficit reduction package are not all bad.

The vice president in Houston also visited Texas Children's Hospital, which soon will be the nation's largest pediatric care center. He mingled with young heart patients and accepted calendars with pictures drawn by the children.

Elizabeth Dole resigns today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole today became the first member of President Bush's Cabinet to resign, leaving after two years to become head of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Dole's departure was announced by President Bush, who said she had "earned the respect of the American people, and as secretary of Labor has made the work place safer, healthier and more secure."

Mrs. Dole, the only woman to head a department in the Bush administration, is the first member of the president's Cabinet to quit.

Mrs. Dole, 54, called AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland on Tuesday afternoon and told him she was stepping down to become president of the Red Cross, said Ken Young, Kirkland's top aide.

"Lanc told her he was sorry that she was leaving and he had enjoyed working with her and that he thought she'd done a good job," Young said. "She worked with us, she was accessible and she clearly told her various departments to work with us and others."

At the Labor Department, Mrs. Dole worked to strengthen job safety programs and toughen enforcement of child labor laws. She was also praised for her efforts to settle the bitter Pittston coal strike in 1989.

But others criticized her "low profile" within the administration and complained that she was not a part of the White House policymaking process.

For instance, White House chief of staff John Sununu, not Mrs. Dole, took the lead on last year's minimum wage negotiations with Congress, labor officials complained.

There was no explanation for her reported decision to take the Red Cross job, which pays $185,000 a year. Cabinet secretaries make $98,400.

City receives award for financial reporting

City Director of Finance John Horst received an Award of Financial Reporting Achievement from the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA) at the Pampa City Commission meeting Tuesday.

The City of Pampa was also awarded the Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting, said Mayor Richard Peet in announcing the honors.

"We've been through some rocky times," said Hackler when presenting Horst with the certificate. "This is very deserving of you and your staff."

The city received the award for its comprehensive annual financial report, according to a news release from the GFOA. The Certificate of Achievement is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting. Attaining the award represents significant accomplishment by a government and its management, the news release states.

Horst received the Award of Financial Reporting Achievement as the person primarily responsible for preparing the award-winning comprehensive annual financial report.

The report was judged by an impartial panel to see if it meets the high standards of the program including demonstrating a constructive "spirit of full disclosure" to clearly communicate the government agency's financial story and motivate potential users and user groups to read the report.

GFOA is a non-profit professional association with offices in Chicago, Ill., and Washington, D.C. serving 12,200 government finance professionals.

Peer support group promotes Red Ribbon Campaign here

A positive peer support group of Pampa High School is promoting the Red Ribbon Campaign this week with Texans' War On Drugs. The group - TNT - Teens Needing Teens, has a number of projects scheduled including poster contests and speaking to elementary and middle school students. The Red Ribbon Campaign originated when Federal Agent Enrique Camarena was murdered by drug traffickers in 1985. The Red Ribbon became the symbol behind the nation's war on drugs. The purpose of the Texas Red Ribbon Campaign is to present a unified and visible commitment toward a drug-free state. PHS students involved in TNT and student council members will visit the elementary and middle schools to tie a red ribbon on each student and to stress the importance of not doing drugs. The red ribbon was donated by Wal-Mart. The students will also perform a short program including singing with the children Pampa's War Against Drugs, written by teacher Kathy Carter. ON YOU HARVESTERS, ON YOU HARVESTERS WE JUST DON'T DO DRUGS. ## Families of drug-related victims say drugs hurt more than users

By JOEL WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

McALLEN (AP) - Drug agent Enrique Camarena was tortured and killed by drug traffickers in Mexico in 1985. University student Mark James Kilroy was kidnapped and ritually slain by a cult of drug smugglers last year just south of the border. Their families met for the first time this week to put their profound loss on display. They refuse to allow the slayings to have been in vain. Their message is simple and poignant, said Helen Kilroy, Mark's mother. "More people are hurt by drugs than just the users," Mrs. Kilroy said before an appearance Tuesday night at an anti-drug rally in McAllen. Mrs. Kilroy and her husband, James, joined Enrique Camarena's mother, Dora Camarena, and his sister, Myrna Camarena, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday for the Lower Rio Grande Valley's observance of the national "Red Ribbon" week. It had particular significance at Texas' southern tip, one of the nation's most active drug-smuggling corridors. "Lives have been lost and homes have been broken, leaving families suffering," Dora Camarena, who speaks only Spanish, told the primarily teen-age crowd of about 5,000 Monday night at McAllen Memorial Stadium. Her son's death "left us an example to fight drugs. We will remember him forever," said Mrs. Camarena, a resident of Calexico, Calif.

"You should have seen it when these families met for the first time," said Tina M. Guerra, assistant district supervisor with the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission in McAllen, who worked to bring them together. "Fate brought them together. You can't describe it. There was a glow." James Kilroy said he felt a bond with the Camarenas, both families having suffered the consequences of death by drug traffickers. Also with them was the family of Manuel Segovia, a 36-year-old Hidalgo County sheriff's deputy from McAllen killed in a 1986 drug raid. He represents the local drug-related killings that never get national attention. Enrique Camarena's 1985 slaying inspired the Red Ribbon campaign, designed to promote anti-drug awareness. Drug traffickers abducted him in Guadalajara, Mexico, where he worked as an agent for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration. Notorious drug trafficker Rafael Caro Quintero is now in a Mexican prison in connection with the murder. The Camarena murder inspired the best-selling book, "Desperados," and a television movie. Myrna Camarena, who translated her mother's brief speech, took part in last year's Red Ribbon campaign in El Paso. "We're hoping to cause an impact on the community locally and to help stop the flow of drugs from Mexico," said Myrna Camarena, an office manager with the DEA in the San Diego, Calif., area. Mark Kilroy's slaying also inspired several books. Just released this week was his father's version, written with San Antonio author Bob Stewart, titled "Sacrifice: the drug cult murder of Mark Kilroy at Matamoros." The book's cover describes it as "A father's determination to turn evil into good." Profits from the book go to the Mark Kilroy Foundation, a drug-awareness organization the Kilroys formed. The drug smugglers who killed Mark Kilroy reportedly sought occult protection from the authorities and from rival smugglers by sacrificing humans. Kilroy, a 21-year-old University of Texas student, grew up in the city of Santa Fe, near Houston. He disappeared while celebrating spring break 1989 in the border city of Matamoros, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from Brownsville. Kilroy was found buried in an area just west of Matamoros where police found 14 other bodies believed to have been killed by the drug ring. The cult's "godfather," Miami-born Adolfo de Jesus Constanza, and a close associate were killed in a shoot-out with Mexican police in May 1989. Other alleged members of the ring are on trial in Mexico's lengthy judicial process on charges ranging from homicide to drug smuggling and cover-up, among other violations. "We really want to do something about this drug problem," James Kilroy said. "It's getting worse all the time."

Officials warn of abandoned toxic drums in woods

AUSTIN (AP) - Hunters, hikers and campers are being warned by the Texas Water Commission to beware of abandoned hazardous waste drums that they may encounter while in the woods. Water Commission executive director Allen Beinke said Tuesday that the areas outdoor enthusiasts find attractive can be the same areas that illegal dumpers find convenient to leave their toxic wastes. "Because illegal or midnight dumping of hazardous wastes is more likely to occur in rural locations, we want to warn people to be very cautious as they enter secluded, wooded areas this fall," Beinke said.

If a person discovers abandoned drums they should not try to move or open them, Beinke said. In addition, hunters should not use the drums for target practice because one gunshot could touch off an explosion equal to a 55-gallon hand grenade, he said. Beinke also warned hunters not to use the drums as a hunting blind and not to hunt downwind from an abandoned drum site because some substances may deaden the sense of smell or have no odor at dangerous concentrations. He said drums may be mislabeled because they almost never contain their original contents. A person should seek immediate medical attention if exposed to a substance from an abandoned drum, he said. Beinke said danger signs that would indicate an abandoned drum contains hazardous wastes include stressed or dying vegetation in the area or downwind of the drums; disintegrating or heavily corroded drums; and discolored or stained soil around the drums. Anyone who discovers abandoned drums should notify the Texas Emergency Response Center, which has a 24-hour telephone number at 512-463-7727, Beinke said. Callers will remain anonymous.

Medicare supplement, long-term care insurance, misleading advertising and information on the federal Medicare and Medicaid programs. The training workshop is part of the SBI's effort to address insurance problems facing Texas's 1.7 million seniors. The Dallas workshop offers a first-hand opportunity to receive current insurance information. Previous workshops were held in Houston and Austin. While the workshop is designed for professionals involved with older Texans, it is open to senior citizens and the public on a space available basis. ## Opinion

Bush should recall namesake George IV

If it becomes law, here's how the proposed federal tax increase would affect Americans of various incomes, according to an analysis by The New York Times (based on one of the plans, anyway):

- Income from $20,000 to $50,000, 3.3 percent more taken in taxes.
- $20,000 to $30,000, 3 percent taken.
- $50,000 to $100,000, 2 percent taken.
- $100,000 to $200,000 1.5 percent taken.
- Those making below $20,000 pay less.

So there it is: The hard-pressed middle class, as always, gets hit the hardest with higher taxes. Why? Because that's where the money is. If taxes rise too high, moreover, a wealthy man can shift his money to other countries. Indeed, the proposed new taxes on the wealthy would push many of them to do just that, reducing the money America needs to invest in new factories and jobs. But a middle-class taxpayer isn't likely to move his family abroad.

No wonder sensible congressmen are in revolt, especially in the half of Congress closest to the people, the House of Representatives. Said Minority Leader Newt Gingrich, point man for the revolt, "It is my conclusion that it will kill jobs, weaken the economy, that the tax increase will be counterproductive." Another factor: Election reality. Gingrich faces a tough re-election campaign next month against an anti-tax Democrat. For him to support taxes would be political hara-kiri.

The same holds true for dozens of other Republicans, and many Democrats, in the House. In an otherwise bland campaign, taxes have become the top issue. Many others just don't want their taxes increased 3.3 percent, and will vote to dump from office any incumbents who support the new seizures.

Even in the Senate the pols have gotten the message. The revolt isn't as hot there because only one-third of Senate seats are up for election this year. Even so, 16 Democratic senators up for re-election have been "given a free pass" to vote against the tax increase, as one senator told the Times off the record. This subterfuge itself shows how much the senators fear the voters' wrath.

Texas' congressmen, who have voiced opposition to the tax increase, should march in the revolt's front ranks. They should insist that Bush return to his pledge of "no new taxes," and remind him that an economy-killing tax increase would bring a deep recession, damaging the president's own re-election chances in 1992. Bush himself should remember 1976, when a high tax Republican president, Gerald Ford, was nearly bested for the Republican nomination by anti-tax upstart Ronald Reagan.

Beginning over 200 years ago, American history has been a long series of tax revolts. If George Bush does not join the new revolt, he will be ousted from power as was his namesake, George III, in 1776.

A letter from Death Row

RICHMOND, Va. — Let me ask a favor. Take a couple of minutes, if you will, to read a letter from Joe Giarratano. He is on death row in Virginia's prison at Boydton. On Oct. 1 the Supreme Court turned down his last appeal. His legal roads have run out. If Gov. Doug Wilder refuses to intervene, Joe will be executed before the end of the year.

By way of background: On the unchallenged record, Joe Giarratano was the product of a sordid childhood. He has a limited high school education. Those facts do not excuse, but they help explain.

In Feb. 1979, when this sad chapter began, Giarratano was 21 years old, a drug addict, a drunkard, a drifter working on a fish boat out of Newport News. No man is worthless in the eyes of God, but in 1979 Joe was right at the bottom of the heap.

The ugly details of the crime are now irrelevant. Joe was charged and convicted of the rape-murder of a 15-year-old girl and the murder of her mother. The only evidence against him came from five separate confessions he signed in the hours immediately after the arrest.

The confessions were internally inconsistent; they smacked of police coaching. Following a brief non-jury trial, a judge sentenced him to death. That was almost 12 years ago. He has been in prison ever since. He has spent his time studying law and remaking his life.

I learned of the case three years ago. I spent hours reading the record and came away deeply troubled. I am not sure that Joe is guilty; I am not sure he is innocent; but I have spent 50 years covering courts and I am certain of this: He was not convicted beyond reasonable doubt.

Now to the letter. It is dated Oct. 8, 1990: "I truly appreciate the efforts you have made on my behalf, and for bringing my plight to the attention of the public through your columns. Knowing that folks really care has been a real boon for my morale.

"Overall I am holding up well, and I remain hopeful. The news from the U.S. Supreme Court came as no surprise, though it is terribly frustrating to see that procedural default mechanisms can outweigh the truth-finding process in such an obdurate fashion. Even though I understand the judiciary's frustration with capital cases, I really find it impossible to reconcile that imbalance with the Constitution (state or federal). The ball is now in the governor's court, and I can only hope that he will exercise his executive authority.

"In the meanwhile my chin is up, and I keep fairly busy. I've recently completed an article for the Yale Law Journal ('A Cautionary Tale: Fallibility vs. Finality'). It is in the final editing stages. And I am in the process of co-authoring another law review with Professor Mike Mello (Vermont Law School). The subject is the 'forgotten' Ninth Amendment of our Constitution.

"Early in November 50 law students from Georgetown and Maryland will be coming to the prison, and I plan to talk with them about the Ninth Amendment and Lockean political theory and its role in the formation of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. I've given two talks like this in the past, and I was amazed to discover how little is known about the historical underpinnings of the Constitution. Amazed isn't the proper word because my ignorance was on par with theirs until just a couple of years ago.

"Anyway, I have rambled on enough. I simply wanted to send you a note of thanks. If things work out for me I hope we can one day meet. Please do not feel obliged to respond to this letter. I know that you are a busy man. Be well, and keep telling it like it is."

A personal note: I am not opposed to the death sentence. Given a killer in the weird mold of Ted Bundy, I see no reason for society to keep such a monster alive. The prospect of capital punishment may not be a deterrent to rape or murder — I doubt that it is, but that issue defies resolution. In truly heinous cases, a death sentence ought to be available to a jury as an option.

But let me ask: What would be the point in killing Joe Giarratano now? In all of my instincts I am a man of the law. The judgments of a court ought not to be flouted.

But Joe was convicted 12 years ago by a single trial judge on evidence of doubtful reliability. The confused, suicidal drug addict of 1979 is gone. In his place one finds a young man with a good mind and a healthy outlook on life. How would killing him avenge the victims or sustain respect for judicial process?

Some useful purpose ought to be served by putting Joe to death. I see no useful purpose at all.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 24, the 297th day of 1990. There are 68 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On Oct. 24, 1901, Anna Edson Taylor, a 43-year-old widow, became the first person to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel and live to tell about it. (Mrs. Taylor's dreams of fame and fortune failed to materialize, however, and she died in poverty in 1921.)

On this date: In 1537, Jane Seymour, the third wife of England's King Henry VIII, died 12 days after giving birth to Prince Edward, later King Edward VI.

In 1648, the Peace of Westphalia ended the 30 Years War and effectively destroyed the Holy Roman Empire.

In 1861, the first transcontinental telegraph message was sent as Justice Stephen J. Field of California transmitted a telegram to President Abraham Lincoln.

In 1931, the George Washington Bridge, connecting New York and New Jersey, opened to traffic.

In 1939, nylon stockings went on sale for the first time as several stores in Wilmington, Del., began offering the much-awaited hosiery made from Du Pont's new synthetic yarn.

We're smoking foreign tobacco

Our federal government is lending money to American tobacco farmers to limit acreage and to prop up the price of home-grown tobacco — while American tobacco companies are buying tobacco overseas because it is cheaper.

And one looks on and wonders. Many types and kinds of tobacco are grown in the United States. Three are used in cigarettes: burley, flue-cured and Southern Maryland.

Burley tobacco is a significant agricultural crop in Kentucky and flue-cured in North Carolina, yet most tobacco farmers have to grow other crops or supplement their income with off-the-farm jobs.

Tobacco will yield $3,000 an acre but, because no satisfactory harvester has been developed, it takes a lot of man hours to produce and bring to market even one acre of tobacco.

So the manufacturers of American cigarettes are buying about a third of the tobacco they use from other countries, at a saving of 30 cents a pound. The price of a pack of cigarettes has gone from 30 cents 25 years ago to an average price today of $1.19.

Paul Harvey

Yet the American farmers' share has remained unchanged at about 4 cents.

Understandably, then, the production of domestic tobacco is decreasing; our country is importing more.

Once every three years tobacco growers vote on whether they are willing to hold acreage down in exchange for a support price. Presently the support price for flue-cured tobacco is about $1.48 and for burley $1.56.

It amounts to a loan program that the farmer is required to repay and generally does.

But the result is to hold production down and the price up to where it is cheaper for the tobacco companies to import about 35 percent of all tobacco they use in cigarettes.

They will tell you that they must flavor their product with 10 percent to 15 percent Oriental tobaccos.

That would not, however, explain the continuing percentage increase in their overseas purchases. Foreign tobacco, government-subsidized, grown and harvested with cheap labor, competes unfairly with our own.

The American Farm Bureau has long argued for the removal of government subsidies for all agriculture, thus to allow free market competitiveness to establish a fair price.

The price we pay for ignoring that advice is to shrink American tobacco farms to an inefficient average of 14 acres each.

Jockism must be banned from sports

By CHUCK STONE

One woman reporter being sexually harassed in a team locker room after a football game and two being barred — all in the past few weeks — does not forebode a national epidemic.

The three incidents, however, do reveal the tip of a sexist iceberg that signifies an attempted return to the days when women were honored in the kitchen and applauded in the bedroom.

That any woman reporter should be forced to deal with exclusion from locker rooms in 1990 is constitutionally unacceptable at best and morally slimy at worst. The only remaining question is: Why?

Women have been entering basketball, hockey, baseball and football locker rooms since the 1978 federal court decision guaranteeing women reporters equal access.

Regionalism cannot be blamed since the three teams — the Cincinnati Bengals, the New England Patriots and the University of North Carolina Tarheels — reflect a regional eclecticism. Post-game depression offers no answer. The Bengals lost, but both the Patriots and the Tarheels won.

Far more disturbing were the coaches' defensive comments. The Cincinnati coach, Sam Wyche, whose major claim to civilized conduct is his mastery of the knife and fork, boasted that he would resign before he would "allow women to walk in on 50 naked men."

Having been warned twice in the past two years about banning reporters, Wyche should be fired or at least encouraged to resign. Any football coach who is squeamish about women reporters interviewing the men in his charge (who have the option of donning towels) either has some psychological dissonance with which he cannot cope or the Constitution is an alien document to him.

All three incidents seem to be clouded by four unsubstantiated presumptions:

- (1) Women reporters do not have the same rights as male reporters.
- (2) Women reporters have never seen naked men before. ("If you don't mind seeing what you might see, feel free to stay," said the North Carolina coach, under the delusion that the woman reporter may never have had an affair or bathed her baby brother).

(3) Big, flesh-tearing behemoths who claw, crunch and sack opponents with a vengeance on the gridiron will collapse in mouselike timidity at the sight of a woman reporter in the locker room.

(4) The wives of the players will be upset by women reporters interviewing their husbands en deshabille. (Which is a remote possibility, assuming the women reporters all look like Kim Basinger, Janet Jackson or Julia Roberts — and the husbands are prone to philandering, which many are.)

If integrity among journalists were in abundance, all would refuse to cover any event where a colleague is barred because of race, gender or sexual preference. But the ever-lurking passion for an exclusive story forces the triumph of expedient ethics over the mutuality of collegial respect.

At the same time, it is no accident of history that all three events occurred within the past few weeks. This nation has entered a dark age of excessive moralism.

Photography shows are barred because of putative pornography. Lyrics are banned because of sexual suggestiveness. Television shows have been attacked because of bawdiness. And Neanderthalic jockism in the locker room has suddenly reared its multiblemished head.

Outside of the selective censorship of a journalistic colleague's right to practice her profession is the more fundamental issue of disrespect for women.

To deny any right to women that men are permitted to exercise is an unconstitutional obscenity that must be crushed with the determination of a defensive lineman sacking a quarterback.

And I would hope that the sacker would be one of the first to protest if jockism victimized his sister, wife or daughter with the denial: "You can't do this job only because you are a woman."

ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Senate tries to override civil rights veto

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights leaders and grassroots groups lobbied hard as the Senate dug in for a longshot effort to override President Bush's veto of a major job discrimination bill.

"The fundamental rights of millions of working women and minorities are at stake," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the chief sponsor, said Tuesday.

But the White House expressed confidence that lawmakers would sustain Bush's veto, which he said was necessary because the bill would lead to hiring quotas — something sponsors dispute.

The Senate planned an override vote today on the measure, which would effectively overturn six job discrimination decisions handed down by the Supreme Court last year.

Two-thirds majorities in both the Senate and House are required to override a veto.

Senate sponsors were believed to be at least two votes short of the 67 votes needed, but they refused to concede defeat. Failure to override the veto in the Senate would kill the bill for the remainder of the year.

Provisions in the legislation range from a ban on racial harassment in the workplace to punitive damages in the most extreme discrimination cases.

The chief dispute, however, came over provisions making it easier to win lawsuits against employers, using statistics to show they discriminated.

Bush expressed regret in disapproving the bill Monday but insisted the veto was necessary. He said the provisions were so stringent that "employers would be driven to adopt quotas in order to avoid liability."

Chances of turning around the two or more senators needed for an override appeared remote Tuesday. But Ralph G. Neas, executive director of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, said an effort was in full swing.

"There's a lot of lobbying going on at the state and local level," he said. He pointed to a statement issued in Los Angeles by the California Black Republican Council, saying Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., had "been sold a bill of goods" in the form of the quota argument.

Near said Benjamin Hooks of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, John Jacob of the National Urban League and other civil rights leaders spent Tuesday on the phone to key Senate offices.

"The vote is very close and we hope that members who have so far voted against the bill because of loyalty to the president will make America's working men and women their first priority," he said.

"We will not concede, we will not surrender, we will not stop fighting," civil rights leader Jesse L. Jackson told a Washington news conference.

In Detroit, United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber said Bush had "stuck a blow to fairness and justice which will be deeply felt by the entire nation."

The bill represents a year of work by the civil rights community. It grew out of a furor over the Supreme Court's 1989 decisions on job discrimination.

Administration officials and sponsors negotiated over much of the summer but were unable to reach a compromise.

Bush has often said he wanted to sign a civil rights bill this year but would not accept one that would lead to hiring quotas.

Sponsors frequently have said the measure would not lead to quotas and their rhetoric has become sharper in recent days. Kennedy said Monday that the quota argument was "a sham."

Bush has consistently scored relatively high in polls of black opinion. But in the wake of the veto, black leaders said relations would cool somewhat.

Jackson said Bush's "actions are not the result of racial ignorance or insensitivity. They are the conscious, deliberate, callous and calculated political choice of a president who chooses to lead by division, fear and an appeal to our baser instincts."

Bush's veto, never overturned, becomes effective tool to win concessions

By TERENCE HUNT
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the dismay of Democrats, President Bush has compiled a long list of successful vetoes and in the process has rewritten the civics-book definition of how to use them.

Bush has wielded his veto pen 16 times, and he has never been overridden in a Congress ruled by Democrats. Just as importantly, the veto — and threats of a veto — have helped the president wrest compromises from reluctant lawmakers.

Bush's winning streak was likely to remain intact when Congress attempted to override his rejection of a major civil rights bill. Supporters of the measure concede they did not have the two-thirds majority needed to overturn the veto.

"Of the many vetoes of President George Bush, this may well be the unkindest and ugliest yet," United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber complained Tuesday.

Over the last three decades, only Gerald R. Ford had a higher veto rate, and he had a quarter of his vetoes overridden.

Bush is using his veto power differently than many presidents who employed the veto simply to kill unwanted legislation or bills they deemed unconstitutional.

In large measure, Bush uses vetoes to force compromises from Congress. It is a tactic that makes the White House a player at the bargaining table as bills move through the House and Senate.

"He has wielded the veto much less as a public relations weapon, much more as a quiet instrument of influence in the Congress," said American Enterprise Institute analyst Norman Ornstein.

"Richard Nixon often used to veto bills at press conferences, making a statement as much as anything else," Ornstein said. "George Bush does it in a much more understated way."

In dealing with lawmakers, Bush has a big problem. He has the smallest share of his own party members in Congress of any newly elected president in history.

"When you have two houses against you, you have no leverage, the odds are heavy against you," said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater. "So you've got to use a sledgehammer going in that says, 'We won't accept this.'"

In his day, Ronald Reagan coyly refused to say whether he would veto a bill. Bush does it all the time, while also carefully spelling out options to make a bill acceptable.

"You try to get as much change as you can before a bill is passed," Fitzwater said. "So by signaling early that you're going to veto, you tell them they need to seriously consider compromise."

Bush established the pattern with his very first veto. Democrats wanted to raise the minimum hourly wage to $4.55 over three years. Bush said that was excessive and threatened a veto. Congress approved the increase anyway and Bush rejected the bill. When he was sustained, lawmakers and the White House struck a compromise.

Bush vetoed three appropriations bill to force the deletion of abortion funding from otherwise acceptable measures. Three other measures, including one dealing with Chinese students, were rejected to prevent what he viewed as an erosion of presidential authority.

Most recently, Bush vetoed a short-term spending resolution and shut down the government to force progress on deficit-reduction negotiations. Monday's veto of the civil rights legislation came only after months of negotiations between the White House and Congress.

The president coupled his veto with a copy of a civil rights bill he would sign, but civil rights advocates denounced it as a sham.

Proposal to change FFA Creed stirs deep feelings

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Memorizing the 258 words of the Future Farmers of America creed was a high school ritual for generations. Now the creed is being rewritten to reflect a changing industry, and not everyone is happy about it.

"The new one leaves some of the old standards that we live by out of it," said Joel Janke, North Dakota's FFA adviser, who learned the creed as a high school student in the early 1950s.

He is disturbed by the dropping of such passages as, "I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining," and the promise of "playing square with those whose happiness depends on me."

Janke added: "They want to get the farm part out of the creed and out of the terminology. They want to get to the agricultural standpoint."

That reflects the increasingly diverse needs of the 386,000 FFA members nationwide, organization officials say.

Members now are going into agricultural marketing, research, law, horticulture, forestry and other occupations, said Bill Stagg, a spokesman at the organization's Alexandria, Va., headquarters.

The proposed new creed is up for a vote next month at the national FFA convention in Kansas City.

The FFA was founded in Kansas City in 1928 to develop young farmers. Memorizing and delivering the creed is part of training in leadership and public speaking for the group's members.

With sentences as long as 56 words, though, reciting it can be tough. Its six sentences average 43 words each. The proposed rewrite has 205 words in 12 sentences, averaging 17 words each.

The current creed was adopted in 1930 and revised slightly in 1965. The latest proposed statement, written by FFA member Shriley Sokolovsky of Oklahoma, represents the first significant rewrite.

"When the FFA was founded, almost all of the membership intended to farm in one way or another. That is no longer true," Stagg said.

To take this into account, the group's name was changed two years ago to the National FFA Organization. While the acronym was kept, it no longer officially stands for Future Farmers of America.

The first clause of the current creed — "I believe in the future of farming" — is replaced by "I believe in the future of agriculture."

"The old creed, I think, is kind of behind the times," said Chad Dotzenrod, president of the North Dakota FFA.

The current creed "didn't connect with me. It seemed like it was too much for the farmers," Dotzenrod said. His father is an electrical contractor, he added, and "I never had any animals or raised any crops."

CBS loses bundle on the 1990 World Series

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds' sweep of the Oakland A's in the World Series cost CBS a bundle.

Oakland lost the series in four straight games, meaning CBS, which paid $1.08 billion for the rights to four years of baseball, lost the revenue from three unplayed games and had only 14 of a potential 21 postseason games to broadcast.

"We could use a little better luck, for sure," said CBS Sports President Neal Pilson, who put the loss significantly lower. "Under $100 million is, I think, a reasonable guess at this point."

John Reidy, a media analyst for Smith Barney, estimated CBS' overall fourth-quarter loss at more than $50 million, with an overall loss for the year of about $100 million.

"If they had gotten three more games, we figure they could have had an increased contribution to their profits on the order of $15 million to $20 million without too much difficulty," Reidy said.

In 1990, all major sports contracts were up for renewal and CBS was looking to break out of its third-place prime-time standing with aggressive bidding.

CBS' $1.08 billion for baseball was part of a $3.6 billion package for NFL football, NCAA tournament basketball and the next two Winter Olympics.

Humphrey, the whale, runs aground — again

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rescuers struggled today to keep Humphrey the humpback whale wet and safe after he got stuck on a big rock in San Francisco Bay on his annual return engagement.

The 40-foot whale ran aground about 200 feet from shore Monday. Scientists recognized him from his tail markings as Humphrey, the wrong-way whale who splashed to fame in 1985, spending 25 days lost in the bay and other inland waters before swimming back to the Pacific Ocean.

In darkness and whipping wind, volunteers from the Marine Mammal Center worked to keep him safe and awaited high tide, just before dawn, to help free the whale.

"We're using pumps, buckets and towels to keep him wet. His body heats up when it's out of the water," said Marc Webber, the center's science administrator.

Rescuers feared his huge weight would crush his vital organs. "He's literally lying on his lungs," said Denise Springer, a center spokeswoman.

Humphrey's troubles began Monday morning when he blundered onto mud flats near Candlestick Park. Traffic on a highway nearby was snarled for hours as commuters stopped to gawk. Humphrey finally floated off at high tide, only to run onto the rock nearby.

Peigin Barrett, another mammal center spokeswoman, said it didn't appear that Humphrey was injured by the rocks. She said illness might have led the whale to beach himself.

Those keeping watch overnight included Shamel Jackson, 14, who recalled the whale's visit in 1985.

"We had a big banner in class with Humphrey's name on it," she said as she lifted the collar of her jacket against the cold. "I know Humphrey. I want to see him get free."

"I thought the chance of seeing him again in the bay would be real slim," said Kenneth Belcomb of the Center for Whale Research in Washington. Belcomb, who was on the scene Monday, has followed Humphrey's exploits since 1985.

Scientists speculated that the whale made a wrong turn that year on his annual migration through the bay.

Rescuers used everything from underwater explosives to recorded whale sounds to try to Humphrey to turn around, spending about $50,000 in state and federal money.

During that visit, Humphrey was watched by legions of joyful fans. The whale became the subject of songs, poems, books and, of course, a T-shirt.

Since then, Humphrey has been spotted in the ocean near San Francisco every August or September.

Laboratory study shows cocaine increases growth of AIDS virus

ATLANTA (AP) — Researchers say cocaine has been found to speed the growth of the AIDS virus in the test tube, prompting concern it could do the same in drug users.

Researchers with the University of Minnesota Medical School at Minneapolis took peripheral blood mononuclear cells and exposed them to doses of cocaine. The cells are a primary target for the AIDS virus.

The virus was found to grow as much as three times faster in the cocaine-laced tests.

"In persons who are infected, if they continue to abuse this drug it may have a significant impact on the development of clinical AIDS," said Dr. Ronald Schut.

Schut presented the findings at the Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy, sponsored by the American Society for Microbiology.

While about 150,000 AIDS cases have been reported in the United States, researchers say an additional million or more Americans are infected and at risk of developing AIDS.

The question now for researchers is whether drug use somehow modifies the immune system to enhance growth of the AIDS, or HIV, virus.

"The initial in-vitro (test-tube) studies suggest that it's possible," Schut said.

Dr. James Curran, director of the Division of HIV-AIDS at the Centers for Disease Control, said little if any solid information is available on the risk AIDS poses cocaine users. He said drug users are notoriously difficult to study.

However, as far as cocaine is concerned, Curran said, "I think it's safe to recommend don't do it."

Further studies are under way using immune cells from drug users in a methadone program, where cocaine use is high, to see if the virus grows more easily, Schut said.

Also at the conference, doctors from Los Angeles' Kaiser Permanente Medical Center reported that low doses of a common antibiotic can prevent a life-threatening complication in AIDS patients, pneumocystis pneumonia, at much lower cost than the widely recommended aerosol pentamidine.

Three weekly tablets of trimethoprim-sulfamethoxazole, which is used frequently for mild bacterial infections, prevented pneumocystis pneumonia in 116 high-risk patients for two years, Dr. Joel Ruskin reported.

That drug can cost as little as $12 a year, while aerosol pentamidine can cost hundreds, the doctors said.

State treasury returns unclaimed funds to fairgoers

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 500 visitors to the Texas State Fair in Dallas walked away with money — not from arcade games but from the state Treasury.

It was part of the treasury's Unclaimed Money Fund, which operated a booth at the recently concluded fair.

During the fair, passers-by at a Treasury Department booth were encouraged to allow department staff members to scan their lists to see if they were among more than 27,000 people with unclaimed property. During the process, the names of more than 550 showed up on the list for an average return of $201.82, officials said Tuesday.

One fairgoer returned home with a claim to $11,000 in insurance proceeds he had never collected.

Microwave Spiced Nut Clusters and Peanut Butter Football Cake are sure to attract crowds of willing buyers at fall bake sales and bazaars.

Celebrate all the flavor of Thanksgiving, but trim the calories with these recipes

NEW YORK (AP) — The sweet tooth came early to America. From the first, Pilgrims and other colonists doted on confections of every kind, and they took quickly to the sweet gifts of the Indians.

Thanksgiving dinner included such New World foods as cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie, fruit dishes, puddings and cakes. These foods gave hard-working settlers energy and fuel against the cold winter. But how many today need all those calories?

You can trim calories in your favorite Thanksgiving recipes by cutting back on butter, sugar and eggs; by serving smaller portions; and by eliminating extras like whipped cream topping and chocolate curls. And food companies are now offering reduced-calorie versions of popular dessert ingredients.

Apple and Ricotta Flan uses the sweet flavor of fruit and reduced-fat ricotta cheese. Reduced-fat ricotta cheese is also used in Thanksgiving Cranberry Swirl, which is flavored with cranberry sauce and orange.

APPLE AND RICOTTA FLAN

- One 2-pound container reduced-fat ricotta cheese
- Butter or vegetable cooking spray
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup peeled and chopped tart apple
- 1/4 cup confectioners' sugar
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- Grated peel of 1 lemon
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Pinch nutmeg
Place ricotta in a sieve set over a bowl. Cover and refrigerate. Let drain several hours or overnight. Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Butter a 9-inch springform pan.

In food processor or blender, process ricotta until smooth. Add remaining ingredients; process until well blended. Pour into prepared pan. Place pan on cookie sheet; bake 1 hour and 10 minutes or until set and lightly browned. Cool flan on wire rack to room temperature. Cover and refrigerate.

Run a knife around the edge of flan to loosen; remove sides of pan. Garnish with thinly sliced red or green apple, if desired. Makes 10 servings.

THANKSGIVING CRANBERRY SWIRL

- One 2-pound container reduced-fat ricotta cheese
  - 2 tablespoons sugar
  - Grated peel of 1 orange
  - 1/2 cup whole-berry cranberry sauce
- In food processor or blender, process ricotta, sugar and orange peel until smooth. In small bowl, beat cranberry sauce with a wooden spoon to break up large pieces. Pour one-third of the ricotta mixture into a 1 1/2-quart serving bowl. Spoon on half the cranberry sauce; repeat. Top with remaining ricotta. With a spatula, lightly swirl through layers to blend. Makes ten 1/2-cup servings. Recipe can be doubled.

Sweet and spiced recipes sell well at fall bake sales

NEW YORK (AP) — Homemade gifts from the kitchen are sure-fire best sellers for fund-raisers, bazaars and bake sales.

The following recipes from the Sugar Association "illustrate how pure natural sugar functions to provide texture as well as delicious flavor," says the association's Sylvia Rowe.

Microwave Spiced Nut Clusters, a blend of cinnamon, nutmeg, sugar and orange juice, take just 10 minutes to prepare.

They need no refrigeration, will stay fresh for about two weeks, and make a wonderful gift — especially when packaged in a decorative tin or box.

Peanut Butter Football Cake is great fun to make — and delicious! Sugar creamed with peanut butter and margarine gives this cake its fine texture. The simple design of the cake also makes it easy to frost. You can buy canned frosting or make your own.

Sold at bake sales in a cake box, Peanut Butter Football Cake is perfect for a birthday party, your favorite football fan, or for pre-game or post-game celebrations. It's sure to be a winner!

Another easy recipe: Vanilla Sugar, an attractive gift when packaged in a decorative jar tied with ribbon.

Vanilla Sugar can be used to top berries, cereal and cakes. Just add vanilla beans and sugar to a jar and store for a few days. Vanilla Sugar will last for up to one year.

MICROWAVE SPICED NUTS

- 1/2 cup orange juice
  - 1 1/2 cups sugar
  - 1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
  - 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
  - 2 1/2 cups walnuts or pecans
- Line cookie sheet with aluminum foil or waxed paper. Spray with non-stick cooking spray. Set aside.

In a 2- to 3-quart microwave-safe dish, stir orange juice and sugar. Cook on high (100 percent power) for 7 to 8 minutes, or until mixture reaches soft-ball stage. Use oven mitts to remove from the microwave. Add spices and nuts. Stir until mixture begins to look cloudy. Drop by spoonfuls on prepared cookie sheet to create small clusters. Let stand for at least 20 minutes before packaging. Makes 15 clusters.

PEANUT BUTTER FOOTBALL CAKE

- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 1/2 tablespoons cocoa
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 3/4 cup margarine
- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 3/4 cup light brown sugar
- 3/4 cup white sugar
- 4 eggs, beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup milk

Football cake pan (available at kitchen specialty stores)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease football pan well with solid shortening. Then sprinkle with about 2 tablespoons flour. Shake pan to spread flour evenly and then turn upside down to tap out excess flour. Set aside.

In large bowl combine the 4 cups flour, baking powder, cocoa, salt and cinnamon. In another large bowl cream together margarine, peanut butter and sugars. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Then gradually stir dry ingredients and milk into wet ingredients.

Pour into prepared pan. Use spatula to spread evenly, taking care not to touch sides or bottom of pan. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 60 to 70 minutes or until knife inserted in cake comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes in the pan.

To remove cake from pan, place cooling rack against cake. Turn pan and rack over and gently lift off pan. Brush loose crumbs and flour off surface of cake. Cool cake for at least 1 hour before decorating. Use candy and canned chocolate and vanilla frosting, or make your own recipes, to decorate.

VANILLA SUGAR

- 3 cups sugar
- 2 vanilla beans
- Jar (quart size)

Place sugar in jar; add vanilla beans. Seal tightly. Shake jar several times and store. After a few days sugar will become flavored. Use as desired for toppings for cereal, cakes or berries. Or omit the vanilla extract in recipes that call for both sugar and extract and use this sugar to create an old-fashioned vanilla flavor. Replace sugar as it is used, keeping the same vanilla beans for up to a year. Makes 3 cups flavored sugar.

Frozen bread dough means this elegant bread is quick and easy to make. Tart apples are used in the filling.

Apple streusel ladder easy to make with frozen dough

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine Food Editor

Re-create Mom's home baking with '90s ease: start this blue-ribbon bread with frozen bread dough. The sugar-and-spice apple filling is irresistible. For the most fruit flavor, use tart apples like Jonathans, Granny Smiths or Winesaps.

APPLE STREUSEL LADDER LOAF

- One 16-ounce loaf frozen sweet bread dough or frozen bread dough, thawed
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 2 cups finely chopped peeled apples

- Milk
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
- 1/4 cup slivered almonds (optional)

Divide bread dough in half. On a lightly floured surface, roll each half into an 8-inch square. (For easier rolling, let dough rest a few minutes.) Spread each square with 1 tablespoon of the softened margarine or butter.

For filling, in a bowl combine brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour and cinnamon. Add apples; toss to coat. Spread half the filling down the center of each square. Cutting from the right edge toward the filling, make 2 1/2-inch long cuts in dough at 1-inch intervals. Repeat from the left edge. Fold strips alternately over filling; fold under ends.

Place loaves on a greased 15-by-10-by-1-inch baking pan. Brush with milk. Combine 2 tablespoons flour and sugar. Cut in 1 tablespoon margarine or butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle half the crumb mixture over each loaf. Top with almonds. Cover and let rise until nearly double (45 to 60 minutes). Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 30 minutes or until golden. Serve warm. Makes 2 loaves (32 servings).

Grapes make ordinary carrots into extraordinary dish

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine Food Editor

Grapes are so tasty and easy to eat out of hand that we seldom think of cooking with them. French cooks use them often and have a special recipe name — veronique — that indicates that grapes are an ingredient. They're usually stirred in at the end of cooking, as in this microwave vegetable dish, and add a sweet, winelike flavor.

Store any variety of grapes unwashed and uncovered in the crisper of the refrigerator and use within three to five days.

CARROTS VERONIQUE

- 1 pound carrots
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 cup seedless grapes, halved

Cut carrots into thin strips about 2 inches long. In a 2-quart microwave-safe casserole combine carrots, 1/4 cup of the orange juice, and salt. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) for 6 to 8 minutes or until carrots are just crisp-tender. Add margarine or butter; stir until melted. Stir together remaining 1/4 cup orange juice and cornstarch; add to carrot mixture. Cook, uncovered, on high for 2 to 3 minutes or until thickened and bubbly, stirring after every 30 seconds. Stir in grapes. Makes 6 servings.

Using power tools safely means thinking carefully

By READER'S DIGEST
For AP Newsfeatures

It's hard to imagine many common home maintenance and improvement jobs without power tools.

Along with the ease and time saving that power tools provide, however, they also hold the danger of serious accidents. Since nearly all power tool accidents result from carelessness, it's crucial to be alert, use common sense and know how to operate the tools properly.

Here are some safety tips to follow when working with any power tool — large or small, stationary or portable:

- Do not operate power tools if you are tired, ill, distracted or even mildly intoxicated. If your mind wanders even slightly, stop and do something else until your concentration returns. Keep distractions, including people and pets, to a minimum.

- Tie back long hair; remove jewelry.

- Wear snug-fitting clothes without any loose or dangling parts.

- Plan your work beforehand, looking for potentially dangerous situations. Remove loose hand tools or hardware from the saw table, power tool mounting or work surface. With a portable tool, clamp the work so you have both hands free. Unplug the tool and set it safely aside between operations.

- Disconnect the tool when you make an adjustment or change blades, bits or attachments.

- Never operate power tools out of earshot of others.

- Keep a first-aid kit handy.
- Create a well-lit, well-ventilated, neat working environment.

- Use earplugs and wear shatterproof safety glasses when operating any power tool. If you wear eyeglasses, use safety glasses that fit over them. It's a good idea to have extra goggles and earplugs handy for visitors.

- Wear a respirator mask when using sanders and other tools that produce a lot of dust.

- Connect tools with a three-pronged, grounded plug to a grounded, three-hole outlet.

- If using an extension cord, use a heavy-duty, grounded, three-pronged extension cord that is 14-gauge or larger, regardless of the tool's size.

- Some double-insulated tools have plastic housings and two-prong plugs. They can be used safely in two-hole outlets.

- If you use a plug adapter that lets you attach a three-prong plug to a two-hole outlet, put the adapter in the outlet, not between an extension cord and the tool's cord. Fasten the grounding wire or metal tab to the outlet cover screw.

- To keep power-tool cords out of the way as you work, hook the slack on a long spring screwed into the ceiling above your workbench.

- Do not carry power tools by their cords; use the handle. Improper handling may break the wires inside the power cord. Do not unplug the tool by pulling on the cord; pull the plug itself.

- Never take the safety guard off the tool except when doing a job that does not permit its use. Then use extra caution.

- Tighten all nuts, bolts and screws on tools and attachments regularly, and clean away accumulated sawdust.

- When repairing power tools, use only factory replacement parts. Be sure to reassemble the tool correctly, following the manufacturer's exploded-view drawings. Otherwise, a serious shock hazard may result.

- Do not use power tools while standing in water or wet grass, or on a damp basement, garage or workshop floor.

Hummingbirds are the smallest of all birds

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Hummingbirds are the smallest of all birds. Tiniest of the 19 species in the United States is the calliope hummingbird, which is about three inches long and weighs only a few grams.

Hummingbirds are brightly colored, and feed on small insects and nectar from flowers. They fly quickly, darting upward, downward, backward or forward. They can also hover motionless like a helicopter, thanks to wingbeats as rapid as 70 per second. This helps them when seeking food inside a blossom.

Mistake made by medical worker distresses woman

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the letter from the woman who received a positive diagnosis of chlamydia. After 16 years of a completely faithful marriage, I, too, was diagnosed as having this sexually transmitted disease. Worse yet, I received a telephone call from the nursing assistant informing me that my name would be sent to the county health department, and I should have all my partners treated!

I was so shocked I could hardly speak! I asked if there was any other way I could have gotten such a disease and was told that it was transmitted only through sexual intercourse, and either I — or my partner — must have had sexual contact with someone who had the disease.

Two days later, I insisted that I be retested. The test came back negative!

My advice to the woman wondering about her spouse — wonder instead about your test results, the lab processing and the doctor's method of handling your case!

I recognize that medical staff must regularly deal with patient denial, but I knew I had not been unfaithful, and I was certain my husband had not been either. The nursing assistant, however, insisted that one of us must have strayed. We have been taught to respect medicine and the people in it as all-knowing. They are human, they make mistakes, but unfortunately, the news they deliver can destroy people. We are wise to question and remain calm if we possibly can.

If my husband and I did not have such a trusting relationship, the false test could have done great damage.
ALSO FROM ARIZONA

DEAR ALSO: My mail has brought an alarming number of letters from readers with tales of testing identical to yours. Chlamydia should always be tested by taking a culture.

DEAR ABBY: For almost 10 years, "Leon" has been my best friend. Leon has seen me through the death of a parent, an attempted suicide, a bout with cancer and the chemotherapy that followed.

Here is where I need your advice, Abby. I am getting married in a few months. I've selected my bridesmaids and flower girl, but I would like to have Leon stand up with me as my "man of honor." I've discussed this with my fiancée, and even though he thinks it sounds a bit odd, it's perfectly all right with him.

My mother, on the other hand, feels that I would be the laughing-stock of our town. I say, if people want to laugh at a solid friendship, let them. Incidentally, Leon and I never were lovers, only very close friends.

What is your advice? Do you think it would be inviting rumors to have a man stand up with me? (My mother thinks so.)

My fiancée has offered to let Leon be an usher, but I want him to be there in the role of the person who has been the nearest and dearest friend of my adult life.

Please tell me your feelings. Would you frown upon such a choice?
KANSAS SUNFLOWER

DEAR SUNFLOWER: Would I frown on selecting a man to honor as your best friend? Certainly not! Friendship knows no gender. Some bridegrooms have chosen a "best woman" instead of "best man."

Odds makers favor Holyfield in heavyweight championship bout

By TIM DAHLBERG
AP Sports Writer
LAS VEGAS (AP) — If Evander Holyfield has his way, Thursday's heavyweight title fight with champion James "Buster" Douglas will be as much a test of minds as bodies.

And in his mind, Holyfield feels he has a clear advantage.

"When it comes down to the clutch, it comes down to determination and smarts," Holyfield said. "That's where I feel I can control the fight."

Holyfield, undefeated in 24 fights, goes into his first heavyweight title fight giving away size, reach and weight to the undisputed champion.

But his determination and focus have never been questioned, unlike Douglas, who many thought quit when he was stopped in the 10th round of a 1987 title fight against Tony Tucker.

"I think the deciding factor will be mental strength, and I think Evander has just got so much more mental strength," co-trainer Lou Duva said. "That's what we're gambling on."

Odds makers apparently agree, making Holyfield an 7-5 favorite to beat Douglas in the champion's first defense of the title he won when he shocked the boxing world by stopping Mike Tyson in Tokyo last February.

Holyfield, a former cruiserweight champion, will be fighting as a heavyweight for only the seventh time against the 30-year-old Douglas, who stands 30-4-1 after a nine-year pro career.

The 27-year-old challenger is at a decided physical disadvantage, giving away about 20 pounds and nearly six inches in reach to Douglas. Holyfield's superior conditioning is a balancing factor.

The challenger had two trainers, strength and conditioning coaches and even a ballet teacher, who helped Holyfield's work on flexibility.

"I'm willing to pay every price I have to pay to be the heavyweight champion," Holyfield said. "Both of us fight pretty well and we both have the skills. It becomes a mind thing, which man is stronger mentally and can adjust more to win the fight."

Both fighters and their respective entourages appeared Tuesday at a final pre-fight news conference to hype the fight in the 16,350-seat outdoor arena at The Mirage hotel-casino.

The fight is expected to nearly fill the arena, and hotel operator Steve Wynn, spending some $40 million to host the bout, predicted pay-per-view and closed circuit sales would make it the biggest grossing fight in history.

Douglas, who battled weight problems since winning the title from Tyson, canceled his last scheduled workout on Tuesday to concentrate instead on resting up for the scheduled 12-round fight.

Douglas said he would come into the ring somewhere around 231 pounds, the same he weighed when he knocked out Tyson in the 10th round. Holyfield is expected to weigh around 210 pounds at this afternoon's formal weigh-in.

"Everybody else is worried about him and his weight, but we're not worried a bit," said Douglas trainer J.D. McCauley. "I'm always a critic, but there's nothing to criticize; Buster did his job this time."

Douglas, like Holyfield, appeared calm and relaxed as the fight neared, and comfortable about his mental frame entering the bout.

Should Douglas win, he has already signed to fight Tyson in a rematch sometime in the spring at the Mirage.

Holyfield has signed to fight former heavyweight champion George Foreman, but promoter Don King claims to have letters from all three of boxing's sanctioning bodies mandating whoever wins Thursday's bout must meet Tyson in his next fight.

Sandberg, Parker only repeaters on AP All-Star team

NEW YORK (AP) — A question of what have they done lately could apply to those missing from The Associated Press baseball all-star team, which lists only Ryne Sandberg of the Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee's Dave Parker as repeaters.

Gone are 10 players who made the 1989 team. Five of them — pitchers Bret Saberhagen of Kansas City and Joe Magrane of St. Louis, catcher Mickey Tettleton of Baltimore, outfielder Ruben Sierra of Texas and third baseman Howard Johnson of the New York Mets — didn't get a vote this year.

Also missing is Minnesota outfielder Kirby Puckett, who failed to make it for the first time in five years. He got only one vote in nationwide balloting of sports writers and broadcasters.

Sandberg, the second baseman, was named to the team for the third consecutive year and the fourth time in the last five. Designated hitter Parker was chosen for the second year in a row.

The team is evenly divided with six National Leaguers and six American Leaguers.

Also on the team are first baseman Cecil Fielder of Detroit, third baseman Matt Williams of San Francisco, shortstop Barry Larkin of Cincinnati, catcher Carlton Fisk of the Chicago White Sox, outfielders Rickey Henderson of Oakland and Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla of Pittsburgh, right-handed pitcher Bob Welch of Oakland, left-handed pitcher Frank Viola of the Mets and reliever Bob Thigpen of the White Sox.

Puckett's absence is explained by his batting average, which fell from .339 in 1989 to .298. Saberhagen plunged from 23-6 to 5-9 and Magrane was 10-17 after going 18-9. Tettleton's home runs declined from 25 to 15, while Sierra's power production fell from 29 to 16. Johnson hit .244 with 23 homers the year after hitting 36 with a .287 average.

This year's team is power-laden, averaging 29 homers per player, excluding pitchers. Leading the group are Fielder, the first major leaguer in 13 years to break the 50-homer barrier, and Sandberg, only the third second baseman ever to hit 40.

Fielder made a sensational comeback to the majors this year after spending the 1989 season playing in Japan. In addition to his 51 homers, the most in the majors since Cincinnati's George Foster hit 52 in 1977, he led the majors with 132 RBIs and a .592 slugging percentage.

Sandberg, the NL's Most Valuable Player in 1984, led the senior league in home runs and runs scored (116), was second in hits (188) and slugging percentage (.559), drove in 100 runs and batted .306.

Larkin, one of the key performers in the Reds' first World Series championship season since 1976, batted .301 with 85 runs scored, 30 stolen bases and 185 hits.

Williams, who led the NL in RBIs with 122, also hit 33 homers.

The 42-year-old Fisk had a standout season, his 19th in the majors. He hit .285 with 21 doubles, 65 RBIs and 18 homers, making him the all-time home run leader for catchers with 333.

The flamboyant Henderson moved within two of Lou Brock's all-time stolen base record of 938 by swiping 65 to lead the AL. Henderson, who had 28 homers, also led the majors with 119 runs scored.

Bonds hit .301 with 104 runs scored, 33 homers, 114 RBIs, 52 stolen bases and a NL-leading .565 slugging percentage. Bonilla hit 32 homers and drove in 120 runs.

Stolen base leader Ricky Henderson makes all-star team.

White Sox' Torborg named top manager

Bucs' Leyland finishes second

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Jeff Torborg directed his Chicago White Sox in a season-long chase for the American League West title. The White Sox never caught the World Series-bound Oakland Athletics, but the effort landed Torborg a prestigious honor.

Torborg, who led an amazing about-face by the White Sox, was named Manager of the Year today by The Associated Press.

Torborg took a team that finished last in 1989 with a 69-92 record and guided the White Sox to 94-68 in 1990 for the second-best record in the American League and third best in the majors.

"Personally, this is very pleasing," said Torborg from Sarasota, Fla., where he is attending the White Sox organizational meetings. "It was a special year but not a 'Dream Year' because we didn't win. The organization is going in the right direction."

Torborg received 70 votes from a panel of 156 sportswriters and broadcasters across the nation. Jim Leyland, who led Pittsburgh to the National League East title, finished second with 49 votes.

Lou Piniella, whose Cincinnati Reds swept the Oakland Athletics in the World Series, was third with 20 votes, and Oakland's Tony LaRussa was fourth with 11. Buck Rodgers of Montreal had three. One each went to Tom Lasorda of Los Angeles, John McNamara of Cleveland and Joe Morgan of Boston.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore won the award last year. Previous winners were Lasorda in 1988, Roger Craig of San Francisco in 1987, Hal Lanier of Houston in 1986, Whitey Herzog of St. Louis in 1985 and Jim Frey of the Chicago Cubs in 1984, the first year the award was given to just one manager from both leagues. Until then, an award was presented to each league.

Torborg said he knew everyone was looking for the White Sox to collapse all season.

"It was in June and Oakland came in for a four-game series," said Torborg. "We won the first and they took the last three. Then California came in and won two to make it five straight. We had hit the bumpy road."

"Everyone said we had had it. But we won the final game from California, went to Oakland for a sweep and another sweep in California. We won eight straight and were right back in the race."

"The kids didn't quit. They showed a lot of character."

Torborg remembers the last day at Comiskey Park the best.

"We had rekindled the love affair with the fans," he said. "Remember, this was a team that was going to move and then finished last. But the last day at Comiskey Park there was warmth and electricity. It gave me goose bumps. People were crying, people were applauding. It was a beautiful thing and a very special day."

Texas' Dronett top defender

AUSTIN (AP) — Sophomore defensive end Shane Dronett of Texas has "all-star" written all over him, all 6-6, 258 pounds of him.

The former Bridge City schoolboy star had nine tackles in Texas' 49-17 victory over Arkansas last Saturday, including six unassisted stops. He had one quarterback sack, and three of his tackles resulted in Razorback losses totaling 11 yards.

For his performance, Dronett was selected as The Associated Press' Southwest Conference defensive player of the week.

Rice quarterback Donald Hollas, who ran for four touchdowns and passed for another in the Owls' 42-21 victory over Texas Tech, was chosen the SWC offensive player of the week.

It was Rice's biggest point production in an SWC game since 1961.

Hollas completed 7 of 18 passes for 97 yards, including a 5-yard touchdown to Courtney Cravin. He also rushed for 35 yards on 12 carries and had touchdown runs of 8, 5, 4 and 5 yards for 132 yards of total offense.

Texas coach David McWilliams compares Dronett to former Longhorn Bill Atessis, an All-American in 1970.

"I would compare him to Bill or any of the great ends we have had here at Texas, and deservedly so," said McWilliams, who coached defense at Texas in 1971-85. "First of all, he is a great athlete. And the ability he has shown comes from having a lot of football savvy."

McWilliams noted that Dronett started five games as a freshman in 1989, and said, "All the playing time he got last year has really helped him this year. He was able to get past all things that come with being a freshman and that idea of being in your first game."

With Dronett as the defensive leader, No. 13-ranked Texas held Arkansas' nationally ranked rushing offense to 87 yards and 12 first downs.

"I think the Arkansas game was probably my best," Dronett said. "It seemed like I was getting past blockers and making a lot of contact."

"Instead of just diving for them, I could really hit them."

Dronett is so quick that he often makes tackles in the middle of the line. "He has great quickness to the inside," McWilliams said. "He loves to play football and plays it with reckless abandon."

Texan nails down starting quarterback job at OSU

By OWEN CANFIELD
AP Sports Writer

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — One might expect that Port Arthur, Texas, native Kenny Ford, upon hearing he had become Oklahoma State's quarterback, started whooping and hollering like a prospector who just struck it rich.

After all, Ford had waited nearly four years for his chance to start. But he isn't the whooping type.

"I've been here four years," Ford said. "You learn to take things as they come."

They have been four long, often frustrating years. Ford came to Oklahoma State from Port Arthur, where he had an outstanding high school career as an option quarterback. He redshirted his first year, then stayed low on the depth chart the next two years while Mike Gundy passed his way into the Big Eight record books.

In the summer after his sophomore season, Ford asked to move to the secondary and the coaches obliged. It worked out, but only for a while.

"I'm really offense-oriented," said Ford, who ran for 743 yards and threw for 1,387 during his senior year in high school. "Defense really wasn't for me."

He told Coach Pat Jones that, and about midway through last season Ford was moved back to offense. Jones decided to use Ford in goal-line situations, where Ford's ability to run the option is a plus.

In his first attempt, Ford scored on a 1-yard run against Missouri, the Cowboys' opponent on Saturday. He wound up playing in three games in 1989, carrying the ball just twice.

He got extended playing time this past spring because Gundy had finally graduated and one of the quarterbacks expected to challenge for the job, Earl Wheeler, missed all but one day of spring drills.

Even so, Ford found himself third on the depth charts as two-a-day practices began in August. First came Chris Smith, a fifth-year senior. Then came the strong-armed Wheeler.

Smith started the first two games before Jones decided to install Wheeler. Wheeler played the next four games and although he threw the ball well, he didn't throw it accurately. Ford played the second half of the Kansas State game two weeks ago, then Jones named him the starter.

Jones admitted Ford got the job in part by default, "but on the same hand, he's done a good job of hanging in there."

"I can't say he's totally fallen into it because if we didn't trust him, we wouldn't do it," Jones said.

Ford's first career start came against fourth-ranked Nebraska, a team Jones believes may have the best defense in the country. As if that weren't enough, the game was on the road.

Ford wound up running for 77 yards, the most by a Cowboy quarterback since 1978. He had a 52-yard run on a quarterback draw, the longest run from scrimmage by an OSU player this year.

"I tell you what I really like about him. He's a real competitor," said offensive coordinator Jeff Bower. "He wanted to be out there. He enjoyed being out there and really was tuned in to what was going on in the ball game."

"There's not a doubt in my mind that he believed he was going to get it done and he did everything possible to get it done," Bower said.

The Cowboys lost the game, 31-3, but Jones was impressed with Ford's preparation and his grasp of the game plan. With only four games remaining, Jones doesn't plan to pursue any further changes at quarterback.

That doesn't mean Ford has a stranglehold on the No. 1 spot heading into spring practice, however.

"I want to judge over a period of time the best we can," Jones said. "Part of it's to see how a guy will react one week to the next."

He reacted well against Nebraska, despite getting knocked around enough that the signals from the sidelines were fuzzy at times. How he'll do against Missouri isn't known. Regardless, Ford isn't going to worry about what happens.

"I'm just going to keep working hard," he said. "Hopefully things turn out all right."

Lady Harvesters clinch third place with win over Borger in final match

Jennifer Bailey

Pampa's Lady Harvesters finished in third place in the District 1-4A volleyball standings with a 15-10, 14-16, 15-7 win over Borger Tuesday night.

Pampa finishes with a 6-4 district mark and 13-15 for the season. Borger failed to win a district match and went 6-21 overall.

"We came back pretty good after that second game," said PHS coach Jo Beth Palmer. "It was a long match and we really had to fight to win it."

Jennifer Bailey, a 5-10 senior, and Bridgett Mathis, a 5-5 junior, had 16 and 15 kills respectively for the Lady Harvesters.

Hereford and Dumas tied for first place at 9-1. Hereford defeated Randall, 15-9, 16-14, and Dumas downed Caprock, 15-3, 15-8, Friday night.

In area action, Lefors downed McLean, 15-3, 15-9, in a District 3-1A match.

Seniors Danna Davis and Jennifer Moore led the way for Lefors, said coach Carol Vincent.

Lefors finished the regular season at 4-2 in district play and 11-7 overall. The Lady Pirates clinched second place behind Kelton in the final standings and will advance to bi-district against an opponent to be named later.

Spur's Brantley earns schoolboy spotlight

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

Spur's Terrell Brantley scored seven touchdowns in last week's 56-40 victory over Knox City and that's just the beginning.

He rushed 451 yards on 44 carries, caught a pass for 15 yards and threw for a two-point conversion to earn the spotlight in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Brantley's 451 yards was the eighth-best ever for a Texas schoolboy and gave him a season total of 1,456 yards rushing. Brantley has caught nine passes for another 235 yards and three touchdowns.

He has scored 178 points for an average of 29.7 points per game.

"As far as numbers it the best game but he's had several 200-plus nights," Spur coach Dewey Sexton said. "He's not overly fast but he carries his pads very well. He's along the lines of Chuck Weatherspoon or (Robert) Newhouse."

Weatherspoon is the Houston Cougars starting running back and Newhouse is a former Dallas Cowboys running back.

Brantley moved to West Texas from Houston and made the transition from an offensive lineman to a running back. He's been 1A Spur's leading rusher the past three years, gaining 1,010 yards as a sophomore and 1,869 yards last season.

"He's up to 225 pounds and he gets his knees up and pumping so there aren't any soft places to hit him," Sexton said.

New Waverly's Elton York also had a seven-touchdown performance in a 74-0 victory over Deweyville. York passed for six touchdowns and ran for a seventh.

Five of York's touchdown aeriels went to Swain Hector. York completed nine of 12 passes for 169 yards. Hector caught seven passes for 113 yards.

Mission quarterback Koy Detmer, brother of Brigham Young quarterback Ty Detmer, completed 18 of 25 passes for 290 yards and touchdowns of 53, 40, 30 and 9 yards in a 35-0 victory over Edinburg.

Malakoff running back Vanoid Dawson gained 339 yards on 14 carries and scored on runs of 33, 29, 67, 25 and 45 yards in a 61-0 victory over Cayuga.

Neal Mayfield scored all of Big Spring's points in a 23-0 victory over Fort Stockton. He rushed 120 yards on 18 carries and had touchdown runs of 1, 43 and 5 yards. He kicked a 30-yard field goal and two extra points.

Boling's Kevin Waddy caught more passes on defense than he did on offense in a 15-13 victory over former state-ranked Tidehaven. Waddy intercepted four passes, including one in the end zone, as a defensive player, and he caught three passes for 64 yards on offense.

Evadale's Greg Black completed 14 of 20 passes for 256 yards and touchdowns of 20, 29, 10 and 25 yards in a 61-25 loss to Burkeville. Evadale wide receiver Jody Burnett caught four passes for 115 yards — all touchdowns — in the loss.

The run-pass combination failed to get a victory because of Burkeville running back Aaron Spikes, who gained 221 yards on 25 carries and scored on runs of 35, 1, 37, 30 and 13 yards.

In other outstanding performances: —Waco's Louis Fite, the state's leading rusher, sat out the second half after he scored three touchdowns and gained 141 yards on 19 carries of a 49-20 victory over Round Rock Westwood.

—Gruber running back Dan McCloy carried 42 times for 166 yards and scored on five 1-yard touchdown runs in a 34-15 victory over Memphis.

—Marcus Hailey of Frost ran 256 yards on 40 carries and scored his team's three touchdowns in a 21-14 victory over Dawson.

—Copperas Cove's Robert Draper caught eight passes, four for touchdowns, for 189 yards in a 45-25 loss to Round Rock.

—Santa Anna's Herbert Jackson gained 298 yards on 42 carries and scored three touchdowns in a 27-20 victory over Water Valley.

—Asherton junior running back Albert Sosa rushed 22 times for 271 yards and scored on a 10-yard run in a 28-13 victory over La Pryor. Sosa also played linebacker and had a 40-yard interception return.

—Juan Esparza completed 24 of 41 passes for 274 yards and a 40-yard touchdown pass to Juan Bloomer, who had 12 catches for 162 yards in a 34-16 loss to Del Rio.

—Cotulla linebacker Cliff Weeks had 17 tackles, 8 unassisted, in a 17-0 loss to Pearsall.

—Bryan Foster of Newton gained 215 yards on 24 carries and scored on runs of 39, 20 and 6 yards in a 51-13 victory over Port Arthur Austin.

—Adrian Ivory scored touchdowns on runs of 2, 1, 52 and 10 yards and gained 167 yards on 19 carries, leading Beaumont West Brook to a 36-21 victory over Port Arthur Jefferson.

—Olton tailback Duane Wilborn rushed 27 times for 214 yards, including touchdown runs of 56 and 3 yards in a 36-0 win over Lockney.

—Leander's Ryland Bailey caught 10 passes for 92 yards despite his team's 20-19 loss to Taylor.

Texas Tech goes up against powerful Miami

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — As they enter this Saturday's game against Texas Tech, the Hurricanes must shrug off the burden of being the first Miami squad since 1984 to have two regular-season losses, said coach Dennis Erickson.

"We can't sit down and feel sorry for ourselves. Texas Tech has played well and not so well, but they always play well at home," Erickson said.

Despite last week's 29-20 loss to Notre Dame, Erickson and his senior leaders are confident they'll bounce back against Texas Tech (2-5) in Lubbock on Saturday.

"I'm not as concerned with our opponent as I am with how we react to the loss," he said. "We still have a lot to play for — a 10-2 season, reaching a major bowl and finishing in the top five."

The eighth-ranked Hurricanes have played the unranked Red Raiders four times, winning three. The last meeting resulted in a 61-11 Miami walkover in 1986.

Texas Tech has played five of its first seven games on the road, with Miami its fourth Top 20 opponent. The Red Raiders are coming off a 42-21 loss to Rice in which they had eight turnovers and nine penalties.

"This is the third time this year we've had to play a ranked team that lost the week before," said Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes. "It will be quite a challenge for us, especially the way we played last week. They've been the dominating program in college football for the last decade and I don't see any drop-off this year."

While Erickson deemed it necessary for a pre-Monday morning practice meeting in which he espoused playing out the season with "vengeance," his quarterback felt otherwise.

"I've never been in this position before, with two losses," said Craig Erickson, Miami's senior quarterback. "It's important for the seniors to rally behind us, but motivational things only work up to a point. Actions speak louder than words and we have leaders that lead by example."

Coach Erickson said his main concern has been with the team's offensive inefficiency in the third quarter this season. Taking away its 14-0 edge over Kansas, Miami has been outscored 27-14 in the third quarter, including Brigham Young (11-7) and Notre Dame (6-0). Opponents have held a 53:24 to 36:36 time of possession advantage during third quarters.

"Either we're not focused enough coming out of halftime or we're not feeling a sense of urgency," Erickson said.

Miami will be without the services of right defensive end Eric Miller, whose nagging shoulder injury was aggravated during the Notre Dame game. The fourth-year junior will be operated on next week and will miss the remainder of the regular season. Rusty Medearis, a 6-3, 245-pound second-year freshman will make his first start in Miller's place.

Mike Sullivan, Miami's senior offensive tackle, said neither last week's loss nor his chronic back pain, which required a couple of nights in Doctors Hospital in Coral Gables before the Notre Dame game, will prevent him or the team from a successful season.

"This season is not lost by any means," Sullivan said. "We can still finish 10-2 and save face so in a few years when we look back, it won't be as bad. We're not going to lie down for anybody."
