

RODEO COMPLETED IN RAIN, WIND STORM

GOVERNOR OF TEXAS GUEST OF PAMPA

Governor Beauford H. Jester Friday laid aside politics and state's business when he stepped out of his C-47 plane shortly after 4:30 p. m. Friday at Pampa Municipal Airport.

As the Governor stepped from his plane he was greeted first by a battery of clicking press and private cameras before the city's official welcoming committee approached him.

The committee comprised Attorney Curtis Douglass, Mayor C. A. "Lefty" Huff, Fred Thompson, Joe F. Key, president of the Chamber of Commerce, members of the City Commission, members of the Board of Directors, Top of Texas Rodeo and Horse Show Association and others.

A convoy of private cars, spearheaded by State Highway Patrolmen and City Police, drove the Governor to the Douglass residence where a reception was held for him prior to attending the rodeo.

Before taking his seat in the judge's stand at Recreation Park, the Governor was brought into the arena by car and was presented with a 7X beaver Stetson hat by W. D. Price, president of the rodeo association.

Later, over the public address system, he thanked the association for his invitation to a top rodeo at the Top of Texas.

Before boarding his plane yesterday, the Governor was escorted through the American Legion Hall by O. L. Statton, commander of the American Legion Post and 15 local officials and businessmen.

C. M. Coffee Named All-Round Cowboy

The final performance of the fourth annual Top of Texas Rodeo and Horse Show was partially seen by a capacity crowd. However, only four brave observers saw the show through to the finish.

After the hot afternoon yesterday, both observers and participants expected they would have the best night of the 1948 Top of Texas Rodeo in which to end the big show. The first light rain about 9:30 p. m. yesterday did not take many observers away from the show. They merely went under the grandstands for the five-minute rain, and then were back in their seats to see the completion of the show.

At 10:05 p. m. a wind and dust storm swept through the stands so rapidly that by the time rains cleared about five minutes later, the grandstands were practically deserted. Since the bull riding contest, the last event of the show, was about to begin, the performers went right on through to the finish.

Even the clown, Euddy Heaton of Hugoton, Kans., stayed in the arena and greeted the bulls as they dashed from their chutes for the bull riding contest.

C. M. Coffee of Miami won the title of "best all-around cowboy" of the rodeo. He will be presented with a $35 Stetson hat by The Pampa Daily News. To be eligible to compete for the title, the cowboy must enter at least three different events. The total amount of prize money the contestants receive during the performance determines who shall get the honor.

Mystery Witness in Red Spy Ring House Investigation Is Revealed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee revealed that Alexander Korali is the mysterious witness supposed to help crack the real story of a Red spy network.

But the committee was as mysterious as ever about who Korali is.

A subcommittee which hurried to New York to see the key witness questioned Korali Friday night in Washington, Rep. Mundt (R-S.D.), acting committee chairman, told reporters.

"The fellow they went up specifically to see was Korali. He was supposed to lead to another witness not yet mentioned."

In New York, the subcommittee fired questions at Earl Browder, deposed head of the Communist Party, Victor Perlo, accused of being leader of one group of government officials alleged to have slipped wartime secrets to Russian agents, Whitaker Chambers, who has testified already that he was courier for a pre-war Communist underground in Washington of which, he said, Perlo was a member.

Arrangements were underway to question both Korali and Perlo in public hearings here Monday. The plans will be worked out today at a special Sunday session of the committee. The subcommittee is supposed to report them on its New York trip.

It was Mundt who had announced originally a mysterious witness had been located. He said this witness's testimony, added to that of Chambers and Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, would crack the spy case "wide open." Miss Bentley, like Chambers has described her self as a former Red who broke with communism. She said she was once the Washington N. W. ## Bill to Halt Inflation Is Sent to HST

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congress wrote its own ticket today on anti-inflation and housing legislation, then slammed the door on the extra session called by President Truman.

The House adjourned at 7:31 p. m. (EST) the Senate at 8:39 p. m. They had met July 26 and had been in session 11 working days.

The adjournment was until December 31, with a provision that the session may be resumed earlier on a "urgent" label.

With a few minor exceptions, the lawmakers rewrote, blocked, or just plain ignored the far-ranging program Mr. Truman presented with an "urgent" label.

The President's eight-point anti-inflation program emerged cut down to two: revised curbs on installment buying and higher reserve requirements for banks belonging to the Federal Reserve System. The Senate beat back by a 53 to 33 vote a Democratic attempt to revive rationing, price and wage control powers. The Truman plan to bring back the excess profits tax wasn't even considered.

Republicans said their housing bill would encourage construction of low-cost homes and rental housing. But it omitted the federal subsidies for public housing had been features of the Taft-Blender-Wagner Housing Bill endorsed by the President.

Mr. Truman had his way without quibbling on only one major item. The lawmakers approved a $65,000,000 interest-free loan to the United Nations for permanent headquarters in New York.

Until the last couple of days, two extraordinary developments stole the show from the actual hawking. One was a successful 5-day filibuster by Southern Democratic senators against the anti-poll tax bill. The other was a sensational series of hearings, before House and Senate committees, on charges that Communist agents had wormed deep into the federal government.

Those hearings brought bitter words from both the White House and the Capitol.

Mr. Truman accused the Republicans of trying to hide the shortcomings of Congress by a "red herring" hunt for Communists.

Then, in the Senate's closing hours, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) went so far as to speak of "impeachment."

Ferguson headed one of the investigating groups which, on Mr. Truman's orders, was denied the (See CONGRESS, Page 2)

"Chubby III," a stallion owned by Brown and Bean of Pampa and "Cricket," a mare owned by Dud Winters of Earth, won grand champion honors of the at-halter division of the National Horse Show held in connection with the fourth annual Top of Texas Rodeo and Horse Show, Dr. R. M. Brown, superintendent, announces.

Nearly 60 quarter horse entries participated in the show. The quality of this year's horses was such that there were several first place ties.

The reserve champion stallion was Poco Honto, owned by Mary Black of Lovington, N. M. Clara Wells, owned by Lloyd E. Wilkins of Miami, was judged the reserve champion mare.

Taft Blocks Confirmation Of Tobin

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman nominated former Governor Maurice J. Tobin of Massachusetts to be secretary of labor last night but Senator Taft (R-Ohio) blocked Senate confirmation.

However, legislators said Mr. Truman can give Tobin a recess appointment while Congress is in adjournment. They said Tobin can then serve and draw his pay pending action at the next session of Congress.

Tobin, former Democratic mayor of Boston as well as governor of the Bay State, won success in the late Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, asked for Senate confirmation on the ground that Taft's "extraordinary circumstances, the President has the unquestioned right to choose members of his own cabinet."

Taft said there is no Senate rule which permits action on a cabinet appointment before it has been examined by a committee. The Tobin nomination came up after Senate committees had ended their meetings for the special session.

Barkley replied that he wasn't seeking to invoke a rule, merely asking for a courtesy postponement.

Taft noted that the President can make a recess appointment.

"I see no reason why the Senate should sit aside its rules," the Ohioan said.

Along with the Tobin appointment, more than 100 other nominations by President Truman died with the close of the session.

The President was required by law to submit the names of all persons to whom he had given recess appointments since the regular session adjourned in June.

Fifth Case of Poliomyelitis Is Reported

Glencora Zell, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Zell, 616 N. Roberta, is the fifth polo case in Pampa this summer.

Dr. Julian M. Key, county health director, said yesterday.

Glencora's illness was not positively identified as polio. The girl is only slightly stiff in one leg early in the mornings.

Her polo has been very mild, her attending physician reported. "She has had only a partial weakness in one leg, no paralysis."

Confined to her home, Glencora complained of a sore throat about two weeks ago. However, at that time her physician did not diagnose her illness as polio.

Betty Jean Lancaster, the fourth polo case reported in Pampa, had been staying at the Zell residence for the past two months. She spent last weekend at Amarillo, Texas, within three days of her return to Pampa, she was sent to the West Texas polo clinic at Plainview.

Betty Jean, 15 years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lancaster of Mobeetie. The most recent report on Betty Jean's condition is that she has only a mild case of polio.

W. A. Tacker, Jr., of Clarendon was admitted and released from a local hospital during the past week with what the doctors diagnosed as a mild case of polio.

Betty Ann Webber, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Billberry, 601 N. Roberta, was admitted to the West Texas polo clinic at Plainview.

W. G. Crocker, 525 N. Nelson, remain at the polo center at Plainview. They were the first two polo cases in Gray County in more than two years.

Parker Says He Didn't Draft Petition Asking 'Watchers'

Brice Parker, candidate for county judge, this past week denied to The News that he had drawn up the petition asking for "watchers," or supervisors, at the July 24 polls, but said he had been instrumental in getting two persons to sign it.

He was asked a series of questions after one candidate whom Parker had contacted said he had been "bulldozed and high-pressured" into signing it, and another said he had been called by Parker and told by him that John Andrews, Democratic county chairman, wanted the petition signed and yet another candidate stated that he had signed the petition in Parker's office.

The question of who inspired the petition calling for "watchers" or supervisors, at the polls and who wrote it has been kicked around considerably since it was brought up at the County Democratic Executive Committee meeting following the convention, July 31.

Chairman John Andrews charged at the meeting that several of the election officials were offending "watchers" or supervisors. He said the officials declared they would not hold another election.

In a check with some of the candidates who signed the petition asking for the watchers, The News has secured this information:

John Andrews, the chairman, told The News he was neither for nor against the petition but he said that he did not request that anybody sign it or refrain from signing it. He said that he did not authorize anybody in the process of getting it signed, to quote him as saying he wanted it signed.

John Studer, then candidate for county attorney said he signed the petition in the office of County Attorney Bruce Parker, who is running for county judge.

These and other questions were asked Parker after Studer said he had signed it at the former's office and after Earl Lewis, another candidate, said "I was bullied and high-pressured into signing it."

He said he had been called twice by Parker on the day in question, to have him sign the petition, because, Lewis said:

Champs In Performance Are Named

Still Dusty's Little Sister, owned by B. B. Peppin of Knox City, and Taylor, owned by Buster Cole of Midland, were named grand and reserve champions, respectively, of the performance contest yesterday noon by Dr. R. M. Brown, superintendent of the National Quarter Horse Show.

Judging in the performance division was done on the manner in which the horse rode into the ring, walked, trotted and galloped in a circle, did the figure-eight, stopped and made 180 and 90 degree turns.

First-place winner in Class 12, including geldings of all ages, was Taylor.

Flash, owned by Brown and Bean of Pampa, came through with the highest honor in Class 13, two-year-old mares.

Winner of Class 15, three-year-old mares, was Floydada, owned by Jack Johnson of Floydada.

Ponchito, three-year-old stallion in Class 16, came out on top. He is owned by Mary Black of Lovington, N. M.

Class 17, composed of mares four years and older, had Still Dusty's Little Sister on top.

Stallions of four years and over ended up with Chubby III as the Class 18 winner.

Western Star Entertains Kids

After that special attraction, Monte Hale made a personal appearance at the Rex Theatre yesterday in honor of the Pampa Kids. We can still see even if our eardrums may be shattered to a million pieces.

Monte managed contests among the kids and promised each of them a free autograph. A picture provided they write him, enclose a three-cent stamp and request the picture.

Avron Steele, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Steele, was awarded $5 by Hale as the champion bubble blower in town. With his bubble gum, he blew a bubble the size of a large cantaloupe.

Next Hale decided he wanted to find the loudest yell in Pampa. This contest enabled every child attending the performance to scream, while the yell, yelled by grungt, Jackie Edwards, 11-year-old, won. Mrs. Inez Edwards, gave out a howl that should have been heard as far as Amarillo. Consequently, Hale presented him with an empty bullet shell.

Without waiting for an invitation, many of the children in the show joined in with Hale as he sang, "Don't Fence Me In." He told the kids he had to hurry out to the second Old Timers Reunion, attend last night's performance and rush to Salt Lake City, Utah, before returning to Hollywood to make his next picture, "The Life of Young Bill Cody."

Red Cross Meeting Held

Red Cross representatives from Berger, Panhandle, McLean, Canadian and Pampa met Friday afternoon in the Red Cross office of the City Hall to discuss disaster problems with Mrs. Wauwita Hutchinson of St. Louis.

Mrs. Hutchinson, general field representative of the American Red Cross, answered questions that were asked during the various Red Cross workers.

Judge Sherman White, chairman of the Executive Board of the Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross, and Mrs. Paul Hill, executive secretary, were present at the meeting.

Requesting that each Red Cross chapter plan Disaster Committee meetings to have definite programs worked out in case of disasters, Mrs. Hutchinson listed Red Cross and local government duties during a disaster.

Red Cross duties, as listed in the Red Cross Handbook for Disaster Preparedness, come into some phase of the general organization of Red Cross. The general organization is subdivided into executive committee, chapter chairman, disaster chairman and subcommittee chairman.

Subcommittees mentioned are: survey, medical and food, shelter, clothing, transportation and communication, registration and information, fund raising and public information and central purchase and supply.

Mrs. Anderson Dies at Home

Mrs. Viola Lucille Anderson about 10:30 a. m. yesterday at her home, 40, Lefors, following a long illness.

Mrs. Anderson was born in Grove City, Penn. Her husband, Norman C. Anderson, has been employed at the Cooper-Bresner Corporation, 419 W. Alhambra, for the three years they have been living in Pampa.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Barbara Jean; by her mother, Mrs. R. E. Van Eman, Grove City, Penn.; by three sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Van Eman, New York City; Mrs. Morgan Smith, Hot Sulphur Springs, Colo.; and Mrs. Clyde E. Gill, Grove City, and by a brother, W. S. Van Eman, Oil City, Penn.

Funeral services, which will be conducted by Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home, are pending.

Local Derby Winner Leaves for Race in Akron, Ohio

Preparations for leaving for the National Soap Box Derby races have kept Walter Lee Colwell, 12-year-old, All-American City Champion, busy as the professional driver, but he finally got off on the 1,400-mile trip this morning.

With regard to the trouble he had in building the racer, Walter said he didn't have much except that sometimes when he was painting Bitsy this past puppy got in his way.

"Bitsy would rub against every section that got painted, and then I would have to pull the dog hairs off the wet paint and start over. And I came out with most of the paint on me."

Mrs. W. E. Colwell, Walter's mother, could hardly agree that Bitsy was the extent of the trouble. Walter had in building the racer, she could recall how guesstimate on his guess next time I won't make any more rash promises," his father said. Walter already has the motor installed on his bike.

Today

221st Day of the Year

On this day, in 1585, the British ship, with the help of high, turbulent waters in the English Channel, destroyed the Spanish Armada, marking the beginning of what was to be a long stretch of British predominance of the seas.

Had not 122 ships and 23,000 men against the British, the influence of Charles Anderson Dana, was born on this day in 1813. In 1942, on this day, six of eleven German submarines caught by the FBI, were electrically sabotaged.

A tall and very dark "cowboy" walking about town in the spirit of Western week, no doubt, he had pinned the large day numeral from a tear-off calendar to the leg of his jeans. We had to look twice to make sure it wasn't one of those oil-cloth numeral rodeo cowboys wear.

In its last long day, Congress cleared first the housing bill, then the anti-inflation measure.
Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), Truman's running mate in the fall campaign, pleaded for adoption of the White House anti-inflation program. He said a do-nothing policy would endanger America's economy and impair the nation's foreign policy. Inaction on high prices, he declared, will cost the American people $10,000,000,000 in the next year.
But Senator Taft of Ohio, the Republican policy chief, asserted bluntly:
"Price controls won't work in America in peacetime."
The Senate passed the bill by a voice vote after rejecting the Barkley amendment. The House approved the bill as amended by the Senate, 337 to 11.
Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.) said there was nothing in the bill to which any member could object, but he added:
"It will have no more effect on inflation than would the passing of a very small pin in the path of a speeding train."
The Senate previously had rejected two proposals to investigate high prices. Both were offered as amendments to the anti-inflation bill.

Fisher Panhandle Grain Company, Woodward, Okla., builders of the elevator; W. J. Butts, manager of the elevator for Clyde McNeil, Lessee; and Ommel and Louis Behrends, who operate their wheat farm about two miles north of town. This wheat, a pickup load of about 38 bushels, was the first to be delivered, weighed, and deposited in the empty bins of the newly finished elevator this week.

Using three-card score system of rating the entries, the judges certainly fitted Koral. Nobody on the committee would identify him.
Mundt told reporters:
"It is believed Alexander Koral is in a position to give the committee valuable and direct information concerning a contact man for the Communist spy ring who met with key people."
Just how Browder fitted in was obscure, too. The man the Communist said the mystery man, who could confirm existence of the spy ring, was "obscure" in the public mind. That description certainly fitted Koral.

Berliners Fear 'New Munich'
BERLIN (AP)—Concern was reported growing among Western Berliners that a "new Munich" may be in the making in four-power negotiations on Germany taking place in Moscow.
Calling for a firm Western stand against new demands by the Russians, the Socialist newspaper "Telegraf" said the "brave attitude displayed by Berlin" under the Soviet blockade had "earned this city assurances of a free democratic life."
Socialist Otto Suhr, chairman of the Berlin City Council, told a rally of Berliners in the French sector that a "poor compromise must not be decided upon at the cost of Berlin cellar-dwellers."
The "Telegraf" and Suhr may have based their remarks on a Russian-licensed news agency dispatch quoting "informed Washington circles" to the effect President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall had agreed in principle to withdrawal of Western-sponsored currency from Berlin.
Actually, the Western Powers are issuing more of their money.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia.—Roy R. Ball, Marshalltown, has filed suit in District Court here asking that his marriage be annulled.

Sheep Dog Herds Rooster Into Sack
Tess I, canine star of Dewey Jontz' Border Collies, demonstrated a new trick at last night's performance of the Top o' Texas Rodeo.
To substantiate Jontz' claim that these imported Scottish dogs can herd anything, Tess herded a bantam rooster, not only where she was supposed to go, but into a sack as well.
These dogs, Jontz explained, are bred for their herding ability, and little attention is paid to their conformation, or coat color. As a result of centuries of close breeding, herding is almost instinctive with these dogs.
The Maryland yellowthroat sometimes builds its nest in the throat of the skunk cabbage.

Danube Conference Adopts Soviet Plan

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — (AP) — The United States bluntly warned Saturday that the Danube River will remain cut in two for traffic if Eastern Europe's Communist states deny Austria a seat on the Danube control board.

Its position was laid down by American Ambassador Cavendish Cannon shortly before the Danubian conference voted 7 to 1 to make the Soviet plan the basis for its discussion.

Under the Soviet Plan, control of the Danube would be vested exclusively with the seven Communist dominated states of Eastern Europe.

Adoption of this working operation means that the United States, Britain and France can offer their terms for the pact only in the form of amendments to the Soviet draft.

Cannon, opening yesterday's session, declared: "Let us be realistic about Austria. If the views of this important state are not taken into consideration in drafting the convention and Austria doesn't become a party of it, and does not immediately become a member of the commission, the river will remain cut in two."

At present, the river is cut in two at Linz, Austria, where the Russians have blocked non-Soviet shipping from moving down the river since shortly after the war ended.

Cannon also declared that as long as the United States occupies part of Germany it will have a responsibility to represent German interests in Danubian affairs.

"Let us not forget the direct interest of the United States which occupies a riparian position on the Danube," he said. "The German sector of the Danube and the German Danube fleet are inseparably connected with the problems of this river."

"Until a sovereign German government is established, the United States will be responsible for representing German riparian interests."

Cannon quoted Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky as rejecting a large part of the American proposals.

"If that is the firm position," Cannon said, "it would mean that it is almost useless for the conference to go through the motion of committee discussions. I feel sure that Mr. Vishinsky did not mean that."

Yesterday Vishinsky had asked the conference to brush aside American proposals and concentrate instead on the Soviet plan. He also rejected a British proposal that the International Court at The Hague be asked to determine the present validity of previous Danube agreements.

Officer Says Reds Face Rough Time

BERLIN — (AP) — An American Air Force official said yesterday that "things are going to be pretty rough around here" if the Russians try to force down U. S. and British planes flying supplies to blockaded Berlin.

The official Soviet news agency ANB hinted Friday night that Allied planes could be forced down for flying over unauthorized areas. It charged British and American aircraft with 62 such violations between July 31 and Aug. 4.

The American official conceded that "technically speaking" planes which violated flight violations could be forced down.

"However," he added, "once this starts things are going to be pretty rough around here. It would require some pretty high level action to say the least."

The Soviet agency claimed Americans had provisions for forcing down planes which departed from prescribed routes over the U. S. Occupation Zone. They implied that the same could be applied over the Soviet Zone routes to Berlin.

The American official said it could not be immediately determined whether the Russians were "just talking" or really intended forceful action.

The Russians have made frequent allegations of flight rule breaches since the night and day air lift to supply Western Berlin began nearly two months ago.

Most of them have been rejected as unfounded. American authorities have expressed the belief they were chiefly intended as harassing tactics against the air lift.

Western Allied authorities have said the air lift will not only continue as long as needed, but will be doubled.

Russian newspapers carried on their front pages a dispatch from Washington claiming that President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall had "agreed in principle" that the Western sponsored currency should be withdrawn from Berlin and only Soviet sponsored money circulate throughout the city.

On the contrary the Western money here.

Checking 'Vittle Statistics' of Air Lift

The aerial supply route, which keeps Berliners in food during the Soviet blockade, starts at Frankfurt in the American Zone. At the Rhein-Main airport, pilots and crews keep tabs on the number of missions they fly and the tonnage of vital foodstuffs they carry into the beleaguered city. The men check their record on the "vittle statistics" scoreboard. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Al Cocking.)

Army Opens Direct Reserve Technician's Commissions

AUSTIN — Direct commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps for persons possessing either professional or technical qualifications essential to the needs of the Army have now been authorized.

Colonel Oscar B. Abbott, senior instructor for the organized reserves, announced yesterday. Appointments will be given in grades from second lieutenant through colonel.

The purpose of the new regulation is to provide a source of officers possessing specialties which it is not feasible for the Army to train. Individuals with and without prior service can be appointed, although those without prior service will be required to meet minimum military training requirements.

To be eligible, an applicant must be at least 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States, have appropriate professional or technical educational requirements, and be physically qualified. A second lieutenant commission will be given to those between 21 through 30 years of age, a 1st lieutenant from 30 to 33 years of age, a captain from 33 to 37, and so on through to a colonel who can be 45 years of age.

For further information, applicants should see Capt. Jessie E. Williams, in the Postoffice at Amarillo.

L. B. Johnson Opens Runoff Campaign

CENTER, Tex. — (AP) — Lyndon Johnson, asserting that Texas voters, by supporting him for the U. S. Senate, would repudiate isolationism and appeasement, campaigned in East Texas Saturday.

He formally opened his runoff fight against Coke Stevenson here Friday night. He spoke here in the native county of George Peddy, unsuccessful candidate whose supporters Johnson seeks.

A rally on the Shelby County Courthouse lawn heard Johnson assert he was the only candidate who would stand up in the face of a purge and say where he stood on every issue.

Johnson ate dinner with J. B. Peddy, farmer and brother of George Peddy, and J. B. Peddy sat on the platform while the congressman spoke. Tom Peddy of Orange, another brother, drove in late.

Earlier Johnson had received a wire from Myron G. Blalock of Marshall, former Texas national Democratic committeeman, saying "your frank discussion of our problems is worthy of the approval of our people."

Johnson told his audience he had liked Peddy and never said an unkind word about him in the first primary campaign. Peddy ran third in that primary; Johnson second to Stevenson.

State Highway Costs Increase By Two Millions

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas highway maintenance costs next fiscal year will be up more than two and a half million dollars.

The State Highway Department said the increase is necessary because there are more miles of highways and it costs more per mile to keep them up.

The maintenance budget for the fiscal year starting Sept. 1 is an estimated $15,179,212, State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer said.

There have been 2,443 miles of road added to the state system—mostly farm-to-market connections—and the cost per mile of maintenance has increased $44 to a new high of $479.

College Tax Fund Held Aside Pending State Court Decision

'See the Doggie'

This San Francisco press photographer tells his subjects to "watch the doggie" instead of the birds. The dog inside his camera is "Souvenir My Dolly," long-haired chihuahua worth $250, exhibited at the San Mateo Knights of Columbus dog show.

AUSTIN — (AP) — Of the 42 cents state ad valorem taxes collected this year, the five cents dedicated by Constitutional amendment to college buildings will be held in a suspense fund pending settlement of a court contest of the election at which the amendment was adopted.

That was the instruction given State Comptroller George H. Shepard Friday by Attorney General Price Daniel.

If the election is held void, the tax revenue can be refunded to the counties for distribution to the taxpayers, Daniel's opinion said. If the election is upheld, the comptroller can direct release of the tax money to the various colleges and universities.

The college building amendment was adopted at the polls in August, 1947. A month later a suit contesting the election was filed by a Dallas and several Lubbock taxpayers. The suit is now on appeal in the third Court of Civil Appeals after trial court upheld the election.

Canada Did Differently

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congressional committees are making headlines with their investigation of alleged Russian spy rings in wartime Washington among government employees. But they're using tactics completely different from those of the Canadian government which in 1946 not only investigated a spy ring, but found it, smashed it and sent people to jail. The Canadian government made its investigation privately. When it felt it had enough evidence to send certain people to jail, it made the evidence public. And those people were convicted and jailed. Some innocent people were dragged into the investigation. When the Canadian government found they were innocent it saved them from injury by never making their names public. But the opposite method is being used here, especially by the House unAmerican Activities Committee. The Senate investigating committee has let its witnesses accuse only one man by name. But before the unAmerican Activities Committee, confessed former Communists have trotted up to the stand and publicly denounced a number of men—some of them formerly high in this government—as Communists or tools of American Communists and Russian agents.

If those men—or some of them—prove to be innocent they've already suffered bitter damage from having their names dragged into the case at all. These tactics have now been severely criticized not only by President Truman but by at least two leading newspapers, The New York Times and The Washington Evening Star. The Times and The Star both think a careful check on spy activities in this country should be made, but not the way the

Bitter Reprieve

By Drexel Drake Copyright, 1948, by Charles H. Hall; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Playboy Marcus Sterling has stolen his wife's diamond necklace and handed it over as security on a $10,000 gambling debt to racketeer Harry Blaine. To cover the theft, professional burglar, he spends the night at Edgewater Country Club to establish an alibi. Along with the necklace, he also took a sealed packet from his wife's safe. This turns out to be $10,000 in cash which Miriam Sterling had withdrawn from the bank for him.

Next morning Mrs. Sterling is found murdered in bed. At the club, Sterling gets rid of Miriam's cash by mailing it in a sealed packet to his secretary, Miss Wilson. Police Lt. Talent brings Sterling home. Fingerprintists show the presence of a third person, besides Mr. and Mrs. Sterling, in the library the evening before.

lightly his own part in bringing Marcus Sterling home. One item he kept to himself: Miriam Sterling's checkbook with the $10,000 stub.

There was a clatter in the hall. "They're here for the body," Gable announced.

"Let's get up ahead of them, Dick," Talent said.

Upstairs, Trapgood's attractive smile vanished. There was no parting of the thick lips while he stared at the spectacle on the bed. His jaws squared, the skin stretched over tightly drawn muscles.

WHEN the stretcher men had gone downstairs, Talent locked the door of Miriam Sterling's room and took charge of the key. Across the hall, the door of Sterling's room was closed. Talent tapped lightly, turned the knob. Sterling was seated where he had left him. He got up when he saw that Talent was not alone.

"She... she's gone, Lieutenant?" Sterling asked.

"They've taken away your wife's body, yes, Mr. Sterling," Talent said. "But I see no reason why the body won't be released to you this evening. You'll want to make arrangements with an undertaker."

"Yes, I'll have to do that. Thanks, Lieutenant."

Talent introduced Trapgood. "Mind coming down to the library with us, Mr. Sterling?" Talent said. "We don't want to be more of a nuisance to you than we have to be, but we need your help."

In the library, Talent said, "This room tells the rest of the story, as you can see for yourself, Mr. Sterling."

The eyes of Talent, Trapgood and Gable followed Sterling with practiced indirectness.

From a few steps inside the large room, Sterling surveyed the library deliberately.

"Oh, over there," he said, discovering the open window with the shattered pane. He went to the window, avoiding the debris on the floor and the fallen clock and pedestal. He studied the sill, bent over it to glance outside. Turning back, he paused beside the clock on the floor. "Strange that was knocked over," he said.

"Well," Talent summed up, "you can see, Mr. Sterling, the way we get it from the physical evidence. Somebody broke into that window, knocked the clock loose from the plug coming in, didn't bother anything down here, made a direct break for your wife's room, knew about the safe and maybe about what was in it, either found your wife's keyring or woke her up and took it away from her, and hit her over the head with that heavy candlestick while she was taking her revolver from under the pillow. Wouldn't you add it up about like that?"

Sterling's eyes went squarely at Talent. "Lieutenant, you don't want my opinion or deduction," he said. He shrugged, started toward the chair he invariably occupied when in the library. "Can't we all be seated?"

Sterling waited for the others to find chairs about the room. Then, having seated himself, he said with surprising abruptness, "I'd like to put you gentlemen at ease, so let's start with frank understanding. I'm under suspicion, as ask your questions without embarrassment. If I weren't under suspicion, I shouldn't have been yanked home to that staggering shock of finding my wife's battered corpse in her bed. I'm under suspicion, I imagine, because I was at my club instead of at home, and possibly for some reason you may have that I don't know anything about. So ask your questions, and I'll remember not to be offended." His eyes passed on Talent. "But there's one thing I'd like for you to have straight before you start, Lieutenant. You and I have the same job. There's nothing I want to do more right at this minute than get my hands on the man that murdered my wife."

Russia Relaxes Money Blockade Of West Berlin

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
They say that little straws show how the wind blows, but one doubts whether the course of the straw is very helpful in whirlwinds. Thus it is with cautious interest that we note some easement of the cyclonic quarrel between Russia and the Western Allies. From Moscow comes word that there is a good chance for "an agreement." On top of that we get the Russian authorities' surprising move in relaxing their financial blockade of Western Berlin.

This financial blockade is distinct from the food blockade. Some weeks ago the democracies made a new issue of German marks for their three zones, which previously had been dependent on the Soviet currency.

The Russians promptly outlawed the money in the American, British and French areas on the claim that the capital is part of the Soviet Zone. Moscowites also blocked the Russian mark accounts of the anti-Communist city government, as well as accounts of some business houses.

The result of this financial blockade has been to deprive both government and business of funds to meet commitments. The situation was becoming serious when yesterday the Soviet authorities released blocked funds to enable the city government to meet its weekend engagements. Similar arrangements were made with business houses. Charles Gifford, British finance officer in Berlin, explained the surprising Soviet move thus:

"They apparently did not want to bring things to a head in Berlin while negotiations were going on elsewhere" (meaning Moscow). Time is now running against the Bolshevik revolution. It is a safe guess that Moscow is playing with a truce to relieve the economic tension of her discontented satellites and herself.

Pampa News, Sunday, August 8, 1948

Junior Golfers Set For Local Tourney

The first Junior Golf Tournament at the Pampa Country Club is scheduled to start qualifying rounds tomorrow afternoon, according to Johnnie Austin, local professional golfer.

The affair is for all boys 16 years of age or under and will be run off on a handicap basis. There will be two flights in the 11-day tourney and trophies will be awarded in both flights. Other prizes will be distributed among the entrants at the meet.

Matched play will begin August 16 and finals will be held Sunday, August 22. All awards will be made the same day as the finals.

Several boys have not turned in their names, and since there is no entry fee, Austin stated that he could take names today and tomorrow. Those definitely entered are:

Dick Odco, Jerry Ray, Boston, Jr., Jack Weathered, Dick Maples, Wayne Doss, Darrell Danner, Mickey McCray, Ronnie Samples, Danny O'Brien, Carter Bartlett, Richard Miller, Jackie and Tommie Cox, Charlie Austin, Jimmy Howard, and Glen Harold.

The annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament will be held at the local club beginning September 4. Austin said that 125 top notch golfers from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Colorado were expected to attend the meet.

Preceding the tourney, a pro-amateur tournament will be held September 3. Austin and Malcolm Douglass, Pampa High School linkster, have entered several of these tournaments in various Portland cities, and from all reports, have established quite a reputation.

Former Rebel Handles 13 Fielding Chances

Morris Card, young infielder with the Dallas Rebels during the spring, set something of a Big State League record recently for Texas when he handled thirteen chances in the field.

Last night's scheduled game between the Pampa Oilers and the Borger Gassers at Borger was called in the first half of the third inning, due to a heavy rain and windstorm.

When the game was called, Pampa was leading 4 to 2, with White pitching and Samek catching for the Pampans, and Peterson pitching and Lesley catching for Borger.

Pampa's Teyema hit a home run in the first inning with two men on base, and Tommy Fox also homered for Borger in the second, but with no one on.

Oilers Sweep Twin Bill From Borger Gassers

By taking a clean sweep of a doubleheader from the Borger Gassers at Huber park Friday evening, the Pampa Oilers were again occupying second place in the WT-NM League standings yesterday morning.

Both contests resulted in wild affairs as the visitors wrote a hectic finish to the curtain raiser by scoring 13 runs in the final frame to win, 16-8, and again come from behind to win the nightcap, 15-10.

The 12-run surge in the opener was highlighted by three circuit swats by Dick Samek, Jack Riley, and Joe Fortin. The Pampans had earlier assumed a 2-1 lead, but lost their margin on three Borger rallies in the third.

In the final game, Grover Seitz charged with again forced to come from behind and overcome an early 5-2 Gasser lead before racking up their second triumph of the evening.

Howard Bass scattered 11 Borger hits in pocketing his 12th win of the season in the opener. Merlin Hubbard, 18-year-old rookie, also gave the Gassers 11 hits in the final game, receiving credit for his third victory of the current campaign.

Manager Grover Seitz was banished from the park in the opener when he engaged in verbal warfare against Empire Smith. After pinchhitter Roy Parker had disgustingly watched Pitcher Eddie Carnett make try after try to catch Dick Samek off first base, Parker also decided to take his time. He calmly left the box, strolled over to the water bucket and got a drink. As Smith then came over and said something to Parker, he popped Seitz, and then went Seitz. He returned for the second game.

Texas Style Debut

Jim Busby, TCU's great slugger who signed a Chicago White Sox contract and was farmed out to Muskegon in the Class A Central League, broke into the line-up as a pinch hitter and delivered a three-base wallop.

The fight to repeal the half-century-old taxes on oleo was one of the bitterest of the last regular session. Those favoring repeal, many of them from the cotton states of the South, came closer to victory than ever before.

Vic Raschi Twirls Yanks To 5-0 Win Over Indians

The New York Yankees climbed back to within two percentage points of the American League's front-running Cleveland Indians by blanking the Tribe, 5-0 Saturday.

The Philadelphia Athletics were scheduled to meet the Browns in a night game at St. Louis. A victory will move the Athletics into tie with the Yankees for second place.

Vic Raschi pitched a masterful four-hitter in shutting out the Indians. Larry Doby and Dale Mitchell each collected two singles for the only hits off the Yankee right-hander. Raschi fanned seven men in registering his 14th victory of the season.

Joe DiMaggio was the sparkplug of the Yankee attack. The Yankee Clipper drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and also dashed home on the front end of a double steal to climax a three-run rally in the third inning.

The Chicago White Sox trimmed Boston, 5-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Al Gettel. Gettel lost his shutout in the sixth inning when Stan Spence singled and Wally Moses doubled for Boston's lone run.

The White Sox counted twice in the first inning. Tony Lupien singled with the bases loaded in the sixth to score two more White Sox tallies. Ralph Hodgins' seventh-inning single scored Luke Appling with the White Sox fifth run.

Outfielder Ed Stewart singled pinchrunner Johnny Sullivan across the plate in the tenth inning to give the Washington Senators a 3-2 verdict over the Detroit Tigers.

Mayes Joins With Northerners To Whip Southern Rebels, 4-0

Carl "Red" Mayes, flaming-haired athlete from Pampa High School, teamed with other North Texas athletes last Friday night in Abilene to barely squeeze by the Southern Rebels, 4-0 in the annual all-star grid class staged before 1,045 Texas coaches and a capacity crowd in the Abilene stadium.

Mayes started at the left half-back slot and ran from that position out of a "T" formation under the tutelage of Bobb Dodd of Georgia University.

Although substitutions were used freely, Mayes participated in more of the contest than any other man and looked particularly devastating on his knifing, off tackle slants that netted him and his teammates several first downs.

The youthful ground gainer brought gasps of admiration on his flashy return of punts. His blinding speed enabled him to carry several long punts back into Rebel territory.

In the final quarter, after the final safety, Mayes took the kick off and a pun 20 yards before being downed. He and Bobby Hart of Levelland then took turns in the kicking.

The Philadelphia Phillies' $25,000 bonus pitching rookie, Robin Roberts, set St. Louis down with five hits and hit a seventh-inning home run to whip the Cardinals, 6-2. The defeat cracked a five-game St. Louis winning streak.

The Cardinals lost the services of Thirdbaseman Whitey Kurovski during pre-game practice. Kurovski was struck on the left temple by a ball thrown by Bobby Fletcher, a young catcher trying out with the Phillies. Kurovski received emergency treatment in the dressing room and was able to watch the game from the sidelines.

blasting their way to the South six yard strip where Mayes crashed to the two yard line and Hart went to the one-foot marker. Byron Townsend, great Odessa back, then was thrown for a two yard loss and the scoring opportunity slipped past.

In the closing seconds, Mayes brought the crowd to their feet again with a dashing 15 yard sweep around his left end that brought the ball to the Southern 15 yard line before the contest ended.

Kleth Flowers of Perryton and Surratt scored a safety apiece and Townsend was named the outstanding back in the contest by rolling up 108 yards from scrimmage.

The coaching school ended with Townsend selected by 23 of 30 sports writers as the best back in the game, did everything expected of him except announce where he is going to college. The most sought-after schoolboy athlete of the year said after the game he still needed to make up his mind. Conjecture has it that mighty Byron is looking toward Texas and Oklahoma.

The outstanding lineman voted by the writers was big Jerrel Roberts, set St. Louis down with five hits and hit a seventh-inning home run to whip the Cardinals, 6-2. The defeat cracked a five-game St. Louis winning streak.

The Cardinals lost the services of Thirdbaseman Whitey Kurovski during pre-game practice. Kurovski was struck on the left temple by a ball thrown by Bobby Fletcher, a young catcher trying out with the Phillies. Kurovski received emergency treatment in the dressing room and was able to watch the game from the sidelines.

Frankie Gustine's lead off home run in the top of the 11th enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to turn back the New York Giants, 5-4. Gustine hammered his game-winning round tripper off the sixth Giant pitcher in the afternoon. Ray Post, Johnny Mize of the Giants hit his 27th home run of the year in the first inning.

CROMWELL PROTESTS: Americans Lose Relay as Disqualification Effective

LONDON—(AP)—America's Olympic valiants wrapped up unofficial team championships in two major sections of the games Saturday—track and swimming—but their victory celebration was dulled by an unhappy incident in the 400-meter relay.

The judges ruled the Americans committed a foul when Barney Ewell of Lancaster, Pa., sought to hand the baton to Detroit's Lorenzo Wright. Wallace ran the third section of the race.

So the gold medals in the race went to the British, who finished in :41.8 to beat out Italy and Hungary in that order.

Dean Cromwell, veteran U.S. track coach, immediately announced: "I have protested."

"I do not think I went over the line," said Ewell, who went over later to explain the case to Avery Brundage, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee and a member of the Board of Appeal.

The American 1,500-meter relay team, composed of Art Hadden, of Texas A. and M., Cliff Bourland, Roy Cochran and Mal Whitfield, captured that event to give the United States a total of ten championships.

The Americans amassed a staggering total of 450 1-2 points—159 in track and field alone—more than 200 better than the closest challenger.

Sweden followed with 239 1-2. Then came France with 123 and Hungary with 117—the only countries able to crack the century figure.

The two relays and the marathon run were the championships decided on their eighth day of competition before 84,000.

The U.S. 1,500-meter quartet ran the distance, just ten yards short of a mile, in 3:10.4 to finish 50 yards ahead of France, with Sweden trailing third.

The marathon—a grind of 26 miles, 385 yards—was won by Delko Cabrera, a tireless Argentine, in two hours, 35 minutes, 7.6 seconds. Tom Richards of Britain rallied to overtake E. Gailly of Belgium for second place.

At the nearby Wembley Pool the American water magicians clicked off three more championships and left two Olympic records straggling.

These conquests—by Philadelphia's Joe Verdeur in the 200-meter breast stroke, Ann Curtis of San Francisco in the 400-meter free style and Jimmy McLane of Akron, Ohio, in the 1,500-meter free style—gave American splashers a sweep of the men's six swimming and two diving titles and the women enough points to take the team crown. The girls won two diving and two swimming events.

Unofficial team totals gave the men 122 points to 21 for runner-up Hungary and the women 68 compared with 37 for the crack Danish swimming team.

This week, rowing, yachting, boxing and other specialties of the 17-sport program take the limelight.

Verdeur, who has been cracking the Olympic record on almost every outing, won the 200-meter breast stroke in 3:29.3 to beat the record of 2:40 he had hung up in a preliminary heat.

Miss Curtis also broke the Olympic record in outdistancing

Mills-Lesnevich Bout Scratched Off Fight Card

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Tournament of Champions' tentative double-header championship fight card was cut in half today when light heavyweight king Freddie Mills asked for a postponement of his title fight because of illness.

Mills had agreed to meet champion Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside, N. J., in a return 15-rounder in the same program, matching middleweight champ Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan of France.

The twin title bill was to be staged at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, Sept. 23, 24 or 25.

But Saturday Mills, who lifted Lesnevich's crown in London July 25, begged out of the return. Ted Broadribb, manager of the champion, said Mills has been suffering from severe headaches since that fight and has been unable to train.

The news came as a stunning blow to the young promotional group. Promoter Andy Niederreiter and his backers had hoped to make a sizeable dent in Mike Jacobs' fistie empire with this spectacular, although costly, prestige show.

The Mills-Lesnevich fight alone would have cost the T. of C. $150,000 as the champion had been guaranteed $80,000 and Lesnevich $70,000.

Meanwhile Niederreiter continued plans to go ahead with the Zale-Cerdan title battle.

Denmark's favored Karen Margrethe Harup in the women's 400-meter free style. Her time of 5:17.8 cut deeply into the mark of 5:25.7 Miss Harup had registered yesterday.

To McLane, 17-year-old Andover Academy student, went the honor of scoring the last American victory and clinching the U.S. swimming "slam." His time for the 1,500-meter free style was 19 minutes, 18 1-2 seconds.

At Henly on the Thames, the University of California's eight-oar crew swept into the Olympic rowing finals within one shot of the championship America has held since 1920.

This success—plus the advance of the two four-oar shells, University of Washington's quarter with coxswain and Yale University's four-oar without—afforded some consolation for the surprising defeat of sculler Jack Kelly, Jr., of Philadelphia.

The 21-year-old Kelly, figured a cinch to win the title his father achieved in the 1920 Olympics, was defeated in a semifinal heat by G. E. Risso of Uruguay. Troubled by a cold, Kelly collapsed at the finish.

Double scullers Arthur A. Gallagher of Philadelphia and Joe Anygal of New York also were eliminated in the semifinal heats, leaving the United States with only three of its original seven crews for Monday's final.

Paddling Along

Manager Billy Southworth, left, beats a tribal tom-tom as first baseman Earl Torgeson, third baseman Bob Elliott and right fielder Tommy Holmes carry him along with their big bats in pre-game celebration at Braves Field, Boston. The Braves are letting everyone know they are on warpath for National League pennant.

Football Practice Opens Aug. 17

Six coaches, representing two Pampa schools, returned yesterday afternoon from the annual seven-day Texas coaches' school at Abilene.

Upon arrival, Tom Tipps, head coach at Pampa High School, announced that "spring" training would begin Aug. 17.

Those attending the school with Tipps were Aubra Nooncaster and John Bond of the High School and Dwayne Lyons and Pernal Scroggins of the Junior High School.

Tipps and Nooncaster, who spent their first athletic season in Pampa last year, are expecting about 35 boys out for the opening practice sessions.

Of these 35, three will be veterans of last year's squad which finished second in an exceedingly tough district.

Five of the gridsters will be backfield men while the remaining seven will operate from line positions.

Jack Williams, Wesley Kieth, Lamar Lively, Harbord Cox, and Jimmy Parker are the boys from whom Tipps and Nooncaster will probably pick their "four horsemen," or a reasonable facsimile.

Jimmy Hill and Phillip Payne saw action as guards on last year's team and LeRoy Troop, Ralph Hutsell, and Bo Jack Phillips, are three big boys who work at the tackle slots. Billy Bond and Derral Davis, two tall and lanky ball hawks, will probably be on the receiving end of most of the passes.

Besides the above mentioned talent, numerous stars of last year's Gorilla squad will report for practice, next Tuesday.

Coaches School Sets Record

ABILENE—(AP)—The Texas Coaching School was at an end leaving an all-time record for enrollment in its eighteenth year.

Directors of Texas High School Coaches Association wound up the school Friday.

The site of the 1949 school will be picked at a meeting of the board after the state Class AA High School Championship football game in December. Mineral Wells has filed a bid for the school. Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Lubbock, San Antonio and El Paso have announced they will do so.

L. W. McConachie of El Paso, the association's executive secretary, reported 1,045 coaches enrolled for the school and that the organization now had 875 members. So big has the clinic grown there is talk of making it two weeks instead of one.

Harried Housewives Hunt Low Prices

Dallasite Starts Meat Boycott War

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thousands of Texas housewives carrying the burden of stretching the family budget start their war on high meat prices this week. Their fight will be passive resistance—just stay away from the meat counters until prices go down. Seventeen Texas towns were reported in on the fight. Preliminary skirmishes the past week have been indecisive. In general, sales dropped off in towns where the war was declared, but prices showed no great change. Whether the housewives' war was having its effect couldn't be planned down but a sign showed up in the Fort Worth livestock market. Although livestock for the past week was in light supply—usually a signal for advancing prices—the prices were either steady or trended downward. Cattle were fifty cents to one dollar or more lower and calves were around a dollar lower.

It's been a telephone war. Peppery 71-year-old Mrs. R. D. Vaughn of Dallas started it in Texas. Her army of 300 housewives started going down each page of the telephone book carrying the word to boycott meat purchases Aug. 9-15.

The idea spread. Mrs. Vaughn announced she had the support of the second district of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs—12,000 more recruits.

By the end of the week, women in 16 Texas towns had joined up and a one-man campaign began in Lubbock. Telephones were ringing in Big Spring, Texarkana, Beaumont, Austin, Dallas, Orange, Port Arthur, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston, Abilene, Paris, Waco, Hamlin, Wichita Falls and Lubbock.

Reaction of meat packers, processors and retailers was varied. Some retailers complained the boycott was unfair. One said steel was high and why didn't the housewives boycott that.

"You don't plan a meal around a hunk of steel," was the reply. Ollis Bryant, president of the Dallas Independent Retail Grocers Association, predicted that the boycott would boomering with increased poultry and produce prices.

A few stores announced they would close their meat markets during the week of the boycott. Others reported they were cutting their meat buying.

In Big Spring, Mrs. Norman Spencer, wife of a rancher, proposed to boycott the boycotters. And a Texas farmwife flayed her city sisters.

"I wonder what would happen if the farmers went on a non-selling strike?" Mrs. W. T. Scholz of Zephyr asked in a letter to the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

"Did they (the city housewives) ever stop to think about the terrifically high prices of the grains those calves and hogs ate? But the farmers don't strike."

MRS. R. D. VAUGHN, a 71-year-old grandmother in Dallas, started the verbal guns booming in the "battle of the beefsteak," as she called housewives asking them to stop buying meat for a week in an effort to bring prices down. Back of her is her husband ready to assist. Mrs. Vaughn is president of the Dallas Women's Chamber of Commerce.

Passive Resistance to Meat Prices Spreads to 7 States

CHICAGO (AP)—Budget-harried housewives increased their buy-no-meat campaign over telephone wires in the face of a government prediction that meat prices will go higher.

The boycott plan, originating in Dallas, spread to such cities as Louisville, Salt Lake City, Kansas City, San Francisco, Indianapolis, 16 cities in Texas and half a dozen in Wisconsin.

The housewives' crusade was aimed directly at one of two causes given by the department: record consumer buying power and a decline in the output of meats and other livestock products.

Meanwhile the Agriculture Department predicted that meat and other livestock prices will lead a retail food price advance in the next few months.

In Indianapolis, however, an official of Kingan & Co., meat packers, discounted the government prediction and said beef and pork prices would fall in September or October.

And in Chicago, a spokesman for the major packers said that "more adequate meat supplies are expected this fall and winter, due to seasonally increased marketings of livestock."

But the women who pay the grocery bills teamed for action.

In Indianapolis, several housewives began a phone campaign and their leader, Mrs. V. E. Perkins, advised callers to write Congress for price controls.

In Kansas City, Mrs. Edward S. Munneke sparked a chain-telephone drive to get her colleagues to quit buying meat next week.

In the same city, James Browne, president of the City and State Independent Retail Grocers Association, said "if people would quit eating meat for a week, the country would be flooded with meat, and prices would break sharply."

A Boise, Idaho, women's club of 50 members appealed to all women in its area to keep away from meat counters. Chain phone calls also spread across Louisville.

In San Francisco, a council of women shoppers was formed to intensify the campaign which started there Monday. There were some declines in the wholesale markets. A butchers union spokesman, blaming stockmen for the price levels, said the boycott may force small shopkeepers out of business.

Phones rang in half a dozen Wisconsin cities as women were asked to call five of their friends and urge a five-day boycott.

Oregon's first resistance groups were organized yesterday in three cities. Forty-five Portland women pledged to buy no more beef until prices fell one third.

In Eugene, a postcard parade joined the phone campaign.

A meat-buying slump has been underway for several weeks in Portland. Slaughtering has fallen 30 to 40 percent, and some packing plants are cutting prices up to three cents below the list to get it moved.

In Seattle, meat sales were affected by high prices, but a packing company official said "there probably are the same number of customers as before prices went up, but they're buying less."

In Chicago, the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers said it has noted a certain amount of buyers' resistance but no organized boycott.

Western Envoys Expecting Meeting With Molotov Soon

MOSCOW (AP)—Envoys of the three Western Powers expect a call from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today or Monday to resume negotiations on the East-West deadlock in Germany and perhaps all Europe.

After two lengthy meetings with the Russians—one Monday night with Prime Minister Stalin and another Friday night with Molotov—most of the issues between the four powers have been brought into the open and laid on the conference table.

The present stage was described by an authoritative source here as a "negotiations period."

(A British diplomatic source said in London the Western Powers thus far have failed to agree with Russia on a broad basis for four-power talks on Germany. The informant said some progress was being made in the negotiations but Russia had raised objections to "certain concrete proposals" made to Molotov last night.)

The negotiations period may continue for some time. There may be several more meetings with Molotov before all four negotiators are ready to report back to Stalin.

At this point, things are believed to be proceeding all right. They have been frank exchanges over the Berlin question and Germany. The three Western envoys have been talking pretty bluntly about the Berlin blockade and the Soviet has been just as frank about Allied plans for a Western German government in Berlin.

The Literary Gazette said Saturday that "only a realization of Soviet proposals on the future of Germany" would lead to settlement of the Berlin crisis and create conditions for a firm peace in Europe.

(The Warsaw declaration by the Soviet Union and seven other Eastern European countries urged a provisional government for all Germany. The Western Powers have announced plans for a separate Western German government.)

(The Soviet reply to notes of protest from the Western Powers on the Berlin blockade said the Russians would not object to negotiating differences in Berlin, but the talks must be without preliminary conditions and must concern the administration of Germany as a whole.)

I have heard also in government bureaus of streamlining the buck so it may more readily be passed from one office to another.

—Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, director, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Army Offer Made 18-Year-Olds

The opportunity to serve their country without being drafted is offered all young men, 18 years old, who enlist in the Army of Air Force for one year, and then serve with the reserves for four to six years, M-Sgt. Davis A. Brown, Pampa recruiting officer, said.

The reserves are a component part of the services, and require active participation. Besides, one year of active service plus the reserve duty gives a man more than one quarter of the time needed to make him eligible for retirement, Brown explained.

The local recruiting office is on the basement floor of the Pampa Postoffice.

200 Internships Available in Army

Two hundred internships are available each year under the graduate professional education program of the United States Army Medical Corps, M-Sgt. Davis A. Brown, Pampa recruiting officer, said.

Interns admitted under this program will be given training at Brooke Army Medical Center, San Antonio; Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver; Oliver Central Hospital, Augusta, Ga.; Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco; and Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Full information may be obtained from the Surgeon, Fourth Army Headquarters, Fort Sam Houston, Brown said.

Troop Carrier Group To Be De-Activated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 19th Troop Carrier Squadron of Hickam Field, Hawaii, has been ordered to Bergstrom Air Base near Austin, where it will be de-activated.

Only some 100 enlisted men and five or six officers are left in the squadron. They will be transferred to another outfit. Nearly 100 enlisted men and 40 officers have already been sent to Berlin and are flying foodstuffs into the city. All the squadron's C-54 planes were also sent to Berlin.

Farmer's Income Stays Unchanged At High Level

AUSTIN (AP)—The index of prices received by Texas farmers and ranchers for their products as of July 15 was unchanged at a high level, the United States Department of Agriculture said.

Sharp increases in prices of most meat animals and higher prices for poultry, eggs, cottonseed, fruit, potatoes and sweet potatoes offset declines in hay, grains and cotton to hold the index at 329.

On July 15, 1947, it was 300 and the five-year average (Jan. 1935-Dec. 1939) was 103, the USDA said.

Texans Under 26 Must Reregister

AUSTIN (AP)—Texans under 26 who registered under the 1940 draft law must register again under the 1948 act, state Selective Service Director Gen. K. L. Berry said.

He explained that the new law requires all males 18 through 25 to sign up unless they are specifically exempt by law.

The only groups exempt are: members of the armed forces on duty; cadets of the U. S. Military Academy and Coast Guard Academy; midshipmen of the U. S. Naval Academy; foreign diplomats and consular representatives and members of their families.

She's Walking for the First Time

This picture records the biggest thrill in the life of 8-year-old Patricia Janello, of Christopher, Ill. She's walking for the first time. Born with spastic knees, she was a hopeless cripple until five months ago, when operations were performed at Chicago's Illinois Research Hospital. Her happiness is mirrored in her face as she walks toward her father, August. Nurse Shirley Stevenson and her mother encourage her.

St. Laurent Succeeds King

OTTAWA —(AP)— Louis Stephen St. Laurent, French-Canadian minister for external affairs, was named Saturday successor to Canada's Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

He was elected leader of the National Liberal Party on its first ballot yesterday.

And as leader of this dominant Canadian party, he automatically will become Prime Minister when King retires, probably about the end of this year.

He defeated two candidates, James Garfield Gardiner, minister for agriculture, and C. C. Power, former air minister.

St. Laurent, former corporation lawyer from Quebec, is 66 years old. He will be the first French-Canadian Prime Minister Canada has had since Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1919.

The Liberal Party convention gave St. Laurent 848 votes, Gardiner 323, and Power 56. A simple majority was all that was needed.

Family of Three Knows it Could Have Been Worse

MARLIN —(AP)— It was one of "those" nights for the W. J. Walters family near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Walters and daughter, Doris Jean, 18, who live six miles north of here, started for a church entertainment at Perry Friday night. About a mile from their home, they noticed flames shooting out from under their car.

Mrs. Walters jumped from the car, breaking her left hip.

The daughter ran through the yard of a farm house close by and was bitten by a dog.

The fire, meanwhile, went out, but in turn set the grass alongside the road ablaze. This threatened to reset the car afire. Walters was able to put out the flames only when several motorists drove up and gave assistance.

The United States will do everything possible by negotiation to avoid the tragedy of war in the Berlin crisis, but we will not be coerced or intimidated in any way. —Secretary of State Marshall.

Girl Gets More Than She Bargained For

SHANGHAI —(AP)— Regularly Constable Wong Su-Yuen dropped around to woo pretty Miss Hsu Su-Chi, a working girl.

Finally, she grew tired of it and decided to get rid of him.

She wrote him a letter saying she was a Communist and that it would ruin his career to associate with her. That, she thought, would rid her of the constable for good.

In tears Saturday Miss Hsu denied to a judge that she was a Communist.

But the judge was firm. He ruled the letter a confession and sentenced her to a year in jail.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcostrale. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and appear almost like magic, from neck, chin, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 47 Pounds
"When I commenced to take Barcostrale I weighed 212 pounds. I now weigh 165. I lost 47 pounds on the first two bottles. I feel so much better after losing that weight. I think it is a wonderful medicine and thanks to Barcostrale."—Mrs. George Gregg, Chalmers Courts 4, Apt. 1, Austin, Texas.

Boys Warned About Capture Of Pigeons

The age-old practice of boys capturing pigeons to raise and go into the pigeon business.

Weathered explained, that while the boys meant no criminal harm, they failed to realize they were trespassing on government property and were in danger of being shot by armed building custodians mistaking them for burglars in the dark. The boys made most of the pigeon hunting expeditions at night by climbing the gutters, pipes on the loading docks, then making their way to the main roof.

To come down from the roof, the boys grasped tiling on the front, letting them down to the porch and walk. This tiling is loose in spots and even postal employees use ropes to let themselves down from the roof. Should the tiling break, or they lose a handhold the youngsters would wind up on the non-giving concrete 20 feet below.

These incidents must be reported to the postal inspectors and it isn't easy to explain away anything to them. Both the boys and their parents can well expect a visit from Post Office inspectors in the near future," the postmaster added.

Wheat Contest Awards Made

Three 4-H boys from this area were given recognition, including ribbons and a loving cup, at Friday's Kiwanis luncheon meeting for their part in the club's wheat improvement contest.

Amos Harris, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Harris of Gray County, was recognized as first-place winner, receiving the loving cup and a ribbon.

If he should win the cup in any ensuing year of the contest, he may keep it. However, at the time being he will have it for one year. The ribbon is his permanently.

Second place went to his brother, Glen; and the third-place winner was Brent Carruth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Carruth. Both boys received a ribbon.

The wheat improvement contest, held in conjunction with the general wheat improvement program being waged in the Oklahoma and Panhandle wheat belts, was sponsored by the Agriculture Committee of the Kiwanis Club.

The Hardin-Stimmons Cowboy Band, always a treat to local audiences, appeared in part as the entertainment feature on Friday's program. Monte Hale, cowboy lore and of movie-goers, was also a guest of the club. Both Hale and the band were a part of this year's rodeo and horse show at the Top o' Texas.

Also introduced as special guests were cowgirls entered in the cowgirls sponsored contest at the rodeo. Alice Gray, hostess, and Ruth Sewell, co-hostess of the event, were also present.

Meat Boycott in Orange Backfires

ORANGE —(AP)— Effects of this week's proposed meat boycott were being felt by some firms here Saturday—in reverse.

Jack Fuller, owner of a 500-unit freezer locker plant, said his business was booming as customers—many of them housewives—rushed to fill deep freeze units with meats in anticipation of the prospective meat strike.

"They used to bring meat in moderate quantities," Fuller said. "Now they're coming in with whole calves."

Suddenly, one of the kids held out an empty hand to his brother and squealed, "Look, Bud. Look what I've got!" Bud's eyes sparkled with anticipation as he reached for the imaginary object. Then there ensued a battle royal for possession of a toy that didn't exist.

I kept quiet, thinking they would soon leave imagination for reality, but when I saw a first class fracas looming, I intervened. In my sternest maternal tone, I ordered them to stop their foolishness, but they heeded me not. This wonderful imaginary toy had taken on proportions of such magnitude that no mere mother could command obedience—it took superior force. With great effort I pried open the clenched fist of the possessor and took it.

Can you imagine how I felt with a handful of nothing held high over my head?

I then delivered my ultimatum. The toy would be put away in the highest drawer in the chest until they both could play with it peacefully—maybe that was putting a too great strain on small boys' sense of fair play, but it was my ultimatum. And I am stuck with it. I emptied my empty hand into the top chest drawer and packed the now chastened youngsters off to bed. But now I'm wondering—what was it? I applaud their vivid imaginations; I am not concerned over their fighting—that's just part of growing up—but I am puzzled over what it is that occupies no space, but can yet be given and taken away. Did they see something I didn't see? Do they live part of their lives in a world different from my own? Or has adulthood, parent hood, and too much concern with what we laughingly call "realities" blunted my perceptions? Perhaps, when I give it back, I shall discover its identity—and then again, I may never know.

A Baby Sitter's Primer

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
Associated Press

Baby sitters have given parents new lemons on life.

Not all of us are fortunate enough to have doting mothers or aunts who are willing to stay at home with baby while we have a night out. Most of us have to hire someone. Not just anyone, mind you, but someone who is competent—someone we know will really look after baby and give us a chance to enjoy ourselves with untroubled minds.

To help solve this problem of hiring a competent baby sitter, the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University has issued a pamphlet that can be yours for the asking. Entitled "Baby Sitters," it was prepared by Ruth Smith, in the college's Department of Child Development and Family Relationships.

The pamphlet divides into two parts under the questions: "How do you rate as an employer of baby sitters?" and "How do you rate as a baby sitter?"

As an employer, asks the pamphlet, "do you know your baby sitter?" Any businessman will tell you that he requires some kind of reference from anybody he is thinking of employing. Some parents, however, hire anybody who is willing to stay with their child without knowing too much about their baby sitter's reliability and honesty. All too often they don't even know how well the baby sitter is able to take charge while they are not at home.

Another question asked is: "Do your children know your baby sitter?" This is especially important with young children. They are likely to be easily frightened when they waken expecting their parents to answer their call and see a stranger instead.

Do you leave understandable instructions? "Hastily telling your baby sitter what to do if your youngster wakes up may mean that the sitter will do nothing, or the wrong thing," the pamphlet advises. "If there are certain things you want the baby sitter to do, it is much safer to write out your instructions. Have the sitter read them while you are still in the house to make sure that the instructions are clear."

It is important also to let your sitter know where you can be reached. "Something may happen at home while you are gone that you should know about right away. Always leave the name of the person you are visiting and the telephone number by the phone. If you cannot be reached by telephone, the name and phone number of your doctor, or someone else who could take charge,

USE BAKING SODA

Put baking soda to work to help speed up household chores. A few tablespoons of soda added to dish water, for example, cuts through grease, gives glasses a fresher sparkle. After frying a greasy smelling fowl, pour off excess grease, sprinkle baking soda around the skillet to check the odor and to make pan easier to clean. To remove egg stains from silverware, rub with a small amount of dry soda on a soft damp cloth.

Wives Hold Full Time Jobs in 10% Of U. S. Families

In one family out of four in the United States the wife earns at least some outside money and in one family out of ten she has a full-time outside job, according to figures based on a 1946 survey just released by the U. S. Census and cited by the Institute of Life Insurance. Stated in another way, about two-fifths of all women earning any outside money in America are married and living with their husbands.

Nearly three percent of American working wives during 1946 earned more than $3,000 and almost fourteen percent earned more than $2,000, but the great bulk earned much less. According to the Census figures, the "median" earnings were $288, a figure which means that one-half of them received more than this sum and the other half received less. Median earnings for wives with full-time jobs were almost twice this amount.

Generally in 1946, a larger proportion of women in the "executive" and professional classes held well-paying jobs than in other fields. In fact, 60 percent of executives, proprietors, managers and officials received more than $3,000 per year and almost two percent received more than $10,000. Professional women workers included the next highest proportion of women in the above $5,000 category.

In every age group, every occupation group and every industry, women's earnings averaged considerably less than men's. Median earnings for all full-time employed women were $1,661, almost a thousand dollars less than median earnings for full-time employed men. Ten times as many men as women earned more than $5,000.

The amount of money a woman earns is in proportion to the amount of her education; she is also likely to earn more if she lives in a city rather than in a village and if she lives in the West rather than in the East or South. So far as education is concerned, a girl who has been in college seems to have more than twice the chance of earning $3,000 as a girl with a high school education and ten times the chance of earning this amount as a girl who has never entered high school.

Of tremendous importance to women planning their own financial futures, the Institute points out, is the rise and fall of income which apparently takes place as one grows older. Peak income in 1946 went to women whose ages were between 35 and 44 years; after that, median earnings declined to considerably lower figures. This trend is noticeable among women with lower earnings than with higher earnings, however.

Try a One-Dress Wardrobe for Both Style and Comfort

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

A joy in the life of any busy woman is the simple, untrifled, well-cut dress which can go anywhere from market in the morning to the theater at night.

Such a dress was put to such a test, worn by a young career woman through one of her busiest weeks. A simple charcoal gray sheer wool lent itself well to changes of accessories, was dressed up or down as the occasion demanded. To the office she wore it with matching alligator shoes and bag and a peaked felt hat. For cocktails and dinner the same dress was worn with a fluffy flower-trimmed bonnet, a sable scarf and spike heeled suede shoes. For a matinee it appeared with the convertible neckline closed high at the throat, and a long string of pearls its only accent. For marketing it was worn with casual walking shoes.

This story has a moral: If your wardrobe is limited, choose a simple style in a well-cut dress that will be at ease in any company.

Don't Worry About Your Johnny's IQ Is Latest Advice of Educators

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
Associated Press

Don't worry too much about your child's I. Q. He may be a mental giant one day and turn out to be normal or even a subnormal child, a week later.

It depends upon emotional factors, the kind of test taken, who gives the test and who interprets the results, says Sister Mary Corde Loring.

Sister Mary Corde of the faculty of Maryknoll Teachers College, Ossining, N. Y., asks in an article written for The Catholic School Journal.

"What Good is an I. Q.?" Her answer: "Not much good!"

An I. Q. short for Intelligence Quotient, is based on a series of mental tests and is supposed to show how intelligent a child is.

But, says Sister Mary Corde, unless the examinations are of the best, the tests given by qualified personnel, and the results interpreted by experienced teachers, "it is easy to see what grave injustice can be done to children."

It is common knowledge, she says, "that obtained I. Q.'s vary from day to day and from year to year. Case histories show that children's obtained I. Q.'s may vary as much as 20 points due to emotional factors."

In School X, points out Sister Mary Corde, every child had been given a group mental test. It was not one of the best available, but the teacher thought the results infallible. They were the first I. Q.'s she had had for her class.

"What she didn't know was that Johnny's subnormal score was due to the fact that he was upset because his mother had not been home to get his breakfast.

"I have known a child to score an I. Q. of 78 due to a revised record and to raise it to 97 after six months' remedial instruction," says Sister Mary Corde.

However, she concludes, "we must not lose faith completely in our intelligence scales. Fallible as they are, they are all we have."

A child may be "gifted" and yet not be a high I. Q. As used by the U. S. Office of Education, a "gifted child" may be one with exceptionally high intellectual capacity or one who is markedly superior in some specific direction—such as in art, music, mechanics or social leadership. Yet, says the American Association for Gifted Children, there are all-too-unnecessary cases of gifted children whose capabilities are not understood and who become anti-social or even misuse their talents.

Concoiled parents are perhaps the greatest danger to the gifted child, says Rhea K. Boardman and Gertrude Hildreth in the magazine Understanding The Child.

Such parents forget all about the child's talents and proceed instead to the intensive artificial cultivation of the child's gifts. Too often the gifted child is treated like a miniature adult; he is rushed into scholastic "long drills" as such as possible. These parents are disappointed later when the child loses interest in developing his talent and falls to live up to the expectations for him."

Ham loaf with pineapple garnish for a summertime party.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Ground ham and pork give fine flavor to this meat loaf; eggs and milk add more top quality protein and fruit garnish gives it all a summertime look. It's a party dish that's no extra work.

Ham Loaf With Pineapple
(10-12 servings)

One and one-half pounds ground ham, 3-4 pound ground fresh pork, 3-4 cup cracker crumbs, 2 eggs, beaten, 3-4 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 table-spoons minced onion, 2 table-spoons horseradish, 8 slices pineapple, 7 marachino cherries.

Mix together thoroughly ground ham, ground pork, cracker crumbs, beaten eggs, milk, salt, pepper, onion and horseradish. Put two slices of pineapple against each long side of a heat-resistant glass loaf pan, two-quart size. Set a cherry in center of each pineapple slice. Place ham mixture in loaf pan, pressing against pineapple slices to hold them in place. Cut other two pineapple slices into fifths and arrange with marachino cherries on top of meat loaf. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about one hour and 15 minutes.

Here's another protein main dish:

Fish and Vegetable Bake
(6-8 servings)

One-half cup uncooked rice, 1 quart boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 pound grated cheese, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne pepper, 2 cups cooked green beans, 2 cups cooked corn.

Add rice to boiling water, to which one teaspoon salt has been added. Cook over low heat until rice is tender. Drain. Mix together the eggs, milk, one cup of the cheese, one teaspoon salt and the pepper. Place half of rice mixture in bottom of a well-greased two-quart casserole. Place vegetables on top, cover with remainder of grated cheese over top of rice. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

FORMULA FOR DEALING PERFECT BRIDGE HAND

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Several times a year I receive letters from bridge players throughout the country telling me about a perfect hand that was dealt. The mathematical odds are so great against a perfect hand that I am forced to pay little or no attention to such letters.

However, at a card party given recently by the Long Island branch of the Railway Mail Association auxiliary in Flushing, N. Y., Sidney Sherman, a Jackson Heights, N. Y., lawyer, dealt the perfect bridge hand.

Sherman sat South. Arthur M. Moore, of Whitehouse, N. Y., was North, and Mrs. Moore was East. Henry Braun, of Hollis, N. Y., was West. The hand is shown the way it was dealt, and there were a number of witnesses who state that the deal was authentic.

The four players had been using only one deck of cards. They decided that they should have two decks, and a new deck was given to Mr. Sherman. He shuffled it, the cards were cut, and this was the result.

It is not too fantastic to see how a new deck could be dealt into the perfect bridge hand. Suppose that the top 26 cards are 13 spades and 13 clubs, and the bottom 26 are the

Mr. Sherman realized this and for a half hour afterwards, he tried to repeat what he had done, but he could not come out with another perfect hand.

Suppose you take a new deck, divide and riffle them as I outlined above, and see if you can deal a perfect hand. However, I am sure that your friends will lay you heavy odds against your accomplishing this almost impossible feat.

Lady Pied Piper Urges All Women To Join Fight to Curb Rat Menace

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK (NEA)—If the merest suspicion that a rat is making your home his doesn't get you fighting mad, meet a lady Pied Piper whose government-sponsored mission is to incite you to battle.

Miss Frieda Schicht of St. Louis claimed her title after successfully organizing and directing a rat control program—the first of its kind—in her city. On loan to the U. S. Department of Interior for current National Urban Rat Control Committee's program, Miss Schicht's job is to warn women against the destructive, disease-bearing pests and to offer concrete help in ridding homes of this menace.

HOUSEWIFE CAN HELP

What can the housewife do to help stamp out these saboteurs? Plenty, says Miss Schicht. First, she can fortify her own home against the vicious invader. Second, she should join with her neighbors in co-operative efforts through city rat control committees to rid the community of the pests.

Good housekeeping is the secret of rat control in the home, says Miss Schicht. Because rats can enter a house through any opening over a half inch in diameter, cracks or small holes in the house foundation should be sealed up with concrete or metal. The lid of a tin can, for example, nailed over a tiny opening is an effective and easy-to-make barrier, Miss Schicht suggests.

If doors don't fit snugly in the frames, metal flashing along the bottom edge will make a rat-proof seal. Basement windows or vents should be screened with quarter-inch hardware cloth mesh. Papers or old clothes piled up in attic or basement or rubbish heaps outdoors—all of which make excellent shelters for rats—should be eliminated, advises our consultant.

ELIMINATE HIDEOUTS

The little woman can also urge her husband handyman to seal up or remove possible rat hideouts—the dark enclosed spaces such as boxed-in pipes or double walls.

More precautions to take, says Miss Schicht, include storing food in tightly-covered containers, using garbage cans with tight-fitting lids and rinsing all food particles out of tin cans before they are discarded.

If you suspect the presence of rats in your home or apartment—and, says Miss Schicht, they enter the best houses—these aggressive invaders should be promptly exterminated by poisoning or trapping.

Whether you elect to use highly poisonous preparations such as phosphorous-based rat pastes or milder poisons such as red squill preparations, extreme care should be taken to prevent accidents, cautions Miss Schicht. Poisons should be kept in locked cabinets.

Miss Frieda Schicht, right, special consultant for the current National Urban Rat Control Committee's program, gives Mrs. Barbara Davies, New York housewife, simple directions for nailing a tin can lid over a small hole to seal off a possible entrance for rats.

Poisoned baits for rats should be prepared on waxed paper to simplify handling. This method also protects hands from contact with the toxic preparations.

out of reach of children. Be sure pets are protected when poisoned baits are set out.

Poisoned baits should be put out at night. Those not eaten should be picked up and burned the next morning, she advises. Preparing baits on waxed paper is a trick recommended by Miss Schicht because paper protects hands from toxic materials and simplifies picking up uneaten bait.

If rat traps are used, Miss Schicht advises concealing them behind an object such as a garbage can or in dark corners. Set them at right angles to the wall with the trigger end touching the baseboard.

Sufficient sleep on firm, level bedding during the summer will greatly help adolescent children overcome current tensions and they will also be more ready for the coming school year.

Royalty

Helen Olson gets a lift from end William Zeke O'Connor, left, and all-American tackle George Connor at Northwest-ern's Dyche Stadium. The two former Notre Dame men will perform with college all-stars against Chicago Cardinals while the young lady will be Miss All-Star in annual Chicago game, August 20.

I know a woman who suffered such ambitions. One fine day she found herself right up there on a platform, faced with a glib master of ceremonies, a howling jealous audience and a ticking clock. This lady is no underprivileged chattel who has spent her life barefoot and digging acorns. She's a daisy-chain lass, who buys—not rents—best-sellers, subscribes to magazines and reads two newspapers a day. She belongs to the League of Women Voters, too.

On the air she shuddered and figuratively slipped into a hair shirt. "I suffered from that common American disease," was her explanation. "I wanted to get something for nothing. I was greedy. It seemed so easy. But never gain."

"I suppose the grinning young man asked me a question. Suddenly I heard a strange, high voice coming from my mouth. Then my ence, for some unknown and frightening reason, started to whoop and clap. "Every bit of sense drained out of my head. I don't know what I answered, but I was suddenly off the platform clutching a couple of boxes of the sponsor's product in my clammy hands."

Later she found she'd flunked the preliminary, gag-question. "I stammered 'England' when he asked me what nations were fighting in the Spanish-American War," she said. "My father was a Rough Rider."

Her performance, it would seem, was a public case of stage-fright. Heaven knows how many wrong answers stem from fear-frozen minds.

There are also the semi-pros, the hardy perennials who make a vocation of traveling from quiz program to quiz program. The MC's must love these characters knees started to shake. The audience and each is a character—they brighten a dull corner on the clock.

What with the frightened and the foolish, quiz shows have shown the Average American to be a tongue-tied goon who flounders hopelessly if asked any question other than his name and his home-town. Ladies and gents who are called up in front of the microphone do not represent a fair sampling of Americans. Most of them don't even represent themselves.

There's a moral—two, in fact—in all this. Don't feel superior about your intellect until you've got that gratis washing machine in your own cellar. Secondly, wait until your friends tell you how you looked in that television quiz show.

KEEP RED CABBAGE RED. In order to have red cabbage keep its color cook it with an acid. A few tablespoons of vinegar should be used for each cup of shredded cabbage and added to the cooking water.

Sandals being popular foot gear for summer, more girls will be going stockings. To avoid embarrassing odors and help protect summer shoes from becoming perspiration stained, use a deodorant cream between your toes and on the sole of your feet.

Easy to keep clean is a new clothes line made of rayon and coated with plastic. It is said to have a very low stretch rate and can be tied easily.

Mauve, pink and white linen sandals are being trimmed with gold. They are being used for street or evening wear.

So You Think You're a Quiz Kid

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

People who answer questions—or don't answer them—on radio quiz programs are currently receiving the scorn usually heaped on traitors, spies and political opponents. It's high time somebody defended them.

The housewife who opines Sinclair Lewis wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and the insurance salesman who identifies Jesse James as a former government official aren't as dumb as they sound to the naked ear. They are average citizens in the middle of a nightmare.

It's easy to sit in front of a radio in the living room and sneer. Under those circumstances anybody and everybody knows that Simon Legree authored the book and that Jesse James is an orchestra leader. Just the same, we who sneer in comfort and relaxation are also dreaming languidly about how easy it would be to pick up a 17-jewel power lawn mower and a double-mailed, non-tippable helicopter simply by answering an easy query like "Who was the first U. S. Minister to France?" John Hancock, maybe?—No, Gwinnett Button, Bulton Gwinnett.

The Republican platform also called for equal pay for equal work regardless of sex. I don't exactly understand all that, but if George thinks it means he can keep his paycheck he's sadly mistaken.

Peace Seeks An Opening In Palestine

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Even in the days of the great deluge the dove of peace found a resting place on Noah's Ark, and so perhaps it isn't strange—though startling—to find her circling hopefully in search of a landing spot in the strife-torn Holy Land.

If anyone had predicted a few weeks ago that both Arabs and Jews today would be guardedly offering refuge to the weary bearer of the olive branch, his rating as a prophet would have hit zero. Yet the impossible has happened—and it came about like this:

On August 4 King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, key figure among the Arab nations at war with Israel and generalissimo of their armies in the field, declared that his country didn't "exclude any possible compromise that secures justice and prevents unnecessary bloodshed."

This was the first public statement by any Arab leader indicating a willingness to compromise.

The next day the government of Israel made its first direct overture for peace negotiations with the Arab states. Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok placed the proposal before Count Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, who had to pass it on to the Arabs through the U. N. The response remains to be seen.

Now of course it would be foolish to think that this necessarily means peace is just around the corner, for the bitterness between the combatants is too deep to be removed easily. However, it would be equally unwise to discard the possibilities of achieving a compromise.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the Arab nations are divided among themselves. Abdullah, who long has been a protégé of the British, stands to gain the most of all the Arab leaders in any compromise settlement with the Jews. This ranks with the rival Arab states of Egypt, Syria and Iraq, which don't want to give in to Israel.

However, Abdullah is a mighty man among the Arabs, not only because of his relations with England but because he has the most powerful army of all the Arab states.

Floods Hit, 3,500 Drown

NANKING—(AP)—Flood waters of the Yellow River drowned nearly 3,500 persons and left 400,000 homeless in the rich North Honan Province, officials reports released Friday said.

The Water Conservation Commission said reports from North Honan magistrates described the flood the direst in 100 years. More than 1,000,000 fertile acres were flooded.

(Frequently preliminary reports are exaggerated as to casualties.) Nine districts north of Cheng-hai were reportedly flooded when the dike at the Taino, a tributary of the Yellow River, collapsed. Reports gave 3,480 missing or drowned, 400,000 homeless and 42,489 homes destroyed.

The reports said more than 3,000 drowned when backwaters flooded Paimchuen, a lake 25 miles northwest of Chenghsien.

THE STORY: Playboy Marcus Sterling has stolen his wife's diamond necklace and handed it over as security on a $10,000 gambling debt to racketeer Harry Blaine. To cover the theft, Sterling makes it appear a professional burglar. He spends the night at Edgeroff's country club to establish an alibi. Along with the necklace, he also took a sealed packet from his wife's safe. This turns out to be $10,000 in cash which Miriam Sterling had withdrawn from the bank for him.

Next morning Mrs. Sterling is found murdered in bed. At the club, Sterling gets rid of Miriam's cash by mailing it in a sealed packet to his secretary, Miss Wilson. Police Lt. Talent brings Sterling home, confronts him with his wife's body, Sterling collapses.

TALENT found Gable waiting in the hall.

"Let's get the body on its way so Doc Walker can finish his job," Talent said.

"I'll take care of that on the phone downstairs. We don't get no help from the neighbors, Lieutenant."

"No?"

"I had Cooper check up while you were gone. Nobody saw anything or heard anything during the night."

"They wouldn't in a neighborhood like this."

"You sure handed me something for the book, Lieutenant?"

"Yes? What was that?"

"The way you took Sterling in there."

"Sometimes that's the quickest way to get a lot of answers."

"Get any?" Gable persisted.

"We'll have to wait to see how everything fits together."

DOWNSTAIRS, Talent collared Gus Ripley.

"How about Trapgood, Gus?" Talent asked.

"He's coming. Due now."

"Fine. What have you got for me?"

"Fingerprints tell quite a story, Lieutenant."

Psychologists Match Wits With Apes to Learn How Animals Think

NEW YORK—(AP)—Four university psychologists are busy on a new research project in the Bronx Zoo.

They're trying to find out about animal brainpower and behavior. The research team believes the psychologists expect to find out such things as:

Whether humming birds prefer red flowers.

Why the gorilla beats his chest.

Why sea lions hate to have their offspring learn to swim.

The research team believes their study will help uncover some of the secrets of the evolution of intelligence.

The psychologists already have learned a little about how to get along in the animal kingdom.

For instance, said Dr. Reiss, if an ape takes a mouthful of water with the intention of spitting it at you, the only thing to do is spit at him first.

War Brings Back Film 'Good Girl'

SAYS DeHAVILLAND

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Because of the war, the good girl can again flower on the screen, says that ace good-girl portrayer, Olivia DeHavilland.

The dark-tressed, Tokyo-born actress has an opinion on nearly everything and she's vehement on the belief held in some quarters that badness makes a girl interesting, but goodness not so. To this theory she delivers the ultimate in Hollywood criticism: "How corny!"

"During the 30's," she continued, "it became a fad to portray bad girls on the screen. There seemed to be a feeling that a destructive personality was automatically interesting. It's really dangerous to civilization to think that way."

Olivia accused the over-sophisticated society and Hollywood of proposing such a view.

"It was a perversion of values," she opined. "In reality, the bad people are often the dull ones; lawbreakers are usually a dreary lot. Yet they have remained popular on the screen."

The war changed the tide, she added. "It made a number of old-fashioned virtues important again. The men in service realized more than ever the kind of girl they preferred."

Nevertheless to say, Olivia is currently portraying a good girl in "The Heiress." In fact, about the only bad girl she has played was in "The Dark Mirror." Half of her role was as Terry, the twin with a hobby of sticking sharp objects into gent's backs. "I didn't like to live with her," she remarked about the disturbing part.

The breed I come from never lets the other fellow shove him off the sidewalk. We're a right to be in Berlin and we're going to stay there. Period.

—Rep. Charles Eaton (R) of New Jersey.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Inflation can be reduced to a mathematical formula.

And some day the field of economics will come up with an Einstein—who will write social history by figuring out that formula.

It will be a big help both to the politicians and the people.

Inflation can be measured in terms of sweat and fear, faith and production. Any rise in the cost of living is an "inflation." But when does it become dangerous?

Judging from recent inflations in Europe and China, they become dangerous when a drop of sweat buys and produces less and less, faith in the nation's economy falls and fear of its money rises.

By these standards the present inflation in the United States is mild. Mild indeed compared to the rampaging inflation which destroyed the currency of Hungary in 1946 and is now straining the printing presses that turn out the money for Nationalist China.

Rising production, faith and a high value on sweat are the three anchors that keep the inflation balloon from skyrocketing.

Sure, prices have gone up steadily here. But so have production and the value of labor. Economists say that despite the high cost of living and the fall in the value of money a drop of sweat will buy more in the present market than it did ten years ago.

And that is what really counts in any peacetime system—what sweat will buy. When sweat brings back less and less, when men work harder and harder to produce fewer and fewer goods, hope dies and panic is born—and the wild horse of inflation runs through the land.

When a country is saddled with true inflation you can read that fact in its people's faces. They mirror each other's fear of the present and the future. That was true in Hungary in May, 1946. The pengo, normally worth about 20 cents, fell to nothing. The government printed 1,000,000,000-pengo note which it hoped was worth $4.

I was in Shanghai in the fall of 1946 and one American dollar brought about 13,000 Chinese dollars. Three weeks ago a new Chinese 5,000,000-dollar note was worth sixty-two American cents in the black market. And when inflation reaches that point, the black market is the only real market.

Today a souvenir Continental or Confederate bill is worth more than the Chinese dollar.

Twelve U.S. states have laws forbidding a man from marrying his mother-in-law.

Two-Pound Premature Baby Lives Normally

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(AP)—The smallest surviving baby in the history of South Bend Memorial Hospital tipped the scales at just over two pounds—23 days old.

Little Jeannette Dziukowski named for her mother but called "Inky" because she still lives in an incubator—is described by doctors as a normally hungry and active baby. But she gets food through a tube in her throat to relieve her of the effort of eating.

"Inky" was born to Mrs. Casimir Dziukowski, 29, two months prematurely on July 14. She is the couple's first child.

New Member Rent Advisory Board Named

Harper H. Scoggins, Borger, manager of the veterans County Service Association, was named as additional member of the Rent Advisory Board, Frank E. Hobgood, rent director for the Pampa-Borger rental area, said today.

The appointment of Scoggins was made to obtain balanced representation on the board of landlord interests, tenant interests, and four members who represent the general interests of the public, as required by the new rent law, Hobgood explained.

As the local rent boards prepare for their work, the housing expediter has asked that they choose their chairman from the impartial public interest representatives, rather than from either the tenant or landlord representatives.

Boards are authorized under the law to make recommendations to the housing expediter on (1) removal of rent controls in an area, portion of an area, or classes of housing accommodations when the demand for rental housing has been reasonably met; (2) general adjustments of rents; (3) operations generally of the local rent office with particular reference to hardship cases.

In addition, boards are authorized to consider individual adjustment cases coming before them and to make recommendations to local rent officials on these matters. Before recommending individual adjustment the law requires the board to give notice to the parties affected and to hold a hearing at the request of either party.

182 Cases of Typhus Fever Are Reported

AUSTIN — Statistical information compiled by the State Health Department shows a total of 182 cases of typhus fever so far this year. During the week between July 17-24, seven new cases were reported, one-half the seven year median of fourteen for the week of July 24.

The disease reaches its peak in the month of August, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, said.

Over a five year period from 1943 to 1947, typhus fever has been responsible for 273 deaths. The death rate has been reduced from sixty-three in 1943, thirty in 1948.

"Typhus fever as we know it in Texas is transmitted by the fleas of infected rats," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said. "It can be controlled by the simple expedient of consistently maintaining a program of rat poisoning, rat trapping, and rat proofing."

Typhus fever is marked by a severe headache, chills and fever. A reddish mottling appears on the skin, and a hacking cough develops. The headache is the outstanding symptom because of its severity. Illness may last from 8 to 14 days.

The greatest outbreak of typhus fever, or Brill's Disease, was in 1941, when there was a total of 733 reported cases.

The Health Officer added that it was a sad commentary on our position as the most health minded nation on Earth if we allow the disease to flourish when the means for its control and eradication is right at hand.

Here's proof the Gas Refrigerator STAYS SILENT LASTS LONGER... Only Servel is Guaranteed for 10 years

More and more Texas families prefer Servel! For Servel is the one refrigerator that offers permanent silence, longer life—and proves it with a ten-year guarantee!

Why is it possible to guarantee this modern refrigerator for ten years? Servel has no moving parts in its freezing system. No motor or machinery that can wear or cause noise. A tiny gas flame (butane gas, natural gas or manufactured gas) does the work. So the Gas Refrigerator stays silent, lasts longer. And actually, among its 2,000,000 delighted owners many tell us, "Still silent, worry-free, after 20 years!"

But a different, simpler freezing system is only part of the story. The new Servels bring you every new food-keeping feature, too. Come see the famous Gas Refrigerator—first choice of more and more Texas families. See it today.

PM—Post Mortem And Forecast

Of more than purely intramural interest is Robert Lasch's Atlantic Monthly story "Marshall Field's PM."

Not many Westerners got a look at the address, opined, left at PM newspaper which later underwent a change of ownership after costing Marshall Field an estimated $5,000,000. PM, according to Mr. Lasch who served on the editorial staff, "turned out to be just a paper which had the tabloid, trying manfully to do the best it could with limited resources."

Most newspapermen will agree with Lasch that PM never quite knew where it wanted to go. It began as an address newspaper and consequently a newspaper without much revenue. Supposedly this was to keep the editorial hand from falling into the grubby hands of the advertising interests. The small group of men which constitutes the "working press" excluding production workers, advertising salesmen, promotion men, auditors and stenographers have no hand for the advertiser who demands this or that, because "I spend a lot of money in your newspaper." But as a matter of fact there are very few advertisers who seek to influence the editorial policy of a newspaper or color its news columns. Those who do generally are poor businessmen anyway and their volume of advertising is exceedingly small. The experienced publisher assumes that his customers advertise because they make money by advertising in his paper. If so, why are they made in love with the way the paper is made up, printed, edited or directed editorially. The advertiser who threatens to drop his advertising because the newspaper pretends to print the fact his brother-in-law was arrested or drunk driving rap is neither honest nor a good businessman.

The PM staffers found that out. They learned that dropping advertising from a newspaper performs no alchemy of purification, as Mr. Lasch writes, "PM became an intellectual strip tease" for its editor Ralph Ingersoll.

The interesting part of the PM post mortem, however, is the activity of the American Newspaper Guild and the Communists. The activities of the guild (CIO) have had a lethal effect on two of its greatest pals, J. David Stern and Mr. Field. Mr. Stern was known as the publisher who nurtured the guild in its infancy and encouraged its growth. When the guild became strong enough it killed Mr. Stern's newspaper.

As far as PM, Lasch writes, "the guild used PM as a guinea pig for its most advanced ideas, exacting contract conditions which made it virtually impossible to fire anybody and even required the payment of a severance bonus to men who resigned."

Thus did the guild treat its second greatest pal, Marshall Field. PM never was a good news.

BERLIN MAN-TRAP by Upton Close

WASHINGTON — The President was conspicuously silent on the Berlin trouble as he presented his legislative demands to Congress.

Perhaps that is because Mr. Truman is himself heavily charged with guilt for the humiliating situation in which the mighty United States remains bowed down before a semi-primative power in Berlin.

Anything Mr. Truman has asked Congress in the way of easing the tension or solving the puzzle would have opened the whole case of New Deal bungling and appeasement.

It was clear long ago that no solution, no agreement with Stalin, no policy adopted by Western Allies, would amount to more than a temporary easing of the quarrel unless and until all the old agreements which a doddering new start made, either peaceably or by force of arms.

I hear many people ask, "What can we do in Berlin to solve the problem?"

WITHDRAW? There are several possible approaches. Henry Wallace wants us to pull out and let the Soviets have Berlin and all of Germany.

So do a great many anti-Communist Americans but for entirely different reasons. The latter group, the pro-munich, believe that the United States will only continue to make enemies, to spend

Fair Enough . . . by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK — The authenticity of the goofy yore letters sent to be accepted since Biblehead Wallace could under a direct public challenge the only time I have been able to corner him in more than a year of trying. The next day, Doris Fiesion, one of the inveterate, professional New Deal bleeding hearts of the Washington Wall of pundits, came out with the casual and long belated remark that "Wallace did write the guru letters."

In a highly opinionated essay about the Wallace press conference in Philadelphia, the kid wrote further: "He does not deny it, but he says that he wrote them to a public confession. Actually it is an old story. Franklin Roosevelt knew all about those letters in 1940 following the Wallace nomination on which FDR had insisted. They were the greatest campaign blunders in the history of well-bred gentlemen had to deal. But with impressive obstinacy, knowing the letters were in the hands of the enemy, Roosevelt refused to confront Wallace on the subject of the Roosevelt's having a fetish about one's private life being one's own business. Roosevelt also hated to hurt anyone's feelings and his gyrations to avoid doing so were notorious."

Further on Miss Fiesion wrote: "It is possible to find a good deal of sympathy for him (Wallace) among the writers of these private letters, after all, about private emotions."

I can't understand why any newspaper would continue to employ a reporter who can write, after another reporter has diligently and truthfully exposed a story of historic importance and the most tragic national possibility, that she had had the fact for some time. I get that impression from her writing and if she is just being one of your headliner-wise-guys who know everything retroactively, that is her own lookout.

Doris doesn't say how long she has known that "Wallace did write the guru letters" but I will say it is a commentary on the plural policy of a newspaper or color its news columns. Those who do generally are poor businessmen anyway and their volume of advertising is exceedingly small. The experienced publisher assumes that his customers advertise because they make money by advertising in his paper. If so, why are they made in love with the way the paper is made up, printed, edited or directed editorially. Wallace and Leaders of Public Education Have Similar Traits

When Henry Wallace refused to answer questions at his press conference as to whether or not he wrote the Guru letters he acted very much like the leaders of public education. Wallace, like most socialists and people who really do not believe in the principles set forth in the Declaration of Independence, have to defend themselves by trying to smear the motives or question the honesty and integrity of those people who oppose them.

At this press conference several prominent newspaper reporters asked Mr. Henry Wallace whether he denied having written those Guru letters. One of the answers Mr. Wallace did give was, "I never engaged in any discussion with Westbrook Pegler."

At another time he said, "I will not engage in any discussion with any stooge of Westbrook Pegler." When the noted H. L. Mencken of Baltimore said "You can hardly call me a stooge of Pegler," Wallace declined to answer, when asked whether he had written the Guru letters.

When men have not done anything they are ashamed of or when they are doing something that they understand, they are always willing to answer questions from any person. Any man can always appear to be in harmony with truth when he limits the people who dare ask him questions.

THE DEVELOPING CRISIS
(Chicago Daily Tribune)

The American, British, and French governments are reported to be contemplating new notes to Russia threatening reprisals if the soviet blockade of roads, railways, and canals leading to Berlin from the west is not lifted. There is a rising chorus for action to end from our Hotspurs. They apparently are as avid for a war with Russia as they once were for a war with Germany, which they now propose to save from communism. It will be recalled that Hitler undertook this mission, but it was accounted a nasty aggression when he did it.

Maj. Gen. William J. (Bud News) Donovan, former head of the office of strategic services, a war time collection of secret agents, is in Berlin at the moment, demanding that sanctions be applied "promptly and decisively" against Russia.

Another gentleman with feedback information on the Berlin crisis is Gardner Cowles, the Des Moines (Iowa) publisher, who has been cabled from England that the United States and Britain have determined on a "showdown."

Cowles was energetic in promoting a crusade to save the world from last time out and for a moment thought the great end was in sight. That was when he and Joseph Barnes, a radical out of the New York Herald-Tribune stable, now graduated to publisher of what used to be known as PM, accompanied Wendell Willkie on a global plane flight and announced the discovery of "One World."

Gen. Donovan and Mr. Cowles are not entering any closer to the fact that the original excursion in quest of perfectionism in the world has not panned out. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again, seems to be their motto. In other words, another war.

Donovan's OSS-al 15,000 of its members has been reformed in seeing a new war. A couple of months ago some of Donovan's members of the forty-eight states, after House Parliamentarian "Lou" Deschler and his statistical aides have compiled the figures, the president of the Senate then declares that the man having 96 or more electoral college votes, which is a majority of the combined membership of the House and Senate, as explained above, is the people's choice for the White House.

VOTE — Here is the political catch, however, which anti-Truman Southerners hope to use to the President's electoral college disadvantage. The founding fathers, with the French Revolution by Jean Winant, the violent, Rousseau-Robespierre philosophy in mind, were fearful of the mob, although it was more than a hundred years before the birth of Lenin, Stalin and Henry Wallace, not to mention Betty Benton.

So, the state electors, without regard for their state's vote on the presidential candidates, may vote for Joe Doakes or Joe Roosevelt.

DEFEAT — Due to the wealthy founding fathers' dread of mobocracy, or, if you please, democracy, they framed the Constitution so that the electoral college members, most of whom are profit-sharing partners in our economic revival, may disregard the popular majority of their states and vote for whomever they please.

There has never been an instance of such flaunting of the people's will as expressed at the polls, by the thinking of a la Charley McCarthy by the honorific electoral college.

But if several Southern states break away from President Truman, as they have the right to under electoral college vagaries, it will mean almost certain defeat for the man in the White House.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The Marx Brothers are back. Same old faces but with the new look. It was downright confusing.

Harpo, the silent one, was playing the hero—the strong, silent hero, of course. Groucho, usually the number one boy of the clan, was doing only the opening scenes and the narrating. Chico was even having a romance.

"I got the girl for one reel," he beamed, "and at my age that's pretty good. There are 1000 feet of film in a reel, you know."

Just which girl Chico gets he was not quite sure. There are three of them in the picture. Three blondes—Iona Massey, Vera Ellen and Marion Hutton, aster of Betty. Reason enough for producer Lester Cowan to title the picture, "My Blonde Heaven."

A STORY, TOO! — And don't faint now — there's even a story for this first Marx Brothers film in three years. They usually dream "em up on the set as they go along. Ben Hecht wrote the story and describes it: "Harpo is in love with a beautiful ballerina and turns the world upside down."

I also heard plot talk of an international smuggling ring (headed by Iona) and a fortune in jewels hidden in a sardine can. Harpo tracks down the jewels, falling in love with the ballerina, incidental blondes and sardines as he goes.

Inasmuch as Harpo doesn't say a word in the picture, this should be the neatest trick of the year. Even if Chico does play a mind reader who tells people what Harpo is thinking. But when Harpo is thinking about gorgeous Iona Chico can't repeat on account of the movie censors. In fact, I wouldn't be surprised if

"Wonderful," said Chico. "I'll send 'em an autographed picture."

To which the cop replied: "Don't do that. My wife hates you."

But the most embarrassing thing that ever happened to him, Chico said, was when a woman came up to him after a night club appearance and said: "Ges, Groucho, I didn't know you could talk."

"That," Chico said, "was the only time I didn't get any billing."

Harpo told about the time he was a kid and sold ice cream sodas in a cheap New York vaudeville house.

"There were 20 of them, all vanilla, and I couldn't sell any of them. Then I tripped and fell down and the cones got all dirty and I sold all of them in three minutes. How did I know that everyone wanted chocolate?"

In addition to all this there are eight big musical production numbers for which Ann Ronnell is writing the music.

Not to mention Harpo's usual mad as a kid and just thinking about them all the time. In this one, he tops his inventive genius with a sipper on a banana.

Laughing with Harpo and Chico is like seeing a Marx Brother movie. In the theater you're too busy laughing to eat your popcorn. At lunch you're too busy laughing to eat your meat loaf.

Chico has a new twist on the "was-stopped-by-a-cop" — on-the-way-to-the-studio — this — morning — riddle. A cop stopped him, he said, for a minor traffic violation. Chico handed him his driver's license and the cop said:

Match, Dog, and Boy Form Explosive Mix

PASADENA, Calif. —(AP)— A match, a home chemical set, a dog and a boy proved an explosive combination.

Darryl Nelson, 9, put a lighted match into a can he had been using for chemical experiments. The can blew up. Darryl's pants caught fire.

Mrs. Norman Nelson, the boy's mother, dashed to his aid. A neighbor's dog, excited by the blast, dashed to Mrs. Nelson and bit her on the leg.

Mother and son were given first aid treatment at a hospital, he for burns and she for the bite.

The dog? Not a scratch.

State Land Board Rejects 41 Bids

AUSTIN—(AP)— Forty-one high bids have been rejected as "inadequate" by the State School Land Board in the June 1 mineral lease sale.

Board Chairman Bascom Giles said.

Sale price is 35 cents a gallon at the current peso-dollar rate. Previously Pemex produced only 70 octane gasoline and a very low quality fuel, selling at about 17 and 13 cents per gallon, respectively.

The Texas Company plans to shut down its small refinery at Galena Park effective October 1, the plant to be maintained as a crude oil terminal.

had accepted bids on 34,000 acres offered in the sale. Awards on bids in the July 6 public land sale is expected to be made within the next two weeks, Giles said.

The board accepted 19 other bids, Giles said. Previously the board

Skelton Reviews Texas Oil News

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON — (AP)— The oil industry, despite its problems of supply and demand, steel shortages and transportation, turned in a healthy report card for the first half of 1948.

There is little gloom to be found in the mid-year reports on the industry's activities as printed in current issues of two petroleum publications, World Oil and The Oil and Gas Journal.

World Oil says approximately 15,000,000 barrels of refined products added to storage from January through June illustrate "the improvement achieved by the industry in catching up with growing demand, for in the initial half of 1947 stocks were reduced more than 10,000,000 barrels."

The Oil and Gas Journal says drilling activities for the period were 9.8 percent over original forecasts and "represent a goal which six months ago would have been considered impossible if not ridiculous."

Between January 1 and June 30, World Oil says, the industry supplied a total demand for all oils in the amount of 1,127,272,000 barrels, a daily average of 6,194,000 barrels, 7.2 percent above the 1947 first half average.

Crude and condensate production for the six months were 107, B1k. 5, I & GN Survey, Potential 4,900 MCF, Rock Pressure 183.

Gray County — Cree Production Company, E. C. Barrett No. 1, Sec. 130, B1k. 3, I & GN Survey, Potential 3,900 MCF, Rock Pressure 160.

Wheeler County — Warren Oil Corporation, Mary King Crockett No. 1, Sec. 10, B1k. 24, H & GN Survey, Potential 498 MCF, Rock Pressure 60.
