

If The Army Dumps DeGaulle—

Most Of France Will Rally To Him

By FRED SPARKS
Newspaper Enterprise Association

PARIS (NEA) — What's the full meaning of the French crisis to the United States? Will there be barricades on the boulevards within a few weeks?

As a reporter I've covered France in her alternating post-war periods of shame and glory. And the above are two of the many questions I've been asking as the revolt-within-a-revolt paralyzes Algeria and spreads malignantly across the Mediterranean.

— and allow me some comments. Outside a winter sun yet manages to shimmer the Seine with golden slivers. Inside an imposing embassy a diplomat says: "With her principal power bogged down in Algeria, France is not a serious factor in the North Atlantic Treaty defense of Europe. Billions of dollars of American aid is being wasted in the colony. Khrushchev has good reason to smile tonight."

How awfully true! Almost all of France's trained manpower including the brass-knuckled Foreign Legion is concerned with killing Algerians — and perhaps other Frenchmen. With the military so involved in North Africa, France is naked — Moscow could take Paris by telephone. Continuation of such a situation could mean that more American troops would have to serve on this continent.

A French journalist I've known at a dozen international headline-winning stories sips his aperitif and says: "In France almost every citizen is for De Gaulle. If the army tries to force him out, if paratroopers drop in the Champs Elysees, Paris will rise. Everywhere there will be barricades." Are paratroopers dropping on Paris, a Fernand-inspired nightmare? Not at all. In the first Algerian colonial revolt which brought De Gaulle to power, chutists were within hours of being loaded into air transports. A signal for their takeoff was to have been:

"The carrots are cooked... carrots are cooked." A sophisticated political police officer — who can make an arrest in English, Spanish or Italian — shrugs and says: "The craziest thing is that the Communists will be active for De Gaulle. They're well-armed and know the best positions for sniping in every Paris district."

The local Red rod-and-gun clubs don't love De Gaulle. He's long been number one on their hate parade. But they figure that in the turmoil of any civil war, they'd sell more party cards.

And old friend who lost his right foot to an Algerian land mine, but who has coked his bitterness says: "The army and the colonialists who defy De Gaulle are like children having a tantrum. They are shrieking for a lost cause. France simply cannot break the guerrillas in such terrain."

I know that terrain. You can hide an entire camel caravan from jet fighters by day and move to sneak attack by night. "Perhaps," said my friend, deeply depressed, "France as it loses its colonies will become like Spain after she was driven from the New World. The Spanish army with no foreign employment went into local politics and took over in Latin American fashion." The answers to sad questions in these days are so sad for France.

PARISIANS WHO marched for DeGaulle in 1958 (above) would do so again if the Army moved against him.

Israel-Syria Border Clash

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Israeli-Syrian artillery shelled the Golan Heights Saturday night in a second clash of the day along the increasingly tense border.

An Israeli Army spokesman said exploding shells set fields of fire but there were no casualties.

Syrians renewed their penetration into Israeli territory in the demilitarized zone east of Beth Shean.

Israeli said Syrian troops opened fire on Israeli settlers when they rushed out into their fields Saturday night to try to stop the artillery-sparked fire from spreading.

A similar incident occurred Friday in the Sea of Galilee border area. Israel charged Syrian forces penetrated Israeli territory and opened fire.

Last Wednesday, Syria accused Israel of sending an armored car into Syrian territory. The UAR threatened military action unless the "Israeli aggression" ceased.

Katir with covering automatic fire," the army spokesman said.

Communications from the Arab side reported the situation was "tense" after four days of incidents along the Syrian-Israeli frontier.

The shelling was the second incident Saturday.

Earlier, the United Arab Republic, through army headquarters in Syria, reported its artillery had engaged Israeli gun positions.

The UAR charged that Israeli border forces opened fire with machine guns on farmers near the demilitarized zone village of Altawafik.

Syrian forces were "compelled to return the fire" and artillery silenced the Israeli guns, the UAR said. It reported no Syrian casualties.

Ag Secretary Out If Nixon Wins Election

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, if he wins the Republican presidential nomination, probably will embrace Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's farm program, an influential farm bloc publicist said Saturday.

Milton R. Young of North Dakota, said in an interview that he feels "very certain that if and when Nixon is nominated he will have his own farm program, and it may be considerably different from Benson's approach."

Nixon thus far is unopposed for nomination. His most formidable opponent, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, withdrew when it became evident that P leaders were for Nixon.

Young, second-ranking GOP member of the Senate Agriculture committee, has been a consistentponent of most administration farm policies. He is known to have talked with Nixon in the wake of recent Benson statements regarding the vice president's close ties to administration's present farm policy.

Benson has said publicly that he respects Nixon to back the administration policy of cutting price supports, easing federal production controls, and expanding soil bank land-rental programs. Both as a presidential candidate and as president if he is elected, Benson has said he is open to a word-for-word endorsement on Benson's policies.

To Race Ramsey

AUSTIN (UPI)—Pledging to break a "bottleneck" that exists in state government, Houston attorney Don Yarborough Saturday challenged Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey's bid for a sixth term.

The 34-year-old Yarborough, no kin to Sen. Ralph Yarborough, said he would probably formally file for office Monday, the last day to get on the ballot.

"People who are supposed to know, tell me that I have only one chance out of three to win this race," Yarborough said, "but the people of Texas also have a 100 per cent chance to get a new lieutenant governor."

"I feel like you are going to have a lot more special sessions in the Legislature unless you get a new lieutenant governor and break the bottleneck that exists in state government," Yarborough said. (See RAMSEY, Page 3)

Order Defied By Algerians

ALGIERS (UPI)—Diehard French insurgents Saturday defied President Charles DeGaulle's order to surrender. They were reinforced by thousands of settlers who crashed through paratrooper lines to join them behind the barricades.

As a rebel radio proclaimed, "Our aim is to overthrow the government," insurgent leader Pierre LaGallarde rejected an army ultimatum to surrender himself and his well-armed rebels behind their chin-high barricades in downtown Algiers. Paratroopers began setting up machine gun nests in areas commanding the streets.

"We will die rather than surrender," LaGallarde cried. The 25th paratroop regiment under command of a general reportedly loyal to De Gaulle, swarmed around the redoubt which held an estimated 10,000 "colons," determined to fight against the president's plan of self-determination for the North African territory.

Shouting "Algeria is French," thousands of civilians who had crowded behind the paratrooper lines suddenly surged through, pushing aside the startled soldiers. Not a shot was fired.

Men behind the barricades waved, raised French tri-color flags, and cheered when the crowd surged through to the blowing of a bugle from the insurgent ranks.

Shouts of "Vive La France" were heard. (See INSURGENTS, Page 3)

was followed into the Prime Minister's office by Gen. Paul Ely, chief of the French General Staff, who flew back Saturday from 36 hours at the government command post in Algeria.

The object of Massu's visit was not immediately made known. But earlier Saturday, the paratroop general, who was a Gaullist before casting his lot with the Algerian settlers, was reported to have approved a motion backing De Gaulle signed by the "Council of the Order of the Liberation."

The organization is the order of the Free French veterans which De Gaulle founded during the dark days of World War II.

West Policy Is 'Hands Off' Over Algeria

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. diplomatic and congressional authorities Saturday privately hailed French President Charles De Gaulle's seeming success in meeting the Algerian crisis although official policy towards the situation was strictly "hands-off."

There was general agreement here that failure by De Gaulle to deal with the insurrection would have thrown France into virtual anarchy and completely shattered Allied chances of dealing with the Russians in the uncertain cold war summit conference that lies ahead.

Possible disruption of Allied unity was evidenced at a pre-summit working level talks being conducted in Washington by U.S., British, West German and French diplomats. Their talks since the crisis arose had become desultory and there was unspoken recognition that their strategy preparations were meaningless until they knew whether De Gaulle's government survived.

There was also congressional and administration agreement that neither Congress nor the State Department should intrude into the still explosive Algerian situation. The State Department continued to decline any formal comment. But two Republican senators joined key Democrats in endorsing a "hands off" U.S. position while voicing their individual support for De Gaulle.

Gear For Summit Failure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Eisenhower administration has begun to prepare public opinion for possible failure of the spring Summit Conference to produce any real East-West agreement on major cold war issues.

Qualified authorities said Saturday the next few weeks can be expected to bring repeated warnings from high officials against expecting too much, if anything, from the May 18 session with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Paris.

This campaign to forestall soaring expectations has both international and domestic political implications. Officials fear a severe psychological reaction around the world if too much is expected and the meeting then fails to produce hoped for solutions or progress on some of the major problems—Berlin, Germany, disarmament.

Administration leaders realize, too, that such a reaction, in addition to increasing global tension, might well have a bad effect in the United States on the political fortunes of the Republican Party.

Dimes Drive Near Halfway Mark For 1960 Campaign

Late Saturday afternoon March of Dimes drive officials reported approximately one-half of their unofficial goal accounted for in a series of fund raising activities during the past seven days.

J. C. Roberts, Gray County campaign chairman, and George Kleeburg, city chairman, said that approximately $7,500 had been either contributed or pledged.

Roberts was winner in a wheelbarrow contest Saturday in which Kleeburg pushed him to victory from one mile east of Kisse Ford Co. on Brown St. The losing team was Sheriff Rufe Jordan and Ott Shewmaker. Roberts and Kleeburg collected $334 and Jordan and Shewmaker followed with $193.

At the Coronado Inn, "Captain" Dennis Dehn, who has been on board ship on "Lake Coronado" since Wednesday, will go ashore late this afternoon. Dehn made a pledge not to leave the boat until he had raised $1,000 for the March of Dimes. By late Saturday he had raised $700.

During the stunt, persons wishing to contribute were allowed to call the Coronado Inn and make pledges. Dehn said a "great deal of money" had been tossed into the Coronado Inn swimming pool by persons trying to "hit" a saucer anchored in the center of the pool.

Pampa merchants have contributed a total of $2,500 in merchandise to be auctioned off today over radio station KPDM by campaign officials. Pampanos who have merchandise to offer for auction are asked to call the radio station.

Bucket Brigade Hits $2,414.61

The March of Dimes bucket brigade yesterday collected a total of $2,414.61, it was announced by George Kleeburg, city drive chairman.

The top producing service club was Rotary which collected $854.93 with the Noon Lions running a close second of $683.43. Other service clubs participating collected the following amounts: Noon Kiwanis, $448.10; Evening Lions, $122.91; Top of Texas Kiwanis, $112.22; Junior Chamber, $262.92; and the Optimists, $99.10.

Diana Barrymore Couldn't Match Ability Of Kinfolk

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The wild and tragic career of Diana Barrymore has ended in death at the age of 38. This dispatch tells of her fight to live up to the name of the theater's "royal family" — and her family's comments about her life.)

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Diana Barrymore had a way of denying that her soul was tormented by failure to measure up consistently to the stature of one of the stage's most famous names.

"The fact that I came from a long line of Barrymores isn't going to make me feel that I must always keep striving to live up to their accomplishments," she said.

And yet, set alone on a prefatory page of her autobiography, is a quotation from the preface of the Temple edition of Hamlet: "...Shakespeare sought to depict a great deed laid upon a soul unequal to the performance of it."

Investigators who thronged her apartment after she was found dead in her bed Monday found it crowded with pictures of her father, John Barrymore, acclaimed the greatest actor of his time with Hamlet his crowning achievement.

And there were pictures of her renowned aunt and uncle, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore, and mementos of the other acting Barrymores and Drews who had given her a heritage of four generations of theater greatness in America and England.

It was Dolores Costello Barrymore, Diana's stepmother, who said on Diana's death that "she was badly treated all her life."

Diana's half-sister, Dolores Barrymore Redell, commented this week in California: "I think it's time someone said something good about Diana. Only my mother (Dolores Costello Barrymore) and I ever had anything good to say about her. Mother said you can sum up the story of Diana's life in two words: 'Nobody cared.' Oh, she came to us all right, but it was too late. She didn't come to us as a child but as a beaten woman. 'Nobody cared' should have been the title of her book."

The incomparable Aunt Ethel once told Diana: "Never, never, never stop trying to improve yourself. Any role can be bettered. Do it."

Once, Diana took this advice — THREE TITLES TOGETHER — Only fighter to hold three boxing titles at the same time was Henry Armstrong: welterweight champion 1938-1940; lightweight champion 1938-1939; featherweight champion 1939-1940 (abandoned title).

BOARDS OVERRUN BASE — The $6-million-dollar U.S. air base at Beni Slimane, Morocco, one of five in the country (stars on Newsmap) will be given up by the end of March. The runway is considered obsolete since it is only six months of operational activities. Anyway, there are 10 times as many wild boars on the base as airmen.

lightly — and drank and caroused herself right out of the movies and off the stage. But some four years before her death, she was studying and working. And when on the comeback trail she opened in "The Ivory Branch" off Broadway, Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times wrote of her:

"...Any time she wants to stop fooling around and learn the difference between acting and performing, she can be an exciting actress. The stuff is there."

A year after that, Diana ended her autobiography with these words: "If I promise, you'll see. You will indeed, Mr. Atkinson. Perhaps I have begun to find my way."

Perhaps she had. Some critics said that for the first time in her life she was trying hard to become an actress. Her last time out, she rang the bell. That was in Chicago. On her previous appearance there, in 1954, a critic wrote she was "coarse and strident enough to make everyone who loves the theater wish she were named something else."

But last spring when she appeared there — a changed woman in "Tennessee Williams' "The Garden District," critic Sidney J. Harris wrote it was "the restoration of a great name to the American theater."

However, recently she had been idle, had become depressed, and had begun drinking again, although she had been warned this would kill her.

There now are three members of the family left who have Barrymore as their last name. In an effort to shed some of the burden of his name, Diana's half-brother, John Barrymore Jr., changed it to John Drew Barrymore. His son is John Blyth Barrymore Jr., and his mother is Dolores Costello Barrymore.

John Barrymore, the "Great Profile" and "Great Lover," who died at 60 of diseases connected with imbibing, left Diana's mother, poetess Michael Strange, two years after the only child's birth. He wasn't around Diana much after that. And her mother had a busy career.

John's divorce came through in 1928, and in Hollywood, he married Dolores Costello, 25 years his junior. After he broke off with her, in 1935, he got into the biz, starring "Caliban and Ariel" purporting to be a play, with much comic by-play.

When the play stopped in Chicago, Diana had a brief reunion with the father she idolized — a brief meeting, with press photographers. Later, when she moved to Hollywood for the movies, she saw him more frequently.

Diana was about to get another chance to prove her comeback this week. Her manager telephoned her apartment to tell her the good news — she had been offered a road company starring role in "A Streetcar Named Desire." A maid took the news to the bedroom. The offer was too late. Diana Barrymore was dead.

YOU and YOUR HOME

MAKE AGE AN ASSET

If you are planning on buying one of the large old homes, or are now living in one, don't be discouraged about its decorative possibilities.

Note that the furniture is in scale with size of the room. A generous-sized circular table flanked by two roomy lounge chairs occupies a large portion of the long walls. Sofa on wall opposite (now shown) grouped with lamps and tables balances this group.

The high ceiling in the large older-type living room in the above sketch has been painted the same muted rose as the walls to make it appear lower.

Window valance-boxes-match the walls and ceiling. Light filtering through the nylon panels that are the same shade as the walls, gives the effect of strained sunlight.

House Leader Commends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck commended the House Rules Committee Saturday for opening the door to possible early action on a stalled civil rights bill.
The Indianan said he was confident the committee, at its first meeting of the current session on Monday, will vote to start hearings on the measure, subject of the hottest House controversy so far.
The bill would provide additional federal protection for Negro voting rights in the South and for school integration orders. It is a pared-down version of a measure President Eisenhower proposed in 1959.
In calling Monday's session, Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) broke a partisan log jam that has dominated the session. Republicans and Northern Democrats have been blaming each other for House failure to bring the bill to a vote.
The bill's Democratic backers, who believed the measure never would be cleared by the conservative-minded rules group, have been pushing a discharge petition to take it out of committee and to the House floor. Most Republicans have been refusing to sign.
Smith called Monday's session when about 101 of the required 219 signatures were obtained, apparently hopeful he could keep control of the bill, Halleck told UPI. He reiterated his denial that Republican reluctance to sign the discharge petition reflected lack of support for civil rights.

WOOLWORTH BOSS—Ray Gigoux, who will head the Woolworth organization in Pampa, comes here from Kerns, Utah, and has managed stores for the Woolworth chain in Butte, Mont., Lyons, Neb., and South Salt Lake City. He has been with the organization since 1953.

Spreads Knowledge Nile Valley

GERALD ARATHOON, United Press International

85 ACRES, Egypt (UPI) — Outcrop of reclaimed land, with sparkling new farm is a highlight of the Nile's rural development program.

Several hundred Egyptian peasants, resettled here from old, run down villages, are being used to higher living standards — with the help of American and U.S. money and know-how pooled together.

The joint venture is primarily aimed at increasing the peasants' income. Back in the populated areas from which the settlers came, they had mostly as hired farm help or small tenants — scraping along on a hand-to-mouth livelihood.

With their new lease on life, style, they have become owners in their own right.

The "pilot project" was started in 1953 by the Egyptian Reclamation and Irrigation Service (EARIS). To give the project a name, the project sponsors went back to Egypt, a sacred bull, an ancient Egyptian worshipped.

The Abis area is situated along a newly constructed Cairo-Alexandria agricultural highway. The soil of crops is facilitated by its advantageous location, at a range to Alexandria's, big market needs.

In most enterprises with pre-allocated budgets, the Abis project has a limited scope. But as a "selective experiment" the field of Agrarian reform, takes a high rating among large land reclamation and settlement schemes.

Under Nasser's regime has been part of the UAR's economic development program.

Stressing the "broader view" on Abis, Dr. Horace Holmes, former American consultant to EARIS, said: "Abis is a testing ground for a much bigger thing. We aren't saving Egypt, just helping out on a problem the Egyptians are grappling with."

Dr. Holmes, an agricultural economist and veteran of foreign missions, said he was most gratified by his work with EARIS. "Cooperating relationships were the key," he added.

Modern implements, such as American-made hand-driven water pumps and ox-team ploughs, still common in the Egyptian countryside, are being replaced by the more modern farming methods. The project offers a revolutionary attempt to reduce the land workers' toiling hours and increase their income.

did remember not to double the five heart contract. But the play was certainly elegant.

West opened the jack of diamonds and South discarded a spade on dummy's ace. The ten of hearts was led and covered by East's jack. South won and noted that West dropped the nine. He entered dummy with the ace of clubs. The queen of diamonds forced East's king and South ruffed.

The queen of clubs was covered by the king and ruffed small in dummy and now South discarded his three spades on three of dummy's diamonds.

The seven of hearts was played next and East was dead. If he covered South's whole hand would be good. If he ducked, South would let the seven ride and resume the diamond parade.

Texas Building Authorizations Reach Record High In 1959

AUSTIN (UPI)—Unusually high nonresidential construction pushed Texas building authorizations to a new annual high in 1959, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

The bureau termed this "an unusually high percentage in view of the fact that in the past few years nonresidential permits have almost invariably accounted for about 40 per cent of all new building authorized in Texas in any given month."

Snow Cover Protected Winter Wheat

AMARILLO (UPI)—The Santa Fe Railroad said Saturday that most of the 1960 winter wheat acreage along its lines was protected by a snow cover during the recent spell of sub-freezing weather and should show little damage.

However, the railroad said that several weeks of warm weather is needed for wheat plants to grow sufficiently to protect fields from damage by spring winds or to provide grazing for livestock.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson has invited Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former Army Chief of Staff, to air his critical views on President Eisenhower's space and defense policies before Senate investigators.

Prepares Meals For Only One Now

Takes A Little Getting Used To

By CHARLIE CROSS
Daily News Staff Writer

How many children do you feed 23 years of service in a school cafeteria?

Mrs. Vivian Pearce, 733 Dwight, said she can't answer the question but, "we served a lot of them, especially in the last ten years."

Mrs. Pearce, who retired after 23 years at Sam Houston Elementary cafeteria, 20 of them as manager, said until she retired they were serving between 300 and 400 meals every day. And, she said, before the Lamar School was built, we were feeding about 500 per day."

Mrs. Pearce retired Jan. 1, after taking a leave of absence last year when she slipped on a throw rug and broke her hip. She spent six weeks in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo, then came back to Worley Hospital. She now resides at St. Anthony's once a month for prayers.

She admits she didn't want to retire. "I would have liked to work until I was a hundred, but with a broken hip, I just wasn't able."

Although you always have some gripes, the food was always good, and I've had a great many compliments on it," Mrs. Pearce stated. She said this was due to the principals she had during her term of service. They always told her to "serve good food, and never mind the cost," she said.

Three ladies who worked under Mrs. Pearce at Sam Houston are now managing cafeterias in Pampa: Mrs. Margaret Taylor at Lamar, Mrs. Thelma Cruise, at Travis, and Lucille Yeager, who replaced Mrs. Pearce at Sam Houston.

Mrs. Pearce said she has served as many as 3,200 persons at twenty-eight dinners at the school, and always served two lines, enabling them to finish faster. She never ran out of food, but "if we had, we always had something in reserve we could have served."

Although she doesn't get out of the house much, especially in bad weather, Mrs. Pearce is a very lonely, because she explained, "I crochet and watch TV, friends drop in, and there is always the telephone."

Doctors told her not to put any weight on her broken leg for at least nine months, but Mrs. Pearce gets around on crutches and cares for her own needs.

She is not bitter about her enforced retirement, and is always happy and cheerful, because as she says, "Everything happens for the best."

Almost all world time calculations are figured from Greenwich, England.

Alexander Hamilton is said to have written most of George Washington's farewell address.

BENCHED MANAGER — Mrs. Vivian Pearce, 733 N. Dwight is shown with two of the afghans she has crocheted since her enforced retirement as manager of Sam Houston School cafeteria. Mrs. Pearce was forced to retire after breaking her hip in a fall last May. Mrs. Pearce keeps happy by crocheting, watching TV and talking with friends who drop in. (Daily News Photo)

Some Homeowners Can't Even Turn The Water Off

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Talk to a homeowner, a while and sooner or later he will gripe about maintenance costs.

Yet, many of the complainers bring about these costs themselves through a lack of elementary construction knowledge.

Surprisingly, many homeowners have not taken the trouble to investigate the most basic structural features of their dwellings, according to Allied Homeowners Association (AHA), nationwide organization of franchise homeowners clubs.

Such an attitude would be unforgivable if carried over into business or employment.

AHA President Arthur Yeckes said that although he does not believe a homeowner must undergo an intensive training course in order to properly maintain his house, he cannot adopt an ostrich-like policy unless he is prepared to suffer the financial consequences.

Yeckes said that since the parent AHA club was formed in Roslyn, N.Y., three years ago he has met dozens of homeowners who had no firm idea where the shut-off valves on their incoming water lines were located. They found out the hard way by watching small lakes form in their basements.

Many homeowners are unaware of the locations of the shut-off valves for the various branches of their plumbing systems. Should a faucet jam or a washer break, they could only hope that the sink or tub drain could handle the steady flow of water until help arrived.

A few minutes of advance investigation by a more knowledgeable neighbor, plus a simple tagging of each valve, can prevent much future damage, Yeckes emphasized.

Unfamiliarity with plasterboard is another major reason for needless expense. AHA records contain many cases where attempts were made to hang large mirrors and heavy shelves or ornamental objects without the proper devices or a basic knowledge of this type of wall construction.

No effort was made to put nails or screws into the 2x4 wood supports, or studs, which usually are spaced 16 inches apart behind the plasterboard. Nor had toggle bolts or other special shallow wall attachment devices been used.

In some instances, Yeckes pointed out, entire rooms have had to be repainted as the result of damage to plasterboard walls.

And there also are homeowners who are completely unaware of sewage disposal systems serving their homes—sewer lines, septic tank or cesspool. Many women habitually pour cooking oils and grease down their kitchen drains, which can result in clogged cesspools and septic tanks, and costly repairs.

The AHA has received many calls to repair damage to eaves, walls, carpets and furnishings, caused by water backing up in leaf-choked rain gutters and lead-ers. Some people were completely unaware of the need for keeping these drain lines clear.

Failure to put the prescribed few drops of oil in heating system circulator motors, or to lubricate ventilating fans occasionally are other frequent causes of damage and expense, the AHA found.

And some homeowners have gone through uncomfortable winters complaining about such little understood things as "not enough insulation" or "too weak heating system." Investigation revealed in some cases that the homeowner had only neglected to bleed from a hot water heating system the normal amount of air that finds its way into the lines.

Roof damage often is a source of great expense to the unknowing homeowner, Yeckes said.

DISMISSAL UPHELD — GALVESTON (UPI)—The Civil Service Commission has upheld the firing of former policeman Dan C. House, 31, Police Chief O. E. Henson fired House on Dec. 30 after he got in a fight with E. H. Doreck, 22, of LaMarque. Doreck claims House hit him on the head with a billy club and seriously injured him, and he has filed an aggravated assault charge.

advocate a personal room-checking inspection tour by the average person because of the danger involved. However, the homeowner should be aware that wind, rain, snow, ice and heat can damage roofs, and that inspections are necessary from time to time.

An experienced roofer can detect possible trouble spots before they manifest themselves in the form of leaks. The small fee he will charge can help the homeowner avoid a sizable bill in the future.

STOREY HONORED — DALLAS (UPI)—Robert G. Storey, president of the Southwestern Legal Foundation, has been named Dallas' "Outstanding Salesman" for 1959 by the Dallas Sales Executives Club.

GALVESTON (UPI) — Mac Stewart, a Galveston lawyer who was a close contender in a recent special state Senate election, has announced he will run for the House of Representatives against incumbent Jerome Jones.

the air-cooled rear engine never needs antifreeze!

Thrifty, a welcome traveling companion, steps in when you select the revolutionary Corvair.

The economy begins with the compact Corvair's initial low cost, and every mile you drive is money in the pocket. Your gas dollars will now go farther... because the Corvair delivers miles and miles and miles per gallon. And when you change oil, the refill is only four quarts.

Because of Corvair's low weight (1,335 pounds less than conventional cars) and extra-low price, you'll realize added savings in many states in licensing and insurance costs.

When winter comes, just let it. Corvair's air-cooled six-cylinder engine runs you forever of antifreeze bills. Corvair has no radiator so you can forget about leaks and worn hoses.

Important as economy is, it tells only part of Corvair's glad story. It is a delight to handle and you couldn't ask for a smoother ride.

The aluminum engine in the rear supplies willing power to the rear wheels, giving superior traction when it's needed most. (Transmission parts and rear axle drive gears are neatly contained in a single compact unit.)

As you glide along, you'll marvel at how easily the Corvair steers (no power assistance needed there) and the sure braking action front and rear. That's the payoff on precise weight distribution.

Corvair makes parking a cinch.

You'll find yourself tucking it into spaces you never looked at twice before. There's room enough inside for six adults and the floor is practically flat for remarkable comfort. A wonderfully handy folding rear seat makes it virtually a station sedan.

There's really nothing quite like the ride you get in the Corvair. Independent suspension at every wheel, Corvair's "spring quiet," wafts you over bumps with featherly ease. Engine noise and heat are largely left behind you. (The engine's in the rear, you know.) For coziness in cold weather Corvair has a fast, efficient aircraft type heater.

And the Corvair is as pleasing to the eye as it is to the pocketbook. Its singular styling is new from the road up. Interiors are sprucely tailored with two-tone upholstery of patterned cloth and vinyl. Exteriors are available in nine solid colors and seven two-tones.

We modestly submit, and are certain you'll agree, the Corvair is the product of inspired precision engineering—the compact car you'll recognize as the one you've been waiting for.

Why don't you have your Chevrolet dealer introduce you to Corvair today? *Optional at extra cost.

Borger Bulldogs Bite Harvesters, 61-54

PHS Cagers Play Monterey Monday Night, In Lubbock

Anyone in Pampa who said, just before the start of the play, that the Harvesters would play seven good out of their first eight, yet lose five of them, would probably have been greeted with laughter—or worse. Yet that's exactly what's happened. The Harvesters played only one bad game (against Lubbock) and they that one. They've played heads-up ball in the other seven, and lost five of them.

PAMPA REBOUND — Joe Timms (20, far right) grabs a rebound for the Harvesters in the first quarter Friday against Borger. A group of Borger players, out of position to get into the play, stand watching. Allen Wise (12) of the Harvesters is second from left. Pampa out rebounded Borger, 28 to 24, but Borger came out ahead on the scoreboard, 61-54. (Daily News Photo)

It's "wait till baseball season" for the Pampa Harvesters now, as far as the Borger Bulldogs are concerned. The Bulldogs swept the season basketball series here Friday night by whipping the Harvesters, 61-54. The Bulldogs were never behind, but Pampa kept the pressure on Borger until the last minute. The Harvesters actually played one of their better games, but it wasn't quite good enough on this particular night to beat the tall, sharp-shooting Bulldogs of Texas. With the victory, Borger stayed in the District 3-A lead with an 8-0 record. Pampa is now in a three-way tie for fourth place with Amarillo and Tascosa. All have 3-3 marks.

Minor May Be Out For Year

Charlie Minor may be out for the season, according to Texas M freshman basketball coach by Melcal. Minor suffered a knee Jan. 5, but it was thought he would be out only a few weeks.

Baseball season is still a few months away, but the Pampa Optimist Clubs are already laying the groundwork for this year's little league season. A third little league is planned this year, and the existing pony and teen-age leagues may possibly be expanded.

Despite the loss of the former Pampa all-stater, the Aggie frosh team won six of eight games. Some of the other players, including several Lewis Qualls, have taken the slack. Qualls has a 13-point average and (not surprisingly) leads the team in rebounds.

Ernie Reusch, McMurry's 8-6 center from White Deer, continues to hit in double figures. He's scored 162 points in 16 games for the Indians. Despite the fact that Reusch and five of his teammates are hitting in double figures, however, McMurry hasn't won a game in three weeks.

Johnny Pott Leads San Diego Open

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Johnny Pott, former Louisiana State collegian, shot a 6 under par 68 Saturday to grab the lead after three rounds of the 72-hole $25,000-San-Diego-Open with a score of 201.

Right on his heels was husky Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., who had a 67, and a total of 202 for 54 holes.

Pott, 24, Shreveport, La., was the lone survivor of a four-way tie which prevailed at the end of two rounds Friday. Pott and Souchak had been tied at the end of 36 holes with Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., and Bob Gostly, Crayal River, Fla.

Goalby had a third round 70 and a total of 34 holes.

He was in the third place tie with Alan Gelberger, Studio City, Calif., who had a 69; Billy Casper, Jr., Apple Valley, Calif., who had a red-hot 65; Arnold Palmer, Ligonier, Pa., also with a 65, and Art Wall, Jr., Honesdale, Pa., who had a 69.

Rudolph, 25-year-old former Memphis State golfer, had a two-over par 74 in the round Saturday and was lodged at 209 with a dozen others.

Wes Ellis Jr., Alderscross, N.J., was all by himself in eighth place after shooting a 66 for a total of 206.

Pott, who is in his fourth year on the pro tour, never has won a major tournament.

Pott's longest putt was for the sixth hole where he sank a 15-footer for a birdie 4.

Last year in the Chicago Open, the Louisiana star led for three rounds only to be nipped at the wire by Ken Venturi, who is not playing here. Pott picked up $4,800 for second place.

Casper and Palmer shared honors as the low scorers of the day with their 7-under par 65s.

Among early finishers of the third round, Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., was tops with a 66 for a 54-hole total of 207.

Whose Foot's Being Pinched?

Oscar Robertson has been doing so well that anything short of a sensational performance by "the Big O" is now considered poor.

Robertson, now in a "slump" is averaging only 28.3 points per game, compared to the 40 points he was hitting early in the season. Needless to say, he's still well ahead of his nearest competitor, who has just over 29 points per game.

Only one Texas player is listed among the nation's top ten scorers — Jim Mudd of North Texas State. Mudd is in ninth place, with a 25.7 average.

Two Texans are among the field goal percentage leaders, and both are Texas Longhorns. Brenton Hughes is fourth nationally with a .588 percentage, and Jay Arnette is fifth, hitting at a .587 clip.

It's been amusing to read the wire service stories about the current battle between the two professional football leagues. The new American Football League started its organization by "invading" two National League cities, Los Angeles and New York, and trying to get National League players to jump their contracts.

Now that the NFL is moving into Dallas, the new league is screaming "monopoly" at the top of its lungs. A lot depends on whose foot the shoe is pinching, doesn't it?

Kefauver Enters Pro Grid Battle

DALLAS (UPI)—American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss said Saturday he agrees with Sen. Estes Kefauver's statements on organized football.

But Kefauver also said that "it is a question of who has the better product in a city, if he produces it fairly, without monopolization, without pushing anyone around."

Goodwin, Phillips Capture 26-Hole Four-Ball Match

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Joanne Goodwin dropped a 12-foot putt on the 26th hole to give her and Doris Phillips a marathon victory over Judy Eller and Betty Probasco in the 15th annual Women's International Four-Ball Golf Tournament Saturday.

Miss Goodwin, Haverhill, Mass., and Miss Phillips, Bellville, Ill., will tee off in the 36 hole final Sunday against Barbara McIntire of Lake Park and Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan.

Miss McIntire and Miss Bell also had to go into a play-off in their match Saturday. The finally eliminated Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore and Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., in a 20-hole thriller.

Miss Goodwin, confronted with a uphill putt of a dozen feet on the 26th hole, rolled the ball in the cup near darkness. Miss Eller missed a four-footer to lose the match.

Ten-Pin Tales

BY BARBARA EDWARDS

Don't feel left out if you don't see your high game or series rolled either Thursday, Friday or Saturday in this column today. Our "bowling" week, which originally ran from Monday to Saturday, has been changed in order that this column may appear in Sunday's News. It now runs from Thursday through the following Wednesday.

Pampa Reapers

The Pampa Junior High Reapers are undoubtedly one of the most improved junior high teams in the state. After winning only one game last year, they have compiled an 8-1 record so far this year. They play Lee Junior High Tuesday, in Pampa Junior High Gymnasium. Kneeling, holding the basketball, are from left to right, Randy Matson, Larkin Miller, Johnny Weatherly and C. E. Cantrell. Standing, from left to right, are Ben Ingram, Curtis Judkins, Bobby Callaway, Jerry Baten, Dale Pletcher, John Gilpatrick, Raymond Nance, Tony Hernandez, Jimmy Rice and manager Jim Eads. Not pictured are Dwight Thompson and Coach Sam Jackson. (Daily News Photo)

As far as we can find, the first ABC-sanctioned 700-plus series ever rolled in Pampa was Howard Musgrave's fine 701 in September of 1958. This was rolled in ragtime doubles. Since then, Howard has rolled a 708 (also in ragtime doubles) and a sensational 733 in ABC-sanctioned 700 ever rolled in January of this year (the only Pampa in-league play). Completing the list are Buzzie Hoover's 724 in September of 1959 and a 785 by Leon Harris, also in January of this year. We hope to see many other names added to this list in the weeks to come.

Oakland Gets 8th Franchise In American Football League

By ED FITE
United Press International
DALLAS (UPI)—The American Football League Saturday reversed its field and picked Oakland over Atlanta as its eighth member.

Commissioner Joe Foss and League President Lamar Hunt steadfastly refused to admit that there had been a complete about face on the part of most of the owners since the last ballots were taken early Friday.

But it was learned from three sources within the league that Atlanta was leading 5 to 2 when the meeting adjourned around 1:15 a. m. Friday.

Since then Los Angeles owner Barron Hilton flew back into town and apparently turned in what one league owner described as "a hell of a selling job" to bring about the switch in sentiment from the deep south to the California Bay Area.

The vote for Oakland was unanimous on the fifth ballot.

Foss said that Oakland was picked over Atlanta for three reasons: They were: First, it would make for more competition on the West Coast with a natural rival for Los Angeles.

Second, a West Coast team would give the league a better geographical balance and better team travel.

Third, there is terrific pro football interest in Oakland.

Both Foss and Hunt admitted Atlanta presented a "real strong case." Hunt indicated that if the league is ever enlarged or expanded, Atlanta would be given prime consideration.

The Oakland team for the first 1960 season may have to use either Kezar Stadium or Candlestick Park across the bay in San Francisco, the home of the National Football League's 49ers.

However, there was some consideration given to the possible use of the University of California stadium at Berkeley, adjacent to Oakland.

Hunt said it was the league's preference that the club play in Oakland if at all possible.

There are plans underway to build a suitable municipal stadium in Oakland itself. The Oakland City Council has voted unanimously to put the stadium project on a June bond issue ballot.

Foss, in reply to a question, said that the decision to go to Oakland "was in no way a retaliation for the NFL moving into

Fabulous Fat Boy: Gleason

By DOC QUINN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1950's were fabulous, all right, and one of the most engaging fables gracing the decade was a TV personality who is quite possibly the most talented fat boy in the world, one Jackie Gleason.

Sitting paunchily in his dressing room, wrapped in a blue bathrobe, waiting for the opening curtain of the hit Broadway musical "Take Me Along" in which he stars, the great man spoke up promptly and grinningly when asked what was the nicest thing about the decade for him.

"The fact that I lasted till the sixties," he said.

Gleason is a natural choice to appear on Sunday night's two-hour "Fabulous Fifties" which Leland Hayward is producing for CBS — a television network that pays Gleason $100,000 every year just to refrain from working for anybody else on TV, no matter if he does any work for CBS or not.

Gleason will open the show, do his "Sid, O' Kid" number from the musical, make a couple of speeches about the Fifties, and do some commentary over kinescope replays of all the Gleason comic characters plus a sequence from one of his old "Honeymooners" sketches.

The entire show will be a complete review of the Fifties, hard news, soft news, cold war, entertainment, and assorted notions.

It was quite a decade for Gleason personally. He went to huge success in his old hour-long TV show. Jim Bishop wrote a book about him. He signed the biggest entertainment contract, 17 million dollars for four years with Buick. He signed that $100,000 yearly CBS "exclusivity" contract for a 15-year period.

And near the end of the decade he signed the biggest acting contract in the history of Broadway — $50 a week more than the previous record-holder — to appear in "Take Me Along," which promptly broke the Shubert Theater house records in Boston, Philadelphia, and New York.

In case you're worried that since he doesn't do a regular TV show any more—maybe he doesn't keep busy, take a listing of just some of his activities. He's in the Broadway show six nights and two matinees every week. He has two novels nearly ready for publication. One, "Go On Red," is a story based on the TV industry. The other, "Brother Miracle," is about life in a monastery in a monastery in which one novitiate has extra-sensory perception.

This spring and summer he will tape two 90-minute variety specials and two 60-minute dramas for TV showing next season. He already has taped a section for the next Arthur Godfrey special. His 16th record album of instrumental music has just come out.

He is into the "audible literature" business: "I had a company of actors record a tale of two cities" in its entirety, comma by comma, and now we're going to score it. What I want to do eventually is the Harvard classics the whole shelf."

The aforementioned score, of course, was written by Gleason. He writes the music for all his dramatic shows and composes and arranges for his record albums.

"HERMAN" — A scene-stealing pigeon adds to the hilarity of MGM's merry murder-mystery, "The Gazebo," film version of the Broadway stage hit. The new comedy stars Glenn Ford and Debbie Reynolds for the second time, following their successful teaming in "It Started With A Kiss." TV's popular Card Reiner also plays a leading role. The attraction will open next Sunday at the LaVista Theatre for a four-day run.

Analysis Of Literature Discussed Speaker For Varietas Study Club

The program topic for Varietas Study Club meeting held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. H. E. Hampton, 1035 E. Fisher.

"My Eyes Are In My Heart" by Ted Husing was briefly reviewed by Mrs. Nace. She said, "Very few important people write their own stories and today the ghost writer is usually given credit. Cy Rice wrote the story for Ted Husing and he has given a heart-warming account of Mr. Husing's comeback."

Mrs. Cecil Dalton, president, presided during the business meeting as a special roll call was assigned to each member.

presenting the program, Mrs. Nace stated that there are so many classes of literature "but it can be separated into three general classes: books, plays and magazines. Books can be divided into hardbacks and paperbacks; literary and religious; fact and fiction; juvenile and adult."

Mrs. Lee Harrish, project chairman for last year, said a complete report would be ready on what the club has been doing to aid the study of nursing.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School in 1956 and is a senior student in Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, Lubbock. The bridegroom was graduated from Texas A&M as a mechanical engineer in 1956; served as a lieutenant in the air force for three years and is employed by Maintenance Mechanical Engineering Corp. of Houston.

"Magazines," Mrs. Nace explained "are the largest class of literature and are the least expensive. There are four forms of magazines: 1) ones that combine fact and fiction; 2) ones that are articles or success stories; 3) sports or home magazines; 4) fiction; 4) and travel."

Mrs. C. L. McKinney asked each member to bring suggestions for a new project to the next meeting. The club collect repeated in unison adjourned the meeting.

Now that you've put away that Christmas corsage until next year, replace it with a red rose wrapped around with a mink tail. The stores are showing these pretty corsages now.

The spotlight of today is on unobtainable literature, but we must remember that all literature today is more readily available and that we will always be good and had literature. We have to trust young people to choose and to come out right."

Attending were Mmes. H. H. Butler, J. G. Doggett, H. Price Doster, C. O. Drew, S. C. Evans, J. E. Kirchman, R. W. Lane, Luther Pierson, J. R. Spearman, Ralph Thomas, J. C. Vollmert, Joe Z. Weaver, Sherman White and P. E. Yarborough.

Colonial Art Of Making Spreads Shown At Club

"Bedspreads are used as bed protectors, as well as for beauty. They should be a restful color and match the color scheme of the bedroom. They should be of a design that will last and hold up well," said Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Gray County Home Demonstration Agent, at a meeting of Goodwill Home Demonstration Club, held Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. Lee Jackson, 1436 N. Russell.

"Candlewick embroidered bedspreads are one of the pioneer arts handed down from Colonial Days," she continued as she demonstrated the making of Candlewick spreads. "And they will harmonize with most types of furniture. They are practical, inexpensive and easy to make and will grow more beautiful with use."

Roll call was answered by each giving a favorite bedroom color.

Mrs. Ed Juenger, vice president, conducted a short business meeting.

During the social hour, refreshments were served to Misses Boyd Maul, Kenneth Boyse, A. P. Coombes, Gerald Walters, Donald Nensiel, Ed Juenger, W. E. Autry, and Miss Patterson.

It was announced that the next meeting will be with Mrs. Juenger, 1527 Coffee, on Feb. 2 at 9:30 a.m.

GETTING TO KNOW YOU — Using an old-fashioned gimmick, an out-dated telephone, Mrs. Mark Heath, Altrusa Club president, and Mrs. L. L. Harkins, Altrusa Reformation chairman, left and right, "listened in on the party line" to hear interesting "gossip" about their fellow members in a cleverly-conducted program, "Getting to Now You Via the Party Line." The program, planned by Mrs. Harkins, highlighted the Altrusa dinner meeting held Monday evening in Pampa Hotel.

Party-Line Telephone Conversations
Reveal Interesting Items About Club

By DORIS E. WILSON

A cleverly planned program, given Monday night at the Altrusa Club dinner meeting in the Pampa Hotel, Mrs. Harkins presented a novel program for members to learn more about their club and about each other.

Excerpts from the program, which employed the use of old-fashioned telephones and miniature phones at each member's table, so that they could "break in on the party line" at any time had something to say, went like this:

Mrs. Harkins' telephone rings: "Hello, yes, this is Gladys Harkins, Altrusa Reformation chairman. I am at our regular chapter meeting right now. Could I call back?"

The voice of Mrs. Clyde Vanderhoeve, Altrusa vice president, rings into the party-line conversation: "I heard the phone ring, thinking it might be for me, I picked up the receiver and I couldn't help overhearing what said. I don't mean to be but in, but I am an Altrusan, also."

I went to the trouble of looking up how to pronounce the name of our club, which is not a CHAP-ER. You say it, "Altrusa" with a "y" sound. We are Altrusans and I hope I have helped you correct your error in pronunciation."

Mrs. Harkins: "Thank you for getting in to help me. I shall remember my error. Now, if the person who called is still on the line, I'd like for you to tell us what the name Altrusa means. . . oh dear, someone dropped a receiver, or someone thing. Anyway, I don't hear any voices, so I guess everybody hung up. What??? Yes, I'm still on the line, and you want to know what the name Altrusa means? Well, if Ida Keller were listening in, she could tell you. You Are? Then go ahead, Ida tell her."

Mrs. Keller: "A stands for amity; L stands for loyalty; T is for talent; R is for reciprocity; U represents unity that is so vital to all; S is for service and is really the heart of our being; A marks the achievement that we shall enjoy individually as we put our hearts into service through Altrusa."

Mrs. Harkins: "Good for you, Ida. Goodness Me! sounds like I hear someone trying to memorize something about 1, 2, 3, 4. Shhh, let's listen."

The voice of Mrs. Mark Heath, club president, begins recanting the "Four Goals for the Bimennium": 1) quota for all district and international conventions; 2) participation in international projects; 3) working to replace member losses; 4) explore possibilities of organizing new clubs in nearby cities."

At the end of the conversation, there is a silence, and then all members around the room begin buzzing in on the party-line with news of their travels, children, grandchildren, and professional experiences.

The meeting was concluded with each feeling a little closer to the purposes and goals of their club, as well as closer to their fellow member, who after all has a private life as well as her professional one.

YOU DON'T NEED 40 OXEN TODAY

When Cortisone was first developed, 40 oxen were required to supply the raw material to make enough of the drug to treat one arthritic victim for just one day. No wonder very few people could benefit. But today, the oxen have been replaced by fantastically complex equipment. It is possible now to make cortisone available—at a moment's notice—to all who need it. That's why we say

WHY FEWER BABIES DIE TODAY

Fifty years ago, one out of 10 babies died during its first year of life. Today, infant mortality during that first year has declined to only one out of 40 babies. Much of the credit for this huge drop belongs to the potent drugs that help defenseless infants to fight the diseases that once meant certain death. That is why we say . . .

Picture Of India's Nehru As 'Loner' Not A True One

By S. K. TIWARI
United Press International

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The sometimes puzzling pronouncements of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru are not always self-generated—he has a lot of help.

This is an aspect of Nehru which is often overlooked. To many, he appears to be a "loner" who makes his own decisions.

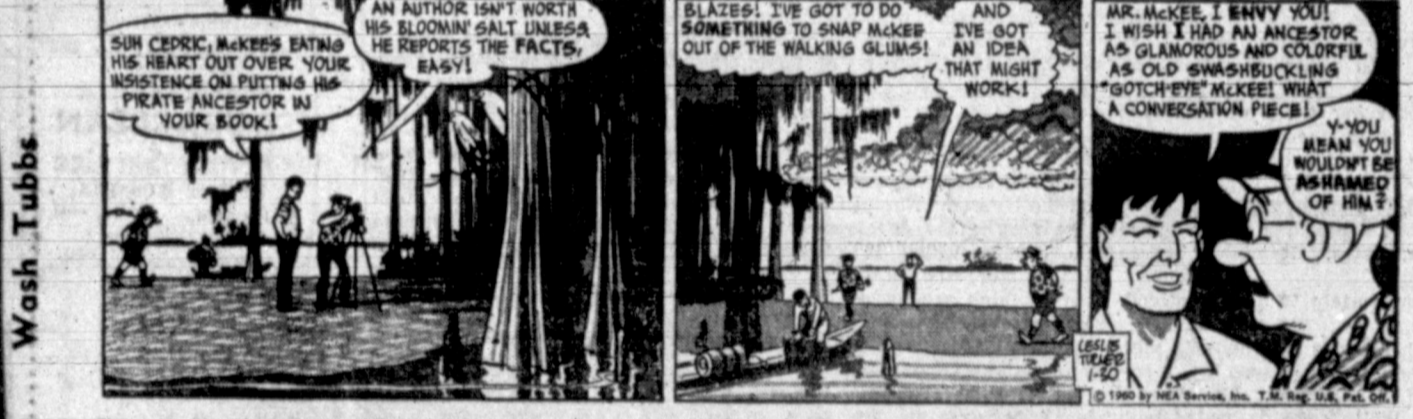

Actually, Nehru relies heavily on a few key men. They include:—Govind Ballabh Pant, 72, India's ailing Home Minister. Walrus-mustached Pant is India's number one anti-Communist and an expert parliamentarian. He has worked with Nehru for years and is able to bring the Prime Minister back to reality when he gets too far out of line. Despite the fact Pant has never completely recovered from a heart attack, Nehru relies on Pant heavily for advice in dealing with the Communist China government.

—Rajendra Prasad, 73, India's President. Prasad is an orthodox Hindu who treats Nehru like a younger brother. Although Prasad is supposed to be above politics, he remains politically strong and has great influence with cabinet ministers and parliamentarians. Nehru is believed to rely on Prasad for advice in dealing with governmental and party matters.

—Lal Bahadur Shastri, 51, India's Commerce Minister. Thin, ever smiling Shastri is a quiet man who is Nehru's trouble shooter. He is a first rate organizer and an expert on Congress party matters. Usually when there is a rift in the party, Nehru picks Shastri to make the peace. Sometimes tabbed as a Nehru successor, Shastri suffered a serious heart attack in 1959 and doctors have advised him to slow down.

Commendation

CLINTON - SHERMAN AFB, Okla. — Airman First-Class Gayle N. Stevens, son of Mrs. L. Stevens of Pampa, has been selected for the "Outstanding Airman Award" in the 4123d Combat Defense Squadron for the period 1 July through 31 December 1959.

In a letter to Airman Stevens the wing commander, Colonel W. B. Martensen, said, "As desk sergeant of the security defense flight, you are the key individual during any simulated or actual threat to security. The response of the entire mobile strike capability is contingent upon your quick and accurate judgement and above all your job knowledge. Your ability in the latter respect, acquired through many off-duty hours of study as well as the absolute determination to 'Be the Best', have contributed materially to the success of the Combat Defense Squadron in implementing its role in the SAC Internal Security System." Stevens enlisted in the United States Air Force September 1952. Presently he, his wife, Ruby June, their children, Billy Jack and C. N. Stevens are stationed at Clinton Sherman Air Force Base, Oklahoma, home of the 4123d Strategic Wing.

Fred MacMurray Described As Richer Than Crosby

By RICK DU BROW UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Fred MacMurray, who is reported to have enough money to balance the national budget, says Hollywood overrates his investing ability. MacMurray's wealth has inspired Hollywood wags to suggest that Wilshire Blvd., filmland's main business street, should be renamed MacMurray Blvd. because of his property holdings. But, said the 51-year-old actor, "that business about shrewd investing is exaggerated. Sure, I own part of a building on Wilshire. And I've made a few little investments here and there." He's made little investments in apartment houses, little investments in factories, little investments in country clubs and other little investments in ranches, midwest oil lands and a refrigerator locker plant.

"I have a little money," he said. Sometimes, stories of MacMurray's wealth cause him headaches. "Once," he said during a breakfast interview at the Brown Derby, "a magazine listed me as one of the 10 richest men in the country. Even (Bing) Crosby was below me." "Well, right away the gardener wanted more money—and so did everyone else." MacMurray, an amiable fellow whose latest film is "The Apartment" with Shirley MacLaine and Jack Lemmon, said he has always run his 25-year career in Hollywood as a business. "I never considered myself an actor," he said. "Some guys figured I might bust a leg or something, I think I'm pretty fortunate to be here." Born in Kankakee, Ill., and brought up in Beaver Dam, Wis., MacMurray got his start in film-town as a saxophone player at Warner's Hollywood Theatre. "I got the job," he said, "because I could foot a little, sing a little and looked good when I stood up in my dress suit."

The tall, brown-haired actor, never a super-star, has been one of the movies' steadiest box-office attractions over the years. Last year, for instance, he starred in Walt Disney's "The Shaggy Dog," one of 1959's top three financial successes. "Can't figure why I'm still around," he said. "I've never been glamorous. I remember my publicity man at Paramount would run up to me every night and say, 'What did you do last night?' And I'd say, 'Well, you know, in bed, sink, the plaster came off. I had to fix it.'"
