

Rusk Plans To Carry Out Foreign Policies Quietly, Effectively

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scholarly, soft-spoken Dean Rusk feels that his task as secretary of state in the Kennedy administration will be to serve as an administrative officer carrying out quietly and effectively the international policies set by the President.

President-elect John F. Kennedy was reported to have been impressed by the 51-year-old career diplomat's grasp of the mechanics of foreign policy and his middle-of-the-road approach to major problems. Diplomats and officials who know Rusk regard the appointment as a sound one.

The husky, balding Georgia native, named to the top cabinet post by Kennedy Monday, lost little time in picking up the threads of State Department operations.

He hoped to meet today with some department officials and was expected to confer next week with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter when Herter returns from the Paris NATO meeting.

Arriving here Monday night, Rusk said one of his first tasks would be to select the various assistant secretaries and other officials who will head branches of the State Department.

"Also, for awhile I won't have any comment on foreign policy issues," he added.

Asked if he had received any reaction to the Rusk appointment, Kennedy replied, "I got some nice wires."

European officials said privately they had little personal knowledge of Rusk.

The appointment gives the nation's number one foreign policy post to a skilled technician who is not associated with any past diplomatic disaster and has a reputation for being able to work well with allies.

Rusk was assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs in the Truman administration at the time the United States was rallying its U.N. allies for the fight against Communism in Korea.

Writing in the April issue of foreign affairs quarterly, Rusk spelled out his view that the secretary of state's job is to help the President formulate sound foreign policy and then to carry out that policy efficiently.

"We are not likely to achieve significant improvement in the conduct of our foreign relations simply by thinking up new ideas but rather by serious attention to the manner in which we make policy and translate it into action," he wrote.

Little is known of Rusk's views on specific foreign policy problems facing the nation. But in the same article he made clear that he doesn't think much of summit conferences.

He said heads-of-state meetings were useful mainly to ratify agreements already reached at lower-level conferences where traditional diplomatic bargaining can go on without the glare of publicity.

Writing just before the Paris summit collapse in May, Rusk characterized such top level sessions as "the court of last resort" where the danger of diplomatic explosion was great.

Without mentioning Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev or President Eisenhower by name, Rusk said it would be a "gamble" to bring together at the summit one leader who is "impulsive in manner... possibly subject to high blood pressure" and another leader "with a quick temper and a weak heart."

New Home Rule Plan Vote Set

Pampa voters will go to the polls Saturday, Jan. 31, to cast their ballots for or against a proposed new home rule charter form of city government.

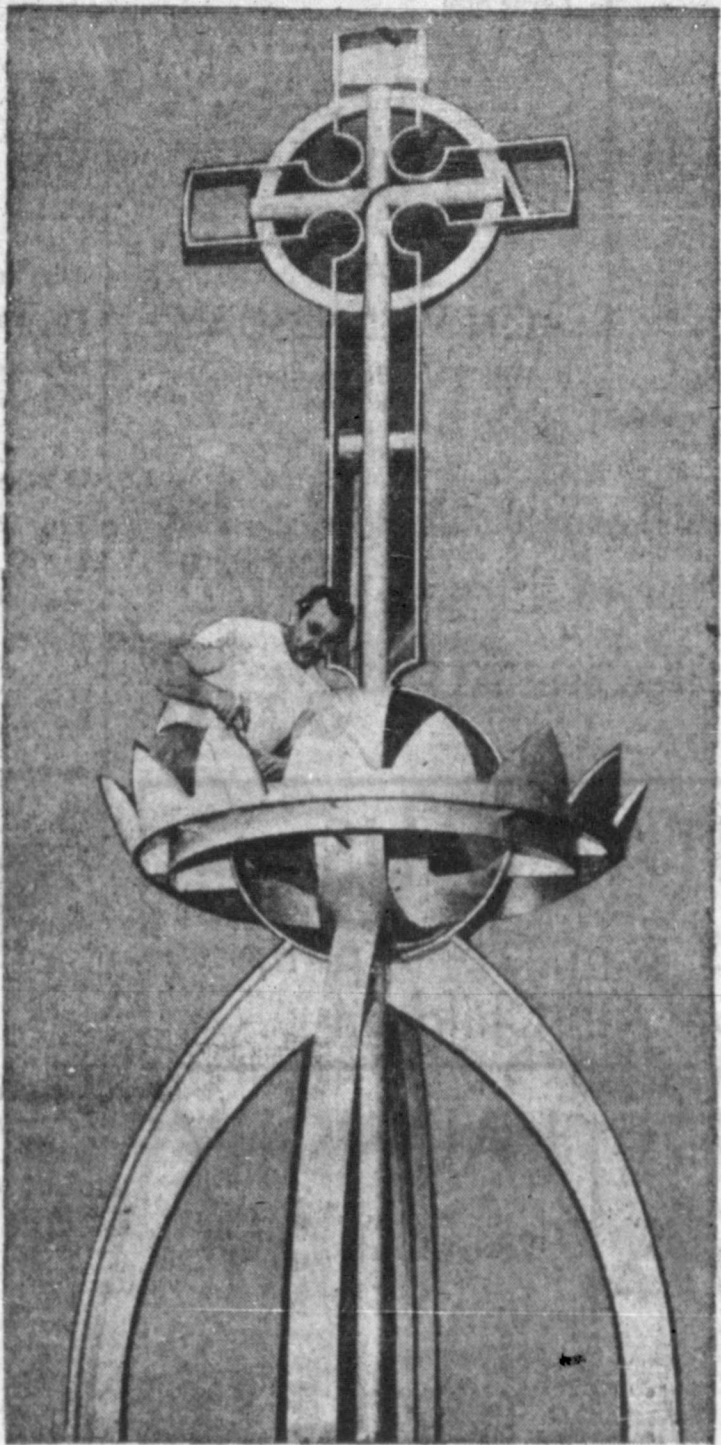

The election date was set today by the Pampa City Commission in its regular weekly meeting in City Hall. The charter election ordinance was adopted on first reading.

The new charter has been drawn by the elected charter commission headed by Lynn Boyd, chairman, and Arthur Teed, co-chairman and comprised of 15 members.

The charter form and revisions are in the final stages and copies of the completed charter will be mailed to all eligible voters at least 30 days before the election date so they may have a chance to study it. These are expected to be in the mail by the last week in December, City Manager John Koonz said today.

An ordinance also was passed on first reading to extend the Pampa city limits and annex the area on N. Hobart, from 18th St. to Decatur between Hobart and Banks. This brings into the city the area in which the Coca Cola Bottling Co. plant, Elks Club and Doctors Clinic are located.

Commission members discussed a proposed school tax contract between the city and the Pampa Independent School District whereby the schools would utilize services of the city tax department in making appraisals for tax purposes. City Attorney Bob Gordon was instructed to draw up the contract which would extend for (See RULE, Page 4)

East Coast Has Many Snowbound

NEW YORK (UPI) — Residents of 14 Eastern states faced another 48 hours of post-blizzard hardships today in record low temperatures that hampered dig-out, get-moving operations.

The death toll of the worst coastal snow storm since 1947 rose to 187. Many of the fatalities were due to heart attacks suffered by snow shovelers attempting to clear Sunday's and Monday's fall of up to 20 inches.

The mercury plummeted to below 10 degrees in many sections of the storm area, stretching from Virginia to Maine and west into the Plains states, with little relief in sight. Temperatures were expected to stay below freezing through Wednesday.

Skies cleared but most officials predicted that it would take two days to open up main arteries of traffic to normal movement. Strong winds buffeted workmen and shifted new drifts of powdery snow over roads and streets just freed of accumulations as deep as four feet.

Low temperature records for Dec. 13 topped like tempins in dozens of cities. It was one degree below zero in Buffalo, N.Y., breaking a 65-year record, and at the Pittsburgh airport: 7.4 in New York, breaking an 88-year record; 3 degrees in Hartford, Conn., and 8 degrees in both Philadelphia and Newark, N.J.

The blizzard with gusts up to 73 miles an hour swirled out to sea south of Nova Scotia early today. Behind it were highways clogged with abandoned cars, closed schools, trains running on curtailed schedules, buses running hours late if at all, hotels jammed with stranded travelers, closed factories, undelivered mail, uncollected garbage, and millions of dollars in Christmas trade losses.

About the only thing back to normal was airline service and shipping in Atlantic ports. The super-tanker American Eagle, which broke loose from its Long Island moorings during the storm, was navigated to safety on the Connecticut shore.

Vice Probe Ordered At Beaumont

BEAUMONT (UPI) — Rep. Tom James, vice-chairman of a legislative crime committee setting up to launch a full scale probe of vice, gambling and prostitution in Jefferson county, was scheduled to go before a grand jury today but said his testimony was not for the ears of Dist. Atty. Ramie Griffin.

"I will be forced to withhold some of my testimony," James said in Dallas, his home, before he left for Beaumont. The grand jury ordered him to appear and tell what he knows about vice in the area.

James charged after a series of raids by state agents on plush gambling clubs in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area that there was a "breakdown of law enforcement" and the House Legislative Investigating Committee voted to kick off a full-scale probe.

Jefferson county officials, and those of Beaumont, charged that James was exaggerating the situation.

David A. Witts of Dallas, attorney for the committee, also said that he foresees trouble with the grand jury.

James said he was under instruction from the lawmakers to withhold some of his testimony if Griffin was in the jury room, and said that he planned to ask the jurors to make sure Griffin is excused. A district attorney normally handles procedural chores for a grand jury during an investigation by it.

"I cannot think of any testimony I could give before the Jefferson County district attorney that would not jeopardize our investigation," James said in a direct slap at Griffin.

No Relief In Sight, Weatherman States

By United Press International

Highway workers pulled on thick gloves and heavy mufflers and went to work in sub-freezing temperatures on a thick blanket of fresh snow today to keep roads throughout the Big Bend country and West Texas open to motorists.

Up to eight inches fell in the area during the night and early today, and more was expected by nightfall. Elsewhere, freezing drizzle, sleet and chilly rains kept Texas in an icy grip, and the weatherman said he didn't know when the dismal weather would clear up.

There was a new wrinkle in the weather Monday night at San Antonio. The temperature was 40 degrees and sleet began peppering the Alamo City and the town of Pleasanton, just to the south.

Normally, the temperature has to be freezing or below before sleet falls. But the weather bureau said the rare situation occurred when a cloud formation that dropped the sleet slid over the city at a low altitude and the distance to the ground wasn't enough to melt the frozen drops of water into rain.

Forecasters said the weather picture would be the same general situation that has hovered over the state for the past few days—freezing drizzle and light snow in the west and part of North Central Texas; occasional light rain through the rest of the section and over Northeast, Southeast and South Central Texas.

Temperatures will remain cold under a blanket of thick clouds formed by three low pressure systems. The rain is being caused by a new influx of warm, moist Gulf air that is moving northward over rain-soaked East Texas bumping into a dome of frigid Canadian air.

Many streams and rivers in the eastern half of the state continue to flow out of their banks, but so far, the only serious damage appeared to be to oil and gas wells in the area.

J. S. Bolden, production foreman for Texaco at Gladewater, said that 26 oil wells were being serviced by boats and if the Sabine River continues to rise as expected, at least 25 more will go under water.

All livestock has been moved to safe ground, and no homes were believed in danger.

Fresh snow began falling Monday night at Alpine, Marfa and Fort Stockton in the Big Bend country and the far west sections of the state still lay under a sheet of ice that made driving dangerous and continued to plague communication facilities.

Lubbock, Dalhart and Snyder reported freezing drizzle.

Temperatures today were expected to be about the same as Monday. The warmest spot in the state during the afternoon was Laredo which reported 50 degrees. The mercury didn't rise above 21 degrees at El Paso.

Five inches of snow was on the (See WEATHER, Page 4)

Teachers, Aged, Delinquents Aid Termed Necessary By Texas Solons

EDITORS NOTE — This is the second of four dispatches dealing with the problems that will face the next Texas Legislature.

By PAT CONWAY
United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas lawmakers agreed today they must take care of the old folks, teachers and problem youngsters.

A majority of lawmakers answering a United Press International survey agree that the teachers need a pay raise, old folks on pensions need medical benefits, and the state needs a juvenile parole system. They will go into session Jan. 10.

But their support hinges on whether money is available.

Teachers may be disappointed to learn that few of the lawmakers favor the $500 annual raise they demand. Many of those answering the UPI questionnaire said $400 a year is as high as they can go.

Texas voters authorized the medical aid program in a constitutional amendment in 1958. Lawmakers, harried by money problems in the last session, passed the program over. This time they say they are ready.

Led by Rep. Don Kennard of Fort Worth, a number of legislators tried to put the juvenile parole program over during the last session. It died in the waning days of lawmaking.

Rep. Bob Hughes of Dallas believes legislators are ready to accept the program now, providing it is "limited to major counties and probably paid for on the county level."

Juvenile parole is favored by Rep. Henry Fletcher of Luling, "provided the supervisors are their mothers and fathers. Our laws need revision placing juvenile responsibility on parents."

Bringing the issue close to home, Rep. Neil Caldwell of Alvin said, "I hate to see human lives wasted."

When it comes to medical aid, Rep. Joe Chapman of Sulphur Springs spoke for the majority of lawmakers when he said, "The old folks must be taken care of."

Rep. John Allen of Longview favored the medical aid program, but said he wanted to see the bill first.

Junior Class Play Slated For Tonight

The junior class of Pampa High School will present its second performance of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" at 8 o'clock tonight in the high school auditorium.

The play, written by Cornelia Otis Skinner, Emily Kimbrough and dramatized by Jean Kerr, is set in the rollicking era of the 1920's with leads performed by Sherry Bentley as Cornelia Skinner; May Ellen Williams as Emily Kimbrough; Randy Geisler as Dick Winters and L. D. Steele as Leo McEvoy. The play was directed by Miss Beverly Smith.

The first performance, presented Monday evening, played to a good house despite inclement weather.

Tickets for tonight's performance will be available at the door.

U.N. Urged To Enter France-Algeria Tiff

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Afro-Asian delegates whipped up support today for United Nations action in Algeria, despite signs that the U.N. effort in the Congo was crumbling.

Representatives of the Algerian rebel leadership demanded the United Nations do something to stop the bloodshed and violence that shattered Algiers and Oran over the weekend.

They said the French were minimizing casualty reports and that actually more persons had died in Algeria in the past two days "than in the Congo in the past six months."

The French delegation formally denied it.

'Castle In Spain' No Longer An Air Castle

NEW YORK (UPI) — Your "castle in Spain" no longer need be an air castle.

Being an American man of property in Europe or the exotic Caribbean no longer conjures up the sole image of millionaire or movie star, according to John C. Tysen, president of Previews, Inc., the international real estate clearing house.

Tysen says the company's foreign business "more and more is beginning to resemble our state-side pattern where the moderately priced property is the daily and dependable backbone of the company's business."

Sales of the firm's nine overseas branches, he said, have risen from 5 per cent to 15 per cent of total annual volume since 1957.

And, Tysen reports, the clientele has shown a distinct change from the pre-war luxury customer. In Europe, as well as the Caribbean, Tysen said, Previews has serviced hundreds of Americans. He believes that low cost, culture and availability of servants will stimulate this trend in the decade to come.

Project housing to suit American standards has become a specialty in Spain, particularly on the shores of the Mediterranean known as the Spanish Cote d'Azur, Tysen said. In a club community that includes a golf course, yacht club, riding, shooting, cinema and casino, plus a practice bull ring, one can purchase a lot and villa built to order for $12,500. The four-bedroom villa includes a servant's room and a servant to handle cleaning, cooking and laundry averages about $8 weekly.

Groom Team Tabs Third At Plainview

GROOM. (Sp) — Members of Groom's FFA Greenhand chapter conducting team placed third in Area 1 competition in Plainview recently. The team had won first place in the Amarillo district contest held earlier.

Members of the Groom team are Dan Craig, Bob Babcock, Charles Fields, James Koetting, Tommy Talley, Milk Harden, Ronnie Washburn, Butch Brown and Thomas Hudson.

The groom team will demonstrate chapter conducting at the mid-winter conference of Vocational Agriculture Teachers of Area 1 Saturday.

FIVE COLORS

British heralds recognize only five colors for coats of arms: red, blue, black, green and purple. Yellow and white in coats of arms are not colors, but represent the metals gold and silver.

Other Americans are taking advantage of investment opportunities in European real estate. A California architect recently purchased in Austria 35-room Tyrolean castle boasting suites used by the Emperor Maximilian and Maria Theresa of Austria. Re-camping the castle with all modern conveniences, including swimming pool, the architect plans to operate it as a guest house.

Tysen feels that "raw land for housing developments or factories is the most fantastic buy in the European market. Much of it is available, prime land near major cities, and a minimal improvement warrants prices we don't even dream of in this country."

Young couples with children have become frequent European property seekers, Tysen said. Where prior to World War II the average American wage-earner had to be coaxed into overseas assignment with his firm, today's ex-servicemen know Europe and are not afraid to choose their own standards of living in what used to be strange lands.

A $14,500 home with four bedrooms on the outskirts of Paris was the recent choice of a former army engineer now working for a major U.S. automotive firm. "I asked for a six-year transfer to our European operation," he explained, "because not only will I enjoy my own house, I'll make money on it by improving it for the next American who ships over when we go home. And my sons and daughter will learn a lot about all of Europe in six years."

The blanket of snow stretched throughout the Big Bend country, ranging from Columbus and Hobbs, N.M. to Big Spring, McCamey, Marfa, Fort Davis, Pecos, Fort Stockton, Sanderson and Alpine, Tex.

The weather got so bad Monday night that New Mexico Western College of Silver City had to cancel its Lone Star Conference basketball game with Sul Ross College. The New Mexico school had planned to fly to Alpine for the game.

The Department of Public Safety reported that most roads and all major highways in the area were still open, but dangerous. Highway crews were hustled out into the bitter cold to throw sand on bridges and hills.

Optimist Hear Choir; Dates Set For Two Events

The Evening Optimist Club will hold its annual Ladies Night and Christmas party in Poole's Steak house beginning at 7 p.m. Monday. Club officials announced today.

Highlight event on the program last night was the appearance of the Bell Ringer Choir of the First Methodist Church under the direction of Tom Adkin, and Betty Lou Williams, soloist.

It also was arranged for a joint board meeting of the Evening and Morning Optimist Clubs to be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Boys' Club building.

The members also agreed that the first round of competition in the Inter-City Oratorical Contest will be held March 10 in the Boys' Club building.

Boy Scout Unit To Meet Tonight

Due to the holidays, the Santa Fe district committee, Boy Scouts of America, will have its regular meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight instead of Dec. 27, according to Art Smalley, 1961 district chairman.

The committee will meet in the Southwestern Public Service Office. The meeting will be an organization of the operating committees and a plan of jobs and activities for the coming year.

Rule

15 months at a cost to the school district of $3,600.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the city to lease from the Panhandle and Santa Fe Ry. 31, 750 sq. ft. the property on Tying St. from Cuyler to Russell to be used as a free public parking lot. The lease calls for $1 a year payments with yearly renewals. The new public parking area will be 373 feet long and 90 feet wide.

'Peanut Hearing Aid'

AMARILLO, Tex., The makers of the world's first electrical hearing aid are manufacturing a "Peanut Hearing Aid," a tiny device worn entirely in the ear. This device is not for the really deaf, but for those who have a little trouble with their hearing and have said, "When they make a hearing aid I can put in my ear I'll wear one."

This "Peanut Hearing Aid" is worn entirely in the ear. Not a gadget but a real hearing aid, complete with volume control.

"For free demonstration of this tiny device come to our regular monthly hearing aid clinic at Hotel Adams, Pampa, Texas, Wednesday, December 14, 1960, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m."

Program Of Christmas Music Given By Woodrow Wilson Choir For PTA

Mrs. Charles Wade, program chairman, for the Woodrow Wilson PTA introduced the Christmas program at the general meeting on December 8. The school chorus under the direction of Mrs. Sheila Williams, sang Christmas songs. Miss Cynthia Hogsett, sixth grade student, narrated verses from the Bible concerning the birth of the Christ child. Steve Oler sang the solo part in the song, "Star of the East." In "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" the solo was sung by Don Ross. Other numbers were: "Rise Up, Shepherds and Follow," "Away In A Manger," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," "What Child Is This?" and "Silent Night." Refreshments were served the chorus after their performance.

The Rev. Ronald Hubbard, Presbyterian Church pastor, brought the devotional. He said, "There is nothing so lovely to hear as children's voices singing hymns. Part of Christmas is overbearing because pagan customs and commercialism pollute it. The other part can be joyous for those who believe in God, and can leave the other alone and quietly celebrate Christmas at home and in Churches. The real essential is that God gave Himself."

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. E. L. Henderson. Mrs. Jay Lickey read the secretary's minutes. Mrs. Henderson reported that at the City Council meeting all adults were urged to participate in the city-wide blood typing program December 16-17. Sunday, December 18 will be the Pampa pilgrimage, walk with your friends to the church of your choice," she announced.

Mrs. Calvin Hogan, study club chairman, reported that Woodrow Wilson and Travis PTA's will be in charge of the first study course session. "Each person attending all of these sessions will receive a study course certificate from the State PTA office. The schedule is: Jan. 19 at Travis school "The effect of Athletics on children"; Jan. 26 at Horace Mann school; Feb. 2 at Lamar school; Feb. 9 at Austin school; Feb. 16 at Sam Houston school; and Feb. 23 at Robert E. Lee Jr. High school. Each session will be from 9 to 11 a.m.," she outlined.

It was reported that Mrs. J. White's second grade won the prize for having the largest percent of parents to join the PTA. They won with 123 per cent. Mrs. Herb Gallman, membership chairman, said that 71 per cent of the Woodrow Wilson parents were members of the PTA. The Fun, Food, and Frolic Night room count was won by Mr. Dan Johnson's fifth grade and Mrs. Helen Davis' fifth grade won second. First place room count on Father's Night was won by Miss Oleta Marlin's first grade; second place by Miss Pearl Spaug's first grade. Mrs. E. A. McLennan, City Council delegate and District Civil Defense chairman, reported on the state convention held in Austin. She quoted Dr. Reed as saying we must learn to live with ourselves. She also described the tour the delegates took through the state capitol building, the state P.T.A. offices and the governor's mansion.

Mrs. Derral Hogsett reported that one speaker said that each grandparent and each parent is obligated to teach the next generation about God and His moral values not leave it up to someone else. The room count was won by Miss Virgie Denton's sixth grade. Mr. Bill Groves sixth grade placed second.

Dear Abby... It All Depends On The Boys!!!

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of the custom of a husband having a "night out" with the boys? My husband and I haven't been married very long and he says all the married couples go in for that kind of arrangement. Should I agree to it? Or do you think it is dangerous?

MRS. NEWLYWED
DEAR MRS.: There's nothing dangerous about it as long as the boys are boys.

DEAR ABBY: We are grandparents with 8 married children and lots of grandchildren. Every Christmas we give us gifts that mean money wasted. They are not poor, but every penny has to count.

DEAR ABBY: A letter appeared in your column, and I pray your advice will be followed, because I witnessed such a "problem" many years ago.

A friend of mine confided that she was expecting a child that was not her husband's. They were having marital difficulties at the time and were temporarily separated. It was then that she had a short-lived romance with another man. Her husband (who may have had a few things on his own conscience) acted wisely and maturely. He forgave her and made the best of it. He raised the handsome little boy with the same love as his other three children. They are now a happy, close-knit family. The boy, who might have been rejected, is an outstanding student today.

The man had two choices: Acting the part of the "outraged" husband, and destroying his family to satisfy his pride. Or the choice he made. I admire him beyond words. Through your column I can tell the world that "Forgiveness works."

"BYSTANDER"
CONFIDENTIAL TO PHIL: Face the music... "Rockabye, Baby."

Crusader's Class Has Yule Social

Mrs. F. C. Goodwin, 1714 Dogwood, was hostess for the annual Christmas Party for the Crusader's Class of the First Methodist Church on Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. Co-hostesses were Mmes. Glen Stafford, A. L. Smiley, C. E. Shellhouse, J. L. Lickey, B. H. Riley, and F. E. Converse.

A Christmas story "So Shines The Heart" was given by Mrs. H. H. Boynton. A letter to Tommy Bryant, a former class member, was composed by Mrs. W. W. Adcock, using descriptive adjectives given by each member. Homemade gifts were exchanged and displayed around a colorful Christmas Tree.

The serving table was covered with lace over red cloth Santa

Jones Circle Has Missionary Topic

"His Peace For the Multitude" was the missionary program for Kathleen Jones Business Women's Circle at its December meeting held in the dining room of the First Baptist Church.

The program was given by a panel of six members, led by Miss Oleta Marlin, who gave scriptures for missionary work and lighted candles, which encircled an opened Bible, as symbols of spiritual power, fellowship, brotherhood, service and knowledge.

Mrs. B. R. Nuckols discussed "Seeing the Multitude Hungry"; Miss Nova Mayo, "Seeing the Multitude Diseased"; Miss Yvonne Goss, "Seeing the Multitude Afraid"; Mrs. Lula B. Owen, "Seeing the Multitude Without a Shepherd"; and Mrs. Rufe Jordan, "Seeing the Multitude With Compassion."

Mrs. Ethel Rodgers presided at the brief business meeting during which members made donations to the Lottie Moon Christmas offering and planned a Sunshine Gift for a "shut-in."

Other members attending were Mmes. C. L. McKinney, Fred Brook, John Vantine, J. H. Tucker, Aaron Meek, Roy Chisum, Willa McDaniel, Mable Teague; Misses Sibyl Turner, Evelyn Milam and Mellie Bird Richey. Hostesses for the next meeting on Jan. 5, 1961, will be Mrs. Willa McDaniels and Miss Oleta Marlin.

NO BELT FOR YOU
If you're short and haven't much waistline, beware of wide belts no matter how chic they may look on others. They'll have the effect of sawing you in two.

Club Selects 'Sour Apples' Actor Group

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Hollywood Women's Press Club today announced it has resumed its policy of giving a mythical raspberry to uncooperative stars and promptly nominated five actors and actresses.

Nominees as the most uncooperative actors this year were Elvis Presley, James Garner and Yul Brynner.

The actresses tabbed were Marilyn Monroe and Debbie Reynolds. The club said nominees for the 19th annual Golden Apple awards to filmland's most cooperative stars were Roger Smith, Jack Lemmon, Sandra Dee, Nanette Fabray and Janet Leigh.

Winnes in both categories will be announced Dec. 20. The group said its "Sour Apple" designation had been dropped in 1955 and revived this year.

Unemployed List May Scale Higher

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Another million workers are virtually certain to lose their jobs in December and January, pushing unemployment over 5 million, government economists predicted today. No drop was in sight before March.

Barring a sharp — and unforeseen — spurt in production and hiring, the number of jobless was expected to rise to 4.2 million this month and to 5.2 million in January. Another 100,000 workers were likely to be laid off in February.

The economists painted this dark picture after the Labor Department announced Monday that employment climbed by 452,000 last month to 4,031,000, a postwar November record. The jobless fell a shade from 6.5 to 6.3 per cent of the labor force.

Seymour Wolfbein, a deputy assistant secretary of labor, said he foresaw "nothing in the offing which will bring unemployment down before the end of winter."

Coal By-products
It has been estimated that there are more than 200,000 different chemical by-products of bituminous coal, including material used in aspirin, embalming fluid, fingernail polish, laughing gas, mothballs, phonograph records, TNT and vanilla ice cream.

Distressed Area Study Aid Due

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of Republican senators and House members has offered to cooperate in President-elect John F. Kennedy's study of distressed area problems.

The Republicans said any program aimed at alleviating unemployment should "not use a pork barrel approach." The GOP lawmakers, representing Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia, gave their views Monday in a telegram to Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., chairman of Kennedy's special committee which is developing legislative proposals to deal with areas of chronic unemployment.

Soph-Dotted Harvesters Trek For Game With Dumas Tonight

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Sports Editor

DUMAS — Pampa's wandering Harvesters, who have traveled approximately 900 miles in two weekends, play their last road game of the 1960 season at 8 p.m. today against a rugged Dumas Demon team that has lost but once so far this year.

The Harvesters come home for a weekend double-header with Fort Worth Birdville Friday and Saturday, then play five more non-conference contests and two in District 3-4A action before taking to the car again Jan. 6 for a tiff with Tascosa in Amarillo.

Tonight's game could possibly mark the varsity debut of Pampa's 6-4 sophomore, Randy Matson, who has been sidelined with a foot broken midway in the football season.

If Matson is ready, he will be counted upon to aid the Harvesters in several departments, the most important of which being rebounding.

Matson will join two other sophs in the starting lineup tonight — Ronnie Chase, 5-7, and Gordon Balch, 6-0.

Chase and Balch were both impressive in the Hobbs' series, despite the twin losses. In the second game in which Hobbs won, 56-47, the soph pair scored 14 of the first 21 Pampa points while turning in good defensive games at the same time.

Balch, incidentally, was the first sophomore to start for the Harvesters since Jimmy Bond turned the trick back in 1951 and three sophomores in the starting lineup is a new record.

The first Green and Gold five will be completed by Pat Carter, sharp-shooting senior, who is the team's leading scorer with 66 points in five games and either Larry Stroud, 6-2 junior, or Allen Wise, 6-3 senior.

Stroud is the Harvesters' second top point-producer with 62 points while Wise has 50.

Dumas (5-1) will counter with an experienced team that is equipped with average height. Last year, the Demons posted a 17-12 record before falling in the regional tournament in Lubbock and four starters return off that squad.

Heading the list is Larry Tiner, a 5-11 senior guard, who is averaging 18 points per game and has three times scored more than 24 points in Dumas' six games.

Other starters will be Joe McCormick, a 6-0 senior center; Forwards Dick Rector, a 6-1 junior letterman, and Jimmy Morgan, a 6-4 senior; Royce Taylor, a 5-11 senior, is the probable fifth starter in Coach Don Haskins' lineup.

Dumas' lone loss was a 61-54 overtime setback to Dimmitt and Junior Coffey in the Plainview tournament two weeks ago.

The Demons of 1-3A are again the district favorites and probably will present the Harvesters with one of their sternest tests of the year.

Pampa's Shockers (3-2) and Dumas 'B' (3-0) will battle in the preliminary game, set for 6:15 p.m.

Tech Lone SWC Victor As UT, Rice Go Down

By United Press International
You might say Rice lost its intersectional clash with Tulane after the game was over. It was one of three games that Southwest Conference teams lost Monday night. The only winner from the league was Texas Tech which sneaked past Loyola of New Orleans 78-74 behind a pair of Red Raider scoring whizzes, Del Ray Mounts and Roger Hennig.

In the other games, Louisiana State nipped Texas 62-59. Brigham Young University staved off a determined second half rally to beat Texas Christian 74-65, and Tulane stopped Rice 84-83.

In tonight's games, Arkansas plays Tulsa at Tulsa; Baylor tangles with Oklahoma City at Waco, and Southern Methodist goes against Oklahoma University at Dallas.

Rice held a 79-77 lead as the final buzzer sounded, but Dale Cloak had two free throws coming. He toed the line, and dropped both of them in to tie the score, and send the game into overtime.

Jack Ardon and Jim Kerwin pumped in 27 and 20 points, respectively, to lead the Greenies, and Ollie Shipley led the Owl attack with 19. Steve Galloway scored 16.

Mounts, last year's leading scorer in the conference, rammed in 28 points for Texas Tech and Hennig clipped in 22. As a team, Polk Robinson's club hit a red hot 56 per cent, sinking 32 of 57 field shots.

He benched the starters with 15 minutes left and a 18 point lead, but Loyola made a desperate bid to pull the game out of the fire, and he had to send them back in. Loyola scored 13 points in a row to pull to within three points, the margin of victory, with just 15 seconds left.

John Flynn led the Wolves with 17 points, and Larry Trunk and Darryl Tschirn each had 15.

Brigham Young, behind the 19 point production of Gary Earnest, captured the lead early in the contest and held on for a 41-31 halftime advantage, and were never seriously threatened again.

Dave Warnell and Jerry Cobb led the Horned Frogs with 17 and 14 points, respectively.

Donnie Lasiter put on a one-man show sinking a flurry of seven field goals in the last 10 minutes for Texas, but it wasn't enough to shove the Longhorns over the taller Tigers from LSU.

Ellis Cooper paced the Bengals' attack with 20 points. Lasiter was best for Texas. He scored 19 and Butch Skeete had 14. The Steers held a slight advantage in rebounds, 43-40, but LSU was more accurate, hitting 42 per cent to 33 per cent for Texas.

Q-Backs Meet On Banquet

Final plans for the annual Harvester football banquet, including the distribution of tickets for the Jan. 12 feed, will be made at 7:30 p.m. today in the film room at the high school, according to Sharon Haralson, outgoing president.

J. T. King, newly-named head football coach at Texas Tech, will be the principal speaker at the banquet to be held in the Robert E. Lee Junior High Cafeteria.

Highlight of the banquet will be the presentation of the "Fighting Harvester" award.

Snead Pick In Tourney

AVON PARK, Fla. (UPI) — Sam Snead and the winners of the last two PGA mens tournaments head the field teeing off today in the $15,000 Haig and Haig mixed Scotch invitation golf championship.

The veteran Snead is paired with Mickey Wright in the 35-hole event, which features mixed teams playing 18 holes today at Pinecrest Lakes Club here and 18 holes Wednesday at Harder Hall in nearby Sebring.

Bob Goalby, who won last week's Coral Gables Open, is paired with Faye Crocker. Johnny Pott, who won the West Palm Beach Open the week before, has Marilyn Smith as partner.

3-4A Cagers Do Battle

A near-full seven-game schedule dots the District 3-4A non-conference basketball schedule tonight after two teams split in last night's action.

In two games last night, Borger ran its record to 5-4 with a 62-55 victory over Dimmitt while Odessa Permian was downing Lubbock, 66-60.

Tonight's play finds Pampa at Dumas, Amarillo at Phillips, Palo Duro at Hereford, Tascosa at Portales, N.M.; Guymon, Okla., at Borger; Dimmitt at Plainview and Lubbock at Levelland.

Lubbock Monterey is idle.

Ohio St. Clings To Lead

HARD TO HOLD — Coach Johnny Dee nearly hit the ceiling as Walt Mangham tipped in a goal for the Denver Truckers late in their opening game with the Cleveland Pipers. However, Texas Tech coach Polk Robinson holds the unofficial in-door "leaping" record with several six-foot jumps from a sitting position.

Bradley Holds Second Slot While Two Jump

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State and Bradley clung to the 1-2 spots in the United Press International college basketball ratings today, while North Carolina, Detroit and Providence all made big strides among the leaders.

North Carolina moved up two places to No. 3; Detroit jumped from 9th to 5th place, and Providence vaulted from 13th to 9th, becoming this week's newcomer in the top 10 group.

Ohio State's defending national champions, who last week were the top choice of 34 coaches and received 249 out of a possible 350 points, attracted 30 first-place votes and 344 points this week.

This total left the Buckeyes with a 64-point lead over Bradley. Both teams have 3-0 records.

Following Bradley in order among the top 10 teams were: North Carolina, Indiana, Detroit, St. John's, St. Bonaventure, Kansas, Providence and Cincinnati. (The coaches based their ratings on games played through Saturday night, Dec. 10.)

UCLA topped the second 10 group, followed closely by four

GEIGER TO MARRY

SAN RIDGE, Ill. (UPI) — Outfielder Gary Geiger of the Boston Red Sox will be married on Feb. 18 at Murphysboro, Ill., to Marilyn Weatherly, 19, whom he met at a basketball game three years ago. Geiger said he and the bride-to-be will honeymoon en route to the Red Sox' spring training camp at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Hebert Leads Reapers Into Cage Activity

Despite being held to 11 points in last week's 37-24 victory over Robert E. Lee, Pampa Junior High's Kenny Hebert passed the magical 100-point scoring total and will be the main offensive weapon when the Reapers host Lefors 'B' in a return match here at 4 p.m. today.

Hebert, with 104 points and a 26.0 per game average, is the top scorer in area junior high circles and will be out to duplicate his 46-point spree in Pampa's first victory over Lefors, a 78-30 shellacking.

Other probable starters were expected to be Gary Davis, Guy Cloud, Charles Price, and Richard Rexroat. Davis is the city's second scorer with 45 points, or a 11.2 pass average.

Lee's Rebels (2-1) go back into action Thursday when they go to White Deer for a non-conference clash with the Bucks 'B' team.

White Deer is unbeaten and holds a 43-41 victory over the Reapers, the only loss suffered by Coach Roy Kieval's crew thus far this season.

The Reapers play Thursday also, going to Dumas, a team that is favored to win the Panhandle Junior High School conference.

If you were to walk down the approach runways of any major bowling tournament you'd see ball marks up to three feet behind the foul lines.

Even professionals drop balls in the wrong spots at times.

Get the ball from four to six inches across the foul line before touching it down to (1) release it properly with off-center lifting action that produces a good hook and (2) accurately hit the target.

Most of the difficulty here can be narrowed down to either a lazy pushaway action that would cause the feet to arrive at the line ahead of the arm swinging the ball, or simply that the footwork is too fast, giving the ball a chance to slip up.

Coordinate the feet and ball out into the lane.

Bradley Wins Again

Purdue Tips Detroit In Top 10 Surprise

By GARY KALE
United Press International

The Bradley Braves, and especially Chet Walker, are making first-time opponents scurry for the nearest shelter to wonder why they ever skedded college basketball games with the powerful Midwestern school.

Second-ranked Bradley bombarded Northern Michigan, 105-77, Monday night as Walker scored 28 points to lead the Braves to their fourth straight victory.

Last week, the Braves manhandled the Davis Branch of the University of California, 102-65, with Walker setting a Bradley Field House record of 50 points.

Indiana's No. 4 Hoosiers defeated Missouri, 66-55, and seventh-ranked St. Bonaventure beat Xavier of Ohio, 85-75, but Purdue upset fifth-rated Detroit, 83-64, in games involving teams among the top 10 in the nation.

Bradley allowed Northern Michigan to lead briefly in the first half, 18-13, then stormed back to take a 36-41 margin at halftime. Tim Robinson had 25 points and Al Saunders 23 in support of Bradley's 37th straight home victory. Steve Thomas scored 21 for

Total Yardage Honor To Kilmer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Kilmer of UCLA was hailed today as the individual total-yardage champion of major college football in 1960.

Kilmer, according to the NCAA Service Bureau, turned in the fourth best record of all time when he ran for 803 yards and passed for 1,086 more to compile a total of 1,889 yards.

The UCLA star also is the first offensive titlist since Byron (Whizzer) White of Colorado (1937) to punt at better than a 40-yard clip. Kilmer's 42.3 yard average was fifth best in the nation.

Kilmer had to wait until his last game of the season to take the title. In fourth place before the start of UCLA's game with Duke, Kilmer totaled 200 yards to beat runner-up Mel Melin of Washington State by 174 yards.

Two New AL Clubs Open Player Drafts

BOSTON (UPI) — Snowed out before they even got a chance to bat, the new Los Angeles and Washington clubs will make their player selections Wednesday in the office of American League President Joe Cronin at 10:15 a.m. EST.

The two new American League clubs originally had been scheduled to pick their players from a list of 120 candidates today but Cronin postponed the draft 24 hours because of the snow storm which blanketed the East Coast.

General Manager Fred Haney of Los Angeles and Bill Rigney, the team's new field manager, were unable to make airplane connections from California Monday due to the storm and Washington Manager Mickey Vernon reported he was snowbound at his home in Wallingford, Pa. The only member of the two new clubs who made it into Boston was Washington General Manager Ed Doherty.

"Even I couldn't make it into the office from my home in Newton," Cronin said. "However, all the officials of the Los Angeles and Washington clubs should be in by today and I think everything will go all right tomorrow."

Cronin also said permission had been granted for the extension of the inter-league trading deadline until midnight Dec. 16 instead of midnight Dec. 15. The extension was agreed upon by Commissioner Ford Frick and the National League.

The U. S. Looks Bad

Ever since Nikita Khrushchev put on his one-man Punch and Judy show at the United Nations in New York, it has been a part of the propaganda of the leftists that Khrushchev hates the U.S. and wants to see it dismantled.

Hence, it is now becoming customary to twist every statement which is unfriendly to the U.N. into a piece of pro-Russian sentiment. This is strictly surface froth and void of sound reasoning.

Actually, the United Nations is a ridiculous organization seeking to perform an admittedly worthwhile objective, in the worst of all possible ways. One does not obtain peace thru violence or high taxes. One may obtain impotence and stagnation this way, and perhaps confuse these with peace.

So, in an effort to see just how effective the U.N. is, let us look at it in the Belgian Congo. This is probably the most crucial test the U.N. has faced to date, and should provide us a good way of examining it when the chips are down.

First of all, Dag Hammarskjold decided when the first native moves were in the making that the Congo would be a proving ground for the U.N. This was the opportunity he had been looking for. He wanted an event which could demonstrate the indispensable nature of the U.N. and which would justify the establishment of an international army, navy and air force on a permanent basis.

With every one of his not inconsiderable skills, Dag sought to exploit the Congo picture to the advantage of the U.N. But this is just where he's going sticky. For the Congolese natives are savages, wholly untrained and unaccustomed to civilized ways. Their leaders, perhaps advanced to a state of barbarism, are equally inept when it comes to grasping economic principles, or even diplomatic concepts.

The dream of the finest men the Congo can muster would encompass a showy uniform, lots of people kowtowing, and a seat in the United Nations, where Uncle Sam and all the rest of the big civilized people can rub elbows with them in intimate and friendly terms.

It is neither too harsh nor too early to suggest that developments in the Congo are apt to be repeated in at least 50 other districts in Africa, with each petty chieftain seeking to establish himself as some sort of "king" or political following, trying to get U.N. recognition.

If the Congo is eligible for U.N. membership, there are at least two score other peoples and districts in Africa which could claim membership along the same lines.

The U.N. is financially embarrassed by what has become a sudden and unprecedented drain on its budget, most of which we provide, and now is seen in the Congo to be emotionally and morally bankrupt as well. Indeed, much of the mischief to come out of this area has been sired by U.N. meddling and intervention.

We don't pretend to know the true feelings of Nikita Khrushchev. However we will say that the Congo situation aided by U.N. blundering, has tended to make Khrushchev look right and the U.S. look wrong, since it is the U.S. which has been the largest and most consistent backer of the U.N.

Given a few more boo boos like Kasavubu, perhaps our politicians in the U.N. and out of it will begin to see that when we begin meddling in the affairs of other peoples we stir up their greed and avarice and envy and in the end suffer extortion and a sapping away of our vitality.

The quick solution in the Congo would occur if all outsiders including the U.S., the Belgians and the U.N. crowd were to vacate. Then the Congolese could go about their native custom of butchering each other to their heart's content and the rest of us could get along with our normal affairs.

Of America he observes: "Give men a chance to make greater rewards and we'll have genius cropping up like mushrooms all over the country. We must offer greater rewards for better services without taking them back in higher taxes."

This, in the end, can only mean that we must stop relying on government to do for us, turn once again to the market place, and build an economy on private capitalism so strong that no government will ever again be able to do so many things to us.

Wayne University should be proud of Dr. George P. Loweke.

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Most babies are trained to use their potties before they're 3 years old. Until they enter school, they usually function with clocklike precision.

But, from that time on, everything seems to conspire against the maintenance of bowel regularity.

There's the traffic jam before the bathroom door in the early morning. The teacher who refuses permission to "leave the room." The crowded booths at recess and the lunch hour. The dash to go out and play after school.

At and after maturity the conspiracy spreads. There's the morning rush to get to class or work. The embarrassment at having to pass classmates or co-workers on the way to the ladies' or the gents' room. The uncleanliness of many public facilities. And, finally, the evening dash to get home, eat and do homework or keep a date.

Mother often is handicapped by her unselfish postponement to look after her own needs until the other members of the family have been roused, dressed, fed and sent on their various ways.

An inevitable result of this frantic way of life, especially in home holds where a single facility must be shared by several members of a family, is failure to eliminate the waste materials that collect in the bowel after our intestines have absorbed the nutrient substances required for continued health and welfare.

The usual response to the resultant constipation is recourse of laxatives, cathartics, enemas, irrigations, suppositories and dietary products to aid roughage or favor smoothage.

Eventually, as a result of attacking the result instead of the cause of the condition, the bowel looks as if it were the site of a widespread inflammation (enterocolitis and colitis), as recently reported by physicians of the Mayo Clinic.

And then, to compound difficulties, the tendency to constipation is intensified by complicating miseries, particularly piles (hemorrhoids).

Allen - Scott Reports:

Missile Experts Say - They Are Solving Major Testing Problem - Radio Interference

WASHINGTON - U.S. missile experts believe they are effectively solving a serious testing problem that has caused a number of major failures - radio interference from outside sources.

This costly and at times highly embarrassing difficulty is being overcome by the establishment of extensive "interference control procedures" at all missile centers.

This significant unannounced development was disclosed by Navy Secretary William Franke in a special report to the Senate Space Committee, headed by Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson.

"An intricate system of ground and airborne monitoring facilities," Franke informed the Committee, "has been established to assist the testing range frequency coordinators in their efforts to eliminate all radio signals that might interfere with space tests."

Franke submitted his report in response to a Space Committee inquiry about radio interference with missile tests. The Committee had learned this factor was responsible for a number of missile and satellite failures.

While acknowledging that, Franke gave no details of such "harmful interference" on security grounds.

However, an Air Force report does cite one graphic example. According to this Air Force report to the Senate Committee, radio interference from planes over Europe caused "serious complications" at the Jodrell Banks monitoring station in Manchester, England. This installation is particularly important in monitoring moon and other space shots.

The drastic new "interference control procedures" apply to all the military services. They were put into effect by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Air Force also notified the Space Committee that two more major shots are slated before this year runs out - new attempts to orbit a TV-scanning satellite around the moon, and to launch a Samos reconnaissance satellite to transmit photos as it girdles the globe.

Purpose of the Samos is to take over the functions of grounded U-2 reconnaissance planes. The pictures relayed by the satellite are supposed to be as good as those obtained by U-2 cameras.

The new moon shot may take place later this week if weather conditions permit. This will be the last of these launchings with an Able-Atlas rocket. There have been seven others, all unsuccessful. The latest satellite, weighing 387 lbs., will be equipped with TV and other recording instruments.

The Samos launching will be the first of a new series of five such shots. Two previous attempts failed.

HOW IT'S BEING DONE - The Senate Space Committee sought official Pentagon word on the missile testing problem because of certain military claims pooh-poohing it.

Secretary Franke's special report completely confirms the latter. Publishable highlights of this significant document are:

"Harmful interference has been experienced in connection with space experiments from radio signals. Most of this interference has been in the immediate vicinity of major testing ranges. . . The concentration of electronic applications in the immediate vicinity of these ranges is so great as to require serious consideration."

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have established test range frequency coordinators at all missile testing centers. . . The military services coordinate operations within 200 miles of these activities so as to reduce interference to an absolute minimum.

"The test range frequency coordinators maintain close surveillance over all frequencies within their geographical areas of cognizance and, prior to missile launchings, request all interests to observe radio silence as required in appropriate frequency bands. Cooperation in these efforts has been excellent."

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

THE STORY: Bart Wagner rides up to a lonely ranchhouse in the Texas Panhandle where desperadoes had set fire to a shed. He helps the woman living on the place to extinguish the fire, but she does not trust him and holds him at a distance with a rifle.

A sudden thought seemed to come to her. "Are you a Texas Ranger?" she asked hopefully. He said regretfully, "No, ma'am. It's too late anyway for a Ranger to help you, isn't it?" She said, "I could keep them from coming back."

He nodded slightly. "Which side are you on?" she demanded. He laughed easily, trying to reassure her. "I'm not on any side. Right now I'm plumb by myself like a skunk in the middle of a Fourth of July barbecue."

"He had hoped for a smile, but it didn't come. 'I stopped by to see if I could maybe wangle a meal,' he said, and refrained from reminding her that he had helped her put out the fire on the shed."

"She stared at his slung arm. 'Since you're on the scout, you're probably an outlaw, all right—but you better come in. You helped me, and I can feed you. And maybe your arm needs some attention.'"

"Thank you, ma'am." She went to the horse, flipped loose the cinch strap, took the heavy saddle with all its trappings by the horn with his right hand, and lifted it off in one powerful sweep. He turned the saddle and dropped it on its side, rifle boot up. He pulled the blanket from inside the saddle and snapped it free of twigs it had picked up from the ground, then laid it across the saddle. He went to the black, unfastened the throat latch, pulled the headband over the black's ears with his own good arm.

"He threw the bridle over his left shoulder and slapped the black on the rump. 'Stay close now.' He dropped the bridle across the saddle and went into the house. 'You're welcome to eat,' she said, acknowledging his needs, 'but I'll have no foolishness.' She looked at pointedly at the '44's in his holsters. 'If you make any move toward your guns, I'll shoot without warning.'"

Amused, he said, "That old Sharps won't swing very fast, but I'll have no foolishness." She ignored the question. "If you're one of Xenophon Jones' outfit," she said, "I know you won't shoot me. They just want to run me off."

She seemed to hesitate a moment, and her answer when it came, was evasive. "He needs this ranch to hold his stolen stock."

"I've heard a little about Xenophon Jones," he observed. She said with obvious feeling, "Because the courts are so far away, he carries on his outlawry like a business. Everybody knows him and knows what he is, but he doesn't hide. He comes and goes as he pleases, even in the towns."

"And the law?" she demanded. "Captain Arrington is the only lawman in the Panhandle." Bart said after a pause, "I'm not a Jones man or any other outlaw. I was a lawman in El Paso and killed four brothers in a gunfight. I got a clean bill from the coroner, but some don't recognize that, and there is still talk against me, and the only way I can clear it up is to find an old man who sided the brothers. I heard he is in the Panhandle, and I came to look for him."

"What was his name?" she asked.

Xenophon Jones and a half a dozen outlaws came onto the ranch. "Nobody seemed to know—and he skipped out."

"She pulled the brass kettle to the front of the stove. 'You get along all right with one hand,' she noted without turning. 'A bullet?'"

"He nodded. 'Small caliber. Probably a .31. It was a hideout gun.' She glanced at him at last. 'He must have been stingy with his powder, or it would have gone on through.'"

"He was drying with his one hand. 'It went through the edge of a door first.' 'I hope there wasn't any point on the door,' she said, picking up a big fork. 'That is poison in a bullet hole.'"

"Sit down," she said, "and get started." She moved toward the rough table. "I can hear your stomach growling from over here."

"He heard the heavy crockery dish thump on the homestead table. He looked for the rifle, and saw it had been moved to a spot near the door, where she could get it without reaching over the light pile of wood at the end of the stove."

"It's antelope," she said, indicating the meat. "Quick-killed." She had cut the meat into pieces he could handle with a fork. He ate three or four mouthfuls before he sat back to draw a breath. Food had never tasted that good.

"Mighty fine light-bread," he said. She stared at him for a moment, but he could not read her thoughts. She seemed about to say something, but then her long pent up feelings broke through her reserve, and she suddenly put both hands to her face and began to sob.

He was taken aback. He thought her crying would stop in a moment, but to his dismay she grew louder, and most anguished, and tears dropped from her fingers to the floor. He got up hurriedly, not bothering to push his chair back but dismounting from as he would have done from a horse. He went around the table and patted her clumsily on the shoulder.

Unexpectedly he found her weeping on his chest, and put his good hand on her shoulder. Her tears lessened gradually, but his shirt and his buckskin vest showed damp spots. She backed away, wiping her face on the corner of her apron. He went to the stove and poured two big cups of coffee and took them to the table. She sat down, then looked up as he hesitated. "There's sugar on the shelf," she said. He carried the crock to the table. "Tell me the whole story," he said.

"Then your husband went up there to run them off, but they killed him," Bart suggested. Bart had a feeling he had guessed only partly right, and he waited for her to speak. Then her eyes filled again with tears. "They brought his body to the back door. And they said I had a week to get off the land."

"When I take it you've been happy here," he said. "No," she said with astonishing vehemence. "I was never happy here. I hated it for a long time. I hated it until yesterday afternoon—when I buried Ben. When I got through showing in the dirt, I realized that I had left my family of my own free will. At the time I left, I might have thought Ben had enough money to make up for the difference between him and me."

"But now you're too proud to go back to your folks, and you've found out also that the land itself means something to you." She took a deep breath. "A lot more than I thought before." She was silent for a moment. "I'm on my way. I'll wait till Ben died to see it." (To Be Continued)
