Pampans Ready To Mark Christ's Birth; Christians Will Pause For Reflection

Know, Live Christ

By Fr. R. W. RAMSON, CM
St. Vincent's Catholic Church

Love changes everything, and the world is full of it at this time of the year. But maybe we're just beginning to see the simplicity of it all. It is, as if, a long time ago, God said to Himself: "They'll never be able to understand me if I do things on like this, no matter how many prophets I send them, no matter how many miracles I perform. So I'll send them something so simple that they cannot fail to understand. I'll send them a Baby. . . . And so God did. "But when the fullness of time came, God sent His Son, born of a woman, born under the Law, in order to redeem those who were under the Law that we might receive the adoption of sons." (Galatians 4:4-5).

Christmas is the season of love. We show our love for our family, for our beloved ones, for our sweethearts by our exchange of gifts. When we love another, it is natural for us to manifest that internal love externally, and this we do by our gift-giving. What the gift is, or what its value, is of little consequence. The fact that we have given something as an expression of our affection is the only thing that mattered.

God's love for us is incomprehensible to the human intellect. He loves us so much that He created us and keeps us in existence. After man fell from grace, He gave us another chance: He promised a redeemer. "When the fullness of time came" He sent His gift of love: His Son; and the Son died on the cross out of love that we might get to heaven, the object of our existence.

The Christ born on Christmas Day is both God and man. How wonderful is the God-man! How worthy of our reverence and our love! His virtues, like unto our own in their exercise and their manifestation, become resplendent with divine light as we reflect that He is the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity who directs them to their goals, His sufferings, so consoling in their psychological context, become wondrous beyond expression as we consider that they are operations of a God Who is at the same time ready and willing to accept them on behalf for their infinitely meritorious value.

To know Christ is to know God. To know Christ is to find the way to God. To know Christ is to discover the divine life that will transform us into friends of God. To know Christ is to know ourselves, as we appear to one another, as we appear to Him.

To know Christ completely means to live Christ consistently. To live Christ consistently means to substitute His will for our own by discipline and to bring our wills to conformity with His by deep and abiding love. Here is the lesson that the world of today needs to learn and that so many seem to neglect.

To know Christ means to return to full and consistent observance of the laws which Christ came to fulfill, but even more — to live a life of love, which is to live as Christ, because Christ's love is a love of love.

Know Christ — love Christ — (See KNOW CHRIST, Page 19)

CHRISTMAS JOY

May the joyous message of the Babe of Bethlehem once more shine brightly in your heart... and, as you celebrate Christmas with your loved ones, may you experience deeply and fully all the blessings of the Day. May its happiness abide with you and yours through all the years to come.

Two Poems Foretold The Birth Of Christ

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The birth of Jesus Christ has inspired some of the most beautiful poetry the world has known. Most of it was written, as you would expect, after the event.

But two of the greatest poems in the vast library of Christmas literature were composed before Christ was born.

They were prophecies of His birth.

The mind-set of our modern culture is not congenial to the idea of prophetic vision. It seems rather unscientific of God to vouchsafe to devout mystics a preview of His purposes.

And yet the fact remains: The meaning of Christmas has never been more vividly expressed than in the prophecies of two holy men who were looking forward to the coming of the Messiah.

One of them was Isaiah, who lived in Jerusalem 700 years before the herald angels proclaimed glad tidings of great joy to the shepherds at Bethlehem.

His poem appears in the Bible in the 9th Chapter of the Book of Isaiah. Here is a modern translation, arranged in verse form by Dr. Robert W. Rogers, professor of ancient Oriental literature at Princeton University:

The people that were walking in darkness
Have seen a great light;

They that dwell in deep darkness,
On them hath light shone.
Thou has multiplied the nation,
Thou hast increased the joy;
They joy before Thee as men
joy at harvest,
As they rejoice when they divide the spoil.
For every boot worn in tumult of battle
And every garment rolled in blood
Shall be for burning,
For fuel of the fire.
For unto us a Child is born,
Unto us a Son is given,
And dominion is upon His shoulder:
And His name is called—
Wonderful Counsellor,
Mighty God,
A Father forever,
Prince of Peace.

"In all the literature of antiquity," says Prof. Rogers, "There is nothing to match this."

The second great poem of prophecy was uttered by Zacharias, father of John the Baptist, after he had experienced a vision of the role his son was to play as herald of the Messiah.

It is found in the First Chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke. It has been enshrined in Christian liturgy as the canticle called "The Benedictus."

Here is an ancient and beloved translation, from the Book of Common Prayer:

Blessed be the Lord God of Israel time served,

For He hath visited and redeemed
His people,
And hath raised up a mighty salvation
for us,
In the house of His servant David.
As He spake by the mouth of His holy prophets,
Which have been since the world
began,
That we should be saved from our enemies,
And from the hand of all that hate Him.

Texan Gets Real Christmas Gift

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—As far as James Paul Connor of Houston, Tex., is concerned, Santa Claus is Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina.

Connor, whose real name is John W. McHargue, is on his way back to Texas today to spend Christmas with his family. His thousand days of sleepless nights are over.

Last week, McHargue was arrested in Houston for speeding. He was fingerprinted, and police discovered he was wanted for escaping from a North Carolina prison eight years before. He had been serving a 10-12 year term for robbing a cab driver in Statesville.

Thursday, Gov. Hodges announced that he had set McHargue free, and commuted his sentence to time served.

To perform the mercy promised to our forefathers,
And to remember His holy covenant;
To perform the oath which He swore to our forefather Abraham;
That He would give us,
That we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies
Might serve Him without fear,
In holiness and righteousness before Him
All the days of our life.
And thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the highest;
For thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare His way;
To give knowledge of salvation
unto His people
For the remission of their sins,
Through the tender mercy of our God;
Whereby the dayspring from on high hath visited us;
To give light to them that sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death;
And to guide our feet into the way of peace.

Like all great poems, these should be read aloud. It is a tradition of some Christian homes to read one or both of them in the family circle on Christmas Eve.

There is no better way to remember what is really being celebrated in this "hallowed and glorious season."

City, Area Churches To Mark Holy Day

The festivities, parties, decoration contests, giving and receiving of gifts, and the like all will be set aside Sunday morning by the vast majority of Pampans and residents of the area who will go by the thousands into the churches of their choice to observe the true reason for Christmas — the birth of Jesus Christ.

And, although some churches will hold only the morning worship period, the majority will conduct evening services, with special programs scheduled, for the most part.

All but two of the churches will have their regular pastors in the pulpit: the First Baptist Church and the First Christian Church.

The Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, is hospitalized with a leg fracture, and the Rev. Richard W. Crews, pastor of the First Christian Church, is recuperating at home following a hospital stay of several days following an appendectomy.

The Rev. Jack Parker will deliver the sermons at First Baptist Church, while The Rev. Wally Gibson, religious education director at the First Christian Church, will take that pulpit in Rev. Mr. Crews' stead.

The Rev. Mr. Parker's morning sermon title was not announced as of today. However, he plans a special Christmas topic for the 10:50 o'clock service.

The evening service will be conducted in the form of a "Student Night" with college students who are home for the holidays in charge of the program.

During the student program speeches are scheduled to be delivered by Miss Martha Marsh, Dwayne Dunham and Larry Harkins.

Sunday School is scheduled for 9:45 a.m. and Training Union will begin at 6:30 p.m.

A morning service, beginning at 10:50 o'clock, will be the only service in First Christian Church. This will feature the Rev. M. Gibson's sermon and special musical program.

The Rev. Fr. Ronald Ramson, CM, assistant pastor of St. Vincent's Catholic Church will be celebrant of the High Mass in the annual Midnight Christmas Mass Saturday in the church. Special music has been provided for this service, with the program to open at 11:30 p.m. when the Adult Choir, under the direction of Tracy D. Cary, will sing several well known carols.

Masses are scheduled at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. at St. Vincent's Christmas Day.

The Lamar Christian Church will hold one service Christmas, the Rev. David Mills said. It will begin at 9:40 a.m. The Rev. Mr. Mills said he will prepare a special Christmas sermon for the worship service.

Mr. A. Baecht of Amarillo will address the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses in Kingdom Hall, 944 Dwight, at 3 p.m. Christmas Day. His topic will be "Does the Bible Teach What You Believe?"

The presiding minister, Dan Katsanis, will follow by conducting a Bible study on the scriptural obligations of marriage.

The Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will use "You Can't Tell by the Wrapping," as his sermon topic for the 8:30 and 10:55 a.m. services Sunday. The evening service which will begin at 7:30 o'clock, will consist of a special musical program entitled "The Christmas Story with Music."

St. Matthews Episcopal Church will conduct Holy Communion and a sermon by the Rev. William E. West, rector, beginning at 11 p.m. Saturday. This will be followed by an 11 a.m. Christmas Holy Communion and a sermon by the rector. The Youth and Adult Choirs will participate in these services.

Two candlelighting services are scheduled in the First Presbyterian Church. The first will be the family ceremony which will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday and the second will be conducted at midnight.

The Rev. Ronald E. Hubbard announced.

A Never Ending Subject

By WOODROW ADCOCK
Pastor, First Methodist Church

Millions of words have been written about the meaning and significance of the birth of the child Jesus in the manger at Bethlehem. Many sermons have been preached on the subject. But the subject is never exhausted and new meaning seems to be continually coming to those who kneel in prayer before the child Jesus. I shall state in my own words what I feel to be the real significance of Christmas.

1. God draws near to the human race with His redemptive grace. Before Jesus was born, God seemed to be far away and removed from man's troubles and sins. Man did not feel that God cared much as to what happened to him. But when God took upon Himself the form of a man through the gift of His Son in the birth of Jesus, man knows that God has identified Himself with all his needs. "And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth." St. John 1:14

2. God has openly expressed His love for all human beings. No doubt God loved man before the birth of Jesus. But until that time man did not always know how much God loved him. Now every man can know beyond a doubt that God loves him. "For God so loved the world that he gave His Only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life." St. John 3:16

3. Christmas means that God has revealed His true nature to mankind in a way that man can understand. We now know that God is Love and that He has given expression to His love for us in the most wonderful way that He could devise. We also know that all of us are His children and objects of His love, care, concern, and redemption. God is like Jesus. God was in Jesus as much as it was possible for God to put Himself in human flesh. Jesus Christ was God.

4. Christmas means that we should follow the example of God in expressing our love. We should give expression to our love for God and we should express our love for our fellow human beings. Christmas is the great time of the year when we are reminded of God's great love for us and that we should respond to His love by loving each other and by loving God. God gave the greatest gift, His Son. Let us give unto Him ourselves in response to His love and let us love one another and give expression to that love with our gifts. This is the meaning of Christmas. May God bless all of us as we remember the true significance of the birth of Jesus.

Yule Spirit Prevails In Lida's Room

By ART MAYHEW
Daily News Staff Writer

The air of Christmas prevades Room 304 of the Highland General Hospital today as a 10-year-old Pampa girl continues to grow stronger after being seriously burned Dec. 8.

Warm-hearted response from citizens of Pampa, Mobeetie and Skellytown has brightened young Lida Ann Gudgel's restricted life since her housecoat and gown caught afire when she backed into an open-flame stove in her home two weeks ago.

"We just didn't realize how many wonderful people there were in the world until now," Mrs. W. L. Gudgel, 717 E. Browning, said yesterday.

Mrs. Gudgel, who has maintained a constant bedside vigil beside her daughter along with Mrs. Gudgel's mother, Mrs. Lawrence Rogers of Emet, Okla., was misty-eyed as she described the wonderful

Pampa Needy Will Not Be Forgotten

Pampa's needy families will be taken care of on Christmas Day.

Through efforts of scores of civic, church, school, veterans, and fraternal organizations, upwards of 175 to 200 families will receive baskets with supplies for their Christmas Day dinner.

Distribution of the Christmas baskets which are being cleared through the Welfare Index to avoid duplications will continue through Christmas Eve.

John Gikas is chairman of the Christmas Basket arrangements and Mrs. Frank Shotwell, Red Cross executive secretary, is acting as coordinator.

Mrs. Shotwell said some 120 baskets will be cleared through the Welfare Index from the various organizations throughout the city.

The Salvation Army will distribute 35 to 40 baskets tomorrow, Envoy Seago said, and a number of families will be provided grocery orders.

This was just one of the activities at the Salvation Army, since a children's party was held earlier in the week in which some 150 new toys were distributed and candy and oranges were passed out.

Financial Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lost in the background of today's changing business scene are those companies whose history parallels the development of our nation.

Of all the streets in New York the one most likely to present an historical atmosphere of solidity and tradition is Wall Street.

Servicing this financial community is the oldest business establishment operating under the same name since its founding in New York, and one of the oldest in America — Bowne and Co., printing firm.

This historic firm was established by Robert Bowne and two associates in 1775 and, in addition to printing, offered for sale, according to an advertisement of the day:

"Writing paper, English and American; account books; quills and pens; binding and printing materials; bolting cloths; powder, furs, nails, glass and dry goods; pitch pipe boards and a few cases of low-priced cutlery."

Bowne prospered in his new enterprise, but was forced to leave his business and New York in 1778 in the wake of General Howe's troops. After the war he returned to find the area below Wall Street a charred ruin, but he and others rebuilt the community.

And it was at this time that the founder decided to give up his wide selection of merchandise and specialize in printing supplies and printing.

Bowne became typical of the 18th Century New York businessman. Successful with his printing business, he turned his efforts to philanthropy, and helped organize a free school and the New York Hospital.

He also helped organize the city's first bank—the Bank of New York. The first checks issued bear the imprint of Bowne and Co., printers to the financial community.

When Bowne died in 1818, he and the company he had founded had become an integral part of New York and the young nation. As his sons and their sons took over, its history paralleled that of Wall Street and the nation.

Lt. D. C. Stowell Due Alaska Duty For Christmas

DYESS AIR FORCE BASE, Tex. — Lt. D. C. Stowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stowell, 815 North Russell, will be performing temporary duty at Eielson AFB, Alaska, on Christmas Day with the 96th Bomb Wing Alert Force. Lt. Stowell is assigned to the 338th Bomb Squadron, 96th Bombardment Wing, here. The alert force is part of the deterrent force maintained by the Strategic Air Command 365 days a year, 24 hours a day, so that all Americans may be insured a Merry Christmas.

Lt. Stowell entered the Armed Forces in 1957 and received his pilot rating at Webb Air Force Base, in 1958. Lt. Stowell has served with the 338th Bomb Squadron here since July 1959.

Dyess Air Force Base, at Abilene, is the home of the 819th Air Division, which includes the 96th Bombardment Wing and the 341st Bombardment Wing. B-47 Medium Jet Bombers and C-124 Globemaster cargo planes perform the mission as a part of the Strategic Air Command. The base was activated in September 1955 and is one of the newest and most modern installations in the United States.

A graduate of Pampa High School and Texas Technological College, Lubbock, in 1956, Lt. Stowell presently resides at 2403 Russell, Abilene.

Pvt. J. W. Carter In Special Alert At Fort Campbell

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Army Pvt. James W. Carter, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler G. Carter of McLean, participated with other personnel from the 101st Airborne Division's 506th Infantry in a special STRAC (Strategic Army Command) alert here which ended Dec. 16.

As part of its STRAC mission, the 101st maintains one company in constant combat readiness, capable of immediate airborne deployment to any area of the world. A second company can be ready in two hours, and a reinforced battle group can be airborne within six hours following an alert.

While on alert, the company must remain in its area with combat gear packed and vehicles loaded in anticipation of immediate departure.

Carter entered the Army last June, completed basic training at Fort Ord, Calif., and is a rifleman in the infantry's Company B.

He is a 1960 graduate of McLean High School.

White Deer Youth Ends P-O School

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (FHTNC)—Dallas G. Sargent, apprentice petty officer second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lugusta Sargent of White Deer, recently graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center here.

Apprentice petty officers are chosen from the ranks of the seaman recruits to assist company commanders. The selection is based on individual aptitude and leadership qualities.

Beginner's Bridge Class Scheduled By Perryton 'Y'

CI INS 1-18 BOGGINERS PERRYTON (SpI) — A beginner's bridge class is scheduled to begin in January at the Perryton YMCA. The classes will meet one night a week and continue through February.

The class will be limited to about 20 students and a competent instructor will be in charge. "Y" members wishing to register for the course may do so by calling the YMCA office.

On New Year's Day, 1818, the White House was thrown open for the first time since the War of 1812 for a public reception. The Marine Band played for the occasion.

In World War I there were approximately 250 "Marinettes" or Women Marines.

MAN, THIS IS LIVIN' — Young Matthew Flinchum, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Flinchum, Route 2, Pampa, appears quite happy to be at the bottom of the pile this time, and well he should be, for his Mom and Pop were making last minute purchases for his Christmas when the picture was snapped in a local store.

4 Daring Seamen Join Lone Man Aboard Stern Of Broken Tanker

UAL Plane Said Far Off Course

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Investigators have evidence that the United Air Lines DC8 in the New York City air disaster was nearly 13 miles away from where its instruments showed it was just before the collision.

United Press International learned this today from a study of the transcript of radio communications between traffic controllers and the jetliner before it collided with a TWA Constellation last Friday in history's worst air tragedy.

The conclusion was confirmed by pilots and a veteran air traffic controller who also examined the communications record. They asked that their names not be used.

The transcript shows: —The United plane never reached the Preston radio check point in New Jersey where it was supposed to enter a holding pattern until cleared to land at Idlewild Airport.

—At the very moment the United pilot reported he was approaching Preston, unknown to him, the DC8 actually must have been north of that check point and already roaring through a snowstorm into the LaGuardia Airport approach area on a collision course with the Constellation.

—The jetliner captain apparently still was waiting for the Preston radio signal to show up on his instruments when he hit the TWA plane, killing all 128 persons on the two planes and seven persons on the ground.

Why was the United pilot apparently so far off course without realizing it? This is what a Civil Aeronautics Board investigation opening Jan. 4 must determine.

Captain Believed Lost But Search Continues

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Four daring seamen used a small boat bobbing on eight-foot seas today to board the drifting stern section of the broken tanker Pine Ridge and join the lone crewman who stayed with the hulk.

The crewmen from the ocean-going tug Curb immediately began helping John Richart of Wilmington, Del., the tanker crewman who stayed behind, prepare to take aboard a tow line for the slow haul back to port.

The crewmen from the ocean-going tug Curb immediately began helping John Richart of Wilmington, Del., the tanker crewman who stayed behind, prepare to take aboard a tow line for the slow haul back to port.

The 503-foot tanker broke in two under the pounding of stormy seas Wednesday. Twenty-nine crewmen who had the good fortune to be in the stern section at the time lived because the stern stayed upright and remained seaworthy. But seven others, including Capt. Clark Snyder, 44, apparently drowned aboard the bow section which capsized and nearly completely submerged.

The skipper of the Curb radioed at mid-morning that "there's still a breeze and a lot of swell but I don't expect any more trouble than is usual in this sort of operation."

The Coast Guard reported that seas in the area, about 125 miles east of Cape Hatteras, were running with waves as high as eight feet, making the task of boarding the high-riding stern section from the bobbing boat an extremely hazardous one.

Coast Guard, Navy and merchant vessels continued to search through the night for a sign of the eight missing men and planes were ordered up at dawn, but chances of finding any of them were slim.

The third sea tragedy of his career apparently was the last for Capt. Snyder. He had two ships torpedoed from under him during World War II.

The ferocity of the storm kept rescue vessels from removing any of the 29 men from the ship's rolling stern section until after 24 hours after the Pine Ridge broke up.

Navy helicopters from the carrier Valley Forge went up at dawn Thursday and began plucking the men off one by one in a hazardous operation that one witness described as "terrifying."

The helicopter pilots, hovering about 30 feet above the bobbing stern, lowered rescue harnesses to crewmen who crowded together at the fantail. There were no casualties during this operation, but seaman Paul Guetzow of Chicago, a crew member of the destroyer escort USS Eaton, was swept overboard and drowned while the Eaton was steaming to the disaster scene Wednesday.

Richart's decision to stay aboard, reminiscent of the 13-day ordeal of Capt. Kurt Carlsen of the Flying Enterprise just nine years ago this month, surprised even his wife.

Drivers Told Road Patrol To Be Alert

"Operation Deathwatch," a concentrated program by the Texas Department of Public Safety to curtail death and injury-causing accidents over the Christmas, New Year holidays went into effect at 12:01 a.m. today.

Sgt. E. G. Albers Jr., of Area Two—which includes Pampa—of the Amarillo district, reminded drivers today that all speeding offenders would be given citations.

Members of the motor vehicle inspection office, license and weight division and safety education service have been temporarily assigned to the Highway Patrol in an effort to keep the accident rate down.

Projected figures call for 90 traffic deaths in Texas alone during the nine-day holiday period, but Albers notes that since 1955, traffic deaths in Texas during the Christmas holidays have been less than expected.

In last year's fatal Christmas death tally, all but one of the accidents were caused by violations of one or more traffic laws, with speeding causing 54 per cent and drinking while driving causing 32 per cent of the accidents.

Albers concludes with three safety "rules of the road" for holiday travelers: (1) Allow ample time for your trip; (2) Stop occasionally for rest breaks; (3) Report unsafe acts by other drivers.

Another simple act which could prevent accidents, according to Albers, would be to keep the front lights on during the daytime to serve as a break to the "road hypnosis" that sometimes overcomes drivers during long trips.

"Operation Deathwatch" will officially end at 11:59 p.m., Jan. 1, 1961.

Junior Red Cross Men In Hospital

Pampa's Junior Red Cross is bringing holiday cheer to the service men in the Amarillo Air Force hospital.

The 9th grade art class of Robert E. Lee Junior High School, sponsored by Mrs. Eugene Olds, made 35 mobile ornaments, Horace Mann elementary school supplied 50 favors and tray decorations for New Year's Day at the hospital.

This project was sponsored by Mrs. John S. Hatcher, Stephen Austin elementary school contributed Christmas favors for the patients and the Red Cross provided some sacks of gifts for men in the wards.

The High School Junior Red Cross will provide table arrangements for all of the contributions were taken to Amarillo yesterday by Mrs. Hank Shotwell, Red Cross executive secretary, who was accompanied by Mrs. Donald Gray on the trip to the hospital.

Pvt. Teddy L. Allam Killed In Auto Crash

A 19-year-old native Pampa youth, who arrived home only yesterday morning on leave from the Army, was killed at 9:25 p.m. yesterday when his car went out of control near the city and overturned.

Killed instantly was Teddy Leon Allam, 833 N. Frederick, son of L. L. Allam Jr., of Pampa and Mrs. Laverne Frink of Pampa, Fla., and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Allam of Pampa.

Another youth in the car, Terry Buske, 19, of 919 Love, was slightly injured in the accident. He was admitted to the hospital with minor cuts and bruises, was treated and released.

Vernon Cawthon, Texas Highway patrolman who investigated the accident, said Allam's car apparently went out of control as he tried to negotiate a curve on Highway 60 100 feet west of the Pampa city limits. Allam was heading west at the time.

Allam had arrived home yesterday morning on leave from Fort Campbell, Ky., where he was stationed as a private first class.

He joined the Army in May, 1959, after attending Pampa public schools. While a resident of Pampa, he resided with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Allam.

Allam was born Nov. 10, 1941 in Pampa. Funeral services have been set for 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Duenkel-Carmichael Chapel with the Rev. David Mills, pastor of Lamar Christian Church, officiating. Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Military honors and pallbearers will be provided by Amarillo Air Force Base. Survivors include the father, mother, one sister, Lynn Allam of Pampa; the grandparents; a step-mother, Mrs. L. L. Allam Jr.; and two aunts, Mrs. Anna Bogue and Mrs. H. K. Keith, both of Pampa.

Ike-Created Post Retained By Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy has decided to retain the Eisenhower-created post of secretary to the cabinet and soon will name a young California political whiz to the job, informed sources said today.

They said the post would be given to 37-year-old Frederick G. Dutton, a member of the Kennedy campaign team.

Dutton was executive secretary to California Gov. Edmund G. Brown until he resigned last summer to come to Washington to work with the Citizens-for-Kennedy Committee.

Dutton managed Brown's successful campaign for governor in 1958. In 1956 he was Southern California chairman of the Stevenson-Kefauver presidential campaign.

The post so far has been held by only two men, Maxwell M. Rabb and the present secretary, Robert K. Gray.

Dallas Man Is A Real Santa Claus

DALLAS (UPI) — Christmas means many things to many people, but to Kenzie Ritchel of Dallas Christmas means the happy shine on a child's face when he finds that Santa Claus didn't forget him this year.

Kenzie, 44, is a Santa Claus. Not a store Santa Claus, who talks to children to find out what they want for Christmas this year and have they been good and such.

He tours the outlying areas of Dallas, seeing needy youngsters, and personally buying gifts for them at his own expense.

HERE'S A WINNER — "Twas the Night Before Christmas," won first place in District Seven for Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Gage, 2241 Mary Ellen, during the judging of Christmas home decorations last night by members of the Pampa Garden Club and the Top O' Texas Rose Club. This was one of the eight winners selected in the contest that was jointly sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Pampa Garden Club. (Daily News Photos)

Meaning Of Brotherhood Defined By Religious Group's President

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brotherhood is a word that comes to mind at Christmas.

"But it isn't a soft idea. It is a hard thing, a revolutionary thing," according to Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews (NCCJ), to whom brotherhood is a daily, and lifelong process of education.

"We feel quite strongly that the brotherhood of man is a moral imperative which compels us to treat other people with dignity," Jones said in an interview. The moral position is common to all religious traditions, and Moslems and Buddhists, as well as Christians and Jews, are active in NCCJ.

"We are mainly concerned with public affairs, really," Jones said. "We believe that religious motivation has great power. It should increasingly provide motivation for a sound political state."

But "catastrophe is very close. I think, every minute," Jones said.

peoples strive for freedom and equality, the race is increasingly "between education and catastrophe," Jones said.

"Very few people have belonged to the free world—even in the United States," he said. "They are becoming more conscious of their opportunities. There is more and more agitation. This is progress—if you can contain it."

Doris E. Wilson

Pampa News Women's Editor

There are Christmas stories that must be told before the day has come and gone. And since our "Peg of Pampa" is taking a deserved weekend lulling around her Christmas tree at home, we'll fill in for her with a few of these stories that "must be told."

ONE OF THE most heart-warming stories we've heard this week was that Elmer Fite danced at a Christmas Party given by the Birthday Club of which his wife, Lorna is a member. The club, which meets throughout the year to celebrate the birthdays of its 25-member-limit, entertained with a Christmas dinner dance on Wednesday evening in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn, and invited their husbands as guests.

Everyone who knows Elmer, (and who in this town doesn't?), knows of his and his wife's valiant course during those dark days, when Elmer learned that it would be necessary to have portions of both legs amputated.

The jumpy crowd to this story is that Elmer danced at the party given Wednesday evening, not only with his wife, but with daughter, Marilyn, who arrived home for the holidays from her studies at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, joined her parents at the party in time for a dance with her dad, too!

COME WITH ME FOR A MINUTE into the home of the Clyde Vanderbergs, who really went "western" with their Christmas decorations this year. The result is one of the most charming and uniquely-clever arrangements we have seen. Van persuaded Clyde to part with a pair of his old, pointed-toe, high-heeled western boots, which were about to be discarded anyway. She had them painted a Christmas Red with white and gold trim and they wound up as part of a charming coffee-table and door decoration.

As you approach the door, one of the red, white, and gold-trimmed boots is the focal point of an arrangement encircled with a golden tinsel entwined with tiny, twinkling lights and Christmas ornaments. The door decorations is only a gay preparation for the interior arrangements. After you are comfortably seated and are sipping a cup of Christmas Cheer, your eyes stray to the coffee table, where you will find the other boot, red, white and gold, encircled with Christmas ornaments and filled with red and white poinsettia blossoms; the toe is pointed towards a red, cast-iron skillet, which, holds floating, festive lights.

The fireplace mantle decorations further carry out the western theme with an old-fashioned Kerens lantern, sprayed a Merry Red, nestled in boughs of white flocked branches. A line of red, crystal votive cups line the mantle from the lantern to the other end, where an old-fashioned coffee-pot and a large red skillet are arranged with pine cones and flocked branches. It's merry and western at the Vanderbergs this year!!!

AND JUST ACROSS THE STREET on Charles at the Bob Curry residence, Alleith has again topped herself with a beautiful Christmas door, which has taken a first place in the home-decorating contests for the past two years. And it seems each year, she adds a touch of this or that to make it truly distinctive and a bit more beautiful, if possible.

WE KNOW that there are many thoughtful and heart-warming gestures extended at this time of year. One, we would like to particularly call attention to, is that of the piano students of Fidelia Yoder who entertained her two groups of piano students with Christmas parties in her home. The students brought gifts for exchange, but they didn't keep them. They passed ed them on to less-privileged youngsters.

A PERSONAL NOTE ABOUT our Christmas concerns the tape recording we received from our bachelor brother, Leon Wayland, who lives in El Reno, Okla. He taped a Christmas message with a background of hi-fidelity Christmas carols in which he recalled his boyhood Christmases about which I knew little since his arrival to our family preceded mine by several years. Thoughts I'd like to share with you were: he disdained the giving of gifts just because it is Christmas; and recommended that one way to have a pleasant Christmas was to recall other pleasant Christmases that you have had throughout your life. He also posed this question: "What if there were no Christmas? No recorded story of the birth of Jesus? No two weeks out of each year, when everyone went around smiling and warmly greeting their fellowman?" How dismal that would be!

CHRISTMAS CAME TO the Pampa Daily News on Monday in the form of white-robed, blue satin-collared choir members from Baker School. Activity in the advertising and editorial departments and in the business office came to a brief standstill as choir members joined the choir of Mrs. Flaudie Gallman, Baker School music director, and members of the Fourth Estate with nostalgic Christmas carols. It isn't fair to single out any one choir member for praise, for they all gave an excellent performance. But there was one little cherub on the front row that sang with so much feeling and pleasure that it made you want to sing too!

A SORT OF VAGABOND CHRISTMAS is being enjoyed, we are sure, by the George B. Cree family and their guest, John Fite. They left the latter part of this week with no planned route, but headed into sort of the southwest part of the United States. The only thing definite about the yule jaunt, when we talked with Fanny Cree at the Country Club on Tuesday evening, was that she had been challenged by George Jr. and John to some Canasta games: They will be back just before school reconvenes on January 3. Santa will probably need his radar equipment to catch up with them on Christmas Eve.

WISH WE HAD THOUGHT OF IT FIRST: the thoughtful remark Nadine Hendrix said in presenting a gift to Edna Prescott out at Bobette Beauty Shop on Wednesday. "This little remembrance contains more 'thanks' than gift." OUR NEWS OFFICE AND SHOP held its office party and gift exchange on Thursday afternoon. To solve the problem of finding a suitable Santa, employees conducted a hotly-contested election to name an office Santa. This election differed somewhat from the national election in that the two favorite candidates, Art Mayhew, sports editor and Homer Deck, advertising exec. were campaigning for EACH OTHER.

Following a vote-count by Tex DeWeese, managing editor, the tightly-sealed ballot box revealed a landslide victory for Art, who later dutifully dispensed gifts with a minimum of hot hot hot and was heard to remark after the party was over. "This old Santa was snowed!"

P.S. No, we really don't think he will be available for private parties!!!

MERRY CHRISTMAS!!!

Miss Babcock Bride Of Stocky Lamberson

Miss Aimee Babcock became the bride of Stocky Lamberson with wedding vows repeated on December 18 at two o'clock in the First Methodist Church in Groom with the Rev. J. B. Stewart as officiant for the double-ring service.

Miss Babcock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Babcock of Groom. Mr. Lamberson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lamberson, also of Groom.

Mrs. John Dwyer, organist, provided a selection of pre-nuptial airs and served as accompanist for Miss Lorna Cornett as she sang "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride was gowned in white Chantilly lace and tulle fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, edged with pearls, and long, tapered sleeves which ended in bridal points over the hands. The floor-length bouffant skirt of lace and tulle tiers, featured pearl and sequins accent with a taffeta bustle, which cascaded into a chapel sweep. Her Half Crown of lace with rhinestone and pearl trim held secure, a fingertip Veil of Imported tulle.

She carried a Bible arrangement of red and white rosebuds encircling a white orchid. One white rose was taken from the bouquet for the bridegroom's boutonniere.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Nadine Thornton attended as matron of honor and Miss Janice Babcock, bride's sister, served as bridesmaid. They were dressed identically in red velvet sheaths and carried white velvet muffs with pearl trim accented with one red rose. Steve Garmon was best man. Ushers were Alan and Bobby Babcock, brothers of the bride. Misses Tonie and Terrie Bagwell were flower girls and Joe Babcock as ring-bearer. Lighting the altar candles were Yvonne Babcock and Larry Lamberson, bridegroom's brother.

Vows were repeated in a setting of white gladioli with seven-branched, pyramid candelabra holding white tapers lighting the wedding scene.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Babcock wore a red wool dress with red and white accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Lamberson chose a beige brocade dress with bronze accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with white net over floor-length white taffeta and was appointed with crystal and silver. The tiered cake was decorated with red rosebuds and topped with a miniature bridal couple, which was the same cake ornament used at the bride's parents' wedding.

Misses Emma Holland and Ann Kendrick presided at the punch and cake service. Mrs. T. J. Koonz, sister of the bride, was wedding guest registrar.

For a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the bride traveled in a blue wool dress with black accessories complemented with a mink and velvet hat. She wore the orchid corsage from the center of her bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Lamerson attended Draughon's Business College in Amarillo. Mr. Lamberson is a student at Panhandle A&M College in Goodwell, Okla., where they will make their home.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a man with whom I have gone for two years. We aren't kids. I am 28 and he is 36. (This will be the second marriage for both of us.)

We like the same things and he is very easy to get along with. One thing worries me. He loves to eat and I have never learned how to cook. (I am a dental hygienist.)

I think I should enroll in a night cooking class, but my friends say that I am placing too-much importance on cooking — for a modern woman. Just how important is cooking to a marriage? We both intend to work.

NO COOK

DEAR NO COOK: It is very important — especially if the man "loves to eat." Better find out how he likes his goose lest you cook it at the altar.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who bought a paddle to use on her kids whenever they say "ya" instead of "yes." She said she's used it so many times the paddle has already paid for itself. You can hear kids crying over there all day. I personally don't believe in hitting kids with anything except the bare open hand. I would like your ideas on the subject.

A NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: I don't approve of hitting children, period. Evidently your neighbor's method of teaching her children to say "yes" instead of "ya" has not been successful. If it were, she wouldn't find it necessary to paddle a child a hundred times for saying "ya." No?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who is 18, has a disturbing fault. She talks so loud at times I could run away from her. When I tell her to quit yelling, she gets mad at me. She is very pretty and usually good-natured. She talks so loud when we go shopping together that the clerks look at her in amazement. She yells when she is talking to someone two feet away from her. Neighbors have told me that they can hear every word she says when we are home. Is there any hope for her?

BROKEN EARDRUMS

DEAR BROKEN: Have you ever considered having your daughter's hearing tested? Many people are unaware of their shouting because they are hard of hearing. If this is not the case, make up a silent signal (like touching your ear, inconspicuously) to remind her in the presence of others to "soften" her voice. Children will respond to this type of "reminder" while a public reprimand only humiliates them.

For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Who pays for what? For Abby's pamphlet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Floor Care Tip

If you've moved furniture and left dark streaks on the hardwood floors, the streaks can be removed with a soapy cloth dipped in kerosene.

Shut-Ins Serenaded By Girls' Class

LEFORS (Sp) — Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts were hosts for a Christmas Party with fourth and sixth grade girls from the Church of Christ on Monday evening in the home of the minister.

Following a game period, the group went caroling to the homes of shut-ins in the community. Attending were Kathy Gatlin, Susie and Darlene Martin, Jackie Nichel, Sheila Collins, Bennie White, Peggy Tod and Mrs. J. B. Martin.

Touch-up Tip
Cotton swabs dipped in paint make handy tools for touching up small spots on walls or baseboards. They can be thrown away after use.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

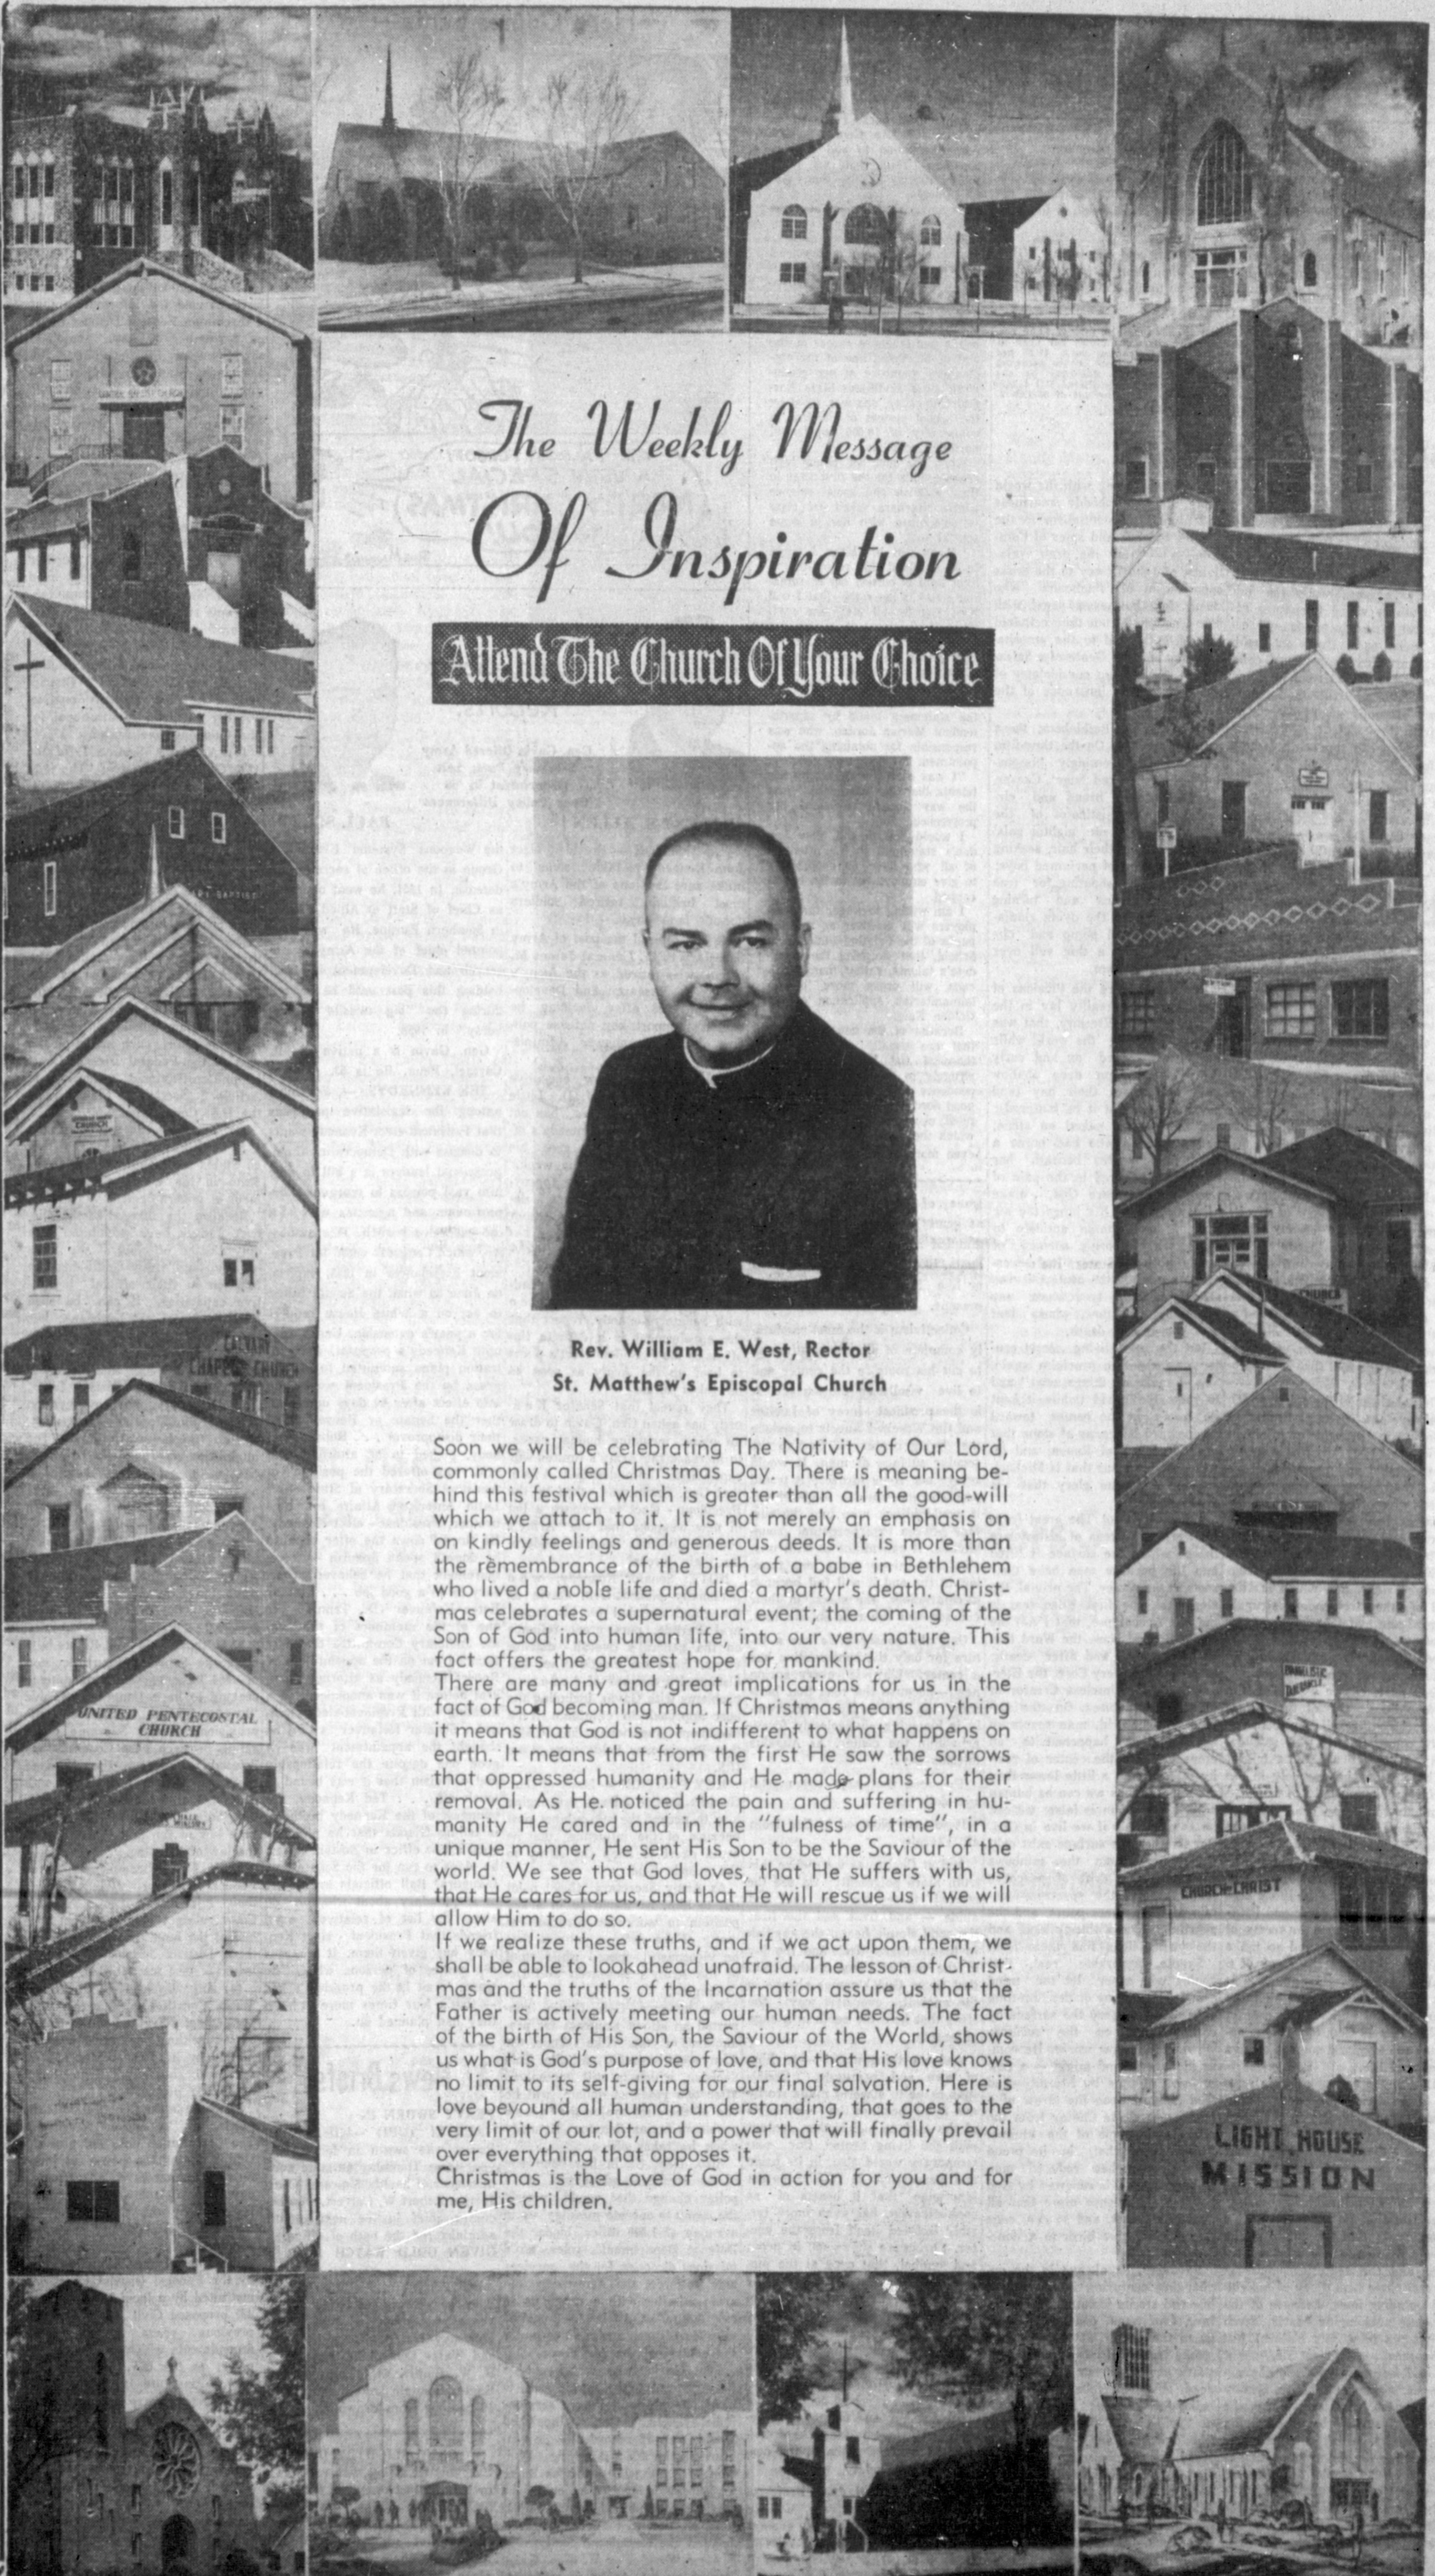

Rev. William E. West, Rector
St. Matthew's Episcopal Church

Soon we will be celebrating The Nativity of Our Lord, commonly called Christmas Day. There is meaning behind this festival which is greater than all the good-will which we attach to it. It is not merely an emphasis on kindly feelings and generous deeds. It is more than the remembrance of the birth of a babe in Bethlehem who lived a noble life and died a martyr's death. Christmas celebrates a supernatural event; the coming of the Son of God into human life, into our very nature. This fact offers the greatest hope for mankind.

There are many and great implications for us in the fact of God becoming man. If Christmas means anything it means that God is not indifferent to what happens on earth. It means that from the first He saw the sorrows that oppressed humanity and He made plans for their removal. As He noticed the pain and suffering in humanity He cared and in the "fulness of time", in a unique manner, He sent His Son to be the Saviour of the world. We see that God loves, that He suffers with us, that He cares for us, and that He will rescue us if we will allow Him to do so.

If we realize these truths, and if we act upon them, we shall be able to look ahead unafraid. The lesson of Christmas and the truths of the Incarnation assure us that the Father is actively meeting our human needs. The fact of the birth of His Son, the Saviour of the World, shows us what is God's purpose of love, and that His love knows no limit to its self-giving for our final salvation. Here is love beyond all human understanding, that goes to the very limit of our lot, and a power that will finally prevail over everything that opposes it. Christmas is the Love of God in action for you and for me, His children.

Adeste Fideles

Around the sun, as around the hub of fire, the planets revolve like a dark wheel. Even so, around the center which is God, the worlds and the creatures revolve like the many spokes of the wheel which is the universe. This is the fact and truth which Christmas recalls our straying minds and errant souls, as it shows us again a manger where a newborn child becomes the hub of time, dividing history into a Before and After. Thus Christmas each year turns us from the surface which men call "living" to the center which is life.

That is the reason why Christmas — or rather men's judgment of Christmas — is the most drastic of questions. Do we smile at Christmas, indulgently or scornfully, as at a sunlit gleam of illusion upon the surface of a soap-bubble? Or do we see Christmas as the Seed of Eternity become the center of time? In the choice of simple profound alternatives, we enlist in either one of two opposite uncompromising armies of the spirit; and our choice determines all lesser things — from the politics of time to the politics of Eternity, from the bread we eat to the stars we follow.

On one side of that choice lies the gas ovens of Dachau and the "corrective" labor camps of Siberia, on the other, the music of Johann Sebastian Bach and the cathedral of Chartres. On one side lies the cracking nihilism of Paul Sartre; on the other the glory of G. K. Chesterton's "Ballad of the White Horse." One choice leads to the thin humanism of Bernard Shaw; the other to the rich humanity of Charles Dickens. On one side lies the restless flicker of successive frustrations and futilities called Picasso; on the other, the noble pilgrimage of the soul that is El Greco.

Thus the war of the spirit, which is always the essential drama of history, is brought to crisis in Christmas. For Christmas is the great symbol and poem which affirms that life is a time-surface that is given timeless meaning because it has a center that is eternal.

The one essential war that underlies all significant but fragmentary wars, and which is the soul of the tremendous struggle of good and evil that fractures our whole world today, is the war between those who see life only as a surface and those who see life rather as a center by which the surface lives. Out of that metaphysical conflict all physical conflicts come. Out of that spiritual fact all "practical" facts follow.

Those who believe only in the surface seek naturally to size and dominate the time-film, so they set all our goals and satisfactions upon its transient flicker (soon they believe, to wink out into a scanty residue of sour suds); but those who believe in the living center, reverence and serve and PRE-SERVE the surface in terms of meaning and value, and so make even the time-film the stage of a drama of life everlasting. This is the truth which Christmas turns into outward and visible reality, as it shows us God, the center, entering the temporal surface to give it eternal life.

All that is wrong with the world today, from the shoddy smartness and night of Existentialism to the shabby violence and spies of Communism — from the drab relativism of John Dewey to the crass opportunism of financiers who shout for business-as-usual with Mao Tse-tung — from the celluloid soul of Hollywood to the amoebo-grouping of "The Death of a Salesman" — comes from our idolatry of the surface, our ignorance of the center.

It was so in Bethlehem, those many years ago. On the time-film of the world, seemingly "important" things bulked huge: Caesar, the legions, the bread and circuses: the sophisticates of the world, feeding on nightingale's tongues, curling their hair, seeking the perversities of perfumed boys: the commoners shouting for free grain from Africa and turning thumbs down on the dying gladiator, the outward pomp and circumstance like a thin veil over the inward nihilism.

But these were the illusions of the time-film: reality lay in the center which is Eternity, that was quietly invading the world while the brown-eyed ox and curly sheep stared from deep shallow eyes, munching their hay (and never asking that it be buttered); and fire leaped naked on stone; and a mother who had borne a child nine months beneath her heart now rejoiced in the pain of travail; and where God, made man, drew into His lungs the air that is our human antidote to death. The imposing surface of man's works and ways had severed its roots into the center; it was already a dying tree whose sap had ceased to flow, whose leaf was hectic with death.

But the quiet, living, secret center was about to proclaim again, "Lo, I make all things new!" and to raise the world (while it kept its roots in the center toward the upward Niagara of stone that are Chartres and Rouen, and toward the grandeur that is Michaelangelo and the glory that is Shakespeare.

Always it is so! The great fruitful, creative areas of history are those where the surface is lifted into life because men have their roots in the center. The primal, elemental, first Eden that is the last Apocalypse, that I AM the God's Eternal Now, the Word that IS before birth and after death; these are the Fiery Core, the Eternal Seed, the timeless Creator of all time's creatures. On the surface of the world, man seems an accident that happened to an amoeba; from the center of reality man is only a little lower than the angels. Thus we can be human only if humanism is false; we can be as gods only if we live in God. Our lives on the surface exist only in Him.

God from whom the rainbows stream like a drift of peacocks feathers, and the spectrum-fountain of the flowers pours, and the rain falls upon a thirsty land, and the young lions find their food. Simple, inexorable, real, that center will never let the mind proud perversities of the film-time ever quite destroy the surface by concentrating on the surface: when things grow worse, He comes in miracle and might — a new invasion of time-by Eternity — and God is born upon the straw of a manger to shake Caesar from the pomp and purple of the throne. "Civilization" that, in its proud sophistication, has reduced man to barren dust, is renewed by God till it realizes once more that all dust is stardust, and so can, once more, itself give birth to a dancing star.

So today, as always in the unchanging centuries, into our shallow and sterile idolatry on the surface, Christmas comes to restore us to the center. It comes like a strong free wind into a mortician's stuffy parlor. In our parlor of the dead, the undertaker's who are called "artists," or "philosophers," or "politicians," have laid out our like corpses and stiffened our blood with embalming fluid. But God invades His world again — and we dead awaken. Into the time-film — the sophistication, the manners and techniques, the many inventions, "the straw — men, the hollow men, leaning together" — comes the earthquake and tidal

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Some time back, I passed on to you the late Gene Fowler's recommendation to add the admonition "Thou shalt not quit" to the already existing Ten Commandments.

As an inspiring example of the newly suggested "eleventh commandment," C. Raymond Long of the Elgin, Ill., Daily Courier-News has thoughtfully sent me the following intelligence from Palatine, Ill.

Miss Barbara Winters, who has been blind since birth, has just begun her teaching career at the age of 23. Voted one of the outstanding members of her graduating class at Illinois State Normal University, she was hired by the school system of Palatine, a community of 10,000 population, northeast of Elgin.

When she met her junior high school pupils for the first time in their English and social science course, Barbara asked her class to co-operate with her in some special ways.

"There will be things I ought to know about this room — that a light bulb is burned out or something else is not right — that I will need you to tell me," she said.

"And if you want to attract my attention to answer or ask a question, please call my name instead of raising your hands."

What pleased her almost as much as her achievement was the statement made by superintendent Marian Jordan, who was responsible for obtaining the appointment for the young teacher.

"I was more impressed by her talents than her handicaps," was the way Jordan explained her preference.

I would like to call Miss Jordan's statement to the attention of all who have an opportunity to give employment to the handicapped.

I am willing to wager that employers will discover as will the pupils of the Palatine Junior High School, that weighing the candidate's talents, rather than handicaps, will prove more than a humanitarian application of the Golden Rule.

Because of the unusual efforts that are usually expended by those of the handicapped who struggle to maintain their independence and self respect, the good deed of giving them employment usually proves one from which the donor stands to profit even more than the recipient.

wave of God. . . yet they come as gently as the dew falls or the dimpled rose opens. And we live again, like Lazarus from the tomb or like Saul on the road of Damascus.

Collectivism is the most resolutely complete of all man's attempts to cut his roots to the center and to live wholly on the surface. It is the proudest foray of Lucifer and the Wrecked Angels to reduce the living center of God to the secular surface of man. It would sever our roots forever; it would proclaim the man a soap-bubble; it would hijack man into the surface heaven to a perpetual soap-kitchen. It can afflict us with mischief and misery for a long time, but in the end it will fail because it contradicts the stars in their courses and the rose in the root.

NOTE: Senator Kennedy, who personally picked Gen. Gavin as the grand marshal for his Inaugural Parade, puts great reliance on the general's overall defense views. Since the election, he has discussed a number of defense problems with Gavin, including the two-to-one superiority in ICBMs that Russia now holds over the U.S.

KEY POSITION — Many of Gen. Gavin's service friends are urging him to accept the sub-cabinet post because of the influence that he could exert to keep the Army in the missile field.

As Army Secretary, they point to him, he would be in a key position to work for reversal of many of the defense policies that he vigorously opposed while chief of the Army's Research and Development.

Here Comes Santa—

WASHINGTON — President-elect John Kennedy is taking steps to make sure that one of the Army's most brilliant retired soldiers doesn't fade away.

He has offered the post of Army Secretary to Lt. General James M. Gavin, who retired as the Army's Chief of Research and Development in 1958 after deciding he couldn't support key defense policies of the Eisenhower Administration.

General Gavin, now executive vice president of the J. D. Little Co., of Cambridge, Mass., has not yet accepted Senator Kennedy's offer, but is expected to give his answer by the end of the week.

The appointment has the approval of Robert S. McNamara, defense secretary designate, whom the President — elect consulted before making his offer to Gen. Gavin.

Democratic congressional leaders, who discussed the choice with Senator Kennedy, report that the appointment is a definite tip-off as to the President-elect's plans to beef up the Army as soon as he takes office.

They reveal that Senator Kennedy has asked Gen. Gavin to draw up plans, including budget needs, to increase the Army's limited-war capabilities immediately. Also, that Gen. Gavin was asked by the President — elect to prepare a list of new weapons that the Army's combat divisions need to modernize their forces.

NOTE: Senator Kennedy, who personally picked Gen. Gavin as the grand marshal for his Inaugural Parade, puts great reliance on the general's overall defense views. Since the election, he has discussed a number of defense problems with Gavin, including the two-to-one superiority in ICBMs that Russia now holds over the U.S.

KEY POSITION — Many of Gen. Gavin's service friends are urging him to accept the sub-cabinet post because of the influence that he could exert to keep the Army in the missile field.

As Army Secretary, they point to him, he would be in a key position to work for reversal of many of the defense policies that he vigorously opposed while chief of the Army's Research and Development.

For instance, Gen. Gavin supported an all-out program for production of the Nike-Zeus, the Army's anti-missile missile. This decision, which is still unresolved after two years of debate, will be one of the first major defense problems facing Senator Kennedy when he takes office.

Also, Gen. Gavin has been one of the strongest advocates of a policy change that would permit the Army to operate missiles up to a range of 1,000 miles. Under the Defense Department's roles and missions directive for the services now in force, the Army can operate missiles with a range up to only 500 miles. All land-launched missiles of longer range are under the control of the Air Force.

ARE ACTIONS OF FEDERAL DISTRICT COURT IN NEW ORLEANS UN-CONSTITUTIONAL?

News dispatches covering the Louisiana school integration crisis have carried the information that a three-man Federal District Court on November 30, 1960, enjoined the Governor of Louisiana, the Louisiana State Legislature, and approximately 700 elected officials of the State of Louisiana, including Mayors, Sheriffs, District Attorneys, the Chief of the State Police, etc. The Federal District Court declared null and void all segregation laws passed by the Legislature of the State of Louisiana, and also declares the doctrine of Interposition null and void. Federal injunctions further prohibit all State employees and elected State officials from taking any steps which would "interfere" with the decrees of the three Federal District Judges.

It is my opinion that the action of the three Federal District Judges in New Orleans on November 30 is un-Constitutional for the following five reasons:

(1) Article 3, Section 1, of the U.S. Constitution states: "The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court . . ." Article 3, Section 2, Clause 2, states: "In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, AND THOSE IN WHICH A STATE SHALL BE PARTY, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. . ."

The injunction issued by the three Federal District Judges reads: "The United States of America vs. the State of Louisiana." Because this case was initiated by a Federal District Court instead of the U.S. Supreme Court, such action on the part of the Federal District Court is un-Constitutional according to Article 3, Section 2, Clause 2, of the U.S. Constitution.

(2) Article 4, Section 4, of the U.S. Constitution states: "The United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government." Because the three Federal District Judges have prohibited the duly elected officials of the State of Louisiana from continuing to function in their official legislative capacities, it can be seen that the State of Louisiana has now been denied a republican form of government, and has, instead, been placed under the complete control of a Federal District Court.

(3) The May, 1954, intergration ruling of the Supreme Court is not, as yet, "the law of the land." The integration decree was based in part on the sociological theories of a Swedish Socialist by the name of Myrdal, and in part on the 14th Amendment.

Section 5 of the 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution states: "The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article." Even though all Civil Rights bills since the Supreme Court decision of 1954 have carried amendments seeking to have Congress approve "by appropriate legislation" the provisions of this Supreme Court ruling, in each case Congress has refused to approve the Supreme Court decree in accordance with Section 5 of the 14th Amendment, the integration decree is not yet "the law of the land," but is only the law of the case.

Again I say, because the three Federal District Judges based their injunction suit on a Supreme Court ruling which is not yet "the law of the land" the action by the three District Judges in New Orleans is un-Constitutional.

(4) Amendment 10 of the United States Constitution states: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the States are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Nowhere in the Constitution is the matter of "education" discussed. The Constitution does not give the United States the power to interfere with or control education in any way whatsoever. This right is reserved by the Constitution "to the States respectively, or to the people."

Henry Views Christmas With 'Jack Benny'

By HENRY McEMORE

ROME — I view Christmas with what might well be called a Jack Benny eye.

I don't care how much more Christmas spirit I give away than I receive, but I like to check up on the presents.

You'd have trouble finding anyone who gives away more Merry Christmases and Happy New Years than I do. I throw them around. I pass out smiles, grins and hearty "hellos" just as if they grew on bushes.

Few people, if any, give away more well wishes than I do.

And I am to be commended for this. Christmas is no good unless people like myself go about spreading good cheer right and left and left and right.

So, with all the cheeriness I spread, no one can fuss at me for being careful about what is mailed and what comes by the mail.

I lost 87 cents last Christmas. By that, I mean I got presents whose value were 87 cents less than the ones I sent out. A man can't afford that. The worst he should do is to break even. (My best Christmas, incidentally, was in 1944 when, due to my being in the South Pacific, I was unable to send a single gift, and everything I got was gravy.)

It looks as if I were going to spread a profit this year.

All our gifts were bought in Europe, and you'd be surprised at the bargains over here. I bought a skillet for Aunt Doda for 27 cents. The same skillet would have cost a dollar at home. And it has a "Made in France" label on it. That, to my way of reckoning, adds a collar to its value.

Maybe I'd better explain the way I figure costs when I buy presents in Europe. I take the cost of my round trip fare and divide it by the number of presents I buy over here. I couldn't have bought these bargains unless I were here, and to get here I had to spend some money.

That's fair, I know it is.

To the cost of the fare, I add the cost of sending it across the Atlantic. That adds up. So, when I send a present that costs me a dollar, I add the shipping charge and the percentage of the trans-Atlantic fare.

This enables me to send a mighty inexpensive present with a clear conscience.

I hope those who get presents considered to be in contempt of Congress.

John Donne, the noted English poet (1572-1631), wrote: "No man is an island . . . any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankind; And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; It tolls for thee."

If the sovereign power of the State of Louisiana can be destroyed by illegal, un-Constitutional acts of a three-man Federal District Court, the Constitutionally-guaranteed sovereignty of every single State in the Union is now in jeopardy.

from me appreciate the difficulties of mailing presents in a foreign land. It is tough at home, but tougher here.

The lines are long, the language is strange, and there are a mighty lot of forms to be filled with a mighty lot of information. I wonder why a country wants to know your grandmother's maiden name when you send a handkerchief to America. Or your last place of residence when you mail a jar of marmalade.

But getting the presents off is worth all the trouble.

It means you will get some in return, and what would Christmas be without presents? Terrible!

Looking Sideways

NEW YORK — The literary output from Seven Mile Ford, a crossing between Roanoke and Bristol in Virginia, although the latter city also impinges on Tennessee, is not a torrent and most of it — probably all of it — is issues from the typewriter of Miss Lucy Herndon Crockett, a lady of whom I am both fond and admiring. She does not write often, but when she does the result is first class, intelligent and colorful. She lives in an old and wondrously fascinating brick house at Seven Mile Ford, back of the ancient kitchen of which is a workroom and in that secluded haven she creates the books for adults and sometimes for children, the latter of which she also illustrates. Charming, I wish to add.

Miss Crockett is nettled at the moment because John Fitzgerald Kennedy has been elected to the presidency of the United States and she has the forlorn feeling that the people have elected a terribly young and not too able man to the most awesome and demanding job in the world. I cite this because she is also issuing black-bordered cards to be placed on the front doors of persons who feel as she does and which describe that house as in mourning because of the results of the election. Since this column steadfastly is non-political I make no commentary, which signifies neither that I disapprove or approve. If you want a card for your front door, write to Miss Crockett at Seven Mile Ford. If you don't want one and want to have your say, write her anyway. She had the cards made to hang on Inauguration Day.

None of which is the real spring-board for today. The spring-board for today is a slender and winning new book by her called "The Year Something Almost Happened In Pismo." Pismo she invents as a dry, desiccated, denuded village in Spain in which by fluke and circumstance a circus is abandoned. The townspeople, unwilling to see the helpless beasts starve, release them from their cages and find to their astonishment that not only do the animals live harmoniously and unferociously with the people but, somehow, food always is at hand for the creatures.

As a matter of fact, however, a monster python is the rubber ornament of the local saloon, a tiger becomes the pet of a peddler, the seals take over the town fountain and all alike, creatures and humans, are happy and joyful — until an astounded Madrid hears of these odd goings-on, sends a commission to investigate and creates turmoil and savagery with the stupidity of its decisions. . . .

Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the city, Every person was humming, a little yuletide ditty;

Way to the door he flew in a tizzy, Tore open the portal to see who was busy;

More rapid than rabbits his shots they came, Culley whistled and stomped and called them by name;

As games before the wild fast break fly, When met with a full press, moult to the sky;

Hanna was covered with smiles, from his head to his toe, But the cager looked down at Culley below;

The stump of a cigar Culley clenched in his teeth, And he gasped a long sigh of happy relief;

NORM VAN BROCKLIN ... 'Player of Year'

In NFL Pro Circles

Shaw, Van Brocklin Named 'Men of Year'

By NORMAN MILLER United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Buck Shaw and quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, who lead the Philadelphia Eagles Monday in quest of pro football's biggest prize, today were named the National Football League's men-of-the-year for 1960 by United Press International.

The white-haired, 61-year-old Shaw was voted the NFL Coach-of-the-Year and Van Brocklin was chosen Player-of-the-Year in a UPI poll of 39 writers who covered the 1960 campaign.

Coincidentally, both Shaw and Van Brocklin have announced they intend to wind up their respective coaching and playing careers with Monday's NFL championship game against the Green Bay Packers in Philadelphia.

Shaw and Van Brocklin joined the Eagles together in 1958 when the club was one of the doormats of the NFL. Within three years they guided the Eagles to the Eastern Division championship.

Shaw beat out Vince Lombardi of Green Bay, his rival in next Monday's title game, for coach-of-the-year honors, 23 votes to 14.

By MALCOLM ALLEN United Press International

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Navy Coach Wayne Hardin admitted today he may have an ace or two up his sleeve when his club clashes with Missouri in the Orange Bowl at Miami Jan. 2.

"We're not planning anything too new," Hardin said, "but we will have a few new wrinkles here and there. After all, we're expecting a tough ball game. Missouri looks very rough. It's a well-coached ball club and a good team."

Hardin, who led Navy to a 9-1 record this season that included a win over Army, said the Midwestern football squad went on Christmas leave Saturday. He said the players would report in Miami Christmas Day and two practice sessions daily were planned for Dec. 26 and 27.

"Then we'll see what we need from there," he added.

Hardin said the Navy lineup for the Orange Bowl would be the same starting eleven he used virtually all season — the big gun, of course, being quarterback Joe Bellino, everybody's choice for All-America and recipient of a host of other national honors.

As Knockouts Rain Optimists Trim Clovis Fighters

Other TKO's were recorded by Danny Hendry of Clovis over Gale Hardin of Pampa in the 115-pound bracket; Junior Garcia of Clovis over Glen Samples of Pampa, 118 pound, although Samples had Garcia on the floor in the second round.

In the top fight of the night, Pampa's Dickie Willis KO'd Wade Stephens, twice New Mexico state welterweight champion, in the third round after Stephens was saved from knockouts in the first two periods by the bell.

Pampa's Optimist Club boxers will go back into action at home Monday night when they host Plainview at 7:30 p.m.

Complete results: 50-pound: David White, Lefors, decisioned Bruce Watson, Pampa. 55-pound: Joe D. Roth, Pampa, decisioned Larry Galbreath, Lefors.

St. John's, Ohio State Chalk Wins

By DICK JOYCE United Press International

Ohio State and St. John's seemed headed for a showdown in the Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament where the title may be decided on how Jerry Lucas and Tony Jackson fare in their own private skirmish.

The top-ranked Buckeyes and the fourth-ranked Redmen passed their final tests Thursday night before next week's tourney action.

Unbeaten Ohio State was given a scare early in the game when the Titans jumped to an eight-point lead midway in the first half, but the Buckeyes reeled off 14 straight points to take a lead they never gave up.

AFL Plans Busy 1961

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite a loss of $2 million this season, the American Football League promised today to step up its battle against the more established National League on television and in the player market next year.

Harry Wismer, president of the New York Titans, said he had lost $350,000 this year but that neither he nor any of the other AFL owners had any idea of throwing in the sponge.

"No one is going to outbid the Titans for a football player," Wismer said. "If we need more money, I know where we can get it. There are a lot of millions in this country."

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ronald Gibbs of St. Thomas College was named by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle today to referee next Monday's pro title game between the Philadelphia Eagles and Green Bay Packers.

Floyd Favored Over Ingo In Miami Match

By JACK CUDDY United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Champion Floyd Patterson was installed a prohibitive 17-5 favorite today to beat Swedish Ingemar Johansson again in their third heavyweight title fight at the Miami Beach Convention Hall, March 20.

Because of the upsets that occurred in their two previous title bouts, the movement of that early wagering price — lengthening or shortening — will command much attention before Floyd, 25, and Ingemar, 28, climb into the ring for their "rubber match."

Patterson was favored at 5-1 for their first fight at Yankee Stadium, June 28, 1956. But explosive Ingo floored him seven times in the third round for a knockout and the crown.

Johansson was an 8-5 choice for their return engagement at the Polo Grounds last June 20. But Floyd gave him a thorough battering and floored him twice in the fifth round for a kayo that made Patterson the first man to win back the heavyweight championship.

No matter who triumphs this time, it's "even money" that the fight doesn't last seven rounds — that they don't come out of their corners for the eighth. Champion and challenger are unusually dangerous punchers.

Promoter Humbert (Jack) Fugazy of Feature Sports Inc. said the Miami Beach Convention Hall will be scaled for a $1 million gate, with its 18,000 seats ranging from $100 ringside down to $20.

He added, however, he would be satisfied if the gate reached $750,000. That statement indicated that Feature Sports has prevailed.

Tech Falls To Sooners

By LLOYD HOLBECK United Press International

Sponsors of the first annual Aluminum Bowl Tournament at Little Rock, Ark., may have trouble recruiting Southeast Conference teams next year — Arkansas and Texas swept the four game series with victories over Alabama and Tennessee Thursday night.

Arkansas downed the Tennessee Vols 89-78, a SEC power, while Texas beat Alabama 79-78.

Oklahoma beat Texas Tech 75-56 at Norman, Okla., in the only other action involving a Southwest Conference team.

No more SWC games are scheduled until after the Christmas holidays.

Arkansas, a strong contender for the SWC title, now has a 6-2 record. Texas is 5-3.

Arkansas beat Alabama 83-76 in the opening rounds of the Aluminum Bowl classic. No champion was named as such as winners did not play winners.

HOT HARVESTER — Pat Carter, one of the two returning regulars for Pampa, has been instrumental in the Harvesters' recent victory surge.

Pampa Coach Terry Culley has brought his predominantly-young squad a long way since the Dec. 2 game with Quanah, to what extent will be known tonight.

Quanah has run hot and cold since its defeat of Pampa, splitting a pair with Vernon in high-light games.

The Indians are sparked by Danny Scarborough and Noel Brooks, two 5-11 hot shots who scored 26 and 23 points, respectively, in Quanah's first win over the home cagers.

Coach T. J. Baily probably will start Darrell Barnes, 6-2, and Joe Salkeld, 5-11, and Gary Swindell, 6-1, to round out the Quanah first unit.

Pampa, after losing six of their first seven, has caught fire in the last week, downing Fort Worth Birdville, 97-48, last Saturday and Dumas, 40-39, in a Tuesday night thriller.

Carter has been one of the leaders in setting Pampa on the rose-strewn victory road with a 73-point outburst in his last three games, a 24.3 average. Overall in the season, the 5-10 senior has 133 points, more than double that of Pampa's number two scorer, Wise, who has 77.

The Harvesters renewed efforts on the backboards, more cautious floor play and the unexpected help of four sophomores — Balch, Matson, Ronnie Chase and Wayne Kries — have all been important factors in Pampa's winning spurt.

Pampa's Shokers (6-3) will be shooting for their fourth straight win in their current streak in a 6:15 p.m. game with Quanah 'B.

In its first meeting with Quanah, Coach Dan Evans' squad ran up its biggest score of the young season with a 93-35 verdict in a game that saw 73 fouls called.

The Harvesters next game will be with Childress here Tuesday.

Robinson Named Slugging Champ

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Frank Robinson of Cincinnati is the National League's new slugging champion.

Robinson, who compiled a slugging percentage of .595 in 1960, became the first Cincinnati player to win the title since Edd Roush in 1918.

Slugging percentages are arrived at by dividing the total number of bats into total bases and in Robinson's case, he had 278 total bases in 464 times up.

Streaking Harvesters Go For Third Straight

By ARTHUR MAYHEW Daily News Sports Editor

Custer's Last Stand, complete with Indians, may be re-enacted at 8 tonight when Quanah comes to Harvester gym to try to scalp Pampa's two-game winning streak.

The Harvesters, led by "Colonels" Pat Carter, Allen Wise and Bill Neslage and "lieutenants" Gordon Balch and Randy Matson, will be waiting in ambush with the necessary weapons to gain revenge for the 60-57 loss to the Indians three weeks ago in PHS' first game.

New Red Youth Unit Planned, Hoover Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover warned today that the Communists are planning to set up a new national youth organization in the United States "clandestinely" masterminded by party members. Hoover said the Communists are completing arrangements for a conference in Chicago starting Dec. 31 to map plans for the youth corps. He said the organization's "programs and activities" will be secretly directed by party members.

The FBI director, in a year-end report to Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, said the Communist party, under the leadership of "Moscow-trained" chairman Gus Hall, strengthened its ties with Russia and with Communists in Cuba and other countries during 1960.

Particularly significant is the new emphasis upon youth activity of their national youth director, the Communists have begun issuing a special publication, "New Horizons for Youth," aimed directly at America's young people.

Hoover said the Communists also "hope to repeat the success which they achieved on the West Coast last May in spearheading mob demonstrations by college students and other young people" against San Francisco hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

He said FBI investigations this year disclosed that "an alarming number of Soviet and satellite diplomatic personnel have intelligence assignments in the United States."

"Lida has received a stuffed toy French poodle, two pairs of pajamas, a housecoat and slippers (the latter two being Lida's requests from Santa Claus), money and a Christmas tree for her room.

"Two more packages came awhile ago but Lida has been asleep and we won't open them until she awakens."

Some of the gifts have come from the First Baptist Church in Mobeetie, Skellytown and anonymous donors.

Last Tuesday, the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School choir dedicated a 30-minute program of songs over a local radio station. Lida was a member of the choir before the accident.

Mrs. Gudgel, however, got her biggest Christmas present yesterday when Lida Ann took her first steps since the accident and, also, when the Gudgels were informed that their daughter would not have to be taken to another hospital for skin grafting on her arms and back.

"She (Lida Ann) didn't stand up very long, but we are so thankful that she seems to be improving," Mrs. Gudgel said.

The Gudgel family, including Mr. Gudgel, a carpenter for Highland Homes, Inc., and a brother, J. L., plan to have their Christmas in the hospital with Lida Ann.

"It wouldn't be much of a Christmas with Lida here and the rest of the family at home," Mrs. Gudgel added.

"I want to thank everyone for the gifts and interest in our daughter; we'll never forget them," she concluded.

U.S. Ambassador Named Pointsetta

More than a hundred years ago our Ambassador to Mexico Joel Roberts Poinsett, took a fancy to a brilliant tropical plant, known as the Mexican Fire Plant.

Returning to his home in South Carolina, he started growing the plant from cuttings he brought from Mexico. Soon the scarlet-leaved plant came to the attention of American botanists, and under the name "poinsettia," it was destined to become symbolic of Christmas.

In tropic climates, poinsettia is grown in varieties of white, pink and yellow, but by far the most popular is the bright red that carries out the color scheme of Christmas.

Special music has been provided for both services.

The Rev. Russell West Sr., pastor of the Church of the Brethren, said that Christmas evening services have been cancelled so that members may be with their families. His Sunday morning topic will be "Your Guiding Star."

St. Paul's Methodist Church will hold one service in the morning, beginning at 10 o'clock.

The Rev. Jack Riley, pastor, has entitled his sermon "The Inn of Life," from the Scripture, Luke 2:1-7. Mrs. Riley will sing "Infant Baby," during the service.

At the Salvation Army Citadel the topics prepared by Envoy Seago will be pointed towards a Christmas theme, with Christmas music intermingled in the services.

Christian Scientists will hear the reading from Matthew 2:1-2: "Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying 'Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship Him.'"

There also will be a reading from Mary Baker Eddy's writings. Churches reporting activities from around the area include Perryton and McLean.

There will be no Sunday School in the First Methodist Church of Perryton, however, at 10 a.m. worship service is scheduled with the Rev. S. Duane Bruce, pastor, presenting a special Christmas sermon.

Perryton's Trinity Presbyterian services will be "God was in Christ." Sunday School is to begin at 9:45 a.m.

The Rev. Joe Frederick announced that Sunday School will begin at 9:50 a.m. and worship services at 10 a.m. in the First Christian Church of Perryton.

In the Perryton First Baptist Church the Rev. Carroll Ray, pastor, will speak on "Unto You a Savior," in the 11 a.m. service. Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. A Christmas carol and candlelight vesper service is scheduled for 8:15 p.m.

Cloford Newcomb, minister of the Perryton Church of Christ, said Bible study will begin at 9:45 a.m. and the worship service will commence at 10:40 a.m.

Worship service in the Perryton Church of the Nazarene will start at 11 a.m. and Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.

At McLean these churches listed the following activities and times: First Methodist Church, the Rev. J. D. Stewart, pastor; Sunday morning worship at 9 a.m.; Sunday School 10 a.m.

First Baptist Church, the Rev. Dan Beltz, pastor; Sunday School, 9:45 a.m., worship service, 11 a.m., training Union, 6:30 p.m., and evening worship, 7:30 o'clock.

McLean Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Kenneth McCall, pastor; worship service, 8:30 a.m. There will be no evening service.

McLean Church of Christ, Cecil E. Kelley, minister; Bible School, 10 a.m., Morning worship, 11 a.m., Bible class, 6 p.m., and evening worship, 7 o'clock.

Church of the Nazarene, the Rev. J. L. Mayhall, pastor; Sunday School, 10 a.m., worship service, 11 a.m., and evening worship, 6:30 o'clock.

Assembly of God Church, the Rev. L. R. Green, pastor; Sunday School, 9:45 a.m., worship service, 11 a.m., and evening worship, 7:30 o'clock.

Pentacostal Holiness Church, the Rev. Lois Daniels; Sunday School, 9:45 a.m., worship service, 11 a.m., and evening worship, 7 o'clock.

CHEAP FREIGHT? Before the introduction of railroads, it cost 20 to 25 cents per ton-mile to move freight overland. It cost about $100 to move a ton of freight from New York City to Buffalo, a distance of about 425 miles.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

THE STORY: Bart Wagner has received several pointers that there is no law in the Panhandle. The country is overrun by lawless. One of the leaders is Xenophon Jones.

Again he rose before dawn, but not ahead of Catherine. "I'll be back before dark," he said. He was pleased as he took it. "I'll be back before dark," he said. He went up to the spring with hammer and staples and wire-stretcher. He re-strung what wire he could, but where it had been cut he had to put new wire between two posts. He was wrapping an end of the stiff wire around a post when a voice behind him said: "All right, Wagner!"

He whirled and drew both six-shooters with lightning speed. But the man behind him was smiling sardonically, his hands in the clear, away from his sides. He was a good-sized man with cold blue eyes, big hat, and light brown whiskers that covered his chin. Bart said, still holding his 44's, "You took an awful chance with your life just then." The man laughed shortly. "Bart Wagner would never shoot a man whose hands were in the clear." "You might have been wrong about who I was."

pistols back into their holsters. Jones's voice was harsh and cold, like his eyes. "In Mobetie they call me the Killer Kid. I don't care what they call you. If you want to impress me, start drawing." "Tough man," said Jones. "I know there's a price on your head in New Mexico." "I don't doubt it." "Sixteen hundred dollars." Bart paused. "It was twelve when I left." Jones studied him. "The Yagers raised some money to add to the reward." Bart picked up the hammer and staples. "You're trespassing on Lewis land," he said.

"Listen, Wagner!" Jones's voice was harsh. "I need help. This court session has got to be scared off." "Are you afraid of courts?" Jones shrugged. "The longer we keep the courts out of the Panhandle, the better will be the pickin's." Bart said, "You can't keep them out forever." "I'm going to throw the fear of the Lord into anybody who might be qualified as a juror, so they won't dare to convict. They've got two of my men down there, and I don't aim for them to hang."

man's blood in me. I just want to burn the place without hurting her—and I want you to help by keeping her away from that buffalo gun." "I'll have no part in it." Jones said coldly. "You want me to turn you in to Captain Arrington?" "The Texas Rangers are not involved in this," said Bart. Jones said harshly, "The Rangers do favors for New Mexican sheriffs because they get favors in return—especially in the Panhandle, so far from Texas courts." "I never scared easy." "All right," said Jones, sounding disgusted. "I'll give you $1,000 to keep her out of the picture until my men set fire to the place."

Jones laughed. "Don't worry about her. Murphy and I have been playing monte for two weeks to see who gets her." Bart looked at the evilly handsome face and suddenly was filled with revulsion. The frontier was no place for nice-ies, and yet there were some things—he hit Jones on the jaw and a second time on the nose. (To Be Continued)

Comedian Carol Burnett Scales Television Heights

NEW YORK (UPI)—Carol Burnett, at 28 a star who is glowing to new magnitude, is an exuberant bundle of redheaded comic talent who: —Likes to chew on hunks of ice out of her water glass. ("I understand Perry Como does it too. Please excuse me for being an ice chews, but it started when I was 7 in San Antonio—I always chased ice wagons.") —Is a bug on the subject of space exploration and things astronautic. ("My head is full of space.") —Is crazy about dogs. ("My Bruce — named after a fellow I knew in college—gave birth to her second litter, two pups, the other day. Her husband is named Fang. They're Yorkshire terriers, little dogs, and their pups are named Dempsey and Tunney. Dempsey's a girl pup. Just for once, I'd like to have a dog named Rover.") and even if she breaks one she can still fracture audiences, even if she comes on in a wheelchair. Miss Burnett's first personal record album, out next month on the Decca label, has her singing 12 tunes that once stopped a show. And if you ask her what desire in a career is, she says quickly: — want to be Ethel Merman. We don't look alike. We don't sing alike. But I want a career in musical comedy. I'm from Texas and I sing pretty loud—like a Tex as hog caller. I now take voice lessons once a week — started them when I started in "Once Upon A Mattress." I'm hoping next year to do another show. Would I leave TV for it? Yes, but in a way it's good to leave it—so you don't wear your welcome out."

all those quarters going downstairs. "Another girl and I shared the job. We each worked three days a week. We split the tips — got no salary—and made about $30 a week apiece. We were living at the Rehearsal Club (the famed theatrical club about which the play "Stage Door" was written at $18 a week for room and board—so I had $12 a week left to squander." Miss Burnett leaped to national attention in 1957, through three sudden TV appearances. She had started in July in an act at a nightclub in which she sang a comedy song titled "I Made A Fool of Myself Over John Foster Dulles." Jack Paar took over the NBC "Tonight" show and asked her to come on and sing it. She was afraid it might be criticized as in bad taste. But she finally decided to do it. She sang it on Paar on a Tuesday night, and went right back and did it again on the following Friday, and went right over to Ed Sullivan and did it again the following Sunday. Miss Burnett has been a leading light on the Moore show for two seasons. Earlier this month, you may have seen her do a hilarious bit of slapstick in which Durward Kirby slammed her all over the stage. "That was my first crack at real, solid, Martha Raye slapstick, and if it's that much fun I'd sure like to do more" she said. "You know, everything is supposed to be cerebral in comedy nowadays. But somehow I don't feel that some of the cerebral comics are true comedians. I always remember what Ed Wynn once told me: 'Some people say funny things — but a true comedian says things funny.'"

Chemical Engineers Set Career Guidance Program

Letters to Santa

Dear Santa:
I hope you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Please for Christmas I want a wagon, rifle, jeep, truck, guns & hoister.
Thank you Santa
PS: I forgot for my sisters Glenda and Debbie please bring them a doll, dishes, sewing machine and washer and dryer.
Joe, Glenda & Debbie
PPS: I forgot my mother she wants a watch.
Thank you dear Santa

Dear Santa:
We would like for you to bring us two Prescott System books for Christmas and please bring all the rest of our little friends one, also.
We love you
Chris Grayson &
Jan Grady
PS We will leave you some Harvester Band candy and fruit cake on the coffee table.

Dear Santa:
I am a girl 9 years old and have a brother 4. For myself I'd like a Madame Alexander doll and my brother would like a service station. We'd both like a soda fountain. We wish you and all the nice people of Pampa a very Merry Christmas.

Peter Pan's Christmas Story

By Walt Disney

POCKETED INTO SPACE BY THE 'SURPRISE' PACKAGE, MISTER SMEE HEADS HOME!
OH, WELL—(SIGH)—THIS SOLVES AN OLD PROBLEM OF GETTING BACK TO NEVER LAND!

THE SAME FROM TINKER BELL AND ME!
A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL... THE BIGGEST... THE WILDEST... THE HAPPIEST!

Gloom Hangs Over West Home—Car Threw A Rod, So He Had To 'Shoot It'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—This happy Yuletide has been a time for weeping and lamentation at my humble abode. Our old car, a family pet, threw a rod while laboring down an icy street and we had to shoot it.

It was exactly eight years ago today that I bought the car as a Christmas present for my wife. I can still remember the tender scene that ensued when I first drove it home, new and shiny and heavily margined.

It was a bitter cold day and I, whose stomach is none too stable, had to drive the rest of the way with the windows down in order to retain my own lunch. This car was a 1952 Nash. Some of my younger admirers thought I was pretty corny to buy a Nash, but it was a wonderful car. They don't make them like that any more. Nash went out of production a couple of years ago and I suspect the reason was that it was too durable. Unless cars wear out fairly rapidly, the dealers can't sell enough to turn a profit. Mine had been driven more than 93,000 miles with a minimum of upkeep. It was getting better than 20 miles to the gallon and there wasn't a rattle in it. It could easily have passed the 100,000 mile mark except for my own carelessness. Unfortunately, I let several months go by with out having the oil checked. This was more damaging than the attempts by my wife to drive without gas.

ANNOUNCING PAYMENTS TO RAMBLER BUYERS AS RAMBLER'S SALES VOLUME INCREASES

Why You Should Join Rambler's New Crusade For Adequate Progress Sharing With Customers

GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation

"I believe participation by all consumers in economic progress is absolutely necessary in meeting the nation's economic needs."

RAMBLER SALES SOAR
In two years, Rambler's per cent of market has more than doubled. For the last 38 straight months, Rambler sales have established a new record for that month. We want to continue this growth by serving you even better.

engineering advances such as the acid-proof, rustproof Ceramic-Armored muffler and tailpipe. The Rambler line includes three basic sizes of compact cars—Rambler American, Rambler Classic and Ambassador, the latter two developed after the original American series.

THE NEW RAMBLER CRUSADE
Our new Rambler crusade, like our compact crusade, is based on sharing Rambler progress with car buyers. We believe the new Rambler crusade has timely significance. Our country currently is experiencing a mild economic slowdown—with rising foreign competition and weakness of the dollar. Our larger competitors are considering partial manufacture and importation of cars for the U.S. market from abroad. There is a general profit squeeze. We believe the greatest single economic cause is that relatively too much of the fruit of industrial effort has been going to a few well organized economic groups, not to the consumer.

CUSTOMERS TO SHARE RAMBLER PROGRESS
We decided there was something we could do. We decided to share future progress with ALL customers who take delivery of a new Rambler or new Metropolitan between December 1, 1960, and March 31, 1961, from an authorized Rambler dealer (excluding governmental sales), giving them most of the benefit of additional cost reduction resulting from further increases in Rambler sales volume. This can mean a sharing with Rambler buyers during the 4-month period of government savings bonds (Series E) with a maturity value from $3,679,850 (10% sales increase), to $24,930,750 (50% increase). See chart for details.

HOW PAYMENTS TO BUYERS WILL BE DETERMINED IN AMERICAN MOTORS' CUSTOMER PROGRESS SHARING PROGRAM

IF SALES ARE UP over last year	BUYERS RECEIVE U.S. SAVINGS BONDS (Maturity Value)	BOND PAYMENT SALES LEVELS
		DECEMBER (Dec. sales)	JANUARY (Dec.-Jan. total)	FEBRUARY (Dec.-Feb. total)	MARCH (4-month total)
50%	$125	45,247	97,671	140,139	195,946
40%	$100	42,231	91,159	130,796	182,883
30%	$75	39,214	84,648	121,453	169,820
20%	$50	36,198	78,136	112,111	156,757
10%	$25	33,181	71,625	102,768	143,594
SALES FOR SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR		30,165	65,114	93,426	130,631

WHY IT WILL PAY YOU TO BUY NOW. This unique program is cumulative and retro-active. Early buyers can get more, but never less bonds, than buyers in succeeding months. Your Rambler dealer will be happy to give you the complete details of the plan but here is a quick example of how it works and keeps on working for you: If December Rambler deliveries increase 20% over last December, December buyers of new Ramblers or Metropolitan will receive $50 bonds. As the four-month period progresses, additional bonds will be mailed to the December buyers each time the cumulative sales reach a higher bond payment sales level. Also, if sales increase for the four-month period exceeds 50%, proportionate additional payments will be made to all buyers during any of the four-months.

BOTH CUSTOMERS AND AMERICAN MOTORS GAIN
You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by joining this crusade. The same is true for us. You can't lose because Ramblers are better than big cars and the best of the compacts. Ramblers are more trouble-free, more useful, lower priced. You make your regular deal in the regular way for a new Rambler. You then may share proportionately in the economies and profits of higher Rambler volume in December, 1960, and the first three months of 1961. We gain by acquiring more Rambler owners, which will make our growing market even larger in the future. That's because Rambler owners become Rambler salesmen and are the most loyal "repeat buyers" of any make. Ask your neighbor all about his Rambler, then join the Rambler crusade. Join us in focusing the nation's attention on the essentiality of equitably sharing economic progress with ALL consumers in the WHOLE NATION is to prosper.

P.S. Some may say one company can't do much about national problems as big and complex as those cited above. Well, that's what skeptics said about Rambler's first crusade. Let's remember, every great thing is born small. If this new Rambler crusade is right, it can succeed and spread, just as the compact car concept did.

CONSUMER BENEFITS FROM LOWER PRICES

Because of low volume, we had to price our first Rambler Americans about equal with Chevrolet and Ford, traditionally "lowest priced." As our output and economies increased, we shared the resulting economic advantages with Rambler customers. Despite inflation, we kept prices low. We also concentrated on durability and quality. That is why Rambler excels in trouble-free operation, as shown by trade surveys made by others. What has this done? It has increased our sales—made us a vigorous new competitive factor, compelling all competitors to introduce compact cars. Their compact cars unquestionably are better buys than their big cars, because their big cars don't have the compacts' advanced engineering. Despite these moves to meet Rambler competition, Rambler American models are now priced not only below competitive big cars but below their economy compacts as well. In addition, Ramblers provide customers several exclusive trouble-free

Monkeys are caught by filling a coconut shell with chopped coconut meat. The monkeys grasp it fruitfully and, unwilling to let any go, cannot withdraw their paws. So, they are easy victims. The U.S. consumer is not yet as savvy as shown, but unless there is a more equitable division of the productivity increases, he will get that way. One of the three American groups must let go and set an example—or all will be captured and, along with the consumer, all will suffer.

George Romney
P.S. Some may say one company can't do much about national problems as big and complex as those cited above. Well, that's what skeptics said about Rambler's first crusade. Let's remember, every great thing is born small. If this new Rambler crusade is right, it can succeed and spread, just as the compact car concept did.

Mr. Romney's recent New York Press Conference on "Customer Sharing and the Nation's Economy" attracted nationwide notice. For complete text of his statements, write American Motors, Box 29, Detroit 32, Mich.

Austrians Fattening Up Carp
For Their Biggest Feast Of Year

By THOMAS WEYR
United Press Staff Correspondent
VIENNA — UP — Big carp from the Danube River is fattening in tanks, ponds and riverside pens all over Austria for the Christmas eve feast — the biggest eating treat of the year.

The Austrian counterpart of the traditional Christmas turkey in America is a plump carp — fried to a sizzling golden brown.

Mrs. Leisl Fuchs, a typical Viennese wife, has ordered a four-and-one-half pound carp for her husband, two children and herself on Christmas Eve. A careful budget planner, she works in a lawyer's office to supplement her husband's slim civil service income. But she says there'll be no stinting on the holiday. She expects to spend between 200 and 300 schillings — $8 to $12 — for the dinner.

After the children have opened their presents beneath a tinsel tree laced with candy, the grown-ups will drink a holiday toast of plum brandy. Then the family will sit down to dinner.

Liesel says the first course will be "fischbeuscheluppe," old-fashioned Austrian fish soup which includes roe and liver.

Then comes the carp. Austrian wives prepare it many ways, but Mrs. Fuchs' recipe is typical: Cut the fish into medium-thick slices, dust lightly with flour, dip each slice in beaten eggs, sprinkle with fine bread crumbs and fry in butter to golden tenderness. Serve smoking hot with lemon wedges.

As a side dish Liesl will serve potato salad.

The grown-ups will drink a light dry white wine from Burgenland province, near the Hungarian border, where husband Tony has friends among the wine growers.

For dessert the family will have poppyseed noodles with mountain honey. This Viennese delicacy, a sort of super-doughnut, is made by rolling fat curls of sweet dough, frying, and then adding the poppyseeds and honey.

And with the dessert, there'll be another wine — a heavier, more aromatic product from the Krems district of the Danube valley. To finish the meal, the children will have candy and the parents will have Turkish coffee and — a special luxury — American cigarettes.

The exchange of cheerful Christmas cards between friends is one of our most delightful Yuletide customs — and like all other social relationships, it is governed by simple, common-sense rules of etiquette.

You may properly send your holiday greetings to almost everyone — business and professional associates, if you wish, as well as social acquaintances and relatives.

Be sure to choose appropriate cards, however. If Aunt Jennie is a garden enthusiast, she'll probably appreciate a beautiful flower print more than a dozen Santa Claus designs.

Cards with special titles, such as Merry Christmas, Mother, are available for mothers, wives, sweethearts and practically all relatives, including the in-laws, and are a mark of individual thoughtfulness.

If you can spare a moment or two, pen a brief holiday note on each card. It adds a warm sincerity and a touch of your individual personality to your Yuletide greetings. Christmas time is a sentimental and nostalgic season for everyone, and many a friendship has been kept alive through the years by the annual exchange of holiday greetings.

Signatures need not be formal, except on engraved Christmas cards. You may have your name neatly printed if you wish, or take your pen in hand and sign the greetings yourself with a holiday flourish.

Married couples may omit the "Mr. and Mrs." if they prefer and sign their cards simply "Paul and Jenny Wilson." Either the husband's name or the wife's may appear first. Children in the family rate a place in the signature, too.

Use three-cent stamps deeded Christmas cards, following the rule of good taste which says that first-class friends deserve first-class mail. It is entirely proper to write your return address on the envelope, to help friends keep tabs on changes of address.

Selecting attractive Christmas cards for each of your friends is a delightful activity. Don't treat it as a sober social responsibility. Plunge in with a smile and the gay holiday scenes on the cards will soon fill your heart with Yuletide cheer and sentiment.

Spirit Of Santa
Neither Modern
Nor American

Santa Claus is one of the most cherished figures of childhood. American mothers overwhelmingly agree that he should be portrayed as the spirit of generosity, kindness, and gift-giving.

Although the modern conception of Santa Claus is American, the Spirit of Santa Claus is neither modern nor American. The real Saint Nicholas lived in Asia Minor and ever since his death in 343 stories concerning him have been repeated around the firesides of Europe.

The children of Lapland and northern climates naturally picture Santa dressed in fur and dashing through the snow in a reindeer-drawn sleigh. But in central Europe, St. Nicholas first appeared on his liturgical feast day, December 6, and he was a thin, austere churchman who rode a mule and carried gifts for good children and a bundle of birch rods with which to switch the naughty.

Under Dutch influence St. Nicholas lost his solemnity. The Dutch colonists who brought him to America were very practical people and they decided against two gift-giving days in the same month. Thus, Sinter Klass started coming round only at Christmas time.

Eventually, the ancient legends were woven into American Christmas traditions. Washington Irving sent St. Nicholas flying through Christmas skies in a reindeer-drawn sleigh in 1809; Dr. Clement Moore's poem "The Night Before Christmas," written in 1822, gave Santa "... a little round belly that shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly;" and a series of drawings in 1868 by Thomas Nast added much to the traditional pictures and appearance of the Santa we see today.

In every youngster's life there comes the time when he begins to suspect that the various be-whiskered gentlemen, so numerous during this season, are not exactly the real Santa Claus. Wise parents advance the "helper" theory as soon as they are asked questions and teach their children to make the Christmas of less fortunate tots and their families come true.

Thus, the real Santa Claus isn't just myth or legend. He is the Spirit of Christmas who lives in the sparkling eyes of children and the hearts of all grownups who strive for peace and good will among men.

Mexicon's Pinata
Fast Spreading
To United States

The pinata, Christmas custom so long observed by the happy children of Mexico, is gradually spreading into the United States. Although it performs year-round duty in the land south of the border, the pinata is busiest during the Mexican Christian festival that lasts from December 18 to January 6. In America, it is used in various parts of the country only at Christmas time.

The pinata is made of thin, fragile clay, and is filled with sweetmeats and trinkets before being suspended from the ceiling.

Each of the guests, not always only just children — is blindfolded and given a stick. The object is to swing the sticks overhead until someone shatters the pinata, sending the delicious contents pouring out.

The pinata is a great aid in making the long Christmas season tolerable for Mexican children.

Scientific Facts
Establish Story
Of Jesus Christ

The authenticity of the story of Christ has been further established over a period of years through archaeologist's findings in the Jerusalem area.

A group of scientists recently discovered the name of Jesus carved before 70 A.D. among inscriptions on 11 early-Christian burial urns found in a cave on the Bethlehem-Jerusalem road.

These findings may prove to be one of the oldest archaeological records of Christianity, to give fact and substance to the Biblical stories of the trial and crucifixion of Christ.

It is believed that these writings were left by a sect of Hebrews who were followers of Christ and who had denounced Pontius Pilate.

There were Hebrew and Arabic inscriptions and symbols with references to Christianity.

Other archaeological expeditions have disclosed the presence of the Greek letter "X" ... symbol used to represent Christ, found on the walls of early-Christian period catacombs.

Hobby Supplies
Make Real Gifts
For All Family

"Make it a real family Christmas this year by having Santa pack a few hobby supplies or games into his pack that the whole family can enjoy together."

This suggestion comes from E. H. Regnier, a recreation specialist at the University of Illinois.

There are many hobbies that can help build companionship between parents and children. Mothers and daughters like jewelry making and needlework and construction and tapestry weaving. Dad and Junior go in for model-making — airplanes, boats, trains and other items of special interest to the male population.

Everyone enjoys a operating a printing press. Small presses turn out newspapers that have a real professional look. Shellcraft and woodburning are hobbies that produce genuinely useful articles. For family fun, rubber-tipped darts, indoor plastic horseshoes and marble games are excellent.

"Christmas is a time of 'togetherness,'" says Regnier. "Let's capitalize on the situation by starting a game or hobby that will encourage the same type of companionship the year around."

Smaller Towns Were First To Light Up Trees

Although the White House and Rockefeller Center outdoor tree decorations have become famous in recent years, the practice of lighting outdoor trees began in smaller towns and cities long before these two displays became an annual affair.

Four widely separated communities lighted up as early as 1913. Two of them, McDonald and Germantown, were in Pennsylvania. Salem, Ore., decorated a large Sitka spruce. Riverside, Calif., illuminated a large evergreen, an Aracuria.

The first National Christmas tree was in 1924 and was sponsored by the American Forestry association. For the past two years the lighting of the White House has been televised.

Santa Claus, Indians!

Although many towns have names directly or indirectly associated with Christmas, there is but one town named Santa Claus, in Indiana.

Except for a lucky break, the town would have had another name and hence would not have enjoyed the annual fame that it gathers around the Yuletide season.

The original intention to name the town Santa Fe fell through when the officials at Washington suggested that the town be named something else, since there was already a Santa Fe in New Mexico.

Yule Greens Used By Ancients

The greens which are used for Christmas decorations found their way into early festivities because of certain virtues attributed to them by the ancients, and many of them which adorned pagan seasonal rites were later taken over to grace the ceremonies and celebrations of Christmas Day.

In both England and America, the holly and the mistletoe are associated with Christmas as invariably as are the plum pudding and Christmas tree.

It was the Druids who first used the mistletoe. "Heal-all" was their name for it. The plant was supposed to have curative values, and gradually they assigned to it all manner of magic powers.

Their priests, each year around the time when we now celebrate Christmas, would have high platforms built around the sacred oak trees which, in a manner of speaking, were "hosts" to the mistletoe. Robed in ceremonial vestments of white, they ascended these platforms, and with golden sickles especially made for the solemn occasion they cut away the mistletoe.

The Saxons also prized it and it was they who gave to it the name of mistletoe.

Eventually the green came to be regarded as a symbol of peace. Opposing warriors who met near it would call a truce, and it was customary to hang it over the entrance doors so that they who entered might be assured of friendship.

Midnight Mass Marks Climax For Nazareth Folk

NAZARETH — (UP) — The feverish activity that has been gripping the people of this town where the Savior grew to manhood comes to a peaceful climax at the close of Dec. 24 with the celebration of Midnight Mass in the Church of the Annunciation.

For weeks, the 12,000 Christians of this town of more than 23,000 persons have been preparing to send off the 800 fortunate ones going to Bethlehem in Jordan to celebrate Christmas at the Church of the Nativity. The thousands unable to go themselves (either because Israel or Jordan, or both have refused to authorize their crossing the border), will take part on Dec. 24.

Chartered buses and cars packed with pilgrims to the birthplace of Christ will leave Dec. 24 in a long caravan, wending its way up the road leading out of Nazareth into the low hills to the west.

On one of these hills, Jesus addressed the multitudes following Him from far and wide (Matthew 5), immersing them in the glory emanating from His words. Speeding along the highway, the pilgrims will easily be able to see some of the physical splendor serving as a backdrop for the Sermon on the Mount.

Before the bright green Plain of Esdraelon will stretch out in a breathtaking panorama which Jesus, too, must have looked at with the same awe. Farther to the west, the deep blue curve of Acre Bay embraces the Mediterranean with fingers of scintillating gold. Far off to the north, snow-capped Mt. Hermon seems to be washing itself in the clear azure sky and becoming whiter with each passing moment.

Before the Holy Land was rent in two by Arab-Jewish enmity, pilgrims used to travel due south for a distance of 87 miles to Jerusalem by way of biblical Shechem — now Nablus. Since 1948, most of this road is in Jordan territory, so they must travel twice that distance in order to reach the Holy City in a roundabout way.

Many talk of some bright day in the obscure future when Israel and Jordan will have buried the hatchet and Nazareth Christians once more will be able to make the pilgrimage to Bethlehem without special authorizations along the road Jesus must have followed from His home in Galilee.

At the entrances to Nazareth, police checkpoints have been re-established to keep non-Christians from overflowing the town. Restaurants and cafes — even those belonging to avowed Communists — take pride in gaily decorated Christmas trees prominently displayed.

Promptly at midnight, Dec. 24, Father Jean Joseph Alliot, guardian of the Franciscan monastery, will begin the Mass in the Church of the Annunciation built on the foundations of a 12th century Crusaders' church as a priest in a black gown embroidered with gold taps three times on the floor.

At the eastern end of the town stands the Greek Orthodox Church of the Annunciation — both the Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox churches bear the same name. Nearby is a spring flowing into what is known as Mary's Well. The people of Nazareth are sure this is where the Virgin came to draw water.

At 10:30 p.m. Dec. 24, Father Basilio Samman, head of the Greek Catholic Community, will celebrate Mass in his church. Near this church is a chapel said to be on the site of the synagogue where Jesus preached. Not far off is a domed chapel containing the Table of Christ, a huge stone around which Jesus, according to tradition, sat with His disciples.

The Anglican and Baptist Churches also will conduct services which they close with carol singing.

A little after 2 a.m. Dec. 25, visitors leaving the town nesting among hills sacred to all Christians, will drive slowly so they can take in more of the flickering lights and illuminated crosses adorning church spires.

St. Nickolas Life Marked By Gift-Giving

The story of St. Nicholas became and even today comes covertly as associated with secret gift-giving, night to leave his presents, is one of the most important in the history of his life.

Once upon a time there was a man with three daughters, all of them wishing to marry, but with no dowry forthcoming. Sorry indeed, was their plight. Their father had about decided to sell them as slaves, but the good St. Nicholas heard of it, and filling a purse with gold, went quietly by night to their home. Seeing a window open, he threw in the bag of gold and stole away in the night. This money enabled the eldest daughter to marry. A second and a third time St. Nicholas made the trip and finally all three daughters were married.

After the saint's third trip, the girls' father, who had seen the gifts, ran after St. Nicholas and thanked him for his kindness. St. Nicholas made 'im promise not to divulge his gift-giving and after that he always deposited his presents so secretly that no one ever saw him. Yet people knew, somehow, that it was he who brought gifts during the night, and so whenever they delivered their instantly exclaimed, "St. Nicholas has brought it!"

Nearly All Nations Mark Christmas

In nearly all of the civilized world December 25 is a red letter day. Peoples of all nationalities and religions celebrate the birth of Christ. The customs of the many nations are as varied as the people and their faiths are different.

In the Scandinavian countries, a Christmas tree made of a sheaf of wheat bound to a pole, is raised for the winter birds. In Norway, rice pudding is always an important item on the menu for the Christmas dinner. One almond is baked in the pudding and the person who finds the almond in his portion is always the first to get married.

Chinese children make odd stockings by sewing three pieces of muslin together, and hang them up on Christmas Eve to hold the gifts brought by Lan Khoong-Khoong, which means "Nice Old Father" to them, Santa Claus to us.

The "old-fashioned" American Christmas, while reflecting the traditions of many countries, most closely resembles the traditional English Christmas, complete with plum pudding, mistletoe, carolers.

The world's first nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, the USS Enterprise, is the second aircraft carrier to bear this name. The first was the flagship of the late Fleet Admiral W. F. "Bull" Halsey in the Pacific during World War II.

Christmas Went Underground When Prohibited By Puritans

There was a time when Christmas went underground. People who advocated Christmas were in danger of arrest and imprisonment and it looked as though Christmas was on its way out.

It all happened around 1644 when the Puritans in England forbade any merriment or religious services, by act of parliament, on the ground that it was a heathen festival. What resulted was much grumbling, breaking of the law and a Christmas—underground which wrote and distributed pamphlets in favor of Christmas.

In 1648, for instance, was published "Canterbury Christmas." This pamphlet gives an account of the subsequent proceedings after the Cryer of Canterbury had upon Wednesday, December 22, "openly proclaimed that Christmas day and all other superstitious festivals should be put down, and a market should be kept on Christmas day. Which being not observed, (but very ill taken by the country) the town was thereby unprovided with provision and trading very much hindered; which occasioned great discontent among people, caused them to rise in a rebellious way."

Among the rarest of the pamphlets issued at that time is one entitled "The Examination and Tryal of Old Father Christmas." In this little volume, "one old Christmas was commanded to be brought to the Bar, then was a jury for Life and Death, to be impeached." The Judge was called Judge Hatebate, "for avoiding all such scandals as have been cast upon your Office is not so much to feast the Body, as to refresh the Soul, by thankful and pious Meditations."

Charles II re-established Christmas in 1678 and "jolly Old Father Christmas" has never had to stand trial since.

Protestants In Israel To Conduct Christmas Eve Choral Services

JERUSALEM — (UP) — The focal point of Protestant Yuletide celebrations in the Israeli New City of Jerusalem is the YMCA's annual united choral service on Christmas Eve.

The speaker at this service will be the Rev. G. N. Hall, pastor of the Anglican Church of St. Andrews which stands opposite Mt. Zion and the walls of Jerusalem's walled Old City in Jordan. The service, held in the auditorium of the "Y," will be presided over by its director, J. Leslie Putnam of Milwaukee, Wis.

Between four and five hundred persons are expected to attend.

The grounds before the white stone building erected in 1933 have been festooned with holiday decorations fluttering down from the 100-foot tower. Floodlights illuminate the entire area at night. The tower can be seen for miles around, and its chimes on Christmas will carry the messages of the birth of the Prince of Peace to villages beyond Bethany to the east.

Each of the city's Protestant ministers takes a leading part in the service. A Baptist minister, Dr. Robert Lindsey of Norman, Okla., leads the choral singing.

The Rev. J. W. Foster of the Assembly of God Church, a British denomination, and the Anglican Church's Canon H. R. A. Jones will read from the Scriptures along with the Rev. M. G. Griebenow, Minnesota pastor of the American Church sponsored by the Christian and Missionary Alliance. There will be eight Scripture readings in all, alternating with carol singing. In addition to the Scripture readings in English, for the first time, passages from the Holy Writ will be read in Hebrew and Arabic.

Inside the YMCA building are three Christmas trees. The auditorium has chandeliers with shades cut out so that when the lights are on, silhouettes of the symbols of Christian, Jewish and Moslem denominations are thrown on the walls. The trees were decorated by the 50 permanent residents of the "Y."

The Protestant churches have no organized pilgrimage to Bethlehem as does the Roman Catholic Church for Christmas. A number of Protestants have gone as individuals — mostly visitors and members of the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization.

Each of the Protestant Churches will conduct its own service Christmas morning. A Baptist conference for the spiritual uplifting of Israeli members of the church will be held in Dr. Lindsey's church the week ending with Christmas. About sixty persons will make the pilgrimage to the Holy City from other parts of the country.

On Christmas Day, the YMCA is conducting a party for about 400 children, with gifts to be distributed by Santa Claus.

Catholics unable to make the pilgrimage to Bethlehem will attend mass at the Church of the Oldest Church Is Church Of The Nativity

Probably the oldest church in Christianity is the Church of the Nativity, built upon the spot where the stable stood. It was erected by Emperor Constantine the Great, in 383 A.D.

The church looks like a fortress. Its original stately portal has been walled up and replaced by a low and narrow entrance. There was a reason for this. In the first place, it compels the many pilgrims to bow before they enter. In the second place it was designed to keep the infidels from riding in on horseback or camel.

The interior of the church is dignified and simple, set off by beautiful Corinthian columns of native red sandstone. The roof is of massive oak. Silver lamps burning olive oil are suspended on gold and silver chains from the beams.

A silver star, fastened to a simple altar with silver nails, marks the exact spot where the infant Jesus was born.

Three steps lead down to a small cave — like recess, the Chapel of the Manager. Beautiful tapestries and rugs are draped across the walls. Fifteen silver lamps are kept burning eternally in honor of Him for Whom there was no place in the world on the night of His birth.

After sunset Dec. 24 and throughout the morning of Christmas Day, the old traditional road followed by the Three Wise Men from Jerusalem to Bethlehem will be open for United Nations officials and foreign diplomats and consular officials. This road starts in Israel territory and enters Jordan near the Tomb of Rachel — Jacob's wife in the Scriptures. Except for Christmas, it is closed by barbed wire barriers and tank traps and guarded by Israeli troops and soldiers of the Jordanian Arab Legion — a sign of the times in the Holy Land.

Holidays Give Yule Burglars Their Chance

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (UP) — Thousands of Christmas shoppers will "invite" burglars to rob them during the holiday season, and thieves will take advantage of their carelessness, warns Detective Chief M. A. Hinds.

Every Christmas season homes are burglarized and stripped of gaily decorated gifts. Toys are even filched from under lighted Christmas trees, Hinds pointed out.

Housewives could stop many of the marauders simply by drawing the shades and by not leaving packages out on beds, tables or chairs where they can be seen through uncovered windows, he explained.

If you leave packages, coats or other valuables in your parked car you are inviting a prowler to take them.

Women shoppers who put their purses on store counters or show-cases while picking out Christmas gifts are only making it that much easier for the purse-snatcher, says Hinds.

When the stores are jammed with shoppers, he said, it isn't advisable to wear costly jewelry that a "light fingered" thief might covet.

And be careful not to flash a roll of bills.

Christmas Said State Of Mind

Heywood Brown once said "Christmas is not a date. It is a state of mind."

No man lives today who does not seek, in some way, to follow a guiding star.

When we celebrate the birthday of Christ we ought not to think of Him only as a child. Those who think Christmas is only a festival about a child, for children, veer away from facing Him as an adult.

Legends Shroud Origin Of Tree

The origin of the Christmas tree symbol is shrouded in legends that reach back to the period of Druid tree worship long before the advent of Christianity. Credit for tree decoration and gift-giving, however, is generally given to Germany, where the customs were started in the 18th or 17th centuries. Outdoor tree decorating is essentially an American trademark and a special feature of community spirit. The best known outside displays in America are on

Columbus Was First To Mark Christmas Day

America's first Christmas was celebrated by Cristopher Columbus. It happened on Christmas eve in 1492.

Columbus was planning to observe the Feast of the Nativity with the Indian chieftain, Guacangaari, who ruled over the island of Haiti. Already he had received fine presents from the chief who he believed to be great Khan of Cipango, that fabulous realm of the Orient Columbus mistakenly thought he had found.

But Columbus' plans went wrong. He was so tired from long watches while the Santa Maria cruised the island channels that he retired to his cabin for a nap. While he was sleeping, the next in command decided to take a rest and went below. The helmsman, as tired as the others, decided that he deserved a rest as much as they and they turned the tiller over to a cabin boy.

The worst happened. Within a few minutes the Santa Maria was fast on a reef. The rolling shoved the ship higher and higher upon the reef and opened her seams. Soon she fell over on her side and the water poured into her hull. Columbus and the crew were forced to seek refuge on his other ship, the Nina.

Early next morning Columbus sent word of the wreck to Chief Guacangaari. Promptly the chief sent a message to Columbus assuring him that he would give him all the assistance possible.

The chieftan was better than his word. He assembled a great flotilla of canoes and dispatched them to the Santa Maria to bring all its valuables ashore. Amid the cargo the natives saw many things that made their eyes open wide with envy. Yet so strong was their friendship for the white men and so careful Guacangaari's supervision that not a single article was stolen.

After the last article had been brought ashore, Guacangaari had another plan. His tribe had missed Christmas, but there was no reason why Columbus and the men should not enjoy the finest banquet he and his followers could provide.

There was game from the woods, lobster and fish from the sea; and all sorts of tropical fruits and vegetables. A thousand natives danced in Columbus' honor after the feasting and the climax of the ceremonies came when the chief brought out a coronet of gold and placed it upon Columbus' head. There were also presents of gold for the crew.

In the journal which he was keeping for Ferdinand and Isabella, Columbus wrote, "These people love their neighbors as themselves; their discourse, is ever sweet and gentle, and accompanied by a smile. I swear to your majesties, there is not in the world a better nation or land."

Be Sure Your Christmas Tree Not Fire Hazard

NEW YORK — (UP) — The National Board of Fire Underwriters offers these recommendations to guard against Christmas fire hazards:

1. Choose a small tree rather than a large one.
2. Store it outdoors until a day or two before Christmas.
3. When you bring it in, stand it in water and set it in a cool part of the house, away from radiators, heaters and fireplaces. Don't let it block an exit.
3. Be sure every lighting set and electric cord you use is in good condition — no worn or frayed wire, no loose sockets. (Naturally, you never use candles)
4. When you buy new sets or cords, look for the UL label. The ones that wear it have passed Underwriters Laboratories tests for fire and shock hazards.
5. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights on and off.
6. Ornaments should all be made of fireproof materials like metal or glass. Never decorate with cotton or paper unless they are labeled "fireproof" or "flameproof."
7. Never set up electric trains under the tree!
8. Don't let gift wrappings pile up under or near the tree.
9. Don't leave tree lights burning when no one is home.
10. From time to time, see whether needles near the lights have started to turn brown. If so, change the position of the lights.
11. When needles start to fall, take the tree down and discard it — outdoors!

The origin of the Christmas tree symbol is shrouded in legends that reach back to the period of Druid tree worship long before the advent of Christianity. Credit for tree decoration and gift-giving, however, is generally given to Germany, where the customs were started in the 18th or 17th centuries. Over a period of years the White House lawn and at the Rockefeller Plaza in New York City.

3 Wise Men's Names Noted

The Three Wise Men of the East who brought gifts to the infant Saviour have been identified over the centuries as Melchior, Gaspar and Balthazar.

Melchior means "king of light" . . . Gaspar or Caspar . . . "the white one," and Balthazar "the lord of treasures."

The first of the magi offered gold — the emblem of royalty; the second offered frankincense in token of divinity, and the third, myrrh — the prophetic allusion: to the persecution unto death which awaited the "Man of Sorrows."

Three Kings of Cologne, and the Cathedral there, claims their relics. They are commemorated on January 2, 3 and 4th, and particularly on the Feast of Epiphany.

Among the ancient Medes and Persians, the Magi were members of a priestly caste considered to have great occult powers.

According to popular legend, these Magi were reported to have come from the kingdoms of Tarsus, Arabia and Ethiopia.

Americans Did A Lot To Boost Old Saint Nick

It's little wonder that Saint Nick is especially generous to the American people. History proves that Americans have done a lot for Saint Nick!

According to Mab'l Johnson, research expert with the World Book Encyclopedia, the Americans have given Saint Nick a new name, a new face and figure, and a new means of transportation.

The original European version of Saint Nick pictured him as a tall, angular man who rode on a bony, gray mare. Both the horse and Saint Nick looked like they hadn't had a good meal in some time. The Saint had deep sunken eyes, and wore a flowing, threadbare cloak, and a black skullcap.

The early English settlers in this country started giving Saint Nicholas his "new look." The English children had trouble pronouncing Saint Nickolas. "Somehow the name changed to "Santa Kalouf," and finally it was corrupted to "Santa Claus."

However, this was only the beginning. In 1809 Washington Irving, in his "Knickerbocker's History of New York," wrote of the Saint as the guardian of New York City. Irving described Saint Nick as a jolly fellow with a broad-brimmed hat and huge breeches. He taught Saint Nick to smoke a long pipe, and, in the story, replaced his shuffling hay-burner with a trim wagon that floated over New York house-tops.

A short time later, Saint Nicholas' transformation was aided by Clement Moore in his famous poem, "The Visit From Saint Nicholas," written in 1822. Moore, a professor of Divinity in a New York Theological Seminary, gave Saint Nick a sleigh, twinkling eyes, cheeks like roses, nose like a cherry, and a round little belly.

Today's Santa Claus is by no means streamlined, but he is a far cry from the lean, ascetic somberly dressed fellow who, for centuries, on Christmas Eve, guided his mare through the streets of Europe.

How To Preserve Yule's Greenery

BURLINGTON, Vt. — (UP) — Christmas decorations are available almost for the asking in many sections of Vermont.

The raw materials—evergreens, cones, red or orange berries from certain plants—are easily obtained. Housewives planning to take advantage of an abundance of evergreen twigs are reminded to keep them in a cool place away from wind and sun.

A wide choice of suitable material such as balsam fir, spruce, pine, hemlock, arborvitae and other evergreens also are found in the Green Mountain State. Hemlock is difficult to use indoors because the needles drop in a very short time when exposed to dry air.

All greens last longer if water is supplied to the cut ends of the branches. The frames for wreaths or other decorations may be wrapped with a layer of moist sphagnum moss.

Tie a piece of oil paper around the outside of the moss. The twigs are then pushed through the paper and into the moist moss.

If Santa Misses Some, Maybe He Has A Reason

If Santa Claus misses some youngsters this year, it could be offered plausibly that he was not able to round up enough reindeer for his yearly trip around the globe.

The reindeer shortage has become, in recent years, much too acute. It has been estimated that wolves have destroyed 500,000 of Santa's helpers within the last decade or so, leaving an approximate 50,000.

The difficulty of keeping the animals alive in a temperate climate makes it unlikely that any of the few remaining will be transported from their native regions to other lands for the holiday season, as has been done in the past.

American boys and girls will have to be satisfied with stand-ins. The few department stores featuring Santa's complete outfit this year will be using native deer as substitute for Dasher, Prancer, and company.

Cowboy Party Yule Tradition

One of the most typical of our American holiday celebrations is the Cowboy's Christmas Ball, which has been held almost every year since 1884 in the small town of Anson, Texas.

The celebration started as a wedding party in the old Star Hotel when ranchers poured in from the widely scattered ranges to honor one Cross P. Charley and his bride. It was such a success that it was repeated year after year.

Christmas Eve brought the spirit of the old West to Anson. Cowboys donned their colorful dress, their gay shirts and decorated boots. Cowgirls outfitted themselves in gingham dresses "like mother wore." A cowboy band swung out and the dancers perform the heel and toe polka, the Varsouvienne, and other old folk dances.

Early Christians Didn't Celebrate Christ's Birth

Early Christians did not celebrate the birthday of Christ. It was not until the fourth century that December 25 came to be accepted as the presumed anniversary of the great event. In that year Pope Gregory V set his day officially. His intention was partly to absorb the old pagan festival of the returning sun (the winter solstice on December 22) in a Christian feast. A number of pagan celebrations were overlapped in this manner during the first centuries of Christianity.

In Great Britain, for instance, the 'Lord of Misrule' led the frolicking, parading and carol singing. This period of pranks and general foolishness is supposed to have descended from the Saturnalia of pagan Rome. Only a few Britons now follow this jolly old custom.

The Santa Claus tradition represents the combining of a number of widely differing relics of old superstitions and beliefs. The northern Europeans in pre-Christian times believed in a spirit of woods and fields who had to be placated now and then, or he would ruin the harvests. This being was known in Norway, as the "Nisse," and by various names in other Scandinavian countries. It is still a custom in rural regions for children to set out porridge and beer on Christmas Eve to please the Nisse. He is merging however, with the popular figure of Santa Claus.

In Britain the character known as "Father Christmas" is supposed to be a Christian version of this ancient spirit of the fields. The Dutch Sinter Klass, of St. Nicholas, is still recognizable as the god bishop of Myra in Dutch plays, but he too is being absorbed in the more popular version of Santa Claus, the fat, red-coated little man with the big bag of presents. This idea of a gift-giving deity is a German interpretation. In other parts of Germany the dispenser of gifts is "Dame Bertha." The custom of hanging up stockings comes from Italy.

Switzerland has developed the custom of parading from house to house and singing carols in a picturesque way. Costumes are remarkable. Young men and women wear headdresses representing houses, ships, mountains, and so forth. Huge sleigh bells tinkle from their waists and shoulders. These Swiss carolers also have a peculiar dance used only on Christmas Eve. In Switzerland as in other southern European countries, the gifts are brought to good children, not by Santa Claus, but by the Christ Child, who comes from the North Pole in a fairy sleigh.

In many German villages an old man with a small drum marches about the house after the Christmas dinner leading a procession. His drum is to frighten away any witches who might have come into the house during the year. He finally reaches the last room where the Christmas stands, laden with presents.

Mexican Christmas Eve is a pretty combination of the religious and the festive observance. There is a dance in every village until midnight. At the stroke of twelve the musicians play a mystical sacred melody, and everyone converges in front of the "nacimientito," of crib representation. Then the oldest woman present picks up the image of the Christ Child and marches slowly to the church for the midnight mass. When this is over, the dancing and revelry, complete with fireworks, recommences and lasts until dawn.

Members of the Orthodox Greek church who cling to the old style calendar, celebrate Christ's birthday on January 6. Many people in Greece, Serbia, Romania and other Balkan states as well as many Russians, belong to the Orthodox church. Their Christmas feast traditionally begins with a bowl of "kutya" which is a combination of wheat, honey, ground poppy seed and pecans. Mushroom soup, fruit, fish and nuts are also served. A small layer of hay is spread under the table cloth to show humility for Christ's birth in a stable. Polish people also follow this last custom.

So every country and every district often has its own special ways of keeping Christmas. The United States, being composed of people, and has adopted those it liked, and altered them to fit the American style. So it has been with Santa Claus the Christmas plays and carols, the luscious menus — everything has been gladly taken over with thanks to the many nations and peoples that have bequeathed them to us.

It Took A Long Time To Get Old Santa Fattened Up

Want to make it a real old-fashioned Christmas when you play Santa for junior this year? All you have to do is go on diet — or leave the pillows out when you put on the red suit. You'll look like S. Claus, 100 years ago.

That was when Santa was an anemic bean-pole on the Christmas cards of the era, instead of the healthy, round fellow you see today on greeting cards, in newspapers, and in department stores.

A combination of artistic progress and public demand put the weight on Santa, according to Jeannette Lee, supervisor of creative art for Hall Brothers of Kansas City, greeting card publishers.

Miss Lee, whose artists are turning out many different paintings of Santa for this year's Christmas cards, is an authority on the artistic and corpulent growth of that jolly citizen.

When Santa made his bow as a magazine cover-boy in the 1940's he was a tiny, pixie-like figure. He had spindly legs, no shoulders and most important, no "little round belly that shook when he laughed like a bowl full of jelly."

Artists of the mid-Nineteenth Century must have been rugged individuals, Miss Lee points out, because they refused to follow that wondrous description of Santa Claus in Clement Moore's Yuletide classic, "The Night Before Christmas."

Moore's poem, originally titled "A Visit From St. Nicholas," and published in 1823, described the real Santa Claus as "chubby and plump," with merry dimples, twinkling eyes, cheeks like roses, a nose like a cherry, and a beard white as snow.

America's artists didn't get the idea for years. As late as 1881 they were still painting a version of old St. Nick that looked more like an advance man for a famine.

"Possibly," Miss Lee explains, "the first painters of Santa Claus thought they had to make him literally thin enough to get down the chimney in order to preserve childhood faith."

At any rate, her research shows, Santa Claus didn't begin to gain weight and develop a rounded silhouette until the 1900's.

Nowadays, to picture Santa Claus as anything but huge, pink and happy would start a major uprising, Miss Lee says. And when you tell junior how St. Nick grew from an amaciated three-foot elf to the large economy size man who brings all the presents, it may even help persuade junior to eat his cereal.

Each of the gifts received by the Infant Jesus from the Three Wise Men had a symbolic meaning: gold expressed the royalty of the Babe; frankincense for His priesthood; myrrh for Christ's entombment.

Hints Given For Picking Yule Tree

Shop as wisely for your Christmas tree as you do for that very special gift. In order to get a lovely tree that will stay that way there are several considerations.

First, check the shape of the tree, making sure that it is uniform and full-branched.

Most important — check the tree for freshness. Gently shake a few of the branches. If needles fall off the tree is "too old."

Be sure to measure the height you want for the tree in your home, and then take that yardstick with you when you buy. A tree in an open-air lot looks smaller than it actually is. It's a waste of money buying a tree that is too tall; it also means it will have to be cut down.

Many people feel that it is worth it to spend a little more and get a fire-proofed tree. Many families are selecting the colored trees in place of the green ones. This is simply a matter of taste.

There are four kinds of trees that are popular and generally the best — Douglas Fir, White Fir, Silvertip and Minnesota Spruce.

Just How Old Is Santa?

Just how old is Santa Claus? Where does he come from? Why does he enter by way of the chimney? Why does he drive a sleigh? Even the best reference sources do not quite agree about the ancestry of the jolly, big-hearted fellow we know.

But, after all, it is so important whether the name Santa Claus has its origin in the Dutch "Sinterklaas," or in the German "Christkindl" or "Kris Kringle"?

It is generally agreed that the idea for our modern day Santa Claus began with a young boy called Nicholas over 1600 years ago.

During his early years, growing up in the Asia Minor portion of present-day Turkey, he was generous and pious. These qualities grew within him until as a man he became the bishop of Myra.

His most famous deed of generosity was directed toward three beautiful daughters of a poor nobleman. He wanted dowries for his children so they could be married.

So, Nicholas on three different nights tossed bags of gold through a window of their home, and each daughter could be married and well cared for.

Down through the centuries the story of Saint Nicholas was carried to other countries and when unexpected gifts appeared they were attributed to him.

Tree Ornaments Are Industry In Germany, Japan

The fragile bubbles of glass with which we adorn our Christmas trees are largely a family industry in Europe, especially Germany, and also in Japan.

In the tiny villages that cling to the steep mountainsides, whole families engage in the process of turning out Christmas decorations.

Special shapes and designs are the exclusive properties of certain families, the patterns handed down from father to son, for centuries unchanged.

Using a flame, the father carefully blows the thin glass tubing to the desired shape with the aid of an iron mold. His son removes the hot ornament to the cooling table. Next the mother silvers the inside, and the daughters apply painted designs.

Dutch children still wait for Saint Nicholas, or "Sinterklaas" as they call him. He is pictured as a kindly, white-bearded bishop who rides a white horse over the housetops when he lowers his gifts down the chimney.

It is to this "Sinterklaas," brought over by the early Dutch settlers, that we give thanks for Santa's custom and method of giving, for the full white beard, riding over housetops and, partially, for his name.

Santa Claus had many other forefathers, some who still bring gifts in his place to children in other lands.

Another "ancestor" of Santa came from Germany. "Christkindl," sometimes called "Kris Kringle," is a little messenger of the Christ child. This same angel also was the gift-giver to the Swiss children. There the angel arrived in a sleigh drawn by six reindeer. The elves, Santa's fine helpers, are "imported" from Norway.

Dr. Clement Clark Moore, a seminary professor, wrote "A Visit from St. Nicholas" ("The Night Before Christmas") for his children. He vividly described Santa Claus, bringing together all the many legends he knew.

In 1863, cartoonist Thomas Nast was commissioned to illustrate Moore's poem. Santa Claus, much as we see him today pictured everywhere at Christmas, emerged from Nast's drawing board 96

First Christmas Trees Believed From Germany

The Christmas tree, now almost a universal symbol, probably came to America from Germany, although tradition has it that Christmas trees originated in Egypt. The palm tree is supposed to put forth a branch every month, and a spray of this tree, with 12 shoots on it, was used in Egypt.

German writers mention the tree as early as 1605. The German prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, introduced the Christmas tree in England when he had a tree for his daughter.

years ago in New York City.

Since then, this red and white garbed fellow known as Santa Claus — with the big heart, the jolly face and abundant good-will is here to stay and is now, quite, quite real for every child!

Christmas Seals First Appeared In Denmark

Ask the "man on the street" who originated Christmas Seals and his answer will probably be, "The National Tuberculosis Association."

It's true that the first seals sold in this country were for the purpose of raising money to help stamp out tuberculosis — however, this occurred four years and thousands of miles away from the point of origin.

The idea of seals for use in charity fund raising was conceived by a postal clerk in Denmark in 1903.

Einar Holboell mentioned his plan to his fellow workers who began to help him with enthusiasm.

The idea reached King Christian, who approved, and the image of the Danish Queen Louise appeared on the first seals in 1904.

Jacob Riis, Danish-born American, saw these seals on letters and packages arriving to this country from Denmark.

In 1907, a magazine article, which Riis wrote about seals, attracted the attention of a Red Cross worker, Miss Emily Bissell. She was concerned about the fate of a small sanitarium and decided to use the idea in its behalf.

The first seal in America, designed by Miss Bissell, was a wreath of holly encircling the words "Merry Christmas."

She promptly had 50,000 of them printed, but had no way of selling them. The aid of a columnist on a Philadelphia newspaper was enlisted. Within a few weeks $3,000 was collected.

The following year, a nationwide sale was held. It was supported by publications and groups all over the country — and sponsored by the American Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis Association.

Evergreen Tree Adopted At Christmas As God's Symbol Of Everlasting Life

For centuries mankind has regarded the evergreen tree as a symbol of life eternal. When the bare leaves of hardwoods fall in the icy winds of autumn the conifers stand, still fully dressed in living green, a mute promise that life has not fled but only lies dormant for a season.

So also has the evergreen tree been gradually accepted as a symbol of Christmas, of God's gifts to man, including the promise of eternal life. The custom was adopted in Europe as early as the 15th Century and allegedly reached America during the Revolutionary War, when the Hessian soldiers erected Christmas trees to soften their homesickness.

The Revolution of a tradition as widely accepted as the Christmas Tree could not help but have many versions. It seems reasonable to accept the idea that the first trimmings used to decorate the trees were replicas of food-stuffs and small gifts. Later, candies were adopted to represent the stars of the wintry heavens which are so interwoven into the story of the Christ Child.

However, regardless of the origins of the custom it is so firmly imbedded in our holiday celebrations that few persons consider Christmas complete unless an evergreen tree stands guard in dressed up splendor over the children's gifts and sends its pungent odor through the house.

The commercial production of Christmas trees is big business, in excess of 21,000,000 trees a year. Nationally, Balsam-fir and Douglas-fir share almost equal honors in making up the first 60 per cent of the total, while Black Spruce and Red Cedar split the next 20 per cent. A long list, including almost every species of evergreen trees, fills out the total.

The states bordering Canada furnish most of our commercial Christmas trees, although about 5 million are imported annually from Canada. Large operators usually begin work in October, cutting and bundling the trees, keeping them moist and cool or on cold storage preparatory to shipment.

National and state forests furnish about 13 per cent of the annual cut. The rest comes from privately owned timberlands, generally from natural stands of conifers which nature has planted. However, some 100,000 acres of land are devoted to growing Christmas trees and farmers are finding that plantation bring good returns in a short period and can be harvested during a season when farm work is slack.

The growing of Christmas trees contributes a high rate of return from timbered lands and, when properly done, is not a threat to future forest resources. Forestry is concerned with wise use as well as perpetuation of woodlands. Trees can be raised either as a continuous crop from a plantation by replanting after each harvest, or they can be selected from a stand to ultimately reach sawlog size. Correctly done, this latter practice can be quite beneficial to the forest.

This Christmas Eve, when the youngsters have gone in excited protest to their bed, when the fire burns low on the hearth and you think of other years, remember that the Christmas Tree is the symbol of many things to many people. It is also a visitor in your home, a delegate of the forests, bringing to you a breath of the out-of-doors, of living things which serve both the physical and spiritual needs of man.

Trees Are Safer

This year Christmas trees are whiter and safer, thanks to chemicals and experiments.

The chemicals treat trees to have fire-retarding properties. Some trees put on the market this year looked like Jack Frost had made his wintry visit with fluffy white plastic and rayon fibers. Tree coating has long been a backyard procedure with hours wasted and then greenery peered through.

Next year Christmas trees will stop needle shedding, wilting and will all have a snowy look, companies promise.

St. Cyril Set Present Date Of Christmas

The history of the Christmas observance is one that has intrigued clerical and lay scholars for countless years.

Researchers have found that as far back as the fourth century, the Christmas festival was already an established custom dating back to earlier eras.

The word Christmas began as "Christ's Masse" or as in old English "Christes Masse" or the Mass for Christ. Following the custom of the church in observing the anniversaries of deaths, rather than births.

It was not until St. Cyril, Bishop of Jerusalem, set out to affirm one day for a universal observance that Christ's Mass was changed from its previous celebration in the spring (as we now observe Easter).

The good Bishop was granted permission by Pope Junius I to appoint a group of theologians to determine as accurately as possible, the exact date of Christ's nativity.

Too many years had elapsed for absolute accuracy, and after discovering various contradictions of calendars, astrological and astronomical calculations, the date for the celebration of Christ's Mass was set by the Church for Dec. 25, ber 25th.

So it is that since the year 354 A. D., this date has been observed as the date of the Saviour's birth. Members of the Greek, Russian and Ukrainian Orthodox Churches celebrate this on January 6th.

To this day, the festival of Christmas still occurs on many different dates throughout the world. Dec. 6th is the day when Christmas is observed in most Western European countries and marks the beginning of a long, happy holiday season!

Many Versions On Custom Of Gift Giving Advanced

There are many interesting versions as to how the custom of gift giving at Christmas time started.

Some believe that it all came from ancient England, where it was once the custom to hang kissing rings in the great halls. These rings were decorated with mistletoe and were the key for a pleasant holiday pastime. It is said that the young knights and ladies would come to the kissing rings with Christmas roses for their secret sweetheart.

This started it all. Now gift giving is traditional.

Yule Log Origin Is Unknown

No one really knows exactly the origin, or even the meaning, of the Yule Log. We know, however, that it is of pre-Christian origin. The ancient Druids blessed it with great ceremony to celebrate the beginning of the winter season.

In some lands even today, the Yule log is decorated with flowers and wreaths, anointed with wine, then put in the fireplace and set ablaze.

To bring good luck they tell you, the log must not be allowed to burn out during the Christmas season. Besides, a part of it has to be kept to start the fire next year.

It is believed that the ashes of the Yule log have the power to increase the fertility of the land. Thus, in many places the farmers scatter the ashes over their land on New Year's Day.

Another custom that came to us from pre-Christian time is Kissing under the mistletoe. Once the mistletoe was used as a weapon of death. According to Norse mythology, the god of Evil, named Loki, planned to destroy the god of the life-giving warmth Balder.

Balder's mother who was the most influential of all the goddesses, obtained a promise from all living things that they would not harm Balder. All agreed, except the mistletoe who hadn't been asked. So, it was with a mistletoe arrow that Loki induced a blind man to kill the sun god. However, higher powers intervened, and Balder was restored to life. The mistletoe was placed under Frigg's care and she, the mother of Balder, saw to it that it was never again used to do harm.

The custom of giving a kiss of love or peace beneath the mistletoe is an assurance that it will never again be used as an instrument of evil.

Harassed Expressions Fade When Christmas Carols Ring

One December day as a woman stood in the foyer of a large department store, she was impressed by the troubled and harassed expressions on the faces of many shoppers. It was evident that the observance of a Christmas abounding in material gifts and festivities was not making them happy. Those who were smiling, quiet, and poised were in the minority. Suddenly the great organ of the store pealed forth in the melody of a well-loved carol, and a chorus of voices took up the refrain.

And heaven and nature sing. Instantly the change in the appearance and manner of the shoppers was marked. They paused in their hurry, and an inner joy seemed to shine in their countenances. The woman thought, "Why, all of these people are hungry and thirsting after righteousness, for a way of peace and joy, and they can be filled and blessed, because the Christ, Truth, is here now for all to understand and possess."

thinking in kindness, gentleness, humility, and strength. Thus it will be evident that the Christ-idea is transforming and reconstructing our lives.

The world is speedily if not frantically rearing in fear of universal violence and destruction. What can we do about it? We can maintain the facts of the kingdom of heaven in thought and conduct. All who love God are citizens of that kingdom, where all is controlled and governed by God's law in universal harmony; where there is only one language, the language of Love, which includes no word that can provoke ill feeling or cause dissension. There is peace, progress, justice, and righteousness abound. There God is the only ruler, the supreme judge, the beneficent Father of all, who is understood by all, worshiped by all, and known by all. —The Christian Science Monitor.

Two Christmas Song Composers Born In 1685

It's strange but true: Two of the most famous composers of Christmas music were both born in the same year, 1685, lived for many years within thirty miles of each other — and yet they never met!

The composers were Johann Sebastian Bach and George Frederick Handel.

Handel's "Messiah" will be heard, at least in part, in numerous churches and schools throughout the country. "Joy to the World" is taken from the "Messiah." The musical theme of "White Shepherds Watched Their Flocks" also comes from this master.

From Bach's "Christmas Oratorio" come the themes of several other well known chorales. He is also the composer of "How Brightly Beams the Morning Star."

Nut Bowl Holds Popular Place During Holidays

Nuts from all over the world go into your holiday nut bowl. Like Christmas traditions, the nuts are a mixture of many varieties and different histories.

Other nuts, so familiar at Christmas, the hickory nut, the black walnut and the chestnut, to say nothing of the pecan, are strictly American. The pecan is native to America and is found nowhere else. Two other American nuts worthy of mention are the chestnut and the butternut.

Although many nuts originated in other parts of the world, almost every variety known is now grown on American soil and exports are constantly searching for more kinds of nuts to transplant to this country.

The round little filbert and the almond came from the old world.

True Meaning Off Forgotten Of Christmas

"Merry Christmas" . . . these words ring out clearly during this season! Smiles are warmer, hand-claps tighter, laughter — gayer. Christmas is the time for more merriment.

Though everyone knows the religious significance of Christmas, often the deeper meaning is lost in the round of gift buying, gift wrapping and gift exchanging.

Often the holiday is a trail of anticipating gifts for all potential "givers." It becomes a bit of a "swap" time with "I must get something for Mary this year, after all she did give me that embroidered cloth" . . . or other! But most important of all, more than 600 million people observe the natal day of He who is considered the greatest religious leader in history.

Although in the 1,939 years following His birth, the Christmas celebration has come to be a potpourri of ancient pagan ceremonials as oft-told Christmas legends point out, the essence of the day is "it is more blessed to give than receive."

And, this simple statement gives credence to the jolly old Santa who represents the spirit of Christmas.

As the Christmas bells ring out the message of peace and goodwill, brotherhood and tolerance, giving and forgiving come to the fore in His name.

Indulgent adults say "Christmas is for the children" . . . but it is the elders who set moods and patterns of the observance.

Make this a real Christmas! Unite the family in tree trimming festivities . . . sing the old carols and listen well to the words . . . and join friends and neighbors at the church of your choice.

Plan to make His day, a family day — the Christmas Story begins with "one upon a time there was a Father, a Mother and a CHILD . . ."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy writes (p473): "God is everywhere, and nothing apart from Him is present or has power. Christ is the ideal Truth, that comes to heal sickness and sin through Christian Science, and attributes all power to God. Jesus is the name of the man who, more than all other men, has presented Christ, the true idea of God, healing the sick and the sinning and destroying the power of death."

Christ Jesus knew and understood more of the Christ, the perfect expression of God, than any other before or since his nativity. He knew that he had been appointed and anointed to demonstrate the Christ in a way that humanity could see, hear, understand, and prove, as he had proved it. We read in the Bible (John 1:14), "The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth."

... We might ask ourselves: Is there one near and dear to us burdened with a sense of helplessness and ill-health? Is there one bowed down with a feeling of hopelessness and inadequacy? Is there one grieving over past failures and shame? Is there one whose heart is aching for companionship, fearful that he is not wanted and is in the way? Is there a stranger at our gates? We can tell them of the eternal Christmas and of the Christ, Truth.

There is no past experience or present fear that cannot be corrected by divine Truth. We must produce the proofs of our correct

Carols Date Far Back Into Ages

The giving of gifts has been an important part of the holiday season ever since the Wise Men and shepherds brought gifts to the Holy Child in Bethlehem. Gifts expressing love and goodwill are given all over the world at this time, but the bearer of these differs from country to country.

After the Christmas Eve feast in Poland, Mother Star, who is dressed like an angel in a white robe and veil, distributes the gifts after Father Star, who is a bit to be feared, listens to the children's prayers and catechism.

In Norway, they remember the birds and animals with seed and choice sheaves of grain tied to trees and roof tops; extra fodder is provided for the cattle.

Candles shine from every window in Bavaria to light the Kristkind on her way from home to home. She is the messenger of the Infant Jesus and Bavarian children believe that she brings them their gifts. She wears a white robe and has golden wings.

In Holland, Dutch children wait anxiously for the arrival of St. Nicholas. Dressed in traditional Bishop's robes, he carries a crozier and wears a mitre. He brings gifts for the children which he places in their shoes standing in the chimney corner.

Gifts are given to the Swiss children by a radiant angel who rides in a sleigh drawn by six reindeer. English children wait for Father Christmas who puts gifts in their stockings. They also find gifts tied to a Christmas tree.

In Spain, the Three Wise Men deliver gifts as they continue their way to Bethlehem.

"La Befana," the mystical wanderer in search of the Christ Child, delivers the gifts to the children in Italy. She is represented carrying a broom and goes from house to house.

OLD-FASHIONED Christmas Wishes

We're old-fashioned enough to get sentimental about Christmas . . . to conjure up visions of happy reunions, stockings hung by the hearth, tinsel hung on the tree. In this hearty spirit, we wish you the season's best!

We wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to the many people who patronized our Christmas tree lots.

Magis Were Priests Of Old

Along about this time of the year there's a lot written, said and sung about the Magi. Just who were the Magi, anyway?

The Magi were priests of an ancient Persian religion called Zoroastrianism. The Greek historian Herodotus gives a favorable account of them and their influence in a society which existed four hundred years before Christ's birth.

According to Herodotus, the Magi were powerful in public and private affairs. They conducted the education of the young princes, and were in constant attendance upon the king as counselors.

This description of a Magi appears in the sacred writing of Zoroaster: "Thou shouldst call him priest, who sits the whole night thru and veils for holy wisdom that enables man to stand upon death's bridge, fearless and with happy heart, the wisdom whereby he attains the holy and glorious world of paradise."

The three Magi, or Wise Men, who followed the Star of Bethlehem and brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Christ child remain nameless, but they were the first to recognize the importance of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Merry Christmas Wasn't Always So In America

Merry Christmas has not always been merry in American history. Unmerry times started early.

The Pilgrims landed at Plymouth four days before Christmas 1620. Christmas day found them between the Mayflower and the cold, hostile shore. Most of them were still living on the ship. And they didn't believe in celebrating Christmas anyway.

Carols Date Back For Centuries

Christmas season — clear crisp nights, stars and sparkling lights . . . and Christmas Carols ringing across the scene!

Many of the carols we hear this Christmas have been handed down generation to generation, century by century.

Changes have been made in words and music, according to the changing times, but most of the Christmas songs will be just as you might have heard them hundreds of years ago.

According to the Bible story of Christmas, the first carol was sung by a chorus of angels — the "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," "Glory to God in the Highest."

The early settlers in America brought many of the old European carols to our country, thus giving us a heritage of songs as no other country in the world enjoys.

"Adeste Fideles" which we also sing with the words "Come All Ye Faithful," long a traditional hymn, has an unknown origin.

"Away in a Manger," Luther's hymn, came to us from Germany. "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen" from England and the lovely "O, Holy Night" from France. From Austria came "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Americans, too, have contributed to our rich heritage of Christmas songs. The Unitarian minister Edmund H. Sears composed "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

Perhaps the best known and most beloved of all American carols, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was written in 1868 by Phillips Brooks, a young Episcopalian minister.

The gay holiday song, "Jingle Bells," has been popular for almost a century and was composed by another American, churchman, John Pierpont.

Our big selection of Christmas songs, hymns and carols express the friendly, joyful spirit of the season . . . and are loved by all!

3 Iles Are Named For Christmas

Although Santa Claus doesn't live on any of them, there are three islands in the world named Christmas.

One is the largest atoll in the Pacific ocean. It was discovered in 1777 by Cook, and annexed by Great Britain in 1888. The island is about 100 miles round and less than 100 people live on it. They earn their livelihood by cultivating the island's coconut its own highest ground reaches more than 1,000 feet above sea level. It also belongs to Great Britain and a few hundred Chinese, Malays, Javanese, and a few Europeans are engaged in the shipping of phosphate of lime.

Christmas island in the Little Bras d'Or, Nova Scotia, 30 miles southwest of Sydney, is a tiny fishing island of 1,400 population.

Games Make Yule Joyful

Christmas is the time for family get-togethers. One of the best ways to make these gatherings memorable for all concerned to engage in games which the whole group can play.

A nice one to start off with would be a Sugar Plum Hunt. Have one member of the family hide Christmas candies ahead of time in various nooks and corners around the house. At a given signal everyone starts hunting and gathering the pieces. The one who gathers the greatest number would be given a prize.

The Christmas Puzzle is another good one to get things going. Look through some magazines, which are filled with pictures of Santa Claus at this time of year. Cut out enough of these to go around, paste them on stiff cardboard, and cut them into pieces. Then put each group of pieces in a separate paper bag. At the signal, everyone opens a bag and starts putting the puzzle together.

The Christmas Scramble Contest is good for group with older children in it. This is simply a contest to see who can unscramble a group of words the fastest. Just for fun, see if you can wear out the following—astna, erireden, ehsgil, dynca, gosinkct, erte, trepen, hupnc, alsorc and niborb.

Washington's ragged troops were crossing the icy Delaware in the dark early morning hours of Christmas 1776. They defeated the Hessians at Trenton next day.

Christmas 1786 found unrest in New England. Shay's rebellion flared that day. The rebels had a rough time.

In 1837, Col. Zachary Taylor and his troops were down in Florida fighting the Seminole War. Christmas day found them fighting and defeating the Indians at Lake Okechobee.

The Mexican War also saw Christmas day action when Col. Doniphan and 450 volunteers defeated 1,100 Mexicans at Brazito in 1846.

The national Capital had trouble the Christmas of 1851 when the Library of Congress and part of the Capitol burned.

Nine years later on Christmas, 1860, South Carolina issued its declaration of independence, the spark that made the Civil War inevitable.

One of the early railroad strikes, that of 1887, started Christmas day. Some 20,000 employees of the Reading Railroad walked out.

The surrender of Hon. Kong on Christmas 1941 was part of American history, but Americans watched the event anxiously. It was one step in the advance of the Japanese which came after the pearl Harbor attack in 1941.

One of the classic Christmas of the unmerry type will long be remembered by the men defending Bastogne in 1944. The Battle of the Bulge and the fight for the defense of the little town were at a climax. It was just two days later that the isolated Bastogne garrison was relieved. That Christmas day found the boys deep in fighting.

'Snapdragon' Was Popular In England

A game called "snapdragon" was very popular at Christmas time in England more than 600 years ago. To a limited extent it is still played in some parts of England, as well as in America.

The original game called for a quantity of raisins to be deposited in a large bowl or dish. Brandy or some other spirit was then poured over the fruit and ignited. At a given signal, the participants attempt to snatch a raisin from the blazing bowl.

Dominican Yule Parties Are Titled 'Aguinaldos'

CIUDAD TRUJILLO — (UP) — Gay Christmas parties called "aguinaldos" characterize the holiday season in the tropical Dominican Republic where there are palm trees instead of evergreens.

U.S. tourists in this Caribbean country at this season of the year will witness a blend of traditional Spanish observance of Christianity's greatest holiday as well as Dominican celebrations which are unduplicated anywhere else in the Spanish-speaking world.

Three Saturdays before Christmas Eve, every Dominican club and social center organizes its own Christmas parties. Groups of young men and women perfect grand marches and parade dances for the holiday season.

Participants and guests sing traditional folk songs known as aguinaldos, a term applied to the parties in general. These songs, sparkling with humor and gaiety may, perhaps, be compared with "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," or "Jingle Bells."

On the evening of Dec. 23, small groups of the "younger set" take to the streets in party clothes for midnight calls at friends' houses. One of the favorite songs for this occasion, "Abreme la puerta" (Open the Door), stems, of course, from the Biblical story of the search by Mary and Joseph for shelter on the eve of the birth of Jesus.

Dominican youth, however, saving its religious fervor for the Nochebuena or Christmas Eve religious observance, uses the night of Dec. 23 for merrymaking. Dance music is usually provided by a trio of accordion, drum and guira (a dried, notched gourd scratched with a piece of wire). Everyone dances the infectious merengue, the lilting Dominican dance that rivals the mambo in the West Indies.

At the aguinaldos there is always plenty of exotic Spanish and Dominican food, including fruits, hot dishes, and Dominican coffee and rum.

A week before Christmas Eve, religious observances begin in Dominican churches, which are headed by the oldest cathedral in the New World, the Cathedral of Santo Domingo in the capital. In it are the remains of Christopher Columbus.

Daily masses offer Dominican expressions of thanks for the birth of the Savior before magnificently decorated altars. These special masses are embellished further with massed choral singing and playing of musical instruments such as small bells, tamborines and the blowing of whistles. Work-

Dickens' 'Christmas Carol' Still Classic

"Once upon a time — of all the good days in the year, on Christmas eve — old Scrooge sat busy in his counting-house. It was cold biting weather; foggy withal; and he could hear the people in the court outside, go wheezing up and down, beating their hands upon their breasts, and stamping their feet upon the pavement stones to warm them. The city clocks had only just gone three, but it was quite dark already — it had not been light all day — and candles were flaring in the windows of the neighboring offices, like ruddy smears upon palpable brown air."

This is the scene set for one of the great Christmas classics of the English language, "A Christmas Carol." And Dickens proceeds in his inimitable prose to create for readers of all time an unforgettable story of Christmas. From his matchless pen steps the immortal Scrooge, Bob Cratchit and Tiny Tim.

This was the first of a series of Christmas stories which include "The Chimes," "The Cricket on the Hearth," "The Battle of Life," and "The Haunted Men." But none had the instant popularity and continued appeal of the "Christmas Carol." Here is embodied the festivity, the good will, the true spirit of Christmas that few writers have been able to capture.

Dickens himself knew very little of the comfort and happiness in his early life. He was born in a sordid slum area in Portsmouth, England. His father was in a debtors prison most of Dickens' childhood. Dickens was a man acquainted with poverty and distress, but in his works is no mark of bitterness or self-pity.

Much criticism, however, has been directed at his note of reform through melodramatic pathos and excess sentimentality. Actually this does not affect his art, for his crusading motive is a reformed and more humane quality of his genius.

Every character that Dickens touched became alive; from the gentleman who asked Scrooge for a donation for the poor, to his little sister, Fran. His sense of words is exquisite, and his ability to coin names unsurpassed. Picture a "Mr. and Mrs. Fezziwig," or for that matter, a "Tiny Tim." In an instant the character is drawn and colored.

But perhaps the most miraculous quality Dickens possessed was that of enveloping his characters, action, and plots with a cloak of fantasy, so that while you are reading about the kind of people who live next door, or who deliver your groceries, you can also find yourself in an aura of spiritual poetry.

So, as you read and hear again this ageless Christmas carol, and sit in once again at the Cratchit's Christmas dinner, you may pause to wonder about the magnificent Englishman who wrote it. Who was Charles Dickens? And a biographer has answered, "He was a banner in the sun, the wind his genius, his novels, the dancing shadows." So, for long years to come, as long indeed as anyone reads English, we will seek shelter in his books in time of our tribulation, in time of our prosperity. And there, in this deep shelter, waits for us the power that possessed Charles Dickens — his jery indignation against wrong, his glowing faith in human freedom, his impassioned conviction that in the end good must conquer evil."

Liquor Plays Fatal Role On Holidays

Last year almost 600 people lost their lives over the Christmas Holiday, more than half of them because of alcohol.

This cheerful season has become a season of mourning. All over the nation, grim heaves will follow in the wake of Santa's sleigh with victims who had too much cheer and too little caution on the road afterward. There are more auto accidents on Christmas Eve than on any other holiday.

The principal reason: drivers who have been drinking. No driver should ever forget this: having more than one ounce of alcohol in one hour, makes you a "dangerous" driver!

Traffic accidents on Christmas Eve have reached a staggering total in recent years. New Year's Eve is a close second.

In 1957, a four-day Christmas vacation, resulted in 706 fatalities! Last year there were "only" 590 people killed. Between forty-eight and fifty-five percent of these deaths were caused by drunken drivers, or by drivers who had something to drink, according to the National Safety Council.

Police and traffic authorities everywhere agree that the drunken driver, even the mildly intoxicated one, is more dangerous on the highway than the speedster, reckless driver, thrill seeker or thoughtless driver.
