Air Of Mystery Wraps Defense Papers Theft

Ex-Pentagon Employee Isn't Held For Espionage; Vows He's Right

By CHARLES WALTER

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — An air of almost genial mystery surrounded the arrest of a former Pentagon employee accused of stealing about 200 secret defense documents today. For one thing, Arthur Rogers Roddey, 35, said at his arraignment Thursday he planned to turn the secret papers over to the National Security Council of the Defense Department. For another, the FBI did not charge him with espionage.

Roddey's wife, at the home of her mother here, said "We weren't surprised when the FBI came to get him, but it was still a shock."

Roddey, held in the county jail under $15,000 bond awaiting return to Alexandria, Va., refused to talk about the charges "except to say that I think what I was doing was right, even though illegal."

No one else would say very much about the case, either, and no one appeared to be in any particular hurry to get Roddey back to Washington for trial. U.S. Commissioner Henry W. Kirkland, before whom Roddey was arraigned, said the "usual procedure" was to wait until officers collected "three or four prisoners going in the same general direction" before removing anyone out of the county jail.

Roddey, a native of Rock Hill, S.C., went to work in 1958 for the Institute of Defense Analysis in the Defense Department but left last Aug. 31 under what the FBI called a "reduction in force" and the Defense Department called his failure to measure up to "competence requirements."

He had top secret clearance, but he signed an affidavit saying he had destroyed all the classified documents in his possession. Roddey was charged with stealing government property and execution of false affidavits. He also had a government tape recorder when arrested. Conviction could bring a maximum penalty of up to 25 years in jail and a fine up to $42,000.

Roving Solon Slated?

By MERRIMAN SMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy is considering a new kind of ambassador-at-large to take some of the heavy burdens of personal diplomacy and foreign travel from the White House.

Kennedy has strong feelings about extensive presidential travel overseas, particularly during the early stages of his new administration. He does not want to be hurried into a summit meeting.

He also supports putting the economic foreign aid program on a longer term basis so that countries receiving aid will not feel endangered by a sudden cut-off. He thinks much can be done to improve the overseas impact of American economic aid.

These and other feelings about personal diplomacy and foreign policy were mirrored in Kennedy's remarks Thursday night when he joined in a press conference with Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Kennedy and Fulbright spent the better part of Thursday talking about foreign policy and the domestic economy. They discussed foreign aid, foreign trade, spreading unemployment in Arkansas and expense accounts for diplomats.

What dominated their press conference, however, was Kennedy's (See ROVING, Page 3)

Rayburn Keeps Dems Guessing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the opening of Congress just four days off, House Democratic liberals gathered at the Capitol today to ponder this question:

Will Speaker Sam Rayburn try to defeat or will he try to do business with President-elect John F. Kennedy's strongest congressional foe?

The powerful adversary is 77-year-old Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., who used his power as chairman of the House Rules Committee in the last Congress to kill two of the five welfare-economic bills to which Kennedy has assigned top priority in the new Congress. A third measure which Smith tried but failed to kill was vetoed by President Eisenhower.

Without Rayburn's support, the liberals can't win and may not even launch the fight. Smith heads a conservative coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats which controls the rules committee. The committee holds virtual life or death power over all controversial legislation through its authority to decide which measures the House can take up.

"It is unthinkable that we will operate for the next two years at the tolerance and sufferance of the coalition," one key Democrat said privately today.

Yet, some of the House Democratic liberals, scheduled to hold their pre-session caucus this afternoon, were pessimistic about their chances of enlisting Rayburn's support for a floor fight to smash conservative control of the rules committee.

Without Rayburn's support, the liberals can't win and may not even launch the fight. (Adv.)

Hoover Rips Delinquent 'Coddling'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has branded as "muddle-headed sentimentalists" adults who use the term "juvenile delinquent" to describe youngsters committing vicious crimes.

The veteran crime fighter said these adults were wearing a "protective cocoon" when they described murder, rape and other violent crimes as juvenile delinquency.

"As a representative of law enforcement, I would like to see the term 'juvenile delinquency' banished forever from our language as a description for vicious acts," Hoover wrote in the January issue of the FBI's Law Enforcement Bulletin.

A better term for youngsters committing serious crimes might be "teenaged brigands," Hoover suggested.

He said juvenile delinquency to most persons meant youthful prankishness while many of the acts committed by teenagers actually were "nothing less than youthful criminality."

Hoover cited the case of five "youthful gangsters" who attacked two families in a midwestern city park like "a snarling wolfpack."

The youths, between 15 and 18, beat both husbands senseless and robbed them. Then they raped the wives, who were pregnant. Four of the youths were sentenced to 65 years in prison and the fifth to 50 years.

One Killed As Belgian Riots Swell

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI)—One demonstrator was shot and killed and another was wounded today in rioting in the strike against government austerity policies.

An official communique issued by Premier Gaston Eyskens said the shots were fired by a bystander trying to free a gendarme who had been seized by the rioters. The gendarmes did not open fire, the communique said.

The death was the first during more than a week of riots. Police arrested the man who fired the shots.

The firing came after mounted gendarmes charged with swinging sabers into a mob of 2,000 rioters smashing store windows in the heart of Brussels.

Police also switched on two powerful water hoses to disperse the rioters who were trying to stone the huge plate glass windows of the headquarters of Sabena, the state-operated airline, near the central railroad station.

At least three demonstrators were reported seriously injured. A woman was seen being carried away, unconscious with a deep saber wound in her head.

Two gendarmes also were injured. One of them was beaten by the angry mob after he fell or was pulled off his horse.

Two powerful fire hoses swung into action and drenched the screaming rioters, who were dispersed by the policemen's charge.

The clash erupted while Premier Gaston Eyskens was reporting to the cabinet on the Socialist-precipitated crisis that has plunged Belgium into turmoil.

Today's riot was the most serious since demonstrations began in the capital Tuesday. It was the first time mounted police had charged into the mob with intent.

Thursday they drew their sabers and trotted toward a crowd which scattered immediately, but today they charged at full gallop into the rioters.

The riot exploded in a broad, steeply sloping open square in front of the central station and the offices of Sabena, the state-operated airline.

The rioters had surged through downtown Brussels, shouting slogans against the government and occasionally smashing windows. When they reached the central station area they hurled rocks at the huge plate glass windows of the Sabena building.

The mob then set about smashing the windows of about 20 shops on a slope leading up to the Sabena building. At this point, the mounted police, who had followed at about 300 yards, drew their sabers and charged.

Groups of youths worked their way back through side streets and set about methodically smashing windshields of parked cars. The strikes, riots and demonstrations forced young King Baudouin to break off his honeymoon in Spain and rush back to the strike-harried capital.

Several hundred demonstrators massed in front of Socialist party headquarters when a streetcar rolled by. A group of strikers halted it, forced the passengers to get out and smashed all the windows with rocks. Only a few policemen were standing nearby and they did not intervene.

The nation has been crippled by strikes over the government's controversial economic "austerity" (See ONE KILLED, Page 3)

Public Forces Secret Regrouping

Marines Lose Holiday Beachhead

PARK FOREST, Ill. (UPI)—A suburban landing party of U. S. Marines routed from their holiday beachhead regrouped in a cove today to escape their public.

"They just walked out," said Mrs. John G. Ransford, whose house was turned into a barracks. "I'm surprised but I can't blame them. We haven't had a minute's peace. If it wasn't the doorbell it was the telephone."

"We've had photographers, reporters and television men parading through here. Girls have called wanting dates. Invitations were piling up..."

Mrs. Ransford's son, a Marine corporal nicknamed Butch, was responsible for the invasion.

When Butch, 22, was stationed in Okinawa, he told some of his buddies that it would be nice if they could all get together again sometime and suggested they hold the reunion at his house over the holidays.

Thirty-two accepted the invitation to visit the four-bedroom Ransford home in this Chicago suburb. The Ransfords graciously went along with their son's hospitality.

Butch's father farmed out three of his other children with neighbors. Mrs. Ransford stocked up on groceries. A fraternal organization donated a 60-cup coffee maker.

Then things got out of hand. The Ransfords and their Marines — eight had arrived — found themselves surrounded by newsmen who had spread far and wide the story of the holiday bivouac.

Mrs. Ransford said, "One boy called on the telephone, said he'd gotten as far as Indiana, and kept reading about the party in the papers and hearing of it on the radio. I don't know who he is, but he said he was afraid to come any farther."

The Marines withdrew for a secret rendezvous. "We're going to get together next week," Butch said, "but where and when is a secret."

2 Police Officers Promoted

Two Pampa city patrolmen were promoted today to lieutenants. Police Chief James Conner announced the elevation of Patrolmen J. B. Goad and William B. Robinson from the ranks to the lieutenant posts, effective New Year's Day.

Chief Conner said that for the time-being Lieut. Goad will take the vacant spot of night lieutenant, left by the resignation of Lieut. D. L. Day who winds up his duties with the police department New Year's Eve.

Day, starting Sunday, takes over as head of the Criminal Division of the Gray County's Sheriff's office. Day replaces Deputy Sheriff E. B. (Buck) Hazzard, whose resignation was announced Wednesday by Sheriff Rufe Jordan.

Goad, a long-time resident of Pampa and Gray County, joined the police force in February of 1951. He resides at 423 N. Stark-weather.

Robinson has been a member of the force since September of 1954, coming to Pampa from Pantex. He lives at 861 1/2 E. Frederic. Chief Conner said Lieut. Day's resignation leaves the department short one patrolman. He said he expects to appoint another patrolman within the next day or two.

International Action Posed By Laos Strife

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department is just about convinced that some form of international action is necessary in Laos to spotlight the increased intervention of foreign Communists in the civil war there.

Officials said today the brazen nature of the stepped-up Communist operations indicates (1) the involvement of Communist North Viet Nam and Red China is deeper than it had been previously and (2) the intervention has the full support of the Soviet Union.

The officials declined to say whether the United States would call for a United Nations investigation, seek an inquiry by some other impartial commission, or bring the matter before the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), which has the responsibility of preventing Communist aggression in the area.

Foster St. Mail Box Withstands 'Charging' Auto

Uncle Sam's mail box in the middle of E. Foster St. in front of the post office took one on the chin last night.

Actually, the blow landed amid-ship and the sturdy mailbox returned punch for punch.

One of the two mail boxes, placed there for the convenience of motorists, was struck by an auto driven by Robert E. Hartsfield, 1213 E. Kingsmill, police said.

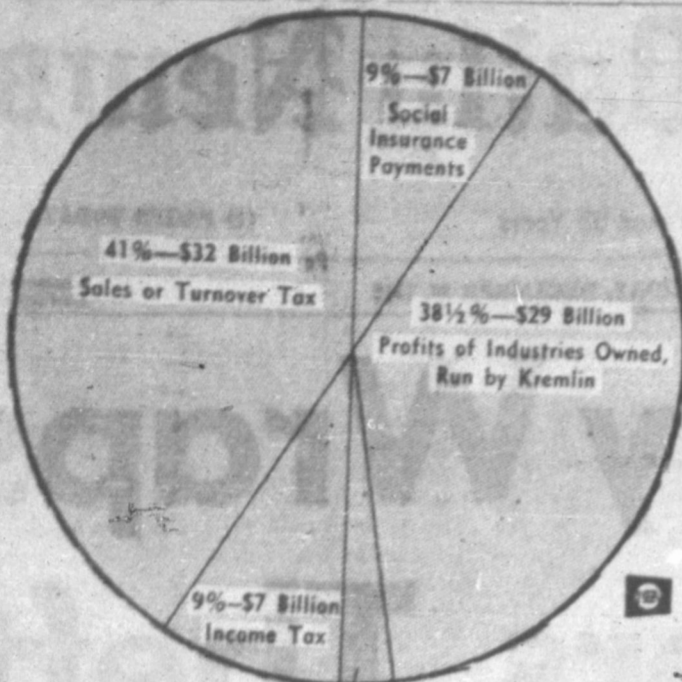

The mail box was damaged and so was the front end of Hartsfield's car.

Police Chief James Conner said Hartsfield was given a ticket for leaving the scene of an accident.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

For those who can take in large doses the contradictions of world affairs let us consider Yugoslavia.

Last month, a manifesto issued at the close of a summit meeting of world Communist leaders in Moscow roundly condemned Yugoslavia for activity damaging to "the unity of all the peaceful forces in the world."

Chief instigator of this blast was Red China which accuses Yugoslavia of threatening the "ideological purity of Communist doctrine."

But scarcely had the delegates left for home, than nations of the Soviet bloc put on a display of friendship for Yugoslavia unprecedented since Nikita Khrushchev's visit to Belgrade in 1955.

Most Kennedy Aides Are Paying Own Expenses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With few exceptions, officials of the Kennedy administration are paying their own travel expenses in these busy days before inauguration.

The newly named cabinet members and second echelon appointees have been piling up air mileage flying to Washington and Palm Beach, Fla. to confer with President-elect John F. Kennedy and with outgoing Eisenhower administration officials.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said in response to an inquiry that "by and large" persons traveling any distance to Kennedy have paid their own way.

In a few cases, he said, expenses have been paid out of the Kennedy staff fund, which is financed by the Democratic National Committee. Presumably these payments were to men who could not personally afford plane tickets, hotel rooms and their travel expenses.

Some of the Kennedy appointees, such as Douglas Dillon, Treasury secretary-designate, and Chester Bowles, named under secretary of state, are men of some wealth.

It is believed that one reason Kennedy is moving his pre-inauguration headquarters to New York City next week is to reduce the travel burden on men who must see him.

messages looking toward continued friendly relations in the "interests of world peace."

This week, Tito mounted the rostrum of the Yugoslav General Assembly.

He placed the blame for the summit manifesto's unkind words on Red China but then questioned the morality of any others who would sign such a "downright untruth." This was a crack at Khrushchev.

He said he agreed with Moscow on most issues, and then turned his fire on the West where he held "certain bellicose people" chiefly to blame for world tensions.

One day later it was announced that the United States and other Western nations would loan Yugoslavia a whopping total of $275 million dollars to carry out trade and currency reforms.

Out of this welter of contradictions, two thoughts emerge. One is that temporarily at least Moscow has decided it is necessary to maintain at least a front of Communist unity, despite Tito's refusal to permit Moscow to dictate doctrine.

The other is that apparently the West has decided that some Communists are more Communist than others. Or, put another way, it is willing to make a $275 million gamble that eventually Tito can be weaned away from communism and the influence of Moscow.

Mother And 11 Children Die In Fire

LACOLE, Que. (UPI) — A mother and 11 of her 15 children perished in a flash fire in their home yesterday despite her heroic rescue efforts.

The blaze consumed the one-room house in Noyan near here in less than 40 minutes. Five bodies were found in one bed.

Mrs. Marjorie Vosburg, 43, died when she raced back into the flames in an attempt to save her children. Her husband Abel, 44, escaped unharmed.

The four surviving children were living away from home including an 11-year-old son who was staying at a neighbor's house.

Fire Chief Willy Beerworth said the fire was touched off when the father tried to re-light an oil heater that had gone out during the night. Beerworth said oil had spilled over the floor, and flames shot through the room. An explosion preceded the fire.

Both the mother and father escaped but, he said, the mother "ran back in and died."

The fire was so hot the metal beds were bent and blackened and the flames burned some bodies until they were unrecognizable, he said.

NYC Cops' Boss Draws Threat Of Jail Term

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy was under orders yesterday not to place himself above the law or he would go to jail.

Kennedy was cited for contempt of court by Justice Arthur G. Klein Wednesday and given ten days to comply with a court order or be sent to prison.

The boss of the city's 24,000 policemen said he would appeal the citation. He said he was sure he had complied with a court directive not to assign policemen to higher duties without promoting them in pay and title.

A group of 2,900 patrolmen, sergeants and lieutenants had brought suit last year to stop Kennedy from assigning men of lower rank to higher positions of command without promoting them.

In September, the group complained that Kennedy was trying to evade the court's order. Justice Klein gave Kennedy 30 days to comply.

In his ruling, Klein said Kennedy had "corrected the situation in 62 per cent of the cases but had "willfully disobeyed" the court in other cases.

Regular monthly membership luncheons of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will be resumed Monday, Jan. 9, Manager E. O. Wedgeworth announced today.

For the first meeting of 1961 the Industrial Committee has planned a program dealing with industrial development.

Speaker for the initial luncheon will be G. W. Cox of Chicago, assistant to the president of the Santa Fe Railway Co. His topic will be "What Industry Expects of a Community."

The year's first meeting will be open to the public.

"Anyone interested in Pampa's industrial development is urgently requested to attend this luncheon," Wedgeworth said. "We feel very fortunate in securing the services of a speaker of Mr. Cox's caliber."

Luncheon reservations may be made by calling the chamber office, MO 4-3241.

Police Alert Forces For New Year Eve

The State Highway Patrol, city police and the sheriff's department today were going over their annual plans to cover the Pampa area in the interest of New Year's Eve traffic safety.

Sgt. E. G. Albers of the highway patrol said shifts have been lengthened for regular highway patrolmen and extra men will be placed on highway duty from the auto license and inspection bureaus to implement the regular force.

Sgt. Albers also said special effort will be made to control speed during the holiday weekend by use of radar detection.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan and Police Chief James Connors said their departments are bracing for the annual swage of New Year's Eve celebrations.

All three law enforcement officers joined in a warning to motorists to use caution and to be sure to make that last "one for the road" coffee.

DWI Count Denied

A plea of not guilty was entered by Dock Wood, Star Rt. 2, Pampa when he was arraigned in Judge William J. Craig's county court yesterday on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Bond was set at $500.

Pampa police said Wood was cited on the night of Dec. 23 after his car struck a parked car in the 900 block of E. Frederic.

Clown Steals Spotlight In NRA Rodeo; Saves Cowboy From Bull

DALLAS (UPI)—A tiny rodeo clown from Ponca City, Okla., grabbed a big bull by the tail to save a fallen cowboy and stole the spotlight Thursday night at the National Finals Rodeo, although a calf roping record was set by an Idaho cowboy.

Buck LeGrande, 29, brought a crowd of 4,929 to its feet with his antics during the brahma bull riding event. He's only five feet, six inches and doesn't weigh much over 140 pounds dripping wet.

LeGrande grabbed the dangerous three-quarter ton bull by the tail after the animal dumped a rider and was whirling around to find the cowboy. The bull took LeGrande along the ground for a short distance before the clown kicked the brahma in the rump.

A few minutes later, LeGrande tried the same stunt on a bull named Old Wrangler. This time the bull turned around on the clown and LeGrande, narrowly missed being gored.

Harry Charters of Melba, Idaho, set the calf roping record. He roped and tied a steer in 11.1 seconds, two tenths of a second below the record set last year by Lee Cockrell of Panhandle, Tex. Harley May of Oakdale, Calif., grabbed first in the steer wrestling when he panicked a steer in five seconds flat. Don Fedderson of Sidney, Neb., took second place with one-tenth of a second more.

Billy Hale of Colorado Springs, Colo., hooked his steer to the ground in .63 seconds for third place.

James Bynum of Forrester, Tex., got a big round of applause for a gritty try in the steer wrestling. After missing on the first two tries, Bynum grabbed a steer left-handed and slapped him to the ground after 77.5 seconds had elapsed.

Harry Tompkins, of Dublin, Tex., leading contender for world champion cowboy honors with over $31,000 in winnings, held his own in the fourth go-round. He

Then, too, you undoubtedly do not use T-square and triangle to till your shrubs and flowers as does Mrs. Paul Ferster, housewife and part-time landscape designer. ## Dear Abby... One Hole In Head No Excuse For Another

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The company my husband works for had a Christmas party. I got down on my hands and knees and begged him not to go this year because last year he came home drunk with lipstick all over his face. Well, he went anyway and came home drunker this year than last and full of lipstick. I hit him on the head with a lunch bucket and cut his head open a little bit. (He was lucky I didn't kill him.) He said he only went to show the men he wasn't henpecked. Do you blame me for hitting him?

DEAR AGGIE: A woman has no more right to hit her husband than a man has to hit his wife, no matter how high the feeling (or the husband) is. Your husband certainly didn't need ANOTHER hole in his head; he has one.

DEAR ABBY: What can you do about a neighbor who, knowing perfectly well you have company, charges right in the front door, marches into your kitchen and remains there, monopolizing the conversation right up until the time your company leaves?

Honestly, I can't stand the thought of hurting her feelings, because I know I am welcome in her home any time, but I would never do to her what she does to me. I have had friends, who I haven't seen in years, come to visit me, and we have so much to catch up on, but this neighbor takes up all our time. Even my relative think twice before coming over because they know she will be here. It's getting me down. Is there a solution?

LOSING PATIENCE
DEAR LOSING: Yes. Tell your neighbor straight from the shoulder that she is welcome to "drop in" any time, but when she sees that you have company, you'd appreciate privacy. If you lose her friendship, you aren't out much.

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of a couple being engaged for sixteen years? The girl is my sister. It has become a family joke, only it's not funny any more. She is 41 and he's in his fifties. They go everywhere together. This man attends all our family gatherings and she goes to his. There has been no ugly gossip about them, but it's embarrassing for the family. Should we continue to include him as a member of our family, knowing our sister will probably die an old maid?

SOMEBODY'S SISTER
DEAR SIS: There is no law against an engaged couple going together. If your sister doesn't mind, why ostracize them?

CONFIDENTIAL TO F. D. ON

Beginners Class Fed At Party

LEFORS (Spl) — The Beginner Department of the Baptist Church held its annual Christmas party in the annex of the church.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. M. Boucher, Supt. of five year olds, assisted by Mrs. Johnny Taylor and Mrs. B. J. Horn; Mrs. Frank Cooksey, Supt. of four year olds, assisted by Mrs. Bill Cody, Mrs. J. M. McPherson, and Mrs. Philip Earhart. Mrs. McPherson entertained by telling the Christmas Story in flannelgram. Christmas carols were sung.

Red Santa cookies were served. The teachers presented the little girls with doll kits, and the boys with a car. The children presented their mothers a recipe booklet from the teachers with a pad and pencil. The children exchanged gifts.

Present were Mrs. Joe Archer, Jody and Don; Mrs. B. J. Spradlin and Katy, Mrs. Doc Harrington and Keven; Mrs. Elkin and son; Mrs. H. L. Teel, Connie, Lonnie and Billy; Mrs. J. M. McPherson

Pastor Concludes Portion Of Study

LEFORS (Spl) — Rev. Carl Nunn presented the final portion in the study, "Basic Christian Beliefs," for the Women's Society of Christian Service on Tuesday morning in the Methodist Church.

Final plans for the Christmas party held in the C. N. Barber home on Wednesday night were made in the business conducted by Mrs. W. E. Teel, president.

It was announced that the next meeting will be Jan. 3, at which time a scheduled program will be presented and a new study will be begun in January.

Attending were Mmes. Carl Nunn, Cleve Johnson, Jeff Stubbins, Theron Bradley, W. C. Breining, W. E. Teel, E. L. Taylor, Mr., L. R. Spence, B. D. Vaughn, and C. N. Barber.

and Jan; Mrs. Howard Marlar, Mike and Bryan; Mrs. Kenneth Rollins and Holly, Jory Fort, D. D. and Valencia Hill, Debbie and Janet Lacy.

Primary Group Has Yule Fete

LEFORS (Spl) — The Primary Department of the First Baptist Church had its Christmas party in the annex of the church, during the holidays with department teachers as hosts and hostesses.

Mrs. J. V. Guthrie, Mr. Wendell Akin, and Mrs. J. D. Halley are in charge of eight year olds; Mrs. Spencer Presley, Mr. L. N. Howell, and Mrs. Alba Shores are in charge of seven year old children; and Mmes. Howard Marlar, Frank Cooksey, and W. E. Dumas have charge of the six year old children.

Each child brought his parents as guests, making a total of sixty attending for the program. Miss Margie Kay Chastain read the Christmas story from Luke Two. Christmas Carols were sung.

Gifts were exchanged. The teachers presented each child with a gift and sack of fruit, nuts, and candy.

Music was furnished by Miss Barbara Halley. Punch and Christmas cookies were served. Frank B. Cooksey dismissed the group in prayer.

Kennedy Gives Nod To First Lady's Fashions

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy is a busy man these days—but not too busy to take a personal interest in his first lady's White House wardrobe.

Kennedy looked over sketches made by designer Oleg Cassini—handpicked by Jacqueline Kennedy to do her first lady creations—and he gave them his nod of approval.

"He (Kennedy) has a definite idea of how he wants his first lady to look," said Cassini approvingly.

Cassini dropped in on the Kennedys a few days ago at their seaside villa to bring the future first lady up-to-date on the clothes he is designing for all of her inaugural appearances, except the ball, and for her personal and official life in the White House.

The next step will be the fittings, beginning next week. The American designer has a Jan. 20 inauguration day, deadline to meet.

By then, he expects to have about "twenty things" ready for her including several spring outfits, wools, crepes and prints, little dresses with coats and suits.

Mrs. Kennedy wants Cassini to "coordinate everything" for her, he said, including hats and shoes. He expects to be a great "time saver" for her and points out that as first lady she will have more to think about than clothes. In this area he expects to take a load off her shoulders.

The Mature Parent Don't Re-Live Fears With Your Children

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Lately I've decided that I've not been fair to overprotective parents in this column.

I've begun to wonder whether those of us who endlessly pursue children with what we think are fears for their safety aren't reliving unremembered fears for our own.

To many of us childhood is now a misty time, lightened by flashes of safe, happy memories. But mist has moved over the scary ones — the time mother let them doctor hurt us, the time we couldn't find her in the department store, the time she was too busy to listen to what the little boy next door had done to us, the many, inevitable times we were left so frightfully undefended against life's aggressions that we had to make a point of forgetting them.

Perhaps as she pursues her children with endless fears for their safety, the Overprotective Parent is still seeking protection for the child she used to be.

Pampa News Women's Editor

For those of you who received a lovely poinsettia plant for Christmas we know that you will want to care for it as carefully as possible in order to retain the pleasant thoughtfulness of its sender for as long as you can.

We were among the fortunate ones, who received a lovely plant from our daughter, Shirley, and since we want to keep it as lovely as it is for as long as we can, we gave Anny Kay a ring and asked for directions as to its care. She supplied us with the following information:

"Place your plant near a sunny window." Ann told us. "Do not allow plants to touch cold windows. Also, avoid placing plants near doors and air registers, which cause drafts. A temperature of 65-70 degrees fahrenheit is best. Higher temperatures shorten the life of blooms."

"Water with warm water when soil becomes dry to the touch and check your plant daily." Ann continued. "Add enough water to allow excess to drain from bottom of pot. If pot dries out, submerge to rim until bubbles stop rising. Discard excess water. Wilting may cause sudden leaf drop."

To have your poinsettias bloom another season, just a little proper care is all that is necessary. Once the leaves start falling gradually withhold water. When all leaves are gone, cut back stems to about six inches.

Next Spring, replot in fresh soil, resume watering with warm water, but avoid overwatering. When weather is sunny and warm sink pot in earth outdoors. When temperatures fall to 60 degrees, bring pot indoors. Plants then require an even 60-65 degree temperature, plenty of moisture in air and no exposure to artificial light at night as artificial night lights prevent blooming.

By meticulously following these professional directions, your lovely poinsettias which appeared miraculously in a little Mexican church on a Christmas Eve many years ago, will flourish and bloom again to make a happy remembrance for your Christmas next year!

Tangerine Bowl Tonight Kicks Off Final Weekend Of Football

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — The Citadel and Tennessee Tech meet tonight in the 15th annual Tangerine Bowl, with odds-makers giving the Eagles of Tennessee a slight edge.

There were so many similarities that picking a real favorite was almost impossible.

But one of the factors in Tech's favor was its 17-6 victory over Arkansas State, which The Citadel defeated by 22-21 with a touchdown in the final minute. Arkansas State was the teams' only common opponent.

Tech will enter the 8 p.m. EST game kickoff with an 8-2 record, and the Bulldogs from Charleston, S.C. will line up with a 7-3-1 record. Tech won the Ohio Valley Conference title, Citadel was the runnerup in the Southern Conference.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Football's most important grid game—the Shrine East-West charity classic—goes on stage at Kezar Stadium Saturday for the 36th consecutive time.

It's the game in which everyone is a winner, with all the net proceeds going to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children.

The East, boasting a larger line and fast backs, has been installed as a five-point favorite.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Three points could easily make the difference in the Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl game, and both Rice and Mississippi have just the boys to do it.

Mississippi has center Allen Green, whose toe has made the margin of difference twice this year, and Rice's Max Webb has won one ball game for the ovals.

Both men have identical 6-4 records in place kicking.

Ole Miss is a 10-point favorite, but the game could still hinge on either Webb or Green.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—Rebel boosters are counting on the defensive alertness of Tennessee tailback Billy Majors and the field goal accuracy of teammate Cotton Letner to give the Grays a three-point victory if Saturday's Blue-Gray game is close.

Louisiana State Coach Paul Dietzel, head mentor for the South squad, says he will use Majors and Letner on defense with the Tennessee end always on call for a field goal attempt.

The South is rated a six-point favorite over the North which has won three of the last four Blue-Gray games. The Yankees have put back-to-back victories together the past two years for the first time in the 22-year history of the classic.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Gators and Baylor's rugged Bears — two evenly matched young giants with almost identical backgrounds — clash in the 16th annual Gator Bowl game New Year's Eve.

Some call it a tossup but the majority of pickers give Florida a slight edge, partly because of the game being played only 70 miles from the Gators' home.

Both Florida and Baylor finished the regular season with eight wins and two defeats, their best marks in years. Each also finished as runnerup in its respective league, the Gators in the Southeastern Conference and the Bears in the Southwest.

MIAMI (UPI)—Coach Dan Devine of Missouri figures he will bring a "slow, short, scrappy and fanatical" football team to the Orange Bowl Monday against Navy.

"We're not a big team or a fast team," he said, "so we scrap for everything we get."

Five of his starters are under 5-foot-10 inches.

"Even our three top defensive backs are under six feet," said Devine. "Our alternate unit is even smaller . . . and we don't have anyone who can run the 100 (yard dash) under 16 seconds."

Pampa Wins In Overtime, 59-55

Seminole, Harvesters Battle Again Tonight

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Sports Editor

Pampa's hot-shooting Harvesters, all even for the year at 6-6, go for their sixth straight victory of the year at 8 tonight against Seminole, after nipping the Indians, 59-55, in an overtime heart-stopper last night.

Tonight's game will be Pampa's last non-conference game of the season and a win will put PHS over the .500 mark for the first time this year. The Harvesters open District 3-4A play here Jan. 6 against Palo Duro.

Dependable Pat Carter, off from his usual long game, was high point for the Harvesters with 19 points, seven coming on free throws in the crucial overtime period.

Three other Pampans hit in double figures: Allen Wise, 15, and Bill Neslage and Randy Matson, 10 each.

Bob Measels was tops for Seminole with 22 points while Ron Norton almost equaled his 20-per-game average with 18 markers.

The game was filled with thrills from the beginning — the lead changed hands nine times during the game — but none could equal the three-minute extra period.

Matson controlled the tip but was called for catching the ball while still in the circle and Seminole got possession. Wise was fouled under the goal and an unhappy Seminole cager slammed the ball to the floor, causing an official to call a technical foul.

Wise stepped up to the line and meshed his 17th and 18th consecutive free throws and Carter hit the technical and Pampa was ahead, 55-52, and — according to the rule on technical fouls — the Harvesters were awarded the ball at side court, however they missed another opportunity to score when an alert Seminole player stole the ball.

The Indians' Measels was fouled with 1:25 seconds remaining and hit the first free throw of a 1-and-1 set but missed the second to cut it to 55-53.

However, Carter — after missing one free toss — pumped in two more with 1:00 left, but Norton tallied on a layup to narrow the gap to 57-55 with 15 seconds left.

With a scant three seconds left, Carter sent the Pampa boosters home happy with two more free tosses and the Harvesters had their fifth straight victory, 59-55.

Actually, the game started off like a Pampa rout as Neslage hit a layup off the boards and Carter scored on a driving layup and two jumps to give the Harvesters an early 8-3 lead that they increased to 17-9 at the end of the first quarter.

However Seminole began making serious inroads into Pampa's lead in the second quarter, finally going ahead 21-20 at 4:44 of the second period. Wise batted in a rebound to send PHS in front again, 22-21; Measels scored on a drive to push the Indians ahead, 23-22; Neslage hit a jump to edge Pampa in front, 24-23 with 30 seconds left but Measels — who gave Pampa more trouble than his name — hit a jump at the buzzer to give Seminole a 25-24 halftime lead.

The Indians, smelling their sixth victory in 12 outings, upped their one-point halftime advantage to seven points — 40-33 — midway in the third stanza before Pampa, behind Carter's two straight jump shots and Matson's bracket of free throws narrowed it to 40-39 at 2:15; then Matson racked up a layup to push PHS in front, 41-40 with 55 seconds left in the period.

Norton then hit a layup and Tom Patton stole the ball and went all the way for a cripple to give Seminole a 44-41 lead going into the last quarter.

Pampa again took leads of 47-46, 50-49, 53-52, 56-55, 58-57, 59-58, 59-57, 59-56, 59-55, 59-54, 59-53, 59-52, 59-51, 59-50, 59-49, 59-48, 59-47, 59-46, 59-45, 59-44, 59-43, 59-42, 59-41, 59-40, 59-39, 59-38, 59-37, 59-36, 59-35, 59-34, 59-33, 59-32, 59-31, 59-30, 59-29, 59-28, 59-27, 59-26, 59-25, 59-24, 59-23, 59-22, 59-21, 59-20, 59-19, 59-18, 59-17, 59-16, 59-15, 59-14, 59-13, 59-12, 59-11, 59-10, 59-9, 59-8, 59-7, 59-6, 59-5, 59-4, 59-3, 59-2, 59-1, 59-0.

Ohio St. Uses Press To Defeat St. John's

By GARY KALE
United Press International

Coach Fred Taylor ranks as the No. 1 strategist in college basketball circles today for his second half maneuver that enabled Ohio State to halt a St. John's onslaught and reach the finals of the Holiday Festival Tournament.

The top-rated Buckeyes, down 38-28, at half time, used the one defense St. John's had been troubled with all season, the press, to defeat the Redmen, 70-65, and win the right to meet St. Bonaventure for the title.

St. Bonaventure had to go down to the wire before eliminating Utah, 89-88.

Duke, Marquette, Villanova and North Carolina advanced in Dixie Classic play; Baylor and Wichita entered the final round of the All-College Tourney; UCLA and Iowa reached the title round of the Los Angeles Classic and Kansas State won the Big Eight Conference championship in other top tournament play.

Ohio State used its press for the first time this season and the type of play caught St. John's completely by surprise.

"We had to use it because something had to be done about Tony Jackson," Taylor said. "We didn't want to use it until the start of the second half to prevent St. John's from getting an inkling of how it was done."

Taylor's resourcefulness consisted of a three and two defense, with the front three men pressing St. John's ball handlers. The Buckeye maneuver rattled the Redmen and gave Ohio State control of the backboards.

Jackson, who scored 15 points in the first half, was held to nine after the intermission by the Ohio State tactics. All-America, Jerry Lucas scored 23 points. His key feeds to John Havlicek sparked the winners to a 55-53 lead and the Buckeyes were home free.

Warriors Tie For NBA First

By United Press International

It's a new race today in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

The Philadelphia Warriors tied the Boston Celtics for first place when they downed the Cincinnati Royals, 128-124, Thursday night—so the two power-packed teams are all even after 34 games.

Wilt Chamberlain led the Warriors with 27 points but their key points were two free throws each by Tom Gola and Guy Rodgers after the teams went into the final minute tied at 124-124.

Royals had rallied from a 15 point deficit to go ahead briefly by 5:55 remaining.

Oscar Robertson scored 36 points and Jack Twyman had 31 for the Royals, who remained 8 1/2 games behind the first-place St. Louis Hawks in the Western Division.

The Hawks bowed to the Detroit Pistons, 112-89, as Bailey Howell paced the winners with 31 points Thursday night.

Elgin Baylor's 28 markers sparked the Los Angeles Lakers to a 111-91 victory over the New York Knicks in the other game.

Optimists Square Off With Kansas Punchers

Pampa's Optimist Club boxers conclude the 1960 pugilistic year in fine fashion at 7:30 p.m. today when they entertain fighters from Berger, Lefors, Canyon and Liberal, Kan., in a 15-bout card at the Optimist Boys Building.

At least two fights will pit either Texas or Kansas champions or runners-up, with the keynote battle slated between Pampa's Gary Wilhelm, 1960 NCAA welterweight runner-up, and Liberal's Jerry Cline, Kansas state light-heavy champion in 1960.

Wilhelm, home on vacation from the University of Wisconsin, will be seeing his first tough competition during the holidays but can be expected to give a good account of himself.

Another prospective top bout will pit Bill Beck of Liberal and Elmer Clements of Canyon in the heavyweight division.

Beck and Clements were runners-up in the Kansas and Texas, respectively, Golden Gloves heavyweight division in 1960 and both are expected to return in 1961.

James Webb, Pampa's TKO artist, will be going for his third knockout in four fights tonight when he tangles with Pete Vogler of Hereford in a 175-pound class match.

Other good fights will find Pampa's Dickie Wills meeting Donnie Lesley of Hereford. Wills, who combines a superb defense with a stinging right, is one of Pampa's strongest contenders for 147-pound GG honors next month in Pampa's district tournament.

Also booked are matches between Ross Bond of Hereford and Dur-

McKinley Suspended After Racquet Fling

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — United States Davis Cup player Chuck McKinley said today he saw no reason for his suspension by the United States Lawn Tennis Association in view of the "conduct of other players, especially the Italians," during the matches at Perth, Australia.

USLTA President George Barnes today announced McKinley has been suspended for "acting in a way detrimental to the welfare of the game." The action was taken against the St. Louis tennis ace because he threw his racquet into the crowd during one of the matches and dropped a ball, he said.

Barnes added he and the amateur rule committee acted jointly in handing down the suspension which was also with the approval of Dave Freed, the non-playing captain of the U.S. team.

The suspension bars McKinley from participating in any USLTA authorized tournaments or matches and will stand at least until Feb. 4 when the executive committee is expected to act on the charge at its New Orleans meeting.

McKinley said he had not been informed of the suspension by the USLTA yet. "I heard it on the radio," he said. "I don't know why I was suspended . . . no one has told me a thing."

Commenting on the racquet-throwing incident, McKinley said he had already written a letter to the president of the Australian Tennis Association apologizing for his action.

"I never intended to throw it into the crowd," he said, "but, the wind carried it."

"As for the conduct of the team, I realize it wasn't good, but I don't see where it was any worse than the conduct of the Italians when I played them."

McKinley said he had reference to the action of Nicholas Pietrangeli. He charged the Italian star told him he didn't want to play any more and walked off the court during their match.

Durocher May Return To Majors With LA

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Leo Durocher, baseball's most controversial figure as an acid-tongued manager, was ready and willing today to return to the game as a coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Manager Walt Alton will come here early next month to "persuade" Durocher to take the coaching job vacated by the temporary retirement of Greg Mulleavy. "I sincerely hope that Leo will become a Dodger coach," Alton said at his home in Darritown, Ohio. "I can think of no finer man available for the job."

NEW YORK (UPI) — An unprecedented 800,000 paying spectators may watch the March 13 Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight on theater-TV and paid-home-TV, Irving B. Kahn disclosed today.

Kahn, president of Teleprompter Corporation — which has been awarded the TV, radio, movies and other ancillary rights to the fight, said he hoped for at least 600,000 for closed-circuit TV showings at theaters and other locations in the United States and Canada.

He added that Teleprompter is trying to send the fight by paid-TV to 200,000 homes through "100 systems" in various parts of the country. A total of 23,800 homes in 13 systems had paid-TV for the second Patterson-Johansson bout last June 29, he explained. There are now 700 systems in the United States, he said.

The Rush To Annex

We'll be hearing more about it next year and we've already heard a great deal about it. This is the rush on the part of city authorities to annex adjacent land.

So eager are some persons in some cities to extend city boundaries that in more than one community, strange and gerrymandered terrain results.

Most of us think of Los Angeles when we think of the epitome of a sprawling community, with annexations lying in every direction. But while it is true that Los Angeles is spread out all over the map of Southern California, and has provided us with strange pockets of resistance to city encroachment, like the Sunset strip, which is not in the city but is surrounded by it; Los Angeles can take a back seat when it comes to the annexation attainments of Houston.

And this is particularly interesting since Houston, and not Los Angeles, is now the largest city in the nation in point of land under centralized control. Yet, at the same time, Houston is one of the few cities and probably the only really large city which does not have a zoning and planning commission.

At the end of World War II, Houston covered 74 square miles. Today it has 379 square miles and is 50 percent larger than Los Angeles in point of territory. IN ITS MUSHROOMING OPERATION Houston has gobbled up the land all around at least half a dozen communities which remain as autonomous islands inside the outer boundaries.

And one of the most curious bits of gerrymandering to occur as a result of the rush to annex is a strip of land only 60 feet wide which pushes north of the city for ten miles all the way to Lake Houston, a fifty-mile-square body of water which is now a piece of city property.

Even this strange piece of legal legerdemain is hard put to it to equal the annexation move in San Diego, wherein a strip of land 600 feet wide and about three miles long, plunges southward to the Mexican border. The oddity here, in addition to items noted, is that this entire strip was under water, beneath the sun-kissed waves of San Diego bay.

But there is something highly dangerous and destructive of human rights in all these efforts on the part of urban corporations to attach more land to their cores. And we rather like the way the Wall Street Journal summarized the two principal dangers in a recent news item. This newspaper had it this way:

"There are two main motives: The desire of cities to gain control over outlying areas for zoning and other purposes, and the growing pressure on municipalities to broaden tax bases to meet the mounting costs of local government—though annexation, ironically, often pushes up these costs more than it boosts revenues. Sometimes, too, annexation is advocated by ambitious city officials anxious to extend the scope of their authority, and by outlying populations seeking to get services more economically than they could provide them on their own. A few annexations are defensive in nature, designed to beat another city to an area or to prevent a new city from being formed in the area."

Nothing New

Some folks were surprised to note that Kennedy and Nixon got together right after the election. Why the surprise? They were pretty much together all the way thru the campaign.

Eastward The Gold

We must offer congratulations to Hans Sennholz, who is chairman of the Economics Department of Grove City College, in Pennsylvania, for coming forward at this time with some pretty astute observations respecting the gold crisis.

Quite frankly, we had been somewhat confused ourselves as to the reason for the steady increase in gold departure from this nation in the past several years. Our puzzlement related to the timing aspect of the departure.

And this same process continued until recent years. Then within, say, the last ten, but noticeably within the last five years, the gold in this nation held in reserve has been flowing steadily, and in increasing amounts, overseas. What caused it to stop put in this country during the various follies of the first New Deal, and now, under Eisenhower, notably, and even more in anticipation of Kennedy, why is the gold taking wings?

It is axiomatic, of course, that gold, like any other commodity, tends to move to the location wherein greatest demand for it occurs. And with gold illegal tender in this nation, the shift in gold to other countries has been predicted for twenty-five years without much happening.

Now it is happening. What is the difference between the economic climate of today and that of the pre-World War II period?

Sennholz we think, has put his finger on the reason. He points out that in the 30's, Hitler was on the rise in Germany... and he could have pointed out that turmoil gripped Spain and socialism was coming up in importance in the Scandinavian countries and in Britain.

In view of the general condition in Europe and Britain, even though American financial manipulations were in error, still American gold markets looked good by comparison. Hence, the gold stayed where it was.

Indeed, new supplies of gold came to us from overseas, making it appear that our economy was sound. Actually, it was only Articles for this column are preferred to be 200 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed. All letters must be signed.

The U.S. Supreme Court has made a shambles of our anti-secession laws the past few years, thus permitting the cause of "Faban Socialism" to be advanced in bold and rapid strides. The American Bar Association, in a special report to Congress, has urged recommended repairing the damage and fortifying our anti-secession laws twice in the last two years without success.

Although legislative bills have been submitted, no favorable action has been taken on them as there appears to be strong adverse pressure working on Congress not to take action on any such bills. For this reason Congress is "sitting on its hands" in regard to this entire issue and undoubtedly they will need plenty of urging from the grass roots if we are to correct this very vulnerable and dangerous situation in the immediate future.

It should be quite clear to everyone that our law enforcement agencies are bound to be ineffectual unless they have the proper laws and tools to work with and obviously they are now practically helpless to check the increasing infiltration of subversive characters into governmental and educational affairs. Our citizens should recognize that this is a matter so touchy and delicate that both political parties left it out of their party platforms and rather preferred to "sweep it under the rug."

Are we going to let Congress hoodwink us on Senate Bill No. 2632 (To strengthen the Internal Security of the United States by Senators Dodd and Keating) and permit them to "sit this one out" also?

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

This column is especially addressed to the parents of a teenage daughter who might like to learn something about foot mechanics so she can keep from getting "hurdy feet" like her fashionable elders who consistently arrive home from work, date or a party in stockings, carrying narrow high heeled shoes in their hands.

If she runs her fingers over the ball of her foot while she wiggles her big toe, she'll easily locate the joint that separates the base of the big toe from the head of the metatarsal (the foot bone with which the toe articulates).

If then she will do the same thing with each of her toes she will find that each has a metatarsal of its own. And that together the metatarsals form an arch whose open end (convexity) rests on the floor when she stands or walks.

If the youngster will now walk barefooted across the room, she will observe that she first places her weight on the heel and then, by a rolling movement, transfers her weight to the region of the metatarsal arch as she advances forward. Through this heel-and-toe gait, she distributes her weight over the breadth of her sole.

If she will now put on a pair of fashionable narrow shoes with high heels and a pointed tip, she will see that the area of weight bearing is concentrated on the heads of the metatarsals, especially that of the great toe.

And if she now examines the foot of one of her elders who has been wearing fashionable shoes for any length of time, she'll probably find a bunion at the base of the great toe, a corn on the side of the little toe, and between the two a collection of calluses and plantar warts.

Now, if she runs her fingers over the sole between bunion and corn, she'll discover that the metatarsal arch has collapsed so that its open end (convexity) looks up at her when she looks DOWN on it.

Finally if she will question her fashionable elder, she will learn that between the bunion, the corn, the calluses and the fallen arch, her feet are "killing her". And if the now informed youngster asks her elder if it isn't more correct to say that the owner of the feet is "killing them," she may be accused of impertinence.

Now here's what your teen-age daughter can do if she is unwilling to pay for a fashionable appearance at the expense of the aforesaid bunions, corns and calluses, to say nothing of swollen ankles, arches and pains along the metatarsal arch, and violent spasms in the calves.

She needs merely content herself with laced oxford shoes that have a medium Cuban heel, according to Dr. Stuart A. Thompson of Toronto and others of us who have made studies of the relationship of shoes to foot mechanics.

And here's what your daughter's fashionable elder can do if she's already made a mess of her metatarsal arch. Let her request her doctor or an orthopedic specialist to provide her with a metatarsal pad that can be fitted in the laced oxford by an expert shoemaker.

Americans Really Threw Money Around in Twenties

By WESTBROOKE PEGLER

The news that we are really up against it for spending money is a shock to Americans who thought the party would go on forever. To be sure, relatively few of us have ever been in Europe, except in uniform, or even in Havana or Hawaii.

Few have spent a night in the Waldorf or the Mayflower or danced in the Stork or dined in 21.

But for many years, and I would start about 1920 when money became abundant and prohibition became a thing of the past, we were the most extravagant people who ever lived.

Peoples of other countries formed an impression of us from the conduct of spendthrift tourists which cost us dearly in money, friendship and reputation. The American who set fire to a 100 Franc note to light a dollar-cigar in a gaudy Paris restaurant became a familiar figure. The dispute which he created extended to many others who did not share his manners.

Here at home, first in New York and Chicago, and later in a few other cities, old mansions were converted into speakeasies and the custom of "entertaining" parties of six or a dozen with chemical champagne at $15 or $20 a quart took root in the social life and economy of the country. People still had homes and the oncoming suburban generation planted flowers a n grass and entertained their friends decently at their own tables, but almost necessarily with frightful fruit-juice drinks containing bath tub gin. But an era, a wild state of mind was coming on.

"Successful" young business executives in New York and Chicago had bars in their offices and could barely wait until 4 o'clock to have the other fellows of their industries over for drinks. Showing off in Chicago some such men were childishly proud to say they knew Al Capone and had connections. Thus they got the real McCoy although many of the green revenue stamps on stuff that was supposed to be bonded were laughable.

In the 'forties in New York members of the rising cult of advertising men drank hard booze at lunch and in a few years were not going back to the office until just in time to sign their letters toward 5 o'clock. Most of them are dead now, poor fellows.

The traffic to and from Europe, mainly Paris, was enormous right down to the second war. London never has been popular. London is one of the loneliest places on this earth to a foreigner below the luxury level and her own spendthrift element are fewer in proportion to her population than ours. Her Soho at night is hellish.

Rome's attractions of the Parisian type have developed only recently. Movie people, garish and indecent, gave Rome this impulse but down to the present there have been many other Americans with heavy money to spend helling around Rome far into the night.

I think we must be in real trouble if it is true that the exemption from import duties which tourists are allowed on perfume, lingerie and such stuff bought abroad can make a serious difference in our equation with, say, France. Suppose it is $500 for each person twice a year. But we always did permit some allowance and it stands to reason that tourists are not flying over and back twice a year merely to save the little import duties on luxuries for personal use.

No tourists ever tipped as crazily as Americans. For a few years between wars the Argentinians ran wild but they were few and they petered out under Peron.

During the Summit Conference when the overrated and generally tacky hotels of Geneva were jammed to the eaves, I lived in a miserable pension up a long hill on a car-line. The cars had square wheels and strident brakes. This experience was an awful ordeal.

But the Concierge liked me because I was an American with the silly American standard of tips.

He hated Belgians who came banging through in great chartered buses on vacation tours. His porters would hardly touch the Belgians' baggage but the Belgians seemed not to mind. They trundled their own and they had never been schooled in the idea that people who had earned their money had a duty to give 10 or 20 per cent of an excessive board bill to an impudent swine in a froxy uniform with golden keys on the collar — for nothing. But the tourists whom this Concierge absolutely loathed with physical tremors or revulsion were the dark people from India. They were uncivilized. They never bought any drinks in the tea room or bar, for alcohol was against their religion, and they did not tip anybody, anything.

Why should they?

Germans are stingy tipsters. They gave us the Dutch treat, remember? So are the French.

I have often thought of their calm, resolute apathy toward sulking waiters. They never forget that waiters, doormen, maids, bellmen and porters all have unions. Their pay is agreed by contract with the owners. If a dentist does a good job, does the patient owe him 20 per cent on top just to see the sunshine of his smile?

Goes To Rome To Pick Bowl Winners From Long-Range

By HENRY McEMORE

ROME, Italy — The long range view is very important. Everybody knows that.

It was for that reason, primarily, that I came to Rome. For once I wanted to be able to pick the Bowl football games from afar.

For once I wanted my selections to be free of knowledge of who played on the teams, how they fared in the regular season, whether they were given to recruiting or whether they just played the muscular boys who happened to wander in and register, and whether the coach got twice the salary of the president of the college or university.

During my years as sports writer this approach was impossible, and I always came up to picking the Bowl winners burdened with facts. Some of the teams I had seen play, lots of the coaches I knew, and in some years I even was on speaking terms with guards, tackles, and wingbacks.

This made an objective approach to the selection of winners impossible.

Now, for the first time, I know nothing, and I am confident that my percentage of winners will be as high, or higher, than those men who have lived, breathed, and talked football since the first recruit — I mean student — showed up for spring practice.

In the Tangerine Bowl, on Dec. 30, named in honor, I believe, of a Dr. James Tangerine, who devoted so much of his time to the treatment of charley horses in football players, I like Tennessee Tech over The Citadel — no matter by how many points. One point is as good as fifty. No one remembers the loser.

On Dec. 31, when Bowl games break out all over like measles in a kindergarten sandbox, my choices are:

East over West in San Francisco. Utah State over New Mexico in the Sun Bowl, named, I have heard, after Dr. Sun, a prominent and distinguished herb doctor.

Blue over the Gray in Montgomery, Ala. It's about time history repeated itself.

Copper Bowl — Southwest All-Stars over National All-Stars.

Arkansas Tech over Texas A and I in the Great Southwest Bowl. No information as to how or why this Bowl was so named, but it's to do with the section of the country in which it is played, I believe.

In the Prairie View Bowl I look for a tie with Prairie View getting 13 points and Arkansas A and M getting the same.

On Jan. 2 Washington will outrun and outpass Minnesota in the Rose Bowl, Missouri will handle Navy in the Orange Bowl, Arkansas will beat Duke in the Cotton Bowl, and Mississippi, far and away the best team in the country, will do what it pleases to Rico.

In the Senior Bowl on Jan. 7, named for a Mrs. Lucretia Senior, first woman to sponsor a clay pigeon shoot in Mobile, the team with the highest aggregate average and the lowest scholastic average will win.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

THE STORY: Bart Wagner has been assisting a widow, Catherine Lewis, whose husband was shot by desperadoes. Now she Jones, one of the outlaws, has offered Wagner money to force her to leave her ranch. Wagner refused, but Jones believes he can force Wagner to obey.

XVI
He was sound asleep in the shed when he heard the pounding hooves through the earth. In the bright moonlight, three men swept across the empty ranch yard near the cottonwood tree and old Ben's grave. The drumming hooves had awakened Catherine too, for a small-sized clap of thunder went off, and the ranch yard was lighted for an instant by the yellow flame of gunpowder. He stayed in the shed. Two more riders came in from the west. He sat in the dark and watched them go. But in a moment the old Shags spoke again, and the riders split and went wide around the house.

He set his hammers at half-cock and examined both .44s. There were five cartridges in each cylinder. He put them back in their holsters and stood up alongside a cottonwood post that held up one end of the roof of the shed. He watched the five men come together in a group not 50 feet away, and heard them talk in low voices. "Let's try one more run. Maybe that Wagner feller will get her under control." "He sleeps in the shed. Jones told me. Prob'ly he isn't even awake yet." "Go see if he's back there," said the deepest voice. One man rode away from the group, and Bart waited. The man started to dismount at hear her bare feet padding on the floor.

He closed the door behind him, and heard her push a cartridge into the chamber of the Sharps. He smelled the faint fragrance of her sashet in the dark, above the acrid smell of black powder. Then he heard hooves drumming. "It's company again," she said, and put the rifle barrel through a window.

The outlaws split and went around the house on both sides. This time bullets smacked into the sod walls. One came through the window; glass shattered and sprayed over the floor, but again Catherine's rifle boomed. He waited for a moment, but the outlaws were gathering out by the shed.

He heard her bare feet on the floor, and then a suppressed scream and a sharp intake of breath. "You hurt?" he asked. "What's the matter?" "I—stepped on glass." He struck a match and looked at her in her white muslin nightgown, her hair in two long black braids down her back. She was smaller without her shoes on. Her left foot was in a pool of blood.

He helped her to a chair. She tucked the nightgown carefully under her legs, and he saw her foot bleeding freely from a cut over two inches long.

"Stay out of that glass until I get it swept up," he ordered, and went to her bed behind the curtain to get her shoes. Before he reached her, he heard the hooves again. He dropped the shoes in her lap, and ran to the window.

Bart noted grimly that they were shooting high enough not to hit her. He saw the fifth man go by, and took a shot at him. The man yelled.
