UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States and Britain fought to win new General Assembly support for Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld today and to beat back a Russian attempt to wreck the United Nations operation in the Congo.

Assembly delegates, rushing to start a Christmas recess Tuesday night, faced all three top problems of the 15th session today: The Congo, Algeria and disarmament.

The world parliament itself scheduled three meetings and hoped to finish work on both the Congo and Algerian questions. Its 99-nation main political committee booked morning and afternoon meetings on disarmament.

Observers predicted passage for an Anglo-American resolution on the Congo submitted Sunday. It requests Hammarskjöld to continue his efforts to restore and maintain law and order throughout the country in the face of civil war between supporters of ousted leftist Premier Patrice Lumumba and the troops of strongman Col. Joseph D. Mobutu.

The resolution calls on Hammarskjöld to do everything possible to create conditions to enable President Joseph Kasavubu to reconvene parliament "in security and freedom from outside interference."

A resolution sponsored by Yugoslavia and eight Afro-Asian countries also calls for a reconvening of parliament, but couples it with a demand for restoration of Lumumba, now held by Mobutu's troops, as head of government. The second measure also demands the disarming of Mobutu's forces.

Ex-Major Who Led A-Bomb Raid On Hiroshima Arrested At Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — Claude Eatherly, a former Air Force major who led the atomic bomb raid of Hiroshima and who was driven to a post-war life of crime by guilt feelings, was arrested today after a traffic violation and put into the county jail.

Eatherly, 42, who had a woman with him, was arrested after running a red light. Ordinarily running the light is not cause for arrest, but a deputy sheriff said he had a "hold order" for Eatherly, who walked off from the Veterans Administration Hospital psychiatric ward at Waco, Nov. 11.

WELCOME FOR HARVESTER BAND — Hundreds of people turned out yesterday to greet the Pampa High School Harvester band following their return from Chicago and the Midwest Band Clinic where they received a rousing ovation following their Wednesday performance. In the upper photograph, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tregoe are shown with Elmer Wilson, left, a member of the school board, who presented Tregoe, the band director, with a new trumpet, after Mayor Ed Myatt had presented Mrs. Tregoe the bouquet of roses she's holding. ## West's Leaders See No Summit Meeting

PARIS (UPI) — The Western foreign ministers foresee no summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for a long time, authoritative diplomatic sources said today.

Instead, they favor a foreign ministers conference with the Soviets, if there must be a conference, sometime next spring to explore what Russia is up to.

Khrushchev is expected to resume pressure for East-West negotiations early in the new year, shortly after the inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy. Berlin appears to be the next issue on which Moscow will want urgent talks with the West.

Western ministers now hold that such negotiations should first be tackled by foreign ministers and not by the heads of governments which is what Khrushchev wants. A year ago European nations were pressing for direct talks between Western leaders with Khrushchev.

But at the three-day NATO council meeting which ended Sunday, the consensus was that the Big Three Western leaders—the United States, Britain and France—should not allow themselves to be dragged unprepared to the conference table.

U-2 Spy's Dad Plans New Bid For Son's Release

POUND, Va. (UPI) — Oliver Powers, father of Soviet-imprisoned U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, plans to renew his appeals for Soviet authorities to release his son after President-elect John F. Kennedy takes office.

Powers said he and his wife Sunday that he did not plan any special holiday appeal for his son's release. He said he thought the Soviet government might wait until next May 1, the first anniversary of the international spy plane incident, to make the most of a pardon for propaganda purposes.

Powers said he and his wife also had no plans for any special Christmas effort to contact their son. "We're not even going to try to call him," Powers said. "It wouldn't get through anyway."

He said his daughters had sent Christmas cards.

McCone To Quit AEC Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atomic Energy Commission Chairman John A. McCone says he will resign from the AEC and return to private life when President Eisenhower leaves office.

It had been believed that McCone would step down as AEC chairman but continue as a member when President-elect John F. Kennedy takes office, Jan. 20.

McCone said Sunday, however, that he told Eisenhower "I would have to return" to Los Angeles to resume business connections, rather than finish out the appointment which runs until 1963.

Large Crowd Greet Harvester Band

Although the illness of L. Jack Edmondson, assistant superintendent of schools, put somewhat of a damper on the welcome yesterday for Pampa High School's band, the youngsters still received a welcome seldom given a high school group, anywhere, anytime.

Several hundred persons met at the Santa Fe station when the San Francisco Chief rolled in two hours behind schedule. It had been scheduled to reach Pampa at 8:55 a.m., but it was almost 11 o'clock when the doors slid open and Band Director Bill and Mrs. Tregoe came down the steps to be greeted by Mayor Ed Myatt and other officials of the city and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Although the band and the Tregoes were elated with the way they were received by the local residents, all were concerned about Edmondson who was taken from the train at Topeka, Kan., Saturday and rushed to a hospital suffering what was at first believed to be a heart attack, but it was later termed by a physician at the hospital as "sheer exhaustion."

(Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools, said today that he had talked with Edmondson by telephone "just a few minutes ago" and that Edmondson had come through all his tests "okay.")

"The doctors will probably let him come home tomorrow or the next day. They believe it was nervous tension more than anything else," Kinard said.

The brilliant success of the band in its 70-minute presentation last Wednesday in the Midwest Band Clinic at Chicago created much pride in Pampa and it set the stage for the welcome which was instigated by the chamber and city officials.

"We weren't looking for anything like this," Tregoe said, as he gazed at the large crowd.

The students who had drawn standing ovations in the clinic and a comment from Dr. Ray Dvorak, University of Wisconsin band director, that "The Pampa High School band is the best in the nation," gained cheers and hand clapping, when they came from the train and they responded with friendly smiles.

After everyone had left the train, Mayor Ed Myatt presided at a formal welcome. The mayor presented Mrs. Tregoe with a large bouquet of roses, and Elmer Wilson, a member of the school board then handed Tregoe a sparkling new trumpet.

Surprised, Tregoe said "Gee, thank you very much!"

Kinard, beaming proudly, also gave a welcoming address.

This marked the first time a band from Texas had been invited to the clinic since 1952. Brownwood High School's band went that year, but the BHS band didn't receive the acclaim the Harvester band and it is doubtful if any band ever did in the 14 years the clinic has been held.

So is it any wonder the huge welcoming sign read "Welcome Home—Pride of Pampa"?

Aircraft Carrier Hit By Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — A major fire broke out today inside the 60,000-ton aircraft carrier Constellation at Brooklyn Navy Yard, forcing some of nearly 1,000 construction workers to leap into the East River for their lives and raising fears others may be trapped.

A Navy spokesman said 20 men were known to have been caught below decks by the flash fire but that firemen were in contact with them over an intercom system. Other reports said as many as 100 might have been trapped.

A steel plate sliced through a gas line in the hangar deck shortly before 10:30 a.m. and within minutes fire and smoke roared through the mighty $150 million flat-top.

The Navy said nearly 1,000 workers were aboard the Constellation, which was in dry dock undergoing final stages of construction. Some jumped into the river to escape the flames. Others were taken off by a tug.

Navy Yard fire crews attacked the blaze and then summoned help from the city. Within an hour seven alarms had been sounded. (See CARRIER, Page 2)

Kennedy And Johnson Eye Legislative Plans

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today opened conferences with the Democratic leadership on the new administration's legislative program for Congress next year, by meeting with Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson.

Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, arrived from Austin, Tex., aboard their private Convair, the Lucy B., at 7:05 a.m. They remained aboard the plane for about an hour, then motored to the Kennedy ocean-front villa, where they will be overnight guests.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn was flying "from Texas aboard Kennedy's private plane and due in the late afternoon. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic whip of the Senate and expected to be the new majority leader, will join the talks Tuesday morning.

Johnson said upon arrival that he looks forward "with eager anticipation to meeting the challenges that face us."

Speaking of the cabinet appointments, which were completed Saturday, Johnson said, "I think Senator Kennedy made some very fine selections — a group of men that will work well together."

"I was very pleased at the accent on experience and youth and I think we are off to a very fine start," he added.

Johnson said he did not anticipate making any public statements on the talks until they concluded Tuesday afternoon. He said in response to a question that he had not yet decided when to resign his Senate seat.

Mrs. Johnson apparently will visit with Kennedy's wife, Jacqueline, while the men are talking business. Mrs. Kennedy has been leading a quiet life of recuperation from the birth of her second child.

The President-elect has reached the point in administration planning where he must proceed with work on detailed legislative recommendations to be incorporated in early messages to the new Congress.

The Democratic liberal wings of the House and Senate were hoping for Kennedy's help in hobbling the influence of powerful conservatives of their own party. Men like Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., wanted action to liberalize the House Rules Committee "by the addition of one or two Democratic members" to dilute the importance of a powerful coalition of two Southern Democrats and four Republicans.

The President-elect has been pictured, however, as favoring a relatively moderate approach to Congress at the start of his White House career. He, Johnson, Rayburn and Mansfield must weigh this sort of approach with the necessity of following through on campaign promises. New legislation to raise the minimum wage was in this category.

Nixon's Chance Is Slim

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The next President of the United States will really be elected today.

Barring some unexpected surprise, John F. Kennedy's slim popular vote victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the Nov. 8 balloting will be confirmed when the 537 presidential electors meet in state capitols all over the nation to do the actual electing.

Under the frequently criticized Electoral College system, written into the Constitution, the voters last month merely selected these electors. Each state is allotted a number of electors equal to the total of its senators and House members.

Until Illinois certified its 27 electors for Kennedy last week, some Republicans suggested a long-shot possibility that Nixon still might win the White House. Kennedy's official total remained in doubt right up to tonight. (See COLLEGE, Page 2)

12 Children In School At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Eight white children and a lone Negro girl went quietly to their classes in an integrated school today to begin the sixth tense week of the school crisis.

Pamela Lynn Foreman, 5-year-old daughter of the Rev. L. A. Foreman, was sick with a cold and didn't go to school. Her father's church was splattered with tar over the weekend.

The attendance total of nine was the same figure as last Friday, when a different child was absent because of illness.

Attendance at the McDonogh 19 school was still limited to three Negro girls.

The Negro girl at Frantz, Ruby Nell Bridges, was an hour late today. It was reported that the federal marshals were late picking her up.

Light globes filled with tar-like crescents were hurled against the white stucco walls of Foreman's St. Mark's Church on the edge of the French Quarter, leaving black stains.

Air Crash Probe Is Continuing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The wreckage of two airliners that collided and crashed Friday was being minutely examined today by more than 100 federal and civil investigators to learn the exact cause of the worst disaster in aviation history.

Authorities also worked to establish if one of the two airliners had gone off course and whether flight control officials had been able to warn either pilot of the closeness of the two planes.

Police still sifted the rubble for victims in the devastated Brooklyn neighborhood where a United Airlines DC8 jet plunged from snowy skies into a church and a row of brownstone homes carrying 84 to their deaths and killing others on the ground.

The broken parts of both the DC8 and the TWA four-engine Super Constellation, which apparently collided high over New York City, were taken to a hangar at La Guardia Field where mock assembly of the liners will be studied. All 44 aboard the Constellation, which crashed on Staten Island, died.

Yule Tree Light Wiring Fire Deaths Are Soaring

By United Press International
Defective Christmas tree trimmings and forgotten cigarettes headed causes today of a spate of weekend fire deaths across the nation.

A United Press International count showed at least 32 persons burned to death or fatally injured in fires since Saturday night. At least eight of the victims were children.

Florida and Texas each recorded six fire deaths. Four persons died in Kentucky, three in Missouri, two each in Illinois, Nebraska, Minnesota, Maine and Georgia, and one each in California, New Hampshire and Oklahoma.

Deputy Sheriff George Owens, 21, his pregnant wife and his wife's mother were found suffocated Sunday in Dade County, Florida. Firemen said a gas heater, used to fight cold holiday temperatures along the peninsula, apparently consumed the oxygen in the Owens home.

At Springdale, Mo., a subdivision of St. Charles, faulty Christmas tree wiring was blamed for a fire that killed Patty Beck, 9, and her brothers, John, 7, and Kenneth, 3, Sunday. Intense heat in the children's bedroom defeated a rescue attempt by the youngsters' father, Joseph.

In Texas, German Pinks, 35, and his three daughters, twins Corene and Pauline, and Virginia, 10 months, died in a fire which swept through their Tyler home Saturday night. At Houston, Carleen Head, 5, and her sister, Donna, 3, died Sunday morning in another home fire.

A $1.5 million blaze in a block-square recreation center at Louisville, Ky., Sunday killed three firemen. Capt. Joseph Buren, Sgt. Jesse Wilson and Fireman Riley Prior, Betty Level, 70, died in another Louisville fire which consumed her frame home.

Cigarettes were believed to have started at least four fatal fires, taking lives in Los Angeles, Chicago, Norman, Okla., and Savannah, Ga.

A South Omaha, Neb., couple burned to death early Sunday night, investigators traced the center of the blaze to a Christmas tree in their living room.

In the woods of north-central Maine, Kenneth London, 26, and Vernon Martens, 16, were killed in a home fire at Mattawamkeag that also injured five persons including three firemen.

Two victims of an Onamia, Minn., fire Sunday managed to crawl to within four feet of their front door before being overcome by flames and heat. The dead were identified as Mrs. Mary Fox and Harry Mitchell, both about 38.

In Waltonville, Ill., owner G.E. Rollinson, 45, suffocated in his combination grocery-service station.

In other fires, Walter Euler, 84, died in the ruins of his one-room cabin near Amherst, N.H., and John W. Proctor, died in a fire at his Miami, Fla., home.

G. A. Bell Rites Set Wednesday

Funeral services for George Abraham Bell of White Deer, retired farmer and rancher, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the First Baptist Church in White Deer with the Rev. E. J. Keith, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Bell, who had been ill for four years and a patient in Worley Hospital for the past year, died yesterday.

He was born Sept. 7, 1880, in Erath County and moved to White Deer in 1946 from Stratford.

He is survived by his wife, Belle; two sons, Earnest of Paducah, Ky., J. R. of Hugoton, Kan.; one sister, Mrs. Goldie Monroe of Dublin; one grandson, Aldon Bell of Borger.

Interment will be in the Texhoma Cemetery.

Wealthy Woman Found Murdered

FRIERSON, La. (UPI)—Crime technicians today scoured soggy woods where an unknown slayer dumped the partly-clothed body of a wealthy Shreveport woman.

Police placed an all-night guard on the seldom-frequented area along a lonely dirt road where a picnicking couple and two children discovered the body of Mrs. Mary Allen Booth Sunday. It was sprawled in a puddle of rain water.

A preliminary autopsy report failed to establish whether the woman had been raped. Authorities said further tests were being made. Her undergarments and her shoes were scattered near the body.

Shreveport police picked up a number of suspects Sunday night, but would not identify any of them.

The preliminary autopsy showed Mrs. Booth, 56-year-old wife of prominent Shreveport furniture merchant W. H. Booth and daughter of Buford, Ga., leather tycoon John Allen, died of one of two stab wounds in the chest.

It also established that four of the victim's ribs were broken. Time of death, however, was not established. Booth reported his wife missing a week ago when she failed to return from shopping.

Lawmen said whoever took Mrs. Booth to the spot two miles south of here "must have been pretty familiar with the area."

day's Electoral College balloting because of possible defections by individual Southern electors unhappy about his proposals.

The indicated division before the electors met was 300 votes for Kennedy and 223 for Nixon. A total of 289 was needed for election. All of Mississippi's eight electors and six from Alabama, who ran unpledged to any candidate in the Nov. 8 balloting, announced they would vote for Sen. Harry F. Byrd, a conservative Democrat from Virginia.

These unpledged Southern electors injected the element of uncertainty into the Electoral College count. They unsuccessfully urged a massive vote by Dixie electors for some third candidate as a way to deny either Kennedy or Nixon a majority.

This would have thrown the election into the House of Representatives where the Southerners hoped to trade their support for a promise of no new civil rights action. Each state would have had one vote in the House with 28 needed for election.

GOP National Chairman Thurston B. Morton refused to concede the election to Kennedy until after the electoral vote was announced. But he said Kennedy probably was the winner.

Kennedy defeated Nixon in the popular balloting by a slim margin of about 112,000 votes out of more than 89 million cast.

Even after today's Electoral College balloting, one step remained before Kennedy officially was named the next President. This was the counting and announcement of the electoral votes at a joint session of the Senate and House Jan. 6. Ironically, Nixon, as presiding officer of the Senate, will announce the results.

Pampa city police reported three break-ins over the weekend. The first was at 3:30 a.m. Monday at the Hi-Land Laundromat on North Hobart. The coin changer was broken and $12.50 was stolen. The second break-in was reported at 4 a.m. at the MH Laundromat, 700 block Prairie Center, where the coin changer was ripped off the wall and carried away. The container held an estimated $30. The third report came at 4:45 a.m. at the Modern Way Laundromat 211 East Francis, but the vandals were scared away before taking anything.

One of the boys, aged 10, was reported to have received serious burns and bruises in the blast, which also sent a half dozen employees of a small nearby plant, racing into the street in the belief their factory had suffered an explosion.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

THE STORY: Driving to Clarendon for supplies, Bart Weeper stops at the U.S. road to discover Tom Harding and his crew trying to force an outlaw to "talk." The method includes hauling the man up by a rope around his neck until he is half-strangled.

VII

"Old Ben is dead," said Harding. Johnson stared at him a minute, then looked at Bart. The reaction of these men to the death of Ben Lewis was about that of a man to the news that a coyote had been shot on the Quintana.

"Let's get back to the hanging," said Harding.

Johnson turned. "Haul him up again!"

The two hands pulled on the rope, hauled the fellow to his feet, and dangled him in the air.

"I take it you caught him with the goods on," said Bart. Harding nodded grimly. "He'll talk or we'll find out why. I want him to testify against the others."

The rope must have been tight around the man's neck, for he breathed noisily as he lay on the ground. Harding looked at him coldly. "Name of Hicks Gentry. Runs with Xenophon Jones."

Bart looked over the crew. Then a shadow fell across his vest and a throaty girl's voice said, "Coffee, mister?"

Bart looked up and stared. She was some different from Catherine—about the same age or a little older, with her hair fixed up like women in a town like San Antonio—piled high on top of her head, with some curls hanging down the back. She was black-haired but her face did not have the smooth brown color that Catherine's have, and I wouldn't hesitate to have you pulled up by the neck and left there all night."

"We were just sitting around a fire," Gentry said truculently, "when you rode up on us."

Johnson spoke to Bart. "What he didn't say is that they had a couple of running irons in the fire."

"How many in Jones' gang?" asked Harding.

"Maybe 20, maybe 50. I don't know. I just joined up."

Harding said harshly, "Listen, Gentry. Go back to Tassosa and tell Xenophon Jones we've got two of his men in jail at Clarendon—Three-Finger and Indian George—and before the month is out we're going to try them in Clarendon for stealin' cows."

Gentry spat. "Everybody knows there ain't no court in the Panhandle."

Harding grabbed him by the front of his shirt and twisted the man back. "There will be a court. Tell Jones that!"

"There's more outlaws in the Panhandle than ranchers," Gentry said contemptuously. "They won't stand for it."

"You go back and tell Xenophon Jones we're doing it!" Harding said. "Three-Finger and Indian George will hang—legal."

Gentry picked up his hat. "Do I get my horse?"

"You get no horse. You were riding a stolen horse when you came in—a Fryin' Pan brand. The horse goes back to the owner. From here, you walk!"

Gentry glowered at him and started off slowly. Then Stella came up. "Cup of coffee?" she asked.

He glared at her for a moment; then his look became more calculating, and he said, "Yes'm."

Stella was not helping matters any, and it was fairly easy to see that this woman would make any kind of trouble just to stir up excitement.

When Gentry was lowered again, Harding said. "You ready to talk?"

Gentry said, stretching his neck. "I don't know anything."

"You was with Three-Finger and Indian George."

"I just joined up," he said, somewhat defiantly.

"Untie him," Harding said suddenly.

They took the rope from Gentry's hands, and he sat up. His neck was bruised and swollen, but he did not look scared.

"Maybe about three minutes up there would change your mind," said Harding.

Gentry's jaws tightened. "You can hang me, Harding—but that's murder."

Harding slapped him brutally. "You can be defiant but not insolent. Get one thing straight, Gentry: you know we make our own laws up here and always will enforce them. You're going to hang with us or you're going to hang with us."

Holiday Leave Policy Explained

Again, as in previous years, a Christmas leave policy is being offered by the U.S. Army. According to Sgt. Grady C. Ghent, U.S. Army recruiter, men enlisting in the U.S. Army from now through New Year's Day may request as much as 15 days' leave before reporting for basic training.

This leave policy was designed to permit young men to enjoy the holiday season with their families.

While on leave, the enlistees are on the Army payroll earning full pay and allowances.

Those who desire more information on this leave offer and the many other benefits available to young men should contact Sgt. Ghent at 112 E. Foster.

Brown Boosts Cleveland Into First 'Playoff' Battle

Jim Grabs Fourth NFL Rush Title

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

Jimmy Brown set a National Football League record, snapped an old jinx and boosted the Cleveland Browns into the "Playoff Bowl" — all in an afternoon's work.

That was just about all there was left for Brown to do Sunday, since the Green Bay Packers and Philadelphia Eagles previously had clinched the division titles in the NFL. The Eagles and Packers meet Dec. 26 in Philadelphia for the championship.

And thanks largely to Brown's bulldozing, Cleveland meets the Detroit Lions in the Jan. 7 game at Miami, Fla., between the NFL's division runners-up.

Brown, who gained only 24 yards during the first three periods, carried for 84 yards from scrimmage in the final quarter and also ran most of the distance on a 37-yard touchdown pass from Milt Plum as Cleveland exploded with 27 points in the last period to beat the New York Giants, 48-34.

That performance enabled the 230-pound fullback to become the first player in NFL history to win the ground-gaining championship four consecutive seasons. His unofficial 1960 rushing total was 1,286 yards.

The victory also was Cleveland's first over the nemesis Giants in their last seven meetings dating back to 1957.

The Lions qualified as the Western Division representative in the Miami game by crushing the Chicago Bears, 36-0. The San Francisco Forty-Niners finished in a second-place tie in the Western sector when they drubbed the Baltimore Colts, 34-10. However, the Lions won the runner-up bowl berth because they scored more points than did the Forty-Niners in splitting their two regular-season games.

The Eagles, who clinched the Eastern Division title two weeks ago, went through a winning 38-28 workout against the Washington Redskins, and the St. Louis Cardinals walloped the Pittsburgh Steelers, 38-7, in other games that wound up the NFL's regular season.

The Packers won the Western Division championship Saturday by defeating the Los Angeles Rams, 35-21, on the West Coast. The Eagles bounced Mike Nixon's Redskins at Washington as Norm Van Brocklin and his understudy, Sonny Jurgensen, each threw two touchdown passes for the Eagles. The Redskins' 1-9-2 NFL record was the worst in the club's history.

At Detroit, the Lions closed out their season with their fourth straight victory and their seventh in the last nine games before 51,017 fans.

Groat Paces Hit-Happy Pirates To Sweep Of NL' Batting Stats

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Pitching is supposed to be 75 per cent of baseball, but the Pittsburgh Pirates won the National League pennant practically on hitting alone.

That's what the official batting averages, released at league headquarters here, indicated today, anyway.

Led by shortstop Dick Groat, who won the league's batting crown with a .325 average, the Pirates swept virtually every title in the hitting department.

They paced the league in team batting with 276 as compared with 265 compiled by the runner-up Milwaukee Braves, and led in runs batted in (689); hits

(1,493); total bases (2,204); doubles (236), and runs scored (734).

The only important department in which the Pirates were not first was home runs. The Braves were high with 170. The Pirates hit 120.

Groat, who barely edged out Norm Larker of Los Angeles for the individual batting title by two points, was the first NL shortstop to win the crown in 25 years. The last one before him was Arky Vaughan, also of the Pirates, in 1935.

Outside of Groat and Larker, only three other regulars managed to hit .300. Willie Mays of San Francisco was third with .319. Roberto Clemente of the Pirates fourth with .314 and Ken Boyer of St. Louis fifth with .304.

Shortstop Ernie Banks of Chicago led in home runs with 41, and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee drove in the most runs, 126, and hit for the most total bases, 334. It was the fourth straight year that Aaron finished first in total bases.

Mays' 190 hits were tops in that department. Bill Bruton, traded by Milwaukee to Detroit earlier this month, scored the most runs, 112, and hit the most triples, 13. Vada Pinson of Cincinnati led in doubles with 27.

Pinson, Banks and Don Hoak of the Pirates were the only players to appear in all their team's games.

Speedy Maury Wills of the Dodgers led the league with 30 stolen bases, highest total in the circuit since 1923 when Max Carey stole 51.

Long Odds LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Seldom is a thoroughbred so over-matched that he starts at odds greater than 100-1, yet in the 1958 Kentucky Derby Warren G. was 122.30-1, Martins Rullah was 245-1 and Chance It Tony was 294.40-1.

April Skies Off To Good Start

By United Press International

April Skies rates as one of the top sprinters in the East. Winner of the Sports Page Handicap at Aqueduct last month, April Skies was shifted South and immediately made good by capturing the Hurricane Handicap, opening day feature at Tropical Park.

April Skies finished third because of a belated start his second time out, but resumed a triumphant role Saturday by winning the $11,850 City of Coral Gables Handicap by three lengths.

The stakes victory was the fifth for April Skies this year and marked his ninth win in 23 outings.

April Skies, with 1960 champion Bill Hartack aboard, took command midway in the six-furlong test and pulled away from Pied D'or at the wire. The winner, clocked in 1:04 4-51 paid $5.80.

An injury to apprentice jockey Edward L. Scott during the fifth race marred the closing day festivities at Pimlico. Scott, thrown from his mount Erain, was hospitalized with facial and possible internal injuries.

Lorraine E. raced up from sixth place to win the feature event at the Maryland track, defeating Mares Beau by three-quarters of a length. Lorraine E. paid $33.80 at she won her first race since last July. Time for the six-furlong test was 1:13 flat.

For Two Big Reasons

(The following is the first in a series of 10 dispatches on the teams appearing in college football's major bowl games — the Rose, Sugar, Orange, Cotton and Gator).

By LES HAUSNER MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Coach Murray Warmath and members of his Minnesota football team accepted the bid to meet Washington in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2 for two good reasons.

First, the Golden Gophers want to prove that they fully deserved their designation as the nation's No. 1 college football team for the 1960 season.

And, secondly, they are anxious to restore the prestige of the Big Ten conference, which was badly weakened when virtually the same Washington team shocked Wisconsin, 44-8, in the Rose Bowl last New Year's Day.

Pampa Hosts Hot Demons

Pampa (2-8) have their first crack at a team that has previously beaten them this season at 8 p.m. tomorrow night at the Harvester Gym when Dumas makes it only appearance here.

The Demons defeated the Harvesters, 41-31, last Tuesday and have beaten Amarillo, 3-4A district favorite, since while losing to Tascosa.

Pampa, meanwhile, played its best game of the year Saturday night by downing Fort Worth Birdville, 57-48, as Pat Carter scored 30 points.

SWC Seeks To Improve Dim Basketball Record

By United Press International

Southwest Conference basketball teams, which have won but 19 of 47 games against outsiders, wind up their pre-Christmas schedule this week with a 10-game program that is apt to add more chagrin.

Southern Methodist, which furnished two of the five victories marked by conference teams against 13 losses last week, seeks to keep its home court record intact against Minnesota in one of four games scheduled Monday night.

The Mustangs, with scoring leader Steve Strange operating at a 22.3-point clip, turned in two impressive victories last week, beating Oklahoma 67-61 and Tulane 83-67. And, they should handle the Gophers.

But, Baylor seems destined to bow to Tulsa at Waco for the Bears' seventh straight defeat; TCU doesn't figure to stop Oklahoma City at Fort Worth, nor Texas Tech to surprise Vanderbilt at Lubbock in other Monday contests.

Chances for victory appear a bit brighter Wednesday, and Thursday nights at neutral Little Rock where Arkansas and Texas entertain Tennessee and Alabama in a pair of doubleheaders. They reverse the pairings after Arkansas meets Tennessee and Texas plays Alabama in the Wednesday games.

But TCU figures to lose again Wednesday night at Shreveport to Centenary and Texas Tech to trip again Thursday night at Norman against Oklahoma.

Even an optimistic outlook could account for no more than an even break in the 10 games.

Arkansas broke even last week to become the only team beating better than .500. The 71-61 victory over Centenary after a 64-59 loss to Tulsa gave the Razorbacks a 4-2 record.

SMU, Texas and Texas A&M were even at 3-3 after Texas lost to LSU 62-50 but beat Tulsa 80-70, and the Aggies bowed to Oklahoma State 60-58 in overtime and to Oklahoma 69-50.

Rice, which started the week with a 3-1 mark, lost three straight—84-83 to Tulane, 78-83 to Centenary and 70-44 to Vanderbilt; Baylor, which started 0-3, also lost three—68-54 to Oklahoma City, 72-55 to Alabama and 81-54 to Virginia Tech; Texas Tech, which was at 1-2, beat Loyola of New Orleans 78-74, but lost to LSU 73-69 in overtime; TCU, which also started 1-2, lost 74-65 to Brigham Young and 68-62 to LSU.

AFL Division Champs End With Wide Wins

By United Press International

The Los Angeles Chargers and Houston Oilers, who meet Jan. 1 in the American Football League's championship playoff, ended their regular season Sunday with impressive displays of power.

Los Angeles defeated the New York Titans, 50-43, in the highest scoring game of the AFL's first season. And the Oilers rallied for 17 points in the final period to beat the Boston Patriots, 37-21.

In the AFL's other Sunday game, the Dallas Texans rode quarterback Cotton Davidson's passes to a 24-7 triumph over the Buffalo Bills. The Oakland Raiders beat the Denver Broncos, 48-10 Saturday.

The victories gave both Houston and Los Angeles a 10-4 record for the season. They meet at Houston in two weeks for the championship.

The lead changed hands eight times in the Los Angeles-New York game before the Chargers settled the issue with 17 points in the final period. Quarterbacks Jack Kemp of the Chargers and Al Dorow of the Titans each threw three touchdown passes.

Ben Agajanian kicked field goals of 41, 37 and 27 yards for the Chargers before a crowd of

Meet Upset-Minded 'Giants'

By United Press International

Ohio State and Bradley have enjoyed easy coasting in the first two weeks of the college basketball season, but both will be up against upset-minded "giants" before next Saturday as they strive to maintain their national rankings.

Top-ranked Ohio State, winner of four straight including a 93-82 decision over Wichita last Saturday, meets undefeated Loyola of Chicago tonight and then goes against fifth-ranked Detroit on Thursday.

Bradley, which defeated Wisconsin, 88-66, Saturday, for its sixth consecutive victory, should have little difficulty in handling Idaho tonight but can expect trouble from 10th-ranked Cincinnati this Friday.

Most of the other schools in the top 10 should enjoy a relaxing week against minor opponents in tune-up sessions for the upcoming Christmas tournaments although fourth-ranked Indiana plays a tough Notre Dame squad Tuesday and eight-ranked Kansas meets Brigham Young on Tuesday and San Francisco Thursday, both games on the road.

In major games played Saturday, third-ranked North Carolina topped Kansas, 78-70; Indiana romped past Nevada, 80-52; Detroit defeated Nebraska, 71-62; seventh-ranked St. Bonaventure mauled Morehead State, 106-88; and ninth-ranked Providence edged Canisius, 53-50.

Auburn won the Birmingham classic by toppling Alabama, 74-62 and Duquesne defeated Pittsburgh 80-66, to capture the Steel Bowl title.

Coach Paul Seymour of St. Louis doesn't believe in providing hospitality to former landlords.

Seymour, making his first official National Basketball Association visit to Syracuse since his days as National coach, thoroughly enjoyed the discomfort of the home town crowd Sunday night as Bob Pettit sank two free throws in the last 26 seconds to give the Hawks a 104-103 victory over the Nets.

Syracuse had three quick chances to make Seymour's return trip "unnecessary," but Hal Greer, Larry Costello and John Kerr each flubbed an opportunity.

St. Louis, trailing by two points going into the final period, took advantage of five free throws to win the game. Dolph Schayes and Al Bianchi went out on personals to further the Hawk cause.

Pettit topped all scorers with 28 points. Schayes, Kerr and Dave Gambee each had 18 points for Syracuse.

Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 128-112, in the only other league action.

Joe Graboski scored nine points during a 21-6 Warrior spurt in the third period that found the lead changing hands eight times during the first 4:40 of the quarter.

Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia had a game high of 32 points and set a Cincinnati Gardens record with 38 rebounds. Guy Rodgers of the Warriors established a court mark of 16 assists. Oscar Robertson netted 21 points to lead the Royals.

BOWLING Fault Finder

Take a small shuffle.

Footwork

By LEE JOUGLARD

All-Time Singles Record Holder

One of the more common faults is rushing the line.

It robs the bowler of rhythm during the delivery. It results in unnecessary loss of pins because of fouling.

This error can be traced to the very first step of the approach. If the initial stride is long, the succeeding ones will be even longer and faster.

The best way I know of to cure this habit is to take a small shuffle with the right foot instead of employing a stride.

Keep it short and close to the floor and you'll end up at the proper spot when you complete your delivery.

Dumas' Claim To Fame Is 'Santa Story Lane'

DUMAS (UPI)— Cities may have their flashing lights, their huge Christmas trees, tinsel and other holiday decorations, but only Dumas can claim an eight-foot storybook stretching through the entire downtown section. Residents of this Texas Panhandle town of about 12,000 designed, constructed and installed the display, lighted and hung from light poles down the main street. They call it "Santa's Story Book Lane," and its primary eye-catching features are the eight-foot wooden cutouts of children's story book characters ranging from Bugs Bunny to Snow White and the seven dwarfs. Fifty of these huge decorations hang over the street. Painted with about 120 times each minute; that of a child of seven, about 90 times; that of an adult, between 70 and 80 times per minute.

Starlings To Get The Boot Inaugural Won't Be For The Birds

By DICK WEST United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — It appears now that officials in charge of arrangements for next month's presidential inauguration will have the bird problem well in hand. And I can tell you that a bird problem in hand is worth two in the briefcase. But before I start passing out compliments to the inaugural planners for having solved the problem, perhaps I had better explain for the edification of any out-of-town readers just what the problem is. For reasons known only to mother nature and a few ornithologists, the downtown area of Washington is a favorite winter-time hangout for what must be about half the U.S. starling population. Thousands of these birds descend upon the city in the late afternoon and seek overnight accommodations in the trees and eaves of government buildings. This can make pedestrian travel on the sidewalks below an unfortunate experience. The problem confronting President-elect Kennedy's inaugural committee is to keep the starlings from decorating the grandstands it is building along the sidewalks for the inaugural parade. This is known as the "clean seat policy." Borrowing a technique adopted by the Eisenhower inaugural committee in 1957, the Kennedy group has hired a company to "bird-proof" 44 trees along a seven-block stretch of the parade route. At a cost of $5,500, the tree limbs will be sprayed with a ma-

State Oil Well Completions Tumble 1,680

AUSTIN (UPI)—Oil well completions in Texas to date for 1960 were 1,680 less than the number for 1959 with but two weeks left in the year, the State Railroad Commission said. There had been 9,467 oil wells drilled this year compared with 11,147 at the same time last year, the weekly report said. Seven oil and two gas discoveries were listed. The Abilene and San Angelo areas reported one find in each category. Lone oil discoveries were made in the San Antonio, Refugio, Houston, Kilgore and Midland districts. Last week the Commission noted 149 oil and 19 gas well completions. There were 99 dry holes. The state agency received 262 regular drilling applications, bringing the total for 1960 to 15,103 compared with 18,833 at the same time in 1959. The Commission said total number of wells increased by 74 during the week to 197,147 with a stepup in calendar day allowable of 7,488 barrels to a new total of 2,806,645 barrels. Ike Urged To Slash Proposed Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (SpI) — President Eisenhower has been urged by domestic oil producers to "effectuate" a cut in oil imports proposed by the Interior Department. Col. Alvin C. Hope, San Antonio, Tex., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, wired Eisenhower that the downward adjustments in imports "are necessary in view of the continued depressed level of (oil) industry activity." The Interior Department proposals, published in the Federal Register Oct. 28, would trim imports of oils other than residual fuel, in the area east of the Rocky Mountains, by about 60,000 barrels daily. Hope wired the president that IPAA had presented "detailed information" to the government showing a need for a larger reduction in imports, but added that depressed industry conditions make the Interior proposals "a minimum step toward attainment of the national security goals on which the

EMBARRASSED FIREMEN

PORT MONMOUTH, N.J. (UPI)—Fire raged unnoticed for more than three hours Sunday at the most embarrassing of places—the local firehouse. A passerby discovered the blaze and turned in an alarm, bringing the town's red-faced volunteer firemen rushing to the scene. The blaze, started by defective wiring in the fire house kitchen, badly damaged the building. But the three fire engines were saved. Fur-bearing animals contribute more than 3,000,000 a year to the wealth of Arkansas.

ILLEGAL EMERGENCY

Candy Cane Oldest Yule Confection

Of all the candies ever created to sweeten the Christmas season, the most ancient Yule confection is surely the candy cane. The traditional Christmas cane got its start some 350 years ago when, in the form of a white sugar stick, it was used by harried mothers as a baby's pacifier. The straight white cane retained its rigid shape until around 1670 when the shoemaker of the Cologne cathedral in Germany bent it to his own purposes. To hold the attention of fidgety children viewing the Cathedral's lengthy nativity ceremony, the inventive choir director distributed white sugar sticks curved at the end to represent shepherd's crooks. Legend has it that the youngsters sucked their candy canes in blissful silence. From Cologne, the practice spread throughout Europe until nativity plays were always accompanied by souvenir candy crooks. Later, in northern Europe, sugar crooks, embellished with sugar roses, were used to decorate the home at Christmas time. The candy cane was introduced to the United States in the middle of the last century by a German-Swedish immigrant of Wooster, O. who decorated a Spruce tree with paper ornaments and white sugar canes to entertain his American nieces and nephews. The traditional red stripe wrapped itself around the candy cane at the turn of this century. It was then that peppermint and wintergreen were added as standard flavors. Now, 60 years later, the ancient but ever-popular candy cane will be competing with some 2,400 other varieties of mouth-watering confections for a place in America's Christmas stocking. Among the other candies guaranteed to sweeten this Yule season for young and old are hard candies in all flavors and shapes, toffees and caramels, creams and fudges, jellies and gum drops, nougats, licorice, and chocolates. With such a vast and tantalizing array of confections overflowing Santa's pack, Christmas 1960 is bound to be the sweetest ever for candy-lovers.

Texas Weather Generally Good

By United Press International Fog and cloud cover in South Texas and fair skies in the remainder of the state was the Texas weather picture today. A thick fog blanketed the Houston area and several other sections of the coast. No rainfall in the past 24 hours was reported in the state. The Weather Bureau forecast freezing temperatures only in Northwest and Southwest Texas tonight. Rising readings were expected in most sections of the state during the day. Southwest Texas and the Panhandle were expected to be a little colder tonight. Brownsville recorded the high temperature in the state Sunday with 73 degrees. By Tuesday most sections of the state will be cloudy to partly cloudy, forecasters said. No rain was forecast. Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from 27 degrees at Lubbock to 61 at Brownsville.

Play Ball Or Close Shop

SEN. Estes Kefauver has swapped his coonskin hat for a baseball cap — and is swinging a big bat. The other day in Washington, the senator waggled a bony finger at Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick, and intoned:

"Congress will regulate baseball strictly as a business in interstate commerce if the baseball people break the faith with my committee and the public."

Keeping the faith, the senator made clear, involves granting franchises to new major league teams in Washington and Los Angeles in 1961. Rep. Emmanuel Celler also has threatened congressional action unless Washington gets a club.

We were under the impression, that defense, the foreign exchange balance, inflation and other national problems were occupying the thoughts of Congress, but apparently we have congressional time left over.

The Washington ball club in recent years (until it decamped for Minnesota) probably didn't draw as many visitors as the Senate visitors' gallery, and it's hard to see how it could be a matter of prime national interest.

An attempt is being made to bring another team in, but should it flounder, Sen. Kefauver's threat may materialize in federal regulation.

This could change the game considerably. Some of the new rules conceivably could be:

The side which is behind will be permitted six strikes before an out. A relieved pitcher may appeal to the National Labor Relations Board.

The umpire's decision may be taken up through federal judicial processes and each player shall be entitled to legal counsel.

Time and one half shall be paid for all play over nine innings.

Teams in depressed areas shall receive federal subsidies.

A tariff will be collected on all Cuban ball players.

No baseball player shall be refused employment because of age or sex.

Each team shall field 12 players at all times in the interest of full employment.

All teams regardless of standing will play in the World Series.

Looking Sideways

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Some day somebody will sit down in calm and repose and explain to me why some young men (and young women, too, of course) can get through college, go out and get a job and that is that and 40 years later they retire with a gold watch and fringed benefits. But not actors. Not young men destined to be actors. They do everything, individually. A kid gets his diploma, drives a truck, mines coal, washes dishes in a restaurant, helps out a surveyor or becomes a catenary hand in the Northwest and along about nine years later is acting in a play on Broadway.

Even the late Clark Gable laid track when he was 15.

Let us look at Clifford David, who will portray a wildcat oil operator when the musical show, "Wildcat," opens on Broadway at the Alvin on Dec. 18th. Mr. David painted a picture at 10 years of age that was so good it is still on view at the Toledo Museum. He also has been a building superintendent, a dishwasher and a salesman. Vacuum cleaners, I think.

Receiving a hint that he would be in "Wildcat" and what the role would be, David said to himself: "I've done a lot of other things, I might as well go out and learn about oil." So he discovered an oil outfit in Erie, Pa., braided Al Di Lore for a job, got it and learned drilling, casing, baling, carrying pipe and pounding out drill bits. He was called, in the embrace of parlance of the oil fields, a roughneck, which is a driller's helper. How much of this case-hardened toil will be useful in creating the role is something else.

Among his other jobs, he revealed to me in a moment of impetuous confession, was that of page boy at CBS. Jack Smythie, a director, sent David to Arthur Penn, another director, and Arthur Penn didn't send him to a third in a sort of passing of the buck. He sent David to the Actors' Studio. Soon thereafter, he walked in for a walk-on in Lee Popovitch's TV show "A Star Tonight," and ended up with one of the leads opposite Nancy Coleman (hi yuh, honey!). Having neither tripped Miss Coleman nor fallen into the scenery, he went on to "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" in a large role in the glittering all-star cast and, finally, his own lead in "Positive Identification."

TV having garlanded him he sought theatre — "I wanted to get up there and pitch one out true and clear" is how he put it — and found himself playing Scipio, the young poet, in "Calligula." He also managed a job in "The Cold Wind And The Warm." "I did a fit of rewrite on tour in Philadelphia caused him to be written out of the play. He also was in "The Last Mile" in the film version.

"One of these days someone will write a play about a dishwasher, I said, and you can get right up there in line and say, 'That's me.' Maybe you'll get the role."

"Maybe," he said, "but it isn't essential to have experienced what a role suggests. I did the oil bit because it fascinated me, not actually because I thought it would make me more credible in 'Wildcat.' I don't think Rex Harrison ever had to teach speech to make the scene in 'My Fair Lady' as the professor. Then, too, someone may hire me for a murder play some day and I don't think I'll get out there and throttle a stranger or just to get the feel of things."

"But he did find the oil field summer was useful?"

"In this way," he said, "I did learn what oil workers are exactly like. I don't expect a musical show accurately to reproduce that but I did feel, when we went into rehearsal, that I could walk and stand and use my hands the way and oil hand would. I didn't have to fake it. If any oil field guy ever buys a ticket to 'Wildcat,' he will at least recognize that I know what I'm doing. I've got the look."

Had a talent ever not been available of

"I played basketball in high school," said David, "I never was asked to try out for 'Tall Story,' which was about basketball players. Fate!"

Under ordinary circumstances, oily sebum escapes from skin pores and lubricates surrounding areas. But under the abnormal conditions that prevail in acne, the pore-like secretion plugs the channel (duct) that extends from the gland in the underlying dermis, through the many layers of the overlying false skin or epidermis, to the surface pore.

What you recognize as the "whitehead" is the tip of this plug of pasty sebum. When soot or dirt discolors this tip, you refer to it as a "blackhead."

Now there are countless bacteria of different species that live on our skin surfaces. Sooner or later, some of their numbers discover that the pasty plug is to their liking and they begin eating their way down until they reach the glands in the true skin. That's the start of the pimple.

Down South Cabinet Appointees Significance Unknown

By THURMAN SENSING

The real significance of the Cabinet appointments in the Kennedy administration will not be known for some time.

This can be realized by analyzing the selection of Governor Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina as Secretary of Commerce and David R. Bell of Harvard University as Director of the Bureau of the Budget.

Governor Hodges is a first-class public official who thoroughly understands the needs of American business. From 1919 to 1950 he was an official of Marshall Field & Company, and at the time of retirement was in charge of all the firm's mills. He then commenced an outstanding career as Lieutenant Governor and then Governor of North Carolina. In those roles he was a superb salesman for his state. He brought many industrial payrolls to North Carolina.

President-elect Kennedy could not have made a better choice. But will Governor Hodges be supported by the administration of which he is a part? The Governor is a fiscal conservative. Moreover, he is for sensible regulation of Big Labor. Indeed the union bosses dislike him because he had the courage to order National Guardsmen into strike-torn Henderson, N.C., when that community was beset by union goons.

What will happen when Governor Hodges' recommendations conflict with the political objectives of Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers and a behind-the-scenes power in the Kennedy administration? We may at least wonder whether the White House will back Governor Hodges, a conservative, if the union bosses insist on a contrary policy, which is virtually certain. The next president's real outlook then will be revealed to the public.

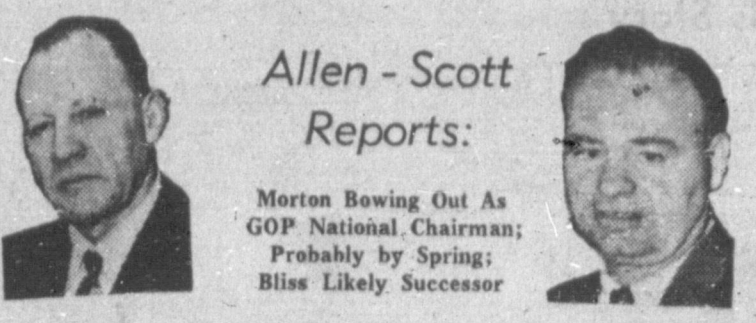

Bell's appointment raises the same sort of issue. On the one hand, Bell announces that he regards the Budget Bureau as a "blue ribbon" agency, and states his intention to work for a balanced budget. On the other hand, he is the apparent choice of Dr. John K. Galbraith, the Harvard professor who is the mastermind of "liberal" economy theories and who has no interest in balanced budgets or conventional fiscal methods. Bell also is described as a New Dealer. How he will be able to support Dealer programs, which call for deficit spending, and at the same time respect conventional wisdom regarding the nation's spending, is exceedingly hard to understand.

Some conservative observers fear that Governor Hodges' appointment and Bell's initial comments regarding a balanced budget are mere window dressing designed to win the confidence of the nation's business community at the beginning of the new administration.

One must hope that these observers are not wrong, and that the President-elect intends to steer a more moderate course than he outlined in the presidential campaign. Nevertheless, the political realities are that the union bosses and the academic advocates of big spending are the dominant forces in the new administration. Kennedy can hardly turn his back on his party platform and on his own campaign oratory.

It would therefore be illusory to suspect that Kennedy is backtracking on his basic objectives, as he has stated them time and time again — unless one can believe these statements were merely means to an end and that he is completely ruthless in his methods. Further appointments will be interesting to watch. They should give a clearer picture.

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Republican National Chairman Thurston Morton is now definitely on the way out. His most probable successor is Ohio National Committeeman Robert Bliss, the astute party leader who was chiefly responsible for carrying that state for Vice President Nixon — one of the big surprises of the election.

No date has been set for Morton's departure. But GOP insiders anticipate it will be by next spring.

The matter is slated for private discussion at the January 5-7 meeting of the National Committee in Washington. Primary purpose of this gathering is to canvas the general theme, "Where do we go from here?"

Chief reason Morton is giving up the National Chairmanship is that he faces a tough re-election contest in 1962.

The Kentucky Senator is certain to be opposed by one of two potent Democrats—Governor Bert Combs or Lieutenant Governor Milton Wyatt, former Louisville mayor and personal campaign manager of Adlai Stevenson in 1956.

Morton's tentative election that year was due largely to President Eisenhower. He swept Kentucky by more than 95,000, while Morton won by around 9,000.

The President, Vice President Nixon and other top GOP leaders have been apprised of Morton's intention to relinquish the chairmanship. The others include Governor Nelson Rockefeller; Treasury Undersecretary Fred Scriber, chief campaign fund raiser; A. B. Herman, executive director of the national committee; and former Governor Thomas Dewey.

National Committeeman Bliss, rated as one of the ablest organizers in the party, is generally acceptable to all wings.

The Ohioan was close to the late Senator Robert Taft, and at the same time is on cordial terms with Governor Rockefeller. The latter is credited as being favorable to Bliss' selection as national chairman.

Rockefeller has a highly important personal stake in that appointment.

The New Yorker is already taking steps to put himself in a strong position to seek the 1964 presidential nomination.

As disclosed in this column last week, he is easing out "unreliable" leaders from his state organization, placing several or more trusted supporters in key positions in the national committee, and obtaining similar jobs for lieutenants on the staffs of the Senate and House Republican Campaign Committees and influential legislative committees.

Morton is personally well liked throughout the party, but was mostly a figurehead in his year campaign — much as Senator Henry Jackson was as Democratic chairman. Jackson announced his resignation several weeks ago.

Both President-elect Kennedy and Nixon had personal campaign managers and strategy boards. Morton and Jackson filled secondary roles.

GOP POLITICALS — Senator Margaret Chase Smith, whose margin of victory topped all other GOP senators, is making no secret she won it without financial help from the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, headed by Senator Barry Goldwater, Ariz. In her official report on campaign finances, Mrs. Smith pointedly noted that the committee sent her a $5,000 check dated Nov. 12 — four days after the election. She received it Nov. 14. Her margin of victory was 61.6 per cent. Next highest were Senators Styles Bridges, N.H., who won by 60.3 per cent, and John Sherman Cooper, Ky., by 59.2 per cent. . . . Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce is eyeing the political arena again. The one-time ambassador to Italy is hinting to friends she may run in 1962 against Senator Prescott Bush (R., Conn.). They have been at loggerheads for some time.

DEMO POLITICALS — James Landis, one-time chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission, head of the Civil Aeronautics Board and ex-dean of Harvard Law School, is a strong likelihood as Pre-elect Kennedy's choice for a highly important new job he contemplates asking Congress to establish — "watchdog" over the regulatory agencies. The appointee would be a member of the White House staff and report direct to the President on the functioning of

Uncluttered Target

It has always amazed us why so many people who object to having government intrude in their affairs still try to get "good" men into office. If a person has a hankering to shoot a target it doesn't make much sense to try to get a friend of his to sit on the bullseye.

Congress' Secrecy Up

THE RATE of secrecy in Congress, after declining steadily in recent years, apparently hit bottom in 1959 and has turned upward in 1960.

This is the finding of Congressional Quarterly's year-end survey of open and closed meetings held by congressional committees. During the 1960 session of Congress (Jan. 6-Sept. 1), House and Senate committees barred the press and public from 840 of 2,424 meetings and hearings, a secrecy ratio of 35 per cent. This is the highest percentage of closed sessions recorded since 1956.

Congressional Quarterly's committee secrecy study is based on a day-to-day tally of committee meetings during a session as reported in the Congressional Record. The Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 requires that a list of committee meetings and hearings be published daily in the Record.

In 1954, the year after Congressional Quarterly began its tally of open and closed meetings, the ratio of sessions closed to the public reached 41 per cent. From then until 1959 the secrecy ratio slid steadily downward, hitting 30 per cent in 1959. For the first three months of the 1960 session, the committees kept the secrecy score down at 30 per cent, but, during the second half of the session when many committees were busy readying controversial legislation for final action, the ratio soared to 37 per cent.

The House Ways and Means Committee topped all other committees in the percentage of closed sessions during 1960. The committee, which goes over all tax legislation, spent much of its time working out a formula providing health care for the aged. It closed 57, or 81 per cent, of 70 meetings.

Next were two committees to which closed doors are the rule rather than the exception. The House Foreign Affairs Committee closed 84 of 90 meetings (71 per cent). Both groups were concerned with classified aspects of U.S. foreign policy.

Although the Legislative Reorganization Act says committees should report their meetings and hearings for publication in the Congressional Record, some committee chairmen apparently have interpreted it to mean otherwise. For example, the House Appropriations Committee and its 15 subcommittees traditionally go over money requests from federal departments and agencies in private because Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) believes the committee's time and working space are used more efficiently this way. One of the Appropriations Com-

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD T. HYMAN

The facial eruption of acne is of minor importance in terms of disease. Yet the untimely appearance of a single pimple may send the sensitive adolescent into a mental tail spin. And a series of these unsightly blemishes may have an adverse effect out of all proportion to their medical significance.

Indeed, according to British press reports, the recent suicide attempt of a prominent movie personality was attributed to a persistent acne by a specialist who saw her in consultation.

Perhaps the following explanation of the nature of the disturbance will help to place acne in its proper perspective and encourage parent and child to make a sustained effort to carry out the home plan of treatment that I will outline later.

The immediate cause of acne is the changed character of a secretion (sebum) produced by thousands of lubricating glands situated in the true skin (dermis). Instead of being of normal fluid consistency, the sebum becomes more like a paste.

Under ordinary circumstances, oily sebum escapes from skin pores and lubricates surrounding areas. But under the abnormal conditions that prevail in acne, the pore-like secretion plugs the channel (duct) that extends from the gland in the underlying dermis, through the many layers of the overlying false skin or epidermis, to the surface pore.

What you recognize as the "whitehead" is the tip of this plug of pasty sebum. When soot or dirt discolors this tip, you refer to it as a "blackhead."

WE ARE GOING OUT after..... BUSINESS!

We have been here a year and a half and business has been good. We sure want to thank each and every one of our customers. There's been lots of talk about business being bad in general. We have got to brag a little because we have a nice increase over this time last year and we wager a little that things will be better next year. How can it keep from getting better with all those millionaires up there getting together. They're gonna spread that dough around and if the old blizzard will blow right some of it will come over our way.

We are so sure that business will be better in 61 that we have ordered some new button crushers and a couple of more rub boards, so we will be in shape to take care of things . . . Oh yes, we have goofed a few times this year on several things, but one of the worst was that we made too much money. Old Uncle since he has the money up there and we're well nie going to start the new year right, we are going to give away $20.00 worth of groceries each week to some lucky person. If you are our customer then you don't even have to register. If not c o m e by the place and sign your name. Course we wouldn't care if you brought some old pairs of socks with you, because dirty work is our business. Also we are going to have some items on special each week. So, If you will listen to the weather news each day at 12:35 on Radio Station KPDN you will find bargains all year. No gimmicks to those groceries either. Were not in the grocery business, so we're going to deliver the check to you made out to your favorite grocery store.

I'll bet we have had a dozen compliments this past year on our work, (forgot to count the complaints.). Seriously, people we do have a nice bunch of emplyees now and they are well trained and we try to please you.

We have put in Sanitone cleaning this past year and I guess it's about the best stuff on either side of the Mississippi if you know how to use it and we have old Sanitone Buck with us. I guess he has used it ever since it was invented. Don't really know how old the process is or Buck's age either, but they have both been together a long time . . . I heard through the grapevine that he uses it on his cereal for breakfast instead of cream. I wouldn't say it wasn't so either.

So we here at YOUR LAUNDRY wish each and everyone a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a MORE PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR. And don't forget, any old dirty work you can throw our way will be appreciated.
