Like Medical Plan Costly

$1.2 Billion Federal-State Subsidy Program Said 'Voluntary'

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Eisenhower administration asked Congress today to enact a new $1,200,000,000 program of federal state subsidy to help most persons over 65 meet the cost of major illnesses. It would cost the individual $4 a year.

Welfare Secretary Arthur S. Flemming told the House Ways and Means Committee the proposed new medical care program would cost the federal treasury an estimated $600,000,000 a year.

The benefits would include payment of a major share of the cost of 180 days of hospitalization, 365 days of nursing home care and certain medical and dental services. It also would cover up to $500 worth of prescribed drugs.

To qualify for the voluntary program, elderly persons would have to pay the insurance premium of $4 a year. Those requiring medical treatment would have to pay the first $250 of the cost and 20 per cent of the remaining cost until the benefits were exhausted. Thereafter the individual would have to meet the entire cost of medical care.

The initial $200-out-of-pocket payment would be required of single persons. It would be fixed at $400 for a couple. The program has been worked out by Flemming and other administration officials in recent weeks.

It was the administration's answer to Democratic proposals which would add hospital insurance to benefits available under the Social Security program and raise Social Security taxes to pay for it.

The administration's action cleared the way for election-year approval by Congress of some kind of new program. But there still is no assurance any program will become law. If Congress insists on the Democratic approach, as seems likely, Eisenhower may veto the bill.

Flemming gave Republican members of the ways and means committee a preview of the administration plan at a secret caucus at the Capitol Tuesday.

The plan, as described by informants in advance of the official unveiling by Flemming, would work as follows:

It would provide benefits for all of the 16 million Americans 65 or over except those with incomes above a specified level. Excluded would be those who file income tax returns reporting gross incomes of as much as $2,500 a year for single persons and $3,800 a year for married couples.

This group comprises about 3,500,000 persons.

The chance to buy protection against catastrophic illnesses for $4 a year would be offered to persons who have less income than that but who are so impoverished that they are on public relief rolls. There are nearly 10 million persons in this group.

The plan would provide additional federal assistance to the states to provide care for the 2,700,000 persons on state-operated relief rolls. They would not pay anything for the protection.

The federal government's share of the costs would be paid directly to the states. The state could operate their own programs with

Hopping Mad Over Sausage

By DONALD MAY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The kangaroo meat that wound up in the sausage has some Americans hopping mad.

But the Australians — who eat only the tails — find it a laughing matter.

Two Pennsylvania state officials charged Tuesday that thousands of pounds of kangaroo meat, designated as baby mink food, actually found their way into the hands of sausage manufacturers and into the stomachs of unsuspecting citizens in Pennsylvania and elsewhere.

The meat couldn't have upset those stomachs, according to an agricultural expert at the Australian Embassy here, because the kangaroo is immune to most animal diseases. But, he noted, a kangaroo is not a prime Texas steer, if you get what he means.

Foreign Aid Slash May Bring Recall

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Joel Broyhill (R-Va.) said today President Eisenhower is thinking about calling Congress into special session if the House and Senate slash his foreign aid program substantially.

Broyhill made the statement after he and 16 other Republican congressmen had breakfast with the President at the White House.

Broyhill said the President made no specific threat but that he got the "definite impression" that Eisenhower would call Congress back into session if the mutual security program is materially cut. The present session is expected to adjourn in time for the July convention.

"I had the feeling that if we did not go along with his mutual security program, there was danger of being called back into special session," Broyhill told reporters.

Other congressmen at the breakfast said privately that Eisenhower was relatively specific in his thoughts about a special session should Congress vote a major cut in his program.

Segregation Dispute Keeps Store Closed

By United Press International

Lunch counters at Joske's Department Store in San Antonio, where Negroes have repeatedly tried to be served, remained closed today while in Marshall, a white preacher who denounced racial segregation had to go back to jail because he couldn't pay a fine.

In Houston, school board officials voted Tuesday night to submit the question of desegregation of schools to voters during the second Democratic primary election June 4, and planned to ask Federal Judge Ben C. Conally for permission to wait until after the election before submitting a required integration plan.

Conally has set a deadline of June 1 for the desegregation plan. James Shand, a vice president at Joske's, announced that all three lunch counters at the store would remain closed indefinitely to both whites and Negroes.

The decision by the store came after a white man, Mike Eugene Noite, 47, slapped a Negro preacher, Rev. Earl Graham Jr., 29, outside the Camellia Room on the fourth floor of the store.

Both were taken to police headquarters and booked for disturbing the peace. They were released under $25 bond.

The Rev. Ashton Jones, 64, an itinerant white preacher from Los Angeles, arrested after he spoke on the campus of a Negro college in Marshall, was fined $200 and court costs of $30 for vagrancy in Marshall.

He only had $79 so had to go back to jail where he has already spent six days.

Rev. Jones, who was his own counsel before Justice of the Peace J. G. Staats, pleaded not guilty and said he would appeal the conviction.

PHS Annual Honors Department Head

The 1960 Pampa High School Harvester yearbook released Tuesday was dedicated to Miss Virginia Vaughn, head of the foreign language department.

In addition to teaching Spanish and French, Miss Vaughn sponsors the senior class at the high school.

Michael Brown and Tyra Patterson were co-editors of the annual. Journalism instructor Miss Elizabeth Hurley directed the publication.

Nixon Beats Kennedy In Indiana Vote

Truman Ex-Aide To Jail

Richard Nixon

Victory Puts Republicans Back In Solid

United Press International

Republicans today hailed Vice President Richard M. Nixon's showing against Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) in Indiana's presidential "popularity contest" as a great upset victory which foreshadowed GOP success in November.

Virtually complete returns gave Nixon 386,741 votes and Kennedy 342,814 in Tuesday's primary. The candidates had only token opposition in their separated party races.

The Massachusetts Democrat, who made four campaign swings through the state, had predicted in advance he would pile up the most votes. Nixon, who did no campaigning in Indiana, had forecast he would trail.

Other primaries were held Tuesday in Ohio, the District of Columbia, Alabama and Florida.

Republican National Chairman Thurston B. Morton described the Indiana result as a "tremendous upset victory." He said, "This demonstration of the vice president's grass-roots appeal, without personal effort and against huge odds, is most dramatic and compelling."

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) said the outcome was "a tribute to the vice president's personal popularity." He said it was "a forerunner of the Republican victory to come in Indiana this November."

Rep. William G. Gray (R-Ind.) said the vote totals showed "the vice president has popular appeal that goes far beyond local contexts or other surface factors. The people of Indiana want him as their president."

In another Midwest primary, Kennedy and Nixon won Ohio's convention vote.

Delegates pledged to Nixon won all the state's seats at the GOP convention. They locked out former U.S. Sen. George H. Bender who announced he favored New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as the Republican presidential candidate.

In the Democratic contest, a slate of delegates headed by Gov. Michael Y. DiSalle, topped a group led by Ray T. Miller, long time chairman of the Cleveland Democratic organization. Both slates were pledged to Kennedy.

The top man on the Nixon slate had about twice as many votes as the leading Democratic delegate, DiSalle.

In the other race involving a presidential contest, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) led Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.) in the District of Columbia Democratic primary. Nixon was not on the ballot. But all GOP delegate candidates were pledged to him.

Front-runners for 15 of the 16 Democratic convention seats were Humphrey supporters. The other leader backed Adlai E. Stevenson, who asked citizens not to vote for him.

In Alabama, a state of presidential electors pledged to vote only for a candidate they considered sympathetic to the electoral college two of the state's 11 electoral positions.

A late surge by a slate promising to support the Democratic candidate may force a runoff election for the other nine posts.

Sen. John Sparkman and Reps. Frank Boykin and George Grant easily won re-nomination in congressional races. The state's other seven House members were unopposed. All 10 lawmakers are Democrats. Victory in the Democratic primary is tantamount to election.

Doyle E. Carlton Jr., a 37-year-old rancher-legislator and Farris Bryant, 45-year-old Harvard-educated lawyer, led a field of 10 candidates in the Florida Democratic gubernatorial primary. They will fight it out for the nomination in a runoff contest May 24.

Bryant campaigned for total racial segregation. Carlton endorsed generally the moderate racial approach.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman's appointments secretary surrendered today to begin an influence peddling prison sentence today, and told newsmen he had been conferring recently with his old boss.

Matthew J. Connelly, a key White House aide, turned himself in to the U.S. Marshal's office here after a four-year battle to upset his conspiracy conviction. Four hours earlier, former Justice Department official T. Lamar Caudle surrendered at Charlotte, N. C., to begin a two-year sentence on similar charges.

"I've been in touch with the (former) President continually," Connelly told newsmen. "I talked with him as late as yesterday. Truman is in Charlottesville, Va.

Asked the subject of his consultations with Truman, Connelly replied, "I can't say. Why don't you ask him?"

At Charlotte, Caudle avoided newsmen by surrendering to a U.S. deputy marshal at 8 a.m. He was legal chief of the Justice Department's tax division in the Truman administration.

Caudle, 56, was fingerprinted, processed and dispatched at once to the Federal Correctional Institution at Tallahassee, Fla., to begin a two-year sentence for conspiracy.

Connelly, 62, charged he was the victim of another Dreyfus case when he surrendered at the U.S. marshal's office in Manhattan at 9:15 a.m. EST.

"You heard of the Dreyfus case?" he told newsmen. "Beyond that I have no comment."

Alfred Dreyfus was a French army officer sentenced to life on Devil's Island in 1894 for espionage. He was the victim of many intrigues. A long campaign led by novelist Emile Zola won complete exoneration for Dreyfus in 1906.

Connelly, who was Truman's appointments secretary, was expected to serve his term in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn.

Both got two-year sentences in St. Louis Mo., federal court on June 14, 1956. They had been free since then because of a long series of appeals.

They maintained one last hope that of a presidential pardon.

Tobacco Firm Acquitted In Cancer Trial

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A direct verdict of acquittal was granted today in a month-long trial of a lung cancer victim's $1,250,000 damage suit against Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Federal Judge John L. Miller told the jury that the court was of the opinion "that no substantial evidence has been offered to support a verdict against the defendant on any theory of negligence."

"The motion by the defendant is granted and the jury is directed to file a verdict in favor of the defendant," Miller instructed the jurors.

Counsel for Liggett & Myers rested their case Tuesday. Otto Pritchard, 61, a Pittsburgh cabinet maker, claimed he developed lung cancer from smoking Chesterfield cigarettes for almost 30 years. A portion of his right lung was removed by surgery in 1955.

Jaycees To Urge Citizens To Vote

CHARGED IN SHOOTING

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Daniel Favila, 23, faced a negligent homicide charge today because he shot Nazario Rodriguez, 18, when Rodriguez handed him a gun and the trigger of the .25 caliber pistol, police said, and the bullet killed Rodriguez. Favila admitted the shooting, but said he didn't know the gun was loaded.

The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce will work all day Saturday to encourage voters to cast ballots in primary elections.

Melvin Jayroe, Jaycee president, said that members will operate a sound truck all day Saturday and tour the city to "get out the vote."

In addition to urging casting of ballots, the organization will urge every eligible voter to attend his precinct convention at 7:15 p.m. at polling places.

James Crawford, chairman of the legislative committee, is in charge of the project.

Big Three Backed On Summit Plans

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI)—The United States, Britain and France now has just as big a stake as the West in disarmament.

Secretary of state Christian A. Herter, who leaves for Athens this afternoon for talks with Greek government officials, made another strong plea Tuesday night for long-range planning to meet the problems of the coming 10 years. The United States first proposed this last December.

Herter said President Eisenhower had become convinced during his recent trips abroad that the West's position is good in comparison to Russia's.

He said Eisenhower's principal conclusion was that the communist way of life had no inherent appeal to the people of less developed countries.

'Hush-Hush' Honeymoon For Princess

LONDON (UPI) — Sshhh.

The royal yacht Britannia, dubbed the "quietest ship in the world," slipped up the Thames River to the old City of London today. When it glides back down again Friday night it will be carrying Princess Margaret and Anthony Armstrong-Jones on their honeymoon.

Silence is the word.

So completely hush-hush is the Britannia that its crew wears gym shoes. The orders are whispered. The ship-to-shore radio links instead of crackles. The passenger quarters are as isolated as a desert isle.

And the bulkheads are soundproof.

The princess is no stranger to the various advantages of sea power. She has used the Britannia four. So sure a sailor is she that she recently turned down an anti-basis for the suit as far as I'm concerned.

A weekly newspaper in Daniel's home county of Liberty—the Dayton News—announced it is endorsing Cox in an editorial signed by editor B. A. Tipton, and scheduled for publication Thursday, the newspaper said that while Mr. Daniel has led the state into financial ruin, he has certainly done well with his own finances.
The newspaper said records show Daniel "has purchased thousands of acres of expensive land valued at many hundreds of thousands of dollars." It added that Daniel "says he is a Democrat. In 1952 he voted Republican."
"First he is a liberal, then a conservative, and now he says he is a liberal again. Texas deserves a governor who has the courage of his convictions," the Dayton News said.
Daniel said at Temple Tuesday he had "worked diligently to restore public confidence by demonstrating honesty and integrity in all governmental affairs."
Cox went on TV at San Antonio Tuesday night at a rally attended by 100 women who staged an automobile cavalcade from his hometown of Breckenridge.
Cox said Daniel spent $45,000 Monday night for a melodramatic television speech, Cox said that was more than his entire TV budget for the campaign.
Carr said Wilson had charged, "I have some sort of heavy slush fund—yet who to say my campaign. Now someone may have a slush fund," Carr said, "but I know it is not Waggoner Carr."
Wilson said Tuesday at Houston "one of our state's big selling points is the fact that Texas is relatively free of racket, vice and organized crime. Industry in particular and people in general suffer whenever law enforcement breaks down."
In the race for lieutenant governor, challenger Don Yarbrough charged the incumbent, Ben Ransley has "finally come too far" in threatening to fight legislation aimed at equal rights for women if the women's leaders don't support him.

Chamber Sets Legislative Action Meet

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce will hold a congressional action meeting breakfast in the East Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn Thursday morning at 7 a.m.
Discussion on the subject "Why You Should Attend Your Precinct Convention" will be led by William Jarrel Smith.
The subject represents a departure from the normal theme of chamber breakfast meetings. However, the topic is timely and should be interesting as well as valuable to the members. Don Beaman, chairman of the legislative national affairs committee, said.
Chamber of commerce members are urged to attend and bring guests.

sickness record that was offered to her free by a London hypnotist.
As plotted in the briefing rooms of Buckingham Palace, this will be the kind of "sea-the-limit" excursion that would make the most confirmed bachelors or "bachelorettes" want to get married. The compass is set generally in the direction of the Caribbean.
Britannia's storerooms also have been filled with those traditional foodstuffs of which a honeymoon is made. Plenty of caviar and champagne. The ship also has been freshly painted.
With the wedding just two days away, the atmosphere surrounding Clarence House, Margaret's present residence, fairly crackled with the excitement of last-minute preparations.
The excitement did not appear a bit dimmed by an unusually critical article about Armstrong-Jones, a commoner and ex-photographer, which appeared Tuesday in the popular British magazine "Today."

Special music will be furnished by Mrs. Gene Pitmon and Mrs. David Mills. Mrs. Wally Gibson will conduct a brief devotional service.
All church women in Pampa are invited to attend. Children are invited to the luncheon and to the nursery, which will be provided in the church.

Foreign News

By PHIL NEWSON UPI Foreign Editor

Dag Hammarskjold is off on another of his missions of "quiet diplomacy" next week.
Next time, the United Nations secretary-general goes to London to carry out a Security Council mandate to seek ways to have South Africa soften or end its racial segregation policy.
He will meet with South African Foreign Minister Eric R. Louw. Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd was to have been in the consultation, but he still is recovering from the wounds of an assassination.

Hammarskjold will talk with Louw immediately after the British Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference, in which the South Africans already have had a rough going over because of their racial discrimination, or apartheid, policy.
His chances of getting them to soften South Africa's race policy are dim. But the fact that he got them to agree to a conference at all is a victory for his personal diplomacy.

South Africa consistently has refused to participate in U.N. debates on apartheid, contending that consideration of it by the world organization was an illegal interference in its domestic affairs.
Newsmen generally do not like Hammarskjold's "quiet diplomacy." It yields few headlines, and the close-mouthed Swede—who tends to talk in circles at his news conferences—gives little inside information.
Yet most correspondents close to the United Nations acknowledge that Hammarskjold's policies by-and-large have brought results. They were successful, for instance, in freeing U.S. fliers the Chinese Communists held as captives in averting a major war over the Suez Canal. They helped avert an East-West showdown in Lebanon in 1958.
To a large extent, they have kept Russia working to a degree with the West in the United Nations.

To date, the record shows one chief failure in Hammarskjold's quiet diplomacy. Despite repeated trips to consult with Israeli and United Arab Republic authorities, he has not been able to solve the question of freedom of passage for Israeli ships through the Suez Canal.
Boycotts of Arab shipping in the United States, in Canada and in Scandinavia now threaten reprisals that may make the Suez question again the world's prime diplomatic issue.

Aphrodisiac Stock Sales To Be Halted

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Securities Commission circulated an order today warning stock brokers not to sell any more securities in a company formed by two Dallas men to distribute a West Indies drug believed to stimulate sexual prowess in men.

William L. Bridges and his son, William L. Bridges Jr., have allegedly sold $500,000 worth of stock in a company to promote Pega Palo, a drug from the Dominican Republic described as "an amazing male mystery drug."
The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has banned Pega Palo in this country.
Commissioner William M. King handed down the order Tuesday forbidding Bridges and his son from further stock sales in their company. It was the outgrowth of a hearing on the securities held in Austin three weeks ago.
King said Bridges and his son paid $27,500 to the Dominican Republic for an exclusive United States franchise to distribute it. He said they have been selling it in Mexico, and that it is possible to obtain it in the United States, although it has been banned.
When the drug was first publicized in the United States in 1947, it became popular in Miami, Fla., where bars featured Pega Palo cocktails. The following year the federal drug administration banned it.
Dr. J. G. Soha of the Dominican Republic said no toxic reaction had been reported after a quantity of the drug had been consumed, and that in a test, 41 out of 50 men showed greater sexual powers.

CSA Plans To Orbit Balloon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—An attempt to place a 100-foot balloon into orbit around the earth to provide a bounce-off surface for communications signals will be made Thursday by the Civilian Space Agency.

The inflatable sphere will be the largest of the earth's man-made satellites and the first such object to be played in orbit, if all goes as planned.
A three-stage Delta rocket, which also will be making its space debut, is expected to carry the aluminum-coated plastic balloon aloft.
The experiment will be carried out by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration which plans to put the communications satellite into a circular orbit 1,000 miles from the earth.
The launching will be the first in a series known as "Project Echo," which is designed to investigate the possibility of using satellites to set up a global communications system.
A vapor-deposited aluminum shell surrounding the sphere is designed to reflect up to 95 percent of radio waves beamed against it.

Pickup, School Bus Crash; Four Injured

GEORGETOWN (UPI)—A pickup truck smashed head-on into a schoolbus Tuesday, injuring eight persons, four of them children.
The Department of Public Safety said the truck was trying to pass a slow-moving car on FM 195, four miles northwest of Georgetown, when the accident happened.
Theodore Henry Schaare, 82, the bus driver; Garth Berna Sims, 22, driver of the truck, and Bonnie Jo Ischy, 6, were hospitalized. The girl had a broken leg but none were believed seriously hurt.
Others injured were Earl Richards, 25, and Joe Charles LeCroy, 23, passengers in the truck; Debbie Jean Ischy, 11, Tanny Faught, 14, and Janice Schneider, 10. They were treated and released at a Georgetown hospital.

Veteran Capital Newsman Dies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Homer Dodge, a veteran Washington reporter who helped found the National Press Building here, died in a Washington hospital Tuesday night. He would have been 69 on June 1.
Dodge spent most of his career doing daily reporting to the International News Service, the old Washington Post, the now-defunct Washington Herald and other organizations.
In recent years he devoted most of his time to writing on economic subjects for various publications. He also wrote, edited and contributed to several books.
Dodge was born in Cleveland, Ohio, June 1, 1891. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dunreath Ode Dodge, a son, Canfield Dodge, daughter, Jacqueline Dodge, and three sisters, Daphne and Esther Dodge and Helen Gayer.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband has you take this, Abby? BOWLER'S WIFE DEAR WIFE: I'd try to take it like a good sport. Your husband doesn't show his age (49). I am at the dangerous age. Help him stay out of trouble by keeping an eye on him. If he needs reassurance that he's desirable, reassure him. If you can't bowl, go along and keep score. (At least that way you'll know what the score is.)

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me what to do. A few months ago I met a young man and I like him very much. Whenever we go out to eat, as soon as the meal is over, out comes a toothpick. None of my friends or any of my family use toothpicks in public, Abby, and this disturbs me. I've seen many a glance cast his way and, naturally, I am embarrassed.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of four children. Ellen is 17, Muriel is 15 and I am Shirley, 13. Our baby brother is 3 and he is our problem. Our mother tells everybody that she has three built-in baby-sitters and she means it, too. She doesn't realize that we girls have things to do and can't be chasing after the baby every evening after school and on week-ends. We can't make any plans because she depends on us to watch the baby. Don't you think she could hire a sitter and let us live our own lives? If she paid us the regular sitters' rate we wouldn't mind helping her out.

Further Organization Plans For Starting Club Stages ABWA Chapter Told By Field Director

By Abigail Van Buren

"Pampa business women are definitely interested in self-improvement and additional education, according to Mrs. Ruth Hedquist, special field director for the American Business Women's Association.

Mrs. Hedquist is in Pampa to establish a chapter of ABWA in this area. She is staying at the Pampa Hotel where she is conducting personal interviews with prospective members.

"Following the announcement of my arrival here, I have received many phone calls from local business women to whom an invitation for prospective membership had been extended," Mrs. Hedquist said, "and they have expressed their interest in our association particularly in the fact that we do have a definite educational program for the benefit of our members."

"During my personal interviews with local business women, I have gotten the impression that they are extremely alert, progressive, and very much interested in proving their business relationships and associations," she said. "Naturally, we do have our social aspects, too, but the social part of our program has taken second place to our educational aspects and that is as it should be. Of particular interest is the personality that is part of our self-improvement program for our members."

"Each member is given a personality analysis to point out weak points in her personality. Actually, 85 per cent of anyone's personal or business success is due to personality and where is the person who cannot stand a bit of self-improvement?"

"Of further interest to our members is the fact that we do sponsor girls on scholarship. Since the inception of ABWA, our local chapters have been encouraged to sponsor worthy girls on local scholarships. Last year, local awards by our chapters throughout the county amounted to more than $25,000. That paid for a lot of education."

"ABWA is now in its eleventh year. As organizations go, we are comparatively young which means we are still flexible enough to be scaled to the needs of our membership. It has a large future for the younger women in the business field."

"Through our growth, we found that our members are intensely interested in the educational aspects of their membership with us because we do afford them the opportunity of keeping up to date on business techniques. The business men and employees are Don't be timid! If you like the distinction and beauty epitomized by the elegant "white look" currently sweeping the home decorating field, by all means have it. Exceptional Children

The Tour of Beautiful Homes being sponsored to aid exceptional children in Pampa has this approval from Walter Rogers, representative from the 18th Congressional District of Texas.

It is gratifying to know the fine work being conducted by Parent Education Club and I am happy for the opportunity to endorse their laudable program. The necessity for advancing American education on every front is dramatized in many ways today. The need cannot be denied. The means to achieve the fulfillment of a broader and more balanced education for ourselves and our children is at hand in our local communities and it speaks well for the Parent Education Club, I believe, that they are helping to assert these means. Their efforts deserve the hearty commendation of all of us.

Walter Rogers, Member of Congress 18th District of Texas The tour through five of Pampa's most attractive homes will be conducted Saturday from one unit 5 p.m. Tickets are available to Pampa clubwomen through members of Parent Education Club.

8th Annual Elks Circus Here Saturday

The 8th annual Elks circus will be shown at the Rodeo Grounds for one day only Saturday, May 7. The show will be produced by Bailey Brothers Circus, this year featuring the internationally famous bareback riders, the Dorchester, from England, a family group of eight riders, known to be the finest riding act in America today. They do sensational acrobatic feats while riding four beautiful trained horses.

Another new feature is Lord Faucett, the funniest bounding rope walker in the world, somersaulting and doing feats never accomplished by anyone. Also the famous Bailey Brothers elephants. Lew Henderson's trained chimpanzees, the celebrated Duke family of jugglers, along with 25 other great acts, featuring Jeff Murphy and group of funny clowns, make up a fine two hour performance. The matinee will be held at 2 p.m. and the evening show at 8 p.m. Money derived from this show goes into the Elks charity fund.

The 'Rock' Falls Upon Bad Days

By WILLIAM MILLER
United Press International
CORREGIDOR, Philippines (UPI)—The "rock" has fallen upon bad days.

This great symbol of American and Filipino courage and perseverance is crumbling into ruins, forgotten by all but the few remaining men who helped defend it.

It is a neglected shambles of weeds, rust — and ghostly memories.

Eighteen years ago today — May 7, 1942 — Gen. Jonathan Wainwright surrendered Corregidor to the Imperial Japanese Army, which had crushed the defenders of Bataan barely a month before.

Today, the great guns point silently toward the South China Sea. The shells remain neatly stacked and unfired. For, as was the tragic case at Singapore, they were emplaced to shoot in a direction — to the sea.

The Japanese came from the rear, on Bataan, and Corregidor's "impregnable" guns were helpless.

There is a small detachment of the Philippines navy on Corregidor today. Its members live with their families in a little village near the old stone wharves and guide an occasional visitor through the giant underground tunnels in which hundreds of artillery shells are stored.

At the highest point on the fortress island, a lighthouse serves to guide ships into Manila Bay.

Below, overgrown by the jungle, are the rows of gutted barracks left, more or less, as they were those 18 years ago. Rats nest in smashed GI footlockers. Lizards scurry over rusted steel helmets.

It is as if the battlefield was frozen into sudden silence a day ago and the world locked out.

State Drug Hearings Open May In Angry Atmosphere

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The drug hearings resumed today amid angry charges, countercharges and even doubt whether they could last more than a few days.

Dr. Samuel L. Hays, director of the Washington D.C. Society, has made a detailed study of the application and studies which the Brooklyn drug firm of Charles & Co. submitted to the Drug Administration in 1958 for its oral medicine called "di-

Dr. Hays has been attacked by Henry Dolger, chief of diet at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York City, as being the cause of liver damage in some of his patients. Dolger criticized the drug as "poisonous."

Dr. J. E. McKee, president of Pfizer, who also is today's scheduled witness, has insisted the drug is used carefully.

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen (Ill.) told the Monday he felt Kefauver's "sat and monopoly subcommittee was getting out of its field by talking the merits of medicine, not lawmakers."

Dirksen is seeking a closed-door session of the subcommittee to establish "better guidelines" for the drug industry.

There was a possibility Dirksen would block the hearings from continuing today after the Senate convened. Under the rules, committees cannot meet when the Senate is in session without unanimous consent.

Other congressional news:
Depressed Areas: Supporters of a $25 million program of federal aid to areas of chronic economic depression planned a strategy session tonight to make effort to force a House vote on the measure. The backers will report to a rarely-used parliamentary maneuver Wednesday in an effort to bypass the House rules committee, where the bill has been blocked for nearly a year.

Defense: The House called up for debate a $39,337,887,000 defense money bill geared to increased strength in missiles, planes, submarines and satellites. House military experts predicted it would be passed — probably Thursday — with little or no change.

Gift To Canadian By Santa Fe RR

CANADIAN (SpI) — The city of Canadian last week was given two 200,000 gallon water tanks, three buildings and several thousand feet of electric transmission line and large diameter water pipe by the Santa Fe Railroad Company.

Presentation was made at a city council meeting by T. W. Goolsby, Santa Fe superintendent, who was accompanied by L. R. Mitchell, trainmaster, and Bob Hardin, Canadian station agent.

Mayor Bill Bartlett accepted for the city.

AF Men Killed In Crash Monday

TEXAS CITY (UPI)—Two young Air Force enlisted men died in the wreckage of their car Monday night when it crashed through a barricade at the end of a dead end street and roared down an embankment onto a nearby highway.

Texas City policemen identified the victims as Colby Baxter, 24, of Anderson, Maine, and Arthur Sanderson, 17, of Durby, Colo. Both men were stationed at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

New Organization Aims To Aid The Worlds Buyers By Exchanging Ideas.

Consumer Groups Going International

By GABE KAIMOWITZ
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (NEA)—American consumers are taking to water like ducks, buying everything from motor boats to swimming pools.

And if past performance counts, the consumers in other English-speaking and European nations probably are swimming close behind.

Spotting this trend of world consumer conformity is Colston E. Wayne, president of the U.S. Consumers Union. He just returned from the Hague, Netherlands, where he was named president of the newly-formed International Office of Consumer Unions.

The international will exchange product testing information offered by the independent, non-profit, non-commercial consumer organizations in the U.S., Iceland, Britain, Australia, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Netherlands, France, New Zealand, Germany, Austria, Belgium and Israel.

a time "when nations are becoming universally brand conscious" Wayne says. It used to be that a carrot was a carrot. But today its brand A carrot which is either better or worse than brand B, C, and so on.

It seems that the U.S. has taught the world the "brand" new lesson. This follows Wayne notes, from the pattern of copying American consumer ideas and fads.

European nations now are becoming "automobile conscious," a phrase the U.S. may already be doing with as it starts on the "motorboat complex."

More U.S. consumers today are wondering where an item can be repaired even before they purchase

But "copycatting" has its differences. "Germany is going through a washing machine phase without ever having been at the refrigerator stage," Wayne says, "contrary to the U.S. pattern."

Instructing the other consumer associations in the pitfalls of catering to the consumer interest, Wayne reported that Consumers Union here reaches five per cent of the nation's families. They are primarily those that are better educated, informed and wealthier than the average.

He suggests that this consumer "elite" will also be observed as the consumption pattern-setters by the various foreign consumer organizations.

Foreign consumer groups also can teach this nation a thing or two in exchange for the information received from U.S. Consumers Union.

Sweden may point the way toward a new method of testing a product for its "lifetime," indicating the number of times an item must be serviced and the ease in which it can be serviced, Wayne says.

WAYNE: "It used to be that a carrot was a carrot."

he says, citing servicing as a major consideration of consumers interested in foreign autos.

Some foreign testing methods also will help the U.S. in its highway safety crusade, Wayne says. He adds:

"Auto safety belts and cushions are coming into the consumer's mind more often when he thinks of buying an automobile."

Wayne says foreign consumers still generally seek the "best buys" (a balance of quality and price), while the Americans usually "buy the best." He believes this difference, too, may pass as other Western nations improve living standards and step up advertising campaigns to "universalize" merchandise.

But if the consumer must conform, Wayne and others are trying to get him to do so "with a social conscience."

In this direction, Consumers Union already has quantitatively evaluated in its publication, Consumer Reports, strontium 90 content in milk; health insurance; and TV programming.

Pulitzer Prize For Expose On Nepotism

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vance Trimble, 46-year-old Scripps-Howard news editor, won a Pulitzer Prize Monday because he has never abandoned first-hand reporting.

Trimble, a native of Harrison, Ark., entered journalism at the age of 15 as a cub reporter on the Okemah (Okla.) Daily Leader. He joined the Scripps-Howard organization in 1939 as a staffer on the Houston Press; advanced to city editor, then managing editor, of the Press, and joined the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance in 1955.

But Trimble never forgot his training as a reporter in the field. His Pulitzer Prize was awarded for his expose on nepotism in Congress.

The expose developed into a crusade to end unnecessary congressional secrecy. Last June the Senate voted to make its office

Leasing Instead Of Buying Gains Popularity Over U.S.

By LEROY POPE
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—The trend towards leasing instead of buying is proving so profitable it may in time extend to consumer goods, experts said today.

Ten years hence a considerable larger number of people may rent automobiles than now, and washing machines, food freezers, combination TV and Hi-Fi consoles, even expensive paintings and furniture may be rented.

And the leasing of all sorts of business property from real estate to vehicles, computers, machinery and furnishings seems certain to grow rapidly, according to President H. L. Meckler of Lease Plan International Corp.

Meckler says leasing of property other than real estate and consumer goods jumped in volume from $10 million to $150 million in the past year. "Lease-back" deals in real estate, factories, hotels and such, of course, are a payroll public for the first time in 13 years.

Between the time Trimble started out as a cub and the time he joined Scripps-Howard he worked for about 25 small southwestern daily newspapers. He is married and has one daughter.

BREAK CATTLE RING

TYLER (UPI)—Smith County sheriff's deputies have broken a ring of teen-aged Negro cattle rustlers who over the past year stole all but two of the 18 cows owned by a partially blind Negro woman.

Sheriff Harlon Long filed a felony theft charge against Loyce Hampton, 18, and turned two other Negroes, 13 and 16, over to juvenile authorities. The cattle belonged to Sally Walton, 90.

Cheryl Crane Back Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lana Turner's daughter, Cheryl Crane, was back in custody Tuesday because her three-day flight from a school for wayward girls convinced her "you can't run away forever."

Cheryl, 16, who escaped from the school with two other teenage girls by scaling a 12-foot wall, telephoned her father—a restaurateur Stephen Crane—Monday and asked him to take them back.

Crane drove from his Hollywood home to the nearby San Fernando Valley and found the girls hiding behind a supermarket—about one mile from the county-operated school from which they fled.

"They were scared and tired and hungry," said Crane, who took them to his apartment for something to eat.

The girls said they stayed at a girlfriend's house in the valley for almost all of the three days—but refused to identify her, even to Crane, because "we're afraid of getting her into trouble."

Miss Turner, in Palm Springs, Calif., at the time of Cheryl's escape, said she had no plans to return to Hollywood or see her daughter immediately.

"Thank God she's safe and sound," the actress said.

depreciation will enable it to replace purchased machines when they wear out. In fact in recent years, this practically has ceased to be the case.

Meckler said total business property, other than real estate and whole plants, now being used under lease is about $900 million. He predicted that would rise to $1.2 billion this year. Leased truck and auto fleets account for $375 of the present total.

TWO FIREMEN HURT

DALLAS (UPI)—Two Dallas firemen, Lloyd N. Harris, 33, and John W. Pew, 36, were injured Monday when a piece of falling roof knocked them off a ladder at an apartment fire. Neither was seriously hurt.

Stock Market Could Show Well in May

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, which has a tendency to do what isn't expected, could turn up shortly and make a good show in May.

The month of May isn't one that has shown definite trends over the years. It's just about a standoff in gains and losses.

Those who hold there is a prospect of a recovery movement point to the consistent perverseness of the market so far this year.

According to past history, the market rises in January. This January it had its widest drop in history save for that dread October of 1929.

February usually is a month of decline. This year the market rose a bit in the second month.

March, when a rise is in order, witnessed a decline. April with a slight edge on gains over the years saw a further decline.

May and June are the standoff months, and often they form the base for the market's traditional summer rally.

Declines in the market have hurt many people, it is noted, and hence there could well be stiff resistance to a market rise at this time.

But, the experts point out that the market has several things in its favor.

Trading has been very light. Only a little more than four per cent of the stock listed has been traded so far this year which means no rush to sell that marked the 1929 catastrophe.

Secondly, prices have been driven down to levels where in the not distant past many traders were lured from the sidelines to make purchases which helped sustain the market.

In the third place, it is held that business has ignored the market decline and is preparing to spend vast sums for new construction and rehabilitation of plants.

S. H. Lurie, research expert for the brokerage firm of Joseph Thal & Co., notes that the readjustment in business taking place may stem primarily from an excessive build-up following settlement of the steel strike and unprecedentedly unfavorable weather in late winter.

"Today's headlines," he says, "may reflect no more than a compressed or concentrated rolling readjustment."

"If this be true, it almost automatically follows that past maladjustments are being corrected before they become a major or long-lasting depression."

Lurie doesn't look for a market boom. He believes that once there is more vitality in the general business trend, the best market gains will center on the leading issues—and not the special dynamics.

A Look At The Coming Summit Meeting—May 16

Major Issues Discussed In Question And Answer Form

Questions and Answers
By United Press International

Q. What are the major issues of the East-West summit conference May 16?

A. Disarmament; Germany, including divided Berlin; future of East-West relations.

Q. Where do East and West stand on disarmament?

A. The West wants spaced, verified arms reduction leading to eventual total disarmament with footpact controls under the supervision of a world policing force. Russia wants total disarmament in a set period of four years with secondary emphasis on controls; the Russians feel controls can follow rather than precede disarmament moves.

Q. What are the prospects?

A. Slender, but room for compromise.

Q. What are the positions on Germany?

A. The West wants unification of East and West Germany by free elections, leaving a united Germany, with Berlin as its capital—to decide itself whether it wishes to remain in the Western alliance; until this is accomplished the West wants presently divided Berlin left alone and Western lines of communication with Communist-controlled territory left undisturbed. Russia wants a federated Germany that leaves the East German regime intact or alternatively, conclusion of separate peace treaties with the two

Germany which would imply Western recognition of the Communist regime; the Russians want the Western powers to withdraw from West Berlin and make it a "free city," with East Berlin remaining within the East German setup.

Q. What are the settlement prospects?

A. Nil. The West is ready to offer a plebiscite in both Germany to let the Germans decide whether they prefer the Western or Soviet plans. Russia rejects this. Some sort of compromise at this time would essentially change the East-West positions.

Q. Where do we stand on East-West relations?

A. The West wants to establish a "code of rules" governing international propaganda, non-interference in other countries' affairs, freedom of information, trade with Russia but including restrictions on the flow of war materials to the Soviet bloc, free travel, unlimited cultural exchanges, student and scientist exchanges, and an end to radio jamming. Russia offers "peace coexistence" including by inference acceptance of the status quo in international relations, non-interference in the affairs of other countries but with the right to fight capitalism via Communist parties abroad (regarded by the West as a potential "Fifth Column"), more trade with the West including removal of security export embargoes, and relaxed travel restrictions.

Q. What are the settlement

Germany Is The Stumbling Block To East-West Accord

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press International

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Germany is the problem child of the summit.

As most problem children, Germany won't be in the room while her elders discuss her case. But she will make her influence felt just the same.

The German problem wrought the wartime Anglo-American-Soviet alliance; and was the immediate cause of most of the disputes that broke up that alliance 15 years ago.

It was an attempt to end something about Germany that brought about the 1955 East-West summit meeting in Geneva, and the present summit resulted directly from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threat to do something on his own about the Berlin part of the German problem.

Khrushchev's original threat, made in November, 1958, has been toned down somewhat since, notably after his Camp David meeting with President Eisenhower last year.

But the danger remains that if the summit ends in disagreement, Khrushchev may yet sign a separate peace treaty with his Communist puppet regime in East Germany, and use that to try to lever the Western Allied troops out of West Berlin.

The Western powers insist they are not going to leave Berlin—an island of 2 million free men surrounded on all sides by Communist armies—until it is again the capital of a Germany reunited in freedom.

During his conversations with Eisenhower in Washington in March, West German Chancellor

Conrad Adenauer made it clear he believes any weakening of the Allied position in West Berlin before reunification would be "catastrophic" for NATO and for the free world's position in Asia and Africa.

From the Soviet point of view, the presence of Western forces behind the Iron Curtain makes a final consolidation of power in Eastern Europe impossible.

Abandonment of West Berlin, in the Western view, would mean the Western powers have abandoned their insistence that East Europe be given the opportunity to choose its own governments.

But to both Russia and the West, Berlin represents the "steel and flint" of a new war. The possibilities of a major incident on the highways Western forces use to pass through Soviet lines to West Berlin or in the airways above are enormous.

To that situation must be added the fact that the Western Powers' ally West Germany, and the Soviet's puppet East Germany, are perhaps even more adamant on the Berlin situation than either Moscow or Washington.

Khrushchev Will Demand Exit Of Allies

Khrushchev's Secret Hope
By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev can be counted on to go to the summit demanding that Americans go home from their overseas military bases.

Getting the bases dismantled has been a long-time, consuming aim of Khrushchev's policy.

It is a prime goal of all Soviet disarmament proposals. It underlies political maneuvering to divide America and its Allies. Country after country has been threatened with dire consequences for having U. S. bases on its soil.

U. S. overseas bases encircle the Communist empire. Their mission is to deter aggression and to have U. S. forces in advantageous positions to wage war if necessary.

The bases are anchor points for a ring of men and missiles, aircraft and ships that confront Russian military planners no matter what direction they look. They are vital links holding together global alliances. They mean that Americans will be present or can arrive quickly at any point of aggression.

More than 730,000 American military men, from riflemen on the "front lines" to crews of hydrogen bombers poised on runways, are based outside the United States. Another 65,000 are "float" with the Navy's 6th and 7th fleets.

The United States has taken the position at the Geneva disarmament conference that the overseas bases are for defense of America and its Allies, were welcomed by the nations where they were established, and would be abandoned promptly if the time ever came when they were not needed for defense.

The Russians, obviously, see the bases as frustrating their aggressive aims—which would be reason enough for their persistent effort to get them dismantled. They also, illogical as it may seem to Americans, consider the bases as springboards for attack on the Soviet Union.

West Goes To Summit Still Second In Space Advances

Rockets Over The Summit
By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The West goes to the summit with no expectation of being able to match Soviet "space spectaculars" before some time in 1964.

U. S. space officials concede that Russian superiority in rocket power has enhanced the East's prestige at the expense of the West's. They are prepared to endure the embarrassment of many more splashy firsts by Russia before this country catches up in rocket muscle.

The first man in orbit, the first man on the moon, the first spacecraft to reconnoiter or land instruments on another planet may all be Russian.

But the men in charge of the U. S. space program are beginning to emerge from the depths of chagrin into which they were plunged by Russia's early space successes and America's early failures.

U. S. space officials now say that America is running behind Russia only in ability to launch heavy loads, that U. S. achievements in space science have been in many respects greater than Russia's and that this country is well started toward superiority in all phases of space exploration.

They do not, therefore, give Russia any edge in space bargaining power at the summit.

In any event, man's venture into space has added tough new problems to the burden of strictly mundane troubles the summit leaders have to deal with.

At the summit meeting five years ago in Geneva, the leaders manifested no concern about space. Although they knew scientists of the International Geophysical Year (IGY) program would try to launch man-made moons into orbit around the earth, the statesmen of 1955 could hardly have realized that a few years hence they would be seeking answers to such questions as:

—Who owns space? Will the first nation to land men on the moon have a legal right to claim possession of it?

—Will man use space primarily for military or peaceful purposes? Will he ever launch "orbital H-bombs" or build missile bases on the moon?

—Will the countries of earth eventually unite in peaceful, scientific conquest of space, or will they continue to use it as just another arena for national rivalry?

This country has called for international cooperation to exploit space for peaceful purposes. It has proposed that military use of space be outlawed. It already is undertaking joint space projects with other nations. It has even offered the services of its satellite-tracking networks to help Russia put a man in orbit and get him safely down.

Quivira GS Council Holds First Meeting In Borger

The Quivira Girl Scout Council held its first regular meeting Friday in the Borger Girl Scout Little House. Mrs. John Holt, Jr., Pampa, president of the council announced that there are 1,992 girls and 637 adults registered in Girl Scouting in the 10-county council area.

Mrs. Holt presented certificates to the following neighborhood chairmen: Mrs. Bob Gordon, Mrs. Eugene Turner, Mrs. Bill Eaden, Pampa; Mrs. Joe Cunningham, Miami; Mrs. E. A. Bryant, Lefors; Mrs. R. D. Morrison, Mrs. Earl Tunnell, Mrs. B. T. Elliott, Borger; Mrs. Frank Blenroth, Bunavista; Mrs. Charles Wilcox, Phillips; Mr. Ceril Batton, Stinnett; Mrs. James Albert, Fritch; Mrs. R. C. Heaton, Skellytown; Mrs. Howard Cavet, White Deer; Mrs. Richard Gilkey, Clarendon; Mrs. David Hoover, Memphis; Mrs. David Pultz, McLean.

Mrs. Vaden Fowler, Borger, first vice-president outlined the organizational setup of the new council; standing committees will meet the first week of the month; board meetings are to be held the third and fourth weeks. The bulletin, "Coronado Trails," is to be published the first of each month.

In the absence of John McCausland of Pampa, second vice president, Mrs. Holt gave a report in which she outlined the policies of the council toward employed personnel, council property, council financing and troop fund raising.

R. C. Marshall of Borger, third vice president, spoke of the camping program of the council. Seven communities—Borger, Pampa, Skellytown, Canadian, Clarendon, Memphis and Shamrock—will have day camps during June. Plans are being made to hold an intermediate encampment this fall at Camp Mel Davis, the council-owned camp at Lefors.

Mrs. Joe Cunningham, Miami, chairman of the nominating committee presented Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Marion Osborne, executive director, Mr. and Mrs. Ceril Batton, and Miss Martha Skelly, newly approved district director, who will begin her work September 1, as delegates to the national convention. Elected as alternates were Mrs. Vaden Fowler and Mrs. Muri Howard, Phillips.

Ann Duncan and Martha Lou Kelly, Senior Troop 17 of Pampa, described their trip to the national roundup in Colorado Springs last July where they camped with Girl Scouts from 102 countries. Of special interest were their roundup hats decorated with "swaps" from the international trading post.

VICE SQUAD SCORES

PORT WORTH (UPI)—A new "flying vice squad" formed by the Fort Worth police department showed its worth in a roundup of 56 prostitutes, gamblers and panderers over the weekend. Lt. Oliver Bell, who heads the Fort Worth vice squad, declined to say how many men have been assigned to the new squad, but said it would work hand in hand with regular vice squad officers.

Jr. Golf Tournament Set

The annual Junior Golf Tournament gets under way at the Pampa Country Club next Tuesday with some 30 young golfers expected to compete for trophies in the three age brackets.

The medal play tournament will run through Friday, May 13 when the championship rounds will be played.

Competing golfers will be separated into three brackets by ages. Ten-year-olds will play nine-holes for the title in that group, boys between 11 and 12 will go 18 holes, and the 13-15 year age group will play 36 holes.

Club pro Hart Warren says the deadline for entry in the tournament is Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. with the first group teeing off at 2:30 p.m.

Golf Club Title Play Advanced

The seventh annual Pampa Country Club Championship tournament has been moved up from the customary fall schedule this year to open the spring golfing season.

Slated to get under way May 15, the tournament is open to all club members who qualify before May 14.

Dr. Foglar Rider, 1959 champion, will be defending his title. He finally won after making it as far as the final rounds three years.

Carvin Tops On ENMU Links

The top golfer on the Eastern New Mexico University golf team this season is Larry Carvin, a 1959 graduate of Pampa High School.

The ENMU freshman gathered 17 1/2 points for the Greyhound squad which won 5 and lost 2 matches during the regular season. The student youth lost only 3 1/2 points during the season.

Carvin is attending ENMU on a golf scholarship granted him after a fine high school career with the Harvester golf team.

He is the number two man on Coach Joe Dickson's Greyhound squad and was top scorer for the Hounds.

Harvesters Top District 3-AAAA Fielding Averages

The final season totals for the District 3-AAAA baseball race show some surprising facts in the team batting and fielding records when compared with the final standings.

The Pampa Harvesters, with an 11-7 overall record and 5-4 in the league, showed their future to measure up to pre-season predictions was due to a let-down in offense. The team defense was the best in the league with a percentage of .949 or 58 points better than the cellar-dwelling Amarillo Sandies.

In terms of chances that means the Harvesters could handle 95 out of 100 chances cleanly which is far above average.

The Harvesters, led by first baseman Larry Stroud's .494 average, batted only .258 as a team fifth best in the league in that department.

District champion Monterey led the league in every other phase of the standings, conceding the fielding title to Pampa.

Runner-up Lubbock in the district standings won its games when they counted for the Westerners were a fifth place club in the full season standings with a 13-11 record.

The only truly consistent performance was that turned in by the Amarillo Sandies. They had the dubious distinction of finishing dead last in every department.

They batted an anemic .207 as a team and fielded a shoddy .891 to earn last place in the district.

Rio Grande Ties Tulsa For TL Lead

By United Press International

The Rio Grande Valley Giants today climbed into a first place deadlock with Tulsa in the Texas League, but it took a pair of extra inning baseball games to do it.

The Victoria Rosebuds rallied to whip Tulsa 13-9 in 10 1/2 innings Tuesday night while the Giants beat Austin 4-3 in the other 10 inning game. San Antonio out-gunned last place Amarillo 6-3 to move ahead of the Senators into fourth place.

Manuel Montejo, the Victoria hurler from San Antonio, was the fourth moundsman of the game for the Rosebuds, and held the Oilers scoreless while his mates deadlocked the score with a three-run spurge in the seventh and put the game on ice with a four-run outburst in the final frame.

Bob Boyer sparked a four-run third inning with a homer with one aboard. Don Miles and Kal Segrist homered for Victoria, accounting for three runs between them.

Austin went ahead with two runs in the fifth, and the Valley tied it up with a similar number in the eighth, then outscored the Senators 2-1 in the 10th. Ron Herbel and Richard Soeder, who came on in the eighth, held Austin to a single hit. The Giants cracked loser Cecil Butler, who needed help from Federico Olivo in the 10th, for nine hits.

Bob Graham scattered six hits over the distance to win for San Antonio, which opened with two runs, added two more in the fourth and single tallies in the fifth and sixth, on an eight hit attack.

Amarillo, which has stumbled deep in the league cellar nine and one half games off the pace, scored one in the second and two more in the eighth.

In tonight's games Victoria has another crack at Tulsa in Oklahoma, San Antonio plays at Amarillo and the Valley is at Austin.

"I won't make up my mind for the next day or two," said Jones.

Amarello, which has stumbled deep in the league cellar nine and one half games off the pace, scored one in the second and two more in the eighth.

Beau Purple's Trial Surprises Favorites

By RAY AYRES
United Press International

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — With the preliminary tests all over and the big race only four days away, the field for the $125,000 added Kentucky Derby had 12 certain starters today with the chance that several others may still join them.

Beau Purple's brilliant victory in near record time in the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs Tuesday discouraged several owners and trainers from starting horses in America's greatest racing spectacle, which annually draws the attention of the entire country.

That triumph threw trainer Jimmy Jones of Calumet Farm into a quandary, for he had three horses trail Beau Purple across the finish line, and it gave pause to Jimmy Pitt, who trains one of the favorites in Bally Ache.

Tompson, owned by C. V. Whitney, remained the solid favorite with a chance that the winner of the Santa Anita Derby and the Blue Grass Stakes would be an odds on choice at post time.

Tompson loomed as the strongest favorite since Native Dancer started at 7-10 only to suffer the lone defeat of his career in the first of the triple crown classics by Dark Star in 1953. Nevertheless, in addition to Bally Ache and Beau Purple, Venetian Way, Victoria Park, Divine Comedy, Tony Graf, Yonolka, Cuyver Relic, Henrijan, Fighting Hodge and Lulluliah will race for the roses.

Not definitely declared out were Calumet Farm's three horses, plus Efonyi, Et Zag and Fighting Hodge.

"I won't make up my mind for the next day or two," said Jones.

Amarello, which has stumbled deep in the league cellar nine and one half games off the pace, scored one in the second and two more in the eighth.

TWO FOR TWO — The second All-State basketball player in the Winborn family, Craig, shows his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Winborn, of 617 Lowry St., the letter of intent he signed to play his collegiate basketball at Texas University, as his basketball coach, Clifton McNeely, looks on. The widely sought star will join his brother Coyle at TU where he enrolled last year after making All-State and All-District. While Craig has indicated he will definitely go to TU, he is still fair game for schools outside the Southwest Conference. The letter of intent prevents him from making any agreements with other conference schools. The handsome youngster added an additional honor to his collection Tuesday when he was named Pin-Up boy in the 1960 Harvester yearbook. (Daily News Photo)

Collins Beats Palmer

By KYLE THOMPSON
United Press International

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Brawny Bill Collins began a "week of rest" today with $5,300 prize money from the Houston Classic golf tournament and the knowledge he has just become a member of a very exclusive club.

When he won the $35,000 classic in a special 18-hole playoff, Collins became one of the few golf pros to beat Masters champion Arnold Palmer this year.

Collins, a husky, 210-pound ex-Marine from Crystal River, Okla., had won only one major PGA tournament in his career — last year's New Orleans Open. But Palmer had been winning them right and left this year — so many that he is the biggest early-season money winner of all time.

Collins tied a three-under-par 35-34-69 Tuesday to win the big slice of the Houston money and edge Palmer by two strokes. Palmer, who plays out of Ligonier, Pa., turned the front nine even with Collins, but bogeyed the 12th hole when he missed a five-foot putt.

Then on the 14th Collins, who made terrific iron shots all day, landed his approach shot within six feet of the pin and sank the putt for a birdie three. Palmer shot a par four and fell two strokes behind.

Palmer's last chance to pull even came on the 17th, when Collins overshot the green. But Collins' chip shot landed 10 feet from the cup and he sank it for a par. Palmer was unable to do better than par himself.

The two tied for first place with 280s through the fourth round of the classic Monday.

Palmer also scored with Arctic Angel in the first, Fat Roundone in the fourth and Darlin Patrice in the ninth.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Walter Wolfner, managing director of the St. Louis Football Cardinals, Tuesday announced that Maury Schleicher, former Penn State star, had signed his 1960 contract. He is a defensive end and linebacker.

Pierce Whips Orioles; Whitesox Take Lead

Yanks Rout Tigers To Take 2nd Place

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

That's right, the experts were wrong again. The little fellow they thought might be washed up has turned out to be the strong man of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff.

Billy Pierce, all of 165 pounds when holding the 5-ounce baseball, was rated a definite question mark this spring because of his 1-15 1959 record and the fact he was pretty much ignored in the World Series. But he's turned into one of the three complete games pitched by the White Sox' staff this season and is the only starter with a winning record.

The 35-year-old left-hander pitched on his favorite cousin's team last night when he pitched the White Sox into sole possession of first place in the American League by besting the Baltimore Orioles 5-3. It was his second straight complete game and made his career mark against Baltimore 5-3.

The New York Yankees moved to second place with a 10-3 rout of the Detroit Tigers, the Washington Senators beat the Cleveland Indians 7-6, and dropped them to third place and the Boston Red Sox topped the Kansas City

Athletics 4-3 in other American League games.

In the National League's only action, the Cincinnati Reds scored a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies ended a six-game losing streak with a 10-9 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Pierce allowed 10 hits but he struck out six and did not walk a batter as he protected an early 4-0 lead. The White Sox took advantage of an error by shortstop Ron Hansen to score two unearned runs off rookie Steve Barber in the second inning and added two more in the third on doubles by Nelson Fox and Minnie Mingo and Roy Sievers.

Three singles and a sacrifice fly gave the Orioles two runs in the fourth and Hansen homered in the fifth but Pierce shut out Baltimore the rest of the way. Jim Landis had three hits and Fox, Sievers and Luis Aparicio two each to lead the White Sox 12-hit attack.

Moose Skowron and Kent Haden hit two-run homers and Roger Maris hit a solo homer to lead a 14-hit Yankee attack that also included doubles by Skowron and Kent Hunt and a triple by Gil McDougald. Art Ditmar, who pitched the second through the sixth innings, won his first game. The loss was the seventh in a row for the Tigers.

Lenny Green singled home the winning run in the ninth inning for the Senators, who played their seventh straight one-run game. Tito Francona who entered the game as a pinch-hitter in the third inning, contributed to four scoring innings for the Indians with a sacrifice fly, two doubles and a single.

Bill Monbouquette gained his second victory for the Red Sox when first baseman Norm Siebern's 10th-inning error enabled Don Budding to score the winning run. Bob Cerv homered for Kansas City.

Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer and Dutch Dotterer drove in two runs with a homer and a double to lead the Reds' attack while Don Demeter's two homers and a double accounted for all Los Angeles' runs. The game was enveloped by a sixth-inning argument between Dodger pitcher Stan Williams and Vada Pinson after the latter was hit by a pitched ball. The loss dropped the Dodgers below the .500 mark at 8-9.

Ken Walters' ninth-inning homer, his third hit of the game, proved the decisive run for the Phillies, who overcame an early 3-0 Cub lead. Bobby Del Greco, Frank Herrera and Wally Post had two hits each for Philadelphia and Frank Thomas drove in four runs with two homers for Chicago.

Thieves Around Us

There's an article in the May "Reader's Digest" which contains three key sentences that may be overlooked. We wish to present them to you here...

Looking Sideways Fair Enough

NEW YORK — Angna Enters, a kind of ageless wonderkind, was in her studio the other afternoon painting a portrait of Dame Judith Anderson...

Reading her explicit book a few months ago, something I like to do once each year, I was stunned anew to discover how tormenting and punishing her first years in mime had been...

Hankering

What Is Stevenson Up To.. Really? by Henry McLeMure. I spend a lot of time these days trying to figure out what goes on in the back of Adlai Stevenson's head...

Foreigners aren't going to help him in Los Angeles. One baby kissed over here is worth a hundred kissed in Greece, Turkey, Russia, or Ceylon...

Some say that Mr. Stevenson has been traveling a mile a minute to prove he is not interested in the nomination, to get away from it all...

Instead of making a speech, he could simply refer the public to the newspapers of November 1952 and 1956, or have his television talks of those years re-run along with the late movies...

Apples And Spoilage

Some unknown savant a very long time ago pointed out that a bad apple in a barrel would ultimately ruin the good fruit. Observation confirms the ancient adage...

Sins Covered By Cloak Of Office

I have lived conscientiously under nine presidents, beginning with Theodore Roosevelt. When I became conscious of Teddy, as we called him in his full authority and solemnity, he was undoubtedly god but with a winsome vagary...

STRANGE RECOURSE — Twenty-one of the 71 U.S. servicemen involved in blackmarketing operations in Turkey invoked the Fifth Amendment when questioned by Pentagon investigators...

High GOP Source Says:

Only Draft 'From Top' Could Put Rocky Over

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — A high Republican source says flatly any presidential draft of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller can come only from the top in a big, turn-about of the powerful leaders most heavily committed to Vice President Nixon.

This informant believes the prospect highly unlikely, despite flurries of fresh interest in Rockefeller which have followed Nixon's modest slide in the polls and his good but not striking scores in some primaries.

Rockefeller himself looks for Nixon to be the 1960 Republican nominee. And he's not donning armor against the Vice President in support of the "draft" from the top view, the high GOP source made these further points:

Rockefeller was not frozen out by GOP professionals in his wind-testing tours last fall. But the scattered, latent sentiment that exists for him is not expected to jell into a tough nucleus of strength. Nor will it be encouraged to do so.

Here the experts note that GOP governors, generally more liberal than Republicans in Congress or in state party jobs, number only 18 today, as against 25 in the 1952 Eisenhower-Taft fight.

Draft - Rockefeller movements are not expected to get off the ground. The governor just squelched one in New York, and presumably would slap down others should they spring up. Friends say he rates them ineffectual, and, when coupled with assaults on Nixon, harmful to the party cause.

If the informant's judgments are sound, the normal ingredients of revolt are missing. Effective challenge to Nixon would require deliberate building of opposition strength. No such buildup is planned.

Hence the carefully calculated conclusion that Rockefeller draft can be engineered only by the men, today strongly for Nixon, who may rule the Chicago convention next July.

It is predicted these leaders would turn to Rockefeller only after a "much sweating." They would demand crushing evidence that Nixon's chances of election had faded to the danger point.

Right now most remain confident of the Vice President's winning potential, though a few nervous stomachs have developed over recent events.

All sides expect the cry "Nixon can't win" to go up every time the faintest decline is detected. But this is viewed as far from triggering the crucial switch to Rockefeller.

As for Nixon, he professes not to be deeply troubled by present trends. He expected some fall-off in the polls as his 1959 Russian visit receded in popular memory and Democratic contenders grabbed the spotlight.

Aides have gone so far, however, as to release occasional private polls aimed at offering a brighter picture in such states as California, North Carolina and Virginia. They hint, too, that Nixon might swing the national polls back his way by stepping up the pace.

Yet the Vice President shows no real sign of altering his basic 1960 strategy: to avoid heavy campaigning now for fear of over-exposure, which could exhaust the issues, bore the voters, and take the stuff out of his fight long before the natural election climaxes of October.

"We're campaigning for November, not July," said a chief aide. Today's plan calls for a gradual step-up of tempo, with a pace of some five speeches a month for the next three months. Nixon's springtime effort is further governed by the necessity of staying in Washington during President Eisenhower's May-June absences abroad.

Except for this limitation, he could turn up the speed any time he wants. Steadily he adds brain-trusters and others to his staff.

They're being groomed for the Nixon whirlwind scheduled to start blowing around Labor Day. Only immense pressure would lead him to cut them loose now, though some already warn him not to campaign in 1948 "Dewey-style."

Nixon reads no coolness into Rockefeller's refusal to endorse him at this time, thinks it natural for him to keep available, is satisfied with the governor's pledge to support the "national ticket."

Rockefeller sources amplify this aspect of the campaign. They indicate the governor urgently wants to speak out on big national issues, sometimes at sharp odds with the Eisenhower regime. He is said to feel he can only have broad effect on party and national policy if he keeps his own identity and avoids early ties with Nixon or anyone else.

Barring the unlikely draft, Rockefeller will lose this special opportunity once the July 23 convention gets under way at Chicago.

Sid Caesar
In Vegas For Club Date

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Sid Caesar, who flashed to overnight fame on TV and faded just as quickly, is making his first nightclub appearance in 12 years "to keep my hand in show business."

Although he is on stage in person, the comedian is utilizing the familiar characterizations that won him top ratings on television for years.

Using a revue format at the Riviera Hotel on Las Vegas' famed "Strip," Sid bounces through five separate acts, interspersed with several production numbers.

"I'm doing this half-baked professor, a sketch of the Prussian general, the study of the man at a bar, a musician pantomime among other things," Sid said.

Is there a possibility Caesar will return to TV?
"Sure," he said. "Right now I'm talking about appearing in a series of specials next season. Something like Art Carney did this year."

Caesar said comedy has suffered a wholesale setback on the nation's small screens, and qualifies his opinions on a comeback of funniness.

"It all depends on the relationship among performers, networks and sponsors," he explained. "There has to be more understanding among them. And there must be more freedom, room to breathe for the artist."

Sid's greatest heights were scaled with partner Imogene Coca, and later with Nanette Fabray. But the comedian has no plans to team up with another performer in the future.

"Everybody has asked me why I decided to try an act in a nightclub," he went on. "The answer is simple. I want to keep my hand in show business. I think it is good to get the feel of a live audience again, and to see what's going on."

"For a change I'll have an opportunity to do my acts over and over again, developing and improving them. On TV I only had a single shot at the material. There was never time to polish it."

"Now I'll watch audience reaction carefully. I will embellish the good things, and drop the parts that don't get laughs."

Mother Of Year Named

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Emerald Lucy Barman Arbogast, of Los Angeles, was named Tuesday the 1960 American mother of the year.

Mrs. Arbogast is the mother of six, grandmother of 10 and great grandmother of four.

She was chosen by a national jury of the American Mother Committee, Inc., who selected her from those who previously had been named state mothers of the year.

Mrs. Arbogast's youngest child was retarded and she spent years helping him develop. She organized the Exceptional Children's Foundation and established the York Boulevard School for Retarded Boys, Inc.

She will be honored with the 1960 mothers from the states at a luncheon on Friday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.
