You'll Need:
1/2 Cup Flour
1 Teaspoon Salt
1-8 Teaspoon Pepper
1 Frying Chicken (2 to 3 pounds) cut up
Kraft Oil

Blend the flour, salt and pepper, and put in a paper bag. Place the chicken pieces in the bag and shake well. Pour oil into skillet to depth of 1 inch. When oil is hot, put in meaty pieces of chicken and as these begin to brown, slip in less meaty pieces. Do not crowd; use 2 skillets if necessary. When all the pieces are a light uniform brown, cover lightly and cook 30 to 60 minutes, depending on the size of the chicken. Turn 2 or 3 times to brown and cook evenly. Serve the fried chicken on a hot platter. If gravy is desired, it can be made from the pan drippings, using the left over seasoned flour.
*Or rub the seasoned flour into the chicken pieces.

'If's' In A Quiz Designed For U.S. State Department

Almost any youngster will vouch for the fact that "if" is a mighty big word. That one syllable can pack more meaning and importance than the most ponderous and lengthy words in our language. And this lesson has not lost its meaning on Americans, for we have saved ourselves a great deal of unnecessary difficulty by refusing—as one of our proverbs has it—to "cross that bridge until we come to it." For "if" can bring into play countless numbers of vague and worrisome possibilities which are senseless to pursue.

But in the field of foreign policy, it is becoming more and more clear that a greater willingness to consider "if" has enabled the Soviet Union to reap large dividends. Our dislike for ambiguity has found us unprepared for a number of the world crises which the USSR has exploited successfully. And the most unpleasant feature of this tendency in our diplomacy is the fact that many of these crucial international events could have been anticipated.

ing our prestige in the eyes of other nations, but it would also serve to discourage the ambitions of totalitarian nations and reduce their opportunities for the bluff and bluster technique. A firm, tough-minded policy would, in my opinion, be much more effective than the policy of mildness which has been pursued in an apparent effort to try to please all men in all things.

Slogan For Holiday Is 'Drive Lighted'

At this very moment, even the most unpracticed eye can find several potential trouble spots in the world, and yet we offer little or no indication that we have any sort of plan to deal with them and to counter Communist influence. Here are a few of the more obvious indications of future trouble, designed as a quiz for the Department of State:

1. Do we have any plan of diplomatic action if ties between the Soviet Union and Cuba become closer after the visit of Khrushchev to our Caribbean neighbor in the near future?

2. What means would we employ to continue access to West Berlin if the Soviet Union signed a separate peace treaty with East Germany and thereby sought to isolate West Berlin?

3. How would we act to prevent a collapse of our East Asian defense perimeter if the present Japanese government should be replaced by a Socialist-Communist one which sought to repudiate the security treaty?

4. If a revolt occurred in an Eastern European satellite nation, such as the one which occurred in Hungary, would our attitude be any more imaginative than the one adopted in that case?

5. Do we have any broad, long range plans—other than haphazard give-away programs—for achieving support of the vast neutralist nations of Africa and Asia?

6. How would we approach further turmoil if it exploded in the Middle East between the Arab League and Israel and how would we prevent any possible incursions by the Communist bloc?

7. Have we even contemplated any changes in our efforts at home if the Soviet Union should achieve economic equality with the United States?

Unfortunately, there is little evidence that these questions have been answered. It appears that we have been answering questions of equal severity in the past while being pressed by the heat of necessity. This is not to say that our State Department has not prepared plans of action, it is understandable that they could not be made public in advance. However, there should be advance information conveyed in those who have the power of creating such situations. This advance information should be to the effect that this country has given thought to these possibilities, has prepared and developed an effective plan to cope therewith, and will have no hesitancy in bringing it into play. This would not only improve our chances of preserving and better-

AUSTIN (UPI)—"Drive lighted and live" will be the safe-driving slogan this weekend advocated by the Texas Assn. of Broadcasters. Gov. Price Daniel and state officials listed the slogan in a review of the publicity efforts of the radio and television stations as well as newspapers in Texas as part of a campaign to hold down accidents over the Fourth of July holiday.

Broadcasters will encourage motorists on state roads to burn their headlights during daylight hours as a signal of cooperation in the safe-driving campaign.

Daily and weekly newspapers over the state, including members of the Texas Press Assn. and Texas Daily Newspaper Assn. have already started both news and editorial campaigns to help keep Texans alive.

The Texas Safety Assn. will emphasize boating, water and personal safety during the holiday period.

The official traffic holiday will be from 12:01 a.m. Saturday through 11:59 p.m. Monday. The department of Public Safety has forecast that 27 persons will die in Texas traffic.

WANTED BY THE FBI
HAROLD EUGENE FIELDS has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Criminals." Fields, 43, is wanted for fleeing Illinois while on bond for a burglary conviction. He is 5 feet 9, weighs 150 to 165 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes. CAUTION: He should be considered armed and dangerous. Anyone with information concerning this fugitive should contact the nearest office of the FBI.

Congress Trend Is Discussion Topic

The trend of the government toward more federal controls and spending was the major emphasis in a talk by Cameron Marsh at the last of a series of Congressional Action breakfasts this morning at the Coronado Inn.

Marsh summarized some of the legislation before Congress as the session draws to a close. He gave the background of legislation since the early formation of the government. He brought out that these issues didn't grow up overnight, but that there has been a general trend from the beginning for more government control and spending.

"It is alarming," Marsh said, "We can't continue to spend this way and remain prosperous."

Bills that Marsh discussed included the federal education aid bill, minimum wage bill, postal rate increase bill, bond interest rates bill, emergency and omnibus housing bills, social security bill, federal pay raise bill and corporate and excise tax bills.

Bob Wriely, district manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Denver office, attended the breakfast to observe the proceedings.

About 50 persons attended the breakfasts which begin again when Congress convenes in August.

Grand Opera House Destroyed By Fire

NEW YORK (UPI)—The streets were lit by gas lamps. Hansom cabs and shiny broughams halted amid a clatter of hoofbeats before the white marble facade of the ornate Italian Renaissance style theater to discharge their passengers.

The ladies were swathed in furs, ostrich plumed hats and the low cut, wasp-waisted finery of nearly a century ago. The gentlemen wore top hats, waistcoats, spats and heavy gold watch chains.

The toasts of the town were Josie Mansfield—inamorata of railroad tycoon Jim Fisk — Lillian Russell and Modjeska. The place was the Grand Opera House—near 23rd St. and 8th Ave. on the fringe of Hell's Kitchen—then considered the heart of the uptown area.

But that was long ago. Wednesday the dusty, deserted shell of the opera house was swept by a five-alarm fire and destroyed.

Before its demise in flames that flashed 30 feet into the air and spread to an adjoining, once-fashionable hotel, the Grand Opera House had deteriorated into a potpourri of small commercial enterprises.

There was little left of its glory. The box office had become a bar. The auditorium a second-rate movie house. The lobby a drug store and the plush offices that once served as headquarters for the Erie Railroad—a billiard parlor.

One dim ghost of its past fame, barely readable on a wall that had been obscured by a tenement until it recently was demolished, remained.

It was a sign that proudly proclaimed:

Grand Opera House
The Most Elegant Theater
In The World

The theater had been vacated and was to be torn down to make way for an apartment house project when the fire broke out Wednesday afternoon.

Five alarms were sounded and more than 150 firemen battled the blaze before it was brought under control.

Ambulances were rushed to the scene but only one person—a fireman—was injured.

The theater opened in 1868 as Pike's Opera House. Its builder, Samuel N. Pike could not make a go of the enterprise and sold it to Jim Fisk and Jay Gould, flamboyant railroad financiers of yesterday.

Fisk wanted the theater as a showplace for his leading lady companion, Josie Mansfield. She is said to have insisted on having a bar and a theater of her own.

NEW TALENT—Breaking a 300-year-old tradition, American youngsters Blythe Lasley, 8, left, and Elizabeth Dietz, 7, are the first outsiders ever to take part in the famed Oberammergau Passion Play. Ever since it started, it has been enacted by residents of the German town, including the unidentified girls coaching the girls. Since their parents are living in Pampau and they themselves attend a local school, the girls were admitted to the play's crowd scenes.

Approval Of Cuban Sugar Cut Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House was expected to vote overwhelmingly late today to grant Eisenhower the power he wants to stop or trim Cuban sugar sales to the United States.

The legislation would halt further Cuban sugar imports unless the President ordered them continued. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter told newsmen last week the administration had no immediate plan to reduce Cuba's imports.

The bill would give the President authority to administer punishing blows to the sugar-dependent economy of the Caribbean island and its anti-American regime. Premier Fidel Castro has proclaimed by word and deed hostility toward the United States, while making friendly overtures to the Soviet Union.

Tractor Turns Over On Operator

McLean (Sp1) — A city weed cutter tractor overturned on its driver, Harold Butram, and caught fire Tuesday.

The rig was being used to cut weeds and grass along the right-of-way between the railroad tracks and the east-bound lane of U.S. Highway 86 when the tractor slipped off a soft embankment and overturned. Butram's leg was pinned between the steering wheel and the ground.

Butram was able to get clear of the machine, which caught fire from spilled gasoline. He was not injured.

Fisk and Gould moved the offices of their Erie Railroad there and then invested $250,000 for a grand staircase, bronze statuary and other luxuries.

The theater became Miss Mansfield's home after Fisk built an apartment in the building for her. He also installed a banquet hall.

Three years later, however, Miss Mansfield became interested in another man, Edward J. Stokes. In a dispute with Fisk over the attentions of Miss Mansfield, Stokes shot and killed the railroad tycoon.

Stokes went to jail and Miss Mansfield disappeared. She died in poverty in South Dakota.

The Grand Opera House's finale was a show-stopper that played to its last standing room only audience. But there was no applause when the smoke cleared—the show was over and the end of an era lay etched in smoldering ruins.

Infant's Rites Planned Friday

Graveside services will be held for Jerry Wayne Reagan tomorrow at 2 p.m. in Baby Gardens, Fairview Cemetery, with the Rev. Ennis Hill, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, officiating.

The infant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry W. Reagan, 536 Henry, died yesterday morning following birth in a local hospital.

He is also survived by grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Reagan of Miami; Mrs. Celia Rains of Pampa.

Rotarians Begin New Club Year

Pampa Rotarians yesterday held their first meeting of a new club year with club president Dick Batson presiding at the first meeting.

In place of the customary club program, each of the active committees met to plan their programs for the coming year.

Visitors and guests for the day were Bill Garret, Bummy Schultz, Doy's Roberts and Alton Chapman.

Wheatheart Fete Plans Announced

Sam Snyder's Water Follies, "The Wheatheart of the Nation" contest, a rodeo and an aggregation of kiddie rides will be featured in this year's Perryton Annual Celebration and Free Barbecue August 18, 19 and 20.

Free barbecue will be served on the Court House lawn to an expected 10,000 people including the Old Timers Barbecue.

"The Wheatheart of the Nation" will be held on August 20 at the High School Auditorium. This year's queen will reign at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto and will tour all the New England states with a four day visit to New York City. She will be accompanied by Cotton John and his staff from KGCN Farm and Ranch Show.

The rodeo is sponsored by the Perryton Rodeo Club and will be held all three days of the celebration.

Bob Barnett, past president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the celebration, stated that this is the biggest event ever attempted by the Junior Chamber with a budget of $17,600.

BURDICK

The special election, billed as an important test of political sentiment among Midwest farmers reportedly dissatisfied with administration farm policies.

Apparently all counting had been completed. But workers in some of the outlying precincts neglected to telephone the results to Bismarck and instead threw them on mail trains to be taken to their respective county seats.

The race was so close that both sides indicated they would call for a recount if they lost. And observers said an official canvass might be needed to decide the winner.

The uncounted precincts were practically all in rural areas, where Burdick looked for his greatest strength. Burdick hoped to win on protest votes of farmers embittered over policies of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

The election became a see-saw battle late Wednesday when Burdick, a Fargo, N.D., lawyer who dropped to become the state's second Democratic senator, took a last-minute lead with an assist from a bloc of Sioux Indian votes.

But the lead lasted only a few hours before Davis moved in front again. Then weary vote counters stopped tabulating for the night before the race could be decided.

Lions Club To Install

Pampa Lions Club will hold an installation of officers and directors banquet tonight at the banquet room of the First Methodist Church.

Officers to be installed are: Norman Henry, president; Harold C. Weidner, first vice president; E. E. Shultz, second vice president; O. K. Gaylor, secretary-treasurer; Dick Crews, tall twister; Joe Donaldson, assistant tall twister; and Melvin Jayroe, lion tamer.

Directors are George Friauf, Earl Barnett and Harbard Cox. E. E. Schultz is outgoing president. The installation will be conducted by District Governor elect Ralph Thomas of Pampa.

The program for the evening will feature a variety show including the Milliron Melody Makers; Barbara Lundford, song stylist; The Four Flats, a boys' choral group; Charles Ryan and his horn; Charles Roberts as Mr. Goofus; and Joe Whitten, baritone.

E. O. Wedgworth is program chairman.

Rites Pend For Miami Resident

Funeral arrangements are pending for Mrs. W. J. Edwards, 77, of Miami, who died this morning following a brief illness in a local hospital.

She was born May 12, 1883, in Kentucky and is the widow of W. J. Edwards, who died in 1938.

She moved to Gainesville from Kentucky; then to Lubbock, where she resided a short time before moving to Miami in 1927. She was a member of Miami Baptist Church.

Survivors include three sons, Ernest of Pomona, Calif., C. I. and Paul, both of Pampa; two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Melton of Pampa; Mrs. J. F. Stephens of Eden; three brothers, Porter Pennington of Miami; E. G. of Grand Prairie, Clay of Joy; two sisters, Mrs. J. C. Gaines, Mrs. W. E. Greer, both of Gainesville; seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Services will be announced by Dukenkel Carmichael Funeral Home.

Western Control In Hong Kong Depends On Wealth Of Chinese

EDITOR'S NOTE: The president of United Press International, Frank H. Bartholomew, is on a tour of the Far East. From Tokyo, where he covered the anti-government riots and coordinated UPI coverage of President Eisenhower's recent trip, he has gone to Hong Kong where he now reports on a mecca for the discontented in the surrounding world of Communism.

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW

United Press International HONG KONG (UPI) — The mainland of China will have a thousand million inhabitants by the end of the current century. This sobering thought for the West, and for the Kremlin in considering the tenure of its present position as boss of world Communism, was presented to United Press International here today by men who guide the destinies of this British crown colony. It is based upon a mathematical project of the present rate of population increase in Red China. The problem of the future of Hong Kong itself, part of it on the mainland of China and all of it under a self-described "benevolent autocracy" which will not tolerate the Communist Party in government, or free general elections either for that matter, is not the primary concern of Hong Kong's head men at this time. "You must have faith in the permanency of this Western city, which seems to exist by sufferance of the Communist world," this correspondent suggested to a high political source. Estimation of future political developments is not the primary responsibility of the moment, said the British executive, who declined to be identified by name. "We have three million people here, among them a million refugees, whose welfare must be looked after today," this official said. The help extended the million refugees is in the form of hous-

More State Action May Be Due At Brownsboro

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Brownsboro School District's troubles apparently aren't over yet, a State Education Commissioner Dr. J. W. Edgar said further state action may be taken against the district July 18 at a meeting of the state committee on accreditation.

"The ... committee will be asked to warn the Brownsboro schools to correct 18 discrepancies that were discovered in a survey of the district last March," Edgar said Wednesday.

The district's immediate problems apparently were solved Tuesday when ousted superintendent Homer D. Bass and the entire school board that fired him agreed they would resign en masse to make way for new officials.

Details of the agreement, including when to call a special election for choosing a new school board, will be worked out in Brownsboro.

Edgar said his concern about the accreditation of Brownsboro schools "stems from the community unrest, not the 18 points."

A near riot erupted at a Brownsboro school board meeting June 16. One man was shot to death and six others were wounded or injured.

"Usually when a community finds a way out of their differences they proceed rapidly," Edgar said. "They make up their own mind to have a good school system, and come out of it better than before."

Bass, who was superintendent at Brownsboro for 23 years, was left without a job as the result of the compromise worked out. Edgar said the state education board "does not run a placement service, but I would be glad to give my own recommendation" to any other school district that wants to hire Bass.

"Exurbanite," a newly coined word, means "a city worker who lives on a spacious place beyond the suburbs and in rural country."

K.O. — Nobody's saddened at the sight of this mosquito knocked out by anesthetic on the bent needle at the University of California in Riverside. Scientists at the school are looking for a new chemical to combat malaria-carrying mosquitoes which have become immune to current insecticides.

Frankfurters Go High Style Kabobs

HAWAIIAN FRANKFURTER KABOBS
Here's a winning combination, a popular kind of meat and a fashionable way of serving it. The popular meat is the frankfurter, and the new way of serving it is on skewers, with pineapple and bacon, as kabobs.

For our frankfurter kabobs, we have turned from the Near East to the Far West — way off to Hawaii — and use pineapple chunks to alternate with the frankfurter sections. For extra flavor, a strip of bacon is threaded under and over the sections of meat on each skewer.

HAWAIIAN FRANKFURTER KABOBS
1 pound frankfurters
7 to 8 bacon slices
1 can (1 1/2 ounces) pineapple chunks, drained
Cut frankfurters into threads. Thread meat, pineapple and bacon on skewers, weaving bacon in between. Allow 4 frankfurter pieces, 3 pineapple chunks and 1 slice bacon for each. Place kabobs on broiler rack and broil about 2 inches from heat. Broil until bacon is lightly browned, about 8 minutes. Turn. Broil second side until done, about 2 minutes. Yield: 7 to 8 kabobs.

MOLDED TUNA AND AVOCADO SALAD
1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin (3 oz.)
A good main dish to build a luncheon menu around tuna and avocado mold is a salad the family will love and one that you'll like to serve. It's something special for guests as well.

Avocado-Tuna Blends For Refreshing Salad

The avocado has a distinctive but compatible flavor that makes it particularly pleasant as an ingredient in a salad mixture. In this molded tuna and avocado salad its flavor combines nicely with that of the tuna and is heightened with the zesty seasoning of Worcestershire sauce, chili powder, lemon juice and onion.

Evaporated milk and mayonnaise make a creamy base for this gelatin salad. And to contrast with the smooth texture avocado there's a half cup of crunchy diced celery stirred into the salad mixture. All this produces a very pretty mold, a cool pate green in color with bits of red pimiento showing through.

1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin (3 oz.)

1 cup boiling water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3/4 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 can tuna (7 1/2 oz.), drained and flaked
1/2 cup diced celery
1 teaspoon grated onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 medium size avocado
Place gelatin in a medium size mixing bowl. Add boiling water and stir until completely dissolved. Stir in salt, chili powder and Worcestershire sauce. Cool. Stir in evaporated milk and lemon juice. (Mixture may look curdled, but this does not affect finished product.)

Chill until partially set, stirring occasionally to keep smooth. Blend in tuna, celery, onion and pimiento. Add mayonnaise and mix well. Quickly peel and dice avocado and fold into gelatin mixture. Ladle into a well oiled 5 cup ring mold. Chill until set, about 2 to 3 hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

HAM IN REFRIGERATOR
All hams, either fully cooked or those which require cooking, should be stored in the refrigerator. It is not recommended that ham be frozen because this tends to decrease its palatability.

COOKING FROZEN MEAT
All meats, fresh or frozen, should be cooked at moderately low temperatures (300 degrees F. to 350 degrees F.).

Famished Look Becomes Passe

Here is a zesty, stomach-warming recipe for Deviled Chip Chicken, which is a bid for the return to the good old days when picnickers polished their plates with the zest of trencherman.

Mix all ingredients except the potato chips. Marinate chicken. Turn each piece several times to coat well. Remove the chicken and save balance of marinade. Dip chicken into finely crushed potato chips. Press each piece firmly in chips. Fry in a little oil as possible to brown nicely, and still keep from sticking. Wrap in foil each piece with a little of the marinade poured over. Wrap securely and heat in the coals of the picnic fire for about 15 minutes.

Chicken Casserole Serves Anytime

Everyone loves casserole dishes, and everybody loves chicken. That's what "Neptune Chicken 'N' Rice Sauterne" is—an elegant dish to serve anytime.

NEPTUNE CHICKEN 'N' RICE SAUTERNE
1 (4 pound) stewing chicken
1 quart-boiling water
2 teaspoons salt
1 (6-ounce) can minced clams
Salt to taste
3/4 cup uncooked rice
1/4 cup diced pimiento
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1-3 cup California Sauterne or other white dinner wine
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 cup grated American cheese
Cut up chicken and place in large kettle. Add boiling water and 2 teaspoons salt, cover and simmer until meat is tender. Cool sufficiently to handle. Remove skin and bones, keeping meat in large pieces. Drain liquor from clams into measuring cup and add chicken broth to make 1 1/2 cups liquid. Add salt to taste. Heat to boiling, stir in rice, cover and simmer 20 to 25 minutes, until rice is tender and liquid absorbed. Add drained clams, pimiento, parsley, wine, eggs and half of cheese, and mix lightly. Mix in chicken pieces. Turn into greased baking dish and top with remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 20 to 30 minutes. Makes about 6 servings.

Tote Fried Chicken For Beach Party Fare

The sunshine set may dismiss the cares of the day while swimming and soaking up the sun, but food is never forgotten for long. That's why a beach party is fun to plan and easy to carry out. No work is involved when cartons of frozen fried half-chicken are toted along in an insulated bag. Comes time to eat, the foil-carton serves as saucpan for a spicy lemon or peppery barbecue sauce. Fresh fruit, rolls, relishes and a thermos of iced tea are equally portable.

The crusty browned fried chicken is completely cooked as purchased from the frozen foods section at the market. Each carton contains one-half breast, one wing, one thigh and one drumstick. The well-known brand name on the cartons of frozen fried half-chicken assures the shopper that the chickens are tender-grown for greatest eating satisfaction. Dipped in a delicious coating and seasoned with care, the chicken parts are fried to a delicate brown and frozen for convenience. Heated over a grill at the beach, the chicken provides scrumptious eating in a matter of minutes.

When grilling the frozen pieces of chicken, they should be placed five to seven inches above the hot coals. Heating through is all that's necessary. From the frozen state this will take about thirty minutes. If the chicken is partially thawed, the time may be reduced to fifteen to twenty minutes.

BEACH PARTY RELISHES
Fried 1/2 chick with Lemon Sauce
Rolls Butter or Margarine
Fresh Fruit Cookies
Iced Tea
FRIED 1/2 CHICKEN WITH LEMON SAUCE
Yield: 1/2 cup sauce
1 package frozen fried 1/2 chicken
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons chopped onion
3/4 teaspoon hot pepper hot pepper sauce
Melt butter in a saucepan. Add remaining ingredients except chicken and let simmer for about 5 minutes. Note: This sauce may be made on the outdoor grill, in the metal tray which contained the frozen chicken.

Captivating And Comical Clowns Turn Kiddy Party Into Three-Ring Circus

Captivating and comical clowns will turn any kiddy party into a three ring circus. However, if you can't take the time to the big tent, you can at least bring a clown or two to your party table.

It's really a snap to do — with a ball of ice cream for the roly-poly body and a homemade or purchased clown head for the top. The head can be made of a paper or styrofoam ball and hand painted or crayoned to form the eyes, nose and mouth. Or chocolate pieces, candied cherries, nut pieces, etc., can be used to make edible features easily attached with wooden picks. Semi-sweet chocolate pieces pressed against the ice cream ball form a gay row of buttons. While for dress-up, there's nothing as sprightly as a ruffy collar of brightly tinted paper. However, if you can't take the time to the big tent, you can at least bring a clown or two to your party table.

PARTY CLOWNS
5 servings
1 pint chocolate or strawberry ice cream
15 semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 1/2 cups moist shredded coconut
5 purchased paper clown heads
For each clown, form ice cream ball; put 3 chocolate pieces in a row on side for buttons. Place on flat surface for storage; freeze firm. When ready to serve, spread 1/4 cup coconut in a circle on each serving plate; place ice cream in center. Top each ball of ice cream with a paper clown head.

Rocket Test Scheduled For Pacific

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is preparing a series of spectacular rocket tests in the Pacific which will give the Army a chance to prove its claim that missiles can shoot down missiles. The tests may have a major bearing on whether the Army's Nike Zeus anti-missile missile goes into large production as a weapon or defending U.S. cities against Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles in the mid-1960's. A Zeus system deployed throughout the United States could cost up to $15 billion.

No other such defense weapons are presently under development in the free world, but the Army has yet to convince Defense Department and White House scientists that the Zeus is the right answer. In the coming tests, Zeus missiles will be fired from Johnston Island in an effort to knock down Atlas intercontinental missiles streaking across the Pacific from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., at speeds approaching 18,000 miles an hour.

In announcing the long-awaited decision late Wednesday, the Defense Department refused on security grounds to say when it would put the Air Force and Army missiles against each other. But 1961 or 1962 was considered a good estimate.

Northern Groups Could Block Johnson's Bid

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It is difficult to believe that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) can be nominated for President if northern Negroes and labor leaders—as advertised—do actually hold a veto power over a Democratic national convention. Johnson's strategists tend to minimize the opposition of Negroes and of labor leaders to their candidate. There is considerable evidence, however, that the opposition is there. Or, anyway, that some of the significant spokesmen for these two powerful pressure groups oppose Johnson.

Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) finds Johnson unsuitable. This is, indeed, very strange. The left wing or new deal-fair deal element of the Democratic Party also finds Johnson unsuitable. This, also, is strange.

The left wingers are polarized in Americans for Democratic Action (ADA). ADA deplores Johnson's Senate leadership although his performance has been widely applauded, so much so that there is substance for the claim that Johnson is the most able man in the Democratic Party.

Stranger than the opposition of ADA, however, is the opposition of the Negroes. There are few, if any, dissenters from the belief that Senate Democratic Leader Johnson was more responsible than any other man for recent congressional enactment of two civil rights acts, the first in 80 years. You might expect that record would have made some powerful friends for Johnson among Negro leaders. Perhaps it is impossible, to legislate a race to did. The most noise, however, is being made by Negro spokesmen such as Wilkins.

ADA awarded Johnson no merit badge for his civil rights performance. It holds the efforts of a Johnson-led Congress to assure civil rights to Negroes to be too little and, maybe, too late.

Johnson's personal civil rights commitment is to guarantee that Negroes may vote. The senator argues that it is difficult, perhaps impossible, to legislate a race to a higher level of citizenship but that if members of that race are guaranteed the right to vote, they can vote themselves onward and upward.

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS
THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1960

ADA apparently did not think that argument made much sense. So, anyway, the Negroes and the Democratic left wing must be counted against Johnson until it is proven otherwise.

The score of organized labor against Johnson is that he is publicly committed to "strong effective regulatory legislation to protect Americans against improper labor practices." Johnson voted for the Taft-Hartley Act and for other regulatory legislation previous to that. He voted for the Labor Reform Act of 1959, as did

Brinckerhoff Gives Polished Performance

TELEVISION IN REVIEW
By FRED DANZIG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A polished performance by Burt Brinckerhoff was the most lustrous nugget in "The Great Gold Mountain," Wednesday night's "U.S. Steel Hour" drama.

Set in a small Indiana town called Barcelona during the summer of 1927, the lead-filled story attempted a souped-up "Our Town" sort of study. It depicted the impact on the villagers' morals and morals when a cool, alcohol-guzzling cookie, played by Polly Bergen, landed in town.

Aided by her boyfriend, played by Robert Lansing, Miss Bergen seemed to be working a profitable phony stock game on the restless natives. The caper led to the suicide of the town's elderly newspaper editor, played by Ed Begley, after he learned (1) that his lovely young wife was carrying on with Lansing, and (2) the stock he bought with his hard-earned cash was worthless. At the end of Ron Sproat's CBS-TV teleplay, from a novel by James McCague, Miss Bergen was genuinely filled with remorse and young Brinckerhoff, the eager, fawning young cub reporter, took over the paper and married his childhood sweetheart. Presumably, he never had cause for remorse.

Brinckerhoff's performance, in a play that was too contrived to be effective, succeeded in creating an honest, believable portrait. He was fine. Everyone else did their best with the material at hand. It wasn't gold.

Garry Moore pulled a Jack Paar Wednesday night. He walked out.

Garry's departure, when his CBS-TV "I've got a Secret" show was barely five minutes old, came at the instigation of guest Victor Borge, who suggested that Garry take his vacation effective immediately. Moore picked up a suitcase and toddled off. Bill Cullen took over Moore's chair and Borge subbed for Cullen. Chaos resulted, of course, but it was good fun. One of the guests was Henry Feldman, the new U.S. spelling bee champ, who triumphed with the word "eudemonic." Eudemonic? That describes the show.

Dialing and Filing: ABC-TV's hour-long documentary, "Japan—Anchor in the East," contained its own apology for only scratching the surface of the story, so I won't belabor the point. Too bad the filmed report didn't take the hints given by various Tokyo interviewees, who said the real story was outside Tokyo. But the program still came across as a sincere attempt to understand Japan's many problems.

Kenneth Jones, a Los Angeles truck driver, got off to a bad start on "The Price is Right" Wednesday night when he blurted out the word "damn." Later, he tipped his chair too far backwards during the excitement of the game and went sprawling. While struggling to his feet, he became entangled in the curtain. But he could laugh, since he left the show with more than $30,000 in prizes.

The Channel Swim: Four Los Angeles-originating half-hour programs called "Convention Preview" will be inserted into the daytime and nighttime schedule next week by NBC-TV. On Tuesday and Wednesday, the reports will pre-empt "Adventure Time" in the afternoon. On Thursday, "Law of the Plainsman" gets bumped and "Play Your Hunch" yields on Friday.

Producer-director George Schaefer, now filming "Macbeth" in London, reports that the three witches in Shakespeare's classic will emerge as "beatnik types" in his "Hallmark Hall of Fame" production.

Person to Person's CBS-TV summer visit boxing champ Archie Moore and cowboy star Gene Autry on Friday, July 8. Frank Overton and Bethel Leslie star in "Black Bart," one of dramas to be part of NBC-TV's the full-hour mystery-adventure dramas to be part of NBC-TV's new "Thriller" series next fall. Taping of the Robert Dozier story will be completed Friday.

DEAR ABBY . . . .

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How come there are all kinds of laws to protect such dirty rotten things as dogs? It looks to me like dogs have more rights than people. Just let me do all the things dogs do and I'd be in jail.

Why is a dog's life worthy any more than a skunk's or a wolf's or a fox's? A dog should be treated like any other animal that does damage and goes where it doesn't belong. I think a man should have the right to protect his own property against a dog if he has to take down his gun and start shooting.

DOG HATER

DEAR DOG HATER: Whoever heard of a skunk, a wolf, or a fox saving a life? Or leading the blind? Or protecting a child? Or guarding a home? Or bringing comfort, affection and companionship to a master? Better leave your gun where it is, my friend.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING TO GET EVEN": Revenge is like biting a dog because the dog bit you. And it makes about as much sense. Forget it.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Abby's best-selling book, "Dear Teen-Ager," is on sale at all book stores.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for three months to a man who can do everything I can do but he can do it better and in half the time. He's a much better cook than I am. He loves to wash and iron. And his baking could take a prize. He was the eldest of 12 children and his mother was a widowed invalid, which accounts for it.

I hate housework, but I love business. I had six girls and two men in my department before I quit my job to get married. (My husband was one of the men in my department; my salary almost doubled his.)

Abby, would people think we were out of our minds if I went back to work and my husband quit his job to keep house? My boss keeps calling me. My husband says he would like the arrangement if it weren't for what people would say. We'd like your opinion.

MARY AND MOREY

DEAR M. and M.: All a marriage needs to succeed is two people whose common objective is making each other happy. Don't worry about what "people say." Do as you please.

As a child Mrs. B was jealous of her younger brother. If he got new shoes, she immediately discovered that hers were "squeezing her toes." If he scrambled into the car's front seat ahead of her, she'd complain of the injustice of his monopolizing it until her parents gave it to her.

But they granted these demands, not with willingness but with an irritable and resentful resignation.

As the demands were actually her self-doubt's hunger for their appreciation, satisfying them not only failed to appease it but increased her doubt of her value to them.

Gradually, in this atmosphere of disapproving resignation to her demands, Mrs. B came to feel that she was doomed to be a disappointment to everyone.

Today she can no more help overprotecting her five-year-old boy than she can help having blue eyes.

Terrified of disappointing Tommy, she dares not restrain his bullying treatment of other children in the park.

Terrified of disappointing his pediatrician, she cuts up the chops that Tommy should be cutting for himself.

Terrified that his uncontrollable behavior will disappoint his father, she is driven to justify it to her husband with excuses provided by her library of child guidance books.

That her overprotective motherhood is due to her fear of disappointing somebody is as unknown to her as her childhood pain as a secretly-resented child.

DE. DAVID LEVY, one of our great child psychiatrists, puts lack of parental affection first among the overprotective parent's childhood experiences.

What I have personally known of the backgrounds of overprotective parents confirms his view.

All of these backgrounds contained parents who indulged the child with secret resistance.

Sometimes, as in Mrs. B's case, the outwardly loving but inwardly critical adults submitted out of fear of the demander's jealousy. But in all cases, there have been parents whose kindly action was contradicted by disapproving feelings which the child sensed. These feelings created in the child the unconscious but ever-present expectation of criticism that marks the overprotection.

Queen Of Thailand's United States Visit Installation Dinner Slated As One-Woman Fashion Show

By JERRY BENNETT Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Queen of Thailand's visit to the U.S. is likely to be the most lavish, one-woman fashion show that Americans have seen in years. For 27-year-old Queen Sirikit wears only original dresses and never the same one twice.

Accompanying the King and Queen when they arrived June 18 were three ladies-in-waiting who will look after Her Majesty's 200 new outfits. Each dress was designed especially for the royal couple's five-month tour of America and Europe.

Most of the clothes were created by Paris designer Pierre Balmain who flew to the royal palace in Bangkok for the job. Value of the wardrobe is estimated at about $40,000.

Queen Sirikit . . . dancing partners are awkward

Americans who have met her agree that the Queen would command attention even if she wore bargain basement specials. Her looks are the type that often win beauty contests.

In addition to her royal duties, the busy Queen is head of Thailand's Red Cross and takes an active part in its numerous fund-raising drives. At one time she even took over her husband's duties for several weeks while he studied for the Buddhist priesthood.

She is also enthusiastic about improving Thailand's educational system. The royal couple award students each year.

American foreign service officials say that no matter how busy Queen Sirikit is, she never seems tired. Even at the largest evening receptions she makes it a point to speak to as many guests as possible and seldom forgets a name or face. The Thai people are trained from childhood to be observant.

Even the most nonobservant foreigner would have trouble forgetting her smile. American friends say, The Queen, unlike her husband, looks happy all the time.

Once a villager, disturbed by the King's serious expression asked:

"Your Majesty, why don't you ever smile?"

Motioning to his wife he replied: "The one who follows me smiles enough for both of us."

The Queen has four children, three girls and a boy. Her father was former Thai ambassador to England, Denmark and France. She studied in each of these countries and attended college in Switzerland. She speaks French and English fluently.

The Queen loves to dance but has trouble finding dancing partners at royal receptions. Until recent years Thai custom forbade touching either the King or Queen.

The rule was so strong that a group of able-bodied swimmers once stood by while a Queen drowned. Queen Sirikit has complained that many of her subject seem uneasy and awkward when dancing with her.

YOUNG IDEAS from Polly Ponds

- "I'm very short-waisted and this makes my waistline look wide. Is there anything I can do about it?"
- Optical illusion with the right kind of clothes will make your waistline appear slimmer. Here are some basic ideas on the subject:
- AVOID: Wide belts that will emphasize the height of your waistline.
- Dirend-type skirts that puffing out abruptly from a high waist, will make a figure appear heavy and awkward.
- Light tuck-in blouses and dark skirts — or any broadly contrasting combination of colors.
- BUT WEAR: Nicely-tailored overblouses that end just above the hips.
- Skirts and dresses cut in a gently flaring princess line that will make your waistline seem slimmer and longer.
- Narrow self fabric belts, pleated skirts that are stretched to the hip-blouses or sweaters dyed to match.

Fullmer Retains Boxing Crown

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Gene Fullmer, two-time kayo conqueror of Carmen Basilio, will defend his NBA version of the middleweight crown against Sugar Ray Robinson in an October "rubber match" if Robinson will accept reasonable terms.

That's what Fullmer said today while accepting congratulations for his impressive second technical knockout victory over ex-champion Basilio in their return title bout Wednesday night before an estimated 10,500 spectators at Derks Field.

The gate was estimated at $98,000. "I've got something I want to settle with Robinson, said the battle-scarred champion from nearby West Jordan, Utah. "He's the only man who ever knocked me out. I want to return the favor."

Full shouldered Gene won the undisputed 160-pound title from Robinson on a decision at New York, Jan. 2, 1957; but Sugar Ray recaptured it from Gene on a fifth round knockout at Chicago four months later. A third meeting next October would be the decisive rubber match.

Manager Marv Jensen said "Yes, the Robinson fight is the one we want in October if Sugar Ray will remember that he was beaten in his last two fights by Paul Pender and accept reasonable terms."

Jensen and Fullmer agreed the fight with Robinson should be staged in the West—perhaps at Salt Lake City, Logan, Utah, or Missoula, Mont.

Rademacher Wins By KO SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Pete Rademacher, one-time heavy-weight title contender, floored his opponent five times Wednesday night before scoring a 10th round technical knockout over courageous Lamark Clark.

Yanks Keep Lead In AL

By TIM MORIARTY United Press International Since the start of the season, New York Yankee scouts have been whispering "watch the Orioles"

In his latest outing against the Orioles, Stigman was bothered by wildness, walking six while fanning five. But he permitted only one hit over the last three innings and was aided by three double plays.

Stigman, who earned a promotion to the Indians this year although he lost 17 games at San Diego in 1959, helped his own cause in the fourth inning with a key two-run single off loser Jerry Walker.

Giants Win By 3-2 In 19-Inning Marathon

By United Press International It was like pulling teeth, but the Rio Grande Valley Giants finally extracted a 3-2 victory from the Mexico City Reds in a 19-inning pitcher's duel at Harlingen Wednesday night.

The game was their second extra-innings battle in a row. Tuesday night the Reds won in 16 innings, 4-3.

The Giants' win, coupled with San Antonio's double loss to the Tigers at Mexico City, left Valley with a comfortable 6½-game lead over the Missions in the Texas League standings. San Antonio dropped the first one 7-6 and the second 8-3.

Third-place Victoria swept both halves of a twin bill at Veracruz, winning the opener 6-5 and the nightcap 10-5. In other games Austin dropped a 1-0 heartbreaker to Poza Rica as the Oilers' Joe (Bimbo) Villegas spun a two-hitter. Amarillo walloped Puebla 11-3 and Monterrey edged Tulsa 3-2.

Manuel Mota's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 19th gave Valley's winning run and gave Ray Davault, the third Giant hurler, the victory. The Reds used five pitchers, with Bill Cade taking the loss. He was the same pitcher who got the win in the 4-3 game Tuesday night.

Tulsa's loss to Monterrey dropped the Oilers into the league cellar alongside Amarillo. Tulsa took a two-run lead in the first inning but the Red Sox struck across one run in the seventh on a pair of doubles then scored twice in the top of the ninth on Juan Albert's single.

Delbert Osorio (9-3) went the distance for Monterrey to pick up the win and Bob Blaylock absorbed the loss.

Little Leaguer

Little League action last night saw Millerton top Culberson, 5-1; Duncan walloped Sealtest, 19-5; One Bull defeat Rotary, 10-6; and Ruff clobber Hawkins, 12-1.

George Snell was winning pitcher for Millerton, and Willy Davis with a double and Snell with a triple were top hitters. Snell struck out 10.

Culberson's Rooney Hall was losing pitcher, and leading hitters were Gary Green with a double and triple, Mike Wise with a single and Gary Rasco with a single. Hall struck out 13 Men.

In Duncan's slaughter of Sealtest, Steve Summers took honors as winning pitcher allowing five hits. Steve Oler hit three for four for Duncan. One homerun was hit in the game by Rowden of Sealtest.

A bases loaded homerun by Allen Snapp and another homer by Nicky Brumfield helped One Bull to a victory over Rotary. Ricky Maynard was winning pitcher allowing four hits, and Gary Atchley was the loser.

Kelly Taylor went four for four at bat and batted four runs in for Ruff in their victory. Leroy Slater, Lin Engle and Phil Young each had a double for Ruff, and Phil Young pitched a three-hitter to gain the win. Tinsley was the losing pitcher with Finney relieving at the beginning of the fifth inning.

Intentionally Wins In Racing Debut

Intentionally, last season's sprint champion, had to survive a foul claim Wednesday before making his 1960 debut a success in the $27,900 Toboggan Handicap at Belmont Park.

The Brookfield Farm colt, winner of the Delaware Valley, Withers, Jerome Handicap and Warren Wright Memorial as a 3-year-old last year, topped Rick City by 2 1/2 lengths in the six-furlong Toboggan.

Jockey Robert L. Stevenson claimed after the race that his mount, Rick City, had been bothered by Intentionally just after the start. But the charge was disallowed and Intentionally collected a winner's purse of $18,135, raising his career total to $487,587.

British Women In Net Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Christine Truman and Ann Haydon, teammates on Britain's victorious Wightman Cup team, today hoped to set up an all-English final in the women's singles of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Miss Truman, a six-footer who is seeded third, plays defending champion Maria Bueno of Brazil and fourth-seeded Miss Haydon meets eighth-seeded Sandra Reynolds, a pretty model from South Africa.

Miss Reynolds reached the semi-finals Tuesday by surprising second-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., and off that victory she was rated a slight favorite over Miss Haydon.

Miss Truman rallied to win her quarterfinal match against Karen Hantze of San Diego, Calif., leaving the United States without a semifinal representative in the women's singles for the first time since World War II. However, the tall 19-year-old English girl wasn't given much of a chance against top seeded Miss Bueno.

Pampa Fielders Give 10 Errors

By LEE GRIMSLEY Daily News Sports Editor

Ten years ago, Blaine Nutt never thought Tom Denton would be a pitcher.

But last night he changed his mind. Denton pitched the first five innings for the Liberal, K&N, BEEJAYS, and blanketed the Roadrunners on three hits before he retired.

"I certainly changed my mind," Nutt said.

Ten years ago Nutt coached a pee-wee baseball team which included Tom Denton, his battery-mate twin brother, Dick Denton, who caught for the BEEJAYS last night, and Nutt's son, Bobby.

"Both of the Dentons went on to Norman, Okla., high school," Nutt said, "and two years ago they both made all-state."

When Tom Denton was taken from the mound at the start of the sixth inning, he had a 2-0 lead. Dave Busby came on to work the last four frames, and when the dust had cleared Liberal had won, 9-0.

Busby, a sophomore-to-be at the University of Oklahoma, put on quite a pitching performance for last night's large crowd.

He opened the sixth by getting Glen Adams on a called third strike, but allowed relief pitcher Newt Secret to hit a bouncer to short for a ground out.

Then Busby settled down and got the next 10 Roadrunner batters on strike outs.

Defensively the Roadrunners left much to be desired. They committed 10 errors, leading to seven of Liberal's runs.

Third baseman Bobby Seitz led the parade with four miscues, Ruben Strickland was charged with two and Nutt, Bobby Heiskell, Taylor, Joe Haralson and Adams had one each.

Chennie Wins In Pony Tilt

Chennie used a five-run scoring outburst in the bottom of the fourth inning to down Hughes, 9-5, in a Pony League baseball game last night.

Steve Moiberg went the distance to pick up the victory for Chennie. He allowed seven runs and 11 hits, struck out nine and issued three free passes.

Robert Mellon started for Hughes and lasted 3 1/3 innings. He was tagged for seven runs and eight hits, and charged with the loss.

Doug Scaggs pitched shut out ball over the last two and two-thirds frames, allowing only one hit.

Scaggs had one double, which was the biggest blow for Hughes. Ronnie Oler had a double and single and James Willford had a pair of singles for Chennie.

Tonight's games will pit Hughes against the Lions at 8:30, and Cree against Kist at 7:30.

Nixon Camp Now Sets Sights On Election

NIXON has plenty to smile about.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is winning the easiest Republican nomination fight in 24 years because he took nothing for granted but pressed instead to make his long lead longer.
Not since the days of Herbert Hoover and Alfred M. Landon has a GOP presidential nomination for a non-incumbent been so nearly wrapped up as this one is for Nixon a month before the Chicago convention.
The signal comes now from the Nixon camp itself. They have just turned their attention intensively to planning the fall campaign.
While Democratic contenders pore over delegate figures, Nixon's men are scanning maps to lay out routes for campaign swings, planning how and when to use television.
Nixon strategists don't think they have heard the last of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. But they look for his impact to be felt largely on issues and platform.
The Vice President entered the 1960 race with great natural advantages: high position, steady access to public attention, the grateful backing of most leaders for his long record of party service, their belief that he was more acceptably "Republican" than Rockefeller.
He also bore one major handicap: the argument that he couldn't win the election because he was "too controversial" to appeal to Democrats and so-called independents.
Nixon set about making unrelenting use of his advantages and striving at the same time to rub out the handicap.

Double good fortune struck him last summer. President Eisenhower sent him to open our fair in Moscow. And there he got into the celebrated "kitchen debate" with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.
Nixon's standing in the public opinion polls soared. He passed all Democrats, including Sen. John F. Kennedy, whom he had trailed more than 3 to 2 just before the Moscow encounter.
He held his edge almost until spring and now, on the heels of the Summit collapse, has regained it narrowly over Kennedy.

Today the big break is still exploited to the hilt. A well-prepared Nixon campaign kit bears a back-cover picture showing the Vice President poking a rigid index finger into Khrushchev's chest. The caption begins: "As I said to Mr. Khrushchev: 'In Moscow.'
Against Nixon's 1959 upsurge, Rockefeller's challenge wilted in the bud stage. His candidacy could have developed only if he demonstrated a superior hold on broad popular support.
The reverse proved true. While Nixon rose in public esteem, Rockefeller lagged badly in the polls. This left him just one course: to enter the 1960 primaries and fight hard and long to upset the polls' verdict.
Weighing that decision, he made a wind-testing tour of key areas. He ran into an almost solid wall of GOP leader opposition. They wanted no big intra-party fight. Nearly all were unfriendly to his candidacy.
Rockefeller, lacking even a professional nucleus to build on and aware a fight would cost heavily in money and time away from the governorship, bowed out Dec. 26. Nixon had the field alone, with seven months still to go.
Here he might have coasted. He chose to enter primaries, knowing that, though unopposed, he would be measured against President Eisenhower's 1952-56 showings and against Democratic rivals.
His New Hampshire vote surpassed the President's. But the hot Kennedy-Humphrey contest in Wisconsin April 5, drawing Republican crossover votes, pushed Nixon down to a third of the total two-party vote.
The cry of "can't win" suddenly went up again. "draft Rockefeller" talk developed and Nixon seemed headed for trouble.

A week later the alarm bells were silent. Nixon bested Mr. Eisenhower's vote in Illinois and Rockefeller indicated plainly that he didn't expect to be drafted.
The Vice President poured it on. In following weeks he rang up better-than-Eisenhower totals in Pennsylvania, Indiana and California, plus a startling write-in in Nebraska. His scores beat Kennedy in Indiana and Gov. Edmund G. Brown in California.
Few imagine these results were casual or accidental. In Indiana, Nixon lay back, talked often of Kennedy's advantage as the only campaigner there. Then came a late telephone blitz that helped beat Kennedy by 56,000 votes.

With the triumph over Brown by more than 160,000, the "can't win" argument died. Rockefeller's big blast on "where does Nixon stand?" only solidified the Vice President's support for the nomination.
The last real flurry was over. Words may still fly between now and July 25, but Nixon's delegates — 1,000 or more strong — are expected to stay put.

Solons Ready For Convention

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress began clearing the decks today for its month-long convention recess with some members unhappy about the prospect and some frankly concerned about its political repercussions.
Token shows of opposition were under discussion in both houses. No one doubted, however, that the Senate and House would override those displays — if they materialize — and recess Saturday as decreed by Democratic leaders.
Before then Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas) plan an attempt to override President Eisenhower's anticipated veto of a federal pay raise bill. The President's veto message was expected today.
Both Senate and House originally approved the pay raise for federal workers and post office employees by better than the two-thirds margin required to override a presidential veto.

News Briefs

MILLIONS FOR CHILE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower expressed deep gratification Wednesday over the outpouring of voluntary contributions from the American people to help earthquake-stricken Chile. The total value of cash and supplies contributed was nearly $4.5 million.
LIGHT QUEMOY BARRAGE
TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Communist Chinese guns Wednesday bombarded the Nationalist offshore island of Quemoy with the lightest barrage ever recorded in the straits hostilities. Only five shells were fired at the island from the mainland.
UNVEIL LIBERTY PLAQUE
NEW YORK (UPI) — A bronze plaque officially designating the site of the Statue of Liberty as Liberty Island was unveiled Wednesday. The island formerly was known as Bedloe's Island after its first occupant, Isaac Bedloe.

The Senate and House also must pass a continuing resolution to keep money flowing to federal agencies after the end of the fiscal year tonight and until all the regular money bills can be approved.
The Rayburn-Johnson decision to recess was announced Wednesday. It provoked no enthusiasm, but many legislators felt that Congress could not complete its program — or the meaningful parts of it — before July 11 when the Democratic convention starts in Los Angeles.
Congressional discontent at the prospect of returning to Washington on or about Aug. 8 were understandable in a year when one-third of the Senate and the entire membership of the House must spend the summer running for reelection.
A naturalized American automatically forfeits his American citizenship when he lives outside the U.S. longer than five years.

Experts Probe Discoverer XII

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—Rocket experts today studied the small amount of information received from a Discoverer XII satellite which was supposed to help cure the program's ills but failed to go into orbit.

Although the 19-foot-long satellite was jammed with new electronic "snooper" equipment to try to pinpoint trouble spots in the program, the electric gear had little chance to send its information back to ground radar stations.
The 75-foot Thor Agena rocket was hurried toward a path over the poles but because of insufficient speed, a few minutes after launching fell back into the earth's atmosphere somewhere over the South Pacific and burned up.
A 300-pound space capsule that, if all went well, was to have been shot back to earth from the satellite as it whizzed 200-miles over the North Pole, also burned up because of the friction generated when it sped back into heavy atmosphere at 15,000 miles an hour.
Primary purpose of the launch, the Air Force said, was to learn why six previous attempts to return the 27 by 33 inch capsule failed—the instrument packet either falling outside the recovery area, staying in orbit or burning up on re-entry when a slow-down parachute failed to open.

Aid Or Hindrance?

We believe newspapers can either aid or hinder justice by their actions.

What The Pampa Daily News means by justice is the condition which prevails when each person is owner of himself and all he produces, no more, no less. Owner of himself means he is responsible for his treatment to others and to things and to himself. This gives each individual the right to plan his own life so long as he respects the equal right of others to do the same. It also permits him, without being hindered by threats, or fraud, or intimidated force by any other person, group or state, to exchange his ideas and production on any voluntary terms he believes to be wise, and gives him self-respect and peace of mind.

First of all, a newspaper that aids justice is one which fairly and impartially reports the news.

Besides doing this, it must express its opposition to all political and economic practices which in any way interfere with justice. And justice has been set forth in the Decalogue and the Declaration of Independence, which proclaims the unalienable rights belonging to every person.

The newspaper which aids justice also must keep its columns open to have anything it advocates relating to politics or economics or justice challenged by anyone who will define his terms by reducing them to numbers—principles—and answer questions without evasion or contradictions. Then that newspaper is truly in a position to aid in promoting justice. It is thus a daily school room, available to rich and poor, old and young, without the duress of taxes or the compulsion of forced attendance.

On the other hand, a newspaper that is promoting the special privileges of any group and is thus not treating all citizens equally, as they are before God, is a newspaper that hinders and hampers justice. This is the test of whether a newspaper is really of service to its readers and thus of service to the community and the nation.

Any newspaper that has any under-the-table alliance with a group, whether it be with the manufacturers, or the merchants, or the chambers of commerce, or the politicians, or the schools, or the labor unions is not in a position to promote justice, because if the right question is asked it will be obliged to refuse to answer. Or it will have to practice evasion or will contradict itself and thus expose the fact that it is attempting to serve two masters; to promote equally before the law as the same time. No one has ever been able to do this.

That is the kind of a newspaper that, instead of promoting justice, hampers and hinders and makes justice self-government and personal responsibility very, very difficult.

The news hopes to aid in promoting justice and for this reason attempts to report news impartially and, editorially, to express its opinions on important economic and political subjects, no matter how unpopular its stand may be. Also, it opens its columns to anyone to point out anything that it is doing which hampers justice or injures any person. Hampering justice is the last thing The News wants to do.

The News would only want to stop any discussion if it found it self in error. In that case, it would need the last word to admit its errors and try to correct the harm its errors had caused. For this reason The News wants what it advocates questioned so it will not unknowingly advocate anything that will injure a single person. If it did that it would be hindering justice. And it is content not to demand the last word, but to demand only that the last word be true.

Every community needs the assistance of all citizens in promoting justice, goodwill, understanding and peace. One never knows but what he says or publishes might kindle the will in some person to stand up and be counted on the side of justice and righteousness.

Tax Freedom Day

Did you celebrate May 9th?

If you didn't and if you are an average American citizen, perhaps you overlooked an important day of commemoration, May 9th this year was the first day in 1960 the average man stopped working for the government and began to work for himself. It could be called "tax freedom" day.

The trouble with the day is that it occurs at a different time each year. For the past several decades it has been moving later into the year with almost every passage of 12 months.

In 1960 it took just four months, nine days for the average American to earn all of the money he would need to pay for federal, state and local taxes. Then with more than a third of the year gone, he can figuratively begin trying to cover his own costs and expenses.

In 1948, "tax freedom" day occurred on April 27. In 1920, it would have been a subject of discussion on February 28. And if we went back to a time prior to the passage of the federal income tax, say to 1910, tax freedom day would have come just about a week or ten days after the New Year's eve celebration.

Within the past 20 years the federal personal income tax collections have risen 3,470 per cent. Of course, incomes have gone up too. But incomes haven't begun to keep up with that giant percentage gain for the tax collector. Since 1940, U.S. citizens have had their pay increased by 420 per cent.

This is not a real wage gain since dollars used are inflated by better than fifty per cent. But the increase in federal debt in spite of the increase in federal income tax collections is the major reason for the dollar decline and the rise in the size of dollar incomes. One of the reasons we run into so much debt, so much inflation and so much tax appeared in the Wall Street Journal recently.

There it was shown that Uncle Sam pays more than $1,547,000 PER DAY, or better than $550,000-000 PER YEAR just to store surplus crops which have already cost all of us a pretty penny.

Per day, here's the way various items are said to add up in the storage department:

Honey, $131; tobacco $238; peanuts, $6,000; flaxseed, $7,000; rye, $7,000; rice, $11,000; soybeans, $23,000; milk and butter

(fat, $29,000; barley, $64,000; cotton, $76,000; grain sorghums, $262,000; corn, $444,000; and wheat $379,000. These are the DAILY storage charges for the items named.)

Remember, this doesn't include what Uncle Sam paid for the surplus. It doesn't pay for the administration of the program. It doesn't contain subsidies to farmers either for surpluses or for not growing anything. This is for storage alone.

Now, students of economics and of sociology are somewhat in agreement that there is a dreadful malady which occurs in both areas of discipline when a person is not free to do as he pleases with his own energy. The economist points out that when the worker is robbed of the products of his labor he loses incentives and tends to produce less.

The sociologist and the psychologist approach the matter of incentive loss and show that the personality, thwarted in fulfilling its deepest desires, or frustrated in having control over the products of its own labor, tends toward melancholy, depression, loss of vigor and possibility mental illness.

Both of these results obtain in the present picture. The government intent only to power and on rule, is destroying individual incentive and in the process destroying human life, human freedom and human responsibility, all in the name of "doing good."

The slave is the man who is wholly frustrated and who finds the products of his labor taken totally by his owner and master. The free man is he who can do as he pleases with the products of his own labor. To be entirely factual, the American worker is today more than one-third enslaved.

Mr. Average American can be like a free man in this nation only since May 9th of this year. But next year and the year after and the year after that, the area of his enslavement will enlarge and the area of his freedom diminish.

Today is Thursday, June 30, the 182nd day of the year, with 184 to follow in 1960.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1834, Congress created the Department of Indian Affairs.

In 1870, Ada Kepley graduated from the Union College of Law in Chicago, the first woman to be graduated from an accredited law school.

In 1906, President Theodore Roosevelt signed the Pure Food and Drug Act.

In 1924, as a result of the Teapot Dome scandal, Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Illinois Senator Harry F. Sinclair and Edward Doheny were charged with bribery and conspiracy to defraud the government.

Thought for today: U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt said: "I wish to preach, not the doctrine of ignoble ease, but the doctrine of the strenuous life."

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — There is nothing more fascinating on a listless day than to look up the latest report on mankind and its bizarre ways. You can find, if you are alert, reports claiming that men are wiser drivers than women, or vice-versa. That men tend to have stronger teeth but women are more immune to the common cold. That men have short tempers but women are more vindictive. I don't know who puts up the money to conduct these surveys, but it must cost a lot and, in the end, nothing spectacular or even greatly useful is proved.

Now, here is a long report summarizing a survey that took 15 years to make. It covers only 252 Harvard men, and all I can say about that is that if it took 15 years 'to study the smoking habits of 252 men, the surveys must have passed a lot of time as well. Now I am persuaded that 252 Harvard men comprise an accurate survey of anything. This one has to do with what smoking reveals about people. Since literally millions of people smoke and a large group of those smokers are men and Harvard men often are peculiar, anyway, I don't see how 252 Harvard Yard boys are any kind of accurate gauge at all.

Accurate or not, one thing that came out of the long end of the smoking horn was that Harvard men who do not smoke at all are apt to be more masculine than Harvard men who do smoke. Smoking was never the gauge used to measure Harvard masculinity in the circles in which I move in New York. Usually a glance would do and it didn't matter if the lad had a lighted cigarette in his hand or not. The survey also says that Harvard smokers were more shy, inhibited and self-conscious. Never having met a shy, inhibited or self-conscious Harvard lad, I'd say they were far off base in that discovery. In the field of muscular display, they slid off the track, too. They say that smokers are less apt to go out for strenuous exercises and sports. Obviously, football players et al. don't smoke during training season. This is not the true use of logic. Just because athletes swear off smoking while in training, and bookworms do not at any time, is no proof that smokers are not sports addicts and athletes.

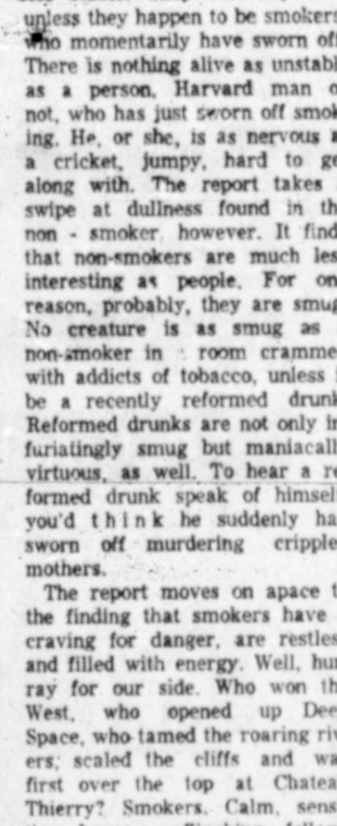

The one I will go along with is the finding that smokers are less stable. They certainly are, unless they happen to be smokers who momentarily have sworn off. There is nothing alive as unstable as a person, Harvard man or not, who has just sworn off smoking. He, or she, is as nervous as a cricket, jumps, hard to get along with. The report takes a swipe at dullness found in the non-smoker however. It finds that non-smokers are much less interesting as people. For one reason, probably, they are smug. No creature is as smug as a non-smoker in a room crammed with addicts of tobacco, unless it be a recently reformed drunk. Reformed drunks are not only infuriatingly smug but maniacally virtuous, as well. To ban a reformed drunk speak of himself, you'd think he suddenly had sworn off murdering crippled mothers.

The report moves on apace to the finding that smokers have a craving for danger, are restless and filled with energy. Well, hurry for our side. Who won the West, who opened up Deep Space, who tamed the roaring rivers, scaled the cliffs and was first over the top at Chateau Thierry? Smokers. Calm, sensitive, unflinching fellows with yellow fingers and a cigarette dropping out of the sides of their mouths. Show me a man with tobacco-stained fingers and I'll show you a modern, Daedalus-like, man sans peur, sans reproche, a shining armor kind of lad, willing to ride a hot and flaming rocket to the moon or squire a lady through the darkest part of town and protect her every foot of the way.

The real twist comes when the survey team invokes the area of cancer in smokers. Cancer and coronary attacks. The team plays with semantics like a kid with blocks. It finds it possible it isn't smoking that does the damage, it is the fact that people who smoke are the kind who usually get cancer or coronary attacks. If you smoke, you are different in type from others. And one facet of the difference is that you are susceptible to coronary attack and cancer. See? In other and simpler words: take a man who would ordinarily be a smoker and put him on a desert island where there is no tobacco to be had at all and very likely he'd get cancer or have a heart attack even though circumstance has prevented him ever from smoking.

Light up, boys. If you're the smoker type you'll smoke anyway.

Highway Safety Slogans

Not Worth A Dime A Dozen

I did a lot of thinking about highway safety on my recent motor trip, and it's a good thing I did, else I would have been knocked galleyside ten times before my first gas stop.

I continue to read that speed is the major cause of highway accidents, and maybe it isn't. But you can take it from me that speed has a lot to do with cars coming apart at the seams when they hit, and a great deal to do with scattering the occupants around the countryside.

Speed may not have brought the car together in the first place, but it surely showed its hand once they got together. It's entirely possible to be killed at ten miles an hour, but it's nowhere as assured as at 70 or 80 miles an hour.

The safest stretches of highway I ran on — indeed, the only safe stretches — were those on which police patrol cars were present, or known to be present. Not one in 100 American motorists is going to observe the speed laws unless he is forced to. The urge to get there, plus the ease, quietness and quickness with which modern cars attain racing speeds, is just too much for most of us.

Safety slogans are a dime a dozen along the highways, and they are not worth the billboards they're painted on. The same goes for warning signs.

The only deterrent is the presence of a cop, or the belief that one is up ahead or just behind. Some states now use unmarked cars for patrol work, but in a sense of fair-play announce this on signs. All patrol cars should be unmarked — and nothing said about it. Cops should glide about in convertibles, sedans, hardtops, and jalopies. The motorist should never be able to tell what kind of a car he is preparing to pass with a rush.

A few patrol cars should be driven by women cops, for as soon as a speeder sees a woman in the car ahead he takes it for a signal to step on the gas and get to streaking. After a motorist had been yanked in a couple of times by a gal cop he'd mind his speedometer.

Patrol cars should also remove that tell-tale blinker button from the tops of their cars. It is a sure giveaway, and 99 out of a hundred motorists have learned to spot the button from miles away.

If the blinker button can't be removed, then a certain number of public spirited citizens should be asked to put them on their cars. They would be fakes, yes, but motorists couldn't tell the difference, and thousands of would-be speeders would be held to a safe speed as long as such cars were in sight.

Many and loud are the objections to cops catching speeders with time traps and radar. Such methods are said to be unfair — they don't give the speeder a sporting chance.

A sporting chance to do what? Get away with driving at a speed

RESUMING U-2 FLIGHTS, NUCLEAR TESTING URGED AS DEFENSE NECESSITY

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is weighing two far-reaching proposals from Defense Secretary Thomas Gates and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

To resume atomic tests later this year at the Nevada proving ground.

Lift the ban against U-2 reconnaissance plane flights over Russia and Red China.

That these momentous recommendations have been made to the President was revealed by Gates and the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Marine Base at Quantico, Va.

This disclosure was the most significant occurrence at this annual meeting.

Secretary Gates gave no hint of it in the one session he held with newsmen, at the close of the three-day conference. However, the following publishable details of what he told the Pentagon and other authorities in the closed-door Quantico deliberations can be made known:

While Gates and the Joint Chiefs realize that difficult political problems are involved in both proposals, they are being vigorously advocated by them on the ground of "urgent military necessity." Only the President can decide the political implications.

But the defense leaders deem the early resumption of atomic tests vital because of the impending completion of missiles and other weapons using nuclear warheads.

While none of these new arms were named by Gates, his listeners were fully aware that development of the Navy's solid-fuel intermediate range POLARIS is ahead of schedule. This nuclear-tipped missile, designed especially for nuclear-powered submarines, will become operational next year.

For this reason alone, the Joint Chiefs hold it is "absolutely essential" that new atomic tests be carried out to determine the effectiveness of the warheads for the POLARIS.

That can be done only by testing them. Laboratory experiments and other substitutes are wholly inadequate.

POLARIS warheads are not the only new nuclear weapons awaiting

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The action of the stock market so far favors a constructive point of view, according to Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co.

Here's why, he said: (1) History shows a bullish trend until mid-summer, especially in a presidential election year. (2) Many individual stocks and groups have reached overvalued areas which should hold through further market adjustments. (3) Second quarter earnings reports may be better than expected, and (4) Margins may be lowered.

Where were you when all this happened department: This week the highly speculative Fairchild Camera & Instrument hit an all-time peak of 200 1/2 against a low 9 1/2 only two years ago.

Bache & Co. says the chart pattern for General Electric Co. continues to reflect underlying strength. It regards the issue as one that endangers not only his own life, but the lives of innocent drivers as well. Might as well say a burglar alarm system is unfair to a prowler.

REBELS FOR WHICH CAUSE?

Explaining a poor issue in a recent ad published in college newspapers, Life magazine complained: "The magazine can't be blamed. Nothing happened last week. For — sake go out and do something!"

And it looks as though the present student generation is doing something. All over the world they are erupting into rallies and riots, and bidding fair to change the course of history! It's a radically different face that students are presenting after it looked as though the most daring thing we could expect from them was "pantie raids."

From "rebels without a cause," they are moving into causes they will fight and even die for. What a refreshing change from those sorry samplers of youth properly called "beat!"

Let's not worry because the young are rebellious. The "instinct of rebellion" is one of the dynamic drives of all human progress. To see "a rebel with a cause" is to see someone who is alive, eager, dedicated, aware.

Except — in what cause are they rebelling? That the young will still fight for convictions is encouraging — but, in the crucial war of ideologies, which convictions? The Life advertisement said profane what ought to be said as a prayer: "For CHRIST'S sake, go out and do something!" If it isn't Christ and all the freedom principles He stands for, it will be the Kremlin!

By TEMPEST! REV. IRVING E. HOWARD

The substitute Sunday School teacher, Air Force Reserve sergeant Paul Ganti, did not dream when he asked his pastor if he charges in the Air Force Manual were true that he was going to set off a chain reaction which would sweep the country—but he did.

What were the charges? There were only three in the Air Force Manual that involved the National Council of Churches. The first concerned the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. The second was made in connection with quotations from a book by Dr. E. Stanley Jones and the third, was in relation to the activities of Dr. Harry F. Ward.

The Air Force Manual stated: "The National Council of Churches in the U.S.A. officially sponsored the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. Of the 98 persons who served in this project, 30 have been affiliated with pro-Communist fronts, projects and publications." The statement is correct and is a matter of public record, easily verified. The Manual did not say that these 30 were Communists, nor even that they were Communist sympathizers, although membership in such obviously Communist front organizations as the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties would seem to carry some implications.

The National Federation for Constitutional Liberties has a charming name. Communist front organizations usually do have. However, Attorney General Francis Biddle has described this organization as: "Part of what Lenin called the stellar system of organizations, ostensibly having no connection with the Communist Party, by which Communists attempt to create sympathizers and supporters of their program." Six of the thirty just mentioned are associated with the Revised Standard Version of the Bible were members of this National Federation for Constitutional Liberties.

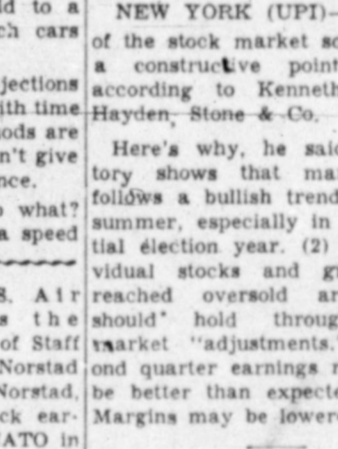

In the second instance, the National Council of Churches was mentioned in the Manual as highly approving the famous missionary, Dr. E. Stanley Jones. Dr. Jones is widely acclaimed for his deep spirituality and the inspiration he has brought to many people; nevertheless, in his book, The Choice Before Us, he boldly defended the Communist system. Among others, the Air Force Manual quoted the following from this book: "When the Western world was floundering in an unjust competitive order, and the Church was bowed up with it and was part of that order, God reached out and put His hand on the Russian Communists to produce a more just order."

When I said "authentic cure," I must add this qualification. This was medical treatment in the extreme.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By Jimmy Hatlo

THEN AFTER KNOCKING IT... HE RETELLS IT... WITH EMBELLISHMENTS YET) LIKE IT'S THE WORLD'S GREATEST...

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN

If you're ticklish and, like me, get frantic when someone playfully strokes the sole of your foot, you've got some idea of what it means to suffer long-standing or recurrent attacks of hives (urticaria).

Most sufferers from hives will assure you that they'd rather put up with pain than the combination of itching, burning and tickling that accompanies their affliction.

And many of them, like a recent correspondent, are veterans of every doctor, skin specialist, allergist, psychiatrist and dietitian within a radius of 100 miles or more of their homes.

In the course of their medical wanderings, "hivers" pick up medical reports just like a world traveler's baggage picks up colored stickers.

As they progress from doctor to doctor, their collection becomes bigger and bigger until they finally arrive with a ledger the size of an annual report of a giant corporation.

They've had physical examinations, chemical analyses, skin tests, serum tests, elimination tests, psychologic tests and tests diets.

They're laden with old prescriptions, new prescriptions, allergy-free toiletries and cosmetics. AND HIVES!

I know of only one authentic cure for which I can personally vouch. This extremely intelligent woman of 70, after 50 years of marriage, gathered together her entire family to celebrate her golden wedding.

Besides her husband, there were present several sons and daughters-in-law, one daughter and one son-in-law, a covey of grandchildren, and one near great-grandchild. Plus, of course, her hives.

The party was a huge success. When it was over and everybody had gone, she said to her husband in a firm but gentle voice:

"I've packed your things in a suitcase. You'll find it in the hall closet. On top is the key to a room I've taken for you at the hotel. Take the suitcase and key and get out. I never want to see you again."

With which, she went to her bedroom, locked the door and remained in seclusion until noon of the next day.

When I said "authentic cure," I must add this qualification. She had hives on three different occasions following the golden anniversary celebration: once when her husband returned to pick up some of his belongings she'd forgotten to pack and twice following visits from her sister-in-law who came to rebuke her for what she had done.

attractive for short term accounts. Chartwise, Diamond National looks good, too.

Reynolds & Co. considers Servel, Inc. an interesting speculation because present indications suggest that net for the year will substantially exceed the $1.26 per share reported in fiscal 1959. Because of its large tax-loss carry-forward, Servel earnings will be tax-free for some time to come.

Majestic Specialties has shown an excellent growth record in an industry characterized by fierce competition, according to Purcell & Co. For 1960 sales are estimated at between $21-22 million and profits at $1.60 a share, with the stock selling at about 12 times earnings.

Harvardite Wears Yale-Blue Necktie

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—As the son of a Harvard man, the king of Thailand surely must know that crimson is the color of the old school Thai.

But when he appeared before a joint meeting of the U.S. Congress, King Bhumibol had on a necktie that looked suspiciously like Yale Blue. This made me wonder if he and Queen Sirikit might be color blind.

Before the royal couple arrived for their state visit here, I read a report that the queen planned to follow the ancient Siamese tradition of wearing a certain color for each day of the week.

The color chart for Wednesday called for her to wear green. But when she appeared in the House chamber Wednesday to hear the king's Congressional address, she was dressed in something orange, which is Thursday's color.

I do not, however, intend to quibble about this. It probably has something to do with the fact that the king was born in Boston.

At any rate, the king is a very interesting fellow, being, as far as I know, the only monarch who plays jazz on the clarinet and saxophone.

As one who has matched hot links with Benny Goodman, he may have felt a bit out of his element at the White House dinner where the music was supplied by Guy Lombardo.

Lombardo, as you know, plays "the sweetest music this side of heaven" with the scoggiest saxophones this side of Lawrence Welk. Fortunately, he did not play a medley from "The King and I."

The main character in this Broadway and Hollywood musical was supposed to represent one of Bhumibol's ancestors. I understand the king was not enchanted by it and I can't say that I blame him.

I would be upset, too, if people got the impression that one of my ancestors looked like Yul Brynner.

The present king, a small man with a full head of hair, looks more like Wally Cox. He made a hit with his speech to Congress, which he read in English with no trace of a Boston accent.

Steering clear of controversial subjects, such as motion pictures and Guy Lombardo, the king spoke solemnly of the long friendship between the United States and Thailand.

He recalled that his great-grandfather, King Mongkut, struck up a correspondence with President Buchanan a hundred years ago, in the course of which the President sent Mongkut some books.

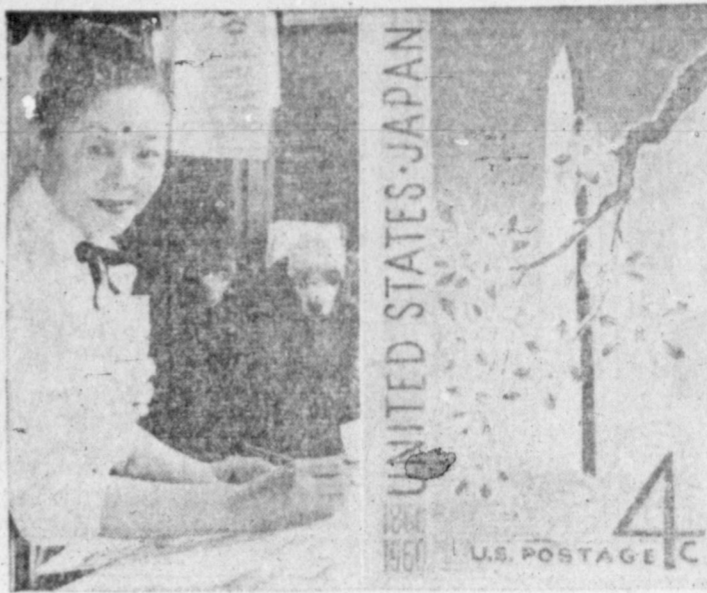

Wanting to reciprocate, Mongkut offered to send Buchanan some elephants "to be turned loose in the unutilized land of America for breeding purposes."

Members of Congress laughed as Bhumibol recounted this incident, but I am of the opinion that the nation might now be better off if Buchanan had accepted the gift.

We may not have any pressing need for elephants but at least they would be more useful than Siamese cats.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

What do we mean when we say that in the United States we have a "government of men" and not a "government of men"? Basically we mean that we have certain individual rights, guaranteed by our federal and state constitutions and laws, which may not be denied by any governing body.

The early American colonists had their fill of government by men, and the Declaration of Independence, signed 184 years ago, set out their complaints against that type of government and revealed their belief in a principle which we now accept as basic to our American way of life.

The indictments set out in the document against King George III of Great Britain charged him with numerous violations of that principle. Among the complaints enumerated are the following:

"He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people."

"He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent for laws for establishing judicial powers."

"He has made judges dependent upon his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries."

"He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good."

"He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and acknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation: . . . For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury; For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses; . . . For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments."

"For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with over to legislation for us in all cases whatsoever."

Our forefathers who subscribed to the principles of the Declaration of Independence were willing to fight for their beliefs. The Revolutionary War followed, dragging through weary years of suffering and suspense. Each of us takes pride in their eventual triumph over gigantic obstacles.

In 1787, when the framers of our Constitution met at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence had been signed 11 years previously, they set to work to create a system of checks and balance in government which was to perpetuate the fundamental theory mentioned in the preamble of the earlier document:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; . . .

Some 5 years later the first ten amendments to our Constitution were adopted at one time, specifically detailing various basic civil rights stemming from the underlying theory of the Declaration of Independence.

Our courts day by day guard these rights for us.

OLYMPIC SOUVENIR

Direct from the Olympic Games IN ROME!

You can help the U. S. win the 1960 Olympic Games

In 1956, Russian athletes were victors. The U. S. was second best. In 1960, we are dedicated to putting America back on top. To do this, money is needed. Funds must be made available to help seek out the top U. S. athletes. To train them. To transport them to Rome, Italy. And to feed, clothe and house them while they are participating in the Olympic Games. You and others like you are the sole support of the U. S. team. Clip the coupon. Mail it today. Donations are deductible on income tax returns.

You'll enjoy getting and showing this special Italian picture postcard bearing the autographs of top Olympic stars. It is a keepsake to treasure, for as the years pass the historical value of this souvenir is sure to increase.

The dollar you send for this postcard goes to support a most worthwhile endeavor. It will help the U. S. send to Rome the kind of team that can win! A finely-trained, fully-staffed team that will be second to none.

As you may know, many other countries finance their Olympic teams with government subsidies. But here in the United States there are no government funds made available to the Olympic team. Your dollar is needed! It is needed to help the U. S. win the 1960 Olympic Games.

To acknowledge your contribution, arrangements have been made to send this special souvenir postcard to you or to anyone else you may specify.

Don't delay. Send your dollar today! You'll receive a postcard direct from Rome, Italy. And you'll be helping the U. S. team show their heels to the rest of the world's top athletes.

Do Male Smokers Lack Masculinity?

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If you smoke, you may not like this. If you don't smoke, you will like it fine.

After 15 years of research on 252 Harvard men, a Harvard scientist, Dr. Carl C. Seltzer of Peabody Museum, has come to these tentative findings:

If you are a man and don't smoke at all, you are almost certain to be very masculine.

But if you smoke, you may be slightly "weaker" in the "masculine component." The more you smoke, the more likelihood of less "masculine component."

So then, what are you likely to be like, if you're a heavy smoker and "weaker" — according to the professor, that is?

You may tend to have an aversion to strenuous exercises and sports.

You are more frequently shy, self-conscious, inhibited.

You may tend to be more creative, idealistic, intuitive.

You may be a little less sharp in muscular coordination.

There's a chance you will be lower in physical fitness for hard muscular work.

You tend to talk well—but possibly aren't so strong in mathematics as the non-smokers.

You may tend toward arts, letters or philosophy.

You probably are sensitive.

You may tend to have a more feminine build than the non-smokers.

Dr. Seltzer also is trying to find out whether smoking causes people to be more susceptible to cancer and coronary heart disease.

He thinks there is a possibility that smoking doesn't do the damage. There is a chance that people who smoke are somehow different from people who don't. It may be that the type of people who smoke are more susceptible to some diseases, whether they smoke or not.

This research aim explains, of course, why the tobacco industry Research Committee is supporting Dr. Seltzer's work.

Dr. Seltzer developed a number of interesting statistics from the long study:

Non-smokers tend to go into the Navy, heavy smokers into the Army.

Heavier smokers apparently sigh more frequently than non-smokers, breathe more rapidly and swallow more frequently. They tend to drink more alcohol and coffee.

He found the non-smokers as a group seem to be more stable, more dependable with better thought-out aims. But they are less interesting.

The smokers seem to be more interesting people, but less stable, and apparently are searching for their aims and purposes.

The non-smokers tend to lead "quiet, progressive lives." They usually are hard workers.

The heavy smokers seem to be "seeking for danger, be restless, have great energy."

PEST CONTROL

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—When Raymond Hetzer of Dallas pleaded guilty Wednesday to writing a rubber check for $197, County Criminal Judge J. C. Duvall asked him what his line of work was.

"I'm in pest control," Hetzer said.

"I'm in the same business. One year in jail," Duvall replied.

Byrnes To Talk To Bar Group

HOUSTON (UPI)—James F. Byrnes, U.S. Secretary of State during World War II, was to address the State Bar of Texas' 78th annual convention tonight at its opening general session.

Byrnes, 81, is a former governor of South Carolina and a close personal friend of former Vice President John Nance Garner, who invited him to speak at the bar association.

More than 3,000 Texas attorneys are expected to register for the convention before its close with the annual banquet Friday night.

A criminal law institute conducted as part of the opening day's program yesterday was devoted to a relatively new legal code in Texas, which attorneys hope to use in fighting the death sentence assessed Howard B. Stickney, convicted murderer of Mrs. Shirley Barnes.

Stickney is now in death row at the state penitentiary awaiting his scheduled death in the electric chair Aug. 12.

Charles Keelin, one of two lawyers who defended Stickney at his trial here in January of last year, CARACAS (UPI)—Venezuela is the picture of a man flying off in all directions, all at the same time.

Its leadership under one-time Betancourt is so dedicated to the Communist President Romulo Betancourt is so dedicated to the democratic principle that it welcomes even criticism designed ultimately to tear down the state structure. There is freedom of speech and thought.

There are no Communists in the executive branch of government, but Communists speak freely and seven are members of the 133-member lower branch of Parliament. Two are in the 51-member upper house.

Its leaders estimate that at that time of the overthrow of the Marcos Perez Jimenez dictatorship, 56 per cent of its people were illiterate.

Its annual income of a little while W. L. is at the National Guard Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Adrain Risner and Darla visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Casey, at Whiteflat over the weekend.

Mrs. Oma Dyer, Parilee Mitchell, Rena Sivage and Mrs. Patterson attended the funeral of Mrs. May Gilmer in Allison Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Willie Mae Wagner and Janice visited Thursday in Estline with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halford and son.

Mrs. R. O. Johnson returned home Monday from a visit in Bethany, Okla., with her granddaughter, Mrs. Bette Richards, and Georgia.

Lewis M. Goodrich and Guy Hardin of Shamrock were business visitors in Wheeler Monday afternoon.

more than $850 annually per capita was among the highest, if not the highest, in all South America, but actually was concentrated among a few.

Its rural population was a wandering one, with only a few owning land and the others roaming from plot to plot as the land wore out or changed ownership.

The government today has crash programs under way in the fields of education, industry and agriculture. It is a government in over a government in ETTTTR.

A hurry to shape a Venezuelan national consciousness and to lift standards of living in all fields.

In education, some figures help tell part of the story.

In 1958, school facilities in the primary grades were available to only 600,000 children. That figure is doubted today. In middle education, the number has jumped from 30,000 to 86,000; and in the universities from 8,000 to 20,000.

A fault lies in the fact that so imbued is the government with democracy that it seems innocent of the factors that could destroy it. Communist teachers are in the schools and one is the head of Central University's school of journalism. To argue against communism is to be accused of a "North American viewpoint."

In agriculture, the government is taking over, either through "friendly" bargaining or through the courts, lands of absentee owners and turning them over to the people living upon them. Owners who agree to sell their lands receive government 4 per cent 15-year bonds.
