Belgium To Pull Its Troops From Congo

Commissioners Offer City Retirement Plan

The first reading of an ordinance to provide a retirement plan for all city employees was heard today at the city commission meeting. The plan, retroactive to the date employees began working for the city, is under the Texas Municipal Retirement System. Two more readings of the ordinance are planned. If finally approved, it will mark the end of one and one-half years work on the part of the present commission.

Store Explosion Kills 8; Hurts 12 Shoppers

MERRILL, Wis. (UPI)—A mid-afternoon blast leveled a J. C. Penney department store to six foot-high flaming rubble Monday, killing 8 and injuring 12. A similar explosion had demolished a grocery at the exact site nine years earlier. Police said today they still did not know what caused the department store tragedy. A local utility official said the nearest gasoline was 10 feet from the one story building and that no leaks were discovered. Officials probed the possibility that trapped sewer gas might have triggered the blast.

160 Area Scouts To Jamboree

One-hundred-sixty area Boy Scouts, Explorers and leaders from the Adobe Walls Council will leave tomorrow for the Fifth National Jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America July 22-28 at Colorado Springs. This is the Jubilee Jamboree celebrating the golden anniversary of scouting and is drawing Scouts from all 50 states and many foreign lands. About 70 boys will leave at 6 a.m. tomorrow from Pampa Junior High School by chartered bus. The rest of the group will join them en route. One of the features of the trip will be a tour on July 21. The local group had the choice of 16 trips. The one selected is to the Air Force Academy Planetarium. Other things on the agenda are arena shows, fireworks, field sports, scoutcraft and skills and campfires. World Friendship Campfires will be held with the accent on world brotherhood. Some 200 overseas Scouts attending will join the American boys in the Scout hand-clasp around the fire.

Oil Fire Today At Magnolia Lease

An oil separator, a mechanism used in refining oil, caught fire at 9:24 a.m. today at the Magnolia-Feland lease, 11 miles southeast of the city. The fire was extinguished, with heavy damage only to the separator. At 5:05 p.m. yesterday, the fire department was called to the home of Joe Starns, 620 N. Gray, to extinguish a stove fire caused by a broken gas line. There was no damage to the house. A grass fire at 323 S. Starkweather, north of Wards Cabinet Shop, was put out at 5:40 p.m. yesterday with no damage reported.

Dispute Transfer Delayed

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Russia warned the United States today "don't touch Cuba" and said it would use its military might for the Cubans if Cuba asked for it. Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev told the U.N. Security Council the "Soviet people will not remain indifferent if armed intervention is undertaken against Cuba."

Commissioners Offer City Retirement Plan

"I'm awfully glad to see this plan adopted," Mayor Ed Myatt said. "In the past we haven't been able to offer prospective employees anything in the way of a retirement plan. And most big companies have fringe benefits like this. Now we'll be on the same bargaining level as anyone." Under the plan employees will be required to contribute five per cent of their annual salary, up to $5,000. The city will contribute a similar amount. The retirement plan will be mandatory. In other business today, the commission reappointed Fred Thompson as a director of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority for another two years, and voted to contribute $778.90 to the authority. Thompson has served as a director of the authority for the past two years. His term was to have expired July 31. The money voted for the water authority is based on a rate of 10 cents for each water meter in the city limits. Myatt said it was customary for cities planning to participate in the project to help finance the work of the organization.

Thomas Honored At Retirement Luncheon

Ralph Thomas, retiring county agent of Gray County, received a plaque in recognition of his 30 years' service at a surprise luncheon in the Coronado Inn yesterday. Thomas was truly surprised. "They told me I was supposed to go to a meeting of the agriculture committee," Thomas said, "and they kept me in a back room until I didn't know what to think. 'I wondered why the agriculture committee was meeting, and what kind of a problem they would have, because it doesn't usually meet until stock show time. And I knew it wasn't time for the stock show yet. Thomas received a plaque for his service from Gray County farmers and ranchers. H. V. Wilks, president of the Chamber of Commerce, made the presentation. County Judge Bill Craig, Boyd Meador of McLean; Rex Baxter, manager of the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo; and Cotton John, farm director of KGNC-TV in Amarillo, all spoke of Thomas' service at the luncheon. Clyde Carruth, county agent of Hutchinson County, and an assistant to Thomas here in 1934 and 1935 acted as master of ceremonies.

Ike Meets With Top Foreign Policy Aides

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—President Eisenhower meets here today with his top foreign policy aides in a critical conference on strategy to deal with rapidly worsening Soviet-American relations. The President, with Secretary of State Christian A. Hester and other officials, is planning the next U.S. moves in the tense situation, strained anew by clashes between Moscow and Washington over the Congo, Cuba and the shooting down by the Russians of an American reconnaissance plane early this month. The conference was set for 2:30 p.m. in Eisenhower's office at naval base headquarters. The President got in 18 holes of golf this morning, despite a fog over the Newport Country Club course which limited visibility to the length of a good brassie shot. After the strategy meeting, Eisenhower was scheduled to receive several visitors at his office, among them, Spanish Ambassador Jose Marie de Arelliza who is leaving his Washington post after a term of six years. Malcolm Moos, White House speech writer, confers with the president on the address, now in draft form, that Eisenhower will deliver at the Republican national convention next week.

Castro Denounces Priests As 'Fascists'

By MATHEW T. KENNY
United Press International
HAVANA (UPI)—Fidel Castro got up from his sick bed Monday night to denounce Roman Catholic priests as "fascists" and accuse the U.S. State Department of bribing his old friends to defect. The young premier, stung by public outcries against his growing attachments to Communist countries, derided "those false Christians who go to church to conspire instead of to pray." He called on "good Christians" to chase out of their churches "those who want to make the temple trenches" against his revolutionary regime. He charged that two Roman Catholic anti-Communist demonstrations in the past two days were coordinated by the State Department. The bearded revolutionary leader interrupted a 10-day convalescence from pneumonia to deliver an emotion-packed, three-hour harangue on television. He claimed to have evidence showing that one ranking Cuban ambassador had been offered large sums of money and other Cubans had been promised protection for their property against any future U.S. invasion provided they agreed to flee the island for propaganda purposes. The speech followed the second major anti-Communist demonstration by Roman Catholics in Havana in as many days — a rally broken up only by the warning shots and rough arm tactics of revolutionary militia. The wife of an American businessman, Mrs. Bertha Price of New Haven, Conn., and her son Jeffrey, 14, were caught up in the melee in an incident that was expected to bring a strong protest from the U.S. Embassy. Mother and son were pulled from their car and manhandled by pro-Castro hecklers as they at any future U.S. invasion provided they agreed to flee the island for propaganda purposes. ## Deadline Is July 23; UN Forces To Stay

By GEORGE SIBERA
United Press International
LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Dr. Ralph Bunche, Chief United Nations representative in the Congo, announced today that Belgium would begin pulling its troops out of Leopoldville by the night of July 23. Bunche said U.N. forces would take over the task of maintaining peace in the capital and ensuring the protection of people and property in the city. Forty Belgian technicians will remain at Leopoldville airport which, however, will be held by U.N. troops, he said. An entire company of Belgian paratroopers will head out of the town by tonight. Bunche made the announcement in a broadcast over the Congolese radio after three-hour talks with Belgian Ambassador Jean van den Bosch, U.N. military commander Gen. Carl von Horn and Belgian army officials. Bunche, speaking in French, said the Belgian troops will start pulling out of their Congo bases on Wednesday and that withdrawal from the capital will be complete by Saturday. As Bunche spoke, groups of Belgian troops in Leopoldville already were preparing to withdraw to their bases of Kamina and Kifona. Bunche said more contingents of U.N. troops including forces from Burma, Canada, and some Latin American nations will arrive soon to boost U.N. strength. A Swedish battalion arrives Wednesday. Premier Patrice Lumumba had demanded Belgium withdraw all its troops by today and threat- (See DEADLINE, Page 3)

Rockefeller Shapes GOP Plan To Fit

CHICAGO (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller threw himself into a go-for-broke effort today to shape the Republican platform so it would best fit him as the GOP presidential nominee. Fighting for a more aggressive and liberal platform than President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon want, the New York governor was the day's dominant figure on the scene of next week's GOP convention. He was still available for a draft to head the ticket but not expecting it. And he declared he was "positively" unavailable for the vice presidential nomination. He was here officially for today's opening session of the committee to write the 1960 platform. He was scheduled to testify before the platform committee this afternoon. Rockefeller is at odds with the Eisenhower administration on such major issues as defense, medical care for the aged, economic growth and perhaps on civil rights. Yet he still was predicting a platform that would be satisfactory to almost all Republicans. Charles H. Percy, Chicago businessman, is chairman of the committee which will frame the platform for submission next Tuesday to the convention in the International Amphitheatre in the Chicago stockyards. ## Guatemala Under Siege

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI)—President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes imposed a state of siege on Guatemala today. The order, equivalent to modified martial law, was issued after an attack on a military base by "12 or 14 persons armed with machineguns" and a terrorist bomb blast in a packed movie house that killed one man and injured 35 other persons. Nine of the injured were children. A government communique said the attack on the military base occurred late Monday in the northern province of Alta Verapaz, 110 miles north of Guatemala City. The decree ordering the state of siege gave to the army the task of restoring public order. Most civil guarantees were suspended during the 30 days the order will be in effect. If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hdw. Adv.

Dow Jones Industrials Show Gains

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Every stock in the Dow-Jones industrial average gained in the 10-year period, 1950-1959, but even here selectivity was needed to keep a few jumps ahead of the market.

This is brought out in the current issue of "Brevets", publication of Vance, Sanders & Co., distributors of several investment funds, notably Massachusetts Investors Trust.
The best performer in the 30 stocks used by Dow-Jones was Goodyear which in that ten-year period gained 1,333 per cent in value. The low man on the totem pole was Chrysler Corp. with a gain in that period of only 1 per cent.

Thus there was a range of more than 1,300 percentage points between the extremes while the average itself rose 239 per cent.
Other big gainers in the group included Alcoa which rose 727 per cent; U. S. Steel, 641 per cent; General Electric, 606 per cent; Bethlehem Steel, 581 per cent; Eastman Kodak, 544 per cent; International Paper, 527 per cent; and Texaco, 490 per cent.

On the other end of the scale there were eight issues that rose less than 100 per cent in a period of sharply rising prices for the general market.
This group included in addition to Chrysler, Swift & Co., up 32 per cent; F. W. Woolworth, 37 per cent; American Tobacco, 43 per cent; American Can 62 per cent; American Telephone, 63 per cent; International Harvester, 78 per cent; and Johns-Manville, 98 per cent.

The others ranged upward from a gain of 126 per cent for Anaconda to 356 per cent for General Motors.
Of the 30 issues in the average 16 did better than the average and 14 did more poorly.

"cowboy culture" throughout my life.
Growing up in the Panhandle, I saw and knew the last dribbling remains of the era, and I think it's high time to put a few things straight.

First of all, there was a great deal more humor in the old West than there was violence. One of the deadliest killers and downright orneriest men that ever lived in the Texas Panhandle during the period of the "gunfighter" was Clay Allison. He got it in the end, but not as you'd suppose.

There have been any number of stories and yarns about Clay and his exploits. But one of the most fascinating is the last one they told about him.

It wasn't at the stopping end of another man's 44, nor anything half that dramatic. Crazy yes, but not necessarily dramatic — leastways, as drama sometimes appears on TV.

Clay and a few of his sidekicks were holed up in Santa Fe for a few weeks while their last "job" sorta cooled.

One night, for lack of anything else to do, they got rip-snotting drunk out at their little hideout shack, and on a dare, Clay drove a buckboard through Santa Fe stark naked and standing upright. It was a gesture on his part to show courage and complete defiance for the law thereabouts.
Now tragically, perhaps, but still sorta funny in a way, during the little-joy ride one of the front wheels dropped off in a big chuck-hole and poor old Clay tumbled out on to the main street of Santa Fe and broke his fool neck.

He died right there and then, on the spot.
So ended the career of a real Western "gunslinger" — naked, drunk and deader than a month-long horse thief, on the main street of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

There are many, many more stories that I could tell that would furnish the romance that surrounds so many names such as Sam Bass, John W. Hardin, Lester Dow, David Kemp and Pat Garrett, but time nor space will not allow. However, if you're ever out this way, look me up and we'll have a visit.

As a parting plug for my own show, I can honestly say that we ("Bonanza") try to be as authentic as any Western show on the TV tube.

Group Is Rushing To UN With An On-Scene Report From Congo

United Press International
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Two African politicians and a British U.N. field officer were rushing here from Leopoldville today to give first hand reports on the chaos in the Congo.

Congolese Secretary of State Andre Mandi and Minister to the United Nations Thomas Kanza were expected sometime this afternoon with Maj. Gen. Henry Templer Alexander, British commander of Ghana troops with the U.N. force in the Congo. The Security Council had tentatively scheduled a session for today on a Soviet charge that Belgium was defying the United Nations by not withdrawing its troops from the new African country immediately. But when word of the imminent arrival of the Congolese ministers was received it was put off until Wednesday.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold also asked for the meeting to consider his first formal report on the U.N. force in the Congo, made public Monday.

It was Alexander to whom Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba was reported to have delivered a threat that Soviet troops would be called in unless Belgian troops got out of the Congo by today.

Alexander was bringing to Hammarskjold a direct report on the situation from Maj. Gen. Carl Carlsson von Horn, Swedish commander of the U.N. force.

Advance indications were that Alexander might have a different picture of the situation than the two Congolese ministers.

Dispatches from Leopoldville Monday quoted Alexander as saying the Belgian troops could not leave the Congo until U.N. forces had been built up to strength sufficient to maintain order.

While the Congolese Senate has denounced the possibility of calling on Soviet troops, the cabinet was reported to have supported Lumumba. Thus Kanza and Mandi could be expected to demand again that Belgian troops leave immediately.

Hammarskjold announced Monday that a battalion of Swedish troops with the U. N. emergency force on the Israeli-Egyptian border were being transferred immediately to the Congo.

Governing Process Is Explained

Three Boy Scouts from Japan and their leader learned a little bit about how Pampa is governed when they attended the city commission meeting today.

Yutaka Sumitani, the leader, and scouts Hiroaki Hokkyo, Hitoshi Oshima and Kenji Yasuno, were guests of commissioner H. V. Wilks at today's meeting.

Only one of the Scouts, Yasuno, could understand English so their introduction to Mayor Ed Myatt and commissioners Jack Vaughn and James Crawford, had to go through an interpreter.

Each of the visitors received letters stating they had attended the meeting, and plates bearing an outline of the Top O' Tex as a gift.

He called it a "fairytale," promising a "lifelong Garden of Eden, a total welfare state" and "cradle-to-the-grave . . . government charity for all." He said the GOP platform would be a Republican program, not a response to the Democratic platform of the "strange" Kennedy-Johnson ticket nominated by the Democrats.

—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Eisenhower's first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, defended the administration defense program and said the President had geared it for "the long pull," eliminating "cycles of feast and famine."

Train, Truck Collide; 14 Cars Spilled

By CURT SWENSON
United Press International
ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—A speeding Milwaukee Road passenger train struck a semi-trailer truck at an unmarked crossing Monday afternoon, injuring 34 but none apparently critically.

The crash derailed the engine and 12 of the train's 14 cars. Gospel singer Mahalia Jackson was sitting in the next-to-last car. She was not even jarred from her seat.

"I didn't know how bad it was until I got off to see," she said. Neither the truck's driver, Richard Kensler, 31, St. Paul, nor the train's engineer, Guy Amundson, 68, Prior Lake, Minn., was seriously hurt.

Amundson was shaken up, as was his son, Gary, 28, Savage, Minn., one of the train's brakemen, and Norman Schnell, 37, Hastings, Minn., the train's fireman.

Kensler did not even require first aid.

"This was the first time I'd driven across that unmarked crossing," he said. "I heard a whistle and the train was right on top of me. I gave it the gas, but I just couldn't make it."

Kensler did, however, manage to get the truck's cab across the tracks before the train struck.

The train was the Milwaukee road's "Hiawatha," enroute to Chicago.

Splinter Meeting After Conclave

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. Ross Barnett says there "very probably" will be a meeting of southern leaders after the Republican national convention to discuss a possible third party movement.

He indicated that Atlanta or New Orleans might be the site of the meeting.

Barnett said on his return from the Democratic national convention Monday that he met several times with other southern leaders in Los Angeles. He said "we had 18 men in my room" during a meeting last Wednesday.

The governor said among those present at one meeting were Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina, former Gov. Millard Caldwell of Florida and Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana.

New Premier Sets Course For Japanese

TOKYO (UPI)—Premier Hayato Ikeda said today Japan could have friendly relations with Russia and Communist China while remaining a member of the free nations of the world.

But at his first press conference as premier, Ikeda spiked any lingering leftwing hopes his new government would repudiate

"All we decided at the meetings was the platform was mighty rough and difficult for the South to accept," said Barnett, a staunch segregationist.

"I don't see how any southerner can accept it," he said. "They want to integrate all the schools by 1963."

the U. S.-Japan security treaty and adopt a neutralist foreign policy.

Ikeda was elected to succeed Nobusuk Kishi Monday by overwhelming majorities in both houses of Parliament, which is dominated by his Liberal-Democrat Party. Kishi was forced to step down by violent leftist opposition to the security treaty which continued the military links between Japan and the United States.

"I firmly believe it is good for the country to remain a member of the free world," Ikeda said. "I never intend to adopt a course of neutrality. This may not be satisfactory to the Socialist Party, but as I told the opposition leaders I will talk this over with them to win their understanding."

However, he added that he has long advocated the maintenance of friendly relations with Russia and Communist China and that "is still my firm conviction."

Advances indications were that Alexander might have a different picture of the situation than the two Congolese ministers.

Dispatches from Leopoldville Monday quoted Alexander as saying the Belgian troops could not leave the Congo until U.N. forces had been built up to strength sufficient to maintain order.

While the Congolese Senate has denounced the possibility of calling on Soviet troops, the cabinet was reported to have supported Lumumba. Thus Kanza and Mandi could be expected to demand again that Belgian troops leave immediately.

Hammarskjold announced Monday that a battalion of Swedish troops with the U. N. emergency force on the Israeli-Egyptian border were being transferred immediately to the Congo.

Candlelight Romantically Flattering To Women, But Electricity Is Beauty Boon

By ALICIA HART
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Last evening, the light switch in my bathroom went dead. Before the building superintendent arrived to repair it, I set a silver candlestick on the edge of the tub and pondered what living must have been like before electricity came along.

As I rinsed out nylon stockings, I admit the flickering shadows, it seemed to me that an age which seems romantic in retrospect couldn't have been as redolent in romance as it was in eyestrain. True, candlelight was softer and therefore more flattering to a woman. But the effort of getting on the crude make-up of the eighteenth century, to say nothing of doing one's hair, must have been exhausting.

And something tells me that they would gladly have handed over their very best wigs, patch boxes and rouge for a single room lighted by clear, white electricity.

If you would like to check on the degree of charm you possess, ask yourself some questions:

Am I a gossip? Am I nosy? Do I pry into the affairs of others? Do I ask questions which are none of my business? Do I distort the scraps of information I pick up when I retell them?

If the answer to any of these questions is yes, better give charm a low rating. For no woman who is a nosy gossip ever possesses a large degree of charm.

In back of her eagerness to gossip lies an envy of the activities of others coupled generally with a real dislike. Such a woman is no warmhearted friend of humanity. Rather, she is busy peering and peeking, trying to discover the little flaws in human nature.

Of course, this activity doesn't make her very happy. And her discontent is always reflected in the tight little lines about mouth and eyes. If this is happening to you, ask yourself if what you are doing to yourself is worth it.

Originally, the idea behind nail polish was to lend the hands a jewel-like look through the contrast of pink or rosy-red to white skin. We've come a long distance since then. But our skin tones have not changed. So before you consider brown, blue, beige or white polish, consider your own skin tones.

Does beige polish really enhance your skin? Or does it make your hands look sallow? Unless a new polish shade really does something for you, best stick to the rosy tones.

Choose Sun Lotion With Great Care

By ALICIA HART

Choosing a suntan cream that's right for you is as personal a matter as choosing the correct lipstick shade. But in one sense it's a lot more important.

The wrong lipstick is a matter easily corrected. A quick swipe of a cleansing tissue will take care of it. But a suntan cream hastily and thoughtlessly chosen can cause skin trouble.

The best way to go about choosing a reliable suntan cream is to pick one made by a well-known beauty house. You'll find that some creams are made to block the tanning process while others speed it up. Ask questions when you go to buy. If your skin is delicate or sensitive, you may want the type which totally blocks the sun's rays but still allows you to lol on the beach.

by a large beauty house, is a copper-colored, translucent jelly (jelly), which is said to gently tint the skin, promoting a deep and rapid tan.

It is also said to be water repellent and thus designed for long-lasting, maximum protection. It contains, the maker says, an ingredient to moisturize the skin and thus help to prevent dehydration from sun and salt spray.

If you have enough space in your closets to hang your out-of-season clothes, they will be well preserved until the time comes to wear them again. Folding and packing them away sometimes causes them to look like wilted lettuce when you take them out for the coming season.

Now there's a handy roll-on perfume, about the size of a lipstick case, to be filled with your own favorite perfume or cologne.

Dear Abby... Make Your Commercials Better Than Television

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY, I am a television widower. I enjoy television in the living room but I made the mistake of giving my wife a portable TV, which she lugs from room to room wherever she goes. My biggest complaint is that she sets it up in her bedroom. She watches it until she can't keep her eyes open and then she falls asleep. We are young people, Abby, (I am 32 and she is 29) and I am not ready to give up my love life. That TV in the bedroom is killing our marriage. Should I smash it to bits or find somebody who enjoys my company?

Skellytown Personals

By Mrs. CLIFTON HANNA
Daily News Correspondent

The Rev. J. D. Hill, pastor of the Haile Baptist Church, in the Springcreek community, has resigned to accept the pastorate of Baptist Church in Jasper, Tenn. Hill has been pastor of the Haile church since January, 1952. He and his wife were honored recently with a farewell party given by members of the congregation.

The Rev. O. C. Curry, district missionary of Amarillo, was the speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Watches and children, who recently moved from Skellytown to Canyon, visited Monday in the Gene Harlan home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Owens and sons, Larry, Max and Scotty, have visited this week in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Cowart. The Owens family are from Camp Edwards, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gilpin recently returned from a fishing trip near Trinidad, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Colley, accompanied by their two grandsons of Berger, are fishing at Lake Lugan near their home.

Billie Gilreath, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Gilreath, was hospitalized this week with an eye injury. The accident occurred late Saturday evening when Billie was hit in the eye with a pebble from a bean shooter. The pupil of the eye was shattered and it was first feared he would lose the sight of the eye. However, he has improved and is regaining his eyesight.

Mrs. Katie Strickland and Mrs. Margarite Ward are attending a summer work shop at the University of Texas, Austin. Mrs. Strickland will teach the combination room of first and second graders at school.

Mr. and Mrs. James Washington and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sims of Pampa visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Imel recently.

Miss Phyllis Fields of Littlefield is the house guest of her cousin, Miss Jean Fields.

Mrs. Victoria Harden and son and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harden and sons of Sallisaw, Okla. were guests of the Ed Harmon family Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. V. Harden is an aunt of Mrs. Harmon.

Mrs. M. A. Marson and sons are visiting relatives in East Texas. They plan to be away until school begins.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Loftus and daughters, Janet and Gwendolyn, are visiting in Tucson, Ariz. The children will remain for an additional visit with their grandparents. The Monday Afternoon Bridge Club met in the home of Beverly Moore Monday. The July 25 meeting will be in the home of Mary Arlan.

The Ed Albertson family are visiting and fishing at various lakes in Oklahoma.

Mr. C. O. Slavens drove to Eufaula, N.M. Friday. His daughter Karen, who has been visiting there since the first of June will return home with him.

Mrs. M. E. West of Skelly Schaefer camp is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Hubbard in Amarillo. Mrs. Hubbard is ill.

Visiting in the Alvin Adams home are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jacobs of Vernon.

The Couples Sunday School Class at the Community Church recently held a hamburger fry at the Haystack ranch. The young people of the church were guests.

There will be an installation of officers at the Rebekah Lodge Monday July 18 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Alweg will be installed noble and Mrs. J. H. Wedge will be installed vice grand to serve for the ensuing six months.

Relaxation For Kennedy

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy kept to a leisurely vacation pace today despite brief time out to nail down an agreement with President Eisenhower for secret foreign policy briefings.

Mixing seagoing and seclusion the Democratic presidential candidate planned a second day of boating and swimming with his wife, Jacqueline, and other family members in the warm blue waters of Nantucket Sound.

On land, Kennedy maintained a relaxed reading routine in his white-painted house a moment's walk from the beach.

A steady stream of sightseers' cars Monday drove past Kennedy's summer house in this scenic Cape Cod resort. Their view was marred by a six-foot grey picket fence erected before the nominee's arrival Sunday to guarantee him privacy.

Two police officers were on duty at all times to protect Kennedy's half-acre grounds, adjoining a lawn-surrounded home owned by his parents and another by his brother, Robert.

BLAMES SPACE SATELLITES
HYDE, England (UPI)—An American space satellite was blamed today for shooting down swarms of model planes.

Former Royal Air Force pilot Albert Malcolmson said the satellite was cutting in on the radio frequency model plane fanciers use to control their tiny craft. As a result, the planes have been crashing.

"The model owners will have to change their frequency," Malcolmson lamented.

—and should be buried." The senator said, "regrettably, Soviet premier Khrushchev approved Castro's dictator methods and is attempting to stick his nose into U.S.-Cuban relations."

Khrushchev has threatened to rain rockets on the United States if this country intervenes in Cuba. Washington has warned the Soviet Union twice to stay out of Latin America.

Simple Mistake Caused Death Of Radar Pioneer

ASTON ROWANT, England (UPI)—It was a simple, almost unbelievable mistake that killed Sir Raymond Hart, air marshal and British radar pioneer, his son said today.

The man who developed Britain's radar defense system at the outbreak of World War II died Saturday when he picked up the live end of a 240-volt electrical connection while barefooted. He was 61.

"It was the sort of mistake even a chap who could not change a fuse would be unlikely to make," said George Hart, 24. "And yet my father, a genius in electronics, made just such a mistake. In his work he received dozens of electrical shocks and took no notice of them. Maybe he became careless, overconfident about electricity."

Police said Sir Raymond was cutting his lawn with an electric mower. They said the mower cord apparently came unplugged and Sir Raymond was electrocuted as he tried to re-connect it.

Case In Equity

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—County Criminal Judge J. C. Duvall is a firm believer in prosecution but not persecution.

That's what Mrs. Betty Hanshaw, who weighs over 200 pounds, found out Monday when she brought her husband before the judge charging that he slapped and bit her.

Benjamin Hanshaw, 43, a carpenter, looked like he weighs about 135. His wife waits on tables in a restaurant that advertises it has the huskiest waitresses in the world.

"Do you mean your husband actually slapped you?" Duvall asked. "I was lying down, judge," Mrs. Hanshaw said. "It wouldn't have happened if I had been on my feet."

"Well, you are on your feet now and I am not going to let a big woman like you prosecute a little man like your husband for slapping her," Duvall said. "Case dismissed."

Classified Advertising is an investment, not a cost.

SMALL AS A FLY'S EYE—The smallest grinding wheel ever made commercially is almost as tiny as the eye of a house fly. The little abrasive wheel, developed by Bay State company in Westboro, Mass., will be used to grind miniature ball bearings which go into the production of cameras, tape-recorders, missile guidance systems and other microminiature instruments.

Water Supply Of Nacogdoches Nearly Drained

NACOGDOCHES (UPI)—A broken water pipe almost drained the Nacogdoches city water system dry Monday night.

City officials said the system lost more than 30 million gallons in slightly more than two hours. The water level in the city's four large storage tanks was dropping at the rate of about 25 feet per hour, and if the break hadn't been found and fixed quickly it would have drained the tanks despite all the city pumps running full speed.

A night watchman at the Summers Sawmill Co. discovered the break in the mill's pump house. A 12-inch main had broken, and water was gushing out of it so fast, it partially collapsed the pump house and washed a gully 55 feet long, 23 feet wide and eight feet deep.

Solon Explains Soft Attitude Toward Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The senior GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told people behind the Iron Curtain today the tolerant U.S. attitude toward the anti-American Cuban regime was in sharp contrast to Russia's "killer-type policies" toward Hungary.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), warned Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in a recorded Radio Liberty statement to "mind his own business" and stop interfering in the U.S.-Cuban dispute.

In reply to Khrushchev's assertion that the Monroe Doctrine against foreign intrusion in the Western Hemisphere is dead, Wiley said:

"The real fact is that dictatorship, whether under the guise of Communism, Nazism, Fascism, or similar type isms, is really dead—killed by long centuries of failure—and should be buried."

—and should be buried." The senator said, "regrettably, Soviet premier Khrushchev approved Castro's dictator methods and is attempting to stick his nose into U.S.-Cuban relations."

Khrushchev has threatened to rain rockets on the United States if this country intervenes in Cuba. Washington has warned the Soviet Union twice to stay out of Latin America.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—W. E. Hutton & Co. suggests that investors curb their tendencies to outsmart the market for a while and do some "coasting."

"On balance the business has been unfavorable and investors are obviously not convinced it's going to get a great deal better in a hurry even though it may not get a great deal worse," the firm points out in a recent market letter.

Bruns, Nordeman & Co. recommends Industrial Plywood for risk accounts considering the company's bold internal corporate policies and great progress. The advisory service notes that Industrial Plywood pioneered the field of low-cost pre-finished wall paneling and has long-range speculative potentials.

Bache & Co. says Diamond National has held its ground well in recent sessions. "Further consolidation is likely to develop over the near term but we see no signs yet of a reversal of its favorable trend."

Reynolds & Co. notes that W. R. Grace continues to expand its operations into the chemical industry but the market appears to be giving undue emphasis to the shipping part of Grace's business and not fully appraising its chemical potential.

A further rise in sales appears in prospect for most paper container companies this year, according to Value Line Investment survey, but the profit margins for these firms have been narrowing. The reason, it points out, is that selling prices have not kept pace with mounting costs nor has employee productivity notably improved.

Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co. believes the missile-aircraft issues should perform above average. "The U.S. is bound by treaty to protect several dozen nations of the free world. Hence, it looks as though slashes in the military budget are a thing of the past."

Homer Twins, Mantle And Maris, Do It Again

Yankees Smear Cleveland, 9-2

MICKEY MANTLE ... homers again

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International
Casey Stengel fears no one—and neither would you with a pair of musclemen like Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris around.
Stengel's strategy is simple but effective. He merely stations Mantle and Maris in front of the door and tells them to give the bum's rush to anyone who tries invading the Yankees' first-base privacy.
The Cleveland Indians, trailing only by 1½ games, had exactly such a notion Monday night. But when Mantle and Maris got through with them, the Indians were dumped to third place and the Yankees increased their American League lead to two games with a 9-2 victory.

Mantle did his handiwork with a three-run homer, his 22nd of the season, to climax a five-run rally off Dick Stigman in the fourth inning. Maris applied the clincher with his 29th homer at the expense of reliever Barry Latman in the ninth.
Mantle and Maris made it easy for southpaw Whitey Ford, who gave up eight hits in posting his sixth victory. Johnny Romano accounted for both Cleveland runs with a homer in the second inning and a sacrifice fly in the fourth.
The loss of the game was of secondary importance to the Indians. The loss of shortstop Woodie Held hurt much more. Held suffered a broken finger during the first inning and is expected to be out of action from three to five weeks.

Only two other games were played in the AL while all the teams in the National took a breather and enjoyed an open day.
The White Sox moved into second place ahead of the Indians with a 9-1 victory over the Red Sox, and the Athletics snapped a five-game losing streak by beating the Orioles, 5-1.
Hard luck Herb Score turned in his finest pitching effort of the season with a five-hitter against the Red Sox. The White Sox scored eight of their nine runs off loser Billy Muffett. They got to him for three runs in the third on a pair of walks, Minnie Minoso's double, Al Smith's single and a sacrifice fly, then picked up four more in the sixth.

Roy Sievers of the White Sox ran his hitting streak to 21 games, longest in the AL so far this season. The victory was Score's second against three losses.
Ned Garver of the A's won his first game of the year following five losses when he held the Orioles to seven hits. Skinny Brown, now 7-4, gave up all five Kansas City runs.
The Athletics jumped on him for three runs in the first inning Andy Carey driving in two of them with a double, and Norm Siebern socked his 11th homer with Whitey Herzog on base in the third. Baltimore scored its only run in the seventh when Brooks Robinson came home on a double play.

Nobody Can Lose At Dallas

According to reports from the Texan camp, Swink has found another occupation, and he has been excellent at it in recent workouts.
The new job is that of a pass-receiver, and the way he has been hauling in aerials from former Baylor star Cotton Davidson has been bringing a few superlative adjectives from coach Hank Stram.
But Swink hasn't won a starting position for the season yet.
There's still the question of what should be done with Abner Haynes, the Negro speedster from North Texas State.
With his tremendous speed, even more than what Swink possesses, Haynes is an all-the-way there at every time he churns through the line or hauls in a pass.

Play Amarillo At 6:30

Rebels Open Legion Tourney

AMARILLO — The Pampa Rebels open the three-day American Legion baseball tournament at Potter County Stadium tonight when they clash in the initial game at 6:30 with the Amarillo Dusters.
This will be the first meeting between the two clubs this season. The Rebels won the Western Division title outright while the Dusters tied with Borger for the Eastern Division championship.
One other game will be on tonight's slate. That will be when the Tascosa Sheriffs collide with Borger in the nightcap.
The winners and losers of tonight's game will be paired for the doubleheader tomorrow night.
Thursday night, the two unbeaten teams will meet in the nightcap for the district championship.
Pampa had little trouble in its rush to the Western Division title. The Rebels staked claim to the crown almost before the season was underway.
On the other hand, the Eastern

Engram Spurns Houston Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI)— Bryan Engram, former Texas Christian varsity end and captain of the 1956 Horned Frog team, announced today he will not report to the Houston Oilers.
It came as the American Football League team opened its "early camp" session with a contingent of 55 players, including backs and ends, reporting.
Engram told the Oilers front office that he had reinjured his knee working out on his own, and didn't feel he could report for duty.
Houston offset the loss by signing another player, former University of Texas star Byron Townsend. He will workout at fullback and linebacker.
The rest of the team is scheduled to report for drills on Saturday afternoon. The Oilers scheduled two workouts a day, except for Sunday, when one practice session will be held.

Liston Is Victor; Asks Ingo Bout

DENVER (UPI)—Sunny Liston, the steel-fisted Philadelphia Negro whose knockout of Zora Folley Monday night made him the most logical contender for the heavyweight crown, challenged Ingemar Johansson today for the right to battle champion Floyd Patterson.
Liston, who had rocketed to the spot as ranking contender for the crown with eight successive knockouts of relatively obscure opponents, removed any doubts about the power in his 14-inch quick-fisted Folley, one of the division's best boxers, for the 10-count with 28 seconds gone in the third round.
The 215½-pound Liston put Folley, who weighed 198½, down twice on nine counts in the second round. Only the bell saved the Chandler, Ariz. veteran for the third round finish of the scheduled 12-rounder.
Liston's manager, Pep Barone, said his slugger was eager to fight Johansson, the ex-champion from Sweden, for the opportunity to face Patterson in a championship bout. But Patterson and Johansson are slated for a rematch, and Liston may have to wait.
"We'll take Johansson next," Barone said. "If we can't beat Johansson, then Johansson would have the right to fight Patterson again."
Liston has a grudge against the good-looking Swede, who wouldn't permit the Philadelphian into the ring for an introduction during the last Patterson-Johansson fight in New York.

Texans Trade For Linebacker

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI)— The Dallas Texans have added a bit more beef to their linebacking with the trade of quarterback Dick Jamieson of Bradley to the New York Titans for six-foot, 225-pound Jim Baldwin of McMurry College.
Baldwin will play offensive center as well as linebacker. He was expected to report to the Texan camp today.
Baldwin was with the Detroit Lions last season, and had been a standout in the Titans' early workouts. Jamieson spent last season as Johnny Unitas' understudy on the Baltimore Colts.
Don Rossi, general manager of the Texans, also announced the release of two more players. The departure of halfback Jackie Holt of Oklahoma and end James Edwards of Prairie View, Tex., trimmed the squad to 69.

Tribe Loses Held For Long Period

CLEVELAND (UPI)— Cleveland's pennant stock took a sharp nose-dive today when hard hitting shortstop Woodie Held was placed on the disabled list with a broken finger that is expected to keep him on the sidelines from three to five weeks.
The Indians immediately brought up shortstop Mike de la Hoz to replace Held. De la Hoz was batting .312 with Mobile of the Southern Association.

Palmer Tries To Become Top Golf Winner Ever

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor
AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Here in the kingdom of rubber, a new kingdom — in golf — may be in the making.
Arnold Palmer, golfing's golden boy, is shooting for that new kingdom. He's trying to become the first professional golfer in history ever to win the three biggest crowns open for them in one season—the Masters, the U.S. Open and the PGA.
Palmer, the come-from-behind kid, only needs the PGA to establish that new niche in golf. Oldtimers may not think it rivals the grand slam which Bobby Jones scored in 1930 when he won the U.S. and British opens and the U.S. amateur, but Palmer will settle for it.
The iron-nerved guy from Lionier, Pa., doesn't worry about what people may think. He figures — and most golfers agree with him — that this would be the greatest grand slam of them all — should he win the PGA starting Saturday.

Connie Warnings Have No Effect

CHICAGO (UPI)— The National League is going ahead with plans for expansion to 10 teams despite a warning by the Continental League that such a move would lead to "economic disaster."
President Warren Giles of the National League announced Monday after a day long meeting that the owners voted unanimously to expand to 10 clubs if the Continental League fails to get off the ground.
A four man committee was formed to meet "forthwith" with American League officials and with President Rickey of the Continental League to "expedite prompt expansion."
In essence, the National League was ready to tell the fledgling Continental loop: "If you can't get going on this matter of expansion, we'll take it over."
Although Giles stressed no deadline had been set, baseball men agreed it could be next season. The most likely expansion arrangement appeared to be the addition of New York and Houston to the National League, with Minneapolis-St. Paul and either Toronto or a second Los Angeles team joining the American League.
The American League has gone on record favoring expansion but has said it could not proceed unless the NL did likewise.
American League President Joe Cronin said in Boston that he maintained all along expansion was "inevitable."
"I am happy to know they are considering it," Cronin commented. "We have the machinery for it. We made it possible by an amendment to our constitution some years ago. We have a realignment committee and a catastrophe plan we could use to give players to new teams."
In New York, Bill Shea, chairman of the Continental League founder group, said the proposed third major league has no ideas about folding and-or merging with the majors.
"None of our owners have any thought of defecting to the American or National League," Shea said. "There is a substantial penalty to be paid by anyone who defects."
"I have said all along that the majors would not expand from within," Shea continued. "Branch Rickey has said the same thing. Adding ninth and tenth teams in the American and National leagues would prove economically disastrous."
Giles, following Monday's meeting, said: "We are ready to go. We are taking this action to ex-

CHILDRESS — The Pony League all-stars make their tournament debut here tonight in quest of the regional Pony League baseball championship.
So far, no opponent has been announced for the Pampa club in the opening game, but they definitely will play tonight.
The All-Stars are scheduled to leave from the Optimist Club park at 4:30 this afternoon.

A 15-man squad, dominated by the presence of seven members of the championship Lions Club team, will participate in the four-day tournament.
The Lions landed Jimmy Lollar, the leading Pony League hitter this season with a .517 batting average, Dee Wright, a close runner-up with a .486 mark; Larry Johnson (.444); Charles Woods (.408); Gene Storrs (.390); and Kenny Miller (.365).
The First National Bank team will have four representatives playing for the All-Stars.
They include Gary Laremore (.380); James Strickland (.343); Mike Schold (.283); and Ronnie Goodwin (.269).

Kansas 'Silos, Coffin' Dug Deep To Store Needed Missile Surplus

By MARY KAY FLYNN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SALINA, Kan. (NEA) — The nation's breadbasket is getting a crop of new silos quite unlike the familiar varieties dominating the wheatland landscape.

While farmers race the elements to get the gigantic 1960 wheat harvest into bins, helmeted men on frantic deadlines set by defense requirements are burrowing into Kansas pastures. They are constructing concrete-lined silos six floors deep to encase the 82-ft.-long Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile.

Each of the upside down missile silos, which are 180 ft. deep and 50 ft. in diameter, could hold about 300,000 bushels of wheat. The tallest grain elevator tank in Salina is 130 ft. tall and 30 ft. in diameter.

Thirty-nine ICBM launch sites—more than the total slated for any other single state—are scheduled for Kansas to bolster U.S. retaliatory power in the event of an enemy nuclear attack.

Construction is progressing rapidly at the 22 Atlas launch sites of the hardened or silo type complex located in the area of Schilling Air Force Base near here. All are expected to be operational by spring of 1962.

In silo or vertical storage, an elevator lifts the big missile to the surface.

Nine semi-hardened or "coffin" type Atlas launch sites surrounding Forbes Air Force Base at Topeka probably will be completed by late fall for activation in the latter part of 1961. In each of these, the missile rests in a horizontal position in an underground building with only the sliding roof exposed. A fixed erection boom lifts the missile to vertical firing position.

Work is expected to start later this year on silos to hold 18 Titan ICBMs in the vicinity of McDonnell Air Force Base near Wichita.

After construction of the Atlas launch sites under supervision of the Army Corps of Engineers, technicians from Convair Corp. will install equipment and the missiles which will be maintained and operated by Air Force crews.

The Atlas facilities will be visible to the public from nearby roads but the only distinguishing features of a launch site will be a surveillance television camera mast, air vents, a small storage building and parked automobiles belonging to operational crews.

Special access roads will be built to carry the massive missiles to and from launch sites. Presently, construction crews and equipment are transported "the last miles" over narrow country roads, past grazing cows and windmills.

Moving missiles back and forth to Air Force bases for maintenance after installation has raised the question of citizen safety.

Launch sites are dispersed around Topeka and Salina within a radius of approximately 25 miles.

In an address before 450 Rotarians and their wives here, Col. John P. Proctor, commander of the first Titan ICBM wing, Denver, pointed out that there is no danger that an accident would set off the nuclear warhead of the Atlas as the missile can be dropped, struck or broken without explosion.

No missiles will be fired from the Kansas sites for test purposes. Two switches, located at different points will control firing which would begin only on orders from the President in a national emergency.

It is expected that only one missile would be fired from each site. The installations are designed to withstand the over-pressures, ground shock and radiation associated with nuclear explosions but damage from blast and searing heat from the first "shoot" would be repairable.

The Atlas travels at a speed of about 16,000 miles per hour with a range of 5,000 to 6,000 miles and a thermonuclear capability in the megaton range (one megaton is the explosive equivalent of one million pounds of TNT). The silo complex could accommodate the super Atlas which has traveled 9,000 miles.

B-70 PROGRAM TAKES WING AGAIN—Air Force's B-70 supersonic bomber program, once slashed to 75 million dollars, has been refueled by the Senate. The B-70, shown in artist's sketch, above, got a 290-million-dollar boost in the Senate's proposed money bill of $40,514,897,000. That figure is roughly a billion dollars larger than the amount President Eisenhower had requested for defense appropriations.

"SILO" (top), and "coffin" are prepared for missile use.

Birds Give Vital Data

SCIENCE TODAY
By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some birds are now three times more radioactive than science considers it safe for people to be, but so far as the eye can tell, birds are not harmed by it.

At this point, Dr. William K. Willard doesn't know what it means. However, what he is doing is important because in our atomic age all people and all living things are bound to become increasingly radioactive.

People get theirs directly or indirectly from "fall-out," and so far it is too slight to amount to much. Willard's birds got theirs by living in the bed of White Oak Lake where the radioactive wastes of the huge atomic laboratory at Oak Ridge, Tenn., are deposited.

Willard is netting the birds, dissecting them into component parts (bones, feathers, gastro-intestinal tract, and body tissues) and measuring the parts for degrees and kinds of radioactivity. He is gathering information which some day may be extremely valuable for people.

The lake was drained in 1955 to facilitate its use as an atomic wastes dump. Since then the bed has become overgrown with low-lying shrubs and brush. The former shores remain a thicket of trees, alder, and pokeweed.

The bird flesh with the highest radioactivity was that of sparrows, water thrushes, and chats which feed on the ground and inhabited the brush. The catbirds, vireos, cardinals, and Kentucky warblers of the bordering thicket had only one-twentieth of their radioactivity. Midway between were gold finches and indigo buntings which ranged between tall and low vegetation.

Poke berries, blackberries, beetles, and other bird food all were decidedly radioactive, and so was the ground. Wheeler found that summer birds took on their "burden" principally with their food, but in the winter birds got it largely from the soil. Winter birds live on seeds, which they dig out with their bills, eating a little earth in doing so.

The radioactivity of their flesh and bones came from strontium-90 and cesium-137 which are radioactive isotopes of elements with affinity for calcium made by atomic fission and contained in the fall-out from atomic bomb explosions. When incorporated in living things in sufficient amounts, they could cause cancer and other ills. No one now knows what amounts are sufficient to be evil.

Valley Farmers Win Two Bracero Labor Victories

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rio Grande Valley farmers have won two major victories over the U. S. Department of Labor in a court fight over use of bracero labor in harvesting valley crops.

But the victories may be tenuous ones.

U. S. District Judge Joe Ingraham Monday granted two preliminary injunctions restraining the Labor Department from enforcing orders to:

—Ban the Rio Hondo Harvesters Association from hiring braceros.

—Raise the prevailing wages for all cotton pickers from $2.30 a hundredweight picked to $2.50 a hundredweight.

U. S. Attorney William Butler, who argued the cases for the government, said he would recommend an appeal of both cases to the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Ingraham's first order affects an estimated 1,400-1,070 Mexican laborers currently harvesting cotton for the Rio Hondo Harvesters Association, a cooperative of more than 600 members.

In taking that case under advisement, Ingraham said he would determine what "appropriate bond" should be posted by valley farmers to protect the laborers affected, in the event it is later determined his restraining order should not have been granted.

In that respect Ingraham perhaps anticipated a Justice Department appeal of his decision.

Attorney Morris Atlas of McAllen represented the valley farmers in the case. Atlas said there may be a trial on the merits of the case although both sides have submitted lengthy briefs.

The companion case, which involves 95 per cent of the 55,000 braceros working in Texas, was heard by Ingraham after he made the Rio Hondo decision.

Austin attorney Donald Thomas represented 15 valley farm organizations in a suit to prevent the Labor Department from imposing another wage hike for the braceros.

Thomas argued that "it's going to ruin cotton production in the valley if the policy is invoked."

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell sought to invoke a "90-10 wage policy" that would require a minimum of $2.50 per hundredweight.

"The Secretary of Labor and his subordinates have usurped the power to fix wages of bracero labor and indirectly the wages of domestic labor without any semblance of statutory authority to do so," Thomas told the court.

Forest Fire Burns Watershed

AZUSA, Calif. (UPI)—A fast-moving, three-day-old fire in Angeles National Forest blazed unchecked today, taking a heavy toll of watershed and forcing campers and homeowners in its path to flee.

About 600 reinforcements from throughout the state, Arizona and New Mexico were flown in today to help 900 firemen already on fire lines in San Gabriel Canyon. More than 4,000 acres of brush, squat oak and big cone spruce have been blackened by the fire. Perimeter of the blaze was 12 miles.

Three summer cabins—including one the Forestry Service said was valued at $30,000—have been destroyed since the fire's start Sunday.

A carelessly discarded cigarette was believed to have caused the fire. Its southern tip is burning about six miles north of this Los Angeles suburb.

Porpoise For Power

We have been much intrigued by a report in the column conducted by Whitney Bolton.

Recently, Mr. Bolton has reported on an amazing phenomenon discovered among the dolphin, or the porpoise.

Under Navy scrutiny, it now appears that the dolphin or the porpoise, as the large specimen of dolphin is sometimes called, has an intelligence equal if not greater to that of man.

If this comes as a shock, perhaps a bit of shock in this area will be beneficial therapy. According to the reporter, Navy scientists have announced that their research establishes (proves) that dolphins talk to each other, can mimic human speech (which they do with great glee) and that they can and do help each other in moments of distress or tragedy.

It seems that bottle-nosed dolphins are the ones with the brains. At a laboratory where tests were made relating to these creatures, a tape recording which picked up high pitched squeaks coming from these finny mammals, when slowed down and played back announced: "Come and get it," which was the exact phrase used by the keeper when he tossed bits of food to the gamboling, sleek-skinned swimmers.

We should understand that the dolphin or the porpoise is NOT a fish. It is a mammal, which many millions of years ago came up out of the water, learned to breathe air, must have guessed what a mess land creatures were going to make of things and then plunged back into the water, where it has stayed ever since.

Bottle-nosed dolphins really get an inordinate kick out of human kind as many a keeper has learned to his mental undoing. It is apparently rather common for porpoise keepers to develop an inferiority complex when they sense the dolphins are laughing at them, and doing so on purpose.

Dr. John C. Lilly, neurophysiologist and director of the Communications Research Institute in the Virgin Islands, as a sober scientist gives it as his opinion that the porpoise is the equal of man in brainpower and in some areas is probably man's superior. It seems that mathematically the dolphin's brain is about 40 per cent larger than man's and is equally complex in its functional units.

Whether or not there are flying saucers and strange little green men whooping it up in the space lanes above earth, it now appears that man's intellectual superior may be right here on earth (in the sea) and has been here right along.

Mariners have for centuries accepted the conveying of their ships by schools of porpoise who leap from the waves near the bows of their liners. There are hosts of legends and superstitions growing out of the strange behavior of the porpoise, but Dr. Lilly has come closer to explaining it when he points out the intellectual superiority of the porpoise and also emphasizes that this creature has a delightful sense of humor and that his leaping from the waves to catch a glimpse of man probably sends him splashing back into the briny rocking with waves of mirth. This may be why this sea-going mammal has been known to rescue swimmers, enjoys himself in captivity, and now apparently is capable of mimicking human speech, albeit at a high pitched level.

One phase of the dolphin's intelligence is clearly shown, although Dr. Lilly doesn't dwell on it. Even the most painstaking research fails to reveal that the porpoise holds national, or even international, apparently this creature's intelligence is sufficient for him to grasp the basic truths of his own nature. He laughs at man and otherwise makes his own business. What a superior degree of intelligence we might evince, if we learned to laugh at porpoises and to mind our own business.

However much or often the porpoise associates with man, his superiority is shown in that man's bad habits simply don't seem to rub off on the porpoise. Man's ability to corrupt others of his own kind and even other species is well known. When it comes to the bottle-nosed dolphin, man has clearly met his match.

The dolphin continues, sublimely oblivious to man, saving as a source of amusement. What a marvelous candidate for president one of them would make.

Collusive 'Fairness'

In the end, everything relates to people.

We have talked much and long about government. And most of us think of government as a device filled with law and motion, cooking up great schemes to aid the downtrodden, in the process of which culinary operation great oppression and tyranny is brewed. Yet, government, minus people, is nothing.

Government, like everything else is the people in its agencies and bureaus who think the thoughts, and dream the dreams, and pass the laws, and enforce the laws, and harass the non-government people and even the government people.

The entire legal machinery, from the hundreds of law books to the massive edifices and the gigantic "programs," is nothing in the world but people... people who are, in the main, never better than others, tho not infrequently it appears that from a moral standpoint they are worse.

We believe it is important that we think of government as people, not to delude ourselves into imagining that if we had "good" people doing the evil things government must do, that we would suddenly have a "good" government, but because we should not imagine that government is some mystical agency which has a life of its own able to function entirely free of the human element.

There is already too much emphasis in our time leading the unthinking to believe that environment controls them. Actually, they control themselves individually. But government, as a mystic agency, a superstition, is imagined to control human beings in much the same way ancient pagan gods and goddesses of stone controlled the Greeks and Romans of another time. But this is not true; hence the importance of realizing the human-ness of government, even as we sense its inhuman proclivities.

It is possible, we suppose, to imagine that government can sometime be made good. This is as possible for the mind as to imagine a rope reaching from the planet earth to the moon. But our ability to imagine is one thing... our ability to create an engineering impossibility, something else again. Government is people. But it is more than this, for it is people who imagine that they, or right people, must have power over other people.

It is, then, people with an obsession. It is people who fancy themselves justified in massive intrusion against all other people, simply because of the mystic impart of "government" as a device which can and will exercise what some have called a "sovereign will."

Here is where the real problem is seen and about the only place we can come to grips with it. For virtually ALL government actions, tho not intended so to be, are collusive in character. Government, being people, finds itself aligned in

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — Last St. Patrick's Day, as raw, cold and blustering as day as ever drove a man into the solace of a pub, I clanked my way through a clutch of Hibernians in Downey's in order to have some Irish coffee with a blonde Wisconsin girl who was sparking up the night time of New York as a pony-tailed fibbert in a show called "The Balcony." Her name, honest to gosh, was and is Salome Jens.

During this pleasant afternoon in a deep booth safe from the surging waves of the Irish seeking restoratives, Miss Jens confided to me that her love, for the stage was not only pure but could not be diluted. Movies, she said, meant nothing to her. If she never made a movie it would be all right with her. I left there ready to fly flags in her cause. Here was a young actress earning only $45 a week (base pay off-Broadway) who was willing to spurn Hollywood's dangled riches. Exactly 48 hours later she was on her way to Hollywood to make a movie.

Believe an actress and you'll believe anything.

Nonetheless, I felt no rancor or disillusionment. For one thing, Salome is too beautiful to allow for base thoughts like disillusionment and acid doubt. I bided my time and the weeks rolled by. Nine of them. Then, one night at a work of art called "The Grand Kabuki Players From Japan" an evening so steeped in tradition and incomprehensibilities that authors had to wear little transistor radios in their ears to get a move-by-move translation from a scholar hidden backstage, I saw Salome. She was in the lobby, as radiant as its brightest light bulb and obviously looking forward with relish to the evening of puzzlement. The man with her out-weighted me by 15 pounds and had 20 years on me in the age department, so I did not chide her for toying with truth.

Walking down Broadway the other sun-down was another story. She was alone and I had her cornered.

"Now, what was all that malarkey you gave me about the hated movies?" I demanded.

"Well, this job came along, a picture called 'Angel Baby,' and they gave me the title role and the price was right. I still say that movies are all right, but I'm glad to get back to the stage. On the level, I am."

"My Hollywood spies have reported that you are destined to be a new screen sensation, and I'm traveling, too," I said. "Now what about that?"

"I could have made another picture," she said. "Right then and there. I didn't. I chose to come back to $45 a week off-Broadway. Doesn't that clean me up a little?"

"A little. What was this 'Angel Baby' epic?"

"I play a teen-age evangelist," she said without the trace of a smile. "I loved it because I play the entire role barefooted. As I told you in March, I don't wear shoes except when I have to. In my apartment I go around barefooted all the time. Naturally, the role was a temptation I could not avoid."

"I think your movie people have fumbled their marbles," I said. "There is a vogue for teen-age titles. You know, 'I Was a Teen-Age Dracula.' 'I was a Teen-Age Bank President.' 'I was a Teen-Age Addict.' Why don't they call your picture 'I Was a Teen-Age Evangelist?' It's a natural."

"It's an idea," she said non-committally.

"About your being a sensation that will burst upon the movie world and all that jazz," I said. "do you plan to go back out there and earn yourself a swimming pool like any upstanding American girl with an ounce of the ravenous in her veins, or are you going to pig it out all year at $45 a week in an off-Broadway piano case?"

"I'll stick with the piano case and the $45," she said. "I do mean it. But, then..."

Maybe she's waiting for another barefoot role.

favor of, or opposed to, other people outside of government.

Government CANNOT be "fair" to all. Indeed, there is grim irony in the recognition that a year of sadness is that year in which the government decides to be "fair" to you.

In their efforts to treat all persons fairly, the people in government come up against the natural fact that all persons are unlike in an individualistic sense, and further, that their desires are different, variable, unstable and frequently opposed. Government, to be fair in fact, would have to do nothing. The moment it begins to act trying to be fair to some, it automatically becomes unfair to others.

And since government is people, and society outside of government is people, too, we end up with collusion in which people with some imagined power over their fellows will strive to "benefit" others. When this happens, others will pay. At rare intervals it seems that governments will strive to benefit all. Under such universal effort, all suffer.

People in government are not evil men and women. But they are men and women. Each has his own ambitions, his own set of values, his own abilities, his own friends. Whatever else the politician may be, he is fundamentally a human being. As such, power in his hands is never safe. He will use it. He will use it to be "fair" to those he knows and likes and understands.

But this will cause widespread dissatisfaction elsewhere and a great deal of "unfairness" in areas other than those understood by that particular politician.

However you look at it, government is people. However you want it to be, government is people acting collusively to help some. Others will always suffer when government is relied upon for any reason whatsoever.

DODD PROMISES TO RAISE QUESTIONS IN SENATE OVER MISSING RED PRISONERS DEMOCRATIC PLANK

LOS ANGELES — There is a piece of straggle unfinished business of the Democratic Convention that is going to be aired on the floor of the Senate when it reconvenes August 8.

Sen. Thomas Dodd, Conn., a member of the platform committee, has served notice on party leaders that he will raise the case of a mysteriously lost plank dealing with Americans imprisoned in Red China and Russia.

As drafted by Dodd and unanimously approved by the Platform Committee, this plank declared: "We will continue to make every effort to effect the release of American civilians and servicemen now unjustly imprisoned in Red China and elsewhere in the Communist empire."

Exactly how and why this plank vanished from the printed version of the platform is baffling. Dodd is still as much in the dark on that as when it happened several days ago.

All his backstage efforts to get at the bottom of this curious affair have been thwarted by retiring National Chairman Paul Butler.

That is another odd aspect of this bewildering matter that is outraging Dodd.

"The convention may not have been rigged," said Dodd bitterly to Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minn., "but Butler sure mishandled it."

"That seems to be the general feeling," agreed Humphrey. "It's astonishing how many people have complaints and grievances against him. It almost seems as if he went out of his way to antagonize and be provocative."

"Yes," added Dodd, "and this is also certain. He is one ex-National Chairman who will never be missed."

Furious over the mysterious deletion of his plank, Senator Dodd sought to reach Representative Chester Bowles, Conn., for an explanation. Dodd was told Bowles was "unavailable" because he was then on the rostrum presenting the platform to the convention.

Aides of Bowles advised Dodd to take up the matter with Butler, as he had handled the printing of the platform. Dodd called him immediately.

"What happened to my plank on our prisoners behind the Iron Curtain," he demanded. "Why isn't it in the printed platform? Who cut it out and on what grounds?"

"There must be some mistake," replied Butler.

"I'll say there is," snorted Dodd. "A big mistake, and I want it corrected."

"It's too late," announced Butler. "The platform is before the Convention, and nothing can be done about this."

"I'm a fully accredited delegate," declared Dodd, "and I am going to offer my plank as an amendment from the floor. You agreed to that."

Retorted Dodd, "But nothing was said about leaving adopted planks out of the platform. My plank was unanimously approved by the full committee, and I cannot understand why it was not included in the printed platform."

"You cannot get the floor for this purpose," snapped Butler.

"It's too late to do anything about this, and that is all there is to it."

But Dodd vehemently does not see it that way.

"There is something I can do about this," he told Senator Humphrey, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. "When the Senate reconvenes, I am going to take the floor and blast Butler for his inexcusable bungling on this matter."

Dodd is a member of the Senate Internal Security Committee, which is planning to study the Administration's efforts to liberate Americans imprisoned by the Reds. The committee contemplates a series of hearings on this.

DON'T KNOW FRIENDS

GATWICK, England (UPI) — Three monkeys which escaped from a shipment from India just don't know who their friends are.

For the second straight day Sunday they ignored all efforts to coax them down from the rafters of a Gatwick air freight shed — and even snubbed members of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD T. HYMAN

You've probably heard the expression "dying of improvements" and maybe it has puzzled you as it used to puzzle me. Perhaps its meaning will become clearer to you if I tell you how I came to see the light.

My instructor was a middle-aged leader of her local society. Her children had married and gone their separate ways. Her husband had prospered. Now, like the lilies of the field, she neither spun nor toiled.

On arising each morning, she took her multivitamin and appetite-killing pills. These were followed by a "healthy" breakfast that consisted of mixed vegetable juices, black coffee with a sugar substitute, and seaweed biscuits spread with blackstrap molasses.

After she'd weeded her doctor's nurse into sneaking her in an empty room so she could get her "glad shot" without delay, she hastened to the podiatrist to see if her bunions couldn't be done to her bunions that, in her own words, "were killing her."

Faint from her morning activities, she stopped in for a "bite of lunch" and chose the "low calorie special" of juice, lean hamburger, water-cress and a gelatin dessert.

Fearing that service might be slow, she ordered a cocktail from which she removed the olive because of her fat-free diet.

Absent-mindedly she buttered and ate a few rolls that happened to be on the table before she realized what she was doing.

After luncheon, she visited her psychiatrist who was "working with her" in an attempt to explain why she continued to feel so miserable despite diet, drugs, gland shots, vitamins and health foods.

Just as they were getting to the point of deciding whether her persistent symptoms were due to the children's neglect or her husband's lack of sympathy and understanding, the scheduled hour came to an end.

Before leaving the psychiatrist's office, she took a tranquilizer to calm her nerves while she had a permanent and a manicure.

Noting her restlessness, the beautician urged her to have a container of coffee and some pastry. After some hesitation, she agreed and, not being able to choose which piece of pastry had greatest appeal, she ate two and a portion of a third.

She slipped and a red returned home to find her husband buried in his newspaper. Acting on the suggestion of her psychiatrist, she began a discussion of her ailments and complaints.

When she saw that he was less than attentive, she retreated to the kitchen and prepared the evening meal that was eaten amidst silence.

By the time the kitchen was cleared the master of the house was comfortably seated before the TV screen for the ball game.

Remarking that he "seemed more interested in that stupid game than his own wife," she retreated to the bedroom.

There she fussed with her hair, rubbed face and neck with anti-wrinkle cream, put on hair net, clean strap and eye shadow, inserted wax balls in her ear canals and swallowed her sleeping pills preparatory to the nightly struggle with insomnia.

When she awakened in the morning, her husband had already left for work. She gulped down her multivitamin, pep-up and appetite-killing pills and was about to tackle the seaweed biscuits and blackstrap molasses when the phone rang.

In response to an inquiry about her state of health, she replied, "she was more dead than alive."

And that, dear readers, is how I discovered you can die of improvements.

World 'Whipping Boy' Title Carried By U.S.

By HENRY McLEMORE

It's beginning to look as if Job's record for patience, like the records in the high jump, discus throw, and the mile run, is about to be broken.

Job's mark has stood for ages, but it seems likely to go any day now.

The challenger: Uncle Sam.

This star-spangled fellow once was known as someone you couldn't push too far or shove around too much. He wasn't mean-tempered in his youth, and didn't go around flying off the trigger, but when he did decide that enough was enough, he said so. And he meant it.

So quit turning his cheek, tucked it under his shoulder for protection and put up his fists.

The people who knew Uncle Sam in those days would hardly recognize him today. He is so level-headed under insults, threats and cuffs that some believe "flat" would be a happier choice of words than "level."

As leader and main hope of the Free World, he acts as if this position carried with it the title of Universal Whipping Boy, and none other.

He is blamed — and accepts it without complaint — for almost every unpleasant happening in the world. If there is a tree blight in the subcontinent, Uncle Sam takes the rap for not having sent tree surgeons and insecticide.

If rioters get out of hand ten thousand miles away, it is due to something Uncle Sam has done, or didn't do.

Uncle Sam sits down at a table — when he is allowed to — with folks who have promised to bury him alive, blow him up, and generally obliterate him.

Scarcely a day passes that he is not cursed, reviled, blackmailed, threatened, and lambasted from somewhere over the horizon.

His goods are seized, his children

Nixon, Like Roosevelt, Is A Fighting Word

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — None can say when the name Richard M. Nixon became fighting words.

Smile, stranger, when you call me that. But fighting words they are among Democrats generally and especially among the left wing of American politics.

This mild-mannered young Quaker with a quick shy smile became in the span of a few years the most controversial figure in public life. It will be 14 years next November since Nixon first was elected to the House of Representatives. It will be 10 years in November since he was elected to the Senate. It will be eight years in that month since he was elected vice president on the Republican ticket headed by World War II hero Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nixon came out of the war a lieutenant commander. He's been called a young man in a hurry, and worse. You almost could say that Nixon has put to severe test a statement by an earlier vice president. That was Indian's Tom Marshall, 1913-21.

"No one," said Marshall, "would ever take the trouble to shoot a vice president." The breed of enemies Nixon makes doesn't shoot people, however strong the urge. Speaker Sam Rayburn gets red-faced like a lobster at the mention of Nixon's name and, often, is unable to find words adequate to his feelings. Former President Truman once balked at revisiting the Senate chamber until assured that the vice president was elsewhere. Truman refuses, also, to co-star anywhere with President Eisenhower.

But it is Nixon for whom the political opposition reserve their best anger. There's some anti-Nixon sentiment in the Republican Party, but no much. Not a single vote was cast in 1956 against Nixon's renomination for vice president. Those who dislike Nixon assert with great confidence that the independent voters don't like him either. Who, what and where these independent voters are and who is qualified to speak for them is a matter of some debate. The 1960 election should illuminate such matters. Win or lose, Nixon stands to make his enemies like him unless this year than last. What burns the Democrats is his campaign speeches, and of course their failure so far to lick him. In that first campaign for the Househoulder.

Nixon got his pick into a political gold mine. The time was the first week of August, 1948. The occasion was the appearance of Alger Hiss before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Nixon was among the few in that hearing room who doubted Hiss' testimony that he was no Communist and never had heard of a man named Whittaker Chambers. That doubt made Nixon a national figure.

To say that to doubt Hiss at that time was unpopular puts it too mildly. Doubting Hiss bordered on slander or libel. It offended good manners, like dirty fingernails. The nation's eggheads leaped as though bee-stung to Hiss' defense and so did millions of others.

Truman took a hip shot at the situation. Mr. T said the Hiss hubbalooboo was just a Republican red herring in a political year. He said it twice. Eighteen months and two trials later, the impeccable Hiss had been convicted of perjury for denying activities which had the color of treason. After Chambers, Nixon was most responsible for putting Hiss in prison.

Nixon is accused of maligning the leaders of the Democratic Party. He campaigns hard on the issue that the Truman and Roosevelt administrations were soft on Communism.

The vice president is a tough man in a fight. Eisenhower admires and respects Nixon. He should illuminate such matters. Win or lose, Nixon stands to make his enemies like him unless this year than last. What burns the Democrats is his campaign speeches, and of course their failure so far to lick him. ## Quotes In The News

By United Press International
HYANNISPORT, Mass. — Mrs. Jacqueline (Jackie) Kennedy, asked whether this resort town would become the "summer White House" if her husband, Sen. John F. Kennedy, were elected president:

"I really don't know. All I can say is that Newport, R.I., was my home before I was married, but now my home is here."

CHICAGO—Republican National Chairman Sen. Thruston B. Morton, (Ky.) stating that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is welcome to make a fight for the Republican presidential nomination at next week's convention:

"This will be a free and open convention and Gov. Rockefeller or any other candidate is free to do what he wants."

1946 — Nixon made a solid bid for the left wing blacklist. He beat Rep. Jerry Voorhis, an able veteran who also was a 100 per cent New Dealer.

In 1950, Nixon compounded the felony by defeating another sweetheart of the left. Her name was Helen Gahagan Douglas who was serving with Nixon in the House when both decided to run for the Senate from California.

From the foreign editor's notebook:

Old and New Wounds: Outgoing Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi would like to make a personal "holiday" visit to the United States this year after he resigns his office and after he recuperates from an assassin's attempt on his life.

However, Kishi's aides say he is "very anxious" about the reception he would receive in the United States as result of the forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

Inside Politics:

Although Kishi stepped out, he still will wield considerable influence inside the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party and the government. Insiders say there is no chance for Kishi himself to make a comeback as premier but he will be able to help Finance Minister Eisaku Sato make a bid for it when the time is ripe. Meanwhile, no real change in Japanese foreign policy is expected when International Trade and Industry Minister Hayato Ikeda takes over the reins of government from Kishi. Ikeda is expected to dissolve parliament in October or November and call for new elections. This is believed the only way to refute socialist claims that the Kishi government rammed the controversial Japan-U.S. Security Treaty down the throats of the Japanese people against their wishes.

Behind Diplomatic Scenes: The French are reported acting through diplomatic channels and behind the scenes at the United Nations to oppose the sending of Belgian troops to the Belgian Congo. They fear Egyptian anti-French propaganda in Equatorial Africa.

"Peanut" Hearing Aid Worn Entirely In The Ear

A tiny hearing aid that fits entirely in the ear complete with volume control has just been introduced. It is especially good for those who do not want to wear a hearing aid all the time. When in groups, in church or in theaters, just slip it into your ear and you hear. When not needed, carry it in your watch pocket. For further information about the amazing peanut hearing aid come to the monthly hearing aid service at the Hotel Adams in Pampa, Texas, on Wednesday, July 20, 1960, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.
