Lumumba Knock At Dag To U.N.

Katanga Prime Source Of Blast

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was flying back from Africa today to lay before the Security Council a direct attack on Lumumba's growing agitation with the failure of his central government to gain control over Katanga Province.

He accused the secretary general of "connivance" with the Katanga government of President Joseph Kasavubu, "violating" Security Council resolutions, "ignoring" the Congo central government and withholding African troops from Katanga until after a Lumumba denunciation.

Lumumba finally declared the people and the government of the Congo have lost their confidence in Hammarskjold.

Hammarskjold retorted that these were "unfounded allegations" and "challenged the mercurial Lumumba to meet him personally in the Security Council. He promptly left for U. N. headquarters without waiting for a Congo delegation to accompany him.

He was due to arrive tonight and a council meeting was expected to be called for Wednesday or Thursday.

For several weeks Soviet and Chinese Communist propaganda organs have been fanning the embers of dispute between Hammarskjold and Lumumba with personal attacks on the secretary general, on Under Secretary Ralph Bunche and on Tshombe.

Hammarskjold personally led 240 Swedish U.N. soldiers into Katanga last Friday to begin the takeover from Belgian troops. Monday, as previously planned, the United Nations started airlifting African and white troops from Leopoldville to reinforce the Swedes.

Nevertheless, Lumumba accused Hammarskjold of "maneuvers in sending to Katanga only troops from Sweden — a country which is known by public opinion to have special affinities with the Belgian royal family."

Princess Astrid, the mother of King Baudouin I, was Swedish.

He demanded that native African troops be sent into the secessionist province along with his own Congolese forces. He also requested the Security Council to send a 14-member Afro-Asian team of observers to the Congo.

BAD OLD DAYS — It looks like twenty years ago in Nazi Germany as Hermann Goering and Josef Goebbels talk together in Hamburg. Hitler's henchmen are played by Werner Bistrum, left, and Will Krause for the new American film, "Trial by Treason." Bistrum is a local hotel receptionist picked for the part because of his remarkable resemblance to Goering.

Cloudy, Cooler After Flooding

By United Press International

Widely scattered showers, mostly cloudy skies and cool temperatures were on the Texas weather menu today following Monday's flash flooding at San Antonio and Fort Worth.

The floods, set off by a northward moving squall area which dumped more than five inches of rain at San Antonio and then four inches at Fort Worth, closed streets in both cities.

At San Antonio, flood waters got into some suburban stores. At both cities the water left motorists stranded in and on their stalled automobiles.

Rev. Feit Gives Up

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The Rev. John F. Feit, 27, a priest named in Edinburg, Tex., on a charge of trying to rape a coed, surrendered to Sheriff Owen Kilday today and said he is innocent.

Feit posted $10,000 bond. He said he had taken 32 lie detector tests and been questioned 14 hours at one stretch by Texas Rangers and would not submit to further questions or lie detector tests.

A grand jury has indicted Feit on a charge of trying to rape Maria Guerra, 20, a Pan American College student, last March in Sacred Heart Church in Edinburg.

He was also questioned about the killing and rape April 16 of Irene Garza, a school teacher and beauty contest winner. The body of Miss Garza was later found in a canal.

United Fund Announces Budget, Plans For 1960

The board of directors of the Pampa - Lefors United Fund adopted a $68,746 budget for the coming campaign, it was announced today.

The budget and admissions committee recommended the amount, which the board approved. This is a raise of about 7.5 per cent over last year requested to meet the needs of the seven member agencies. Last year's budget was $63,900. Tentative date for the kick-off luncheon for the campaign is Sept. 30. This will be held in conjunction with the weekly Kiwanis Club meeting.

A general outline for the campaign presented by campaign chairman, Melvin Munn, and assistant chairman, Aubrey Steele, was also approved.

Training conferences for volunteer workers will be conducted prior to the campaign, and report sessions will be held throughout the fund raising period.

The board also considered petitions from state and national groups to be included in the fund, but it decided not to add any more agencies for this campaign.

Zone Violation Bars Renewal

City commissioners today refused renewal of a health permit for the Lamar Dining Room, 1100 W. McCullough St., noting the business is in a residential-zoned area and is in violation of city ordinance 184.

C. L. Reeves, who has had the dining room at the location for a number of years, was told to go before the zoning commission for possible rezoning.

This was a part of the lengthy session that was continuing at press time.

Other action saw Frank Rapstein, developer of the Ideal Homes Addition, seeking refund totaling $13,935.12 from the on use of special sewer and water lines which the commission suggested he use in preliminary talks on the development.

The commission earlier had told Rapstein that the city would pay the difference in regular and oversized sewer and water lines, and Commissioner Hershel Wilks made a motion for approval. Here, though, negotiations hit a snag when Ed Vicens, city secretary, told the commission that there was no fund established for this and "You just can't up and pay it," without authorized funds.

This problem will be discussed further at a meeting tomorrow morning.

Balloonist Sets Record

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (UPI) — Capt. Joseph Kittinger today set a world record for manned balloon flight and a new parachute jumping mark by leaving his open gondola at 102,200 feet above earth. He fell in an open drop for four minutes, 38 seconds, opened his chute at 17,500 feet and reached ground safely in the elapsed time of 13 minutes and 8 seconds.

Holloman AFB spokesmen said Kittinger was in good condition. He left the ground at 5:30 a.m. (mst) and at 7:10 broke the previous manned balloon altitude record of 102,000 feet set by Col. David G. Simons two years ago here.

Kittinger by far surpassed his own previous record set Nov. 16, 1959 when he jumped 74,700 feet and won the Distinguished Flying Cross for that feat.

Today's leap was the first of a series in project excelsior to explore problems during stabilized free fall from extremely high altitudes.

Kittinger wore a pressurized suit with plastic face mask warmed by batteries, to provide clear vision and prevent "frosting up" in the 100-degrees-below temperatures of the edge of space.

Cameras Barred At Powers Trial

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today barred foreign photographers and movie cameramen from attending the espionage trial of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers which begins Wednesday.

Tickets issued to western reporters carried the words "admittance without photographic and motion picture cameras."

It was not known whether Soviet photographers also would be kept out but it is the normal rule in Moscow not to permit them in court during trials.

OAS Seeks United Front Against Reds

Herter Summoned To Special Meeting

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter was flying here today for an emergency meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers which is expected to form a united front against Russian intervention in the new world.

"I am confident that the foreign ministers, recognizing that the welfare of the hemisphere and the ideals of its peoples are gravely threatened, will face these threats and act to reaffirm the solidarity of the American republics in defense of the security and principles of the inter-American community," Herter said before boarding his plane in Washington Monday night.

The chief stumbling block in the path of swift action on the issue of Soviet intervention appeared to be the dispute between Venezuela and the Dominican Republic—the first topic the ministers will discuss when the Organization of American States (OAS) meeting opens tonight.

The United States favors moderation on the Dominican issue, designed to foster a "peaceful revolution" toward democracy in the island nation.

Venezuela has warned, however, that it will walk out of the OAS does not impose every sanction short of outright military attack on the Dominican Republic.

Venezuelan Foreign Minister Ignacio L. Arcaya declared Monday that his country will insist on a complete diplomatic and economic boycott of the Dominican Republic, which has been accused of complicity in a recent attempt to assassinate Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt.

Arcaya was closeted for some time Sunday night with Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa. The Venezuelan denied Monday that he had agreed to support Cuba in the debate on Soviet intervention in return for Cuban support on the Dominican issue.

"Such a deal would be impossible, because Cuba's name appears nowhere in the conference agenda," Arcaya said.

Although Cuba is not formally a conference topic, there was no doubt that Premier Fidel Castro's increasingly close ties with Russia and his open attempts to undermine other governments in the hemisphere would be one of the leading subjects of discussion at the meeting here.

Church Members Out Of Hiding

BENSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The members of the Full Gospel Assembly Church — living in bomb shelters since July 5 — entered their homes today.

A spokesman for the religious group—many of its members from Columbus, Ohio — told Cochise County sheriff's deputy Ray Coffey they received a message from the Lord during the night to be in their homes by 4 a.m. They were.

The men, women and children, about 100 of them, had been waiting in their underground shelters for the word. They said they originally were instructed by the Lord to enter the shelters because of an impending nuclear attack.

Missing Child Found Today; Mistreated

DALLAS (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies Monday night rescued an 11-year-old girl from the home of a man, who, she said, had kept her drugged two days and mistreated her.

The girl is Patsy Ann Bridges, who had been widely sought in the Dallas-Fort Worth area since Sunday. She left home for church Sunday and didn't come back.

When the deputies restored her to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bridges, early today, she flung herself into her mother's arms and sobbed: "He tried to kill me."

Doctors at Parkland Hospital examined her and confirmed that she had been mistreated. Sheriff Bill Decker said his men confiscated part of a bottle of barbiturates the man had been giving the girl.

"We plan to file charges against him today," Decker said.

The girl and her parents live at Haltom City, a town adjoining Fort Worth. Authorities, since her disappearance, had organized a widespread search for her, fearing she had been killed.

An anonymous telephone caller told Fort Worth authorities Monday night that she was in a Dallas residence.

They asked Decker to check and he sent deputies Joe Pierce and Joe Rayburn, who found her sleeping on a couch and the man in a bedroom.

Off To Wobbly Start

Independence For Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — The strategic Mediterranean island, of Cyprus stumbled off to a wobbly start at independence today in bloodshed and a cabinet crisis.

Terrorists, striking in the first minutes after the island officially became sovereign at midnight, shot and seriously wounded the wife of a police sergeant who is a member of the Turkish-speaking minority.

At the same time the new president, Archbishop Makarios, came to his inauguration lacking a foreign minister after his old friend, Nicos Kranidiotis, rejected that post in a surprising last-minute reversal.

A crowd of 20,000 persons gathered outside the House of Representatives to hear former British Gov. Sir Hugh Foot proclaim an end to 82 years of colonial rule.

Makarios followed with an appeal for "close cooperation" among various political factions. Queen Elizabeth II met the occasion with a message of "warmest good wishes."

Independence had been slated for the island earlier this year but was held up during negotiations for the continuance of British military bases.

Self-determination was granted only after four years of bloody guerrilla fighting by EOKA nationalist forces. The war and accompanying terrorist activity between Greek and Turkish-speaking islanders resulted in almost 2,000 killed and wounded since 1955.

Explosion Kills Four In Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — The failure of safety devices on a large gas oven was blamed today for an explosion at the Rheem Manufacturing Co. that killed four men and caused $500,000 damage.

Three of the men died Monday and the fourth man died in a hospital today. He was Phillip Camardo, who was burned over 90 per cent of his body.

Five others injured in the explosion remained hospitalized, two of them in critical condition.

Investigator D. A. Whigham said a statement by Rheem's chief electrician led him to believe that a malfunction was a cause of the explosion.

"Too much gas entered the oven and perhaps spread through out the plant," Whigham said.

He blamed failure of two safety indicators for the explosion. Whigham said both the thermocouple, which measures the amount of gas entering the oven, and a heat indicator were out of order.

A piece by piece reconstruction of the 150-foot oven was planned to determine exact cause of the explosion.

Officers Press Investigation Of Safe Jobs

Investigation continued today in two recent safe-breakings in Gray County, and Sheriff Rufe Jordan said his department and Texas Ranger Bill Henslee have pressed interrogation in both cases.

First of the well executed "jobs" was pulled early Saturday morning. The second early Monday morning.

The Cola-Cola plant office, just outside Pampa city limits, was paid the first visit. In this one the burglars totaled $1,347 in cash, checks and charge slips. The Monday morning entry netted the burglars about $4,000 in cash and checks.

Tools used in the break-in at Cola-Cola and five money bags are among clues the sheriff and Ranger have to go on. Tires tracks are among the slim clues found in the burglary at McLean of Puckett's Food Store.

In this one, the tire tracks led Sheriff Jordan, Ranger Henslee and Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard "all over McLean" until they were lost on a concrete street.

Hastily established road blocks on highways 273, 66 and 70, leading out of McLean failed to produce results.

"We are going forward with these investigations," said the sheriff. "We are looking into every clue, every angle."

Survey Needs Of Age Contradicts Politicos

SAN FRANCISCO (SpI) — Nine of every ten older persons report they have no unfulfilled medical needs, and the remainder list lack of money as one of the least important reasons for failure to relieve the needs.

This revealing picture of the aged, upsetting many conventional stereotypes, was part of a wide-ranging report made here Thursday at the Fifth Congress of the International Association of Gerontology by an Emory University sociologist.

Dr. James W. Wiggins, co-director of a national survey focusing on the "normal" person 65 years and over, was assisted by 15 highly qualified research associates, most of whom are college professors of sociology or psychology.

Of the older persons contacted, 90 per cent said they enjoyed good or fair health; 68 per cent said they could pay for a medical emergency costing at least $1,000 out of their own means. Wiggins concluded that most older persons can cope with a large medical bill by conventional or personal means.

The economic picture of older persons can cope with a large medical bill by conventional or personal means.

The economic picture of older persons presented by Wiggins' study is encouraging. Half of his respondents reported incomes in excess of $2,000 a year, and one out of twenty reported more than $10,000. More persons received $2,000 - $3,000 cash income than any other income bracket. Most of the aged reported a net worth in excess of $10,000.

Eighty per cent of the respondents were members of a church. Two-thirds were in retired status, although a number in this category were still gainfully employed. Sixty per cent did not think a new department in the federal government could do something for them than it had been for their aged parents.

Wiggins explained much of what has been reported about the health and welfare of older persons is based upon inaccurate data derived from the experience of a generation ago or from studies of the hospitalized or chronically dependent.

The study, Wiggins reported, "shows that the aging, like others in our population, are not characteristically dependent, inadequate, ill or senile."

He concluded: "Since all resources are limited, whether of family, kin, private or public agencies, the recognition that the dependent and helpless in our aging population are limited in number, will allow available resources to be applied with discrimination, with far greater hope of return to the society and to its people."

BRIGHTENS UP HOME
BANSTEAD, England (UPI)—A man's home is his castle, and businessman Albert Clark, 60, figures a man should be able to cover it with any kind of roof he likes. Clark said today he would appeal a town council order that he must put up a new roof because the present one is offensive. "Turquoise, royal blue, green, black, brown and ginger glazed tiles may not suit everyone," his wife said, "but we think it brightens up the place."

Cecil Jackson Awarded Church Scholarship

Cecil Jackson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Jackson, 532 Elm Street, today was named recipient of a college scholarship offered by the First Christian Church.

Jackson, a recent graduate of Carver High School, and presently employed by Furr Food Stores, was elated.

"It's an honor to receive the scholarship. Now I will have to work hard to prove I deserve it," the youth said.

This marks the first time in several years the church has given a scholarship for a deserving Negro pupil. However, the selection committee, aided in its selection of Jackson by Knox Kinard, superintendent of Pampa Public Schools, and Carver School officials, feel Jackson has proved his deserving the schooling aid which will be in the form of tuition and books.

Jackson plans to work part time for additional needed funds.

He has not decided where he will attend school. He first had a visit yesterday to Frank Phillips of Berger, may bring a change of plans.

He plans to take a pre-med course, and, since the Berger institution has a well-rated course in this and that tuition there is cheaper, he may attend the nearby school.

Selection of Jackson was announced by the Rev. Richard W. Crews, pastor, and Wally L. Gibson, minister of Christian education, of the church.

The selection committee was composed of Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Wright, Mrs. DeLea Vicars, Mrs. Ivy Duncan, Miss Pearl Spaug and John Woods.

Johnson Sets Task For Senate On Bill

By HALE MONTGOMERY
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson put the Senate on a 10-hour work-day today in an effort to sidetrack political feuding on side issues and start voting on a series of amendments to the minimum wage bill.

Johnson told reporters he could request that the Senate meet daily at 10 a.m. and stay in session until 10 p.m. He said also there would be a Saturday session this week.

Johnson declined to predict when the Senate might dispose of the minimum wage legislation which is a key Democratic bill in the pre-election session. He expressed hope the $4 billion foreign aid appropriation bill could be brought up next at the end of this week.

The minimum wage bill faced rough legislative weather.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and other opponents were prepared to call up a host of amendments designed to trim the scope of the bill, sponsored by Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy.

Action on the minimum wage has been sidetracked while the Senate engaged in political squabbling over civil rights, medical aid to the aged and almost any other issue calculated to win political advantage in a presidential election year.

The Kennedy bill calls for a gradual increase in the minimum wage for about 23 million workers now covered under the wage-hour act from the present $1 an hour to $1.25.

In addition, it would extend coverage to approximately five million new workers—the bulk of them in retail enterprises, such as chain grocery, variety and department stores.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen disclosed he was prepared to offer a substitute proposal to trim the bill to $1.15 an hour and limit coverage to about 1.4 million new workers. This would bring the measure in line with the administration position.

Goldwater told newsmen he would withdraw all but three of the some 30 amendments he was prepared to offer if the Senate adopted the Dirksen substitute.

The determined GOP opposition, supported by conservative Southern Democrats who want to trim the scope of the Kennedy bill, indicated that final action on the measure might be delayed for a few days.

Glum Report To President On Requests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican congressional leaders gave President Eisenhower a glum report today on prospects for enactment of the legislative program he sent the reconvened session of Congress.

They told him Democratic leaders apparently intend to "jettison" many of the President's legislative requests including his calls for action in farm, distressed areas and housing fields.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) and House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.), reported this to newsmen after a two-and-one-half hour session with the President.

They presented these other highlights of the White House legislative session:

A limited medical care bill for needy aged persons, as approved by the Senate Finance Committee, is one the administration could live with. It is similar to a plan previously approved by the House which also was pronounced reasonably acceptable to the President.

The President has no intention of paring down his 21-point legislative program to include only a few "must" bills. He stands on the whole program, and to the extent this is possible Dirksen will offer, as amendments to other bills, each of the President's legislative requests.

Administration forces, after an initial trial that failed last week, probably will drop their effort to push additional civil rights legislation through Congress at the current bob-tailed session. They are "rather content" that the record now shows that Democrats blocked their move to bring up the measure.

2,200 Attend Last Night Of Pampa Revival

About 2,200 were on hand at Harvesters Stadium Sunday for the final service of the Pampa revival. The revival was sponsored by the youth of the 14 participating churches.

The revival began Aug. 8 and the first six services were held at the First Methodist Church with an average of 350 in attendance.

The Rev. Lewis Stuckey Jr., pastor of the Methodist Church in St. Jo, was evangelist, and James Bateman, Presbyterian ministerial student from Plainview directed music.

Bateman was taken ill Thursday and Joe Whitten, minister of music of the First Baptist Church took his place for the remaining services.

Lone Star Steel Plans 2,000 Layoff

DALLAS (UPI)—Lone Star Steel Co. announced Monday night about 2,000 workers at its Daingerfield, Tex., plant will be laid off starting Aug. 26 because of an oversupply of materials in inventory.

"How long the reduced operation will last is problematical," E. B. Germany, company president, said.

"Our inventory has built up to a point where we can supply customers without any more production. We are cutting out about 2,000 of our 4,500 employees until we move our inventory down some.

"The men all understand. They won't be off long. All steel companies have done the same thing. The layoff is normal in the steel business."

Germany said the blast furnaces and coke ovens will continue operations on a reduced basis, but the open hearth furnaces and the giant rolling mill will be closed down entirely, along with the ore mines and ore plant.

"The cutback simply follows a trend of the steel industry which began several months ago," Germany said. "While most of the mills were reducing production, we maintained operations in order to build up our inventories and to keep our employees on the job as long as possible. Now we are in excellent position to meet all customer requirements of stock."

Celebrities For Nixon Panel Formed

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon's campaign organization today unveiled a new "celebrities for Nixon" committee aimed at corraling political support in the entertainment world and allied fields.

Actress Helen Hayes and Hollywood producer Mervyn Leroy were named co-chairmen, with George Murphy, former movie actor, as honorary chairman and Jules Alberti of New York, as executive director. Miss Hayes headed a similar organization for President Eisenhower in 1956.

Nixon's campaign director, Robert Finch, said the "celebrities" would work under the "Volunteers Committee members will concentrate on Broadway and Hollywood and seek support in the all elements and fringes of show business.

Charter members of the celebrities group included John Wayne, Irene Dunne, Freeman (Andy) Gosden (of Amos 'n Andy), Katherine Cornell, Walter Pidgeon, Jinx Falkenberg, Barney Balaban, Faith Baldwin, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, Mary Pickford, Dick Powell, Louise Beavers, William L. White, Cobina Wright, Edward D. Stone, Elizabeth Arden, Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, Dina Merrill, Eleanor Steber, Ward Bond, Jeannette MacDonald, Gene Raymond, Gordon McRae, Sheila McRae, and baseball star Ted Williams.

Nixon began today's schedule with the regular weekly meeting of Republican legislative leaders and President Eisenhower at the White House.

He planned to pose later for photographs with leaders of the "celebrities" committee and with Dr. Frederick Obley, GOP congressional candidate from the 23rd Pennsylvania District. The vice president will make

Lemnitzer Is Pick To Head Joint Chiefs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Early Senate approval was forecast today for President Eisenhower's appointment of Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee predicted the current pre-election session would act on the nomination "unless some very substantial opposition arises."

Eisenhower Monday sent to the Senate the nomination of the 60-year-old Lemnitzer, who has forged a distinguished Army career as both a military commander and negotiator.

Lemnitzer was named to a two-year term to succeed Air Force Gen. Nathan B. Twining, who is retiring presumably because of illness.

Eisenhower's choice of Lemnitzer came as no surprise. Lemnitzer had been expected eventually to succeed Twining ever since he became Army vice chief of staff in 1957.

The new chairman of the Joint Chiefs is a native of Honesdale in northeastern Pennsylvania. Although no retirement date was set for the 62-year-old Twining, he was expected to step down in a few weeks. Twining in little

The Lemnitzer appointment could signal a widespread shakeup in the military high command as the Eisenhower administration nears the end of its last term.

Speculation on a successor to Lemnitzer as Army chief of staff centered on Gen. George H. Decker, now vice chief. Also prominently mentioned is Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, Army research and development chief.

Another possible shift involved two Air Force generals—Thomas D. White, now chief of staff commander in Europe. There are unofficial reports that Norstad may retire this year and be succeeded by White.

Capsule Entry Puts U.S. Close To Space Feat

By JOSEPH D. HUTNYAN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force said today its historic recovery of the Discoverer XIII capsule brought the United States "considerably closer" to its goal of rocketing manned vehicles into space.

Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever told a news conference the Air Force planned to follow up its achievement by trying to launch and recover a similar object with a chimpanzee aboard, possibly within a month.

Schriever, head of the Air Force Air Research and Development Command, said there would be a 50-50 chance of recovery of similar capsules in future tests.

The 85-pound, silver-coated capsule was fished out of the Pacific last week about 300 miles north west of Hawaii by a Navy helicopter. It had orbited the earth 17 times in the Discoverer satellite.

Schriever termed the feat "a significant milestone in the space race."

"The techniques of recovery plus the life specimens will bring us definitely closer to success in the man-in-space program," he said.

He also said the capsule, first man-made object recovered from an orbiting satellite, also provided important data recorded by its instruments.

The capsule itself weighed 85 pounds. Its retro-rocket and equipment for keeping it afloat and guiding searchers weighed 215 pounds. So the total weight of the package brought back from space was 300 pounds.

Schriever said the Air Force has been preparing a "small chimpanzee" as a passenger on one of the future shots in the Discoverer series.

He said the "chimp shot" prob-

Two men stand waist-deep in the stuff in Armeo's mine in Montcoal, W. Va. ably would follow one more non-life shot which is scheduled in about one week. Schriever said the Air Force planned two shots per month if conditions permit.

The Air Force research chief emphasized that recovery was "still a real tough problem," but said that he felt the present success would lead to a higher rate of recovery.

As far as investigators could tell today, the gigantic explosion that ripped through the big plant where giant baking ovens were located was caused by an accumulation of gas, touched off probably by a pilot light.

For a time, it was feared more of the 90 workmen at the Rheem Manufacturing Co. had been killed as steel girders twisted and fell, mingling with their tons of corrugated metal that was once the roof and walls of the building where the lacquer ovens were housed.

Eight men were injured. Company officials said probably what saved more lives and injuries was that the explosion happened during the noon hour Monday, when many of the men were eating lunch.

Killed were George Green, 43; Raymond Mobley, 37, and Floyd Jacob McKnight, 55. For Phillip Comardo, who was badly burned in the blast, it was his second brush with death. In 1952 he caught his arm in a machine and it was amputated at the elbow.

Mrs. Pearl Hennessy was working in the office next door to the ovens. "All four walls blew out," she said. "The roof still held (for a few minutes), then it collapsed. It shook our building like an earthquake."

The Rheem plant here is one of 21 in the United States. It makes water heaters. Peter J. Dedeo, plant superintendent, denied that the company was under a secret contract to the government.

He said the last secret work was some three years ago.

Dedeo was in the cafeteria when the explosion occurred. He said he ran to the office where women were working.

"I pulled one girl from under a table where she had been thrown by the blast, and found another girl pinned against the wall."

Tank Speeds Up Wrecking Job

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Abdo S. Allen, a wrecking contractor, is a man who believes in really enjoying his work.

Allen signed a contract for $64,000 to clear a 12-block site in West Oakland. He invested $2,000 in a World War II Sherman tank—and sped through the area, leaving trails of destruction.

The clouds of dust and debris drew a crowd, including civic dignitaries willing to help Allen at his task without pay. But Allen just kept smashing away, having too much fun to relinquish the controls of the tank to anyone.

General Pershing Day Set Aside Sept. 13

The Congress on June 1 approved a joint resolution calling for the celebration of John J. Pershing Centennial Day, the 100th anniversary of the great World War I General's birth. A Presidential proclamation has established September 13 as the day to honor this distinguished war hero.

As the man who led the United States into freedom's first world-wide military conflict with the forces of totalitarianism and dictatorship, General Pershing was a leader of the two million man force which helped bring victory for the Allied cause. He holds honors from 15 different foreign nations, and during a 66-year military career he became one of America's greatest advocates of democracy all over the world.

The example which General Pershing set is perhaps more instructive today than it was a generation ago. Once again the free world seeks men of his determination and dedication to principle, and once again the free world seeks leadership sufficiently dynamic to overcome all the forces of evil which run rampant.

General Pershing was born in the state of Missouri just after the guns at Fort Sumpter announced the beginning of Civil War. He graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1886 and was assigned to three different Army posts in New Mexico where he participated in campaigns against the Sioux Indians until the early 1890's.

Then he returned to West Point for a brief tour as Assistant Instructor of Tactics and in 1898 General Pershing began a long series of military assignments which took him to many of the spots which are troublesome every today: Cuba, Japan, and Eastern Europe. Altogether, he saw duty in virtually every corner of the globe.

But his greatest hour came with the American Expeditionary Force which began to sail for France in 1917 to "make the world safe for democracy." President Wilson told him to "keep always in mind the underlying idea that his forces in France 'are a separate and distinct component of the combined forces, the identity of which must be preserved.'" The remark made by him upon landing in France has become famous. "Lafayette, by General Pershing is a great one."

we are here," was uttered in grateful remembrance of the French Commander's valiant service to the struggling American colonists in the Revolutionary war.

Throughout the long and difficult months of warfare in France, General Pershing worked closely with the chief commander, French Marshal Foch, and when the victory was won over the Kaiser's generals in the famous railway car in Compiegne, the American soldiers and their commander had as much a part of the victory as any other. A grateful nation showered him with honor after honor. Universities from Oxford in England to Arizona in the United States awarded him degrees. The Congress passed a resolution thanking him "for his highly distinguished services as commander-in-chief . . . and . . . for . . . devotion and heroic valor throughout the war."

After the war, General Pershing continued to serve the nation. He took charge of many commissions, and was President Roosevelt's representative to the 1937 coronation of King George VI. He died on July 25, 1948 in special quarters where he had lived some years in the Walter Reed Hospital. His body lay in state at the Capitol for 24 hours and was finally laid to rest in the Arlington National Cemetery.

The legacy handed to all of us by General Pershing is a great one.

and as the nation honors him next month we will do well to recall and attempt to duplicate his loyalty and support of the nation. The General's 100th birthday on September 13 will be still another demonstration that the need for his characteristics does not fade with the years.

Visitors to the Nation's Capital from the 18th Congressional District last week were Alfred Dziuk from Hereford; Dan Archer of Perryton; and Mayor and Mrs. Sol Blonstein from Shamrock, along with their son, Mark Blonstein and Miss Judy Mundy.

How Whistle On Scattered Sports Gear
Make Attractive Covers For Equipment

Close-up shows how applique satin-stitched to fabric. Excess material is then cut away.

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Women who have instilled in their families such a sense of order that they never trip over mounds of soggy bathing suits, nor find tennis rackets on the dining table should be sharing their secrets with the rest of us.

The jumble of sports equipment around our house on a summer weekend makes me realize what an incompetent athletic director I am. Balls are hiding under the edge. Bicycles stretch out on the lawn. Croquet wickets, still in the grass, are booby traps for the unready. Only the tether ball is in its proper place, firmly anchored and upper to its pole.

Our back yard is not large, but is being designated by the neighborhood youngsters and our own community playground here a succession of athletic events take place.

Perhaps it's time to blow the whistle! Assign places for storage of sports equipment and penalize the forgetful, advises a housewife friend of mine.

She impounds any equipment she must pick up, for periods ranging from one day to a week. This is an impressive penalty for a dedicated baseball player whose glove and bat are temporarily in stock.

For most of us, it isn't practical to store all sports stuff in one place. Individual equipment might better be stored separately from group equipment; some items may be stored indoors, some outdoors in a garage or locker. A bicycle rack, which I'll have to make or try to pick up from school secondhand, is first on my list for bringing some order into our surroundings.

Where questions of ownership are apt to arise (who owns the all-weather mitt, tackle box, racket) I can heartily recommend marking the item with name or initials with a felt-tipped marker in indelible ink.

Hang-up storage is space-saving and proper for many items. Badminton and tennis rackets should be covered and hung up. Pegboard and hooks can supply the background OR, screw hooks of the proper size in a strip of wood in garage or utility room. Golf bags, fishing rods, riding crops and beach bags are some of the things which can be hung or racked up on hooks.

If you have a daughter who is loathe to share her equipment, she might prefer storing hers in her room. In this case, gay covers for badminton or tennis rackets could be made at home in sturdy sailcloth in colors to brighten her room as well as the courts.

Covers are easily made. Draw the outline of the racket head on brown paper and extend pattern two inches below the rounded part. Using pattern as guide, cut front and back sections allowing 1/2" seam.

If you like, applique a motif on the front (small racket and button ball). Add a covered cord loop two inches up from the bottom on each side into which cording will be threaded to wrap and tie the cover. Cording in a contrasting color to outline the racket shape, can be inserted when front and back sections are sewed together. Add loops at the cover top for hanging.

Made-at-home or inexpensive ready-made beach bags can be dressed up considerably with jaunty appliques. Many modern sewing machines make applique work a breeze. If you do not understand this procedure, your local sewing center experts can explain it in jig-time.

A simple triangular-shaped beach bag, in red and white sailcloth, simulates a boat shape but it gains in dash with the addition of an applique navy blue anchor and a white satin-stitched rope.

Tentative Plans
Made For Show
Of African Violets

African Violet Society met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. V. N. Osborn for a program of colored slides, provided by National African Violet Society, on disease, insects and propagation of African Violets.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Lee Moore, the secretary's report was given by Mrs. Norman Walberg. Discussion was held relative to an African Violet Show tentatively planned for March or April of 1961.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mrs. K. W. Bunch was welcomed as a new member. Attending were: Mmes. Holly Gray, Norman Walberg, P. V. Rowe, J. E. Carlson, K. W. Bunch, R. F. Dirksen, Lee Moore, Clay Coston, Thelma Bray.

RUTH MILLETT
A husband seldom gets bored with a wife who...

Occasionally does something entirely unexpected, the kind of thing that makes him say, "I didn't know you were interested in such-and-such." (The person who surprises us now and then rarely bores us.)

Doesn't let him spend his life sitting in front of a TV set. (Some men think they are bored with marriage when they are just bored with a steady diet of TV.)

Finds friends that her husband enjoys as much as she does, instead of limiting their social activities to a small group of people who bore him. (When a husband bores every time his wife mentions that "the crowd" is getting together again, a wife ought to look out.)

Stays as feminine as she was the day he married her. (A man can never quite figure out a truly feminine woman and so finds her eternally intriguing.)

Experiments with new hair-dos, new fashions, new trends in make-up and so on so that today she doesn't look just like she did five years ago except for being five years older.

Is willing to share her husband's masculine spirit of adventure, instead of trying to make him as satisfied with home and hearth as she is.

Has a cheerful, optimistic attitude toward living—instead of being fearful and always expecting the worst.

Has some vital interests of her own that don't conflict with their mutual interests.

Sees to it that she is a wife he can be proud of.

Never falls into the habit of thinking anything the children want is more important than what the head of the house wants.

Never tries to get her way by nagging, since there are many more subtle and effective methods of selling a husband on an idea.

Time to consider dark or transition cottons. They're tuning up in the stores in luscious shades of grape, plum, dark green and deep red in both prints and plain.

Veterans - Wives Have Social Meet
Veterans of World War I, Pampa Barracks 1952 and its Auxiliary met Friday evening in VFW Hall for a covered dish supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Beard, delegates to the recent state convention of WWI veterans held in Abilene, reported on legislature and other important matters discussed at the convention. Among the interesting speakers were Sen. Ralph Yarborough; VWWI National Commander Charles McCarthy; National Chief of Staff J. L. Taylor and the national president of the Ladies Auxiliary, Mrs. Olive Morton of Indianapolis, Ind.

Dear Abby...
As The Twig Is Bent
So Grows The Tree
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Tell me if this is just a stage my daughter is going through or what? She just graduated from high school and plans to go to college in September.

She leaves her clothes wherever she takes them off and doesn't make her bed unless I yell about it. Asking her in a normal tone gets me nowhere. I must raise my voice and shout three or four times. She calls this nagging. She never volunteers to help with a thing. When she was younger I didn't mind picking up after her, but at her age am I wrong to ask her to pick up after herself?

NAGGING MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Mothers who "do not mind" picking up after their children when they are young, should not complain if they have to pick up after them when they are older. Close the door to your daughter's room and let her wade around in the mess until she finds it so hopelessly inconvenient she will tidy it up herself. It won't improve the looks of her room, but it will do wonders for your blood pressure.

DEAR ABBY: This is going to be hard to believe, but it's a fact, I love a wonderful guy and he loves me. We want to get married but he says the thought of the needle for the blood test makes him weak in the knees. He is 23 and I am 21. Is there any state where you don't need a blood test to get married? He said he'd drive a thousand miles.

WANTS TO GET MARRIED
DEAR WANTS: There's Nevada in the west, Maryland in the east,

Minnesota in the north and South Carolina in the south. It shouldn't be difficult to sew him up without a needle.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how to start this letter but I know if I don't look for help with my problem, my marriage will be ruined pretty soon. I have been married for four years and I have a two-year-old child. I feel so ashamed and guilty about married love that I don't know what to do. There are many questions I would like to know the answers to but I am ashamed to ask my doctor and I can't talk to my mother or friends about anything so intimate. Please, Abby, can you recommend a good frank book about what is right and what is wrong in married love? I only went through Eighth grade.

TEARS
DEAR TEARS: Send me your name and address and I will recommend three or four excellent books on this subject. I admire your uncommonly intelligent approach to a very common problem.

DEAR ABBY: That dog fight you had in your column recently brings to mind a wonderful quote by Mark Twain. "If you pick up a hungry dog and feed him, he will not bite you. That is the principal difference between man and dog." Respectfully submitted by—
A DOG LOVER

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

For Food Or Medals?

Soviets Are Hungry

ROME (UPI)—Foreign observers viewing Russian Olympians for the first time are at a loss to say whether the Soviet stars have a bigger appetite for food or gold medals.

It was pretty much a tie Monday when the Russians consumed four cases of soft drinks and immense helpings of spaghetti before predicting that they'll take the lion's share of the gold medals, too.

"I have been reading some of the predictions in the American press," said trainer Arsenel Sokolov of the Soviet modern pentathlon squad. "And I can say that I agreed with them."

The Russians, who won 37 gold medals to 32 for the United States in the 1956 games at Melbourne, Australia, may win as many as 49 in this Olympiad. The United States is figured for between 30 and 36.

"I won't predict the exact number of medals," said boxing trainer Sergei Sherbakov, "but we are all here to win."

The Russians won the pre-Olympic eating contest hands down as far as Italian chef Oreste Quattroni was concerned.

"They really stowed it away," he said in amazement. "I thought I was ready for them but I wasn't."

More than 140 Russians checked in Monday while United States arrivals, including the wrestling, canoeing, and cycling squads—brought U.S. representation to 170.

The Americans already here were hesitant to make predictions even though U.S. track stars are generally conceded to form the strongest track and field team in history. Gordon Hall of Los Angeles, a member of the U.S. water polo team, said "We ought to get in the first four" after a 6-0 scrimmage victory over Japan, but there was no bravado visible in U.S. quarters yet.

Clarke Funeral Set Tomorrow

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Fred C. Clarke, one of baseball's greatest outfielders and the oldest member of the Hall of Fame, will be buried Wednesday in his hometown of Winfield, Kansas.

Clarke, who died Sunday in a Winfield hospital at the age of 87, spent 22 years in the major leagues and retired with a lifetime batting average of .315.

In later years Clarke often remarked, "I set one record that's never been beaten. I was in baseball 22 years and I was never released."

Clarke appeared in 2,204 major league games, collected 2,703 hits, and at one time batted safely in 31 consecutive games. That was in 1895 with Louisville, when he had a batting average of .354.

But the feat Clarke remembered most was a 1909 World Series game when he hit two home runs and received four bases on balls to help Pittsburgh beat Ty Cobb and the Detroit Tigers, four games to three. In addition to his heroics on the field, Clarke also was the winning manager.

He was known as baseball's first "boy manager," being named skipper of Louisville when he was 24. And when Louisville owner Barney Dreyfuss bought the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1900 he named Clarke manager—merging the best players of the two teams.

He served 16 years as manager of the Pirates, winning four championships and finishing second five times.

In recent years he often laughed at ball players at astronomical salaries. "I received $3,600 a year as Pittsburgh manager and top salary for a major league ball player in my day was about $2,400," he would chuckle.

Sugar Ray Set To Try Fullmer

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson, reinstated by the Maryland Athletic Commission and other organizations, is able today to sign for an NBA middleweight title fight with champion Gene Fullmer at Los Angeles, Oct. 8.

The Maryland commission lifted Sugar Ray's indefinite suspension at a Baltimore hearing Monday night after the former middleweight and welterweight champion had apologized profusely for failing to show up for a postponed Baltimore fight last May.

At Hagerstown, Ind. Arch Hindman—executive secretary of the National Boxing Association—said the Maryland reinstatement automatically lifts the NBA suspension.

And at Los Angeles, Clayton Frye—secretary of the California commission—said the Maryland action cleared the way for any fight Sugar Ray wanted in California, although California is not a member of the NBA.

A spokesman for the New York State Commission said his organization is expected to reinstate 39-year-old Robinson as soon as it receives official notification of Maryland's action. New York is not an NBA member but it has a working agreement with California.

Promoter George Parnassus of Los Angeles expressed delight at Robinson's reinstatement and said he would stage the Oct. 8 fight with champion Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, at the new Los Angeles Sports Arena or at Wrigley Field.

He added, "Of course, I haven't signed them yet."

BAREFOOT BOY—Running in his bare feet, Bruce Tulloh negotiated at White City Stadium in London the fifth fastest three miles ever run, a new British record of 13 minutes, 17.2 seconds. He is one of the routers to beat in the 5,000 meters in the Olympic Games in Rome.

Sports Briefs

The Pittsburgh Pirates today signed veteran relief pitcher Clem Labine in an effort to strengthen their pitching staff for the National League stretch drive.

Labine, 34, started the season with the Dodgers, but wasn't effective. He was picked up by Detroit, but given a release last week.

Merlin Priddy, a promising fullback from Texas Christian University, was placed on the reserve list by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League today.

Priddy, who has been sidelined for two weeks with a back injury, took the team to accept a job in Texas.

The defending champion Circle F. Polo Club of Dallas beat Milwaukee, 8-6, in the opening round of the national 29-goal tournament at Milwaukee last night.

The Dallas team's next match will be with Detroit Thursday night.

MICKEY MANTLE... Back in Casey's Fold

Orioles Provide Biggest Shock

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A ball club picked to wind up in the second division and a player who almost chucked it all and went to Japan figure today to be the major surprises of the baseball season.

Whether they win it all in the American League or finish somewhere among the also-rans, you have to hand it to them for the run they've made.

Meaning, of course, the Baltimore Orioles and first baseman Jim Gentile.

There will be snorts of indignation from the baseball buffs in such ecstatic villages as Pittsburgh and St. Louis, who will figure that their teams have done and will do all right. And aggravated voices will demand just due for such as Roger Maris, Ted Williams, Ernie Broglio, Ed Roebuck and Ron Hansen.

But I gotta go with Gentile and the Orioles.

In the pre-season poll taken among us "experts" it was quite obvious that Baltimore didn't have a chance to be within shouting distance of the top this late. They could finish fifth—or even give up the game and go back to pro football.

But those birds are singing just as sweetly as they did in the days of John McGraw, Wilbert Robinson and Wee Willie Keeler. Hansen, a slick fielding shortstop, has been helping with an unexpectedly robust bat. But the big stick is Gentile, who hit 139 in previous years at Brooklyn and Los Angeles and swatted a meager 288 last season at St. Paul. Right now he's romping along past the .310 mark and is more than halfway through his second dozen homers. Make a case for the Pirates as a team they're going to find awfully tough to catch. But don't say it comes as a complete surprise. They were rated a pennant possibility and even the "experts" admitted that if they didn't do it this year they could not be held off longer than 1961.

The Cardinals have, of course, been a welcome bunch of eyebrow raisers in St. Louis and by compass. Solly Hemus has done a magnificent job and yet their run at the National League's upper echelon hasn't been as dramatic, or so completely surprising, as the Baltimore dash.

Individually, Ernie Broglio of the Cardinals rates a few yaves as a surprise, too. He was only 7-12 last season after seven years of wandering in the minors. His 14-6 mark for the Cards makes him one of the biggest things to hit Missouri since Jesse James.

Roebuck wasn't even on the Dodger roster in the spring, so don't sell his 8-3 record short, either. And in any list of major surprises you have to mention in a loud voice the name of Maris. He admittedly was a fine player and yet his home run average for three years in the majors was only 19 per season. Thus his 35 round trippers are slightly short of sensation.

But for a real surprise, take Gentile. The Orioles only took him south last spring on a conditional basis. He had to make it in 30 days or go back to St. Paul. Big Jim's choice was Japan, where he had decided to venture in search of easier yen. But Paul Ricards told him flatly that he was the Oriole first baseman period.

It's the story of a double-header which looks like the major surprise of the baseball season as far as this corner is concerned.

Wakefield (No Relation) Given Bonus

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Bonus baby Bill Wakefield, 19, of Prairie Village, Kan., was richer by a reported $35,000 today and the St. Louis Cardinals' organization, by a fire balling right-handed hurler.

Wakefield signed a contract with the Redbirds and will report to Tulsa of the Texas League, it was announced.

The 170-pound, six-foot fast baller was sought by all 16 major league clubs, a Cardinal spokesman said. The righthander finished his freshman year at Stanford University and is a veteran of two seasons of Ban Johnson League baseball.

He averaged 15 strikeouts per game in 1959 and pitched two consecutive no-hitters this season. The only other pitcher to notch a no-hitter in Kansas City area Ban Johnson play was Ray Sadecki, now with the Cardinals.

Everything's jake between Mickey and Casey again. All it took to patch things up was a pair of two-run homers by Mickey Mantle.

Those blows beat the Orioles, 4-3, Monday night, put the Yankees back in first place and enabled Mantle to saunter out of Casey Stengel's dog house looking like a blue ribbon winner.

Richards Says In Series Annual Olympics Needed

Third of a series by the two-time gold medal pole vaulter parson detailing Olympic Heights and the coming Games.

By REV. BOB RICHARDS
As told to Murray Olderman

NEW YORK (NEA)—The Olympic Games, said Baron Pierre de Coubertin when he revived the classic rivalry of old Greece in 1896, tend to bring mankind together in union and in harmony with the qualities that guide mankind to perfection.

In 1952 in Helsinki, at a time of severe world tension, the Russians were isolated in their own compounds. But at the pole vault pit, when a Russian cleared the bar, I said, "Khorosho (Good)."

When I made it, they clapped. "Booteeful."

Soon, despite official edicts, they visited in our rooms and were in theirs. When I won my first gold medal there, a Russian vaulter impulsively threw his arms around me.

I have to think that the Olympics are a factor for peace. I feel, in fact, that they break down enough barriers so that they ought to be held every year. You ask about the cost? The money is peanuts compared to the international good will it creates.

There would be more warm Harold Connolly-Olga Fikotova stories. Harold is a husky New England Irishman who throws the hammer. Olga is a statuesque Czech who flings the discus. They met on the practice field in Melbourne in 1956. Harold would have to wait, irked, while Olga finished practicing.

The other competitors got to calling them Mickey and Minnie Mouse because the Disney cartoon short was the only one that rang a bell behind the Iron Curtain. When Olga won her event, Harold wined: "Congratulations, Minnie Mouse—signed Mickey Mouse."

When Harold won the hammer throw, he received a telegram: "Congratulations, Mickey Mouse—signed-Minnie Mouse."

After the Olympics, we were in Sydney for a track meet when

Slaughtering Act Puts Supporters At Ease

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Hyper-sensitive animal lovers now stand a good chance of enjoying a clear conscience with each bite of steak and mutton, because 354 of the nation's 530 federally inspected meat packing houses now employ painless butchers.

This bright spot in the generally dismal future of most farm animals is the result of the Federal Humane Slaughtering Act which became law July 1. It must be obeyed by all packers who want to sell meat to the federal government.

The enthusiastic public support for humane slaughter legislation is almost unmatched in U.S. history. From the day Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) introduced the bill in 1955 until its passage two years ago, senators and representatives were swamped with thousands of letters and telegrams urging adoption.

Hundreds of supporters visited Capitol Hill to buttonhole congressmen. Newspaper editorials heralded the bill. Humane society representatives and members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs plugged it throughout the country.

States also began drawing up their own humane slaughter laws to include packers who do not sell to Uncle Sam. Since 1958 state regulations have gone into effect in Washington, California, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. About 25 others are considering similar laws.

Both the federal and new state laws require that animals be "painlessly rendered unconscious" before being shackled and hoisted for slaughter. Livestock are bled to death to get a wholesome meat product. Removal of blood lessens the opportunity for bacterial growth.

Before the federal bill's passage the only animals that were knocked out before killing were cattle. Packing house workers struck them on the head with a hammer, a hit-or-miss method.

Now livestock must be knocked out by one of four methods — carbon dioxide gas, electrical shock, mechanical stunners or rifle bullets. The bullets must be fired so that they stun the animals but do not cause instant death.

Mechanical stunners are hand-operated devices which contain a sliding bolt. A powder charge or compressed air drives the bolt against an animal's head.

The methods were recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Humane Society Advisory Group composed of packing house representatives, livestock growers, veterinarians, trade union and humane society members. They were approved by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

It's estimated that installation of new slaughtering equipment has cost packers about five million dollars.

Wall Street In Review

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Corporations listed on the New York Stock Exchange continued to pay common dividends at a record pace in the first half of 1960 despite the overall decline in stock prices and earnings, according to figures released today by the Exchange Magazine.

Cash dividends on Big Board common stocks hit a mid-year peak for the 18th year in a row, reaching $4,804,019,630, or 7.9 per cent above the $4,453,663,610 paid on the same issues in the first half of 1959.

All but four of the exchange's 25 industrial groups showed an increase in common payments this year over last year. And five industries alone — utilities, petroleum and natural gas, chemicals, automotive and machinery — accounted for 61 per cent of all the first half disbursements, it was pointed out.

Utilities were by far the biggest dividend payers, dishing out $1,022,311,070 in common dividends during the six-month period, up 10 per cent from a year ago.

Real estate stocks posted the largest increase in payments on a percentage basis, 41-per cent, followed by textile firms, up 36.1 per cent, and financial companies, up 24.5 per cent.

Ship building and operating companies paced the four groups paying smaller amounts this year, registering a decline of 30.4 per cent. This was in sharp contrast with a 42.5 per cent increase by these same firms in 1959 over the first half of 1958, the exchange noted.

Aircraft company dividend payments were down 18 per cent from last year, office equipments down 4.2 per cent and mining firms off 0.6 per cent.

The report also showed that 495 firms paid more in dividends this year than last, 404 paid the same, and only 61 distributed less.

Only three industrial groups had perfect dividend records in the first six months. All 13 rubber companies, 14 tobacco firms and 14 service companies paid one or more cash dividends.

The magazine also reported that despite the stock market's "soggy" performance on average during the first half, a total of 20 listed firms split their stock in a ratio of 2-for-1 or better.

This brought the half-year total to 43, a fairly sizeable amount, but well below the 51 issues split in the same period last year. The exchange pointed out that 1959 set an all-time record of 94 splits.

Two Pilots Begin 'Trip To Moon'

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Two Air Force pilots were on their way today in a simulated 17-day round trip to the moon.

Capt. William D. Habluetzel, 36, Ingleside, Tex., and 1st Lt. John W. Hargreaves of Castle Air Force Base, Calif., entered a space cabin at the School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks AFB Monday afternoon.

If the two officers stay in the cabin 14 days, they will break a simulated space trip record set in February by two enlisted men.

The experiment is one of a series conducted by the school to determine the effects of space travel on the human body, and to prepare equipment for man's flight into space.

The cabin has an incinerator to dispose of body wastes and equipment to check the men's blood pressure and pulse each 90 minutes. And for the first time, the cabin is equipped with a new liquid purification plant so that the water supply can be reused over and over again.

Cuba's Problems One For All American Nations To Handle

By DONALD MAY United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Cuba is a problem for all Latin American nations to handle," a U.S. diplomat said recently. "Let's get away from thinking of 'Cuba versus the United States.'"

At the meeting of the foreign ministers of 21 American hemisphere nations in San Jose, Costa Rica, this week, the United States hopes to get a long-sought chance to apply this philosophy.

The meeting, which Secretary of State Christian A. Herter will attend, was called by Peru to consider "threats" to "democratic principles" in the hemisphere. It will follow a foreign ministers session beginning Tuesday to discuss the Dominican Republic.

The State Department many months ago made the decision that too-strong measures against Cuba by the United States itself would only inflame Latin American opinion and add to Soviet propaganda throughout the world.

Through discreet diplomatic channels, it has tried to convince Latin American countries to join in collective measures to deal with Cuba's brand of pro-Communism.

The effort was mainly an uphill one. Through much of Latin America, Premier Fidel Castro's 18-month-old revolution still has strong support, especially among the poorer classes.

U.S. diplomats report that even a fair sampling of Latin American landowners would side with Cuba or be reluctantly neutral on an issue of "Cuba versus the United States."

But Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's July 9 threat to rain rockets on the United States if this country should intervene in Cuba and Cuba's recent trade pacts with Russia have begun to awaken Latin American concern.

Fear of Communism as a forced from abroad has begun to replace the traditional Latin American view of Communism as a purely local matter.

The foreign ministers' meeting is expected to warn the Kremlin to stay out of Western Hemisphere affairs.

But U.S. officials see little indication that the meeting will directly condemn Castro in anything like strong terms or take any joint economic or political measures against him.

In preparation for the meeting, the State Department a week ago filed with the Inter-American Peace Committee of the Organization of American States a 78-page memorandum accusing Cuba of trying to export its revolution and to upset hemisphere economics all "in open league" with Russia and Communist China.

The document charged that the Cuban Communist Party is the only party functioning there, that newspapers, radio stations and labor unions have been placed under state control and that Castro is amassing an army five times bigger than that of Dictator Fulgencio Batista whom he overthrew.

Meanwhile, Cuba has charged the United States in the United Nations Security Council with "economic aggression" in cutting its sugar quota.

Last July the council voted to recess the case indefinitely until the OAS could deal with it. One U.S. strategy at the Costa Rica meeting will be, with Latin American backing, to refer the whole matter of Cuba to a future OAS meeting.

Sears Shows New Look In Fashion

An innovation in high fashion was unveiled today.

The new look in fashion is featured in Sears 1960 Fall and Winter general catalog, which now is being distributed in this area.

Mrs. Opal Stevens, store manager, said average prices in the new catalog are nearly one percent lower than those in the 1960 Spring and Summer general catalog, and are virtually unchanged from prices in the fall-winter book last year.

She said the Sears catalog, regarded as a barometer of price trends, is an indication of what consumers will pay for living necessities in the last half of 1960.

The catalog contains more than 135,000 consumer items of all types, and its prices will be in effect for the next six months.

Minimum Pay Hike Bill Due Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to hike the federal minimum wage, almost forgotten during more than a week of election-year political wrangling, today finally faced its first Senate vote test.

But the proposal to raise the $1.00 an hour wage floor to $1.25 still was far from passage. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and other foes were prepared to push dozens of amendments designed to trim the scope of the measure.

Chief sponsor of the 25 cent minimum wage raise is Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy. His bill also would extend coverage to about 5 million more workers, mostly in retail outlets such as chain grocery, variety and department stores.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., said he was ready to offer a substitute that would increase the minimum wage to $1.15 and extend coverage to only about 1.4 million new workers.

This would bring the measure in line with the administration's views and with a bill already approved by the House.

Other congressional news: Equal Time: Chairman Orin Harris, D-Ark., called members of his House Commerce Committee to an informal meeting to plan for speedy passage of a bill that would clear the way for a series of Nixon-Kennedy television debates. The measure would suspend for the 1960 presidential campaign the law requiring broadcasters to grant equal air time to all candidates for an office. Waiver of this rule would bar minor presidential candidates from demanding TV time to match the Nixon-Kennedy "great debate."

House: Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, single-handedly forced the House to hold an unscheduled session. He was irked by the announcement from Democratic leaders that no legislative business would be transacted in the first week of the House's post-convention session which opened Monday. Gross forced the House to meet today, instead of adjourning until Thursday as leaders had planned, and he served notice he would block any efforts to skip sessions this week.

Distressed Areas: Rep. Kenneth J. Gray, D-Ill., said he would ask Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential candidate, and Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, to state their stand on aid to areas of chronic economic distress. He said he would ask the candidates whether they favored the administration's $180 million loan-grant proposal, and if not, what program they did back. Gray was one of the sponsors of a $250 million distressed areas bill that President Eisenhower vetoed.

Lodge Could Be In Last U.N. Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge goes before the 12-nation disarmament commission today in what is expected to be his last major job at the United Nations.

The Soviet bloc refused to say in advance whether it would attend the controversial session, starting at 3 p.m.

The United States had asked the commission to convene in order to discuss the repercussions of the angry Communist walkout at the 10-nation disarmament talks in Geneva.

Russia wanted the issue reserved for discussion by the General Assembly next month, when Premier Nikita Khrushchev has hinted he may fly to New York to argue the Soviet case personally.

Russian spokesmen charged the U.S. request was aimed merely at putting Lodge in the political limelight before he resigns to campaign for the vice presidency on the Republican ticket.

However, the request for the session was made before Lodge was nominated.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Value Line Investment Survey said Monday that it at last sees an upturn in the domestic petroleum industry, but that the international oils still face some tough problems.

The survey said it looks for favorable earnings comparisons for the integrated domestics in the year ahead and probably for some time to come.

The internationals at best, however, face a leveling off of non-U.S. earnings which currently comprise 30-35 per cent of their total net income.

'Mass' Demonstration

Those who are fearful of communist subversion and infiltration have a marvelous way of making certain that they do not in any way contribute to the communist aim or objective. They can become individualists and refuse utterly to go along with the massive movements of our time.

We are thinking at the moment of the fact that in many of our universities and colleges, students of questionable intellect, emotionally overwrought or actually firebrands of the left in a professional or semi-professional status, love to stimulate "rallies" at which all kinds of red propaganda can be disseminated.

The wise student, learning of these mass affairs, has a simple recourse. He can stay home and do his homework. Thus, he will improve both the moment and the mind and let the raging red reactionaries rant to their air.

What is this almost fatal fascination so many experience respecting a crowd?

Let a small group gather anywhere for any reason and others quickly join. It is almost as if we admit publicly that we have nothing to do, nothing on our minds, and when we see someone who does seem to have something to do, we are so curious that we must stop to observe the phenomenon.

The communist and the socialist, we point out, are entirely helpless without this mass assembly fact. Communism or socialism would never take hold anywhere if people would continue to go about their duties, minding their own business and refusing to get drawn into multitudes, clubs, organizations, rallies, parties and what have you.

The socialist psychology is geared to the masses. We never yet have seen a socialist who would waste his time trying to infiltrate an individual. Factually, it can't be done. The individual could be impressed, perhaps, by socialist argument, he could never be controlled unwillingly by mere argument.

It is within the mobs, within the organized or non-organized rallies and conventions and gatherings that the subverters find it easy to work. Propaganda-wise, the entire socialist hegemony is dependent upon mass psychology. Let the individual keep free of these affairs and the socialist will quickly be defeated.

We've noted that recently there have been a number of student "demonstrations" in different countries aimed at fomenting discord, creating rebellion, otherwise destroying things thru both harangue and violence. But if the only persons who gathered together were the reds, they would soon tire of their exercise and go home. A mass of reds seeking to awaken an emotional frenzy inside no one but other reds, would be a pretty self-defeating proposition.

We are not trying to suggest that people should not be free to meet together in assembly if they should. Freedom of assembly is basic.

Nonetheless, it is true that socialists and communists are skilled agitators when it comes to getting assemblies organized in such a fashion that the rights of others are "abrogated" or destroyed and collectivist ideology takes the place of both nature and reason.

It is difficult for us to understand the fascination some experience with these displays of temper, noise and stupidity. And the activities of both major political parties in convention give us a precise reason for shunning this type of thing.

We would, indeed, conclude from the evidence available that nothing good has come out of either convention and that nothing good ever will come out of mass hysteria, carefully organized and channeled according to the bosses.

Nature has so ordered us that we are individuals. And while we may be interdependent, since not a one of us has enough energy to provide all of the things we must have to stay alive still it follows that the market place takes care of this combination of energies needful for survival.

Mass political effort, whether organized by the left or by the right, is an open doorway to left-of-center progression. Those who don't want to see socialism or communism take over fully in this country should question seriously the advisability of participating in any way in all mass movements, whether legal or otherwise.

Good And Bad Guys

Why wouldn't it be a good thing, we are frequently asked, for us to get a good man in office so that he could throw out the bureaucrats and reduce the size and power of government?

The question is surely a logical one. Since tossing out bureaucrats and reducing the size and power of government are all dear to our hearts, why don't we join in with the move to get a good man in office?

No superficial answer will suffice at this juncture. Ever since we were old enough to know that "bad guys" can be sent packing. But a moment's reflection will cause us to remember that the "bad guys" of 1960 (the office holders) were the "good guys" in 1956.

And so on back it goes. The men we do get into office are always the "good guys" at the moment they go in. At least, they are in the opinion of a majority who put them there.

But what about the "good guy" who would be good enough and strong enough to start tossing out bureaucrats and reducing the government's size and power? Where is he to come from? Actually, the result is desirable, we must demur against the rise of a man strong enough to accomplish the miracle. Bureaucrats are put into power by legal means. They are sustained in office by legal means. Indeed, we have Civil Service rulings which make it almost impossible to get them out of office.

To find a "good man" and give him sufficient power so that he could toss out the bureaucracy would be to establish a man in the position of dictator. He would have to be so far above the law that he would have more power than the law.

And this would also hold when it comes to reducing the power and size of government. It will undoubtedly take some kind of powerful activity to be powerful enough to reduce the size of government by the force of government. This would require a giant of a man, on the basis of his political power. For before he could start the reduction processes he would have to be more powerful than the government he would start to reduce. And this would be a dictator of such magnitude as to make Hitler or Hirohito look like pigmies.

This, as we see it, is the folly of expecting to correct the conditions in government by getting a "good man" into government. A man strong enough to correct the conditions would be stronger than the government. And such a man would be so dangerous to himself that he might with prudence consider the advisability of

Henry Scored In Beauty Contests

On a recent visit to my old hometown of Atlanta, I had the privilege of meeting Miss Sandra (Sandy) Tally—Miss Georgia of 1960, and the state's hope for the Miss America title at Atlantic City in September.

It was a pleasant meeting for me and, I hope, a helpful one for Miss Tally. I say "helpful" because in our talk, I tried to give her the benefit of my own experience in beauty contests.

To look at me now, no one—not even a cross-eyed mole wearing an eyeshade—would ever guess that I had ever had the audacity to enter a beauty contest, much less the looks to win one. But for doubters, I have the family album for proof.

In the album, badly faded but still recognizable, there are Brownie shots of me wearing the blue ribbon of the winner across the chest of my sailor suit, clutching a tiny trophy in my clubby hands, and hawling with joy after a close contest.

Back in the days of President—forget whether it was Fillmore or Pierce—I was the scourge of baby beauty contests in South Georgia. I was, so to speak, the "Man O' War" of the things. It got so, I have been told by a doting aunt, that when I entered a contest dozens of my rivals were scratched by their mothers, because they knew that once I showed up, red curls flying, first prize was a goner.

The album showed that I was a versatile competitor. I won as Little Lord Fontenoy, came in with three firsts in Fourth of July Uncle Sam contests, copped a couple of Abe Lincoln firsts on his birthday, and took more than one trophy as prettiest baby Pilgrim Father in Thanksgiving Day pageants.

I also had a near perfect record as a groom in major weddings. Many of my major triumphs were scored when I was still eating in a high chair, so my memory of them is not as bright as it might be. But I did recall enough to give Miss Georgia quite a few helpful pointers.

One was never to pinch or slap a rival, especially when the judges are looking. I did this once in a big baby show in Ty Ty, Georgia, and it cost me so many points that only a masterful rendition of "Jack Spratt" (in baby talk) saved me.

Another was to try to get a relative on the Judges' panel. My Aunt Bess, traveled with me (under an assumed name, of course) and nearly always managed to be named a judge. That her presence helped is shown by the fact that getting along with "those ills we have." Indeed, this has been the general trend of all democratic and republican governments. Without notable exception they end with the "Napoleon on the white horse," the Napoleon, the Bismarck, the Julius Caesar, who is bigger than the government he seized or overthrew to get his way.

We hear it said many times by those who recognize this danger that maybe, after all, we should simply go out of our way to find a dictator and to place such power in his hands. We are appalled and horrified at the concept and are really alarmed because of the many times we have heard it.

Apparently there are simply hundreds of Americans who have completely failed to take note of the great fight for freedom waged by our pioneer ancestors and who fail to understand the meaning of freedom from A to Z. There can be NO freedom under a despot, even when we imagine that because we have helped the despot to power—that he is "our" despot and hence will work in our own favor.

So far as we can analyze the situation we are of the opinion that the desirable reduction of government must ensue, not because we have good men in government, but because good men leave government and abandon it. We do not need good men in office. To reduce the size and power of government we need empty offices.

We would like to see a condition in which the fine, upstanding men and women who are concerned with our future realize the magnificence of the market place and turn their attention away from the allure of political action, concentrating once more upon production and upon the constructive life outside the political arena.

CASTRO MAY SEEK TREATMENT IN SWITZERLAND: SOVIET OFFERS JET TRANS-PORT, RUSSIAN CARE

WASHINGTON — Ailing Premier Fidel Castro's worried lieutenants are considering flying him to Switzerland for better medical care than he is getting in Cuba for his serious maladies.

His diseases are complicated by a severe allergy reaction from penicillin. The Kremlin wants him to come to Russia for "treatment and complete rest."

Premier Khrushchev has proposed this in a personal invitation to Castro. It was delivered by the Soviet Ambassador in Havana.

Khrushchev offered to send a Russian jet airliner for Castro, either to Cuba or anywhere else he designates, and transport him to the "best hospital and doctors we have."

Several U.S.-trained Cuba doctors, consulted by Castro, recommended a world-famous medical center in this country.

But when Raul Castro, military chief and his older brother's alter ego, and Major "Che" Guevara, hard-core Argentine leftist and economic czar, heard of this, they quickly and vehemently squelched it.

Both violently anti-U.S., they excoriated the doctors' suggestion as "counterrevolutionary." Fidel Castro is not suffering from a malignancy.

The bearded Cuban ruler does have two serious internal conditions: one lung and the other intestinal. Both are largely attributed to his disorganized dietary and other habits, plus a penchant for self-dosing.

Prior to his sickness, a witticism making the rounds of Havana was that "Fidel spends most of his time between bed and milk."

Latest inside medical word is that Castro is becoming increasingly psychotic. This is attributed to his stubborn illness, weakness and enforced inactivity, particularly in delivering frequent hours-long TV harangues, which he loves doing and misses greatly.

I never finished better than eighth in any contest in which she failed to be on the panel. A third bit of advice I gave Miss Tally was to try to go on first, or as near first as possible. It may be different when the contestants are 18 or 19, as Miss Georgia is, but to hang around backstage with a group of babies, as I used to have to do, played the devil with my rompers or whatever outfit I was wearing. Too, jealous rivals would bite me and pull my hair, and more than once I had to go to the floor with babies who outweighed, out-punched and out-yelled me.

Finally, I told Miss Georgia that while I was sure she was going to win at Atlantic City—and I think you would, too, if you could see Sandy — she should not be sweet and gracious if she is defeated.

Aunt Bess was a holy terror on the few occasions I didn't win. She wielded her tongue and her parasol with equal vigor, and several times brought about a reversal of the verdict in my favor. I can still hear a judge in Social Circle, Georgia, begging Aunt Bess to lay off with the parasol, and crying, "Give it to the red-haired brat. Anything to get that aunt of his out of town."

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK, N.Y. — He is young, lean and not notably ambitious, and he never had it so good. His success, which is extraordinary, rests on him lightly. To this day he doesn't see much difference between $50,000 a year and $75,000 a year.

"It's only money," he shrugged. We were sitting in his New York apartment, to which he had come after a jet flight from California. "After the first $10,000 it's like confetti at a football game. You either bought one bag of it or you bought two."

What he didn't say, nor I to him, is that his success is a wry commentary on our times in the area of TV and its contribution to cultivation. He is engaged in performing for commercials on TV. His friends, all fellow actors, are lucky to earn $7,000 a year performing roles, and to do that they must scrounge constantly to get jobs. He works once in two weeks for an hour or two and his checks pour in.

There is the matter for commentary and study. He had worked in one play and seven night clubs when he left New York for California. There were dozens like him available. He was an attractive youngster up there on a night club floor issuing jokes and hard, bright lines of wit. He wrote his own material, and it has to be said that it was genuinely funny.

He worked the best clubs and the best movies. He had a few of the sophisticates rather than the slobs. He put together $3,000 and said he was going west to look around.

He looks around all right—from a house that is almost entirely glass and sits atop a Hollywood mountain and faces the sea to one side and the mountains to the other and is an ornament to some architect unknown to me.

He got some radio jobs at scale, some minor TV roles and a few movie jobs. He had a tiny apartment where your elbows rub raw from hitting the walls in the narrow rooms unless you walk carefully. Then he met an agent in the street one day and the agent said: "I heard of a job you might do, but I don't know if it will make you fat."

Our boy sauntered around to the ad agency in question and they talked to him for half an hour and gave him one commercial to do. He did it in 17 minutes, brushed campus lint off his sweater, checked that stunner. He was a check that stunner. He was a check that stunner. He was a check that stunner.

"We're contemporaries," said my boy. "We're still Joe College brushing campus lint off our selves." As one hungry young man to another, level with me: how much can this gold mine yield to me, personally?

"Carry me along with you when you get important," said the agency kid, "and I'll tell you: no less than $50,000 a year and with residuals closer to $75,000. Can you stand being a sort of male Betty Furness? For that kind of loot?"

Now we sat in my living room. "It has its minor irritations," he said, "mostly in the vacuous realm of what to do with myself. I sometimes go as long as three weeks without uttering a line for them. This means that I must pass the time in checking my desk at home to see if I have stamps, looking at my loafers to see if they need new heels and checking the laundry in and out. Empty? Sure. It's empty and I'm not pushing my mind for brightness the way I used to when it was my living. I cannot work for anyone else, obviously. They don't pay that kind of money to share you. I go to work, when I work, for an hour or two, get my loot and then go back to Showcase on Hilltop. Twice, maybe three times, a year I go to a corporation convention and meet the dealers. Truth is, I'm getting like putty."

EX-CONVICT KILLED

HOUSTON (UPI) — Policeman K. G. Smalley fatally shot a Negro ex-convict Sunday when the Negro attacked him and another policeman with a butcher knife. Smalley said he shot Robert L. Hudson, 33, as the two patrolmen were investigating a rape call. Police records indicated Hudson served five years in prison for burglary.

The Marine Corps is vitally concerned in all U.S. military problems. A Junior man on the latest list of promotions to rear admiral is Captain Eugene Bennet Fluckey, 47, who was awarded the Medal of Honor for exceptional heroism as commander of the submarine USS BARB, in Chinese and Japanese waters in 1944-5. Youngest officer on the list is Captain Arthur Gaylor, 45. Average age of this promotion list to flag rank is 49½.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Next time you come across some red bone marrow, look on what you see with the greatest reverence of which you are capable.

For here, before your eyes, is a tiny factory that has out-produced the most efficient assembly line ever conceived by the human mind and constructed by human hands.

Here are some of the accomplishments of this modest tissue that lies hidden within the hollows of your bones: The manufacture of some 150 million red blood cells each minute of each hour of each day of your life. This adds up to a daily total of some 216 million millions.

The simultaneous manufacture of a mere few hundred thousand white cells. Uninterrupted adjustment of the birth and death rates of red cells (erythrocytes) so as to maintain the population of each unit volume at 4½ to 5 million.

Activation of resting yellow marrow when the operating red factories are unable to maintain the normal unit volume, as in the anemias, especially those caused by bleeding. Alteration of the size of the individual product according to body needs under existing conditions.

That is to say, output of a smaller cell when there isn't enough coloring matter (hemoglobin) or iron to fill cells of normal size. Output of a larger cell with more than the normal amount of hemoglobin when certain vital elements (vitamin B12) are in short supply.

Reconstruction of each cell after it has completed its normal life cycle of about 120 days, using all the old parts with virtually no loss of substance. You'd think that nothing short of an atomic bomb had the power to wreck an operation of this size and efficiency. But there you'd be wrong.

Difficult as it is to believe, the marrow of a hypersensitive person can be thrown all out of kilter by drugs in common use. The dangerous ones are the arsenicals, gold compounds, painkillers (pyramidon and phenylbutazone, particularly) anti-epileptics, some of the miracle antibiotics (especially the sulfas and chloromycetin) and derivatives of mustard gas now being tested in the treatment of cancer. And, of course, all forms of radioactivity.

Fortunately these tragedies are few and far between. But they do occur. And that's why your doctor insists on making frequent blood examinations when you're being treated with any potential narrow depressant. Now if you're as bright as I think you are, you're probably getting ready to ask why we doctors don't make extracts of bone marrow and use them to treat our patients who suffer from disturbances like the anemias and the leukemias.

Well, we've tried. But we've had no more success than you'd have if you thought you'd run faster and longer after dosing yourself with used engine oil. It's just not that simple.

GOV. MEYNER LOSES

TRENTON (UPI) — Gov. Robert B. Meyner's political influence did him no good at all last weekend. Meyner entered the New Jersey senior men's tennis tournament at the New Jersey Players Club in Kearny, N.J. In the first round Saturday, he was matched against Joe Cundari, a fellow Democrat and town engineer of Harrison. Meyner lost in straight sets, 9-7, 6-2.

SAVES FALLING BOY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A sanitation worker caught and saved a 2-year-old boy who tumbled from a second-story window Sunday. Farro Vitale, 38, spotted the child teetering in a window 24 feet above ground and ran beneath the boy as he fell. Vitale caught Jose Perez in his arms. The child apparently suffered only a minor bruise. Vitale was unhurt.

In 1948, baseball star Babe Ruth died in New York. Thought for today: English writer Samuel Butler said: "A virtue to be serviceable, must, like gold, be alloyed with some commoner but more durable metal."

News In Brief

EXPULSION PHOTOG. MOSCOW (UPI) — Life Magazine photographer Carl Mydans has joined the ranks of "undesirable" Americans accused of using their entry into the Soviet Union for anti-Russian activities. Mydans was charged by the Soviet trade union organ Trud with shooting "miles of film" in the Soviet Union and selecting only those shots which caricatured Russian life. Mydans was scheduled to leave today for home after replacement by Howard Sochurek, who also was castigated in the magazine Sunday.

REJECT MERGER PROPOSAL. HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Members of the Screen Actors Guild (SAG) have rejected a plan to merge with the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA).

NAMED JWV HEAD. MIAMI (UPI) — The Jewish War Veterans named I. L. Feuer, 60, of Youngstown, Ohio as national commander at the close of the group's annual convention Saturday. Feuer, director of the Mahoning County Welfare Department, will preside for one year. Ralph Plossky, 42, of White Plains, N.Y., was named national judge advocate, the JWV's second highest position.

CRASH KILLS FOUR. SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (UPI) — Four members of a Sioux Falls family were killed and eight others injured Sunday when their car ran out of control, smashed into a bridge abutment and then rolled over a 90-foot cliff.

SAVES FALLING BOY. NEW YORK (UPI) — A sanitation worker caught and saved a 2-year-old boy who tumbled from a second-story window Sunday. Farro Vitale, 38, spotted the child teetering in a window 24 feet above ground and ran beneath the boy as he fell. Vitale caught Jose Perez in his arms. The child apparently suffered only a minor bruise. Vitale was unhurt.

The Have-Not States Wish They Had Oil

By MAC SEBREE
United Press International

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—The big oil-producing states may be wondering what to do with all their oil, but the have-not states sure would like to get in on that problem.

Announcement this week that Humble Oil and Refg Co. will drill a 10,000-foot wildcat in Georgia points up the fond wish of some states to bring in a producer. Georgia is backing its wish with money.

Humble's well will be the deepest ever drilled in Georgia, which has no commercial production. But a $250,000 bonus awaits the owner of the first 100-barrel oil well in Georgia, thanks to a constitutional amendment which in 1956 won overwhelming approval in every county.

In fact, Georgia was so oil-hungry that it upped the figures on an earlier $100,000 reward offer for a 250-barrel well. So far the $250,000 goes unclaimed.

The Georgia Mineral Leasing Commission granted Humble a permit to drill seven miles north of Gardi, Wayne county. Humble figures its costs at just about $250,000, so if it does win the bounty the test will just about pay for itself.

Humble drilled a 4,000-foot test in Georgia's Echols county in 1949—a dry hole. About 93 dry holes have been drilled in the state since 1938. But Humble now has about 750,000 acres under lease in Georgia.

Thirty three of the states now have oil or gas production, the Independent Petroleum Association of America reports.

Other states have toyed with the idea of offering bonuses for successful oil wells.

A petroleum old-timer recalls that Nebraska once offered a bonus for the first producing well, which was claimed, about 1940, by the old Pawnee Production Co. of Odessa, Tex. Nebraska now has 20 per cent of its total land area productive or leased, with total value in 1959 of crude oil, natural gas liquids and natural gas standing at $74 million.

Should Humble collect that Georgia bounty, it probably would be the best investment the people of Georgia could make in a long time.

HURRICANE WATCH—The hurricane season is at hand and during the next three months the East and Gulf coasts will be vulnerable. The American Red Cross has set up a "Hurricane Watch" network from Maine to Texas. These headquarters in the cities on the above map will keep the public informed on safety steps to be taken, muster emergency crews and serve as bases for Red Cross disaster teams.

Civil Rights Group Pickets White House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A small group of Negroes and whites picketed the White House Monday in a demonstration urging passage of civil rights legislation before the national elections.

The group, backing sit-in demonstrations, picketing and lobbying as the "only methods assured of bringing a consideration of civil rights legislation in front of the White House about 8 a.m. ed.

By 9 a.m. there were 11 marchers—seven Negroes and four whites—carrying signs. A pile of signs was stacked against a tree awaiting later arrivals.

The group was scheduled to march at the Capitol later.

The organization said it would press for passage of legislation to end segregation in housing, employment, clubs, barber shops and churches.

Republicans Sunday continued to attack Senate Democrats for killing President Eisenhower's civil rights proposals last week. Democrats argued that there was not enough time to enact the proposed laws in the short session.

A practical thermometer was invented in 1592 by Galileo, Italian astronomer and physicist.
