Ribbons Go To Winners In All Events

To Overton went the blue first place ribbon for the best community booth in the Howard County Products exhibit, with Coahoma, Midway, Knott and Center Point following in that order.

The leading booth showed a profusion of fine field and garden crops, canned goods, fresh vegetables, melons and fruits. As in the case of other booths, it was erected under direction of the home demonstration club of the community. There is no community of Overton in the usual sense, but women of a wide area in the south part of the county banded together to form a home demonstration club and called it the Overton club. Thus the booth was entered under the name of Overton.

In exhibits of individual crops and items, the following winners were named, and are listed in the order of the place awarded:

Cotton—R. Bar, Overton.
Maize—Overton, Hiway.
F. sterita—Overton.
Canned Goods—Overton, Coahoma, Midway, Center Point, Knott.

In the 4-H club boys exhibit of mlio maize, Fred Phillips placed first, followed by Don Spencer, R. L. Keith, Cecil Keith and Leland Wallace.

The following winners were named in 4-H club girls' exhibits, named in order of position:

Food Production Keynote At County's Farm Exhibit

On his place everything has grown ideally and the cotton looks like three-quarters of a bale to the acre. He hasn't headed his maize yet, but his shock feed has been colored a bit by the rain.

Mrs. H. S. Hanson, president of the county home demonstration council, worked hard making a quilt to be given away at the products exhibit. Saturday when names were drawn—you guessed it, her name came up. Crops are doing fine on the Hanson farm in the Center Point area, and cotton picking will be started in a week or so. Incidentally, Mrs. Hanson is leaving in a few days for Chicago to visit her daughter.

L. C. Mathies, Knott, stood around getting a kick out of seeing the many fine things grown in Howard county. On his own farm, picking is moving along at about four to five bales a day and the first picking may be over in a week. Sandy ridges are producing better than he thought, for although the stalks are small, the plants are loaded with bolls—and bolls pay off.

Mrs. Lloyd Patterson knitted complacently while she waited to answer inquiries at the Red Cross display. It was, she said, her first attempt at knitting and she hadn't made a mistake. She was waiting for it, for you haven't really knitted until you have to unravel a bunch.

O. P. Griffin, county agent, told how a man looked over the spreader dams, terrace and contour pictures at the Soil Conservation Service display, saw all the water being impounded. "Where were these pictures taken?" he asked. Told they were shot near San Angelo, he was amazed. "I didn't know they had that much irrigation there," Griffin explained that the clouds did the irrigating.

Miss Ruth Thompson, district No. 6 home demonstration agent, inspected the exhibits Saturday before going to Martin county for a council meeting. She returned here Saturday evening to spend Sunday with Lora Farnsworth, county home demonstration agent.

On his place everything has grown ideally and the cotton looks like three-quarters of a bale to the acre. He hasn't headed his maize yet, but his shock feed has been colored a bit by the rain.

Five members of the Overton home demonstration club picked up $1,500 in extra money through sale of farm produce last year, said a sign on the club's booth. And a lot of produce stayed at home. Twelve members of the club put up 53 quarts of meat, 1,209 quarts of vegetables, 504 quarts of fruit, 200 quarts of tomatoes, 125 quarts of pickled radish, 400 glasses of jelly and jam, 308 pounds of cured meat and 1,600 pounds of lard during the past season.

The government wants higher food production and has set goals for farm people to reach in this increase during 1942. But R-Bar people, said a sign in the community booth, have already increased pork 15 percent, beef 10 percent, poultry 15 percent and gardens 50 percent during 1941.

The trend toward diversification is well along in Center Point community, which boasts that 95 percent of its farms have cows, 98 percent chickens, 75 percent gardens, and 50 percent hogs.

Among Saturday's visitors at the products show was Nolan Von Roeder of the Von Roeder farms in Borden county. He is boasting of finding 1,600 bolls of cotton in ten steps down two rows of cotton. Some cotton!

If you're wondering what that apparatus on the end of the table containing home demonstration club cooking exhibits was, it was a griet mill. Yeast, it grinds corn, wheat or what have you into flour, for the making of whole wheat or whole corn bread. And ask any doctor the value of whole grain bread.

J. A. Bishop of R-Bar was looking over the exhibits and enjoying them, because, as he said, "we may never have another year like

Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Buyers returned to the grain pits today, bidding prices up 1 to more than 3 cents while soybeans rose as much as 8 to 6 cents in a general extension of the recovery that has virtually wiped out extreme losses suffered in Thursday's break.

Wheat scored maximum gains of more than 3 cents at one stage, oats almost 2 cents, rye more than 3 cents, corn a cent, and soybeans 5 to 6 cents. This put wheat and oats within about 1 to 2 cents of the closing prices on Wednesday while corn has more than recovered all of the loss since that time.

Good demand attributed to mills and other commercial interests as well as professional traders accounted for the advance. Traders said there was slightly more optimism in grain circles regarding the Far Eastern situation and fighting in Russia as a result of overnight news reports.

Wheat closed 2-3 1-4 cents higher than yesterday, December $1.13 3-4-1/4, May $1.18 1/2-3/4-1/2 3-4-1/2 up, December 75-75 1-5, May 80 7-8; oats 3-4-1/2 3-4 up; rye 2-3 1/2 higher; soybeans 3-5 higher and lard 25-35 higher. Compared with a week ago, wheat was 3 1/2-4 7-8 lower, corn 1-8 off to 5-8 up, oats 3-4-1/2 7-8 down, rye 4-5 1-4 lower and soybeans 2 3-4 1/2 lower.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Cotton futures steadied after early uneasiness today, closing 9 to 12 points higher.

The support of trade and speculative buying and in one time peaked quotations 10 points ahead of Friday's close. Firmness in outside financial and commodity markets, coupled with an easing of tension between the United States and Japan, encouraged market dealers.

Cotton Harvest Resumes Full Speed; 14,500 Bales Ginned

Slowed in midweek by rain, the Howard county cotton harvest surged forward again as the week closed and brought total ginnings up to approximately 14,500 bales—conservatively estimated—by Saturday evening.

The five Big Spring gins had turned out 7,253 bales, and other gins in the county may be counted on to have handled at least that much more.

Rains beginning Tuesday afternoon brought picking to a standstill for more than two days, giving gins an opportunity to catch up with the pickers and clear out storage bins, but by Saturday afternoon most gins and their houses were full again. As a general rule, gins were to work Saturday night and start again at midnight Sunday, taking Sunday off.

Placement of cotton pickers in Howard and Dawson counties since the start of the season reached 5,700 Friday evening, said O. R. Hodson, local Texas State Employment Service manager. Of the number 4,543 were for Howard county and Dawson 2,207. Both county figures included some assigned to Martin county.

Crews are pouring in here constantly now, said Hodson, and although they are being held momentarily, he urged farmers to come to the concentration point on the north side to personally contact the pickers. Crews are smaller and thus more flexible for the average farm. Picker demand is still greater than the supply, he said.

Meantime, dropping cotton prices brought bad news to the farmer and started more cotton flowing through government loan channels.

Thursday the market dropped 60 to 70 points, recovering around a quarter of a cent Friday and picking up a bit more Saturday. Saturday afternoon local buyers were paying around 15.90 for cotton and $37 for seed. Seed too, has dropped in price over the past few weeks, having hit a high of $38 early in the season.

About 120 bales of cotton per day have gone into the government loan since the market broke Thursday, while previous to that only a trickle was put up for loan. The loan amounts to 14.55 on strict middling 15-16ths.

Loans are being written by the Farmers Gin and by Big Spring Cotton compress, only agencies in the county thus far approved to handle loans. Those farmers desiring loans notify the ginner, who forwards a sample of the cotton to the loan office or to cotton classifying offices in Abilene or Lubbock. The cotton is classified, a card returned to the grower, and the loan made on the basis of this grading. About three days is required for classifying, unless there is some complication.

Another phase of the cotton harvest began last Monday and was hitting full speed as the week closed as the Big Spring Cotton Oil mill started seasonal operations that will keep it busy for four or five months. The mill was buying heavily of seed.

Report Card Woes To Beset Scholl Students This Week

"Report-carditis," a periodical infection which produces palpitations of the heart and quaking knees, is due to some 3,000 children in the Big Spring school system this week.

Wednesday the day of reckoning will be at hand, for report cards are due to be issued for the first time of the current school year.

Three more times during the year these tell-tale cards will be carted home, laying the truth before Mother and Dad about how Johnny and Susie has been doing in his books.

The system is a little complicated. For instance, if Johnny is in the seventh grade or high school, he will come home carrying several of these cards—as many as he has subjects. But Susie, if she is in the elementary schools, will have but one "grief card."

But one or five, Mother and Dad will have a chance to know what's what on Wednesday, and they may be advised in advance that there's nothing to that stuff about "they didn't hand them out today."

The cards, basically, tell if children are doing satisfactory or unsatisfactory work in comparison with their capabilities, how they are demonstrating qualities of citizenship, effort, self-reliance, and mastery of subject matter.

If the card says "unsatisfactory," chances are these may be some of the causes: Incomplete work, lack of interest, careless work, irregular attendance, or too many extracurricular activities.

But whatever it says, Wednesday is the day the card will talk.

Scott, honorary commander for life of the United States Confederate Veterans, arrived here today by plane from a national meeting of the organization at Atlanta, emitted a lusty rebel yell and announced that he intended to travel by air henceforth whenever possible.

The 94-year-old veteran of the war between the states was enthusiastic about his first plane ride, telling anyone within earshot that he hoped to repeat the experience soon.

Viewed from the air, the Bahamas look like a series of stepping stones from 50 miles off the coast of Florida to Cuba.

Chapter 11
SIBYRION

Sue Ellen saw the major exchange a glance with Johnny and she wondered if he remembered Riv's devotion to Deodora Waller upon the other occasion when she had met him and if it surprised him to find that she was engaged to him.

"Probably he was the same," broke in Ginny.

The major shook his head. "He definitely denied meeting me when I suggested the other evening that I had met him before. In fact, he was quite vehement."

"Why should a resemblance make Riv angry?" she demanded. The major pushed his wine glass an inch away and then drew it toward him. "The man I refer to, was a young southerner who was in White Sulphur Springs on his honeymoon."

"Then it wasn't Riv, of course. I thought you were going to tell us something exciting," Ginny yawned. "I adore excitement. Don't you, Sue Ellen?"

But Sue Ellen sat rigid and cold in her chair, her shaking fingers buried in the stiff green folds of her dress. Riv couldn't have been at White Sulphur last summer—or could he?

"I shall have our coffee in the library," Aunt Car arose and Aunt Pless followed her with a stiff rustle of taffeta skirts.

Sue Ellen followed Ginny, aware that a thousand questions trembled on the tip of Ginny's inquisitive tongue. Was it Riv the major had seen at White Sulphur and what was he doing there and was it Deodora Waller, tall and smartly dressed, who was with him on that trip?

Call From Riv
Back in the library, she drank her coffee scolding him. She accepted the liquor the major offered and read an apology in his keen black eyes. He knew—or if he didn't know, he suspected that something was wrong. He was a friend of Johnny Harris. Had he intentionally aided his friend by an attempt to unmask some love affair carried on by Riv without her knowledge.

She must make an opportunity to see the major alone. That was difficult, for Aunt Car suggested bridge and the major was keen to play. Before she thought, Sue Ellen pleaded a headache as an excuse. Ginny, with the aunts and the major, made up a foursome. She found herself left with Johnny Harris, which was the last thing she wanted.

"Get a coat and come outside," he ordered. "Fresh air will help your head."

She tried to beg off. "I'm helping Ginny with this hand," she explained; but Ginny said rudely: "Go away, you bother me."

She had no choice but to run up and get a coat. When she came back, she found Johnny waiting at the foot of the stairs.

He took her arm and led her out on the veranda. He lit a cigarette for her and for himself before he spoke.

"I knew about that White Sulphur episode," he said bluntly. "I'm sorry Major Faber mentioned it. I believe that he really thinks it was not Moore but someone else, and I can assure you that nothing more will be said about it."

Hollywood—Michele Morgan Bids For Future Star Ranking

By ROBERT COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Whenever I hear about a new star—one who hasn't yet been started by the fans—I reach for the old office sub-editor. The old office sub-editor is the old picture star: Glamorous, exciting, lovely and talented ladies who were sure to hypnotize you with their charms once you saw them. They were wonderful as pre-picture stars, but unfortunately pictures are made to be shown, and too often the first showing ends the stardom that never was there.

So I'm not saying that Michele Morgan is the star of tomorrow. All I'm saying is that she's an interesting young woman with an interesting record and an intriguing personality. You'll see for yourself, about that stardom, when "Joan of Paris" is finished.

It's her first Hollywood movie. It isn't a cliché, many people around RKO are going to be sad, sadder of the lot young David Hempstead, the producer who found the story for this girl who was France's pet star but whose name wouldn't draw Pumpkin Corners on Bank Night.

Michele is slim, piquant and studiously American—the latter by design. Twenty-one now, she began six years ago to prepare herself for American acting by discarding her own name (Simone Rousseau) for one she considered "solidly American." The Morgan was inspired by the banking family, the Michele sprang from plain Mike.

Arriving here with a contract for 13 French pictures, she began concentrating on English. Ten months later, she speaks it easily though with only an occasional suggestion of accent. "And I'm working to be without accent entirely," she says. "I speak French only when I must, and I do not see my French friends too often—I think they understand why this is so, because it is so important to me to have no accent."

She was movie-struck early in life, and consistently denied to grown-ups that she had any such ideas. But when she was 15 she went on a "hunger-strike" to convince her father that she was serious, and so she was allowed to attend dramatic school. Two years later, after her first screen test, she won the feminine lead opposite Charles Boyer in "Griboffia."

She has never played less than a lead—"I was very lucky." Her film best known in America is "Port of Shadows."

Her "Americanization" is being completed formally—she has already applied for citizenship.

French Writer Says—Old Monarchy May Take Over If Petain Dies

Editor's Note—Petain is a French Journalist and patriot who fled his native land at the fall of the army in June, 1940.

Now a war analyst for American newspapers, he has a particularly acute knowledge of French politics.

By FERTINAX
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—As reported by a diplomatic authority, Pierre Pucheu, minister of the interior at Vichy, said recently that, in unoccupied France, concentration camps were to be increased in number and that public order would be maintained even if three Frenchmen out of every five had to be placed under arrest.

These words add fresh evidence to what Marshal Petain had already confessed, in his speech of August 12, about the unpopularity of Admiral Darlan and the other ministers. Public feeling does not run only against the German occupant but also against the men who rule the country under the shadow of the Nazis. But what would happen if Marshal Petain suddenly disappeared?

Owing to the advanced years of the chief of state, the question cannot be dismissed as a remote one. Indeed, in the small ruling circle, it is known to crop up from time to time and nobody can tell whether it has not been quietly solved in the will of the marshal. There is a general belief that Admiral Darlan will never fulfill the supreme function, although officially designated for it under constitutional act No. 4.

Politically, Marshal Petain enjoys an advantage denied to all his possible successors. Even when he openly commits himself to collaborate with Germany, most Frenchmen don't forget that he was once the victorious defender of Verdun and, as a consequence, credit him with a double game. They say, on the one hand, that he must perform comply with Hitler's wishes and, on the other, that he waits for a favorable opportunity to upset the German yoke.

Of course, many, probably a majority, think that the marshal was wrong, last year, not to continue resistance to the German conqueror in the overseas empire by the means of the French fleet which, was, practically untouched. Nevertheless, they are impressed. How would it be possible to find a leader in position to be given, in the same way, the benefit of the doubt?

The answer of many is that only the restoration of the old monarchy might serve the purpose. The young Count of Paris, present head of the House of Bourbon-Orleans, is called by the action franchise "the forty kings who made France." People might agree or disagree. At any rate, it would be difficult for them not to imagine that, at the bottom of his heart, the count does not strive for liberation from foreign control, that he can be content to behave as Hitler's puppet. Besides, the Count of Paris has been described in sympathy with the British cause.

He was quoted to have said: "Also, all my friends are in Vichy." A British statesman told me that he had visited London on two occasions during the last year or so and there personal emissaries—the phrase he used was somewhat ambiguous. In his weekly, "Courrier Royal" which started publication about 1934 the prince always propounded a broadminded foreign policy. For instance, he approved of the 1936 treaty with Russia.

Many observers regard it as a good guess that Marshal Petain has already arranged for "King Henry V" to step in on the day of his demise. And the Count of Paris may have had that eventual development in view, two months ago, when, for the first time, he appealed to his friends to rally around Marshal Petain.

Whatever views he may have entertained in the past, great heed ought to be paid to the following point: The French royalists came to the conclusion, at the turn of the century, that, in France, a monarchy, even of the constitutional pattern, and universal suffrage were terms which could not be reconciled for any length of time and, starting from that premise, they worked out and evolved rules of government which, in later years, were acted upon by Mussolini and became the fascist gauge. Therefore, the monarchist idea must be taken as indisputably connected, in France, with all the tenets of an authoritarian government, itself hardly conceivable apart from some kind of association with Germany.

Boy, 8, Bags First Deer
CONCORD, Calif.—Francis Johnson, only 9 years of age, brought down his first buck during the recent open deer season.

The Slang River Valley, China, scene of Sino-Japanese fighting, is not only a fertile granary but also the source of coal, aluminum, and

Two Can Play Torpedo Game

Torpedoing of the destroyer Kearny by a submarine constitutes a test for United States temper.

Although news of the incident burned up the airways and screamed across front pages, it must be admitted that the element of surprise was confined to the ship, the place and the time. Surely, none who heard the "shoot first" declaration of President Roosevelt could doubt that sooner or later this was bound to happen.

It was not the first example of an attack on American shipping and defiance of our doctrine of freedom of the seas—and it won't be the last.

While we have given declaration to our policy of protecting our ships and our safety wherever and whenever that may be, the Nazis have made their position equally clear, not by word, but by action.

Therefore, we did not enter our policy of "shoot first" blindly. We knew that we were defending our shipping against a pack of sea jackals, and that at the best we should occasionally be bitten.

With this in mind, there is hardly promise for holding that this is the incident which should mean actual and unreserved participation in the war.

True, there is a diplomatic point about the honor of the nation being subject to attack, but in a fight there is no enduring dishonor in being hit, only in backing down.

And we don't think the United States is about to back down. This sort of thing does not frighten an American, it makes him more resolute.

This business may continue at intervals with ships as well as destroyers being hit. But some day, sooner or later, those "first shots" will be fired and it will be time for someone else to howl.

No, there is no point on going off at a tangent over this incident. It probably will be much wiser to go right down the line—for after all, the axis powers will find that two can play at this game.

Man About Manhattan—Dealer In Freaks Turns To Broadway Play

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If artists are really temperamental, then a few emotional firecrackers are due to go off any minute. A gloomy dramatist, an actress who talks in gushing torrents, and a promoter who has made his money dealing in tigers and freaks have formed a combine that should result presently in the opening on Broadway of a play called "Clash By Night."

The gloomy playwright is Clifford Odets. The actress whose mood is always suitably loquacious is Tallulah Bankhead. The dealer in tigers, freaks and sagas of the 1800's is Billy Rose.

"Clash by Night" is a serious domestic drama about humble people. The locale is Staten Island. The only glamour it will have will be the glamour Miss Bankhead puts into her acting. There will be no rhinestone garters, bosomy chorus girls, negro orchestras in scarlet uniforms, no tigers, elephants or champagne bubbles. Billy Rose quite probably will be shaken when he sits in on the premiere and understands at last what he has done. It will be a complete departure for Broadway's most tireless optimist.

The last time I saw Clifford Odets he was slumped dejectedly in a chair at Sardi's gazing gloomily toward the 44th street entrance. What private morose pastures his spirits were wandering in he did not say, but when I was introduced to him, he shook hands weakly and lapsed back into his melancholia. I have seen this author of "Golden Boy," "Waiting for Lefty" and other successful theatrical adventures many times in public places and always his aspect has been the same. Sorrow sits on his shoulder like an outcast raven. It is an attitude I can not understand.

By way of contrast, Tallulah is an enthusiastic cart-wheler. I imagine her family had quite a time keeping her from skinning the cat on the hitching post in front of the house when she was a little girl. Her spirits soar like undisciplined birds. When she gets a crush on anything the monopolizes it. A few years ago she got a crush on "baseball," the New York Giants in particular and in her tavern utterances she "adopted" Mel Ott, the Giant's home-run slugger who wears No. 4 on his back. The point to this tale is that shortly thereafter she spent an entire afternoon yelling for Camille of the Brooklyn Dodgers, whom she thought was Ott, because he wore No. 4, too.

As for Billy Rose, I called to ask him what goes on and he said, "I'm only the janitor around here. Tallulah and Odets are putting on the show."

Odets, the lachrymose composer of dramas, Tallulah the exuberant coon-shouter, and Rose, the dealer in tigers and water babies—that's the triumvirate, the design for temperance which has come together through the shifting tides of Broadway's night life. Will there be clashes, or only the strong, close harmony of "Clash By Night"?

Oil Operator Says Governor Mistaken

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 18 (AP)—W. T. Knight, Wichita Falls independent oil operator, declared today that Gov. Coke Stevenson was mistaken in saying that "big shots" of the oil industry were interested in increasing the price of oil.

In a telegram sent to the governor, Knight said "as an independent oil producer I believe you are wrong in your statement to the press that the big shots in the oil business want an increase in the price."

"The increase," the telegram went on, "is desired by the small producer who does not have any integrated setup."

Colorado Defense Guard Year Old

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 18 (AP)—First birthday of the Colorado City company of the Texas Defense Guard, one of the oldest in West Texas, will be observed with a brief ceremony during the regular company drill Thursday night, according to plans made this week by the Oran C. Derace Moser Leads Potent Ground Game

Cadets Doing Very Well, Thanks, Without Kimbrough

FORT WORTH, Oct. 18 (AP)—The gas house gang of college football—those rough and boisterous Texas Aggies—didn't need even the ghost of John Kimbrough today to stay in the ranks of the nation's undefeated and untied teams, battering Texas Christian University 14-0 in a Southwest Conference game.

A crowd of 25,000 watched the hard-charging, bone-rattling red line crush the Horned Frogs all the way, scoring in four and one-half minutes and adding another touchdown in the fourth period just when the Christians seemed ready to come to life.

Those who have shed tears for the Aggies' fortunes with departure of that great team of last season, can now place their sympathies elsewhere.

With Derace Moser as the mainstay, the Aggies rolled up 303 yards rushing and passing and held the Frogs to 28. Kyle Gillespie, ace of the TCU backfield, went out with a knee hurt early in the game, leaving the offense badly crippled.

The Aggies got their first touchdown as the result of a prodigious punt by Moser. The ball carried 74 yards and set the Frogs back to their 20. Martin Ruby, giant Aggie tackle, crashed through to block Gillespie's kick on the T.C.U. six and in three plays the Aggies scored. Moser pitched a pass to Marshall Spivey and he took it across without a Frog in ten yards of him.

The second Aggie touchdown came in the middle of the final period, a bad punt giving the Cadets the ball on the T.C.U. 30-yard line. Leo Daniels passed to Jim Sterling twice to carry to the Frog 14 and then pitched one over the goal line to Harold Cowley for the counter.

Jake Webster, Aggie fullback, added both points after touchdown, making his record 16 straight.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 18 (AP)—A 44-yard touchdown pass fired through the haze overhanging Dyche Stadium in the fourth period today gave Michigan a desperately earned 14-7 victory over Northwestern.

Thus the victorious Wolverines clung to a perch near the top in the scramble for the Western Conference championship and await with confidence their all-important engagement with undefeated Minnesota next Saturday.

The hard fought game proved to be a thrilling spectacle for 48,000 spectators from the moment the Wolverines drove 78 yards in the first period to make their first touchdown until the closing seconds of the game when Bill DeCorvo, one of Northwestern's core halfbacks, completed a 40-yard pass which almost tied the score.

Two return kickoffs by Left Halfback Lou Thomas and Rubber Ezy for 102 and 91 yards respectively were an added feature by the Wave. The home-town product, wing-headed Thomas, had a field day. Gus Performs Wonder Work As Lamesans Whip Steers

Figures On 20-7 Game Show It As A 'White-Washing' For Locals

By JOE PICKLE

The humble Big Spring Steers came as near as possible Friday night to a good case of "white-washing," absorbing a 20-7 beating at the hands of Gallatin's Gus White and his Lamesans.

It might as well have been declared "white night" at Steer stadium, for Gus, one of the finest high school backs in the state and the greatest climax runner in the history of district 3-AA, made it that before the evening was over.

He ran once for 45 yards to score, again for 54 yards and served admirably as a decoy to execute a 40-yard passing touchdown. In addition he kicked two points after touchdown, ran with the ball 23 times, kicked nine times for an average of 28.5 yards, and passed seven times.

In fact, he had his hands on the ball in all except 11 of Lamesans' plays.

Pardon us—while we continue about Gus. Of the 284 yards Lamesans gained rushing, he accounted for 245, an average of 7.7 yards each time he touched the ball. His kicks totaled 84 yards, one of them a 60-yard effort. Three of the four times Bostick made the tactical error of punting to him, Gus ran the ball back for a total of 71 yards. His touchdowns and extra points boosted his season's total to 63 points, second only to Sweetwater's Marion Finnagan in the current 3-AA race.

That's about the story of the game, but for the sake of a post mortem, here's how it happened: After feeling out each other, Big Spring took over on its 30, Barton, Bostick, Kasch and Womack banged four consecutive first downs to the Lamesans 23 on running plays when a wave of brain fever dictated passing. Smith intercepted for Lamesans, White skirted end for 24, Reeves picked up three and then Taylor interlarded to Gus who showed his heels to the Steers on a 45 yard scoring center. Incidentally, he kicked goal.

That riled the Steers, momentarily, at least, for when Womack recovered White's fumble on the Lamesans 25, Kasch gained a yard, Bostick passed to Kasch for one, then rammed for two. Bostick slipped 15 yards to Kasch on the five, Barton slammed center for four and Bostick dove the remaining yard and Barton kicked the point.

Things sea-sawed until near the end of the half when Gus faded wide and everybody, including the secondary, rushed over to corner him. Instead, he handed the ball to Reeves who shot a 25 yard heave to Blair. He didn't muff it, neither did he have to hurry about kicking the other 15 yards to score. White took all day and calmly kicked the point.

Near the end of the third, Lamesans launched a drive from its 40, only to have it stopped by a penalty on the Big Spring 49, which nullified Reeves' pretty nine-yard gallop and shoved it back to the Lamesans 46. That made everybody on the Lamesans team unhappy, so they promptly gave Gus perfect blocking around right end and he ran the 54 yards for a score untouched. Perhaps he was tired for his kick was low and wide.

Big Spring drove to the Lamesans 51 in the final quarter, but it might as well have been practicing for next week, for those passes again stopped the big push.

Game statistics: Yards gained rushing—Big Spring 152, Lamesans 284; yards lost rushing, Big Spring three, Lamesans 24; passes—Big Spring 17 attempted, five completed

Forsan Noses Out Coahoma, 13-6 In Six-Man Clash

Forsan's Buffaloes held the inside track in the district No. 2 six-man football race today by virtue of a hard-earned 13-6 victory over the Coahoma Bulldogs under the lights at Steer stadium Saturday evening.

Holt and Dunlap alternated to furnish the offensive power that gave Forsan its margin, while Johnston, Coahoma's ace back, smashed the line for the lone Bulldog tally.

Forsan lost little time in taking the lead, Dunlap slashing over for the counter. After grabbing a Coahoma pass, Forsan headed goalward, only to have the Bulldogs pounce upon an ill-starred toss that fell as a free ball.

With Johnston bearing the brunt of the attack as the second quarter opened, Coahoma drove downfield with Johnston finally lugging it over to tie the count.

Playing on fairly even terms in the third, Forsan began to shake Holt loose, and in the fourth he cut away for 40 yards and a touchdown. The extra point was added. Holt had another 40-yard gallop, but he was pulled down short of the marker.

Coahoma's desperate bid to tie the score snagged a bit of hard luck when a fourth down pass was completed over the goal line and could not be counted under stadium rules.

Coahoma had three first downs and no penetrations, while Forsan had six first downs and one penetration.

Starting lineup: Forsan: Wadsworth, re; Craig, c; Peak, ls; Dunlap, qb; White, hb; Holt, fb.

Coahoma: Duncan, re; Boswell, c; White, ls; Sandridge, qb; Wheat, hb; Johnston, fb.

Rotan Bows To Nix In Senior Golf Finals

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18 (AP)—R. H. Nix of Dallas ended George V. Rotan's two-year reign as state senior golf champion today at the San Antonio country club as Nix came through in the final round 18-hole match of this year's tournament to defeat the defending champion, one up. Rotan is a Houston golfer and won the title in 1939 and 1940.

F. M. Lewis of San Antonio won first-flight honors by defeating Dr. J. N. Arvin of Brownwood, one up on 21 holes. In other final matches, results were as follows: J. R. Chapman, Houston, won over D. H. McDaniel, Houston, one up, in second flight play; Dr. Fred Ayer, Houston, won the third flight by downing Col. J. B. Luscomb, San Antonio, 2 and 1; M. S. Spitzer, Lufkin, captured the fourth flight with a one-up victory over Dr. O. S. Hodges, Beaumont; and A. H. Muir, San Antonio, won the fifth flight by defeating J. W. Armstrong, Taylor, two up.

Tidwell Shows To Play In City For Week Beginning November 3

T. J. Tidwell, owner of the outdoor shows bearing his name, and "Suicide" Simon, sensational fire diver who performs his act nightly with the Tidwell shows, the carnival will be here for a week beginning Nov. 3.

Frank J. Lee, publicity agent for the T. J. Tidwell Shows and Carnival, has been in Big Spring Saturday making final arrangements for bringing West Texas' own "amusement park on wheels" to Big Spring to play all of the week starting Monday, Nov. 3, on the Read lots, 3rd & Douglas. Tidwell, one of the best known and most highly respected carnival managers in Texas, has been bringing his attractions to Big Spring for more than 15 years and has played the major county fairs in Texas and New Mexico, even when some of them were conducted as street fairs. While in the city, Lee, who will be remembered by many as the agent who brought the first big whale exhibit here several years ago, released the following statement: "After many years of intensive investigation into the amusement and entertainment conditions of the medium sized American cities, T. J. Tidwell, owner of the Tidwell Exposition Shows, has come to the conclusion, from reports given him by hundreds of business men, clergymen, city and county officials and newspaper men, that the amusement-loving American people are not only ready but eager for someone with a thorough knowledge of their entertainment needs to bring them a really worth-while outdoor collection of first class tented shows, and some latest and novel riding devices, which would give them up-to-the-minute satisfaction for at least one week of their routine lives in their home town. "Starting Monday night, Nov. 3, Tidwell is bringing to Big Spring 30 tented theatre attractions and new riding devices including some especially for the little children only—a show that will meet all entertainment desires."

Sooners Turn On Power For 16-0 Win

MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 18 (AP)—Oklahoma's celebrated "A" formation turned out with raw power today and a sophomore, Joe Golding, dashed and darted out of it for two touchdowns as the Sooners defeated a gallant Kansas State team 16-0.

A disappointing crowd of 1,000 marveled at the strength generated from Coach Dewey Lester's formation which spun trickery from an unbalanced line to the right and a backfield which was strong to the left, a zig-zag line-up which by a stretch of the imagination formed an "A." It worked better when employed by the sophomores and it was this younger unit which provided the scoring jobs in the Sooners' two-team substitution plan.

The 175-pound Golding scored in the second quarter, on a reverse from his mate Pat Shanks, another sophomore, scooting and squirming around end six yards. It stemmed from a 35-yard march which featured a 15-yard pass from sophomore Eddie Davis to Shanks which planted the ball within talking distance of the goal line.

The willowy arm of Davis also set the props for Golding's 8-yard dart for the last quarter score.

Jack Haberlein, the place-kick specialist, made one extra point and a fine 18-yard field goal in the third, which came after a 48-yard push by the veteran team, aided by the longest pass of the day—39 yards from Huel Hamm to Bill Mattox.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—A red-jerseyed ball of fire from way down South in Youngstown, Ohio, led a University of Georgia football team to a 7-3 triumph over Columbia today, to eliminate Lou Little's Lions from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten eleven.

It was Frankie Sinkwich, broken jaw and all, who lived up to his press notices handsomely in making a very personal show of the southern's touchdown drive. That march covered 45 yards and required nine plays. Sinkwich handed the ball on every one of the nine, and on the last one, after sucking in the Columbia back and faking a pass, he scooted back and over the Lion left side for nine yards and the score.

After those first six minutes Georgia didn't come close again until the last play of the game. But after those first six minutes there were very few among the crowd of 27,000 in Baker Field who thought the undefeated but once-thought team would need any more.

Columbia had attained considerable early-season stature by beating Brown with passes and Princeton with well-masked, split-second running plays. The Georgia Bulldogs, with an alert secondary backing up a smashing line, made a shambles of both ends of that offense.

Dove Season Ends On 27th

Dove hunters have one more week of shooting before they have to change the size of shot and go gunning for another species of fowl.

The season on doves is to end on Oct. 27. The duck season opens on Nov. 1.

While there are still lots of doves in the country, hunters are finding them increasingly difficult to find and still harder to hit. The lush days of a bag limit without effort are tapering off.

Hours, of course, are from sunrise to sunset and the bag and possession limit 12.

Sportsmen were advised to secure their duck stamps at sporting goods, hardware establishments or the postoffice before venturing out without them. Federal game wardens don't like it.

PANHANDLE AGGIES WIN GOODWILL, Okla., Oct. 18 (AP)—The Panhandle A. and M. Aggies edged out Las Vegas Normal University today, 20 to 16 in a New Mexico Conference football game.

Fordham Stays Undefeated

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Fordham Rams, gridiron goliaths with the unpronounceable names, galloped to an impressive 37 to 0 victory over the West Virginia Mountaineers today to convince 12,500 rain-chilled fans in the Polo Grounds they have a right to be among the undefeated football powers of the land.

Steve Filipowicz, Jim Blumentstock, Joe Andrejco and an assortment of other unbridled horses swept through great, glaring holes opened by the Fordham forwards and altogether rolled up 376 yards by rushing.

In the first half they knocked the Mountaineers reeling with quick-forming touchdown parades they kept right on plowing through the sieve-like West Virginia line in the last half even though they let up on the scoring.

Elmer Wheeler Has Stones For Burton

DALLAS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Elmer Wheeler wants to "blast the wheels from under Isolationist Burton K. Wheeler" and organize the Wheelers to defend the Wheelers club.

Back in Dallas after opening his campaign in Cleveland, Wheeler said the Wheelers of the world are pledged 100 per cent for America and against Hitler.

"We're tired of the senator's antics, ashamed of him altogether," he said.

Irish Held To 16-0 Margin By Carnegie Tech

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18 (AP)—Notre Dame slipped and slid today to a 16-0 victory over underdog Carnegie Tech before a rain-soaked crowd of 27,719 who came expecting to see an Irish field day but left cheering the Tartans' amazing goal line stands.

The unbeaten Irish rolled up 245-net yards rushing while holding Tech to a net loss of 18 yards but bogged down time after time in the face of savage Tech resistance near the goal line.

Tech, supposed to be a victim by almost any score you choose to name, yielded only two touchdowns—one in the first period and another to the Irish reserves in the final quarter. The game concluded, at least temporarily, a long rivalry between the schools in which the Irish won 15 out of 19 contests.

The Tartans also gave up a safety after beating back a dangerous Irish thrust on their own 1-3 yard line in the second quarter.

Howard county, joining in a nationwide defense program, has been called upon to increase feed and food production by 10 per cent next year. We can do it and we ought to do it, but it's going to take conservation as well as production.

Local folks will hear more this week about the plan to shop early. Aside from the angle of clearing stores to accommodate the Saturday rush of farmers and harvest help, it seems like common sense if you've ever been caught in one of these Saturday rushes. The way it's been going, you might save life and limb by laying your store of Sunday dinner in on Friday.

Diligent Tests Prove That Big Spring's Municipal Water Supply Is Always Pure

(This is the third and final of a series on the Big Spring water system.—Ed)

By MARY WHALEY

The city water filtration plant, where the municipal supply is purified for consumption, would shame a dirt-scrubbing housewife. Building and equipment are kept spotlessly clean and the coat of green and white paint is kept shining like a good Dutch woman's kitchen, for workers not only preach sanitation and cleanliness, but they practice it.

Here water gushes from the Powell Creek lake at the rate of 1,050 gallons a minute, cascading over a small aerator into a mixing basin where aluminum sulphate is stirred in the proportion of 100 pounds to every 300,000 gallons of water.

The chemicals effectively coagulate suspended matter and aid in removing taste and odor. The water then flows slowly around a settling basin and passes over the top inlet on the opposite side to be given a chlorine treatment for absolute purity. Thirteen pounds of chlorine to the million gallons of water is fed in automatically. While approximately 95 per cent of suspended matter goes to the bottom during a four-hour stay in the settling basin, the remaining amount is removed by passage through a battery of sand, gravel and charcoal filters capable of handling half a million gallons each daily. Occasionally the flow is reversed to flush out the sand, the residue being cast off.

To maintain a regular and uniform check on the water, a laboratory is an essential part of the plant. Tests for purity are made along with those for turbidity so that operators will know the amount of chemicals to use. Chlorine tests are run to determine effectiveness of the powerful composition, for although six pounds go into a million gallons to destroy bacteria, actually only half a pound to the million gallons remains in the water delivered to consumers.

Tests are based on destruction of the B. Coli bacteria, one of the hardest of all. If this virus is destroyed, then all other harmful microorganisms also are killed. It's a long story, this tale of the water you drink. It falls from the skies, flows into the lakes, is pumped under pressure on a seven-hour journey from the Powell creek lake 18 miles away.

Frank Covert, lake superintendent, starts the flow, Norcliffe Meyer, filter plant superintendent, and Claude Fallon and Frank McCleskey, operators, and Gould Winn, maintenance man, take it over. There can't be any slippup, for when you turn on your faucet, you want water and you want it pure. And it's the job of the city water department to see that you get it that way whenever you want it.

Members of the Big Spring high school band met this week at the band room to organize a club and elect officers. Billie Frances Shaffer was named president and C. A. Smith, vice president. Janie McClendon was elected secretary.

The group is to meet next Thursday and a name for the organization selected. Musical programs are planned for study during the year. Back bends proved to be too much for one of the Big Spring high school twirlers Friday night at the Steer-Lamesa game. Sara Maude Johnson caused a great deal of consternation when she fainted on the band as the band marched off. However, Miss Johnson was revived and was reported to be all right Saturday.

A few folks are getting ready to vote in next year's elections. A total of 243 poll taxes have been paid here and 16 exemptions have been issued.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Robbins were to be in Tulsa, Okla., today, in advance of the opening of the annual convention of the Independent Petroleum Association of America. Robbins is a member of the membership committee for Texas.

Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, manager of the local retail merchants association, will appear on the program of the Texas Retail Credit Association meeting in Austin starting today. She is to discuss how local business can be of service to finance companies.

Writing to express thanks for "providing our soldiers with wholesome and Christian entertainment," Chaplain Woodrow Jones of the 7th cavalry, wrote Dr. J. O. This is a time when our men of the Service are needing the influence of the Church, and we were happy to have had your fellowship.

While wondering what he would do while in the mountains of Lincoln county, New Mexico, Clyde E. Thomas met up with W. J. Hooten of the El Paso Times. Hooten was doing a piece on Billy the Kid and asked Thomas to go along. Together they traced the adventures of the kid, the feud in which Billy got in his bloodiest looks, the jail from which he shot his way, but the climaxing part came in talking to the daughter-in-law of one of the three men living who knew the kid. He asked her if she had seen Billy's grave. "Oh, no," she said, "Billy isn't dead. He's in Mexico and will come back someday when we need him."

No matter how much a man loves a girl, he should leave the decision up to her and when she shows him as clearly as you have shown me that he hasn't a chance—"he turned to smile at her, "he has no choice but to accept that decision as final."

"I'm sorry," she said dully. "I'll get over it. At least I can do what my father did and make the best of it. He lost the girl he loved."

Gas Cookery At Its Best -- Magic Chef Range Selected For Major Award Of School

The advantage of gas cookery, familiar to most housewives, will be developed by example, in the cooking school sessions starting Monday morning at the Ritz theatre, with the demonstrator, Mrs. Cora Wilson, using exclusively the well known Magic Chef ranges.

These particular ranges will attract attention of all women present, for one of the Magic Chef line—a model retailing at $139.50—will be presented as the major award at the concluding day of the school. The Magic Chef, used in all Herald cooking schools, has been chosen again this year, with Mrs. Wilson endorsing it as the outstanding type of stove for kitchen performance and economy.

The American Stove company has developed the Magic Chef line over a period of years of research and planning, with the suggestions and criticisms of women themselves being taken into full consideration. Savings are stressed, with Magic Chef cited as being a conservator of time, money and food while lightening the load of the housewife.

There are Magic Chef ranges of all sizes and types, to fit a varying price range, but all are equipped with exclusive features demanded by the woman who wants perfection in cookery. In addition the stove is designed for beauty, with finish and trim to make it a valuable item in the kitchen.

Such features as the following are held out as high points for the supreme example of gas cookery: New top burners make waterless cooking easy. "Touch control" simmers. Super duty burner gives fast-its economy time and again, a fact proven by the deluge of unsolicited testimonials from satisfied users.

Aside from the performance and economy of the refrigerator, Servel Electrolux boasts flexible ice cube release, a cold indicator inside the box, ice tray trigger release, a temperature dial to govern speed of freezing and defrosting, automatic interior lights, dry or moist meat storage compartment, dew action vegetable fresheners, double action door handle, removable, non-tipping shelves, one piece steel cabinet, Newton's finish that won't chip, soften or break, and a handy flat top adaptable for utility shelf space.

The box keeps all kinds of food, makes ice cream quickly, assures plenty of ice cubes, and spares the pocketbook on operation and maintenance. And above that, even the saving on food bills of $3.58 cents a month by virtue of its refrigeration makes Servel's new Electrolux a box that is continuing the popularity that has been earned by previous models.

Since a flag flame does the work, there is constant performance, constant refrigeration—no shutting on and off. There are no parts to wear, hence no periodical or costly repairs.

Too, this method of maintaining desired temperatures is readily adaptable under all conditions. It works just as well in rural sections with bottled or tank gas as it does in urban areas where there are gas connections. Servel makes it possible for thousands of homes to have automatic refrigeration which otherwise would be denied this comfort and convenience.

Moreover, the method has proven

Chicken Replaces Army Beans

CAMP ROBERTS, Calif.—Soldiers eat more chicken than beans, a report from the Camp Roberts replacement center commissary indicates. The report showed that each month since the camp was established the 26,000 officers and men stationed here have consumed 75,000 pounds of chicken and only 8,750 pounds of beans.

Mrs. Wilson Will Answer Any Queries

Do you have some particular problem in cookery or kitchen management? Some special little worry on which you would expect advice?

If so, you will be accommodated at The Herald's free cooking school the first three days of this week. Mrs. Cora Wilson, able lecturer and demonstrator, presents her topics so fully and completely that most ordinary culinary problems are answered during the instruction periods. But to be sure that each individual is served, a question box will be available at the Ritz theatre, where the lectures are to be held.

All women who have a question to ask, concerning kitchen economy or any associated subject, are invited to write out their questions, drop the slip in the box. Mrs. Wilson will endeavor to answer all these.

Recipes Used In School To Be Published

Recipes which Mrs. Cora Wilson employs in her cooking demonstrations at the Ritz theatre this week will be made available to all women readers of The Herald, so that they can be adapted at home exactly as the lecturer uses them in the free school.

Mrs. Wilson prepares many different kinds of dishes daily, giving the recipes; but it will not be necessary to copy her instructions as all recipes she uses will be published in The Herald. Recipes to be introduced at Monday morning's opening lecture will be found on another page in this issue. Monday afternoon's Herald will carry the list of recipes from which Mrs. Wilson will choose her Tuesday morning demonstrations; and recipes on which Wednesday morning's program will be based will appear in the Tuesday afternoon edition.

The recipes give full instructions as to measurement and preparation. They will be simple recipes, one the types of dishes that most housewives will want to try, after they see results obtained by the demonstrator. The listings, as they appear in The Herald, will be suitable for filing away for use at any time.

While the kitchen is largely a woman's province, there are men a-plenty who take a hand now and then in the culinary department. Some of them are experts on some dishes, nearly all of them could know more about general cookery and kitchen management.

Those who want to learn more—or at least to have a closer touch with the food budget—are entirely welcome to attend the free cooking school at the Ritz theatre the first three days of this week. Mrs. Cora Wilson can give the menfolk pointers in efficient kitchen management, and demonstrate recipes that would be right down a man's alley.

Mrs. Wilson stresses efficiency and economy in the kitchen. Her lectures are not altogether on fancy dishes, and her practical instruction on household operation will appeal to the man of the house as well as the woman.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Is New Lecturer For Free Affair

New time... new place... new instructor... new methods in food preparation, meal planning and kitchen management...

These are the highlights in announcement of The Herald's free cooking school, a major event of the year for women interested in improving household activities along practical and economical lines, and being staged this week for the fourth consecutive year.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., are the new hours. The Ritz theatre is the new place. Mrs. Cora Wilson is the new instructor.

Emphasis on adequate diet to conform with the nation's food-for-defense program, with due observance of prices and family budgets, highlights the new method.

The morning hours were chosen this year in the belief they would be more convenient for most women without interfering with their afternoon activities. While the program will be complete, it will be conducted with dispatch, so that those in attendance may count on being dismissed well before the noon hour.

The downtown Ritz theatre also was chosen for the convenience of a greater number of women. Full facilities are there, to make for comfort of the crowd and efficiency on the lecturer's stage.

Lecturer-demonstrator this year, Mrs. Wilson comes to Big Spring with a long record of success in imparting methods of better kitchen management, and she is highly regarded as an able home economist. Those who have heard her lectures throughout the Southwest recommend her warmly as an instructor of pleasing personality, with well-grounded information, and with an ability to make her programs instructive and entertaining for her crowds.

All of her talks are of practical nature, and usable recipes will be given and demonstrated each day. Food economy and planning are stressed, and this year particular emphasis will be placed on the importance of vitamins and minerals in menu-planning, the importance of food selection in national defense, and the importance of a practical program in maintaining a kitchen budget.

The school is being made possible, as heretofore, through the cooperation of many Big Spring business houses and the manufacturers of nationally known food products. Arrangements were rounding into shape Saturday evening, and Mrs. Wilson was scheduled to arrive in the city Sunday.

Sessions will begin promptly each morning at 9:30, and in order to avoid a rush, those planning to attend are urged to come early. Every person is urged to register. Attendance fully up to that of years past—when total registrations have approximated 2,500—is expected.

Early Skyscraper Hazed PHILADELPHIA.—This city's first skyscraper, the eight-story Bullitt building erected in 1888, is being razed to make room for a parking lot. "Cleaves the Clouds," said a headline in a newspaper the day the building was opened. A story described the "edifice" as "the mammoth Bullitt building."

Arrives Today—Mrs. Cora Wilson, authority on food preparation and kitchen management, was scheduled to arrive in Big Spring today, to assume charge of the free cooking school which gets underway Monday morning for a three-day turn. Mrs. Wilson comes highly recommended as an able home economist who has made a success with her practical lectures and demonstrations throughout the Southwest. The free school will be held at the Ritz theatre this year, with sessions Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30.

Spencer Tracy In Difficult Dual Role In, 'Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde,' At Ritz

Lana Turner Ingrid Bergman Featured

Once again Spencer Tracy proves his right to his place as a two-time Academy Award winner with his portrayal of that favorite of fiction, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Sharing honors with the star in the new picture, playing today and Monday at the Ritz theatre, are Ingrid Bergman and Lana Turner.

Robert Louis Stevenson's fascinating dual characters mark a distinct departure for Spencer Tracy, who is usually seen in roles of more noble stature. His Mr. Hyde, the awesome embodiment of all that is evil in man, is sure to come as a spine-tingling shock. This, in Director Victor Fleming's view, is the essence of good showmanship and entertainment.

But in stressing the romantic motivation, with its emotional impact, Fleming went further. Nothing could have been more surprising than his selection of Ingrid Bergman to play Ivy, the barroom singer, and Lana Turner for Beatrice, Jekyll's sweetheart. His unusual casting against type had shrewd reasoning behind it. He wanted a sympathetic Ivy, one who would bring out all the brutality in Hyde. In Beatrice, he saw a milk-and-water heroine, but a full-blooded, spirited girl, capable of stirring Jekyll, and giving reason for his weird and ghastly experiments.

But it is Tracy's performance which dominates the film. Admirable in his restraint, Tracy resorts to no gargantuan make-up to denote his transformation from the good Dr. Jekyll into the evil Mr. Hyde. With a minimum of facial horror, the star achieves his personality change through change of expression.

The Robert Louis Stevenson novel tells the story of young Dr. Jekyll, scientist interested in man's dual personality. He believes that in all men are good and evil. In some evil predominates over the

New Star—Lovely Marjorie Woodworth, who has been hailed in some quarters as a new Jean Harlow, has a starring role in her first picture, "Broadway Limited," a gay comedy showing at the Lyric today and Monday. Dennis O'Keefe, Victor McLaglen and Patsy Kelly are others in the cast.

Gay Comedy Offered At The Lyric

Hal Roach's latest film production, "Broadway Limited," which is offered today and Monday at the Lyric theatre, is a gay, fast-paced comedy, brilliantly directed by Gordon Douglas. Based on a screenplay by Brian James, "Broadway Limited" has in its principal roles Marjorie Woodworth, Dennis O'Keefe, Victor McLaglen, Patsy Kelly, Leonid Kinskey, Zasu Pitts and George E. Stone—a line-up of Hollywood's leading comics and funsters.

"Broadway Limited" unravels a laugh-filled, swift-paced story of the vicissitudes in the life of the great film star, April Tremaine, who is en route from the west coast to New York, accompanied by her film director and a fan magazine publicity woman. As a publicity stunt, the public is led to believe that Miss Tremaine is the mother of a baby girl. But at the time of this announcement, the baby of a socially prominent family is kidnapped, and identifying marks on Miss Tremaine's baby are similar to those of the child that has disappeared. The inevitable leads to a whole series of dramatic incidents, which are packed with suspense and surprise. How the picture finally winds up provides a tense and exciting finish.

good, in others the reverse is true. Over the objections of friends, colleagues and sweetheart, Jekyll continues his experiments in this field. He drinks the resulting potion. It is then his evil self asserts itself and he becomes Mr. Hyde.

Old Thriller—That favorite of horror thrillers, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," has been produced again by Hollywood, this time with an impressive cast which features Spencer Tracy in the dual role, and Lana Turner and Ingrid Bergman as the feminine principals. This extraordinary piece from the pen of Robert Louis Stevenson is at the Ritz today and Monday.

Gobs and Gobs—Everybody knows—or has heard—about such going-on, being an uproarious comedy called "Sailors On Leave," Shirley Ross, here given a novel conveyer as an escort, and William Lundigan have the top roles in a film that features gobs, gals and gags.

Lutheran Hour Resumed Today Over KBST

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18—The Lutheran Hour, international Gospel radio mission, will enter upon its ninth season tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock over station KBST. Returning to the air over more than 300 outlets, the "Bringing Christ to the Nations" program has now become the world's largest regular broadcast.

Speaker on the Lutheran Hour since its inception eight years ago has been famed, two-fisted Dr. Walter A. Maier. Distinguished as America's greatest Lutheran leader, he is yet more widely recognized as a man whose uncompromising convictions are unshaken by any taint of denominationalism.

Normally engaged in teaching at Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Dr. Maier has through his addresses over the air evoked such amazing response that he has become America's number one protagonist of practical Christianity. Mountains of mail, more than that received by any other radio personality, greet the Boston-born Bible professor after each broadcast. He receives no compensation for his sermons over the air.

A rapidly growing feature of the Lutheran Hour, which began with but two stations in the middle west, is its rapid expansion into foreign fields. A total of 25 countries outside the United States—Angola, Alaska, Argentina, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Puerto Rico, Santo Domingo, Uruguay, Venezuela—are served by almost a hundred outlets. Dr. Maier's addresses are translated into Spanish and Portuguese to supplement the English transcriptions heard abroad.

SHERROD SUPPLY CO.

Cake-Making Contest Sponsored By Mrs. Tucker During School

Leading a movement for better brands to assure most nutrition at least cost during these times of defense, Mrs. Tucker presents a cake-making contest as one of the feature attractions of the Cooking School, and at the same time offers contestants a double opportunity by writing letters about brands of foods for $500 in prizes.

First, the Dear Old Lady of Shortening fame offers valuable prizes for cakes made with her creamier shortening during the cooking school. Again this season cooking school attendants are fortunate to have a chance of winning bright and sturdy chrome steel cooking ware donated by Mrs. Tucker as the premiums in this cake contest, because these shiny sets of ultra-modern kitchen equipment were purchased by Mrs. Tucker during last season's cooking school. After this supply of steel cooking ware, which has proven so popular, is exhausted, different prizes must be offered.

For the cake chosen by the judges as best in appearance, texture and taste, Mrs. Tucker will give as first prize a 5-piece set of Eveready chrome steel cooking ware, consisting of chicken fryer, skiddle, and a Dutch oven. The maker of the second best cake will receive a 3-piece set made up of chicken fryer, skiddle and skillet. You may enter any kind or as many cakes as you wish, but each cake must be made with Mrs. Tucker's shortening.

Mrs. Cora Wilson, lecturer, recommends Mrs. Tucker's especially for cakes because it is so creamy-smooth. She advises that this shortening has been featured in over 250 cooking schools each year for several years and that the experienced demonstrators have found Mrs. Tucker's creaminess the most desired quality in a shortening. These experts say that Mrs. Tucker's is multi-creamed at the factory so that it mixes easily with other ingredients at any temperature. "Besides this ease of use," continue the famous cooks, "Mrs. Tucker's is most desirable for cakes because it is made exclusively from choice vegetable oil. There is no animal fat in this shortening, which digests quickly and easily. Then Mrs. Tucker's is packed in air-tight cellophane-lined cartons and in 3 lb. airtight cans so that it keeps its sweet, pure factory-freshness. And, finally, Mrs. Tucker's Shortening goes further for real economy."

Independent of the cake contest, you may enter Mrs. Tucker's "Better-Brands" contest by writing a letter on the following subject: "My Grocer Handles Better Brands

Because..." and mailing it to Mrs. Tucker, Sherman, Texas, by midnight, November 30, 1941, along with a Mrs. Tucker's face from a carton of her Shortening or Meadowlark Margarine or other evidence of purchase, and you may win $100 in groceries. There are 168 prizes totaling $200—all in groceries—in this "Better Brands" contest which ends November 30.

Recipes Will Show Values Of All-Bran

Kellogg's All-Bran is being featured in The Herald cooking school this week. This familiar package of cereal occupies a prominent place on Mrs. Cora Wilson's table at the cooking school.

Of greater importance to health than most people believe, is breakfast, Mrs. Wilson states. And, probably the most important part of the meal is cereal. That's why the famed culinary expert took particular pains to reserve a place on her tables on the auditorium stage for the Kellogg's cereal package.

Women who are attending the 1941 cooking school are being informed of the importance as well as the places on the morning meals and exactly what it should consist of by Mrs. Wilson. She is giving combinations of fruits with Kellogg's breakfast cereals demonstrated, ideas on how to serve them in tempting delicious ways, and information on the correct fruits and juices to combine with the various cereals.

The lecturer will prepare and recommend these delicious Kellogg's All-Bran muffins during the cooking school:

Recipe:
 2 tbsps shortening
 1-4 cup sugar
 1 egg
 1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
 3-4 cup milk
 1-3 tsp salt
 2 1-2 tpsns baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly, add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk. Let soak until most of the moisture is taken up. Sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven—400 degrees—for 30 minutes.

Home Baking Day Not Out Of Date

The old-fashioned "baking day" so cherished in the memory of grown-up youngsters of yesterday, can still be a reality for modern children when mother has a modern automatic gas range in her kitchen. And baking day need not be suspended or become a martyrizing task when torrid days of summer arrive.

Technical experts have worked ceaselessly to perfect a gas range which will not only make baking a joy, but will keep the oven heat inside the oven and out of the kitchen. This achievement is explained in terms of insulation which successfully encompasses the oven heat. Insulation not only keeps the cook and the kitchen cool but speeds the cooking with an economy of gas consumption. No heat escapes and no gas is wasted.

Oven Pre-Heated In Eight Minutes

On modern gas ranges the average time necessary for the oven to reach a temperature of 350 degrees is approximately eight minutes and on some models the time is even less. Approved gas range ovens will preheat 500 degrees in eleven minutes or less.

You may have wondered, too, how to tell when the oven has reached the temperature called for in your recipe, and whether to preheat at the temperature given in the recipe or to twist the heat control all the way up to 500 degrees.

The answer is always preheat the oven with its heat control set at the temperature given in the recipe. Starting with a cold oven, the full strength of the gas flame will be utilized to preheat, but when the exact temperature required is reached the automatic control will diminish the gas flow. You can hear it or see it by looking at the flame.

Modern cookbooks, however, generally specify preheating times in recipes, along with oven temperatures required. Or you can obtain a chart from the gas company which will give you a general guide on preheating times for every type of oven cooked food.

Delicious All-Bran Date Muffins

- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup sour milk
- 2 tablespoons molasses
- 1 egg
- 3 cups KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking-powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 cup chopped dates

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add sour milk, molasses and egg; beat well. Add ALL-BRAN and let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with baking-powder, soda, salt and ginger; add to first mixture. Add dates and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 25 minutes. Yield: 18 muffins (2 1/4 x 1 1/4 -inch pans).

Not only will you find these the most delicious bran muffins you ever tasted, but you can give them to your family with the knowledge that they are beneficial, too. Several of these muffins will make a distinct addition to what doctors call "bulk" in your diet—and so help to combat one of the commonest kinds of constipation. Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN either as a cereal or in muffins, drink plenty of water, and "join the regulars."

Gladiola Phosphated Flour Endorsed By Mrs. Cora Wilson

Here is a way to be sure to have much lighter, whiter biscuits—sure to rise, in fact, almost fall-proof, according to Mrs. Cora Wilson, lecturer for The Herald Cooking School. "Be sure," says Mrs. Wilson, "to get a phosphated flour. This is a new, expensive process in the milling of flour not generally adopted by millers because of its expense. Let it be equal to an insurance policy on all your baking. Your milk may not be sour enough; your water too hard or too soft; and the phosphated flour compensates for it.

You may make some errors in measuring your ingredients out; the phosphated flour compensates for these errors, too. It makes any woman a good cook, so far as baking is concerned.

It is significant, of course, that Mrs. Wilson selected Gladiola flour, product of the Fant Milling company, for use in the school. Gladiola is, of course, a phosphated flour—one of few sold in this part of the country. And flour which is phosphated, of course, is plainly marked on the bag, for the convenience of the purchaser.

The remarkably light, delicious biscuits, rolls and other baked goods turned out by Mrs. Wilson at the Cooking School may well be the wonder of women attending the school.

On Display—To be seen by those attending the cooking school is this authentic Duncan Phyfe reproduction in a dining room suite, to be displayed in the lobby of the Ritz theatre by the Barrow Furniture company. The eight-piece suite, of selected Trepply mahogany, includes a buffed, extension table, host chair and five side chairs. The table is of double-ripped pedestal design, chairs are shield-backed and comfortably upholstered in silk damask, and the roomy buffet features a plush lined silver drawer and adequate linen storage space. The suite is a striking example of today's dining room beauty.

Robinsons To Furnish All Food Needs

When the fourth annual cooking school opens at 9:30 a. m. Monday for a three-day session at the Ritz theatre, Robinson & Sons grocery will be taking part in the school for the fourth time.

This year this popular food store will furnish all the meats, vegetables, fruits and staples used by Mrs. Cora Wilson, lecturer, in her practical demonstrations. First quality merchandise will be employed in all recipes prepared by Mrs. Wilson, who insists that only the best foods be provided. Lecturers in the past have lauded the cooperation and accommodation provided by the Robinson store, and it was a logical choice by Mrs. Wilson this year, as she makes her purchases for the 1941 demonstrations.

Space Reserved At Ritz Theatre For Domestic Help

As a service to those housewives of Big Spring who would like their domestic help—either Mexican or negro—to share in the instruction at The Herald's free cooking school this week a special section is being reserved for these employees.

The lectures and demonstrations of Mrs. Cora Wilson, kitchen economist in charge of the school, are on practical, workable lines which make them valuable to anyone who desires culinary work. It is believed that the classes would be of benefit to the negro and Mexican workers.

They will have a special section of seats in the balcony of the Ritz theatre. Housewives are invited to send their domestics to the school.

Long List Of Awards For Free School

New Ranges Clip Hours Off Day

Time is worth something to a busy housewife, and the new gas ranges clip hours off the homemaker's day. For gas is an instant heat, ready to start to work the moment the valve is turned and to center every one of its heat units on the job at hand, whether it happens to be bringing something to a boil hurriedly or setting a new record on turning out the breakfast scrambled eggs in nothing flat.

Speedy though it is, gas behaves itself well in the new improved range burners making itself as flexible and friendly as an old shoe. There are no his and anas about the exact amount of heat the top burners will give...no "just about right." From a tiny simmering flame to a full-bodied going full tilt master burner heat for quickness, the housewife can choose for herself any degree of heat, simply by turning the valve until the flame is as high or as low as she wants it. And there the heat holds. You can start a full day's program of baking or stewmaking or soup and the range is going to make the task lighter because of its dependable, constant heat. No running out of your supply, no minor irritating interruptions. Without the user's giving it a thought, the gas is ready at the range, the instant needed, whether the weather outside is sunny or stormy.

Salt Deposit One Of State's Big Resources

Most every Texan is aware that his state has tremendous oil resources, but it is not generally known that Texas also boasts of one of the largest deposits of salt in the entire world.

Located in Van Zandt county, about 60 miles east of Dallas, is an underground dome or mountain of salt 30 miles around and of absolutely unknown depth. Drills have been sunk into it for many thousands of feet without reaching the bottom, and it is believed to contain sufficient salt to supply all the people in the United States for generations to come.

This huge salt deposit, which averages 99 1/2 per cent in purity, is owned by the Morton Salt company, and it is from that most of the famous Morton's salt consumed in this part of the country is made. The salt is first changed into brine, and then converted by amazing automatic machinery into uniform cube-shaped crystals that don't lump together in rainy weather and choke up salt cellars like the irregular grains of old-style salt.

This non-caking feature has made Morton's salt by far the largest selling salt in the country, and it is now the favorite brand in practically every city from border to border and coast to coast. Women everywhere prefer it because "When It Rains, It Pours," and because an average family can use it freely for only 20¢ a week.

New Features Aid Cleaning Of Ranges

There's no need to cry over spilled milk, or any other boil-over or bake-over, housewives will find when they inspect the new gas ranges. New features have been added to these modern gas ranges which make cleaning after cooking perhaps a simple, easy matter. Almost invariably, burners on top sections of new gas ranges are of a type on which the ports do not clog readily when foods boil over. Enamelled or bright metal parts are employed which are not only easy to keep clean but add to the beauty of the range.

In the ovens of the new ranges, they will find linings and oven bottom covers which can be readily detached and taken to the sink for cleaning, should a cherry pie go on a temperamental juicy jag. On some models, the entire top section is hinged or removable to provide access to the burners and tray.

Coahoma Pastors To Observe Navy Day

COAHOMA, Oct. 18 (Sp.)—Pastors of three churches in Coahoma will cooperate in observance of Navy Day, October 27, by dedicating a sermon on Sunday, October 26, to the men in their congregations now serving in the navy. American Legion officials are aiding the pastors by furnishing them with data on which a Navy Day sermon may be based, according to Burr Brown, commander of the Coahoma post.

The popularity of the dessert bridge the year 'round places recipes for luscious sweets, especially those which can be prepared in advance, in great demand.

Chocolate Bits Chiffon Pie "baked" in the refrigerator is a new favorite. Attractive, inexpensive, easy-to-prepare, it is a never-fail for the novice as well as the expert. Try the chiffon pie recipe given below. It makes a delicious dessert for party day or any day.

- Chocolate Bits Chiffon Pie
Amount: One 9" Pie
- 1 Tablespoon gelatin
 - 1/4 Cup cold water
 - 1/2 Cup hot coffee
 - 1 Box or 1 heaping cup chocolate bits, melted
 - 4 Eggs, separated
 - 1/2 Cup sugar
 - 1/2 Teaspoon salt
 - 1 Teaspoon vanilla
 - 1 9-inch baked pie shell
 - Whipped Cream

1. Soften gelatin in cold water.
2. Mix hot coffee and chocolate until smooth in top of double boiler over hot water.
3. Add softened gelatin to hot chocolate mixture and stir until dissolved.
4. Add egg yolks (slightly beaten), 1/4 cup sugar, salt, vanilla.

5. Cool and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which the remaining 1/4 cup sugar has been added.
6. Fill 9" baked pie shell and chill in refrigerator. Just before serving, spread thin layer of whipped cream over pie.

Here are a few "Do You Know" pointers about chiffon pie:

1. The gelatin base assures you a filling which will stand up regardless of heat and time.
2. The coffee is the secret of the true chocolate flavor of this recipe. Coffee in combination with chocolate always intensifies the chocolate flavor.
3. To blend the beaten egg yolks completely without cooking them first, mix a small portion of the hot chocolate combination with them before adding them to the rest of the hot chocolate mixture.
4. Beating the egg whites until stiff but not dry gives best results.
5. You can pour the filling as soon as it is prepared into a baked pie shell, baking a few extra pie shells in advance saves time. When a pie shell is needed simply reheat one in the oven for a few minutes.

Admiration Coffee Especially Blended For Southwest Folk

In The Herald Cooking school this week there will be numberless demonstrations and illustrations of short cuts to finer menus, and more efficient and effective kitchen and home activities. It is safe to say that in no other cooking school will there be more interesting plans and demonstrations carried out in such a manner as to make it easier for housewives to find more time for other activities and, at the same time, arrange more delightful, attractive and novel dishes and menus.

E. M. DUNCAN,

Coffee, the symbol of real democracy, good fellowship and mental completion, will come in for many interesting and new demonstrations. Use of the famous Admiration coffee, blended and roasted right here in the Southwest for southwestern appetites, will be one of the outstanding features of the cooking school. This finer coffee, of a superior quality and richer flavor, has long since established itself as the most popular brand in the Southwest. And this unimpeachable reputation has extended to other localities and into the Old South, where coffee flavors are recognized and appreciated from a background of many generations. In the cooking school one will learn of the many delightful ways in which Admiration coffee may be prepared and served. It will be clearly demonstrated as to how this finer coffee will give any menu new life and new enjoyment. It was once an ambition of the Duncan Coffee company, importers and roasters of Admiration coffee, to fashion the flavor and quality to actually "fit" the Southwestern appetite. Now it has become a tradition, for Admiration coffee graces the tables of more people in the Southwest than any other brand. Taste-wise people in the Southwest know finer coffee and the demonstrations of this famous coffee in the cooking school will prove the unanimous choice of these exacting coffee drinkers. It is suggested that those who attend the cooking school be sure to bring a pencil and notebook to record the many interesting methods and surprising new ways to prepare and serve Admiration coffee. Many people fail to do this and, after the school is over, find it difficult to remember certain ways of preparing or serving coffee with other foods. It is a fact that Admiration coffee makes good foods taste still better and you'll want to record these many new coffee recipes.

Miss Laneous Notes

There's an art to keeping warm at a football game. An art we've never learned. Everybody takes a blanket and seem to keep snug and warm at least from an outsider's point of view.

But our blankets that we tuck carefully around our toes, never stay there. Sometimes we spy our blanket half way down the aisle warming somebody else. Sometimes, it's around our neck. The thing gets unmanageable!

Just how we get in such messes is hard to see when we start out like everybody else and wrap it scientifically about us. But the first thing we know the man in front is handing our blanket back to us. He evidently is tired of it drooped over his head.

We tuck and twist and get the warmer-upper around us again. But then somebody makes a touchdown, or something happens. The next time we look the blanket is on the seat next to us where nobody else is getting its benefits.

The only thing that we can think of is to calm down a little when we venture forth to see the games. But that's like telling a child he can't have candy. It's no fun. If a body can't yip a little in the exciting moments, why go. There is always tidily winks for the quiet souls.

Here's A Hint—

Women Can Accomplish More Just By Being Womanly, Actress Says

(Third of a series of interviews in which prominent women discuss what's right and what's wrong with the fair sex.)

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer

Women's greatest strength is old-fashioned womanliness.

So says Ika Chase (Mrs. William Murray), New York actress and radio star. When I asked her what she thought was right and wrong with women, this most modern of moderns said:

"I feel kind of old-fashioned about it. I still think women can do the most good just by being womanly. Loving their men, comforting them, encouraging them, standing by. All this adds up to their greatest strength.

"I don't say women shouldn't put their ability to use or that careers aren't worth while. But to me men come first, though the career runs a close second. It's almost neck and neck.

"I've one or two good men friends. If they asked me to drop work a few hours to help them because they were in a jam, I'd do it. Of course, not if I were writing radio script against a deadline, for heaven's sake!"

Ika Chase
"... women can do the most good just by being womanly."

Then Miss Chase curled up in a chair in her chocolate and chateau drawing room and launched into a further discussion of women's good qualities.

"Women are marvelous in what they have achieved in the length of time they have been at work outside the home. Look at the positions they hold today in education. Everyone knows how important that field is, for the hope of the world is to get 'em young and train 'em. In fashion and the merchandising world they do remarkable things—head designing establishments and big department stores.

"Women are generous too. They are more willing to give others a break than men. They aren't always trying to keep the reins in their own hands. They are delighted to find a young able person to whom they can delegate some responsibility.

"Women have clarity of vision. They're quicker to catch on to what's coming and needed than men. Women have more mental agility than men and as much nervous stamina and staying power.

"They are strong at anything that has to do with conserving. Men are destroyers. It's men who make wars and destruction. Women know it takes nine months to form a human body and they value life. Their supervision of their households has also taught them the value of conservation.

"They have another quality, too. No matter how hard they work lots of them manage to look pretty and attractive as they sit behind their desks."

work for a few dollars a week in shops, travel in crowded subways, live in a poorly furnished little room—and have guts and gaiety through that."

Her brown eyes lit up.

"As far as what's wrong with women is concerned, I think any weaknesses they have belong to the race. They're not peculiar to either sex. Men say women talk a lot. Well, look around any office any time and see who is talking and making the most noise. Men

"Women are no worse gossip and no cattier than men either. Men are petty. They cheat, backbite and gossip. People talk about the way women gossip in hair-dressing salons. I'd just love to be in a man's barbershop when the boys are dishing the dirt.

"Women have a lot of fine qualities and they're using them the best they can. And when it comes to weakness they're no worse than men."

"Women are generous too. They are more willing to give others a break than men. They aren't always trying to keep the reins in their own hands. They are delighted to find a young able person to whom they can delegate some responsibility.

Banquet-Dance Held By Members Of Sub Deb Club

A banquet preceding the football game and sport dance after the game was held Friday night by the Sub Deb club at the Crawford hotel.

Pledges, who are going through probation week, had to eat a "square meal" at the banquet. Such a procedure is done by moving arms in a square before eating.

Following the game over 100 persons attended the dance at the Crawford ballroom that netted the group approximately $15. Several guests from Lamesa attended.

Next meeting of the club is to be Monday night in the home of Robbie Piner. Hope Sisson was hostess for the last session with Robbie Piner presiding.

Extension To Co-op Lines Energized

Nine miles of the 38-mile extension of the Caprock Electric Co-operative in Midland county were energized Thursday, according to O. R. Bryan, superintendent. Cutting current in was delayed by wiring of homes.

Wires for the balance of the extension is due to be shipped to the contractor, McClure Electric Co., of Dallas on Oct. 29. Thus, it would appear that work likely cannot be resumed before the middle of November.

McClure, who got contract on the 163-mile "B" section of the co-operative, has asked for a shipment date on materials for the job. There is no indication when this work may get beyond the staking stages.

Dallas Leads In Building Permits

By The Associated Press

Fair To Open Thursday In Dawson Co.

LAMESA, Oct. 18 (Sp)—The annual Dawson county fair opens here Thursday for a three-day stand, and indications are that it will be better than ever.

Fair officials expect new housing facilities to aid in a more complete presentation of Dawson county products, and with a good crop year in swing, the quality of agricultural exhibits is expected to be up.

Lamesa merchants hung out banners this week welcoming visitors to the fair, and with the free gate attraction in force for the second consecutive year, crowds are due to increase.

Ribbons and cash awards will be presented in all divisions of judging.

Some 15 to 18 soldiers from the U.S. army supply depot at San Antonio will be on hand to give demonstration of how the army cooks for its men in wartime.

Non-Defense Budget Cuts Are Suggested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The budget bureau made it clear today that any major reductions in non-defense spending would necessitate sharp cuts in appropriations which always have powerful congressional support, such as those for farm benefits, work relief and the aid-to-youth program.

Without making any recommendations, the bureau sent to the capitol a report showing how congress could cut non-defense expenditures by $1,000,000,000, by $1,500,000,000 and by $2,000,000,000. It was submitted in response to a senate finance committee request and is expected to provide the basis for a forthcoming economy study by a special senate-house committee.

Showdown Near On U.S. Labor Policies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The senate defense investigating committee disclosed today that it would seek a showdown on the government's labor policies in the construction field by calling Sidney Hillman, John L. Lewis and William Green for joint testimony next Wednesday concerning a Wayne county, Mich., housing project.

Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) said the committee desired to ask Hillman, co-director of the office of production management, in the presence of Lewis and Green for an explanation of why a contract has not been awarded to the F. J. Currier Lumber company of Detroit which says it was low bidder on the project by $431,000.

Texas Allowable Continues Increase

AUSTIN, Oct. 18 (AP)—A 1,481,969-barrel average daily allowable for Texas oil wells in the next week entered today exceeded last week's allowable by 2,748 barrels, the railroad commission reported.

The daily permissible was 73,936 barrels in excess of the bureau of mines' recommendation for market demand but actual daily flow, calculated on a normal underproduction of 3.5 per cent of allowable, was estimated to be only 21,808 barrels above the bureau standard.

The number of Texas wells increased 115 to 98,312.

Texans Object To Speeches By Isolationists

By JOE BELDEN
Texas Surveys of Public Opinion

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Whether a majority of the people of Texas believe in free speech becomes questionable in view of a statewide survey just completed. Only 28 per cent, or less than two out of every five Texas adults, would at this time allow Senator Burton K. Wheeler or Charles A. Lindbergh the use of municipal parks and auditoriums.

"Do you agree or disagree," the surveys asked a representative sample of people, "with officials of some Texas cities who would deny Lindbergh and Wheeler permission to speak in city auditoriums and parks?" The state-wide results: Would not let them speak 62%
Would let them speak 38%
(Six per cent expressed no opinion. If this undecided element is considered, then 59 per cent agree and 39 per cent disagree.)

An interesting difference in opinion occurs between men and women, the survey indicates. Women appear considerably more willing to let Wheeler and Lindbergh have their way wherever they choose:

	Men	Women
Would not let them speak	65%	57%
Would let them speak	35%	43%

Lone Wolf Co-op To Extend Lines

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 18 (Sp)—Engineers are due to be in Colorado City within the next two weeks to draw up plans and stake the routes for additional rural electrification lines to be built by the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative of Colorado City with a $94,000 allotment approved recently in Washington.

The new lines will cover 121 miles and serve approximately 223 consumers. Tentative route for the main line starts northwest of Westbrook, goes through the Carr section to Vincent in Howard county, back into Scurry county at Knapp, and then into Borden county nearly to the B-R ranch. Another extension will connect with present lines at South Champlion in Nolan county and go south and east to the White Hat ranch. Short taps will be built in Mitchell county, one of them southwest of Westbrook down to the Witt Hines farm.

Contract will probably be ready for letting around the first of the year, according to O. I. Griffin, project superintendent.

Already under contract is an extension of 25 miles to serve 122 consumers in parts of Nolan and Scurry county and the southern

Letters Urge Contributions To Red Cross

Lawyers To Fight Illegal Practice

AUSTIN, Oct. 18. (SP)—Chairman of 21 district grievance committees of the state bar of Texas today announced policies under which the groups will launch a program to curb unauthorized practice of law and discipline bar members guilty of malpractice.

Paul H. Brown of Harlingen, spokesman, said the chairmen hereafter would meet in Austin each October and April and that district committees would have staged meetings each September, January and April.

He declared the district groups would be extra vigilant against unauthorized practice of law by real estate agents, title companies, banks and trust companies and notaries.

Letters Urge Contributions To Red Cross

Letters have gone out to concerns and individuals asking them to consider the amount of contribution they can make toward helping meet a doubled Red Cross quota this year.

Shine Phillips, who is handling this special work in advance of the regular roll call which starts on Nov. 11, said that several had made sizeable gifts and that he anticipated a generous response. Moreover, he was confident that the bulk of the special solicitations would be out of the way before the main campaign.

Charles Girdner, who will direct the commercial unit roll call among firms employing 10 or more, has called for his supplies.

Meanwhile other details of the drive are shaping up under the direction of Roy E. Reeder, roll call chairman this year. Reeder has perfected one of the most complete roll call organizations in many seasons.

The job is to be a challenging one, for the Howard-Glasscock chapter has a quota of approximately $4,000, which is double that of last year in keeping with a national increase in goals to meet the current emergency.

Publicity committee appointments announced included Rupert Phillips, billboard advertising; Jack Wallace, radio; Will Hayden and E. L. K. Rice, press; and J. Y. Robb, motion pictures.

Executive Of Scouts To Talk At Lubbock

Efforts will be started this week to secure a representative delegation to go to Lubbock on Thursday to hear Dr. James E. West, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

Indications were that there would be three cars of scouters go from Big Spring with Dr. W. H. Hardy, district chairman, in charge. At Sweetwater, Charles E. Faxton, Buffalo Trail council, said he expected an attendance of 70 men from this area at the sub-regional meet.

Dr. West, who has served as chief scout executive since the Boy Scouts were chartered by congress, recently was awarded the annual Parents Magazine medal for outstanding service to children. The presentation will be made Monday at Washington, D. C.

While preparations are being made for attending the important meeting, finishing touches will be put to the finance campaign here under direction of Elmo Wasson, finance chairman.

The amount subscribed to the Boy Scout council here last week stood at $2,700 with the Rotary club team turning in the biggest portion of the total. A. V. Karcher's team ranked first with $300 pledged. Hack Wright was high individual with $121, and others close behind were Jack Roden, Karcher and Harold Akey. The Kiwanis club, second only to the Rotary, got most pledges through the work of Robert Stripling, aided by J. C. Allen and Byron Fullerton, who worked the sustaining member lists. Sizeable totals were secured by Lions and ABC club teams.

GLADIOLA FLOUR

Unusual quality

Why WE ARE USING GLADIOLA FLOUR (EXCLUSIVELY) at the

- 1 → Gladiola is a true "all-purpose" flour. Perfect for biscuits, bread, pastries and cakes alike — with Gladiola you need no other flour.
- 2 → Gladiola Flour is an "all-cook" as well as an "all-purpose" flour. Gladiola will give YOU in YOUR kitchen the same fine results we get at the cooking school. Your baking will be fail-proof, the "Gladiola Way."
- 3 → Gladiola is GOOD flour. In most of your baking — biscuits, bread, pie crust and many cakes — the flavor and goodness come from the flour. No fancy flavors, no pretty coloring to cover up the flat, tough, grey baking you always get from cheap flour.

Hull Again Will Handle Hudson Line

Appointment of Emmet Hull Motor company as Hudson dealer for Big Spring was announced Saturday, with Hull inviting the public to visit his showrooms at 104 East First to see the new 1942 Hudson line.

Hull, veteran in automotive circles here, is re-affiliating with Hudson, a line he handled for some years before a change made recently.

He cited sales and service facilities at his location, and said he hoped all motorists would call at his place to inspect these as well as the new Hudsons.

"Spotlighted by a wholly new development in driving ease known as the Hudson Drive-Master, three new lines of Hudson cars for 1942 will be on display," Hull declared.

"Engineered to meet today's requirements and headlined as cars built to serve better, last longer and cost less to run, all three new lines of Hudson cars maintain the high standards of quality and value traditional in the company's 22-year history," Hull said in describing the new models.

"Featured for '42 in all new Hudson models are longer, lower, more flowing body lines, sleeker at the front to conceal the new wide safety running boards. New front-end and fender styling. Mechanical refinements in operating economy and long life. Improved riding comfort. New upholstery fabrics of greater beauty and durability and numerous other betterments, including an extension of color harmonies offered by Synphonic Styling, a standard feature introduced to the industry by Hudson.

"In the lowest price field, Hudson offers a new six DeLuxe model, mounted on 118-inch wheelbase and powered with a 6-cylinder, 92-horsepower Hudson engine, holder of 81 official endurance and performance records.

"Priced just above the lowest in a new Super-Six presented as the greatest value Hudson has ever offered in this price range. Mounted on 121-inch wheel-base and powered with a 103-horsepower engine, the new Super-Six is distinctively styled.

"The new Hudson Commodore series rounds out the 1942 line. These models are distinguished by a more massive front-end design, new streamlined simplicity in frontal hood treatment, added decorative mouldings and many new interior style and comfort features."

He Doesn't Join to See World
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—After traveling 55,000 miles in his 21 years of life, Thomas Gordon Russell decided to settle down—so he came to Salt Lake City and joined the marines. He explained that the eight-week training period at San Diego would be his longest period of "staying put" since his journeys began.

Fast Record Good — Red Cross Has More Work For Local Women

Big Spring is full of busy women who really don't have much to do.

Sound funny? Yes, but no funnier than the fact that the Howard-Glasscock Red Cross chapter ranks first in the per capita production of knitted and sewed goods for all of Texas simply because a comparative handful of women have been faithful workers.

There's no telling what can be done if enough women in the territory get wise to the fact that it's fun and fashionable to join in the Red Cross knitting and sewing program.

The most certain thing about it all is that there are some 4,000 yards of cloth, stacked all over the new quarters in the federated club building on the southwest corner of the courthouse square, waiting to be made into garments; that there are more than 1,000 pounds of wool yarn waiting to be knitted into garments.

But it's not a hopeless task. In fact, Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle, executive secretary of the Red Cross, and other of her steady helpers are happier now than ever before. They have permanent working quarters provided by the county, 12 machines included with the quarters, some storage space, cutting tables, well lighted working space — in fact they have everything that 30 women could want.

Already two organizations have spoken for use of the work room for two days a month, and there appears to be a revival of interest at hand. Some church units are knitting and sewing at their churches, and in the rural area some garments are being produced by the women.

To be made as such articles as complete layettes, sweaters, dresses, toboggans, knitted caps, snow suits, quilts, shawls, socks, mittens, scarfs and others.

First Aid Course At Colorado City Slated

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 18 (Sp). A Red Cross first aid course is to start Monday evening at the welfare office in Colorado City. It was announced this week by W. R. Charters, first aid chairman of the Mitchell county Red Cross chapter.

Teacher will be Clyde P. Findley. Classes will be held from 7 until 8 each Monday night for ten weeks. Members of the Business and Professional Women's club plan to take the course.

Cotton Parity Checks Continue To Arrive

Although the total received is already higher than had been expected for the entire county, cotton parity checks continue to arrive at the county AAA office.

Saturday 79 checks totaling $4,738 were received, bringing the total to 1,531 checks for $134,468.

Applications are now being assigned for 1941 soil conservation payments. As fast as each farmer's compliance is checked and his application filled out, he is sent a card notifying him to appear at the office and sign applications.

Thus no farmer need appear before receiving a card.

"...the pick of the field"

"The new Ford is my pick of the field," said Mrs. Cora Wilson, Herald Cooking School conductor, as she called to select a car for her personal use while in Big Spring. "Although I don't know anything about the mechanics of an automobile other than to turn the switch and press the starter, I do know that my Ford serves every need ECONOMICALLY, and right now—more than ever before—every economic contribution to the total operating cost of any home is certainly to be appreciated."

The new Ford will more than do its part to save money in any family—whether you select the DeLuxe or Super DeLuxe in a "6" or V-8. Its new styling and interior treatment is entirely fresh, distinctive and pleasing; the beauty of the '42 Ford will more than hold its own in any company!

Modest Menu Has Plenty Of Vitamins

With Americans growing more and more conscious of the need for adequate vitamins and minerals in diet, menus selected according to the amount of these necessities are increasingly important.

Scientists and culinary experts have demonstrated that expensive meals and foods are not an essential to good diet; as a matter of fact, well-balanced menus can be made up at low cost. Mrs. Cora Wilson, lecturer for this week's Herald cooking school, has suggested two menus that may be used as an example. The first she has designated as a "moderate income" menu; the second as a "low income" menu:

MODERATE INCOME MENU
Breakfast—Orange juice, assorted cereals, jelly omelet, broiled link sausage, whole wheat buttered toast, milk or coffee.

Lunch—Pepper pot ring, scalloped celery and carrots, tossed spinach salad, banana tea bread, KC master muffin-butter, milk.
Dinner—Congee, fruit salad, national defense pot roast-gravy, carrots, onions and potatoes, (cooked around roast), hot cross buns-butter, ice cream-puzzle cake, coffee or milk.

LOW INCOME MENU
Breakfast—Chilled tomato juice, whole wheat cereal, scrambled eggs, crisp bacon, toast, coffee or milk.
Lunch—Boiled spareribs, sauerkraut, boiled potatoes in jackets—buttered, black eyed peas, bread pudding with lemon sauce, milk.

Dinner—Apple-raisin salad, breaded ground beef steak—onion gravy, mashed rutabagas, creamed peas, peach cobbler, hot rolls, coffee, milk or hot chocolate.

TENDER green beans wrapped in flaky biscuit dough and served hot with cheese sauce make an excellent all-out-for-defense food. Full of appetite appeal as well as food values, these individual rolls are complete luncheons. A molded vegetable or fruit salad is good with them. So are luscious thick slices of cold tomatoes. Or omit a salad and follow this easy main course with a salad plate of fresh fruit and cottage cheese. This is a dessert salad that makes pleasant eating.

For variety, in color as well as in flavor, julienne carrots may be used instead of string beans. A good idea is to fill some of the rolls with carrots and some with string beans. When arranged on a platter they make a most colorful, tempting meal.

BUNNY BEAN LUNCH
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
2/3 to 3/4 cup milk
1 pound string beans, cooked
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 1/2 minute. Roll out 1/4 inch thick. Cut dough into 4-inch squares. Place 6 or 7 buttered and seasoned whole beans on each square of dough. Roll the dough around the vegetable and seal edges well. Place on greased baking sheet and bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Serve with Creamy Cheese Sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

Creamy Cheese Sauce
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup grated cheese

Melt butter and stir in flour. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Boil sauce until it thickens. Cook 3 minutes. Add seasonings. Add cheese and stir over low heat until cheese is melted. Yield: 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Social Security Agent Describes 'Casual Labor'

Because many people do not understand the meaning of the words "casual labor" as used in the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the social security act, Robert M. Mayo, manager of the Social Security Board's field office at Big Spring has issued the following statement:

"The social security act provides that 'casual labor not in the course of the employer's trade or business' shall not count toward old-age insurance benefits. However, any work which advances or promotes the business of the employer is not counted as 'casual labor,' no matter how small the job is or how little it takes. For example, work performed by a carpenter who is employed by a storeowner to build an addition to the store, to put in shelves or to do some other job in connection with the store is not 'casual labor' because this work does not advance or promote the storeowner's business. Work for a corporation is never 'casual labor' even though it is occasional, incidental, or irregular, because a corporation has no authority to employ anybody for work which does not advance or promote its business. In other words no work for a corporation can be 'casual labor.'

"Whenever the work performed does not advance or promote the employer's business, the Social Security Board takes into consideration the size of the job. For example, the board assumes that work for a private person in the building of a garage or an addition to his home is not 'casual labor,' if the person who did the work was employed for more than 10 days in any one month or during two consecutive months, or the job required more than 200 hours of work by all persons engaged. "In short, whether a particular job or piece of work is 'casual labor' depends on the facts in each case. Therefore, whenever a worker or an employer is in doubt, the best thing to do is to ask the nearest Social Security Board office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue."
