By ED HAYES WILSON
Daily News Staff Writer

It works the world over, Alaska notwithstanding — tell 'em how big Texas is and they'll never believe it. Never, that is, until they arrive at the Top O' Texas and scan a map to pinpoint, say, Brownsville. That convinces all skeptics, but not all.

It was the same with three Japanese technicians who have been visiting Cabot Corporation as a part of a program that will bring Japanese technical experts to this country. They think Texas is big. They believe the weather is good and they think the people are just great.

They boiled down the treatment they have received from everyone they have met to one word: Wonderful.

In a meeting with these men this week in the Coronado Inn, their home while in Pampa, the discussion ranged from their jobs at home, their education, their hopes for the future, what they expect to do on their visit here and elsewhere, and Japan's rebound in national stature since the end of World War II.

Of the last, they were of common accord that their homeland "had come a long way, but that it still has great strides to make, industry-wise."

These fellows are showing extreme interest in things that will aid them to boost production in their firms in the Orient. They talk it with all who have knowledge that may aid them and their viewing of work at Cabot has been most studious.

Russ Allow Mrs. Powers To Visit With Husband

MOSCOW (UPI)—Mrs. Barbara Powers visited her husband in his jail cell in private for more than an hour Wednesday, it was disclosed today. The surprise visit came as an interlude in her efforts to win his freedom.

Francis Gary Powers, the convicted U-2 pilot, and his plumpish, brunette wife from Milledgeville, Ga., were alone in the cell. No guards were present and the door was closed.

The reunion was their first alone since Powers took off from Turkey last May 1 for his fateful flight deep into the Soviet Union.

The meeting was disclosed by Mrs. Powers' attorneys, Frank Rogers and Alexander Parker, at a press conference held on the eve of her departure from the Soviet Union.

The attorneys had just presented a petition to the Soviet Union asking clemency for Powers and seeking a meeting between Barbara and President Leonid Brezhnev.

"When she returned from the prison she was much brighter than we've ever seen her," Parker said. "The meeting was quite a shot in the arm."

55 Dead In Bus Plunge

SAN JOSE DO RIO PRETO, Brazil (UPI)—A bus carrying 59 students plunged off the road into the Rio Turvo Wednesday night, killing 55 of those aboard.

The accident occurred near Olimpia, about midway between San Jose Do Rio Preto and Barretos, 40 miles to the northeast. San Jose Do Rio Preto is in the interior about 156 miles northwest of Sao Paulo.

The victims were members of the San Jose Do Rio Preto school band traveling to Barretos to take part in the city's anniversary celebrations.

Authorities said 45 bodies were recovered by this morning.

Consumer Price Index Rises For Fifth Consecutive Month

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of living rose to a record high in July for the fifth consecutive month, the government reported today.

The consumer price index went up 0.1 per cent to a July reading of 126.8. This meant that goods and services bought by the average middle-income city family cost 26.8 per cent more last month than in 1947-49.

Thus, the same items that cost the consumer $10 a little more than a decade ago would now cost him $12.68.

Despite the fact that the price index has been rising steadily since February, Bureau of Labor statistics commissioner Ewan Clague said no threat of inflation

Congo Tribal Chief Asks Troop Aid From Katanga

Civil War Appears Certain

By GLENNE CURRIE
United Press International

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Baluba tribal leader Albert Kalonji appealed today to Katanga President Moise Tshombe for military aid to fight off Congolese troops now sweeping rapidly through his so-called "mining state" in a move that threatened civil war.

The Congolese troops were part of forces being massed by Central Government Premier Patrice Lumumba for action against secessionists in Katanga and Kasai provinces.

Tshombe replied to Kalonji that he would supply arms but was holding his own troops in the Katanga to defend the mineral-rich area against the attack which he felt could be expected when the Congolese forces have crushed the "mining state."

The Congolese troops — on orders from Lumumba — were airlifted to Lulabourg, the capital of the Kasai Province, on Tuesday and Wednesday aboard requisitioned Belgian Sabena airliners.

Today they were reported to be concentrating in the towns of Gandajika and Luputa. They evidently boarded trains in Lulabourg and advanced down the single railway in the area of Luputa.

This put them about 31 miles from the border of Katanga and right in the center of the "mining state."

There were no reports of resistance to the Congolese advance from the estimated 250 Baluba warriors and 200 soldiers hurriedly assembled by Kalonji.

United Nations officials here said they knew nothing of the Congolese advance into the Kasai region, but pointed out that this area lies outside the newly formed U.N. eastern command which is under the command of Irish Col. Harry Byrne. The officials said U.N. forces would not interfere as it was an internal question.

Atomic Sub Feat Near

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The atomic submarine Seadragon, with bow-mounted TV cameras to help find the way, was due to reach the North Pole today after making the fabled Northwest Passage a reality at last.

In the sub's log, as it nears 90 degrees north, was the record of a voyage that widened the potential of Arctic sea operations for war or peace.

It now was an accomplished feat that nuclear subs could transit the icy, island-filled waters of north Canada, just as they earlier charted a course under the frozen Arctic Ocean.

New routes between the Atlantic and the Pacific — alternates to the Panama Canal and Cape Horn — now were on the map.

The potentialities of the arctic as a possible operating area for us.

The Seadragon, which joins the Pacific fleet after a detour to the pole, made the first transit of the shortest route across the Canadian archipelago.

In six days, from Aug. 15 to Aug. 21, Cmdr. George P. Steele II took his ship over the 850-mile passage that has been the quest of explorers since John and Sebastian Cabot began looking for a short cut to the Pacific for merchant ships in 1502.

The Navy, which has its share of cargo submarine advocates, hailed the cruise as a history-making voyage that blazed a trail for possible commercial as well as military operations.

In addition to charting the new route through the channels north of Canada, the Seadragon was the first submersible to dive under an iceberg, going down to 108 feet. Later it capped that performance by cruising under another giant berg — 1,470 feet long — at a depth of more than 300 feet.

Brands Johnson 'Judas Goat'

Political 'Threats' Cited By Tower

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—John G. Tower, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, charged Wednesday night that Texas oilmen have been threatened with economic reprisals if they do not support Lyndon Johnson.

He also accused Democrats of waging a pressure campaign against Texas attorneys, and branded Johnson a "Judas goat."

Tower, a former government professor at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls, spoke to some 1500 persons at a Bexar County rally.

"Lawyers who practice before state agencies have told me they have had pressure brought to bear on them," Tower said. "And oil men have been threatened with a cut in the depletion allowance if they fail to support Johnson."

"Johnson has embraced the most radical platform ever adopted by any political party in this country. He is a 'Judas goat' who is supposed to lead Texas and the other southern states—and the border and western states as well—blindly into the Democratic fold in November."

There was a large banner hanging at the rally. It said: "Texans all agree—it's nice to have a chance to vote against Lyndon Tower."

Tower said Johnson is a "cunning and powerful man; a vain and ambitious man who has turned his back on his state... a flagrant abuse of great power in his campaign for election as vice president and reelection as senator."

Tower and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., will appear at a luncheon Friday in Dallas, then move to Houston for the official GOP campaign kickoff Friday night.

Tonight, Tower plans to speak in Austin.

He held a news conference at the state capital Wednesday and predicted that the National Republican party will play a larger role in Texas politics this year than ever before, and said evidence of this was Goldwater's help in opening the campaign.

There had been reports that former Gov. Allan Shivers might be asked to take Tower's place running against Johnson.

But Tower said "the party has given me every assurance that they want me as their candidate."

Another former governor, Coke Stevenson, earlier Wednesday endorsed Tower and said he regretted not being able to attend the Austin rally.

Stevenson asked GOP leader Rod Kennedy to relay the message that he is "supporting John G. Tower and I am doing all I can for him in my region."

Cuba Ready To Declare Itself Enemy Of U.S.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI)—Cuba was expected to storm out of the hemisphere foreign ministers conference today after formally proclaiming itself an enemy of the United States and the inter-American system.

A general condemnation of Fidel Castro's Communist alliances, joined in even by the more moderate Latin republics, appeared almost certain to follow.

Cuba's Raul Roa was the main speaker at the conference went into its fourth and possibly last session and he vowed to hold the floor "perhaps seven hours—perhaps one hundred."

Informed sources said Roa was under new orders from Havana to make clear once and for all Cuba's scorn for the United States and the "pawns" which sit with it in the Organization of American States (OAS).

The clue to what would happen when the diplomat was finished came in the announcement that a special airliner was arriving from Havana today, ostensibly to take home some Cuban newsmen. Most observers believed Roa and his delegation actually were the scheduled passengers.

Conference Chairman Julio Cesar Turbay Ayala of Colombia said late Wednesday night Roa had assured him there would be no walkout. At the same time, however, the Cuban requested that the order of speakers be reversed so that he appeared last.

The pattern for Roa's denunciation was set Wednesday by Castro in a two-hour harangue denouncing the United States as an "enemy of humanity," mocking the present inter-American system as a creation of "Yankee imperialism" and boasting that Russia and Red China "are our friends."

Posse In Search For Sniper

DENVER (UPI)—A sniper has the residents of a mountainous section southwest of Denver up in arms.

Armed men in jeeps and on horseback searched the Deer Creek Canyon area between the tiny communities of Phillipsburg and Critchell, Colo., about 20 miles southwest of Denver, until early this morning. The exhausted volunteers in the Jefferson County sheriff's jeep patrol and mounted posse abandoned their search until later today, shortly after midnight.

They had been searching for a man, apparently armed with a .25-caliber rifle, who fired on four youngsters Tuesday night. Residents said this wasn't the first time someone had been fired on.

Religion Still Plague Item For Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The religious issue which Sen. John F. Kennedy "buried in the hills of West Virginia" still plagued the Democrats today in their campaign to elect him to the White House.

While leaders of both parties deplore recognition of Kennedy's Catholic faith as a campaign issue, most of them agree with President Eisenhower's news conference comment Wednesday that it will be an issue anyway in some areas.

The issue is a source of worry heavily Protestant Southern and border states and in some of the rural areas of the Midwest.

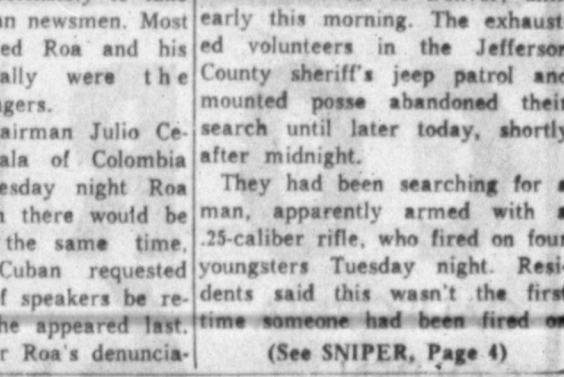

Yet it was only three months ago that Kennedy said the issue had been buried in West Virginia, where he crushed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in a presidential primary.

Kennedy's campaign organization announced Wednesday that it was setting up a special section in its headquarters "to deal broadly with the religious problem."

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said the office would clear up questions asked by voters with written answers on how Kennedy feels about government aid to parochial schools and a U.S. ambassador to the Vatican.

Kennedy is opposed to both proposals.

Salinger denied that the new move reflected increased worry over the religious issue.

CLIBURN AND SPACE DOGS — Pianist Van Cliburn of Kilgore, Tex., in the Soviet Union for a concert tour, holds the two Russian space dogs, Strelka, right, and Belka that the Soviets claim they returned safely from space.

Colons Split On Trujillo Sanction Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was riding in opposing directions today in attempting to shape U.S. policy toward Dictator Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

On the one hand, the lawmakers seemed determined to prod the Eisenhower administration into cutting off economic aid to any country which ships arms to the Trujillo regime.

On the other hand, Congress appeared likely to spurn the administration's urgent plea for an economic crackdown against Trujillo himself. Democratic farm leaders denounced the administration for asking power to cancel the "windfall" sugar quota of 1,000 tons which Congress handed to the Dominican Republic two months ago.

Nevertheless, little opposition was voiced Wednesday when the Senate on its own initiative wrote the foreign aid money bill for the President to cut aid to nations which ship arms to either the Trujillo regime or Cuba's anti-American regime.

The Senate House conference committee today decided the fate of these two legislative riders. The conferees were expected to hammer out a compromise between the Senate's $3,540,000 aid bill with a $3,589,000 House-passed version. The administration requested $4,281,000.

Foreign Commentary

By CHARLES R. SMITH
United Press International

TOKYO (UPI)—Forget all this talk about a rift between Russia and Communist China. It just isn't so—yet.

That's the studied opinion of some of the most informed observers of Communist China and of Sino-Russian relations.

Disagreement, yes. But a serious rift, no.

Even the disagreements that arise occasionally — or perhaps frequently — probably are no more serious than the disagreements that occur frequently between the United States and some of her closest Allies, such as Great Britain.

The dispute between the two countries over the interpretation of Marxist-Leninist dogma bears some significance and may be the seeds for future serious disagreements. But at the present time it is not nearly so important as some Western quarters have appeared to make it, according to some students of Sino-Soviet affairs here.

The reported mass exodus of Russian technicians from Communist China may or may not be true and it may bear some significance. But to attach great significance to it and interpret it as a sign of a widening rift between the two Communist giants is going too far afield.

Some reports say the Communist Chinese are getting ready to challenge the Russians for the leadership of the Communist bloc. But there are few firm signs to back up this speculation. There is little doubt anywhere that the Chinese would dearly love to take over the leadership of the Communist bloc and that someday they may try it. But today is not the day. The considered opinion of some of the closest observers of the China scene here is that this day still is far off.

In fact, hardly a day passes that Communist China does not publicly concede the Soviet Union the position of leadership.

"The East wind continues to prevail over the West wind and the forces of peace over the forces of war," Red China broadcasts blare out almost daily. "and the Socialist bloc under the leadership of the mighty Soviet Union is smashing the imperialists, led by the United States, at every turn."

There is no doubt that the Communist Chinese leaders are perturbed — if not angered — by occasional Russian slurs on their efforts to dominate China, particularly such things as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's reference to the controversial people's communes as "old fashioned."

But such things as this are not likely to drive a wedge between two such powerful nations who need each other as much as the Russians and Chinese need each other.

There is little likelihood in the near future of Russia turning on China or China turning on Russia as they both have on the Yugoslav "revisionists" in spite of their basic disagreements. They need each other too much for that.

Certainly, many observers here believe, this is not likely to happen before American recognition of the Peiping regime.

Peiping's price for this is a series of exhibitions in Japan of Red Chinese workers and peasants, Communist Chinese cartoons and graphic arts, children's paintings and photography and calligraphy.

These exhibits will likely be undisguised propaganda. This was admitted in a meeting of Red Chinese writers and artists earlier this month when Peiping emphasized that art and literature were to be expressions of the Communist party line.

Observers here feel the Peiping propaganda campaign will have little immediate effect. Until Red China comes across with some firm offers of multi-million dollar trade, most responsible officials are going to continue to virtually ignore Mao Tse Tung's scraps of bait.

But if the Communists can plant seeds of good will for their regime, while continuing to pick away at Japanese ties with the United States, the venture might have some success.

They will renew their attacks on the U.S. Japan Security Treaty and continue to link the United States with imperialism and war mongering, observers here predicted. They will try to create doubt in the minds of youngsters regarding advantages of democracy and capitalism, then attempt to prove that Communism is a better way of life.

The Communists have consistently used culture as a selling point and made notable inroads in Asia with this policy.

They ridicule the United States meanwhile by distributing cartoons of President Eisenhower climbing up a rope ladder from a convertible into a helicopter. The reference is incorrect to Eisenhower's June 19 Okinawa visit when 2,000 demonstrators threatened to block his motorcade.

JAPANESE

ryo Co., Ltd., Tokyo, expressed general opinion of the visitors:

"We hope to take home to the workers of our country modes of operation that will speed our industries, make better conditions for the workers and, in general, ease an overall industrial improvement."

"Although we will not be at this point long, I am sure we shall gain from Pampa and the Cabot plantings that will always be near to both in friendship and in industry."

Koji Sato, the brilliant student on a two-year scholarship to Harvard under the sponsorship of the National Cash Register Co., and interpreter for the three technicians, said that his countrymen reached this country, via air, Seattle and then to Amarillo and Pampa.

"They have not been here long enough to reach concrete conclusions on what they may find that will benefit Japanese industry and offer the chances of progress through employee understanding."

"I am sure the benefits they will ultimately be put to the use in Japan."

In talking back and forth the visitors dropped one piece of information that should jar Pampans: They thought Pampa was a great big, Texas size city.

It was pointed out, though, that Japan, most major industries are located in, say, Tokyo, Yokohama, or other larger cities.

A tight schedule will keep the visiting technicians close to work for the time they are here. However, they find time to read (they receive Japanese papers daily) and to relax with coffee or, at times, tea, in the restaurant area off the lobby in the inn.

Monday night they were invited to a party in the home of one of the Cabot officials. But for the most part they are "at home" throughout the evening.

They presumably, prefer it that way. They seem relaxed and calm. They appear content and to have a good understanding that, so many people on specific assignments lack — they are here to do a job, and they are, definitely, getting it done.

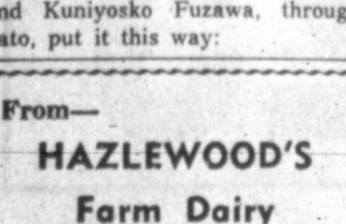

Their visit is a part of the Cabot-Airy-Toaki Electrode program to better production, to increase business understanding and to interchange ideas of the masses.

The group will separate in the next few days, with some going to Lile Platte, La., and then to Big Spring for further studies, prior to assembling for visits Cabot plants in the east before the program agenda takes them to Europe.

Admitting that their prime reason for being here is to learn things that will help them in their chosen fields once they return home, the three visitors still took time to hang out the welcome mat for Top O' Texans to visit Japan and "see our beautiful country."

Burglars Hit Pennant Club

Police today are investigating a burglary at the Pennant Club, 543 West Brown, that netted, among other things, two cases of Coors beer.

Investigating officer Gerold Matson reported that a rear door had been kicked in and a window on the east side of the building had been broken.

Jesse Mayes, who notified police of the break-in early this morning, said that $10 in dimes and $3 in nickels had been taken in addition to the beer.

"We would like to return to you the splendid reception we have received here."

Sato, being "John Harvard," came in for a bit of ribbing during the talks. However, with the unabashed aplomb of a statesman he said, "I refuse to commit myself. I'm neutral."

He was dodging an "Oh, you're a Kennedy-Johnson supporter, are you?" query.

It brought a roar of laughter from his friends when they realized what he had said. For he had explained earlier that he is taking a business course at Harvard, and that he would, despite what his studies might imply, prefer to have a position with United Nations or in government, rather than elsewhere.

It was apparent his friends felt that he was well on his way, if evasion of question, the mark of a statesman and a politician, would determine anything.

Water Shortage Topic At Rotary

A. A. Meredith, director of the Canadian River Dam project, yesterday talked to Pampa Rotarians about the serious prospect of a national water shortage in the years ahead. Pointing out that only about 1 1/2 per cent of rain water found its way into underground reserves, Meredith said the main hope for future generations was in capturing all the surface water possible.

De-salting ocean water is still uneconomical, costing about $1 per 1,000 gallons, the speaker stated.

To give an indication of the amount of rain water lost to the ocean, Meredith pointed out that last year, 581,000 acre feet of flood water passed the site of the proposed Canadian River Dam. This was about three times the annual consumption of the cities in on the project.

Visitors and guests of the club were Toby Gilbert, "Blackie" Blackwell, Fred Thompson, Clinton Evans, Bruce Campbell, Ronald Coleman, John Dial, Gene Snyder and James Jones.

No Need To Get Steamed Up In Kitchen, Simple Cookie Recipes Are Real Cool

The flamboyant eloquence of the state or county fair midway backer points up our summer's end carnival of cookies. Gay but wholesome, these cookies have the appel of a whirling carousel or the whistle of a popcorn wagon.

Match Mocha Brownies with lem-nade or orangeade. Better yet, pair them with pink lemonade.
There's just a hint of sophisticated coffee flavor in these rich chocolate bar cookies. As a dessert at home or on a picnic, they're delectable with fresh fruit.

Skillet Cookies are the coolest cookies you can find. There's no need to heat the oven, the kitchen or yourself in the process of putting together this dessert. Make these cookies on top of the range, stirring the ingredients together in a big skillet. Slice off the finished cookies for snacks or to accompany a frosty scoop of sherbet at the end of a meal.

MOCHA BROWNIES
2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
1-3 cup butter or margarine

1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
2-3 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons instant coffee powder
1/2 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1/2 cup chopped nutmeats
Melt chocolate and butter together in heavy 2-quart saucepan over low heat. Remove from heat. Add sugar and stir until well-blended.
Add eggs and vanilla; beat well.
Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and coffee. Add to chocolate mixture together with All-Bran and nutmeats; mix well. Spread in greased 8 x 8-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.)

about 30 minutes. When cool, frost if desired with confectioners' frosting.
Yield: 16 2-inch squares.
SKILLET COOKIES
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup finely cut pitted dates
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
3 cups Kellogg's Rice Krispies
1/2 cup chopped nutmeats
Confectioners' sugar
Melt butter in skillet. Add dates, granulated sugar and eggs. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture forms a ball (5 to 8 minutes). Remove from heat. Cool slightly. Stir in Rice Krispies and confectioners' sugar lightly waxed nutmeats, mixing well. Sprinkle

confectioners' sugar lightly waxed paper. Shape Rice Krispies mixture into 2 rolls about 2 inches in diameter; roll in confectioners'
sugar. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill.
To serve, cut into slices about 1/4 inch in thickness.
Yield: approximately 5 dozen cookies.
Here is a real treat for friends or family. It is an Apple Honey

As they head back to the campus this fall, many coeds will be taking along easy-care fashions like these. Most will be wise enough to check hangtags before they buy to make sure just what performance they can expect from their new fall wardrobes. This coed wears (left) the 1960 put-over in a belted version made of Orion. Put-over can be machine washed in lukewarm soapsuds. Bulky woolen turtleneck sweater (center) gets a hand-washing in lukewarm soapy water. It will keep its bright colors through many washings. This wool put-over (right) can be hand-washed... will need no blocking. It comes with skirt dyed-to-match. To be on safe side, follow manufacturer's washing directions carefully.

Be Campus Beauty With Easy Care Wardrobe

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise
Beauty Editor

This year, more than ever before, the college girl can be well dressed, with no strain on her budget.

Thanks to synthetic yarns, sweaters, always popular on campus, can be machine washed. Many can even be machine dried. They're moderately priced and beautifully styled in the new fashionable argyles, jacquards, paisleys, tapestries and geometrics.

The girl who is going away to college for the first time should realize that the neat, fresh appearance of her clothing will be her

Lacy, Steve Pennington, Carol Ann and Timmy Nunn, and his grandmother, Mrs. M. F. Tibbetts.

A Stand-Out In Polka Dots

Over-size dots in a bold color on a light or dark background are a favorite with fashion this season. And it's a fabric that is particularly effective combined with a rich solid tone as illustrated above. Dipping to a V in back, and sleeveless, it is certain to defeat the heat in temperature-soaring weather. own responsibility from now on. Mom won't be there to see that things are laundered and dry-cleaned. And so she should buy only the things that lend themselves to easy upkeep.

Mix-and-match skirts, sweaters, shirts and pants are the wisest buys. For not only are casual clothes the basis of the campus wardrobe, but they can all be found in fabrics that are easily washed in warm suds and require little or no ironing.

Be sure to pay attention to the labels and tags attached to the clothing you select. They will give complete instructions regarding the safest method to care for the garment.

If there is no tag or label attached, your best bet is to leave the item on the rack where you found it and go elsewhere. You're

Summer Home Ec Classes Complete Busy Schedule

LEFORS (SpI) Lefors Summer homemaking classes under the direction of Mrs. O. W. Nowlin, homemaking teacher, have been completed. During classes members made slipcovers to match the drapes, for the living room furniture, in the homemaking department. The girls are looking forward to the use of new furniture this fall in homemaking classes.

An extensive study of soil and shrubs suitable for the panhandle area, an extensive study of two years in the department, was completed. The front of the high school building, which houses the homemaking dept. was landscaped. Shrubs have been set out and it is now a beauty spot of the community. Helping on this project included Judy Lane, Sue Phillips, Ruth Martin, Beverly White, Barbara Todd, Linda Jernigan, and Sandy Call.

The homemaking girls also conducted a pre-school play school for small children of mothers who were enrolled in the beginners' sewing instructed by Mrs. Nowlin. The class also made consumer education trips to various drapery department stores in Pampa, to Burce Nurseries, Alanreed, and to the Pampa School of Beauty Culture.

RUTH MILLETT

You'll make a hit with a man if —
You are more interested in getting him to talk than in getting him to listen.
You not only ask his advice occasionally but take it when he gives it and report back if all turns out well. "I'm so glad I listened to you —" is music to any man's ears.

You toss a bouquet instead of a brickbat when another woman is being praised.
You keep your voice low and pleasant and easy to listen to.

You never offer him any unasked-for advice or insist on supervising him when he does a job for you.
You don't ask stupid questions. If you know something of what he is talking about and really want to know more you can ask intelligent questions. If you know nothing about it and don't really care one way or the other your questions are sure to sound stupid and to be irritating.

You pay him subtle compliments. Too obvious compliments, coming from a woman, may embarrass a man — but any man will glow if he receives a subtle compliment. He'll remember it, too.

You look attractive enough to be a credit to him. Never believe a credit to him. Never believe your looks don't matter to a man.

You register when he talks. Women who listen with half their minds do nothing for a man's ego.

You are perfectly at ease and sure of yourself. A woman who is ill-at-ease makes a man uncomfortable.

You dress to please him instead of dressing to impress your friends. You'll look better, too.

You are gracious to other people. A woman's rudeness or lack of sympathy for others makes a man uncomfortable.

towels until almost dry. Then block them on another dry towel.

Caring for your clothing yourself won't be a monumental chore. You'll have lots of company. Many dorms provide washers and some even feature hair dryers. You and your friends can do your laundry, shampoo your hair, catch up on homework, and feast on goodies sent from home — all at the same time.

Dear Abby... Midnight Hour No Time For "Coffee Break" ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband stays home just long enough to eat, sleep and change his clothes. Our children hardly ever seen him. This has been going on for ten years.

Last month I thought I heard a prowler, so I called the police. A police officer came and offered to stay with me until I got over my nervousness. I made coffee and we had a wonderful visit. He's a big, good-looking bachelor, but it isn't what you think. I don't cheat on my husband even though he cheats on me.

This policeman has been dropping for coffee every night around midnight. Only someone who is lonely as I was can realize what his visits mean to me. I have heard that my neighbors are beginning to talk. Should I explain that this is an innocent, clean friendship? Or do you think I am doing wrong?

LONELY
DEAR LONELY: You'll have a hard time convincing your neighbors that there is nothing brewing but coffee at your house every night. Your relationship may be "clean and innocent" now, but you're asking for trouble. The Good Book says, "Avoid the appearance of evil". Use your energy to lure your husband back where he belongs.

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago my husband and I gave his niece a very lovely present for her 17th birthday. We took a lot of time selecting this gift, and also the card that went with it. The niece just said, "Thank you" and she laid it on the piano and didn't bother to open the card or present while we were there. We stayed about an hour.

Shouldn't a gift be opened when the givers present it?

HURT
DEAR HURT: It should.

DEAR ABBY: When a man and his wife are eating together in a restaurant, what should the man call the waitress?

My husband calls all the waitresses "Honey" and I have even heard him call them "Dear" and "Darling". This burns me up as he calls me Hazel. Please print your answer, I'd like to settle this.

HAZEL
DEAR HAZEL: A waitress should be called "Miss" or "Waitress". It is never proper (Although it is sometimes effective) to call a waitress "Honey", "Dear" or "Darling". But it does beat, "Hey you!"

CONFIDENTIAL TO KATHY:
The surest way to make a man wonder what he ever saw in you is to keep asking him.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

A new laundry starch comes in sheet form. It looks like a sheet of paper, but dissolves instantly in water. The starch is a chemically-treated pure vegetable fiber which makes synthetic fibers dirt resistant and more comfortable to wear; the manufacturer reported (Misono Chemical Co. Ltd., Tokyo) A multipurpose paper dispenser holds three reels of any size wax paper, foil and paper towels. It stands on its own frame—which means it can be toted from the kitchen to the patio, poolside of picnics places. (Loma Industries, Inc., Fort Worth, Tex.)

For a make-it-yourself evening snack, prepare a beehive sundae simply by pouring honey over a mound of vanilla ice cream.

Wall Street In Review
NEW YORK (UPI)—James F. Hughes of Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath says there are ample technical reasons, based on past experience, for the market to continue its recent recovery.
Within the next week or so it is possible that the upward trend could run into an interesting technical test if the breadth index exceeds its June high without confirmation by the industrial average.
Hughes believes this could provide a signal for a technical correction that might last for several weeks.
However, he adds, with business holding merely firm over the next few months, the market might well do very much better than it did during the first half of the year.
Bache & Co. reports that American Broadcasting-Paramount and Phillip Morris both have "exceptional" technical positions, and expects further short term gains here. Peabody Coal appears to be attracting a larger following.
Bache adds.
Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co. has a list of stocks he believes still point to higher levels including: Decca Records, Garrett Corp., E. J. Korvette, North American Aviation, Spiegel, McDonnell Aircraft, MGM and Inspiration Copper.
While the business picture is not outstandingly encouraging, there are enough bullish factors present to overbalance the seemingly pessimistic attitude which prevailed throughout the summer, according to Thomson & McKinnon.

Western 'Undertaker' Gets Bang Out Of Job

BUT HE'S HAPPY — John Fortna, who "stows away" into boot hill many Western bad guys, enjoys his work. He says, "and I eat, too." It's all at Freedomland, New York's fun and frolic place for young and old alike.

By DICK KLEINER
NEW YORK (NEA) — The undertaker is a picture of professional sorrow as he measures the dead gunman for a coffin. But, underneath, he's perfectly delighted with his lot.

In fact, John Fortna couldn't be happier. He does his undertaking at Freedomland. About once an hour, a gunfight erupts in the "Western" town's streets and Fortna prepares for action.

Regular as clock-work two quick draws shoot it out; one goes down; the other is captured by the sheriff. And then Fortna swoops down on the scene with his tape measure and sorrowful clucks.

It is a job to him. And as an actor, he admits he faced a summer of unemployment compensation if Freedomland hadn't materialized. All in all, enough actors and actresses are employed at the huge amusement park — a Coney Island with delusions of grandeur — to stock a fair-sized repertory company. Nobody knows exactly how many there are. That's because not all of the actors are acting jobs. Fortna is—he and his fellow Western figures are covered by a regular AGVA contract—but many have taken non-acting jobs at the park to tide them over. There's an actor working on the railroad, another driving the Pony Express, a third at the stage coach concession.

It has been a wonderful break for Fortna and many others. In past summers, the 35-year-old actor has worked in summer stock, sung with a quartet, stage managed industrial shows. This spring, he had three stage managing jobs lined up, but all fell through. He faced a summer as bleak as an undertaker's face, until this came along.

"It's the best thing that's happened to me," Fortna says. "In 10 summers in New York, I make a darned good salary—about what a character actor would average if he worked all summer, which he could never do."

His part is strictly improvisation, another aspect of the job which Fortna characterizes as "wonderful." There are no set lines, no director to tell him what to do, no chalk lines he must stand on. He and his fellow cast members play it differently each time, exercise their histrionic muscles and, they feel, gain in acting prowess by this constant experimentation.

At first, Fortna looked on the job as just that—a way of eating well during the summer. But now he thinks it may actually advance his career.

There will be TV programs from the park (he's hopeful some producer will spot him) and there has been plenty of publicity. Because of his makeup, he feels already that he's the most photographed single person at the park.

Scattered throughout Freedomland are the other actors, many with Broadway and television credits, who've found summertime jobs. In the Little Old New York area, the oldtime politician who wanders around is played by Mel Tyler, a comic who has appeared in night clubs, stock, burlesque and vaudeville.

The singing sheriff is John Conant who, as Johnny Steele, was on Broadway in "Destry Rides Again;" he has made more than 1,000 appearances in a variety of musicals in stock. Don Crabtree, who plays Johnny Freedomland, has lifted his baritone on "The Ed Sullivan Show, The Bell Telephone Hour and in stock leads in "Show Boat" and other stage "Oklahoma!" "South Pacific" and "Show Boat" and other stage musicals.

And so Freedomland, which started out as a tourist spot, has suddenly become a mecca for actors. It beats not working.

Argentina's Wealth Lies In Prime Beef

By WILLIAM L. F. HORSEY
United Press International

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The American diner would shudder at a $220 tab for a steak.

But that's what it would cost him for a piece of meat from one of Argentina's prize Aberdeen Angus bulls.

Which emphasizes that the true wealth of this romantic South American nation lies most unromantically in its beef.

This year's annual stock show in Palermo Grounds drove home this fact once again in president and peasant alike. Black and brown bulls as big as railroad box cars emphasized that in cattle lies the real wealth of the nation.

Millionaire stockmen from all parts of the world gasped at public bidding on "Meridiano Julio" passed the five million pesos ($60,000) mark. When it stopped at 11-million pesos, ($134,000) spontaneous cheers rang through the old pavilion.

The price was an all-time world record.

One of the world's great river systems which penetrates to the heart of South America is coming back into its own despite the age of jet planes.

The Parana, Paraguay and Uruguay Rivers are vast-navigable waterways linking Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Paraguay and Bolivia. For that reason, they are international and their international character is written into the Argentine constitution.

The river Plate estuary — the ocean entrance to this maze of channels — is 160 miles wide at its mouth. Liners up to 30,000 tons can dock at Buenos Aires, 170 miles from the mouth; freighters of 10,000 tons can reach Rosario at 400 miles up and of 6,000 tons to Santa Fe, which is 550 miles up.

Shallow draft river steamers, even three-deck passenger vessels of up to 3,000 tons can reach Asuncion, capital of Paraguay during most of the year, a distance of 1,116 miles, while a Brazilian shipping line operates a regular freight service from Porto Alegre in southern Brazil as far up as Corumba in the Mato Grosso and almost 2,000 miles from the sea.

Argentina has learned from the Mississippi too.

Therefore, it is not strange that in recent years in Mississippi shipyards a round Pascagoula, that she has had built fleets of powerful "pusher" tugs with square bows.

Argentina has faith in river transport for passengers too, although there are both land plane and flying boat services between Buenos Aires and Asuncion. The state-operated river fleet has just ordered three crack luxurious passenger ships in Spanish yards and a fourth is being built in the Argentine naval yards at Rio Santiago.

Warrant Issued In Car Theft

Police today sought the return of James E. Pratt, being held in Salt Lake City jail on charges of auto theft and transport of a stolen auto across a state line, the last being a federal charge — violation of the Dyer Act.

Police Chief Jim Conner said that a warrant had been forwarded to the United States marshal in the Utah city seeking return of Pratt to face a auto theft charge instigated against him here.

Pratt is accused of taking a 1958 Chevrolet from Clyde Jonas Used Car Lot, Aug. 8. The car was recovered near Delta, Colo., Aug. 11, and returned to its owner.

He was later arrested by Colorado Highway Patrol officers for the theft of another car.

Capt. Denny Roan, who prepared the warrant, said he didn't know if the warrant would speed Pratt's return, noting "We'll probably have to wait until they dispose of the charges placed against him there."

MOB APPLAUDS HANGING

TUNIS (UPI)—Mohammed Zellel, the rape-murderer of a 9-year-old girl and a 6-year-old boy, was hanged in public at the scene of the crime Tuesday before a crowd of about 5,000 persons hawing their approval.

The hanging was the first public execution in Tunisia in more than three years. It took place in the open by public demand.

Richie Lucas Puts Smile On Bills Mentor's Face

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Even though Garrard (Buster) Ramsey seldom smiles these days, the head coach of the American Football League Buffalo Bills smiles deep whenever he watches Richie Lucas in action.

Ramsey, a perfectionist who vows that "no man wins a job with me except by hard work," relaxed from his usual disciplined role today to tab Lucas as "one of the future greats" in pro football.

The barrel-chested Ramsey indicated he had "thrown the book" at Lucas in six weeks of training at suburban East Aurora, N.Y., and that the Penn State All-American stood up well under every pressure.

"Here is a boy who is probably the best all-around back to come out of college this year," Ramsey said. "Even so, it's going to take time for him to get accustomed to the faster, tougher pro game as a quarterback."

"Fortunately, I can move at a slower pace with Lucas, taking more advantage of his all-around ability. I'm inclined to use him as a flanker back where he will have the option of running or

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

The 1960 Olympic games will be formally declared open today amid ancient pomp and modern engineering miracles.

Promptly at 11:30 a.m., e.d.t., the world's greatest sports spectacle will begin when Italian President Giovanni Gronchi announces to 90,000 fans in the gleaming new stadium: "I proclaim the opening of the Olympic Games of Rome, celebrating the 17th Olympiad of the modern era."

Some 4,200 of the more than 8,000 athletes from 85 countries will parade through the streets of the Eternal City in 86-degree heat and line up on the green-carpeted field. Prince Constantine, heir to the Greek throne and a member of the Greek yachting team, was scheduled to lead the march into the stadium followed by delegations from every other competing nation.

World decathlon champion Raffer Johnson was scheduled to lead the 230 U.S. athletes in the march — "advance guard" of one of the strongest national teams ever to play in the games. Headed by their amazing track and field team, the Yanks were expected to stage a sensational two-week battle with the Russians for the unofficial team title.

The usual complaints of an Olympic village were heard since athletes began arriving in Rome but an attitude of peace and calm prevailed as the games which will run through Sept. 11 began. Even an anticipated traffic jam that was supposed to have been the greatest seen in Rome since the days of Ben Hur was reduced to little more than a ride in the country.

And the thousands of tourists who were to have been turned away at the games of Rome due to lack of accommodations, were being escorted to some of the better hotels in town by hawkers on motorcycles — at the airport, on the highways and at the railroad stations.

The Olympic Housing Bureau reported it has many more rooms available in private houses than it has takers. The Roman Tourist Bureau revised downward its estimates of Olympic visitors from 100,000 to 45,000 a day.

One thing seemed sure. The gloom casters had scared away thousands of native Romans and many potential tourists away from the Olympic Games.

The scarcity of visitors was one reason for the easy flow of traffic throughout Rome.

It appeared, said the experts, that the Rome traffic engineers had produced the traffic engineering "miracle" that almost no one expected. Working at a white-hot pitch for the past two months, Rome's traffic experts virtually turned the 2000-year old city upside down. They made practically every street in the city, and the bridges across the Tiber, one way. They all but abolished the left-hand turn, and they developed underpasses and traffic islands so that traffic flows in circles, and intersections are kept at a minimum.

Palmer Choice At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The $32,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament began today in a new setting and under new management, but with this year's weekly favorite, Arnold Palmer, the odds-on choice to win.

This year it's the Milwaukee Open and not the Miller Open as it has been for the past five years. The Miller Brewing Co. dropped sponsorship of the tournament, and the Milwaukee Jaycees have made it a community affair with local firms donating equipment and putting up the prize money.

Cuban Blaster Is Fight Pick

NEW YORK (UPI) — Slugger Florentino Fernandez of Cuba pits his rough-house, knockout reputation against the speed and boxing skills of New York's Emile Griffith tonight in an important welterweight bout at Madison Square Garden.

The 10-rounder will not be televised but victory in it could win Fernandez a shot at world welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba. Fernandez is ranked sixth by The Ring magazine and fourth by the NBA.

Orioles, Yanks, Pirates Triumph

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

Keep an eye on Brooks Robinson of Baltimore because you're looking at a soon-to-be batting champ and quite possibly the finest third baseman since Pie Traynor.

That's the word from Paul Richards and Casey Stengel, a pair of experts who aren't easily impressed.

The 23-year-old Robinson backed up both their opinions Wednesday night when he tripled with the bases full and played his usual flawless game afield in a 9-2 victory over Detroit that snapped the Tigers' seven-game winning streak and boosted Baltimore back into a tie for second place.

Robinson's three-run triple off loser Bob Bruce highlighted a five-run second inning rally, eased the way for Jack Fisher's ninth victory and helped the Orioles stay within 1 1/2 games of first place. In addition to his triple, Robinson also collected a pair of singles that increased his batting average to .304.

Those three hits gave Robinson a season total of 143, second in the league only to the 147 collected so far by Al Smith of the White Sox.

"Barring a mishap, Robinson will win the batting title within a year or so," Richards says flatly. "He might have even done it this year had he not hit in such bad luck earlier this season."

Stengel's rhapsodies over Robinson concern his defensive brilliance at third base.

"I've been around a long time, but I've never seen anyone make the kind of plays this kid does," Casey declares. "I saw Traynor, and he was the best. Robinson is almost up there with him though."

Stengel guided his Yankees to a 3-2 victory over the White Sox Wednesday that enabled them to retain their American League lead. The Athletics beat the Senators, 6-4, and the Indians topped the Red Sox, 3-1, in other AL games.

The Pirates upped their National League lead to 7 1/2 games with a 10-8 win over the Cubs while the Dodgers defeated the second place Braves, 5-3. The Phillies downed the Cardinals, 5-3, and the Reds beat the Giants, 3-2, in 11 innings.

Art Ditmar won his 13th of the season and sixth straight for the Yankees although Luis Arroyo had to nail down the final out when the White Sox rallied in the ninth. Roy Sievers hit his 24th and 25th homers but Tony Kubek's 10th homer in the seventh inning off loser Herb Score turned out to be the winning run.

Third baseman Reno Bertoia fifth inning error opened the door for four unearned runs that helped the A's to their victory over the Senators. Pinch hitter Hank Bauer singled home KC's final two runs. Johnny Kucks was the winner and Camilo Pascual the loser.

Barry Latman pitched his first complete game of the season for Cleveland and battery-mate John Romano hit a two-run homer the seventh to beat Boston. Latman scattered nine hits and fanned seven in winning his second game. Tom Brewer suffered his 11th loss against seven victories.

Successful homers by Dick Stuart and Roberto Clemente the ninth broke a 6-6 tie between the Pirates and Cubs. Both homers came off Don Elston. Don Hoak also homered for Pittsburgh. Elroy Face picked up his ninth victory in relief of Velma Law.

Frank Howard belted two homers and Tommy Davis and Warren Moon one each to help the Dodgers defeat the Braves behind Johnny Podres' eight-hit pitching. Eddie Mathews set a NL record with a two-run homer in the fifth inning. It marked the eighth consecutive season he had hit 30 or more homers, surpassing the previous record of seven held by Ralph Kiner. Bob Buhl, who failed to survive the fourth inning, was the loser.

British Net Pair Stun McKay, Holmberg

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI)—The big team of Barry McKay and Ron Holmberg was among the missing today as the top teams settled down to business in the 80th National Doubles tournament.

Most of the seeded pairs survived Wednesday's third-round play at Longwood Cricket Club despite a few scares. But Air Force veteran Mac Kay, the big Ohioan with the big serve, and the 22-year-old Holmberg, a Tulane graduate by way of Brooklyn, N.Y., were sidetracked in straight sets by the British tandem of Bobby Wilson and young Mike Sangster.

Wilson, concentrating on his game and shunning any burst of temperament, and Sangster, only 19, posted a winning match score of 13-11, 8-6, 7-5, gaining strength all the way.

Wilson and Sangster, the fifth-seeded foreign team, were to meet the No. 2 Aussie combine of Rod Laver and Bob Mark in one of today's quarter-finals. The beaten duo of Mac Kay and Holmberg were third-seeded domestically.

Aussies Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson, the defending champions and No. 1 foreign team, had little trouble Wednesday in overcoming veteran Americans Gardner Mulloy and Billy Talbert, 6-2, 7-3, 6-4.

However, Laver and Mark received a shock in their opening set against Larry Nagler of North Hollywood, Calif., and Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., before rebounding for a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 triumph.

Hurt Back During Summer

Curfman In Hospital; Practice Opens Friday

Pampa High School's football hopefuls will begin practice tomorrow without the guiding hand of Coach Babe Curfman.

Morning and evening training sessions are slated for the some 90 youths who will vie for berths on the up-coming 1960 team which will open its season against Big Spring at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2, in Harvester Stadium.

Coach Curfman injured his back while working last summer. He has had trouble, off and on, since the accident took place, and his wife said the pain became so intense "Babe had to visit our doctor, who ordered hospitalization following a complete examination."

Coach Dwain Lyons said last night after talking with Curfman that "We all hope the boss is out of the hospital shortly. But we all have a job to do; we'll carry on just as if Babe were with us."

This could be one of the better teams to wear the Harvester uniform in several years. Curfman said last night this one would be very fast, and that this speed could overcome a lack of weight.

"The kids have a lot of speed and they are full of will to win. It could make a big difference before the season is completed," he noted.

Jealousy Could Beat U.S. Gal Swimmers

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press International

ROME (UPI)—Jealousy and suspicion cloud the waters of Uncle Sam's women's swimming team in the Olympics today and it well could affect the gold medal production of the Yankee water babies.

The feud has on one side coach George Haines and Harry D. Warner, a Sunnyvale, Calif., businessman whose daughter, Anne, is one of Haines' young stars. On the other side is Vikko Ruuska, father of veteran Sylvia Ruuska.

The situation seems sure to wind up in a court of law when the team returns home.

It all started because of Haines' proficiency as a coach. The handsome young man from Indiana went to San Jose State and after graduation decided to remain on the West Coast. He is a Santa Clara high school teacher but his forte has been developing young international swim stars.

As coach of the Santa Clara Swim Club he has three of his boys on the men's Olympic team, and three of his girls on the women's team.

He took Steve Clark at the age of eight and built him into an 800-meter and freestyle relay star at 17. He took Chris Von Saltza, star of the women's team, at the age of 10 and now at 16 she is one of the world's best at 100 and 400 meters.

His other proteges on the U.S. team are 15-year-old Miss Warner, 17-year-old Lynn Burke, 20-year-old Paul Hait and 21-year-old George Harrison. It was Haines' coaching which also gained a place on the team for 13-year-old Donna De Verona of Lafayette, Calif.

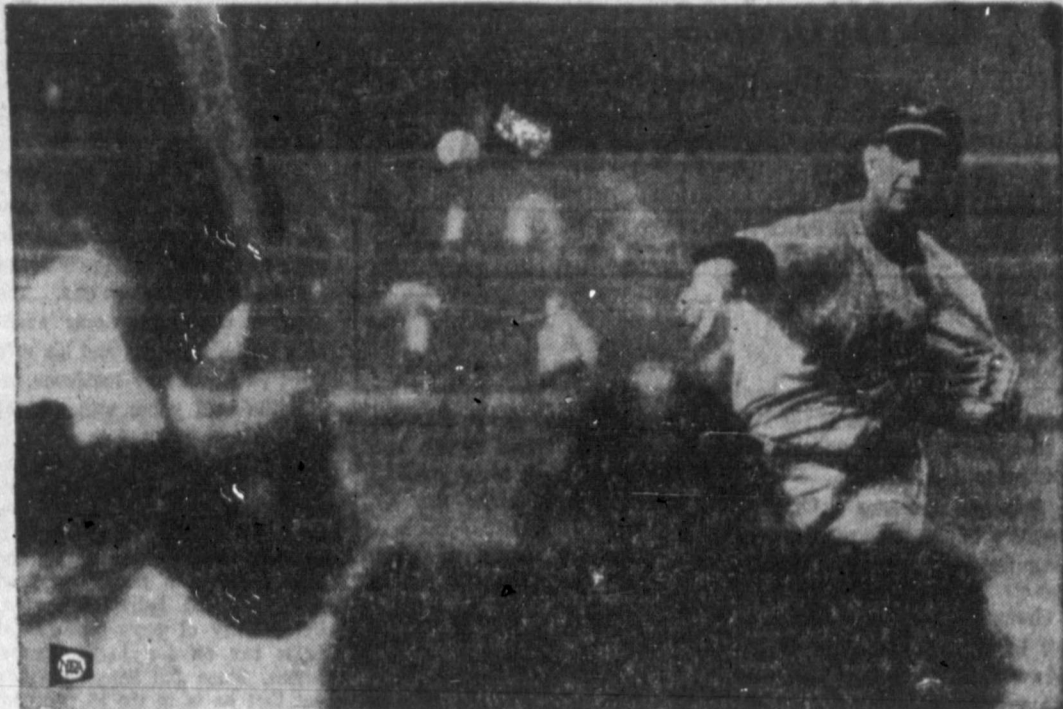

During the nationals at Indianapolis where—significantly—Miss Ruuska did not do too well, her father fumed when he discovered that Haines was giving his swimmers what Ruuska charged were "pep" pills. Haines denied the charge flatly.

Ex-Kings Are After Golf Title

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Chances of a former title-holder repeating as USGA National Women's Amateur champion loomed greater today as the tournament moved into the quarterfinal round at Tulsa Country Club.

Three of the eight surviving hopefuls have won the event before. Leading the group is defending USGA titlist Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla. Also still in the running are former champions Joanne Gunderson of Kirkland, Wash., and Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash.

Miss McIntire was to meet Jean Ashley, former Kansas state amateur champion in the feature match today. Other pairings were Miss Quast vs Mrs. Les Johnstone Mason City, Iowa; Miss Gunderson vs Matasha Matson, Wichita, Kan., and Judy Eller, Old Hickory, Tenn., vs Andrea Cohn, Waterloo, Iowa.

KNUCKLE BALL EXPERT — Hoyt Wilhelm, star relief pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles, is pictured as he eases his flutter ball towards an opposing batter. A veteran of many years in the major leagues, Wilhelm has been one of the main cogs in making the Orioles a distinct pennant threat in the American League.

Watchin' All The Girls Go By

Olympic Guards Have Happy Lot

ROME (UPI)—A retired hair-dresser and a movie extra said today they are the happiest men in the Olympic village.

They are the guards who protect the entrance to the fenced women's village. All they have to do all day is watch girls coming in the gate, girls coming out the gate, and girls ambling down the roadway. Once in a while they get off their chairs to shoe the men away.

"No men allowed inside the village," said movie extra Fernando Plini, a stocky young Roman with a devastating smile. "So, believe me, we give the men a hard time. We only let in a few privileged characters, if they ask us very nicely."

"We let the gardener in and two streetcleaners, and the doctors who can prove they have patients. We let the postman inside every hour to get the mail. And blue eyes of a Hungarian fencer, I decide that I have never seen a prettier girl. The next minute I am swept away by a charming little Japanese. And then there are the Swedes in their little white shorts, and those beautiful Czechs. Oh, it is so hard to decide.

Ex-hairdresser Nazzeno de Leonardis said that he very much enjoys his privileged position as chief chaperone for so many lovely and athletic girls.

"They are all wonderful," said De Leonardis with a deep sigh. "They give us pins and they take our pictures with their arms around us. A charming little girl from Korea just gave me her parasol."

The two Romans said that from time to time they abandon their arduous labors to compare the charms of the girls as they parade by.

"It is very difficult," said Plini, "they are all so big and so blonde and so charming — it is so very hard to decide. One minute I am staring into the deep

Vet's Folly

The San Francisco Chronicle has reported another instance of the results of trusting to the politicians to look after our welfare.

The instance concerns a California venture of the sovereign state into the field of providing a big "Veteran's Building" as a mark of civic virtue in the city of Napa.

Back in 1947, a tax district set up by a special state law took action in order to justify its existence. It must have seemed to the good men and true who were selected to man the district that it would be appropriate for the district to do something big and fine to justify the public's faith in its existence.

In consequence, the tax district raised more than $700,000 by levying a special tax of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation for a number of years.

Having gotten its hands on this much loot, the district hired an engineer who has no architectural experience. Then it began to construct a huge (202 feet by 154 feet) Veteran's Memorial at Elm Street and the Napa — St. Helena freeway in the northern California town of Napa.

Two years ago the construction was halted. This year the taxpayers rebelled. They elected a new district board (instead of dissolving the district) and the new politicians undoubtedly want to do something else with the money. There is no evidence that the 30 cents per $100 of assessed valuation tax is to be cancelled. Rather, the new batch of politicians will obviously try to make a name for themselves with some other kind of folly.

Meanwhile, what has become known in California as "Vet's Folly" — a loss of $627,000 — will be razed. The Napa City Council has so decided and the new politicians of the tax district have apparently not objected.

The object of the wrath of the local people is now a gray, stone shell. It was never completed. Engineering consultants have reported that the steel trusses would not support a roof. The entire floor was beginning to show signs of wear although it had never been used. It would have to be relaid if any use was ever to be made of the building.

But attorneys, some of whom could count, came up with the belated information that the building if completed would house many times the number of organized veterans in the Napa valley, let alone those who lived in the town of Napa.

So, at first the new inhabitants of the tax district tried to sell the structure. It stands on five acres of valuable land in an excellent location. But there were no bidders.

It seems that the building as it stands is useless. To complete it would cost an additional $900,000. But even if it were completed you could probably build a better building for less than that sum.

But to tear down the ghostly ruin would also take a lot of money. So, reluctantly, the city is going to raze the building at a further cost to the taxpayers, and then, presumably, the site can be sold minus any construction on it.

We consider this an example of government meddling at its worst. Governments are always in a position to do things of this sort because they are removed from the market place in their basic functions. They do not know what the demands of the market place will be. But they certainly do know and care what the political job seekers and patronage peddlers want.

Governments' actions perpetually cause the men in government to try to act on the basis of political expediency and political patronage. By those standards, there was nothing wrong with the "Vet's Folly." After all, didn't it provide work for a lot of men for nearly eight years?

And isn't it good for men to have jobs? What if the work done has no market value? Who cares (politically) about market value if voters are kept happy and voting properly, i.e., in favor of the bureaucrat who got them the job?

'Nice Guys' Cause Trouble

It is, perhaps, well-meaning people who have caused this nation so much trouble. Often it is the good-natured and the sincere who have been mesmerized by the propaganda of false ideologies and in their innocence become exponents of political and economic theories that have long since been disproved.

An avowed communist does not get far with his propaganda in our midst. Nor does one who unabashedly wears the label of the socialist. The first is an outcast. The second is not treated with such scorn, generally, although what he advocates is, in reality, the same as that of the communist.

But there are millions of people in the United States who do not wear the label of the socialist who nevertheless espouse his cause unknown to themselves and unrecognized as such by their fellow citizens. And they are the well-meaning "nice guys" who cause a large measure of the trouble.

It's hard to fight the "nice guy" because it's hard to acknowledge him as our enemy. He wants only a better world, and he's not really mad at anybody. The trouble is that the methods he advocates to bring about a better world are the same as those pushed by the communist and the socialist.

The "nice guy" doesn't realize that there is no alternative to capitalism or free enterprise but totalitarianism. He does not understand that we cannot have our freedom and at the same time live under the control of the state. The two systems are incompatible.

Political freedom is dependent upon economic freedom. If the state controls one, it will assuredly control the other.

The general welfare is dependent upon the prosperity of the country. And to have prosperity we must have profits. Without the incentive of profits, no one is willing to risk an investment and without investments, the economy becomes stagnant and there is less of goods and services, which promote the general welfare. The more production we have, the better off we are, for there is more to be distributed.

There has to be a population financially able to buy these goods, to be sure, or they will never be produced in the first place. This means, again, that we must have a free society, and, of course, the manufacturer of goods knows this as well as anyone else. In a socialist society, the state decides what's to be produced, how much of it and who's to get it. Along with these powers, naturally, the state has the right to say who will work where and what their wages will be. This is real slavery, political and economic.

Under capitalism, on the other hand, the consumer casts a ballot every time he buys something. It is he, not the government or producer, who decides what's to be produced, how much of it and what it will sell for.

Capitalism thrives on freedom and freedom on capitalism. Capitalism cannot grow and expand in a bureaucracy which rations its products. The only control it must have is that of the market. The consumer controls are in the hands of the consumer, who exercises his power through his purchases. He must be willing to buy a product and he must be willing to pay enough so that the producer will

Everybody's Money

By MERYLE STANLEY
RUKEYSER

A reader, who has moved to Warren, Ohio, asks about temporary investment of $10,000 in cash received from the sale of his home in another city. The inquirer wants his funds available in the event he and his wife want to buy a new residence.

If the old house was sold at a price that resulted in a profit, or capital gain, it is advantageous to make a decision concerning a new residence within the year. Under the tax law, if a profit is reinvested within the time limit in a newly acquired residence, the individual avoids the liability of paying a capital gains tax on the earlier transaction. Since the inquirer points out that he is in the 53 per cent bracket, this factor of timing should not be overlooked.

At the same time, the tax bracket cuts by more than half the net realized benefit of interest-bearing or savings accounts during the temporary investment of the funds. In the circumstances, the reader should seriously consider putting his funds in tax-free state or municipal obligations which mature in not more than two years.

For this special financial need, such an investment would be preferable to the reader's own suggestion that he put his funds in an insured savings and loan association or in an outstanding, no-load mutual fund. As for the latter, the absence of the load charge reduces the disadvantage of using a more or less permanent investment commitment to meet a temporary purpose. It seems to me, however, more sensible for the reader to put his $10,000 in a short-term investment, such as tax-free municipal bonds of short maturity until such time as he and his wife reach a decision whether to use the funds toward the purchase of a replacement home instead of the existing temporary rental arrangement.

Another reader in Hebron, Neb., asks whether there is any place in this economy where a man without financial means can turn for aid in marketing original ideas.

The reader mentions an invention for saving the farmer money—cover for stacks of baled hay. It is suggested that the inventor discuss this product with the national farm organizations, such as the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange.

Another dreamed up category of products mentioned in the communication consists of games "that have been tried successfully in Boy Scout camps and on school play grounds." A series of letters to leading national manufacturers of games is suggested as an approach.

The wife of the inventor, who wrote the letter, added: "We have recently been told by a merchandising expert that it is almost impossible to make a product go without an expensive and extensive advertising and promotional program."

"What we want to know is—since we have no money for production—should we forget the whole thing—several years of hand to mouth living—and several thousand dollars of our savings—or is there, somewhere, someone interested in doing the promotion of new products?"

While there is no royal or easy road to pioneering and venturing in new ideas, the exceptionally able and inventive are continuing to make break-throughs. There are financial companies, including Rockefeller Brothers and H. P. Whitney & Co. in New York, who are interested in new capital gain projects. These companies, however, have many ideas submitted, and are exceedingly selective.

Other approaches to crossing the barrier consist of "business opportunity" classified advertisements, in financial publications or in the classified section of metropolitan newspapers.

The adviser who told the reader of the difficulties has not exaggerated. It is important, for the inventor to recognize that the person who furnishes the wherewithal for financing a new idea is entitled to a large slice of potential gains. If only simple interest is the reward, the moneyed people prefer investment in tested and seasoned industries in which the element of risk is lower.

A physician in Dallas writes about suitable retirement plans to qualify under the Keogh-Simpson bill to permit tax allowances for self-pensioning plans. At present, with the legislative jam in Congress in this election year, it unfortunately looks as though the bill will get lost in the shuffle. Once Congress agrees on a legislative formula to put the self-employed, including professional persons, on a tax parity with employees of corporations with private pension plans, technical make a profit, or else the manufacturer or the man who provides services won't be long in business.

Cumbersome and perhaps at times wasteful as free enterprise may be, it is far less cumbersome and far less wasteful than any other economic (or any political) system yet devised. It is the natural law of supply and demand and if allowed to operate, it will always prove its soundness and superiority.

It is almost unbelievable, in face of the evidence of failure, that there are those who still advocate socialism. The most recent examples are the United Kingdom and West Germany. Following World War II, the West Germans chose capitalism. The results are so overwhelmingly in favor of free enterprise that even the British Socialists admit, for the most part, their error.

Here are some figures, contrasting post-war economies of the United Kingdom and West Germany, taken from the Industrial News Review for July. The figures originally were published in the Public Utilities Fortnightly in an article by John D. Garwood, professor of economics at Fort Hays Kansas State College.

Real wages in W. Germany increased 99 per cent from 1948-57 while they increased only 11 per cent in the U.K.

In the same period, industrial production in West Germany increased 254 per cent, while in the U.K. the increase was 70 per cent.

Per capita output in Germany increased 115 per cent in 1947-57 against 15 per cent in Great Britain.

The population of West Germany and the U.K. is about the same—51 million. In West Germany as many houses were built in 1951-57 as from 1947-57 in the U.K.

So we shouldn't kill off the millionaire. We need more and more of them, for they, and their less prosperous fellow capitalists are the ones who provide the money and the initiative which promote the general welfare.

Their faces may change because of the risks that are involved in a free economy. Those who have it today may not have it tomorrow. But they will be dreaming of reaching the top again, and they may make it, giving to the world a better product at less cost. This can be true only in a free country.

Too bad the "nice guys" of this world don't understand that,

NEW DRUGS OFFER HOPE IN TREATMENT OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE, OTHER HEART AILMENTS

WASHINGTON — Clinical tests of a new drug — GUANETHIDINE — indicate a promising ability to reduce high blood pressure without the side effects now accompanying widely-used palliatives.

And another compound undergoing similar trials offers hope of proving important both in treating heart ailments and developing still other heart remedies.

Those are two cheering highlights of a report by Dr. James Watt, director of the National Heart Institute, on its extensive research activities the past year in cardiovascular diseases that took a toll of 893,489 lives.

While stressing that no cure is yet in sight for high blood pressure, chiefly because the "fundamental causes of this widespread ailment are largely unknown," Dr. Watt cited the very encouraging fact that deaths from it have steadily declined since 1949.

"Although in recent years there have been considerable improvements in the drug treatment of hypertension with an appreciable brightening of the outlook for the average patient," states the noted medical research authority in his report, "the fundamental causes of this widespread disease are largely unknown. Also because hypertension of any degree increases the risk of arteriosclerosis and coronary disease, there is, beyond the continued improvement in the effectiveness of drugs, an urgent need for preventive as well as ameliorative measures.

"As the drugs are improved not only will the more severely hypertensive individuals be more effectively treated, but more patients with lesser elevations of blood pressure can be expected to come under control before there is further advance in this disorder."

In contrast to this generally encouraging development, Dr. Watt reported that, on the other hand, arteriosclerosis (hardening of arteries) is increasing.

In the past decade, the death rate from arteriosclerotic heart disease rose more than 30 percent, from 291 to 366 per 100,000 population. Further, this grim increase is expected to continue.

"Until we learn the underlying causes of arteriosclerosis and understand it fully," he points out, "we can expect a continuing increase. Many more people are living in the age group where arteriosclerosis is a cause of complications, and more cases of it are inevitable.

"However, major advances are being made in our understanding of arteriosclerosis, of hormones and their reactions on protein structure, on enzymes, and on the physiologic mechanisms involved in the storage, transport and utilization of fatty substances in the body. All these vital matters are under intensive study."

Of the 893,489 deaths from cardiovascular ailments, more than half (461,373) were heart attacks. Strokes and other blood vessel ailments caused the second largest number of deaths — 190,758. Hypertension, with and without heart disease, accounted for 87,732; non-rheumatic and other heart muscle degeneration, 58,595; general arteriosclerosis, 34,443; and rheumatic fever heart disease, 18,796.

YOU GOTTA HAVE HEART — Dr. Watt's significant findings were submitted to the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.), that is in charge of the budget of the world-famed National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md. The Heart Institute is one of its agencies.

This budget is now in conference between the Senate and House. The former voted $465 million for NIH for the current fiscal year, $55 million greater than its previous budget and the total recommended by President Eisenhower. Senator Hill's Committee boosted that to $664 million.

A compromise in excess of $500 million is expected.

Other highlights of Dr. Watt's report are:

One experimental compound displayed exceptional effectiveness in reducing high blood pressure. But "unfortunately the appearance of a serious side effect, the impairment of vision, eliminated this agent from further use. However, the knowledge that this inhibitor can be used for lowering blood pressure makes possible the synthesis of a variety of compounds with similar inhibitory activity which may not have this prohibitive-side effect."

"Several methods have been developed for lowering the blood cholesterol level. It is important however to realize that the exact mechanism by which the blood

Public Turns To Henry For Advice On Election

By HENRY McLEMORE

As always during a presidential campaign, many readers have turned to me for information and advice. And, as I have done since the Tilden-Hayes race, I will answer them to the very best of my ability.

Today's a good day to start. "Why was Lyndon B. Johnson satisfied with second place on the ticket?" asks Worthington Duff, a bicycle repairman in Sacramento, Calif. "I thought he wanted to be President."

A good question, Mr. Duff, but as easy to answer as repairing a broken spoke. As President, Mr. Johnson would have had a great deal to do with the Great Seal of the United States. It would have been entrusted to his keeping, in fact.

This would have been pretty tough on a native Texan like Mr. Johnson. Seals come from Alaska, the state which came in and beat out Texas as the biggest one. Every time Mr. Johnson saw the Great Seal of the United States, or had to affix it to a paper, or eat off a plate on which it was embossed, he would have been reminded of Alaska.

As Vice-President he won't have much to do with the Great Seal. If he wants to he can eat off plates stamped with the picture of a longhorn steer, and call the Senate to order by mooring. Mr. Johnson, if elected Vice President will have much more peace of mind.

"Is there any one proper attire for a lady to wear in a polling booth?" asks Mrs. Upton Daub, Jellico, Tennessee, housewife.

Fashion experts agree, Mrs. Daub, that the polling booth, with its privacy, is the one place in which a woman may indulge in the most fanciful costumes.

Election day, fashion authorities say, is the one day that floor-length satin capes, spiked golf shoes, feather boas, cartwheel hats, and flowered parasols may be blended into an exciting ensemble. Don't look as if you were going to the store for a pound of butter and a box of starch.

For example, my own wife plans to vote this year in a Mata Hari costume she wore to a fancy dress ball in 1952. It's tight but flashy.

"Is it true that Kennedy, if elected, plans to give away his salary each day?" asks Lester Aboud of Everett, Washington.

"And that he will choose names alphabetically?"

This is a new rumor to me, but I hope there is some truth in it, for the original spelling of McLemore was Aaaaazaaaaaab, meaning, in Gaelic, "son of first man in phone book."

"What is a border state?" asks Leland Keene of Halifax, Nova Scotia. "And why are they so important?"

lowers cholesterol is not understood in any of these instances, and it may be that the lowering of the blood cholesterol by such abnormal means may be more harmful than beneficial. For example: two drugs which lowered blood cholesterol... were found to be associated with the accumulation in blood of abnormal substances closely related to cholesterol.

"One seven-year study of 1,800 men to determine the incidence of coronary heart disease in relation to various biological and social factors indicates that among white males significant differences occur according to relative weight, blood pressure levels, cholesterol levels, and family history of heart disease."

"The cost to the country in lost productivity and for the care of more than one million Americans crippled by cerebrovascular diseases is vast. Approximately 40,000 of the more than 175,000 deaths each year from strokes and related ailments are in the working age group of 25 to 64 years."

NUCLEAR BOON — More than a 100 diseases are now being either treated or diagnosed with radioisotopes... Senator Mike Monroney (D., Mont.), a member of the Appropriations Committee and a strong supporter of Senator Hill in his long fight to increase medical research funds, states the motto of the National Institutes of Health should be "Science for Life." He contends that is far better than stressing crippling ailments and death... NIH specialists estimate that "one out of 10 Americans suffers from some form of ulcer... and that this ailment is becoming increasingly prevalent." Veterans Administration records show that in the past five years more than 3,000 stomachs or parts of stomachs were removed from patients in its hospitals.

All states are border states, Mr. Keene, as they all border on something or other. And they are all important because they are parts of the Union. If a candidate can carry all the border states he can't help but win in a landslide. "Is Nelson Rockefeller as plain everyday as they say he is?" Martha Kottle of Palm Beach, Florida, wants to know.

Yes, Miss Kottle, Mr. Rockefeller is as plain as an old wall.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Any complaint even remotely related to the heart always has been highly charged with feelings of apprehension. These feelings have been magnified to pale proportions since some skillful phrasemaker first referred to circulatory abnormalities as the "No. 1 killer."

Here and now I hope to quiet the fears of several correspondents who have written to inquire about a group of what I prefer to call "normal abnormalities" of the heart.

The average (not normal) heart rate is 72 beats to the minute. Many quite normal persons (and many athletes) get along perfectly well with a slower rate (bradycardia).

During the most active years of my own life, for example, my resting minute count rarely exceeded 60. And one of the greatest long-distance runners of Olympic fame had a count even slower than mine.

While the presence of a bradycardia occasionally is the result of an abnormality such as a sluggish thyroid (or overdoing with digitalis) rapidly of the heart rate (tachycardia) is usually a sign of trouble whose discovery may require painstaking investigation.

However, if the tachycardia is unexplained and unaccompanied by distress of any kind, it may be dismissed as another of the normal abnormalities.

In addition to normal abnormalities of the heart rate, there are also normal abnormalities of rhythm. If you will take a deep breath, for example, and hold it for several seconds, you may notice that your rate speeds. Hold your breath after you've breathed out and you may find that the rate slows.

This condition of alternating tachycardia and bradycardia, dependent on the respiratory cycle, is known as sinus arrhythmia. It's a perfectly normal abnormality that's frequently observed in infancy and early childhood.

The last of the normal abnormalities is the occasional "slipped," or "dropped" beat (extra-systole) that's perhaps more fear-inspiring than any of the other conditions we've discussed.

Usually caused by some passing physical or emotional disturbance (like overeating, over-exertion, sudden panic or hearty laughter), the extra-systole (pronounced sist - toe-lee) may produce a fluttery chest sensation (palpitation).

However, I would not advise you to dismiss too lightly a sense of palpitation or the actual demonstration of pulse skipping. If only for reassurance, you owe it to yourself to submit to a careful examination by your doctor.

And, if he finds your rate and rhythm normal, it's not because he's missed the boat or because you've imagined what you described. It's just that the passing condition that caused your temporary sensation is not present at the time of examination.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history: In 1718, the city of New Orleans, La., was founded and named.

In 1829, the famous steam engine, the Tom Thumb, raced with a horse drawn car and lost when the engine broke down.

In 1839, Bret Harte, American author and poet, was born.

In 1921, the United States signed a peace treaty with Germany.

In 1944, United States troops liberated Paris in World War II.

In 1950, in order to forestall a general strike, President Truman seized all railroads in the nation.

Thought for today: American author Bret Harte said: "One big vice in a man is apt to keep out a great many smaller ones."

HOLMDEL, N.J. (UPI) — The first transatlantic voice messages and a recording of "America the Beautiful" were bounced off the Echo I satellite balloon Tuesday night and picked up by the Jodrell Bank experimental station in England.

Jodrell said the messages, broadcast by the Bell Laboratories here, were "weak but intelligible."

CANTOR HOSPITALIZED

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Eddie Cantor, 68, was in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today for a physical examination.

Cantor, who has had a heart ailment in recent years, entered the hospital Monday.

REDS JAIL SCORNERS

BERLIN (UPI) — Two East Germans picked up in a bar have been jailed for calling a program on the official Communist TV network "manure!" and demanding that the bartender shut it off, and anti-Red "Information Bureau West" reported today.

One of the men, a plumber, was sentenced to serve eight months and the other, a baker, was sent to jail for six months, the information bureau said. The charge: "scorn of state institutions."
