LONG BINH, Vietnam (UPI)—The Army freed eight U.S. Green Berets today and sent them home to families jubilant that the military had dropped charges accusing them of murdering a Vietnamese civilian.

They were flying to Travis Air Force Base, Calif., tonight and were expected to get 30 days leave before reassignment outside Vietnam.

Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., once commander of all Green Berets in Vietnam, said for the first time he believed the man they had been charged with killing was a North Vietnamese double agent—something defense lawyers said all along.

Rheault made the remark shortly after Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor announced the Army was dropping the charges.

"It was like Christmas all over again," said Maj. David Crew, 33, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, one of the Berets.

Several of the Berets and their lawyers said CWO Edward M. Boyle of New York, one of the accused, was the hero of the case. The Army offered to drop all charges against him if he would testify against his companions, they said, and he refused.

The accused men, on being notified of Resor's announcement, celebrated until dawn in Barracks 4813 at the Long Binh base where they had been confined.

Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, of Bloomfield, N.J., said, "My insides still feel like jelly." The Army had accused Marasco of being the triggerman in the alleged slaying. He said he was quitting the Army.

"I guess I'll go back to being an insurance agent," Marasco said.

The others charged included Maj. Thomas G. Middleton Jr., 32, of Jefferson, S.C.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, 28, of Athens, Ga.; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, of Duncan, Okla.; and Sgt. I.C. Alvin L. Smith of Naples, Fla.

The men were arrested July 21 and accused of slaying Thai Khac Chuyen June 20 near Nha Trang on the South China Sea, 138 miles northeast of Saigon. They allegedly dumped his weighted body into the sea. Navy divers failed to find a body.

Headquarters this morning reported—but one large battle from Monday, involving troops of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in a six-hour fight 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

Military spokesmen said the American troops killed 25 North Vietnamese with the help of helicopter gunships, bombers were killed and eight wounded, the announcement said.

U.S. Leathernecks Leave War Zone

Troops To Leave Thailand Additional Withdrawal Scheduled For Monday

SAIGON (UPI)—The first of 18,000 Marines being withdrawn from Vietnam under President Nixon's second troop cutback left the war zone today for Okinawa, military spokesmen said.

Refusing to say exactly how many Leathernecks from the 3rd Marine Division departed this morning, the U.S. Command issued this statement:

"Slightly over 1,000 personnel with varying tours of duty in Vietnam are being airlifted to Okinawa for individual assignments with the 9th Marine Amphibious Brigade."

It added that the withdrawal of 4,900 more Marines would begin Wednesday, with all of them headed back to the United States by Monday.

Leathernecks still manning one post just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) came under attack Monday when Communist troops shelled their gun-base with 10 mortar rounds. Headquarters reported light casualties.

It was one of six overnight rocket or mortar attacks against Allied towns and camps, military spokesmen said. Three waves of B52 bombers raided North Vietnamese hideouts below the DMZ at the same time.

GIVE FULL SUPPORT Nixon Urges Senate Approval Of Electoral Abolishment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today threw his full support behind a proposal to abolish the Electoral College and provide for direct election of American presidents.

Nixon dropped tactical opposition to the plan and urged the Senate to approve a House-passed constitutional amendment "as promptly as possible" so that the states can vote for ratification in time for the 1972 presidential election.

Nixon sent a message to Congress last Feb. 20 one month after taking office following his squeaker election victory—calling for revision but not abolition of the Electoral College.

He suggested that Congress replace the winner-take-all electoral system under which a candidate who wins a state's popular vote captures all its electoral votes, with a plan by which the candidates would split the electoral votes on a proportional basis.

Nixon said at the time he did not believe an amendment providing for elimination of the Electoral College could overcome controversy and be adopted by the required three-fourths of the states by the 1972 elections.

In a statement issued by the White House today, Nixon took note of action in the House where Republican leaders joined with Democrats and pushed through a plan for electing the President and vice president by direct, popular vote.

The President acknowledged that many senators might prefer a different method, but said "contrary views are now a luxury" and that the urgent need for electoral reform should be the controlling consideration.

"I hope, therefore, that two-thirds of the Senate will approve the House-passed amendment as promptly as possible so that all of us together can then urge the states also to give their approval," he said.

Nixon said "it is clear that unless the Senate follows the lead of the House, all opportunity for reform will be lost this year and possibly for years to come."

"Accordingly, because the

TAC Says Airlines Not Okayed

AUSTIN (UPI)—Suits have been filed against two Texas-based airlines for allegedly flying routes within the state without approval from the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

The suits were filed by Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin against Air East and Central Texas Airlines, two airline companies which did not come under state law until new provisions went into effect Sept. 1.

FOLKESTONE, England (UPI)—Eleven hippies were in a magistrate's court Monday on charges ranging from drug possession to breach of the peace, and 40 of their friends were watching their court cases.

Court attendant Bill Squires walked into the room, looked at the crowd and sprayed the room with a can of disinfectant.

Free Demos Have Mandate To Bring Change In Power

BONN (UPI)—The Free Democrats indicated today they will use their balance of power in the new parliament to unseat Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and replace him with Foreign Minister Willy Brandt.

Wolfgang Schollwer, editor of the party newsletter, said voters in Sunday's parliamentary elections gave the Free Democrats a mandate to bring about a change of power.

"The party is firmly determined to fulfill the mandate of its voters," he said in a special edition of the newsletter.

The statement came as the executive committee of the Free Democrats met in a parliament caucus room to decide formally an offer by Brandt to form a coalition.

The Free Democrats won only 30 seats in the 496-seat lower house that chooses the chancellor and government. But neither of the two larger parties won a majority—Brandt's Social Democrats winning 224 seats and Kiesinger's Christian Democrats winning 242.

According to West German newspapers, Brandt offered the foreign minister's post to Free Democratic leader Walter Scheel if the smaller party joins his Social Democrats in a coalition.

Scheel's only cabinet service was as minister of economic cooperation—dealing with foreign aid—from 1961 to 1966. In those years the Free Democrats were junior partners in a coalition with the Christian Democrats.

While the politicians maneuvered, the price of the German mark rose in free trading in the money markets. The outgoing Kiesinger-Brandt government decided Monday to free the mark's exchange rate temporarily in hopes of ending speculation. Speculators had gambled on the official rate being increased.

Decision Expected Today On Malone's Re-Trial Motion

By DORIS E. WILSON News Staff Writer

A decision was expected to be reached shortly after noon today on Dr. James F. Malone's motion for a re-trial on the bomb charge in Lubbock County Court At Law No. 2.

Following a 45-minute session Monday afternoon between the defense attorney, Travis Shelton and County Attorney Tom Purdon, County Judge Denzil Evers said he would study the case Monday night to determine if the motion of a new trial merits a hearing or if the misdemeanor charge of vagrancy with lewdness would stand.

Dr. Malone was arrested Sept. 17 in the Texas Tech Administration building by an undercover security officer, who entered the charge. Dr. Malone pleaded nolo contendere and paid a $100 and court costs fine.

The defense is seeking a new trial by jury in which the county would have to present witnesses and the defense would have a chance to cross-examine both the judge and two attornies were in agreement that the case had unusual facets; that the "case was different from the run of the mill cases."

The defense in its motion said that Malone was arrested between 3 and 3:15 on Sept. 17 and not informed of the charge at that time. He was taken to the security office on campus, still not informed; taken to jail and then into court; and the first time he was informed was in open court.

The attorney pointed out that this was the first time the 44-year-old schoolman had been called into court on any charge and that he repeatedly stated in open court that he was not guilty of any charge. But due to the state of mind, he entered the plea because he otherwise would have been placed in jail, away from home. Therefore, he decided to pay his fine and "be on his way."

Shelton said Malone understood that the "no contest" plea was a third plea and not an admission of guilt.

In the event, the judge rules that the first plea must stand, Dr. Malone's three-year contract with the Pampa Independent School District would automatically become void. A clause that is included in every school superintendent's contract stipulates that any type of moral turpitude constitutes an automatic cancellation.

Chemical Spray Planes Take To Air To Destroy Marijuana Crops

By United Press International

The United States has offered Mexico sensors, chemical spray and planes to destroy marijuana crops as part of its controversial Operation Intercept crackdown on narcotic smuggling.

Treasury official Eugene T. Rossides, director of intercept, said Monday the same sensors used to detect enemy troops in Vietnam could be adapted to locate fields of marijuana in Mexico.

He said the chemical spray makes marijuana bitter-tasting when smoked.

Rossides told a Senate subcommittee that the United States is offering the spray, sensors and planes to the Mexican government to wipe out the contraband at its source.

Power Of Press Can't End CDT Before Oct. 26

Not even the power of the Press which has been banded about in prose and fiction for many years, can fool around with the hands of time.

The question of what to do with that extra hour of time to be gained back when Central Daylight Savings Time gives way to Central Standard Time was the topic for our ill-advised Inquiring Photographer Monday, who was informed CDT would end today.

Texans in general and Pampans in particular, will go free the mark's exchange rate temporarily in hopes of ending speculation. Speculators had gambled on the official rate being increased.

But as one of the interviewers replied to his question: "This daylight savings time is just a waste of time. After all, time is time."

'Cupcake' Proves Sex Best Seller

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—The lovely young cupcake on the magazine cover wore a Newsweek change apron and held up what looked like a copy of Time magazine, and the cover asked, "Does sex sell magazines?"

Behind her, her picture was on the cover of 11 magazines on the newsstand. The long blonde hair tumbled over her shoulders and except for the change apron—she was barefoot all over.

Henry N. Beard spoke first. "We chose sex because it sells magazines."

The subject was the latest issue of a Harvard Lampoon parody, a 96-page spoof of time magazine which went on sale Monday. The Lampoon, the nation's oldest college humor magazine, printed some 500,000 copies to sell at $1 apiece, including 50,000 overseas.

Committees Named To Carry Out Fire Prevention Plans

Details for Pampa's observance of Fire Prevention Week were worked out and special committees to carry out the program were named at a meeting yesterday of the Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee.

The week will be observed locally from Monday, Oct. 5, through Saturday, Oct. 11. The program will include fire drills and demonstrations, open house at fire stations, and fire sirens will be sounded at noon each day to remind citizens.

Pampa's firemen were commended by the committee for their handling of two recent fires — a Conoco Service Station at Coronado Drive and N. Hobart, and the Furr Food Store, 1420 N. Hobart.

It was pointed out that Pampa's fire credit rate for insurance will likely be higher as a result of those fires.

Warren Fatheree, committee chairman, stressed today the importance of fire prevention for all business firms, industrial firms and home owners.

The following special committees were set up to handle details of the Fire Prevention Week program:

Sniper Berserk, Kills Seven
DALLAS (UPI)—A man who "apparently went berserk" shot and killed a passerby and wounded seven other persons late Monday before police shot him to death at his home.

Police said Johnny Lee Thomas, 25, told his grandmother about 9 p.m. he was going hunting, then stepped out on the porch of his home in an area near a low rent housing development near downtown Dallas and shot and killed an unidentified man passing by.

He then turned the gun and shot a 4-year-old girl and two women in the house.

Three police officers answering a call for help were wounded and a television cameraman was injured slightly in the head.

Lt. R. E. McKinney said "the man apparently went berserk and started shooting."

"It's just one of those things, he probably had a bad day and was upset," McKinney said.

Officers tried to flush the man out of the house with tear gas, but only set a small fire. The man barricaded himself inside.

Thomas was wounded several times by police fire and died on the way to the hospital.

Army Sergeant Charged With Conspiracy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army's top enlisted man was accused today at a Senate hearing of heading a "criminal conspiracy" which allegedly sketched up to $350,000 a year from slot-machine operations at U.S. military service clubs in Germany.

Irvin E. Beard, a former military investigator, testified that his investigation of service club scandals was covered up by the Army to keep from embarrassing Gen. Harold K. Johnson, then Army chief of staff.

Johnson had appointed William O. Woodruff as the Army's first sergeant major—the No. 1 enlisted man—in July, 1966.

Beard, testifying before the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, said his investigation from the fall of 1965 to the spring of 1967 convinced him that Woodruff headed "a tightly knit clique of high-ranking, noncommissioned officers" that ran Army service clubs in Tugsborg and Munich, Germany.

Beard said he conducted the investigation for the Army into reports of irregularities in operation of service clubs on

The commission, as its policy and definitely identify the signals as having been caused by an atomic blast. Both were recorded last week, one from northwest China and the other from an area south of Volgograd.

LANE RESIGNS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Lane (Ret.), has resigned as president of the Americans for Constitutional Action. Lane, who also gave up his seat on the organization's board of trustees, said the press of other activities and commitments forced him to leave the political action organization.

Backstairs At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is starting to slug back at Vietnam War dissenters here at home. These particular Americans he implied at his Friday news conference, are delaying an end to the fighting. He held out hope that if he could get more support for his Vietnam policy, he could wind up the U.S. involvement before the end of next year. It was a hope reminiscent of Nixon's reaction to the proposal by former Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford that the United States withdraw 100,000 troops from Vietnam by the end of this year and all ground combat troops by the end of the next. He would hope to do better than that, the President said. While the White House insists that the hope is still there, it is practically nonexistent so far as this year is concerned. The President's second installment of troop withdrawals would reduce U.S. forces in Vietnam approximately 60,000 by December 15. It would take a dramatic change to up that figure to the hoped-for 100,000. What stirred the President up was a proposal by Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., to end U.S. participation in the war by law no later than Dec. 1, 1970. Goodell is a freshman senator. He has acquired little support for his proposal, even from the most peace-minded doves. However, the President took out after Goodell with charges that he was undercutting the U.S. position in the peace negotiations in Paris and destroying whatever incentive Hanoi had to talk seriously about ending the war. From that point, the President broadened his criticism of dissent and held out the promise of a quick end to the fighting if there were greater unity at home.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hugh Scott, beaming, bubbly and bouncy, had just kissed his wife for the third time (once spontaneously and twice for the photographers) when the green telephone rang in the corner of the crowded room. The portly Pennsylvaniaian bustled his way through the chairs and the people to accept congratulations on his selection as Senate Republican leader from the No. 1 Republican, President Nixon. The call was friendly and cordial and the President and the senator even mused about how nice it might be in January 1971, if the Republicans gained control of the Senate and Scott could be the majority rather than the minority leader. Strong Chances The chances are strong that communications won't always be as jolly between the two. But acrimony will likely be avoided. They are old pals who can disagree and then disregard the disagreement. Scott, a 68-year-old remnant of the days when the eastern money establishment controlled the Republican party, is outspoken and independent. And he does not see eye-to-eye with Nixon on everything. For instance, it will be impossible for Scott to lead the Nixon administration's voting rights proposal. Scott and all liberals feel it would weaken the 1965 Voting Rights Act. A long-time civil rights champion, Scott is also certain to oppose Nixon on any moves to implement a "southern strategy" or any legislative attempts to backpedal on the many rights laws enacted in the past several years. It is also probable that Scott would balk at administration moves to reduce outlays for so-called city programs such as welfare, hunger and summer jobs for ghetto kids. A few hours after calling Scott, the President was on the line again to Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan to congratulate him for his selection as assistant Republican leader in the Senate. Griffin didn't kiss his wife (she was there) and was so excited by his election he could do little more than mumble his thanks to the Chief Executive.

Hollywood In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The television birds who flew the coop for movies are flapping back to their small tube nets, motting dispiritedly en route. CBS-TV has announced that Mary Tyler Moore, Andy Griffith and Dick Van Dyke will all be back on the air with new shows within the next two weeks. Vince Edwards is returning, too. Can Don Knotts, Patty Duke, Dick Chamberlain, Richard Crenna, Troy Donahue, Barbara Parkins, Inger Stevens and a hundred others be far behind? The case against the television series star attempting to become a motion picture star is almost airtight. It won't work when the video actor becomes too closely associated with a single role over a long period of time. Mia Farrow and Steve McQueen are two exceptions. Mia wasn't identified with "Peyton Place" long enough to destroy her larger goals.

HALF-WAY POINT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department says it has resigned as president of the in a 15-year survey to bring U.S. land measurements up to an accuracy of less than one inch for every 12 miles. The survey was undertaken for increased accuracy in tracking satellites and will be used for detecting movements of the earth's surface. It is being carried out at night, with the aid of the North Star and laser beams, from towers 10 to 20 miles apart along routes across the country.

SURVEY REPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A survey of 2,000 college seniors reports that although 79 percent were sympathetic with the goals of various protest movements, they were still not fully committed to the ideals they are talking about. The survey was made by Dr. Jeffrey K. Hadden of Tulane University and published in the October issue of Psychology Today. Among other things, Hadden reported that 73 percent of those interviewed were sympathetic to the problems of the city but 78 percent said they would prefer the suburban style of life.

JEANE DIXON

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 1
 Young birthday Wednesday. Opportunities to rid yourself of long-standing financial and social obligations are at hand. New ideas open the door to career advancement once you make the adjustment required. Discard outworn habits, possessions which no longer serve your needs. Wednesday's natives are generally inquisitive and willing to speculate on almost any issue.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Efforts, efforts on mental activity rather than physical action. Take time to reach for fellowship, share a bit of humor. Enjoy your family in the evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Start only in pursuit of unfinished odds and ends which might hinder a fresh start. Check accounts, catch up on correspondence. Somebody is waiting for an answer.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Personal plans thrive, but new projects run into resistance and lack materials. Take a special respite Wednesday, dividing the day into two chapters.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If your work has phases done out of public view concentrate on those Wednesday. Work on personal projects is most favored, which can be done quietly. Sketch out plans in the evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Social opportunities beckon, perhaps tempting you from routine chores. Projects to improve your environment prosper Wednesday.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Routines prevail, so you have chances to stretch and gain more thoughtful perspective on your career. Think of making improvements, but don't start them now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Enjoy a calm day of normal routines. Check your home or office to see what you can dispose of, first deciding whether items still mean anything to you. You may develop a scheme for near-future activity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Line up accounts, and review your insurance coverage. Catch up on neglected chores. Take care to put things to rights in your home in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Comfortable changes in your public appearance come naturally Wednesday. Older people get involved in your affairs and may be helpful. Financial matters can be settled.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): This is the time to go troubleshooting. Matters have been postponed can be more readily picked up and carried out early. Clear the field for a coming busy spell.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The affairs of children may crowd other things. Creative work is favored, as the pressure lifts. Enjoy the simple things Wednesday. Leave complex projects for a time when more help is available.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A sincere effort on your part attracts help from unexpected directions in novel forms. Some results seem beyond your present ability to use them fully, but enjoy what you can of them.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I rented a room to a very nice, young professor who's about 28 years old. He is a perfect gentleman, neat and quiet and he always pays his rent on time, but here is the problem:

For the past month he has had a young lady staying with him. He didn't "sneak" her in. She came in with her suitcase and moved in with him like she is his wife. He didn't introduce her to me. I saw her through the window. He never said he had a wife. But he never said he didn't. They leave early in the morning (she works, and he teaches) and they come home together late in the evening. They go away every week-end and there is never a chance to have any conversations with them.

I rented the room as a "single." I have no idea how long she plans to stay with him. Should I charge him double?

LANDLADY IN URBANA

DEAR LANDLADY: If your "single" is sleeping double charge him accordingly. It's time these two lovebirds learned that two can't live as cheaply as one.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those women who had her only child late in life—like 45. My daughter is 6 years old now and every once in a while some clod will ask her if she is spending the day with "GRANNY"—meaning ME! Can you supply a good squelch-type answer? A remark like this ruins my day. Thank you.

NO "GRANNY"

DEAR NO: You had better develop a thicker hide. Clods are not for squelching.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those foolish wives who insisted that my husband wear his wedding ring at all times. My husband is a maintenance mechanic and this is what happened. Yesterday, I received a call informing me that my husband was at the hospital! While jumping off a construction truck, he caught his ring on a piece of metal and his finger was practically torn off. I was told he was lucky he wasn't killed as he lost his balance and fell under the wheels of the truck.

Abby, please put this in your column as a warning to other women who want their husbands to wear their wedding rings to work.

AL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Thank you for your letter. And while we're on the subject, read this one:

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married we had a double-ring ceremony, and he promised he would never take his wedding ring off. And he never did. After a few years he gained a little weight and couldn't get it off. My husband was an electrician. Well, to make a long and very tragic story short, his wedding ring wore a tiny hole through his insulate glove and fatal contact was made. He died instantly. When his lifeless body was examined, the only sign of injury was a small burn where his wedding ring encircled his finger.

ELECTRICIAN'S WIDOW

So, Dear Wife, if your husband works around machines or electricity, tell him to leave ALL rings at home. If you really love him, that is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL MEN BETWEEN 16 AND 60: You are in the privileged position of being able to do the "asking." You may be big, handsome, talented, and popular, but unless you have a heart you're nothing. When you attend a dance or a party, pay special attention to at least three girls who are not popular. Find something to compliment them for. Make them feel a

Senior Center Corner

By Mrs. O. A. Wagner
 Hello again. After spending 35 days in Highland General Hospital with a fractured right hand, it is good to be home. I am learning to be ambidextrous and progressing well, even though I still have a cast on the hand.

Mrs. Jenia Noland's sister is visiting her and was a guest at the center this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogsett attended the fair in Amarillo and visited their daughter and her family in Canyon and granddaughters Judy and Anna Harmon and Cynthia Hogsett. They also went to Clovis, N.M., to visit another daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. John Hon. They also attended church in Clovis on Sunday.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Emmons recently were Mr. and Mrs. Ladyman, Odessa.

Dorothy Dodd Brown, Burbank, Colo., is visiting her father C.C. Dodd.

Everyone enjoyed having Frank Carter back with us this week.

Mrs. Ada Olson has returned home from a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. K. Coulson in Odessa and also visited her daughter and family in Killeen.

Mrs. C.L. Adams reported all her children came home for a visit at the same time recently. They were Mr. and Mrs. Martel Peters, Asklund, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Braymer, Abilene, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson, Maysville, Okla.

House guests of Mrs. G. C. Stark this week were her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Stark, Riverside, Calif., and her sister, Mrs. Mildred Oliver, San Jose, Calif. They are also visiting Mrs. Oliver's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMillan and Mrs. Esther Haslem and family.

Was nice to have Mrs. Myrtle Smith with us this week. She has been absent for some time. Lucy Herlachner was back with us after a two-weeks absence, having been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Tarbox in Spearman, and Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Fields in Groom.

Mrs. Ruth Sewell, Altrusa member, visited in Odessa recently and attended a special Eastern Star meeting, honoring Mrs. C. F. Burnett of Miami, for her 50 year membership in OES. Mrs. Burnett is also a past worthy matron of Texas.

King May Be Lost For Plainview Game

If having Plainview for a Friday night opponent isn't bad enough, the Pampa Harvesters are faced with having to play the Bulldogs without their No. 1 rusher and ace defensive back, Scotty King.

The 185-pound senior has an ankle bruise and a badly bruised shoulder, injured last week against Perryton. King scored one touchdown last week, his second of the season, and was outstanding on defense, despite playing only part-time.

"We know Scotty will miss the first three days of practice and he is on the doubtful list for Friday," coach Swede Lee said Monday.

If King is unable to play, junior Monroe Woods, who filled in for him most of Friday night's game, will get the call on offense but King's defensive position is open for grabs.

Woods had the crowd on its feet when he ran the opening kickoff 70 yards against Perryton before being brought down on the home foes 70. The fleet halfback was the games leading rusher with 89 yards in 15 carries.

Lee praised his defensive secondary consisting of King, Dan Hood, Mike Erisler and John McCarroll, who the coach said, "played by far their best game of the season. They were very improved."

The pass rush of Paul Johnson, Gary Gattis and Jay Roth also received praise from Lee.

"We just showed a lot of improvement on defense. We had an average of 2.7 people in on every tackle," Lee said.

But despite all this the Harvesters will have to have a similar defensive effort against Plainview in Bulldog Stadium Friday.

"We will have to be even stronger than we were last week. Plainview is capable of scoring from anywhere on any play," said defensive coach Buddy Williams.

Drawing the most smiles and praise from Pampa coaches was the Harvesters offensive line, who played an outstanding game on pass rush.

"We did very well protecting the passer. The boys did an excellent job on this but our blocking for our running plays must show improvement before Friday night," cautioned Lee.

Plainview is 2-0-1 for the season and was tied, 16-16, last week by AAA powerhouse Vernon. But the Bulldogs are tabbed one of the strong teams in 3-4A with eight offensive starters back from last year.

New Golf Course To Open Here On Wednesday

Pampa's first public golf course will open Wednesday when Hilland Golf Course opens for business at 7 a.m. on West Kentucky St. under the ownership of Wallace Bruce and Elmo Hudgins.

The course will be open 12 hours a day during the fall and winter months and green fees are $1.50 per person during weekdays and $2.50 per person on Saturday and Sunday.

The course is not in top shape yet but we'll be improving on it every day until we're in the very best condition," Hudgins said.

"We hadn't planned to open this soon but we've had so many people inquire about the course and since Pampa Country Club course is open to members only we felt like we had to go ahead and open it," Bruce stated.

The nine hole course will measure just over 2,800 yards and has five par 3's, three par 4's and one par 5 hole. Two of the greens are of the bent grass variety and the others are turf greens.

"We feel this is a course for the average golfer. The green fees are modest and the course is tight but it plays pretty tough," Bruce observed.

No motor carts will be allowed on the course but the push-type carts are allowed. Golf balls and tees will be sold at the course, and there are restrooms and soft drink facilities.

As far as ground rules are concerned there are doglegs on holes seven and nine. Anyone hitting out of bounds, marked by red stakes, loses a stroke and distance.

If a ball lands behind a sprinkler on any green a player may place the ball on either side of the sprinkler. Any ball hitting a guy wire or telephone pole is not penalized and must hit his shot over.

The course has just been freshly mowed and Bruce and Hudgins have built it themselves and installed their own sprinkler system.

Ohio St. Runaway Still No. 1

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ohio State wasted no time showing why it had been chosen the nation's top football team without playing a game.

The Buckeyes destroyed Texas Christian, 62-0, Saturday in their 1969 opener and received near-unanimous support from the 35-member United Press International Board of Coaches.

Ohio State was named first on 32 ballots and second on the three remaining for 347 points. Penn State was a distant second at 251.

Arkansas (231) edged Texas (229) and Southern California (187) for third place while Oklahoma finished sixth and Georgia seventh. Purdue, Missouri and UCLA completed the top 10.

Michigan was 11th, followed by Tennessee, Michigan State, Florida and Louisiana State. Stanford placed 16th with Alabama, Wyoming, Kansas State and Florida State rounding out the first 20.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation comprise the UPI ratings board. Each week they selected the top 10 teams in the nation with points awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis on votes from first through 10th place. Here, by sections, are the coaches who comprise the 1969 board.

East
Bob Blackman, Dartmouth; Tom Cahill, Army; Rick Forzano, Navy; Ben Schwartz, Wake Forest; Joe Yonkos, Boston College.

Midlands
Bob Devaney, Nebraska; Dan Devine, Missouri; Chuck Fairbanks, Oklahoma; Frank Pepper, Rodgers, Kansas; Rod Rust, North Texas State.

South
Paul Dietzel, South Carolina; Vince Dooley, Georgia; Frank Howard, Clemson; Charles Tate, Miami, Fla.; Johnny Vaught, Mississippi.

Midwest
Alex Agase, Northwestern; Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State; Woody Hayes, Ohio State; Ara Parseghian, Notre Dame; Murray Warmath, Minnesota.

Pacific Coast

Rockies
Eddie Crowder, Colorado; Lloyd Eaton, Wyoming; Tom Hudspeth, Brigham Young; Mike Lude, Colorado St. U.; Ben Martin, Air Force.

Southwest
Frank Broyles, Arkansas; Hayden Fry, SMU; Frank Kouss, Arizona State; Darrell Royal, Texas; Bill Yeoman, Houston.

MONROE WOODS, who led Pampa in rushing last week was named as Harvester of the Week for his outstanding running by Pampa football coaches. Woods is slated to start at halfback against Plainview Friday night.

Top AA Clubs Open District Play Friday

By United Press International

The race for district honors begins this week for most of the contenders of the Class AA high school football championship.

Five of Class AA's top ten, including No. 1 Lufkin Dunbar, open district action this weekend.

Dunbar, which made the state finals last season only to lose by a single point to Daingerfield, opens play in District 22-AA on the road against Madisonville.

San Antonio Randolph (No. 2) gets a week off before starting conference action, but third-rated Iowa Park plays a district game against Wellington.

Other district-opening contests find Jacksboro (No. 5) meeting Henrietta, Dimmitt (No. 6) tangling with Friona and Klein (No. 8) playing Katy. Elsewhere among the ranked clubs it will be Georgetown against Marble Falls, Reagan County taking on Rankin and Columbus against LaGrange.

Only one member of the top ten got beat in Class AA last weekend, but that could not be helped. Fifth-ranked Jacksboro and ninth-rated Stamford got together, and Jacksboro prevailed 12-0.

Lufkin Dunbar knocked off its second Class AAA team of the year, downing Aldine Carver 21-14.

San Antonio Randolph kept its defensive machine well oiled with a 24-6 triumph. Randolph has given up only one touchdown in three games.

'Hogs Worry H'Frogs

By United Press International

Arkansas and Texas, the No. 3 and 4 teams in the country and the top attractions in the Southwest Conference, have their problems. You don't even have to ask about them. They'll tell you.

After two straight victories—coming on a pair of defensive shutouts while the offense rolled up 94 points—Arkansas coach Frank Broyles said he is worried about a team that was beaten by 62 points in its last outing.

The Razorbacks face Texas Christian in Little Rock Saturday. The Horned Frogs suffered a crippling 62-0 humbling to No. 1-ranked Ohio State last Saturday.

"All I can do is put myself in their shoes," Broyles said. "They're not that bad and they've been humiliated. They can be a good team and they know it."

"They've got two films on us. Their coaches can pitch those cans on a table today and they won't have to invite a soul to look at them. The players will keep those projectors going all week until they know us like a book. And they'll get their top effort of the year."

Broyles praised his defense in Saturday's 55-0 rout of Tulsa.

"Our defense made it easy for the offense. Once again we were able to put a lot of pressure on the quarterback and the secondary coverage was the best it's been in a long time," Broyles said.

The Razorbacks, led by tackle Gordon McNulty and end Bruce James, recovered five fumbles, intercepted three passes and threw Tulsa quarterbacks for losses seven times.

At Texas, coach Darrell Royal said too much theory and not enough practice has hurt his aerial attack.

The Longhorns beat Texas Tech 49-7 Saturday in the season's first conference encounter, and beat California 17-0 in its first game, but has been able to hit only five of 17 passes for 47 yards.

Royal prescribed more "actual throwing" for quarterback James Street, who missed spring practice while pitching the Texas baseball team to the Southwest Conference championship.

"He hasn't thrown well," Royal said. "But I think he will. James is sincere in trying to take the blame when he knows he hasn't delivered. Our passing really isn't as bad as it has looked. I think we have a good passing game—and we really haven't been forced to use it."

Texas takes on Navy Saturday in Austin and Royal hopes to chalk up his 100th victory at Texas.

At Texas Tech, where Coach J. T. King finds himself in the cellar (by virtue of that loss to Texas), King said Monday when you get down you have to get up.

The Red Raiders started pointing toward Saturday's foe—Oklahoma State—with King pointing out several players for praise.

He singled out flanker Johnny Odum, end Charles Evans and quarterback Charles Napper on offense. On defense he praised tackle Dicky Grigg.

TCU, in between the rock (Ohio State) and the hard place (Arkansas), went through a light workout Monday with five starters doubtful for the game with Arkansas.

Running back Norman Bulaich had a pulled thigh muscle, linebacker Pat Walker and flanker Linzy Cole had swollen feet and cornerback Greg Webb and safety Billy Fondren had leg injuries.

Texas A&M, losers 14-0 to Nebraska Saturday, worked out in preparation for this week's game with Army.

Coach Gene Stallings said he was encouraged by the way the Aggies played in the second half against a big Cornhusker team, "but we're going to have to eliminate the mistakes before we're a good football team," he said.

Major League Roundup

By United Press International

Rico Petrocelli, the Boston Red Sox slugging shortstop, is in a class by himself when it comes to hitting home runs.

Petrocelli became the first shortstop in American League history to hit 40 home runs Monday night as he led the Red Sox to an 8-5 victory over the Washington Senators. Ernie Banks, who hit 47 home runs for the 1958 Chicago Cubs, holds the major league mark.

Petrocelli, who also cracked two singles in a 17-hit Red Sox attack, wrote his name into the record books when he lined a solo homer into the left field bullpen in the seventh inning to give Boston a 6-3 lead.

Vern Stephens, a former Red Sox great in the early 1950's, held the previous high among American League shortstops with 39.

In his previous four major league seasons, Petrocelli had never hit more than 18 home runs. But this year the 26-year-old musician has been hitting for the distance at a steady rate while the Red Sox have been languishing in the Eastern Division behind champion Baltimore Orioles and the Detroit Tigers.

In the only other game in the majors, Detroit defeated Baltimore, 4-1, and remained two games ahead of Boston in the fight for second place in the East.

Arkansas Top Running 11 In SWC Play

DALLAS (UPI)—Arkansas boasts the two top rushers in the Southwest Conference and between the Razorbacks and the Texas Longhorns seven of the top 10 gainers are accounted for in league statistics released today.

Bill Brunett and Bruce Maxwell, with 178 and 165 yards, respectively, set the rushing pace and reserve Russ Garber of the Hogs ranks eighth with 91 yards.

Steve Worster with 137 yards is third, Jim Eiertelsen with 117 yards and Ted Koy with 107 yards rank fifth and sixth and James Street ranks 10th with 78 yards to give Texas four spots.

The only outsiders are Rice's Cliff Erabtree (fourth) with 119 yards, Daryl Doggett of SMC (seventh) with 106 yards and SMC's Marty Whelan (ninth) with 81 yards.

In contrast, SMU has five of the top 10 receivers, including the top three and four of the top five despite the fact Mustang Chuck Hixson is not throwing at a record pace for the first time in his 13-game varsity career with SMU.

Hixson has hit 76 of 130 passes for 843 yards and six touchdowns.

Moody, Lee Favorites In World Cup Golf

SINGAPORE (UPI)—United States Open champion Orville Moody and Lee Trevino, winner of the same American event in 1968, are favored by some experts to win the 17th World Cup golf tournament here beginning Thursday.

Interest in the tournament is tremendous since it will be held in Southeast Asia for the first time. Top golfers from 45 countries will compete.

Moody will be watched particularly by Southeast Asian golf enthusiasts because he was a professional on golf courses for the U.S. armed forces in Korea and Japan. His surprising victory in the U.S. Open this year was hailed in Asia.

Petrocelli Hits Lead Boston To Victory

Rico Petrocelli, the Boston Red Sox slugging shortstop, is in a class by himself when it comes to hitting home runs.

Pair Tie For Staff Selections With 21-4 Marks

By United Press International

Makeup man Bill Heckathorn and new Pampa News photographer Pres Doudna upset the experts Saturday and tied in the News' weekly football selections.

Both Heckathorn and Doudna guessed the outcome correctly on 21 of the 25 games. Sports Editor Ron Cross finished second with a 20-5 record in the second week of staff selections.

Doudna missed only the Notre Dame-Purdue, Oregon-Stanford, Duke-Virginia and North Carolina-South Carolina games. Heckathorn correctly guessed Purdue's upset victory but missed on Pampa, Houston, Oregon and Mississippi.

Chico Ramirez, 18-7 last week, is the season leader with a 39-11 record and Heckathorn and News Publisher Al Eassett, 18-7 last week, are tied for second with 37-13 marks and Cross is third at 36-14.

Other staffers and their records last week include Doris Wilson, 13-12; Gene Schneider, 15-10; Jim Casey, 17-8; Tex DeWeese, 17-8 and Ricky Clark, 18-7.

An Overburdened Servant

A New York City firm recently had to turn to a newspaper advertisement to get its message across. There should be nothing unusual in that except that in this case it was not pushing a product but explaining — and complaining — why it had been virtually out of contact with the outside world for some days. Phone trouble which, despite repeated requests, had not been corrected. The telephone company got the message and the firm's office lines were quickly put in order. That would be the end of a mildly humorous story — except that it may be only the beginning and there's nothing really humorous about the current situation of many firms, including the telephone companies.

Metropolitan areas are in the early stages of a communications traffic jam which could well get worse before it improves significantly. The demand for telephones and the multiplication of uses for lines in recent years is outstripping the telephone companies' capabilities. The reasons are many, in part a result of our rising population and affluence, in part due to the continuing technological revolution.

A telephone is no longer considered simply a convenience. It is an essential in almost all American homes now. And where not so long ago one to a household was adequate, extensions — often multiple — have become the rule. Even separate lines for a family's teen contingent are not unusual. Thus, what was a predictable arithmetic increase in demand for service due to rising population,

Skip Spinach, Maybe?

In the unlikely event that anyone is worried about running out of things to worry about, a warning from three scientists at the North Carolina State University in Raleigh contains enough crisis content to fill in any anxiety gaps that may appear at odd moments.

Their theory is that, since noise pollution is harmful to man, it ought to be harmful to plants as well, since both are biological systems. And if noise is harmful to plants, it may well be doubly harmful to man, since he eats plants.

The scientists reported to the Acoustical Society of America on tests they conducted with tobacco plants, which were chosen because their normal growth rates are well-established, especially in North Carolina.

Twelve plants were allowed to grow in peace and quiet for two weeks in an indoor plot at the University. Then loud-

Ivory Tower Critics

Nearly everyone agrees competition is a good thing. Yet, in the name of consumer protection, proposals constantly are being made to curb fundamental elements of our competitive marketing system. A few lines from an advertisement of the Magazine Publishers Association tell the story of the current school of thinking among contemporary consumer protectors.

"They think," says the advertisement, "that all the different brands of the same kinds of products — all clamoring for your attention — represent an economic waste. They'd like to avoid all that by having fewer brands competing for your attention. Less advertising... The Ivory tower critics call

Democrats Headed For Collision

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)

Major elements of the fractured Democratic party are headed toward what could be the most destructive collision in its 20th-century history.

The New Democratic Coalition and allied partisans of the New Left are adopting an increasingly rigid doctrinaire posture as they press for a leadership role in the party.

Not only conservative Democrats but a whole host of the more practical liberals are explosively angry at the New Left and seldom miss a chance to attack. Labor leaders who had most to do with Hubert Humphrey's late-campaign comeback in 1968 are refusing now to co-operate with party reform efforts.

In the newest blast from the doctrinaire side, a group including John Kenneth Galbraith, Richard Goodwin, Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and Adam Walinsky asserted that a newly formed Democratic Policy Council "does not represent the practitioners and advocates of the new politics nor is there a significant voice for youth."

A proclamation circulated at a recent liberal-sponsored rally at the Libertyville, Ill., farm of State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III petitioned "against a politics which produces an order in which Americans fear one another, in which those who seek change and those who hold power regard one another without understanding, without compassion and without trust."

In the view of the party's practical centrists, the burden of these dangerous divisions lies heaviest on the New Left. Says one centrist-spokesman in a burst of sarcasm: "If you want to have purity and stay out of office, you can do it. These New Left people are suffering from a kind of anti-power syndrome."

What infuriates the middle-range types most is the NDC's consistent put-down of certain labor leaders the coalition views as hopelessly hidebound. A seasoned Democratic professional says: "In the 1968 campaign for the presidency, labor was all we had. For all practical purposes, we were a labor party."

Labor's experienced political field forces are widely credited with pulling back into the party fold countless union workers who had drifted toward third party candidate George Wallace. That return flow brought Humphrey surprisingly close at the finish.

The New Left's scorn for these leaders is being repaid in kind as AFL-CIO officials currently spurn cooperation with the two special party committees studying national convention and delegate selection reforms.

NDC sources insist that most of labor nevertheless can be held within a "purified" liberal Democratic party which would put emphasis upon the young, the black and other minorities, and the intellectuals. These New Left sources say they would be happy to see conservative southern Democrats depart for other political pastures.

To the centrists, this is "Goldwaterism in reverse," a deliberate move toward minority party status which one observer says would assure that the Democrats hereafter would "march successfully to defeat after defeat."

These same politicians in the middle contend that the New Left's notion that labor's huge rank and file can be kept within a party focused strongly on the young and the black is a piece of massive self-deception. Practiced professionals recall that sizable elements of labor stayed with Wallace or President Nixon in 1968 despite all the pressures applied by labor's battle-wise field troops. They fear labor's exodus from the Democratic party in 1970 and 1972 would be far greater if the New Left's prescriptions for purity were to prevail.

Not Only U.S.-Mexican Relations

The Manion Forum

All's Quiet On One Campus Front
"This letter is to inform you that this university has dismissed more than 40 students on this day. Their dismissal is the result of willful disobedience of the rules and regulations for orderly and proper conduct."

Are the words above a fond daydream of someone over thirty? In this era of capitulating university administrations, could it be that some school authorities still believe in authority?
No, it is not a daydream. And yes, the words were written by a university chancellor. He is Maurice B. Mitchell of Denver University. His statements were

Government Pay Goes Up And Up
(Chicago Tribune)
Civilian employees of the federal government received wage increases averaging 9 per cent last month under a generous bill proposed by President Johnson and made even sweeter by Congress in 1967.

The increase comes on top of an average wage scale which was already higher, as the graph shows, than in any other category to the wallets of the taxpayers, the teachers might have been satisfied faster.

This may point precisely to the trouble. The generosity of a public body toward its employees seems to vary in direct proportion to its access to tax money. Congress has access to most of the tax money, and, in addition, it is far enough removed from the average taxpayer so as not to hear his howls. This may explain why in the last three years, federal wages have pushed their way to the top of the scale. They have risen faster, measured by percentage, than the wages of any other major group except construction workers and, significantly, public school teachers.

From 1965 to 1968, the average federal civilian worker's pay rose from $7,614 a year to $8,769. In the contract construction business, the average rose from $6,595 to $7,939. And the average school teacher went from $5,257 to $7,149.

In short, the inflationary procession of wage increases has been led by Congress; however much it may try to shift the blame to others. So far, there is no real complaint against the school teacher, because for years he was underpaid; it does not follow, however, that his recent rate of progress should continue indefinitely. Nor is the county worker who turns in a "d day's work to blame; the villain here is the official who leads the payroll with loafing political jobholders. It is to Congress, therefore, that the burdened taxpayer should direct his loudest complaints about the soaring cost of bureaucracy.

part of an open letter sent on April 30, 1968. The students in question had presented ultimatum to Chancellor Mitchell, and had threatened to hold a sit-in demonstration in his office unless the ultimatums were accepted. "The proper length of a sit-in" says Mitchell, "is five minutes. Anyone who tolerates interference with the operations of the university beyond that time is rationalizing against a background of fear that I don't understand."

Speaking over the Manion Forum radio program, Mitchell made some further observations about student unrest. What has happened, for instance, at Denver since the 1968 crack-down? Here is what Mitchell relates:

"A tendency has developed in the student body and in the administration and faculty to spend a great deal more time talking about the kinds of problems which, left alone, could mushroom into highly explosive situations. The students now serve on many more committees than they ever have in the past, although that trend was already in effect before the episode of last year and students have contributed in many ways to changes on the campus that almost everyone believes are constructive."

What about the modern student? How is he different from the older generation, and does his difference contribute to campus turmoil? Mitchell says this:

"Today's students are exposed to a great deal more information about world affairs — through radio, through television, through modern communications, through the fact that their parents are more involved in these activities than ever before.

"They feel involved — they feel involved in a sense because they are going to have to fight the wars. They feel involved because they get impatient when they don't see as many black students on the campus as they think ought to be there, or when they see kinds of circumstances in the ghettos of the cities in which the universities exist that they think should have been dealt with a long time ago.

"They are restless and irritable when they look at poverty and have a sense that if it is within our means to deal with this problem and we have taken too long. And, most of all, they are influenced by the fact that all of these problems are going to be around for them to deal with. For them to have to work with in just two or three years. Some students, looking at that array of problems, that array of challenges, just feel that they must force the university to solve the problems. I think that is a misdirection of effort.

"In some cases the cutting edge of the activist group is clearly influenced by outside forces. By the kinds of forces that have always seized on unrest and unhappiness and other problems of our society,

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Q — How long will I have to take digitalis for my heart disease? After taking it for eight months, I get a feeling of weakness and pressure in my chest and my doctor said I had digitalis poisoning. He said I should check my pulse every day and, if it goes above 63, I should go back to taking digitalis. What do you think?

A — Digitalis is given to strengthen the heart beat in persons with congestive heart failure. If this is your condition, you should take it indefinitely but the dosage must be carefully controlled or episodes of overdosage may occur.

Q — My doctor says I have a heart murmur. What is this? What treatment is recommended?

A — Through his stethoscope, your doctor may hear two kinds of murmur. One is the sound made by the blood rushing over a valve roughened by disease or escaping through a leaky valve. The other, seen chiefly in adolescents and young adults, is caused by the swiftness of the flow through a strong heart. This is called a functional murmur and is of no significance except as a source of needless worry. A doctor never treats a murmur — only the underlying disease, if any.

Q — Does the heart beat faster or slower as we get older? What is the normal rate of pulse and respiration?

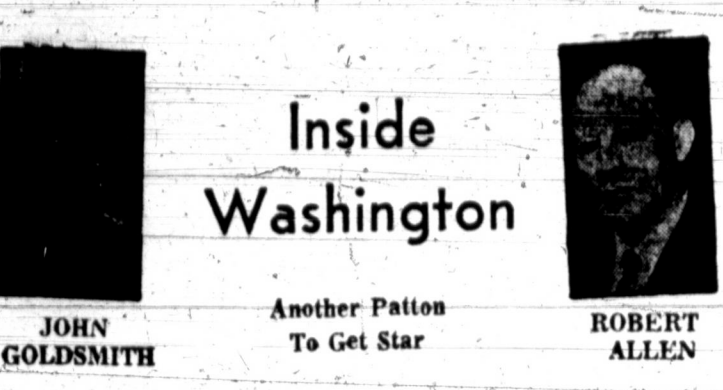

A — The pulse rate is affected by exercise, emotions, certain drugs and the thyroid hormone but not by age. The normal resting pulse rate is usually given as 72 to 78 but rates as low as 60 may be perfectly normal. The normal resting respiratory rate is 18 to 20 per minute.

Q — My daughter is engaged to a man who has fibrous dysplasia. He has participated in sports but, because of the pains in his legs, his doctor advises him to limit his physical activity. Is there any cure for this disease? Will it progress? Is it hereditary?

A — This bone disease is slowly progressive and is characterized by thinning of the outer layer of bone, with increased risk of fracture. It may affect a single bone or several. No cure is known. It is not hereditary.

JOHN GOLDSMITH
Another Patton To Get Star
ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — There will soon be another Gen. George S. Patton in the U.S. Army. He is George IV, son of the illustrious World War II battle commander who led victorious armies in Africa, Sicily and in history-making blitz sweeps through France and Germany.

George IV is 36th on a list of 64 outstanding regular army colonels selected for promotion to brigadier general. He will get his star by the end of the year.

Like his father, Patton earned his elevation exceptional valor and combat leadership. He has three distinguished service crosses — the second highest decoration for extraordinary courage and competence under fire.

The first DSC was won by Patton in Korea as a young captain commanding a tank company. Ordered to hold a key hill, he dug his tanks into the gun turrets and for days fought off waves of screaming Communist Chinese and North Korean attackers. The other two DSC were awarded in Vietnam for equally striking feats as commander of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment.

This was Patton's second tour of duty in Vietnam. The first was as a major on the staff of Gen. Paul Harkins, then U.S. commander there.

Patton capped his latest Vietnam service in characteristic manner. Upon returning to the U.S. last spring, he asked for training as a helicopter pilot — although 47 years old and a colonel. His request was granted and he was sent to Fort Worth, Tex., where he completed the regular three months course, soloed and was given his wings as a "chopper" pilot.

To friends he explained, "The helicopter is now an essential combat weapon in Vietnam. I had more than 50 of them in my command, about half gunships. As a combat commander, I consider it vital that I know everything about this weapon, including operating it, the same as I do about running and fighting tanks and other weapons of armored units. That is why I asked for this flying training. I didn't consider my age an obstacle in any way."

A 1945 West Point graduate, Patton's military career is keeping with a family tradition going back generations. Four of his Virginia ancestors were Confederate officers, a great grandfather and a great granduncle were killed in action. The latter, Tazewell Patton, was a captain in Ar-

Mini-States Influence U.N.

By PAUL HARVEY
Pitcairn Island, population 92, is awaiting independence. Will it be admitted to the United Nations where, in the General Assembly, the mini-state will have a vote as big as yours.

Founders of the United Nations in 1945 did not anticipate this recent emergence of tiny, new independent states. Nor did the founders foresee this day when the United Nations would go so far astray from its original intent and purpose.

For example, the U.N.'s own rules specify that the organization is not to interfere in the internal affairs of any member nation. Yet it has frequently criticized and passed resolutions condemning the racial policies of South Africa. Whether South Africa's apartheid policy is, in fact, misguided, it is still a domestic matter and none of the U.N.'s business.

Similarly — and just the other day — Ireland's Minister for External Affairs asked that a U.N. peace-keeping force be sent to Northern Ireland.

Aggravating the Catholic-Protestant struggle in Northern Ireland is tragic but it is an internal United Kingdom problem and not properly the concern of the United Nations.

Any day the United Nations could presume to dictate to the U.S.

mistad's battalion of Pickett's division and was slain in the ill-fated frontal charge at Gettysburg. Two other great granduncles were wounded in other battles.

Patton is married to a retired general's daughter and they have several children.

SDS FLOP — Preliminary intelligence evaluations indicate the Marxist oriented Students for a Democratic Society didn't get far the past summer with their so-called "work-in" program to create a "base for a worker-student revolutionary alliance."

In three significant respects this factory infiltration scheme was a bust.

Fewer SDS zealots were recruited than hoped for. The goal was 1,000 but not more than several hundred actually took part.

Factory and other workers were more interested in sports and similar topics than in talking about politics and issues, particularly of a radical ideological nature.

The SDS would be proselytizers were so exhausted by the strenuous work in the factories and hills that they were too tired to engage in agitation at night meetings and on weekends.

SDS officials are tight-mouthed about the results of their radical project. This in itself is noteworthy because if the plan had made any headway they would be boasting about it, particularly in their publications. But so far they have been strikingly silent.

Congressional investigators, who have kept a close watch on the undertaking, have a number of reports from different parts of the country. Other accounts are still awaited. The reports are based on "informal" talks with the SDSers.

The summer "work-in" program stemmed from a manual prepared in 1967 by the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) — Peking oriented Communist faction. The manual was designed to provide instruction for anti-Vietnam organizers and agitators. It was taken over by SDS last spring, revised and used in its campaign to promote student-worker revolutionary alliance.

Aim of this alliance is to show workers how evil the establishment is and the need to overthrow it by revolution.

Churchill agreed with Stalin. With typical Churchillian eloquence he said, "The eagle should let the small birds sing and care not wherefore they sing."

It was largely due to Franklin Roosevelt's insistence that the small birds were subsequently given a choice equal to that of the eagles in the General Assembly.

Now the United States is trying to erase that unfortunate mistake.

Now the United States, however tardily, is proposing that the mini-states be allowed a sort of "social membership" or "associate membership" wherein they may attend sessions, make speeches, submit documents, but neither vote nor hold office. And they would pay no dues.

Also, the U.S. proposal would limit membership to nations of at least 10,000 population with a territory of at least 360 square miles and a budget of at least $1 million a year.

It may be too late. There are already so many mini-states in the United Nations that they may, on this, outvote us.
