

Severed Limbs Rejoined In Operations Once Thought Impossible

BOSTON (UPI)—Twice within eight months two separate teams of surgeons have accomplished what once would have been called the impossible—rejoining severed limbs.

The two cases involved ultimately may prove to be unsuccessful. But the very least these surgeons have proved is that rejoining severed limbs for an extended period of time, perhaps indefinitely, is no longer an impossibility.

Their initial efforts, someday may lead to a reduction in the number of persons who lose limbs because of accidents.

Last May, Everett Knowles, 13, of Somerville, Mass., had his right arm completely severed by a train. Last week, William Hunt, 37, a husky ex-Marine, had his left leg 90 per cent severed about half-way up his thigh in an automobile accident.

Today, both the youngster and the man have these limbs still attached to their bodies though the final results may not be known for many months.

The Knowles surgery, done at Massachusetts General Hospital where a team of surgeons were waiting for just such a case, probably was the more difficult of the two. The boy also probably has a poorer chance of regaining partial or full use of the limb.

Everett's arm was severed just below the shoulder and the bone broken in half. The doctors first sutured arteries and veins, then rejoined the bones with a steel rod and finally sewed the arm back into place.

The boy, a Little League pitcher until his accident, still must undergo additional operations yet to be scheduled. These will involve the rejoining of nerves, perhaps the most difficult surgery of all. Without the nerves, the arm would be virtually useless, though there was a pulse and the limb was warm.

Should this surgery fail, Everett might eventually lose the arm. Doctors are hopeful this will not be necessary.

In the Hunt case, the limb involved, the leg of a 200-pound, 6-foot male, required a substantially different technique.

Instead of suturing the arteries and veins first, the Peter Ben Brigham Hospital doctors decided the limb had to be stabilized first.

They operated in relays, first rejoining the bone, then the vascular system and finally the muscle tissue. A major difference between the two operations was in the nerve systems. The boy's nerves all were severed. The intact 10 per cent of Hunt's leg included the all-important sciatic nerve.

Hunt now is able to wiggle his toes. Knowles has yet to move a finger because of the detached nerves. He does have some feeling in his arm.

MOTHERS MARCH — Pampa's Mothers March of Dimes drive yesterday afternoon and last night was a success. With more than 500 mothers making the neighborhood trek from house to house, a total of $2,261.09 was collected. In a typical scene shown above, right, is Mrs. J. C. Gobin, 1125 Crane Rd. as she received a donation from Mrs. Jim Butcher, 2405 Rosewood Lane. (Daily News Photo)

Mothers' March Raises $2,261 In MoD Canvass

Some 500 Pampa workers in the Mothers March of Dimes fund campaign collected $2,261.09 yesterday afternoon and last night to account for more than half of their $4,000 goal.

The amount is expected to grow when call backs are made and voluntary subscriptions are received from persons who were not at home last night.

Mrs. Georgia Mack, Mother's March chairman, and her group captains worked diligently for the past two weeks to organize the fund drive.

"The reception given the mothers who asked for contributions was very good, which helped the morale of each of them and their attitudes were wonderful," Mrs. Mack said.

The eight group captains for the mothers march, which was broken down into school districts, were: Mrs. Bill Martin, Travis; Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Horace Mann; Mrs. Bob Karr, Sam Houston; Mrs. Charles Lanehart, Stephen F. Austin; Mrs. Orvil Ferguson, Baker; Mrs. Calvin Hogan, Woodrow Wilson, and Mrs. Ernest Pulse, of Lefors in charge of the Lamar group, who will conduct their Mothers March next week.

Mrs. Mack said the first district had not reported collections at noon today and there were many homes called on with no answers. After the first group returns are in, along with many calls expected within the next few days. Mrs. Mack said it was anticipated that the fund will reach $3,000 by the week end.

Persons who were not at home during the march last evening and desire to make a contribution, may contact Mrs. Mack at MO 9-9893 and the donation will be picked up. For those who wish to mail contributions for the Mothers March, the address is Mothers March, Post Office Box 1654, Pampa.

The Grutch sale, to be conducted by High School girls' organizations is set for Saturday, Feb. 2. The Bucket Brigade solicitations by civic club members in downtown Pampa will be held Saturday, Jan. 26.

Third Blue Norther Heads This Way; Due By Tonight

By United Press International
The third blue norther in less than two weeks swept southward into Texas today, threatening more snow, sleet and freezing rain in the north half of the state.

Cold wave warnings were issued for Northwest, North Central and Northeast Texas. Temperatures near zero were predicted for the Panhandle.

The Weather Bureau said temperatures should be falling from the 60s in the Panhandle about mid-afternoon, plunging into the 20s by nightfall. Winds gusting to 40 miles per hour will accompany the front.

There is a chance of light, scattered snow late tonight or Wednesday in Northwestern Texas and sleet and freezing rain in North Central and Northeast Texas, the Weather Bureau said.

The Amarillo weather forecaster says Pampa and vicinity are in for zero to 5 above weather tonight along with 40-mile winds and blowing and drifting snow. Pampa's noonday temperature was 31.

Temperatures in North Central and Northeast Texas will drop into the teens and 20s tonight, probably staying below freezing at least through Wednesday. A warming trend was forecast for the weekend.

The Weather Bureau said forecasts do not call for cold wave conditions across South Texas, although some cooling is expected. But "all interests should remain alert for later forecasts," the Weather Bureau warned.

Legislator Says Education Needed

AUSTIN (UPI)—Rep. Bill Dungan of McKinney introduced a bill Monday which would require a course in "capitalism vs. communism" to be taught in public schools.

Dungan said the general public is "woefully ignorant of the principles upon which the capitalist system is founded."

Test Ban Agreement Now Closer Than Ever

Water Flooding Topic For Today

Public To Get Engineers' Survey Report Tomorrow

Pampa city commissioners and oil company representatives were scheduled to confer in City Hall this afternoon with officials of Forrest and Cotton, Dallas consulting engineers.

Principal topic for the meeting, which got under way at 2:30 p.m., was the prospects of the City of Pampa furnishing water for water flooding operations in oil fields adjacent to the city.

Representatives of Cities Service, Texaco, Kewanee, Phillips and Sinclair oil companies were to attend the session along with Mayor E. C. Sidwell, City Manager Harold Schmitzer and members of the city commission.

A meeting open to the general public has been scheduled for City Hall at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow when the Forrest and Cotton representatives will file their full report on a six-month study of Pampa's water and sewer needs. Slides will be shown to explain recommendations of the consulting engineers in regard to Pampa's water and sewer problems with special emphasis on financial obligations arising out of the city's participation in the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell said today that if tonight's regular meeting of the City Commission is not too lengthy, it is possible there will be some discussion on the water and sewer survey at that time.

Principal business listed on the agenda for tonight's commission meeting calls for the second reading of an ordinance setting Feb. 19 as the date for a public hearing on a proposed ordinance to pave S. Barnes St. from the Fort Worth & Denver Ry. underpass south to the city limits.

UN Moves To Reunify Congo

KOLWEZI, Katanga, The Congo (UPI)—United Nations officials, following up the peaceful U.N. take-over of this last Katangese stronghold, laid the groundwork today for bringing Katanga Province back into the Congo.

The next reunification moves were expected to take place in the provincial capital of Elisabethville where representatives of Premier Cyrille Adoula's central government were awaiting talks with Katanga's President Moïse Tshombe, who had vowed to fight to the end, concluded his 31-month-long secession officially Monday by surrendering Kolwezi. U.N. troops entered the important mining center without a shot being fired.

McIlhany Introduces Several House Bills

Rep. Grainger McIlhany of Wheeler introduced several bills in the House at Austin yesterday.

One measure would abolish the ad valorem tax on motor vehicles and provide for an increase in registration fees.

Another bill introduced by McIlhany would permit the State Highway department to zone for speed limits according to recommendations of the governor, and would allow speed limits up to 70 miles an hour.

A third bill by the Wheeler state representative would allow the Veterans Land Board to issue $200,000,000 in bonds to finance additional veterans' land purchases.

Rep. McIlhany also introduced bills which resulted from the study of state-owned lands, conducted by an interim committee which he headed. One of these would increase the acreage permitted for prospecting, in line with experimental process for mining low grade ore.

Theft of oil and gas equipment, pipeline equipment or water well drilling equipment would be made a felony under still another McIlhany measure.

Obscene Movies Target Of Bill

AUSTIN (UPI)—A bill to provide for stiff fines and penalties for making obscene movies was started through the channels of state government Monday by Rep. W. H. Miller of Houston.

A first offense for making an obscene movie would be subject to a fine up to $1,000 and one year in jail. Exhibiting or selling such a movie would carry a maximum $2,500 fine and up to two years in jail for a first offense.

Second offenses for both crimes would be felonies and subject to up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Mother Of Pampa Doctor Dies In Local Hospital

Mrs. Lizzie B. Tiedeman, mother of Mrs. H. H. Hicks, North Duncan, died at 10:10 a.m. today in Highland General Hospital, where she had been a patient for about a week.

Burial rites are planned for Thursday morning at 10 a.m. in the Sparkman Funeral Chapel on Ross Avenue in Dallas. Burial will be in the Restland Cemetery, Dallas.

Mrs. Tiedeman, born Feb. 4, 1876 in Dallas, moved to Pampa with her husband in 1937. They established one of the first florists shops in Pampa, the Blossom Florist Shoppe, located in the Rose Building. Mr. Tiedeman died in 1945. Mrs. Tiedeman had been making her home with her daughter since that time.

In addition to her daughter in Pampa, Mrs. Tiedeman is survived by one son, Arthur of Houston; three grandsons and five great-grandchildren.

But Key Issues Still In Doubt

By DONALD MAY
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The United States, Britain and Russia resumed nuclear test ban talks here this afternoon, apparently closer to agreement in principle than ever before. Yet, though President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev narrowed the issues in an exchange of letters published this week, there were still key issues and dozens of details in dispute.

The talks, latest in a series which began in October, 1962, in Geneva, with preliminaries going back to 1955, were due to begin at 2 p.m., CST at the State Department.

Here is how the two camps lined up in advance of the meeting:

The United States and Britain are ready to sign an agreement ending nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water. They believe this would include underground tests, but they insist on inspections for a treaty which would include underground tests, since these are hard to distinguish from earthquakes.

Russia has ruled out the partial test ban, insisting on all or nothing and thereby making the inspection issue the key one.

Much earlier in the talks, Russia accepted the principle of international inspection teams visiting each country to check on possible underground blasts. Then, in November, 1961, the Russians suddenly refused even to discuss on-site inspection.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev now again accepted inspection teams in principle. He agreed to permit two to three trips a year in Soviet territory. The United States says this is not enough. U.S. officials have mentioned eight-to-ten trips, but this may be flexible.

The makeup of the teams has not been settled.

The Russians also have implied the teams could only visit areas of Russia where earthquakes commonly occur. The West wants this broadened.

The West started out demanding internationally manned "control posts" in each nuclear country which would monitor for explosions. More recently, the West said these posts could be "nationally manned" — that is, in Russia, manned by Russians.

The West says these posts must be "internationally supervised." It has never publicly spelled out how this would be done.

The control posts would report seismic data to an international commission, which would supervise the over-all inspection system.

To supplement inspections, both camps are talking about placing a number of unmanned seismic reporting stations, known as "black boxes," in each country. Khrushchev has indicated he would accept three such devices. Kennedy has sought more.

The West has proposed that the United States, Britain and Russia first sign a test ban agreement, then negotiate with France and eventually with Red China to join it. The treaty proposed by the West would provide that if France or other nations conduct tests, any of the three original signers would be free to back out.

The Russians have indicated they would not sign any treaty unless France joined it at the outset. If Russia does insist France sign initially, this could greatly complicate reaching final agreement, since French President Charles de Gaulle is bent on developing his own nuclear weapons system.

Ouster Asked For Peace Corps Group

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)—The University of New Mexico Student Senate, acting on protests by the student body, has asked Peace Corps officials to house their trainees away from regular UNM students.

The senate said behavior of a group of Peace Corps members who stayed at the campus during training last summer made it impossible for regular students to study or sleep, and housing the new group would disrupt the dormitory routine.

Carr To Keep Lid Clamped Down Tight On Galveston

AUSTIN (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr yesterday said he had no intention of letting the city of Galveston "open up" again regarding the sale of liquor and gambling.

Carr, in a letter to editor Charles McClelland of The Galveston News and Tribune, said he would "use the authority of the office of attorney general to assure that these laws are enforced energetically and fairly throughout Texas."

"It is my conviction that all the laws of Texas, including our criminal laws, apply equally to every part of Texas," Carr said in response to a telephone call from McClelland.

Galveston voters will cast ballots soon in a local referendum.

Open City Wanted?

One faction was reported to be campaigning on the presumption that the city will open up again if their side wins, it was reported.

Carr's letter to McClelland indicated he plans to follow the same policy of former Atty. Gen. Will Wilson regarding Galveston. Wilson, shortly after he won the attorney general's post, launched a clean-up campaign to close down gambling, prostitution and illegal liquor places in the city.

Carr said he had held conferences with Col. Homer Garrison of the Department of Public Safety "and we are in agreement on this statement."

"I have informed him that the full force of this office will be placed behind him and his department in the enforcement of our state criminal laws in every part of Texas," the attorney general said.

Policy Made Clear

"I in no way desire to become involved in your pending local election," Carr said, "but since this matter has apparently become injected into the election by

Women's League To Push Bills On Registration

AUSTIN (UPI)—The League of Women Voters of Texas has announced it will emphasize bills dealing with voter registration procedures during the current session of the legislature.

Mrs. Maurice H. Brown, president of the league, said, "we are particularly interested and will give all-out support to bills dealing specifically with a permanent voter registration system and repeal of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting."

The league said it would also support "further research and action on constitutional revision."

Recommendations of the Texas Election Laws Study Committee, including X-marking ballots and the omnibus bill for election law reform, will be supported by the league.

Carr told Garrison shortly after he took over as attorney general at the beginning of the year that "if Texas is to grow and the people are to prosper, the parasites of organized crime must not be permitted to leech away the resources of the people or corrupt the integrity of our law enforcement system."

"Keeping Texas clean and free of crime is the first and uppermost purpose of all associated with the responsibilities of law enforcement in our state," he said.

Foreign News Commentary

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
United Press International
MOSCOW (UPI)—Exhibitions and a commemorative postage stamp commemorated the 100th birthday anniversary this week of Russian director Konstantin Stanislavsky, whose "truth" method revolutionized modern stage and motion picture acting.

The Soviets claim Stanislavsky's method is practiced throughout the world, including New York's Actor's Studio which turned out Academy Award winner Marlon Brando.

Stanislavsky, who died in 1938, developed his "truth" method near the turn of the century. The Soviet magazine Ogonyok, in describing the method, said it was a striving for "truth and a hatred of lies."

The system professes a deep rejection of everything false, unnatural or artificial, and everything which is not the product of the actor's creative demands, the magazine said.

Institute On Realism
During rehearsals, Stanislavsky frequently shouted "I don't believe it" in his demands for realistic situations.

The Russian producer was born Jan. 17, 1863, the son of a wealthy merchant. He entered the world of dramatics in 1877 and directed a company of amateur actors for 10 years.

In 1887, he began directing plays for the Society of Art and Literature in Moscow and in 1898, he and a colleague founded the Moscow Art Theater.

At the turn of the century, the art theater was an immediate challenge to the stylistic canons of the Imperial Maly Theater.

It opened successfully with the historical drama "Tsar Fedor" by Count A.K. Tolstoy, but was threatened with bankruptcy following its second performance—Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice."

At this critical juncture Stanislavsky, using his new method, offered to revive Anton Chekhov's "The Sea Gull"—which had been a resounding failure at the Imperial Theater of St. Petersburg in 1896.

Stanislavsky's performance was brilliant. Although it did not altogether please Chekhov, it established the theater.

Featured Shekhov's Wife
From then on, the Moscow Art Theater became the home of Chekhovian drama and regularly produced a repertoire which included plays by Chekhov and Maxim Gorky. Among the principal players was Chekhov's wife, Mrs. A.O. Knipper-Chekhova.

But by 1910 the theater faced another crisis. Stanislavsky wrote in his notebook, "the theater has nothing to live on. There was real life when Chekhov and Gorky were here. Chekhov died, Gorky has gone away, there are few new ones and after a year or two the theater will no longer be able to hold its own."

The Soviet press in recent days has been claiming that the Russian revolution of 1917 saved the Moscow Art Theater by throwing it open to a wider public. But there is doubt that Stanislavsky personally cared for the change from the old order.

Approved By Communists
Despite opposition from leftist theatrical people in the 1920's, "realism" was approved by the new Communist regime.

Under Joseph Stalin, Stanislavsky's programs were brought to conform to the obligatory standards of "socialist realism."

But Stanislavsky, an unwavering love of his Russia, never deserted the Soviet state despite numerous offers from abroad, he made prolonged trips in Western Europe, but remained determinedly Russian.

Solon Would Cut Pain Killer Out Of Tax System

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Painless taxation has become a dangerous way of life for American citizens, Bryce N. Harlow suggests that Congress withdraw the painkiller from the patient.

The painkiller is the withholding tax system adopted during the Franklin D. Roosevelt era at the suggestion of the late Beardsley Ruml. Ruml never understood that his tax system was a menace to the safety of the republic. Why it is a menace was well explained recently by Harlow who was a deputy assistant to President Eisenhower. He said:

"The withholding tax is the most menacing assault upon citizen responsibility ever launched in this republic. For scores of millions of our people, take-home pay has come to signify total pay. Deductions are not felt. The citizen is insulated against the pyramiding national folly (deficit spending.) In the words of the ancient sage, to save fools from the consequences of their folly is one sure way to fill the world with fools."

Practical Politician
Harlow is a practical politician. He concedes it would be impossible to repeal the withholding system. So he proposes that Congress limit withholding to one half of taxes due. The taxpayer would need to dig into his bank account four times a year for the other half.

Politicians have proved themselves unable to keep government spending within the enormous and reasonable bounds of income. President Kennedy expects to collect $85.5 billion in this fiscal year to spend $84.3 billion and to rack up an $8.8 billion deficit. The U.S. government has a record of fiscal irresponsibility over the past 30 years. The people and the politicians have learned to live with it.

If the politicians will not impose fiscal responsibility on themselves, it could be imposed on them by the taxpayer-voters. The taxpayer-voters would do it, too, if Congress changed the withholding process to compel the taxpayer to pay without his dream pills, or a shot of novocain.

Nothing short of that is likely to create a political environment in which presidents and members of Congress would not dare spend money the government did not have. Harlow's idea is not new. It is older than the withholding tax system that FDR adopted with that gay enthusiasm for something new that was evident in certain other New Deal new departures.

Aware of Taxes
The late Robert M. LaFollette Jr. used to lecture the U. S. Senate on the necessity of the people being painfully aware of their taxes and, therefore, acutely alert to the spending performances of their government. When Senate demagogues were trying to raise tax exemptions for the little fellows, their beloved common man, LaFollette scorned the demagogues as fools.

Young Bob LaFollette argued that the little fellows, especially should be painfully aware of their tax contributions simply because there are so many of them.

Merchant Marine Nominations To Close Jan. 31

Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa announced today that Jan. 31 has been set as the deadline for accepting nominations of candidates for the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy.

Rep. Rogers is entitled by law to nominate 10 qualified applicants from the 28-county area of the 18th Congressional District.

He announced he will receive applications for nominations up to the Jan. 31 deadline.

The Merchant Marine Academy, one of the five federal academies, trains young men for careers as officers in the nation's Merchant Marine. Its four-year college program leads to a BS degree, a U.S. Coast Guard license as a third officer or third assistant engineer in the Merchant Marine, and a commission in the Naval Reserve.

Successful nominees will attend the academy beginning with the school year opening this fall.

Congressman Rogers said prospective applicants seeking more detailed information about the program of the Merchant Marine should contact his office or write to the academy's training representative, Maritime Administration, P. O. Box 52948, New Orleans, La.

Convicted Slayers Given Usual Stay

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. John Connally has granted the customary 30-day stay of execution to convicted Houston murderers Carolyn Ann Lima and Leslie Douglas Ashley.

The stay moved the execution date from Feb. 28 to March 30.

The couple was convicted for killing Houston realtor Fred A. Tones in February of 1961.

Earlier this month they lost a second motion for rehearing before the State Court of Criminal Appeals.

Legal CHECKUP A SAFETY MEASURE

Legal trouble is easier and cheaper to prevent than to cure. Most wage earning, childbearing, home buying, installment paying families don't see much need for a family lawyer.

Often only under prodding, one may have his lawyer prepare a will.

But can you tell a big legal risk from a small one? Can you spot the signs of legal trouble?

Check with your family lawyer when:

1. Your status changes: upon coming of age, marriage, the birth of your children, buying a house, divorce or death. For you may then need to draft or revise your will, change your insurance, or refigure your taxes.
2. You buy or sell. Look out for flaws in the papers before you go into debt, part with money, or sign anything involving big expenditures or long term obligations.
3. You enter into other contracts. Promises, spoken or written, bind you if they call for a "consideration", something of value in return.
4. Someone threatens your rights. The law exists to defend them but with some rights you must take action yourself for them to work for you.

When you can bring your lawyer "live" facts (e.g. unsigned contracts, vexing tax returns you haven't filed), he can do much more for you, and at a smaller cost than when you bring him "cold" facts (mistakes you have made which threaten trouble).

But above all, get both live and cold facts to him at once. For time may run out in many such situations. Your lawyer may be able to do something for you today, which he cannot do tomorrow.

Tell your lawyer what you want. Tell him all the facts, good or bad, and then keep him informed all along. He is sworn to keep what you tell in confidence, and he cannot serve you well without full knowledge.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

FREE JAILED EDITOR

BONN (UPI)—Der Spiegel editor Hans Schmeltz has been released from prison, leaving publisher Rudolf Augstein the only official of the news magazine still in jail, according to reliable sources here.

Both men were included in a roundup of Der Spiegel's staff during an investigation into allegations that high treason was committed when the magazine published defense secrets.

Radioactivity Can Process Food To Be Fresh Forever

NATICK, Mass. (UPI)—Radioactive rays now can process fish, meats and other foods so that they remain fresh forever without refrigeration.

The process was disclosed this week to some 300 scientists at the opening of a three-day international conference on radiation research at laboratories of the Army Materiel Command.

"This is the first truly new process for preserving food that the world has received in 150 years," Dr. Edward S. Josephson, laboratory director, said.

The $2.5 million laboratory irradiates food through the world's largest source of cobalt-60, a source of 1,290,000 curies, officials said. It injects rays into foods that pass on a conveyor belt.

At 1 food, officials explained, contains bacteria which causes the food to spoil. Radiation kills the bacteria.

Therefore, if the food is irradiated and then packaged it can be preserved indefinitely without refrigeration.

Hereford To Get Sugar Beet Plant

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—The construction of an $18 million sugar beet plant near Hereford, Tex., was announced Monday by the Holly Sugar Corp.

Officials of the corporation said the plant would be "the first of its kind in the Southwest."

The plant would be located on a 1,700-acre site two miles west of Hereford. Holly officials said the plant would be built to handle a capacity of 4,000 tons of beets per day. The plant would be set to produce an annual supply of 120 million pounds of sugar, which would be expanded to 200 million pounds in a few years.

Completion is scheduled for Sept. 1, 1964. An estimated 400 to 500 persons would be employed in the plant.

Cuban Invaders' Relatives Freed

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime has agreed to let between 300 and 1,000 close relatives of recently freed Cuban invaders go to the United States on the ransom freighter Shirley Lykes, Swiss officials announced Monday night.

Some Cuban-born Americans also will be allowed to leave Wednesday in a plane chartered by the American Red Cross to bring doctors, nurses, coats, blankets and other supplies here for the relatives' trip.

Exchange Student Is Guest Of Honor

SKELLYTOWN (SpI)—The Skellytown PTA met recently in the school cafeteria with the president Mrs. Gene Harlan presiding. Boy Scout Troop 9 presented the flag and led in the pledge of allegiance. Mrs. Don St. Clair read the parent-teacher prayer. Mrs. Katie Strickland's room won the prize for having the greater number of parents present at the meeting.

Miss Janny Stier of Germany, White Deer's exchange student, was the guest speaker. She said her idea of America is that the American people show a lot of Liberty, Democracy and Patriotism. When she returns home she plans to attend a language college and become an interpreter.

Mrs. Gene Harlan presented Miss Stier with a gift from the PTA.

Refreshments of cookies and coffee were served. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Coleman entertained the children with several sound films. The next meeting will be Feb. 19.

SHOWS FAIR MODEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—A model of the U.S. pavilion for the 1964 New York World's Fair, larger than a city block and ultra-modern in design, was unveiled Monday by architect Charles Luckman.
The $17 million structure will be eight stories high with exterior walls made from thousands of vari-colored glass pieces reflecting the sun during the day and artificially illuminated at night.

Impressive Rites For New Rebekah Officers

Mrs. Dean Monday was installed noble grand and Mrs. W. F. Williams as vice grand in a formal installation service held Thursday evening by the Pampa Rebekah Lodge No. 355 in the IOOF Hall, 800 East Foster.

Mrs. Glenna Anderson, district deputy president, Mrs. Ola McAfee, lodge deputy and Mrs. W. A. York, acting deputy marshal comprised the installing staff.

Also taking office in the impressive ceremony were Mrs. T. A. Mastin, recording secretary; Mrs. Alta Mae McElrath, financial secretary; Mrs. Niles Franklin, treasurer; Mrs. Joe Stembright, lodge deputy; Connie Lockhart, team captain;

Appointive officers for the six-month term are Mrs. W. H. Chitwood, warden; Thurman Stapleton, conductor; Ward Maddox, color bearer; Barney Brummett, chaplain; F. E. Mathney, inside guardian; Leroy Kretzmeier, outside guardian; Leroy Kretzmeier, musician; Thelma Routt, reporter.

Also, Mrs. M. C. Bennett, junior past noble grand; John Killian, right supporter to noble grand; J. W. Crisler, left supporter to noble grand; Ola McAfee, right supporter to vice grand; Harold Thornhill, right supporter to vice grand; Burl Lewter, right supporter to chaplain; C. L. Callen, left supporter to chaplain; Henry Mayo, right supporter to past noble grand; Clyde Gray, left supporter to past noble grand; Reba Atwood, right scene supporter, Lillie Fulton, left scene supporter.

Mrs. Bennett was presented with the past noble grand's pin by Mrs. Glenna Anderson. Mrs. Ola McAfee presented Mrs. Monday with a bouquet of vari-colored tulips from the installing team.

John Killian, grand senior warden Grand Encampment IOOF of Texas and his wife were guests of honor.

The lodge hall was decorated for the occasion with vari-colored candles and tulips. Following the ceremony, refreshments were served from a table appointed with a white cloth centered with an arrangement of vari-hued tulips in a crystal bowl flanked by green tapers. Mrs. E. M. Stafford, Mrs. H. B. Lawley, Mrs. Joe Stembright and Mrs. L. R. Tyson presided at the coffee and cake service.

Guests were present from Rebekah lodges in Borger, Skellytown and Big Spring.

Canadian Couple's Betrothal Is Told

CANADIAN (Spl) — Dr. and Mrs. Homer Chilvers Pheasant of Pasadena, Calif. announce the engagement of their daughter, Stephanie Theresa, to Jesse James Woodyard, son of James H. Woodyard of San Fernando and the late Mrs. Woodyard.

Miss Pheasant attended UCLA and is a senior at Mount Mary's School of Nursing. She belongs to Kappa Alpha Theta.

Mr. Woodyard will be graduated in February from Loyola University, where he is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon. He will continue his studies in business at the University of Southern California.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Amos E. Pugh and the late Mr. Pugh of Santa Rosa; Mrs. Guy E. Desparois and the late Dr. Desparois of Pasadena.

Mr. Woodyard is the grandson of Mrs. Jesse L. Yokley and the late Mr. Yokley of Canadian, Mrs. George William Woodyard and the late Mr. Woodyard of North Hollywood, Calif.

"The Chains Are Strong" Comprise Mission Study For Baptist Groups

A chapter in the mission book, "The Chains Are Strong" comprised study for members of Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church in recent meetings.

WINNIE TRENT CIRCLE met in the home of Mrs. C. H. Jacobs with Mrs. G. C. Ruthford opening the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Glenn Miller conducted mission book study with closing prayer offered by Mrs. Orvil Batson. Eight members were present. It was announced Mrs. Miller, 1934 Grape, will be hostess for the Jan. 23 meeting in her home.

VIOLET ORR CIRCLE met in the home of Mrs. R. L. Souter with Mrs. Wes Langham leading opening prayer. Mrs. Charles Bailey, circle chairman, conducted the business meeting followed by mission book study led by Mrs. O. N. Wells. Mrs. Souter dismissed the group with prayer. Mrs. Van C. Mills was welcomed as a new member and Mrs. M. L. Harvey as a guest. Seven members were present. Mrs. Wells will be hostess for the Jan. 23 meeting.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a few faults I would like to tell you about. Whenever we go any place he walks about four or five steps ahead of me. I sometimes wonder if he isn't trying to give the impression that we aren't together.

He also has had two fried eggs for breakfast every morning since we've been married. He takes about five minutes to cut up his eggs with a knife, and then he places little pieces on his toast and eats it that way. He also has a habit of leaving shaving cream and whiskers in the sink. We have been married 46 years and I have hollered my head off about these habits, but it has done no good. Have you any suggestions?

DEAR TIRE: Some men are deaf to hollering. Having lived with him for 46 years, overlook his minor faults and don't press your luck. Many widows would love to have your "problems."

DEAR ABBY: I am keeping company with a woman who is attractive, peppy and lots of fun. She's in her middle 30's and so am I. There is one thing I don't like about her. She wears three wedding rings—one right next to the other. She admits she has had three husbands. One died and she divorced two. I don't know whether she wears those rings because she can't get them off or because she thinks they look good. I've never been married and don't want to add my ring to her collection. Any advice?

DEAR MOTHER: You most certainly should tell him. And tell him exactly the way you told me. It was a "wrong mistake." He'll understand. And if he loves you, he'll marry you anyway. If he doesn't, you are better off to know now.

CONFIDENTIAL TO T. J.: You are better than you think you are. The more things a man is ashamed of, the more respectable he is.

Arts-Crafts Club With Mrs. Burton

CANADIAN (Spl) - The Arts and Crafts Club held an all-day workshop recently in the home of Mrs. Charles Burton in the Gem Community.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. the group spent the day in china and pastel painting. A pot-luck luncheon was served during the noon hour.

A brief business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Robert Rogers. Mrs. M. H. Smith gave the devotion.

During the day, a Mexican sweet, manuelos, a gift from Mrs. Mack Macias, was served.

Attending, not previously mentioned, were Mmes. W. P. Varnell, Ben Hill, Ray Morey, F. D. Teas, Arthur Webb, Paul Wood, Bill Ramp and Bennie Tepe.

Now a refillable purse atomizer that holds one-third ounce of perfume. In gold and black case, the atomizer is bottled, packaged and sealed in France. The refill simply clicks into place.

Achievements Evaluated At Altrusa Club Meet

Activities and accomplishments of various committees of the Altrusa Club of Pampa for the first six months of the year were evaluated at the noon luncheon meeting of the club held Monday in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Mrs. Clay Costin, vice president and program co-ordinator, was in charge of the program during which she commended chairmen and committee members for successfully achieving goals set by Altrusa International and thus establishing a well-informed club.

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, membership committee chairman, assisting with the program, prefaced her remarks by asking "how do you count as a member of Altrusa?" She outlined that "we must be diigent about our attendance; check the classification of other members and our own; be sure to see that members of all classifications participate on an active committee so that all may feel that they have a definite place in Altrusa; participating in various programs helps keep interest alive; cherish your Altrusa pin, membership and work for all Altrusa service projects. These things," Mrs. Shotwell stated, "will make the year of 1963 the happiest membership year."

Miss Linda Kay Key, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julian M. Key, was introduced as the Altrusa Girl of the Month for January by Miss Janie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson, Altrusa Girl of the Month for December.

Jay Flanagan, corresponding secretary, announced that a new Altrusa Club had been organized in Rock Island, Ill. Other correspondence read by Miss Flanagan included a Christmas greeting from Miss Cathy Papathanassopoulou of Patra, Greece, who spent a year in Pampa as an American Field Service Student; "thank you" notes from Mrs. Roy Kay and the Quivira Girl Scout Council. Mrs. B. M. Behrman, finance chairman, reported the successful completion of fund-raising projects for the year.

Miss Flanagan, Senior Center chairman, expressed appreciation to members for helping to make Uncle Billy's Frost's 100th birthday party a success. She reported that 315 guests were registered during the calling hours of three to five on Jan. 10 in the Coronado Inn.

Mrs. Inez Carter read greetings of best wishes to all club members from Jonathan Roberts of Langfield, Zuzu Land, South Africa, who had presented a program for Altrusa Club last year.

"Service" Topic For Xi Beta Chi

The Exemplar Chapter, Xi Beta Chi of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, met recently in the home of Mrs. Jeff Truly, 2122 N. Banks for a program on "Service Activities" presented by Mrs. Joe Fischer.

Mrs. Fischer discussed points of personal service or charity through other than organized groups; value of service to the individual and others; kinds and extent of service; what is most needed and what can be done.

A film in connection with the "March of Dimes" was shown by Joe Fischer, city chairman for the March of Dimes Drive.

In the business meeting, plans for the Woman of the Year Tea and presentation of the Valentine Girls were discussed.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Attending were Mmes. James Poole, Jim Meredith, Jack Vaughn, Murry Sealey, Ralph Eason, John Plaster, James School, Barney McMullan, Barber L. Clay, Wayne St. Clair, Ted Knox, Dot Francis, Lemond Hall and Miss Virginia Vaughn.

You can harmonize the carpeting in your home with a new collection of tufted wool carpets in a four-pattern group that can be varied from room to room. The group consists of a plush, a solid sculptured pattern, a tweed sculptured pattern and a stripe in different but compatible color tones.

9 Pampa Tangles With Dist. 3-AAAA Rival

ACCURATE SHOOTER — Texas Tech's Bobby Gindorf, former Pampa Harvester basketball ace, is the most accurate field goal shooter on the Red Raider team this year, hitting 35 of 67 attempts for 52.2 per cent. Gindorf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gindorf, 810 N. Gray, is averaging 10.5 points a game in SWC play.

The battle of Dist. 3-AAAA's two big men will be staged tonight as Pampa's Harvesters entertain the Plainview Bulldogs in an 8 o'clock fracas in Harvester Eieldhouse.

Randy Matson, Pampa's 6-6 1/2 center, will play against a taller man, Ronnie Peret, 6-8, than he has played against so far in district play.

Peret, a sophomore, is the top Plainview scorer and the second leading scorer in the district behind Pampa's Wayne Kreis. The Pampa guard is averaging 19.2 points a game compared to Peret's 17.5 average.

Pampa will be out to protect its perfect district record as well as to lengthen its winning streak to 17. The Harvesters, 6-0 in Dist. 3-AAAA action, are 21-1 for the season.

Plainview, tied with three other teams for second place in the district race, owns a 4-2 district mark and 17-5 season record.

Both teams having met six common foes in district play, Pampa has been more successful against 3-AAAA opposition than the Bulldogs.

Record in district play:

Pee Wee Oliver Is Dodgers' Newest Phenom

By WALTER ALSTON
Los Angeles Dodgers' Manager As told to HARRY GRAYSON

Through the years the Dodgers have become famous for never having been without at least one phenom.

If I had to predict that one would show up at the Vero Beach training base this spring I'd have to designate Nate Oliver, a second baseman up from Spokane. Oliver's nickname is Pee Wee and my fervent wish is that he turn out as capable as another phenom the Dodgers once had with the same tag, his last name Reese.

The way things look, the Los Angeles club's infield plans may be decided by the showing of Oliver. If our infield of Bill Skowron, Oliver, Maury Wills and Tommy Davis is good enough to make a utility player of Junior Gilliam, I'll know we're improved.

Oliver, in his fourth season of professional baseball, won Pacific Coast League All-Star honors last season, .317 and had a fine winter season in Puerto Rico. Charley Dressen, who is back with us as a coach, made a special trip to San Juan to scout the lad and returned bubbling with enthusiasm.

An over-all analysis of the club:

1. Exceptional speed.
2. Offensive strength; average-wise, but we could stand more power. Perhaps Bill Skowron will give it to us.
3. Defensive ability is there but we made mistakes. That's expected of a young club.
4. Experience. We have more of it this season.

Adding Skowron at first base gives me a chance to move Ron Fairly back to the outfield. We'll now have three fine arms out there, the others belonging to Willie Davis and Frank Howard.

I'm not going to attempt to hide the fact that the Dodgers were mighty disappointed with the way the 1962 season ended. Yet, strange as it may seem, there were some gratifying aspects to the campaign. We played a young team and have every right to believe that all of the boys gained a lot.

Going into September we had five .300 hitters. The club hit a general slump.

We traded our number four starting pitcher, Stan Williams, to the Yankees to obtain more long ball hitting in Skowron, but still have pitching depth.

Sandy Koufax might have duplicated Don Drysdale's 25-game season if it hadn't been for the blood circulation ailment which sidelined the strikeout and earned-run champion in July. We'll all be pulling hard when Sandy gets in starts firing at Dodgerdom. If Koufax turns out to be OK, we'll have an outstanding top three, the other being Johnny Podres.

It's up to the spring camp to develop number four. It could be Joe Moeller, Phil Ortega, Larry Sherry or Bob Miller, the latter acquired from the New York Mets. With Jack Smith available in the bullpen from the outset, in addition to Ed Roebuck and Ron Ferranoski, Sherry can start.

Behind the plate it will be Johnny Roseboro or Doug Camilli with a left-hand batting youngster, Mike Brumley, battling both. Lee Walls, our excellent utility man, can catch.

There are a half dozen youngsters from the minors who will get a good look in Florida — three pitchers, two first basemen and a third baseman.

It seems strange to write a piece like this without even mentioning Wally Moon and Duke Snider, but that is what the kids did last year — benched a pretty fair pair.

There was considerable juggling among the top 10 this week with Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader with a 12-2 overall record, replacing Arizona State U. (15-2) in fourth place and Stanford (12-3) advancing from 16th to ninth in the most significant changes. Arizona State U. dropped to fifth.

George Tech (12-1) was sixth, Mississippi State (12-3) advanced from ninth to seventh, Wichita (12-4) slipped from seventh to eighth and West Virginia (12-3) advanced from 14th to 10th behind Stanford.

Duke and West Virginia tangle on Saturday in another game involving major powers. Neither team is in jeopardy of losing its grip in conference play. Duke tops the ACC with a 7-0 record while West Virginia leads the Southern with an 8-0 record. However, defeat Saturday could hurt in the ratings.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Veteran Marion Ladewig held the women's lead in the $100,000 All-Star bowling tournament today with record-breaking play. The three men leaders also shuffled bowling's history book.

Billy Welu's 4,563 was a five-pin edge over fellow St. Louis kegler Dick Weber, J. Wilbert Simms of Chicago hit 4,407 for third. All made jest of the old 20-game men's record of 4,385.

Men moved into the semifinals today with the field of 288 cut to 96 participants. Women competitors eliminate to 16 today in the last leg of the distaff semifinals. No favorites have been cut.

Mrs. Ladewig, 48-year-old grandmother of Grand Rapids, Mich., had a 20-game total of 4,185 heading off Abel of Chicago who hit 4,022. The score was the highest 20-game women's mark in the 22-year history of the tournament. She also set two lesser records for semifinals women's play.

Midwestern, TWC Are Top Independents

By United-Press International

Midwestern and Texas Western, the state's most victory-minded quintets among the 16 basketball-playing independent senior colleges, gets a chance this week to improve their records.

Midwestern, whose 12-3 mark is tops among the independents and is equal to that of Lone Star Conference leader Lamar Tech, will play host Friday night to Tarleton State (5-9).

Texas Western, which has won 10 of 14 starts, hits the road to play Hardin-Simmons (6-10), an old Border Conference rival when that circuit was still in operation.

Midwestern won its only start last week, 63-55 over East Texas, while Texas Western was idle for the semester exam holiday.

Pan American, last year's Big State Conference co-champ now playing independently at a 9-1 clip, renews an old Big State rivalry with St. Mary's Thursday night at Edinburg.

East Texas Baptist (10-6) will be in action twice, against Millsaps at Jackson, Miss., Friday night and against William Carey at Hattiesburg, Miss., Saturday night.

McMurry, which is tied with Houston at 9-6, plays West Texas (6-9) at Canyon Saturday night while Houston is at Miami, Fla., Thursday and plays Florida State at Tallahassee, Fla., Saturday.

Other games this week will see Corpus Christi (4-4) at Houston-Tillotson Friday and at Texas Lutheran Saturday; Trinity (2-11) at Rice Saturday; Arlington State (5-11) at Texas Wesleyan Saturday; Dallas (6-11) at St. Mary's Saturday and Wayland (4-11) vs. St. Michaels at Plainview Saturday.

Wills Voted No. 1 Pro

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Maury Wills, all decked out in a new $10,000 diamond-studded belt, said today he might try to break his all-time record of 104 stolen bases this year.

"It depends on a number of things," Wills said. "I'll have to play it by ear."

The 29-year-old Los Angeles Dodgers' shortstop, presented with the Hickok belt Monday night after being voted the "Professional Athlete of the Year" for 1962 by the nation's sportswriters and broadcasters, drew a tremendous ovation at the Rochester Radio-Press Club dinner.

"This is a good league," Murtaugh said. "Any team can win if a couple players get hot."

Lakers Tounce Detroit In NBA

By United Press International

The Detroit Pistons, who could conceivably blame their loss by 30 points to the Los Angeles Lakers Monday night to inactivity, won't have the excuse as they play five games in five days starting tonight.

In the only National Basketball Association game played Monday the Western Division-leading Lakers, playing at home, defeated Detroit, 124-94.

It was the first game for the Pistons since the All-Star Game interlude, but the first of six in a row this week.

Detroit plays at San Francisco tonight and Boston at New York. St. Louis and Syracuse also meet in New York.

The Lakers' high-scoring Elgin Baylor had his lowest game total (12) of the season Monday night.

SKILL TO SPARE

by Dick Weber

23 — The 8-10

Odds are all against making the 8-10 leave.

I advise going for the single pin that is easiest for you unless making both is a matter of paramount importance. To take the 8, follow the Sparemaker and deliver the strike ball. If you are a spot bowler, don't change to pin bowling when you go after a spare.

The 8-10 split is the result of a solid pocket hit which lacked the finishing power for a strike.

The most common reason for failing to finish is not giving the ball lift.

DELIVER normal strike ball.

Victory In The Cold War

To insure passage of any proposed bill in Congress, just label it "necessary to fight communism."

Every giveaway from education subsidies to foreign aid is put over by this appealing label. Which simply indicates how eager the American people are to defeat communism.

Why then aren't we defeating communism? Why did it continue to advance in 1962—in Laos, Vietnam, New Guinea, British Guiana and Africa — if we're doing so much to fight it?

Perhaps we are failing to acknowledge the Communists' prime source of strength. Let's analyze the situation:

They have an impossible economic system — totally incapable of producing a fraction of our capacity. Their economic problems have grown steadily worse since 1917. Mountains of statistics demonstrate this.

But if the Communists are economically inferior, who is making it possible for them to be such a dangerous threat?

Answer: We are. Look at just a few of the facts:

We buy wheat from our farmers at artificially high prices — and sell it to the Soviets at artificially low prices. We sell them vital machine tools — on easy credit terms. We supply the resources to conquer their worst African enemy, Katanga. We force pro-Communist governments on our allies in Laos — and pressure the Dutch into turning West New Guinea over to pro-Communist Sukarno.

Our foreign aid arms Yugoslavia. It enables Poland to give North Vietnam the ammunition to kill American soldiers in South Vietnam. It built up Laos — to make it worth the Communists' trouble to take it over.

It's our money that's building the new African satellites, Guinea and Ghana. Just as it was our sugar subsidy that built up Castro. We pay the Communists' dues in the UN — via unauthorized State Department gifts. And we just gave Castro $62 million worth of desperately-needed food and medicines.

Is the picture getting clearer? Once we understand where the Communists are getting all their strength, the solution becomes obvious.

To defeat the Communists, we don't need a Peace Corps, foreign aid, a freedom academy, the UN or anything else.

All we need to do is to simply stop helping them!

Without our help, the Communists could not hold their crumbling empire together more than six months.

And since we're in a life and death struggle — in which we're required to pay $50 billion per year for defense — why do we continue to provide this help?

Our foreign policy should be simple: We will conduct no business whatsoever with any Communist rulers. That means no foreign aid, no American gold, no embassies in the U. S. to use as spy centers, no prestige from American recognition, no purchase of our goods — no help at all.

And we should tell our allies to make a choice — either do business with us or the Soviets — but not both. We want no middle-men to continue to relay our help to the Soviets.

Such a policy would end the threat of Communist conquest. It would free billions from our defense budget to be returned to the people to improve our living standards.

Our future depends upon our ability to do what is right and necessary. We must recognize our mistakes and then withdraw all support from the Communist world.

If we do, victory will certainly be ours.

Wait And See

The American motorist got one break during 1962, the American Petroleum Institute reports.

This was the first year in 17 years in which there were no increases in state gasoline taxes. From 1945 clear through 1961 there was at least one state gas tax increase per annum. All told, during that period, motorists were hit with 86 separate gasoline tax increases in the various states, as well as with three increases in the federal gas tax.

The Institute finds that gasoline taxes add an incredible $6 billion a year to the cost of driving. On the average, they amount to 50 per cent of the basic price of the fuel itself. Extreme luxuries, much less a basic necessity, don't bear sales or excise taxes of such a weight.

A word of warning is in order here. The fact that there was no gas tax increase in 1962 does not mean that a safe and sure precedent has been established. As sure as God made little apples, proposals will be made for further tax increases in a number of the states. Taxpayers must continue to keep their eyes open, adopt an attitude of watchful waiting — and make themselves heard when and if the need arises.

It's Up To You

by HOWARD KERSHNER L. H. D.

What is behind the insistent U.S., Swedish and U.N. effort to destroy anti-Communist Katanga? Mining properties there contain 10 per cent of the world's cobalt and about 10 per cent of its copper. Other producers of these metals would profit immensely if the Katanga mines were closed down. They would profit still more if they could get possession of these properties.

Rival producers of copper—U.S., Chile, U.S.S.R.—do not appear to be unhappy over political difficulties in Katanga that might stop mining operations there.

A private Swedish-American group apparently believing that the Union Miniere in Katanga would be closed down is said to have filed incorporation papers in Swiss banks in preparation for acquiring mining interests in Katanga. This combination was headed by Bo Gustav Hammarskjold, brother of the late Secretary General of U.N.

Congressman Donald Bruce reported in Congress that "the Swedish-American group exists, and at least five of its members besides Bo Hammarskjold had direct or indirect connections with the U.N. action against Katanga."

The Swede, Sture Linner, chief of civil operations in the Congo for U.N., had been executive vice-president of the mining syndicate led by Dag Hammarskjold's brother up to three months before his appointment by the Secretary General to head the Congo operation.

Linner, after arriving in the Congo, requested that a study of the mines there be made. Sven Schwartz, a Swedish industrialist, got the assignment. Another Swede, Borje Nordlund assisted him. Both men were officers in the mining combine involving Hammarskjold's brother and Linner.

Congressman Bruce found that U.S. foreign aid chief, Fowler Hamilton, who had been helping to make U.S. policy toward the U.N. mission in the Congo, had also been affiliated with the syndicate. Hamilton's foreign aid agency has been turning over money to the U.N., for its action against Katanga.

Hamilton's law firm also represents one of the companies in the syndicate (the International African American Corporation). To top it all off, Under Secretary of State George Ball, who has been directly in charge of making U.S. policy in the Congo, was a member of this law firm before assuming his State Department office.

Congressman Bruce makes no accusation and alleges no misdeeds but it is interesting that "all these men have had financial connections tying them to the mining industry in Africa, and the policy they have been making is one of full-scale aggression against Katanga, with baleful effects on the copper mining interests there."

U.S., Mr. K Juggle Cuba, A Still-Up-In-Air Issue

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Five times in his major foreign policy speech to the Supreme Soviet on Dec. 12, Chairman Nikita Khrushchev repeats that he ordered the Russian rockets and planes withdrawn from Cuba after "President Kennedy stated unequivocally... that the United States would not attack Cuba" and would restrain its allies from any such action.

This is considered an apparent effort to put Kennedy to a world spot where he refuses to stand. Prior to Russia's withdrawal of offensive weapons from Cuba, in a letter to Khrushchev dated Oct. 27, Kennedy wrote:

"We on our part would agree upon the establishment of adequate arrangements through the United Nations to insure the carrying out and continuation of these commitments (to remove Russian weapons systems from Cuba)— (A) to remove promptly the quarantine measures now in effect and (B) to give assurances against an invasion of Cuba."

On Nov. 3 it was announced at the White House that the President had decided to make on-site verification of base dismantling a precondition for a formal American pledge not to invade Cuba. There is no public record that his position was ever formally communicated to the Soviet Union.

But Fidel Castro, having refused to permit on-site inspection of bases in Cuba by anyone—neither the United Nations nor the Red Cross—the American government position is that this precondition never was met. The formal American pledge not to invade has therefore never been issued, although the blockade was lifted.

It became known later that this original offer by the President not to invade Cuba was made when the National Security Council's expanded, 15-member executive committee of top administration officials was handling the Cuban situation.

When policy-planning staff members were filled in on the operation later, they recognized immediately that the United States was in no position to offer or make a no-invasion pledge.

Any question involving the security of all Latin America, cannot be decided singly by the United States, even under the Monroe Doctrine.

This is a question that can be decided only by all the Western Hemisphere republics, acting through the Organization of American States. This accounts for the Nov. 3 statement.

Still later, in his Dec. 29 speech to the Cuban Bay of Pigs prisoners after their ransom and return to Florida, Kennedy made unmistakably clear that he did not consider there was any no-invasion pledge in effect.

He told the invasion brigade veterans, after the United States had been made custodian of their battle flag:

"I can assure you that this flag will be returned to this brigade in a free Havana."

That really stirred up the Russians and Castro.

But the no-invasion pledge issue has now been shoved farther under the rug by the American-Russian joint statement at the United Nations, ending talks on the Cuba situation. No agreement was possible because the United States did not push its demand for international inspection of base dismantling.

Khrushchev may possibly have foreseen that he could not make a convincing case that a no-invasion pledge had been made, for in his Dec. 12 speech to the Supreme Soviet he declared:

"In the event of these pledges not being respected by the other party, we would be forced to take such actions as would be required from us under the circumstances. It must be clear to all that our country will never leave revolutionary Cuba in trouble."

One other important factor is that the State Department now reports Cuba still has 100 MIG jet fighters, 144 launchers at 24 anti-aircraft sites, 90 helicopters, 18 or 20 transport planes, 350 tanks, 1,300 pieces of field artillery and over 7,500 trucks from Communist bloc countries. So Russia did not exactly demilitarize Cuba and it remains a hemisphere threat.

The doors would therefore still seem to be wide open for a resumption of the Cuba crisis whenever either side starts it.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Can capitalism be seriously threatened only by a great aesthetic movement that will permeate the masses and divorce them from their vices and luxuries to which they have been accustomed for a century?"

Louis Bandin Ferrero contends that this is the case, as quoted in "A Socialistic Empire, The Incas of Peru." It seems that his reasoning was that the Incas had been deprived of all luxuries and lived on the bare necessities and thus were easily controlled and managed and suppressed.

On the other hand, it is usually the pseudo-intellectuals that lead us into a socialistic or communistic society. Those who are deprived of all luxuries go along in a satisfied way and never make much of an effort to improve their lot. They seem to be satisfied with getting enough to keep body and soul together.

On the other hand, it is generally agreed that very few people can stand prosperity. It seems to degrade their spiritual and ethical idea of life.

In any event, it is an ethical breakdown that causes trouble. The statement in the Bible that the iniquities of the fathers are visited on the children of the third and fourth generation is certainly true. And it will be noted that that says "fathers" instead of "father." It is the atmosphere, the beliefs, the ethics that lead to loss of freedom and loss of initiative.

It is an interesting subject and we would be glad to have further light on the answer to this question.

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1963 with 343 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this day include the English romantic poet, Lord Byron in 1788.

On this day in history: In 1789, the first American novel was published in Boston, written by Sarah Morton and called "The Power of Sympathy."

In 1901, Queen Victoria of England died, ending the longest reign of any sovereign over a civilized nation.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson — seeking a quick end to World War I—asked for "a peace without victory."

In 1932, President Herbert Hoover enacted into law a measure establishing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

A thought for the day—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, speaking in London in 1945, said: "Humility must always be the portion of any man who receives acclaim earned in the blood of his followers and the sacrifices of his friends."

TURN TOWARD SURVIVAL

By HOWARD E. KERSHNER

Under the leadership of Norman Thomas and a number of well-known Quakers, a new pacifist organization, Turn Toward Peace, has been set up with headquarters in New York. In a recently issued pamphlet, "American Initiatives," it says:

"Two great powers are engaged in a struggle to preserve their national security and way of life. Each believes, and can cite evidence, that the other presents a threat to its own safety."

Turn Toward Peace thus repeats the error, common to many conscientious and well-meaning people who are striving to solve the problem of war, of assuming that the United States and Russia are equally guilty of attitudes and practices which make the threat of war ever present.

The plain fact is that the responsibility for the ever-present threat of war arises from the inherent nature of communism—that its survival depends upon blotting out freedom, free enterprise, self-government and capitalism everywhere. As long as these exist, affording living demonstrations that life is better under the Western system, they are a mortal threat to communism. Communists hate private property and capitalism with a ferocious and consuming desire to obliterate them and all who believe in them. The living proof that life is much better in West Berlin than in East Berlin, in West Germany than in East Germany and in the free world than in the enslaved Communist world poses a threat to the existence of communism. Therefore, communism must destroy the Western system if it hopes to survive.

There is nothing inherent in Western ideology that compels it to destroy communism. If the people of the world were allowed freedom of choice as to which system they prefer, the two might exist peacefully side by side until it became evident that communism or socialism is vastly inferior as means of achieving the good life. Then would come the voluntary turn to the Western system of freedom, self-government and free enterprise. Realizing that this is inevitable, unless they destroy capitalism, the Communists are at our throats. Because they press the battle our only hope of survival is to destroy communism.

At the close of World War II we disarmed, sank our munitions in the North Sea and brought our soldiers home. This was a case of unilateral disarmament. We set an example which, if the Communists had followed, would have eliminated the tensions that disturb the world. Instead of showing a peaceful, non-aggressive attitude, however, Communist Russia continued to expand and aggressively took over one country after another. As we saw the slave system advancing, with every prospect of continuing until it overflowed the whole world, including ourselves, if we did not resist it, the American people realized that they were being driven to the necessity of arming. They accepted this burden reluctantly because they knew it was vastly expensive, but they rightly saw no other way to prevent the communication of the world.

In the face of these well-known facts, to assume that the United States is equally guilty with Russia for the danger of the warlike preparations now taking place, is tragically erroneous. It is just what the Communists want us to believe. They wish to put as much as possible of the blame of this era of tension and danger upon the West. Actually, if they had retired to their borders as we did after World War II, and if they had disarmed as we did, there would be no tension and threat of war in the world today.

In view of the fact that communism assumed the aggressive attitude that called forth self-defense on the part of the West, to blame each side equally for our present difficulty is not only erroneous but dangerous in the extreme.

If that view prevails and the American people accept the policy of unilateral disarmament advocated by Turn Toward Peace, it will be equivalent to suicide. There is no question that the program of Turn Toward Peace, shared by many pacifist organizations, produces high glee in Russia and Peiping. If it prevails, communism will achieve a cheap triumph throughout the world.

Consider some of the specific proposals in the pamphlet in question: "Announce American support of plans for a disarmed Germany in a nuclear-free central European zone."

In other words, neutralize and render helpless our strongest ally. What could be more pleasing to the Communists?

"Give U.S. support and offer of financial help to the establishment of a UN police force."

In other words, turn over to the Russian Communist who sits at the military desk at UN whatever international police force may be established. If it is a strong one, that will put the Communists in control.

"Repeal the Connally Reservation, which permits the U.S. to decide for itself which cases involving us will be submitted to World Court."

In other words, in the event that the World Court has a majority of Communist judges, which may well happen at any time, to voluntarily put ourselves in the clutches of our enemies. No Communist nation adheres to the World Court, yet the national of all of them are eligible to serve as judges upon it. Assume that at some future time a majority of these judges are Communists. That is not an unlikely assumption. Then assume that Mexico demands Alaska, that Russia asks for the southwestern part of our country, that Panama asks for the Panama Canal and Cuba for the Guantanamo Base. These decisions would certainly go against us. They would dismember our country and render us helpless before communism. Retention of the Connally Reservation is a must if we are to remain an independent nation.

"Invite 1,000 Soviet teachers, journalists and jurists to undertake at our expense a three-month lecture tour of the U.S."

In other words, pay the expenses of 1,000 additional spies and propagandists to help undermine, deceive and mislead our people.

"Invite 5,000 Soviet tourists to vacation at our expense in the U.S."

Soviet tourists are spies. Do we want them so much that we offer to pay their expenses?

"Offer to underwrite the cost of a network of UN radio stations in the U.S. and to help finance similar stations in any country willing to allow them free operation."

In other words, to vastly increase Communist propaganda in the U.S. Let it be remembered that the Socialist and Communist nations already have a large and increasing majority in UN. This proposal would therefore place at the disposal of our enemies vastly increased radio facilities for deceiving and betraying the people of the world.

I cannot imagine any program, short of outright capitulation, that would be more beneficial to our enemies, the Communists than the program contained in this Turn Toward Peace pamphlet.

States will make no more nuclear tests, regardless of Soviet action." In other words, render ourselves increasingly helpless as the Soviets improve their knowledge of nuclear science.

"Invite the Soviet Union to 'plug in' on our ballistic missile early warning system."

"That is—allow Moscow to know the exact instant at which we become aware of the fact that the Communists have launched a nuclear attack against us."

"Invite the UN to inspect U.S. bases, test facilities and military installations."

"That is, make them aware of our strength and our plans for self-defense."

"End production of fissionable material for nuclear weapon purposes and invite the U.N. to inspect our facilities."

"Give U.S. support and offer of financial help to the establishment of a UN police force."

In other words, turn over to the Russian Communist who sits at the military desk at UN whatever international police force may be established. If it is a strong one, that will put the Communists in control.

"Repeal the Connally Reservation, which permits the U.S. to decide for itself which cases involving us will be submitted to World Court."

The Doctor Says

Almost Every Mother Can Nurse Her Baby

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

When it was learned about a century ago that infants could be fed by formula, wet nursing as a profession was doomed. Formulas have brought nourishment to millions of babies but have led far too many mothers to nurse their babies halfheartedly or even to avoid trying to nurse them. What was lost sight of was that breast feeding has many advantages over formula feeding.

First, there is freedom from bacterial contamination. Breast feeding is economical and requires no elaborate preparation. Then too, the breast-fed baby is less likely to develop eczema and allergies. Mother's milk contains antibodies against many of the infectious diseases to which the mother has acquired an immunity.

One of the most important advantages is the strengthening of the deep bond of love between mother and child.

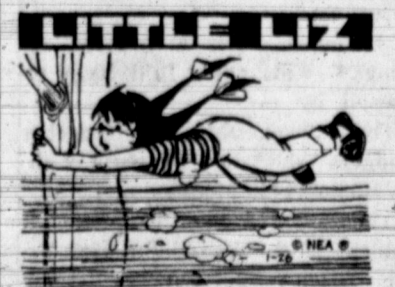

Breast feeding cannot be allowed, however, if the mother has tuberculosis, severe debility, an infected breast (if only one side is infected, the other may be used), or severely retracted nipples.

Almost every mother can nurse her baby if she and her doctor wish it. One of the chief reasons many mothers do not nurse their babies is that doctors and nurses do not take the trouble to tell them to try it. If a mother is able to nurse her baby for only two months, this gives the baby a far better chance at a healthy infancy than if the effort is not made. The baby should first be placed at the breast when he is not more than six hours old. Demand feeding, rather than the once popular four-hour schedule, is a great help in establishing the flow of milk. Giving the baby supplemental feedings of formula because he is not getting enough milk from the breast causes him to work less vigorously at nursing and this in turn gives less stimulation to the flow of milk. One of the main reasons for failure of breast feeding is giving up too soon.

One or both breasts may be used at a single feeding. If the flow of milk is inadequate, both breasts should be used. In this case, the baby should start a feeding with the breast used last in the previous feeding.

To fail to nurse your baby because you are afraid it will spoil your figure is nonsense and to fail for other trivial or selfish reasons to be deprived. If, on the other hand, with your doctor's help you make a valiant effort and are not able to give your baby sufficient nourishment, do not feel that you have failed as a mother.

The hydroelectric potential of Africa exceeds that of any other continent, even if estimates of future developments are taken conservatively. One estimate puts the potential water power at 190,000,000 h.p., that is three times the estimated potential of Europe. Another estimate credits Africa with 2/5ths of the world's potential or four times that of North America; one quarter of this is stated to be in the Congo basin alone. As yet, only 0.1 per cent is used.

Weekly Report To Texans

By SEN. JOHN TOWER

Senator John Tower commented on President Kennedy's State of the Union message, in his weekly report to Texans. His comments:

Most of the discussion in Washington centers around the State of the Union message, delivered by the President to a Joint Session of the Congress, Monday. There was nothing surprising in the President's message. He did not advocate anything that was not expected.

The big item in the President's recommendations to the Congress was his recommendation that there be a cut in taxes. In a few days, the President will submit to the Congress a proposal for the reduction of tax rates which will lower the tax liabilities by about 13.5 billion. Of this 13.5 billion, 11 billion would result from reducing individual tax rates, and the other 2.5 billion would result from reducing corporate tax rates.

A tax cut is desperately needed, but I do not entirely agree with the President as to what brackets should be cut. A tax reduction is necessary to stimulate investment, to stimulate spending, to get our economy moving at the rate that it should be moving. However, I must reiterate my insistence that if we are going to cut taxes, we must also reduce government spending.

We are spending too much money and if we cut taxes at the rate requested by the President, it is altogether likely that we will be looking at a 20 billion dollar deficit next year.

Every year we are going more and more in the hole. My position is that it is economically unsound and immoral for us to impose a great debt burden on generations yet unborn, to afford ourselves some public works and that sort of thing. There are many areas in which spending could be cut.

The President also advocated a Domestic Peace Corps. The Peace Corps, as you know, is a group of volunteer young people who are sent abroad to give technical assistance, to help in community projects, and things of this sort in the underdeveloped countries.

The President thinks we ought to have a Domestic Peace Corps; that is to say, a group of volunteer young people that would go around the country doing good works, in mental hospitals, on Indian reservations, at centers for the aged, in schools for the illiterate and handicapped, and so forth. I do not think that this is a good idea. It calls to mind the old CCC of depression days. I do not think that such a corps would be useful. It strikes me as a little bit amusing that they might send a graduate of Harvard down to East Texas, to show East Texans how to raise peanuts or cotton or something like that. I just don't think this Domestic Peace Corps is a good idea. I don't think we really need it. As a matter of fact, I think it is just one more step in preparing our young people for collectivization. The scheme strikes me as being a little bit socialistic in character.

The President advocated Medicare under Social Security again. This was defeated in the last Session of the Congress. It is my fervent hope, it will be defeated again. I am convinced that medical care for the indigent aged, indeed, medical care for anyone who cannot afford it is the responsibility of the State and of the Community and of private individuals and organizations. It is not the responsibility of the Federal Government. I am sure, if we instituted it, it would lead to Socialized Medicine in this country.

The President advocated some legislation for cities: federal subsidization of cities, and various areas of community endeavor. This, again, is a function of the local community. The City is the creature of the State, and the Federal Government should not be intervening in the affairs of cities.

The President reiterated his support for the United Nations and put his stamp of approval on the reprehensible mess in the Congo, which is a major shortcoming of the Administration's foreign policy, to say the least.

Let Man Take Over Is Advice Given To Save Our Democratic Institutions

By H. D. QUIGG
NEW YORK (UPI)—Let man take over.

That advice keynoted a thoughtful symposium held on the impact of technology on democratic institutions. It was a warning that human personality can become submerged in a technological take-over which, the speaker said, could become as authoritarian as the ancient kings who disregarded human values.

In a paper delivered at the 10th anniversary convocation of the Fund for the Republic, Lewis Mumford, long a professor at leading universities and now president of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, said:

"What I wish to do is to persuade those who are concerned with maintaining democratic institutions to see that their constructive efforts must include technology itself. There, too, we must return to the human center."

Challenge Needed
"We must challenge this authoritarian system that has given to an under-dimensioned ideology and technology the authority that belongs to human personality. . . . Life cannot be delegated."

"Curiously, the first words in support of this thesis came forth with exquisite symbolic aptness, from a willing agent—but very nearly a classic victim!—of the new authoritarian technics (technology). They came from the astronaut, John Glenn, whose life was endangered by the malfunctioning of his automatic controls, operated from a remote center."

"After he barely saved his life by personal intervention, he emerged from his space capsule with these ringing words: 'Now let man take over!' That command is easier to utter than obey."

The symposium was the opening discussion in a two-day convocation devoted to "challenges to democracy in the next decade."

Leading thinkers of the United States, Britain, and France were scheduled to participate. Elmo Roper, co-chairman of the fund, posed the topic:

What Direction?
"Where is technology taking us? In what direction are we moving—toward man's replacement by thinking machines, man's annihilation by the devices he has made, or man's mastery of the whole universe?"

Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover submitted a paper calling attention to the easy transition from authoritarian technology to the totalitarian state.

"The wise use of technology calls for a higher order of thinking that we have so far accorded it," he said. "We have largely left it to the management of practical men. I submit that we now have scientific knowledge of such immensely dangerous potential that we ought to bring a broader range of intellectual power to bear upon its use."

White grades represented only about 3 per cent of the total classed this past week according to statistical estimates. Approximately 64 per cent averaged Light Spotted, 27 per cent Spotted; 4 per cent Tinged; and, 2 per cent Below Grade. The predominant grade was Strict Low-Middling Light Spotted with 45 per cent. Grades were reduced because of the following reasons: 4 per cent because of Preparation and 26 per cent because of Grass and Bark.

The staple length averaged shorter than previous reports with 17 per cent 29-32 inch and 81 per cent 15-18 inch. About 22 per cent of the cotton classed was Wasty.

Hearing Is Set In Knife Slaying
CISCO, Tex. (UPI)—A habeas corpus hearing will be held Saturday for Nathan Curry, 17, accused of the 1961 knife slaying of Mrs. Florence Husey, 53.

Odessa Dist. Judge C. V. Milburn ordered the hearing. The writ of habeas corpus, asked for by F. P. Curry, the boy's father, claims young Curry is being held illegally and should be released in his parents' custody.

Curry has been held in the Gatesville State School for Boys as a delinquent.

The writ says authorities have not attempted to indict the boy even though he has reached the age of 17.

Rogers Re-Named To Subcommittee On Reclamation

WASHINGTON, D. C. (SpI)—Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa yesterday was reappointed chairman of the Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

The appointment, made at a meeting of senior committee members, was announced by Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall of Colo., chairman.

The subcommittee has jurisdiction over irrigation and reclamation legislation affecting, primarily, 17 western states, including Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Congressman Rogers, who first was appointed chairman in 1958, was a member of the subcommittee during the long and successful fight to obtain enabling legislation for the Canadian River dam and aqueduct project.

The Lighter Side Week Ends Really Bleak Now With No More Football On T-V Screens

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Now comes the winter of our discontent.

The last bowl and all-star game professional and collegiate, East-West, North-South, fruit, flower, vegetable, fiber, nut and berry has faded from view.

Ahead are weeks of bleak Saturday and Sunday afternoons given over to such dismal events as basketball games, bowling matches, golf tournaments and so-called winter sports.

I'm trying not to be too emotional about this, but I can hardly control myself. Verily I say that the period between the end of football season and the beginning of baseball season is a television athlete's Valley Forge.

The first football-less weekend started off more or less painlessly. I bravely emerged from the sack, brushed the sleepy dust out of my eyes and resolutely tackled some odd jobs that I had let accumulate during the fall and early winter.

Come the Doldrums
But by mid-afternoon, the doldrums got me. Succumbing to a mixture of nostalgia and habit, I descended to the so-called rec room and switched on the set.

Two channels filled the screen with elongated citizens dashing about in their underwear. I fiddled with the vertical adjustment knob for five minutes before I remembered that basketball players look that way in their natural state.

Don't get me wrong. I have nothing against basketball—for other people. It's just that I'm more stimulated by basket weaving.

Another channel offered a ghastly panorama of retarded adults all bundled up in their woolies and sliding down hill on their little sleds and things.

I can understand how a child of 10 or under might conceivably derive some thrill out of strapping his feet to a couple of boards and skimming around some flagpoles stuck in the snow.

Ski Meet Negative
But grown men and women! Really!

For the spectator, a televised ski meet is strictly a negative attraction. The only fun comes when something goes wrong—that is, when some clown in over-stuffed pajamas loses his footing and swan dives into a snowbank. Even so, it beats a televised bowling match. There is almost no chance that the bowling ball will reverse directions and score a 10-strike among the players.

As things now stand, the only alternative is to watch an old movie. Watching an old movie before midnight is something like keyhole-peeking with a glass eye. It looks like we're in for a long, hard winter.

Army Plans To Double Purchase Of Aircraft

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army plans to more than double its purchase of new aircraft, it was learned today.

Most of the increase will go to support of the new 15,000-man air assault troops who will begin forming units in a month or two. A total of 1,600 new helicopters and fixed-wing army planes are to be purchased during the fiscal year beginning July 1 if Congress approves President Kennedy's proposed military budget. The air assault troops will use a mixture of helicopters and short takeoff planes that can rise from sod runways and land near the battlefield.

The President said in his budget message last week that the Army would be provided with 15,000 men on a test basis to carry out air assault experiments. They are expected to have headquarters at Ft. Benning, Ga., and may be known as the 11th Air Assault Division.

Defense officials said the Army would have $488 million for new aircraft if the budget is approved, compared to $207 million during the current fiscal year and $253 million last year.

Most of the purchases will provide more Chinook and Iroquois helicopters, and Mohawk and Caribou planes.

Cotton Harvest Halted By Cold

MEMPHIS, Tex. (SpI)—With only about 2 per cent of the cotton crop remaining to be harvested, the sub-freezing weather of the past week again stopped the gathering of the crop, says K. E. Voelkel, Officer in charge of the Memphis Classing Office. Samples classed amounted to about 6,000 compared with over 23,000 the week before. The largest number of samples classed in a week this season was 33,000. To date a total of 200,482 samples was classed.

The Memphis Classing Office, which is a seasonal set-up, will close for the 1962-63 season on Wednesday, January 23. Samples shipped on or after that date will be classed by the parent office in Altus, Oklahoma.
