WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three Republicans most mentioned as likely presidential nominees in 1964 spoke out last week in politically significant language. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., asked his conservative supporters to hold everything until next year. He is committed thereby to state firmly in January, 1964, whether he will make an all-out effort for the Republican nomination. Goldwater is aware of the almost impossible odds against his nomination, not to mention the matter of getting elected.

The other two Republicans were Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. George Romney of Michigan. Both submitted messages to their legislatures. In these messages the two governors established similar images. They are budget balancers. They are committed to holding the line on spending. And they are against tax increases.

Conservative Policies
Thus, both governors endorsed conservative fiscal policies. Their fiscal plans and performances will be basic in any 1964 appeal for conservative votes. Perhaps Romney spelled it out more plainly than did Rockefeller. Romney wants some basic tax changes in Michigan, an adequate and fair tax structure. He has borrowed President Kennedy's idea that the way to obtain increased revenue is to rev up the state economy so that there would be more state income without higher rates.

This has not worked for President Kennedy. But Romney came up with something not in any way reflected by Kennedy administration policies. It was a warning that the state must live within its income for this reason: "A fervent desire to meet the needs of people through public service is disastrous if it leads to chronic spending beyond state income." That's a brand new idea in practical politics. It could do much for Romney among the squares, the backward-folk who believe in thrift, pay-as-you-go and such derided traditions of the American way.

Long Roll
Romney called a long roll of welfare legislation he would like to propose to the Legislature. He said he wouldn't propose any of it because Michigan couldn't afford it. Strange talk! And abandoning political caution wholly, Romney said: "Governments are financed by taxes—and taxes are money taken from the people. Nothing from government is free; somebody pays for it. These are truths that sometimes get lost."

Sometimes? Those truths have been lost for 30 years. Rockefeller was equally firm on old-fashioned economics. He hinted he might have been able to propose a tax reduction but for being stuck next year nearly $1-billion in increased spending by reason of state aid already committed.

Conservatives might quarrel some but not much with Romney and Rockefeller on government finance. But there was more. For example, both governors apparently are committed to outdoing all others in the area of civil rights. Both are committed to the concept of the welfare state.

If their fiscal ideas will appeal to conservatives, much else in their programs will not.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, Jan. 21 the 21st day of 1963 with 344 to follow. The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this day include Confederate Gen. Thomas (Stonewall) Jackson, in 1824.

On this day in history:
In 1861, Jefferson Davis resigned from the U.S. Senate, 12 days after Mississippi seceded from the Union.

In 1874, Morrison Waite of Ohio became chief justice of the Supreme Court, succeeding the late Salmon Chase.

In 1918, the Soviet council ruled all debts incurred by the former Czarist government were null and void.

In 1954, the first atomic-powered submarine, "Nautilus," was launched at Groton, Conn.

A thought for the day: British writer and statesman Alan Herbert once said: "The critical period of matrimony is breakfast time."

COMMENTS ON LIGHTING

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Allegheny County Commissioner John Walker has commented on the need for improved lighting in Common Pleas Court.

"While justice is supposed to be blind," he said, "there's no reason why the judges should be confronted daily with eyestrain."

GUESS WHO?—Made up for movie role of woman in late sixties is youthful actress Debbie Reynolds.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

When Nikita Khrushchev's scheme to set up rocket bases in Cuba backfired and Fidel Castro suffered subsequent humiliation throughout Latin America, it was natural and expected that an important policy shift to restore lost prestige would follow.

First tangible evidence came when Venezuela reported intercepting a coded signal from Havana radio directing Fidelista-Communist agents in Latin America to step up their campaigns of subversion and violence.

Within hours, saboteurs in Venezuela blew up four oil-company power stations at Lake Maracaibo.

Since then, more evidence has accumulated.

Roundup in Peru
Last week, Peru's ruling military junta suddenly carried out a vast roundup of Communists, Castroites and fellow-travelers on charges that they plotted a simultaneous break-out of violence throughout the country in order to pave the way for a Communist government controlled by Moscow.

That the arrests were not merely acts of oppression by a frightened military dictatorship was confirmed in Washington where worried officials had been warning the Lima government for weeks that just such a plot was in the works.

In Sao Paulo, Brazil, UPI correspondent Joseph Brant interviewed a secret police inspector. The inspector, Alcides Cintra Bueno Filho, charged that Soviet bloc arms for a projected Brazilian peasant league uprising are buried in secret caches "all over Brazil."

Packed in Havana
The inspector led the investigation which uncovered two such caches in late December. Czech-made arms were wrapped in Havana newspapers dated Feb. 24, 1962.

Since Brazil still maintains diplomatic relations with Cuba, the movement through the country of Castro and Communist agents traveling on Cuban passports is relatively easy.

Despite removal of his offensive missiles, Castro still has plenty of weapons left with which to encourage revolt among peoples already discontent as result of unbalanced economies, hunger and galloping inflation.

Estimates as to the worth of Soviet-block arms in Cuba range all the way from $100 million to $400 million.

Rogers Reads Salute To Billy Into The Record

While Pampans were honoring Uncle Billy Frost on his 100th birthday last Thursday at a reception in Coronado Inn, Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa was paying tribute to him on the floor of the House of Representatives in Washington. Rogers' remarks appeared in the Congressional Record, copies of which were sent to Uncle Billy and several others in Pampa. The Congressional Record reports Rep. Rogers' remarks in full, detailing a brief resume of Uncle Billy's life and marking the fact of the public reception in Pampa. Rogers closed his remarks with: "All America recognizes the great contribution that he has made to our country and to our way of life, in the exemplary leadership he has furnished in his chosen work."

Other state offices and both houses of the legislature will be fully manned with regular staff members and officials for the reception. The inaugural marks a new period in Texas politics: Connally replaced Price Daniel, who served six years as governor, and Smyth replaced Ben Ramsey, who held that office nearly 12 years. Two other newcomers to high state office held high places in the inaugural ceremonies. They are Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr of Lubbock and House Speaker Byron Tunnell of Tyler.

Police Investigate Malicious Mischief
 Police today were investigating a report of malicious mischief at the home of Lloyd Stephens, 1924 S. Wells. Stephens told police that when his wife arrived home from work yesterday eight or nine young boys were in the yard. They ran when Mrs. Stephens drove up. The water hydrant had been turned on, Stephens said, and a number of shrubs and small trees in the yard had been destroyed.

Top O' Texas Kiwanians Meet

The Top O' Texas Kiwanis Club held its weekly meeting at 7 last night in the Quivira Room at the Coronado Inn. Bob Price, president, handled the official duties of the meeting and turned the evening's program over to Paul Musgrave, who introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Terry Culley, coach of the Pampa High School Harvester basketball team. Coach Culley was accompanied by Roy Kieval, assistant coach of the Harvesters. Cully gave a talk on the team, which has had a very successful year, winning 19 games and losing only one. Culley pointed out that not only are the Harvesters a "well balanced team this year," but he praised the entire team on playing ability and high grade average in school. John McCausland, in charge of the membership committee, inducted Traylor Price into the club as a new member. Visiting guests for the evening were Don Cole and Joe Whitten.

Record Player, Records Stolen

A record player and seven records were reported stolen last night from the home of Mrs. Pat Cote, 614 Malone. Mrs. Cote told police the theft occurred sometime between 9:30 p.m. and 2:30 a.m. when she arrived home from work. The house, police stated, had been left unlocked. Value of the record player and records was placed at $23.95.

The National Association of Manufacturers (NAM), while endorsing the call for a tax cut, was less enthusiastic about what it described as Kennedy's over-orientation "toward a quick pick-up in economic activity." The NAM said that any disagreement in tax law details "should be resolved on the side of long-term strength of the economy, growth and jobs, and not on the side of quick stimulation of economic activity." Henry Geleman of Bache & Co. said the proposed cuts, if legislated, probably would create the two million jobs estimated by Kennedy.

A Really Earned Tax Deduction

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The clarinet, as the old saying goes, is an ill woodwind that nobody blows good.

Even under the best of conditions, its musical values are marginal. In the hands of a young boy who is trying out for the school band, it can reduce a normal, healthy adult to a pitiful, quivering mass of ectoplasm.

The main trouble is that clarinets are notoriously unreliable. At times, they can be downright treacherous.

I remember well the first clarinet I ever owned. I treated it as kindly as I could, shined it regularly, gave it a good home and all like that.

Yet every time that I took it out of its case in public, it would turn on me in a most vicious way.

Emits Sereech

I would be sailing along through "The Half and Quarter Note March," not losing my place more than once or twice, when suddenly it would emit a piercing screech, known among members of our band as "the cry of the wounded banshee."

Friends, if you have never heard the noise that a clarinet reed produces when the young musician's lip slips then your flesh has never really crawled and your teeth have never really been set on edge.

It is like no other sound heard on this earth, although a piece of chalk drawn the wrong way across a blackboard will give a close approximation.

The look of pain that it caused to cross the face of our band director is embedded in my memory, but I did not fully understand the extent of his suffering until years later when a young member of my household began talking clarinet lessons.

I recite this now by way of emphasizing the justice that was done this week in an income tax ruling handed down by the Internal Revenue Service.

Prescribed Clarinet Lessons

It seems that an unidentified taxpayer had a son with a rather severe dental problem known as

"malocclusion" or "buck teeth." He took the lad to an orthodontist and was told that the condition might improve if the boy began taking clarinet lessons.

The taxpayer thereupon purchased a clarinet, enrolled his son in music class and listed the cost of both on his tax return as a medical expense.

After duly weighing the matter, the revenue service concluded that it was a legitimate deduction and let it stand.

I don't often lead the applause for the revenue service, but I think its decision in this case is to be highly commended.

A modest tax deduction can never begin to compensate for the horrors that poor father must be experiencing by living within earshot of a buck-toothed boy practicing on a clarinet.

Detailed Document

The committee's document was detailed enough to serve as almost a step-by-step directive of points to check in the ticklish business of servicing an investor's account.

Wall Street Perspective

Wall Street Perspective
By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—When the New York Stock Exchange recently distributed to member firms a guide to supervision and control of representatives and accounts, it produced a management communique that could be read with profit by bosses in almost any phase of business.

The guide, according to President Keith Funston of the exchange, is issued as part of a developing program by the exchange to share "effective management experience between member firms and their managers." Its keynote: Emphasis on responsibility.

Thus it was aimed specifically at the managers and personnel of more than 3,000 offices of NYSE member firms, those offices through which most of the public deals in its trading on the exchange. The committee which produced it consisted of two members of the NYSE staff and eight management experts of exchange member firms.

The committee's document was detailed enough to serve as almost a step-by-step directive of points to check in the ticklish business of servicing an investor's account.

At the same time, its broader observations on management—in this case, management of branch offices—could apply in almost any phase of commerce and industry. Even the manager of a baseball team might find some food for thought in its definitions of the things a manager should do, and which his directors, or front office should allow him to do.

It sets forth a sort of recipe for the composition of a good manager.

With a little juggling of some of the nouns—substitution of "automobiles" or "butter and eggs" or "motorboats" for "securities"—this section could be lifted out and put to work in other occupations.

List Qualifications

A manager, it says:—Must have sales management ability so he can help his representatives become successful and do their best for their client.

—Must have knowledge of the rules about the business, and the force and drive necessary to see they are put to work in a fashion that his men respect.

—Must possess a thorough knowledge of securities.

—Must show the ability "and innate personality" to become a community leader, with corresponding benefit to the reputation of his firm and his office.

—Must be able to recognize good men when he sees them and develop men to rise in the organization.

—Must show ability to be creative, and to improve routine operations—systems and procedures.

Budget Time

—Must know how to budget his time, and coordinate office activities "so there is no confusion and wasted effort."

—Must watch the work of his men so he knows what they are doing and that their work and effort are effective.

Responsibilities and is in 5 8 great tabs 7 gati.n."

In setting forth the qualifications for a good manager, the authors of the guide set forth that the men who employ the manager have their burdens, too.

"A manager should be thoroughly schooled by his firm in his duties and responsibilities prior to being appointed to this position," one is told. "A man does not become a good manager overnight."

ONE MORE TO GO

RYTON, England (UPI)—Road-sweeper Jim Biggins, who retired last week at the age of 65, was back on the job today, reluctantly.

When he applied for his old age pension last week Biggins was told he had made a mistake and was only 64.

"I was looking forward to retirement," he said. "But now it's back to work for another year."

School Time At The Capitol

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Almost everything in Congress is done by the bell. They have bells for roll calls, bells for recess and bells for adjournment to mention a few. So what they need now is a school bell.

It would be an appropriate method of calling freshmen congressmen to classes where they can learn, among other things, what all of the other bells mean.

Such classes are being conducted at the Capitol this week, the purpose being to teach newcomers in the House of Representatives some of the finer points on the practical side of lawmaking. Let's face it. Most new congressmen are, as a veteran House member said last year in another connection, "still green behind the ears."

Must Know Necessities

They may not know, for example, how to go about getting a relative on the office payroll, or where to acquire extra ice cubes in event they want to cool a case of ginger ale.

Many of these things will be explained during a series of lectures, or seminars, arranged for the benefit of "Class of '62."

I have been looking over the curriculum for this year's school and I must say that it appears to be very educational. There will be four class periods at which 26 topics will be discussed.

The faculty is composed of legislative scholars who already have mastered such arts of statescraft as acquiring Capitol flags for Boy Scout troops back home and sending constituents free government pamphlets on termite control.

The title of one of the lectures, to be given by Prof. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., is "Lobbyists: Their Care and Treatment." It might well be subtitled "Never Look a Gift Horse in the Expense Account."

Suggest Title Change

The free mailing privilege will be discussed by Prof. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr., R-N.J. I suggest that his lecture be called "Using the Congressional Frank for Fun and Profit."

There also will be lectures on exercising in the House gymnasium and, should the need arise, where to find the House doctor for a bottle of free liniment.

The intricacies of the office payroll, under which a $7,500-a-year clerk winds up receiving about twice that amount, will be explored by Prof. John E. Moss, D-Calif.

Any congressman who completes the entire course will be so weighted with academic matters he won't have much time for extracurricular campus activities. I think this is a pity.

Perhaps arrangements could be made to let the honor graduates try out for the administration's touch football team.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Gorgeous, stupendous, magnificent. I don't mean any of the new entertainment series on television. I mean the ones we are promised for next season.

An astute writer here has noted that the networks may be hollering halloo about the upcoming weekly shows as a smoke-screen to divert attention from this season's massive turkey. But there is cause for at least cautious optimism about some of next fall's scheduled offerings:

NBC-TV is promising us Richard Boone as host-star of a series of one-hour original dramas, with playwright Clifford Odets as editor and sometime author of the scripts, and a regular repertory company enacting them.

CBS-TV, meanwhile, has unveiled plans for an hour-long series of dramas of American history, in cooperation with the National Education Association. The same network, presently dominating the ratings with its comedy lineup, also has signed Danny Kaye and Judy Garland for weekly hour shows, not to mention Phil Silvers for a half-hour program.

Jerry Lewis is in the fold at ABC-TV, for a weekly two-hour late-night stint on Saturdays. And Bill (Jose Jimenez) Dana was signed by NBC-TV for a half-hour comedy; it's reported assured of at least 39 weeks.

The emphasis on big-name music and comedy stars is reminiscent of early-day television. Many may welcome it because of its more "live" nature than filmed products. In any case, it is a trend away from cheap violence. And there can be little doubt that farsighted network minds are aware of the need for higher quality as pay-TV is set for a big push.

Though most, if not all, of the above-mentioned stars will almost certainly have no trouble landing sponsors, only only hopes that the less-commercial projects do not wind up lovely pipedreams. Last year, for instance, CBS-TV made a great to-do about its promised 90-minute version of Henrik Ibsen's play, "Hedda Gabler," with Ingrid Bergman, but full sponsorship has not been obtained, and the program has not yet been seen in this country, though it was shown in England without advertising.

In addition, I have in my files some fine promises of specials from NBC-TV, which I have yet to see—one about the Korean War (promised for last fall), one about the American Indian and one about Sicilian slums.

The Channel Swim: White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger will discuss his job, and his life and career before he took his present post, in the first of several special "Self-Portrait" broadcasts Jan. 30 on CBS-TV; it will be a half-hour talk with reporter Harry Reasoner.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer talks of his life and times on "CBS Reports" Feb. 6. Movie producer Darryl F. Zanuck is the April 2 subject of NBC-TV's "The World of..." series.

Taste-Tells

NEW YORK (UPI) — Forget the expert lingo and enjoy tasting until you find wine that, indeed, satisfies you, advises J. Wechsberg in a report in the "Canadian Food Journal."

The advice — try, and decide for yourself — stems from the fact that there seem to be more experts than vintages. If you need a benchmark, the author suggests you consider the words of the late King Edward VII of England, a connoisseur.

"Not only does one drink wine, but one inhales it, one looks at it, one tastes it, one swallows it — and one talks about it," he said.

Neutrals' Schizophrenia

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA) — Some world statesmen cling to their political illusions even like ordinary mortals. A case in point is India's Jawaharlal Nehru.

The prime minister has informed his Cabinet, believe it or not, that India has no intention of abandoning "non-alignment" thereby joining the anti-Communist nations of the world.

Nonalignment (doubletalk for neutrality) was born in 1961 in Belgrade at a conference of Asian and Middle Eastern nations sponsored by Nehru and Yugoslavia's President Tito. Their aim was to create a "third force" between the Red bloc and the North Atlantic alliance.

This writer was among a score of reporters in Belgrade who watched Nehru's diplomatic acrobatics as he tried to maneuver between the United States and Russia—always giving the edge to Russia.

India's Prime Minister was never slow in voicing his disapproval of American "colonialist" policy. However, when Soviet Premier Khrushchev violated his agreement with the United States and resumed the testing of atomic weapons Nehru was as cagey and noncommittal as the rest of the so-called neutralist nations who had gathered in Belgrade.

History moves swiftly in the atomic age. Almost to the year after the Belgrade conference Red China attacked India and Nehru found himself deserted by his neutralist friends.

Khrushchev "postponed" the delivery of war planes to India. He had promised them originally in an obvious effort to use Nehru against his hated Red Chinese rival Mao Tse-tung. That other "neutralist," Tito, rushed to Moscow to rejoin the Soviet camp.

Only the NATO nations, especially "capitalist" United States, came to Nehru's aid with weapons and war supplies when India was in danger of being overrun by Red China's armed hordes.

President Kennedy acted more from strategic calculations than visionary love for India. But its ironic note to history that while the neutralists passed resolutions which in effect urged Nehru to bow to Red China, Americans were risking their lives ferrying weapons to India.

And still Nehru insists on India's role as an "unaligned" nation. He even told Yugoslavia's Vice President Edward Kardelj, who recently visited India, that America-hating and America-baiting Krishna Menon might "be back" in India's Cabinet, "though not perhaps for a while."

Was Menon fired from India's Cabinet last November because his pro-Red policies in the United Nations and as defense minister brought India to the brink of disaster?

Not at all, Nehru assured Kardelj. Menon was merely the victim of anti-Communist pressure. "In situations like this," Nehru said, "there is always the need to fire someone."

Not even the American taxpayers' massive aid seems to have changed Nehru's mind. He obviously still hopes to act the honest broker between the free world and the Red dictatorship.

Why, then, does not New Frontiersman John Kenneth Galbraith, U. S. ambassador to India, tell Nehru the facts of life?

President Kennedy's academic advisers have recently been flexing their muscles in an attempt to assert American world leadership. They have irritated America's NATO allies. They have had some harsh words for Macmillan, DeGaulle and Adenauer.

Why not also inform Prime Minister Nehru that nonalignment in 1963 is dead?

The recent confrontation of the United States and Russia over Khrushchev's attempt to base offensive missiles in Cuba emphasized that in a world sharply divided between great atomic powers the possibilities of effective action by neutral nations is an illusion.

Yugoslavia's Tito has already drawn his own Marxist-Leninist conclusions. He is inching Yugoslavia back into the Soviet camp. Can Nehru remain perched on the neutralist sidelines much longer?

The Lighter Side The Test Of Newsworthiness

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — According to an old definition, news is something that causes your wife to say "gee whiz" when she hears it.

During the opening rites of Congress this week, I picked up several items that I wasn't certain were news. So I took them home to check my wife's reaction.

First I showed her a press release put out by the office of Rep. Edward J. Patten, D-N.J. It said:

"Congressman Edward J. Patten, D-N.J., joined President and Mrs. Kennedy, members of Congress, Supreme Court, diplomatic corps and the arts, and other VIPs, Tuesday night, at a special showing of the Mona Lisa in the capital.

"Patten and Mrs. Patten were invited to the viewing of the famous Leonardo da Vinci painting by the National Gallery of Art, which installed a canopy used only for important occasions, over the gallery's three front entrances.

"Andre Malraux, French minister of culture, who arranged for the Mona Lisa display and its first transatlantic trip; President and Mrs. Kennedy; French Ambassador and Mrs. Herve Alphand; Chief Justice Earl Warren, who served as master of ceremonies at the affair; Patten; and George David Aiken, R-Vt., for the position of Senate president pro tempore. Dirksen said:

"I am confident that he (Aiken) will be like his namesake, David of old, who reached into the brook of Elah, and there found smooth stones for his slingshot with which to humble Goliath.

"In the same spirit, George Aiken will reach into the brook of Elah, wherever it may be in Vermont, and with smooth stones vanquish all the Philistine forces of evil which either threaten or jeopardize this republic."

My wife said "Golly Moses!"

Then I read a press release from the office of Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich.; which said that Dingell had "once again demonstrated his overriding concern for human rights." My wife said "Land o' goshen!"

Next I read a statement from the office of Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., which said that Monagan had "reached a peak of popularity in the 1962 election campaign." My wife said "Good grief!"

Since none of these items seemed to pass the test for news, I told my wife I would write a column praising members of Congress for their modesty. My wife said "Gee whiz!"

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Standard & Poor's says the stock market is ending the year on a strong note, with prospects that 1963 trends will support a continuing high level of share prices.

Its publication, Outlook, says a generally constructive investment policy is still advised. "Invest liquid funds gradually as attractive values appear."

Colby & Co., a Boston brokerage house, says its position changed very little from last week when it calculated that within the coming 10 sessions the intermediate (3 to 6 months) direction of the market would be signaled by a penetration either above or below the 636-652 range which the industrial average has set over the past two weeks.

Spear & Staff says if an expected slight downswing occurs, it should be regarded as a good opportunity to buy sound values at more advantageous prices. The advisory service says it makes this statement because it interprets the underlying technical condition as favoring eventually higher prices.

Alexander Hamilton Institute says the market's recent advance may well continue into the early part of 1963 and there is nothing on the horizon at this time to indicate any pronounced or prolonged decline in good stock prices.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The snapback in formerly depressed speculative favorites has not been as good as bargain hunters hoped for, but the overall performance of the market has been better than many anticipated for an early January rise, notes R. E. Buchsbaum of W. E. Hutton & Co.

The period of confusion and cross-currents is nearing an end. Technically, recent activity has been highly encouraging in that volume has expanded on the rise in prices and quality stocks have been in the forefront. The breakout from the late November-December trading range augurs well for a reasonably good market throughout the coming year, Buchsbaum says.

Wool For Formal Wear

Warm, elegant and new for winter are full-length wool evening coats. The tip-toe double-breasted wool wrapper (left), comes in flame red or black. Companion to the full-length coat is this yellow basket-weave wool gown (right). Pullover jacket is embossed with golden threads. Luxurious American wool adds a new air of elegance to formal wear.

Dear Abby....

Does He Live In A Vacuum?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son, 26, is being married soon. He has asked his brother, who is 29 and unmarried, to be his best man. The bride has asked her sister to stand up for her. The sister is eight months pregnant and our son refuses to stand up with a lady in that condition. Do you think he is right?

GROOM'S PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: If the bride's choice is a pregnant sister, she is privileged to stand up as long as she can stand up. Your 25-year-old will be a better man if he tells his best man to grow up.

DEAR ABBY: I am an intelligent woman of 42 and can trace my ancestors back to Roger Williams. I have been feeling dizzy and weak and I can't sleep nights. I've been to four doctors and they all said it was nothing but NERVES. It seems to be the style these days for doctors to blame everything on nerves when they can't diagnose a case. Why don't they just admit they don't know?

I went to a doctor and he put me on a diet. I have lost 16 pounds since October. I have 12 more to go and am sticking to my diet. When I get down to my normal weight, should I remind him of what he said?

GETTING THINNER
DEAR GETTING: Don't "re-mind" him. Now that there is less of you to notice, chances are he will notice you more. If not, his eyesight is no better than his memory.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LIZ C.
Yes, you read right. If a man buys his wife shoes, the least she can do for him is to shine his.

Jackets Change For New Spring Suits

Woman To Woman
By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Padded shoulders, lots of pockets and elongated jackets mark one major change in the suit silhouette for spring.

The suit jackets with man-tailoring details were among spring collections shown Monday during the New York coutre group's 49th fashion press week which ends Saturday.

Some of the suits looked like dresses, costumes, shirts, sweaters. Some were split personality types with three and four pieces to be worn several ways.

The shirt suit looked like a slouch silhouette. It featured a top that slips over the head. Some designers called this a pullover. The slouch, or pullover, was worn belted and unbelted.

Sweater suits featured jackets looking like sweaters. Some had cowl backs.

The longer jacketed suits reached to the hips. Most had wrist length sleeves, a come-down from the shorter sleeves of the waist come-uppance by turning one out in the sheerest of lace.

Skirts moved away from the slim lines and tended to feature most often a flare-walking room lines. The Blass coats had a molded look with slightly arched shoulders.

Designer Bill Blass even turned out a pullover suit cut from chifon. In his collection for Maurice, curving gently to a crescent Renner, Blass also gave the shirt-front.

Mrs. Fletcher Is Listed In Texas Women's Magazine

PANHANDLE (Sp.)—Mrs. Carney B. (Janie) Fletcher, former Carson County Home Demonstration Agent and now Women's Counselor at Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Colo., is listed in the current issue of Texas Women of Distinction, which is just off the press. Ina May McAdams of Austin is editor.

Mrs. Fletcher, who left Panhandle to join the Peace Corps in January of 1962, and was unable to stand the strenuous activities in Puerto Rico, has been in Colorado since September. She has been recognized for her contributions to the progress and history of Texas by being included in the book, which lists a biography for each person included. It also includes organizations to which each belongs as well as genealogical and immediate family information. Included in the book are women who represent leadership in the professions, finance, business, agriculture, politics, religion, education and culture.

Mrs. Fletcher is listed as having both an MS and BS degree from Texas Women's University, and is a member of the University Foundation.

NERVOUS
DEAR NERVOUS: Go back to one of those doctors and let him explain how uncontrolled emotions can (and do) turn into physical ailments. It's true.

DEAR ABBY: At the beginning of the school year I was over at my girl friend's house and some kids were there. One boy I have liked for a long time said: "Hey, if you ever get down to your normal weight I'll take you out."

WSCS, Fellowship Hall.
10:00 a.m. — Duplicate Bridge Club, Coronado Inn.

2:30 p.m. — Senior Citizens Center, Lovett Library.
7:30 p.m. — Pampa Rebekah Lodge, IOOF Hall.

FRIDAY
7:30 p.m. — Pampa Credit Women's Club, City Club Room.

SATURDAY
9:30 a.m. — Girl Scouts Swimming, Youth Center.

Your Child's Portrait in LIVING Color

Parents: We have arranged to have a leading child photographer at our store on the dates shown below.

Any age, any number of children accompanied by a parent will be photographed FREE in Living Color.

ONE complimentary color portrait will be given to each FAMILY as a gift from our store.

DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY to get a living color portrait you will treasure always. Several poses are taken and low cost additional portraits are available for those who wish them.

This is our way of saying 'Come in to see us.' If you are one of our many regular customers, this is a "Thank You" for your patronage. Incidentally we believe these color portraits to be something really special. These are beautifully posed portraits — not snapshots, so dress the children colorfully.

Here's a repairman you seldom need!

... because today's telephones are so trouble-free

But should you need a telephone repairman, his skills and modern tools will put your phone in good order.

No need to reach for your checkbook, though. Repairs are included as part of your telephone service. No extra charge!

Before this man leaves, take a good look at him... chances are you won't see another telephone repairman for years. Telephones are that trouble-free... and they keep right on improving. Our never-ending goal is to improve your telephone service and make it more valuable to you.

THANK YOU! AND YOUR ORDER, SIR?

JUST SOME FRUIT JUICE!

FRUIT JUICE? AIN'T YA GONNA EAT NUTHIN'?

I'LL JUST HAVE MY USUAL... A PILL FROM THIS BOTTLE... AND TWO FROM THIS ONE!

Better To Be Safe . . .

Careful watch is kept over Kathy Anderson, 1½, Grundy, Va., to see that no further swelling of her head occurs following surgery for the birth defect of water on the brain. Her future looks encouraging thanks to treatment made possible by The National Foundation-March of Dimes as part of its nationwide program to help victims of crippling birth defects, arthritis and polio through the best in scientific research and medical care.

Tax Cut Examples

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Treasury has provided some examples of tax cuts that individuals would receive when and if President Kennedy's three-year reduction program was finally in effect.

All were calculated for a taxpayer with a wife and two children.

Earning $3,000 a year—Present tax, $60; reduction, $18 or about 30 per cent.

Earning $10,000 a year—Present tax, $1,372; reduction, $304 or 22.5 per cent.

Earning $25,000 a year—Present tax, $5,824; reduction, $1,144 or 19.6 per cent.

The examples were calculated on the assumption that all income is from wages and salaries, and that the taxpayer takes the standard deduction.

DETROIT — National Safety Council President Howard Pyle, commenting on the auto industry's plan to make seat belts standard equipment in all new cars starting next year:

"Nothing could make us happier, we've estimated that seat belts in universal use could save at least 5,000 lives a year."
