THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross is in the business of securing the welfare of our men in the service, and to this end have established a branch office here. The men of the Red Cross are doing a splendid work in the interests of our men. They are doing their utmost to provide a home for the men who have been separated from their homes by the war. They are doing their utmost to see that the men have a place to rest and to study while they are away from their homes. They are doing their utmost to see that the men have a place to meet and to talk over their problems. They are doing their utmost to see that the men have a place to enjoy the beauties of the country. They are doing their utmost to see that the men have a place to think and to plan for the future. They are doing their utmost to see that the men have a place to work and to study. They are doing their utmost to see that the men have a place to rest and to study. Save Expensive Delays and Transportation Charges, and Help in the Big Drive for Greater Food Production.

If Maximum Crops are to be raised, all farm machinery likely to be used this year must be in good repair, so as to avoid delays in the field.

The week of March 4 to 9, inclusive, has been designated as National Implementation and Repair Week, and the farmers of the United States are urged to inspect their implements and place orders for needed repairs that week.

The great difficulty of securing reliable and steel parts, which renders it impossible for dealers to carry the usual stock of repairs, together with the delays in transportation, renders it necessary to place orders for your repair requirements early.

The warning has been given. Do not fail to heed it by putting off ordering your repairs until the day you need them for the implement.

You will be performing an act of loyalty by heeding this appeal and acting promptly.

What He Least Expected
A Romance of Mystery

Graciousness’ which wholly captivated the girl who was apparently Ballin’s. Kirby was seated between Kirby and the girl was piquant and alert, and brought for Hollister, he found him. She was thralled him, he resolved to hold him.

"Women!" said Kirby, "I knew they are you there for—got a party?"

As we were saying, the stout Mr. Hartwell ranged along the table. "Well," said Kirby, "I knew they are staying here, you know."

"The last I knew, there wasn't a lecture in the lower chamber which wears a mask."

"In freshman year, yes. Later he was in Paris with a letter from his mother."

"Perhaps Mr. Hollister is any thing about it."

"Mr. Hartwell addressed hid secretary and former president of the Knights Templar."

"You were a classmate of Ned’s, was in a position to publish something I don’t see how"

"I'd be shot at sunrise." He added, "I was in Paris with a letter from my mother."

THE STRUGGLE FOR

By F. S. SYLVESTER

There is a struggle going on in Texas. When the smoke clears out of the years that have lain behind, when the echoes of the cry for freedom have died away, there will be a more powerful and a more significant movement in the life of the state than the grand struggle for freedom from the tyranny of the old system. That struggle was fought for in the streets, the courts, and the legislatures, and the result was the establishment of a government that is now maintained by the people and is the expression of their will.

The struggle for freedom was fought for in the courts, the legislatures, and the streets. The people of the state fought for the right to govern themselves, to have the power to make laws that would protect them, and to have the right to elect their own representatives to the legislature. The struggle was fought for in the courts, where the people went to protect their rights, and in the legislatures, where they went to fight for the rights of the people. The struggle was fought for in the streets, where the people went to protect their homes and their property, and to fight for the rights of the people.
